SIERRA MADRE ELECTION COVERAGE

On April 10, 2012, voters in Sierra Madre will go to the polls and select three people from a field of seven to sit on the City Council and elect a new City Treasurer and City Clerk. They will also vote on a local ballot measure on whether or not to extend the User Utility Tax and a related advisory measure.

The city council race will fill two seats for new four year terms and one seat for the unexpired two year term vacated by former Mayor Joe Mosca.

The Mountain Views News will provide our readers with comprehensive coverage of this election. Each week, as we have done in the past, we will profile the candidates and give each of the candidates the opportunity to introduce themselves to our readers by answering the following questions: (All candidates are being asked to answer the same questions)

Why are you running for Office?
 What are your plans if elected?

The revised schedule:

THIS WEEK: Candidate Colin Braudrick for City Council - 2 year term-Below

March 24th Candidate Chris Koerber for City Council - 2 year term

Website: www.chrisforsierramadre.com

Camdidate Bill Tice for City Council - 4 year term No website available at this time.

It is our sincere hope that each candidate will submit their answers so that we can share them with our readers. A separate letter has been sent to each candidate asking them to participate.

In addition to the candidate spotlights, we will attempt to cover the various forums sponsored by local organizations. Where possible, the unedited video of these forums will be broadcast on the paper's website.

Our reporting on this election will be as fair and objective as possible. However, please keep in mind that our columnists are always free to share their opinions. Their opinions are their opinions and may or may not reflect the position of the paper. This is true in all things, not just this election.

We will also provide for you the calendar of important dates regarding the election. It is our goal to do whatever we can to help you make an informed decision on April 10, 2012.

Candidates on the April 10th ballot in Sierra Madre had a very busy week. Beginning on Sunday, when VFW Lodge 3208 held the first Electon Forum and ending on Thursday evening with a 'Meet and Greet' mixer at the Women's Club, four of the five candidates for city council told residents why they should be elected to help govern the town.

The questions and answers did not change much at any of the events. Of tantamount importance to residents were the city's finances, the proposed Assisted Living facility and the User Utility tax. All candidates favored the proposed Assisted Living facility pending approval by voters of the project in November.

However, when it came to the User Utility Tax Extension, Chris Koerber, Mary Ann MacGillivray and John Capoccia were opposed while Colin Braudrick, Gene Goss and John Harabedian were in favor of the extension. In addition to Sunday's event, the Sierra Madre Kiwanis Club, pictured above. held a forum on Tuesday afternoon, followed by the Chamber of Commerce on Wednesday evening. You can view the Kiwanis and Chamber events online. Go to www.mtnviewsnews.com

COLIN J. BRAUDRICK

I am a 16-year resident of Sierra Madre and have raised my 12-year-old son here. I am running for City Council because I want to ensure that he has the same opportunity to raise his kids in the amazing community as I had. I treasure the feeling of raising my family in "Mayberry" and I am committed to protecting our unique village atmosphere.

necessary to be your representative. I am a rate that it is at before the election. 15-year LAPD veteran, have an MBA, and have sat on the Library Board of Trustees and the Parks and Facilities Master Plan. I am currently on the General Plan Steering Committee (GPSC), where we are rewriting a several hundred page document that is like the constitution for Sierra Madre; setting goals for land use, public safety, traffic, wildlife, and natural disaster mitigation. Being part of the GPSC has given me the experience to be your council member and I have voted time and time again to preserve our community. I have also come up with creative ideas, such as creating incentives to preserve our historic homes when adding a second residence in our R-2 zone.

I will work to establish common sense oversight so we do not overburden people who are doing the right thing but unintentionally get captured in a costly bureaucratic maze. I am not afraid to address our City's financial crisis and the threat it poses to our community. I have the vision and leadership to address today the financial disaster we will face in 2015, and the courage to support continuing the Utility Users Tax. Also I will not automatically raise your UUT rate to 12%, I bring the experience, leadership, and vision but commit to vote to reduce it to the same

GREEN FLAG ALERT

The City's state of emergency level is now at Stage One: GREEN FLAG—Activated under a prediction of 80%—100% chance of precipitation. Affected residents should get "READY" for potential evacuation. This includes keeping a close watch on weather forecasts. Updates will also be issued on SMTV3 (Time Warner-channel 3), the City's website www.cityofsierramadre.com, the Sierra Madre Community Radio (AM 1630), eblasts, and the City's emergency blog (http://sierramadrepio/blogspot. com).

NEIGHBORHOOD WATCH CAPTAINS GET SAFETY AND CRIME UPDATES FROM SMPD

By Chris Bertrand on Special Assignment

On Monday evening, March 12, officials from Sierra Madre Police Department met with the community's Neighborhood Watch Block Captains to bring the representatives up to date on local as well as national crime trends, identifying critical safety precautions and measures to minimize the public's exposure to Police Chief Larry Giannone, Lt. Mike Kirkpatrick, Officer Ruben Enriquez, plus Cadets Ho and Gonzalez each delivered parts of the program. Due to an arising police issue, Lt. Len Hundshamer's Emergency Preparedness and Lessons Learned from the December Windstorm presentations were tabled for a future meeting.

Credit Card Skimming

The topics of internet crime, identity theft and fraud were a hot topic, in the wake of the Valero skimming operation uncovered several months ago, barely a year after 600+ patrons of the EVG gas station just a block away became victims of credit card fraud, now tied to the Russian mafia. PD officials indicated that both cases are being investigated by federal authorities from the Secret Service, due to the overseas and organized crime connections to the cases. The Valero incident has generated about 55 victims since coming to light in December, 2011.

Though the alert was sounded months ago, one neighborhood watch captain discovered fraud from the Valero incident only recently, and was encouraged to file a police report.

Although this type of criminal activity is rampant, especially at gas stations across the country, consumers can reduce risk by using pumps that employ tamper tape, though this is not 100% effective. "Whenever a new anticriminal technology is used, the criminals will always try to get around it," said Enriquez.

A YouTube video http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=lLAFhTjsQHw&sns=em produced by a television news program about the identity fraud vulnerability posed with Radio Frequency Identification (RFID) chips in credit cards was shown. These RFID chips are embedded in some credit cards in order to enable a "fast pay" rather than swipe procedure.

The percentage of these chips embedded in American credit cards is low, the risk to those whose cards have the chip is high. After the initial installation of a skimming device within the pump, criminals can capture information from credit cards without even lifting the card from a victim's wallet through wireless, Bluetooth technology.

The SMPD recommends removal of these chips to reduce credit card fraud risk. They also recommend a vigilant watch on transactions through credit accounts, though they recommend the used of credit cards over debit cards, due to the greater ease of funds recovery.

Mail Theft Arrests and Local Property Crime

traffic stop on Baldwin recently, and discovered that the two occupants' vehicle contained mail and other that the two occupants' vehicle contained mail or car that doesn't belong, call us at 626-355-1292 or at 911. We will be happy to come and check it out." investigations were solved by the observant actions of the alert SMPD officer.

According to Enriquez, comparing the 2011 to 2012 periods from January 1 through March 12, residential and commercial burglaries had no change, with 5 occuring in both years during this period. Auto burglaries and thefts from vehicles increased from 5in 2011 to 7 in 2012. Auto thefts increased from 0 to 2 between the two years. All other thefts increased from 6 in 2011 to 11 in 2012 during the period in

Enriquez stressed that securing vehicles and homes by locking them will reduce crimes of opportunity greatly. Though Sierra Madre is quite safe, the PD recommends locking cars and houses, and to refrain from leaving purses, wallets, laptops and especially GPS navigators completely out of sight in vehicles. Stolen Bicycle Sting Successful that day, the resident checked bicycle listings on Craig's List, and found a listing matching his cycle. He gave the information and the serial number of the bike to police.

Sierra Madre cooperated with Pasadena Police and performed a sting to attempt to "purchase" the bike from the alleged perpetrator at a Pasadena location. The bike was indeed the same one, identified by PD personnel acting as buyers. The seller, who was identified as a Sierra Madre resident, offered the stolen item at $1,000 for a quick sale, was arrested. Officer Enriquez stressed that the bicycle was able to be recovered so easily, because the owner recorded the serial number of the item.

Overnight Parking Permit Process Online April

For Sierra Madre resident convenience as well as to better utilize police department staffing, an online parking permit program will go live on April 1. SMPD fields up to 30 requests a day for overnight parking permits for on-street parking during the daily no parking time of 2-5 a.m. on city streets.

Captain Giannone indicated the process took much longer to bring online than earlier expected, but will finally be available in the next few weeks, through a parking service center company called www.PayMyCite.com.

Yearly permits as well as daily permits up to 7 days long can be purchased online, and permits printed immediately and conveniently at home if paid online by credit card. The PD will continue to handle walk-in requests for parking

Rise in Burglaries May Be Tied to Safety Realignment In a post-meeting email, Chief Giannone shared that increased crimes may point to the early release of incarcerated inmates as a result of the 2011 Public Safety Realignment. He indicated that a rash of burglaries in the San Fernando Valley has some wondering if the inmate early release program could be to blame. While it is too early in year to get statistics on the people committing these crimes, the Los Angeles Police Department has noted a trend.

"Of the people that we are arresting associated with property crimes, we find that they are people who already have arrest records," said LAPD Captain Paul Snell with the Van Nuys Division. "And many of which have already been in state prison."

SMPD recommends common sense procedures for crime prevention. Be alert to your surroundings. "If you're headed into a dark alley alone, consider waiting to join other pedestrians as a group. Be alert if you are alone in secluded places like movie theaters," an uncomfortable experience Enriquez and his wife recently had. Activate security alarms even when home, and use motion lights. Most importantly, report suspicious persons.

Enriquez concluded, "Our citizens and An SMPD officer made a relatively routine Neighborhood Watch are our eyes and ears. We can't be everywhere at once. If you see a person

> SMPD Seeks More Neighborhood Watch Groups As part of the department's communication program, the SMPD meets regularly with both Block Captains and Business Owners to keep them apprised of information that will help all keep the crime level down and public safety up. The PD welcomes the opportunity to offer as many Neighborhood Watch meetings as a group would like to have, according to Giannone. Many of the groups represented had been about two years since a neighborhood meeting was held. Though the city has many

ST. RITA TO HOST "JOURNEY TO THE CROSS" APRIL 1 AT 7 P.M.

An Evening of Prayer, Reflection and Music

St. Rita Church will host a special ecumenical event on Palm Sunday evening at 7 p.m. on April 1. Palm Sunday marks the beginning of Holy Week's traditional commemoration of the series of events that define Christian faith: Jesus' triumphal entrance into Jerusalem, when palm branches were placed in His path, the time before His arrest on Holy Thursday and His Crucifixion on Good Friday.

Choir members from churches in Pasadena, South Pasadena, Walnut and Glendale, plus vocalists from three colleges, USC, CSULA and PCC will join the St. Rita choir. The event will debut poignant new music and script written as a collaborative effort by Sierra Madreans, Mimi Mycroft and Paul Puccinelli, interspersed with traditional reflective Lenten prayer Puccinelli, Director of Liturgy and Music at St. Rita, said the evening will present a fresh perspective, as seen through the eyes of passersby on the "Journey to the Cross" with an overarchingtheme of forgiveness.

Said Mycroft, an experienced playwright and pageant producer, "We wanted to make the week of the Passion a special spiritual experience for the parish and community." She has worked on "connecting the dots with narrations, and viewing the same situation through different eyes."
The duo's goal is to offer a full fledged experience from different perspectives. A young girl will reflect the joy of Jesus the King coming to Jerusalem. Another vignette will follow two apostles as they prepare for the fest in the upper room. A miffed Judas will speak in soliloquy after being dismissed by Jesus from the supper table. At the Crucifixion, Mary Magdalene will reflect on Mother Mary at the foot of the cross. Later, the Centurion who won Jesus' cloak in a roll of the dice, will share Mycroft and Pucinelli hope to spark renewed reflection and prayer, engendered by "What if I were there?" "What would I have said?" and "What would

All are welcome at this ecumenically appropriate evening. Donations will be gratefully accepted. St. Rita Catholic Church is located at 318 N. Baldwin Avenue, Sierra Madre. For more information, please call 626-355-1292 or visit the parish website, www. St-Rita.org.

Portantino Named 'Legislator of the Year'

California Police Chiefs recognize Portantino for his public safety advocacy accomplishments Assemblymember Portantino was honored last night in Sacramento by the California Police Chiefs Association (CPCA) for his public safety measure banning the open carry of unloaded handguns in public places.

"As someone with many relatives in law enforcement this means a lot to me. I know and respect the dedicated men and women in uniform and the work they do to keep our communities safe and it is a tremendous honor to receive this recognition," stated Assemblymember Portantino. "I have been blessed to have worked closely with the Police Chiefs during my time in office most recently on the bill to ban the open carry of unloaded handguns. California is a safer place because the Governor signed our collaborative effort into law."

Last year, Assemblymember Portantino successfully authored AB 144 which outlaws the "open carry" of unloaded firearms in California. The bill was backed by the CPCA and rank and file police officers who maintained that open carry of weapons in public places was a safety threat and a waste of law enforcement officers' time.

"Assemblymember Portantino authored the Open Carry bill and against all odds, got it through the Legislature and to the Governor's desk," stated CPCA President Dave Maggard, Chief of the Irvine Police Department. "Getting legislation like this introduced and passed is critical for the safety of our communities we appreciate Assemblymember Portantino's leadership."

The legislation makes it illegal to carry an unloaded handgun in any public place or street. Law enforcement personnel are exempt as are hunters and others carrying unloaded unaer specinea licensed circumstances.

This year, after open carry supporters began appearing in public with rifles and shotguns, Assemblymember authored AB 1527, a measure that will prohibit individuals from openly displaying unloaded rifles and shotguns in public. This bill also has the support of the Police Chiefs Association and is currently making its way through the Assembly.

Pet of the Week

Raider is a 13-year-old black and tan Dachshund. He's a little bit overweight so an active and attentive family would be great for him. Other than that, he's a very sweet older guy.

Raider's adoption fee is $120, which includes his neuter surgery, a microchip, the first set of vaccinations, as well as a free followup health check at a participating vet. He's also eligible for the Seniors for Seniors program in which adopters, 60 years old or older, only pay the $20 mandatory microchip fee. New adopters will receive complimentary health and wellness exam from VCA Animal Hospitals. Ask an adoptions counselor for more information during your visit.

Call the Pasadena Humane Society & SPCA at 626.792.7151 to ask about A303097, or visit at 361 S. Raymond Ave. in Pasadena. Adoption hours are 11-4 Sunday, 9-5 Tuesday -Friday, 9-4 Saturday. Directions and photos of all pets can be found at www. pasadenahumane.org.

Council Votes to Move NFL Study Forward

Chancellor Jack Scott to Hold Town Hall Meeting

California Community Colleges Chancellor Dr. Jack Scott will conduct a town hall meeting at Pasadena City College on March 22 to provide a "State of the State" report on the status of higher education in California. The event, which is co-sponsored by the Pasadena Area Community College District Board of Trustees and the PCC Academic Senate, will provide a discussion on how best to respond to the budget crisis.

Scott will be available to answer questions by PCC students, faculty, and staff and members of the community about the impact of the budget cuts on districts statewide and the measures he is urging individual districts to take. He will also share his personal perspective on the importance of the Student Success Task Force recommendations that are currently being considered the California State Legislature.

The Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges unanimously selected Scott as the 14th chancellor of the California Community Colleges in 2008.

A member of the State Legislature since 1996, Dr. Scott represented California's 21st Senatorial District, which includes Pasadena, Glendale, and Burbank; a portion of the city of Los Angeles, and other surrounding cities and communities. Prior to being elected to the State Legislature, Dr. Scott was president of PCC beginning in 1987. The hallmark of Dr. Scott's presidency was the launching and completion of a $100 million master plan to meet the college's needs into the 21st century.

Scott announced his retirement earlier this year and will officially leave his position as chancellor in September of 2012.

The town hall begins at noon in PCC's Sexson Auditorium. Free parking will be available in lots 6 and 7. Please call (626) 585-7211 for more information.

WHAT WERE YOU THINKING, GOVERNOR BROWN?

By Joan Schmidt

In a daily publication, I noticed the headlines, Police Chiefs asked to back tax hikes. The article stated that on Monday, March 12th, the Governor had appealed to the Chiefs of Police for support of his November tax initiative and there are going to be SEVERAL tax proposals on the ballot!

His measure wants to raise the state sales tax by half a cent for four years and increase the income tax on those making more than $250,000 a year for five years. Well this may not seem too bad but guess what? His stupidity and not doing any research is

I need to clarify that this "N3" refers only to the prisoner's CURRENT charge! Previously, there may have been charges of However, there was a spirited debate at the armed robbery or even manslaughter. This came as a shock to me. This is one of the many reasons Supervisor Antonovich is so long term.

The Supervisor began and reiterated that the Governor had other options for the prison overcrowding. The prisoners could have been transferred to other facilities for HALF THE COST. One figure mentioned was $60+ per day to house a prisoner out of state and that's INCLUSIVE (medical coverage)! Here it was almost double that cost and it does NOT include medical, mental health, drug programs. I went on line and was blown away by the low costs for prisons in others states! I also found out that 58 counties in California are dealing with the problem. Riverside County Sheriff Stan Sniff Jr. said jails in 36 counties in California are already crowded. In his county, they are under a federal court order since 1993 not to pack too many inmates into its five county jails. Capacity stands at 3,940 and expansion is at least a few years away. With AB 109, Riverside can expect 1,727 parolees released this year.

How have we fared since Governor Brown's program began? Anna had the figures: As of February 24, 2012, 5,526 PSP's (Low level parolees) are under county probation supervision instead of state parole supervision. 1,127 PSP's have been assessed why we are in this situation.

SPEAK TO US ON THE WAYS OF THE WILLOW

A lesson in learning how to learn

The wise man of the forest had been hailed by the people of the land, the eager pilgrims, to teach another lesson in the ways of nature. "Speak to us on the ways of the willow, oh kind sir," asked one of the pilgrims. "The people are in great need, and it would benefit them greatly to learn the secrets of the prolific willow."

The wise man listened intently, and told the pilgrim that he would teach the lesson on the morrow, and that the pilgrim should bring the families to the spot in the river where the willows grow around mid-day.

"Oh thank you kind sir," said the pilgrim. "We shall be there, eager and ready to receive your lessons."

On the following mid-day, the wise man was at the willows early, as the pilgrims began to trickle in.

It was a cool day as the pilgrims gathered around the riverbed area, near the tall and drooping willows.

"Oh, kind sir," asked the elder pilgrim. "It is so chilly in this area. Perhaps we can build a small fire to warm up before you begin your talk?"

Without speaking, the wise man of the forest collected a long straight piece of dried willow. It was about as thick as a pencil, and about a foot and a half long.

He took another dead and dried piece of willow branch, about as big around as his fist and maybe a foot long. As the pilgrims watched, the man of the forest first took his large knife and split the branch in half, and then further split the half so he had a flat rectangular piece of willow. All the pilgrims watched carefully as of willow onto the flat piece. The wise man pressed hard, and begun to spin the willow drill onto the flat piece of willow, and soon smoke flowed from the friction. The wise man continued to spin thusly, and smoke poured out from the drilling. Soon, there was a red-hot ember in the dust that the wise man created.

The wise man quickly collected a bunch of dried willow bark from a dead branch, and scraped it with his knife to sky was darkening. create a fluffy bunch of thin bark. He deftly placed the little ember into his nest of fluffy willow bark, and carefully blew on it until it puffed into a flame. He then placed it into a circle of stones, and added dry willow sticks so that the fire could grow and the pilgrims could warm themselves.

The wise man then began to collect his thoughts for his talk, when the leader of the pilgrims spoke up again.

"Kind sir, I don't want to trouble you, but we have an elder here with pain in his legs. He cannot stand or sit comfortably on the floor. Is there something we can do for him?

The wise man nodded, and then

First, the man of the woods created a square from the willows, and securely measured, and then cut, willow branches that he then lashed to the square like legs, and the square became the seat of a chair. The wise man whirled around back to the willows, and carefully trimmed pencil-thin twigs about 10 inches long. He passed several pairs of these to the pilgrim, saying only "chop sticks." The pilgrims eagerly took these and began to eat their vegetables and rice.

SANTA ANITA EXPRESSES REGRET OVER LOSS OF HORSE, CANCELLATION OF HBO'S DRAMATIC SERIES 'LUCK'

ARCADIA, Calif. (March 15, 2012)—Santa Anita officials and horsemen reacted with dismay and sorrow upon the news of the highly publicized equine fatality here on Tuesday morning and the subsequent decision Wednesday by HBO to cease production on season-two of LUCK.

"All of us here at Santa Anita, including horsemen, management and employees are deeply saddened by the stable area accident which resulted in the death of a horse being used in the production of LUCK here on Tuesday morning," said Thoroughbred horse owner Mark Verge, speaking on behalf of the Stronach Group. "While it was the totally unpredictable result of the filly being frightened and then flipping over backwards as she was being hand-walked to her stall, we nonetheless feel badly for the horse and all of those involved with her care.

"As for the decision by HBO to cease production on LUCK, that is obviously their decision alone. While many have expressed disappointment in the direction some of the characters and episodes had gone, we feel badly that so many LUCK-related jobs have now been eliminated.

"Going in, we felt this was a great opportunity to reach a younger demographic and in many cases, expose them to our great sport for the first time. Although Santa Anita looked magnificent on screen it's safe to say this is a missed opportunity on several levels."

ARCADIA ROTARY CLUB SALUTE TO SENIORS

The annual Salute to Seniors luncheon sponsored by the Arcadia Rotary Club will be held on Tuesday, May 8th from 11:30am-1:30pm at the Arcadia Community Center, 365 Campus Drive. At this special event, Rotarians along with the City Council, Senior Commissioners and other guests will honor Jack Lamp, the City of Arcadia 2012 Senior of the Year. TEEN'S PERSONAL EXPERIENCE INSPIRES FREE CPR TRAINING

Methodist Hospital will sponsor free CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation) training for teens Saturday, March 31, at Arcadia High School's North Gym.

The course, part of a community-wide effort to teach Hands Only CPR to teens will be offered at 3 and 4 p.m. Each session is 45 minutes.

The idea for offering the training was inspired by Allie Hisey, 15, who almost lost her mother to sudden cardiac arrest at a Little League baseball game in 2010.

"Three strangers performed CPR on my mom and kept her heart pumping until help arrived," Allie said. "They saved her life – and I will always be grateful."

Allie's mother, Jill Hisey, was taken to Methodist Hospital and eventually made a full recovery. Remarkably, Allie's teenage cousin also suffered sudden cardiac arrest in 2011 but fully recovered as well under the care of Methodist Hospital staff.

"This project is a small way to show my appreciation and make a difference in our community," Allie said.

Many community organizations are involved in making the event a success, providing refreshments and raffle items for participants, volunteer help and thank-you items for the volunteers. Some of the groups involved include Trader Joes, Matt Denny's, Roundtable Pizza, Original Tommy's, Fresh & Easy, Girl Scouts-Los Angeles, Typecraft, Wood & Jones, Dreyer's and the Arcadia police and fire departments.

A highlight of the event will be items autographed by Katy Perry and Adam Lambert that participating teens will have a chance to win.

The CPR training, provided by volunteers from Methodist Hospital and the community, will precede the annual "Battle of the Badges" basketball game between the Arcadia fire and police departments at 6 p.m. in the gym. The training and basketball game were scheduled together to promote collaboration in the community.

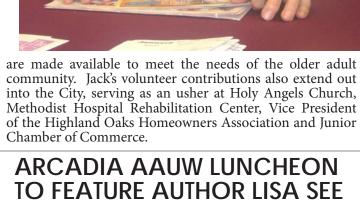

Any teen who would like to participate can register online at http://arcadiacpr.eventbrite.com.

The American Heart Association's Hands-Only CPR course teaches skills using research-proven practice-whilewatching technique that provides students with the most hands-on CPR practice time possible.

"Our goal is to teach hundreds of teens this hands-only CPR method. I am proof that anyone, including teens, can save a life simply by being aware of the CPR basics," Jill said.

For the period of Sunday, March 4th, through Saturday, March 10th, the Police Department responded to 924 calls for service of which 124 required formal investigations. The following is a summary report of the major incidents handled by the Department during

Sunday, March 4:

Around 8:48 a.m., an officer responded to the Arcadia Police Department front counter regarding a fraud report. The victim explained he was reviewing his Kohl's credit card statement and discovered fraudulent charges. He had the credit card in possession at the time of the report and did not give anyone permission to use his account. He is desirous of prosecution.

2. At approximately 6:18 p.m., an officer was dispatched to Hollister at the Santa Anita Mall, 400 South Baldwin Avenue, in reference to a male juvenile detained for theft. The suspect concealed a bottle of cologne inside a used shopping bag and exited the store without making payment. The 16-year-old Hispanic male was cited for Petty Theft and released to his parent.

Monday, March 5:

At about 10:10 a.m., an officer was dispatched to Foothills Middle School, 171 East Sycamore Avenue, in regards to a male student being detained for possession of marijuana and an alcoholic beverage. An investigation revealed the student concealed the items in his backpack for use after school. The 13-year-old Hispanic male was arrested and transported to the Arcadia City Jail for booking.

Shortly after 8:40 p.m., officers responded to the Great Steak and Potato Company at the Santa Anita Mall, 400 South Baldwin Avenue, in reference to a theft that had just occurred. Officers located and detained the suspect in the JCPenney parking lot. An investigation revealed the suspect requested change from cashiers at different eateries and asked them to count out the money, at which time the suspect took the money from their hands and fled. The 62-year-old Hispanic male was arrested and transported to the Arcadia City Jail for booking.

Tuesday, March 6:

Tuesday, March 6:
5. At about 4:08 p.m., officers responded to BJ's, 400 East Huntington Drive, regarding an injury traffic collision into a building. An employee parked her vehicle in a space closest to the south wall of the restaurant, and leaned over to the passenger side of the vehicle without putting it in park. As the vehicle began to move forward, she attempted to place her foot on the brake but hit the gas instead, causing the vehicle to drive up the curb and into the building. When she got out of the care she fainted and hit her the building. When she got out of the car, she fainted and hit her face on the ground. The subject was transported to the Arcadia Methodist Hospital for medical assistance.

6. At approximately 4:20 p.m., officers were dispatched to the 2000 block of Greenfield Avenue in regards to a male adult suspect who had barricaded himself inside his residence with a gun after fighting with his girlfriend. Officers located the suspect in his backyard and detained him in front of the residence. An investigation revealed the 51-year-old White male hit his girlfriend in the face with a screwdriver. The victim and suspect were transported to the Arcadia Methodist Hospital for medical treatment and after clearance, the suspect was transported to the Arcadia City Jail for booking.

Wednesday, March 7:

Around 2:39 p.m., an officer responded to Foothills Middle School, 171 East Sycamore Avenue, in reference to a child abuse investigation. A student reported to the school counselor that the bruise on his face was a result of his father striking him for playing computer games rather than completing his homework. After investigation, the 37-year-old Chinese male was arrested for Child Abuse and transported to the Arcadia City Jail for booking. An emergency protective order was issued and a Department of Child and Family Services agent was assigned to the case.

At approximately 9:22 p.m., an officer responded to the 000 block of Sharon Road regarding a residential burglary report. Unknown suspect(s) forced entry through the front door, ransacked the bedrooms, and fled undetected. Wallets, checks, and jewelry were reported missing. No one saw or heard anything suspicious.

Thursday, March 8:

Shortly after 12:21 p.m., an officer responded to the 000 block of East Live Oak Avenue regarding an auto burglary report. The victim returned to his vehicle and discovered unknown suspect(s) entered his vehicle by an unknown means and tampered with the ignition. Articles of clothing and other items were reported missing.

At about 3:45 p.m., an officer responded to the Arcadia Police Department front counter in regards to a theft report. The victim found a vehicle she wanted to purchase on Craigslist and contacted the seller. The seller directed the victim to wire money via Western Union and explained she would ship the vehicle once the $1,950 payment was received. The victim completed the wire transfer but never received the vehicle. She is desirous of prosecution.

Friday, March 9:

Around 0:37 a.m., an officer conducted a traffic stop on a white Dodge Intrepid for a broken license plate lamp, on southbound Santa Anita Avenue at the 210 freeway. A records check revealed the rear passenger, a 31-year-old Hispanic female, had an outstanding felony warrant. She was arrested for the warrant and possession of a controlled substance, which was located on her person during the booking process.

Between 5:00 p.m. and 9:00 p.m., unknown suspect(s) stole a bicycle from a bike rack near JCPenney at the Santa Anita Mall, 400 South Baldwin Avenue. The victim has no idea who stole his bicycle and is desirous of prosecution. No one saw or heard anything suspicious.

Saturday, March 10:

At roughly 9:59 a.m., an officer was dispatched to the 000 block of West Huntington Drive in regards to a residential burglary report at an apartment complex. The apartment manager discovered unknown suspect(s) broke into the laundry room and stole hundreds of dollars worth of quarters from two laundry machines. The officer determined the suspect(s) pried open the coin mechanism and fled undetected.

Shortly after 5:50 p.m., an officer conducted an enforcement stop on a grey Chevrolet Corvette for making an illegal lane change on Colorado Boulevard at Colorado Place. Upon contact with the driver, the officer noticed an odor of alcohol emitting from inside the vehicle. An investigation revealed the 49-year-old White male was driving under the influence. He was arrested and transported to the Arcadia City Jail for booking.

COMMUNITY PRESENTED WITH UPDATE ON DUARTE STATE OF THE CITY, SCHOOLS AND COLLEGE DISTRICTS AT CHAMBER

Tempering the good news of a $578,900 budget surplus at mid-year, repercussions from the demise of redevelopment could spell additional budget and service cuts Duarte Mayor John Fasana cautioned during State of the City remarks, delivered at a Duarte Chamber of Commerce sponsored luncheon on March 6 at Westminster Gardens' Packard

Stressing the impact of the loss of redevelopment on the budget, Fasana reminded the more than 100 community and business leaders assembled, that redevelopment had served as the "economic engine" that created much of the City's housing, the 210 business corridor, and developments including the Ralph's shopping center that provided needed services to the

"Those days are over. Redevelopment is coming to a close. It is creating a budget hole of a quarter of million to one million dollars annually. We can't sustain this kind of deficit," said Fasana.

"What the surplus told us is that we made the structural changes that needed to be made. We've had our house in order but now we have additional cuts or revenue enhancements that we will need to look at. So taxes, cuts, some kind of combination of that, we're going to have to figure it out. We'll go to the voters if there are any government enhancements that we need," said the Mayor.

Adding to budget concerns is uncertainty over a $7.5 million transfer to the General Fund made last year as a repayment of the City's loan advance made to the Redevelopment Agency in prior years. If deemed invalid by an oversight committee and ordered surrendered to the State, the City's current $12.5 million General Fund balance would be reduced to $5 million. "In that case the imperative of doing something very quickly to bring our budget structurally in order becomes very time sensitive," said Fasana.

"Collectively we're all going to have to draw a vision for this community that really focuses on the well-being of the entire community...in terms of the fabric of the community that will be important and should be sustained," the mayor stated.

Despite the budget uncertainties, Fasana said he is excited about the City's future, "based on the inherent strengths of our community." Among other highlights of his State of City message:

intervention and positive strategies. City Council and School Board members and staffs work closely together. Fasana noted, "Keeping the lines of communication open, using our resources across lines really makes for an effective community."

With the Metro Gold Line maintenance facility issue settled and to be built in Monrovia, and bridge work progressing on schedule in Arcadia, the Gold Line through Duarte and Azusa is on track for completion by December 2015.

Sierra FIAT of Duarte, operated by Sierra Autocars, will open soon in the former Mitsubishi site on Duarte's 210 Freeway auto row. A brand new 99 Cent-Only Store set to open in the shopping center in the northeast corner of Huntington Dr. and Buena Vista St. provides a "a very necessary shot-in-thearm to revitalize that center," said Fasana.

The City is working on plans to build a ramp that will improve safe access to and from Huntington Dr. to the Duarte Senior Center. The project will be constructed utilizing Community Development Block

City Council is making appointments of individuals to work with the Economic Development Commission to reassess plans for a downtown Duarte area. "The greatest benefit we can have is to have a plan that we can develop consensus as a community that will guide our long term planning," said Fasana. "But it may be many years before we can construct what many would view as a downtown center."

The City's appeal in a lawsuit against Vulcan Materials and the City of Azusa to curtail a mining expansion plan that would destroy historic Van Tassel Ridge above Duarte is expected to be heard sometime later this year. Duarte's City Attorney, Ruttan & Tucker, filed a brief in the matter with the Court of Appeals the week of March 5. "We're hoping for some success. Probably entirely stopping the mining may be outside of our grasp but doing so in the way that doesn't create as much in the way of health impacts and visual impacts to our community certainly remains our goal," stated the Mayor.

City of Hope will celebrate its 100th anniversary in 2013 and there will be many opportunities for the schools and the community to participate in the community-wide and worldwide celebration.

ST. PATRICK

We have all heard the myth of St. Patrick. The man who lead the snakes out of Ireland. He is celebrated each year for this feat and has a Saint's day that is celebrated with flocks of green, four-leafed clovers, and for those above the age of 21, vast quantities of beer. But what is this infamous man's true story?

Born around 385 in Scotland to Roman parents, he was captured as a young lad and taken to Ireland, where he was made a slave and forced to herd sheep in a pagan-ridden land. He escaped Ireland at around the age of twenty, but returned when he had a dream of the Irish people beckoning him back to them. He then entered the church and studied to become a priest. He arrived in Ireland on March 25, 433 and brought the Gospel to the people. He traveled Ireland for 40 years, converting the people into Christians, and died on March 17, 461.

His story is much like other saints - he lived the word of god and spread his word. But he is so popular because he was so beloved and so important in creating the culture of Ireland.

Why the shamrock? St. Patrick used the shamrock to explain the Holy Trinity to the people in his lessons and sermons.

So, on this festive holiday, remember the essence of the man and the greatness that he did. I also wish a Happy Birthday to my fellow friends who share March 17 as our birthdays. Happy Saint Patrick's Day to all, and may the luck o' the Irish be with ye!

COFFEE AND CHOCOLATE PASSIONS REVEALED!

PASADENA - New chocolate shop in South Lake Arcade gains an avid coffee following. Authentic Italian caffe' comes to Pasadena.

While lovers of fine hand crafted chocolates are finding their way to Pasadena's newest chocolate boutique and check the website to learn of new taste creations in fresh truffles which arrive weekly, coffee lovers are also coming by to have something a little different.

"I'm Italian and I needed a convenient place to get authentic Italian caffe' in Pasadena," says Ms Fabbri who has owned Contessa Italian Home Collection, a home décor and gift shop in the same arcade for 15 years. So she installed an espresso machine and trained the baristas to make a variety of Italian coffee beverages - names may be familiar, but just like the truffles she displays, the focus is on quality and not quantity. The small size yet incredibly high quality may be something you have not experienced outside of Italy. Espresso shots served in lovely porcelain to down at the coffee bar like an Italian on the way to an assignation, a cappuccino using organic high quality milk, foamed at low temperature to bring out the sweetness which matches so well with the quality espresso blends, a latte is all about the milk, served in a tall double walled glass, just as beautiful to look at and hold as to taste - no syrups or a lot of sweeteners needed to mask a bitter taste, just top quality ingredients done in the style which Italy has perfected over the past century.

"Like so many things American, Howard Schultz and other travelers came to Italy and experienced and saw a tradition- and brought it back to the US markets with a few changes and made it their own.... When I came to the US in the late 1970's I could not find a beverage I considered coffee, but now, there are many interesting drinks available on every corner in which I find the roots of my Country's tradition of caffe, but like so many things, America enjoys what she learns from other parts of the world, but tends to change things a little to make it Her own..."

ABOUT THIS RECIPE

"This traditional supper dish of sausages, bacon, onions and potatoes dates back at least as far as the early eighteenth century. It seems to be more of a city dish than a rural one: it was a favourite of Jonathan Swift, author of Gulliver's Travels and dean of Christ Church Cathedral in Dublin. In Dublin itself, coddle retains its reputation as a dish that can be prepared ahead of time and left in a very slow oven while the people who're going to eat an excellent dish for very busy people! The name of the dish is probably descended from the older word caudle, derived from a French word meaning "to boil gently, parboil, or stew". The more recent version of the verb, "coddle," is still applied to gently cooked eggs, "Coddled Eggs". Please note, the sausages used should be the best quality 100% pork sausages you can get your hands on! This recipe would also work VERY well if cooked in a crockpot, reduce the liquid by about half if cooking the coddle this way. Serve with Guinness and Irish soda bread. Although this is an easy to prepare one it have to be out of the house for a while - making it pot meal and its simplicity belies its amazing taste and flavour - comfort food at its best! Sláinte.

INGREDIENTS

4 1/2 lbs potatoes

- 2 large onions, peeled and sliced thickly
- 1 lb good quality pork sausages
- 1 lb bacon, piece thick cut
- 2 cups water
- 1 ham stock cube or 1 beef or 1 chicken stock cubes, if ham stock isn't available
- 3 -4 tablespoons fresh parsley, chopped

salt and pepper to taste

DIRECTIONS

Peel the potatoes. Cut large ones into three or four pieces: leave smaller ones whole. Finely chop the parsley. Boil the water and in it dissolve the bouillon cube.

Grill or broil the sausages and bacon long enough to colour them. Be careful not to dry them out! Drain briefly on paper towels. When drained, chop the bacon into one-inch pieces. If you like, chop the sausages into large pieces as well. (Some people prefer to leave them

Preheat the oven to 300F / 150°C In a large flameproof heavy pot with a tight lid, start layering the ingredients: onions, bacon, sausages or sausage pieces, potatoes. Season each layer liberally with fresh-ground pepper and the chopped fresh parsley. Continue until the ingredients are used up. Pour the bouillon mixture over the top. On the stove, bring the liquid to a boil. Immediately turn the heat down and cover the pot. (You may like to additionally put a layer of foil underneath the pot lid to help seal it.).

Put the covered pot in the oven and cook for at least three hours. (Four or five hours won't hurt it.) At the two-hour point, check the pot and add more water if necessary. There should be about an inch of liquid at the bottom of the pot at all times.

To Serve. Guinness, bottled or draft, goes extremely well with this dish (indeed, adding a little to the pot toward the end of the process wouldn't hurt anything). Another good accompaniment is fresh soda bread, used to mop up the gravy!

Not for lack of trying; he said "y'all", expressed a fondness for grits, and recited the lyrics to "The Ballad of Davy Crockett". Romney couldn't connect with his audience like Rick Santorum, though, who called the president a "snob" for suggesting young Americans avail themselves of a college education.

A recent survey from Public Policy Polling shows the pervasiveness of "alternative knowledge" in last week's Southern primary states - where the dearth of real knowledge favors Republicans in general, and Santorum in particular.

Among "likely Republican voters" in Alabama, 45% think President Obama is a Muslim while 14% identify him as a Christian - with 41% unsure. In Mississippi the numbers are 52% believing him to be a Muslim, 12% a Christian and 36% unsure.

In Alabama, 60% do not "believe" in evolution; 13% are "not sure" and 26% accept the science. Two-thirds (66%) of Republican voters in Mississippi refuse to accept evolution; 11% are unsure and less than a quarter (22%) acknowledge scientific reality.

One out of five Republican voters in Alabama believes interracial marriage should be illegal, with another 12% unsure. In Mississippi, almost half (46%) either believe interracial marriage should be illegal or aren't sure.

WILL OBAMA CARE IF IRAN GETS THE BOMB?

I wish I could say that the title of this week's article is hyperbole – pure marketing, a blatant effort to get you to read the article even though the conclusion is much less ominous. Oh, how I wish that was the point of the title. Sadly, it's the into most serious question we have faced since the end of the cold war, and the answer isn't going to be very satisfying.

The Obama administration has talked tough about preventing the mad Mullahs of Tehran from getting a bomb but has rarely followed through with tough actions. There was hope this last time around, given how close the International Atomic Energy Agency said Iran was to its nuclear goal, that Obama meant it this time. Perhaps even he had come to realize that negotiations had to give way to concrete action.

It was a short 15 or so months ago the last set of negotiations broke down when it became obvious that Iran was simply using the negotiations to buy time. They were stalling and clearly lacked any serious desire to negotiate their nuclear weapons' program. Now – suddenly – because Iran says it's willing to start up talks again, the administration is embracing the opportunity as a diplomatic opportunity that will yield success.

Curious word, success. One has to really define the goal before one can proclaim success. If the goal has been to stop or reverse Iran's efforts to obtain the bomb, then the strategy thus far has been a complete failure. If the goal was to get China and Russia to take the threat seriously, that's failed also.

China and Russia still support Iran. Iran has used the time to advance their nuclear program, expand the number of program facilities and burry those facilities further into the earth so as to protect them from attack. We should cringe when we hear President Obama talk of success from his strategy of negotiations much as we should have cringed when Britain's Prime Minister, Neville Chamberlain, returned from a meeting with Hitler and proclaimed that he had achieved "peace in our time". That was 1938, and WW II began less than a year later.

What if, however, the real goal of entering another round of negotiations is to prevent Israel from attacking Iran? Sounds conspiratorial, doesn't it? Too bad the administration told a reporter from the Washington Post that was exactly the goal they were pursuing. As reported by Charles Krauthammer, the administration source said, "we're trying to make the decision to attack as hard as possible for Israel".

Again, I wish I was being hyperbolic and exaggerating. I wish I believed in stupid, deep, dark conspiracies and could be written off as a pleasant, but misguided, minion of the right. But I don't, and I'm not.

The ugly truth is that the administration is willing to throw Israel under the bus so as to prevent any sort of hiccup from interrupting Obama's reelection campaign. An Israeli attack on Iran would demonstrate America's total fecklessness and cowardice in the face of a universal world threat that had to be taken out by a nation smaller than New Jersey. Not real good in an election year.

Of course, Iran getting the bomb wouldn't be good for Obama either, but that could only happen AFTER Nov. 6, 2012. As disastrous as a nuclear Iran would be for the U.S., it wouldn't really hurt Obama. So no, Obama doesn't care if Iran gets the bomb.

Independent's Eye by JOE Gandelman

After nearly 30 years of rapid growth that saved the sagging AM radio format the question is being seriously asked: is conservative talk radio as we know it on the way out?

According to reports, conservative talk titan Rush Limbaugh has lost 141 advertisers due to his three-day, bordering-on-slander verbal assault on Georgetown University law student Sandra Fluke. The company distributing his show has suspended his national advertising for two weeks.

Various analysts note that former Arkansas Gov. Mike Huckabee is launching a radio show April 2 in direct competition with Limbaugh. There are rumblings that some stations might decide to replace Limbaugh with Huckabee. Why? Huckabee has shown wide appeal in his Fox News show where he comes across as a thoughtful conservative who prefers discussing issues to polarizing polemics.

Meanwhile, The Daily Beast's John Avlon points to a list that Premier Networks, which distributes Limbaugh and various other conservative talkers, put out containing 98 companies that don't want their ads on controversial political radio shows anymore.

This comes, Avon writes, "at a particularly difficult time for right-wing talk radio. They are playing to a (sometimes literally) dying demographic. Rush & Co. rate best among old, white males. They have been steadily losing women and young listeners, who are alienated by the angry, negative, obsessive approach to political conservations. Add to that the fact that women ages 24-55 are the prize advertising demographic, and you have a perfect storm emerging after Limbaugh's Sandra Fluke comments."

The bottom line: conservative political talk may be outdated business model.

Talk to many young people and you'll find most dismayed or amused by the anger and rage talk show hosts direct at those with whom they disagree. This is partly generational. Some top talk show hosts are baby boomers. I've always said American politics will be better off when all of the baby boomers (except me) die off. Many baby boomers seem frozen in polarization stemming from the 1960s' great war/anti-war divide.

IS CONSERVATIVE TALK RADIO ON THE WAY OUT?

Much of talk radio IS hate radio. Republicans hate Democrats. Democrats hate Republicans. Conservatives hate liberals. Liberals hate conservatives. And they all hate moderates. When the liberal talk network Air America bombed big-time one reason was that its talkers tried copying the Limbaugh talk show model and offered strident liberal talk shows that tried to do to conservatives what Rush does to liberals. One tiny problem: Limbaugh has broadcasting talent and they didn't.

Today's conservative talk is now experiencing entertainment's traditional cyclical nature. The genre could eventually go the way of TV variety shows and soap operas. Plus, with heightened competition from the Internet, social media, and an increasing number of Americans unwilling to continue accepting demonizing or demeaning polemics without a strong push-back, the old formula is frayed.

The lingering question: Exactly when did we make the shift where it was considered "entertainment" to listen to a radio talk show host for three hours a day five days a week demonize another political party and anyone who sympathized with it? When did negatively politically defining talk become so much "fun" for millions and why? One reason: a charismatic talk show host becomes a listener's trusted friend whose viewpoint is believed -- and absorbed.

Market forces propelled talk radio and now market forces seem poised to force its evolution. And what have been its key impacts? Greater citizen involvement, increased interest in politics - and promoting the notions that compromise is a filthy word, big umbrella coalitions are for the weak, and that demonization and denigration of opponents can be fun and profitable in terms of revenue and in getting out the partisan vote.

It makes sense that it's time for an adaption or shift: after years of the "dumbing down" of American politics, it's time for a smartening up - which is apparently what's happening now with some of talk radio's potential listeners who seem to crave hosts who have open minds versus perpetually open mouths.

HAIL Hamilton My Turn

ARE RUSH'S REMARKS THE BEGINNING OF THE END?

I rarely listen to Rush Limbaugh. When I do it's only to check my sanity. If I turn him off within two minutes I know I am still a sane, rational person not in need of immediate psychiatric care. So I wasn't familiar with who his sponsors were. But now that I know I'm appalled that so many of Rush's sponsors who pay big bucks to advertise on his show are quite reputable companies.

Geico, Constant Contact, J.C. Penny, and AOL are just a few legit companies that sponsor Rush's in-your-face chauvinist conservative talk radio show. There are also some "do good" organizations like The American Heart Association, The Girl Scouts of Oregon and Southern Washington, Goodwill Industries, and St. Vincent's Medical Center that sponsor his EIB--Excellence In Broadcasting--network.

Even prior to the latest multi-day tirade against a private U.S. citizen, Rush had demonstrated that his "brand" of shock-jock commentary was something I thought most reputable companies and organizations would find repugnant. I guess I'll have to hold my nose for a week or two, listen in periodically, and wait to find out what other companies are willing--eager, even--to continue to be associated with this load-mouthed buffoon.

And it doesn't take more than two minutes of listening to "RushBo" to realize his program is pure political smut. The other day at Beantown a female friend of mine hit the nail on the head with this succinct and accurate assessment of Rush's most recent attack of hoof-in-mouth Rush's asinine assertions that Susan Fluke is some sort of liberal "plant" placed at Georgetown Law School to effect their policy is patently ridiculous. She is a law student who spoke her mind and I a applaud her.

I am also certain 99.9% of women--Catholic or not--who use birth control would agree that both political parties and chauvinist pigs like Rush should stay the hell out of women's personal reproductive business!

Rush has gotten rich being shameless, immoral, unethical, anti too many things, and just plain it went extinct.

un-American. He habitually derides women and minorities. He has no respect for the office of the presidency. Any candidate, from any party, that is afraid to blow off this bully, is not capable of being president. If he or she can't stand up to the Rush of foul air that permeates his show certainly can't be expected to lead this country and deal with its very serious domestic and foreign policy

Could this possibly be the start of the end of the "King of Hate?" Could the America be that fortunate? Whatever Rush's fate is, unfortunately there's plenty more where he came from. They slither through the slime everywhere. There's just too much money in hate mongering!

Rush apparently thinks free speech is without limits and that he should be allowed to say whatever moronic, incendiary thing that enters his bulbous head. But as an employee of Clear Channel Communications -- the parent of EIB -he is responsible for the fallout his words create. If I say racist or sexist things at work, I won't have a job for very long. I have never--nor will I ever--regard this as a loss of my free speech.

The venomous remarks Rush spews into the political discourse in America on a daily basis do nothing to improve the lives of anyone; they serve merely as a divisive instruments that force the left and right further apart. His ignorant remarks undermine the dialogue we should be having by inserting his own extreme viewpoints; and if that was enough, he is a bigoted misogynist to boot.

When Rush made his reprehensible remarks against Ms. Fluke, he slandered not only her but everyone who has ever used any form of contraception or stood up for something they believed in. He's a liar, and a racist; he's a sexist and a homophobe of the worst kind. Now he is reaping what he's been sowing for years. The chickens have finally come home to roost.

It's pathetic that Missourians are adding Rush to their pantheon of very honorable people--alongside such American icons as President Harry S. Truman, CBS anchorman Walter Cronkite, humorist Mark Twain, animator Walt Disney, and botanist George Washington Carver. While they're at it, Missourians should change the state motto from "The Show Me State" to "The How Low Can We Go" or "The We Hate" State.

Come to think of it... I'm glad they are erecting a bust of Rush in Missouri. It will stand as a permanent reminder to all who come to see it of what happened to the Republican party and why

"I just was thinking," she began very seriously, "that we have not taken a trip lately."

We once went to Thailand for several weeks, which was wonderful. One of the delightful things of that trip was visiting the elephant ranch and riding the elephants.

As we were in line to ride the elephants the person in charge took one look at me and said, "No, no." He said something in some language I could not understand and then proceeded to pair my wife up with another woman and insisted I ride the elephant alone. From what I got out of his gestures and tone of voice was he thought I was too heavy to ride an elephant. Being compared with an elephant and being on the losing side of the comparison, is not something I enjoyed experiencing.

I have been insulted quite a bit throughout my life, and this certainly was one of them. Being the congenial gentleman that I am, I submitted to his evaluation and rode the elephant by myself. I did a lot of bouncing, deliberately, on my elephant ride. I hope that elephant remembers me.

We have had other trips and have enjoyed ourselves tremendously. But when she asked about the last trip we took, I could not bring into focus our last trip.

Not world travelers, of course, but we do like to take little jaunts here and there just to get away from the rat race. To participate in the rat race" I suppose you have to be a rat. It is good to get away from other rats and associate with rats you do not know.

Nothing really came of my wife's observation. She just mentioned it, then the subject was dropped, and we went on to what we were

Several days later I was about to take the trip of my life.

I bought some ink cartridges for my printer and happened to buy the wrong kind. The way the world operates today is that you cannot make a mistake and then take the product back and exchange it for the right one. The only way I could get any satisfaction about this was to call the company and put in a request to have this ink exchanged for the right cartridge.

I got the number and called the company. That was the beginning of my trip around the

The first stage of this trip was punching in numbers. I am not sure of the purpose for punching in numbers in order to get to somebody that can help you. What happened

AROUND THE to the good old days where you actually talked to a person you could understand what they

For about fifteen minutes, I punched in number after number after number. I thought for a moment that I was reading the book of Numbers in the Old Testament. I do not mind numbers when they add up. However, what I really do not like are arbitrary numbers that absolutely make no sense to me. Of course, many things do not make any sense to me.

Finally, after punching numbers until my fingers began to bleed, I got an actual human voice. Ah, the great satisfaction of actually encountering a living, breathing human being on the telephone. I took a moment to enjoy the moment. It was not to last long.

As I began listening to the voice on the other end of the phone, I became a little puzzled. I heard the voice, she came through loud and clear but I had no idea what she was saying. I said quite a few times when the conversation warranted, "Huh."

After a few minutes of this, I realized the person I was talking to was in the Philippines. How I got to the Philippines, I will never know. I am not saying that the young woman's English was bad, just that my ears were not able to catch the nuances of her phrases.

Not getting any satisfaction from this young woman in the Philippines, she transferred me to someone in India. I had just got accustomed, or so I thought, to the Filipino accent and now I was hearing someone talk to me from India with a completely different accent.

I spent a few minutes in India and what we talked about I have no idea. I just wanted to exchange my ink cartridges for the correct ones. I am not sure what somebody in India has to do with my problem.

Not getting any satisfaction from the chap in India, I was transferred to someone in Idaho. I wanted cartridges not potatoes.

After some quasi-delightful minutes in Idaho, I came to the excruciating conclusion that it would be worth my while, not to mention the cash involved, to just forget the whole thing and throw those cartridges away and buy new ones.

On my way to buy a new cartridge, I thought of a verse of Scripture. "For now we see through a glass, darkly; but then face to face: now I know in part; but then shall I know even as also I am known" (1 Corinthians 13:12

I am looking forward to that final trip where I will see Him face to face, no misunderstanding

THE SCARIEST MORNING OF THE YEAR

and,

like all the other years, I wake to believe that even without morning when they've pushed the clocks ahead and I know I've already fallen forward and am of Alaska and they brought her am I doing awake anyway? I can't get back to sleep and keep clock raced its extra hour ahead this frightening cinematic has left me with the realization version of recent American that I am not in safe hands and history.

The film portrays in almost documentary fashion the 2008 selection by the Republican scary about the movie was Party of its Vice-Presidential the realization that not only candidate. The Republicans was Sarah Palin completely are in the position of needing unqualified, but also the to shake things up and go pressures of her position to shake things up and go searching around for someone who will be a "Game Changer" and will bring national attention to their candidate. Could a crazy person be elected Maybe this as yet unknown President? I then made a someone will distract potential voters' attention away from attempt to reassure myself, the economy and the wars in searched the internet for Afghanistan and Iraq.

The selection, training, Long ago I stopped believing in God but I have always my country, my family and me. I think, without thinking about it very much, that I just assumed that with its entrenched democracy and responsible political parties would guarantee that whoever was eventually elected would be a responsible, competent left with the realization that if person able to do what had to be the future is to be safeguarded done. Sure the parties seemed only by the behavior and to have different agendas but abilities of fallible, vulnerable deep down I always believed humans, we had all better take that they stood for the same care. Maybe this unwelcome sort of thing. Go to school, wisdom is inevitable given my follow the laws, work hard and own aging, health problems, the system would do the rest.

like when Ronald Reagan all along and should see this said that pollution was caused all as a fortunate wake-up call. by trees, but now everybody Oh thank you Sarah Palin and seemed to think Reagan was a thank you Republicans. If I better but the Soviet Union back to sleep. is gone and we're still around

This so I'm willing to concede for happens the moment that perhaps he every year wasn't as bad as I thought just he was. Underneath I need up early in the morning very God, my country and I remain frightened. At first I just know in responsible hands. Well, something's wrong, but I'm not the movie has destroyed that sure what it is. It's that terrible illusion. Some political guy behind the times. I've already in and assured themselves that lost an hour and there's nothing she would do whatever they I can do to get it back. What asked her to do and presto—she can I do to calm down? What was anointed as the Republican candidate for Vice-President. Nobody took the trouble to thinking about the TV movie notice that she didn't know "Game Changes" which my anything and was completely wife and I, watched around my unqualified for the job. Worse normal falling asleep time last than that, she had a mind of night. As she fell asleep and the her own and was stubborn and uncontrollable and had I was left alone to experience her own agenda. The movie that there is no one or no force really protecting me.

brought her close to a complete nervous breakdown. Could such a thing be possible? terrible mistake and, in an materials relating to American Presidents and health. According to studies and attempt to control this using historical materials, eventually discovered candidate and displaying her to the public is almost the total content of close to half the American the movie and that is what has Presidents have suffered from me so frightened this morning. mental disabilities while in Office. Surprise, surprise just like Sarah, they were often believed that there exists some benevolent force that protects depressed, anxious, unable to sleep, irrational, and for prolong periods of time unable to not concentrate on their duties. You can do your own research if you don't want to believe me. the American political system I certainly understand, because even I don't want to believe this.

So what has this year's clockmeddling done to me? I am and the experience of the recent death of a close friend. Of course Republican Maybe I've been living in a candidates say weird things, kind of protected dream-world great President. I think I know can believe this maybe I can go

Review by: Sean Kayden

After the release of two under-the-radar EPs, the UK quartet, Jonquil, look stronger than ever with their new oeuvre, "Point of Go". Floating on beautiful melodies, demonstrating a truly unique modern sound, and displaying mellifluous vocals make for a completely enjoyable album to kick off the spring season. The group feels more comfortable this time around exploring their wall of sound to the fullest. While it may not be regarded as something groundbreaking, Jonquil has composed a terrific and original "pop" record in the midst of flat and dull mainstream acts overtaking the radio airwaves. The band seemingly knew exactly what they wanted to set out to do and have accomplished just that—a superb record that reflects upon their earlier influences of 70s/80s pop rock, but also remains faithful to originality, creativity, and a refreshing grasp on contemporary

"Point of Go" starts off with "Swells", a song that entirely exposes Jonquil for what they are—a group with the aptitude of crafting music that soars from beginning to end. It offers so much in three and a half minutes that you may raise concern if the rest of the record can keep up and, well, the answer is yes, without a doubt. "Getaway" follows with a quick tempo providing the background for a soft and delicate vocal arrangement. The single, "It's My Part", is indelible. With a tropical-induced rhythm and utterly appealing guitar work, it's the ultimate spring song. "Run", the best song off the album is wholeheartedly captivating right from the start and easily rivals any and all other releases in the pop realm. "This Innocent" slows the record down a bit, but no complaints here. The dreamy backdrop is a pleasant change of pace. The second to last track, "History of Headaches" is peaceful and tranquil. Jonquil is content on being the outsiders and everything they do is outside the box in terms of delivering something new and untarnished.

The eleven-track compilation is sharp and smooth. Never does it meander from the course it's traveling down. It's pure beach pop throughout, but the band is able to offer a special take differing from other groups in the same spectrum. Jonquil offers ten truly glistening tracks that impress beyond any expectations. This is simply fun music that is both cheery and memorable. The UK lads don't exchange substance for style, but provide both without ever compromising their artistic choices. "Point of Go" effortlessly establishes itself as not only a stellar addition to the indie territory, but also the expansion to all realms of music.

PASADENA COMMUNITY ORCHESTRAFEATURES GUEST SOLOIST DONALD FISHER

Friday, March 30, 8 p.m., First Church of the Nazarene, Pasadena

Donald Fisher, principal bassoonist with Pasadena Community Orchestra, will perform Carl Maria von Weber's Bassoon Concerto in F major, Op. 75, with conductor Alan Reinecke and the Pasadena Community Orchestra on Friday, March 30, at 8 p.m. in the Sanctuary of First Church of the Nazarene, Pasadena (PazNaz).

Fisher started playing bassoon in junior high school, when, he says, there were very few bassoonists in Los Angeles; by high school, he was playing in the UCLA Orchestra under Lucas Foss and the UCLA Symphonic Band under Clarence Sawhill. He has been principal bassoonist with many symphonies over the years, including American Conservatory Orchestra in Chicago, Evanston Symphony Orchestra, and Cantori Domino Orchestra, to name a few. He currently plays with North Valley Symphony and Glendale College Community Orchestra as well as Pasadena Community Orchestra, where he has served as principal bassoonist for over 20 years. Fisher has been on the faculty of UCLA School of Dentistry since the school opened in 1965, including 20 years as department chair and 10 years as director of the faculty group dental practice.

The 2011-2012 concert series marks Pasadena Community Orchestra's 28th year of bringing fine classical music to the community. Concerts are free, with donations taken at the door.

First Church of the Nazarene (PazNaz) offers an abundance of free parking with wheelchair access. There will be refreshments after the concert reception enabling musicians, soloists, and concertgoers to meet and mingle. The church is located at 3700 E. Sierra Madre Blvd., Pasadena. For further information, please contact the orchestra at 626.445.6708, via email at pcoemails@gmail.com, or at http://www.pcomusic.org.

1st Quarter Construction Update - 2012

Southern California Edison's Tehachapi Renewable Transmission Project — Segments 7-8, 11

Project Update — Southern California Edison (SCE) contractors are continuing construction-related activities along portions of Segments 4-11 of the Tehachapi Renewable Transmission Project (TRTP). Upon completion, the project will provide renewable generated electricity and help meet California's renewable energy goals.

Construction Activities — Upgrades to the electrical system will include the following: (Please note construction schedule is tentative and may change depending on weather and other factors)

■ Improvements to structure site access roads:

Duarte: Adjacent to Van Tassel Motorway and also northeast of the northern end of Las Lomas Road in northern Duarte Portions of Segment 8: At or near multiple structure sites

Installation of new foundations and electrical transmission structures:

La Canada Flintridge: At SCE's Gould Substation located west of Angeles Crest Hwy (2) and north of Greenridge Drive*

Pasadena: Adjacent to Goodrich Substation located north of the Foothill Fwy (210), between Sierra Madre Villa Ave. and Sunnyslope Ave. *

Duarte: Adjacent to Van Tassel Motorway in northern Duarte Irwindale: South of the Foothill Freeway (210) along the

San Gabriel River Freeway (605) to Ramona Boulevard Baldwin Park: From Ramona Boulevard south along the western side of the San Gabriel River Freeway (605) to Valley Boulevard

South El Monte: West of the San Gabriel River Freeway (605), north and south of the Pomona Freeway (60)

Industry: Along the western side of the San Gabriel River Freeway (605) south of Valley Boulevard

Pico Rivera: Between the Whittier Narrows Recreation Area and the San Gabriel River Freeway (605), spanning Rooks Road

Industry: East of the San Gabriel River Freeway (605) and south of the

Pomona Freeway (60), in proximity to Peck Road and Workman Mill Road La Habra Heights: North of Casolero Drive, Skyline Drive and Leucadia Road, east and west of Hacienda Road

Rowland Heights: From the Powder Canyon area spanning east over Fullerton Road, Pathfinder Road and Pathfinder Park to the Orange Freeway (57); Additionally, south of Fullerton Road and east of Harbor Boulevard

Additional areas of unincorporated Los Angeles County, including the Whittier Narrows Recreation Area (south of Pomona Freeway (60)), the Puente Hills Landfill Native Habitat Preservation Authority area, and the Tonner Canyon area south of Diamond Bar

■ Installation of new electrical transmission wires:

Irwindale: Along Segment 7 as described above

*NOTE: current work includes foundations for new transmission structures; transmission structures to be installed later in 2012

Every effort will be made to reduce the amount of noise generated by activities related to construction. SCE understands that construction may be inconvenient to local residents. We greatly appreciate your patience as we move to complete construction as quickly and safely as possible.

THE WORLD AROUND US

LOOKING with Bob Eklund VENUS AND JUPITER DANCE AT

For the past month the two brightest planets, Venus and Jupiter, have been an eye-catching duo in the western sky after sunset. Week by week they've been gradually sliding closer together, and their celestial performance has just culminated.

By March 9th these dazzling evening "stars" were less than 5 degrees apart, about the width of three fingers at arm's length. Then, from March 12th to 14th, the gap between them closed to just 3 degrees as they passed one another in the evening sky. The pairing of these bright lights is dramatic, though not Venus is the brighter one, for three reasons. First, it's close to the Sun, as planets go, basking in sunlight twice as bright as we receive on Earth and about 50 times more intense than the sunlight that reaches distant Jupiter. Second, it's almost seven times closer to Earth. And, its cloudy atmosphere is slightly whiter than Jupiter's, reflecting a little more of the sunlight that strikes it. These advantages combine to make Venus appear seven times brighter than Jupiter.

However, Jupiter is the far larger planet, and despite being 522 million miles away (versus 76 million for Venus) right now, it appears about twice as wide as Venus through a backyard

After March 14th, Jupiter continues to slide down closer to the Sun. By mid-April it will be too low to see after sunset, lost in the bright twilight. Venus, however, appears to edge a bit higher each night. It shines well over 40 degrees above the horizon at sunset for most of the United States—about as high in the evening sky as it can ever get—and lingers in the sky after sunset for 4 hours through mid-April.

This month's celestial show has a second act! Before the end of March, the new crescent Moon will enter the western sky after sunset, adding to the spectacle. The delicately thin crescent appears close to Jupiter at nightfall on March 25th (especially so for eastern North America). The next night the Moon will be higher, paired now with Venus. Bob Eklund at: b.eklund@MtnViewsNews.com.

By PJ Carpenter 3G VS 4G: NOT AS GOOD AS ADVERTISED?

A long time ago when desktops ruled the landscape, PC manufacturers used to get the buying public worked up by hyping the notion of the almighty Megahertz. In a nutshell, PC sellers wanted us to believe that the clock speed of a computer was the key measurement of its responsiveness. It turns out that a processor's design, RAM capacity, hard drive rotational speed and other factors all worked together to determine just how 'fast' a computer truly is, but at the time the Megahertz explanation sounded good enough to a lot of us.

A more up-to-date version of this pitch is the megapixel theorem; a camera that captures more megapixels produces better digital photos. These days sellers of hi-tech equipment and services are dealing with a public more acclimated network indicator on their phones began displaying "4G" research and effective comparison-shopping.

sophisticated than it was exposed to back in the good installed the upgrade still saw the 3G indicator.

Both marketers and hi-tech equipment manufacturers however, it does seem that they may be going back to the well one more time with the "4G" appellation. That label, which theoretically specifies a device's wireless data speed, doesn't really tell you anything about how fast your gadget might surf the Web.

If you see any phone, tablet, toaster, or fridge that's capable of to you thinks you may not be too bright and if you blindly do put any stock in the label, you might not be, either.

and it might just be time we got rid of them, once and for all.

The emptiness of 4G was highlighted last week, when people who installed the latest iPhone 4S operating system upgrade noticed something that seemed too good to be true: The > Early last year, essentially overnight, AT&T began rebranding its 3G network as a 4G network. So now that tired old 3G phone is fresh again—lucky you, you've got 4G!

The confusion about what constitutes real "4G" comes from "4G" networking, you should assume the guy who's selling it the fact that different carriers use different standards (HSPA+ or LTE) that both are capable of delivering "4G" speeds on '3G" or "4G" networks, depending on the combination of "4G"—and often "3G"— don't always mean what they say, phone device and networks. To further complicate matters it seems that the older "3G" standard may eventually outpace the newer "4G" standard in terms of raw speed, but that is not likely to happen in the very near future.

The best one can do to avoid being undersold is thorough

MIGRATION SENSATION

During a walk I had last year with "Tatertotts", my ten-year-old black & tan bloodhound, we were enjoying the peaceful ambience of dusk, with stars slowly beginning to twinkle in the sky and not another soul in sight, when she suddenly engaged in a series of intense bays, taking me very much by surprise. You see, Tater rarely ever bays or barks during our walks. She is typically too involved with sniffing out subtle scents, keeping her nose trained to the trail in hopes of tracking a furry critter, or dream-of-all-dreams finding a discarded bag of fast-food left-over's thoughtlessly tossed out by a previous passerby.

We were hiking along the short trail that begins where South Sycamore ends in Sierra Madre, between the ball parks and the city yards. That's where the pavement turns to a dirt path surrounded by overgrown grass, floral fauna and shady trees. It was a great evening for a walk; the moon was full above the eastern hills, and everything seemed calm and peaceful. We were both relishing the solitude of the evening when all of a sudden, Tater stopped sniffing the ground and threw her head back, pointing her nose & tail upward and sending her huge ears flopping wildly. She let out the loudest baritone bay I think I have ever heard from her, shattering the silence and shocking me out of my peaceful state. Her first howl was followed by several more, before her voice slowly faded to a whimper as she became calm again and resumed her trail tracking endeavor.

When I looked up to see what had excited her I saw a flock of what appeared to be Canada Geese flying low on the horizon, headed for one of the settling basins, just about 100 yards away. As they landed one by one on the surface of the pond, they made quite a splash! I thought, how happy they must be to have found a water hole where they could refresh themselves and rest before continuing their long journey, and how lucky I was to be in the right place at the right time to see them land so close to where I was standing. That rare moment with nature inspired me to learn more about the migratory habits of Canada Geese. I hope you find the facts about migrating geese as interesting and remarkable as I do!

Canadian Geese are native to North America and best known for their distinctive honking as well as the "v" flock formation they assume while migrating over the continent. The "v" formation is by no means random. It is their instinctual way of utilizing the power of wind and air foil by following behind and slightly to the side of one another to make the most of the wind beneath their wings and stored energy as they travel. Geese are much larger and heavier than they appear to be, so it takes a lot more energy for them to fly than you might think. By using the 'v" formation technique they reserve energy and increase their endurance while traveling. In the summer months, most Canada Geese reside in the Canadian region of the Arctic Circle, where they nest and raise their new-born goslings in the safety and solitude of the wilderness. Fresh, snow-fed waterways and reservoirs provide them with plenty of water and food resources for the season, as they foster the bonds within their growing family, and prepare for the impending multi-mile migration south.

By the time Fall comes around, the temperatures in the Arctic will have dropped dramatically, and the geese will have prepared themselves for the 2500 mile flight that will take them to the Gulf of Mexico, their seasonal destination. There they spend the winter months avoiding the frost of the Arctic north. The flight south can take anywhere from 3 weeks to 2 months, depending on their point of origin and the route they follow. Male and female geese maintain a monogamous relationship with the same partner throughout their lives and raise their family as an integral unit, caring for their young until they are adults. Research has shown that familial geese fly closely together during the migration process, and communicate among themselves using honking calls that are unique to their own family members, in order to keep from being separated along the way.

We have all heard the term "bird brain" used to refer to someone who acted stupidly or used poor judgment. I remember hearing it as a kid, and I assumed that meant birds must be pretty stupid. Of course, later in life I learned the more facts about birds and I realized that couldn't be further from the truth. The next time someone calls you a bird brain, you can take it as a compliment!

Looking into the life of the migrating goose, I was inspired to draw a few parallels between their sensational migration and my own personal navigation through life on this earth. Life presents some pretty difficult challenges at times, but if we take a lesson from the goose by "flying" efficiently and in a way that helps those behind us keep up and stay strong, and if we support those in our family unit and communicate as clearly and intimately as geese do, we could handle the challenges of life more like the goose handles that 2500 mile flight; with unity, strength and determination! Observing animal behavior brings me to a higher level of understanding what life is all about. It's yet another reminder from nature that here is much more to life than making money and collecting toys. One thing's for sure, I do hope to be in the right place at the right time for many more close encounters with nature, such as the one Tater and I had with the migrating geese. Those rare moments can help teach us how to live life more fully and to appreciate and better understand the families and loved ones we are all blessed with, and I think that is truly sensational!

LINGUISTIC SHRINKAGE FOR OUR TIMES

If you like classical piano music, are a closet old person like myself, or both, you may remember the legendary Victor Borge. Borge was as well loved for his musical mastery as he was for his hilarious stand up acts. Performing before American audiences and coming from a Danish background, Borge crafted many signature routines that parodied American culture and the English language.

One of his most popular numbers called was "Inflationary Language," in which Borge took words containing numeric values and increased them by one. For example, "tennis" became "elevenis," and "wonderful" turned into "twoderful." Great stuff! However, in this massive financial regression, I propose that we institute "Deflationary Language."

We can start by settling for only 30 flavors at Baskin Robbins. Fifty-six varieties of Heinz products will have to suffice. NASCAR fans will attend the Indy 499. Girls may enjoy reading "Sixteen Magazine" and shopping at "Forever 20." Fashionable people would be dressed to the eights. You will not be able to connect with your friends quite as much on "threesquare."

"Pepsi One" would be "Pepsi Zero," as "Coke Zero" would be "Coke Negative-One." "S'mores" would become "Enough's." "Smart and Final" will become "Smart and First." Yuppies will have to acclimate themselves to Incomplete Foods Market, rather than "Whole." "Bed, Bath, and Beyond" would need to stop at just "Bed and Bath." The Dollar Tree store would become the 99 Cents store, and the 99 Cents store would be decreased to 98 Cents. A few restaurants would have to be renamed, like "Numero Cero" and "Smaller Caesar's" pizzerias. Motorists will pump gas at the Union 75 Station. "Payless" will be "Pay Even Less!"

The "Ocean's Eleven" movies would go in reverse order (e.g., "Ocean's Ten," etc.). "Final Fantasy" would be all the name implies, instead of coming out with its 13th edition. Classics like "The Dirty Dozen" would be reduced to "The Dirty Eleven." The iconic eighty's high school show will be renamed "91023." "Two and a Half Men" would either be "One and a Half Men" or "Two Men," depending on how drastic CBS needs to be. Kate Gosselin is ahead of the game by having already eliminated Jon. Even newspaper articles might need to be cut short. "This & That" might become just

JUST LISTED: HISTORIC 1884 HOME IN MONROVIA Charm, History and Tradition... Sensitively Updated for Today's Lifestyle!

In 1884, The "Monroe Cottage" home was the first to be constructed in fledgling Monrovia, by the community's founders, the Monroe family, who moved west after a decade building railroad in the country's heartland.

Two pioneering brothers, William and Campbell Monroe, and their families, initially constructed a single level home with outdoor plumbing and a separate kitchen building, where both families resided together until William's home, "The Oaks", was completed in 1885 just a block away.

A second story was added to the Queen Anne style house for Campbell Monroe in November, 1887, including a hipped roof and several gabled dormers. The addition is probably due to the arrival of the Monroe's' parents from Ottumwa, Iowa. The extended family remained in residence until 1907.

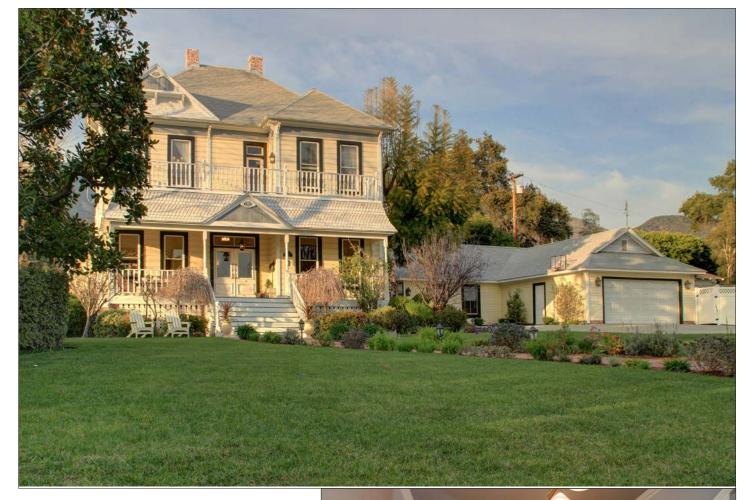

Though the Monroes owned the home for only two decades, its name, the "Monroe Cottage" stuck. That "cottage" home now boasts 3100 square feet of living space, including the historic main home, a recently constructed full guest house, a four car tandem garage, a gorgeous salt water pool with arching fountains, and an outdoor fireplace.

Owning a historic home has turned the current owners into avid historic home buffs. They have enjoyed fleshing out the history of the property, gathering old photos and data from sources like the Monrovia Old Home Preservation Group (MOHPG) and Historical Museum archives and documents, as well as oral history from those whose families settled here. They even became active in the MOHPG, including the group's efforts at landmarking properties and keeping developers and their projects in line with the neighborhoods. The home was featured recently on 2011's Mother's Day Tour. Said the seller, "It's been an honor to own such a historic landmark, especially since we are now part of its rich history."

A century ago, a home's site location was even more critical than today in creating a comfortable home, warmed by the sunlight in winter, shaded from the heat of summer by big porches, and naturally cooled by Sundowner breezes. This house was built to passively provide all those benefits. The Monroes, in fact, had driven all over Southern California, looking for "the perfect place to fireplace area, and includes a wonderful Viking grill station, ample build a home in the country," with the Monroe brothers purchasing 239 acres from "Lucky" Baldwin at $125 an acre.

The seller comments, "The house was built before electricity, so it was carefully located, set just right so breezes flow through the house. The high ceilings and raised structure allow for cool summer nights. Although the home has central air conditioning, we seldom use it. The outdoor porches, which shade the home from the strongest summer rays, are our favorite hangout for meals three seasons of the year."

Today's Monroe Cottage blends more than a century of the charm, history, and tradition with elegant, modern conveniences. Though the Monroes subdivided fourteen of their acres in 1907, and it appears that later homes were constructed on the acreage post World War II, the integral charm of the setting has been preserved with the expansive front lawn and the generous setback from the street, aptly named Monroe Place. The front lawn remains a favorite provides property tax relief in exchange for the owner's efforts and place for a neighborhood pickup game of catch.

The main floor living areas boast 12' ceilings with a traditional Victorian floorplan of separate parlors and dining room. The configuration fits today's lifestyle perfectly, as the huge pocket doors slide effortlessly to open for a free flowing floorplan for grand entertaining or just "great room", open floorplan living. The dining, living, and family rooms, or parlors to use the Victorian term, just as easily close off to allow for multiple, separate activities. Along the back of the home, there's a modern, yet vintagelooking kitchen, tastefully adorned with a tin-style ceiling and the signage of a bygone era, open to a large casual dining room with a planning desk/computer station, perfect for homework or meal planning. Tucked away to preserve the vintage look, you'll find the microwave and the wine chiller.

The two wide porches become the outdoor living room every evening. Wicker and rocking chairs beckon one to take a few moments to soak in the beautiful front yard, and reconnect with friends and family. The covered back porch overlooks the sparkling salt water pool, spa and outdoor room for a table and seating, plus an outdoor cabana bath.

The owner chuckled, "I used to have 'grill envy' until we moved here. The fabulous back porch and grill/cooking/ serving station allows us to enjoy the outdoors, cook, entertain and dine on the covered back porch, perfectly protected from the elements, rain or

Upstairs, the master suite was created by combining several rooms, and includes a beautiful, spacious bedroom, a bath with a claw foot tub and walk-in shower, plus a separate dressing room and closet, which includes a desk and window.

BATHROOM STAGING ON A BUDGET

(NAPS)—While the real estate market remains a challenge for those looking to sell, some simple staging and remodeling tips can help make your home more attractive to prospective

Bathrooms can sell houses but not if they are lackluster and out of date. While it can be easy to spend five figures on a complete remodel, there are less expensive ways to give your bathroom a fresh new look. For example, a little paint, some fresh flowers and new shower fixtures can take your bathroom from outdated to outstanding.

Here are a few tips to help:

- If you can't afford to replace outdated wallpaper, work with the colors you already have. Buy some matching towels or a new shower curtain to coordinate the look.
- If you can paint, it's an easy weekend project that will brighten the space. Go for lighter colors; white is a classic.
- Clear off the counters. This is especially important in a smaller bathroom to create the illusion of more space.
- Clean the bathroom thoroughly. Make sure everything sparkles.
- · Styles change, so if possible, update your shower fixtures. Finding fixtures in styles that fit your decor doesn't have to break your budget. For example, Speakman offers modern and traditional collections in a variety of finishes.

Updating shower fixtures is essential, as styles change.

THE GOOD LIFE

YOGA IS JUST STRETCHING.

Happiness & Krispy Kremes

By Rene Quenell, Founder/Owner Yoga Madre - Sierra Madre

Take a few steps toward happiness through yoga. After just one class, yoga can begin to make a difference in how you feel. You can feel the stress melting away. But, then this funny thing happens. As you keep practicing, you begin to get stronger, you begin to feel better, you notice you are smiling more and you are making better choices about what to put in your body so you can do that pose a little better. (While I do advocate balance, and that includes the occasional indulgence, too many Krispy Kreme donuts can keep you from getting deeper into that forward fold.)

Self-discipline is one of the foundational teachings of yoga. But so is going at your own pace. If you jump into a new regime of depriving yourself of pleasure, then you are bound to fail. But what if you can find pleasure in your practice? I think yoga is one of the most self-empowering things you can do for yourself. I always notice that my life just goes better when I am practicing. Things don't bother me as much. I am lighter on my feet. I have more stamina and less of that nagging negative voice in the head. I am happy.

I can't think of anything better for the planet and for you than happiness through your practice. The world will be a better place, and your life will be what you make of it. Yoga shows you how to overcome struggle, how to breathe in challenging situations and how to find happiness in yourself. Sound too good to be true? Then I challenge you.

Have you been away from your practice for a while? Then I invite you back.

Namasté, René

EXERCISES THAT CAN HELP EASE ARTHRITIS PAIN

Dear Savvy Senior:

Can exercise help seniors with arthritis? I have osteoarthritis and have read that certain exercises can help ease the pain, but I don't know where to start, and I certainly don't want to make it any worse than it already is. What can you tell me? Sedentary Sally

Dear Sally:

Lots of seniors who have arthritis believe that exercise will worsen their condition, but that's not true. Study after study has shown that exercise is actually one of the best treatments for osteoarthritis.

Proper and careful exercises can help reduce joint pain and stiffness, strengthen muscles around the joints and increase flexibility. It also helps manage other chronic conditions that are common among seniors with arthritis, such as diabetes, heart disease and obesity. Here are some tips to help you get moving.

Exercises for Arthritis

Determining exactly which types of exercises are best for you, depends on the form and severity of your arthritis, and which joints are involved. It's best to work with your doctor or a physical therapist to help you develop an exercise program that works for you. The different types of exercises that are most often recommended to seniors with arthritis

- Range-of-motion exercises: These are gentle stretching exercises that can relieve stiffness as well as improve your ability to move your joints through their normal range of motion. These exercises should be done
- Strengthening exercise: Calisthenics, weight training and working with resistance bands are recommended (two or more days a week) to maintain and improve your muscle strength, which helps support and protect your joints.
- Aerobic exercises: Low-impact activities like walking, cycling, swimming or water aerobics are all recommended three to five times per week to help improve cardiovascular health, control weight, and improve your overall function.

It's also important to keep in mind that when you first start exercising, you need to go slow to give your body time to adjust. If you push yourself too hard you can aggravate your joint pain, however, some muscle soreness or joint achiness in the beginning is normal.

To help you manage your pain start by warming up with some simple stretches or range of motion exercises for five to 10 minutes before you move on to strengthening or aerobic exercises. Another tip is to apply heat to the joints you'll be working before you exercise, and use cold packs after exercising to reduce inflammation.

If you're experiencing a lot of pain while you exercise, you may need to modify the frequency, duration, or intensity of your exercises until the pain improves. Or you may need to try a different activity – for example switching from walking to water aerobics. But it you're having severe, sharp or constant pain, or large increases in swelling or your joints feel hot or red, you need to stop and see your doctor.

Exercise Resources

To help you exercise at home, there are a number arthritis exercise DVDs you can purchase to guide you through a wide variety of activities. Collage Video (collagevideo. com, 800-819-7111) sells several at prices ranging between $10 and $25, as does the Arthritis Foundation Store at afstore.org or 800-283-7800.

Also see go4life.niapublications.org, a resource created by the National Institute on Aging that offers a free exercise DVD and book that provides illustrated examples of exercises you can do to improve your condition. You can order your free copies online or by calling 800-222-2225.

If you need some motivation or don't like exercising alone, ask your doctor about exercise programs in your area for people with arthritis. Hospitals and clinics sometimes offer special programs, as do local health clubs and senior centers. The Arthritis Foundation also conducts exercise and aquatic programs for people with arthritis in many communities throughout the U.S. Contact your local branch (see arthritis.org/chaptermap.php, or call 800-283-7800 for contact information) to find out what may be available near you.

RULE CHANGES IN COLLEGE FOOTBALL

keep everyone thinking ahead. There are some rule changes made by their Playing Rules Oversight Panel. Mostly the changes relate to safety issues.

According to Greg Johnson of NCAA.org,

here are the main changes:

Now you'll know why.

How about March Madness? Are you ready for some great college basketball?

Of course I have ideas about the playoffs. I Kickoffs will be from the 35-yard line think regular-season conference champions should get the automatic berths to the NCAA tournament rather than winners of the endof-the-season conference tournaments.

After playing the entire conference seavironments, in sickness and in health, with a winning record, a team does not have an automatic bid to the NCAA tournament? It's

The way it is now, a team could finish fourth or worse in conference play but still get an automatic bid by winning the conference tournament. It makes the regular season not very important.

I realize it doesn't often happen that a con-Another new rule is that if a player loses his ference champion doesn't get into the NCAA tournament, but it has happened.

I also understand why automatic bids are given to conference tournament winners. It is because of the television and tournament conference tournaments if fans know their team still has a shot to go to the big dance.

Having said all that, this year's NCAA tournament should be the most balanced in recent years. Who do you like?

Hard to pick a winner, isn't it? But get your brackets set up. It should be fun.
