COUNCIL TACKLES SIERRA MADRE'S BIGGEST PROBLEM: WATER

Water Conservation A Priority

At the first full council meeting under the direction of Mayor Nancy Walsh, the subject of water was of the highest priority. The town is at a critical juncture as the water levels are low and the residents consumption is increasing.

Sierra Madre has always taken pride in the fact that the town has its' own supply of water and doesn't have to rely on surrounding purveyors of water to sustain the city. In 1882, The Sierra Madre Water Company was formed, 25 years before the town was incorporated. It continues to exist today as a separate entity in the city.

Our water supply is primarily derived from four wells drawing from the East Raymond Basin aquifer (85%) and two natural spring tunnels located on either side of the county flood control dam in Little Santa Anita Canyon.

The water is collected in a reservoir at the City's maintenance facility and then pumped to other reservoirs around town. The water is then distributed through a network of pipelines in our streets.

That, like everything else in this society, costs money, however the cost of operating our water system was not the topic of discussion. Consumption

Water Consumption Up; Water Levels Down

The declining water levels which have resulted from the dry weather we have experienced has resulted in less rainwater for groundwater recharge, city staff informed the council. In a presentation staff noted that the average

Salvage credit from 2000-2012 was 1,063 acre feet. According to the report, the salvage this year is 84 acre feet. Levels have only been lower in 1959-1960 (45 acre feet) and 1960-61 (51 acre feet).

The dry weather not only causes the water levels in our wells to decline, it also causes residents to use more water, especially for landscaping. As a result consumption has skyrocketed. Councilman John Capoccia, who has become extremely knowledgeable on the city's water situation, agrees with staff that we are at a critical juncture. "We've got to reduce consumption" Capoccia said. Public Works Director Bruce Inman has brought this to the council's attention on numerous other occasions.

On Tuesday, the first reading of two water conservation measures was discussed. The discussion and Public Comment focused on how to implement a strong water conservation policy without penalizing those who already conserve water. Another area of concern was the 233 customers who use more than 3 times as much water as the majority of households (2,360).

An enhanced tiered water rate system and possible penalties for failure to comply with whatever conservation ordinance the council adopts were also discussed.

The next meeting of the council will be May 28th and a Second Reading of the Ordinances will be held. (See Public Hearing Notices on Page 19). It was the consensus of the entire council that action was needed as soon as possible.

"BE BEAR AWARE"

The Weather is Warming Up and the Bears are Back in the Foothills May is "Be Bear Aware" Month and the Monrovia Police Department and the California Department of Fish and Wildlife want to remind the public to act responsibly when in bear country.

Spring is the time of year when California's black bears emerge from their winter dens in search of food. Because bears are attracted to anything edible or smelly, their search often leads them into residential neighborhoods, where trash and food is readily available. Throughout spring and summer, CDFW receives many calls when bears break into homes and rummage through trash bins. These bears are often labeled "nuisance" bears, but in reality they are just doing what comes naturally to them, foraging for food.

Tips for Bear-Proofing Your Home:

Bears have keen noses and can smell an easy meal from miles away. They can easily tear a front door off its hinges if they smell food left out on the kitchen counter. To protect your family and property from bear break-ins follow these simple tips:

- Purchase and properly use a bear-proof garbage container.
  Wait to put trash out until the morning of collection day. Don't leave
- trash, groceries, or animal feed in your car. Keep garbage cans clean and deodorize them with bleach or ammonia.
- Keep barbecue grills clean and stored in a garage or shed when not in Only provide bird feeders during November through March and make
- them inaccessible to bears. Don't leave any scented products outside, even non-food items such as
- suntan lotion, insect repellent, soap or candles.
- Keep doors and windows closed and locked. Consider installing motion-detector alarms, electric fencing or motion-
- activated sprinklers. Harvest fruit off trees as soon as it is ripe, and promptly collect fruit that
- Securely block access to potential hibernation sites such as crawl spaces
- under decks and buildings. Following are some informative videos and information from the California Department of Fish and Wildlife to help you "Be Bear Aware!"

Got a minute? The folks who run Sierra Madre's two local TV stations - that's right, Sierra Madre has two local TV stations - need your opinion on what you like to watch and how you watch it so they can make this local resource more fun and relevant to your

We are doing this survey now because we are excited to launch a new channel, Channel 98. As you might know, Channel 3 on Time Warner Cable has been airing City Council and Planning Commission meetings, and other City government events, live for years and this important service will continue. But we are now adding Channel 98 as a commercial free, educational channel that will feature children's programming, classic movies and TV shows, how-to shows, community special events and other interesting and eclectic programming relevant to our lives in Sierra Madre all presented without commercials and without fundraising. It is our channel, it is starting from scratch, and we need you to tell us what you want to see on it.

Please take a few minutes to fill out this questionnaire either online at www.surveymonkey.com/s/X6VBWYB or drop it off at City Hall, Sierra Madre Library, or the Recreation Center by May 31, 2013 and be part of creating something that will entertain and inform us, be unique to our special town, and make us proud. Thanks for the help!

We want you to be a part of our City Team!

The Sierra Madre City Council encourages citizen participation in its decision-making process through the use of citizen commissions. Currently, there are five citizen commissions established by the Council to advise and assist them in dealing with specific problems.

Applications may be obtained at City Hall or the City website at http://cityofsierramadre.com/commissions-boards-committees. Applications will be accepted until all positions are filled; however, it is recommended that applications for appointment for the beginning of the 2013-2014 fiscal year be submitted by Friday, June 7, 2013 to the City Manager's Office.

The advisory bodies study a variety of topics in detail. After gathering all pertinent information, hearing arguments, and weighing values, they recommend to the Council what they consider the best action to take. In certain situations, commissions are empowered to make specific decisions, subject to appeal to the Council. Public notices on all commissions are prepared in compliance of the Maddy Act.

COMMUNITY SERVICES COMMISSION

The Community Services Commission is responsible for overseeing the City's recreation and community services programs. The Commission oversees the general use of park facilities and matters relating to the community's arts and recreational service needs. The Commission provides information and recommendations to the City Council in these areas. Meets the 3rd Monday at 6:30 pm, in the City Hall Council Chamber

LIBRARY BOARD OF TRUSTEES

The responsibilities of the Library Board include the following: establishing Library policies and programs to ensure that quality programs are provided to the community, recommending an annual budget to the City Council for approval, and ensuring that efficient and effective services are provided at the Library. Meets the 4th Wednesday at 7:00 pm, in the City Hall Conference Room

PLANNING COMMISSION

The responsibilities of the Planning Commission fall into two broad categories: consideration of current land-use (i.e. applications for General Plan amendments, zone changes, specific plans, conditional use permits, tract maps, variances, and appeals of staff land-use decisions); and advising the City Council on City initiated amendments to the City's General Plan. Meets the 1st and 3rd Thursday at 7:00 pm, in the City Hall Council Chamber

SENIOR COMMUNITY COMMISSION

The Senior Community Commission is responsible for defining the needs, locating and publicizing available resources, coordinating and initiating services and opportunities for the senior population of Sierra Madre. Meets the 1st Thursday at 3:00 pm, in the City Hall

TREE ADVISORY COMMISSION

The Tree Commission is an advisory body to the Director of Public Works, City Manager, Planning Commission, and City Council. The commission shall make recommendations to the Director of Public Works, City Manager, Planning Commission and the City Council as appropriate on matters involving care and maintenance of Cityowned trees and trees on private undeveloped property. Meets the 3rd Wednesday at 7:00 pm, in the City Hall Council Chamber

Sierra Madre Police Blotter

For the period May 6-12, 2013

Wednesday May 8, 2013

At 2pm, a traffic collision occurred at Sierra Madre Boulevard and Sunnyside Avenue. A vehicle travelling east on Sierra Madre Boulevard stopped for the stop sign at the location but then started through the intersection while a pedestrian was still in the crosswalk. The impact knocked the pedestrian to the ground. She complained of injury to her head and hip and was transported to Arcadia Methodist Hospital for treatment.

Thursday May 9, 2013

At 3:15pm, a female was hiking down Mount Wilson Trail when she was passed by a male hiker. After passing her, the male looked back toward her frequently. He then pulled down his pants, lifted his shirt and exposed his bare buttocks. The male continued down the trail, got into a vehicle and drove off. A possible suspect has been identified and the investigation is actively being pursued.

Saturday May 11, 2013

At 11:30 pm, officers responded to a call of a disturbance in the 400 block of West Sierra Madre Boulevard. They were met by the victim (male 51 years of age) who was bleeding from the mouth. He informed the officers that he was taking photographs of a vehicle that was illegally parked in his carport when he was confronted by a male who challenged him about the photos. A verbal argument ensued and the suspect punched the victim in the face multiple times. The victim then fled the scene. Follow up investigation located a resident of the apartment complex who may be the girlfriend of the suspect. This led to a possible identification of the suspect and detectives are currently attempting to locate him. The victim lost a few teeth in the incident but declined medical

Battery Suspect Sought

Police released the image of a woman Thursday wanted in connection with an assault at a local Target store last month in which she allegedly tried to claw the eyes of the victim's face.

According to police, at about 7:40 p.m. April 25, an altercation occurred at a Target store, 777 E. Colorado Blvd, in which, the female adult victim confronted the suspect for cutting the line at the customer service desk.

The suspect called the victim a derogatory name in Spanish and the victim repeated the comment back to the suspect according to police. The suspect then dropped her purse and bag and grabbed the victim's face and clawed at her eyes. The victim held on to the suspect until an employee intervened. The suspect then picked up her belongings and ran out the exit door. The above picture was captured as the suspect was exiting the store.

The suspect was described as a female Hispanic, 30-35 old, 5-04, 140 lbs., long wavy brown hair, light complexion, wearing khaki pants, and a blue collared shirt with an unknown logo on the left chest area.

Police say she may have driven away in a late model

Iudge Ann Jones Addresses Budget Cuts and Their Impact On Our Judicial System

The guest speaker for the last Arcadia Chamber of Commerce Meeting was Superior Court Judge, the Honorable Ann Jones, who has served since 2001.

Currently Judge Jones is the Supervising Judge for Budget Planning and Implementation. Her message was somber-"This is bad" and "There are huge consequences". As of June 14, eight courthouses will be closed and 511 staff positions lost in this process of "de-reconstruction" and "re-construction" of the Court System in Los Angeles County.

After her informative and eye opening presentation, Judge Jones shared her detailed outline with me. It's quite lengthy, but this issue is so important to all of us, that I will share some

The principles and priorities of the Budget Planning and Implementation Committee included meeting constitutional requirements and statutory obligations; maintain access to justice in all litigation types, most effective use of bench officers, and fair and even distributions of resources within all case types.

There will be fewer neighborhood courts as ten courthouses will be closed with narrow exceptions: Huntington Park, Whittier, Pomona North, Malibu, West Los Angeles, Beverly Hills (1 traffic court will remain), San Pedro, Beacon Street, Catalina (2 days/month only) and Kenyon

We will have fewer criminal and traffic courts at fewer locations: 12 courthouses will close, and cases will be distributed among the remaining criminal courtrooms by mid-June; court scheduling reconfigured to accommodate new demands from parole violation hearings.

Family Law/Civil Harassment Cases-Redirection of more than 10,000 hearings annually will result in a 15+% workload increase for bench officers.

Two delinquency courtrooms at Kenyon will be closed and work re-distributed; a layoff of referees replaced with other bench officers; closure of dedicated adoption courts excepting Edelman's Children's Court.

As 10,000 civil harassment hearings will be redirected annually, existing bench officer workloads will increase by 15+%.

The Honorable Ann Jones

Probate to be centralized at Mosk Courthouse-filings will be accepted only at Mosk, and bench officers may conduct some hearings in district courts for certain conservatorship and guardianship matters.

Civil Consolidations include bench officers be dedicated to one case type; utilize differential case management for collection, PI and limited civil cases and reduce the number of courtrooms and staff.

Probate matters will be centralized in Mosk Courthouse-filings will only be accepted

Small claims will be filed and heard only at five courthouses-Mosk, Alhambra, Downey, Van Nuys, and Inglewood.

Unlawful detentions will be filed and heard at Mosk, Pasadena, Long Beach and Santa Monica. (Lancaster will not change) The travel distance can be up to 32 miles.

Small claims will be filed and heard at Mosk, Alhambra, Downey, Van Nuys and Inglewood. (Lancaster will not change) Travel distance up to 25 miles.

There will be limited civil courts. Two Collection Courts will be at Chatsworth and Norwalk-up to travel distance of 46 miles. And the remaining civil cases will be at Mosk with a travel distance of up to 66 miles.

Judge Jones explained their predicament of $530 MILLION reduced funding. She revealed that court expenditures had to be reduced by $85 million in one year. This closure of courts and reduction of staff will result in a longer wait for a case to go to court. She assured us all cases will be heard, but it will take longer for them to go to north, the desert to our east, and the Pacific lots of options to consider.

HIKING LOCALLY URBAN WALKS

You don't always need to be in the woods to enjoy a good walk. I have taken many urban hikes in the Pasadena, Altadena, Sierra Madre, San Marino, and surrounding areas. Generally, I have driven to an area, and hiked in a four or five square block area. Just try it and discover the hidden urban wilderness right under your nose. You'll see homes you never noticed before, and the unique flora (and maybe even fauna) that's so common here.

FOOTHILL WALKS CHANTRY FLATS

Drive all the way up Santa Anita through Arcadia, through Sierra Madre, and up to Chantry Flats. On the weekends, this is one of the most popular places in the local mountains, so see if you can get there during the week.
BAILEY CANYON

Drive north on Baldwin in Sierra Madre to Carter, go left, and proceed about a half-mile to Bailey Canyon Park. You could actually just stroll around this smallish park and have a good time.

Drive to the top of Lake Avenue and park where you can. Hike behind the wrought iron gates and you can stroll around in this large flatlands, an old estate now full of native plants and some surviving ornamentals.

MILLARD CANYON

From Loma Alta in Altadena, drive up Chaney Trail to the high point, and then drive down into the river bottom. You can park and hike upstream (to the waterfall) or downstream where you view the old cabins and a great selection of native plants. This is a pleasant spot to spend a summer day, though parking is limited.

ARROYO SECO

There are countless spots along the Arroyo

Seco where you can go on short or longer walks. You can park around the Rose Bowl, and hike as long as you wish up the east side, or the west side of the Arroyo Seco. There are horse trails on both sides and, though you'll see plenty of people along the way, don't underestimate such 'backyard" walks. You'll be surprised at how rich in details and plant life such walks can be. You'll see areas that you never knew existed when you

Griffith Park. This is one of the largest urban parks in the country, home to the L.A. Zoo (a great spot to take the family), and the Griffith Ocean not far away. Whether you want to go for a family drive, or a hike, or an excursion, there are Observatory. I suggest go to the shop at the Observatory, buy the map for the park, and take some exploratory hikes on some of the short loops throughout the park. In some areas, the views are spectacular.

Joshua Tree. OK, this is a drive of at least an hour and a half to the east, but you're going into some wonderfully desert country, with lots of spots to stop along the way, including the palm canyons outside of Palm Springs.

One of best kept secrets, and a great day trip for the family, is any one of the original missions, many of which are a short drive from Pasadena.

You can see how buildings were built, and how life was lived a few hundred years ago when the Spanish came into California, before there were freeways and Jack in the Box.
The closest is the San Gabriel Mission, just in our backyard. A little further afield are the missions at Santa Barbara and Ventura, and to the south, San Juan Capistrano.

Perhaps you're looking for a place to walk casually, and learn about native and ornamental floral. Once again, we have some world-class outing locations in our own backyard.

Try Huntington Gardens just south of Cal Tech and Pasadena City College, or Descanso Gardens in La Cañada, or the L.A. County Arboretum down Baldwin on Arcadia or, further east, Rancho Santa Anita Botanical Gardens in Claremont.

LOCAL BEACHES

Our Southern California beaches are but 30 to 45 minutes from Pasadena, and you have many options, depending on where your interests lie. There are good spots to walk on piers, eat lobster, bicycle for miles at Redondo, and kayak at Balboa Island. Beaches are always popular.

SOURCES OF MORE INFORMATION

Many of the destinations require a parking fee or an entry fee. You can look up the names online and inquire. Prices can vary from weekday to weekend.

BOOK for HIKES

Get a book or map before you go and study the trails and your options. I strongly recommend John Robinson's "Trails of the Angeles" for the local trails mentioned here.

If you plan to go to the Missions, or the beaches, the S. California Auto Club is one of your best investments. Not only will you get roadside service, but they provide custom maps for any sort of excursion that you desire.

Always go prepared when you take a hike or go out for a family excursion. Dress comfortably a few turnoff where you can hike or camp. Get a for the season, with a hat if necessary. Carry map from the U.S. Forest Service on Santa Anita water, since many of the trail sites don't have any. And I strongly recommend you carry some simple emergency survival gear, such as a knife, fire starter, cell phone, and first aid kit. Always prepare for the specific needs of all your family members, including elderly and children, and pets if you must take them with you.

DRILLING INTO MARS

The team operating NASA's Curiosity rover on Mars has selected lated by the planet's dramatic a second target rock for drilling and sampling. The rover will set red color and by nineteenthcourse to the drilling location in coming days.

west of the rock where Curiosity's drill first touched Martian stone in February. Curiosity took the first rock sample ever collected on Mars from that rock, called "John Klein." The rover found evidence of an ancient environment favorable for microbial life. Both rocks are flat, with pale veins and a bumpy surface. They are embedded in a layer of rock on the floor of a shallow depression called "Yellowknife Bay."

The second drilling is intended to confirm results from the first drilling, which indicated the chemistry of the first powdered sample from John Klein was much less oxidizing than that of a soil sample the rover scooped up before it began drilling.

Although Cumberland and John Klein are very similar, Cumberland appears to have more of the erosion-resistant granules that cause the surface bumps. The bumps are concretions, or clumps of minerals, which formed when water soaked the rock long ago.

Mission engineers at JPL recently finished upgrading Curiosity's operating software following a four-week break. The rover continued monitoring the Martian atmosphere during the break but the team did not send any new commands because Mars and the Sun were positioned in such a way the Sun could have blocked or corrupted commands sent from Earth.

Curiosity is about nine months into a two-year prime mission. After Chronicles—where a family the second rock drilling in Yellowknife Bay and a few other investigations nearby, the rover will drive toward the base of Mount Sharp, a 3-mile-high layered mountain inside Gale crater.

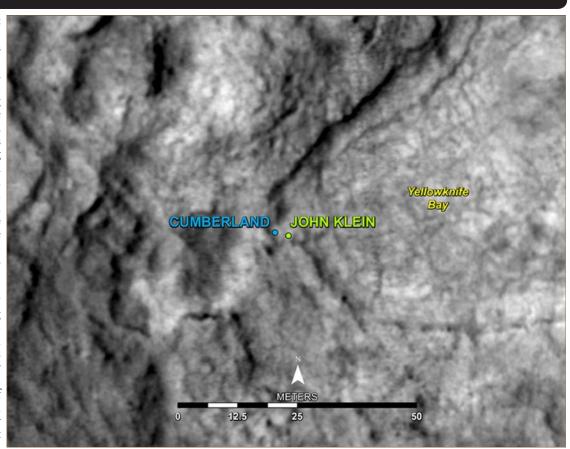

THE RED PLANET has fascinated me ever since I took part in a play called "A Funny Family on Mars," written, acted, and produced (for parents) by my 4th-grade class. I was chosen to play the part of an Earth-boy who, with his sister, builds a space ship and flies it to Mars. There we meet a Mars-boy named Cumbo Abba, played by a kid with the brightest red hair you ever saw!

Thus originated a large number of sciencefiction scenarios, among which was H. G. A subsequent radio adaptation of The War of the Worlds on October 30, 1938, by Orson Welles was presented as a live news broadcast, and became notorious for causing a public panic when many listeners mistook it for the truth.

Perhaps the "Martians" will ultimately be what Ray Bradbury so poignantly suggests at the end of the last episode of his Martian of colonists from Earth look at their reflections in a canal and realize, "We are the Martians!"

Despite all our exploration, all the mysteries involving Mars will probably never be resolved. Here's one, for instance: Author Jonathan Swift made reference reasonably accurate descrip-

This map shows the location of "Cumberland," the second rock-drilling target for NASA's Mars rover Curiosity, in relation to the rover's first drilling target, "John Klein," within the southwestern lobe of a shallow depression called "Yellowknife Bay." Cumberland, like John Klein, is a patch of flat-lying bedrock with pale veins and bumpy surface texture. The bumpiness is due to erosion-resistant nodules within the rock, which have been identified as concretions resulting from the action of mineral-laden water.

SANTA ANITA PARK A PROM HERO

Santa Anita Park and event planner Elizabeth Booth are being hailed as heroes for saving a prom night for 400 anxious students who showed up a week earlier than scheduled.

And the availability of the iconic Chandelier Room was the reason it all worked.

Masses of formally-dressed students of Bloomington High School began rolling up to Santa Anita Park in limos at 7 p.m. on Saturday, April 27, to the surprise of everyone at Santa Anita, which had a signed contract to host the prom at 8 p.m. on May 4. Booth, who was beginning to wind down her evening of activities, could not bear to turn away all those students who had driven 40 miles and were geared up for one of the most memorable evenings of their lives. (Can you imagine the cost of rentals for the limos and tuxes alone, let alone all those wasted corsages?)

Booth sprang into action, mobilizing whatever staff she could hurriedly assemble to set up food, soda bar, entertainment, lighting, and

Fortunately, the stately Chandelier Room is adorned 24/7 with elegant decor and a majestic look.

Bloomington High School's name was quickly posted on all the monitors in the room. One of the DJ's working one of the two other proms being held the same evening in different rooms at the enormous Santa Anita Park volunteered to fill in for the Bloomington prom until another DJ could be recruited to work the four-hour event until midnight, as scheduled for a week later.

It was also fortunate that the other two proms were being run by a sister company of the one that Bloomington had booked for theirs, First Class Events, Corona. First Class Events, Newport Beach, working the other two events, not only provided a temporary DJ, but also audio, computer system, speakers and music.

In slightly more than an hour, the students were admitted about 8:15 p.m.

Although there was initial shock and disappointment, most students reported having a great time. (KABC-TV 7 video report.)

In a letter to Santa Anita, Bloomington High School Assistant Principal James Western said, "If it were not for the care, generosity and professionalism of Elizabeth Booth and Santa Anita Park, Bloomington High School would have left that evening with a complete disappointment. Thank you for your sacrifice and care. We truly appreciate all that you did for us."

Cecilia Ridgeway, owner of First Class Events, Inland Empire, which also claims to have a signed contract with Bloomington for the May 4 date, wrote in a letter to the school that she was first called about the situation at 7:04 p.m., less than an hour before students expected the prom to begin. (The school's Activities Director has reportedly taken complete responsibility for the mistaken date.) "...only a miracle could turn the situation around and there was only one hour make it happen," she wrote. "Everyone involved went above and beyond all expectation. Santa Anita Park had no obligation to allow this event to take place. The true heroes in all of this... are Elizabeth Booth, Santa Anita's Special Event Coordinator, Pete Siberell, Director of Special Projects, Santa Anita's outstanding Catering Staff, their Employee's, and Security Officers." She said that all "worked tirelessly to ensure that Bloomington High School's students had a Prom and quality one at that." — By Scott Hettrick

SPECIAL PRESENTATION ON TREATMENT OF MILD COGNITIVE IMPAIRMENT

Arcadia Senior Services is having a special free health presentation on Tuesday, May 28, 2013 at 1:30pm: "Treatment of Mild Cognitive Impairment." The lecture will take place at the Arcadia Community Center, 365 Campus Drive.

Dr. Vincent Fortanasce, a well-known recognized expert in the field of Alzheimer's, will be the guest speaker. Although there is no cure for Alzheimer's, there is hope this disease can be prevented through simple changes in your lifestyle. Dr. Fortanasce, a clinical Professor of Neurology trained at USC and Yale, has pioneered the DEAR program (Diet, Exercise, Accentuating the Brain, and Rest and Recovery). He will be presenting a comprehensive prevention program called the DEAR/TEAM method that consists of simple lifestyle changes to prevent this horrific disease, in particular how sleep affects our memory, personality and prevents premature

Dr. Fortanasce will also present his new method to treat early Alzheimer's disease known as Treatment of Mild Cognitive Impairment, the TEAM method. Through a series of sensory stimulation and memory recall Dr. Fortanasce believes we can reconstitute the neural connections that are impaired by Alzheimer's. Registration is required for this health presentation as there is limited space and can be made by calling Arcadia Senior Services. 626.574.5130. ### Arcadia Police Blotter

For the period of Sunday, May  $5^{th}$ , through Saturday, May  $11^{th}$ , the Police Department responded to 890 calls for service of which 109 required formal investigations. The following is a summary report of the major incidents handled by the Department during this period.

Sunday, May 5:

At about 1:09 a.m., an officer was dispatched to the 200 block of North Second Avenue regarding a battery investigation. Three suspects pushed a juvenile off his bike, punched him in the nose, and fled in a tan colored four-door vehicle. The suspects are described as Hispanic males with shaven heads, approximately 5'9" tall, wearing dark-colored hooded sweatshirts, backpacks and shorts, with tattoos on their legs. The suspects can be identified if

Just after 2:30 p.m., an officer responded to Ralphs, 16 East Live Oak Avenue, in reference to a theft report. The suspect entered the store, selected two cases of beer, and attempted to return the merchandise for cash using old receipts. A records check revealed the 21-year-old Black male had an outstanding misdemeanor warrant. He was arrested and transported to the Arcadia City Jail for booking.

Monday, May 6:

At approximately 2:00 a.m., officers attempted a traffic stop on a vehicle for speeding in the area of Huntington Drive and Santa Anita Avenue. The vehicle failed to yield and led officers on a short pursuit on the 210 freeway and into Covina where the driver came to a stop in his driveway. The 26-year-old Hispanic male was under the influence of alcohol and officers discovered he was on probation for a previous DUI. He was arrested without incident and transported to the Arcadia City Jail for booking.

4. Shortly after 2:00 p.m., an officer was dispatched to Jump N Jammin at the Santa Anita Mall, 400 South Baldwin Avenue, in regards to a theft report. The victim accidentally left her wallet on a counter and discovered it missing a few minutes later. Video surveillance revealed two Hispanic suspects, one male and one female, took the wallet and left the location.

Tuesday, May 7:

Around 3:59 a.m., an officer was dispatched to Santa Anita Wine and Spirits, 1002 North Santa Anita Avenue, in regards to a sounding alarm. Two unknown male suspects forced entry through a door and fled the location with $300 cash and 12 bottles of Vodka. Video surveillance revealed the suspects were wearing black hooded sweatshirts, black pants, and black gloves. Multiple shoe prints were located at the entry point.

At approximately 7:51 p.m., an officer was dispatched to the area of Foothill Boulevard and Leandra Lane regarding a hit and run traffic collision. A motorcyclist was found severely injured and the driver of the other vehicle fled the scene. The motorcyclist was transported to Huntington Memorial Hospital, but passed away shortly after. Witnesses observed the suspect vehicle and motorcyclist racing at high speeds on the 210 freeway.

Based on the color and parts recovered at the scene, the suspect vehicle is possibly a 2005 or 2006 electric blue Mitsubishi Lancer Evolution or "Evo". The vehicle is missing the passenger side-view mirror and should have additional collision damage along the right side. Further investigation is being conducted by the Detective Bureau and the Department is reaching out to the public for help in locating the suspect and suspect vehicle.

Wednesday, May 8:

At about 6:57 a.m., an officer responded to a residence in the 1200 block of Oakhaven Road in regards to a burglary investigation. The victim heard noises coming from his backyard and discovered an unknown suspect inside his garage. The victim recorded the license plate as the suspect fled the location in a silver Toyota. Shortly after, officers located the suspect at his residence during which time the suspect admitted to burglarizing additional homes in Arcadia and Woodland Hills. The 44-year-old White male was arrested and transported to the Arcadia City Jail for booking.

8. Around 7:20 p.m., an officer was dispatched to the 200 block of East Norman Avenue regarding a theft report. An unknown Black male subject took a package from the victim's front porch and entered the passenger side of a black four-door vehicle with dark tinted windows, possibly a Nissan. The victim was unable to record the license plate as the vehicle fled westbound.

Thursday, May 9:

Shortly after 4:00 p.m., an officer responded to the 000 block of East Longden Avenue in reference to a report of an unknown subject trespassing in a backyard. Upon contact with the subject, the officer discovered he was under the influence of a controlled substance. The subject explained he abandoned his car in the 2000 block of Santa Anita Avenue in order to get away from unknown subjects who were chasing him. The 24-year-old Hispanic male was arrested and transported to the Arcadia City Jail for booking.

10. At roughly 10:19 p.m., an officer was dispatched to Nordstrom at the Santa Anita Mall, 400 South Baldwin Avenue, in regards to theft report. The suspect attempted to purchase merchandise on another person's Nordstrom credit account using the victim's social security number and a fraudulent driver license. A records check revealed the 24-year-old Black female had two outstanding misdemeanor warrants. She was arrested and transported to the Arcadia City Jail for booking.

Friday, May 10:

At approximately 5:00 p.m., officers responded to Coffee Bean and Green Leaf at the Santa Anita Mall, 400 South Baldwin Avenue, in regards to a sexual battery that just occurred. A 49-yearold Hispanic male suspect rubbed his exposed penis against a female standing in line. The suspect was located, arrested, and transported to the Arcadia City Jail for booking.

12. Just after 6:00 p.m., an officer was dispatched to Macy's at the Santa Anita Mall, 400 South Baldwin Avenue, regarding a theft report. The suspect left her 5-year-old daughter unattended in the children's department and entered a fitting room where she concealed over $800 worth of clothing inside her stroller. The suspect paid for one item and exited the store without paying for the concealed items. The juvenile was released to her father while the 40-year-old Hispanic female was arrested and transported to the Arcadia City Jail for booking. The case is under review by the Department of Children and Family Services.

Saturday, May 11:

13. Shortly after 12:50 p.m., an officer was dispatched to a residence in the 2500 block of Doolittle Avenue regarding a 9-year-old juvenile lying in a pool face down and not breathing. Upon arrival, Arcadia Paramedics were treating the juvenile who was now conscious and breathing. The juvenile was transported to Arcadia Methodist Hospital for evaluation. An investigation revealed the juvenile was playing at a pool party, but had never received swimming lessons.

Around 6:28 p.m., an officer responded to the Santa Anita Race Track, 285 West Huntington Drive, in regards to a disturbance. The officer discovered a male subject was highly intoxicated and unable to care for himself. The 53-year-old Hispanic male was arrested and transported to the Arcadia City Jail for booking.

DUARTE CITY COUNCIL MEETING: CAPTAIN NEE ADDRESSES COMMUNITY By Joan Schmidt

Much was accomplished Tuesday's Duarte City Council Meeting. After a request from Duarte Council Member Fasana, Temple Station Commander, Captain Christopher Nee addressed the community. The Duarte City Council had received a few complaints from residents who felt that when calling Temple Station to report suspicious activities, the desk personnel seemed disinterested in their calls and deputy response times were lengthy. Captain Nee personally met with each individual assigned to the Temple Station desk, discussed these complaints and explained the importance of customer service and the Sheriff's Department's expectations of service. All of the desk personnel were very receptive and appreciated the talk.

Sergeant Tri Hoang and Captain Christopher Nee

Captain Nee reassured the Council Members and the public who were in attendance of the Temple Sheriff's Station commitment to the Duarte community and asked them to continue to report any and all suspicious activities. Captain Nee also said, "Obviously we have to prioritize our calls but we DO and WILL respond to all calls

Captain Nee also revealed to me that he had personally called one resident to go over the concern, and the issue was resolved. I am not sure how many "Chiefs of Police" personally call a resident over a concern. As a Monrovia-Duarte Town Council Member for ten years and my status as a reporter, I had extensive contact with many Sheriff's stations, programs and various units. They were ALL exceptional. Do people realize that Temple Station provides service for five cities-Temple City, Duarte, Bradbury, South El Monte and Rosemead, and several unincorporated areas-Monrovia, Arcadia, Duarte, East Pasadena and South San Gabriel! So Captain Nee IS the "Chief of Police" for these five cities! From where I am at, he's doing an EXCEPTIONAL job! Thanks, Captain Nee!

After Captain Nee spoke, there was recognition of Mr. Jerry Katz, who received the Temple Station 2012 Civilian Volunteer of the Year Award. Since becoming a station volunteer in April, 2007, Mr. Katz has donated over 698 hours of his own time. In December, 2012, Mr. Katz received a letter of commendation for volunteering at the holiday Christmas celebration. The City of Duarte presented a special Certificate of Recognition for his hard work and dedication to the City of Duarte, Temple Station and the Sheriff's Department.

The City next honored Los Angeles County Fire Captain Joseph Alvarado for 39 years of service including seven as a Montebello Fireman. For the last six years, he served the citizens of Duarte before he retired on April 25, 2013. Well done, Captain Alvarado!

Mayor Finlay read a Proclamation recognizing May 2013 as Older American Month. Afterwards, Dr. Gerald "Jerry" Delker was honored as Senior Volunteer of the Year. Dr. Delker has lived in the Duarte community since December, 1979 when he and his family arrived. He has been a long-standing active community leader. He first became involved with youth activities including Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts. He has served as a member on the Public Services Commission and Youth and Family Master Plan Advisory Commission. In 2002, he joined the Duarte Elks Club and expanded its services to youth. He encouraged the Lodge to support the National Dictionary Project in 2007; they have provided 3300 dictionaries to third graders throughout the San Gabriel Valley. In 2011, he obtained a National Elks Grant to start the Bikes for Kids program. To date the Duarte Elks have provided 200 helmets and 90 bicycles to Duarte children. Thank you, Dr. Delker!

DR. JERRY DELKER NAMED DUARTE SENIOR VOLUNTEER OF THE YEAR

Longtime Duarte resident and dedicated community leader, Dr. Gerald (Jerry) Delker, has been named City of Duarte Senior Volunteer of the Year for his years of volunteer service. He was honored by the Duarte City Council for his years of volunteer service to the community. He will also be honored at the 48th Annual Older Americans Recognition Day Awards at the Dorothy Chandler Pavilion on May 22, and at the Duarte Senior Center Volunteer Recognition Dinner on June 14.

"Jerry's dedication and volunteerism has improved the quality of many Duarteans since the day moved to Duarte in 1979. A majority of his tireless efforts and activities have benefited the youth of our community. He is one of Duarte's jewels," said Duarte Senior Center director, Peggy Diamond.

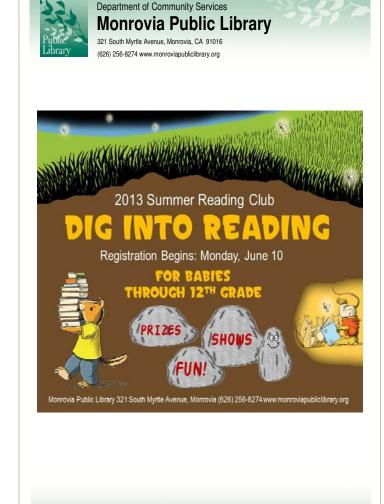

Dr. Delker has served the City of Duarte as a member of the Community Services Commission for four years and was a member of the important Youth and Family Master Plan advisory committee. In 2002 he joined the Duarte Elks Lodge and expanded its services to youth. He got the lodge involved in the National Dictionary Project in 2007 which has provided 3,300 dictionaries to third grade students throughout the San Gabriel Valley. By applying for and obtaining a National Elks grant to start the Bikes for Kids Program, more than 200 helmets and 90 bicycles have been donated by the Duarte Elks to Duarte children. He also conducts a weekly bike repair class at Mt. Olive High School, and serves as a substitute teacher for Duarte Unified School District. Over the years he has also been involved with the PTA and in the troop, district and council level for the Girl Scouts of America. Last year he worked on the 100th anniversary Girls Scouts Camporee. He has also continued to work with the Boy Scouts of America by serving as a unit advisor, and conducts monthly leadership classes.

BOOK LAUNCH PARTY TO CELEBRATE RELEASE OF DUARTE CHRONICLES MAY 30 AT OLD SPAGHETTI FACTORY

released book about Duarte, authored by Claudia Heller, has the city abuzz with anticipation for secret places revealed, and the stories of colorful characters, events, and history that have helped shape the community over the past 20 years.

To celebrate the new book the Duarte Historical Society will sponsor a book launching party Thursday, May 30 at the Old Spaghetti Factory, 1431 Buena Vista St., in Duarte. The event will begin with a social hour at 5 p.m. Dinner will be served at 6 p.m., followed by entertainment by vocalist, Jeanette DePatie, and a visual presentation, book signing and sale. Tickets are $22, with dinner profits to benefit the Duarte Historical Society.

Author Claudia Heller and husband Alan Heller, who provided many of the photographs in the book, know the community well. Residents of more than 30 years, both have been active as leaders and participants in community life. Claudia is the longtime president of the Duarte Historical Society. Alan is president of Duarte Public Access (DCTV) and a former City commissioner. Claudia is also a veteran columnist for the Pasadena Star News, where she has been writing about Duarte life since 1991. Duarte Chronicles is a compilation of many of the stories that have appeared in her column.

Mayor Margaret Finlay, who wrote the foreward for Duarte Chronicles noted, "I know that once people live in Duarte they always consider it home. Whatever the reasons, you will find in the pages of this book a cast of characters as fascinating and eclectic as any heroes in our country's history."

Reservations for the book launch party are required by May 25. Checks should be made payable to the Duarte Historical Society, C/O Claudia Heller, P. O. Box 1251, Duarte, CA 91009.

Following the official book launch, copies of Duarte

Chronicles will be available for purchase at Duarte City Hall with profits from those sales to benefit the Duarte Historical

May 13 at 6:11 a.m., a petty theft from an unlocked vehicle that occurred in the 100 block of Acacia was reported to police. The victim parked his vehicle in his driveway at approximately 10:30 p.m. and left it unlocked. Unknown suspect(s) entered the vehicle overnight and took makeup, an iPad touch, a Garmin GPS, employee identification, miscellaneous tools and clothing. The investigation is continuing.

Traffic Collision / Driving Under the Influence - Suspect Arrested

May 13 at 9:21 a.m., a traffic collision was reported in the 500 block of West Duarte Road. An officer responded and found a solo vehicle that had crashed into several parked cars. Further investigation determined the driver was under the influence of medications, and he was uncooperative with the officer. The driver was arrested for driving under the influence and taken into custody.

Traffic Violation / Outstanding Warrant - Suspect Arrested May 15 at 11:44 a.m., an officer was working special traffic enforcement on the Office of Traffic Safety grant and made a traffic stop in the 2000 block of California on vehicle for a vehicle code violation. A warrant check revealed the driver had multiple felony warrants for his arrest. The driver was arrested without incident and taken to the station for booking.

Driving Under the Influence - Suspect Arrested

May 16 at 1:56 a.m., an officer observed a vehicle committing several vehicle code violations. The officer conducted a traffic stop at Palm and Ivy. After further investigation, the driver was determined to be under the influence and was arrested for DUI.

Detective Bureau Case Follow-Up

In September of 2011, an on going neighbor dispute turned into a violent verbal confrontation in the 2100 block of South Myrtle Avenue. An arrest was made of a 40-year-old male, who verbally threatened a female and her father, who owns a business in the area. The case was continued a number of times and finally came to a plea agreement on May 7, 2013. The suspect pled guilty and was sentenced to 9 years in prison.

ALVERNO HIGH SCHOOL TO HOST A BEAUTIFUL LENGTHS EVENT ON MAY 22

Alverno's Campus Ministry program hopes to donate 1,000 inches of hair to the organization

Sierra Madre, CA (May 17, 2013) 17, (May Alverno High School, in association with several local alumnae hairstylists, will host a Pantene's Beautiful Lengths event on campus on Wednesday, May 22 from 2:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. Alverno's Campus Ministry class, the event organizers, is hoping to collect more than 1,000 inches of hair from students, faculty and staff, family members, friends, and community members to donate to Pantene's Beautiful Lengths program.

Founded in 2006, Beautiful Lengths is a partnership between hair care giant Pantene and the American Cancer Society, the largest non-profit health organization committed to saving lives from every cancer and improving the quality of life for people facing the disease. The role of Pantene is to help women grow long, strong, beautiful hair and provide the funds to turn this hair into free, real-hair wigs for women with cancer. So far, Pantene has donated 24,000 free real-hair wigs to the American Cancer Society's wig banks, which distribute wigs to cancer patients across the country.

Next Wednesday's event will be the fifth time Alverno has held an event of this type. Since 2003, Alverno has donated nearly 7,000 inches of hair to Locks of Love, an organization that provides wigs and hairpieces to financially disadvantaged children suffering from long-term medical hair loss. Students chose to donate to Beautiful Lengths this year after spending a year focusing on issues that deeply affect women including education and healthcare.

Every person who donates on Wednesday will receive a special gift bag, an angel hair pasta lunch, and an "I Donated" badge to show off call 626-355-3463 or visit www. their great commitment to the cause. Additionally, there will be a special raffle for anyone who participates.

In order to donate, individuals must meet the following criteria: at least 8 inches of straight hair or 10 inches of curly hair; hair that is no more than 5 percent gray; and hair that has not been over treated although colored hair is acceptable if not drastically different than your natural color. Hair that has been bleached will not be accepted.

Alverno High School is located at 200 North Michillinda Avenue, Sierra Madre, CA 91024.

About Alverno High School Alverno High School is a Catholic, private, college preparatory school for young women dedicated to preparing them to function in a society as informed, knowledgeable persons, who have the requisite skills to make and implement mature decisions about complex problems. ROSEMEAD, CA. - May 17, 2013 - Four Don Bosco Technical Institute (Bosco Tech) students have been selected to participate in an eight-week summer internship program sponsored by the Boeing Company. The internships will take place at the aerospace and defense corporation's satellite division in El Segundo where each student will work under the direction of an engineering

The goal of Boeing's program is to provide high school students with hands-on experience and increase their exposure to science, technology, engineering and math (STEM) professions. In addition to being assigned job responsibilities, the students will attend workshops and training sessions in several topics including 3D printing, STEM careers, and team building, all conducted by Boeing. The interns will also be treated to a one-on-one meeting with

The Bosco Tech students, all juniors, were selected to participate in the program based on high academic standing, strong communication skills, and excellent problem solving abilities. Donovan Gonzales, Adam Jang, Alexander San Miguel, and Patrick Williams will begin their responsibilities on June 24. Each was given their choice of work experiences, from designing aerospace modules to developing employee communication tools. "We're extremely proud of our students and their commitment to excel in the internships," said Bosco Tech President Alberto Pimentel. "They will certainly use this experience as a reference point as they plan their university and career paths. We're grateful to Boeing for providing this very valuable educational opportunity."

Bosco Tech is an all-male Catholic high school that combines rigorous college-preparatory and innovative technological education. The science, engineering, technology and math (STEM) curriculum allows students to exceed university admission requirements while completing extensive integrated coursework in one of several applied science and engineering programs. THE REEL DEAL: by Ben Show THE GREAT GATSBY

Not having read the book and with only the previews to go on, I expected 'The Great Gatsby' to be a joyful romp. However, what I discovered was a beautifully dark love story that completely consumes a group of friends, family members, and partiers in the 1920's New York.

Nick Carraway (Tobey Maquire) has just moved to New York and has found a tiny cottage to stay in. The house is a tiny place, squished between two giant mansions, one belonging to the mysterious Mr. Gatsby (Leonardo DiCaprio). Nick soon discovers a twisted past between Gatsby and Nick's cousin, Daisy Buchanan (Carey Mulligan), and learns that there is a dark reason behind all of Gatsby's immense wealth and fabulous parties.

Starting off light and carefree, 'The Great Gatsby' leads you to believe that it is a fun movie. It then twists you into the obsessive world of Mr. Gatsby and how, if life is played correctly, the past can become your future.

CHRISTINE A. MOORE NAMED OFFICIAL MILLINER OF THE BREEDERS' CUP WORLD CHAMPIONSHIPS

Get Over It Guys - There's More to Horse Racing Than Just Betting!

NEW YORK (May 15, 2013)

- The Breeders' Cup announced today that Christine A. Moore, of Christine A. Moore Millinery, New York, one of the world's leading headwear designers, has been named the official milliner of the Breeders' Cup World Championships.

The Breeders' Cup, Thoroughbred racing's most prestigious year-ending international event, consisting of 14 races and purses and awards totaling $27 million, will be held on Friday, November 1 and Saturday, November 2 at Santa Anita Park in Arcadia, Calif. The $5 million Breeders' Cup Classic, which will be shown live and in primetime on NBC, culminates two outstanding days of great racing and Hollywood glamour under the picturesque San Gabriel Mountains.

The Christine A. Moore Millinery Silks Collection will be featured in the Breeders' Cup Store (www.breederscupshop. com) and at Santa Anita Park over the Championships weekend as well as at the official Breeders' Cup host hotels in the Los Angeles area.

The collection will include a new "SILKS" line that will give owners and fans of Breeders' Cup horses the opportunity to order in advance a wide variety of stylish headwear to match the colors of their horse's rac-

"We're thrilled to be partnering up with Christine as her styles and pieces are truly one of a kind. It's never too early to start thinking about your Breeders' Cup ensemble and it all starts from the top down!" said Peter Rotondo, Breeders' Cup Vice President of Media and Entertainment.

"Christine A. Moore Millinery is honored to partner with the Breeders' Cup," said Christine A. Moore. "Our elegant styles, comfort, and collaboration with our customers personifies our commitment to bring the finest in fashion to horse racing and this world class event. We are excited to develop and offer our "SILKS" Collection to owners and fans, and look forward to our relationship with the Breeders' Cup".

Moore was featured during Derby week on the TODAY show from Churchill Downs http://www.today.com/style/6fun-festive-kentucky-derbyhat-styles-6C976...)

About Breeders' Cup

The Breeders' Cup administers the Breeders' Cup World Cham-pionships, Thoroughbred racing's year-end Championships. The Breeders' Cup also administers the Breeders' Cup Challenge qualifying series, which provides automatic starting positions into the Championships races. The 2013 World Championships will be held at Santa Anita Park in Arcadia, Calif., on Nov. 1-2, and will be televised live on the NBC Sports Network and NBC. The $5 million Breeders' Cup Classic will be shown live and in primetime on NBC. Breeders' Cup press releases appear on the Breeders' Cup Web site, www. breederscup.com. You can also follow the Breeders' Cup on social media platforms, Facebook, Twitter and YouTube.

SIERRA MADREAN SCORES IN PAC 12 CHAMPIONSHIPS

Nick Budincich of Sierra Madre competed in the discus final at the PAC-12 Track and Field Championships. On his final attempt he hurled the 2kg discus to a lifetime best of 171'9" to earn a point for Stanford University in team competition on the USC campus on Sunday May 12. Nick is a freshman at Stanford and prepped at Loyola High school and High Point Academy Pasadena. Budincich hopes this mark will qualify for the NCAA regional finals in Austin, Texas later this month, where his sister Andja Budincich attends Southwestern University.

GIN SUSHI

Boys have lunch together; yes we do, so when gym mates Tony Carlos and John Epp invited me to Gin Sushi and it was John's treat, how could I say no? I haven't been to Gin Sushi in quite sometime - not that it ever disappointed me, just fell off my radar for some reason. Located in East Pasadena, which I have found is a great area for restaurants that have their own parking, and some of the best restaurants in the San Gabriel Valley include Robins for Ribs, Chiquita Banana for Mexican, and of course Panda Inn for Chinese food. Gin Sushi holds up with the best Sushi in the area.

TABLE FOR TWO by Peter Dills thechefknows@yahoo.com

Opened (gulp) one week after 9/11 and named after owner Gin Kim, the restaurant attracts a loyal following of diners looking for authentic home cuisine. My father Elmer Dills always said if you go to an Argentenian Restaurant or a Spanish Restaurant and there aren't any patriots eating there, then something is wrong. It was nice to see a restaurant full of patriots. Gin Sushi attracts a wide a variety of hipsters and persons any age looking for good sushi at affordable prices. Our lunch for three was still under $30!!

What to order? The bonus of the afternoon was that wisecracking owner Gin was there and kept the jokes coming at a recordsetting pace. We all three went for the three-item combination ($9.95) - your choice of teriyaki, tempura, sushi, and dumplings, just to name a few. My selection was Yellow Tail Roll (excellent), Tuna Roll which I got as a hand roll and the salmon Teriyaki. Great value !!! My gym friends agreed that for the cost the meal was a real thumbs up. Service was right on, with the Miso Soup delivered immediately, and since I agreed to pick up the beverage portion of the meal it was waters all around.

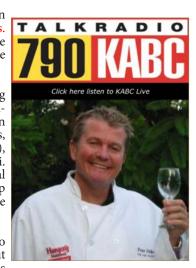

My friend Tony who frequents here, said that weekend nights do get busy, so plan accordingly. A tip from me to you - check out their Sushi Happy Hour from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m. when it's a little less expensive and not so crowded. I would like to see them clean up the front area of the restaurant, but all-in-all as far as a lunch spot it gets two thumbs up!!

Getting Ready for Memorial Day? Don't be guilty of these mistakes!

Grilling is supposed to be easy. You just heat up the grill and throw your food on there, right? Well, not exactly -- but truth be told, it isn't much more complicated than that. As summer approaches, don't let popular grilling "wisdom" overcomplicate the issue. Read on to find out which so-called tips you can definitely ignore.

- 1. DON'T Skip the salt. You might have heard that salting meat before grilling will toughen it. Nope, it won't! In fact, season your meat about 30 minutes before you get grilling.
- 2. DON'T Use lighter fluid to get the grill going. You'd be better off using a chimney starter—unless you like the taste of lighter fluid.
- 3. DON'T Press hard on your burgers—especially while they're cooking. Do this, and you'll watch the flavor and moisture drip right into the grill. Instead, place them on the grill and then leave them alone until they need to be flipped (which should only happen once!).
- 4. DON'T Flip out. Grilling isn't fussy, so there's no need to keep flipping your meat. Turn it only once—twice at most.
- 5. DON'T Abuse the barbecue fork. Remember what happened when you got your ears pierced? The same will happen if you stick a fork into a steak on the grill. We beg you, use tongs or a spatula.

6. DON'T Battle flare-ups with a spray bottle of water. Water + grease = not a good time. Calm grease fires with a flame-resistant kitchen towel.

- 7. DON'T Check for doneness with a knife—at least not right away. What's one way to ensure a dry, tough piece of meat? Cut your steak as soon as it comes off the coals. Like babies and college kids, steak needs to rest first. Take it off the grill and leave it alone for a 10 minutes (more or less, depending on thickness).
- 8. DON'T Cook meat all the way through. Remember, meat continues to cook even after you take it off the heat, so remove it before it's exactly to your liking.

THE PEPPERTREE GRILL, SIERRA MADRE'S NEWEST CANTINA! By Deanne Davis

Haven't seen someone in a while? Go to The Peppertree Grill - formerly 322, then T. Boyle's, does anybody remember when it was The Sunset - and I can practically guarantee they'll be walking past or squeezing into the patio!

My best friend, husband and fellow restaurant reviewer, John, and I made our first visit to The Peppertree Grill this past Friday night and were thrilled to see them doing capacity business. The bar was standing room only, the patio was packed, tables inside were filling up quickly and a great time was being had by all. Gratifying to see so much meeting, greeting and eating! We ran into our neighbors, Lisa and Craig Cardella, (she is the genius behind the amazing flowers at iXora Floral Studio, just east of Baldwin on Montecito) and their family, as they were coming in to dine.

Peppertree Grill has happy hour specials every day of the week and Friday night is the $7.00 glass of wine and appetizer combo. We had some really splendid Argentine Malbec and our appetizers were Matambre, which is slices of flank steak stuffed with hard-boiled egg, spinach and carrots, served on French bread slices with a very spicy Chimichuri sauce, and was delicious. The flank steak was sooo tender! We also tried the Argentine sausage (spicy!) and liked that, too. The appetizers are not stingy in portion size and we realized we were approaching full capacity so split a bowl of the clam chowder (a Friday and Saturday generous bowl, loaded with clams. Yes, actual clams!

Peppertree Grill has daily specials, (Friday was Chicken Piccata, a generous portion, beautifully presented) in addition to the daily Happy Hour specials. And, speaking of Happy Hour, Tuesday night is Taco night! The menu features a number of Argentine dishes, in addition to the appetizers we sampled, including a Gaucho Burger - all burgers are half-pounders, btw! There are pasta dishes, a number of steak and chicken entrees and a section of the menu is entitled "House Favorites" and includes the Al Caballo, a breaded steak topped with two eggs and served with French fries.

In addition to that Argentine Malbec, the wine list includes a number of nice wines, reasonably priced, and there is also a good selection of beers.

We were pleased to see that Peppertree creates all their own desserts right there and the selection includes all the things you really like best. Chocolate Mousse Cheesecake, Raspberry Topped Cheesecake, New York Cheesecake and, my personal favorite, Pumpkin Cheesecake. There is also carrot cake, flan, a fruit tart and a double crust apple pie. Working on the concept that life is short, eat dessert first, we did save room for a slice of Pumpkin Cheesecake. Worth it! And, you can order a whole dessert, if you give them a couple days notice. Pumpkin Cheesecake, you're coming home with me soon!

Peppertree Grill features breakfast and lunch on weekends and I'm ready to try their Eggs Benedict, or maybe Papa's Special, which is a half-pound hamburger patty topped with grilled onions, potatoes, two eggs and salsa. Lots of omelettes: Cheese, spinach, green chili and swiss cheese, salsa; several quiches, and even oatmeal.

Service was great, attentive but not overly so, and live music by Kenny Lorin, with guitar and keyboard, was just starting. Kenny is there every other week and that's a nice addition to the ambience.

The Peppertree Grill is at 322 W. Sierra Madre Blvd., right here in town. Their hours are: Monday-Thursday: 4-Midnight; Friday: 11 a.m.-close; Saturday: 8 a.m.-close; Sunday: 8 a.m.-9 p.m.

Driving home through town, it was good to see each one of our local restaurants: Sierra Briganti, The Only Place in Town, Corfu, the Sushi Restaurant, Casa Del Rey and Wistaria doing great business, with happy folks sitting outside enjoying the evening, the view of our mountains, a lot of great food, and best of all, each other.

JUST FOR BEST FRIENDS

Happy Tails by Chris Leclerc

April 26, 1986 is a date in history that holds rather grave memories for those who bore witness to the news broadcasts that aired that day on unprecedented global significance, the likes of which could not have possibly been anticipated by an average citizen such as myself. Much like the tragic events that unfolded on the morning of September 11, 2001, what happened on April 26, 1986 is an historic event that has been, and will continue to be memorialized and analyzed for decades to come. I wish I could say I remember where I was when I heard the news that the Chernobyl Nuclear Power plant in the Ukraine city of Prypiat had experienced a total melt down at Block 4, but I can't. I was 23 years old at the time, and I should have been paying closer attention to what mattered, such as environmental threats and the like, but I was a rather self-absorbed young lady back then, with little time to attend to what was going on in the world around me. I had no idea what kind of impact that disaster would ultimately have on our planet. Knowing there was nothing I could do to change what had happened, I suppose I took the path of least resistance and wrote it off as just another glamorous, over-inflated news flash. Now, I would like to think that I have graduated into a more global-conscious individual, and I make it my business to be aware of what's "going on". I have no doubt that anyone of the age to remember this turn of events would agree that it was a disaster of epic proportion which, if we had known better, we would have done everything in our power to

The radioactive impact of Chernobyl's melt-down is said to have been equal to 400 times that of the 1945 atomic bombing of Prypiat were rendered homeless, and forced out of what they now call the "Exclusion Zone" where radioactive levels still remain exponentially dangerous to this day. Numerous cancer-associated deaths were attributed to the event, subsequent to evacuation, due to radioactivity exposure. After evacuating the 20+ mile span of contaminated land authorities fenced it off and secured it as un-inhabitable to the human being.

THE TENACITY OF NATURE IN THE ABSENCE OF HUMANITY

Now, 25 years later, it seems the most interesting and educational part of this event is the fact that in the absence of human intervention, hundreds of healthy wild animals are proliferating and thriving in the 'zone' with no apparent mutations or health complications! The question begs, "How many places are there on earth where humans are not interrupting, mediating or intervening between the animals and nature? The fact that human habitation is prohibited in the 'Chernobyl Zone', has rendered it as a very unique scientific study for how nature and wildlife may or may not thrive in such an area, without human intervention. Amazingly, in spite of the high level of radioactivity proven to prevail in the 'zone', wild animals, particularly wolves, deer and beaver who live there, have succeeded in proliferating and thriving in their natural habitats, better than most other locations where they might be found on Among the few visitors allowed to venture into the "contaminated, radioactive, abandoned zone", are a handful of scientists on a quest to research how nature thrives (or not) after a nuclear disaster, in the absence of the human. Visits are kept short, and radioactiveresistant protective gear, designed to help prevent exposure is enforced. Remarkably, scientists have reported data that indicates that the wild animals living in the

at Hiroshima. More than 400,000 citizens of Prypiat were 'zone' are proliferating, and living in a healthier manner than they might in their other indigenous habitats.

> Why? Well, the general consensus is because there are no human beings getting in their way. I, myself am inclined to consider the "Chernobyl Zone" a virtual garden of Eden that should remain human-less. Remarkably, regardless of the level of radioactivity scientists have gauged on sedated wolves, the wolves themselves are apparently quite healthy and living more normal lives than where you might find them anywhere else on earth. My thought is that the results of the research studies from today's "Chernobyl Zone" indicate a rather oxy-moronic manifestation of nature meant to teach humans that it is best to leave wildlife a little space and allow it to overcome disastrous conditions on its own. Or, it could have been an epic act of nature's tenacity; a sort of miraculous event that took place to teach us humans a humble lesson for better behavior in the future.

> Regardless of the explanation for such unexpected 'life-after-death' conditions in an uninhabitable zone, one would be hard pressed to deny the fact that the human's absence has had a very positive effect on the wildlife's ability to thrive and survive. Take it for face value, and judge for yourself. Either way, 25 years later, in the wake of what we consider to be an epic global disaster, it is remarkable to find that the wild animals still residing in the 'zone' have found a way to revive their livelihood without the help or intervention of the 2-legged being. Such a scientific study should not be taken lightly, and while past history cannot be re-constructed, the future lies before us. Let us use the lessons we learn along the way, and proceed in a more gracious manner to allow all of earth's life forms to thrive and survive. I think we humans got lucky this time, but who knows what is to come?

HOW TO USE HERBAL SUPPLEMENTS SAFELY

Dear Savvy Senior: Are herbal supplements safe for seniors who are taking other prescription medications? I have a friend who swears by them, but I want to be sure before I take anything new. Cautious Carol

Dear Carol:

Herbal supplements have become increasingly popular in recent years as millions of Americans are looking for natural and more affordable ways to improve their health. But, it's important to know that many herbs can also cause side effects and can interact with prescription medications, especially if you have hypertension, diabetes, kidney disease or liver problems.

While the Food and Drug Administration does regulate herbal supplements, they don't get the same scientific scrutiny that medications do. Herbal supplement manufacturers do not have to get FDA approval, and they don't have to prove a product's safety and effectiveness before it's

So, before you start taking any new supplement, no matter how natural or harmless it may seem, you need to talk to your doctor or pharmacist to make sure it's safe for you.

In the meantime, here are a few popular herbs you should know about that can cause problems when taken with certain medications.

Aloe Vera: Used on your skin, aloe vera is perfectly safe. But taken orally as a laxative, it may interact with blood sugar-lowering medicines used to treat diabetes.

Ginger: A gram or so of powdered ginger can help ease nausea, but it can also interfere with anticoagulant (blood thinning) medications like warfarin and even aspirin. And, if taken in large quantities could interfere with cardiac, diabetes and blood pressure meds.

Garlic: Marketed as a pill, capsule or powder to lower blood pressure and cholesterol, garlic acts as a blood thinner. So, if you're taking an anticoagulant, use with caution because garlic can make your blood too thin increasing the risk of excessive bleeding.

Ginkgo: Taken to help boost memory and prevent dementia, as well as treat a variety of other ailments, this popular supplement can also raise your risk of bleeding when combined with blood thinning medications. It can also counteract the blood pressure lowering effect of thiazide diuret ic drugs and can interfere with anti-seizure medications and insulin used to treat diabetes.

Ginseng: Taken primarily to improve overall health and boost the immune system, this herb can reduce concentrations of the anticoagulant drug warfarin and can interact with some antidepressant medications too. People with diabetes should also use extra caution with ginseng if they are taking medicine to lower blood sugar.

Kava: Promoted as a treatment to curb anxiety and stress, kava has been reported to cause liver damage, including hepatitis and liver failure. It can also interfere with antipsychotic and Parkinson's medications, can thin the blood and should not be taken with anticoagulants, and can cause drowsiness so it should not be taken in combination with any sedatives.

Licorice Root: Taken for ulcers, bronchitis and sore throat, licorice root can cause high blood pressure and salt and water retention, raising the risk of heart problems. It can also thin the blood and should not be used with blood thinning

St. John's wort: Marketed as an aid to treat depression, Saint John's wort can reduce the effectiveness of a number of prescription medications including anticoagulants, antidepressants, seizure-control drugs and certain cancer drugs.

Zinc: Taken as a defense against colds, excess zinc can cause nausea, vomiting, loss of appetite, stomach cramps, diarrhea and headaches. It can also interact with a variety of prescription drugs, including antibiotics and hypertension meds.

FYI - DATING FOR SENIORS

No matter your age, there are joys to be had on the dating scene. Dating can be intimidating, but it may seem even more so if you haven't been on the dating scene for a long, long time. However, here are some tips that may help you get back out there.

Where to Meet People- 1) Friends and family are great sources for introducing you to new people. They know about your personality and interests and can connect you with people who they know you might have things in common with you. 2) Shared interests or hobbies are another way to meet people. You can meet someone at church, through political events, recreational sports or by joining various clubs. 3) Online dating services are an option for people of all ages...including seniors and there are a lot of sites that have been established to connect interested seniors. If you are not comfortable with computer use, you can take a computer class, get help at the library or ask your family. You do have to exhibit caution but you can have access to a wide variety of people this way. 4) Offline dating services consist of matchmakers who personally select people for you to meet. These services may also plan mixers or other social events that allow you to meet a variety of people at one time. Many people consider the process safe and efficient.

What to do on Dates- 1) Group dates are for those who are not ready to go on a one-on-one date. It's a good way to get to know someone while in the company of other people you feel comfortable around. Dating destinations can have a wide range of options. Seniors can do a hobby that both enjoy as a date. For example, if both like to golf, make a date out of the day and include lunch or dinner. A church picnic or going to an event or performance are other options to consider. Going to a movie or a concert can be fun for a senior couple as well. Other dates for seniors include visiting a museum or art gallery, going on a walk in a local park, taking dance lessons or going to a wine tasting event.

Be careful and take a chance...you might meet someone wonderful! seniorslovetoknow.com

FOR YOUR FUNNY BONE

Harvey and Gladys are getting ready for bed. Gladys is standing in front of her full-length mirror, taking a long, hard look at herself. "You know, Harvey," she comments. "I stare into this mirror and see an ancient creature. My face is all wrinkled, my boobs sag so much they dangle to my waist, my arms and legs are as flabby as popped balloons, and my butt looks like a sad, deflated version of the Hindenburg!" She turns to her husband and says, "Dear, please tell me just one positive about my body so I can feel better about myself." Harvey studies Gladys critically for a moment and says in a soft, thoughtful voice, "Well, there's nothing wrong with your eyesight." He never heard the shot...

KATIE Tse .....This and That FIBER IN THE WILDERNESS!

What's better than camping, Mother's Day, and doing things with yarn? Combining all three in the biannual "Studio 66 Fiber Retreat" of course! You may recall my article on the "Fiber Convergence" held in Long Beach this past summer. If not, let's just say that Studio 66 was three fun-filled days of cotton, linen, wool, silk, angora, and all the contraptions you can use to transform plant and animal

When my mom shared her interest in attending this recent woodland event, I jumped at the idea of getting out of town for a few days. She worried that I'd be bored, not being a fiber enthusiast like she is. But I assured her that I'd just appreciate the break from the office, the weekly chores, etc.

My mom does spinning (with a drop spindle, not the popular gym activity), weaving (with a loom, not at the hair salon), and knitting. Looms are typically big and bulky. Spinning can be cumbersome if you're using a spinning wheel (think "Sleeping Beauty"), but drop spindles and knitting needles are fairly portable. So, my mom packed her spindle in a wine carrier (as many spinners do), we both brought knitting projects, and headed off for Forest Home.

The schedule for the weekend offered several different activities and workshops, such as silk dyeing, bow weaving, natural dyeing, and Navajo plying, etc. Silk dyeing was included in everyone's admission. Luckily, the process was easy enough for fiber numbskulls like me. The organizers had a "dye pond" set up with buckets of silk that had been hand-torn into strips and soaked in a vinegar bath. All the participants had to do was take our coils of silk from the bucket, rip off a sheet of plastic wrap, set the soggy silk on it, and dab at it with different colors of dye. The only challenge was to not return the red dye brush into the yellow dye cup and vice versa. It was a fast and easy project, which is what fiber novices appreciate.

For the rest of the weekend, I was happy to wave my mom off to different demonstrations on making paper beads, plying yarn, natural dyes, and spinning cotton.

So while my mom was learning different fiber skills, I was content listening to Chuck Smith sermons on my iPod, reading, and watching ducks guide their ducklings across the lovely man-made lake.

Studio 66's highlight was the Saturday night "Wear it & Share it!" The basic idea is that all the participants gather in the main lodge and take turns showing their different fiber creations and telling about all the work, mistakes, and adventure involved in the item's creation.

I don't weave, spin, or do any significant things with fiber. Nevertheless, I totally appreciate the time, sweat, and work involved in these people's fabric creations. Many of them stood up and talked about how they never touched a crochet hook before, but saw some inspiring pattern, and went for it. When each finished their narrative, they would hold up the handmade item(s), many of which were exemplary pieces of artistry and craftsmanship. I think my mom's a little shy speaking in front of large groups. When it was her turn to talk about the intricate Peruvian knitted hat I was modeling, her description was something to the effect of "Here's my daughter. I made this for her birthday." Applause.

Unfortunately, the fiber group won't be offering another Studio 66 Forest Home Fiber

Retreat until 2015. We're a little sad that we will have to wait two years to re-live the magic of fiber in the wilderness, but by that time I might even learn how to purl (as in knitting, not oysters).

HOW HOT IS IT?

When the sun beats down and the outside temp goes up, so does our internal thermometer. There are a few little tricks that we can learn from yoga to keep us cooler. But the internal heat does not just refer to the physical body. It can mean the emotions get heated, we get angry faster, or irritated at more easily. What we eat can make this even worse. When we eat spicy foods it can heat us up inside. The heat then rises and we can become 'hot heads'.

The yoga we practice is an important part of our daily routine. We want to be sure to choose the best practice for us for that day. If it is hot outside we want to do a cooling and calming practice to help keep the fire in the belly where it belongs and keep the heat out of our heads. So we keep the poses centered around forward folds and belly backbends. No big handstands or wheels in the hot summer months. Some of you say, "Oh no! I do those anyway", but watch. Watch and see how you think, feel and behave in all that you do. Watch your temper, your relationships, your satisfaction levels. Is everything going smoothly, calmly and coolly? Of course we want to stay grounded, but we need to add cool to the equation. Cultivate awareness around all these areas in your life.

Here is a breath practice designed to cool you off. It is called Sitali. First you collect saliva on your tongue and then curl your tongue into a long tube. Stick it out and inhale through the hole in your tongue and across the moisture. It sounds weird, but it works! It's like a little air conditioner. If you cannot curl your tongue, then collect the moisture in your mouth and inhale across your teeth over the moisture. Do this ten or more times and you will feel a real difference. You may feel a little silly if you practice it in public. But done everyday, it is very effective.

Stay cool and happy, Namasté, René

HOW CAN YOGA HELD Living TRU® by Lori Koop, Right Brain Business Coach

TRU Navigation

The body. Remember that thing? Sometimes we don't. At times our mind is so full of thoughts, we leave our body. Well, really, we don't -- we are just too distracted to notice our body's sensations. Though we are physically there, we have mentally traveled to a place far from the present moment. Away from the here and now. This is fine -- even occasionally necessary -- for a while. But when our thoughts get stuck whirling, as we try to "figure things out," we lose the benefits of our internal navigation system. We miss the insights that come from

The beautiful and perfect thing about the body, EVERY body, is its innate ability to navigate. You see, the spirit holds our life map, and it is designed to show us the way. It sends guidance through sensations regarding people, situations, decisions... really any matter involving our lives, if we pay

Each body uses a unique set of sensations to communicate. My clients have expressed feeling lightness, an open chest, excited butterflies in their stomachs when their body is communicating "YES!" And things like a constricted throat, tight shoulders and a queasy stomach when their body is saying "NO!" Your body has its own unique language.

To prove it, think of a time when you were in a blissful, joyful state. What were you doing? Go there now, see it in your mind's eye. Your body will react. What body sensations do you feel? Really stop and notice. This is the way your body says "YES!" Now imagine the opposite... a situation (a job, perhaps) where you were not happy. Engage with it viscerally. See it in your mind's eye. Now what sensations are present? They feel different, huh? This is your "NO!"

Be patient with yourself. As with all new things, we start out as beginners. With practice, we get better at hearing what our body has to say and using its wisdom. We get better at Living TRU.

PASADENA MENTAL HEALTH DAY 2013

Pasadena's 3rd Annual city-wide event to promote mental health awareness

Saturday, June 1st, 2013 9:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m.

Fuller Theological Seminary 135 N. Oakland Ave., Pasadena, California

FOCUS ON MENTAL HEALTH

The Pasadena Mental Health Day's focus is to address the mental health needs of the residents of Pasadena. It is intended to raise awareness and educate the public about mental health and illness in seniors, adults, youth, children, and families. Mental health management is fundamental to having a healthy community. Mental Health Day events begin in May during mental health month. Pasadena Mental Health Day culminates this month long activity. This day, June 1, 2013 is set aside to dedicate thought and put into action the many great services of the areas' health providers ... open to the public and all free of charge. This year it is scheduled from 9:00 to 2:00 at the Fuller Theological Seminary in Pasadena.

"Healthy Minds, Healthy Families" is the theme for the event featuring observance of and participation in planned activities, health checkups, kids' activities, information from local agencies and food. It gives citizens a true opportunity to learn how to support family, friends and community members living with mental health disorders and illnesses.

The event was initiated three years ago by the Pasadena Mental Health Advisory Committee. They have an impressive list of volunteer members, fifty-strong. They represent an array of public and private organizations and are all dedicated to this cause ... the fundamental necessity of working collaboratively to reduce the stigma of Mental Health/Illness and to increase access to mental health services. Mental Health Day is an opportunity to educate the community about how to support family, friends and community members living with mental health disorders and illnesses.

I receive many questions about what chiropractic can do for a condition, health, performance or illness and the answer varies with each individuals unique situation. Therefore the best answer that can be given without performing a complete consultation, examination, x-ray's (if necessary) and a report of finding, is that many people have experienced chiropractic care and overall were very satisfied.

In 1994, 1008 chiropractic patients were surveyed about what specifically they liked about chiropractic care. All of the patients (100%) reported being satisfied to very satisfied with care. This was true whether the patient received one treatment or more than 10.

Patients responded to the survey as follows: 100% were satisfied to very satisfied with treatment in general. 99% believed the ability to see the doctor in a reasonable amount of time was good to very good. 98% felt access to a chiropractor in an emergency situation was good to very good. 99% agreed somewhat to definitely that chiropractic care was leading to a healthier, fit lifestyle. 98% believed that their physical condition improved. 99% agreed somewhat to definitely that they have less pain. 71% believed they are taking less medication. (Do not stop taking medication without the consent of the prescribing doctor.) 87% believed their overall health has improved.

There are no "silver bullets" in health care. If one method does work it does not mean that other methods are wrong. Chiropractic can help all people to varying degrees. Co-management of conditions may be necessary. You can be assured, as these people surveyed responded, that your experience with chiropractic care would most likely be a very positive one.

You do not have to be sick to get better. Chiropractic care is scientifically, philosophically, and artistically designed to optimize health. Scientifically it encompasses the anatomy and physiology of the body. Philosophically it recognizes that the power that made the body can heal the body. Artistically it utilizes the skills of the chiropractor to safely and effectively adjust the articulations of the body to promote a healing environment.

Experience chiropractic and feel great. Live the 100 Year Lifestyle and feel great for a Health ADVANTAGE

HUNGER - Riders of the Apocalyspe by Jackie Morse Kessler

The middle of May means finishing up the Riders of the Apocalypse series, and we bring forth the first in the series Hunger (since this columnist started the series from last to

Hunger is the starter for the Riders of the Apocalypse series and focuses on the protagonist 17-year-old Lisabeth and the façade she puts on for her friends and family. The reason for this façade is also a strong point in this story that readers may be able to understand or even sympathize from experience: Lisabeth battles with anorexia and as a result has attempted to shut down anyone who questions her or shows concern when it comes to food. Lisabeth's inner demon comes in the form of the Thin Voice which always which takes a form of criticism when Lisabeth is around food and how much she's allowed to eat, then becomes amplified when Death comes to her to inform her of being the Black Rider of the Apocalypse, Famine. As the chapters progress, Lisabeth feels the freedom of bringing fullness and fulfillment to people who suffer hunger while also conquering the inner battle with her anorexia within her. Only when Lisabeth is able to understand the balance of being Famine, and wielding the Scales that represent it, is she able to comprehend that there is nothing one with hunger as long their remains a balance to replenish one's strength and also finding the courage to ask her friends and family for help with her anorexia.

Published and copyrighted in 2010, and receiving reviews from Booklist, Kirkus Reviews, and Romantic Times Magazine, Jackie Morse Kessler brings together a wonderful series that not only thrills readers, but also finding the courage to overcome one's own personal demons.

SEAN'S SHAMELESS REVIEWS: NOAH AND THE WHALE

"There will come a time; Where you will need someone tonight," is a line from "There Will Come A Time," a Springsteen-lite song from Noah and The Whale. In actuality, the band seems to have taken a class in "Springsteen 101." For their fourth LP, "Heart of Nowhere," the band embodies the coming-ofage theme. The ten brand new tracks weave through the turbulent times of adolescence. The four-piece rock act even went as far as creating a short film as a companion piece to the record. Singer/songwriter Charlie Fink specializes in nostalgia here. Fink's reflective lyrics alongside the band's crisp 80s new wave influences deliver a pretty killer combo. However, with the word "time" is found in three of the song titles. Noah and The Whale's affinity for nostalgia may not always mesh with your own. "Heart of Nowhere" works wondrously as a breezy summer album, but on reaching the heights of Springsteen or Lou Reed it falls somewhat short.

"Heart of Nowhere" segues from lush melodies Artist: to streamlined guitars. The lightheartedness makes for a non-edgy endeavor despite the Springsteen mimicking. Fink's lyrics are pretty conventional, but Release Date:

sometimes an intelligible message just purely works.

The record is in no short supply of hook-laden tunes accompanied by bittersweet vignettes. These stories Fink delves into are straight from the heart and there is an endearing allure to them in spite of the simplicity. I'm not quite sure if this generation is willing to open up their minds and hearts for some nostalgia, but if they proceed to do so, "Heart of Nowhere" can get you thinking. However, since the music is driven by pure straightforwardness, you won't have to think too hard or for too long. The stories here talk about ex-lovers, friends, your parents, and not having the slightest clue on what to do in life. These are classic topics for anyone growing up. Noah and The Whale make such enjoyable music that can captivate you with ease, but the required "darkness" to these themes is greatly missed. On the other hand, it's truly hard to disregard the band's efforts in attempting to stand out amongst a crowd of imitators. While Noah and The Whale are guilty of such a thing at times, their songs have a way of grabbing a hold of you. Sometimes that hold is light, other times you can't shake it loose. The final song, "Not Too Late," explores the time you go from being a boy to man. It's that moment in time where taking a leap is not only crucial, but wholly necessary. The closing track is an unhurried tune that perhaps is Fink's most heartfelt and best-written tune off the record. "Not Too Late" is the anthem of realizing the fun has expired and it's finally time to look ahead to see where you need to go.

You may not know where the journey leads or what obstacles will been seen along the way. All is known is the risk seems frightening, but if you're not afraid, then you're not taking a chance. And if you are not taking a chance, then what the hell are you doing?

THE DANGER OF SAMENESS

As I listened to the CD included in the monthly issue of my Success Magazine subscription, I was inspired by a series of featured speakers who shared some very intriguing, yet practical strategies about how to do a makeover in your business and professional life. All of the speakers have an impressive track record of personal accomplishments in one or more areas of business. One of the speakers, Dr. Nido R. Qubein, spoke about sliding into the "ocean of sameness" that many people (and businesses) find themselves in after reaching a certain level of success.

After building a reputation as a savvy and effective business leader in the corporate world, Dr. Nido R. Qubein became the seventh president of this institution of higher learning in North Carolina. He has served on the boards of numerous Fortune 500 Corporations and is currently the chairman of Great Harvest Bread Company and also serves on the board of La-Z Boy Corporation.

Dr. Qubein defines "sameness" as the danger zone that an organization slides into that includes looking like everyone else, doing things the same way as everyone else and not doing anything to differentiate what you do and how you do it. Fortunately, he also provides valuable insight on how to move into, and thrive in a zone of excellence by sharing the strategy that he adopted as the president

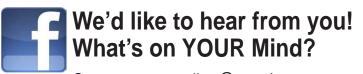

Under his leadership, High Point University has experienced exponential growth during the past seven years, including a 300% growth in the size of both the faculty and the student body. The expansion also included a $700M capital campaign that resulted in the acquisition of 700 homes in the neighborhood adjacent to the university to increase the size of the campus from 92 to 324 acres.

In his role as President, he committed to a vision of offering value that was differentiated from competing universities. He applied four success-building principles that can be adopted any entrepreneur or organization:

- Devise and define a clear vision What is the overall goal? What will the ultimate success look like for your project or business?
- Put together a solid strategy Where are you today? Where do you want to be? Based on what you know and understand currently, what is the best way to get there?
- Develop practical systems What is the most pragmatic approach to attracting and managing the people, products/services and processes needed to operate your business?
- Be consistent in the implementation and delivery of your strategy, including quality goods

The impressive accomplishments at this organization have taken place in a relatively short period of time and stand as a testament to what can happen when a leader with vision, a strategy and a commitment takes the helm. By the same token, entrepreneurs and business leaders can use this four-step process to move their business ventures to a place of greater success and a higher level of profitability.

Tips of the Trade: Real Estate Revealed by Luther Tsinoglou

DOLLARS VS. DAYS

After you've taken step one to decide to sell your home, step two is usually setting your asking price, striving for a balance between generating offers and receiving top dollar.

Your chosen representative will perform a Competitive Market Analysis (CMA) to produce an estimate of your home's "fair market value," or that price that educated buyers will pay based on listings and sales of homes similar to yours. The agent will not establish the price, but only provide the information you need to make that decision yourself.

In a hot market, you have the advantage, but would still want to avoid overpricing, which is always unproductive. However, in a neutral or buyers market, you'll have to be particularly cautious in your approach to setting a price.

In soft markets, price reductions become more common, as well as fewer offers and longer listing periods. You have to first establish your priority: is it more important for you to sell quickly or to get the most money possible? Like it or not, one option simply must be more critical than the other. Have a third party, like your agent, help you see your home as a commodity, with positive and negative selling points. Price your home objectively and competitively, be prepared to negotiate to reach an agreement with buyers, and exercise patience as you prepare your move.

as part of your social media strategy, it might be time to make sure your emails are mobilefriendly. So, what does that mean?

Less pinching and pulling

A good mobile experience doesn't over exercise the users thumb and index finger. If your emails are full of tiny text and columns, the user will have to work hard to read your email, constantly zooming in and out. The idea is to keep it very simple and easy to read. Use one column

A smart phone doesn't have a lot of space so you want to keep the layout simple and in one column so it will look good on different types of devices.

Keep the design clean, avoid using too many fonts and images

Use fonts that are the most legible on screen (Verdana or Arial). Avoid using too many images. Avoid using too many fonts and too many colors (stick to your brands colors). Some devices automatically turn off images and there is no way to control this. Include image descriptions so people know what the image is even if they

A Weekly Religion Column by Rev. James Snyder

NOW THAT'S NEWS I REALLY CARE ABOUT

I have a terrible confession to get off my chest. It is a secret I have tried to hide from family and friends for years. Up to this point, I have been fairly successful in hiding this but I believe the time has come to clear the air.

Having a secret is a terrible burden to bear especially around people who know you. You always run the risk that somebody is going to find out and then tell everybody and then the whole world knows your secret. The purpose of a secret is so that nobody knows. If it gets out, it is no longer a

I even tried to keep this from the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage, which comes as close to walking on water as I have ever come. Several times, she has come close to finding out this deep seated secret of mine. Even though this is risky business, I need to make a full confession. Someone has said that confession is good for the soul, but I am not quite sure. hate me because of it, I love to take afternoon naps.

There, I said it. I am not sure what it did for my soul but I do not feel any happier about making this confession.

I am a firm believer in what some people refer to as the "power nap." The problem is I live amongst a people that believe if you take a nap in the afternoon you are either very young are getting very old. The former is not the issue, and I will take issue with

I must admit that there was a time in my life when I did not take time out for naps. In have been smiling on the outside but I was fact, I had a hard time going to bed before midnight. I hated going to bed and could not wait until morning came so I could jump out of bed and get back to work. Do not get me wrong, I was not a workaholic. I iust liked what I was doing.

I am not sure when it started but I noticed a few years ago I was not resisting going to bed like before. I did not fight it is much as I used to. If the truth were known, hopefully it won't be, as soon as my head hit the pillow the Sandman started doing his

It was not long before I started sneaking 11:28-29). 40 winks in the afternoon.

I distinctly remember one afternoon when A friend of mine often says, "Come apart my wife came in and said, "You're not taking a nap, are you?"

I know lying is not a good thing, especially to your spouse. Sometimes when you are in a fixed such as I was in at that moment, the truth scampers in the opposite direction.

was just meditating."

"I guess everybody snores when they're meditating," she said with a smirk on her

From then on, it was a game trying to get in a nap without getting into trouble. I did find out that after one of my "power naps" I was able to do a lot more work. However, I kept that bit of information to myself.

Then my whole world changed. Don't you like it when something happens proving you are right? It does not happen very often to me, when it does, I relish it like a freshly baked Apple Fritter.

I happened to be watching some television news program. I confess I was half dozing and watching at the same time, but suddenly they said something that got my full salute attention. According to the news story, and they can't put it on TV unless it's true, right? But according to this story, research showed that there was a great deal of benefits associated with afternoon naps.

That was enough for me and I, like the gentleman I am, called for my wife to come My confession is this, and please do not and watch this news story with me. Some things in life should be shared and this was one of them.

> Afternoon naps drastically reduce the danger of heart attack and improve a person's memory. So," I said to my wife after the story, "what > do you think of that?" She smiled and looked at me and said,

> 'Well, it must work because you never forget to take a nap." I will forgive her for the hilarious laughter following her remark. Just so you know, the laughter did not come from me. I may snorting on the inside.

For years, I thought taking an afternoon nap was rather beneficial. Now I have the proof and I can indulge in a daily "power nap" without feeling any sense of guilt at all. I love it when I have been proven right. Now I take great delight in one of my favorite Bible passages. 'Come unto me, all ye that labor and

Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye shall find rest unto your souls" (Matthew are heavy laden, and I will give you rest.

and rest a while or you'll just come apart." An afternoon nap has unashamedly become part of my daily activity.

STUART Tolchin......On LIFE

DETAILS

thought about it for

Madre Canyon since July 3, 1979. The next day I looked out the window and saw that a bunch of people were walking down the hill. I joined the crowd and walked to the center of town and was privileged to see my first Sierra Madre

4th of July parade. The parade in those days ended with fire engines spraying

the other feel to the day and the spraying that the other feel to the water over everybody. As I recall, that cool water was a great relief because, in those days, nobody had centralized air conditioning.

The next year my son moved in with me and I can remember that on hot days our little 650 square foot cabin with its flat roof was just about unbearable. On hot days we would spend our time at the pool. Now, when I look around, I notice that everything is different. All the little houses in the canyon have been only are the houses different but so is everything else. Yes, all the houses have centralized air conditioning and people don't gather outside anymore on hot house, but their lives are very different. In the 80's I think dogs roamed pretty free in the canyon. It was very rare to see anyone walking a dog on a leash. I remember my little Chihuahua, Buddy, all 7 pounds of him, falling in love with a Labrador up the street on Sunnyside. The difference in sizes made it pretty impossible for the dogs to get together in an intimate way, but that in no way decreased Buddy's fixation. He stood in front of that Labrador's house day and night keeping other dogs away—almost to the point of starvation. At 2 or 3 in the morning he would race home and gobble down some food and then race back to the other house and resume his seasonal guard-duty.

I mention these details in conjunction with a graduation speech given a few years ago by the writer David Foster Wallace at Kenyon College. The entire speech and a video appeared on the Internet last week and were forwarded to the recently passed mother's day and I me by two different friends. The speech was thankful for the reminder. I hope starts out with the anecdote about two everyone else took the time to slow the young fish swimming along and meeting world down for a little while and reflect a an older fish. "How you doing" say the young ones to the old timer" "Fine, individual life.

Did the heat this past how's the water?" The older fish swims week seem unbearable to you? I could not remember it ever tale is that often; especially when we're being so hot—until I young, arrogant, and full of ourselves, we fail to notice what is around us. I a while. I have been was thumbing through a book of Albert living up here in Sierra Einstein memoirs written sixty years ago and the same point is made in the introduction.

> Of what is significant in one's own existence one is hardly aware, and it certainly should the other fellow. What does a fish water in which he swims all his life?

The point that David Foster Wallace and Dr. Einstein are attempting to emphasize is that a lot of the enjoyment and appreciation of life can come from just noticing what is going on around us. The Wallace speech tells graduating seniors that what he thinks education should be about is helping young people to learn what to think about—not what to think—but what to think about.

After I read the speech and the expanded or torn down and rebuilt Not introduction to the Einstein memoirs I took my usual morning walk with my present dog and friend, Milo. I thought about the changes in the canyon and how I missed my dog, Buddy. After the walk I looked around my house and noticed Dogs are present in just about every all the pictures of my deceased friends. I noticed the pictures of my deceased parents and missed them both. I noticed the pictures of my own kids when they were young, now they're hovering on both sides of forty and I miss those little kids and I miss growing up with them in the little cabin that stood right here, flat roof and all.

Time, the passage of time, is all around us and it is going along at break-neck speed. Each day passes and we barely have time to notice as we are occupied by the problems of a new day. With the internet and our iPhones we barely have time to notice the present and then whoosh it's gone. It is these barely noticed and easily forgotten details of every day life, generally unnoticed by the rest of the world, that bring us individual satisfaction. Life is not out there, it is going on inside of us and it is absolutely worth our notice.

I did think about my mother on

HOWARD Hays Ronald Reagan

The Tea Party is back in the news. Great.

For a refresher, the tea party came about as a result of folks fed up with the cozy relationship between government and corporate power; tax breaks reserved for the elite only, monopolies consuming main street entrepreneurs, and leaders more concerned with corporate interests than those of the people they're supposed to serve. The corporation in this case was the British East India Company, operating under charter of the Crown. The Company had a profitable tea trade going with the colonies overseas, but saw customers choosing instead to do business with their friends, neighbors and fellow-colonists who were establishing their own, independent firms.

To protect their market, the East India Company prevailed upon the monarchy to grant tax breaks allowing it to undercut prices offered by their competitors, while the duties imposed by the Crown on colonial entrepreneurs remained. The reaction became clear as the East India Company saw a sizable quantity of its product end up at the bottom of Boston Harbor.

Nearly 250 years later, a name once associated with a movement to replace the power of corporate oligarchies with representative democracy has been appropriated by a front group for corporatists intent on usurping control over our elected leaders from We the

Although tea-baggers made the news just a couple years ago, a recent study out of UC San Francisco traces their roots back to the early-1980s, when the tobacco industry invested in third-party groups to combat excise taxes on their products and findings linking secondhand smoke to cancer. In 1984, billionaires Charles and David Koch founded the group Citizens for a Sound Economy (CSE) and, over the next twenty years, received $5.3 million in support from tobacco companies, primarily Philip Morris.

The head of field operations for R.J.

Reynolds Tobacco explained the strategy back in 1990, "... coalition building should proceed along two tracks: a) a grassroots organizational and largely local track, b) and a national, intellectual track within the DC-New York corridor. Ultimately, we are talking about a 'movement', a national effort to change the way people think about government's (and big business') role in our lives. Any such effort requires an intellectual foundation - a set of theoretical and ideological arguments on its behalf." Those now seeking to debunk scientific warnings of global warming are following the playbook of those who sought to debunk scientific warnings of the dangers of smoking.

Most think of tea-baggers as a grassroots group appearing as anti-taxers in 2009, and the following year equating the Affordable Care Act with the demise of our Republic. Tobacco-backed CSE, however, was using the "U.S. Tea Party" label as far back as September, 2002 - early in the Bush presidency. CSE split into the two groups, FreedomWorks and Americans for Prosperity, that fostered the be a non-partisan endeavor. tea-baggers we're familiar with today.

As I See It "Politics is supposed to be the second oldest profession. A major strategic opportunity came with the Supreme Court's "Citizens United" ruling I have come to realize of 2010. Corporate investment in purchasing that it bears a very close government could be unlimited (so long resemblance to the first." - as not being tied to a particular candidate's campaign) and, if laundered through a 501(c)

(4) organization, could be anonymous - and tax-free. All it takes for such designation is for the organization's primary function to be geared towards general social benefit; not the advancement of any political candidate or cause. Examples provided in 2003 IRS guidelines include organizations to help seniors find employment, raise funds to build a stadium for a local school district, or organize community festivals.

According to the Sunlight Foundation, 501(c)(4) groups pumped more than $300 million in unaccountable, anonymous, taxfree money into last year's election. We're not talking Habitat for Humanity and Meals on Wheels; one of the biggest players was Crossroads GPS, whose founder, Karl Rove, bragged about pouring millions into an ad blitz for Mitt Romney. There was also PrioritiesUSA, which supported President

When others saw Karl Rove getting away with passing off his cash-laundering front as a tax-exempt 501(c)(4), it opened the floodgates. Annual applications for 501(c) (4) status jumped from 1,500 to more than 3,400. And, for whatever reason, many of those applicants had the words "tea party", or

"patriot" in their names. There may have been politicallyincorrectness involved as the IRS sought to weed out the phonies; like beginning an investigation of Mafia activities by creating a sub-set of last names that end in vowels. This isn't why Congressional Republicans are raising such a fuss; it's more an effort to convey an unequivocal message to the IRS and anyone else that might target the organizations they rely upon for their livelihoods: Don't even think about it.

Also, with a third of all House committees engaged in targeting President Obama, they're running out of "scandals". Solyndra was the only one of forty programs in the Energy Department's loan-guarantee program to go south - representing 1.3% percent of the portfolio of a resoundingly successful program. "Fast and Furious" resulted in the conviction of gun-runners, and hundreds of weapons from straw-buyers were allowed to "walk" across the border to criminal gangs in Mexico not because of ATF agents' incompetence, but because federal prosecutors advised that, under Arizona law, there was insufficient "probable cause" allowing them to stop it.

As for the charge President Obama engaged in a cover-up over Benghazi to enhance his re-election prospects, House Oversight Chairman Darrell Issa (D-CA) has been reduced to complaining the president referred to the incident as an "act of terror", rather than a "terrorist attack". Seriously.

The big scandal for the IRS would be if they allowed the right-wing echo chamber to intimidate them into easing up on their inquiries. And while they're at it, they should go after those 501(c)(4)'s set up by the Center for American Progress and MoveOn.org, as well. As I see it, going after tax cheats should

WHAT DID THE GREG Welborn PRESIDENT KNOW AND WHEN DID HE KNOW IT?

An appropriate subtitle would be "And If He Didn't Know It, How Competent Is He?" We've learned that the Head of the State Department abandoned embassy employees in Benghazi and then lied about it, the Head of the Internal Revenue Service allowed harassment of conservative groups and individuals, and the Head of the Justice Department allowed spying on AP reporters. All of this makes for great political theatre, but there are serious issues to be resolved issues which go to the heart of our democracy and freedoms.

affairs and, accordingly, whether he has mortally compromised his ability to lead this country. It seems beyond reason that the heads of three major agencies of the Executive branch would undertake such potentially damaging or illegal actions without the President's approval. If that's the case, I would hope that even my most liberal of friends would agree that this President must be reigned in. How severe that is remains to be seen. Richard Nixon was ultimately forced to resign because of his part in covering up what was actually a very low level burglary of the Democratic National Headquarters at Watergate. The stolen data wasn't important, and the burglary itself was a minor crime. But the fact that a president attempted to corrupt the democratic process was hugely important. As a conservative, I agreed with the President's removal from office.

To be crystal clear, I am not at this time calling for the impeachment of President Obama. At the same time, I do believe some sort of punishment, censure, and/or loss of public trust will be appropriate as more facts are known. And I say that regardless of the outcome, as I implied in the title and subtitle.

If President Obama authorized, or just failed to curtail these actions, he has assaulted our democracy and freedoms no less significantly than did Richard Nixon. If, on the other hand, he truly exercises so little control over his deputies, we also would be correct in concluding that this man may not have the chops for the job. Whether it rises to the level of dereliction of duty, we'll have to see, but he can't claim he's innocent because he didn't know about it. It's his job to know that. His deputies are supposed to be carrying out his policy goals and obeying the law in the process.

The more important issue goes beyond the name, reputation and ultimate disposition of this president. The more important issue is how much power government is to be given over the lives of the citizens and how that power is to be controlled. Our founders were great students of history and human nature. They realized that power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely and that human nature in this regard had not, and would not, change much over time.

Their solution was to limit the power of the federal government and then to make sure that whatever power was bestowed was divided among three competing branches. We often complain about the fact that Washington is so contentious and that there is so much bickering. We forget that it's supposed to be that way. We are most at risk when there isn't contention. If each branch isn't jealously guarding its power, then it's usually the citizen who is losing something.

What these scandals should remind us is that whether we are conservative, liberal or independent, we should all be worried about the increased power that will be handed to the federal government with the implementation of Obamacare. The Affordable Care Act will give vast new audit powers to the IRS and create ever more opportunities for that power to be abused. The power to tax is indeed the power to destroy, but the threat of audit or a lawsuit is often sufficient to convince an uncooperative critic to tone it down. The IRS Inspector General is on record telling us that Obamacare represents the largest increase in IRS authority in more than 20 years. The IRS is now building what will be the largest personal information database any government has ever attempted. To think that this vastly increased power won t be abused even worse than existing IRS procedures is dangerous naïveté.

Whether this president stays or goes, the power that we are about to hand over to the federal government will live on and will inevitably be abused. Perhaps not on as grand a scale as we're seeing now, but little intimidations here and there of critics can do just as much damage to our freedoms and democracy.

City of Sierra Madre

PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE

The City of Sierra Madre gives notice, pursuant to State of California Law, that the City Council will hold a Public Hearing on May 28, 2013, at 6:30 PM, or soon thereafter, to hear testimony on the adoption of Resolution 13-12 enacting Phase II water conservation measures as outlined in Section 13.24.080(B) of the Sierra Madre Municipal Code.

DATE AND TIME OF HEARING

City of Sierra Madre City Council meeting Tuesday, May 28, 2013 (Hearing begins at 6:30 p.m.)

PLACE OF HEARING

City of Sierra Madre City Council Chambers 232 W. Sierra Madre Blvd.

The City Council will receive testimony and take action on City Council Resolution 13-12 adopting the Phase II mandatory

All interested persons may attend this meeting and the City Council will hear them with respect thereto.

The City is proposing to adopt Resolution 13-12 which will enact mandatory water conservations as described herein: 13.24.080 - Customer water curtailment by twenty percent. The following reductions in water consumptions are applicable

A. Beginning January 1, 2021, no customer shall make, cause, use or permit the use of water delivered from the water department for any purpose in an amount in excess of eighty percent of the amount used during the base period defined

B. If a Phase II conservation period is declared pursuant to section 13.24.210 prior to January 1, 2021, no customer shall make, cause, use or permit the use of water delivered from the water department for any purpose in an amount in excess of eighty percent of the amount used during the base period defined in this chapter.

13.24.200 - Base period allocation. Base period allocation: 2007-2008 Consumption Data.

13.24.210 - Implementation of required phases.

The water department shall evaluate and monitor the projected availability, supply, and demand for water, and shall recommend to the city manager, the extent of the conservation phases required by customers, so the department may prudently plan for and deliver water to its customers on a continuous fiscal year basis. The city council shall, after a noticed public hearing and by resolution, order that the appropriate phase of water conservation be implemented, modified, or rescinded. The resolution shall become effective immediately upon adoption by the city council and shall be published once in the newspaper of general circulation. Percentage reduction shall apply to the next billing cycle commencing on or after the effective date of the adoption by the city council.

If you have any questions about this matter please contact Director of Public Works, Bruce Inman, at 626.355.7135.

PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE

From: The City of Sierra Madre

Subject:  $2008\text{-}2014\ Housing\ Element, including\ General\ Plan\ Amendment\ (GPA\ 13\text{-}01\ A,\ B,$ and C), Municipal Code Text Amendment (MCTA 13-01) and Zone Change No. 13-01

Applicant:

Project Location: Properties in the City of Sierra Madre, County of Los Angeles, State of California

The City of Sierra Madre gives notice, pursuant to State of California law, that the City Council will conduct a public hearing to consider a General Plan Amendment (GPA 13-01A) to adopt the 2008-2014 Housing Element, which is a State mandated General Plan element. The Housing Element must be updated pursuant to California Government Code Section 65588 for the 2008-2014 planning period. Implementation of the new Housing Element requires two additional GPAs (13-01B) to adopt a new Land Use Category RH1 (Residential High Density, up to 20 dwelling units/acre), and GPA 13-01C to change the Land Use designation of properties located at 271 and 293 Mariposa Avenue from RH (Residential Medium/ High Density, up to 13 dwelling units/acre) to RHI (Residential High Density, up to 20 dwelling units/acre). The final aspect of the project includes a Municipal Code Text Amendment (MCTA 13-01) to add a new zoning category R-3H (Multiple Family Residential High) and a Zone Change (ZC 13-01) to rezone 271 and 293 Mariposa Avenue from R-3 to R-3H. The Planning Commission at its April 18, 2013 meeting voted unanimously to recommend approval of the Housing Element, associated General Plan and Code text amendments, zone change, and Negative Declaration.

PLACE OF HEARING

City of Sierra Madre City of Sierra Madre City Council Chambers 232 W. Sierra Madre Blvd. City Council meeting Tuesday, May 28, 2013 (Hearing begins at 6:30 p.m.)
