VOLUME 6 NO. 10

SIERRA MADRE ELECTION COVERAGE

On April 10, 2012, voters in Sierra Madre will go to the polls and select three people from a field of seven to sit on the City Council and elect a new City Treasurer and City Clerk. They will also vote on a local ballot measure on whether or not to extend the User Utility Tax and a related advisory measure.

The city council race will fill two seats for new four year terms and one seat for the unexpired two year term vacated by former Mayor Joe Mosca.

The Mountain Views News will provide our readers with comprehensive coverage of this election. Each week, as we have done in the past, we will profile the candidates and give each of the candidates the opportunity to introduce themselves to our readers by answering the following questions: (All candidates are being asked to answer the same questions)

1. Why are you running for Office? 2. What are your plans if elected?

The revised schedule:

THIS WEEK: Candidate John Harabedian for City Council - 4 year term-Below

It is our sincere hope that each candidate will submit their answers so that we can share them with our readers. A separate letter has been sent to each candidate asking them to

In addition to the candidate spotlights, we will attempt to cover the various forums sponsored by local organizations. Where possible, the unedited video of these forums will be broadcast on the paper's website.

Our reporting on this election will be as fair and objective as possible. However, please keep in mind that our columnists are always free to share their opinions. Their opinions are their opinions and may or may not reflect the position of the paper. This is true in all things, not just this election.

We will also provide for you the calendar of important dates regarding the election. It is our goal to do whatever we can to help you make an informed decision on April 10, 2012. Susan Henderson, Publisher and Editor

NAN & JERRY CARLTON SIERRA MADRE'S OLDER AMERICANS OF THE YEAR Photo and story by Bill Coburn

The City of Sierra Madre Community & Personnel Services Department and the Senior Community Commission is happy to announce that Jerry and Nan Carlton have been selected as the Older Americans of the Year for Sierra Madre 2012. Jerry and Nan are longtime residents, active members of the Sierra Madre Friends of the Library, Mt. Wilson Trail Race and Wine & Jazz Walk volunteers, past Sierra Madre Athletic Association Board members, strong supporters of the Sierra Madre Civic Club & Senior Lunch Program and much, much more.

These two Sierra Madre residents really live up the the Sierra Madre mantra — Volunteering is Cool. And their work goes back to 1967 when Nan and two long-gone residents set the stage for the beginning of Girls' Softball. The same three women harassed the City Council into naming the plot of donated land in northeast Sierra Madre after Hal Dapper, a recently deceased (at that time) volunteer of the Athletic Association.

Jerry designed the present diner at that field. He was chairman of that association and president of also worked on the Rose Float for at least 12 years, Pony/Colt where he managed The Reds in the latter. Jerry was a member of the Parks ad Recreation Commission and was chairman of the Trail Race and Wilson, and taught Sunday School for many then. In the '70s he was Girls' Softball coach and years. It is time that this wonderful couple be recmanager. He and another local man ran the Christmas tree lot for 10 years in the '80s, with money going to town athletes.

Then in 2007, Jerry walked the whole town of Sierra Madre, checking all 469 fire hydrants in the City. Why was that necessary? "We need to know (for the Fire Department) if they are painted properly, if they're accessible, are capped, and if the blue dots on the streets, indicating their presence, are there," Jerry explained. The task took him all summer and the City Council commended him for the job.

Jerry recycles clear plastic bottles and aluminum for the Civic Club and he volunteers at the library book sales. He also substitutes for Meals-on-Wheels and works on the Wine Tasting Committee.

In the '60s Nan took third graders from local schools to Bailey Canyon on nature hikes, usually going to the waterfall and back. She and friends in '67 started Summer Little League and "that was the beginning of Girls' Softball," she explained. Nan is past president of Civic Club and has been a longtime worker for that club. She participated on all of the Relays for Life held in Sierra Madre.

"About four or five years ago" Nan started a knitting club. "We meet at Bean Town two times a week, and welcome others who want to knit." She also worked on the Rose Float for at least 12 years, helping youth volunteers.

Both she and Jerry participated in the PTAs for both Sierra Madre School and Wilson, and taught Sunday School for many years.

Their beginnings? When she was a child, Nan and her mother came by train to Sierra Madre to be with Nan's grandmother, Florence Eakman, who was a well-known poet and children's book author. Nan has lived here ever since.

After Jerry left the Navy, he and Nan met and were married in 1953. Their son, Steve, is a hydro/geologist and has a son and daughter, Wyn and Liz. Daughter Suzi's son is Mike. Sierra Madre lost Sheri Carlton Burnett in 2001, and she left another Carlton granddaughter, Amanda.

Nan is past president of Civic Club and has been a long-time worker for that club. Nan was a Team Captain for the Relay for Life for several years. I am sure there is not anything that they have not been instrumental in helping organize here in our Town. About six or seven years ago, Nan started a knitting club to help raise money for cancer research. She helping youth volunteers. Both she and Jerry particinated in the PTAs for both Sierra Madre S ognized for there outstanding commitment to our Nan is recuperating after having had surgery on Nov. 20 last year, and is slowly getting back to activities. "I have to wait until March to resume going to Curves," Nan remarked.

Why do these two volunteer? Nan answered, "I was a Campfire Girl and that's where you learn to volunteer. You're supposed to give back."

Each year the President of the United States, the Governor of California and the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors designate the month of May as Older American Month. In recognition of Jerry and Nan Carlton's dedicated volunteer service to the community, Sierra Madre will be honoring them with a local reception held at the Hart Park House Senior Center on Friday, May 11, 2012 from 4:30 p.m. to 6:00 p.m.

Previous Honorees include: Pat Alcorn, Fran Garbaccio, Ken Anhalt, Eph Konigsberg, Russ Anderson, George Throop, Loyal Camacho, John Grijalva, Joylouise Harte-Smith, James Heasley, Midge Morash, James Tyler, Isbella Paegal, Bonnie Garner, Rose Fafach, Ed Wellman, Celeste McCleary, Dorothy Tillquist, Doris Webster, Elsie Dannmayer, George Mauer & Karl Teigler.

For more information on the Older American Reception or on how you can assist with honoring Jerry and Nan Carlton, please contact the Susan Clifton, Recreation Coordinator at (626) 355-7394.

WISTARIA FESTIVAL TO OFFER TOURS OF HISTORIC 1887 PINNEY HOUSE; Local Artists Featured in House Exhibit

Sunday, March 25, 2012 9:30 AM - 4:30 PM

The historic landmark Pinney House, built in 1887, will be open for self-guided tours for the first time ever, during the March 25 Wistaria Festival in Sierra Madre, California.

The Pinney House, designed by Victorian architects Samuel & Joseph Cather Newsom, is celebrating 125 years, and has recently undergone a major renovation to a lovely estate house. It has six spacious elegant bedroom and bath suites, as well as several common rooms reminiscent of the late nineteenth century.

Tours will be offered to visitors on the Wistaria Festival shuttle, as the bus stops in front of the Pinney House at 225 No. Limit Visitors must have a shuttle ticket to enter.

Noted California artists, William Wray and Lynne Fearman, local to Sierra Madre, will be exhibiting their work in the House. Wray's gritty urban landscapes, often referred to as "dirty urban" uses a combination of realism and abstract expressionism. His evocative work exhibits internationally. Plein Air artist Lynne Fearman's paintings portray beautiful serene landscapes of San Gabriel Valley and Southern California.

Wray has designed a commemorative poster for the 2012 Wistaria Festival, which will be offered for sale during the Festival.

The Pinney House was built by civil war surgeon and farmer Dr. Elbert Pinney during the land boom in Los Angeles. It was one of a string of railroad hotels that served as lodging for train passengers who disembarked at the Baldwin depot on their travels from the midwest and east coast. It is one of the last remaining railroad hotels of the Foothills that are still standing.

The Sierra Madre Wistaria Festival celebrates the Guinness Book certified "World's Largest Blossoming Plant." It is estimated that at the height of bloom it has 1.5 million blossoms with 40 blossoms per square foot, a weight of 250 tons and has branches that extend 500 feet. The vine is 118 years old. The first public Wistaria Festival occurred in 1918. Several blocks south of the vine, the village of Sierra Madre celebrates with arts and craft fair, live musical entertainment, a kids' zone, dining al fresco at local restaurants as well as food vendors in the Memorial Park. The Sierra Madre Post Office is offering a special postal cancellation to celebrate the Festival, with a temporary postal station open March 25 11 A.M. to 3 P.M. in Kersting Court of Sierra Madre's

Chancellor Jack Scott Announces Retirement

California Community Colleges Chancellor Jack Scott announced Tuesday his intent to retire as the head of the nation's largest system of higher education, capping a distinguished 58-year career in higher education and public service. Scott's retirement

In a statement sent to community colleges statewide, Scott said, "I have greatly enjoyed my work since becoming chancellor on January 1, 2009. It is true that it has been a tough time for community colleges because of the financial difficulties of the state of California. But I have been received warmly in Sacramento and on college campuses by trustees, faculty, staff, administrators, and students. I have proudly represented our colleges before the Legislature, the governor, and many other audiences.

The Board of Governors wishes to express its gratitude to Chancellor Scott for his extraordinary leadership of our system," said Board President Scott Himelstein. "Chancellor Scott's passion and commitment to community colleges will be evident in the success of our colleges for generations to come. The board will begin immediately the process of selecting a chancellor who can build on the success of Dr. Scott."

Before becoming the Community Colleges Chancellor, Scott served in the California Legislature for 12 years as a State Senator (2000-2008) and Assemblymember (1996-2000) representing Pasadena, Glendale, Burbank, a portion of the city of Los Angeles and other surrounding cities and communities. He served as chair of the Senate Committee on Education.

"Jack has been a great champion of community colleges, both in the Legislature and as chancellor. During a time of extreme state budget cuts, Jack provided stability and vision. He never lost sight of the importance of career technical education, especially in the clean energy and healthcare fields, in keeping our economy strong," former Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger said. "I supported his appointment by the Board of Governors because he was always passionate about community colleges and a great leader for

Change Your Clocks, Change Your Smoke Alarm Batteries

When you "spring forward" and set your clocks ahead one hour this Sunday, March 11, follow the Pasadena Fire Department's advice and check all your smoke alarm batteries, too.

Each year, across the country, lives are lost in house fires due to smoke alarms that didn't sound because of dead or missing batteries.

Once you make sure the batteries are fresh and installed properly, test your alarms every month to make sure the devices still work. A typical smoke alarm will work for 10 years; after that, replace it.

This is also a good time to create a family emergency plan so everyone knows how to respond when the smoke alarm sounds. Locate all possible exits from your home, plan for family members who have special needs, such as seniors, people with disabilities, children and pets, and find out where your utility shut-offs for water, gas and electricity are located and how to work

For a full range of information about how to prepare for and respond to emergency situations, visit the Pasadena Fire Department online at www. cityofpasadena.net/fire.

New PCAC Director to Lobby Washington

As the new Executive Director Stokstad, is set to make a trip to Washington D.C. next week to lobby government officials over the Community Access Preservation Act (CAP Act) H.R. 1746 and attend the Alliance for Community Media board meeting.
Stokstad said the CAP Act is critical in future funding of public access television, known as Pasadena. as PEG (Public, Education and Government).

federal level, that any funds from agreements, especially state franchise agreements to be used for operating and capital expenses, including paying for staff," she explained. "This defines that."

The bill, sponsored by consin Congresswoman Wisconsin Baldwin, Tammy introduced in May last year and is currently waiting to be referred to committee.

Stokstad said local Pasadena Congressman Adam Schiff has not taken a stand on the bill, "I do plan to meet with him while I'm there."

Stokstad also said, if passed the bill would secure funding for station like Pasadena, which operates, KLRN, KPAS, PCCtv and the Arroyo Channel.

Legislation, which took effect of the Pasadena Community in 2009, allowed cable television Corporation, Keri companies the option to drop out of a mandate providing free open studios and equipment to the public. Time Warner Cable alone immediately closed 12 studios including nearby Eagle Rock.

> Stokstad said the bill could reverse some of the damage by reopening opportunities for future PEG stations not so lucky

"Each city can put in an ordinance, basically saying that "This would define, from a we want this PEG money," she said. "This money earmarked franchise for PEG, then once the city has enacted the ordinance, then the cable company is required to give them the money."

Last year, Long Beach was able to revive their community access station through grant money after Charter Communications ended the franchise agreement.

Stokstad was also reappointed to the Alliance for Community Media board after a one year hiatus, "Prior to that I was on the board five years," she said. She said the board meets tree times a year. "We revisit policies like how we get out to the community on a regional level, and what kind of organization we want to be."

Stokstad started Jan. 3 as PCAC executive director.

Police to Enforce Traffic Laws Around Schools

AROUND SAN GABRIEL VALLEY

"What's Going On?" News and Views from Joan Schmidt

What will I Be Doing, Ten Years from Now?

Where will I be ten years from now? Many young adults ponder that question. Recently at Santa Teresita in Duarte, Sr. Rosario Therese and the Junior Volunteers presented their second annual Teen Career Fair to help answer that question.

Keynote speaker Kathy Calhoun, High School Teacher/Administrator from Lake Elsinore HS, began by explaining the difference between a career and a vocation. Other speakers included Lori Towles, City National Bank; Shannon Lewallen, Fall Control System; Gabby Romero, Kaiser Permanente; and Sr. Rosario Therese, Teen Career Fair Coordinator. After each speaker, there was a Breakout for discussion and questions.

The occupation fields included Education, Health Care, Human resources, Business, and Public Service. For Education, there was representation from CAL State Long Beach, American Beauty College-Myra G. Mendoza and Duarte retired teacher/school board member, Rose Brooks Mitchell. LA County Firemen, Deputy Frederickson from the LA County Sheriff's Duarte Sub Station and Homicide Bureau Sergeant Luis Nuñez represented Public Service. Business Representatives included Rachel, Paint-A-Play, Sara Sierra, Sierra Hair Extensions, and Jose Mireles, Finance, TIAA-CREF Financial Svs. Health Services had a Nursing rep.

Rose Brooks Mitchell attended because Sr. Rosario invited her and, "It is an honor and privilege to be here to encourage them to do their best and pursue their passion to get the best education possible. A good education is a key to success." Rose's handout, Qualities and Traits of Successful Students explained the importance of Self-respect, Self-discipline, Personal Responsibility, Interpersonal Skills and Thinking for Themselves.

The Theme of the Day was to "Make a Difference."

Sister Rosario used Difference Makers International,

(800-887,8422; www.blueribbons.com)

Sister ended the day's program with a poignant true story and the 8 Step Blue Ribbon Ceremony. A high school teacher wanted to honor each of her students. She gave each a blue ribbon with gold lettering, "Who I Am Makes a Difference." She had three extra ribbons and asks her students to pass them on and come back with the results. One student chose a junior executive, who helped him with career planning. The junior executive gives one to his boss, who he greatly admired for his career genius. On the way home, the boss decides to give it to his son. After he got home, he went into his son's room. He sat him down and explained the project. He said, "Son, I want to honor you. My days are hectic and when I come home, I don't pay a lot of attention to you. Sometimes I scream at you for not getting good enough grades at school or for your bedroom being a mess. But somehow, tonight, I just wanted to sit here and well, just let you know that you make a difference to me. Besides your mother, you are the most important person in my life. You are a great kid and I love you."

The startled boy looked up and began to sob. He couldn't stop crying. He looked up at his dad and said, 'I was planning on committing suicide tomorrow, Dad, because I didn't think you loved me. Now I don't have

The program ended with all the participants being pinned with blue ribbons, followed by the presenters being pinned. Two of the students ran over to Sister and pinned her. This program was excellent and is a good tool for teachers to use for their students' self-esteem and

Lil' Queen:

Animal ID #A4394653

Meet a happy-go-lucky girl, the adorable Lil' Queen (A4394653). Lil' Queen is an extroverted and affectionate one-year-old tan spayed female Terrier puppy who was brought to the Baldwin Park Animal Care Center. She came to the shelter with seven other dogs and two chickens after her former owner's house burned down to the ground. This puppy has had it rough, but that does not change her personality one bit - she is very loving and playful and is eager to please. Weighing eight pounds, Lil' Queen walks fine on the leash, is well socialized and we think she probably is housebroken. She is gregarious and happy with other dogs and absolutely adores children. Lil' Queen will be the perfect indoor pet for anybody at all! To watch a video of Lil' Queen, Dallas, and Hillary please visit: www.youtube.com/watch?v=6S2p4Xt1BcQ

To meet Lil' Queen in person, please see her at the Baldwin Park Shelter, located at 4275 N. Elton, Baldwin Park, CA 91706 (Phone: 626-430-2378 or 626-962-3577). She is currently available

now. For any inquiries about Lil' Queen, please reference her animal ID number: A4394653. The shelter is open seven days a week, 12 pm-7 pm Monday-Thursday and 10am-5pm Friday-Sunday. This is a high-intake shelter with a great need for adoptions. CAL FIRE: CHANGE YOUR CLOCKS, CHANGE YOUR

On Saturday night, March 10, Californians will be turning their clocks forward in observance of Daylight Saving Time. And when they do, CAL FIRE is reminding them to replace the batteries in all smoke alarms. Fire-fighters are also urging residents to replace the batteries in the carbon monoxide (CO) alarms

This minimal effort could mean the difference between life and death. Already this year several fatalities have occurred in California which might have been prevented with working smoke alarms.

"CAL FIRE has long advocated the 'Change Your Clock, Change Your Battery' campaign," said Chief Ken Pimlott, director of CAL FIRE. "A smoke alarm is one of the cheapest and most effective ways homeowners can provide year round fire protection for themselves and their families.

Every year lives are lost in homes without smoke detectors or those homes with a nonfunctioning smoke detector. In a study conducted by the National Fire Prevention Association (NFPA), nearly 96% of households report having at least one fire alarm. Yet the US Fire Administration reports residential fires make up nearly 83% of all civilian fire deaths. The culprit is generally a disconnected or dead battery. Save a life. Change your clocks; change your smoke alarm batteries. Fire officials also remind residents that smoke alarms should be replaced at least every ten years and when residents buy a new one, purchase an alarm with 10-year batteries

Smoke alarms and carbon monoxide alarms unquestionably help save lives, but they are nothing without working batteries inside of them," said Chief Tonya Hoover, California's state fire marshal. "Just a few minutes twice a year to change that battery can truly mean the difference between life and death.

cities are responsible for their own water. Steve explained that most of the area gets water from Northern California or the Colorado River. However he pointed on that "We are on top of the San Gabriel Basin-as big as Lake Tahoe, a tremendous asset-we should take better care of it."

Currently, there are two issues we should be aware of. The first is Water Cleanup. In the 50's and 60's, the Aerospace Industry had a lot of waste products and needed to dispose of them. Back then, people didn't realize you should not dump wastes into the environment. As early as 1979, Congressman Dreier was aware of this and a supporter of water clean-up. Irwindale was mentioned and the issue of groundwater is still with us. When the Monrovia-Arcadia-Duarte Town Council began, an Annunciation Parishioner came to a meeting and brought up the water issue and breast cancer. I have been a member of the Parish, located ONE block from Irwindale, since '85. The amount of women Harmsen. He extended Congressman Drier's

I have seen a fellow parishioner to all of us - the water situation. Many of us are not broken because his wife passed away after a valiant happy with escalating bills, although we use less battle. Lastly, as a teacher, we attended an AIDS/HIV water! My county area is billed by the San Dimas Awareness Workshop and the presenter told us that based "Golden State Water Company". But some HIV patients are told NOT to drink the water in our

The other issue brought up was that 60% of water is imported from Northern California and the conditions of levees, etc. (However certain cities maintain their own water supply. Pasadena is on top of the Raymond Basin.) The Central Valley farmers don't like southern California using the water from the North. They need the water. We have become the beneficiaries of the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta. There is a proposed huge new Delta Project; Steve mentioned two thirty-seven mile tunnels bringing water to the area. The Project is controversial because who will pay the $25 billion cost? Part of this project was on the ballot in 2010, but removed because it was too costly. Steve warned everyone to read up on the water issues and be cognizant of what it will cost taxpayers. The Water Companies need to be held accountable.

After Steve's presentation, we heard from Mark gratitude for support during his 16 terms. Mark also thanked Steve Scazillo for educating people in how to make the San Gabriel Valley a better place to live, "Government is successful when citizens are involved and find out information."

David Monroy from Senator Huff's office mentioned the increase of retirement age to 67 years for pensions, which will save a lot of funds. Brian Mejia related that Supervisor Antonovich is not in favor of giving driver's licenses to undocumented residents, because of the high costs of servicing them. Hovanes Gasparian gave a hand-out of all the bills introduced by Assemblyman Portantino. We received an update from Rodrigo Gonzalez stating that Metro Gold Line can FINALLY proceed with the extension; they have reached an agreement with the City of Monrovia and the property owner who had been holding everything up!

Lastly Mayor Gary Kovacic and Mayor Pro Tem Bob Harbicht gave updates. Bob mentioned an update on Arcadia's Water. They have two underground basins and years back, residents were asked to cut back on their use and they have, so Arcadia has been one of the few cities /areas that hasn't seen great hikes in

The forum was so informative and interesting, that the Arcadia Chamber should be commended. For any informative on upcoming Chamber events, please call 626-447-2159 or ww.aracdiachamber.org.

On March 6 at 7:36 a.m., officers were dispatched to the report of a stolen vehicle in the 1800 block of South Fifth Avenue. A female victim parked her silver, 2005 Dodge Stratus in front of her apartment complex on the street at approximately 8:00 p.m. The victim returned to her car the following morning and discovered the vehicle was missing. The vehicle was entered into the Stolen Vehicle System and the investigation is continuing.

Residential Burglary - Suspect Arrested

On March 6 at 5:51 p.m., a residential burglary was reported in the 900 block of West Colorado. The female resident had received a phone call from her friend/suspect while she was in the hospital. The friend told her the window of her house was open and that she should be more careful.

When she was released from the hospital on March 1, the victim went home and found her cell phone and some jewelry had been stolen. She called the number of her cell phone and a female friend who lives in San Diego answered. The victim asked her friend how she acquired the phone and was told her son obtained it from the suspect; the son also had the victim's jewelry. The victim subsequently confronted the suspect, who admitted he went into her home and took the items. The victim desires prosecution.

During the last seven-day period, the Police Department A wanted person was placed on the suspect by handled 447 service events, resulting in 99 investigating officer for burglary and receiving stolen property. On March 7, an officer was searching for the known suspect and located him on the city streets. The suspect was arrested and taken into custody. He admitted to taking the property to teach the victim a lesson for leaving her residence unlocked. The property was returned by the friend in San Diego to the victim. Additional property was also recovered, which was not related to this case. Investigation continuing.

PUSD announced that John Muir High School has named Muir alumnus and former National Football League player John L. Hardy as its varsity football coach. Mr. Hardy served as assistant head coach of the Mustang varsity football team last year and head coach of the school's junior varsity team from 2009-2011.

Pasadena High School senior Ali Jakobczyk's banner design (left) won first place as PUSD's entry in the Bob Hope Airport's 2012 Tower Banner Student Art Contest. The winners were chosen from 148 entries among the Burbank, Glendale and Pasadena school districts. Designs by first place winners from each district will be displayed for 3 months on the airport's tower, with Jakobczyk's design scheduled for January-March 2013.

More than 150 elementary and middle school students participated in the annual African American History Bee sponsored by the National Sorority of Phi Delta Kappa's Gamma Lambda Chapter. In the elementary division, student teams from Sierra Madre won first place, Longfellow and Field tied for second, and Hamilton placed third. In the middle school competition, McKinley placed first with Eliot second and Wilson in third place.

GIFTED SUMMER PROGRAM SCHOLARSHIPS AVAILABLE FOR SIERRA MADRE AREA STUDENTS

Deadline is April 1

STAMFORD, CT, The National Society for the Gifted and Talented (NSGT) is pleased to offer $10,000 in scholarships for Sierra Madre area students to apply towards selected summer programs.

Ten scholarships are being offered by the NSGT Board of Trustees - six at $1,000 each, six at $500 each and four at $250 each - and will be used by the deserving student to help pay tuition for gifted summer program of their choice. The deadline for applications is April 1, 2012.

Each year, the award is given to outstanding students who demonstrate excelled ability in their field of interest. Students can download and complete the scholarship application at www.nsgt. org/scholarships.asp. A team of educators in the field of gifted education will review the applications and choose the scholarship winners. Applications must be received by April 1, 2012. Winners will be notified on April 15, 2012.

The Summer Institute for the Gifted (SIG), a not-for-profit program of NSGT and renowned gifted summer program, has welcomed several recipients of the Board of Trustees Scholarships in the past. The NSGT scholarships have also afforded students the opportunity to participate in such programs as iDTech, the Cambridge College Program, Duke TIP, and Northwestern CTD, among others.

"SIG is delighted to work collaboratively with NSGT to help provide gifted students with extended opportunities to participate in programs that nurture and develop their abilities," states Barbara Swicord, President and CEO of SIG. "With gifted education struggling in this country, supplemental programs like SIG - and subsequent scholarships - are more important than ever."

Interested students, parents and educators can apply online at www.nsgt.org/scholarships.asp. Contact NSGT at (800) 572-6748 or by e-mail at info@nsgt.org.

The National Society for Gifted and Talented, a not-for-profit 501(c)(3) organization was created to honor and encourage gifted and talented children and youth. The goal of the NSGT is to provide a structure where gifted and talented children and youth are identified, and as members, can expect to find information and opportunities that directly relate to and cultivate their abilities and desires to achieve at a high level. Visit NSGT at www.nsgt.org.

WORDS

They are nothing but symbols that we call letters. Those letters create words that make sentences that become sentences that eventually evolve into poems and books. But these words have the power to evoke emotions and thoughts and inspire people to change their lives. But the craziest part is that when I read these words, I don't feel like I am reading, I feel like I am living the lives of the nonmaterial beings. They exist only in my imagination, but I feel so connected to them, and when I leave a chapter or finish a book, I sometimes feel as though I have lost a part of myself.

So much of what I read or 'experience' impacts who I am as a person. Harry Potter showed me to stay true to myself until the end and not give up, the Hunger Games to stand for what I believe in, Walden to appreciate the beauty of life and nature and live deliberately, and so many others in so many ways. When we read, we tap into our subconscious and can't help but place ourselves in those situations, and from that we learn who we are as a person. It sounds cheesy but it's true. The books we choose to read have an impact on who we are as a person, just the same way as the clothes we wear and the music we listen to and the people we choose to associate ourselves with impact who we are. Words, nothing but sounds and symbols, yet they are an almost essential part of who we are as human beings.

LOCAL RESIDENTS MAKE THE DEAN'S LIST

Several local residents made the academic Dean's List at Azusa Pacific University. These students are honored for a fall semester 2011 academic standing of a 3.5 or better grade-point average. They are joined by more than 1,750 other students receiving the same honor.

KING CRAB

The Discovery Channel is full of great shows, and I turn to it when I have exhausted my usual programming, such as that critically acclaimed, The Chef Knows. One show that has increasingly captured my attention is "The Deadliest Catch?" I'm not moving from restaurant reviewer to TV Critic mind you, but there is something about the show that just keeps my interest. I have no idea who the stars are but it appears to me the treacherous weather is one of them. The entire show is dedicated to life threatening pursuit of catching Crabs off Alaska and the Russian Border, the Baltic Sea to be exact. The ships are equipped with every technical gadget in the business, but like so many things in life, it comes down to instinct and in this case it is the captain's instinct that directs the ship to fortune, failure or even death. Unlike the "Bachelor," here I don't have to wade through 10 episodes for the count or the discard, as nearly every episode they are pulling up Crabs in five minute intervals. Crew members battle the crippling Eskimo like conditions and sheer walls of mountainous sea to bring up a treasure chest of crabs that is as welcome as gold to the pirates of a distant age.

The season is brief so each mistake, each lost moment of time is magnified as the crew must force themselves through fatigue and lack of sleep to race against the ticking clock. Maybe I find a special delight in the show since I love King Crab but it is more, as the show turns my stomach in knots as I watch with childlike fear and anticipation as the crew of the boats challenge the harshest elements of nature. Here is a sample of the shows description.

"Relive the dangers, adventures and disasters of the original miniseries. Meet the salty sea captains and greenhorns who risk their lives on the job to earn part of a 90 million dollar King and Opilio Crab payoff. Set sail and learn all about crab fishing." Yea, that's the whole premise and I can't get enough of it!!! If they are willing to risk their lives for this, I feel obligated to support these courageous soldiers and their imprisoned catch? This week is dedicated to those crews and their delicious prisoners, so let's see where we can catch our own crab and not lose a life or wallet in the process.

King Crab Legs can be very expensive, so I suggest checking out Albertson's. Typically, they have a great selection at a very reasonable price. If you are a Costco member they have some of the freshest crab and some of the lowest prices anywhere. On sale you can expect to pay about ($16.95) per pound. How about Crab Cakes? If done right they can be very tasty, but many restaurants do not use the traditional method or lack a quality in their crab cake to capture the heightened glory that this dish can achieve. The traditional method is done with Dungeness lump crab meat. Some places in our region are: Cameron's Restaurant, McCormick and Schmick's, and Ruth Chris'. For this crab lover though, the very best Crab Cake by far is at The Front Runner Restaurant located at the Santa Anita Race Track in Arcadia. There they use real lump crab meat with a light breaded cover. With this dish all those thoughts of slow horses disappear in a Heaven filled plate of Crab Cake. INGREDIENTS:

- 1-1/4 pounds boneless skinless chicken breasts, cubed
- 3 teaspoons canola oil, divided
- 2 medium carrots, chopped
- 1 large onion, chopped
- 1 medium green pepper, chopped
- 1 medium sweet red pepper, chopped 2 portobello mushrooms (3 ounces each), chopped
- 3 garlic cloves, minced
- 2-3/4 cups hot water
- 1 can (15 ounces) black beans, rinsed and drained
- 1 package (8 ounces) red beans and rice mix 1 can (14-1/2 ounces) Hunt's® Original Diced Tomatoes, drained
- 1/3 cup shredded Asiago cheese

DIRECTIONS:

In a large nonstick skillet, brown chicken in 1 teaspoon oil over medium-high heat until no longer pink; remove and set aside. In the same skillet, saute the carrots, onion and peppers in remaining oil for 10 minutes. Add mushrooms and garlic; saute 1-2 minutes longer or until vegetables are tender. Stir in the water, beans and rice mix. Return chicken to the pan; bring to a boil. Reduce heat; cover and simmer for 30-35 minutes or until liquid is absorbed and rice is tender. Stir in tomatoes; heat through. Just before serving, sprinkle with cheese. Yield: 6 servings.

Editor's Note: This recipe was prepared with Zatarain's New Orleans-style red beans and rice.

IT'S ABOUT OUR FREEDOM GREG Welborn

Last week, I offered 7 specific issues on which all of the Republican candidates could agree. Even in the micro, there is amazing continuity in the conservative's sometimes squabbling camp. But let's step back a bit further and look at the macro issue that will most likely decide this election. To borrow a phrase, originated by Clinton strategist, James Carville, to explain the main driver of the 1992 election, "it's about freedom,

The Republican candidate who really gets this is Rick Santorum. Say what you may about him, but he understands the big picture in this election. If you listen to any of his campaign speeches - rather than the caricature of them so often reported in the press- he doesn't take long to start talking about the freedoms we're losing under President Obama and those that will disappear should he win re-election.

The list starts with regulation and the typical over-reach characteristic of so many government bureaucrats. Business people in the audience can always give ample personal anecdotes about the vast increase in regs with which they have to deal just to stay in business – let alone to open a new plant, launch a new product or hire more people. But the rubber really meets the road when the topic turns to Obamacare.

It is in Obama's one signature legislative accomplishment, and the interpretations of the bill which are being released almost daily, that Americans can most clearly see the vision of increased government control and reduced personal freedoms which is reflexive in the character and personality of this president and all his followers.

It has almost become an overworked argument that Obamacare is going to interrupt the normal personal relationship between doctor and patient. Nonetheless it's true! In addition, though, Obamacare is going to create a culture of dependence in this country that we can't even imagine. If fully implemented, every single American will become dependent on government. One way or the other, every American will have to rely on the government to pay their medical bill and thus define what procedures they can have.

greater concern should be the restrictions that Obama seeks to impose on arguably our most primary and important freedom - the freedom to practice religion as each of us interprets our own sacred scriptures. Last month's dust-up over Obamacare requirements that the Catholic Church pay for contraception and abortion-inducing drugs could have been written off as the missteps of a naïve and over zealous underling. That is except for the fact that Obama himself reiterated to the Catholic Bishops last Friday that no loosening of the mandate's exemptions would be allowed.

As Cardinal Timothy Dolan wrote in his open letter on religious freedom, "we have made it clear in no uncertain terms to the government that we are not at peace with its invasive attempt to curtail religious freedom" and its attempt "to define what constitutes ministry and how it can be exercised". It's a pity that the leaders of other faiths and denominations have not signed on to this letter, vocally supported it, or penned their own version.

Can they really be so clueless as to not remember the lessons of the past. Those who seek to curtail the individual freedoms of their citizenry always start with the sub group who they believe is least in favor with the public. Then they move on to other groups until the whole of a population has been brought to heel. To put it in simpler terms, power given to government when Liberals are in power remains power given to government when Conservatives are in power. All Americans liberal or conservative, religious or secular should understand what's disappearing right before our eyes. It's our freedoms.

Independent's Eye by JOE Gandelman

RUSH'S FLUKE CONTROVERSY WAS NO FLUKE

The controversy over talk show king Rush Limbaugh's sexuallyinsulting and innuendofilled three day rant against Georgetown University student Sandra Fluke for her advocacy of health plan coverage contraceptives for was....no

Limbaugh is the 21st century's most powerful talk show host. He spawned Rush wannabes on local talk radio stations who can't duplicate Limbaugh's success since they don't have his broadcasting smarts and talent. He became the Republican Party's de facto strategist after Senator John McCain's 2008 Presidential defeat, and the GOP has increasingly merged its brand into his.

Now, as Limbaugh loses sponsors and some radio stations, the GOP brand is likely to take a hit with women voters due to its leaders' timidity in denouncing Limbaugh's abusive and creepy comments about Fluke. Conservative columnist George Will flatly said: "Republican leaders are afraid of Rush Limbaugh. They want to bomb Iran, but they're afraid of Rush Limbaugh." It was always perilous for a political party to be so closely linked to a talk show host. Political parties must aggregate interests and build coalitions. Talk show hosts must saw off a specific demographic and deliver it to advertisers. These two goals don't necessarily converge. But Limbaugh wasn't always a demonizer and polarizer.

When he went national in 1988, Limbaugh was truly funny. He sparked one controversy by talking about women "farding (putting on makeup) in cars." He blasted then President George H. W. Bush, but once Bush invited him to sleep over in the Lincoln Bedroom, Limbaugh turned more supportive and serious. His show evolved into the Republican Party's most important town hall where Limbaugh's partisan perspective is heard and later repeated by listeners at dinner tables and on conservative weblogs. He successfully pushes hot buttons to motivate the GOP's base to get out and vote.

Limbaugh's defenders liken what he did to Fluke with liberal talker Ed Shultz calling conservative Laura Ingraham a "bitch" in May. It's a phony comparison. Schultz gave an unconditional apology, called Ingraham to apologize and took time off without pay, then moved totally on. After the first day's controversy, Limbaugh continued and escalated it for two more days. It was like he was saying, "I can say whatever I want any way I want and you can't stop me!" He faced no consequences -- until some advertisers started to flee.

Limbaugh's first apology on his website seemed somewhat conditional. And once he got on the air again it continued to seem that way. He suggested the controversy was only over "two words." (It was over more than that). And he said he erred by descending to the left's level. (The left made him do it.)

In the space of a week Limbaugh went from being a de facto symbol of the 2012 Republican Party to beingpointed to by critics as the embodiment of the late 20th century's phrase: "male chauvinist pig."

Loyal conservative bloggers vilified Fluke by making suggestions about her sex life that will make some libel lawyer drool. Some bloggers are scrambling to find things to discredit her, but any findings can't negate Limbaugh's three-day attack. Others are blasting companies that pulled ads from Limbaugh, trying to discredit them.

Limbaugh committed the same sin as the late Senator Joseph McCarthy of not knowing when to stop. Joseph Welch had this line that many feel deflated McCarthy: "You've done enough. Have you no sense of decency?" In Limbaugh's case, the key quote came from Carbonite's CEO David Friend in announcing that his company would pull ads from Limbaugh's show:

"No one with daughters the age of Sandra Fluke, and I have two, could possibly abide the insult and abuse heaped upon this courageous and well-intentioned young lady. Mr. Limbaugh, with his highly personal attacks on Miss Fluke, overstepped any reasonable bounds of decency. Even though Mr. Limbaugh has now issued an apology, we have nonetheless decided to withdraw our advertising from his show. We hope that our action, along with other advertisers who have already withdrawn their ads, will ultimately contribute to a more civilized public discourse."

Mr. Friend, may I use the word? Ditto...

WOMEN & BUSINESS OWNERSHIP

Business ownership remains as one of the most viable options for women to achieve economic and professional equality in the U.S. Despite decades of gains across a wide landscape of industries and occupations, the masses of gender-majority women in the U.S. are clearly in the gender-minority when it comes to the highest paid and most prestigious positions in corporate America. Although women comprise 46.7% of the workforce and almost 52% work in management or professional positions, the following statistics describe the Fortune 500 business environment for women. (www.catalyst.org, March 2012)

Women account for:

- 14.1% of all high-level executive positions WBC's are located in most U.S. states, and there
- 16.1% of all board seats 7.5% of top earners
- 3.4% of CEO's

This may explain why more women than ever are deciding that its time to strike out on their own as entrepreneurs. For those who aspire to create their own statistics, the U.S. Small Business Administration's Office of Women's Bernardino. Phone: 909-890-1242 - Website: Business Ownership (OWBO) is a great resource. Established by a federal executive order in 1979, the OWBO provides a variety of services and referrals through a network of Women's Business Centers (WBC) located throughout the United States and its territories.

Each WBC offers comprehensive training and Consortium Employment. Phone: 213-353counseling on a variety of topics, with services tailored to the needs of the respective community. The program offers services in four main areas: Training and Counseling, Financial Resources, Federal Market Opportunities and Local SBA Resources.

Training is offered in marketing, finance, management, the use of the internet for business and other areas. The WBC is a point of access to learn about all the SBA's program for loans programs and to get information and assistance with getting contracts to provide goods and services to the federal government. This is of paramount importance since the federal government has a goal of expanding business opportunities to have a minimum of 5% of all contracts with women-owned businesses.

The survival rate for businesses that have received assistance from WBC's is substantially higher than that for businesses that launch and operate without this type of support.

AMERICA IS NOT A CHRISTIAN NATION!

It annoys the hell out of me every time I hear the claim that America is a "Christian nation." And I am not just referencing this to America since I am equally miffed by statements about any nation being a one-religion nation--or be it a Muslim, Jewish, Hindu, or Buddhist nation. A theocracy is the antithesis of democracy-They just don't mix!

Religious zealots love to trot out the 'Christian Nation' line. They use the expression to try and prop up support for their lame ideas, and they try to imply that being a supposedly Christian nation gives them justification for imposing chaplains upon school kids, funding catholic youth day, Presidential Prayer Breakfasts, etc.

To me it is a meaningless concept and not only meaningless but also demonstrably untrue. So I would like to give an analogy to show why I think it is a silly idea:

Suppose I have a box of fruit. Most of the contents is apples, but there are a reasonable number of oranges, and some pears etc. It would clearly be incorrect to describe this as a box of apples. I could describe it as a box which consists predominantly of apples. Or even more accurately as a box consisting of a mixture of apples, oranges and pears. But under no circumstances would it be correct to simply refer to it as a box of apples.

So why do Christians think it is acceptable to label a country consisting of many different religions, and of course atheists, as a Christian nation? To label America as a Christian nation when most probably 40% or more are not Christian is inappropriate.

Christians may defend such a statement by saying it refers to a country founded on Christian values (conveniently putting aside such notions as stoning to death for cursing your parents). Admittedly America does have a significant Christian background. Historically Christianity has been the dominant religion, and in times gone by the church had far more power than it has today.

Had another religion dominated then America would most likely have a somewhat different culture, for example, sharia law may be present in this country if Islam was the dominant religion historically. So it would be silly to deny a Christian influence, but such an influence has waned and is no longer relevant in our modern society.

With only 23% going to church regularly we can see that the influence of Christianity is becoming a thing of the past, except in the eyes of the devout Christians and some American politicians pandering to the Christian Right.

Let me make another analogy to illustrate another of my objections to the "Christian nation" concept.

America is a white dominated country, but obviously there are many people of different races living here. Most people would regard it as racially offensive to label America as a white nation".

So if it is offensive to label Americans as "white nation" because it ignores the significant presence of various other races then why is it regarded as acceptable to label America as a "Christian nation" and offend atheists and other religious groups? And it makes no more sense to call America a Christian nation than it would to call America a "heterosexual nation" just because there are fewer homosexuals.

A country is a collection of individuals, and while a country may have characteristics (such as 'sport loving') trying to lump us all into a single category is crazy. Even saying America is a country which is predominantly Christian (according to the last census) would be to miss the point that religion is NOT a dominant force in the lives of the majority of Americans.

So to all you Christians zealots out there I say: wanting America to be a Christian nation does not make it so. So stop labeling all Americans as part of your deluded belief system and accept that you no longer have things your own way.

America is NOT a Christian nation and was never intended to be one by our Founding fathers. Thomas Jefferson, a product of the Enlightenment, the author of the Declaration of Independence, and an outspoken Deist, disdained Christianity. He said: "There is not one redeeming feature in our superstition of Christianity. It has made half the world fools, and the other half hypocrites."

KEEPING CLOSE TABS ON MY INVESTMENTS

that some of the bright- much money? est and richest people in our country do not seem to have a clue as to what they are doing. Most do not have the common sense that God gave to a caterpillar. As Abraham Lincoln used to say, common sense is not as common as it used to be. Amen, to that one.

The financial experts are telling us that we need to buy gold or silver to safeguard our investments. I am way ahead of the game. Several years ago, I got a gold tooth. Fortunately, for me, I got it before the financial crisis in our country. I cannot tell you what a remarkable feeling it is to walk around with your fortune in your mouth.

I hear about all of the investment schemes that are supposed to make me rich. I have a sneaking suspicion that the only people getting rich are those with the investment schemes. They want us to buy stocks and bonds and futures. I never heard of anything so silly in all my life.

What would I do with stocks, bonds and futures, whatever in the world they are, in my portfolio. I have no idea what a portfolio is but I am certain it has something to do with these investment schemes. I just do not want anybody folioing around with my port, thank you very much, sir.

If I got my facts right, and I looked it up in the dictionary, port has something to do with wine. Why would I want to put a bottle of port into my folio and pretend it is some kind of an investment?

I really have to give it to these investment schemers. They really know how to pull the wool over our eyes. I want to go on record as saying that they are not pulling any wool over my eyes. Just leave my wool alone. İf I want my wool pulled, it certainly will not be over my eyes, I will tell you that right here. This wool pulling sounds more like sheep fleecing to me, and I want nothing to do with it.

For me I have discovered a way of safeguarding my wealth. My basic financial philosophy is simply spend less than I make. I know that is a revolutionary concept in today's world, but it has stood me in good stead for many a year.

We live in a culture that has absolutely no spending control whatsoever. This culture does not know the relationship between saving money and spending money.

For example. The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage came home the other day and in a very exuberant tone told me how much she saved at the grocery store. "I saved $119.23 today at the grocery store. Isn't that terrific?"

Being the humble, demure sort of guy that I am, I did not ask her a question that was buzzing around my head at the time. The question

I find it quite amusing was, how much did it cost me to save you that

Having a happy home is more important to me than exploring truth at its core. Especially in this area.

My financial strategy down through the years has been a very regular and wise investment plan. I am not quite sure how I came up with this marvelous plan, but one day it just hit me. Ever since that time, I have been using my financial investment plan.

My investment plan only cost me $19.79 back in the year of our Lord 1986. Since that time, it has faithfully served me and I have no complaints. I have through the years thought about upgrading my investment plan, but then what would the purpose be?

Back in 1986, I saw in the men's department of the JCPenney store in our community a very nicely tailored navy blue and gold striped gentleman's vest. It immediately caught my attention and as I examined it, I noticed that inside this vest was a variety of pockets. I looked at them and that is when it hit me.

Down through the years I have often wondered why somebody else did not come up with this idea. I guess I am just a genius.

I bought the vest and brought it home and hung it in my closet after I first labeled each of the inside pockets. There was a pocket for dollar bills, one for five-dollar bills, one for ten-dollar bills and one that I do not use as often for $20 bills. Every time I have a little bit of change left over I go to my closet turned to my best and invest that money where nobody can find it.

My investment plan is more or less an in and out exchange program. When I have a need, I sometimes divest some money. Through the vears, it has been a great blessing in my investment plan and is something that I am rather proud of.

Solomon put it in great perspective concerning wealth when he said, "Remove far from me vanity and lies: give me neither poverty nor riches; feed me with food convenient for me: lest I be full, and deny thee, and say, Who is the LORD? or lest I be poor, and steal, and take the name of my God in vain" (Proverbs 30:8-9

My investment plan is well buttoned up for future security.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY RICH Johnson

March St. Patrick's Day. The first Patrick's Day Parade was held March

the 17th

17, 1783 in Dublin (of course). Interestingly the celebration appealed to both the Roman Catholic and Irish Protestants in Ireland. One of the big reasons to celebrate the holiday was it was made an official "feast day" which permitted lifting the Lenten restriction of eating and drinking alcohol. St. Patrick's Day is not a legal holiday in the U.S. but it is well celebrated with a mix of displays of the color green, feasting, drinking of alcohol, numerous parades and religious observances.

According to legend, St. Patrick drove what reptile from Ireland? Snakes. Ireland never had snakes cause they don't like the cold and, oh yeah, they can't swim well. By the way, there are also no snakes in New Zealand and Hawaii.

What sugary breakfast cereal features a dancing leprechaun who claims his cereal is "magically delicious?" Lucky Charms.

What are the colors in the Irish flag? Green, white and orange. The green represents the Gaelic tradition of Ireland; the orange represents the followers of William of Orange; and the white represents the truce between the two.

Name a college sports team with the name "Irish" in it. Fighting Irish (Notre Dame) The team had also been given the nicknames "Rovers" and "Ramblers." "Fighting Irish" became the official name in 1927.

Where is the biggest St. Patrick's Day Parade in the world? New York. 150,000 marchers travel the 1.5 mile parade route in New York City. 20 major cities in the U.S. have parades on St. Patrick's Day.

What does "Erin Go Braugh" mean? Ireland forever. What is the name of the Irish Gryffindor student in the Harry Potter series? (Hint: He attends the Yule Ball with Lavender Brown). Seamus Finnigan.

What happens when you "Kiss the blarney stone?" The gift of eloquence or skill at flattery.

Almost 25% of people from what state are descended from Irish immigrants? Massachusetts.

What happens to a leprechaun if you look away? The leprechaun will disappear.

Several sports teams adopt special St. Patrick's Day jerseys. These teams include in baseball, the Los Angeles Dodgers, Detroit Tigers and Philadelphia Phillies (all done during spring training). Basketball teams that have "third" jerseys exclusively for St. Patrick's Day include the Boston Celtics, Chicago Bulls, Toronto Raptors and the New York Knicks.

SOFT SWELLS

Review by Sean Kayden

Newbies Soft Swells pour their sorrowed heart and soul into a summer induced album in the midst of a winter season. The poppy rock duo evokes youthfulness that's becoming more and more ubiquitous with today's emerging indie acts. Tim Williams and Matt Welsh have a proclivity for creating laidback, pleasing to the ears, accessible tunes. However, their self-titled debut record offers little differences to comparable acts. While the songs here are all relatively sweet and simple, the pot of gold you may be looking for at the end of the rainbow has already been looted. In other words, the cutesy approach of Soft Swells wears out its welcome a bit too quick. The package here is perfectly put together, but the gift inside is something you'll either have little use for or already own. Maybe I've become slightly jaded over time because if Soft released

Swells

Artist: Soft Swells Soft Swells Album: Modern Outsider Records Release Date: February 29, 2012

this album years ago, I may have more love for it. Unfortunately, that's not the case because the band sounds like "Foster The People" meets "Young The Giant." Sure, those are two successful bands of the past year, but an album such as this one merely feels trapped within the shadows of those now heavy hitters. Lately, debut records such as this one feel like a dime a dozen. Despite the glaring familiarity, Soft Swells do assemble a few commendable songs. "Say It Like You Mean It" (an incredibly overused title for songs) offers a chilled out melody with contagious guitar riffs. It's a fun, but a harmless track. Nothing special to report here that hasn't already been said before on such a tune. "Don't Cut It Off", both lyrically and musically, reminds me of "Taking Back Sunday" circa 2009. While I enjoyed the song to a certain degree, it did appear considerably dated. I was purely captivated by what the song reminded me of rather than what it was trying to aim for in 2012. "Never Leave Home" is sung in such a plaintive manner. It easily becomes the sole highlight of a record that has a mixed bag of expendable treats. When Soft Swells show off their soft side, it's actually quite satisfying. More of these songs are found in the later half of the record. If it's any consolation, the second half of Soft Swells' debut is fairly better than the first half. In a rare case, I almost wish Soft Swells released an EP with the last few songs rather an LP with too much filler in the beginning.

The closing song, "Decisions" shows an empathetic side to the duo that's both endearing and welcoming. If the direction of the album's sound palette were more like this song, then maybe Soft Swells would be worthy of a closer look. Regrettably it's not. It leads us to deciding or not if our time should be invested in such an album that has some strong points, but the derivative style is difficult to ignore. It really boils down to a toss up. Maybe fans of the pop-rock sound mixed with considerable earnestness will find something I didn't. All I know is, Soft Swells takes bits and pieces from other bands I already support and attempt to make an album all of their own. They come up short, but there is still a chance that Soft Swells can head down a road less traveled next

Key Tracks: "Never Leave Home", "Make It Go Away", "Decisions"

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF SIERRA MADRE AMENDING CHAPTER 6.04 ("ANIMAL CONTROL") OF THE SIERRA MADRE MUNICIPAL CODE BY AMENDING SECTION 6.040.080 ("USER FEE FOR AREAS DESIGNATED AS DOG PARKS") AND ADDING A NEW SECTION 6.04.090 ("PROHIBITING DOGS ON DESIGNATED PLAYING FIELDS")

WHEREAS, the City's playing fields are limited and valuable public facilities for the recreational use and enjoyment of citizens of all ages and for organized ball clubs, such as the Sierra Madre Pony League, Sierra Madre Little League, and Sierra Madre Girls Softball Association;

WHEREAS, in the past when dogs have been permitted on the playing fields, whether on or off leash, field damage has resulted from some dogs digging, as well as un-removed dog feces and urine, all of which pose a health and safety hazard to the youth who participate in baseball and other games;

WHEREAS, there are other more appropriate venues than playing fields for citizens to exercise their dogs, such as designated dog parks;

WHEREAS, the City desires to preserve its playing fields for the use and benefit of all its citizens, while still permitting citizens and their canine companions to enjoy the use of designated dog parks; and

NOW THERFORE THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF SIERRA MADRE DOES HEREBY ORDAIN AS FOLLOWS:

Areas Designated As Dog Parks") of Chapter 6.04 ("Animal Control") of Title 6 ("Animals") of the Sierra Madre Municipal Code is amended to read as follows: "6.04.080 User fee for areas designated as dog parks.

Use of any area designated by the city council as a dog park for off-leash exercise of dogs is subject to the payment of a user fee. The amount of said user fee shall be set by resolution of the city council.

A. Use of any area designated by the city council as a tag part.

a. The following areas are designated as dog parks for off-leash exercise of dogs, subject to the requirements of this section:

The Sierra Vista Park small dog park;

The Sierra Vista Park large dog park;

The Director of Finance is authorized to adopt such administrative regulations that are necessary to facilitate the payment of said user fee. Such regulations shall require that prior to issuance of evidence of payment of the user fee, the applicant shall sign a waiver of liability approved by the City Attorney and agree to be bound by the "Official Rules of Use for Dog Parks" as approved and amended from time to time by the Community Services Commission. The presence of a dog in a designated dog off-leash area shall constitute a waiver of liability, on behalf of the person either owning or controlling the dog, to the City of Sierra Madre, as well as an agreement and undertaking to protect, indemnify, defend, and hold harmless the City of Sierra Madre for any injury or damage caused by the dog.

Upon satisfying the requirements of subsection B of this section and any other administrative regulations adopted by the Director of Finance, the payer of the user fee shall be provided with evidence of payment or waiver of payment of the user fee. Saud evidence of payment or waiver of payment must be shown upon demand to any city official.

D. Persons who have obtained the age of sixty-five years may receive a waiver of payment of the user fee specified in subsection A of this section, but must still sign a waiver of liability as specified in subsection B prior to use of the dog park for off-leash exercise of a dog.

It shall be a violation of this Municipal Code to use any area, designated as a dog park or permit a dog entry to said areas without first paying the user fee required by this section.

F. Any person who takes a dog into an off-leash area must have physical control of the dog by means of an adequate leash when entering and leaving the off-leash area and must maintain voice control over the dog at all times while in the off-leash area. All dogs in an off-leash area must be licensed and must display valid license tags attached to the dog collar.

Any violation of this section shall be processed as a violation of this code.

Section 2. Municipal Code Amendment. Chapter 6.04 ("Animal Control") of Title 6 ("Animals") of the Sierra Madre Municipal Code is hereby amended by adding a new Section 6.04.090 ("Dogs Prohibited on Designated Playing Fields") to read as follows:

Dogs Prohibited on designated playing fields. Except seeing eye or other certified service dogs on leash or dogs used by public law enforcement agencies, no person owning, having a proprietary interest in, harboring or having the care, charge, control, custody or possession of a dog shall permit such dog to be upon any designated playing field grounds, regardless of whether the dog is on or off leash. Designated playing fields include:

LIFE ON EARTH REDISCOVERED BY LOOKING AT OUR MOON

By observing the Moon using the Very Large Telescope (VLT) at European Southern Observatory (ESO) in Chile, astronomers have found evidence of life in the universe—on Earth!

Finding life on our home planet may sound like a trivial observation, but the novel approach of an international team may lead to future discoveries of life elsewhere in the universe. The work is described in a paper in the March 1 issue of the journal Nature.

"We used a trick called earthshine observation to look at the Earth as if it were an exoplanet," says Michael Sterzik (ESO), lead author of the paper. "The Sun shines on the Earth and this light is reflected back

The crescent Moon and earthshine over ESO's Paranal Observatory to the surface of the Moon. The lunar surface acts as a giant mirror and reflects the Earth's light back to us—and this is what we have observed with the VLT."

The astronomers analyze the faint earthshine light to look for indicators, such as certain combinations of gases in the Earth's atmosphere, which are the telltale signs of organic life. This method establishes the Earth as a benchmark for the search for life on planets beyond our solar system.

The fingerprints of life, or biosignatures, are hard to find with conventional methods, but the team has pioneered a new approach that is more sensitive. Rather than just looking at how bright the beside a powerful light bulb. But the light reflectat the polarization of the light, an approach called spectropolarimetry. By applying this technique to earthshine observed with the VLT, the biosignatures in the reflected light from Earth show up very strongly.

Co-author of the study Stefano Bagnulo (Armagh Observatory, Northern Ireland, United Kingdom) explains the advantages: "The light from a distant exoplanet is overwhelmed by the glare of the host star, so it's very difficult to analyze—a bit like trying to study a grain of dust reflected light is in different colors, they also look ed by a planet is polarized, while the light from THE NEXT TIME YOU SEE a slim crescent the host star is not. So, polarimetric techniques help us to pick out the faint reflected light of an exoplanet from the dazzling starlight."

> The team studied both the color and the degree of polarization of light from the Earth after reflection from the Moon, as if the light was coming from an exoplanet. They managed to deduce that the Earth's atmosphere is partly cloudy, that part of its surface is covered by oceans and—crucially—that there is vegetation present.

When light is polarized, its component electric and magnetic fields have a specific orientation. In unpolarized light the orientation of the fields is random and has no preferred direction. The trick used in some 3D cinemas involves polarized light: separate images made with differently polarized light are sent to our left and right eyes by polarizing filters in the glasses. The team measured the polarization using a special mode of the FORS2 instrument on the VLT.

Earthshine, sometimes called the old Moon in the new Moon's arms, can easily be seen with the unaided eye and is spectacular in binoculars. It is best seen when the Moon is a thin crescent, about three days after new Moon. As well as the bright crescent the rest of the lunar disc is visible, dimly illuminated by the bright Earth in the lunar sky.

Moon, look for that twice-reflected sunlight. Reflections can be wonderful—out in the Universe and here at home.

The Moon's unlit side Is glowing with light tonight— The light we give off.

Someone's gloomy side Lights up because of your smile— The light you give off.

Like most IT pros I know, I occasionally have friends or family ask me to get them a job in IT. For some reason, a lot of the people who ask me this have a perception that everyone who works in IT is making great money or is on their way to becoming the next Bill Gates. Aside from having an incorrect perception about IT salaries, few people outside IT seem to understand just how tough working in IT really is.

In order to clear up a few misconceptions I'll share with you some of the inside info that only us IT pros know about our chosen career.

- 1. The hours are long. There are all sorts of IT jobs, but most of them have one thing in common: They involve working long hours. If you want to work in IT, you better be prepared to work nights and weekends.
- 2. Your personal time will be interrupted If you handle a critical support role within your organization, you will likely be tied to a cell phone. And you could be called that means upon to deal with an emergency at any given time.

- You have to deal with a lot of angry people - One of the worst things about working in IT (especially for helpdesk roles) is that you encounter a lot of angry people. Almost everyone who calls you is upset because they have a problem and they expect you to fix it right now. Often, there is a great deal of hostility behind these calls. Those who are calling are under pressure to get a job done — and the problem your system caused is preventing them from doing it.
- 4. People (friends, family and coworkers) expect you to fix their home computers - ...all the time.
- You have to keep your education current If you didn't like school then this is not the field for you because the schooling never ends.

Things don't always work the way that they're supposed to - Believe me when I say that there's nothing worse than trying to complete a project by the deadline you have been given only to have things come to a grinding halt as a result of technical problems. Computer systems are complicated and sometimes in spite of your best efforts, things just do not work the way they're supposed to. Something as simple as an inconsistent chip version on a series of system boards can derail an entire project. Naturally, it's up to you to find the problem and fix it.

If you still have your heart set on a career in IT the plus side is that there's never been a time quite like this to be in this field. There are probably more specialties than one can count to work in and overall IT has changed the face of the modern world in ways that geeks from earlier times could never have imagined. Plus One!

Who's Whoof? My Favorite Hollywood Canine Cast of Characters

at age 7, I cried openly, while watching the movie, "Lassie Come Home". I was spending the night at a friend's house, and we were During my quest to identify the canines that watching the last scene of the movie, where Lassie appears at the hilltop and runs down to meet Timmy, who takes her into his arms and begins crying his own tears of joy over having her back home. Well, there I was, centered family of 5, sobbing sloppily about a fictional harrowed hero of the show. I was a basket case! The next morning at breakfast, I was ribbed by my friend's two older brothers for my open display of emotions, after which I packed my bag and headed home. The hardest part was living it down at school the following week, when my girlfriend's two brothers shared the ordeal with the rest of my class mates. At the baby, blubbering over Lassie, but now I give myself a break, and even a pat on the back for caring about the welfare of a dog, any dog, even an actor dog!

This recent nostalgic memory inspired me to look up some of my favorite famous canine characters, hoping to find as information Another Hollywood cast canine character that I much as I could about who they really were. I started my search with Lassie, since she was my first favorite dog in film and I found out that although the Lassie character was a female in the movie, the dog who played her part was actually a male Rough Collie named "Pal"! Pal was born on June 4, 1940 at Cherry Osborne's Glamis Kennels in Hollywood, and had his first film debut in "Lassie Come Home" (1943) - the one that brought on my embarrassing blubbering ordeal. He went on to play the same which he starred in two pilots of the TV series, retired and finally died in 1958. During his life of 18 years, Pal must have touched the hearts cast in film

My second favorite famous dog was "Duke" on The Beverly Hillbillies. The part of Duke was played by a wrinkly purebred Bloodhound named "Stretch". At 13 years of age, Stretch was replaced by a younger bloodhound who continued to play the part of Duke until the final episode. Following his 10 year career as Duke on The Beverly Hillbillies, Stretch appeared in the military comedy film entitled No Time for Sargents (1958), starring Andy Griffith as newly recruited army private Will Stockdale. I couldn't find any information about who owned Stretch, or how he was discovered, but I will say he is the reason I fell in love with bloodhounds, and chose that breed as my own pet. My dog Tater is so much like Duke. The resemblance is undeniable, and like Duke, Tater would much rather lay around than take I'll never forget how embarrassed I was, when a walk or perform a service, such as hunting or searching, as bloodhounds are bred to do.

were cast as Hollywood characters I grew up with, I remembered a show that featured a huge dog, but because I was about 5 when I watched the reruns with my parents, I couldn't remember the title. I finally figured out that between my friend and the rest of her entire the TV comedy series was Topper, and it was all about a couple who were buried in an dog who'd gone missing and ended up as the avalanche with their guide dog, "Neil" while skiing in Switzerland. After the accident, they return as ghosts (including the dog) and carry out a plethora of shenanigans that keep the new home owner, "Topper" on his toes. The part of Neil was played by a gorgeous Saint Bernard named "Buck". Buck was raised by Beatrice Knight of the Sanctuary Kennels in Oregon. I couldn't find much information about Buck, time, I guess I considered myself to be a big but I did learn that there was a feature film entitled Topper, based on the same novel, but in the movie the canine character is a Wirehaired Terrier named "Mr. Atlas", played by a dog named "Skippy", and that Skippy later played the part of "Asta" in the TV series, The > really liked growing up, appeared in the movie series, Benji. To my delight, I found out that the dog first dog who played the part of Benji was a mixed-breed, rescue shelter dog named "Higgins", who was trained by Frank Inn, and one of Higgins' offspring, "Benjean" played the same part in subsequent films.

There are so many other doggie actors that I could include in this article, but unfortunately I don't have the time or space, so I hope you've part in 6 more MGM "Lassie" features, after enjoyed the bits of information that I did share about the famous cast canines I treasured growing up. I am personally very impressed with the dog's ability to be trained to entertain, of more youngsters than any other canine ever and it means a lot to me have had so many canine characters who played an important part of entertaining me as a child.

1205 GARFIELD AVENUE SOUTH PASADENA A HIDDEN JEWEL: RARE EXPANSIVE SOUTH PASADENA ESTATE

Nearly invisible behind the gates of this Spanish Colonial Revival estate, reigns a serene retreat of extraordinary character in South Pasadena. Covered in the rustic clay tiles of the period, this 4809 square foot estate sprawls in an L-shape, offering privacy for each bedroom with its own or a shared bath.

Building on the beautiful bones of the home, the current owner undertook an enormous top to bottom update in 1995. Maintaining careful deference to the style and period of the home, she gutted much of the home, starting with the un-glamorous yet very necessary systems of the home, including electrical and heating.

In each step, the seller says, there was never a compromise to the integrity of this beautiful diamond that required a fresh face and a serious polish. The distinctive doorknobs, for instance, were carefully preserved throughout, and add to the home's period charm

The two story foyer is simply breathtaking with its sandblasted wood beam, cathedral ceilings, colorful tiled stairs, and perimeter, gallery overlook on two sides. Beautifully lit from above with French doors and other windows, the spacious room just glows. The staircase has rather utilitarian iron railings that also didn't satisfy today's code requirements, so an ornate railing system was handcrafted.

The many fireplaces are all wood burning. Particularly noteworthy is the corner dining room fireplace, which prior to the remodel was very plain. An added mantel made the fireplace the new focal point for the massive room, easily seating a large party. A combination of the original chandelier and vintage sconces add real drama and romantic lighting to any dinner party. A delightful, built-in china cabinet features a glass door and ornate iron detailing.

THE GOOD LIFE

YOGA IS JUST STRETCHING.

OPEN UP: The 1st Step

By Rene Quenell, Proprietor Yoga Madre -Sierra Madre

Many people tell me that they can't do yoga because they are not flexible. Hmmmm. How do we GET flexible? Flexibility is not achieved by force. Flexibility comes from opening up. And opening up comes from having enough space to open into.

And it all starts with the mind. Resistance has many forms. But the mind is the command center. If the mind is full full full then there is no space for new ideas. I guess the easy way to look at it is like the hard drive. There is only so much space on your computer. We need to clean house of the old files sometimes to make space for the new files. Sometimes we really need to get in there and take a look at what we are hanging on to and why. Is it really useful? Maybe we even need a new operating system!

We are just like this. We need to make space for new ideas and new ways of doing things. We need to take a look at some of the beliefs we carry around and see if they are serving us. If we can be open to the experience of taking a look at the ego and how it motivates us and/or limits us, we really begin to get places. And boy oh boy, does that ego show up on the mat. Sometimes, in a great way! Sometimes - not so much. Learning to get to know it and use it effectively is, well amazing. So make some space in the mind for new ways of thinking. Make some space in the heart for new emotions and beliefs. Make some space in the belly, the hips and the hamstrings to function more efficiently. And see what opens up.

TAX HELP IN CARING FOR AN AGING PARENT

Dear Savvy Senior:

My wife and I provide a lot of financial support to my elderly mother and are wondering if any of it is tax deductible. What can you tell us? Stretched

Dear Stretched:

There is some tax relief available to adult children who help look after their aging parents or other relatives. But in order to be eligible, both you and your mom will need to meet Uncle Sam's criteria. Here's what you should know.

If you're helping financially support your elderly mother, to get a tax deduction you'll need to claim her as a dependent on your tax return. For the 2011 tax year, claiming an additional personal exemption would reduce your taxable income by $3,700. But to get this tax break, you'll need to pass the IRS's income and support tests:

Income test: To qualify as a dependent, your mom's 2011 gross income must have been less than $3,700. Her income from Social Security does not count towards that total, nor do disability payments. But if your mom receives more than $3,700 from other sources, such as pension benefits, interest and dividends from investments, or withdrawals from retirement savings plans, you can't claim her as a dependent.

Support test: In addition to the income test, you must provide more than half of your mom's costs for housing, food, medical care, transportation and other necessities. Even if all of your mom's income is from Social Security, you can't claim her as a dependent unless you pay more than half her living expenses.

It's also important to note that your mom doesn't have to live with you to qualify as a dependent. as long as she meets the income test and you provide more than half her financial support. If your mother lives with you, you can include a percentage of your mortgage, utilities and other expenses in calculating how much you contribute to her support. IRS Publication 501 (see www. irs.gov/pub/irs-pdf/p501.pdf) has a worksheet that can help you with this. To receive this, or other IRS publications or forms via mail, call 800-829-3676.

Shared Support:

If you share the financial responsibility for your mom with other siblings, you may be eligible mom with other siblings, you may be eligible for the IRS multiple-support declaration. Here's how this works. If one sibling is providing more than half the parent's financial support, only that sibling can claim the parent. But if each sibling provides less than 50 percent support, but their combined assistance exceeds half the parent's support. In that case, any sibling who provides support. In that case, any sibling who provides more than 10 percent can claim the parent as a dependent. But only one sibling can claim the tax break in any given year. Siblings can rotate the tax break, with one claiming the parent one year, and another the next. The sibling who claims the parent as a dependent will need to fill out IRS Form 2120 (www.irs.gov/pub/irs-pdf/f2120.pdf) and file it with his or her tax return.

Medical Deductions:

If you can't claim your mom as a dependent, you may still get a tax break for helping pay her medical costs. The IRS lets taxpayers deduct money spent on a parent's health care and qualified long-term care services, even if the parent doesn't qualify as a dependent.

To claim this deduction, you still must provide more than half your mom's support, but your mom doesn't have to meet the income test. And the deduction is limited to medical, dental and long-term care expenses that exceed 7.5 percent of your adjusted gross income. You can include your own medical expenses in calculating the total. See the IRS publication 502 (www.irs.gov/ pub/irs-pdf/p502.pdf) for details.

Check Your State:

In addition to the federal tax breaks, more than 20 states offer tax credits and deductions for caregivers on state income taxes too. Check with your state tax agency to see what's available.

coaching as well?

By Harvey Hyde

COACHES SHOULD BE TEACHERS TOO

role of the coach has been changing. This is an era of "specialization" -- in medicine, mechanics, athmy football coaching career in the early 1960s, I wasn't just a coach. While working as an assistant coach at Notre Vista High School in Riverside, I taught history and PE, and was also a drivers' education instructor. I was paid and listed as an instructor with some extra time put in for coaching. And isn't really good teaching

At PCC, where I was the head football coach, I also taught a variety of PE classes, a sports philosophy class and a sports officiating class. I had moved out of the teaching of history and more toward Physical Education. are dropping like a punctured balloon. Just Although at UNLV, I was strictly the head football coach, at Long Beach State for two years beginning in 1990, I was an assistant coach and a PE teacher.

There was nothing unusual about that back then. Most coaches would also teach PE, history, math, science, vocational classes, you name it. Although they no doubt loved the sport and coaching it, and might be hoping for a larger future in coaching, along the way, and to their own benefit, they were also responsible for regular classes. Many of them were especially good in the classroom. They were interested not only in the subject, but also in rapport with their students. They had meaningful relationships with all students, not just athletes. They were able to instill pride throughout the student body as well as the community as a whole. They also worked with parents, booster clubs, the regular faculty and the local PTA. They were involved with fundraising and organizing various

Because of the respect they inspired in students and the rest of the faculty, In lots of

Just as in almost ev- cases, well-rounded coaches would go on to erything else, the become dean of students or principals, maybe even superintendent of schools. I have to say that attitudes and outlooks toward young people and coaching are often well applied in administrative positions.

But things have changed. High school letics and education. coaching positions - not just in football but When I first began all sports -- are now often part time, and assistant coaches usually are volunteers. Coaches are usually not a part of the regular faculty.

It used to be that coaches, particularly football coaches, would remain at a school for years and be prominent figures in the community. Now they often can't afford to stay. A part-time coach essentially becomes a one-man staff who has to do everything while scheduling practices around his volunteer assistants' work schedules or his own other job. This can be inefficient and also result in

No wonder high school football coaches in the immediate area there are openings at Muir, La Canada, La Salle, Rosemead, Alhambra, and I might have missed a few.

Today's coaches are not teachers on campus, and that's unfortunate. They don't form relationships throughout the student body or the faculty because they only see the players they coach and only staff members in the athletic department. And with the players and other students, they rarely get involved in the academic side of their lives.

So what is the answer?

School administrators need to start filling teaching positions with people who can handle a dual role - teach academic subjects and coach athletics.

We appreciate volunteer coaches because certainly there is a need for them. But there is also a need to hire teachers who can do more than one thing well. We need those who can coach and teach -- and teach and coach. What a concept!

The Proper Golf Grip - Check Your Knuckles

In order to hit the golf ball further and more consistent, after you grip the club-check your knuckles EVERY TIME. I have a question for you that you have to answer in two seconds. Is gripping the golf club an art or a science? Think about it for 10 seconds if you want to. Do you know why I am giving you 10 seconds to think about it? Ten seconds is longer than you take to think about gripping the club when your on the golf course.

When most amateur golfers struggle with their golf game it can be traced right back to the grip the golf club. What I have heard for the past 35 years is "I am really struggling with my swing"-DON'T TOUCH MY GRIP. "I keep coming over the top"-DON'T TOUCH MY GRIP. "I can't stop hooking the ball"-DON'T TOUCH MY GRIP.

Here is the problem. Changing your grip can be a nightmare. I don't care if you have played for six months or 30 years, for you to make a grip change, it can be a long and painful process. I started playing golf when I was 2 years old, by the time I was 13 I was bigger and stronger and I had a very strong grip. I hooked the ball way too much. My mom told me it was time to weaken it, It was the longest year of my life.

I am going to let you in on two little secrets that nobody talks about. If you slice the golf or if you hit weak fades to the right, changing your grip will be the most exciting and rewarding thing you will do for your golf game. You will fall in love with me in five minutes. (OK, maybe a little overboardcan you tell I am excited)? On the other hand. If you hook the ball you will want to wrap that driver around my neck for about three months AND then you will also fall in love with me.

That is secret number one. Now for secret number two. Whether you are a slicer or hooker of the golf ball, changing your grip can be very uncomfortable. I have a saying that I have used with my students for 20 years. As soon as they change their grip and make solid contact they always say to me it doesn't feel good". And I always say to them "you have a choice, you can either hit it poorly and feel good or hit it great and feel poorly".

Let me tell you why the knuckles are so important. Let's talk about slicing first. After you grip the golf club and address the golf ball, when you look down at your left hand, you probable don't see any knuckles. of the left hand. You see the top of the left thumb. The problem is the clubface will not close in time for you to hit a draw. This next part is really important. Before you start your backswing, simple turn BOTH hands to the right the same amount. Do it in baby steps. Turn the hands on the club so you can see one knuckle, and hit some balls from this position. If you get rid of your slice then stop. You have hit gold, that is the correct grip for you. This is a very powerful change, that is why you will love it.

On to the golfers that hook the ball. After you grip the club and address the golf ball you will look down and see three or four knuckles of the left hand. The clubhead will close way to fast in the downswing from with this grip. You have to move BOTH of your hands to the left the same amount. Do it in baby steps, one knuckle at a time. The reason this is more painful than the grip change above is because you are going from a stronger position to a weaker position. You will not feel the love for some time. I know you can do this, I did.

In closing after you grip the club-check your knuckles EVERY TIME and you will begin to see the ball start flying straighter and further. Want to learn more? Go to: www.igolffixes.com
