Woman's Club Holds Annual Thanksgiving Prayer Breakfast

The Honorable Dorothy Nelson (ret.) of the Bahai Faith speaks as Reverends Bamberger, Crisp and Caldenbach listen attentively.

The day before Thanksgiving, the one-hundred five year old Sierra Madre Woman's Club again hosted its annual Prayer Breakfast at the historic Essick House, their clubhouse for the last forty years, attended by, as Programs Chairwoman described it, "the movers and shakers" of the community. Mayor Josh Moran and Mayor Pro Tem Nancy Walsh, and Council members Chris Koerber and John Harabedian were joined by City Manager Elaine Aguilar, City Treasurer (and Citizen of the Year)Richard Mays and every department head in City government. Fire Chief Steve Heydorff and former Police Chief Marilyn Diaz, who will soon leave on a five week trip to India on behalf of Rotary were in attendance. Kiwanis president Susan Henderson, former Citizens of the Year (and former mayors) Rob Stockly and George Maurer were in attendance. The Senior Community Commis-Commissioner) Marilyn McKernan, Commissioner Dorothy Jerneycic and Commissioner Nina Bartolai, who was joined by her former mayor husband Clem, in attendance. And former Commission Chair Ann Luke, who is also former president of Kiwanis and the Chamber of Commerce was also in attendance. And that's just a partial list of the nearly one hundred in attendance, so perhaps Ms. Carney was understating the case.

Unofficial town historian (and Woman's Club membership Chair) Phyllis Chapman introduced all these folks. As everyone arrived, piano was played by Eunis Banis. As the event opened, President Emeritus Phyllis Bugh did the invocation and led the crowd in singing "Come, Ye Thankful People, Come" and "America the Beautiful". Event Chair Shahrzad Arzani supervised the working volunteers of the Club in serving everyone coffee, juice, muffins, fresh fruit and quiche.

hear the messages of thanks presented by Very Reverend Michael Bamberger of the Episcopal Church of the Ascension, Reverend Paul S. Beck, Senior of the Sierra Madre Congregational Church, Rev. George Crisp of the Sierra Madre United Methodist Church, Reverend Dr. Jolene Cadenbach of Arcadia Congregational United Church of Christ, Hon. Judge Dorothy Nelson of the Baha'i Faith and Deacon Manuel Valencia of St. Rita's Catholic Church. The Benediction was given by the Most Reverend Alan Phillip, C. P. of the Mater Dolorosa Passionist Community Retreat Center.

Reverend Bamberger led off, speaking about resilience, which he had witnessed firsthand recently when he was helping the Episcopal Church as a disaster consultant in the northeast areas affected by Hurricane Sandy. He observed that people live everyday essentially looking thru lenses that have a spectrum, and that those spectrums sion was well represented with member and past Older American of the Year Fran Garbacchio, former Citizen

A spectrum, and that those spectrums reflect opposing functions that we often live somewhat in the middle of. Fear and faith, gratitude and resentof the Year (and Senior Community ment, scarcity and abundance, and the biggest of all, hope and despair. He noted that faith and gratitude help people to be resilient, and that it's our job to offer words of encouragement for hope, "to remind people about gratitude, to remind people about abundance, and of course, to remind people about faith."

> Pastor Beck then got up and opened with the joke about the monk who entered a monastery where he was limited to two words per year, and after the first year, he said "Bed hard." After the second year, he commented "Food bad." And the third year, his two words were "I quit." The head of the monastery replied "I'm not surprised, you've done nothing but complain since you got here." He observed that the Bible addresses complaining in the book of Phillipians, chapter 2, verse 14 "Do everything without grumbling or arguing," and he wondered "How do we do that?" He suggested that it was by doing what we will be doing tomorrow as we gather around the table, by

The Sierra Madre Chamber of Commerce held its' first annual Who Ville Festival to jump start the holiday shopping season last Saturday. The event was held in conjunction with Small Business Saturday, a nationwide effort to encourage shoppers to help sustain local business.

In previous years, the Chamber has hosted Dickens Village, however a "change in the theme to the popular Who Ville from Dr. Suess' books will hopefully attract more families", said Chamber Board Chairman Ed

Despite the unseasonably warm weather, 86 degrees when the festival opened at 1 pm, the event managed to keep a steady stream of shoppers and diners in the local shops and restau-

ALTERNATIVE GIFT FAIR & BOUTIQUE

Sierra Madre United Methodist Church is holding an Alternative Christmas Gift Fair & Boutique on Sunday, December 2, 2012 from 11:00 a.m. - 1:00 p.m. Celebrate the spirit of the holiday season with a gift that truly "gives back." Your donations help support the relief efforts of local organizations such as San Gabriel Valley Habitat for Humanity, Friends in Deed, Foothill Unity Center, Family Promise, and global efforts such as Heifer International and missionary programs in Mexico. New this year is a boutique featuring homemade gifts. Fair Trade items from Equal Exchange and the Ten Thousand Villages Store will also be available. The Church is located at 695 W. Sierra Madre Blvd. in Sierra Madre. Call 626-355-0629 for more information.

RED CROSS TO HOLD HOLIDAY BLOOD DRIVE

Save the date! On Thursday, December 20th the Sierra Madre Community Services Department and American Red Cross will host a Community Blood Drive from 12 noon to 6:00 pm. The event will be held at the SM Community Recreation Center, 611 E. Sierra Madre Blvd., and is open to the public. Individuals who are 17 years of age or older, 110 pounds or more and are in generally good health are eligible to donate blood. As a thank you to all donors, the American Red Cross is providing Subway sandwiches plus a coupon from Cold Stone Creamery!

With the recent Tropical Storm Sandy blood donations are needed more than ever and what better time than the holidays to donate. To schedule an appointment, please visit www. redcrossblood.org or contact the Community Services Department at (626) 355-7394.

REMEMBRANCES

RUDY WUNDERLIN

Rudy Wunderlin went to God on November 27, 2012 at the age of 89. He was born in 1923 near Basel, Switzerland. He and his brother Fredi were raised by their mother after his father died

Rudy came to the United States at age 23 and became a citizen. He met Mae Belle in California, and they were married for 62 years. In Rudy's career as a cotton broker, they traveled all over the world. They lived with their two children in Arcadia, Mexico, Dallas, and New Orleans. They retired to a home in Sierra Madre that reminded Rudy of his childhood home, with its views of the valley and hillside of fruit trees.

Rudy is survived by his wife Mae Belle, son Paul, daughter Linda, and grandchildren Natalie, Julia, and Matt. He was a lifelong member of the Knights of Columbus. Rudy will be forever remembered for his goodness, sense of humor, and love of mankind.

A Mass will be held on December 3rd at 10:00 AM at St. Rita's in Sierra Madre, followed by a graveside service at Rose Hills in Whittier and a reception in Arcadia.

Sierra Madre Police Blotter

SIERRA MADRE POLICE DEPARTMENT POLICE BLOTTER REPORT November 17-25, 2012

Saturday November 17, 2012

At approximately 1:20pm, police responded to a residential burglary alarm in the 400 block of East Sierra Madre Boulevard. It was discovered that unknown suspect(s) had entered the residence by removing a bedroom screen and climbing in through an unlocked window. Nothing inside was disturbed and it appeared that the suspect may have left quickly when the audible alarm activated. Physical evidence was collected from the scene.

During the afternoon, unknown suspect(s) entered a residence in the 500 block of North Hermosa Avenue by smashing the glass portion of a rear kitchen door. Once inside, the suspect(s) ransacked much of the residence and removed property. Neighbors reported seeing a white delivery type truck parked on Carter Avenue just east of Hermosa Avenue during the mid-afternoon. The witnesses did not recall seeing any makings or logos on the truck.

Tuesday November 20, 2012

Officers served felony arrest warrants for Arson and Insurance Fraud on Michael and Suanne Ellis. After a long investigation, the District Attorney had filed the felony counts in response to an incident that occurred in October 2011. It is alleged that the parties started fire to their residence in the 200 block of West Mariposa Avenue and then collected money from their insurance company for the

Saturday November 24, 2012

At 2am a vehicle was observed speeding in the area of Baldwin Avenue and Orange Grove Avenue. The officer initiated a traffic stop and determined that the driver had been drinking. The driver (male 25 years of age) failed to perform the Field Sobriety tests and was arrested for DUI.

FLORAL ARRANGING WORKSHOP

The Sierra Madre Rose Float Association (SMRFA) will be holding a Floral Arranging Workshop at the Rose Float Barn on Wednesday, December 5th at 1 pm.

Attendees will learn how to copy an arrangement, from soaking floral foam to installing the arrangement on the float. There are approximately 70 arrangements on the float and SMRFA will need additional help to get these all done on time. The class will cost $15.00, to help defray costs, and you get to take your flowers home. If you are interested, please contact Kay Sappington at 626-379-0272 or email her at KDSappington@sbcglobal.net. Deadline to sign up is December 3rd.

Two Hikers Rescued from Eaton Canyon Falls

Pasadena Fire corrects account of events saying injured were driven not helicoptered to local hospital

Although the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department later acknowledged giving misinformation, through a Nixle media alert, about how two hikers were rescued from Eaton Canyon Falls Monday night, the department did not immediately retract the statement on the popular community service.

As of press time, a correction was put up on the nixle.com site although the new information was not sent directly to local media something that disturbed Supervisor Michael Antonovich's office.

'The Sheriff's office should have been faster in correcting the misinformation, they didn't" said, Antonovich Communications Deputy, Tony Bell. "They are hoping to use this as a learning experience."

According to Pasadena Battalion Chief, Dan Rosetti, units responded to a mountain rescue in Eaton Canyon at 5:31 p.m. and found two 21 year old females. One had fallen approximately 30 feet with severe head and leg injuries and the other with minor injuries he said.

Rosetti said a LA County helicopter was requested to extract the serious patient but was unable to due to poor visibility. Both patients were treated and carried out by Pasadena Fire and Altadena Search and Rescue personnel. Both patients were transported to Huntington Memorial Hospital by Ambulance.

The Sheriff department's original statement said one of hikers, with significant head injuries was "airlifted to a local hospital by a Los Angeles County Fire Department helicopter."

The Sheriff's alert also said, the second hiker, who sustained only minor injuries during the hike was released at the scene conflicting with Rosetti's report.

Bell said, after looking into the matter, Antonovich concluded the Nixle alert was based on bad information and miscommunication rather than an intentional effort to misinform.

Pet of the Week

Stubby is one handsome and unique looking pup. He's a one-year-one-month-old merle Chihuahua/Dachshund mix. He's extremely friendly and loves to be held. He does have a lot of puppy energy so an active, attentive family would suit him well. He'd love to find a loving home in time for the holidays.

Stubby's adoption fee is $120, which includes his neuter surgery, a microchip, the first set of vaccinations, as well as a free follow-up health check at a participating vet. New adopters will receive complimentary health and wellness exam from VCA Animal Hospitals, as well as a goody bag filled with information on how to care for your pet. Ask an adoptions counselor for more information during your visit

Call the Pasadena Humane Society & SPCA at 626.792.7151 to ask about A317453, or visit at 361 S. Raymond Ave. in Pasadena. Adoption hours are 11-4 Sunday, 9-5 Tuesday -Friday, 9-4 Saturday. Pets may not be available for adoption and cannot be held for potential adopters from phone calls or email. Directions and photos of all pets can be found at www.pasadenahumane.org.

THE ART OF RANCHO

Located in the city of Downey is the Rancho Los Amigos National Rehabilitation Center. Back in the late 90's, I found out about this wonderful center through my friend, Peter Rosenwald, then Community Library Manager at the Duarte Library. Peter had invited me to a special event with special artists showing their techniques at the Duarte Library. I attended and was blown away by these artists who did not let their physical limits prevent them from producing such beautiful work by different procedures. Many were quadriplegic because of various accidents or illnesses. But they had positive attitudes and inspired all who attended.

In November of that year, I was privileged to attend their annual Art Exhibition in Downy. I saw Kenneth Younger again, (Marbling technique) as well as Robert Thome. I met SO MANY awesome artists: Fernando Sturla

(Born without upper limbs), his wife Ligia, Ruben Rios, Ann Roth, Said Abdelsayed, Barbara Blake and hubby Bill, Cynde Soto and many more! There were paintings and crafts done by these talented people. The next two years I attended the Exhibition again, and after a while, a few artists recognized

Several years passed, and I kept missing the Exhibition because it occurs in early November. This year, I made a call, and the next evening, my husband and I drove to Downey for the 17th Annual Art of Rancho Exhibition Festival. Many patients have found a new meaning to life by participating in the Art of Rancho program. This year, there were TWO rooms of art by 40 artists! One was the "Pediatric Exhibition." It was so inspiring to see the young people's work. One section had children's drawings of Supervisor Don Knabe. He attended, and I had him pose in front of their renditions. Excitedly, I related to Supervisor Knabe my attendance at the Board of Supervisor's Meeting last year pertaining to redistricting and seeing Robert Thome after ten years speaking to adopt the plan I wanted. I mentioned Robert was there that night, and the Supervisor told me the important role Robert had in the Artists Program. Ann Roth, Kenneth Younger, and Said Abdelsayed were also there, and I was thrilled to see them all again! On a very sad note, Ruben Rios has been in a coma for three months. There was a book for us to leave messages and I spoke with his sister and mom.

The Art of Rancho is at the Rancho Los Amigos National Rehabilitation Center. I went to its website and found out how it began. For over 50 years, the Center has been providing quality care for persons with physical disabilities. In the 1950's, Rancho Los Amigos made its transition to rehabilitative care with the waning of the polio epidemic, refocusing the team treatment approach developed to address polio on the rehabilitation of persons with disabling injury and illness.

The Rancho Los Amigos Rehabilitation Center is internationally renowned in the field of medical rehabilitation and US News and World Report ranks it in the top US Rehabilitation Hospitals. It's licensed for 395 beds, providing patient care services, rehabilitation and reintegration. Rancho provides for about 4000 inpatients and conducts 78,000 visits annually. The medical staff is composed of physicians and dentists representing the major medical, surgical and dental specialties required for the care of the catastrophically disabled.

While browsing their website, www.rancho.org, I learned of two other special annual events, a Golf Classic Fundraiser in August, and their October Spinal Injury Games-Annual Wheelchair Festival, which had about 300 participants this past year, and included football, basketball, bowling, hockey, baseball, golf, power soccer and tennis. "This event gives patients an opportunity to push their athletic skills to the limit-an important part of the therapy process."

ecently, our Monsignor's brother passed away, and the family asked for "donations to the charity of your choice." After learning more about the Rancho Los Amigos National Rehabilitation Center, I knew where my donation would go. Please go to its website and learn more.

WHY GIVE GIFTS WE CAN'T AFFORD TO PEOPLE WE DON'T LIKE?

Another view of holiday gifting By Christoper Nyerges

[Nyerges is the author of "Self-Sufficient Home," "How to Survive Anywhere," and other books. He can be reached at Box 41834, Eagle Rock, CA 90041, or www.ChristopherNyerges.com.]

"Have you done your shopping yet?," an acquaintance asked. I gasped, feeling the despair that descends upon me when I witness the scurry runaround that so many folks engage in during the Christmas season. Giving is good, yes. Receiving is good too.

Like the ancient native potlatch where tribal members tried to outdo each other in their givingness. But have we moved too far from meaningful giving? Have we accepted the propaganda that the "Christmas shopping splurge" should somehow "save" the retail industry? Have we lost our resistance? Have we given in the fiction that it is socially necessary to buy lots of stuff (that we'd not buy otherwise) for people who we don't particularly like, when we really can't

The way to end the insanity is simply to end it. End the pointless buying. What are we celebrating, after all? Santa Claus-who-brings-us-toys day? The Winter Solstice? The birth of the Sun? The birth of the Son, Jesus?

Most American Christians say it is the latter. So then why the gift splurge? Some say this is because the three Magi brought gifts to the promised One. The Magi gave symbolic gifts, nothing that was in any way useful to an infant. They did not exchange gifts among themselves.

Nor was this Jesus born on December 25. Recall, if you will, that animals and shepherds were in the fields, and it was the time of a census that required much travelling. It was definitely not in the dead of winter, as all historians agree.

Let's get out our encyclopedias and learn that the "birth of the Sun" celebrations were pre-Christian. These so-called "pagan" traditions were part of the holy days of Mithraism and other pre-Christian religions. Exchanging gifts was part of that tradition.

In the early days of the new cult of Christianity that arose from Judaism, there was the desire to 'hide" the new Christian commemoration of the birth of Jesus when others were also celebrating the birth of the Sun. Some credit the Roman Emperor Aurelian with this clever idea. Eventually, when Christianity was the official religion of the empire in the 4th century, no such hiding was necessary as nearly all the pagan holidays became Christianized.

Still, our pointless profligate buying and giving is a relatively modern invention of the advertising industry. Gone are the days of making something to give to another – a cake, cookies, a wooden bowl, a pipe, a toy, a hand-written card. Gone are the days of personally handing a thoughtfullymade or acquired object to a person, as both parties exchange the gift of their time, and Selves, to one another, as they examine the physical object. Or is such a day gone?

It is only by our choice to be a lemming that we continue the mindless buy and gift command from our marketing masters.

I'm not particularly concerned that most of the modern Christmas symbols can be traced back to the pre-Christian days - the wreath, the tree, the yule log, December 25, the birth of a saviour at the time of least light, the cards, and yes, gifting. What matters most is the level of thinking and thoughtfulness that we inject into our observation of what should be a High Holy Day. "Buying stuff" is anathema to this day. We don't have to choose to be a part of the cattle drive at the local mall. Rather, choose something else.

Plan to be with close friends. Plan thoughtful songs to sing. Plan special movies to watch – I never get tired of "It's a Wonderful Life." Plan thoughtful readings about the meaning of the day. And if you choose to give gifts, avoid the animalistic urge to wildly rip through the packagings of gift after gift. Make each one special. Tell the person why they were given the gift. Let them open it and examine it. Discuss how the gift will enhance their life.

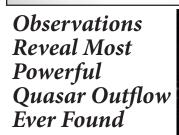

I remember a scene in the book "Less Than Zero." It's Christmas time and the author is at home when his father visits. The father is divorced from his mother, so he visits on holidays. As he sits there on Christmas, he pulls out his checkbook and writes a check to his son. The author - the son - lamented that his father didn't take the time to at least write the check ahead of time, put it in an envelope, and include a note. It was just done rather casual. It was a classic "less than zero" moment.

In this time of least light, when the sun is about to start on the path to more light and longer days, when so many of us are scrambling at the malls for "good buys," we can choose to eschew "less than zero," and choose instead the Light.

THE WORLD AROUND US

BIGGEST BLACK HOLE BLAST DISCOVERED!

Astronomers using European Southern Observatory's Very Large Telescope (VLT) in Chile have discovered a quasar with the most energetic outflow ever seen—at least five times more powerful than any observed to date. Quasars are extremely bright galactic centers powered by supermassive black holes. Many of them blast huge amounts of material out into their host galaxies, and these outflows play a key role in the evolution of galaxies. But until now, observed quasar outflows weren't as powerful as predicted by theorists.

Quasars are the intensely luminous centers of distant galaxies, and they get their power from huge black holes. This new study has looked at one of these energetic objects—known as SDSS J1106+1939—in great detail, using the X-shooter instrument on ESO's VLT at the Paranal Observatory in Chile. Although black holes are noted for pulling material in, most quasars also accelerate some of the material around them and eject it outward at high speed.

"We have discovered the most energetic quasar outflow known to date. The rate that energy is carried away by this huge mass of material ejected at high speed from SDSS J1106+1939 is at least equivalent to two million million times the power output of the Sun. This is about 100 times higher than the total power output of the Milky Way galaxy—it's a real monster of an outflow," says team leader Nahum Arav (Virginia Tech, USA). "This is the first time that a quasar outflow has been measured to have the sort of very high energies that are predicted by theory."

Artist impression of the hugh outflow ejected from the quasar SDSS J1106+1939

Many theoretical simulations suggest that the impact of these outflows on the galaxies around them may resolve several enigmas in modern cosmology, including how the mass of a galaxy is linked to its central black hole mass, and why there are so few large galaxies in the universe. However, whether or not quasars were capable of producing outflows powerful enough to produce these phenomena nas remained unclear until now.

The newly discovered outflow lies about a thousand light-years away from the supermassive black hole at the heart of the quasar SDSS J1106+1939. This outflow is at least five times more powerful than the previous record holder. The team's analysis shows that a mass of approximately 400 times that of the Sun is streaming away from this quasar per year, moving at a speed of 8,000 kilometers per

'We couldn't have got the high-quality data to make this discovery without the VLT's X-shooter spectrograph," says Benoit Borguet

(Virginia Tech, USA), lead author of the new paper. "We were able to explore the region around the quasar in great detail for the first

As well as SDSS J1106+1939, the team also observed one other quasar and found that both of these objects have powerful outflows. As these are typical examples of a common, but previously little studied, type of quasars, these results should be widely applicable to luminous quasars across the universe. Borguet and colleagues are currently exploring a dozen more similar quasars to see if this

"I've been looking for something like this for a decade," says Nahum Arav, "so it's thrilling to finally find one of the monster outflows that have been predicted!"

POLICE RESPOND TO PHONY BOMB THREAT

On November 29, 2012 at about 10:40 a.m., Arcadia Police Officers responded to 165 E. Foothill Blvd. (Rite-Aid) on the report of a bomb inside the store. The store was evacuated by the manager prior to police arrival. Investigation revealed the threat was received at the store via telephone. A search of the store for suspicious items was conducted and none were found. The store was reopened for business. The identity of the suspect is not known and the case is under investigation. Due to its close proximity to the store, Foothills Middle School was placed on lockdown as a precautionary measure for approximately 45 minutes.

SOBRIETY & DRIVER'S LICENSE CHECKPOINT

The Arcadia Police Department Traffic Bureau will be conducting sobriety checkpoints at multiple locations within the city on Saturday, December 1st, 2012. We would like to remind the public of the dangers associated with drinking and driving. It simply is not worth it to drive while impaired. Give the gift of life this holiday season and celebrate responsibly. Use sober designated drivers and remember, "Friends don't let friend's drive while impaired."

Jan's Towing provides a no cost "Don't Drive Drunk" detour program, 365 days a year, and will provide a free lift home for drivers and their vehicles up to 7 miles in their service area. Call (626) 334-1383 for more information.

ARCADIA POLICE BLOTTER

For the period of Sunday, November 18th, through Saturday, November 24th, the Police Department responded to 887 calls for service of which 92 required formal investigations. The following is a summary report of the major incidents handled by the Department during this period.

Sunday, November 18:

At approximately 8:50 a.m., officers were dispatched to First Christian Martial Arts, 26 E. Duarte Road, in reference to vandalism. Investigation revealed windows, doors and mirrors inside the church had been smashed. The church pastor indicated that he believed the suspect was a fellow church member and did not desire prosecution.

Around 2:50 p.m., officers responded to the 000 block of E. Floral Avenue regarding a domestic disturbance. Investigation revealed that an argument occurred between roommates, which escalated to a physical altercation. Upon arrival, officers discovered the male suspect strangling the female victim. The 45-year-old, Asian male was arrested, transported to the Arcadia City Jail, and charged for attempted murder. The victim was transported to Arcadia Methodist Hospital for treatment of her injuries.

At about 10:29 a.m., an officer conducted a traffic stop on a green, Honda Accord for expired registration on Fifth Avenue near Huntington Drive. The officer discovered the driver had a suspended license. A subsequent search revealed the driver was in possession of marijuana and methamphetamine. The 28-year-old, Hispanic male was arrested for possession of a controlled substance and was transported to the Arcadia City Jail for booking.

Around 4:41 p.m., officers were dispatched to the 700 block of Nicholas Lane in regards to a residential burglary. Officers discovered the suspect(s) pried open a kitchen window, entered the home, and exited through the back door. Investigation revealed there was no damage done to the home and it is unknown if anything was stolen. There were no witnesses or surveillance cameras at the location.

Tuesday, November 20:

Shortly after 7:00 p.m., an officer observed a male bicyclist throw trash into the bushes on the 000 block of S. Baldwin Avenue. Upon contact with the bicyclist, he revealed to the officer that he had thrown away a crumbled wrapper and a partially eaten donut into the bushes while riding his bike. As a result, the 48-year-old, White male was cited for littering.

6. Around 10:48 p.m., officers were dispatched to Go Go's Liquor, 914 W. Duarte Road, in reference to two suspects drinking alcohol and breaking bottles in the parking lot. Upon contact with the suspects, officers detected a strong odor of alcohol on their breath and person, and noticed other objective symptoms of intoxication as well. The officers determined the suspects were unable to care for their safety, and the 27 and 32-year-old, Hispanic males were arrested for public intoxication.

Wednesday, November 21:

At approximately 8:57 a.m., officers were dispatched to Delta Distributing, 111 S. First Avenue, in reference to vandalism. An investigation revealed that suspect(s) spray painted gang-related graffiti on the back wall of the business. There were no witnesses or surveillance cameras at the scene.

At about 6:35 p.m., an officer conducted a traffic stop on a black, Jeep Wrangler - for an obstructed rear license plate - in the area of Huntington Drive and Fifth Avenue. A records check revealed the driver was unlicensed. The 43-year-old, Hispanic male was consequently cited and released

Thursday, November 22:

At about 7:48 a.m., an officer responded to the Arcadia Methodist Hospital parking lot, 300 W. Huntington Drive, regarding a hit and run. An investigation revealed the victim's parked vehicle was side swept by another vehicle. The suspect(s) did not leave a note and there were no witnesses at the

At about 12:54 p.m., officers were dispatched to the 900 block of Huntington drive in reference to an auto burglary. A subsequent investigation revealed the passenger side window of the 2001 white, Toyota Tacoma had been smashed. No items were found missing and there were no signs of the suspect(s) in the area.

Friday, November 23:

At about 4:08 p.m., an officer responded to Claire's at the Santa Anita Mall, 400 South Baldwin Avenue, regarding a female suspect in custody for theft. The suspect concealed several jewelry and clothing items in a bag, exited the store without paying for them, and was detained by loss prevention officers for theft. Further investigation revealed the suspect had stolen clothing from two other stores in the mall. The 55-year-old, Asian female was arrested for burglary and transported to the Arcadia City

Around 6:21 p.m., officers were dispatched to the 1000 block of N. First Avenue in regard to a residential burglary. The female resident arrived to her home, noticed a back door was open, and several rooms were ransacked. Further investigation revealed $200 in currency was stolen. Officers did not detect any signs of forced entry and there were no surveillance cameras.

Saturday, November 24:

At about 11:09 a.m., an officer was dispatched to the 1000 block of W. Huntington Drive in reference to a residential burglary. Investigation revealed that suspect(s) had forced opened the victim's secured carport storage locker during the late night hours of November 23rd to the early morning hours of November 24th, and stole several tools and a car audio subwoofer before fleeing undetected.

14. At about 4:08 p.m., an officer responded to Hollister at the Santa Anita Mall, 400 South Baldwin Avenue, regarding a male suspect in custody for theft. The suspect concealed a bottle of cologne in his sleeve and exited the store without paying for it. The suspect was subsequently detained by loss prevention. The 18-year-old, Hispanic male was arrested for theft and transported to the Arcadia City Jail for booking.

Brighter Side Singers to Bring A "White Christmas" to Arcadia AAUW

Thanks to Temple City High School's Brighter Side Singers and composer Irving Berlin, the Arcadia Branch of the American Association of University Women (AAUW) will be treated to a "White Christmas." Performing as a show choir and wearing dazzling outfits, the singers will bring fancy footwork and youthful exuberance to their performance. Popular director Matt Byers has promised that his choristers will sing a variety of songs from the 1950s movie "White Christmas." Of course, no program would be complete without the singing of the much-loved title song, "White Christmas," the top-selling single recording of all time.

The Arcadia Branch of AAUW is inviting the public to come enjoy the Brighter Side Singers' performance at its meeting on Monday, December 10, at the Church of the Good Shepherd's Jordan Hall, 400 W. Duarte Rd., Arcadia (SW corner of Duarte Rd. and Holly Ave.). Socializing and refreshments begin at 6:30 p.m. with the program to follow at 7:00 p.m.

Director Matt Byers says that Temple City H. S.'s Performing Arts Department is busy preparing for its holiday program, "One Magic Christmas." Slated for March 2013 is the 48th spring musical, "The King and I." Byers, an alumnus of Temple City H. S. and a graduate of CSU-Los Angeles, has directed the Singers for over 25 years. Accompanist Jon Howie is also a graduate of Temple City H. S. and CSU-Los Angeles. For more information about Temple City H. S.'s Performing Arts events, please call (626) 548-5053.

Membership in the American Association of University Women is open to all women and men holding a university or college degree, as well as to those with an Associate of Arts degree or its equivalent. #### 400+ CELEBRATE THE LIFE OF DEACON GIL CHAVEZ September 8, 1938- November 13, 2012

By Joan Schmidt

Over the Thanksgiving weekend, 400+ family and friends came to Annunciation Chapel at San Gabriel Mission to celebrate the life of Deacon Gil Chavez, father, son, husband and servant to many. He served at Annunciation Parish, Arcadia for several years, so I had wondered why weren't services there? I learned he had been ministering at St. Luke's, Temple City simultaneously, and also had served in Pasadena and here at the mission! Nuns from St. Anthony's in Alhambra even attended The main celebrant was Fr. Robert Fulton; Father Eugene Herbert, Homily; Music, Ralph and Vicki Mahutsky; Presentation of Gifts, daughter, Deanne, son-in-law, Steve Bruhn, and daughter-inlaw, Diane Chavez; and Gene Chapman, Eulogy.

During the Homily, Father Eugene explained why Jesus came down to earth, and compared Gil's life and ministry to Him. Father revealed that Gil's sister had passed away from an illness that was affecting Gil. But Gil said, "It is in God's hands, one day at a time."

Gene Chapman met Gil through work-the insurance business. He spoke of Gil's personal life- of how Gil's parents and three children came to the Los Angeles area. (Gil's siblings preceded him in death, as well as his son.) Gene spoke of Gil's meeting his beloved Delores on a blind date-they courted for nine months and married. They loved to dance, won many contests and had fifty-two wonderful years together.

Gene spoke of Gil's career which began as an insurance agent, but he worked hard and went up the ladder. Within five years, he was Sales Manager (1966), District Manager (1991), and eventually Number 1 District Manager Nationwide!

In June 1995, Gil was ordained Deacon after five years of training which Delores also partook. Gene proudly related that Gil sponsored him at Easter, 1995 for his Baptism, and a highlight of Gil's life when his and Delores' meeting with Mother Teresa.

Gene ended the Eulogy with Gil meeting Jesus. Gil would say, "Hello, my friend," and Jesus would respond, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant...Enter thou into the joy of the Lord." (Matthew 25:21.

VERY SPECIAL thanks to Jo De La Torre who coordinated the reception following. Everyone walked to the Parish Center, where there was a feast. There were four collages of pictures following Gil's life from birth till now, and there was wonderful music-Elvis, Rock and Roll, even Johnny Cash. This was a TRUE celebration. Well done, dear Deacon Gil. We will miss you.

MARGARET FINLAY ELECTED MAYOR, LIZ REILLY, MAYOR PRO TEM IN DUARTE CITY COUNCIL REORGANIZATION FOR 2012-2013

Duarte City Council members voted 4-1_to elect Margaret Finlay, Mayor, and 5-0 to re-elect Liz Reilly, Mayor Pro Tem for 2012-2013 during the annual reorganization meeting of the Duarte City Council. Initially, Margaret Finlay nominated Mayor Pro-Tem Reilly for the position of Mayor. Reilly declined to accept the nomination at the time.

Finlay has been a member of the Duarte City Council since 1990. She has served as mayor four times previously. Finlay has been a resident of Duarte with her husband, Brad, for almost 30 years. They have raised five children, all graduates of Duarte public schools.

Finlay holds a B.B.A. in Marketing from St. Mary's College, Notre Dame, Indiana, and has a Master's Degree in Public Administration from Cal State Long Beach. She did Doctoral work at Claremont Graduate University and has been an adjunct professor at Cal State Long Beach in the Public Administration Graduate School. Margaret is President of the Duarte Education Foundation, serving the educational needs of all students in the school district. She has been PTA President at Royal Oaks Elementary School and also was the President of the Monrovia-Duarte PTA Council. She also currently is a member of the Duarte Rotary Club.

Outside of the City, Margaret has served on the Los Angeles County Library Commission, has been President of the California Contract Cities Association, is on the Executive Committee for the California Joint Powers Insurance Authority for risk management for cities, is a Director on the County Sanitation Districts Board, is a member of the LA County Sheriff's Liability Trust Fund Board, and is a member of the Southern California Association of Governments Regional Council. Nationally, Margaret was selected by her peers to sit on the National League of Cities Board of Directors. Her recent awards include the prestigious Coro Fellowship and being honored by American Mothers Inc. as the 2012 California State Mother of Achievement.

Reilly and her late husband moved to Duarte in 1987 to raise their two now grown daughters, Kate a graduate of Northwestern University and Beth a graduate of U.S.C. As her children matriculated through the Duarte School system, Reilly became highly involved as a volunteer with school and community groups. Over the 25 years, she served as president of Valley View PTA, Northview Intermediate and Duarte High School PTSAs, and president of Monrovia-Duarte Council of PTAs. She also served as Chairman of the Duarte Unified School District Education Council. Reilly continues her support for Duarte schools in her current volunteer roles as Parliamentarian for the Duarte Council of PTAs and treasurer of the Duarte Falcon Booster Club.

Reilly graduated from the State University of New York with a degree in management and the University of Oklahoma with a B.A. degree in nutrition. She began her career as chief dietitian for the Eisenhower Medical Center in Rancho Mirage, and was food service director for Alhambra Community Hospital, and manager of the Tearoom for Bullock's Pasadena before leaving the workforce to raise her family. As a Duarte Council member, her priorities are to create an economic environment that attracts new businesses, supports existing businesses, and brings tax revenue, sales, and jobs to Duarte.

MAN ATTEMPTS TO LURE TEEN INTO CAR

On Thursday, November 29, 2012, at approximately 8:10 a.m., a 15-year-old high school student was walking to school in the 500-600 block of West Olive when she was approached by a male white suspect driving a white, four-door, pickup truck, unknown size. The suspect asked the student to get into his vehicle, but the student refused, stating she did not know him. He drove forward and turned onto the 600 block of Monterey, parking along the curb. He waited for the student to approach. As the student approached the vehicle again, the driver offered the student $200 to get into his vehicle. The student refused, and the suspect left the area. The student notified school officials as soon as she ar-

FOOTHILLS SPECIAL ENFORCEMENT TEAM NAMED "SWAT TEAM OF THE YEAR" BY THE CALIFORNIA ASSOCIATION OF TACTICAL OFFICERS

On Monday, November 27, 2012, the California Association of Tactical Officers (C.A.T.O.) selected the Foothills Special Enforcement Team (FSET) as "SWAT Team of the Year" for the State of California. FSET was founded in 2004 as one of the first regional SWAT programs in Los Angeles County. FSET has shown multiple agencies can work cooperatively as a team for the benefit of all the participating communities. FSET is in the eighth year of successful operation and in 2012, was comprised of police personnel from the cities of Glendora, Irwindale, La Verne, Monrovia and San Marino.

FSET has grown from three founding agencies to five agencies contributing personnel and resources to create one of the largest tactical units in Los Angeles County. The Foothills Special Enforcement month and handles an average e of one high-risk mission p abilities have allowed its tactical officers to respond efficiently to complex problems. FSET includes a crisis negotiation team and a sniper team to assist tactical team operators on critical incidents. The combined resources of the five agencies allows for a larger, well prepared and better equipped team than each agency could field by themselves.

The purpose of a SWAT team is to have highly trained and well-equipped officers available to respond to the most dangerous situations. These highly trained team members help provide greater safety for our community members, the police officers responding to the call and for the suspects themselves. The following are examples of three incidents FSET has responded to over the last year:

- In December of 2011, FSET responded to an active shooter incident at the Southern California Edison facility in Irwindale. FSET personnel conducted a tactical search for injured persons and located a victim who was losing a great deal of blood from a gunshot wound. The victim survived, due to the rapid response of the team and the immediate medical care provided.
- In June of 2012, FSET responded to a call in the City of Monrovia of a convicted felon with weapons at a residence, threatening to shoot the police. FSET crisis negotiators attempted for hours to get the suspect to give up peaceably. Eventually, the team used tear gas in the residence and the suspect surrendered, unharmed.
- In March of 2012, FSET served a high-risk search warrant in the City of Baldwin Park. The suspect was barricaded inside the residence. The team deployed tear gas and the suspect surrendered, unharmed. Four firearms, ammunition, a ballistic vest, black hoods and drugs were located.

These types of incidents underscore the need for a highly trained, well-equipped tactical team like FSET. By working together collaboratively and sharing resources, these five cities have been able to create a well organized, more efficient team at a lesser expense to the individual agency than they could ever have done working independently. The cities of Glendora, Irwindale, La Verne, Monrovia and San Marino thank the California Tactical Officers Association for recognizing the outstanding work of the Foothills Special Enforcement Team by presenting them with the "SWAT Team of the

PLAN MONROVIA HOSTS ALL-BOARDS & COMMISSIONS WORKSHOP

As a precursor to the community workshops to be held in December and January, Plan Monrovia brought together members from the Planning Commission, Community Services Commission, Historic Preservation Commission, Library Board, Youth Commission and the Old Town Advisory Board to ask the question:

What are the most important things the City should focus on over the next five years?

Through an interactive process, each Commissioner and Board member voiced what they believe to be the highest priorities for the community, and then voted on the top five.

Interested in what they had to say? Check back on our website www.PlanMonrovia.org to view the results later next week.

PRAYER BREAKFAST (cont. from page 1)

He recalled a time when he was leaving a hospital, and he encountered a woman and he asked her "How are you doing today?" to which she responded "Better than I deserve." He continued "I think I can say, and I hope you can too, better than I deserve."

Pastor Beck was followed by Reverend Cadenbach. She discussed a recent meeting she attended at which there had been six faith traditions represented, Baha'i, Buddhist, Christian, Jewish, Hindu and Sikh, and that they all had the opportunity to present how they gave thanks in their faith. She observed that "I found a lot more similarities than I found differences – they were all appreciative of the earth that we have, and the importance of the need to serve each other and take care of it, and be thankful for the bounty we've been given. She mentioned a thirteenth century German theologian, philosopher and mystic named Meister Eckhart, to whom people went for advice on their spiritual journey, and that one person had said to him "You know, I don't know how to pray, how should I begin?" She continued that "Meister Eckhart said 'Start with two words, Thank You,' and that's what we are doing today."

Next up was Rev. Crisp, who wanted to say how grateful he is "for the workings of this community and all the different ways that all the departments seem to work together in various ways to help our community...I'm also grateful for the collegiality of my colleagues here at the table...most of all I'd like to say that I'm very thankful for the blessings of this earth and the bounty that comes from it and cares for us, not just one day a year when you fill our tables, but every day of the year when our tables are full with wonderful things...and I wish you all a happy Thanksgiving.

Judge Nelson was next, and discussed the arrival in America one hundred years ago Abdul Baha, and his message emphasizing the "oneness of religion and how the spiritual teachings of all religions are really the same - the fatherhood of God, the brotherhood of man, the power of prayer, the golden rule, and especially emphasizing the oneness of the whole of humanity. That the earth, as he said, is but one country, and mankind its citizens." She said he brought the teachings of his father, Baha'u'llah, who told us how we should be really thankful for being here, when he said "Be generous in prosperity, thankful in adversity, be worthy of the trust of thy neighbor and look upon him with a bright and friendly face, be a treasure to the poor, an admonisher to the rich, and answerer to the cry of the needy. Be unjust to no man, and show all meekness to all men. Be as a lamp unto them that walk in darkness, a joy to the sorrowful, a sea for the thirsty, a haven for the distressed, an upholder and defender of the victim of oppression. Let integrity and uprightness distinguish all thine acts." She then offered a prayer originally written by Abdul Baha for America: "O Thou kind Lord! This gathering is turning to Thee. These hearts are radiant with Thy love. These minds and spirits are exhilarated by the message of Thy glad-tidings. O God! Let this American democracy become glorious in spiritual degrees even as it has aspired to material degrees, and render this just government victorious. Confirm this revered nation to upraise the standard of the oneness of humanity, to promulgate the Most Great Peace, to become thereby most glorious and praiseworthy among all the nations of the world. O God! This American nation is worthy of Thy favors and is deserving of Thy mercy. Make it precious and near to Thee through Thy bounty and bestowal."

After breakfast was served , Deacon Valencia spoke, noting that Thanksgiving is a uniquely American holiday, and elaborated that in addition, "Thanksgiving is also unapologetically, unabashedly, inescapably, a religious holiday in which we thank God for all of our blessings. There is no one else we thank when we come together, except to thank God, and this is a uniquely American holiday." He discussed the fact that the words company and companion come from the Latin "cum panis" meaning "with bread." He observed that the words also carry with them a "profound theological and religious connotation, and that is when we come together to break bread as company, we are sharing bread, we are sharing with one another, and not only those with means, but most especially those who are most vulnerable, those who are poorest, those who are weakest, and those who need, if not food, companionship. That is what cum panis carries with it." He continued that "We know that the only way any of us can ever, ever know and recognize the face of God in praise and thanksgiving...is in the breaking of the bread. Cum panis."

Reverend Phillip gave the benediction, and the breakfast was over.

PRESCHOOLERS AND PARENTS ATTEND ST. RITA'S KINDERGARTEN PLAY DAY

More than 50 parents and their prospective St. Rita students enjoyed an afternoon at the school on Thursday at the Kindergarten Play Day. The parents of preschoolers had the opportunity to meet the faculty and learn about St. Rita's highquality education, while their children played and mingled in the classrooms.

After a brief welcome by Principal Joanne Harabedian, St. Rita parents Annie Blea and Ellen Radle spoke to the group, which reflected a wide representation of the religious and culturally diverse community, about the newfamily mentoring program and their personal experiences with the welcoming spirit of the teaching staff.

"The afternoon was very informative and it was nice to have the whole faculty there," said Dennis Slavin, father of a prospective new kindergartner. "We definitely felt a warm, comfortable feeling with the speakers and were impressed with the up-to-date technology in the classrooms."

Faculty members were introduced to the parents, such as Art Instructor Moira Love, who touched on the importance St. Rita places on the arts in education, which was evidenced by a beautiful display of student artwork adorning the hall. Coach Randy Davies also shared his experiences on the school's award-winning CYO sports program.

Harabedian said she was thrilled with the high attendance at the event, which was advertised at local preschools, but said many were referred by word-of-mouth. She liked that many of the parents expressed interest in their after-school enrichment program

(L.E.A.P.S.), which includes 13-week courses in such areas as chess, skateboarding and Irish dance.

"Because we're a faith-based community, we place a lot of focus on each individual student's moral, as well as academic, development," she said. "Teaching collaborations build from year to year to ensure that each student's individual learning style and interests are

New student enrollment is now open at St. Rita and interviews will be held in January. Junior Kindergarten, like Kindergarten, is a fullday program available to 4 and 5-year olds. For a tour of the school or to receive a registration packet, contact the school office at (626) 355-6114.

St. Rita School, located at 322 N. Baldwin Ave. in Sierra Madre, is a Catholic parish school, ranked fourth in the Los Angeles Diocese, with a focus on faith, stewardship and academic excellence.

ALVERNO WELCOMES GRANDPARENTS AND SPECIAL FRIENDS TO CAMPUS

Alverno students and grandparents enjoyed Thanksgiving Liturgy and Mass together

On Tuesday, November 20 Alverno welcomed more than 90 grandparents and special friends to campus to participate in Alverno's annual Grandparents' and Special Friends' Day.

Grandparents and special friends were treated to a morning reception in the Alverno library before joining the rest of the student body for Thanksgiving Mass. The Mass, officiated by Father Dennis of St. Philip the Apostle, not only celebrated Thanksgiving but also called on students to be thankful for all of the wonderful lessons and memories they shared with their grandparents and special friends.

Following Mass, grandparents and special friends were invited to attend classes with their student hosts. While visiting classes, grandparents and special friends were encouraged to share stories about their own time as students, how the world has changed, and even how they got their grandparent nicknames! Grandparents and special friends shared how they spent their time as kids and how different it was then. Some classes even issued assignments encouraging students to live more like their grandparents and special friends for day by giving up technology and writing about their experiences.

Joan , Katie and Gaston Taix

Following their classroom visits, students and their grandparents and special friends were treated to a catered lunch in the Villa del Sol d'Oro.

"Our grandparents and special friends are not only important family members but wonderful teachers and role models," said Ann Gillick, Head of School. "Each of them has played an important role in the development of the young women in their life and each has helped to mold them into the individuals they are. We are thankful to have their support in empowering each young woman to be exactly the person she wants to be."

About Alverno High School

Alverno High School is a Catholic, private, college preparatory school for young women dedicated to preparing them to function in a society as informed, knowledgeable persons, who have the requisite skills to make and implement mature decisions about complex problems. Enlivened by the spirit of its Immaculate Heart Community sponsors, and mindful of the Franciscan roots of its founders, Alverno's program—academic, spiritual, aesthetic, social, and physical—is shaped by the staff, trustees, and students in light of the world for which the students are being educated. Alverno's mission is to empower each young woman to be exactly the person she wants to be and since 1960, Alverno has empowered more than 4,100 women to meet that goal. THE REEL DEAL: by Ben Show Movie Reviews Especially for Teens & 'Tweens

LIFE OF PI

There is nothing better than to see a visually stunning, yet deeply powerful at the same time. Life of Pi' is exactly that. It shows that movies not only still amaze and inspire, but also allow you to step into a whole other world.

Pi Patel (Suraj Sharma) is a young boy growing up at a zoo in the French part of India, but when their family is on the edge of bankruptcy, they are forced to abandon the zoo and go to Canada, along with the animals. However, not everything goes perfectly and the huge freighter they leave on hits a storm and sinks. Pi ends up on a small lifeboat, with limited supplies, and a zebra, hyena, orangutan, and tiger. How will he survive and find his family? While this is an astounding movie, and a breakthrough in film making, it should not have been rated PG. There were some very disturbing moments (all including the animals). That said, this is a wonderful movie that will excite anyone that sees it.

TIPPING 101 ON CHANNEL 9 THIS TUESDAY

Please tune into Channel 9 News this Tuesday at 2 PM, I have been asked to answer a few questions on tipping. I have to tell you I am so impressed when a server or bartender remembers your name, heck what about remembers your drink. |Stopped by the Smitty's the other night and hadn't been there in months, bam!!! Hey Peter how are you, cold glass of bubbly? Patrick is his name and yes service is his game. Now that is service. Speaking of We all know them, the people that just can't bring themselves to leave a decent tip. What is the thinking behind tipping and what should be given, and when did it start in America? Tipping began to take hold in States in the late 19th Century after the Civil War. It was widely considered by many groups including the intellectuals of the day as an outright evil. Newspapers wrote vigorously against its vices. They reasoned that it established an aura of servitude, by offering a demeaning handout, or token. It implied a superiority of class and status that conferred on the lowly receiver of these offerings. There were groups such as bartenders that flatly refused tips as they considered it far below their status to receive these patronizing gifts. Now when someone says, "those were the good old days," you may know what they mean. It many ways the objections did make sense at this time in America. What about the places where you have to tip in advance. This does not insure good service, does it? Only at a place like a Starbuck's does this seem to make any sense. There are very few times that I have gone to a restaurant and actually tipped in advance.

TABLE FOR TWO by Peter Dills thechefknows@yahoo.com

When determining a tip at a restaurant, what are you to consider before settling your bill and factoring a tip? At the restaurant you are tipping on the speed, accuracy and usefulness of the servers, and not on the food. Is tipping at a fancy restaurant different than tipping at a coffee shop? Many people believe it is. I feel like I stepped in something when I hear that said. They are to be treated as the same.

Here are my guidelines for tipping but not necessarily the way I tip. I even give 10% for atrocious service. It seems with my picture in this paper, on my TV show "Dining with Dills," that I might get a bad reputation from the Server Syndicate, and be labeled a "bad tipper," which is a stigma that I carefully avoid. You on the other hand can wield far more influence than is availed to this restaurant critic. Here are my suggestions from the Coffee house to Spago.. Fair to medium service 12 to 14 % Good to Better Average 15 to Average Service 20% This should be applied to the food and beverage total before tax figure percentage on tipping. way is to just double the tax. Which falls in the Good range.

Have Kids? Of course I do. Luckily mine is as clean and tidy as they make them but they are not all created like her. If your children make a mess, throw food and crayons on the floor. I always leave the busboy at least $3. If you don't, well you could consider cleaning it yourself. Email me at thechefknows@ yahoo.com with your thoughts. - •10 turns of the pepper grinder •2 tablespoons of butter
- •Heavy cream, to garnish •Shredded cheese, to garnish
- •Chopped fresh basil, to garnish

DIRECTIONS

Remove the skins of the tomato and chop, reserving any juices. Heat olive oil in a stock pot and add the onion and celery. Saute until tender, about 5 minutes. Add the garlic and cook another minute. Add the tomato paste; cook and stir 5 minutes. Add the chopped tomatoes with their juices, Rotel, chicken stock, brown sugar, salt and pepper. Bring to a boil, reduce heat, and simmer for at least 30 minutes, or longer. Use an immersion blender, food processor, or blender to puree, if desired. Add butter, stir until incorporated, taste and adjust seasonings as needed. Garnish as desired.

Cream of Tomato Soup Variation: Add in 1/2 cup of heavy cream to soup pot, heat through, garnish

Grilled Cheese Croutons: For a change, add your grilled cheese sandwich in your soup as croutons. Use a thick sliced bread, at least 1/2 inch thick. Prepare two sandwiches as usual, except use a sandwich press or panini maker to cook and press the sandwiches. Cook until browned, let rest for 5 minutes and cut into 1 inch cubes. Garnish each serving with the cubes.

"UNADOPTABLE" DOGS PERFORMING UNIMAGINEABLE TASKS

adopted a dog, did their best to make it simply "too hyperactive" or had "way too much energy" to fit into the dynamic of their home. I understand how that can happen, especially when there are children or other animals involved, and I give those would-be adopting families credit for giving it their best shot. Still, the sad side of the story is that when dogs are taken home only to be returned to the shelter, they often get labeled as "unadoptable," which means they stand a higher chance of falling to the fate of euthanasia, regardless of their age or physical condition.

According to statistics I found on the Humane Society of the United States website (updated Nov. 2009) approximately 3-4 million dogs and cats are euthanized in this country every year. In a civilized society such as ours, I find that fact simply disheartening and, quite frankly, unacceptable. How tragic it is that we as a nation – with so That's right – dogs with extreme and intense energy levels, who are considered uncontrollable for the average family, have proven to be of use in the search and rescue field. It warmed my heart to know that the reason a dog is more apt to be put to sleep could turn out to be the very reason its life is saved, and that they could be trained to save people. It is rather ironic, don't you think? Well, I think that is the kind of irony we can live with!

> The Search Dog Foundation (SDF) is a non-profit, non-governmental organization based in Ojai, California, whose mission is to strengthen disaster preparedness in America by the National Training Center. As potential beneficiaries of canine partnering rescued dogs with firefighters to find people buried alive in the wreckage of disasters. Their teams (a dog and its handler) are provided at no cost to fire departments and other emergency service agencies throughout the country.

SDF was founded by Wilma Melville in 1995 in the wake of the tragic Oklahoma City bombing. Prior to the Oklahoma attack, Wilma had left the comfort of her cozy home on a beautiful piece of property in Ojai to live in a plane hanger where she thought she could simplify her life and indulge in her beloved hobby of small craft aviation. Now, 17 years later, "simple" is definitely not a word one would use to describe Wilma's life. After visiting the Oklahoma City disaster site, Wilma was compelled to forego her original plan of simplifying her life; she started an organization that provides canine search teams that are trained to rescue victims buried under the rubble of disasters such as the one that occurred that fateful day in Oklahoma City.

> SDF has grown by leaps and bounds since it was founded in 1995, and today they provide canine disaster search teams to first-responders throughout the country. Included among the numerous emergency response deployments taken on by SDF-trained teams over the years are the 9/11 WTC attack, various California mudslides, train derailments & accidents in Los Angeles, the Haiti earthquake, Hurricanes Katrina and Rita, floods in New York, the Japan earthquake and tsunami and many more.

> Although SDF has succeeded in carrying out and completing numerous deployments over the years, thanks to the many volunteers and supporters who have gotten involved, their job would be much easier if they had access to a training headquarters. At this point, there is no facility in the US dedicated solely to training canine disaster search teams, so SDF has taken on the challenge of bringing this resource to the nation.

IT WAS DARK VS. WHITE MEAT AT THE ST. RITA TURKEY BOWL

Sierra Madre, CA, November 30, 2012 - Early Thanksgiving morning at Sierra Madre Elementary School field set the scene for St. Rita School's 6th-annual Dad's Turkey Bowl.

Anticipation filled the air as "Team White" (meat,) captained by Jim Gohrick, couldn't wait to avenge last year's devastating loss to Captain Joe Tupy's "Team Black" (dark meat.)

The popular flag football showdown has been a fun tradition for the St. Rita dads, both young and young-at-heart, to bond on the gridiron on Thanksgiving morning. Players take the game very seriously and family and friends of the St. Rita community all come out to cheer them on.

'Even though we stand to earn bragging rights for the entire year to follow," said Tupy, "the real winner is our athletic program which receives a generous donation from the event's

This year, however, would not belong to Tupy's team, as Gohrick led his players to victory after a battle of epic "portions!" The beaten, but undaunted, Team Black says they'll be back in 2013 for the next win.

Stuffed with action-packed play making, good times and donuts, a great time was had by all! The final score was 32 white meat, 14 dark meat, with Jim Gohrick named MVP and Matt Birkett Most Valiant.

JASMINE'S CORNER Book Reviews by Jasmine Kelsey Williams

MADCAP MAY: MISTRESS OF MYTH, MEN, & HOPE

By Richard Kurin

As the Christmas holidays approach, this next choice shall definitely be worth the read and time as it is a departure from the previous books selected. Although this selection is not exactly holidaythemed, it is still an enchanting read and with it being an excellent work of non-fiction, should be able to keep the reader's attention. 'Madcap May' is the biography of May Yohe, claimed as the drama queen of her time. Richard Kurin takes great care and details a classic "rags-to-riches" story of May Yohe, who lived a roller-coaster lifestyle which spanned the time periods of the Gay Nineties, the Roaring Twenties, and through the Great Depression. May's story is wonderfully crafted, with a total of sixteen chapters mapping out her humble beginnings in Bethlehem, her marriages, through her acting career to how she spent her final days. Kurin does not contract the corners or sidesten at all when it comes to the cut corners or sidestep at all when it comes to the detail and explanation of May Yohe, and goes above and beyond when explaining not just her backstory, but the backstories of all who were involved with May's life as well. There are passages, excerpts and quotes that come from May, her family, friends and husbands, as well as theater critics of her time, that not only provide actual proof and insight, but also provide the reader an opportunity to be drawn into May's world. This is where the reader may find the enchantment factor: with such careful details and complete accuracy, readers will feel that they have taken a step back in time and are experiencing May's life as an observer, feeling what she felt though her words alone. Copyrighted in 2012 and receiving praise from Publishers Weekly and Library Journal, 'Madcap May' is a very lively new read, one that fleshes out an exciting tale of a famous theater legend and icon of her time, proving that one can carve out their own adventures in life and enjoying the zest that comes with it.

THE JOY OF YOGA HOW TO CALM DOWN

Do you have trouble meditating? It can really be a challenge to stop all the chatter in the head and be quiet. Try this simple breath practice first. It is called Bhramari. It is like the sound of the buzzing bee and they say it is good for insomnia (at a low pitch), the thyroid (medium pitch) and sinus infections (med to high pitch). It activates the parasympathetic nervous system and is great for stress. It also helps stop the mental looping that we do. So it's great for people that have trouble meditating. Bhramari helps us turn the senses inward to the inner sounds. This stills, calms, and sensitizes our 3rd eye. Because we are lengthening the exhale, it is great for calming anxiety and alleviating depression.

You can sit in a chair or on the floor on a cushion. Sit up tall with a straight spine. Take a couple relaxing breaths to get in the mood. Then inhale and as you exhale make a soft buzzing sound, like a honey bee. Try it for several rounds.

You can enhance the effects by using a hand gesture (mudra). Place the thumbs on the cartilage by the ear to close the ears and lightly place the finger tips on the forehead and nose. The pinky fingers just outside the nostrils, the ring fingers on the upper sides of the nose by the eyes, the middle fingers at the inside edges of the brow and the pointer finger on the forehead. Do six rounds and then do six silent rounds. See if you can still hear the buzzing. Now try your meditation and just watch the regular breath in and out.

Have a great stress free holiday season. If you hear someone buzzing – you'll know why.

Namasté, René

SEAN'S SHAMELESS REVIEWS: Review By Sean Kayden

NIGHT MOVES

The Twin Cities' natives, Night Moves, have a smooth take off on their first endeavor, "Colored Emotions," but their flight has some turbulence along the way. Luckily, there's no crash landing and come out of that rough patch in one piece. With the combination of 70s glam rock and pop-country flair of late 80s/early 90s acts to alternative rock of the early 2000s, Night Moves occupies a lot of style with a decent amount of substance to boot. At only ten songs, three of which are less than two minutes long, the album demands to be listened in its full entirety. Luckily, it's a breezy and mostly consistent voyage from beginning to end. There are a lot of transitions that are powerful and moving, but the sum of the album is greater than its parts. Despite that, there's a lot of fun to be had on the debut record. Not only does Night Moves connect to their generation, but also effortlessly evoke the sounds of previous one too.

A bit of country, a bit of soul, and a lot of soft rock, Night Moves feel like they're from another era and I am perfectly content with that. You can't really pinpoint the exact sound of the band, since they have discernable influences that are all over the board. In today's music Night Moves is a mix between glam-psychedelic rockers MGMT and freewheelin' folk-rock aficionados, My Morning Jacket. The Eagles and Fleetwood Mac would fit the bill as the band's earlier influences. Listening to "Colored Emotions" doesn't require much attention, but if you do attentively take note, you're actually in for quite a refreshing sound for today's era. If you take it at face value, you may appreciate the sounds of the past three decades, but if you rather just listen to a band from those years, you might as well take heed and seek another different music outlet.

The best track is the opener, "Headlights." It begins like a classic 70s jam and simply hooks you in with its build ups and drop offs consistently running through the track. Lead singer John Pelant has quite the falsetto range. There is something quite charming underneath those vocals. He may not use them to the fullest extent, but nascent vocals nonetheless. While there is so much personality layered under "Colored Emotions," you start to wonder if it's entirely original or just mimicking those of others it admires. Nevertheless, with a solid combination of sensitive pop melodies, solid songwriting, and seasoned sound, Night Moves could be your guiding light to the past. What I mean is that they may make you seek out the sounds of earlier days.

The album is full of mercurial hooks, warm undertones, and soulful vocals. The more you listen, the more you connect. It's the kind of record you wish there was just a little more to put it over the edge. With only 7 normal duration tracks, the album is short-lived. However, with wonderful arrangements and effervescent choruses, the record has great depth despite the relatively limited length. Night Moves' "Colored Emotions" is as compelling and tender as it is green and undercooked at times. Without a doubt it is a considerably solid first outing. Big ideas and mighty musical explorations leave the Minneapolis three-piece to be a gifted band seeking to ascend from the shadows and enter newfound light.

One Of A Kind: Featuring unique homes and gardens and the people who create them

RARE OPPORTUNITY TO VIEW LUCKY BALDWIN'S QUEEN ANNE COTTAGE DEC. 9TH

The Los Angeles Arboretum will hold on the ranch, also designed by a rare open house tour for the historic, Bennett, didn't survive, according Queen Anne Cottage located on the Arboretum grounds on Sunday, December 9 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. The structure is listed as a California Historical Landmark as well as on the on the National Register of Historic Places.

Used many times as a site for television and movies, the structure is famous for its use in the opening scenes of the 1970's television movies and series, Fantasy Island, starring Ricardo Montalban and Herve Villechaieze. Villechaize's character, Tattoo, was seen each week calling out the arrival of new guests from the top of the cottage tower, yelling "Da plane! Da Plane!" More recently, the cottage was used as the Florida residence of the elder Fokkers in the movie, Meet the Fokkers.

Most of the time, visitors can only peek into the windows of the charming, Victorian abode, believed to have been constructed as a honeymoon gift for Elias Jackson (Lucky) Baldwin's fourth wife, the sixteen year old, Lillie Bennett.

Bennett's father, architect Albert A. Bennett, designed the intricate and elaborate detailing of the structure. The structure's styling is a romantic, even feminine style of American architecture known for its lavish displays of ornamental spindles, brackets and other accoutrements. "Though it was named a Queen Anne, the Cottage is really the Queen Anne style transitioning to the 'stick style," according to Bishop.

Though his name is not well known today, Bennett was a rather prolific architect of public buildings. His works include the Folsom and San Quentin Prisons and many county courthouses across the state. He was also the supervising architect for the state Capitol building in Sacramento.

According to Mitchell Bishop, curator at the Arboretum, the cottage was "originally referred to as 'Baldwin's Belvedere' in the LA Times when it was first built and also as the 'Casino' which in those days didn't necessarily mean gambling so much as a variety of pleasure-related activities although Baldwin was fond of gambling and we know poker was played."

The elaborate home never became the intended honeymoon haven; however, as the Baldwin couple separated only a year later. Eventually, Lucky Baldwin turned the home into a memorial of sorts to the third Mrs. Baldwin, Jennie Dexter, who had passed away a few years previous, in 1881.

The cottage was used as the Santa Anita Ranch guest house, hosting theatrical celebrities from Baldwin's namesake theater in san Francisco and other Baldwin family friends and business associate guests. Baldwin himself never lived in the cottage, using the cottage "essentially as a party house," laughed Bishop. Baldwin quartered in the nearby adobe home until his death in 1909.

Unfortunately, after Lucky's passing, his daughter shuttered the cottage and disposed of the furnishings. Several other large buildings to Bishop.

Luckily, the home's black walnut doors, stained glass windows, marble fireplace mantels, and even the original bath fixtures and a marble walkway were packed up and stored for nearly half a century in the nearby Coach House.

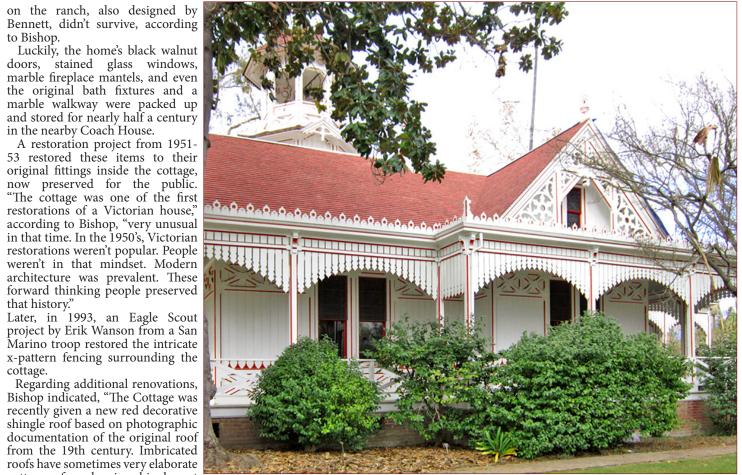

A restoration project from 1951-53 restored these items to their original fittings inside the cottage, now preserved for the public. The cottage was one of the first restorations of a Victorian house," restorations weren't popular. People weren't in that mindset. Modern architecture was prevalent. These forward thinking people preserved that history."

Later, in 1993, an Eagle Scout project by Erik Wanson from a San Marino troop restored the intricate x-pattern fencing surrounding the Regarding additional renovations, Bishop indicated, "The Cottage was recently given a new red decorative shingle roof based on photographic documentation of the original roof from the 19th century. Imbricated roofs have sometimes very elaborate patterns of overlapping shingles cut into diamond, half round and other shapes. The term imbrication refers to the scales found on fish and reptiles. It also makes a very effective waterproof covering. Today, we still see these patterns on the siding of Victorian houses but it is rare to see it still on roofs. The Coach Barn is currently closed for the installation of a similar roof taking it back to its original appearance that Mr. Baldwin and his architect intended."

Visitors on December 9th will have the chance to view paintings of the Baldwin family, which were donated to the Arboretum over the years, including two portraits of Baldwin by Joseph Greenbaum and two portraits of Lucky's wife, Jennie Dexter. Another painting, hung in the cottage, this one by H.H. Cross, depicts Anita Baldwin, Lucky's daughter, sitting across the lake, near the cottage with the ranch's bull mastiff guard dogs.
Bishop chuckled, "Originally, there were no railings on the veranda, if you fell off the porch in those days, it was your own fault. The railings are a concession to the modern era."

Bishop also indicates the Arboretum continues to seek photos of the cottage interior, to get a better idea of what it looked like at the time. The cottage will be decked out in Victorian holiday splendor, to put guests in the spirit for an old fashioned holiday. Docent led tours, at a suggested donation of $3, will be available throughout the day on Sunday, December 9 for an up close and personal view of the cottage and its history. The nearby Coach Barn and the old Santa Anita Depot will also be open to visitors.

Admittance to the cottage is included with regular admission to the Los Angeles Arboretum, located at 301 North Baldwin Avenue, in Arcadia. For more information, visit the Arboretum website at www.Arboretum.org or call 626-821-3222. Research information was obtained from the Arboretum website.

CREATE A COMFORT ZONE

While experts may debate the value of holding an open house, your home may be a good candidate for this marketing tool. If your agent offers to show off your home on a Sunday afternoon, apply some elbow grease and take advantage of the opportunity.

Obviously, get things tidy inside and out. Give all of your countertops a spacious feel by hiding your toiletries under the sink in the bathroom, and by stashing your kitchen appliances in the cabinets. Clean and clear make a great impression.

Also remove photographs, appointment cards, school artwork, etc. from the refrigerator and other areas of the house. Yes, it's your home, but you want buyers to picture it as their home, so don't intrude on the fantasy!

You can encourage buyers to linger by simply putting out refreshments, like fresh baked cookies (the aroma can be a powerful intoxicant!), and a pitcher of iced tea or minis of bottled water - anything to make them pause and take a closer look around.

The one thing that shouldn't be in the home during an open house is... you. No offense meant, but buyers are there to see the home, not the owner, and they may feel uncomfortable asking probing questions if you are within earshot. Make your visitors feel at ease, and trust your agent to take care of the rest!

HOW TO FIND A LOST PENSION Dear Savvy Senior: How does one go about tracking down a lost pension? About 35 years ago, I worked at a manufacturing company for a few years that offered employee pensions, and I want to find out if I'm eligible for any money now that I'm about to retire. Searching Steven

Dear Steven:

Losing track of a small pension from years ago is actually quite common, especially if you've have had a lot of jobs throughout your working life. To help you locate a lost pension, here are the steps to take along with some free resources that can help you search if your previous employer has gone out of business, changed names or merged with an-

Pension Proof

If you think you have a pension from a previous employer, and the company is still in business, your first step is to call their human resources department and ask them to give you the contact information of the pension plan administrator. Then you'll need to contact them to find out how much your pension is worth and how to claim it.

Depending on how complete the plan administrator's records are, you may need to show proof that you once worked for the company and that you are pension eligible.

Your old income tax returns and W-2 forms from the years you worked at the company will help you here. If you haven't saved your old tax returns from these years, you can get a copy of your earnings record from the Social Security Administration, which will show how much you were paid each calendar year by each employer.

 $Call\ 800\text{-}772\text{-}1213\ and\ ask\ them\ to\ mail\ you\ the\ "Request\ for\ Social\ Security\ Earnings\ Information"\ form\ SSA\text{-}7050,\ or\ you\ can\ download\ it\ at\ www.ssa.gov/online/ssa\text{-}7050.pdf.\ You'll\ pay\ a\ small\ fee\ for\ SSA\text{-}7050.pdf.$ the report, depending on the number of years of data you request.

Some other old forms that can help you prove eligibility are your Summary Plan Descriptions (SPD) that you should have received from your employer when you worked there, or any individual benefit

Check the PBGC

If you can't find your former employer because it went out of business, or, if the company ended its pension plan, you need to check the Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation's (PBGC) online pension search directory at search pbgc.gov/mp/mp.aspx. Or, you can call 800-400-7242 and get help over the

The PBGC is a federal agency that guarantees pensions of bankrupt companies. The agency also maintains information on any pension plan that has been terminated, even if the company is still in

The PBGC, however, does not cover or have information on lost pensions that are still active, nor will they help you locate lost 401(k) plans.

The best resource to help you track down a lost active pension from a company that has moved or merged with another firm is the U.S. Administration on Aging Pension Counseling and Information Program. This free program encompasses seven pension assistance programs around the country that serve workers in 30 states. To get the contact information of these counseling programs and the states they serve, visit the Pension Rights Center website at pensionrights.org.

If your pension happens to be outside the area served by the pension counseling centers, or if you're trying to locate a federal or military pension, use Pension Help America at pensionhelp.org. This resource can connect you with government agencies and private organizations that provide free information and assistance to help your search.

For more information, the PBGC has a free publication called "Finding a Lost Pension" that provides in-depth information that can aid in your search. See pbgc.gov to see it online, or call 800-400-7242 and ask them to mail you a copy.

KATIE Tse .....This and That THE THRILL OF THE HUNT

When was the last time you went hunting? Was it an exotic safari spanning the Serengeti. Did you load a rifle to take down an endangered elephant or rhino? Perhaps you enjoyed an English fox hunt, with beagles, bugles, and those silly flared pants. Maybe you took your son out for his first buck in the wilds of Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

"That's preposterous!" you say. "What kind of sick sadist would derive pleasure from tracking down and killing helpless prey?" I completely agree with you. By the same token, I also see "Black Friday" as fulfilling the blood lust within most of us, in a politically-correct way. (I say "most of us" because I LOATH shopping, and I trust some of you out there have

With a few exceptions, Black Friday brings out the worst in humanity. e've all read about the fights at Walmarts What better way to celebrate peace on earth and good will toward men than to slug each others' teeth out? Nothing says "silent night" like a good shiner and an accompanying comatose concussion. I hate shopping even under the best of circumstances, so you can imagine my trepidation about going within a mile of a mall, Walmart, or Best Buy on that dreaded weekend. Last year I made the mistake of procrastinating too long when buying a gift for one of my closest friend's gift. This friend, we'll call her Cassandra, frequently chooses clothing for my Christmas and birthday gifts. I'm the first to admit that I need wardrobe help, so I wholeheartedly welcome any of her suggestions.

But last year I made the mistake of trying to buy HER some clothes. I asked a mutual friend what brands of clothing Cassandra prefers. Our friend recommended the Gap and Banana Republic outlet stores at the Citadel. Noting my puzzled look, she patiently explained to me what the Citadel is. My familiarity with clothing outlets is as likely as Paula Dean's knowledge of fat-free, vegan cuisine.

My husband gallantly drove us out to the Citadel at a day dangerously near Christmas. I've never witnessed such utter chaos in a store before. There were children running around, tripping over piles of shirts, pants, and sweaters, all while strewing mounds of display clothing onto the floor. The checkout "line" snaked around the aisles and climbed over heaps of clothes. One would assume that vast numbers of items were stolen that night. This insight prompted the question: just how much these products are marked up above their true market value? Obviously, the Gap can afford to loose a quarter of its merchandise during one holiday sale and still make a profit.

These thoughts and others swirled through my over-stimulated mind that night, as I dodged running children and tried to avoid tripping over piles of discarded clothes. At the end of the night, reaching the parking lot was like embracing the promised land. Although, the lingering stress caused me to unconsciously clench my bag of clothing for a good half hour after the lights of the Citadel faded into the distance. My friend probably didn't fully appreciate my sacrifice in buying her gifts last year --which is why, this year, I'm ordering all her stuff online. Any shipping expenses are worth their weight in gold as far as my mental health is concerned. Merry shopping!

THE GOODLIFE SENIOR HAPPENINGS By Pat Birdsall

FYI: Some of Con Artists' Favorite Ways to Scam the Elderly

1) "You've already won..." Official-looking documents designed to trick recipients into thinking they've won money are worded carefully so as to stay legal. These documents hide crucial information (e.g. the fact that they're not really prize announcements) in tiny italic type, because reading italics is much harder for people with limited vision. Following "instructions," recipients send checks that they believe are processing fees to far-away post offices. The amounts are small...from $5 to $50...but they add up, given that individual scammers typically operate several fake sweepstakes simultaneously. Addresses of those who send checks are sold to other scammers; more sweepstakes letters pour in. It plays on emotions. In one recent case the National Telemarketing Victim Call Center handled this: an

88 year-old widow spent over spent over $60,000 on fake sweepstakes in just two years!

2) Readymade Repairs... A doorstop scam entails "gardeners" or "handymen" offering to do "necessary" repair work—on cracked driveways, say, or dangling tree limbs. (As part of this scam, they have often secretly done the tree damage themselves.) Claiming that these conditions, if unrepaired, will damage the homes or violate city codes, these scammers scare seniors into hiring them on the spot. They soon demand to be paid in advance for labor plus materials. Once paid, they drive off... allegedly to buy those materials, and they never return. Some actually do the work but without specifying a fee beforehand. Once finished, they demand exorbitant fees, threatening to call the police if the victim doesn't pay. These scams too often end with lucrative trips to the ATM.

3) In the House...Granted unlimited access to senior's homes, caregivers "top the list" of those who exploit the elderly... Although caregiver's agencies are required by law to do background checks on all potential employees, many don't bother. Usually this type of "perp" often has no criminal record, but simply can't resist the temptation to snatch unattended cash, credit cards, medications, checkbooks, jewelry, electronics and personal information. Once caught, these culprits rationalize their own crime, saying that the victim wanted them to have the items because they love them. Forgetful seniors face another scam when employees who have been paid claim that they haven't. Forgetting the previous checks, the senior's write more.

FOR YOUR FUNNY BONE

The Smiths were shown into the dentist's office, where Mr. Smith made it clear that he was in a big hurry. "No fancy stuff, doctor," he ordered. "No gas or needles or any of that stuff. Just pull the tooth and get it over with." "I wish more of my patients were as stoic as you," said the dentist admiringly, "Now which tooth is it?" Mr. Smith turned to his wife Sue. "Show him honey."

Little Johnny wanted to go to the zoo and pestered his parents for days. Finally his mother talked his reluctant father into taking him. "So how was it?" his mother asked when they returned home. "Great," Little Johnny replied. "Did your father have a good time?" asked his mother. "Yeah, Daddy especially liked it," exclaimed Little Johnny excitedly, "Especially when one of the animals came racing home at 30 to 1."

DOLLARS AND MENTS

By Carl Davis, CIMA

PLANNING FINANCIALLY TO ADOPT

November 17th is National Adoption day, and while adopting a child is one way to grow a family, it can be very expensive – with significant upfront costs. When you factor in travel and time off from work, the costs can run even higher. And for gay, lesbian and bisexual couples seeking to adopt a child, they may face special financial and legal hurdles.

If you're considering adopting a child, whether in the United States or abroad, explore your resources and consider alternatives that can make the adoption process more affordable.

Employer adoption benefits

Some employers offer an adoption benefit as part of their employee benefits package. These "adoption-friendly" perks may include partial reimbursement of adoption fees as well as paid time off to complete the adoption process. Talk to the human resources contact where you work to review the benefits available to you.

Changes in the Adoption Tax Credit

Unless something changes at the federal level, the Adoption Tax Credit will no longer apply in 2013. For the remainder of 2012, adoptive parents may be eligible for a tax credit up to $12,650 to help offset the high cost of adoption. But if congressional action isn't taken to extend this tax credit, starting in 2013, it will be reduced to $6,000 and will only apply to special needs adoptions. If you're beginning the adoption process now, you may be eligible for full or partial credit even if your adoption is not completed before the end of the year, but you will be required to provide documentation of your qualified adoption expenses to earn the credit.

Special needs and foster care adoptions

Many states offer additional financial incentives to encourage special needs adoptions or the adoption of older children waiting in foster care. If you are planning to adopt a special needs or older child, find out under what conditions your state offers this financial help. You can find information for your state online at the Child Welfare Information Gateway.

Borrowing to adopt

If your credit is in good shape, you may be able to get an adoption loan to help with the costs of the adoption. You may also consider alternative borrowing options, but be careful about overextending yourself, as adding a child to your family will raise your cost of living. Daycare expenses will also impact your family's finances, and income-earning potential can be affected if one parent chooses to stay at home or take a job that is less demanding so he or she can be more available for child care.

Other options

If you are worried your finances fall short to complete an adoption today, consider what it would mean to postpone your adoption plans. You can try to increase your income by reducing expenses where you can and budgeting carefully. Find out if organizations you're involved in will provide financial assistance. Search for private grants and put the word out that you are in need of financial help, and you may just find it.

The importance of financial planning

The cost of adopting a child begins when you initiate the adoption process, but it certainly does not end there. Raising a child is costly too. An experienced financial planner can help you examine your finances and make plans to achieve the goals you have for you and your family, now and in the future.

For Thanksgiving this year, I decided I'd rather be in Hawaii than in the kitchen. My parents, my brother and some friends also joined in. We had a blast.

It seemed everyone in our crew was relying on recommendations to make our trip better or more exciting. At some point, Yelp.com became one of our primary "go-to" resources for recommendations on where to dine and what to do for fun and relaxation.

My parents got very excited about good old-fashioned, face-to-face recommendations from locals or other tourists they met along the way. One morning my brother and I woke up before everyone else to get in an early snorkel and search for turtles. Although my ears were covered by ocean I heard a faint, familiar sound in the distance. As I lifted my head out of the water I saw my mom and my 80-year-old dad standing on the shore of Anaeho'omalu Bay yodeling (yes yodeling) at high volume and directing us to come in. Worried that someone was hurt, we swam in as fast as we could. "Hey guys, we have some really exciting news! We just talked to this guy and he said the locals say the snorkeling is better in the next bay a mile away!".... Sigh.

Well, we reluctantly went to the next bay and it turns out that the snorkeling was better. But the real lesson here is that a recommendation, even from a stranger, is a powerful thing!

My husband was also on a mission and very hard to keep track of during this trip. He'd often go missing for hours and suddenly turn up with fake tattoos on his arms lapping 3-foot, neon-orange, shaved ice drinks. He took it upon himself to be the food finder for the trip because he has a new hobby called Yelp. He was in paradise traveling through Hawaii with Yelp at his side. He searched for hot malasadas, Portuguese sausage and all things Spam.

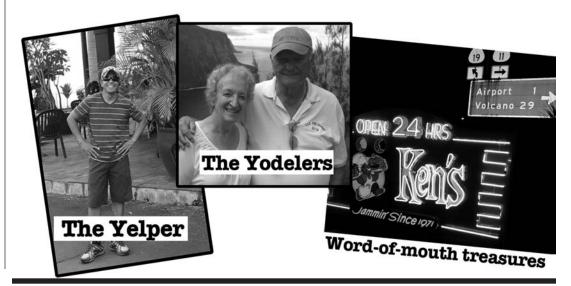

One night, he found the treasure he'd been looking for, a restaurant the locals like called "Hawaiian Style Cafe." He spent an evening showing us photos other yelpers posted of eggs and spam on rice topped with gravy, 3-foot pancake stacks and pineapple sausage. We ate there the next morning after a 30-minute wait. The food was amazing. There was even something for a vegetarian like me! The restaurant has hundreds of good Yelp reviews plus a new photo and recommendation from my husband.

What I find interesting is that this kind of business probably doesn't need to do much on-line marketing because everyone does it for them! If a business like this can deliver the goods, their Yelpers will take it from there.

Figure out how your business can influence word of mouth, on-line and off. People trust recommendations much more than they trust an ad. On our vacation, we didn't trust ads in the local tourist hand-outs, we were influenced by people on Yelp and on the beach.

BUSINESS TODAY

The latest on Business News, Trends and Techniques

HOLIDAY CHEER CAN PAY OFF ALL YEAR

Business owners, you still have time to sow seeds of generosity to customers and the community this holiday season. After all, "it's the thought that counts," and if you'll give it some thought, your expression of generosity doesn't have to cost a lot of money to make an impression that may translate into more sales in the upcoming year. Short on funds or have no budget to do something nice? Think again. Here are a number of recommendations to fit budgets (and non-budgets) of all sizes:

No budget? For businesses with physical locations, it begins with a few decorations to tap into the holiday theme that your customers are enjoying at other establishments. Hopefully you have some ornaments, tinsel or lights to add a festive accent to your store. If not, take a stroll to local parks and collect fallen pine cones and sprigs from trees to create a basket. Find red and green cloths or scarves to use as a table cover and as a sash to tie around the basket or container. Have someone with nice penmanship to write a "Happy Holidays from (Your Company Name)" or prepare and print one from your computer. Place this sign on, or near your display.

See if you have any inventory items that you have not been able to sell, and that you may have thought about discarding. Wrap each item in packing paper and tie a ribbon around it, or attach a colorful card or small decoration to each package. You may want to use see-thru wrapping to allow customers to select particular items. If you don't have room for a small Christmas tree, create a "gift area" and direct each person visiting your store to select a gift. You may wish to have a different selection of gifts as an extra thank you for customers who make purchases.

Place a small basket filled with small wrapped candies or small gifts, on the sales counter or small table. Punch a small hole through your business cards, lace a small piece of ribbon through each one and tie it to your holiday take-away. Customers are more likely to keep your business card, as opposed to a paper tag or flyer.

Small budget? A "12 Days of Christmas" theme can be used to countdown your final sales day up to December 25th. Offer a different small gift or treat each day. It may be a "free" item, or included with a purchase. Examples: A coffee shop offers a different tasting of tea, free or with the purchase of a pastry. A restaurant offers a free mini-portion appetizer with each bar purchase.

A few extra bucks to spare? Host a holiday open house, which will serve the purpose of thanking your customers, but will also give them another reason to visit your establishment. Apple cider, cookies, fruit tray or a more elaborate spread of refreshments or hors' dourves will add liveliness to any gathering. Your open house can be scheduled as a time-limited gathering on a specific day or evening, or you may decide to host a weeklong open house that offers refreshments to everyone who visits during certain hours. The purpose is to give you or your staff an opportunity to greet and connect with everyone who walks through your doors.

There are recommendations for home-based entrepreneurs or those who perform work at their clients' places of business as well. No budget? Make a personal phone call to thank each customer for business during the year, then follow-up with an animated e-mail holiday greeting. If possible, invest in a box of greeting cards to send the old-fashioned way, or deliver in person, with a candy cane or other sweet treat attached with a ribbon. Small budget? Purchase a bottle of sparkling apple cider and invest in an attractive wine gift bag available at your local "99¢" or "Dollar" store and make your rounds in person or have the items delivered. Extra cash to spare? Hopefully you have gleaned some information about the personal tastes or hobbies of your clients, so it's time to look at how much you plan to spend and make your shopping list. Be sure to include a greeting card with a personal note from you. These gifts can be mailed in advance or delivered in person.

The celebratory nature of the holiday season presents opportunities to connect and strengthen relationships with existing customers and to provide an introduction to potential customers. So get into the holiday spirit with a little generosity toward your customers, you may find these small gestures as the "gift that will keep on giving" to your success throughout the following year.

HOWARD Hays As I See It

"This is a big giant prize for unions, this is a big giant prize for those who are anti-capitalism . . . Don't think that the people in Bangladesh who perished didn't want or

- Fox Business host Charles Payne, on the 129 mostly female workers who died earlier this month in the fire at a garment factory producing clothes for Walmart.

Charles Payne commented not out of sympathy for those who died, but out of defensiveness - miffed there were those who might exploit the tragedy by drawing connections to the Walmart workers who walked off their jobs in protest on Black Friday here at home. Some might draw such connections because, explained Payne,

"the unions in this country are desperate."

There were, in fact, connections drawn by Scott Nova of the Workers' Rights Consortium in an interview with The Nation: "Walmart is supporting, is incentivizing, an industry strategy in Bangladesh: extreme low wages, non-existent regulation, brutal suppression of any attempt by workers to act collectively to improve wages and conditions . . . This factory is a product of that strategy that Walmart invites, supports and perpetuates."

From the factory's perspective, Nova observes, "if they allowed workers to organize and bargained a contract, if they invested in necessary health and safety equipment, if they restructured the building to make it safe, put in place sprinklers and outside fire escapes, their costs would rise, they would have to charge more for their product, and they would immediately lose Walmart and their other

Jon Stewart on The Daily Show drew his own connections – suggesting the fire in Bangladesh should make those ungrateful Walmart employees here in the U.S. feel fortunate, because "at least

Charles Payne of Fox and others complain that everybody picks on Walmart, the nation's largest employer with 4,500 stores and 1.4 million workers. A study put out this month by the public policy center Demos shows that the attention is well-deserved.

The study shows how Walmart's race-to-the-bottom goes back to the 1960s, when founder Sam Walton was forced by the courts to give up his scheme of setting up shell companies to avoid federal minimum wage laws. It cites a 2005 study from New York University that Walmart pays its workers 28% less than other big retailers, and one from UC Berkeley describing how the effect of Walmart on a community is to replace higher-paying jobs with lower-paying ones. According to that study, average retail wages in those communities are 10% lower, and health coverage 5% less, than if the Walmart

The Demos study takes figures from the U.S. Department of Labor to show that over the next decade retail will be the second largest source of new jobs in the U.S., an industry where the average income for a full-time worker is $21,000 a year. It analyzes what would happen if lower-paid workers at the large retailers (at least 1,000 employees) were given an average 27% raise, bringing their annual income up to at least $25,000. The study finds that in so doing:

1.5 million families would be lifted from in or near poverty.

Between 100,000 and 132,000 jobs would be created from more disposable income pumped into

GDP would go up by $11.8 to $15.2 billion annually. The cost of the raises would be about 1% of the industry's $2.17 trillion in total annual sales, or about $4 billion less than the $24.8 billion the industry currently spends on stock buybacks.

If the cost were passed on to consumers, it would amount to an extra 15 cents per shopping basket. Most of the costs, though, would be recouped by higher productivity. Sam's Club, for instance, has only half the per-employee sales as Costco, where the wages are 40% higher. Trader Joe's is another company where higher-paid employees results in more productivity, better training, and

It's not that the companies can't afford it. Walmart, for instance, is 23% more profitable than it was before the Recession – but keeps employees at minimum wage.

Whatever the advantage of lower prices, the community ends up paying in other ways. The UC Berkeley study shows that in 2004 when Walmart reported $9.1 billion in profits, California taxpayers foot the bill for $86 million in public assistance for its employees. Democratic Congressional staffers calculated that in 2004, each 200-employee Walmart store costs taxpayers an average $400,000 yearly in public assistance (Medicaid, food stamps, WIC, etc.)

Last June, immigrant workers at Walmart supplier CJ Seafoods in Louisiana walked off the job picking crawfish, complaining of 24-hour shifts with no overtime, and threatened beatings to speed up work. Workers at Walmart warehouses in Illinois and California staged walk-outs last October complaining of unsafe conditions, no overtime pay and temperatures reaching 120 degrees. The group OUR Walmart (Organization United for Respect) staged walk-outs throughout the country on Black Friday – and the movement's not going away.

It's not that everybody at Walmart is barely scraping by. While Mitt Romney famously spoke of the bottom 47%, the Demos study states that if you were to take the bottom 42% of Americans and combine their wealth, it would be less than the combined wealth of the six heirs to the Walton fortune

Eight months ago, the body of Bangladeshi labor activist Aminul Islam was found, showing signs of torture. He'd been working to organize garment factory workers and bring dangerous conditions to the attention of international media. According to Scott Nova of the WRC, "It's virtually certain that somebody acting at the behest of the government or industry killed him." As for those 129 who died in the garment factory fire, their families each received compensatory payments of $1,250.

By the way - did you know we have a bunch of dandy non-big-box merchants stocked with all sorts of gift ideas right here in Sierra Madre? Happy shopping!

California Lottery Commission Approves Popular POWERBALL® Game

SACRAMENTO - The 5-member California Lottery Commission today unanimously voted to formally adopt the multi-state mega-jackpot lot-tery game, POWERBALL. The Lottery conducted extensive research regarding the viability of offering a second multi-state game and concluded that POWERBALL would enhance the organization's current portfolio of games. POWERBALL sales will begin in California on April 8, 2013, the first draw will take place on April 10, 2013.

"We have to continually offer our loyal players a variety of entertaining Lottery games, and we firmly believe that POWERBALL is a right fit for the California Lottery," Lottery Director Robert T. O'Neill said. "I expect POWERBALL to add anywhere between $50 to $100 million additional dollars to supplement public education funding, which is our one and only mission. Plus, our customers were pretty clear that they wanted us to bring POWERBALL to California."

Player Prizes

The $2 POWERBALL game is played much like the popular MEGA Millions® game. Players would choose five numbers from 1 to 59 and one red POWERBALL number from 1 to 35. Players can choose their own numbers or opt for a Quick Pick. Draws are held every Wednesday and Śaturday at 7:59 p.m. PST. Unlike MEGA Millions and SuperLotto Plus®, POWERBALL's pool closure occurs promptly at 7 p.m. PST each draw day. Besides the jackpot, there are eight additional ways to win prizes. The amounts will vary due to the State's pari-mutuel rules.

A major difference between California's existing draw games is that the POWERBALL jackpot begins at $40 million and increases by at least $10 million every roll.

The POWERBALL draws take place in Tallahassee, Florida.

The mission of the California Lottery is to provide supplemental funding to California schools while simultaneously supporting local communities. More than 94 cents of every dollar spent by our players goes back to local communities in the form of contributions to public schools and colleges, prizes and retail compensation. Since 2000, Lottery players have contributed $1 billion to public schools each year, and, since we began in 1985, Lottery players have contributed a total of more than $24 billion to education. The California Lottery urges its customers to play responsibly and within their budgets. If you feel you have a gambling problem, or know someone who does, you can get help at 1-800-GAMBLER.

WE CAN'T AFFORD POLITICS AS GREG Welborn USUAL MR. PRESIDENT

President Obama won his re-election and is entitled to say that the American people voted for him, and by extension, the policies he has trumpeted. But the American people also voted for the very same composition of the House of Representatives. That is to say, they've kept in office both Democrats and Republicans at about the same ratios they started with before the election. If there is a mandate here, it is to deal with the damn issues that confront this country. That reading of the election results is only reinforced by a review of Obama's campaign promises. As he did in his first campaign, he has promised to be a uniter, to seek bi-partisanship, and to grow the economy. The current fiscal cliff negotiations are a perfect venue to prove those promises are real. Sadly, that's not what the President is trying to do.

Over the last 40 years or so, the debate between Republicans and Democrats has resulted in a seesaw between tax rate changes and spending increases that were both within a range that kept our deficit at a tolerable size. Think of the deficit as you would your house mortgage. The size of it is not itself important. Its size relative to your income is absolutely important. In our modern era, deficits in the $200 billion range are certainly tolerable. We can afford them, pay the interest on the resulting debt and continue to grow the economy which further allows that federal debt to be paid back. That will sound like heresy to some of my more conservative, fiscal hawk compatriots, but as a trained economist I know of what I write.

To provide just a bit more perspective on this, let's consider federal revenue and expenditures for 2007. As they often say in the wine business, 2007 was a good year. Rounded off, revenue was $2.5 trillion, expenditures were $2.7 trillion, and the deficit was $200 billion. This year's projected deficit is $1 trillion. This is a deficit in a league of its own. It has no precedent.

Now some would say that the economic collapse is at fault, that economic activity and revenues have shrunk so much that the burgeoning deficit was inevitable. Unfortunately, cold hard facts don't support this view. 2012 revenues are $2.4 trillion, just barely under their 2007 level. Were this just a revenue issue, our deficit should only be a measly $100 billion more than it was in 2007. Ahhhh, for the good old days!! The problem is expenditures, not revenue. Federal expenditures for 2012 are $3.5 trillion. That's about $1 trillion more than 2007, and we're surprised that our deficit has ballooned? More amazingly, some in our punditry class – and apparently some among the voters – believe that expenditures have nothing to do with today's problems. I can only refer them back to the last six sentences. But let me make it easy for them. Revenues are back to where they were. Expenditures are out of control!!!

There will still be some who hold fast to the belief that even if expenditures have risen, they are justified - necessary even - and we must raise tax rates (on the rich only, of course) to make up the $1 trillion deficit. History has always been a cruel task master, and here again it offers a severe wrap on the knuckles.

A recent George Mason University study (here's the URL for those that insist: http://mercatus.org/ sites/default/files/publication/historical-revenue-path-plus-top-marginal-rates-analysis.pdf) shows very clearly that tax rates on the wealthy have little affect on the amount of tax revenue collected by the federal government as a percentage of GDP. From 1945 to the present, we have had income tax rates from the low 90% range to today's 35% range. The amount of revenue that has been collected has rarely grown above about 18% to 20%. You can raise tax rates all you want, but you will NOT increase revenues as a percentage of the economy. The wealthy have the luxury of deciding when and where to recognize income by deciding when and where to start businesses and employ other people.

We are not going to solve this problem with higher taxes. We will solve this problem by keeping expenditures within the same range as revenue. When we keep federal expenditures at about 20% of GDP, we either balance our budgets or run fairly small, manageable deficits. Today's revenue is at the 2007 level of about 20% of GDP. Today's expenditures are 25% of GDP, and are projected to rise to 46% of GDP by 2050. And that's without a single increase in the number of government programs. God only knows what that expenditure level will look like when Obamacare is fully implemented.

Into this national crisis and debate, steps President/candidate Obama. He's a smart guy; I don't doubt that for a second. So I know he has been shown these very same numbers and trends. He knows what's going on. The only way we solve this problem is to lower expenditures and grow the economy. With his second term assured, his response is to deep six the bipartisan homilies and olive branch and tell the Republicans A) we need to spend more, B) he will not touch any entitlement program at all, ever, and C) we need to tax the rich even more. He doesn't want to fix the deficit or grow the economy. He wants to take more from everyone. He knows he will eventually have to increase tax rates on the middle class to pay for his vision of government.

This is not bipartisanship. It's not honesty with the voters. It's not graciousness in victory. It's not principled negotiation. It's politics as usual, and it's going to be a disaster for the country. No matter what the President says, no matter what spin the media put forward, we cannot afford the

REPUBLICAN WOMEN: SEEN BUT NOT CHARMEN

I blame feminism for why I feel entitled to equal rights. I have no qualms seeing the toil and struggle of my foremothers allowing me opportunities not available to them.

For example, my generation doesn't have to be married. This is the product of our mothers' saber rattling. Being married is no longer necessary; now it's a choice. And with a choice, there's leverage and you get to negotiate your own terms. Free market!

Because of federal legislation, specifically the Equal Credit Opportunity Act (ECOA) of 1974 ensuring single women could obtain their own credit card, we can now be financially independent. It's not just Roe v.

Wade, it's women demanding birth control access and informed health care decisions. It's women lobbying for gender parity and equal protections.

Due to feminist victories, this country has changed. Our mores have changed. Women have changed. Marriage has changed.

Nothing illustrates the quagmire this has made for Republicans more than Congresswoman Michele Bachmann's campaign for the GOP nomination for president. Bachmann stated in a speech in 2006 that she hated taxes but studied tax law in order to be "submissive to her husband." During the primary, at a debate in Iowa, she was asked if she were president would she, in fact, be submissive to her husband. The question drew boos from the crowd, but it was on point: She was running to be commander-in-chief, but claimed to have this conservative traditional Christian marriage. For women to be the Republican ideal, they have to be unqualified to be president.

It's a weird balancing act. Republican women are required to enjoy the fruits of feminism while championing every force that's ever opposed it. This was made clear when Sarah Palin was tapped to be the first-ever female GOP veep candidate. Members of her own party criticized her for running for office with such young children. Palin tried out the short-lived phrase "conservative feminism," which is up there with giant shrimp and authentic copy.

It's an impossible standard for female Republican politicians: They have to be coy and a leader; feminine and effective; homemaker and career woman; traditional and radical feminist pioneers.

Republicans have lost battles in the war on women they initially (and unsuccessfully) launched as a war on religion. They have a woman problem. They have also maintained the majority in the House. How do these two things mesh up? The Speaker of the House chose committee chairs that are all men. A sea of white Grand Old Party dudes.

This illustrates the dichotomy of gender equality for Republicans: They want women to vote for them; they want to say they have women in their caucus; they want women to be Republicans; but they clearly don't prefer them as leaders.

Before the GOP committee chair choices looked like the mug shot lineup for a white middle-aged groping suspect, this wasn't as obvious, but now it's undeniable: Republicans treat Republican women like tokens. Palin was used as an "us too" shield combating a diverse Democratic ticket. Just like Governors Nikki Haley and Susana Martinez get mentioned as a comeback to the criticism of a way too homogeneous party.

Brian Kilmeade, host of "Fox and Friends," summed up the Republican opinion on women perfectly. When asked how Fox News, the entertainment wing of the Republican party, finds such stunning conservative stars to be on their network, Kilmeade offered, "We go into the Victoria's Secret catalogue and we said, 'Can any of these people talk?'"

Binders full ... of women.

STUART Tolchin.....On LIFE THE HOLIDAYS

Last year they beat us 50-0 and this year we got back at them. Almost at the end of the game one of our guys caused injury to the beautiful and successful USC quarterback, thereby completely ruining their season—a season which had started out for them so positively. On this day the Rose Bowl and its hundred thousand seats were packed the day was beautiful and we happy Bruin fans congratulated each other and felt like we really showed 'em.

For me this victory was directly connected with OUR victory in the Presidential election. Everyone knows that all UCLA grads are Democrats and all USC (University of Spoiled Children) grads are Republican Bankers who are lucky to have escaped prison. (I know this is a completely unfair, inaccurate generalization but who cares - it's only football right.) I sort of know that all the anger we Bruin fans direct at USC is kind of falsely created and all in fun, but it doesn't feel that way. My feelings about USC and Republicans are kind of similar that way. I really don't like

I really think Bush and Cheney and Rumsfeld and Condoleezza Skeeza are War Criminal who should be placed on trial and publicly forced to defend their lies. This past week Republicans have vigorously attacked UN Representative Susan Rice for appearing on Sunday talk shows and describing the attacks in Bengasi as being spontaneous demonstrations rather than planned terrorist attacks. As far as I am concerned her statements were not only inaccurate but also inadequately researched. I do think it is irresponsible for high for high level members of the administration to mouth statements without making a serious attempt to determine what is true. Otherwise don't say anything.

Still, as I hope most of you remember, this kind of error pales in comparison with the willful misrepresentations made by Bush Administration officials into an unnecessary war resulting in unnecessary hundreds of thousand Poor Secretary of State Colin Powell was used to manipulate the United Nations by presenting inaccurate information. It makes me sick and probably also made him sick. As you should know, this acclaimed War Hero and Republican Secretary of State endorsed the Democrats in the last week of the election campaign, perhaps as some attempt at atonement.

Really there is no possible atonement. We are constantly lied to and constantly lie to ourselves. İ don't really hate USC, I just like to pretend I do and I fool myself. Similarly and more importantly, to pretend I care. I keep writing about eyes on that scoreboard even on the need for transparency but I am HOLIDAYS.

The past couple willing to forget that the Wiki Leaks weeks have really people, Corporal Bradley Manning on confusing for solitarily confined in prison and The only thing Julian Assange, are unable to leave the Ecuadorian Embassy in London. Their underlying alleged crime is an attempt to present the truth to the world. There is little in the recent news about these men, which only emphasizes that Wiki Leaks provided more revelatory information than the combined efforts of all other news media. While these men are kept in virtual isolation and are forgotten by many of us, others, like me, are involved in Turkey Day celebrations and are happily distracted while rooting for their Home Team. One more cheer!. Go Bruins! Beat SC.

While I have been ruining my health feasting on Thanksgiving delicacies and visiting old friends, I have completely forgotten my concerns about gun control. I don't seem to be the only one who has forgotten. Did either candidate mention much about gun control? All I can remember is non-stop talk about the bewildering subject of taxes. This talk went on while Americans keep killing each other with guns and while we supply the rest of the world with weapons and ammunition. What is the solution? Do I stop caring about football or watching sports? What about Thanksgiving and Christmas and Halloween decorations? What about planned vacations. Aren't those times important?

What about my work? What about my health? I'm not getting any younger you know, and will I ever be secure enough to retire? Hey, what about my kids—I still worry about them every

You must get my point. Why do I worry about gun control and governmental transparency and education and ecology and immigration and health care? Why worry about the future at all? Don't I have enough problems without thinking about Israel and Syria and the starving infected Africans? You know, many people don't seem to worry about the future of the planet or of mankind. Many people content themselves with becoming involved in Community Activities and charities and Holiday celebrations.

If one has community concerns, it who knowingly spoke of non-existent is possible to do things that are helpful Iraqi WMDs and pushed the country in the short run. It is not what I do. I watch the news and read the paper and write my articles and feel guilty that I am not saving the planet—oh, and I root for UCLA and local sports teams. I get together with my kids all the time and my wife and I and our dog are generally pretty happy. When I have a little extra-time, like during these holidays, I see myself in this different perspective. Why I have I allowed myself to be distracted from the true purpose of my life? Or can the purpose be GO BRUINS BEAT SC?

> Maybe what's missing is another way to keep score? GO PLANET GO!!

And we need people freed to keep I really don't care that the government constantly lies to the public—I just like implications---and we need to keep our

1939

Time to get back to highlighting years of note. And if you are a movie buff, 1939 should be a banner year for you. It's considered the greatest year in the history of Hollywood. This is due to the unbelievable number of good, no, extraordinary movies that came out.

Normally, 5 or so movies are nominated for best picture in a year, 1939 had 10 movies nominated for best movie. Among them include:

Gone With the Wind The Wizard of Oz Mr. Smith Goes to Washington Wuthering Heights Goodbye Mr. Chips Stagecoach Ninotchka Of Mice and Men Love Affair Dark Victory

Other famous and successful movies of 1939:

Gullivers Travels Jesse James The Little Princess The Hunchback of Notre Dame Beau Geste Destry Rides Again The Man in the Iron Mask Intermezzo Stanley & Livingston Babes in Arms

Among the significant events of 1939:

Worlds' Fair opened in New York. The last public execution took place in France. And yes, it was with a guillotine. World War II began when Germany invaded Poland and Russia invaded Finland. Einstein wrote President Roosevelt a letter suggesting we develop an atomic bomb

So, how much did things cost in 1939?

$3,800 new house $28.00 house rent $1,700 wages gallon of gas 10 cents 8 cents loaf of bread $700 new car $16.00 toaster Famous births:

Francis Ford Coppola, George Hamilton, Lily Tomlin, John Cleese, Frankie Avalon, Marvin Gaye, Paul Hogan, Ralph Lauren, Lee Majors, Lee Harvey Oswald, and the Ayatollah Kamenei. Most popular Christmas gifts for kids?

Batman Comics and View-Masters. If you could afford it, you could buy the first car with air conditioning. The car? A Packard.

The biggest hit songs of 1939: Over the Rainbow.

Judy Garland Moonlight Seranade Glenn Miller Kate Smith God Bless America

I hope you include Jane Fuller's "The Arctic Express" one woman Christmas Show 7:00 pm Sunday night, December 9th, at the Sierra Madre Playhouse. Tickets can be purchased by calling (626) 355-4318 or visiting Janefuller.com. $20.00 a ticket and includes her wonderful full length Christmas CD. The show is family-friendly but geared more toward the child hiding inside us adults. And if Santa Claus looks a little like me, it's really just coincidence.

"A Cinderella Christmas" is being performed the next few Saturdays. Showtime is 11:00 am, also at the Sierra Madre Playhouse. Is the show good? I've seen it 9 times. My eyes tear up several times during the performance because the show involves the young kids in the audience creating wonderful memories these young'un's will never forget. Tickets can also be ordered by calling (626) 355-4318. The Playhouse is at 87 W. Sierra Madre Blvd in Sierra Madre.

A Weekly Religion Column by Rev. James Snyder

OKAY, THAT WASN'T FUNNY Let me make it very clear right up front that I am in favor of

as many "ha ha moments" as possible. I could not get through a week without my daily dose. I firmly believe that laughter is the appropriate medicine for the soul. Some people, according to their demeanor, need a little more laughter than they are presently getting.

That said, let me quickly point out that some things are not funny.

Of course, most things in my life and about my person are marvelous targets of humor. I do not take myself very seriously. I am not sure any wise person would take me seriously either. In fact, I would highly suspect a person who took me seriously. I can take a joke as well as the next person and I can give it back as well as the next

I have had some weeks when, if it were not for a little bit of humor I do not know how I would have gotten through. So, if you can't do anything you can at least laugh. I firmly believe that the best laugh is when you can laugh at yourself. You might as well laugh at yourself, everybody else is.

Then, there are those serious moments in life that beg for no laughing. I would recommend that warning signs are put around these areas reading, "Positively No Laughing Zone." With this sign should come a severe penalty for those who violate

That said; let me explain an area in my life where the sign should be permanently erected. The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage and I were having supper with another couple. We try to do this at least once a month and keep up with each other's progress or lack thereof.

We were having a great meal and as we came to the end, I stopped the waitress and said, "I would like some ice cream for dessert." As far as I am concerned, that is a rather reasonable request and quite in keeping with the environment I was in.
"What kind of ice cream," she queried, "would you like?"

When it comes to ice cream, ice cream is simply ice cream to me. If there is a flavor of ice cream I do not like, it has yet to be invented. I love ice cream. My favorite song is, "I scream, you scream, we all scream for ice cream." In my date book, there is no better ending to a wonderful meal than ice cream. I remember my grandfather's favorite ice cream was vanilla. He would not eat any other ice cream; he thought they were polluting it with colors. To him an ice cream sundae was as close to blaspheme as he ever would get. "Why ruin," he objected,

"the ice cream with all that slop?" He wanted nothing coming between him and the purest experience of ice cream he could get. Me, I love ice cream regardless of the flavor or color or "slop."

I looked at the waitress and simply said, "I don't care what flavor you bring me. Surprise me. As long as it isn't broccoli." That was supposed to be a joke. Ha ha ha. As the waitress left our table, we resumed our conversation and shortly she returned with the ice cream.

Upon her arrival, I looked at her and then the ice cream she was bringing and almost screamed aloud. Of all the blasphemous things to do to a customer, this has to take the cake.

First, she had an ice cream bowl with three scoops of ice cream, vanilla, strawberry and chocolate. No problem. However, on the side of the dish in plain view for everybody to see, especially me, was a piece of broccoli. Broccoli! The forbidden fruit or whatever it is.

My dining companions thought this was the funniest thing they had ever seen. Particularly, the dining companion that was going to come home with me that night. Not only did they laugh. The waitress laughed. The table next to us began to laugh. The table next to them began to laugh. It was not long before everybody within 173 miles was laughing at my ice cream/broccoli dessert.

Actually, not everybody was laughing. I was not laughing. Broccoli, no matter the presentation, is no laughing matter in my book.

If matters could not be worse, my wife, through her hilarity spasms, reached over, picked up the broccoli and began eating it in my presence. Talk about adding insult to injury, my injury was vastly insulted.

I may have been smiling on the outside, but I assure you I was more than frowning on the inside. Some things are funny; broccoli is not one of those things.

Driving home amid the muffled chuckles on the other side of the front seat, I thought of what the apostle Paul said in 1 Thessalonians 5:16-18 (KJV), "Rejoice evermore. Pray without ceasing. In every thing give thanks: for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you."

I know that when Paul said, "In every thing," it included things like broccoli. I must say that there are some things in life, like broccoli, where the thanksgiving is a matter of faith. I will never learn to love broccoli, but I can muster up enough faith to thank God for all things, including broccoli.

City of Sierra Madre

PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE

From: The City of Sierra Madre

Subject: CONDITIONAL USE PERMIT 12-04 (CUP 12-04); THE BRITISH HOME SPECIFIC PLAN- SPECIFIC PLAN

NO. 12-01 (SP 12-01); MUNICIPAL CODE TEXT AMENDMENT NO. 12-02 (MCTA 12-02)

Applicant: The British Home

Project Location: 647 Manzanita Avenue and 676 Ramona Avenue

The City of Sierra Madre gives notice, pursuant to State of California law, that the Planning Commission will conduct a public hearing to consider a request for a Conditional Use Permit to allow 1) the addition of 754 square feet of floor area to an existing building (Armstrong Hall) located at 647 Manzanita Avenue, and 2) demolition of an existing single-family home and construction of a new one-story, 3,591-square-foot, 8-bedroom residential building at 676 Ramona Avenue as part of the British Home site. The new building will allow an increase in the total number of residents on the site from 41 to 49. Pursuant to Sierra Madre Municipal Code (SMMC), convalescent homes and similar institutions are permitted subject to the approval of a Conditional Use Permit (CUP). A Specific Plan is required pursuant to General Plan Land Use Policy L3.1 which requires the adoption of a comprehensive plan or similar planning document for all developments on properties exceeding one acre in size. In order for such plan to have regulatory authority over the underlying zone, a Municipal Code Text Amendment will also be considered.

DATE AND TIME OF HEARING

City of Sierra Madre Planning Commission meeting Thursday, December 6, 2012 (Hearing begins at 7:00 p.m.)

PLACE OF HEARING

City of Sierra Madre City Council Chambers 232 W. Sierra Madre Blvd. Sierra Madre, CA

All interested persons may attend this meeting and the Planning Commission will hear them with ENVIRONMENTAL DETERMINATION: The project qualifies for Class 1 Categorical Exemption, pursuant to Section 15301(e)(1) as the addition of floor area to the existing building (Armstrong Hall) constitutes a negligible expansion of an existing use. The project also qualifies for Class 3 Categorical Exemption, pursuant to Section 15303(a) in that it involves construction of one new residential building in a single-family residential zone.

APPEAL: The decision of the Planning Commission is subject to a 10-business-day appeal period to the City Council. If in the future anyone wishes to challenge the decision of the Planning Commission in court, one may be limited to raising the issues that were raised or presented in written correspondence delivered to the Planning Commission at, or before, the scheduled public hearing. For further information on this subject, please contact the Development Services Department at (626) 355-7138.
