SIERRA MADRE COMMUNITY ORGANIZATION PROFILE:

Kiwanis Club of Sierra Madre - Established 1927

Have you ever wondered what community organizations do with their time and their town? One such club in town is Kiwanis. Did you know that the primary purpose of a Kiwanis Club is children? This ideology is the very heart of Kiwanis of Sierra Madre. The Annual Boot n Scootin Chili Cook Off is one of our biggest fund raisers. One of the activities this event supports is the ImaginArt program at The Creative Arts Group right here in Sierra Madre. If your child attends Sierra Madre Elementary School, then they partake in this outstanding program.

I spent some time with Kristin Naran, Executive Director of the Creative Arts Group to find out how this program works. The program really acts like a field trip with each class walking to Creative Arts. Grades 1-5 are given a project to complete. I was able to observe a Fourth Grade class which was putting the final touches on their project: Effigy pots. Each student was focused and engaged in their task.

Certain skills are taught at each grade level in order to develop the skills for future projects. These projects are tied to things they study in school. Cathy, one of the teacher's working with Fourth Graders effigy pots, gave them information on American History as well as the History of the America's regarding the meaning of their project. The children learned the importance of animal spirits among Native American's as well as cultures in Latin America. The term "whimsy" was given as the focal point of their project. Each child is given a slab of clay to be worked and rolled into a vessel. They then choose a "whimsical" animal to attach to their vessel. The skill of waxing the bottom is taught which keeps the bottom of the vessel from absorbing the paint. The object is then fired. While I observed this class they were being taught to make colors with which to glaze their effigy. All of the objects made by the various classes are on display at their Children's Art Show in May.

The teacher's of the class I observed were remarkable. Cathy, is a teacher in public school and Susie is a local artist who works with ceramics. Some of the completed projects on display were the First Grade project was a clay cut out of their hand, attached to a slab, textured in the background, and painted. The Third Grade makes witches. They, too, started with a slab of clay that they learned to roll and shape the body, add pieces to make each witch unique, glaze and fire. I was amazed at how original and well done these witches were. Truly amazing.

Kiwanis helps sponsor this program by holding the annual Chili Cook Off event. Peter Dills, a local food critic, judges the chili offered by the contestants. Every person who attends, also gets to vote for their favorite. Awards are given out later in the evening. Henry Duenas will be the D.J. He plays wonderful music as well as his fine dance troop who teaches everyone to line dance. You know you've always wanted to learn, right? There is a no host bar serving soft drinks, beer and wine. We can't forget the Silent Auction! We are putting together some wonderful items for you to bid on.

Tickets can be purchased at Savor the Flavor as well as by calling 626-355-3222. Each ticket is $30.00. The event is held at the Sierra Madre Recreational Center, May 11, 2019 from 6:00 P.M. to 10:00 P.M. Applications to enter the chili cook off are available by calling 626-355-3222.

Kiwanis is active at almost every event held in Sierra Madre. Stop by their booth during these events. There could be a raffle or a great emergency radio to buy not to mention information about Kiwanis. We succeed because of your donations. Any donation is welcome. Remember, pennies make dollars.

CITY COUNCIL SET TO REORGANIZE APRIL 9TH

New Mayor and Mayor Pro Tem to be Selected

Mayor Denise Delmar

In accordance to the action taken by the Sierra Madre City Council on February 26, 2019 the annual reorganization and rotation of the Mayor will take place on Tuesday, April 9. 2019.

The selection of Mayor and Mayor Pro Tem was originally scheduled to take place on the second meeting in April each year.

At that time, the council also approved the consolidation of the local municipal election with the County to coincide with Statewide elections, which will extend the terms of the current Council Members by approximately 6 months.

John Harabedian, Mayor Pro Tem

Currently, all five members of the City Council have already served as both Mayor and Mayor Pro Tem. If the council follows the traditional method of selecting the city's next Mayor, Mayor Pro Tem will be elected Mayor for the second time.

The Council meeting will be held at City Hall at 6:30 pm on Tuesday, April 9, 2019

"MISSION: RENAISSANCE-DEDICATED TO HELPING CREATE A BETTER, MORE AESTHETIC WORLD..." -Larry Gluck

Story by Rebecca Wright/MVNews

You may not have noticed this studio in Sierra Madre, right next to Starbucks in Kersting Court, but you should. You'll be surprised at what happens there. Lives are literally being transformed through art! Larry Gluck, the founder of Mission Renaissance, believed that anyone could create beautiful works of art, if only they were given the correct tools. Gluck was a classically trained artist; the Master he studied under, Giuseppe Trotta, had been a classmate of Picasso's, and when Gluck's business venture in the Virgin Islands fell through, he turned to painting to support himself and Sheila, his wife. He became quite famous in the Virgin Islands. His paintings hung in hotels, restaurants, and some were even used in the menus on the cruise liners that passed through. When he and Sheila returned to the United States with their children, they opened an art school, Mission: Renaissance.

Gluck's own experience in art school had nearly dissuaded him from becoming an artist, and so he wanted to make sure that his own operated differently. His first students came to his home, 100 a week, to learn. By teaching them and seeing where those without "innate talent" struggled, Gluck was able to develop the Gluck Method. This method was a step by step examination of the underlying skills, or tools, that go into creating a work of art. Students armed with this knowledge did not need to have "talent" to be able to create beautiful art. On the contrary, even those who felt that they were hopeless could learn how to translate the images in their head onto the paper or the canvas. Gluck believed this so strongly that he authored a book, The Talent Myth, detailing his thoughts and experiences around the matter.

Gluck was highly involved in Mission: Renaissance until the end of his life. From 1975 to 2016 he worked with students and other instructors, helping them to refine particular skills. One popular part of the program involves duplicating famous works. Gluck wanted his students to do this so they could study the practical application of different techniques. If a student could duplicate a Monet painting, for example, that student could then use some of Monet's famous techniques in their own works.

Today, Gluck's work continues. Classes are taught in a group setting, but each student gets individual attention. Students are able to see what others are doing, so that they can see the different focuses in the Gluck Method and so that they can see what they will be doing further down the road. In an average week, 4000 hours' worth of classes are taught, and the studios see between 2500 and 3200 students, both children and adults.

Classes are also designed to be accessible to everyone. There are 16 different locations, four in Orange county and 12 more spread from the San Fernando Valley to the San Gabriel Valley, to the West Side. There are even online options for those who cannot make it to a studio. Students opting for the online option can either stream classes or purchase DVDs and workbooks. The sister studio, Art Time, in Monrovia offers a hybrid approach, using iPads instead of reference books. All that a prospective student needs is a creative imagination. The Gluck Method will provide the rest.

For those going into studios, classes are normally an hour and a half per week, but Mission: Renaissance keeps school schedules in mind and offers different camps during breaks. These camps feature classes anywhere from two and a half hours to four and a half hours long. Mission: Renaissance even offered an impromptu camp during the LA Teacher's Strike.

In addition to art, Mission: Renaissance also helps students gain confidence. Each class closes out with an optional art show. Students who want to are able to come up and show their classmates a newly completed piece and discuss some of their favorite parts about creating it. Many parents have seen their own, normally shy, children excitedly stand up and share.

Air Quality Monitoring for Devil's Gate

On a motion by Supervisor Kathryn Barger, Tuesday the Board of Supervisors has approved a plan to provide air quality monitoring for the Devil's Gate Reservoir Restoration Project.

In conjunction with the Community Advisory Committee, Supervisor Barger is working with the La Cañada Flintridge Parents for Healthy Air, the California Air Resources Board (CARB), and the South Coast Air Quality Management District (AQMD) to adopt strategies to address the concerns surrounding air quality, environmental health, traffic, and the safety of diesel trucks.

The motion directs the Department of Public Works to retain a consultant to identify and place air quality monitoring devices at the project site and work with CARB and AQMD to interpret the data. The results will be made public and used to evaluate any potential next steps.

"Public safety and health continues to be our top priority, and I appreciate the input of our community and concerned parents who have been instrumental in the development of this important air quality monitoring strategy," said Supervisor Barger.

Council to Look at YWCA Building Uses

The Pasadena city council is set to discuss, Monday night, the redevelopment of the long vacant YWCA building and other city-owned parcels in the historic Civic Center.

According to the city staff report and analysis conducted by professional consultants, "The economic analysis indicates that while the YWCA building is appealing and historically significant, it is expected to cost more to rehabilitate than the revenues from any of the reuse options studied will support. The analysis therefore focused on whether there is sufficient additional building area under the various scenarios to generate sufficient revenues to support the rehabilitation of the YWCA."

Possible uses identified in the staff report include:

• Hotel reuse of the YWCA site is possibly feasible but would rely on aggressive revenue projections and the ability to provide parking offsite. Note: the analysis did not consider the payment of ground rent.

• Reuse as private office at both the YWCA site and the Water & Power site is likely feasible if subterranean parking can be minimized and/or offsite parking available.

• Reuse of the YWCA as City offices is possible but is estimated to initially cost 20 percent - 50 percent more than current City leasing costs per square foot (without and with subterranean parking, respectively) Note: This translates to a financial gap of $23.4 million assuming all off-site City offices were relocated to the Building.

• Reuse of the vacant Water & Power site as offices for the Water & Power Department and perhaps one other department depending on setback, is possible but is estimated to initially cost 10 percent - 30 percent more than current City leasing costs per square foot (without and with subterranean parking, respectively) Note: This translates to a financial gap of $3.5 million.

• Market-rate residential reuse of the YWCA site is feasible if subterranean parking can be minimized and/or offsite parking available.

• Affordable housing reuse of the YWCA site would be a function of public funds available to support such reuse. Initial estimates suggest such reuse could require $20 - $36 million in public funds.

The city council meets at 6:30 p.m. Monday in the Council Chamber, Pasadena City Hall 100 North Garfield Avenue, Room S249.

County to Streamline Homeless Services

The Board of Supervisors has approved a motion by Supervisors Kathryn Barger and Hilda L. Solis Tuesday directing county agencies to develop a plan to streamline contracting processes with local cities to ensure more efficient delivery of homeless services and resources through Measure H.

"Combatting the crisis of homelessness in Los Angeles County is a task that cannot be tackled by one entity alone," Supervisor Barger said. "Just as every individual's experience of homelessness is unique, the set of solutions created to address the issue, as well as the stakeholders involved in implementing those solutions, must be appropriately comprehensive."

Los Angeles County is currently collecting and allocating an unprecedented level of resources to combat homelessness. Distributing these resources has met some challenges in the contracting process. There are also opportunities to improve communication and data sharing mechanisms with cities, Continuums of Care, and Councils of Governments.

"Today's Board motion will streamline the way the County contracts with our cities in the delivery of local homeless services, and it will improve the County's communication with cities," Supervisor Solis said. "Enhanced communications and a streamlined contracting process will lead to innovative Countywide solutions that will allow us to offer our most vulnerable residents permanent housing."

Today's action directs the CEO Homeless Initiative and the Los Angeles Homeless Services Authority to enhance their efforts to engage cities and Continuums of Care and to support their unique solutions including prevention, rapid rehousing, outreach, and enhanced services for transitional age youth.

There will be a report back in 45 days with recommendations on the enhancement, including regular listening sessions and communication mechanisms for a meaningful exchange of information, including city-level data on Measure-H funded services.

CHU STATEMENT ON THE DREAM AND PROMISE ACT

Judy Chu joined fellow Democrats last week to co-sponsor H.R. 6, the Dream and Promise Act of 2019 to provide protection from deportation and work authorization for Dreamers as well as Temporary Protected Status (TPS) and Deferred Enforced Departure (DED) holders. Rep. Chu issued the following statement:

"This is an historic day. With the introduction of the Dream and Promise Act, the new Democratic majority is proudly acting on our of top priorities, creating a pathway for Dreamers, TPS, and DED holders to continue to contribute and work in our country with dignity and security. For many of these individuals, America is the only home they've ever known. We know that they are American in every way and do not deserve to be used as hostages in political games by a xenophobic president.

"As the Chair of the Congressional Asian Pacific American Caucus (CAPAC), I know that this bill is particularly important to the Asian American and Pacific Islander (AAPI) community. Seventy percent of Asian Americans are immigrants. Although AAPIs make up six percent of the entire U.S. population, we are 16 percent of the undocumented in this country. That means there are 1.6 million undocumented Asian Americans who urgently need relief from the President's xenophobic threats to tear apart immigrant families. This includes community organizers, artists, activists, scientists, and more. These young people are the future of our nation. They have grown up here, learned here, contributed here, and planned their futures here. Deporting them now simply because they were born someplace else would tear apart communities and rob us of talent and passion. I'm proud to be an original cosponsor this important bill."

Over 150 Distracted Driving Citations Issued on April 1

Officers assigned to Pasadena Police Department's Traffic Section conducted enforcement at various locations, which ran from 6 a.m. to 2 p.m. The program netted a total of 165 citations, 89 of which were for texting and driving. Twenty-four people were cited for failing to use a hands-free device while talking on a cell phone. Fifty-two people were cited for other violations observed by officers during the operation, and one person was found to be driving unlicensed. The Vehicle Code prohibits texting while driving. Examples of this are in-car Bluetooth systems that connect to a cell phone held in place by a cup holder or other device to keep a phone secure.

KATIE Tse.....This and That

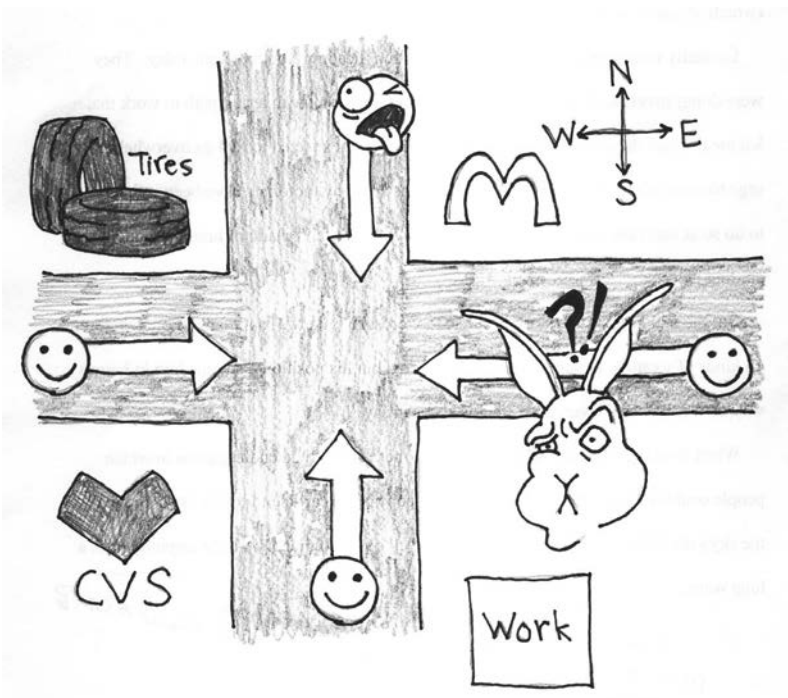
CONTAGIOUS STUPIDITY

No, this isn't an article on politics. This one's about driving. I'll be the first to admit I'm not the world's greatest driver. I attribute this to my being short. You see, no one designs cars with 4' 10" people in mind. At that height you can't even see the end of your hood. Makes parallel parking a bit rough. That's my excuse, anyway. I'd rather park a mile away than risk skinning the side off my vehicle, or anyone else's.



One thing I have down though is right of way. That I understand. That I can do. But it's become apparent to me that that's not the case for some people on the south-bound lane of a street by my work.

It's an easy concept: if it's a green light in both directions, traffic going straight or right has the right of way. Left-bound traffic doesn't. Simple. Apparently not so simple for people whose commute takes them south-bound on a certain street in Alhambra Monday through Friday. (See diagram)

Thank God I've never been in any seriously close calls with these people, but I've had the occasional tense moment. Even pedestrians aren't safe. The rule's supposed to be that if a pedestrian is in the crosswalk, traffic is supposed to wait until they've crossed. Not so with the drivers by my work. Good luck with that one!

It makes you wonder how this trend in stupidity got started. Because that's the thing --they don't ignore traffic laws everywhere in Alhambra. They don't even consistently do it on that one street. It's just South-bound drivers who seem to toss laws and safety to the wind.

My theory is that one or two nincompoops erred in their use of left turns on their commutes, other drivers noticed, and people just assumed that this misbehavior was acceptable. It would be interesting to put this to the test and see if the same people who turn left against oncoming North-bound traffic do the same thing when pointed in the opposite direction. I swear, the problem seems to be limited to that one intersection (which of course means it could be a lot worse!).

I actually found myself in this very spot, heading South the other day. They were doing street work in San Gabriel, and I had to take a meandering route to work that led me through those fateful cross streets. Somehow I expected to feel an overwhelming urge to randomly make an illegal turn, seeing as so many motorists have been influenced to do so at that very place. But no such impulse overtook me. I made it through in one law-abiding piece.

But the real hero of this story is our crossing guard. That man not only endures all kinds of weather, at ungodly hours of the day, but his position also puts him in harm's way on a daily basis. Nerves of steel, that's all I can say.

When thinking about contagious stupidity, there seem to be endless areas in which people could be influenced. I've limited the scope of this article to traffic laws, but really the sky's the limit, I suppose. Better to not dwell on it too much. A little stupidity goes a long way.

WALKING SIERRA MADRE by Deanne Davis

"AGE IS A NUMBER AND MINE IS UNLISTED."

"Age is strictly a case of mind over matter. If you don't mind, it doesn't matter."
Jack Benny
"Aging seems to be the only available way to live a long life."
Daniel Francois Esprit Auber
"Birthdays are good for you. Statistics show that the people who have the most live the longest."
Rev. Larry Lorenzoni

Yes, it was my birthday this past week. And, yes, I was 29 again. I've been 29 now quite a few times but like age, as mentioned above, how many times I've done that is unlisted. I remember turning thirty and crying because I wasn't young anymore. Turning forty, I threw a tremendous party and invited all the splendid people I knew, including our oldest daughter, Leah, who was unable to attend as her son, Michael, was down with a raging case of chicken pox. I remember saying at the time that I was never going to do anything I didn't want to do, ever again. Probably the funniest thing I ever said as life just doesn't work that way. When I turned fifty my darling husband, John, and our daughter, Patti, threw a fabulous surprise party for me at our favorite restaurant, the dearly departed Burger Continental on Lake. Birthdays after that are sort of a blur but I have to say that each birthday has been a time of happiness, even these last couple which I have gotten through without my best friend and walking buddy, John. According to AARP, we get progressively happier with our lives. I think this is true. Our joints may be stiffer, it may be harder to get up and down and we eschew very low chairs as we will have to be assisted out of them, which is embarrassing, but with a wonderful family that I love, a home that brings me joy, work that delights me – yes, I do have a new book almost ready for publication – I am happy. I hope that each of your birthdays brings you increased happiness, too.

Speaking of happiness, Sierra Madre this past weekend has never been more beautiful with flowering plum trees in almost every yard – my son-in-law, Chuck, who knows the real name of every flowering anything says these are "Tabebuia." They are magnificent, whatever you call them. There are masses of purple groundcover flowing over walls; our own personal mountains are a succulent green, the topiary horse on Grandview just east of Baldwin is gorgeous and everywhere I looked there was something beautiful to see. What an exquisite town we live in! And just in case you didn't know, Sierra Madre has been ranked the 5th safest city in California. Nice!

"It is better to sit in a boat thinking about God than to sit in a church thinking about fishing."
"There is always time for one more cast." Homer Circle

Leah and I went to take a look at the Huck Finn Fishing Derby on Saturday morning and were delighted to see dozens of tents where families camped overnight and scores of children fishing with their moms and dads. I took this picture of Bryant who was just successfully hauling in a piece of lake bottom plant but on closer inspection, we saw that he had caught three really big fish, each at least a foot long, there in the water right beside him.

The Huck Finn Fishing Derby and Campout is an annual event hosted by the Community Services Department and is a terrific opportunity for families to experience camping and fishing without having to drive hundreds of miles. The day was perfect for this, in the low 80s, sunny, blue skies and plenty of fish being caught.

I'm thinking that everyone did something delicious with their fish as there's nothing tastier than fresh fish. Here's one to try the next time you catch trout, which is a delicate fish with great flavor so it doesn't need too many ingredients to enhance it. So, a large skillet on your stove top with olive oil and a little butter, garlic, lemon juice, white wine and fresh parsley. That's it. As trout fillets are usually pretty thin, you don't want to overcook them. This whole recipe, start to finish is less than 30 minutes and you'll end up with an incredible meal. Throw in a salad and some garlic bread and you can call it a feast!

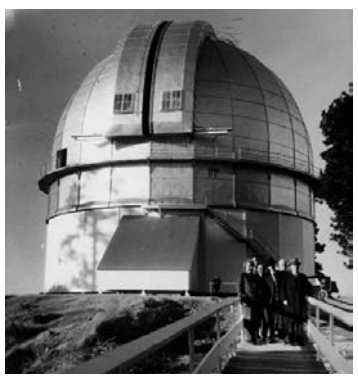
Huntington and Caltech Launch Research Institute



The Huntington Library, Art Collections, and Botanical Gardens and Caltech announced the launch of a new research institute focused specifically on the history of science and technology. Positioned to become the preeminent institute of its kind in the western United States, the Caltech-Huntington Advanced Research Institute in the History of Science and Technology will extend collaborative historical research between a premier science and engineering university and a premier research library with extraordinary holdings in the history of science and technology.

"The Huntington is already an important center for the study of the history of science," said Steve Hindle, W. M. Keck Foundation Director of Research at The Huntington. "This new institute is a collaboration that will strengthen existing activities, add new programs, recruit additional research fellows, and ultimately lead to the appointment of new faculty. I am delighted that it will emphasize support for younger scholars in particular. The creation of the institute represents a significant step forward for this critical area of intellectual pursuit." The history of science is the subset of history that focuses on the development of scientific knowledge over time. "This discipline," said Hindle, is "essentially the study of how we came to know what we know—by learning about the rise of science, and especially about its social and cultural impact."

The initial phase of the program, slated to begin in the summer is an annual residential institute that will provide doctoral students with the opportunity to conduct research in The Huntington's collections and interact not only with each other but also with a cadre of experienced historians of science and technology from Caltech and other institutions. In the second year, the institute will add a resident senior research fellow at The Huntington and a senior visiting faculty member at Caltech to conduct seminars across Southern California. In the third year, the program will expand to include a postdoctoral fellow at Caltech as well as additional short-term visiting scholars at The Huntington. In the fourth year, a search will begin for a new faculty member in the history of science and technology at Caltech, who will ultimately oversee the institute on a permanent basis.

"Despite the fact that the world's societies are ever more dependent on scientific knowledge and technological breakthroughs, the fate of the academic discipline of the history of science and technology remains uncertain," said Jean-Laurent Rosenthal, the Rea A. and Lela G. Axline Professor of Business Economics and Ronald and Maxine Linde Leadership Chair in Caltech's Division of the Humanities and Social Sciences. "Many university history departments across the nation are shrinking as a result of declining enrollments and are often tempted to cut programs in science and technology. The Caltech-Huntington Advanced Research Institute in the History of Science and Technology aims to catalyze renewed enthusiasm for this area of inquiry and revive the critically important conversation between historians, scientists, and engineers that might serve as a model for the dialog between the humanities and the STEM disciplines."

The Huntington's history of science collection is one of the largest and most important in North America. Its diverse materials document Western practice and theory in science, medicine, technology, and a variety of subdisciplines. Holdings range widely, from a 13th-century Ptolemy Almagest manuscript (an astronomy treatise) to the papers of Edwin Hubble (1889–1953), the astronomer who discovered the universe is expanding. They also include the Carnegie Observatories' Mount Wilson Observatory Collection, with more than 1,000 books on the history of astronomy and physics, as well as directors' papers and photographic archives.

The launch of the new institute has been made possible by a generous gift from Stephen E. Rogers, a member of The Huntington's Board of Overseers and president of the Caltech Associates, a support group of the university.

Community Input Requested: Next Year's Priority Initiatives

The San Marino budget process for Fiscal Year 2019-2020 is currently underway, and City Council is considering what special projects – or priority initiatives – staff should dedicate time and/or financial resources to (in addition to their standard operating tasks) next year.

Using the City's 8 "Critical Success Factors" as a framework, City Council has identified 21 initiative ideas to consider further. These 21 options are still in the idea phase; they are not fully fleshed out plans. Before making any final decisions and turning them into fully planned initiatives, City Council is interested in hearing which initiative ideas community members think are the most important.

If you have clarifying questions about any of the potential initiative ideas, please feel free to call us at (626) 300-0781. To take the survey visit: cityofsanmarino.org.

Boston Court's 15th Annual New Play Reading Festival

Boston Court Pasadena announced the full details of its 15th annual New Play Reading Festival, April 13-14. Curated by Literary Manager Emilie Beck, in concert with Artistic Directors Jessica Kubzansky and Michael Michetti, the New Play Reading Festival is a key component of Boston Court Pasadena's commitment to nurturing playwrights and new work, and continues the company's core mission of developing and programming works that are inherently theatrical, textually rich, and visually arresting.

This year's Festival includes Alma by Benjamin Benne, Normaler Than Everyone by Brian Joseph, Three Girls Never Learnt The Way Home by Matthew Paul Olmos, and Two Lakes, Two Rivers by Laura Jacqmin.

Last year's New Play Reading Festival included Kit Steinkellner's Ladies and E.M. Lewis' How the Light Gets In, which will both have World Premiere productions at Boston Court Pasadena during the 2019 Season.

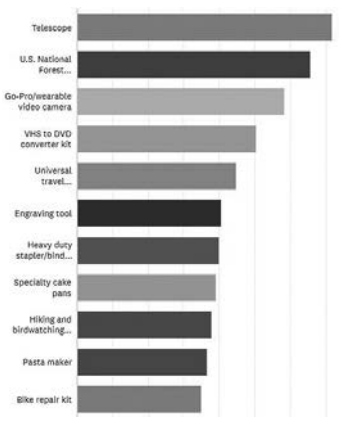
"This year each playwright has ties to Los Angeles, whether they grew up here, wrote about the city, or live here now," said Emilie Beck. "The plays show hidden experiences that happen behind closed doors. They shine light on the most personal decisions and heart-wrenching relationships. The New Play Reading Festival offers us the opportunity to meet new works and writers, and to explore forms that we haven't yet considered, and this year's slate includes a more intimate naturalistic play, and a one-person musical, as well as the theatricality that our audiences have come to expect from us. We're thrilled to share these scripts with our community."

Since Boston Court Pasadena opened in 2003, the theater has mounted 63 productions, 34 of which have been world premieres – 18 of those world premieres were first discovered as part of the New Play Reading Festival.

In addition to the readings, on Sunday, April 7 at 5pm, there will be a free preview of the Festival including a discussion of what makes a "Boston Court Pasadena play" and an inside look at the play development process. Literary Manager Emilie Beck and Artistic Directors Jessica Kubzansky and Michael Michetti will be joined by some of the festival playwrights for a lively discussion and an audience Q&A.

The New Play Reading Festival is open to the public and free-of-charge, but reservations are recommended. Information and reservations are available online at bostoncourtpasadena.org, by calling 626-683-6801.

South Pasadena Library to Launch 'Library of Things'



A strong public response from was received by the Library as 286 voters responded to the survey asking for suggestions on the non-book items that community members would like to be able to check out with their library cards. The survey is part of a Library pilot project that's on the City of South Pasadena FY 2018/2019 Strategic Plan. During April 2019 the staff will be developing procedures and drafting policy while ordering the most voted for items. The practical, handy items will be first available for checkout from the Library on May 1.

More than 100 different items received at least 1 vote in the survey and 12 of the most popular items will be made available. In order of preference, they are a telescope, a National Forest Recreation Pass, a Go/Pro wearable video camera, a VHS to DVD converter kit, a universal travel adaptor kit, an engraving tool, a heavy duty binding stapler, specialty cake pans, a hiking and birdwatching kit, a pasta maker, and a bicycle repair kit (including a pump).

The Library will also be providing a basic household tool kit, as many votes were split among various common tools. Borrowers will need to be responsible for the items they check out to be returned in good working order -- and to return the 'things', just as would be the case for a book, a DVD, or a CD.

If the 'Library of Things' pilot project is successful, the collection is expected to be expanded and other items that did not make the first cut could be added. These include a soldering iron, a steam cleaner, a power sprayer, a paint roller, and a dolly. It's anticipated that the community would be surveyed again for the next round of 'things' for the Library collection. But despite the vote it received, a chainsaw will probably not be in the Library's collection anytime soon. Nevertheless, the Library is thankful for all the community's suggestions.

Borrowing from a 'Library of Things' is one way of participating in the Sharing Economy. It's also a sustainable, money-saving practice. To start the operation, the Library will be drawing on its strengths of acquisition, circulation, and circulation in order to help community members to have free access to useful items that they may only want once a year or during a certain season or project.

CITY OF MONROVIA ACCEPTING APPLICATIONS FOR YOUTH EMPLOYMENT SERVICES PROGRAM

MONROVIA, CA – The City of Monrovia will begin accepting applications for this year's Youth Employment Services (YES) Summer Internship on Thurs-day, April 4.

The redesigned YES Summer Internship gives Monrovia's youth the oppor-tunity to be part of a thoughtful, enriching and premier experience. Staff mem-bers from various city departments will become mentors to the interns, giving them an inside look at what it is like to be a part of the daily operations in local government.

"The YES Summer Internship helped me development needed skills to func-tion at any job," said Jayden Saldana, former intern and student at Citrus Col-lege. "Being employed in City government allowed me to see an insider's pro-spective of how different departments work together to provide a premier qual-ity of life."

The City is also partnering with Oak Crest Institute of Science, Centre Stage, Boys and Girls Club of the Foothills and the Monrovia Chamber of Commerce, so interns can obtain valuable, real life work experience with local businesses and organizations. Additionally, the interns will attend weekly professional de-velopment workshops and trainings.

A few of the workshops and trainings includes:

- Résumé Building Workshop: After obtaining valuable work experience from the program, YES Interns will learn how to thoughtfully put those skills onto paper. City staff will be available to assist interns draft eye-catching résumés to impress their future em-ployers.
- Job Opportunities in City Government: From firefighter to engineer, a career in local government is an exciting one! Human Resources personnel will present the unique opportunities in the agency and the proper trainings and education needed to obtain the jobs.
- Financial Literacy: Receiving the first paycheck may be exciting, but also confus-ing. The Finance Division will share what to expect from the first paycheck including deductions such as Federal Income Taxes, State Taxes, Workers' Compensation and Med-icare. Additionally, interns will be educated on the values of setting up a checking and savings account.
- College Admission's Panel: For a young student, thinking of a future after high school can be overwhelming and challenging. The College Admission's Panel will include speakers from both colleges and trade schools, allowing interns to see that there are many different routes to success after graduation.
- Civic Leader's Panel: City staff in management roles will share how they advanced their careers through their networks, life experiences and education. Interns will have the opportunity to engage in a Q&A with various city leaders, including the City Manager.

Throughout the internship, each YES Intern will be tasked with developing a summer project to improve one area of the operation to which they are as-signed. Their ideas for improvement are then presented at the end of the summer program in a formal board-room type environment.

The internship is a nine-week period from June 10 to Aug. 10. Those who are interested in applying for the position can visitwww.cityofmonrovia.org/jobs.

CHRISTOPHER Nyerges "THE LORD OF THE FLIES"

[Nyerges has led wilderness and wild food field trips for over 40 years. He is the author of numerous books, including "How to Survive Anywhere," "Extreme Simplicity," "Guide to Wild Foods," and others. Questions about his classes and books can be directed to www.SchoolofSelf-Reliance.com or Box 41834, Eagle Rock, CA 90041.]

A plane crashes on some remote island, and only the British school children survive. A classic story of survival begins. The boys –after having attended not a single "survival school" -- learn to hunt, make shelters, make fire (using Piggy's spectacles, or eye glasses), and to enjoy themselves. After all, with all the adults gone, there's no one to enforce rules, so we do what we want, right? Then the battle for power begins. One side is for some sort of orderly life, and the other side wants to live by rule of might.

"Lord of the Flies" has been widely viewed and widely discussed. What does it mean? What does it tell us about our basic human nature? Is our desire to do good and cooperate with others a skill that must be learned and maintained? Are we essentially animals who need to learn to control our animal natures?

The movie (and book) begins with the boys experiencing a sort of innocent paradise, as they swim and cavort and learn about foods in their adult-free world. The obvious need for leadership results in a vote between Ralph, who represents order and the rule of law, and Jack, who represents immediate fulfillment of desires, power, and even savagery. Ralph wins the election.

In the beginning, Ralph and Jack are not depicted as being all that different. Indeed, they are friends. Ralph is set on doing the best for all, helping the weak, making sure that everyone is fed. Jack seems more intent on his own power ambitions.

A conch shell is chosen as a sign of leadership, and an indication of who has the "floor" during meet-ings. But Jack forms his own band and moves away from Ralph. Jack chooses to disregard the blow-ing of the conch. That choice leads to further division and animosity. Eventually, the conch is destroyed when a boulder rolls onto it, symbolizing the loss of one of the symbols of their chosen civility, some-what akin to someone in a board meeting tossing the gavel out the window.

Jack's group steals Piggy's specs to make fire, another strike at cooperation and civility. Jack's group also lets the signal fire go out, showing that Jack has lost his focus of trying to get off the island.

In analyzing The Lord of the Flies, countless analogies have been used to describe the social dichotomy that it depicts, such as users vs. takers, or producers vs. consumers, or urban vs. rural, or primitive vs. civilized, etc. Perhaps it is the same old story of Cain vs. Abel, or the farmers vs. the ranchers. The sto-ry has even been used to illustrate political parties in various countries. But is it that simplistic?

Jack and his group finally devolved to the point where murder was justified. Jack and his group started to hunt Ralph. Jack's desire for total power would be solidified with the elimination of Ralph (the last op-posing force). As Jack's group chases Ralph along the beach, they all confront a force they all have to reckon with – the rescuing sailors. The sailors are tall, dressed in white, somber. It's as if the children butted up against the gods of the universe, and now the day of reckoning comes.

A group of men landed on the island and watch in amazement at the behavior of the "children". The look on the children's faces express their thoughts. Jack realizes his reign as a petty tyrant in his island em-pire is over; Ralph is relieved his life is saved, and now he'll be going back to his real home.

We see something in the childrens' faces: now they have to account for their actions to a higher power. The choices that each of us make in life have ramification that ripple through our lives. "Ralph" and "Jack" represent the choices we make. What legacy will we leave? What actions will we ultimately be ac-countable for when the sailors get to shore?

The amateur film-makers who created the original "Lord of the Flies" did so during the boys' summer va-cation. They tracked the lives of the boys who acted in this movie, and the boy-actors were all high achievers in their personal lives. The boys later related that making the movie deeply affected them. Even though it was described as "just a movie," many of the boys realized in their personal adult lives that it was far better to work hard to choose the upward, inclusive way of Ralph, rather than to ever find oneself descending into Jack-ness.

MIGRATION SENSATION

Happy Tails

by Chris Leclerc

During a recent walk with "Tatertotts", my nine-year-old black & tan bloodhound, we were enjoying the peaceful ambience of dusk, with stars slowly beginning to show their light in the sky and not another soul in sight, when she suddenly engaged in a series of intense bays, taking me very much by surprise. You see, Tater rarely ever bays or barks during our walks. She is typically too involved with sniffing out subtle scents, keeping her nose trained to the trail in hopes of tracking a furry critter, or dream-of-all-dreams finding a discarded bag of fast-food left-over's thoughtlessly tossed out by a previous passerby.

We were hiking along the short trail that begins where Sycamore Street ends in Sierra Madre, between the ball parks and the city yards. That's where the pavement turns to a dirt path surrounded by overgrown grass, floral fauna and shady oak trees. It was a great evening for a walk; the moon was full and everything seemed calm and peaceful. We were both relishing the solitude when all of a sudden, Tater stopped sniffing the ground and threw her head back, pointing her nose upward and sending her huge ears flopping wildly. She let out the loudest baritone bay I think I have ever heard from her, shattering the silence and shocking me out of my peaceful state.

Her first howl was followed by several more, before her voice slowly faded to a whimper as she became calm again and resumed her trail tracking endeavor. I looked up to see what had excited her and I saw a flock of geese flying low overhead, coming in for a landing on the water in one of the settling basins about 100 yards away. They were Canada Geese and there about 12 in the flock. As they landed one by one on the surface of the water, they made quite a splash! I thought how happy they must be to have found a water hole where they could refresh themselves and rest before continuing their journey, and how lucky I was to have been in the right place at the right time to see them fly in and land so close to where I was standing.

Canada Geese are native to North America and best known for the distinctive honking noises they make as well as the "v" flock formation they assume while migrating over the continent. The "v" formation is by no means random. It is their instinctual way of utilizing the power of wind and air foil by following behind and slightly to the side of one another to make the most of their stored energy as they travel. Geese are much larger and heavier than other types of migrating birds, therefore it takes a lot more energy for them to fly. By using the "v" formation technique they reserve energy and increase their endurance while traveling.

In the summer months, most Canada Geese reside in the Canadian region of the Arctic Circle, where they nest and raise their newborn goslings in the safety and solitude of the wilderness. Fresh snow-fed waterways and reservoirs provide them with plenty of water and food resources for the season, as they foster the bonds within their growing family and prepare for the impending multi-mile migration south. By the time Fall comes around, the temperatures in the Arctic will have dropped dramatically, and the geese have prepared themselves for the 2500 mile flight that will take them to the Gulf of Mexico, their seasonal destination.

There they spend the winter months avoiding the frost of the Arctic north. The flight south can take anywhere from 3 weeks to 2 months, depending on their point of origin and the route they follow. Male and female geese maintain a monogamous relationship with the same partner throughout their lives and raise their family as an integral unit, caring for their young until they are adults. Research has shown that familial geese will even fly closely together during the migration process, and communicate among themselves using honking calls that are unique to their own family members, to keep from being separated along the way. Fascinating, eh?

We have all heard the term "bird brain" used to refer to someone who acted stupidly. I remember hearing it as a kid, and I assumed that meant birds must be pretty stupid. Of course later in life I learned the true facts about birds and I realized that couldn't be further from the truth. The next time someone calls you a bird brain, you can take it as a compliment!

Looking into the life of the migrating goose, I was able to draw a few parallels between their sensational migration and my own personal migration or navigation through life on this earth. Let's face it, life presents some pretty difficult challenges at times, but if we take a lesson from the goose by "flying" in a way that helps those behind us keep up and stay strong, and if we support one another as a family unit and communicate clearly with each other as the geese do, I imagine we could handle the challenges of life in a similar way to how the goose handles that 2500 mile flight; with unity, strength and determination.

Observing animal behavior brings me to a higher level of understanding what life is all about. Some people think the most important thing in life is to make a lot of money and collect a lot of toys. I feel that there is much more to life than that, but I certainly don't claim to have all the answers. One thing's for sure, I do hope to be in the right place at the right time for many more close encounters with nature, such as the one Tater and I had last week with the migrating geese. Those rare moments can help teach us how to live life more fully and how to appreciate and better understand the families and loved ones we are all blessed with, and I think that is truly sensational!

TRIKES FOR GROWN-UPS

THE SAVVY SENIOR

Dear Savvy Senior:

What can you tell me about three-wheeled bicycles? I'm 65 years old and would like to start cycling again but I have some occasional balance problems and don't trust myself on a two-wheeler. What can you recommend? Ready to Ride

Dear Ready:
Three-wheeled bikes – also known as adult trikes – are a great cycling option for older adults, especially those who have concerns with their balance or stamina. Here's what you should know, along with some tips to help you shop for one.

Safer Cycling
If you'd like to take up, or continue bike riding, but worry about falling, adult trikes are a smart option to consider because of the stability they provide. With a trike, you can ride as slow as you want without ever losing your balance and you can put both feet on the ground while seated, which is very reassuring for many older riders.

In addition, adult trikes are also made with a low "step through" design making mounting and dismounting easier; they typically come with big tires that ensure a smooth ride; have ergonomic handlebars that are easy to reach and grip; and offer oversize seats (some even have backrests) for comfort and support. And, other than the frame, tricycles use the same standard components as traditional bikes do, so replacement parts are readily available, and repairs are not an issue.

There are dozens of different types of adult trikes to choose from with prices ranging anywhere from a few hundred to several thousand dollars. To help you figure out the right kind of trike that meets your needs and budget, here's a breakdown of the different styles and costs, along with some popular models to check out.

Upright Trikes
If you're primarily interested in a leisurely ride around the neighborhood for pleasure, fitness or running errands, upright trikes are a good choice. These are traditional upright-positioned tricycles that come with rear cargo baskets and limited gear options, usually ranging from one to three-speeds.

A great choice in this category is the Sun Traditional Trike (see Sun.bike/trikes) that cost between $440 and $550. Or, for a less expensive option consider the Schwinn Meridian Adult Tricycle sold at Walmart, Target or Amazon.com for around $300.

Recumbent Trikes
These are the low-to-the-ground, stretched-out frame trikes that allow you to recline with your legs positioned in front of you. Available in various styles, recumbent trikes are very comfy, easy on the back and aerodynamic which make them ideal for longer rides.

TerraTrikes (Terratrike.com) and Catrike (Catrike.com) are two of the biggest U.S. companies that make tadpole-style (the two wheels are in front) recumbent trikes. Or, see Sun Seeker (Sunseeker.bike), which sells several Delta recumbent trikes (two wheels in back) that offer a higher seat level. But be aware that recumbent trikes are much more expensive, typically ranging between $1,000 and $4,000.

E-Trikes
If you want a boost from time-to-time, electric trikes are a great option too. These trikes are hybrids that have pedals and a battery powered electric motor, so you can exercise when you want, or when you need a boost, you can let the motor assist you. A great place to find these is at ElectricTrike.com, which offer a variety of options ranging from $1,500 to $3,000. You can also find them on e-bike sites like PedegoElectricBikes.com, ProdecoTech.com and Evelo.com.

Folding Trikes
If you like to travel or if you have limited storage space, trikes that are designed to fold up to fit in tight spaces are another option. The Kent Adult Westport Folding Tricycle and Mantis Tri-Rad Folding Adult Tricycle sold at Amazon.com for around $300 are two popular options to check out.

OUT TO PASTOR

I'M REALLY ENJOYING MY NAIVETY

Someone recently said to me, "You sure are naïve." I'm not sure what the incident was about at the time, and I was a little bit hurt by that saying.

What did he mean that I am naïve? I have been giving this some thought and at this point, I remember quite a few people labeling me as naïve. Therefore, if people are right, it must be true.

Yet, is it really that bad?

Leaving the house the other day the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage said, "Drive carefully." I stopped, turned around, put my hands on my hips and said, "Wow, you just destroyed my driving. I was not planning on driving carefully." She laughed.

The secret of naivety is taking things literally. When people take things literally they usually take it out of context and it does not sound that good. When the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage says, "Drive carefully," all she is saying is "Goodbye, hope to see you later." That is all.

I do not believe for one moment she thinks I am a careless driver. I have never had a serious acci-dent in my entire driving career. Plus, I'm the one that taught her how to drive a car. Don't let that get out, it's our secret.

Being naïve can have its advantages. Most people look at the negative side of naivety and do not consider there is a positive side. Being naïve simply means that you have a very simple approach to life.

That explains me completely. I have a very simple approach to everything in my life. I do not like complicated things.

The other week I was working on my computer and having all kinds of problems with it. It was very complicated. I took it to someone to help me with it, he looked at it and said, "That's a simple fix. You sure are naïve." He did not know it at the time, but I was taking that as a compliment.

I do not want my life complicated. I love the simple things in life. If somebody cannot snicker me, they cannot snicker anybody. I am easy prey for the simplest con artist.

Walking out of Publix the other day I noticed the Girl Scouts had a table selling cookies. I tried walking by, but as I passed a little girl with big brown eyes looked at me and said, "Sir, will you…" and before she could say, "buy some cookies," I said, "Yes, give them all to me."

I enjoyed those cookies, which was a result of my naivety. Of course, when I brought all those boxes of cookies home my wife looked at me, smiled and said, "The girls got you again."

Because I am so naïve in many areas, I accept the fact that people are going to take advantage of me.

Through the years, I have learned to handle that and not let it affect me. If someone wants to take advantage of me, it says a whole lot about their life. If their life is so boring and complicated that they need to swindle me, I'm glad to help out.

I do not have to worry about my naivety because my backup plan is in full force. That backup plan keeps me from some major swindling efforts in my direction. I must say that that backup plan has been my rescue all through my life.

Of course, I am naïve. Of course, I can quickly and easily be swindled. But, and this is a big "but," my backup plan has never failed me yet. My simplicity in life has been guarded and protected by this wonderful backup plan.

I believe in the simple things in life and I know I am far from being socially sophisticated. I do not know what that even means. I just have a hard time believing that anybody would lie to me. I could write a book about all the people that have swindled me and got away with it. However, here I am as happy and naïve as ever.

I can be naïve because I have an inner focus and not so much an outward focus. What is going on around me does not change what is going on inside me. That is why I depend a lot on my "Backup Plan." This plan has been with me just about all my life and I do not know what I would do without it.

Someone once asked me, "What is this backup plan you talk about?" I smiled a very naïve smile and said most enthusiastically, "The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage is my backup plan."

If someone can snicker her, there is no help for the rest of the world's population. I would hate be-ing the person trying to snicker her!

This Backup Plan has been my salvation through all the social inadequacies I have. If it were not for her, my naivety would have destroyed me a long time ago. It is nice having a reliable backup plan.

I have found another backup plan that I can rely upon. Solomon said, "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding. In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy paths" (Proverbs 3:5-6).

My spiritual naivety is backed up by simply trusting God for everything, every day of my life. This is my spiritual backup plan.

TABLE FOR TWO by Peter Dills

TOP SHELF STEAKHOUSES IN THE AREA? YOU BET!

The standard here in the San Gabriel Valley area for Steak Houses is certainly the Arroyo Chop House in Pasadena, top-flight steaks that is for sure. When I go to a steak-oriented restaurant most of the time I am asked is it as good as The Chop House? While I think they are very good often I can make that "perfect" steak at home. Just this past week I went to the Flemings Steak House on Colorado and really really liked it! They offer a special for $53 that includes a filet and a lobster tail, I am not talking about the Sizzler size lobster this one was legit. This week I am visiting the The Derby in Arcadia, results are forthcoming.

My friend Roger Mendez says top shelf or third floor when he wants a good brand name drink when he is at a bar. Reader Bob might think I have lost my mind, but friends and readers we are moving to the high rent district today. It took me a few years to figure it out and maybe just in time. When you are at a supermarket looking for your favorite wine and frustration sets in look by price, the most expensive wines are on the "top shelf" and the bottom shelf is usually where you'll find lowest prices and you'll find me somewhere in the middle. Hopefully that has served you well for the past few years.

One of my favorites all time Champagnes is Taittinger, now the prices fluctuant faster then gas prices. Look for it around the $45 at your favorite supermarket and about $20 by the glass at your favorite restaurant, MI Piace and Parkway Grill are my go to spots. Hope you hit the lottery and can enjoy the good life!!

Please tune in every Sunday Morning to Go Country 105 FM and then right after the Angel Game I am on AM 830 KLAA.

AROUND SAN GABRIEL VALLEY

SENATOR DIANNE FEINSTEIN WEIGHS IN ON SANTA ANITA TRAGEDIES

In a letter to the state's horse racing board, Sen. Dianne Feinstein called for racing to be suspended at Santa Anita Park after the deaths of 23 horses since late December.

Feinstein asked for racing to be suspended until the cause or causes of the horse deaths can be fully investigated in her letter sent Tuesday to the California Horse Racing Board, which hours later scheduled a special meeting to consider relocat-ing races to other tracks.

"The death of a single horse is a tragedy, but as a lifelong lover of horses, I'm ap-palled that almost two dozen horses have died in just four months," Feinstein wrote in her letter.

Nearly two dozen horses have died at the Arcadia racetrack, most recently on Sunday – just two days after Santa Anita Park reopened after a nearly month-long hiatus. Racetrack officials have not been able to pinpoint any one factor causing the deaths, investigating everything from the effect of unusually heavy rain this winter on the track to race-day medication.

Before Santa Anita Park reopened, the state horse racing board discussed new rules that could ban or restrict the use of whips and riding crops. One rule that went into immediate effect reduced the use of a medication called Lasix, a diuretic that helps prevent horses from hemorrhaging.

SUPERVISOR BARGER OFFERS $10K REWARD FOR INFORMATION ON SWASTIKA VANDALISM IN SAN DIMAS

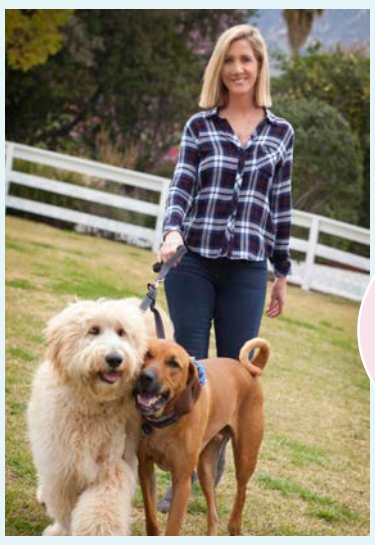
LOS ANGELES COUNTY – Supervisor Kathryn Barger will ask the Board of Su-pervisors to approve a $10,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and/or conviction of the perpetrator(s) involved in the burning of swastikas on a lawn of a residence in San Dimas.

The two 3-foot-high symbols were burned into the synthetic grass in front of a home in the 1400 block of Greenhaven Street Wednesday night or Thursday morning. Two other swastikas were burned into the pavement of West Tudor Street, about a block away.

Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department's San Dimas station is investigating and has not received any viable clues regarding this crime.

Supervisor Barger expressed deep concern over the crime and hopes her reward might encour-age witnesses to come forward and provide information to this investigation. "These are bla-tant symbols of hate and violence that have a serious and troubling impact on everyone in our community," she said. "Those responsible should be held fully accountable for their actions."

Supervisor Barger encourages anyone with information about this crime to contact Sergeant Rob Galbraith at (909) 450-2700.



Spring is here!

RACING RETURNS TO SANTA ANITA AND ANOTHER TRAGEDY

By Joan Schmidt

Racing resumed at Santa Anita on Friday March 29, and all went well. It was great to have trumpeter Jay Cohen back after three months, out with Bell's Palsy. It's been a long hard journey to recovery for him.

Sixty-two horses went out that day and all returned. A sigh of relief. Victor Espinosa got his first win on St. John's Bay. Other notable weekend wins were Tyler Baze on Epical, Ruben Fuentes on Ohio, and Geovanni Franco on Secret Spice.

` However, tragedy did strike on Sunday, March 29. Arms Runner fell on the dirt track crossover, and had to be euthanized. Another horse, La Sardane, tripped over Arms Runner, but got up and was okay. This was the 23rd death since this Meet began on December 23.

There have been changes: medication-the amount of lasix given on the racing day has been reduced, and elimination of other drugs on racing days, and use of the whip unless in danger.

There are so many theories why there are so many deaths. I believe the main one has to be the amount of rain. Del Mar had trouble in 2016, and they redid their track. People have pointed out that the deaths occurred in different track areas, some during training.

Prior to the races, I visited with Fernanda, wife of Tiago Periera and their precious daughter, Valentina. They're from Brazil, and Fernanda is actually a Vet who loves animals, especially horses. It's a difficult time for all the workers at the track, not for just the Jockeys, but all those whose livelihood depends on it. My former student's mom is a Hostess at Frontrunner and I know this is affecting her. I saw in the Pasadena Paper that Senator Feinstein and Congresswoman Chu want to ban horseracing from California. Do they have any idea of what the repercussions would be to workers in the Industry, let alone to the local economy? Before any decisions can be made, the complete autopsies of the horses need to be carefully reviewed. I would like to know the death rate of horses at all other tracks.

Washington, DC – Today, Rep. Adam Schiff (D-Burbank) announced that he will host the annual Congressional Art Competition Forum & Exhibit for the 28th District, featuring students' artwork from the 28th Congressional District on Monday, April 15, 2019. The Congressional Art Competition receives submissions from all across the country. The winner from each Congressional District has their work displayed in the U.S. Capitol for one year. This year, 47 students from 23 schools participated in the competition.

In addition, for the last several years, Rep. Schiff hosts a "People's Choice" award, which will be decided through an online vote. To vote for the "People's Choice," constituents should go to Rep. Schiff's website under Art Competition. Voting will be open Tuesday, April 2nd through Thursday, April 11th. To Vote go to: https://schiff.house.gov/help/art-competition

Schiff said. "I'm also excited to see which piece of art our community members choose to win the 'People's Choice' pick, so don't forget to visit my website and vote!"

The Congressional Art Competition began in 1982 to provide the opportunity for Mem-bers of Congress to encourage and recognize the artistic talents of their young constitu-ents. Since then, hundreds of thousands of high school students have participated in the nationwide competition.

It's that time of year to support our wonderful letter carriers in their nationwide "Stamp Out Hunger" food collection event! This event is the largest single-day food drive and is scheduled in May each year to help keep food pantries stocked during the summer months when the kids are home all day from school!

This event is a great opportunity for youth and adult volunteers! Last year, over 300 volunteers assisted letter carriers by unloading, sorting and packing food at participating local post offices. Foothill Unity Center, Inc. received over 200,000 pounds of food from this event!

THE PLAINS ACROSS: THE OVERLAND EMIGRANTS AND THE TRANS-MISSISSIPPI WEST, 1840-1860 by John D. Unruh
The Plains Across became an instant standard work in western trail literature after it first appeared in 1979. It won seven awards, including the John H. Dunning Prize from the American Historical Association and the Billington Book Award from the Organization of American Historians. Reviewers termed it "majesterial," "rich in anecdote," "sparklingly written," "best book yet written on the overland journey," and "a milestone in western historical scholarship." Unruh died at age thirty-nine, three years before the book was published.Unruh deals with the over-landing experience thematically but in semi-chronological order. He looks at the climates of public opinion that developed regarding overlanding, first for the 1840–48 period and then for the 1849–60 era. Then, he assesses migrants' motivations. Significant chapters deal with interaction between emigrants and Indians and in-teraction between wagon trains. He also discusses the private enterprisers who helped service the overland travel—including Mormon ferry operations. The Plains Across has become one of the standard works that must be consulted by anyone who seriously studies the California, Oregon, and Mormon trail experiences; U.S. nineteenth-century migration patterns; and the prerailroad period of the American West. Its approachable style makes it useful to those who need reference material for family histories.

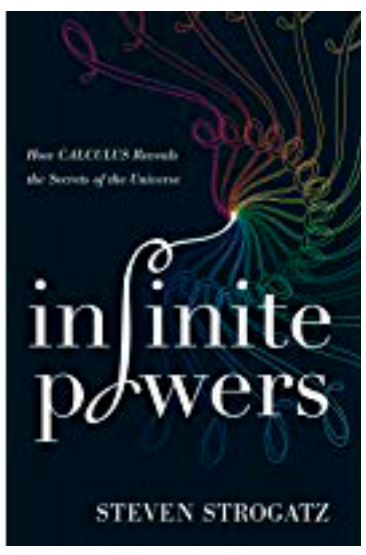
But Adam has his reasons. Within hours of his re-turn, he is beaten and accosted, confronted by his family and the women he still holds dear. No one knows what to make of Adam's return, but when bodies start turning up, the small town rises against him and Adam again finds himself em-broiled in the fight of his life, not just to prove his own innocence, but to reclaim the only life he's ever wanted. Bestselling author John Hart holds nothing back as he strips his characters bare. Secrets explode, emotions tear, and more than one person crosses the brink into deadly behavior as he examines the lengths to which people will go for money, family, and revenge. Hart holds nothing back as he strips his characters bare. Secrets explode, emotions tear, and more than one person crosses the brink into deadly behavior as he examines the lengths to which people will go for money, family, and revenge. A powerful, heart-pounding thriller, Down River will haunt your thoughts long after the last page is turned.



INFINITE POWERS: HOW CALCULUS REVEALS THE SECRETS OF THE UNIVERSE by Steven Strogatz
From preeminent math personality and author of The Joy of x, a brilliant and end-lessly appealing explanation of calculus – how it works and why it makes our lives immeasurably better. Without calculus, we wouldn't have cell phones, TV, GPS, or ultrasound. We wouldn't have unraveled DNA or discovered Neptune or figured out how to put 5,000 songs in your pocket. Though many of us were scared away from this essential, engrossing subject in high school and college, Steven Strogatz's brilliantly creative, down to earth history shows that calculus is not about complexity; it's about simplicity. It harnesses an unreal number—infinity—to tackle real world problems, breaking them down into easier ones and then reas-sembling the answers into solutions that feel miraculous. Infinite Powers recounts how calculus tantalized and thrilled its inventors, starting with its first glimmers in ancient Greece and bringing us right up to the discovery of gravitational waves (a phenomenon predicted by calculus). Strogatz reveals how this form of math rose to the challenges of each age: how to determine the area of a circle with only sand and a stick; how to explain why Mars goes "backwards" sometimes; how to make electricity with magnets; how to ensure your rocket doesn't miss the moon; how to turn the tide in the fight against AIDS. As Strogatz proves, calculus is truly the language of the universe. By unveiling the principles of that language, Infinite Powers makes us marvel at the world anew. MUSHROOMS AND BRAIN HEALTH?

Mushrooms are a much-loved ingredient in cuisines around the world. They are nutritious and especially rich in antioxidants, which protect cell health. Edible mushrooms both cultivated and wild species contain a high amount of dietary fi-ber, antioxidants, and protein, as well as vitamins and minerals. New research has found that people who integrate mushrooms into their diets even if they only con-sume them in small portions appear to have a lower risk of mild cognitive impair-ment (MCI), which often precedes Alzheimer's . As to the kinds of mushrooms, the study included four of the most commonly eaten varieties: golden, oyster, shii-take and white button. Mushrooms are rich in ergothioneine, which the human body can't produce on its own, so it's at least plausible that this compound is part of the story. Since mushrooms are already well studied for their nutrient profiles and possible links to supporting cell health and immunity, there's plenty to dig in-to here and no doubt more findings to come.

FAMILY MATTERS By Marc Garlett

3 QUESTIONS TO CONSIDER WHEN SELECTING BENEFICIARIES FOR A LIFE INSURANCE POLICY

Selecting a beneficiary for your life insurance policy sounds pretty straightforward. You're just deciding who will receive the policy's proceeds when you die, right?

But as with most things in life, it's a bit more complicated than that. Keep in mind that naming someone as your life insurance beneficiary really has nothing to do with you: It should be based on how the funds will affect the beneficiary's life once you're no longer here.

It's very likely that if you've purchased life insurance, you did so to make someone's life better or easier in some way after your death. But unless you consider all the unique circumstances involved with your choice, you might actually end up creating additional problems for the people you love.

Given the potential complexities involved, here are a few important questions you should ask yourself when choosing your life insurance beneficiary:

1. What are you intending to accomplish?
The first thing to consider is the "real" reason you're buying life insurance. On the surface, the reason may simply be because it's the responsible thing for adults to do. But I recommend you dig deeper to discover what you ultimately intend to accomplish with your life insurance.

Are you married and looking to replace your income for your spouse and kids after death? Are you single without kids and just trying to cover the costs of your funeral? Are you leaving behind money for your grandkids' college funds? Are you intending to make sure your business continues after you're gone? Or perhaps your life insurance is in place to cover a future estate-tax burden?

The real reason you're investing in life insurance is something only you can answer. The answer is critical, because it is what determines how much and what kind of life insurance you should have in the first place. And by first clearly understanding what you're actually intending to accomplish with the policy, you'll be in a much better position to make your ultimate decision—who to select as beneficiary.

2. What are your beneficiary options?

Your insurance company will ask you to name a primary beneficiary—your top choice to get the insurance money at the time of your death. If you fail to name a beneficiary, the insurance company will distribute the proceeds to your estate upon your death. If your estate is the beneficiary of your life insurance, that means a probate court judge will direct where your insurance money goes at the completion of the probate process.

And this process can tie your life insurance proceeds up in court for months or even years. To keep this from happening to your loved ones, be sure to name—at the very least—one primary beneficiary.

In case your primary beneficiary dies before you, you should also name at least one contingent (alternate) beneficiary. For maximum protection, you should probably name more than one contingent beneficiary in case both your primary and secondary choices have died before you. Yet, even these seemingly straightforward choices are often more complicated than they appear due to the options available.

For example, you can name multiple primary beneficiaries, like your children, and have the proceeds divided among them in whatever way you wish. What's more, the beneficiary doesn't necessarily have to be a person. You can name a charity, nonprofit, or business as the primary (or contingent) beneficiary.

It's important to note that if you name a minor child as a primary or contingent beneficiary (and he or she ends up receiving the policy proceeds), a legal guardian must be appointed to manage the funds until the child comes of age. This can lead to numerous complications, so you should definitely consult with an experienced Family Law attorney like us if you're considering this option.

3. Does your state have community-property laws?
If you're married, you'll likely choose your spouse as the primary beneficiary anyway. But what if you want to choose a close friend, your favorite charity, or simply the person you think needs the money most.

In California, community-property laws dictate that your spouse is entitled to the policy proceeds and will have to sign a form waiving his or her rights to the insurance money if you want to name someone else as beneficiary. Sometimes it makes sense to name your trust as the primary beneficiary instead of your spouse. If you go that route, you'll definitely want to talk to a trusted estate planning attorney before you sign anything because of the extra complications.

The team at my firm doesn't just draft documents; we guide you to make informed, educated, and empowered choices to plan for yourself and the ones you love most. Contact us today if you have any questions about life insurance or other estate planning options.

Dedicated to empowering your family, building your wealth and defining your legacy,

Marc

TAX TIME: BETTER TO LAUGH THAN CRY

Tax season is upon us, which gives us a choice: Laugh or cry. I choose to laugh. Dave Barry offers useful advice for getting through this trying time:
"It's income tax time again, Americans: time to gather up those receipts, get out those tax forms, sharpen up that pencil, and stab yourself in the aorta."
You got that right, Dave! For the sin of being self-employed, I spend hours navigating a sea of receipts, which I share with my CPA, who tells me I owe $5,000 more than I feared I would.That's why this quote from an anonymous pro athlete resonates with me:
"I want to find out who this FICA guy is and how come he's taking so much of my money."

Officially, FICA stands for the Federal Insurance Contribution Act tax, which funds Social Security, Medicare and Medicaid for some 60 million beneficiaries. Unofficially, I believe FICA is a Latin term for "hammer," and the government uses that hammer to bludgeon the self-employed who have even modest success. Herbert Hoover presided over the stock market crash that signaled the Great Depression, but he got this one right: "Blessed are the young, for they shall inherit the national debt."

In February, the U.S. posted the largest budget deficit in its history, adding to our already unimaginable debt. Somebody has to pick up that tab. And that "somebody" will be the young. Though polls show most millennials favor socialism, Dan Bennet offers hope that they'll come to their senses as those massive bills come due: "There's nothing wrong with the younger generation that becoming taxpayers won't cure."

Two quotes posted on the IRS website particularly agitated me:
"Taxes are what we pay for civilized society." - Oliver Wendell Holmes Jr., U.S. Supreme Court Justice
"The power of taxing people and their property is essential to the very existence of government." - James Madison, U.S. president

Hey, Ollie, I don't mind paying taxes for a civilized society. It's paying for the uncivilized part that grates on me. And Jimmy, I'm happy our government exists, but does it have to be so big? Three of our thinkers make great sense, though:

"What the government gives, it must first take away." - John S. Coleman
"What is the difference between a taxidermist and a tax collector? The taxidermist takes only your skin." - Mark Twain
"The best things in life are tax free." - Joseph Bonkowski

The great Will Rogers' wit and wisdom is always helpful at tax time: "It costs 10 times more to govern us than it used to, and we are not governed one-tenth as good."
"The income tax has made more liars out of the American people than golf."
"The difference between death and taxes is death doesn't get worse every time Congress meets."
I wish you and all Americans the best of luck as you sort through receipts and curse about never-ending tax obligations.

Here's an old joke to help cheer you up:
The IRS commissioner is on a D.C. sidewalk. A mugger jumps out of an alley and says, "Give me all your money!"

The commissioner says, "You can't do this to me! I run the IRS."

"In that case," says the mugger, "give me all of MY money!"

DICK POLMAN

HEALTH CARE STUPIDITY IS A REPUBLICAN PREEXISTING CONDITION

Donald Trump is celebrating his fake "complete exoneration" by pledging anew to throw 20 million people off their Obamacare coverage. Is this guy politically stupid, or what?

What a gift for the Democrats, who recently scored their biggest House midterm sweep since 1974 by decimating the GOP on health care. If Trump truly intends to revive the issue in 2020 by taking yet another crack at Obamacare (which, after nine years, is more popular than ever), Democrats are only too happy to oblige him. Senate Republicans know that he's nuts to do so. They have no appetite to launch another kill-Obamacare crusade, having failed in 2017, and having failed for nine years to come up with a replacement plan. But, as always, they'd rather quake in their boots than tell Trump the truth: That an umpteenth assault on the health law will imperil him and them in 2020.

They prefer to fret in private. Kevin McCarthy, the House Republican leader, has reportedly blamed the 2018 blue wave on the Trump-GOP's efforts to gut Obamacare - with good reason. Because voters trust the Democrats on health care by a decisive margin, health care was the top-ranked issue in the midterms, and of those voters who ranked it highest, 75 percent chose Democratic candidates. Yet Trump still seems to think he has powers of persuasion beyond his base.

I'm frankly puzzled: If he couldn't kill Obamacare when the GOP held the White House and both congressional chambers, why does he think he can kill it - and replace it with something he calls "spectacular" - when one of the chambers is Democratic? But that's a rational question, and we live in irrational times. Trump wants Senate Republicans to craft a replacement plan, while Senate Republicans want Trump to do it. Which explains why Mick Mulvaney, Trump's acting chief of staff, and John Barrasso, the third-ranking Senate GOPer, were so deceptive and evasive on the Sunday shows.

Mulvaney told ABC News that if Obamacare is killed, a Republican replacement plan would guarantee that everyone currently covered by health reform - including young people up to age 26, and the tens of millions of people with preexisting conditions - would be fully protected just as they are now. That is a lie. Every GOP draft proposal floated during this decade has imperiled people with preexisting conditions, by allowing insurance companies to charge them higher premiums for coverage. Meanwhile, Trump has endorsed a federal lawsuit, launched by attorney generals in 20 red states, that seeks to repeal Obamacare in its entirety - including the protections for people with preexisting conditions, a category that includes 27 percent of all non-elderly adults.

So where's the Republican replacement plan that would magically make everything OK, the plan that would provide the same protections as Obamacare but do them better? John Barrasso of Wyoming, the number three Senate Republican, was asked about that - multiple times yesterday - on "Meet the Press." Watch him writhe, if that's your preference (it's not fun to carry water for Trump), but here's the gist of how it went:

Chuck Todd: "It was in 2009 that we began the debate. It's 2019. You guys have been talking about a plan to protect preexisting conditions for 10 years. And you haven't been able to come up with one." So what's your plan?

Barrasso: Obamacare "has failed to keep its promises…This is on the American people's minds."

Todd: "Should the American people expect an actual health care plan alternative from the Republican party this year?"

Barrasso: "The American people should expect to not have to be burdened" by Obamacare.

Todd: "A plan. Will we see a new plan from the Republican party about what their alternative is?"

Barrasso: "I've been working on a plan since the day I got to the Senate."

That last exchange tells the tale. Health care is simply not what Republicans do. Their brand is to slash taxes for the rich, crater the deficit, and signal national security weakness to the Russians. It's impossible to know whether Trump truly believes that erasing Obamacare's protections will rebrand the GOP as "the party of health care" (his words), or whether he's just feeling his "exoneration" oats and playing offense for a few news cycles before finding a new toy.

Republicans on the ballot in 2020 had better hope it's the latter.

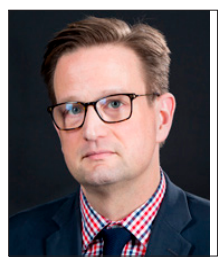
WHY ARE WE SO BAD AT SCIENCE?



What do most Americans know about science?

If a March 28 Pew Research Center poll is to be believed - not nearly enough. And at a time when knowledge and facts are under assault as they have not been in recent memory, that's a problem.

On the upside, about eight in 10 respondents to the new Pew poll knew that increase resistance is one of the big concerns about the overuse of antibiotics.And more than three-quarters know that an "incubation period" is the time when a person has an infection - but isn't showing any visible signs of it.
But only about four in 10 people were able to correctly identify the main components of antacids. Those are "bases." And I'll admit, I'd forgotten that one.

In general, "there are striking differences in levels of science knowledge by education, as well as by racial and ethnic group," Pew researchers found. "Men tend to score higher than women on the science knowledge scale, but gender differences are not consistent across questions in the scale." And here's the finding that sticks out: Pew researchers found that "political party groups are roughly similar in their overall levels of science knowledge - although conservative Republicans tend to score higher on the scale than do their more moderate counterparts."
That matters because scientific issues of huge importance now inform our policy debate.

In Pennsylvania last week, for instance, a self-described "climate contrarian" who acknowledges that human activity is heating the Earth, but who - unlike a majority of scientists - also believes the potential consequences are overblown, got a star turn before the state House's oversight committee on environmental issues.
Despite a scientific consensus to the contrary, Gregory Wrightstone, a geologist with ties to the natural gas industry, spent an hour arguing that increased carbon dioxide in the atmosphere is a good thing.

Encouragingly, based on a December 2018 Morning Consult/Politico poll, more Americans find such views as Wrightstone's total poppycock - even with that knowledge gap identified by the Pew poll. They agree that climate change is caused by human activity and they're concerned by the consequences. More than two-thirds of respondents to the Morning Consult/Politico poll were concerned about the results of last year's National Climate Assessment, which says climate change could cause billions of dollars in economic losses. But less than half the Republican respondents to the poll said they were worried about its findings, compared to 87 percent of Democrats and two-thirds of independents.

Republican respondents to the poll were "about as likely to consider President Donald Trump" as credible on environmental matters as they were scientists. Trump, by the way, expressed skepticism on the study by the government's own scientists. And this is where science education comes into play.

While there's a renewed push by both policymakers and educators to stress the importance of "STEM" education (or Science, Technology, Engineering and Math), the data suggests we still have some catching up to do.

In 2017, Pew researchers found that American students tended to fall into the middle of the international pack on math, science, and reading, according to one worldwide benchmark. Given that, it's not surprising that the Pew poll finds that greater levels of scientific fluency correspond with greater levels of education. Americans with a post-graduate degree, for instance, got about four more questions correct than those with a high school diploma or less, Pew found. So what's the cure?

It's on the media to fill in gaps in knowledge - seven in 10 respondents to a 2017 Pew Poll got their information from press accounts. And ditto for museums. 62 percent came across their information that way in that same 2017 poll.

It's often said that those who fail to learn from history are doomed to repeat its mistakes.

The consequences of failing to pay heed to science are even greater.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF: SHIRLEY ANNE YERGEAU AKA SHIRLEY A. YERGEAU, SHIRLEY YERGEAU AND SHIRLEY ANN GUSTAVSON CASE NO. 19STPB02957

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the WILL or estate, or both of SHIRLEY ANNE YERGEAU AKA SHIRLEY A. YERGEAU, SHIRLEY YERGEAU AND SHIRLEY ANN GUSTAVSON.

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by DEBRA ANN HARRIS in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that DEBRA ANN HARRIS be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act . (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held in this court as follows: 04/29/19 at 8:30AM in Dept. 9 located at 111 N. HILL ST., LOS ANGELES, CA 90012

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.
Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.
