SIERRA MADRE RESIDENT SELECTED TO FILL EMPTY PUSD BOARD SEAT

MIKALA RAHN APPOINTED TO PUSD BOARD OF EDUCATION SEAT

Pasadena, CA - The Pasadena Unified School District (PUSD) Board of Education appointed Mikala Rahn, Ph.D. to fill the vacant at large Seat 4 on the PUSD Board of Education at a Special Board meeting held at Pasadena City College on June 1. Dr. Rahn will be sworn in June 11 and will serve out the remainder of the current term for Seat 4 which expires on May 4, 2015. Seat 4 became vacant when Kimberly Kenne won the election for the new geographic subdistrict Seat 5 in March and vacated her previously held at large Seat 4.

"I would like to welcome Mikala Rahn to the PUSD board to serve the students of the district," said PUSD Board President Renatta Cooper. "All of the candidates that appeared before the board were impressive in their background, diversity and genuine desire children of Pasadena, Altadena and Sierra Madre."

Dr. Rahn, a Sierra Madre resident, is Executive Director of Public Works, a non-profit educational consulting firm. She is Founder/CEO of Learning Works, a charter school in Pasadena that targets high school dropouts, teen mothers and youth on probation. Dr. Community Works Learning Center pasadenausd.org. which provides educational opportunities for parents, youth and children including tutoring, intervention and enrichment services. Dr. Rahn is the parent of two PUSD students.

A total of 38 individuals applied to fill the vacancy on the board. Nine were selected at the May 28 Board Meeting to appear before the board for a final interview June 1.

to improve public education for the children of Pasadena, Altadena and geographic subdistricts became geographic subdistricts encompassing Pasadena, Altadena, Sierra Madre and portions of unincorporated Los Angeles County after the passage of Measure A last June. Elections for geographic subdistricts 1, 3, 5 and 7 took place in March 2013 and elections for geographic subdistricts 2, 4 and 6 will be in 2015. Details about the appointment process, timeline and applicants Rahn is also Executive Director of are available at www.boardvacancy.

SIERRA MADRE IS EXPERIENCING A DROUGHT

VOLUME 7 NO. 23

Sierra Madre, CA - The City of Sierra Madre's existing water supply comes from one of two sources; tunnel water from the local dam (5-10%) and groundwater wells (90-95%.) Throughout the summer and fall of 2012 City Public Works staff observed the water levels receding at each of the City's four wells, which make up the area aquifer.

Normally, rainfall throughout the winter months reduces customers' irrigation water use and provides water to recharge the aquifer. Aquifer water levels therefore tend to increase during the winter and spring months. This year's minimal rainfall, combined with Los Angeles County Public Works diverting water from Santa Anita Dam to locations outside of Sierra Madre, has resulted in limited water for groundwater recharge at the City's spreading basins.

Overall, resident water consumption is up from last year. During the period April 24th through 30th the Water Department produced 2.56 million gallons of water a day resulting in a 2 foot drop in water level within local wells. The same period last year showed a production of 1.5 million gallons a day. During the month of April 2013, the department produced a total of 70 million gallons versus production of 46 million gallons in April 2012. Well water levels dropped over 30 feet within that 12 month period.

While water conservation is always important, the drastically low level of available groundwater necessitates implementing additional water conservation procedures in Sierra Madre at this time. The Sierra Madre Municipal Code provides for the implementation of mandatory water conservation regulations in times of water-related emergencies. These conservation measures were enacted through adoption of a City Council resolution on May 28, 2013.

The adopted resolution requires that each water customer conserve a percentage of his/her July 2011 - June 2012 water use. The required percentage of conservation will vary, depending on the customer's current water use. Customers currently consuming 0-12 billing units of water (0-1,200 cubic feet) will be exempt from the conservation requirements, but are required to continue to consume less than 12 billing units. Customers currently using 13-17 billing units (1,300 -1,700 cubic feet) are required to reduce their consumption by 10%. Customers using 18 units or more are required to reduce by 20%.

These mandatory conservation measures will remain in place until the key well located in the East Raymond Basin reaches 500 feet above sea level; it is currently at 293 feet. It is anticipated that this will take several consecutive years of significant rainfall to achieve.

Residents must conserve water, now more than ever. Information on conservation recommendations and the City's latest efforts in the conservation cause can be found at www.cityofsierramadre.com/water-conservation.

LES CHAMPS ÉLYSÉES

What's New In Sierra Madre?

LES CHAMPS ELYSEES...TRES SPLENDID!

Walking into Les Champs Elysees, meeting the delightful owners, Sarah Vielma, Arthur Franco, and eleven-year-old Miss Elysee, was lovely. And then.... I saw the earrings, the bracelets, the necklaces and about fifteen things I wanted to just grab and try on. And I thought, "Breathe. Breathe. Back away from the dress rack. You are standing too close to Les Champs Elysees (formerly Angel's Everywear) is a marvelous addition to our town. We need more retail stores. Lots more! We've got stunning women here and they need shopping!

The interesting thing about this new store is that they have guy clothes in addition to girl clothes. And not just clothes, but gorgeous guy clothes. Arthur has been in the menswear business for a number of years as a manufacturer's representative-wholesale menswear distributor, does product development for the Renoir line, and goes yearly to the topline fashion shows in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, and Paris. He has an eye for the elegant as well as awareness that men's suits should be affordable. Les Champs carries the French label, Red Renoir, classic 100% wool look, and for the younger guy, Pierre Noir, slim fit, in microfiber, (light and breathable) as well as wool. Here's the best part: Custom fit! In a huge range of sizes, 34S-54R, 38L-54L. AND, $125-$200! For suits, Guys!

Les Champs Elysees carries Andrea Castaldi dress shirts in right now's colors; crew and V-neck T-shirts by Rogue (which you'll see in Bloomingdale's, Neiman-Marcus and Saks). This says to me that Sierra Madre guys can look amazing without having to travel and float a loan to do it! There are jeans, casual pants, slacks ($49.00!), shorts and hosiery is coming to pull together every guy's complete look. And ties! Oh my! Ties: silk and microfiber, regular and slim, all for $10.00! Exquisite and affordable. Ties are an endangered species as their life is short and filled with hazards but now, voila! Replaceable! Outerwear is on sale, leather jackets that made my

We won't see ourselves on everybody else. Again, affordable. The handbags! From New York. Adorable clutches. Jewelry. Leather jackets, like the one Sarah is wearing. I'm not saying any more! You have to go look!

Sarah and Arthur are Sierra Madreans, Arthur since 1996 and Sarah since 2006 when they first met. Sarah loved Angel's Everywear and wished more than anything that she and Arthur could own it. All the planets eventually aligned and the moment came when they looked at each other in their empty store, had the champagne "It's ours!" moment and realized they had a lot to They stormed the fashion district and were up and running in twenty days. That's fast, foľks!

I asked Arthur and Sarah what their impossible dreams for the future were, they and are wonderful: would like to open more businesses and maybe one day see the Hotel Shirley as an operating hotel. Sarah, who is part of the Los Angeles of Education would love to give back to the Sierra Madre community with events, fundraisers such as fashion shows and art displays for local students. Sarah and Arthur also greatly admire the creative fashion designs of their daughter, Elysee, and plan to Madre, 626-355-2339. feature her work.

SIERRA MADRE POLICE BLOTTER

For the period May 26 - June 2, 2013

Sunday May 26, 2013

During the evening hours, an unknown suspect entered a residence in the 100 block of North Sunnyside Avenue and removed jewelry from a bedroom drawer. The resident was away at the time and discovered the crime when she returned at 1am. The investigation revealed the suspect entered the residence through an unlocked door and removed property from the bedroom.

Overnight, an unknown suspect entered a vehicle parked in a driveway in the 2000 block of Liliano Drive by smashing the left rear passenger window. A gym bag and a small amount of coins were removed.

Monday May 27, 2013

At 8:15pm, a black Volkswagon was travelling west on Orange Grove Avenue and was observed making an erratic right turn onto Mountain Trail Avenue. At the conclusion of the turn, the vehicle struck the east curb, traveled onto the lawn and collided with a traffic sign. The driver stopped momentarily then drove back onto the street and continued north on Mountain Trail Avenue. A witness described the driver as a female white with blond shoulder length hair. At the time she was making the turn, the driver appeared to be looking down at a cell phone. Collision debris was recovered at the site indicating that the Volkswagon would have damage to the front bumper area.

Friday May 31, 2013

At approximately 10pm, unknown suspects burglarized a residence in the 200 block of South Sunnyside Avenue. The suspects climbed over a locked side gate and entered the garage through an unlocked side door. Access to the main residence was then accomplished through a dog door inside the garage. The suspect(s) ransacked the interior, removed property and exited via the front door. No witnesses were located.

THE SKY IS FALLING - Are You Ready?

We all hear about wake up calls. But it seems this days. Some simple steps taken now may literally is just more of Chicken Little saying "the sky is be a life saver. That may sound overly dramatic, falling." But with a little reflection, the massive disasters in Oklahoma and the Midwest with their terrible tornados should raise a concern. The people there had some warning, 16 minutes or more. Yet with that, most people were still not ready for what happened.

In California we basically have no earthquake warning, 16 seconds at most. You feeling the house move is generally the first indication that there may be a problem. The best way for you and your family to survive a catastrophe is to have a plan and make some simple preparations. Are you prepared? Fortunately we have not had a major earthquake is some time. But small earthquakes happen every day in California. It is only a matter of time until we do see the "big one."
Most people think that some first responder will be there is a short while. In a major event they will be overwhelmed and may not come for several De Alcorn, President Sierra Madre CERT but is true none the less.

If you do have a survival kit, is it handy and the contents still good? Have you had a drill of your plan? Do you have a flashlight and, shoes by your ped? Review these elements. If you haven't done some preparation the Sierra Madre Community Emergency Response Team may be able to help. Preparedness literature, as well as training is available. If you have questions or would like literature or more information contact us. Or better yet join us at our monthly meeting, the fourth Thursday of the month at 7:00pm at the Hart Park House. For contact please email info@sierramadrecert.org

Whether you contact us or not, please do some preparation.

NEW CITY HALL PUBLIC HOURS

At the May 28, 2013 City Council meeting, the City Council adopted new open hours for City Hall and the Community Recreation offices as a part of the fiscal year 2013-2015 bi-annual budget. Beginning July 1, 2013 the offices at City Hall and the Community Recreation centers will be open Monday - Thursday 11:00am - 5:30pm.

The Council implemented the new open hours at City Hall and Community Recreation offices to offset for the reduced staffing levels implemented over the last five years. The adopted FY 2013-2015 budget also includes additional consolidated job responsibilities as well as technology enhancements to continue to improve work efficiencies and effectiveness, in order to serve Madre citizens.

YOUTH VOLLEYBALL CLINIC

The Community Services Commission is partnering with the Girls Scout Jennifer Brady to provide a FREE youth volleyball clinic this summer. The first 30 participants also receive a shirt for this program. The clinic is held at the Sierra Vista park sand volleyball court located at 611 E. Sierra Madre Blvd. Experienced Club volleyball coaches are leading providing instruction. For more information email teamsmvolleyball@gmail.com. No pre-registration is necessary.

The clinic is supported through a generous donation by the Sierra Madre Rotary Club and other local organizations and businesses.

Kick-Off Day June 29, 2013 9:00am-11:00am Clinics will be held on Mondays and Wednesdays July 1 - August 14

PROGRESS ON SIERRA MADRE MIDDLE SCHOOL STALLED IN COMMITTEE - AGAIN

Community called to action

From Organize Sierra Madre Schools - (https://www.facebook.com/ OrganizeSierraMadreSchools):

On Tuesday, the Facilities Sub-Committee met and heard the bids for the Middle School project. Despite Frazer Thompson's promise that he would get a bid in the $26M to $27M range, only one bid came in in that range. The lowest bid came in at $27.888M and was brought to the FSČ for approval.

At that meeting, new Board Member Tyrone Hampton DID NOT approve the bid. Tom Selinske did approve. It is our understanding that currently the committee has only two members. So this will go to the Board without full support of the FSC. We absolutely need Board support of 4 Board Members or this project will be dead again. The next meeting of the full board where this matter will be discussed is on:

> Board Meeting - June 11th, 4:30pm Board Room at 351 S. Hudson Pasadena, CA

The biggest and most important decision for the Sierra Madre construction project - GÊTTING BOARD APPROVAL for the $27.888M bid so that construction can begin - will be happening right after school gets out. Because this has happened multiple times to SMMS, this timing is no accident. The District is hoping to minimize parent involvement by strategically placing the vote at times when school is not in session.

"WE MUST STAY COMMITTED TO GETTING THIS PASSED!", OSMS.

DON'T FORGET TO REGISTER FOR THE 4TH OF JULY FUN RUN

Firecracker Fun Run Registration

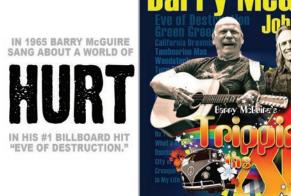

Fourth of July is less than a month away, which means the 3rd Annual Firecracker Fun Run hosted by the Spero Foundation and 4th of July Committee is fast approaching. This untimed, 5k fun run is perfect for the entire family to enjoy. The run begins at 8:00am on Thursday, July 4th. Adults are $20.00 and youth under 10 are $15.00 prior to June 21st, a t-shirt is guaranteed with registration. After June 21st all participants are $25.00 and a t-shirt is NOT guaranteed with registration. Register online at www.cityofsierramadre.com/onlineregistration, keyword: fun run, or in person at the Community Recreation Center, 611 E. Sierra Madre Blvd by July 1st.

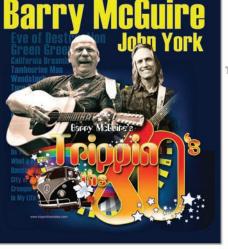

The start and finish lines will be in the vicinity of Kersting court at the corner of Sierra Madre Blvd. and Baldwin Ave in Sierra Madre. Participants first run East on Sierra Madre Blvd. down to Sierra Vista Park, where they turn around and run west back up Sierra Madre Blvd. to Sunnyside. Participants will turn around again at Sunnyside and travel the parade route on Sierra Madre Blvd. back to Kersting Court. Participants are allowed to bring strollers and dogs to this family friendly event.

Come get your feet moving and be part of what promises to be another amazing Sierra Madre tradition! For more information please call the Community Services Department at 626.355.5278

Arrest Made in Fatal Collision

By Dean Lee

Police arrested a driver last week on charges of gross vehicular manslaughter in connection with a crash in March that that killed a local resident as he was pulling out the driveway in front of his house. Alcohol played a roll in the crash investigators said.

According to police, Kimson James Wright, 48, was arrested May 29 shortly after 2 p.m. at his Pasadena home on charges of manslaughter and DUI. The fatal collision occurred on Hill Ave. near Villa Street.

In a statement, police said, at about 8 p.m. March 16th, Wright was driving his 2004 Mercedes southbound on Hill Ave. when it struck a 2003 Toyota Matrix. The 37 year old driver and Pasadena resident, Jose Daniel Moreno, was transported to a local hospital where he succumbed to his injuries. Moreno was pulled out of the wreckage by firefighters.

Wright's arrest was made following an extensive investigation into the circumstances surrounding the collision. He was released from custody May 30 after posting $100,000

The Friends of the Pasadena Public Library host monthly book sales today at the Central Library, 285 E. Walnut St., in Pasadena. The sales are held on the east patio, near our bookstore.

We sell donated books-some are brand new, and others are gently used or old or rare. Our selection changes every month, so you're always sure to find some amazing bargains! Prices range from 25-cents to $5.00 per book but most are priced at 50-cents for paperbacks and $2.00 for hardbacks.

Pet of the Week

Abby is a 13-year-old Labrador retriever mix. She's a staff and volunteer favorite at the shelter. She's been out on our Mobile Unit several times and gets along well with everyone. Don't let her age fool you, she's a spry girl!

Abby's adoption fee is $100, which includes her spay surgery, a microchip, the first set of vaccinations, as well as a free follow-up health check at a participating vet. New adopters will receive complimentary health and wellness exam from VCA Animal Hospitals, as well as a goody bag filled with information on how to care for your pet. Abby also qualifies for our Seniors for Seniors program in which the adoption fee is waived for adopters 60 years old and up. Ask an adoptions counselor for more information during your visit

ASSEMBLY APPROVES HOLDEN BILLS

SACRAMENTO - The California Assembly has approved several bills by Assemblymember Chris Holden. These bills now move to the Senate for consideration. In his first legislative session, Assemblymember Holden authored measures to help homeowners avoid foreclosure, streamline programs for small businesses, and encourage state agencies to buy California first.

AB 139 - Domestic Violence

This measure strengthens penalties that abusers are required to pay to ensure that more funding is available to Domestic Violence Shelters. It was the first piece of legislation heard on the Assembly floor this session and was unanimously approved.

AB 143 - Military Use Tax Exemption

Gives active duty military a tax break from state Use Tax on personal property purchased prior to being transferred into the state. AB 143 is supported by the State Board of Equalization and Veterans groups throughout California.

AB 199 – Choose California Act

AB 250 – iHUB Program

AB 358 – Lead Testing Kits

Encourages state run institutions to buy California agricultural products. Under AB 199, state agencies, public schools districts and public colleges would be encouraged to give California agriculture producers priority when purchasing food products.

AB 201 – Small Business Loan Guarantee Program

This bill streamlines the program by making it accessible and user friendly by maintaining an Internet Website that would include information on programs on small business financial guarantees, direct lending and disaster loans.

Will expand the development of iHubs across California and develop more economic opportunities for start-up companies, promoting greater collaboration between innovators and venture capital investment within the state.

AB 358 allows California Department of Public Health to include EPA recognized tests in its lead testing programs.

Provides specific standards for lead hazard evaluation in public and residential buildings.

AB 359 – Airport Rental Agreement

Streamlines the Airport Rental Car Facility charge audit process by permitting California's airports, many of which are operated by local governments, to submit to the Legislature the same facility information contained in mandatory disclosures currently required by other regulatory agencies. This bill will remove the financial burden of duplicative audits while maintaining all existing consumer protections enacted by the Legislature.

AB 630 – Architects

Prohibits a person from using an architect's work without a written contract or written assignment authorizing that use.

In addition, Assemblymember Holden's AB 72 – Municipal Water Districts – has been approved by both legislative houses and is now on Governor Brown's desk pending his signature.

Holden's AB 132 - Foreclosure Prevention Bill - will be heard June 10 in the Assembly Revenue & Taxation Committee.

SOCALGAS WARNS CUSTOMERS, COMMUNITIES ABOUT UTILITY IMPOSTORS Tips Promote Customer Safety & Awareness on Identifying Utility Workers

LOS ANGELES, May 29, 2013 - Southern California Gas Co. (SoCalGas) is alerting customers to be aware of people posing as gas company employees to gain entry to a customer's home for the purpose of committing a crime. SoCalGas wants to assure customers that employees who perform in-home appliance services, work on gas meters, or service natural gas pipelines wear uniforms and carry official photo identification while on the job.

'SoCalGas encourages customers to verify the uniform and proper identification of utility workers before letting anyone into their home or property," said Jimmie Cho, SoCalGas vice president of field services. "Customer safety is a top priority for SoCalGas and our employees will gladly wait while customers confirm their identity.

The following tips can help customers avoid being a victim of utility impostors:

Customers are encouraged to be vigilant and question anyone who presents themselves as a representative of SoCalGas, especially if the visit is unscheduled.

Customers should ask for identification before allowing someone into the home. SoCalGas workers who perform in-home appliance services, work on gas meters or work on gas pipeline wear uniforms. However, some other employees do not.

The majority of authorized SoCalGas field service employees will be in uniform with a SoCalGas company logo, carry an official employee badge with a photo, and most of the time drive a company car bearing the SoCalGas logo.

Most SoCalGas employee visits are in response to a service request. If no one scheduled an appointment, call SoCalGas before allowing anyone into the home.

To verify the authenticity of anyone claiming to be a representative of SoCalGas, customers are encouraged to ask for proper identification or call SoCalGas at 1-800-427-2200 (or 1-800-342-4545 in Spanish) during normal business hours. SoCalGas customer service representatives are available 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Visit socalgas.com/safety for more information on

Why I Wrote My Books: EXTREME SIMPLICITY:

Homesteading In The City

[Nyerges is the author of 10 books, and teaches regular classes through the School of Self-reliance. He does a weekly podcast at Preparedness Radio Network, and blogs regularly at www.ChristopherNyerges.com.]

City" is perhaps my favorite of the books I have written because it is like a personal diary of how my wife Dolores and I worked towards our goal of "living lightly on the earth," even though we had a small budget and lived in a small suburban Highland Park home.

We were doing what our Appalachian friend used to describe as "living country in the city." We pursued all aspects of self-reliance, and wrote about it. Starting as soon as we moved in to our new home in 1986, we began task by task with limited income. We used our front lawn to grow food, we recycled our wash water, collected rain water, had chickens, a duck, bees, and a pig, had solar water heating and solar electricity, a wood stove, and we planted fruit trees and food

We describe our efforts to do "integral gardening" on every bit of usable land, to produce food (for people and wildlife), medicines, fragrance, shade, and useful tools. We describe the details of what it meant to raise earthworms, chickens, rabbits, bees, a goose, a pig, and our dogs in their typical suburban back yard.

We took the reader along their journey to installing a wood fireplace, solar water heating, and a solar electric system.

Though there is much "how to" in this book, it is full of personal stories and rich reading of the learning they experienced along the way. There is a section on recycling, and a unique section about the economics of self-reliance.

It's worth noting that this is not a book we planned on writing. In 2000, we were called by the Mother Earth News magazine to write an article about our meaning of "alternate health" methods, and we wrote about the methods that were as ancient as Hippocrates. We were on the cover, and a book publisher contacted us to see if we could turn that health article into a book. We said yes. But when we submitted the manuscript to the publisher, they said, hmm, not exactly what we were looking for. [That book, Integral Health, will be published eventually]. So they asked us if we could just write about how we live, which we did, and it became Extreme Simplicity. Extreme Simplicity, first published in October of 2002, will be re-released from another publisher EFFICIENCY in August of 2013. It will be available wherever books are sold, from Amazon, and from the School of Self-Reliance, Box 41834, Eagle Rock, behavior, for instance, thinking twice before

TIME AND THE QUALITY OF LIFE

Many people today believe that they're spending all their time working, yet with very little in return. Unfortunately, such realizations may come too late to be remedied.

We think that the Amish people have the right idea when they keep their schools and work close to home. They don't have to go a long way to a job, thereby avoiding wasted time and energy, unnecessary expenses, and disconnection from their community. They can protect their families from undesirable influence, and there is the added bonus of having youngsters nearby where they can learn a trade from an early age. The Amish are firmly committed to valuing "quality of life" over all the stuff that our modern society deems important or indispensable - car, home entertainment system, fancy clothes, foods bought for "convenience" and prestige rather than fresh garden flavor and nutritional value. 4 MAGIC WAYS TO IMPROVE YOUR

FINANCIAL SITUATION

Once, during a period of homelessness before we were married, Christopher was engulfed in thoughts of "poor me" and "I'm destitute," and he could scarcely see a way out of the darkness. Dolores provided him with a simple set of practical tools that anyone can use if only they choose to do so. Here are four "magic" ways to improve your financial situation:

1. Never waste anything.

2. Continually improve your personal honesty.

3. Leave every situation or circumstance better than you found it.

4. Tithe to the church (or organization) of your

We know that these are genuine practical solutions. We have heard people say that they cannot make these efforts - such as tithing, or improving an environment - because "we are poor." Our perspective is that they have their reasoning backwards. They are poor because they do not engage themselves in the world in these ways. Logical thinking leads to erroneous conclusions when the premise is false.

STEPS TO HOUSEHOLD ENERGY

1. You can do without some electrical devices.

This will probably involve changing your switching on an electrical tool or appliance when a non-electric alternative will work just as well or better.

2. You can learn to use your existing devices more efficiently.

This step, too, requires changes in habit, seriously consider installing one. On very cold but once you've understood the extra expenses nights, we had been using those small electric caused by inefficiency and waste, you'll feel good

This step requires initial outlays of money, fairly easy, because we had plenty of firewood readily available. We were actually doing a but with certain especially wasteful appliances, neighbor a favor by cleaning up and carting off the best way to save energy and money is to

ATTEMPTED BANK ROBBERY - Have You Seen This Man?

Arcadia Police Officers were called to the Citibank located at 100 South First Avenue, Arcadia, shortly before 1:30 p.m. on Monday, June 3, 2013, regarding an attempted robbery.

A lone male suspect entered the bank at about 1:21 p.m. and approached a teller. The suspect showed the teller a small black case which he said contained a bomb. The suspect demanded money and said the device would detonate if the teller did not comply. The teller said the suspect grew impatient and appeared nervous, leaving the location on foot before taking any cash. The suspect was in the bank for only a few minutes.

The suspect is described as a male Caucasian, 23-30 years old, brown hair, about 5'-06", 160 lbs, wearing a red long sleeve sweater and tan baggy shorts.

Anyone with information on this crime is encouraged to contact the Arcadia Police Department at (626) 574-5150.

If you prefer to provide information ANONYMOUSLY, you may call "Crime Stoppers" by dialing 800-222-TIPS (8477), texting the letters TIPLA plus your tip to CRIMES (274637), or using the tip page at Los Angeles Regional Crime Stoppers.

Arcadia Police Blotter

For the period of Sunday, May 26th, through Saturday, June 1st, the Police Department responded to 908 calls for service of which 106 required formal investigations. The following is a summary report of the major incidents handled by the Department during this period.

Sunday, May 26:

Around 10:19 a.m., an officer was dispatched to a residence in the 400 block of South Old Ranch Road in reference to a suspicious circumstances report. The victim heard someone knock on her front door. When she looked out a backyard window, she observed an unknown Black male exiting her detached garage. As soon as the victim made eye contact with the suspect, he fled in an unknown direction. The suspect is described as approximately 20-years-old, 5'5" tall, average build, wearing a blue jacket with white stripes and black gloves.

2. Just after 2:50 p.m., an officer responded to CVS, 9952 Las Tunas Drive, in regards to a theft report. A female suspect concealed makeup products inside her purse and ran out of the store without making payment. She entered the rear seat of an awaiting suspect vehicle described as a gold colored fourdoor sedan. Video surveillance revealed the suspect is Hispanic, approximately 18-years-old, 5'4" tall, 150 lbs., with brown hair and brown eyes, wearing a leopard print long-sleeve shirt, and black

Monday, May 27:

At approximately 11:00 a.m., an officer was dispatched to Margit Holakoui Florist, 1012 Northview Avenue, in regards to a commercial burglary report. Unknown suspect(s) made entry through an unlocked door or window, and removed cash from the cash register. The officer discovered that another business located across the street was also burglarized, possibly by the same suspects. No evidence was left behind.

Just before midnight, an officer observed a subject driving without a seat belt in the area of Baldwin Avenue and Duarte Road. Upon contact with the driver, the officer detected an odor of alcohol emitting from inside the vehicle. An investigation revealed the 25-year-old male driver of unknown race was under the influence with a blood alcohol level greater than 0.08 percent. The two passengers, a 27-year-old White male and 28-year-old Hispanic male, were also intoxicated and unable to care for themselves. All three suspects were arrested and transported to the Arcadia City Jail for booking.

Tuesday, May 28:

At about 2:00 p.m., an officer responded to the Arcadia Police Department front counter regarding a fraud report. The victim explained unknown suspect(s) stole her wallet from inside her purse while she was walking around the Santa Anita Mall, 400 South Baldwin Avenue. Shortly after, the victim discovered the suspect(s) used her credit cards at a gas station in Whittier. No witnesses were located.

At roughly 6:10 p.m., an officer responded to LA Fitness, 1325 South Baldwin Avenue, in regards to a sexual battery report. The victim explained that while she was swimming laps, a male suspect approached her and grabbed her buttocks without her permission. The victim did not know the suspect and can identify him if seen again. The suspect is described as an Asian male, about 55-years-old, 5'6" tall, with a thin build and a bald head.

Wednesday, May 29:

At approximately 8:16 a.m., officers conducted an enforcement stop on a bicyclist for riding against traffic on Peck Road, near Live Oak Avenue. An investigation revealed the bicyclist was under the influence of a controlled substance. The 34-year-old Hispanic male was arrested and transported to the Arcadia City Iail for booking.

Around 9:15 a.m., officers were dispatched to the area of Second Avenue and Alice Street regarding a vandalism report. Two 17-year-old males were observed writing graffiti on a phone booth with pens and sharp metal objects. The juveniles were arrested and transported to the Arcadia City Jail for booking.

Thursday, May 30:

At about 11:48 a.m., officers responded to Tony's Liquor, 809 West Huntington Drive, in reference to an armed robbery that just occurred. A male subject entered the store holding a baseball bat and demanded money from the owner. Meanwhile, a delivery man observed the incident and pushed his dolly into the subject's shins, causing him to run out of the store. The suspect entered an older model brown Honda and removed his mask as he fled the location. His license plate was recorded and he is described as Black with light complexion, approximately 20 to 25-years-old, and clean shaven with short curly hair.

A short time later, the 19-year-old suspect was located in Duarte and arrested by the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department. An investigation revealed the suspect also robbed two locations in Monrovia and Temple City earlier in the morning. Shortly after 10:40 p.m., an officer was dispatched to Quickly Cafe, 171 East Live Oak Avenue, in regards to a robbery that just occurred. As an employee was closing the cash register, an unknown male subject entered the store and demanded cash while pointing a gun at the victim's face. The suspect fled with approximately $1,000. He is described as a White or Hispanic male, 6'1" tall, 160 lbs., possible brown eyes, wearing a dark colored hooded sweatshirt with the hood pulled over his head, a black and white bandana over his face, and grey sweatpants. Officers conducted an area check, but the suspect was not located. Further investigation is being conducted by the Detective Bureau.

Friday, May 31:

At about 3:57 p.m., an officer was dispatched to Hazel's Hair Salon, 61 Alta Street, in regards to a theft report. Two Hispanic females got their hair styled and left without making payment. One of the employees discovered her purse had been stolen and believed the suspects took it. One fingerprint was lifted from a shampoo bottle which was handled by one of the suspects. Further investigation is being conducted by the Detective Bureau.

Just after 11:30 p.m., an officer was dispatched to an injury traffic collision on Baldwin Avenue, south of Harvard Drive. The driver of a red Mitsubishi was speeding, lost control of his vehicle, and collided into a curb and trees. Witnesses reported seeing the driver racing with another unknown vehicle. The driver and passenger were transported to Huntington Memorial Hospital for treatment.

Saturday, June 1:

At approximately 5:37 a.m., an officer conducted a traffic stop on a vehicle for expired registration in the area of First Avenue and Huntington Drive. The officer discovered the driver had a suspended license, no proof of insurance, and an outstanding misdemeanor warrant. The 49-year-old Hispanic male was arrested, transported to the Arcadia City Jail for booking, and his vehicle was impounded.

Around 2:03 p.m., an officer responded to a residence in the 300 block of West Camino Real Avenue in regards to a burglary report. Unknown suspect(s) entered an unlocked garage and fled undetected with a bicycle. No one reported seeing or hearing anything suspicious.

MEET THE MONROVIA POLICE DEPARTMENT'S DISTINGUISHED OFFICERS

MEDAL OF VALOR: OFFICER JOSE PACHECO

On May 15, 2012, at approximately 3:19 p.m., the Monrovia Police Department Dispatch Center received a 9-1-1 call reporting a structure fire at 1617 Encino. Officer Jose Pacheco was the first officer to arrive at the scene, and he observed smoke emitting from one of the apartments. He immediately began to conduct a safety check by calling out to determine if anyone was still inside the apartment

After calling out, Officer Pacheco heard a woman yelling from the second story section of one of the apartments. The women had retreated with her children to a second story bedroom when the apartment began to fill with smoke. Officer Pacheco entered the apartment and noticed the fire appeared to have originated in the kitchen area, and the entire first floor of the residence was consumed with smoke, which was quickly billowing towards the second story of the residence.

Without regard for his own personal safety, Officer Pacheco entered the apartment and rushed upstairs to where the family had sought shelter from the fire. He managed to get to the family and quickly assisted them out of the apartment to safety, away from the burning structure. He and other assisting officers then continued to check the nearby homes to ensure all residents and neighbors had been safely evacuated.

The mother and children he had evacuated from the apartment were later checked by paramedics, and due to the immediate actions of Officer Jose Pacheco, the family was found to have suffered no ill effects from the fire or smoke. Had the family not been AGENT JOHN DONCHIG evacuated so quickly, they most likely would have sustained serious smoke inhalation or possibly even death

Officer Pacheco took quick and immediate action without regard member of the Monrovia Police Defor his own personal safety in order to rescue this family trapped by smoke and fire. His brave actions and dedication to service are in the highest traditions of the Monrovia Police Department, and he is hereby awarded Monrovia Police Department's highest honor, the Medal of Valor.

This is Officer Jose Pacheco's second Medal of Valor, an achievement only accomplished by a few officers in the history of the Monrovia Police Department.

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE MEDAL: SERGEANT DANIEL VERNA

One of the key missions of the Monrovia Police Department is the traffic safety of the citizens who use the roadways of our community. Early in 2012, Sergeant Daniel Verna was assigned as the Traffic Safety Coordinator for the Monrovia Police Department. As the coordinator, Sergeant Verna is responsible for developing strategies to reduce traffic collisions in the city. Part of his duties include collecting traffic accident data, analyzing the data and then developing a plan for traffic enforcement efforts aimed at reducing accidents. Sergeant Verna monitors our enforcement efforts and keeps statistical data on citations written by Monrovia police officers. Ĥe receives requests from citizens for additional traffic enforcement and places those requests into the department's traffic enforcement matrix so officers can regularly provide enforcement to these areas where citizens have observed traffic safety issues. Sergeant Verna represents the department on the City of Monrovia's Traffic Safety Committee, and he is the coordinator for all traffic safety related

Since Sergeant Verna's assignment as the Traffic Safety Coordinator, he has been able to secure several traffic safety grants for driving under the influence enforcement, distracted driver enforcement, as well as traffic safety equipment grants. All of the efforts from these grants help reduce traffic accidents in the city. Through an Office of Traffic Safety Grant, Sergeant Verna was able to secure several new handheld Preliminary Alcohol Screening (PAS) devices for our patrol officers. These PAS devices replaced our outdated PAS devices and aid in the department's efforts on driving under the influence investigations. Sergeant Verna has been extremely successful educating not only the public on the importance of traffic safety through his efforts on the Traffic Safety Committee, but also educating and training our department personnel. Since taking over the responsibility of Traffic Safety Coordinator, Sergeant Verna has motivated department personnel to pursue traffic safety with a renewed purpose and enthusiasm.

For his professionalism, commitment to service, and dedication to the Monrovia Police Department and members of this community, Sergeant Daniel Verna is hereby awarded the Distinguished Service Medal.

OFFICER OF THE YEAR:

Agent John Donchig has been a partment for nearly seven years, and has been chosen to receive the Monrovia Police Department's Distinguished Service Medal for his hard work and dedication to the Department and the community he serves.

Over the past seven years, Agent Donchig has been involved in department programs, such as the Foothills Special Enforcement Team, serving as an operator for the past four years. The Monrovia Police Explorer Program, serving as an Advisor for the past three years. He served as one of the department's Weaponless Defense Instructors and Taser Instructors for the past two years. He assisted with the shift's fleet maintenance and Field Training Programs for the past year. He has been involved and assisted with all of these programs and activities, all while attending the University of California at Irvine Graduate Program, obtaining his Master's Degree in Advance Study in Criminology, Law and Society.

As a member of the Foothills Special Enforcement Team, John was assigned the position of Training Curriculum Advisor, taking on a leadership role, managing all of the training records for the team. In this role, he also developed the tactical lesson plans, which incorporated audio/visual aids to enhance the learning experience for team members. As a Monrovia Police Department Explorer Advisor, John volunteered countless hours of his personal time to the Explorer Program, teaching police tactics, law enorcement principals, ethics, drill and leadership to the youth of the community and future law enforcement officers. He has been instrumental in preparing the police explorers for competitions and focusing their efforts toward making a positive impact in our community.

Even with his high level of involvement, Agent Donchig has consistently maintained himself as one of the Monrovia Police Department's most productive officers in the areas of traffic enforcement, investigations, and arrests, a difficult task to accomplish while attending school and participating in so many programs.

For his hard work, initiative and leadership, taking on additional duties and involving himself in these vital programs for the betterment of the Monrovia Police Department and the community he serves, Agent John Donchig is hereby awarded the Monrovia Police Department's Distinguished Service Medal and is named Monrovia Police Department's 2012 Officer of the Year.

THAT'S A RELIEF! RESTROOMS NOW OPEN WEEKDAYS AT DUARTE'S ROYAL OAKS PARK

DUARTE, CA - Good news for all who enjoy the many recreational delights of the City's Royal Oaks Park. Public restrooms, previously only open certain hours on the weekends from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., will now also be open weekdays beginning Monday, June 10.

Budget constraints have limited the restroom open hours. But after receiving input from residents, city staff and officials, the restrooms will be open Monday through Thursday from 6:30 a.m. to dusk, and Friday, 8 a.m. to dusk for a trial period through the end of September. Weekend hours will remain the same.

Royal Oaks Park, located on Royal Oaks Dr. and Las Lomas Rd. is one of the City's most used recreational areas with its playground, tennis courts, newly refurbished basketball courts, picnic spots, and proximity to the multi-use trail. The extended restroom facility hours coincide with already established maintenance staff work schedules to minimize the cost. The trial period will be used to assess the impact on maintenance cleaning times, additional paper and cleaning supply costs, vandalism and extra use. Information will be tracked to project an annual impact cost that would be presented at the mid-year budget evaluation. Public Safety code enforcement officers will drive by the restrooms as part of their normal patrols. To help inform the public about the new restroom availability schedule, signs will be posted at the restroom and along the trail. Information will also be added to the City's website.

For additional information, call Duarte Parks and Recreation Department at (626) 357-7931, ext. 201.

ALVERNO HIGH SCHOOL HOSTS A SUCCESSFUL BEAUTIFUL LENGTHS EVENT

Alverno's Campus Ministry program donated more than 500 inches of hair to the organization

Sierra Madre, CA (June 3, 2013) – Alverno High School, in association with several local hairstylists, hosted a successful Pantene's Beautiful Lengths event on campus that helped to generate more than 500 inches of hair to be donated to help create free wigs for women fighting cancer.

Founded in 2006, Beautiful Lengths is a partnership between hair care giant Pantene and the American Cancer Society, the largest non-profit health organization committed to saving lives from every cancer and improving the quality of life for people facing the disease. The role of Pantene is to help women grow long, strong, beautiful hair and provide the funds to turn this hair into free, real-hair wigs for women with cancer. So far, Pantene has donated 24,000 free real-hair wigs to the American Cancer Society's wig banks, which distribute wigs to cancer patients across the country.

This event was the fifth time that Alverno students and community members have chopped their locks for this great cause. This year's event was dedicated to the memory of Susan Tavera, whose daughters Erika and Koko graduated from Alverno in 2010 and 2012. Speaking about her mom's own cancer experience, Koko encouraged students to think about a woman who they would be willing to donate their hair for and to donate for someone who could not.

By the end of the day more than 60 members of the Alverno community gave over 500 inches of hair that will help give a woman fighting cancer a reason to smile. Every person who donated on Wednesday received a special gift bag, an angel hair pasta lunch, and an "I Donated" badge that showed off their great commitment to the cause.

"In the past ten years, the Alverno community has helped to donate more than 7,500 inches of hair to Locks of Love and Pantene's Beautiful Lengths," said Ann Gillick Head of School. "At Alverno, we strive to teach our students the importance of service and the impact that they can make in the lives of others. Today, these students made an enormous impact on a woman they have never even met by donating their hair to help make a wig. We empower each of our young women to be exactly the person she wants to be and I am proud that we have empowered them to be

About Alverno High School

Alverno High School is a Catholic, private, college preparatory school for young women dedicated to preparing them to function in a society as informed, knowledgeable persons, who have the requisite skills to make and implement mature decisions about complex problems. Enlivened by the spirit of its Immaculate Heart Community sponsors, and mindful of the Franciscan roots of its founders, Alverno's program—academic, spiritual, aesthetic, social, and physical—is shaped by the staff, trustees, and students in light of the world for which the students are being educated. Alverno's mission is to empower each young woman to be exactly the person she wants to be and since 1960, Alverno has empowered more than 4,100 women to meet that goal. NOW YOU SEE ME

When going in to see this movie, I thought it had one of those plots that seemed interesting in trailers but would fall apart in a two hour film. However, I was proven very, very wrong.

Four magicians (Jesse Eisenberg, Woody Harrelson, Isla Fisher, Dave Franco) are mysteriously summoned to a strange apartment where they are given the opportunity to join the Eye, an ancient order of magicians. In order to prove themselves worthy, they must complete three tasks, in this case magic shows. The stakes are raised for them when an FBI agent (Mark Ruffalo) starts to chase them and their time begins to run out.

The closest movie that I could compare 'Now You See Me' to would be 'Inception', the only major difference being that the ending is much easier to understand. Most movies can't pull off the you-don't-know-everything-until-the-last-minute plot very well but this one does it not only flawlessly, but enjoyably as well.

PET OF THE WEEK

Meet Mouse (A4580319), a

MOUSE #A4580319

JUST FOR BEST FRIENDS

It is always such a pleasure to meet other people who care enough about animals to do what they can to make a difference for the better on their behalf. I recently had the privilege of getting acquainted with Annette Florez, marketing coordinator for Basset Hound Rescue of Southern California, a non-profit organization whose mission is to rescue and find homes for abandoned basset hounds in So. Cal. I had heard of their organization from a client earlier this year and it piqued my interest, so I looked up their website and Facebook page to learn more about them. It didn't take long for me to decide this was an organization worth supporting and promoting, so I set forth to

First I sent an e-mail to Annette, asking her permission to write about BHRSC, and she was kind enough to take time out of her busy schedule to call and share the details about how they got started and how they go about helping homeless hounds find forever loving homes. Much like many of the other organizations I have written about in this column, BHRSC is made up of a group of dedicated dog lovers who work long hours performing the numerous tasks involved with rescuing, and placing beautiful basset hounds that for whatever reason have been

It all began in August, 1997 when Sabrina Nichols, Adriene Sherard and William James (who since passed away), got together and pooled their resources to rescue their first hound, Cleopatra from the Long Beach Animal Shelter. As is true with most government funded shelters, Long Beach has a limited capacity to hold animals for any significant period of time before they are forced to euthanize them if they are not adopted. Fortunately for Cleopatra, three compassionate people cared enough to ensure that she would have the opportunity to live out her life in a loving forever home. Within 6 months after Cleopatra's rescue, several more hound lovers had gotten on board. With their growing dedicated team they were eventually able to gain 501(c)3 non-profit status and they have been successful in their mission to rescue needy hounds ever since. I looked at the list of adoptable dogs on their website this week and counted about 26 hounds currently in need of forever homes.

So much is involved with rescuing and placing homeless hounds, and there never seems to be a shortage of dogs for intake. The volunteers who work so hard to facilitate the process are saints in my mind. Although they do it out of sincere love for the animals, it is still an arduous task requiring a lot of energy, time and money to receive rendered pups, provide requisite veterinary care to

HEY, WHY THE LONG FACE?

Basset Hound Rescue of Southern California Lends Smiles to Hounds in Need of a Home

I imagine it can be very tiring at times, and even frustrating, as there are so many hounds in need, with limited boarding space, foster care and monetary resources. Still, they are tenacious in the task, and continue their mission to help abandoned

The hounds that end up at BHRSC come from various walks of life, and most of them have been through some pretty tough times before finding themselves in the good hands of their caring volunteers. The bassets they take in require veterinary care and an enormous amount of TLC in order to help them overcome traumas and tribulations experienced in the past. As all animal lovers know very well, it is no small expense to keep even our own well-cared-for pets healthy and happy. Veterinary costs are comparable to health care costs for humans these days, and we all know how it can wipe out the bank account if we fall ill and require medical attention or hospitalization. The average cost for one hound taken in at BHRSC is $850, not including any extra vet care that might be required for a neglected, abused, injured or ill dog. Boarding, health exam, microchip implanting, spaying or neutering, dental cleaning, grooming and vaccines are among the basic aspects of attention each dog receives on intake.

The costs incurred to care for the hounds are funded by donations from friends and supporters of the organization, and because there are no overhead costs associated with a facility, all monies received go directly to the dogs. While they would love the luxury of having their own facility, BHRSC has managed to rescue, foster and place each dog taken in by coordinating with shelters, other rescue organizations, veterinarians and volunteer foster families. To me it seems like a remarkable task, with no headquarters from which to work and it says a lot about the depth of their dedication to saving those beautiful bassets from being euthanized.

HOW TO AVOID TICKS AND FLEAS THIS SEASON

(StatePoint) Warm weather means barbeques, baseball and trips to the park with family and pets. But for pet owners, warm weather can also mean fleas, ticks, mosquitoes and other disease-car-

"Fleas alone can each bite you or your pet up to hundreds of times a day," says Dr. Rod Van Horn, a small animal, practicing veterinarian. "It's vital to get control of these pests before they have the chance to bite, hurt and potentially spread disease."

Now that the sunshine is finally here, you may be anxious to take your four-legged friends outdoors to run around. Help your pets avoid ticks and fleas by following these easy tips:

Treat for Prevention

You may not always be able to keep your pets away from infested areas, but you can stop the bugs from latching onto your pet. Treat your pet monthly with a topical flea and tick treatment for the most effective, longest lasting way to prevent infestation. There are now approved generic versions of topical veterinary products that use the same active ingredients as well, like Sergeant's Pronyl OTC. It kills fleas and ticks, including those which can spread Lyme disease, and keeps your pet protected for up to 30 days.

According to experts, more than 70 percent of fleas bite a dog within the first hour of jumping aboard, so killing them within that first hour is paramount. Try a fast-acting treatment, such as Sentry Fiproguard MAX for dogs, which starts to kill fleas and ticks in just five minutes, before they can do damage. More information about protecting your pet and family from fleas and ticks can be found at www.fiproguard.com.

Check your House and Yard

If you think you may have a flea infestation but aren't sure, start by checking your house and yard. Walking around your home and yard in a pair of long white socks makes pests easy to spot. Now you'll see if you have fleas hiding in your home. Secure the infested socks in a plastic bag and throw them away or put into the washing machine for a hot wash.

Inspect your Pets

After a run outdoors, thoroughly check your pet for fleas and ticks or any signs of itching or blood stains. Be sure to look underneath the hair for visible bugs. But be aware that the largest part of an infestation - flea eggs, larvae and pupae - are almost impossible to see in a quick check. That's why prevention is key.

Be Proactive

Treat your pets now, before it's too late. Apply treatments year-round to repel pests and prevent them from latching onto your pet's skin. Just because you don't see fleas or ticks now, doesn't mean they aren't worth worrying about. Always plan ahead.

Do everything you can to protect your pet, and you'll never have to fret about bringing home pesky pests from the park again.

MAMA BEAR AND CUBS VISIT ARCADIA HOME

NATIONAL FRUIT & VEGETABLE MONTH

By the time you are reading this I'm probably overhead flying off to Oslo, Norway for a little R&R and plenty of Norwegian salmon. Recently I picked up some cherries at Vons, and, boy, were they ready to eat! You see, I have a secret love affair with the cherry -- it is my all time favorite fruit. When they are good they are oh soooo good; when they aren't they just well... aren't worth it. I got to thinking there must be a food day for most every day, and... I was right.

June is National Fruit and Vegetable Month. Yes, I know, there are a million of these designated titles for the month of June (and every other month, too!) Half of them hold about as much weight as your doctor telling you that you should go to bed at the same time every night (like that's possible...). There's "National Rocky Road Day", "I drink too much day" and of course "I'll have

Instead of letting the label slip your mind like all those other futile holiday labels, use this one as an excuse to mindfully "healthify" your diet. The upcoming months are filled with fresh, seasonal produce, which makes the process of eating your fruits and veggies a whole lot cheaper, easier, and Fun cherry facts: Its name comes originally from the Greek, and in Latin means of or for the birds, due to the birds' obvious love of the fruit. The English word cherry originates from the Assyrian karsu and Greek kerasos. The tree was beloved by the Egyptians, Greeks and Romans both for its beautiful flowers and its versatile fruit.

Although a different species of cherry was already strongly established in America by the time the first colonists arrived, the new settlers brought along their favorite European variety and eventually cross-bred the two. Today, 90 percent of the commercial cherry crop is grown in the U.S., mostly in Michigan, California, Oregon and Washington.

DIRECTIONS:

1 cup brown (or white) rice

1/4 cup white-wine vinegar

Coarse salt and ground pepper 4 scallions, thinly sliced

3 tablespoons olive oil 1/2 teaspoon ground cumin

Cook rice according to package instructions. Spread on a baking sheet; refrigerate until cool.

1 cooked chicken (about 2 1/2 pounds), shredded (about 4 cups)

6 plum tomatoes, quartered lengthwise, seeded, and thinly sliced 1 jalapeno chile (seeds and ribs removed for less heat, if desired), minced

1 can (15 1/2 ounces) black beans, drained and rinsed

Place cooled rice in a large bowl; add chicken, beans, tomatoes, scallions, jalapeno, vinegar, oil, and cumin. Season with salt and pepper; toss to combine.

MUSIC OF THE SPHERES: Star songs

Plato, the Greek philosopher and mathematician, described music and astronomy as "sister sciences" that both encompass harmonious motions, whether of instrument strings or celestial objects. This philosophy of a "Music of the Spheres" was symbolic. However, modern technology is creating a true music of the spheres by transforming astronomical data into unique musical compositions.

Gerhard Sonnert, a research associate at the Harvard-Smithsonian Center for Astrophysics, has published a new website that allows listeners to literally hear the music of the stars. He worked with Wanda Diaz-Merced, a postdoctoral student at the University of Glasgow whose blindness led her into the field of sonification (turning astrophysical data into sound), and also with composer Volkmar Studtrucker, who turned the sound into music.

"I saw the musical notes on Wanda's desk and I got inspired," Sonnert says.

Diaz-Merced lost her sight in her early 20s while studying physics. When she visited an astronomy lab and heard the hiss of a signal from a radio telescope, she realized that she might be able to continue doing the science she loved. She now works with a program called xSonify, which allows users to present numerical data as sound and use pitch, volume, or rhythm to distinguish between different data values.

During a visit to the Center for Astrophysics in 2011, Diaz-Merced worked with data from NASA's Chandra X-ray Observatory. The data was from EX Hydrae—a binary system in the constellation of Hydra, consisting of a normal star and a white dwarf. Known as a "cataclysmic variable," the white dwarf fluctuates in X-ray brightness as it consumes gas from its companion star.

Diaz-Merced plugged the Chandra X-ray data into the xSonify program and converted the raw data into musical notes. The results sounded random, but Sonnert sensed that they could become something more pleasing to the ear. He contacted Studtrucker who chose short passages from the sonified notes, perhaps 70 bars in total, and added harmonies in different musical styles. Sound files that began as atonal compositions transformed into blues jams and jazz ballads, to name just two examples of the nine songs produced.

The project shows that something as far away and otherworldly as an X-ray-emitting cataclysmic variable binary star system can be significant to humans for two distinct reasons—one scientific and one artistic.

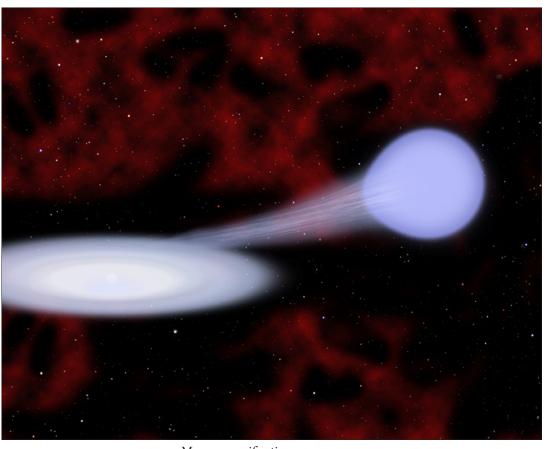

Sonnert explains that in creating music from stellar information, 'We're still extracting meaning from data, but in a very different

A LITTLE NIGHT-MUSIC

The thought of "Music of the Spheres" goes back well over 2,000 years, to the time of Pythagoras. He proposed that the Sun, Moon and planets all emit their own unique "hum" (orbital resonance) based on their orbital revolutionperiods, and that the quality of life on Earth reflects the tenor of celestial sounds which are physically imperceptible to the human ear. Subsequently, Plato described astronomy and music as "twinned" studies of sensual recognition: astronomy for the eyes, music for the ears, both requiring knowledge of numerical proportions to be appreciated.

HOW TO SPOT AND PREVENT SENIOR FINANCIAL FRAUD

Dear Savvy Senior:

Can you offer some tips on protecting seniors from financial scams? My neighbor's elderly mother was recently swindled out of $10,000 and I want to make sure my own mother is protected. Troubled

Dear Troubled:

Financial scams that target the elderly continue to be a big problem in the U.S. In fact, it's estimated that some 5 million Americans over age 60 are scammed out of roughly 3 billion every year. Here are some tips that can help you spot a scam, and what you can do to protect your mom.

Scam Watching

Spotting a scam or a con artist is not always easy to do. They range from shady financial advisers to slick-talking telemarketers to professional caregivers and relatives who steal from the very people they're supposed to be looking after.

The most common scams targeting seniors today come in the form of free-lunch seminars selling dubious financial products, tricky/high-pressure telemarketing calls, and endless junk mail peddling free vacation packages, sweepstakes, phony charity fundraisers and more. And, of course, there's the ongoing problem of identity theft, Medicare fraud, door-to-door scams, credit card theft, and Internet and email scams.

The best way to spot a scam is to help your mom manage her finances, or at least monitor her accounts. Reviewing her financial statements each month can alert you to questionable checks, credit card charges or large withdrawals.

If, however, she doesn't want you looking at her financial records, there are other clues. For example: Is she getting a lot of junk mail for contests, free trips, and sweepstakes? Is she receiving calls from strangers offering awards or moneymaking deals? Also notice if her spending habits have changed, if she has complained about being short of money lately, or has suddenly become secretive or defensive about her finances. All these may be signs of trouble.

Protect Your Parent

The most effective way to help protect your mom is to alert her to the different kind of scams out there. The easiest way to do this is by visiting the Financial Fraud Enforcement Task Force website (stopfraud.gov - click on "Protect Yourself"), where you can get a rundown on the different types of scams making the rounds these days. The Better Business Bureau Scam Stopper site at bbb.org/scam-stopper is another good resource.

If your mom doesn't have access to a computer, print out the materials yourself and use them to start a conversation.

It's also a good idea to keep close tabs on your mom's social circle. Has she acquired any questionable new friends lately, or is she seeing anyone who's giving her advice, financial or otherwise?

Some other tips to protect her include reminding her to never give out her Social Security number or financial information unless she initiated the contact and knows the institution.

Also, see if your mom would be willing to let you sort her mail before she opens it so you can weed out the junk. To reduce the junk mail and/or email she gets, use the Direct Marketing Association consumer opt-out service at dmachoice.org. And to stop credit card and insurance offers, use the Consumer Credit Reporting Industry opt-out service at optoutprescreen.com or call 888-567-8688 - they will ask for your mom's Social Security number and date of birth.

Also, register your mom's home and cell phone numbers on the National Do Not Call Registry (donotcall.gov, 888-382-1222) to reduce telemarketers. And help her get a free copy of her credit report at annualcreditreport.com to make sure she isn't a victim of identity theft.

Report It

If you suspect your mom has gotten scammed report it to your state securities regulator's office (see nasaa.org for contact information), or your state's Adult Protective Services agency (call 800-677-1116 for contact information) that investigates reports of elderly financial abuse.

Send your senior questions to: Savvy Senior, P.O. Box 5443, Norman, OK 73070, or visit SavvySenior.org. Jim Miller is a contributor to the NBC Today show and author of "The Savvy Senior" book.

SENIOR HAPPENINGS

FYI - CARRIER ALERT PROGRAM

Last week I told you how good it felt having my letter carrier check on me after recent health issues. It made me think back a few years to when I was on the Sierra Madre Senior Community Commission. At that time, out of curiosity, I asked my letter carrier how many days my mail would have to accumulate before he reported it, (I thought, naïvely to the police). He said after four days he would take my mail to the post office to be held for me. I said perhaps the mail was piling up because I had passed away, how would anyone know? His answer was disturbing and inappropriate. Soon after, the Commission brought the question to the Police Chief at the time, Marilyn Diaz and the Postmaster. The Carrier Alert Program was then implemented for the City of Sierra Madre.

The program is designed for older residents and disabled or special need persons in Sierra Madre who have no family or friends to routinely check on their welfare. Get the participation form from the Police Department, fill it in and return it to the Sierra Madre Police Department. (They work in conjunction with the Post Office). Once participating seniors or disabled persons are identified, the Postmaster will notify the postal carriers to pay closer attention to those who are located in their service area. Carriers who detect anything unusual will call the Sierra Madre Police to contact the resident. In most cases, the officers will call the emergency contacts listed on the participation form to notify them of the police response. If you have questions or want a form, call the Sierra Madre Police Department, Carrier Alert Program at (626) 355-1414.

You can help too...Keep your eyes open and check on your neighbors. Their lives may depend on it!

FOR YOUR FUNNY BONE

Jennifer's wedding was fast approaching. Nothing could dampen her excitement—not even her parents' nasty divorce. Her mother had found the PERFECT dress to wear and would be the best-dressed-mother-of-the-bride ever! A week later Jennifer was horrified to learn that her father's new young wife had bought the same dress! Jennifer asked her to change it, but she refused. "Absolutely not, I look like a million bucks in this dress and I'm wearing it," she replied. Jennifer told her mother who graciously said, "Never mind sweetheart, I'll get another dress. After all, it's your special day." A few days later, they went shopping and did find another gorgeous dress. When they stopped for lunch, Jennifer asked her mother, "Aren't you going to return the other dress? You really don't have another occasion where you could wear it." "Of course I do dear; I'm wearing it to the rehearsal dinner the night before the wedding!"

KATIE TseThis and That COLD HEART, WARM WINGS

There are two kinds of people: those who cry at sad/touching movies, and the stoic ones who don't. Usually most of the former group are women, while the latter group are predominantly men. There are a few exceptions. I wouldn't say that my husband goes for sappy things, like favorite sentimental songs or fluffy greeting cards. Being a woman, I tend to tear up more easily at poignant moments than my husband. But all that ends when it comes to movies.

It's become a joke with us that I have a heart of stone when watching tear-jerker films. I can watch Tom Hanks leave Helen Hunt in "Cast Away," Leonardo DiCaprio slip into the Atlantic in "Titanic," and Mel Gibson getting hacked up in "Braveheart," all with a dry eye. About two minutes into the big cry scene I'll feel a nudge on my shoulder and hear my teary-eyed husband saying, "You have no heart!" which always makes me laugh.

But it's not true. There are plenty of movies that make me cry, no matter how many times I watch them. Since I'm a closet old person, you might not recognize some of these iconic scenes: Ronald Coleman embracing Jane Wyatt after making the harrowing return trek to Shangri La in "Lost Horizon." Carry Grant reconnects with his lost love, Deborah Kerr, and realizes she has become wheelchair-bound in "An Affair to Remember." In "Random Harvest," Ronald Coleman returns home, recovered from amnesia and recognizes his beloved wife. (You might notice a Ronald Coleman theme in this list.) Yes, these scenes never fail to move me to tears.

However, I've found a recent short film that, after talking with others who've seen it, I've found that I'm the only person who cries when watching it. You might not have seen the advertisement for the BBC featuring flying penguins. If not, you must find it on You Tube! Watch it and tell me if it doesn't stir something within you. It starts with a reporter approaching a colony of dumpy penguins which he says are unusual in their ability to fly! Then, sure enough, the blubbery birds start "running," thrust themselves onto the icy runway in a "launch" position, and then flap like crazy. More and more of their colony join them and eventually lift off the ground! Suddenly the sky is filled with perfectly streamlined penguin torpedoes flying through the air above the astonished reporter.

The camera pans back to show the colony soaring high above and around glaciers. The narrator explains that these special penguins migrate from the icy wastes of the Arctic to the lush, tropical rainforests of South America. The final few shots are of pudgy penguins lighting down in fruit trees to the surprise of toucans and other rainforest fauna.

Of course, the commercial's intent is for you to order this new BBC series, but I see it as a spiritual analogy. This earth, with its many pains and sorrows can seem like a dead wasteland with no sign of improvement or escape. Yet God takes the most undeserving people (myself being chief among them) and has promised to transform our lowly bodies into glorified ones, and has given us the hope of coming home to a place of such beauty and perfect happiness that we cannot now imagine. BBC probably didn't have this in mind when they produced this ad, but I tear up with joy every time I see

HOMES & MORE

Tips of the Trade: Real Estate Revealed

by Luther Tsinoglou

DON'T TRY THIS AT HOME

When you hear that someone managed to sell a home without representation, it's likely that the sale was to a family member, close friend, or a tenant who was already renting and living there. These exceptional cases are not the norm, and there are powerful reasons why it is so difficult to make a sale

The biggest roadblock is that For Sale By Owners (FSBOs) aren't included in the Multiple Listing Service (MLS) that licensed agents and organizations use. A sign in the yard and an ad in the newspaper are no match for the widespread exposure gained from a listing visible on the MLS.

Since the FSBO has no listing agreement providing for a sales commission, many agents won't show these homes with no promise of compensation. Again, this greatly reduces the number of potential buyers exposed to the offering, not to mention the fact that buyers who do express interest will not have been screened by a professional to determine their qualifications.

Perhaps the most hazardous aspect of selling "by owner" is the potential for legal oversights and complications. Real estate transactions are loaded with potential liability for unrepresented and unwitting sellers. One overlooked form or improper disclosure could generate an expensive lawsuit. Just as you wouldn't enter the courtroom without an attorney, you shouldn't sell your home without

Add vertical interest to any garden or garden space. Select a large attractive container filled with tall plants like papyrus and canna. Or elevate a small pot on steppers or an overturned pot for added height. Create height with smaller pots and plants by strategically stacking and planting them into a creative planting. Try setting any of these planters right in the garden to create a dramatic focal point. Create a privacy screen or mask a bad view. Use an arbor or other support for hanging baskets and then place a few containers below for an attractive screen. Or create a garden of containers to provide seasonal interest using a variety of plants. Use trees, shrubs, and ornamental grasses for height. Save money by purchasing smaller plants. Elevate these on overturned pots for added height and impact. Mask the mechanics by wrapping the pots in burlap. Then add a few colorful self-watering pots in the foreground for added color and beauty. Fill these with annuals or perennials for additional seasonal interest.

Bring the garden right to your back door for ease of harvest and added entertainment. A self-watering patio planter, windowbox, or rail planter reduces maintenance and makes harvesting herbs as easy as reaching out the window or backdoor. Plus, guests will have fun harvesting their own fresh mint for mojitos or greens for their salads.

Define outdoor living spaces within your landscape. Use containers as walls and dividers to separate entertaining and play areas from quiet reflective spaces. And consider using pots with built in casters or set them on moveable saucers to make moving these pots easier. This way you can expand and shrink individual spaces as needed simply by moving the pots.

Create your own vacation paradise. Use planters filled with cannas, bananas, palms and New Zealand flax for a more tropical flare. Add some wicker furniture to complete the scene. Or fill vertical gardens, an old child's wagon, metal colander or wooden and concrete planters with cacti and succulents. Add some old branches and large stones. You'll feel as though you've hiked into the desert.

All you need is a bit of space and creativity to find fun new ways to put containers to work for you in the garden this season.

EASY WAYS TO SAVE ENERGY AT HOME

simply want to slash home eneasy steps to reduce your home's carbon footprint.

"Today more than ever, we see the environmental impact we have on our communities by the choices we make daily -- from the food we eat to the way we run our homes. While it's easy to pretend these choices don't matter, it's even easier to take steps to live more sustainably and feel good about it," says Brett Beitzel, a brand manager at Amana, a household appliances manufacturer focused on encouraging consumers to reduce their carbon footprints.

There are several places in your home where you can take small steps toward a smaller carbon footprint.

Kitchen

Become more aware of what you put in your shopping basket. Include more locally- and organically-grown and raised produce and meat in your diet. Avoid overly-packaged products and eat sustainably caught or farmed fish. These choices are often healthier, too.

Compared to pre-2000 models, newer refrigerators can use up to 41 percent less energy. As one of the few appliances that run constantly, that means a lot of energy and cost savings.

Luckily, environmentally conscious home appliance manufacturers, such as Amana, are going above the Department of Energy's current usage guidelines by making energy efficiency a priority with newer models. You can also find efficient dishwashers that save water and energy. But even with a newer model, you'll want to be sure you're only running the machine when full. SELLING YOUR HOME? KNOW THE PERILS OF OFF-MLS LISTINGS

By Andy Bencosme, 2013 President, Arcadia Association of REALTORS®

As the California real estate market changes, so does the vocabulary of real estate. Once common phrases from the real estate recession such as distressed property, short sale, and shadow inventory are fast being replaced as the real estate market improves by new phrases, such as equity sale, multiple offers, and "off-MLS" or "pocket" listings.

While not a new concept, pocket listings are growing in number; as many as 10-15 percent of homes offered for sale today are "off-MLS" listings, according to one Multiple Listing Service (MLS)

Simply stated, a pocket listing is a property that is marketed without the benefit of being listed for sale on the MLS (i.e., "hidden" in an agent's pocket). A property that is listed on the MLS has the advantage of being actively marketed to every real estate agent who belongs to that MLS and, through those agents, to their vast network of potential buyers looking to make an offer to purchase the property. Active marketing on the MLS usually includes open houses, broker

On the other hand, as the term implies, a pocket listing generally is marketed by a single agent to one or a select few potential buyers. The marketing pool can be so small that in some cases, other agents within the same brokerage or brokerage office may not even be aware that a fellow agent has a pocket listing.

Pocket listings are not illegal if the listing agent fully discloses the pros and cons to the home seller and follows rules that are designed to protect consumers. Nevertheless, many real estate professionals believe that off-MLS listings may not be in the best interest of the seller – particularly if a client does not know about the benefits of marketing his or her property through the MLS. To keep a listing off the MLS, a listing agent who is a participant of an MLS is required, under the rules of most California MLSs, to obtain a signed certification from the seller that he or she does not wish to sell the property via the MLS.

If a property is exposed to fewer potential buyers with a pocket listing, why would a home seller agree to one? Pocket listings sometimes are requested by celebrities, judges, prosecutors, or others who wish to maintain their privacy.

The downsides to pocket listings may outweigh the advantages of pocket listings though. Primarily, the pool of agents and potential home buyers who will know the property is for sale and make an offer to purchase may be limited. That could significantly reduce the potential for multiple offers above the asking price, which is a frequent occurrence in today's competitive market. With fewer offers, sellers may not be getting the best possible price for their home.

How can consumers protect their interests if their listing agent suggests an off-MLS listing?

- Home sellers should ask their agent about the pros and cons of selling their home off-MLS. The pros are that the listing remains private if sellers wish to maintain privacy. The cons are that their home is unlikely to be exposed to the full population of potential buyers, which likely may decrease the chance a seller will obtain the highest and best price for his or her property.
- A listing agent may ask his or her seller to sign a standard seller exclusion form (Seller Instruction to Exclude Listing from the MLS or C.A.R.'s SEL form). Sellers should be sure they fully understand what they are signing and the possible adverse consequences outlined in the form of not listing their property on the MLS.
- Sellers should ask their agent to show their home and present all offers from both inside and outside his or her network. That may increase the chances of obtaining a more accurate selling price and could help avoid any potential for violations of fair housing laws. Finally, working with a knowledgeable REALTOR* is always a good idea anytime you are considering buying or selling a home. So is being an informed real estate consumer.

Representing local Realtors* in the San Gabriel Valley for 89 years, the ARCADIA ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS® (www.TheAAR.com) is one of the oldest trade organizations in CA. HEALTHY LIFESTYLES

TRADITION: TANTRA

Yoga is a science. Real yoga is based on what has been taught for many, many years. It is not a fad or passing craze. The really amazing, life changing, transformational practices come from the yoga of tradition. Just so you know, this traditional yoga is called Tantra. Most all of our current styles of yoga today stem from Tantra. Tantra is the yoga for real people. But a lot of yoga has gotten away from the tradition. On June 17, Pandit Rajmani Tigunait, PhD, my teachers, teacher (which makes him my teacher too) will be speaking in Pasadena on Living Tantra. You do not even need to practice yoga to go listen to this amazing man. But you will be so glad that you did. Panditji is one of the most amazing yogis ever. He is the Chairman and Spiritual Head of the Himalayan Institute and the successor to Sri Swami Rama.

He will be dressed in plain clothes and there will be no poses – just lecture and a meditation, but he will be speaking on what the tantric masters proclaim: "There is an innate wisdom in your body, and an immense power in your mind. What you need is the time-tested technique for discovering yourself – your wonderful body and beautiful mind." I cannot recommend going to see him enough. The beautiful light of his soul shines right through his eyes.

You can get tickets on our website at yogamadre.com. They are $20 in advance and $30 the day of. I am sure this event will sell out. You can get more info at livingtantra.com. You don't want to miss! Have a great week. Namasté, René

HOW CAN YOGA HELD Living TRU by Lori Koop, Right Brain Business Coach

TRU Freedom

The right-brain and left-brain were designed to work together: the right-brain spiritually guides us in the direction of our purpose, and the left-brain physically gets us there. When we encounter fear, our thoughts are diverted. Instead of listening to the spirit, we hear the fearful thoughts. Clarity vanishes. We get confused. We can't decide, so we don't move. We forget that we've already been told what the right move is.

Remeber, the spirit knows who we are and what we are here to do. It can show us how to get there, if we listen and act accordingly. Fearful thoughts make us too afraid to act: we see too much risk, too many negative possibilities. We see the reasons why it won't work. What it could cost.

When we remove the fear, we realign with the spirit and our right path. As a coach, that's what I do most and best: I help clients dissolve their fearful thoughts. Help them see how to live the unique life they know, deep down, they were created for -- the life that still excites them!

My favorite tool for dissolving fear is "The Work" by Byron Katie. It's a straightforward process of 4 inquiry questions and 3 turnarounds, and it delivers extraordinary freedom!

"The Work" pulls out the thought so it can be looked at, really looked at, from different perspectives. It allows the mind to imagine other possibilities, to untangle painful beliefs and discover new ones that could be just as true. It is a meditative approach, not a series of must-dos. For step-bystep instructions, visit her website (http://thework. com/dothework.php). Or come see me. I offer a complimentary session, and I'm happy to teach you in-person.

Fear keeps us playing small... and short of our potential. If you too want TO DO the things you dream about, learn how to keep the path clear. Without fear to block you, you are free... TRUly

JASMINE'S CORNER Book Reviews by Jasmine Kelsey Williams

CONTAGIOUS: A Novel

By Scott Sigler

June has now begun, and we continue with another thrilling selection from Scott Sigler by bringing in "Contagious". "Contagious" picks up immediately where "Infected" leaves off, focusing on the mounting battle between humanity and the 'Triangles', the antagonists that made themselves present in the form of a deadly disease that slowly makes humanity turn into paranoid, crazed murderers. Readers will surely be pulled in by the vivid imagery in this sequel just as the first had done, as well as not just focusing on one protagonist, but several. Perry is the main focus again, having overcome the Triangles' effects on him and teaming with a small group of government agents, scientists, and doctors who are determined to not just figure out the plans of the Triangles, but to put a stop to them completely. Trouble and danger becomes twice as much of a challenge as the Triangles have managed to find Chelsea, a young child who not just succumbs to the Triangles' abilities, but serves as a leader on behalf of them who works to find a way to bring them to Earth.

Just as "Infected" had done, "Contagious" will not disappoint, bringing strong tones, fast action, and even pacing between switching perspectives between the different characters. Language is a strong factor to consider here, as well as the graphic images of fighting, drinking, and bodily damage. A benefit that does help with the pacing of "Contagious" is this time between certain chapters; there are pages that mark certain days (ex. Day 1, Day 2, etc.) that provide when each event occurs. Sigler will not disappoint, and this sequel will be just as if not even more Copyrighted in 2008, and receiving praise from Entertainment Weekly, Booklist, and Publishers Weekly, "Contagious" will be another second must-read for the summer that you will not want to puť down.

SEAN'S SHAMELESS REVIEWS:

THREE ANTICIPATED ALBUMS FOR JUNE

Camera Obscura - "Desire Lines" - Camera Obscura's fifth studio album, the first in four years, has them sounding better than ever. With their baroque sound, lush melodies, and soulful singing, "Desire Lines" is the summer nighttime album for young and old lovers alike. The first single is "Do It Again," the most upbeat song on the record. Whirling, guitar-laden, and savagely infectious, "Do It Again" is a real gem coming from a band with a treasure chest of valuable material. In fact, don't be surprised to find many tunes on this particular album that will be your guiding light these late estival nights. In a summer filled with craziness and boisterous anthemic tunes from many newcomers, sometimes it's nice to take a step back to reflect on the more personal, worthwhile things in life. "Desire Lines," the record from a band that's been making music before turn of the millennium may be the sound of the summer to get you where you really want to go, the place beyond the frivolous agenda of those occupying your time with no worthy reward in exchange. The album runs deeper than the usual summer affair.

"Desire Lines" was released June 3rd, 2013 via 4AD.

Smith Westerns - "Soft Will" - Smith Westerns are gearing up for their third studio album, "Soft Cell." These glam rockers, inspired by the 70s, are refreshing on all accounts. The band's first single, "Varsity," is shimmering, crisp, and incredibly melodic. With their first foray into sleeker production values and a more mature sound, Smith Westerns haven't lost their youthful exuberance. As the band comes to terms with their new outlook on life, so has the way they've approached songwriting. As a matter of fact, even as the group gets older (still in their early-to-mid-20s), their view on life has somewhat changed. While their friends are seeking jobs in the professional world, the band could be destined for more success than what the "working world" could ever offer. "Soft Cell" may bleed youthful energy, but the band's latest approach finds them closer than ever to the likes of adulthood.

"Soft Will" is out June 25th, 2013 via Mom + Pop.

City & Colour - "The Hurry and The Harm" - City & Colour is the moniker for singer/songwriter Dallas Green. He's this soulful folk singer who once occupied his earlier days in the post-hardcore outfit, Alexisonfire several years ago. For his fourth studio album, "The Hurry and The Harm," Green brings his folk tendencies to a slightly elevated level. More folk rock than strictly just folk this go around, City & Colour still has the aptitude of capturing the human spirit in fullest form. For fans of Neil Young and Bob Dylan, City & Colour's established sound, expressive songwriting, and sensitive melodies can chill your bones and yet warm your soul. While "The Hurry and The Harm" feels more like a late fall/winter sort of album, I can argue that anytime of the year is just fine for terrific music like this. Regardless of where you're going, where you came from, or where you stand today, City & Colour has the right dose of medicine for any complications that may come your way. And better yet, there's no way of ever overdosing on such a prescription as this.

"The Hurry and The Harm" was released on June 4th, 2013 via Dine Alone Records.

"They're like a moving wall that is unstoppable," says Barbara.

If you've ever watched or played any team sport, you can relate to this dynamic. Whether it is soccer, basketball or hockey, whenever a team begins to dominate the competition, it is because they have tapped into a seemingly magical zone of many becoming one powerful force.

This principle applies to any business, large or small. Three simple questions provide a framework to select and build a team.

What do you want or need to accomplish? Answering this question will pinpoint the end destination. It will serve as the goal line, leading the winning touchdown, the point of repeated achievement and celebration as the team prepares to move toward the goal of another win, ultimately ranking among the top teams vying for championship status.

Getting booth space at a live event is great exposure for your business. It's also an opportunity to grow your email list so you can stay in touch with the people who stopped by your booth. Over time, these people could become valuable contacts for your business. As they get to know you and trust you, they might become paying customers or great word of mouth promoters. Here are 5 best practices:

- Make your booth stand out. Think about color and signs that grab attention and how to show off the personality of your brand. When we have a booth at a live event, it looks like a fun tiki hut with bamboo poles, signs and a grass roof. It gets people to stop by and talk to us and adds an element of fun.
- Make sure people know that they are being added to your email list if they put their card in your fish bowl. Put a sign on your bowl with an arrow that says, "Drop your card here to receive email updates from us." You want to make sure that you build your email list with permission and make it clear to them that they will be added to the list. You might even print out a copy of what your emails look like to show them what they are signing up for.
- Use an email service provider like Constant Contact. Úpload the emails you collected at the event into an email service provider so that you can legally send group emails and track the results. You can find out who opened the email and what calls to action they clicked on. You can measure behavior.
- Assign the email names to their own list. To keep track of the people you met, put them into their own list. In Constant Contact, you simply create a new list, name it and add the emails to that list. This will help remind you where you met people and will allow you to message just those people when you want.
- Send them an email within 24 hours. Timing is important. If you wait too long, people will forget about you. Send an email while the event is still fresh in their mind. You might include a fun picture of your booth or an interesting moment from the event. You could say something like, "It was nice meeting you at the XYZ event yesterday. Thanks for stopping by our booth. We had a great time meeting everyone and we probably ate too many cupcakes (add your personality)! If you would like to learn more about us, call us at_____ or visit our web site at _____ (give some type of call to action)." Make sure to put links to your web site and to your social media sites.

It's important to stay in touch and make sure you deliver what you promised. An email once a month with interesting content will work for most businesses. You want to stay top of mind so people don't forget about you. If you deliver an email that people will look forward to, you just might find your next greatest customer or fan.

RETIREMENT INCOME STRATEGIES IN A LOW INTEREST RATE ENVIRONMENT

It's no secret that generating income in retirement by building a diversified mix of assets that are Federal Reserve Bank, a 10-year U.S. Treasury note (at constant maturity) yielded just under 11 percent in June 1983, 30 years ago. By June 1993, that same bond yielded 5.96 percent, and it kept trending lower to 3.33 percent ten years ago in

In other words, an individual investing $100,000 in a U.S. Treasury note in April when interest rates were 1.76 percent would receive about $147 per month in interest income. That same investment would have earned in excess of $900 per month in 1983, more than five times the cash flow a 10year Treasury note generates today.

Finding higher income

There are few signs that Federal Reserve policy or Cutting back on expenses the interest rate environment in any significant way in the near future. While it seems reasonable higher from today's historically low levels, the necessary to determine trade-offs you're willing timing and severity of such a move is hard to Retirees or those entering retirement need to Planning for retirement is complicated so look at income strategies differently today. Some no matter how you choose to invest, do your solutions could include:

A "bucket" approach

Consider setting aside 2-3 years' worth of income in cash or cash equivalent assets. This is money that will not earn much return (if any), but will be readily available to meet income needs over the near term without risk of loss. The rest of your assets could be invested within your risk tolerance in a well-diversified portfolio. Though no strategy is perfect, this balance can help a retiree meet short- and long- term expenses.

Seek investments that can generate higher

You likely have different goals for various investments, so while investing in some more conservative investments make sense, you may hope to generate more income in others. To generate income, there are a variety of options to consider, but investors should take great care in doing so. It's worthwhile to explore different ways to enhance yields you earn from your portfolio, but it should be accomplished

STUART Tolchin.....On LIFE

AH, ROMANTIC LOVE HOW CAN WE LEARN TO GET ALONG

the continued use of fossil fuels will inevitably cause the ruination of the planet, unexplained meteorological disasters are a weekly occurrence; wars continue and Americans can't tell the good guys from the bad guys. In the United States the whole legislative process is gridlocked and simple guncontrol legislation cannot be passed although such legislation is supported by a huge majority of the electorate. Half the world's population, about a billion people are starving while exist multibillionaires controlling a huge percentage of the world's wealth ignore the problem.

The future looks bleak in that once respected institutions such as the University of California system, almost free of charge in my lifetime, has now become almost prohibitively expensive to almost all but the already wealthy. Furthermore, even after obtaining an expensive education and faced with an overwhelming debt, many graduates find themselves unable to find work.

There are other kinds of problems that I see in Court every day. There is a tremendous number of people driving cars while under the influence of alcohol. If society is serious about wanting to end the problems associated with drunkdriving, there is a simple solution. Sensors could be installed in all vehicles which would prevent the car from starting if the driver has a measurable amount of alcohol in his or her system. Even if these additional sensors make automobiles cost a bit more, this is far better than the danger to everyone caused by drunk drivers.

Yes, all of these problems exist and perhaps mankind is doomed but, underneath it all, most of us believe solutions will be found that will make the problems go away and that other areas of concern - like overpopulation, plague, water shortages, and global economic depressions - will soon take center stage. I am no wizard at predicting the future but there is one problem that I see every day in Court that I find terribly disturbing. This is the problem of domestic violence. Whole departments of the Court deal with only domestic violence matters.

It's bad enough that about half the marriages end in divorce requiring expensive litigation and decisions by outsiders to settle the disputes between former lovers, but violence is another level of horror. Afternoon talk shows are filled with stories of spouses killing spouses and the public seems satisfied with a final punishment of guilty perpetrators.

Lately many things The problem isn't the need to identify the evil-doers but, instead, there should be some huge overall societal attempt to assist us in getting along with our chosen partners. Barriers between people such as race, religion, and age have generally disappeared and we are free to marry anyone we want, so long as the other person agrees.

> Doesn't that sound wonderful? Just about everyone I know who ever got married described themselves as totally in love at the time of their marriage. Yes, everything was dandy yet, within a decade or so, about 75 per cent of these marriages ended in divorce. Sure, the kids of the marriage were damaged by the break-up and probably never understood what was going on. Kids are invariably influenced by what they see, or think they see, as going on between their parents. In his book The Soul's Code, James Hillman reveals that a study of identical twins separated at birth demonstrates something extraordinary about the style of romantic love. These twins, who he calls monozygotic adults raised apart, are identical in many ways. They often have chosen to use the same toothpaste, shaving lotion, cigarettes, and hair tonic. They often have chosen the same professions; all of which demonstrates that genetic influence accounts for a significant part of an individual's character or destiny. There is one great difference between these identical twins raised apart. That great difference is what Hillman calls their "style of love".

> Hillman has concluded that "romantic love styles, unlike almost everything else, are not strongly influenced by heritable factors." According to the research he discusses, individuals' styles of loving are highly influenced by observing parents' relational styles. This conclusion gives me some hope. If society can help spouses to relate in non-destructive ways this may well impact the way their children relate to their future spouses. Maybe it would be possible in the future for couples to stop beating each other up and to actually provide loving models for their children to follow.

> How does society help its married couples? Do we have to be trained to be nice to one another? Could there be marriage training just like driver training or swimming lessons? Well, it's worth thinking about and if people keep going to School, I think learning to help people to get along will have as great an impact on our lives as anything else. After all, who needs money, food, or water when you're in love - even if you are unemployed? Nevertheless, if we want a more livable world, I think this is a great place to start.

OUT TO PASTOR

A Weekly Religion Column by Rev. James Snyder

I WAS TRICKED AND I THOUGHT I WAS TRICK PROOF!

I was minding my own business last week, which is the only business I am concerned about, when the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage posed a question.

It is in the area of questions I feel the most inadequate. Maybe it is because I have not heard all the questions yet, but I think I have come close. I should know that any question that comes from my wife has a hidden agenda. Usually, she asks questions that have no answers.

'Let's go out for lunch today," she said rather chipperly. Experience should have taught me that when she is chipper, I am in trouble, because I am always the chippee. "We have," she explained, "some gift cards for a restaurant across town."

Then she smiled and that should have been a giveaway for me.

When you mention lunch, and when you add the word "free" to it, I lose all sense of proportion and sanity, if I had any. Actually, to be honest about everything, it does not take much to scratch between my ears and get me purring.

Then she threw in a perk that sold me completely on the idea. I love perks.

When you think you have heard every trick in the book, somebody writes a new book. Usually, I forget some old trick that she has played, and here was an old one she was playing on me again. On the way to the restaurant, I had a little uneasy feeling, but as we sat down and began ordering, all suspicion faded into thin air. It was a scrumptious lunch and we both enjoyed being together, carefree and enjoying the ambiance.

When the check came I casually said, "You know, we ought to do this more often." She smiled and nodded her head.

When we got into the car, she said somewhat nonchalantly, "Oh, by the way, since we're here I need to run into the mall and pick up an item."

When I heard those words, I froze. Not the mall! I hate shopping, especially at the mall. In my mind, the word "mall" is the acronym for May All Lose their Loot. Since I do not have that much loot to lose, I do not like going into a place designed to relieve me of my loot.

Every time I walk down the center of the mall, I feel eyes glaring at me and piercing to the core of my wallet trying to suck out all my money. And, by the way, they take credit cards. Boy, do they "take" credit cards.

When we parked at the mall parking lot, I indicated I would stay in the car and wait "Oh, no," she exclaimed, "come on in, you need the exercise. I'm just going to run in and run out." Here is where the language differential between husbands and wives shows itself.

Unless you are familiar with English with a feminine twist, you are going to get trapped For example: when a husband says the word "run," he is referring to speed. When his wife uses the same word it means she is going to run into every store in sight within the mall with one agenda, and that is to buy. For which I can say bye-bye to my money.

Why don't local universities offer a degree in wifeology? They have degrees in everything else, why not here where it would be most useful. By the time I reach the equivalent of a doctorate in wifeology, I would be too old to do any good with it.

Those who insist there is no difference between a man and a woman have never been married to a woman. Husbands get into trouble assuming their wife is just like them and thinks just like them.

Exiting the shopping mall my wife looked at me, smiled and said, "Now, wasn't that good exercise."

I nodded as I walked to the car with both my hands filled with recently purchased items from the shopping mall. Now I know my part of the exercise was hauling her purchases to the car. Halfway to the car I had to stop and catch my breath and wondered if I would really make it to the car.

'Come on, we're done shopping for the day. Let's get to the car." While driving home I was afraid my wife was going to wear out her smile.

'This has been a great day. We'll have to do this more often."

Then she began humming a song, "We've only just begun." I think this is her theme song; in fact, I am afraid it is. About half way home, I had a wonderful thought. It was a good day. I can always earn more money, but I can never get another wife quite as nice as the one I have. Then I began humming, "We've only just begun."

A verse of Scripture began playing in my mind as we continued our journey home. 'And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receive you unto myself; that where I am, there ye may be also" (John 14:3 KJV).

Driving into the driveway, I realized this was not our final destination. God has a wonderful place prepared for those who have put their trust and faith in Him. No tricks

· 2004 floor speech by Sen. Frank Lautenberg (1924-2013) (D-NJ) (Ú.S. Army 1942-1946)

A new Quinnipiac University poll shows that although Americans feel the ÍRS "scandal" is more important than Benghazi or the Justice Dept.'s seizure of Associated Press records, they also, by a wide margin, think Congress' attention would be better focused elsewhere. By 73% to 22%, Americans would rather see Congress focused on jobs and the economy than on any of those three "scandals".

This IRŚ "scandal" goes back to 1959, when the agency took it upon itself to revise the statute governing 501(c)(4) status. It directed that the word "exclusively", as in "exclusively" engaged in social welfare activities, be interpreted as "primarily" - thus inviting arbitrary determinations. The problem was self-inflicted by the IRS, but I see an ulterior motive to Congress' obsession with it: to divert attention from the fact that by far the largest, most egregious 'scandals" involving the IRS are the result of actions taken by Congress itself. Here's what's scandalous: According to the SEC, in the five years since the Great Recession of 2008, corporate profits have doubled from what they were ten years ago. But, while their average effective tax rate in the twenty years prior to the crash was 22.5%, the rate in the five years since has fallen to 10%, though for many it was lower: General Electric reported $81 billion in profits over the past five years, with a negative tax rate

- receiving refunds of $3 billion. Refunds also went to Boeing ($21.5 billion profits), Verizon ($48 billion), Kraft Foods ($13.5 billion) and Dow Chemical ($10 billion). Exxon/Mobil paid an effective tax rate of 1% over the period, reporting $45 billion in profits for 2012 - and sharing in the $2.4 billion per year of taxpayer subsidies. We've heard of the $1.7 trillion that corporations have stashed abroad to avoid U.S. taxes. Now, many aren't even bothering with the pretense of holding deposits overseas in the Caymans, Bermuda or Singapore. As reported in a January WSJ article, they just report money to have been earned by foreign subsidiaries and then keep it here, in dollars, in U.S. banks. Microsoft and Google have more than three-quarters of their revenue reportedly from foreign subsidiaries sitting here at home and tax-free.

Some suggest high taxes lead companies to leave California. Well, Apple is still headquartered up north in Cupertino. They set up an office in Reno, though, to invest their profits and avoid state taxes. They established subsidiaries in Ireland to handle intellectual property, so royalties on a patent for a Silicon Valley invention, and taxes on those royalties, are collected in County Cork. To avoid Ireland's 12.5% tax rate, Apple developed the "Double Irish" strategy, adopted by others, where profits earned in low-tax places in Europe are transferred again to zero-tax locales in the Caribbean. A study cited by the NY Times figures that by these strategies Apple avoids paying some $2.4 billion a year in U.S. taxes.

The scandal is that Congress writes the tax code to appease the interests that bankroll their careers, not those who actually vote and, especially since "Citizen's United", those interests are primarily corporate.

Unlike a corporation, when we make money, we're not able to search the globe for jurisdictions with the lowest tax rates in which to report that income. If we have to pay a fine on a speeding ticket, it costs us alone. If Wall Street banks have to pay an $8.5 billion settlement for tanking the economy; if BP has to pay $36.5 billion in fines, settlements and oil cleanup costs, they're able to deduct it from their taxes - so it costs Homeowners rebuilding after Hurricane Sandy can deduct from their taxes only expenses exceeding 10% of their annual income. Corporations have no such limitation.

If we suffer a loss one year, we get a tax break for that year only. A corporation, however, can carry that loss from one year to the next up to seven years - an option the rest of us don't have.

Americans working overseas have to report and pay taxes on their income every April 15 whether they're staying on for another year or not. American corporations, however, can "defer" paying taxes on overseas income indefinitely – until they "bring it home". It's estimated that not treating American corporations like American citizens in this regard costs us some $60 billion a year.

We know any money we give to a presidential candidate isn't deductible – and if it's fifty bucks or more, it can't be anonymous. As reported in Pro Publica last August, tax-exempt 501(c) (4) groups had by then spent $71 million on presidential campaign ads, to which, thanks to "Citizens United", corporations could contribute unlimited amounts anonymously. The amount spent by liberal 501(c)(4) groups totaled $1.6 million. The amount spent by just two conservative groups, Karl Rove's Crossroads GPS and the Koch Brothers' Americans for Prosperity, totaled $60 million.

Last year during "fiscal cliff" talks, Republicans were amenable to President Obama's suggestion to lower tax rates while closing loopholes and trimming deductions until they were asked to identify loopholes they'd be willing to close and deductions they'd be willing to trim. Then, after rates were raised on incomes above $450,000 a year, they took the whole idea off the table.

Congressional Republicans remain intent on pursuing this IRS Tea Party "scandal" rather than pursuing means to assure every multi-national corporation pays its fair share of taxes just like every individual middle-class earner is expected to.

It's scandalous.

SCREWING UP SYRIA AND THE MIDDLE EAST

GREG Welborn

This week, we witnessed the 69th anniversary of D-Day, and it is altogether proper and fitting that we commemorate the day when so many of the greatest generation gave their lives in the military campaign that largely determined the course of victory in WWII. Had they not paid the price, and had they not established that beachhead in northern France, it's likely Hitler would have prevailed. But D-Day was not the only substantive event which determined the outcome of that war. As Churchill commented soon after the war's end, WWII would have been prevented if only a previous generation of leaders had risen to the occasion. Sadly, today we are seeing a replay of that previous generation's moral and political failures in the actions of our current administration's handling of the Syrian war. We may ultimately look back in righteous anger at a war that could have been stopped were it not for the fecklessness of President Obama.

Many readers will be tempted to right off that assessment as nothing more than partisan ravings. But the assessment is not mine alone. In a remarkable burst of candor, Bill Clinton said, "Obama doesn't know how to be president. He doesn't know how the world works. He's incompetent. He's an amateur!

Because of that incompetence, it is becoming increasingly clear that Obama's handling of the Syrian conflict is dramatically increasing the probability of a more wide spread pan-middle east conflict. Should that happen, it will be a war the U.S. will have to enter. President Obama has chosen to sit out the conflict since its inception. The standard line is that this is simply an internal struggle between a secular dictator and the people he has ruled. But this "sectarian" war is now being correctly seen as the proxy for a wider Sunni-Shiite conflict. Such a Sunni-Shiite conflict, which will involve the entire Middle East, was avoided in Iraq because of the U.S. military and diplomatic presence in that country in 2006. The offshoot of the Bush doctrine was the full engagement of the U.S. in preventing the Middle East tinder box from fully igniting.

In contrast, the Obama doctrine calls for the U.S. to abdicate it leadership position, to lead from behind, to allow the Russians and the Iranians to guide events. So, Assad's minority sect government is being supplied militarily by Russia, enabling it to retain is control over a majority sect population. This inflames religious tensions within Iran, Lebanon and Hezbollah. Today, we're close to the tipping point of that wider pan-

The administration's response is to float the idea that if the conflict prompts a larger Al Qaeda vs Hezbollah war in the region, the bloodbath might actually benefit the west. Why, after all, should we care if one murderous faction of Islam wants to wipe out another murderous faction of Islam? Better that they fight each other than us. Perhaps if both sides were narrowly focused territorially, it would be tempting - although highly immoral given the civilian casualties – to let events play out. But neither faction here is fighting just for territory. This isn't about Syria. This isn't about ruling one little spec of ground on a big planet.

Al Qaeda, Hezbollah, Russia and Iran are engaged because the victor will gain a stronger base from which to wage religious war against the west. Because the Obama administration has been AWOL here, there are no legitimate civil libertarian or secular democratic forces on either side. Because the U.S. was engaged in Iraq, there is a fledgling democracy and civil libertarian movement in that country. Of course, that Iraqi democracy struggles now because Obama has decreased our presence there as well, but at least we were there long enough to midwife the movement, and it still fights for life. Without any meaningful U.S. involvement in Syrian events, there is nothing but stillborn remnants of democrats in Syria.

Syria, like Egypt, Libya and even that brief moment of civil unrest in Iran, is becoming a lost opportunity because of the Obama doctrine. Unless we see courageous leadership of the type that Churchill found so lacking among the leaders who preceded him, we, too, will see a wider war - this one unconstrained by the borders of the Mediterranean, the Black or the Arabian Seas. Those who vie for dominance in this conflict will ultimately focus their attention on Israel, Europe and the U.S. We need to engage now - forcefully and fully - in a region literally dying for stability, or we may yet see the world at war again.

Editors note: The author sent this letter and asked someone at the City on Saturday morning to get that it be printed as a LTE. Mayor and City Council Members:

I am the Block Party organizer in my neighborhood, and we've enjoyed 15 previous block parties on our street.

I doubt that anyone in this room wouldn't agree that block parties are a positive thing. They build great community spirit and get kids (and adults) out of the house and away from the computer and TV. As a bonus, statistics show that neighborhood security and safety increase when neighbors actually know each other.

In order to block off a city street to have a block party in this town, a Temporary Use Permit (TUP) is required. In 1998 I paid $25 for our first block party TUP. It remained at $25 for several years, with a decrease to $17 for 2 years for some unknown reason, then back to $25, up to $35 in 2004, $40 in '06, $45 in '07, and then increases over the next few years of $1, $2, $1, $1 and $2, bringing it up to the $52 I paid for last year – our 2012 block party.

Let me point out - that this is the exact same TUP that the 4th of July Committee gets to hold the parade and 2-day festivities every year. It's the same TUP that the Wistaria Festival Committee gets to block off most of downtown and a number of other streets for more than 12 hours. It's the same TUP that Alverno High School gets to allow an entire year's worth of event rentals at the Villa. These are some pretty major "temporary use" situations compared to an 8-hour, single block street closure for a neighborhood block party.

Well, now.... That same TUP has more than doubled in price to $118! The same TUP that these huge events require, carries the same fee for my (and anyone else's) block party.

In addition to the TUP fee, the City requires me to provide a million dollars of liability insurance thru my homeowner's insurance for the event. It didn't used to result in any out-of-pocket expense for the first few years – but now it averages about $25 each time. And I spend about $100 on flyers, paper goods & utensils, ice, etc. Yes - my neighbors do chip in, but that's not the point! Compared to these other major events, it just seems so inequitable for a block party to have the same permit fee.

Incidentally, in paying for those 15 previous block Thank you very much. party TUP's... 3 of those years the barricades didn't get dropped off when they supposed to, and I had to scramble to make phone calls to get Sue Behrens, Sierra Madre me my barricades!

And $\dot{2}$ of those years the S.M.P.D. had not been informed that we were having a block party. One of those times, the officer moved the barricades away from the Michillinda end of the block after we had already started setting up table & chairs, so now cars are driving thru, and me & a bunch of kids are in the middle of the street! 1 was jumping up & down, waving my hands and whistling, and the officer just ignored me! Then he had the nerve to ask me what I thought I was doing, and made me go inside and get the permit approval letter to prove to him that I actually had permission! I said "Do you think I went down to the city yard and helped myself to the barricades?' He also told me that I should have informed the

So... this is where YOU come in.... I am here to respectfully request that the City Council initiate a separate permit specifically for block parties, and attach a fee that is more equitable to the amount of effort that goes into processing it. Our City's yard sale permit costs $14, which is a pretty good place to start. It makes sense that dropping off & picking up barricades would add to that fee, but certainly not in the $118 range!

P.D. that I was having a block party.... Funny – I thought that was covered by the TUP.

(This is the part I didn't get to read at the City Council meeting.) I did some research and called the cities of Pasadena and Arcadia to see what their policies and fees are. In both cities, a block party permit is free. Both cities require the applicant to get approval signatures in advance from a certain percentage of their affected neighbors, to block off the street. In both cities, the resident picks up the barricades from the city yard themself and returns them on Monday. Arcadia requires a refundable deposit for this, Pasadena does not. Pasadena requires the homeowner to provide $300,000 liability insurance or purchase it from the city's 3rd party agent. Arcadia does not require insurance from the applicant.

I would be happy to call some other cities for information if it would help my case. But it's not just about me & my block... I would hope that the City of Sierra Madre would want to encourage and promote these kinds of social gatherings, and make it easier on the average citizen to have one. So, I hope you will please take this into consideration.

of water,

Yep, another dry winter, lack of rain and increased consumption. The groundwater levels just haven't recovered and the Raymond Basin Watermaster has reduced our City's groundwater pumping rights by almost 47%, as the Mountain I mean! Views News told us June 1st.

There are those of us, like me, who think water is one of those things that's one of my constitutional rights; it's in there, isn't it? Life, Liberty, the Pursuit of Happiness, twenty minute showers and lawns forevermore?

"Old Dan and I with throats burned dry and souls that cry for water, Cool water."

I don't think any of us are washing down our driveways anymore, and my first reaction to hearing that I'm going to have to use less water was typically dramatic. I flung myself in front of my rose bushes and shrieked, "I'll give up bathing before I let my roses die!" Well, yeah, kind of over the top, but then my crafty side emerged...

pool of water, Cool water."

No, not sneaking out at midnight and watering... the annoyingly accurate water meter would give me away. My patient and long-suffering husband, the adorable John, and I decided on a few measures that would help us conserve water without giving up all of basic hygiene. We realized we could quit letting the water run! Woo hoo! You're all thinking, "well, duh!" OK, have YOU quit letting the water run when you do dishes and brush your teeth? How about turning on the shower just long enough to get wet, turning it off, doing all the soaping and other little tasks, then turning it on just enough to rinse off! How 'bout

"But with the dawn I'll wake and yawn and carry on to water, Cool water."

in Sierra Madre, that song bubbled up to the top Here's another one, watering the tomatoes and all the stuff in pots on the porch and out in back: We got one of those nozzles that shuts off the water completely, then we turn the hose on and no waste between the turn on and the pots. OK, this next one's a stinker: Be sure all the sprinklers are actually hitting the lawn and not watering the street.

> Now we're gonna get really serious.... Toilets. Yep, the porcelain throne. Even with the watersaving kind, we can still not use so much H2O. San Francisco has done it and lived to tell about it, only flush with #2. 'Nuff said, you know what > "The shadows sway and seem to say tonight we pray for water, Cool water.

> And way up there He'll hear our prayer and show us where there's water, Cool Water."

> And that wouldn't hurt either, to ask for a little heavenly intervention in the water department. I guess, bottom line, is we all need to look around and see what we can do to save a drop here and a drop there. I'll give up my extra washing machine rinse and that long shower for my roses and tomatoes.... Oh yeah, and for the rest of you guys here in thirsty Sierra Madre, too! We can do this, we're hearty pioneer stock!

"Dan can't you see that big green "The nights are cool and I'm a fool, each star's a tree where the water's runnin' free and it's waiting there for you and me. Water, cool water."
