SANTA ANITA SHUT DOWN; 21 HORSES DEAD

by Kevin McGuire

Animal rights activists continue to accrue outside the iconic Santa Anita Racetrack in Arcadia, holding signs expressing sentiments such "It's Not Sport, It's Violence" and "Horseracing Kills Horses," as the track halts all racing and training indefinitely after the loss of 21 horses over a short 10-week period.

In addition to dealing with a depleted horse population this season, over 16 inches of rain has pelted the dirt track over the past two months, making conditions for training treacherous at times for bulked up horses with brittle legs. This past Tuesday, Santa Anita reported the loss of a 4-year-old filly named Let's Light the Way who shattered its sesamoid bone at the ankle joint. The horse was euthanized. Another 20 horses died as a result of racing the main track, the turf track and morning workouts.

After the latest catastrophe, The Stronach Group, owners of Santa Anita, called for closure of the track and a thorough inspection. Why did it take so long? That's what activists and area residents want to know, as the voiced their displeasure, for the way things were handled, on social media and on the parking lot outside the track. "So it took 21 horses to die before Santa Anita closes indefinitely SMH! (shaking my head), of course it's about the money, not the horses," one Twitter post said.

According to The Stronach Group, a "highly respected track man" Dennis Moore and Dr. Mick Peterson, of the Racing Services Testing Lab, were brought in to perform extensive testing and a thorough review of the one-mile main track on Thursday, March 7. The results of the inspection are not known at this time. Mr. Moore has 46 years of experience dealing with track surfaces.

"As horse lovers first and foremost, we are deeply saddened by the losses experienced over the past several weeks. The loss of just one horse is one too many. While we can't prevent every injury, we can't overemphasize that the health and welfare of the horses and jockeys is our top priority," said Tim Ritvo, Chief Operating Officer, The Stronach Group, the owners of Santa Anita Park. "The track will be closed for live racing and training until our outside experts confirm the soundness of the track and let us know that it is safe to resume racing."

Inspections of the track will include the utilization of an Orono Biomechanical Surface Tester, a device that mimics the impacts of a horse running at full gallop allowing engineers to see how the track holds up. These test results will be evaluated to ensure track consistency and uniformity for both training and racing.

"While we are confident further testing will confirm the soundness of the track, the decision to close is the right thing to do at this time," stated Ritvo.

Canceled events include the $600,000 Grade I Santa Anita Handicap, and $500,000 San Felipe Stakes, which sets up horses for the Kentucky Derby. Horses will remain stabled at Santa Anita and the track will be opened to the public for simulcasts.

Further, The Stronach Group will be conducting a comprehensive evaluation of all existing safety measures and current protocols.

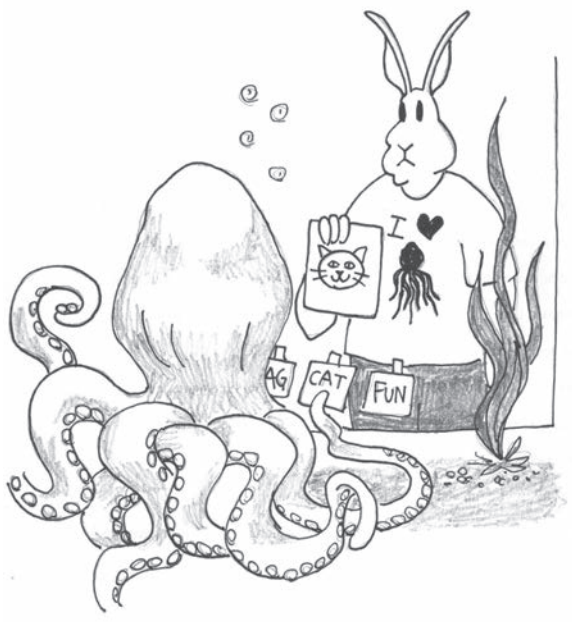
BRAIN FIZZLES EPISODE 2: TEACHING OCTOPI



Has it been a fizzly week for you? It has for me. Sometimes I have insomnia. It used to upset me, but now I've come to a resigned acceptance of it. Thank God it doesn't happen every night! I had chronic insomnia for a while, and it's a killer. That's been the topic of more than one of my articles down through the years.

Recently during a minor case of insomnia I started to imagine what it would be like to have an octopus as a pet. They're supposed to be one of the smartest, if not the smartest, soft-bodied animals. Of course now that I'm in my 30's I think I qualify as soft-bodied, as well. So depressing...

Anyway, what would it be like to have a pet octopus? First off, I'd call him Nigel. Or maybe Godfrey. Or Laverne or Maureen if it were a girl. I don't know how you tell.

Optimally, I'd have a huge, beautiful, tropical tank for Nigel. With mood lighting. You gotta' have mood lighting. Optimally as well, I'd have a maid to clean the thing. A maid who was as dedicated to Nigel's well being as I was.

Since octopi are so smart, no doubt Nigel would like critical thinking games and puzzles. Like "complete the shape sequence to retrieve the key to open the door to get the bay shrimp." Yeah, that'd be a good one.

But it wouldn't all just be fun and games for Nigel. No, any octopus of mine is going to school! First I'd teach him to match identical objects and pictures. Like he'd have two water-proof pictures, I'd hold up one of my own set against the glass, and he'd have to find the corresponding picture. Of course all this is reinforced with bay shrimp or some other motivating reward. Unless Nigel just enjoyed learning for the fun of it. That's a possibility, too.

From there we'd build up to a field of, say, six pictures. Then maybe we'd work on memory for a sequence. Like I'd hold up the picture of a cat, apple, and house, and he'd have to select those same things in the right order.

Eventually we'd move on to reading basic sight words. Not the Gettysburg Address or anything, just your simple consonant-vowel-consonant arrangements, like "cat," "bag," and "fun." Hopefully I'd find a way to make it functional for Nigel.

"Nigel, aren't you glad I don't have a CAT?"

"Look, here's a BAG of bay shrimp!"

"Nigel, isn't this FUN?"

Because you can't just go around teaching random things without infusing learning with purpose. It's gotta' have a context. I don't know what visual I'd use for "fun." Maybe a smiling octopus.

Ultimately Nigel would become quite literate, and the two of us would develop an elaborate communication system. No doubt he'd become very witty and articulate by that time, and the two of us would engage in deep conversations on the human condition. Or the octopi condition, in Nigel's case.

Anyway, that's the kind of stuff I find myself thinking about when I can't sleep...

WALKING SIERRA MADRE by Deanne Davis

SIERRA HONEY COMPANY

"A bee is an exquisite chemist." Royal Beekeeper to Charles II

"Bees underline the reality that we are more, not less, dependent on nature's services in a world of close to seven billion people." Achim Steiner, UN Under-Secretary General

"If the bee disappeared off the surface of the globe, then man would have only four years of life left. No more bees, no more pollination, no more plants, no more animals, no more man."
Albert Einstein

This is one of those things that most of us seldom think about, that we need bees! I'm sure you've noticed that we have wonderful cactus plants here and there in Sierra Madre (take a look at them on North Baldwin up close to the hills) that cover themselves with blossoms which attract bees by the score. We are always glad to see this happening. As these little guys gather pollen and nectar for their own survival, they pollinate crops such as apples, cranberries, melons and broccoli. Some crops, including blueberries and cherries, are 90-percent dependent on honey bee pollination. One crop, almonds, depends entirely on the honey bee for pollination at bloom time. You may not be aware of this but California produces 82% of the globe's almonds, on 800,000 acres of almond trees across a 400-mile stretch from northern Tehama County – between Sacramento and the Oregon border – to southern Kern County. The picture shows you some of Mark's bee hives among the almond trees, doing their job.

So how does this happen? Does a gang of bees just decide to go up Interstate 5 and spend February in Fresno pollinating almond trees? No, friends and neighbors, there are professional bee wranglers, like Mark Lerenzo Llamanoff, who commercially raise, and transport their hives from place to place, crop to crop. From February to mid-March, Mark and his hives are busy ensuring that the almond and cherry crops will be plentiful. He's leaving hives in Fillmore, Ventura, Santa Barbara. Then it's Carpinteria for avocadoes, oranges in Ventura. Mark's 800 hives are busy and necessary.

We've all heard about the "killer bees," a hybrid of the western honey bee species produced by cross-breeding of the East African lowland honey bee with various European honey bees, such as the Italian honey bee, which is a gentle bee. The Africanized honey bee was first introduced in Brazil in 1956 in an effort to increase honey production but, talk about horror films, 26 swarms escaped in 1957 and these guys spread throughout South America and arrived in North America in 1958. Just so you'll understand this species, the Africanized bees are much more defensive than other varieties and react to little disturbances faster than the European honey bees. They can chase a person a quarter of a mile and they've killed about 1,000 humans with victims receiving ten times more stings than from the European honey bees. I asked Mark about these bees and he doesn't allow them anywhere near his hives. At the first sign of aggressive or attack behavior, the queen of that hive is exterminated. Mark does collect wild swarms but his hives contain only gentle bees.

Mark's website will tell you all you need to know about renting a hive. He and his team of beekeepers will help you learn the joy and satisfaction of bee keeping. He got his Dad involved by giving him a hive as a Christmas present and then giving his Mom a pollination kit. Neat, huh!

But what about the honey, you're asking. The way your bee hive works is the bottom is the breeding chamber where the queen lives and the top is where the honey production takes place. The flavor of your honey will depend upon where it is and what pollen and nectar your bees are feasting upon. Talking with Mark about his experiences with bees, it was obvious that he loves what he does and feels it's a very rewarding experience. He's got some great stories about the 2016 bee hive heists and the bee mafia, too. If you're interested in a bee hive of your very own, or maybe just some amazing honey, go to: sierrahoney.com or ask questions at info@sierrahoney.com

Honey makes an appearance in beer from time to time, too; and, speaking of beer, RT Rogers Brewing Company right here in Sierra Madre is hosting their first anniversary celebration today, March 9th, from noon to 6 p.m. There will be live music, food, beer, it's family friendly and you'll enjoy a wonderful afternoon in their beautiful garden or taproom. They're at 38 W. Montecito. Walking Sierra Madre has reported on RT Rogers progress from a hole in the ground to a beautiful place to visit. Congratulations, guys!

HORATIO, SEWELL AND A BULLDOG NAMED BUD

Happy Tails

by Chris Leclerc

I've always been fascinated by history and its landmarks, not the least of which is the transformation of transportation that brought us to where we are today as a society. I mean, it seems incredible that we went from riding horseback to maneuvering the horse-drawn buggy, to ultimately driving a motor vehicle on paved roadways, within a relatively short period of time.

Indeed, the evolution of transportation helped pave the way to the technological age we are living in today. But most fascinating to me is the part animals have played in the process. It's hard to believe that not long before the motorized vehicle came along, the four feet of a horse were the primary means of getting from point A to point B, just to perform one's daily tasks.

Even after the early automobile was invented and in use by a certain few enthusiasts, animals continued to play a part in land-marking the evolutionary advances of transportation. As a matter of fact, the two pioneers who successfully completed the first coast-to-coast transcontinental trip by way of motor car in the United States were accompanied by none other than a furry, four-legged canine companion!

That's right, one of the party-of-three who embarked on that historical 'maiden voyage' was a beautiful, burly bulldog named Bud. History has it that Horatio Jackson, the captain of the two-man team, acquired the pup at some point as they putted their way through Idaho, and saw fit to invite him along for the ride. The other passenger was a hand-picked mechanic named Sewell Crocker who helped Jackson make history by keeping the motor rolling on that rough and rugged road trip.

Credit goes to the Smithsonian National Museum of American History for the following extractions from their account of the feat, and for the photos. (americanhistory.si.edu/america-on-the-move)

"Driving an automobile from coast to coast in 1903 was a difficult and daring achievement. Horatio Nelson Jackson, a physician and businessman from Burlington, Vermont, captured the nation's attention when he and Sewell K. Crocker, a mechanic, drove from California to New York. Despite mud, washouts, breakdowns and a lack of roads and bridges in the West, they finished their trip in 63 days. Two other motoring parties - each anxious to claim the title of first to drive across country - departed while Jackson and Crocker were en route, but were unable to overtake them.

The trip began after a discussion in a San Francisco men's club as to the feasibility of a transcontinental auto crossing. Jackson decided to give it a try. He purchased a 1903 Winton touring car that he named "Vermont" after his own home state, and headed east. Jackson and Crocker followed trails, rivers, mountain passes, alkali flats and the Union Pacific Railroad across the West.

In Idaho, Jackson acquired Bud, a bulldog that accompanied the pioneering motorists to the East Coast and for obvious reason, was featured in many news photos. After 63 days on the road, the expedition reached New York. Jackson had spent $8,000 on the trip, including hotel rooms, gasoline, tires, parts, supplies, food, and the cost of the Winton.

The men often used a block and tackle to pull the car out of mud holes on the long trip from coast to coast, and when the Winton needed repairs, they telegraphed the factory for parts and awaited delivery by railroad. The Winton Motor Carriage Company published details about the Jackson-Crocker cross-country trip and emphasized the car's ruggedness and reliability."

Photographic images of Jackson, Crocker and Bud showed up on poster boards and in newspapers across the nation following the expedition, and have become iconic images in our history books to this day. My favorite photo is one taken of Jackson sitting in the right-hand side driver seat of the "Vermont", with Bud saddled next to him in the passenger seat, sporting a smart pair of doggie goggles. I am so proud to know that a beautiful bulldog played such a special part in that epic landmark of our country's history.

Suspect Arrested for Murder

Pasadena police arrested a man last week after he stabbed and killed a manager of a local homeless housing project. Police now think the two men new each other and argued over a family conflict.

According to investigators on Friday, March 1, at approximately 9:05 a.m., Pasadena Police responded to the 100 block of South Euclid Avenue regarding reports of a stabbing victim. They found a man suffering from stab wounds, reported to his face and chest. Byron Young Nettles, male, 52 years old, Pasadena resident, underwent surgery at a local hospital and later succumbed to his wounds.

Officers set up a perimeter in the surrounding neighborhood for the suspect, who reportedly fled on foot. After an extensive search, the suspect was not immediately located.

Detectives diligently continued their investigation and requested the U.S. Marshal's Pacific Southwest Regional Fugitive Task Force to surveil a location in Los Angeles. At approximately 9:26 p.m., the suspect, Telly Johnson, was apprehended without incident in the 1900 block of Cordova Street in Los Angeles. Detectives also executed a search warrant at a residence and vehicle in the 1900 block of Cordova Street in Los Angeles.

Johnson was booked for murder at the Pasadena City Jail, and bail has been set at $2 million.

Nettles managed the Euclid Villa Transition Housing.

Anyone with information about this case is urged to call Pasadena Police Detective Todd McDonald at (626) 744-6477. To report information anonymously, call Crime Stoppers at (800) 222-TIPS (8477).

Pet of the Week

Cookie (A472816) is a 4-year-old brown tabby who is a little shy at first, as you can see, but is very affectionate. Volunteers say once they approach slowly and she gains trust, she comes up to you and allows you to pet her. She was unfortunately turned in with a sister, Ginger (A472817). They would prefer to be adopted together so they are a little bit more confident upon entering their new home. Visit Cookie and Ginger at the Pasadena Humane Society & SPCA.

The adoption fee for cats is $90. All cats are spayed or neutered, microchipped, and vaccinated before being adopted.

New adopters will receive a complimentary health-and-wellness exam from VCA Animal Hospitals, as well as a goody bag filled with information about how to care for your pet.

View photos of adoptable pets at pasadenahumane.org. Adoption hours are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday; 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday; and 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday.

Pets may not be available for adoption and cannot be held for potential adopters by phone calls or email.

Council to Discuses New Park

The Pasadena city council is set Monday night to look at options moving forward with the planning phase to turn city owned parking into park space at El Molino Ave and Union Street.

According the city staff, after the purchase of Banner Bank site, in January, located at 717 East Union Street for $3.15 million, a proposed plan would take, "An adjacent City-owned parcel located at the northwest corner of Union Street and Oak Knoll Avenue, approximately 2,730 square feet (0.063 acre) and combined it to provide approximately 0.29 acres of potential park space."

Staff said, residents at a meeting last year discussed the possible conversion of a portion of the City-owned Union/EI Molino or nearby Madison parking lots to park space. The residents along with The Playhouse District Association (PDA) favored a park on a portion of the El Molino site, they said. The association was concerned with parking.

According to the city council staff report, "the PDA has indicated its desire to retain a minimum of 48 parking spaces, roughly half, and would like the remaining parking to be improved by integrating with the design of the new park, conducive to programming of events. They have also expressed desire to replace any lost parking nearby, including through on-street parking and pedestrian enhancements or other approaches outlined in its more comprehensive vision .and parking management strategy. Those potential strategies include the following:

1. Establishing valet parking and employee parking programs to address parking needs in the core Colorado/EI Molino area and encourage additional investment in restaurants and evening activity;
2. Amending the Zoning code to reduce the required number of parking spaces for new restaurants;
3. Leveraging additional unused spaces in nearby private parking garages for public parking
4. Implementing angled parking within the District that could add additional spaces
5. Exploring the option of retaining the surface parking on the Union/EI Molino lot in a footprint to allow for a potential future linear garage (to be determined if feasible through consultant input and other stakeholders); and
6. Analyzing installation of on-street parking meters within the District. Excess meter fund could be used to help off-set the costs of some of the proposed parking solutions.

Upon city council approval, the park planning phase will continue with a robust community engagement proces·s in developing an integrated design for both the proposed park and the remaining parking site," it reads.

The city council meets at 6:30 p.m. in the Council Chamber, Pasadena City Hall 100 North Garfield Avenue, Room S249.

Pasadena Man Arrested in Marijuana Scheme

Three men, including one from Pasadena, were arrested Thursday morning on federal charges alleging they took part in a scheme that used millions of dollars wired from China to purchase seven residential homes in San Bernardino County that were converted into illegal marijuana grow houses.

Jimmy Yu, 44, of Pasadena, a second alleged grow house caretaker was arrested. Other defendants arrested pursuant to a federal criminal complaint included:

Lin Li, a.k.a. Aaron Li, 37, of Chino, the U.S.-based coordinator of the alleged scheme and Ben Chen, 42, of Alhambra, who allegedly took care of the marijuana grows.

The complaint charges the three defendants with one count of manufacturing, distributing, and possessing with the intent to distribute marijuana.

In conjunction with the arrests, law enforcement executed search warrants at Li's home and seven marijuana grow houses in Chino, Ontario and Chino Hills. As a result of the searches, authorities seized approximately 1,650 marijuana plants from several grow houses, as well as cash at Li's house currently estimated to be at least $80,000.

According to a 120-page affidavit in support of the criminal complaint, Li, a real estate agent, orchestrated a scheme that purchased residential properties through transactions designed to conceal the homes' true owners, converted the houses to marijuana grow operations, and trafficked marijuana, with most of the processed marijuana being sold to customers in California and Nevada.

Investigators believe Li attempted to distance himself from the conspiracy by using Chen and Yu to manage day-to-day operations at the grow houses, to help with out-of-state distribution of the marijuana, and to return marijuana sale proceeds. Li also used bypasses to physically divert electricity directly from power lines, thus stealing power from the electric companies, hiding the grow houses' high power usage from law enforcement, and creating fire risks in neighborhoods. According to the affidavit, Li's attempts to insulate himself from culpability went as far as creating fake leases for some of the properties, documents that included fake tenants, forged electronic signatures, and special clauses that purported to prohibit the fake tenants from cultivating marijuana at the homes.

Rose Queen Louise Siskel Honored at State Capitol

Senator Anthony Portantino honored Rose Queen Louise Deser Siskel of San Marino Monday as the 25th State Senate District 2019 Women of the Year.

"I am very honored and excited that Louise has to come to Sacramento to represent our district. She has distinguished herself as an amazing leader, not just displaying poise while the entire world watched her in the Rose Parade but through her trailblazing leadership. She embraced the responsibility of being selected Rose Queen with a bold civic agenda, impressed everyone who has encountered her during this past year and exemplified intelligence, confidence and maturity," commented Senator Portantino.

The California State Legislature first recognized March as Women is History Month in 1987 and has continued the tradition. Each year, members of the State Legislature recognize the exceptional women in their district with a celebration commemorating their accomplishments and positive impact on our communities. This year, Senator Portantino is honored that Ms. Siskel has agreed to proudly represent the 25th Senate District.

"I am grateful to Senator Anthony Portantino for nominating me for the California Legislative Women's Caucus Woman of the Year award. I feel lucky to be honored among a group of truly dedicated women who make the world a more kind and welcoming place. This year, as the 101st Rose Queen, I had the opportunity to promote scientific research, education, and inclusion. This recognition encourages me, and I hope will encourage others, to advocate for these values," added Louise Deser Siskel.

Through Louise's leadership, young women in the LGBTQ and Jewish communities have a new and dynamic role model. The California State Senate LGBTQ Caucus and the California State Senate Jewish Caucus also recognized Louise for her accomplishments as well.

UNANIMOUS ARCADIA CITY COUNCIL ACTS TO PLACE LOCAL FUNDING MEASURE ON THE BALLOT TO MAINTAIN PUBLIC SAFETY AND OTHER CITY SERVICES

March 5, 2019 – The Arcadia City Council unanimously placed the Arcadia Public Safety, City Services and Accountability Measure on the June 2019 ballot to maintain public safety and other local services.

"City staff and the Citizen's Financial Advisory Committee have indicated we have a multi-million dollar structural deficit," said City Manager Dominic Lazzaretto. "As police and fire are 60% of the City's General Fund budget, we have acted to give Arcadia voters the option of generating more locally-controlled tax revenue to maintain public safety and other City services at current levels."

"With changes in state law allowing for the early release of prisoners and shortening sentences, Arcadia residents have expressed the importance of maintaining police protection and the number of Arcadia officers at current levels," said Arcadia Police Chief Robert Guthrie. "The City currently has five fewer police officers than it did in 2008. Unless more revenue is generated, as many as 13 police officer positions could be cut, affecting police patrols and response times."

"Cleaning and maintaining City neighborhoods, streets, parks, and other public facilities is important to the community," said Public Works Services Director Tom Tait. "Maintaining the City's infrastructure is part of what makes the quality of life in Arcadia better than surrounding communities." Additionally, the City had previously indicated that without additional local funding, as many as ten firefighter/paramedic positions and fire coverage in North Arcadia could be affected.

For more information about the Arcadia Public Safety, City Services and Accountability Measure, please contact the City Manager's Office at 574-5401.

MONROVIA - DUARTE

MONROVIA FIRE AND RESCUE RESPONDS TO MULTIPLE FIRES

(MONROVIA, CA.) – On March 6, Monrovia Fire & Rescue responded to a vege-tation fire on the corner of Chestnut Avenue, a fire to a public book-sharing unit, and a structure fire at the 700 block of West Colorado Boulevard. On March 7, the department responded to a structure fire at the 800 block of West Walnut Avenue.

It has been determined that these fires are suspicious in nature. Verdugo Arson Task Force, assisted by the Los Angeles Fire Department and the Bureau of Alco-hol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives investigators, are currently on the scene with K9 units.

The Monrovia Police Department Detective Bureau has detained a person of inter-est for the incident and is investigating if that person has any connections to the fires. The investigation is still in its infancy and the person of interest has not yet been booked.

Damages were significant to the structure under construction on the 700 block of West Colorado. No one was present in the home at the time of the fire, and no in-juries were sustained. In addition, damages were sustained to multiple neighboring houses, along with heat damages to nearby cars. The structure under construction and the adjacent property have both been red-tagged. The City will be issuing a Notice of Order to Abate.

For the fire on the 800 block of Walnut Avenue, two people currently reside at the house, with only one occupant present when the fire began. The person was treat-ed for smoke inhalation and was released at the scene. This home has also been red-tagged.

Property damage and content loss for the fires has been calculated at over $1 mil-lion. There were no injuries that required medical care at any of the four fires.

The Monrovia Police Department and Monrovia Fire & Rescue encourages com-munity members to always report any suspicious activities by calling 911.

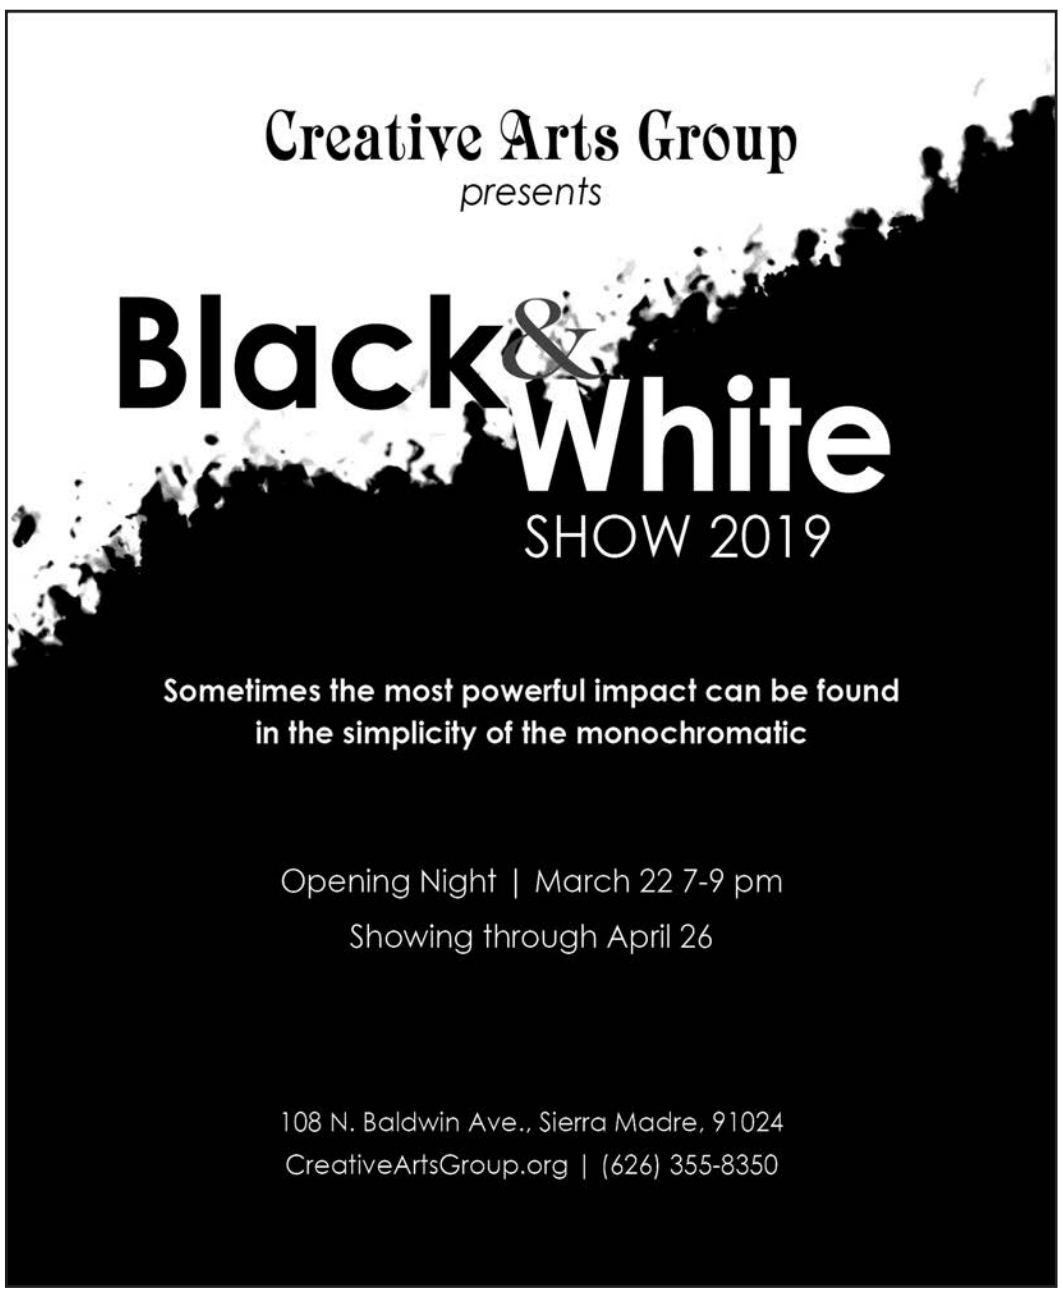
Monrovia Police Department arrested and booked Ryan Dhalliwal, a 25-year-old resident of the City of Monrovia, for arson (PC 451). Dhalliwal was detained early this morning for questioning and has now been arrested and charged for starting the fire to a public book-exchange unit on the 700 block of West Chestnut Ave-nue.

COMMUNITY MEETING TO DISCUSS POSSIBLE SALES TAX MEASURE SCHEDULED FOR MONDAY, MARCH 11, 6:00 – 7:00 P.M., IN LIBRARY COMMUNITY ROOM

The City has scheduled a Community Meeting to discuss issues and answer questions related to a potential sales tax measure in 2019. We want to hear from the community to see if a local tax measure could be a viable solution for Monrovia as we search for ways to protect our local sales tax capacity from other governmental jurisdictions, including LA County. The meeting will take place at the Library Community Room (321 S. Myrtle Ave.) on Monday, March 11, from 6:00 – 7:00 p.m. Please visit us online for more information.

AFTER PROCUREMENT DELAYS, TERRADO DRIVE SPEED BUMP INSTALLATION IS SET TO MOVE FORWARD

Just a quick note to let everyone know that we're making plans to move forward with the installation of speed bumps on Terrado Drive. If you recall, in late 2018, residents on Terrado Drive submit-ted a petition asking that the City install speed bumps on their street. Based on that feedback and an assessment conducted by staff, we made plans in December to coordinate the installation of the requisite speed bumps.
Based on the preliminary engineering work that was done, it was de-termined that nine speed bumps would need to be installed on Ter-rado Drive, and based on the cost of the improvements and our ex-isting procurement processes, we coordinated an informal bid which identified Lake Traffic as the low bidder. However, after awarding the procurement contract for purchasing nine speed bumps to that firm, they became non-responsive, which has required that we look to purchase the speed bumps from an alternative firm. Given that delay, we are currently around 6 – 8 weeks away from receiving and installing the speed bumps. We've communicated this updated schedule to the residents on Terrado Drive.



CHRISTOPHER Nyerges

EXPLORING TIDE POOLS OF THE PACIFIC COAST

[Nyerges is the author of "Foraging California," "How to Survive Anywhere," and other books. He can be reached at www.SchoolofSelf-Reliance.com for information about his books and classes.]

You're walking along the California coast, somewhere where it's still possible to see seaweeds and shells and sponges and anemones. You're in the tide pools! These are exciting places to discover what lives where the ocean meets the land, and even to observe the effects of pollution, human intervention, and climate change.

The first step in your expansion of knowledge and insight into the flora and fauna of the diverse tidepools is to learn a bit about the plants and animals that reside there. There are many books available, and one of the better books I've recently reviewed is "Fylling's Illustrated Guide to Pacific Coast Tide Pools," by Marni Fylling.

It's a slim book, 76 pages, measuring 5 by 7 inches, so this book fits easily into your pack or pocket. It's a simple guide to everything you'll find in the tide pools, with color drawings.

After a simple introduction to how the tide pools work, the book shares with us how to recognize the common anemones, sponges, mollusks, worms, arthopods, sea stars and urchins, tunicates (yes, I never heard of those either!), fish, birds, and the seaweeds. It's a delightful book, which makes the understanding of what lives in the tide pools easy and accessible. The color drawings are clear and well-presented.

If you've ever watched some of the many "survival" shows on television, you'll see that those who understand the sea and shore are those who eat. Where there is water, there are fish, and shellfish, and seaweeds, and basically no excuse to go hungry.

Kelp is common in the tidepools and along all the coasts, and of course, when properly prepared can provide you with some very flavorful soup or broth. Various forms of kelp are described in this book, including the bull kelp (the one with the long stem and the hollow ball at the end of the stipe), and the giant kelp. According to the author, the giant kelp put the bull kelp to shame in its speed of growth. Giant kelp can grow 20 inches in a day, faster than almost any other organism on earth. (The author says "almost." I wondered, what could possibly grow faster than that?)

Purple laver is another seaweed found in the tide pools, growing on rocks. One type of purple laver that many people are familiar with is nori, which has been eaten since at least 500 A.D. (that we know about).

I learned about tunicates in this book, also known as "sea squirts." These are the jelly-like masses that you often see on rocks in the tide pools. These are quite unique creatures in the animal kingdom.

In the crab section, the author describes the diverse crabs to be found in the Pacific tide pools, and also mentions the gooseneck barnacles. Back in my teens, we used to collect the gooseneck barnacles and use them for bait. I also would take some home to boil and eat, and everyone laughed at me because they said I was "eating bait." Still, I learned that you could survive on very little.

"Pacific Coast Tidepools" retails at $15 from Heyday books (www.heydaybooks.com).

OTHER REFERENCES

When I was first studying the life of the beaches, I used Jepson's Manual of the Higher Plants of California, which is what you use in college to study botany. That's a good source, obviously, but not as enjoyable to read as Fylling's guide to the tide pools.

I also used Euell Gibbon's "Stalking the Blue-Eyed Scallop," which covers the edible and useful flora and fauna of the Pacific, Atlantic, and other coasts. It's actually quite good, and though illustrated with simple line drawings, is perhaps one of Gibbons' best works. Though many of Gibbons' books were lively conversations, and sometimes lacking in science. "Blue-Eyed Scallop" demonstrates the true naturalist in Euell Gibbons, and it showed that his love for the sea was his first love.

ENOUGH FOR ALL

In a related vein, Heyday also publishes a book from a Pomo perspective called "Enough For All: Foods of My Dry Creek Pomo and Bodega Miwuk People" by Kathleen Rose Smith.

Kathleen Rose Smith reveals the practices handed down through generations of her Bodega Miwuk and Pomo ancestors, and shares how these traditions have evolved into the contemporary ways her family still enjoys wild foods. Her knowledge and personal reflections are expressed through recipes, stories, and artwork, recording not only the technical aspects of food gathering, but also the social and spiritual—inextricable elements of traditional California Indian food preparation.

It's a wonderful book, complete with family stories and photos, and also full of useful information of how the wild foods were once collected, and shared with others in a time of need.

"Enough for All" is not only the title, but the theme that more people should adopt in this time when there is so much plenty, but also so many in poverty.

OUT TO PASTOR

A Weekly Religion Column by Rev. James Snyder

O HOLIDAY, WHO ART THOU TODAY?

Generally speaking, and who speaks generally anymore these days, I am not much of a holiday fan. There seems to be a holiday every day of the week. So many holidays that I cannot keep up and quite frankly, I do not have much incentive to keep up.

When I was young, I enjoyed holidays but now that I am a husband, a father, a grandfather, every holiday is billed to my account, to such an extent I cannot get out of it. I hold my wallet very tight, but evidently not tight enough. Somebody invented holidays just to sell greeting cards and make a ton of money. So, I am not a great advocate of holidays.

I fondly remember as a youngster getting up Christmas morning excited about what Santa had brought me under the Christmas tree. Little did I know that my father was taking care of all the cost. How was I to know that Christmas had a price tag to it? Nobody ever told me when I was young the Christmas presents cost anything.

When I had a family of my own, I discovered that Christmas is not free, at least for the parents, especially the father of the tribe. Of course, it was worth seeing the laughter and bright eyes of the children as they opened their Christmas gifts.

Outside of Christmas, I do not have any holidays that I get excited about, except one. I am from Pennsylvania and if you are not from that state, you will not understand this holiday. I know people celebrate Groundhog Day, but that is not my holiday. The holiday that I celebrate the most is Fast-nacht Day, which is a Pennsylvania Dutch holiday celebrated on the Tuesday before Ash Wednes-day.

No, it is not a religious holiday. I don't know too much about the roots of Fastnacht Day. But the word Fastnacht means doughnuts. Therefore, in reality, it is the national Donut Day. What holiday could be better than spending the whole day eating donuts?

One time the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage challenged me about eating donuts all day, especially pristine apple fritters. I had to explain to her that because I am from Pennsylvania I have a solemn obligation to celebrate that holiday. Even though I no longer live in Pennsylvania, I still have a solemn responsibility to eat donuts all day long on Fastnacht Day.

I do have a small confession to make though. It was June and I was celebrating Fastnacht Day with apple fritters all day long. My wife caught me and said, "What are you doing?"

Very soberly I said, "Well, it's Fastnacht Day and I am celebrating it by eating these apple fritters." She gave me one of those stares that bores into my very soul. I do not get those stares often, but when I do, they are most alarming.

"What do you mean," my wife asked, "today is Fastnacht Day?" So, I launched into my description of this holiday and that as a Pennsylvania born person, I have a solemn responsibility to honor this holiday every year. It is my heritage.

"Yes," she said most sternly, "but why are you eating apple fritters TODAY?"

There was silence for a little bit and I did not know how to answer her.

"If I'm not mistaken," she queried, "you celebrated Fastnacht Day back in March. Why are you celebrating it in June?"

I knew I was trapped and I did not know how to untrap myself. All I could do was say, "Oh, I for-got that this was June. I must be getting older and my memory isn't working quite as well."

Looking at me and not smiling, she said, "It's not your memory I'm worried about." Then she turned around and walked away. I have been worried ever since. I did not know what she meant by what she was worried about me for. It could be a thousand things and quite frankly, I do not have the nerve to ask her what she was most worried about me.

As I said, every holiday comes with a cost factor. Not all cost has to do with money.

I wanted to tell her that although Fastnacht Day comes in March I like to celebrate it three or four times during the year. Now, what's wrong with that? Why is it that you have to celebrate a holiday just for one day? Why can it be throughout the year?

I think I know how she would have responded. "Okay, why don't you celebrate my birthday every month?" Believe me, I'm not going to be walking on those troubled waters anytime soon.

Throughout the years, I have learned that everybody has their own way of celebrating a holiday. Personally, I think people are too legalistic when it comes to holidays. My idea is, instead of cele-brating holidays, why don't we celebrate every day of the year. Every day has something special in it that warrants celebration. Celebration is remembering the right things.

David understood this when he wrote, "Remember not the sins of my youth, nor my transgressions: according to thy mercy remember thou me for thy goodness' sake, O Lord" (Psalm 25:7).

There are things in my life I do not want to celebrate or remember. It is the grace of God that ena-bles him to remember the goodness in my life and not my sins.

SWANKY WINE FOR A GREAT PRICE

Perhaps it's my age. Or perhaps I'm just developing awareness to the effects of alcohol consumption. A recent study published in the University of Berkeley Wellness Newsletter said that moderate consumption for an average adult is one drink a day for women and two drinks for a man (obviously age and weight play a part). You may have heard that a glass of red wine is good for your heart, which makes sense since it contains antioxidant and anti-inflammatory properties that may protect blood vessels, but beer and peanuts have benefits as well as any foods derived from plants. I recently covered a story on my radio program promoting beer as a preventative cure for Alzheimer's. Wine drinkers tend to be a bit more health conscious than beer drinkers and often consume their wine with meals. Recently I came across an article suggesting tequila can help you lose weight. I think you see where this is all going.

Rodney Strong Vineyards in Sonoma County has been producing wines since the 1950's. I recently purchased a bottle of the 2016 Cabernet for under $20 at my local supermarket. Yes there was indeed a Rodney Strong - he made his mark in the wine business, but began his career as a dancer (there must be a segue, here but I'll stick to the wine). Finding a cabernet under $20 is easy; finding a good one is something else. I first discovered Rodney Strong while staying at a swanky Newport Beach hotel – the wine was the gift they left in the room as a welcome present. Not one to shy away from a gift of wine and cheese, I have been a big fan since. The wine itself is a bit lighter in color than some other cabs, but the nose and finish are right on target. Some of my friends think it needs to sit for a couple of years, but I say at this price point there is no reason to sit on it. Open and let it breathe for a half-hour and Rodney is ready. It goes great with a sweet cheddar cheese or a roasted chicken or even a bone in rib eye. It's priced right, and readily available at restaurants and your local wine retailer.

Each week I will give you my Dills Score. Starting with a base of 50 points, I have added 7 points for color, 8 points for aroma or "nose", 8 points for taste, 8 points for finish, and 8 points for my overall impression, which includes my value rating.

THE GOOD LIFE

HOW SENIORS CAN STOP FRUSTRATING ROBOCALLS

THE SAVVY SENIOR

Dear Savvy Senior:
Is there anything seniors can do to stop perpetual robocalls? It seems like I get five to 10 a day on my home and cell phone, and I'm sick of it!
Frustrated Frank

Dear Frank:
Robocalls make up around 50 percent of all phone calls today, and it's only getting worse. Americans were hit with 26.3 billion robocalls in 2018, a whopping 46 percent increase from the year before. Fortunately, there are a variety of tools available today that can help you greatly reduce them.

Register Your Numbers
If you haven't already done so, your first step to limiting at least some unwanted calls is to make sure your home and cell phone numbers are registered with the National Do Not Call Registry. While this won't stop illegal robocalls, it will stop unwanted calls from legitimate for-profit businesses who are trying to sell you something. But be aware that political organizations, charities and survey takers are still permitted to call you, as are businesses you've bought something from or made a payment to in the last 18 months. To sign up, visit DoNotCall.gov or call 888-382-1222.

Home Landline Tools
To stop calls on your home phone set up the "anonymous call rejection" option. This is a free landline-calling feature available from most telephone companies. It lets you screen out calls from callers who have blocked their caller ID information – a favorite tactic of telemarketers. To set it up, you usually have to dial *77 from your landline, though different phone services may have different procedures to set it up. Call your telephone service provider to find out if they offer this feature, and if so, what you need to do to enable it.

Another solution is to sign up for Nomorobo, which is a free service for landline phones but only if you have a VoIP landline carrier. Nomorobo uses a "simultaneous ring" service that detects and blocks robocalls on a black list of known offender numbers. It isn't 100 percent foolproof, but it is an extra layer of protection. To sign up or see if Nomorobo works with your phone service provider, visit Nomorobo.com.

Cell Phones Tools
To stop unwanted robocalls and texts to your cell phone, ask your carrier about caller ID options that help identify, filter or prevent callers that aren't legitimate.

For example, AT&T provides their subscribers a free app called "AT&T Call Protect" that has automatic fraud blocking and suspected spam warnings, and you can manually block unwanted calls. Starting this month, Verizon is offering free spam alerting and call blocking tools to their users. T-Mobile offers free "Scam ID" and "Scam Block" to combat robocalls and spam. And Sprint customers can sign up for its "Premium Caller ID" service for $2.99 per month to guard against robocalls and caller ID spoofers.

Call Blocking Apps
Another way to stop nuisance robocalls on your smartphone is with call blocking apps. These can identify who is calling you and block unwanted calls that show up on a crowd-sourced spam and robocaller lists.

Some top call blocking app for iPhones and Androids include Nomorobo (Nomorobo.com), Hiya Caller ID and Spam Blocker (Hiya.com) and Truecaller (Truecaller.com).

Nomorobo cost $2 per month, while Truecaller and Hiya apps are free to use, but offer upgraded services for $2 and $3 per month.

Spam Proof Phones
There are also phones you can buy, like the Samsung Galaxy S, Samsung Note, or Google Pixel phone that have built-in spam and robocall protection in place. Samsung's Smart Call feature flags calls it suspects are spam, while Google Pixel phones have built-in spam call protection. With this feature, users with Caller ID enabled will get a warning if a suspected spam call or robocall is received.

Send your senior questions to: Savvy Senior, P.O. Box 5443, Norman, OK 73070, or visit SavvySenior.org. Jim Miller is a contributor to the NBC Today show and author of "The Savvy Senior" book.

LOOKING FOR DEBT-FREE COLLEGE? NO NEED TO WAIT FOR A NATIONAL ELECTION

By Dr. Edward C. Ortell, Citrus College Governing Board Member

Millennials currently hold more than a trillion dollars in student debt. It's hardly surprising that "tuition-free," "debt-free" and "free college for all" are just a few of the college affordability plans being touted by presidential hopefuls in the 2020 election.

With national student loan debt at roughly $1.5 trillion, it is not surprising that students and their families are desperate for college funding solutions that will not mean borrowing tens of thousands of dollars, risking loan default and potentially limiting their ability to purchase a home or qualify for certain jobs in the future.

Student loans are one of the only debts that cannot be discharged in bankruptcy.

California's community colleges offer students an excellent alternative to borrowing to pay for their college education. California residents attending a community college currently pay about $1,300 in fees annually—a fraction of the cost of UC and CSU. Financial aid can cut costs even further, and students can also save by living at home and accessing public transportation.

After successfully completing the first two years of a community college, students can apply to transfer to a four-year college or university to complete a baccalaureate degree. Studies have shown that transfer students obtain GPAs equal to or better than students entering state universities as freshmen.

In addition to offering high quality education, California community colleges educate 80 percent of the state's law enforcement, professionals, firefighters and EMTs and 70 percent of its nurses. In addition, studies show that students who earn a degree or certificate from a California community college nearly double their earnings within three years.

According to Natalia Abrams, executive director of Student Debt Crisis, an advocacy organization, "free college" will help curb future college costs and future student debt, but it will do nothing to help the 45 million people who are dealing with debt now.

But why head down the precarious path of student loans if it isn't absolutely necessary? Cost reduction strategies offered by community colleges, including Dual Enrollment and College Promise Programs can save students and taxpayers thousands of dollars while reducing the need for loans that often take decades to repay.

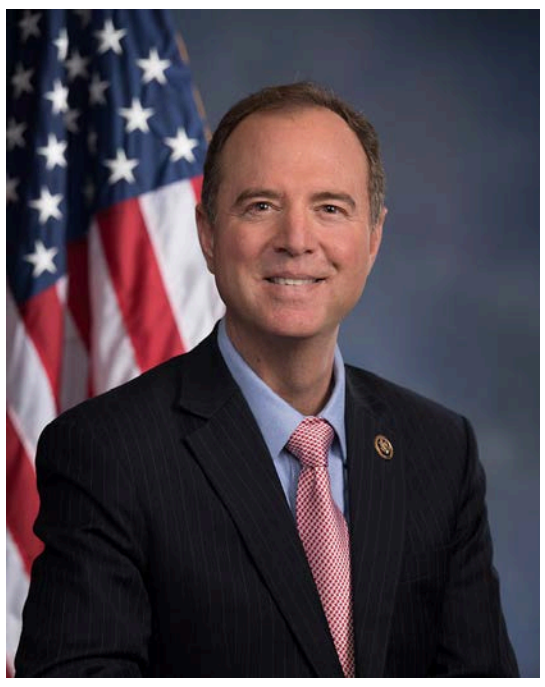
SCHIFF RECEIVES OFFICIAL RESPONSES FROM GOOGLE, FACE-BOOK REGARDING ANTI-VACCINE MISINFORMATION



Washington, DC – Today, Rep. Adam Schiff (D-CA) released written responses he re-ceived from Google and Facebook regarding addressing anti-vaccine misinformation on their respective platforms.

"We have put a lot of effort into curbing misinformation in our products – from bet-ter Search ranking algorithms, to improving our ability to surface authoritative content, to tougher policies against monetization of harmful or dangerous content. Under YouTube's Advertiser-Friendly Content Guidelines, we are and have been demonetizing anti-vaccination content under our longstanding harmful or danger-ous advertising policy," wrote Karan Bhatia, Vice President of Global Public Policy and Government Affairs at Google.

"Our approach…is to reduce the spread of inaccurate information about vaccines by reducing its distribution in News Feed, removing groups and pages that pro-mote misinformation from recommendation surfaces, and providing authoritative information to people who might encounter it," wrote Kevin Martin, Vice President of U.S. Public Policy at Facebook.

The scientific and medical communities are in overwhelming consensus that vaccines are both effective and safe. There is no evidence to suggest that vaccines cause life-threatening or disabling diseases, and the dissemination of unfounded and debunked the-ories about the dangers of vaccinations pose a great risk to public health.

Schiff recently sent letters to Google, Facebook and Amazon to express concern that the companies' platforms are surfacing and recommending information that discourages par-ents from vaccinating their children, contributing to declining vaccination rates which could reverse progress made in tackling vaccine-preventable diseases.

"I'm pleased that all three companies are taking this issue seriously and acknowl-edged their responsibility to provide quality health information to their us-ers." Schiff said. "The responses from Google and Facebook describe the steps they are taking to address the issue of harmful public health misinformation on their platforms. Amazon has informed me they will also be responding to my letter in the coming days.

"The crucial test will be whether the steps outlined by Google and Facebook do in fact reduce the spread of anti-vaccine content on their platforms, thereby making it less likely to reach users who are simply seeking quality, fact-based health in-formation for their children and families.

"I plan to continue working with the companies on the issue of misinformation on their platforms and monitoring the effectiveness of the changes they are making because our health, and particularly the health of our children, is at stake."

Earlier this week, Rep. Schiff introduced the bipartisan Vaccines Save Lives resolution, rec-ognizing the importance of vaccines and immunizations in the United States. The resolu-tion sends a message of unequivocal Congressional support for vaccines and urges par-ents, in consultation with their health care providers, to follow scientific evidence and the consensus of medical experts in favor of timely vaccination for the well-being of their children and surrounding communities.

MATT DENNY'S ALE HOUSE HOSTS ST. BALDRICK'S FOUNDATION HEAD-SHAVING EVENT TO RAISE FUNDS FOR CHILDHOOD CANCER RESEARCH

With a Goal to Raise $60,000, Local Volunteers Will Go Bald

Matt Denny's Ale House in Arcadia, Calif., will host a St. Baldrick's Foundation signature head-shaving event to raise funds for lifesaving childhood cancer research on Thursday, March 14. With a goal of raising $60,000, local volunteers have registered to shave their head to support the Foundation's mission to fund the best research to find cures and better treatments for kids with cancer.

This event will honor Los Angeles local kid 14-year-old Gabby Galarneau. She was diagnosed withosteosarcoma at 13 years old and underwent limb salvage surgery on her left leg to remove a tumor, her knee and six inches of her femur. Today, Gabby is cancer free but the fight continues. She's working hard to learn to walk again following her surgery and is dealing with hearing loss, one of the late effects of her treatment. Gabby loves swimming, camping, going to the beach and serving as one of St. Baldrick's 2019 Ambassadors.

One in five children diagnosed with cancer in the U.S. will not survive. Those who do survive often suffer long-term effects from treatment too harsh for their developing bodies. As the largest private funder of childhood cancer research grants, St. Baldrick's Foundation is leading the charge to take childhood back from cancer. Join the fight. Register. Fundraise. Show-up. Shave. You can help save kids' lives.

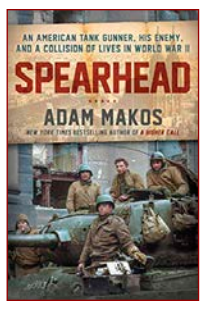
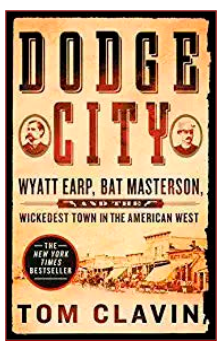
Where the Crawdads Sing by Delia Owens
#1 New York Times Bestseller. For years, rumors of the "Marsh Girl" have haunted Barkley Cove, a quiet town on the North Carolina coast. So in late 1969, when handsome Chase Andrews is found dead, the locals immediately suspect Kay Clark, the so-called Marsh Girl. But Kya is not what they say. Sensitive and intelligent, she has survived for years alone in the marsh that she calls home, finding friends in the gulls and lessons in the sand. Then the time comes when she yearns to be touched and loved. When two young men from town become intrigued by her wild beauty, Kya opens herself to a new life--until the unthinkable happens. Perfect for fans of Barbara Kingsolver and Karen Russell, Where the Crawdads Sing is at once an exquisite ode to the natural world, a heartbreaking coming-of-age story, and a surprising tale of possible murder. Owens reminds us that we are forever shaped by the children we once were, and that we are all subject to the beautiful and violent secrets that nature keeps.



Spearhead: An American Tank Gunner, His Enemy, and a Collision of Lives in World War II by Adam Makos
From the New York Times bestselling author of A Higher Call comes the riveting World War II story of an American tank gunner's journey into the heart of the Third Reich, where he will meet destiny in an iconic armor duel—and forge an enduring bond with his enemy. When Clarence Smoyer is assigned to the gunner's seat of his Sherman tank, his crewmates discover that the gentle giant from Pennsylvania has a hidden talent: He's a natural-born shooter. At first, Clarence and his fellow crews in the legendary 3rd Armored Division—"Spearhead"—thought their tanks were invincible. Then they met the German Panther, with a gun so murderous it could shoot through one Sherman and into the next. Soon a pattern emerged: The lead tank always gets hit. After Clarence sees his friends cut down breaching the West Wall and holding the line in the Battle of the Bulge, he and his crew are given a weapon with the power to avenge their fallen brothers: the Pershing, a state-of-the-art "super tank," one of twenty in the European theater. But with it comes a harrowing new responsibility: Now they will spearhead every attack. That's how Clarence, the corporal from coal country, finds himself leading the U.S. Army into its largest urban battle of the European war, the fight for Cologne, the "Fortress City" of Germany. Battling through the ruins, Clarence will engage the fearsome Panther in a duel immortalized by an army cameraman. And he will square off with Gustav Schaefer, a teenager behind the trigger in a Panzer IV tank, whose crew has been sent on a suicide mission to stop the Americans. As Clarence and Gustav trade fire down a long boulevard, they are taken by surprise by a tragic mistake of war. What happens next will haunt Clarence to the modern day, drawing him back to Cologne to do the unthinkable: to face his enemy, one last time."The tension, death, and courage that were everyday experiences for American tankers fill the pages of Makos's book. This moving story of bravery and comradeship is an important contribution to WWII history that will inform and fascinate both the general reader and the military historian."—Publishers Weekly/



Dodge City: Wyatt Earp, Bat Masterson, and the Wickedest Town in the American West by Tom Clavin
Dodge City, Kansas, is a place of legend. The town that started as a small military site exploded with the coming of the railroad, cattle drives, eager miners, settlers, and various entrepreneurs passing through to populate the expanding West. Before long, Dodge City's streets were lined with saloons and brothels and its populace was thick with gunmen, horse thieves, and desperadoes of every sort. By the 1870s, Dodge City was known as the most violent and turbulent town in the West.Enter Wyatt Earp and Bat Masterson. Young and largely self-trained men, the lawmen led the effort that established frontier justice and the rule of law in the American West, and did it in the wickedest place in the United States. When they moved on, Wyatt to Tombstone and Bat to Colorado, a tamed Dodge was left in the hands of Jim Masterson. But before long Wyatt and Bat, each having had a lawman brother killed, returned to that threatened western Kansas town to team up to restore order again in what became known as the Dodge City War before riding off into the sunset.Tom Clavin's Dodge City tells the true story of their friendship, romances, gunfights, and adventures, along with the remarkable cast of characters they encountered along the way (including Wild Bill Hickock, Jesse James, Doc Holliday, Buffalo Bill Cody, John Wesley Hardin, Billy the Kid, and Theodore Roosevelt) that has gone largely untold, ;ost in the haze of Hollywood films and western fiction, until now.The 3 reviews are from Amazon.com

FAMILY MATTERS By Marc Garlett

COULD AN IRA TRUST BENEFIT YOUR FAMILY?

Upon death, if you have individual retirement accounts (IRAs), they will pass directly to the people you named on your beneficiary designation form. And unless you take extra steps, the named beneficiary can do whatever he or she wants with the account's funds once you're gone.

For several reasons, you might not want your heirs to receive your retirement savings all at once. One way to prevent this is to designate your IRA into a trust.

But you can't just use any trust to hold an IRA; you'll need to set up a special type of revocable trust specifically designed to act as the beneficiary of your IRA upon your death. Such a trust is referred to by different names but for this article, I'm simply going to call it an IRA Trust.

IRA Trusts offer a number of valuable benefits to both you and your beneficiaries. If you have significant assets invested through one or more IRA accounts, you might want to consider the following advantages of adding an IRA Trust to your estate plan.

1. Protection from creditors, lawsuits, & divorce
Assets passed through an IRA Trust are shielded from your beneficiary's creditors (which includes lawsuit judgements) if those assets remain in the trust. IRA Trusts are also useful in protecting assets from the possible remarriage and divorce of a surviving spouse as well as potential future divorces of your children.

2. Protection from the beneficiary's own bad decisions
In addition, an IRA Trust can also help protect the beneficiary from his or her own poor money-management skills and spending habits. When you create an IRA Trust, you can restrict when the money is distributed as well as how it is to be spent. For example, you might stipulate that the beneficiary can only access the funds at a certain age or upon the completion of college. Or you might stipulate that the assets can only be used for healthcare needs or a home purchase. You can get as creative as you want with the trust's terms.

3. Tax savings
One of the primary benefits of traditional IRAs is that they offer a period of tax-deferred growth, or tax-free growth in the case of a Roth IRA. A properly drafted IRA Trust can ensure the IRA funds are not all withdrawn at once and the required minimum distributions (RMDs) are stretched out over the beneficiary's lifetime. Depending on the age of the beneficiary, this gives the IRA years—potentially even decades—of additional tax-deferred or tax-free growth.

4. Minors
If you want to name a minor child as the beneficiary of your IRA, they can't inherit the account until they reach the age of majority. So, without a trust, you'll have to name a guardian or conservator to manage the IRA until the child comes of age. With an IRA Trust, however, you name a trustee to handle the IRA management until the child comes of age. At that point, the IRA Trust's terms can stipulate how and when the funds are distributed. Or the terms can even ensure the funds are held for the lifetime of your beneficiary, to be invested by your beneficiary through the trust.

Find out if an IRA Trust is right for you
While IRA Trusts can have major benefits, they're not the best option for everyone. We can look at your situation and goals to help you determine if an IRA Trust is the most suitable option for passing on your retirement savings to benefit your family.

WHY 'SPRINGING FORWARD' TAKES MY DAD WEEKS

Nobody dreads daylight saving time more than my father. He has his work cut out for him this coming weekend, when we "spring forward" by setting clocks ahead by an hour before going to bed Saturday night. You see, my mother loves clocks - so much that he has 14 clocks to reset.

There are clocks in both guest bedrooms. That way, my mother argues, friends and family members who stay over always know the time and can set alarms to wake early.

My father finally figured out how to change the microwave's clock, but the stove is brand-new and its clock is causing him grief.

"For godssakes, Betty," he complains to my mother, "I'll never figure this daggone thing out."

He particularly dislikes the clock in the basement family room. Everyone in our family thinks this framed "picture clock," which displays a mill on a river, is ugly. But my mother loves it because 40 years ago, I used my meager high-school savings to buy it for her as a birthday gift.

My father especially hates it because he needs a stepladder to reset it.

"Why don't you take it back?" he pleads with me often.

"I don't want that ugly thing in my house," I say.

There also are clocks in my parents' bedroom, laundry room and car, and on their back patio. My father has to contend with two or three wristwatches, too. But the three clocks that trouble him most all have chimes - and getting those chimes to ring simultaneously takes him weeks.

One is a beautiful, hand-crafted, delightful-sounding wall clock that my Uncle Jimmy got for my parents when he served in the Army in Germany nearly 50 years ago.

On an antique table in the dining room there's another chime clock that Verizon - we called it "the phone company" - gave my father to mark his 25th year working there.

When he retired after nearly 40 years of service, Verizon gave him a magnificent, chiming grandfather clock. It sits in the living room.

"For godssakes, Betty, I'll never get these chimes to ring at the same time!" he complains at the top of every hour - and his lungs! - for weeks after we spring forward or fall back.

Daylight saving time, which aims to squeeze an extra hour of daylight out of a typical day, didn't become uniform across the United States until passage of the Uniform Time Act of 1966. Over the years, there have been some changes in how long daylight saving time lasts. Today, it runs from March into November.

Proponents say daylight saving time gives us more daylight in spring and summer, getting us out of the house and making us happier.

Opponents say it makes spring and summer mornings darker, making us less productive at work and causing us to consume more energy.

All I know is that nobody dreads daylight saving time more than my father. Just as he finally get his clocks to chime in concert, it's time to spring forward or fall back again, which means his misery starts all over again.

He has but one thing to say to that.

"For godssakes, Betty, if I'd known these daggone chiming clocks would cause me so much grief, I would've asked the phone company for gold watches instead!"

MY SUDDEN, IF ONLY TEMPORARY, CHANGE OF HEART

The other day I was fell asleep pursuing a peculiar hobby of mine, trying to solve famous L.A. unsolved murders. When I feel asleep, I was reading a photocopy of the January 16, 1947 article from the Herald's-Express's archives at UCLA. The Herald's headline story written by Angie Underwood, one of the first to arrive at the scene, just after the body was discovered the previous morning at about 10 a.m. by a woman out strolling with her three-year-old daughter.

Later the victim was identified as Elizabeth Short, 22 , a waitress and wannabe movie actress, later nicknamed by the local press as the "Black Dahlia." Apparently Ms. Short's half-naked body was found severed into two pieces at the waist, entirely drained of blood, and with a grotesque smile carved on her face.

Not disappoint you all, I haven't solved the oldest murder mystery in L.A. history; nor am I starting a publisher's tour to promote my new book finally solving a seventy-two-year-old L.A. murder mystery, "Who killed the Black Dahlia?" Sorry folks, this is nothing so tantalizing. This is merely an introductory explanation about a dream I had while trying to escape "The Age of Trump."

Anyhow, when I awoke I wasn't certain I was really awake—When I caught myself still crazily laughing out loud, I was sure I was still in Dreamland. Belly laughing audibly loud and in stitches in your sleep isn't normal. I was scared but probably not the way you think.

I was frightened because not just because I couldn't stop laughing, and I was afraid that if my wife—who I could see was still sound asleep beside me—suddenly awoke, she would immediately freak out and have me immediately admitted to a local psych ward.

Then, all of a sudden, my bedroom widescreen TV turns itself on and Donald "Friggin" Trump pops up. I kid you not. Pink hair, pink face, complete with the white zinc oxide he applies under his eyes. He looked right at me in my eyes and said one thing: "You're invited to the White House on such and such date to participate as part of a screen test of my new TV show, Donald's World."

Unlike The Apprentice, Trump's told me his new show was a "reality" comedy/drama series. I was stunned. President Donald Trump had personally FaceTimed me to personally invite me to participate as a test screening of montage of his new TV show, Donald's World. I was so excited. The President of the United States just invited me to to a private screening at the White House to watch the first season's ten episodes of his new TV show Donald's World. WOW!

I was equally excited by the President's spiel of how the show would dramatize and make funny Trump's presidency for the next 21 months until Inauguration Day and the Inaugural Ball in the evening afterwards, intercutting between celebrities and the actors playing them. I didn't ask about his possible impeachment, honestly, because I didn't want to uninvited.

Afterwards, still dreaming, I couldn't get the idea out of my head of sitting next to The First Lady, me in a black tuxedo and her wearing a shimmering gown, together sharing a Coke and a box of popcorn.

I'm sorry to report, Donald's World, was a disappointment. What killed the show the most was the artificial ending. I'm certain the former president is as much to blame as Producer, Sean Hannity and Director, Bill O'Reilly (who was forgiven and rehired to direct). The facts of history can't be changed just to give a story a happy ending—a convicted serial felon and a remorseless habitual liar being sent to prison perhaps for the rest of his life is not a happy ending. I don't care how it's spun.

One thing I think needs mention is the clever editing of the series. The editor, who wishes to remain anonymous for professional reasons, worked tirelessly with the show's scriptwriters, to maintain as true as possible a sense of real time. As a result, the parts of many characters had to be truncated, drastically shortened or eliminated altogether, because so many high-level White House staffers and cabinet members were fired or "forced to resign." during the late administration.

It was at this point that I suddenly woke up. Startled and disoriented, I was mostly sad—I really had wanted to see more, especially the former-president's adjustment to his new life in prison.

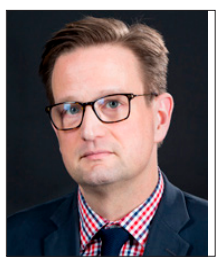
WHAT TWO REPUBLICANS TELL US ABOUT TODAY'S GOP



The experience of two Republican lawmakers from Pennsylvania - a state that President Donald Trump won in 2016, and one that remains critical to his reelection chances - tells us a lot about the state of the GOP in 2019.

First up, there's Pat Toomey, the Keystone State's junior senator. If Pennsylvania voters know one thing about Toomey, it's that he frequently plays it cagey, waiting until the last moment until he goes public on a big issue.

That's what happened in 2016, when Toomey refused to say whether he'd vote for then-candidate Trump.

Locked in a tight re-election race, Toomey made disapproving noises in the direction of the Republican nominee, feeling like a "no," only to announce, at the final second, that he'd voted for Trump anyway.

The outrage over that bait-and-switch was huge. Toomey had positioned himself as an independent thinker, only to fall in line and do something so predictably Republican that it dinged his credibility at home.

Toomey finds himself at a similar point again this week, now that the majority-Democrat House, with some Republican support, has approved a resolution nullifying Trump's executive end run around Congress on the border wall.

As in 2016, Toomey has been publicly indecisive, saying that while he "continues to believe that the president's $5.7 billion border wall funding request was reasonable ... [he] hoped this dispute would have been resolved through the legislative process. I am concerned about the president's emergency declaration, and am still considering how I will vote on a resolution of disapproval."

You can forgive some Pennsylvania voters for being skeptical about Toomey's sincerity. The chances are good that he'll probably end up voting with his fellow Republicans here.

Which brings us to the case of Toomey's fellow Pennsylvanian, Rep. Brian Fitzpatrick, who represents one of those classically moderate suburban Philadelphia districts you've heard so much about.

Fitzpatrick, who was reelected in 2018 in a part of the state where Democrats cleaned up, has emerged as a principled voice of opposition to the Trump White House.

He voted with Democrats this week on the nullification resolution and a bill that would require universal background checks on all gun purchases.

He also joined with Democratic members of the state's Congressional delegation and Democratic Sen. Bob Casey to ask the Pentagon to fully explain how money being diverted to the wall would affect about $200 million in military construction projects back home.

As the House geared up for that nullification vote, Fitzpatrick uttered perhaps some of the most consequential words by a Republican in this young Congress.

Explaining his looming "no" vote, Fitzpatrick said his action was "much bigger than any one issue, and any one president. This is about the Constitution, the separation of powers, and about setting precedents that apply equally to all future Congresses and all future presidents."

Fitzpatrick is a former FBI agent. He's a straight-shooter. And that's about as clear-eyed a statement of principle that you're going to find in the Washington swamp.

It's also a roadmap for Toomey and other Republicans who might be on the fence about voting against the president on his likely unconstitutional power grab.

After two years of slumber, many members of Congress have admirably woken up and remembered that not only are they members of a co-equal branch of government, they're members of a superior branch of government, and reclaimed the powers and prerogatives that go along with that.

Toomey, who can be thoughtful and deliberative when the occasion arises, also likes to fancy himself a creature of the Senate and a defender of the institution.

He could decide that the Constitution and precedent win out over the White House not getting its way on what, really, is a simple budget vote.

A lot of eyes will be on Toomey in the coming days as the Senate gets ready for its mandatory nullification vote. If he's smart, Toomey will have one eye on Fitzpatrick, who's providing smart Republicans with a way forward.

Even if they don't regain the House in 2020, more Fitzpatrick-style Republicans could help the GOP reclaim something even more important. Its soul.
