BURGLARS CAUGHT!

Quick Action By SMPD Lead To Arrests

In Sierra Madre, Neighborhood Watch works effectively. According to a report by the SMPD, an alert neighbor noticed two 'strangers' parked in a vehicle on Sierra Woods and called the police when she noticed them walking towards her neighbor's home. She noted that the men had put on hoodies to hide their faces, but she was able to tell police exactly which house they went into. When SMPD entered the home, they found the burglars inside, but were unable to stop them from escaping on foot in separate directions.

The SMPD immediately contacted cooperating agencies, the Pasadena PD, the Arcadia PD's Canine Unit and they called for the services of the joint use helicopter. The Monterey Park and Alhambra Police departments also participated in the mutual aid

According to Captain Larry Gianonne in his press release, "One suspect managed to run through yards almost a mile away but was unable to escape the police helicopter above him.

Lavon Fuller a 23 yr. old San Bernardino resident and Marquice Garrett a 20 year old Pasadena resident were arrested and booked for residential burglary. Lavon Fuller was additionally charged with Assault on a Police Officer. While being treated for a police dog bite injury at Arcadia Methodist Hospital he attempted to escape and was involved in a fight with a Sierra Madre Police Officer and a nurse at the location. He managed to escape for a short time but was eventually was caught by Arcadia Police Officers who responded to assist the officer. Officers later learned he attempted to car-jack a women in the parking lot of the hospital but was unsuccessful."

Fuller, who is 6'9" tall, is being without bail due to a hold from the San Bernardino authorities, indicating that he is on parole. Garrett posted a $50,000 bond Friday

Water Woes

By Susan Henderson

This article was originally printed in 2010 and provides additional insight into the challenges that still face our water

Sierra Madre's Pristine Water System is the source of great pride and great concern

There are few small towns that have just about everything. A clean, safe environment, their own fire and police departments, good schools, talented, dedicated city staff, a war chest of community volunteers and.....water.

Yes, Sierra Madre even has its' own supply of water and doesn't have to rely on surrounding purveyors of water to sustain the city. In 1882, The Sierra Madre Water Company was formed, 25 years before the town was incorporated.

Sierra Madre's water supply is primarily derived from four wells drawing from the East Raymond Basin aquifer (85%) and two natural spring tunnels located on either side of the county flood control dam in Little Santa Anita Canyon. These wells are the source of great pride, and once again, great controversy.

The local supply is managed by the Water Division of the Department of Public works and has the responsibility for maintaining water quality, and pumping, treating, and distributing water to residents and businesses in town. The water is collected in a reservoir at the City's maintenance facility and then pumped to other reservoirs around town. The water is then distributed through a network of pipelines in our streets. That, like everything else in this society, costs money.

Current revenues from water users are not sufficient to continue operating the city's aging water system properly. This is primarily due to the fact that there has been no rate increase since July 2006 to keep up with the escalating costs of, for example, electricity which

There is also not sufficient revenue to replace aging parts or to match available federal funds of $10 million dollars to do major capital improvements. For instance, the Mariposa Reservoir was recently rebuilt utilizing the matching grant program with the federal government. Funds for matching grants come from the Water Revenue Reserves. Those reserves are now below acceptable levels and leave the city vulnerable in the event of a disaster or emergency.

Recently, the city council was advised of the need for a rate increase for water users and began the process of increasing the water rates. and those plans have inspired a campaign against the fee hike. As the result of a state proposition, ("Prop 218"), certain utility fee increases can be blocked through a process that allows citizens to protest the action. Opponents of Sierra Madre's proposed rate increase have

City worker in dry debris basin, March, 2013. Under normal circumstances, this basin has about five feet of water in the month of March. Photo courtesy City of Sierra Madre are asking residents to sign documents in "protest" of the rate hike. If they are successful and ascertain support of more than half of the rate payers in Sierra Madre, the city will not be allowed to raise water rates. As of this writing, however, no other viable alternative to increasing water revenues has been found and without increased revenue, the maintaining and integrity of the city's water resources properly will be in jeopardy.

Over the years, there have been many legal battles over water rights, but this developing modern day 'feud' is not over who has access to the water but over the costs associated with maintaining the water system and who should pay for them. In a city that has total control of its water resources, there are those who appear to be opposed to paying it.

The city's current water delivery system, which dates back to the early 1900's requires constant maintenance and improvements. As recently as this week, as if a warning to the city that the system's need for maintenance is immediate, an aging water main broke in the canyons. It appeared that the main (shown left) had not been replaced since the 1930's.

At 4:00 pm, an officer initiated a traffic stop on a speeding motorist near 600 East Sierra Madre Blvd. The motorist failed to stop for the officer and a short pursuit occurred. The fleeing driver collided with a curb on Rodeo Rd. in Arcadia and fled on foot. A yard to yard search was conducted but the driver was never found. The vehicle was later discovered to be stolen from the City of Arcadia.

Thursday July 25, 2013

Between 2:30 pm and 8:00 pm, an unknown suspect gained access to a house located in the 800 block of Canyon Crest Drive. The investigating officer determined the suspect(s) removed a screen and entered through a window. Once inside, the suspect(s) ransacked the residence. A computer, movie projector and electronic tablet were among the items stolen.

Officers responded to a noise complaint in the 00 block of East Highland Avenue. Upon arrival, they contacted two male subjects sitting on the curb. The investigation revealed the men were under the influence of alcohol to such an extent that they were unable to safely care for themselves. Both men were arrested and booked at Pasadena Jail.

Officers responded to the 400 block of East Highland in response to a residential burglary report. The investigation revealed that sometime between June 7 and July 26, 2013, a metal safe had been stolen from inside of a detached garage located on the property. It was determined that the side door to the garage was left unlocked, allowing the suspect(s) to gain entry into the location.

Between 9:30 pm and 5:45 am, unknown suspect(s) gained access to an unlocked vehicle parked in a driveway on the 00 block of West Alegria. The suspect(s) ransacked the interior of the vehicle. Approximately $100.00 cash, a laptop computer, and personal identification cards were among the items

Library to Hold 50th Anniversary of March on Washington

Pasadena Public Library is holding a two-part celebration of the 50th anniversary of the August 28, 1963 March on Washington for Jobs and Freedom, a watershed in the struggle for civil rights in the United States at Pasadena Public Library's Allendale Branch, 1130 S. The March, which culminated with Martin Luther King's "I Have a Dream" speech in front of the Lincoln Memorial, is widely credited with helping to pass the Civil Rights Act (1964) and the documentary, Brother Outsider: The Life of Bayard Rustin. The lead organizer for the March on Washington, Rustin, according to Dreier, used "his immense talents—as an organizer, strategist, speaker, intellectual, and writer—to effectively challenge the economic and racial status quo. Always an outsider, he helped catalyze the civil rights movement with courageous acts of resistance."

Then at 2:00 p.m. on Saturday, August 31, folk singer Ross Altman will present the Musical Legacy of the Great March, a program of folk music originally performed at the March on Washington by Bob Dylan, Joan Baez, Len Chandler, and Peter, Paul and Mary. #### PCC ranked Best for Veterans

The Military Times has ranked Pasadena City College (PCC) eighth in the nation as a veterans-friendly two-year college. The publication's 2013 "Best for Veterans" ranking, which reviewed submissions from more than 650 schools nationwide, determined PCC's placement based on the impact of its Veterans Resource Center (VRC) and campus policies. Within the category of two-year colleges (of which 23 were recognized with a formal ranking), PCC was the highest-ranked California community college and placed third nationwide in terms of graduation rates.

The VRC served more than 760 veterans last year and offers resources ranging from free tutoring to psychological services. The center, which first opened its doors in 2010, has undergone extensive developments that have helped establish PCC as a premier choice for veterans.

"We have adopted a more pro-active case management model by partnering with a variety of outside veterans service providers," said Patricia D'Orange-Martin, counselor and coordinator of the VRC. "This innovative approach has allowed us to address our student-veteran's issues so they can continue their academic careers and succeed."

PCC's veteran-friendly practices and other campus policies were considered by the Military Times in determining the placement of PCC in their rankings. Additional considerations included the number of veterans staff on campus, relaxed residency standards, whether a campus grants academic credit for military training, and the default rates among loan recipients (PCC was tied for first place in terms of the lowest default rates among ranked two-year colleges).

THE BUS TO THE BEACH AND BACK

For several years I have heard about the Charter Oak/Duarte "Beach Bus"the county-sponsored one that goes to Santa Monica Pier- and have always said, "I'll have to try that one of these days". After much procrastination and grandkids here for five weeks, the time had arrived!

I began by making reservations on line at www.LAGoBus.info. At first I was confused. There are several options and I didn't see "Duarte". Then I realized you click "Charter Oaks" and up pops "Duarte/Charter Oaks." The cost is $3 per adult/chld, and $1.50 for seniors. The total was $12- that's the cost of the cost is $1.50 for seniors. parking lot! Plus no aggravation of fighting traffic or the OUTRAGEOUS price of gasoline! They give you a confirmation number, you print out the page, and you must bring cash (exact change) when you board the bus at Pamela Park.

Bob and I didn't want to go into the freezing water. The grandkids said it was really cold, but went in all the way and had a great time. The youngest one spent most of the beach time building castles. (We had no bucket or shovel but a vendor came around. The netted bag of "goodies' was only $5! It had a bucket, shovel, hoe, and a few little plastic toys of various shapes that made turrets and parts of a castle!)

Lunch time came and we went up on the pier for burgers, and there are vegetarian ones too! There were several little stores, an arcade with games and the little individual rides that you put kids on and put money in the slot. (50 cents) This time we passed on the rides, but there is that great Ferris wheel-always seen during the "weather" portion of the news, a Merry-Go-Round, a few fast rides, and very high swing. I also saw there was an Aquarium, but that will be good for another trip.

The bus left Pamela Park at 9:30am. It arrived at Santa Monica Pier at 10:30. It left Santa Monica at 3:30 and in spite of heavy L.A. traffic, we were back to the Park at 4:30. It makes for a great day trip. For those who may not want to brave freezing water, there's a lot to do on the Pier. If we go again, we may do the Pier first, before the water. We couldn't take kids with wet bathing suits into Bubba Gump's Shrimp House for example!

People did bring lunches but BEWARE! In front of our eyes, BOLD seagulls got into a girl's tote bag and pulled her subway sandwich out! Before it could be stopped, at least 20 seagulls descended and devoured it. The last thing we saw was a seagull fly off with her bag of chips! They were so smart, that they pulled tee shirts out of a bag in hopes of finding food underneath! How bold is that?

The day we went to the beach there were two buses. Pamela Park's Summer Camp was also going to the beach on a field trip, so there were two buses. We were on the bus with the kids and they were well-behaved. The other bus had mostly people by themselves-even Senior citizens. No fighting traffic and there are compartments on the bottom of the bus that have room for folding chairs! When we go again, we'll bring our chairs! See you on the bus!

METRO GOLD LINE CELEBRATES 10TH ANNIVERSARY

Supervisor Antonovich Announces that Ridership Has Surpassed Green Line

LOS ANGELES COUNTY—At the 10th Anniversary of the Metro Gold Line, Supervisor Michael D. Antonovich praised the leadership of the transit line which transports 13 million riders every year, with ridership that exceeds that of the Metro Green Line.

"Serving over 13 million riders every year – more riders than the Green Line -- the Gold Line has been a great success story for the San Gabriel Valley and serves as a vital component in our regional transportation system," said Antonovich. "We started with only 4 million boardings in its first year – now we carry 13 million per year. Over 10 years, the Gold Line has carried 81 million riders – averaging 42 thousand riders per weekday."

"Built on-time and on-budget, the Gold Line has spurred economic growth through transit-oriented development throughout the San Gabriel Valley," he added. "Due to the persistent efforts of San Gabriel Valley cities, and the Gold Line advocates in the community and on the MTA Board, we prevented funding for this project from being raided by the Westside politicians for the gold-plated

Currently under construction and scheduled to open in Fall 2015, Phase 2B will extend the line from Pasadena to Citrus College in Azusa. Future extensions from Azusa to Claremont and Ontario Airport will eventually connect the San Gabriel Valley to the Inland Empire and Ontario Airport in partnership with San Bernardino County. Ultimately, we can connect the Gold Line to the Bob Hope Airport, Burbank, Glendale and North Hollywood where the Red and Orange Lines meet.

WHAT DOES OUR ASSEMBLYMAN ROGER HERNANDEZ DO IN SACRAMENTO?

By Joan Schmidt

Long ago in a college sociology class, I answered a question about who represented my area-much to the consternation of the professor. He wanted to prove a point-that the average person could not identify their local representative much less discuss any bills they introduced. I wondered if it was the same today, here in California! After the recent elections and redistricting, Assemblyman Roger Hernandez now represents unincorporated Monrovia, Arcadia, Duarte, Bassett, Charter Oaks and Valinda as well as the cities of Covina, Duarte, El Monte, Glendora, Irwindale, Monrovia, and

This past May I met Assemblyman Hernandez at a press conference. He was seeking support for AB 1357 introduced in January. This bill would require Measure B funds collected by the County of Los Angeles from property taxes in the San Gabriel Valley to remain in the San Gabriel Valley. Hernandez was not happy that the San Gabriel Valley had paid nearly 20% of the county's total, ($256 million)-yet only received access to a helicopter to reach far-away facilities in addition to relatively small budgeting for expansion of facilities! On June 5, Hernandez received "overwhelming approval from the "Joint Legislative Audit Committee" to audit the county. What exactly does that mean?

Since that May conference, Primo Castro, from Assemblyman Hernandez' office introduced and other important activities of the Assemblyman. In a VERY shortened explanation, I will try to explain the multi-step process of an "idea" becoming a "bill". Then when I relate the status of a bill, you will realize where it is at! (Thank you Cal State Fullerton for the following explanation-which I have taken parts of.)

All legislation begins with an "idea". The process starts begins a Senator or Assembly Member decides to author a bill. He/she sends the idea for the bill to the Office of the Legislative Counsel where it's drafted into a bill form and returned to the Legislator who introduces it in his house. (First Reading/ Introduction) The bill is then sent to the Office of State Publishing, but cannot be acted upon for 30 days. The bill goes to the rules committee where it's assigned the appropriate policy committee according to its subject matter. During Committee Hearings, the author presents the bill to the committee. When bills are passed by committee, they are read a Second Time in the house of origin, and then assigned a Third Reading. When a bill is read a third time, it is explained by the author, discussed by members and voted on by roll call. If a bill passes, it proceeds to the other house and both houses approve a bill, it goes to the Governor for his vote. The

to become law without his/her signature, or veto it which can be overridden by two-thirds vote in both houses.

Some of Assemblyman Hernandez' bills has faithfully sent me releases re: Assembly bills include: AB 1295. On May 31, it passed the Assembly Floor on a 72-3 vote. This bill allows electricity customers the option to receive a greater portion of their energy from reusable energy. (This is for electric customers who are unable to install solar panels on their homes.)

On June 24, the Senate Committee on Appropriations approves AB 1384 authored by Assemblyman Hernandez. This bill establishes a penalty to any garment manufacturer who fails to properly display name, addresse and the garment manufacturer's registration number outside the business residence.

On June 11, Assemblyman Hernandez announced that AB 34 which establishes La Paz in Kern County as a historic landmark passed the State Senate Committee on Natural Resources with a bi-partisan vote. (La Paz is the burial site and home of Civil Rights Leader, Cesar Chavez. This champion of migrant workers founded the United Farm Workers Union and worked tirelessly to improve their working conditions. The short video No Grapes is a MUST-it tells of the horrible effects of the chemical spraying on the Central Valley farm communities!) Since President Obama had declared La Paz a National Historic Landmark on October 12, 2012, the procedure described above is repeated. After Assemblyman Hernandez authored this bill "to ensure La Paz proper recognition on a state level."

After preparing this short explanation can of the "How a bill comes into existence", I now sign it, allow it understand really what the press releases mean!

STREET PROJECT UNDERWAY:

Slurry Seal Project Will Require Temporary Street Closures

The City has awarded a contract to Doug Martin Contracting, Inc. for the Annual Slurry Seal Project. The project will take place on City streets between Duarte Road and the South City limit and between Santa Anita Avenue and the East City limit. Slurry work began on July 29, 2013 and will be completed by Friday, August 23, 2013. During construction, streets and/or alleys will be closed to all vehicular and pedestrian traffic. Emergency and safety vehicles are excluded from this restriction. The contractor will notify affected properties at least 48 hours prior to any work being performed. No Parking signs will be posted to indicate the date and time that roads will be closed. Road closures will remain in effect for approximately nine hours (7:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.). Slurry sealing will not take place on weekends. Mail and trash services will be coordinated with the City's service providers and will resume as usual.

Road slurry sticks to bicycles, cars, clothes, and shoes, so please do not walk, ride, or drive on fresh slurry until the road is open to traffic.

A map indicating the streets and the dates that each street will be slurry sealed is available from the city. The construction schedule is subject to change for various reasons including weather conditions and unforeseen delays. The map will be updated as the project progresses and should be checked regularly for changes. For more information, please contact Mark Rynkiewicz, Project Manager at (626) 256-6552.

PUT IT IN THE CAN

A Campaign to Keep Monrovia Beautiful

In a seven block radius of Old Town Monrovia you will find 72 trash cans. They are conveniently located on each corner, in mid-blocks, at every entry and exit to the public parking lots, behind businesses and next to homes.

Yet, somehow, every day, some trash never makes it the last fifteen feet to these containers. Here's why it's so important to find the trash can:

All of the trash bins in Old Town are sorted for recycling. By just making it to the trash can, you ensure that your soda can or plastic bag make it back into the economy, not the landfill.

It costs money to pick it up. The more time City Staff spends picking up trash, the less time they spend on parks and potholes. Trash on the street is ugly. Monrovia is a proud and beautiful community- let's not trash it.

"I take great pride in our Old Town area and all of Monrovia. I will gladly pick up trash when I see it, but lately the amount of trash I am seeing is overwhelming," says Mayor Pro Tem Becky Shevlin. "I am asking people to join with me in keeping Monrovia beautiful!"

As economic development picks up and Monrovia becomes an even more popular destination, we will have more traffic and consequently, more trash. How can you help reverse this new trashy trend?

Start by making sure all of your trash makes it into the can.

- If you see trash in the street, pick it up.
- Lastly, tell a friend.

Let us know how you did! Tag us with #CANit @MonroviaCA.

Below is a photo taken by Mayor Pro Tem Shevlin in one parking lot in Old Town. Remember - Put it in the Can.

ALTADENA (July 31, 2013) - Whole Foods Market presented a check for $9,318.59 to Five Acres Wednesday after raising the funds during a Community Support Day in June at the grocer's Arroyo Parkway and Foothill Boulevard stores in Pasadena.

"Whole Foods has made an invaluable contribution that will allow us to continue strengthening local families and create loving, stable environments for children," Boutakidis said.

"Every child deserves to come home to a nurturing, healthy environment," Bailey said. "We couldn't be happier to contribute to Five Acres to help make that vision come to life."

TIPS FOR TALKING WITH YOUR victim feel alienated KIDS ABOUT BULLYING

(StatePoint) Think bullying is just harmless teasing? An estimated 160,000 children miss school every day due to fear of attack or intimidation by other students, according to the National Education Association. And Yale health researchers have found a connection school's between suicide -- the fourth leading cause of death in children ages 10 to 14 -- and bullying and being bullied.

Experts say that kids themselves have the power to put a stop to bullying. Unfortunately, both victims and bystanders don't always know the best way to handle bullying situations as they occur.

"Most kids feel terrible when they see friends or classmates get bullied. They want to help, but they don't what to do," says Alice Cahn, Cartoon Network Vice President of Social Responsibility. "Having strategies for these situations can help prepare children to intervene when the time comes.'

With this in mind, Cartoon Network launched the award-winning Stop Bullying: Speak Up in 2010 to educate kids on what to do when they see friends getting bullied. In partnership with official advisors, including staff from the US Departments of Education and Health and Human Services; and partners including CNN, The Anti-Defamation League, the Pacer Foundation, and nationally recognized academic experts, the bullying prevention campaign aims to put a stop to this common and serious problem.

The pro-social campaign is offering these tips for parents and kids to help stop bullying in their schools:

• Tell an adult: When someone gets bullied, tell a parent, teacher or trusted adult. Talking about it isn't tattling or snitching. It's helping someone out.

• Be friendly: Bullying can make a and lonely. Saying a few kind words to the person who has been bullied makes a huge difference.

Volunteer: Your bullying prevention program needs parents and students to help encourage everyone to speak up against bullying.

Say it loud: Ask your school to fly or display the official Stop Bullying: Speak Up flag, which indicates that the school is a place where bullying actions will not be tolerated.

• Learn more: Free online resources can help you learn how to deal with bullies. Visit www.StopBullyingSpeakŪp.com to access public service announcements, two 30-minute documentaries and tips sheets for parents and teachers that offer a step-by-step guide for safe and effective ways to be an active bullying bystander. The site also provides links to the Anti-Defamation League, Boys and Girls Club of America and other partners providing expert advice about bullying. All materials are available in English and Spanish.

THE REEL DEAL: by Ben Show GROWN UPS 2

To me, Adam Sandler's movies are rarely funny. They have idiotic plots, followed up by famous actors playing silly roles, and rounded out by completely ridiculous jokes that are so over the top they rarely make me even crack a smile.

Following the events of the first 'Grown Ups', Lenny (Adam Sandler), his wife Roxanne (Salma Hayek), and their family decide to move back to the town where Lenny grew up. Once there, though, Lenny and his friends begin to stir up trouble not only for their now large families but also for the entire town.

In what seemed like an unnecessary sequel to a movie that I never saw, I found something quite surprising: that this movie actually made me laugh. However, for the entire hour and a half, 'Grown Ups 2' walked along a fine line between making me chuckle or making me want to yell at Adam Sandler for how stupid and obnoxious he is. 'Grown Ups 2' is a risky gamble that will either leave you happy or frustrated.

SCANDINAVIA MORE THAN A MID SUMMER CELEBRATION

Any great food reporter who turns his attention to writing a travel piece should have a fork in one hand and a travel map in the other. Little did I know I would also need my credit card and plenty of Kroner. I planned a trip to Oslo and Norway to compete in the Rock N' Roll Half Marathon (yes, the same series that hits the Rose Bowl every February), intending to do the run and drink as much beer as I could. My sources told me that Norway and Sweden had plenty of the cold suds that I love so much, and that to make it even better the most in Frankfurt (another excuse to have another half liter of beer). Air Lufthansa, part of the Star Alliance, has plenty of flights and you can call your travel agent or, as we did, keep an eye on Orbitz or Priceline. You can plan to spend $1300 to $1600 for a roundtrip ticket.

Most major hotel chains including Sheraton and Days Inn have locations in Oslo, but my friend Brad Turner, beat writer for the LA Clippers, suggested renting an apartment or flat in the cities that might otherwise have limited availability. We did that in Bergen, Norway and it worked out to be about half the cost of the major hotels, plus it came with a refrigerator so we could stock up on supplies like beer. Norway, while rich in oil reserves, gets you on a 25% alcohol tax whether you drink it a in a restaurant or buy it in a state run liquor store.

National Geographic called the Fjords one of the top ten beautiful places in the world and I agree!! Make sure you take a boat cruise -- two-hour, half-day and full-day trips are available. We spent the night in Flam and took the boat through the fjords. Stunning. If you love a msuemem, please check out the Viking muesem, I was baffled on the smallness of the boat. In Sweden, I recommend the ABBA Museum - yes, the pop group has their own shrine - there is a small fee, but it's two hours you'll remember for the rest of your life. To get around Stockholm I took the hop on/off bus. I like this way of seeing an entire city in one day at your own pace. If you are lucky enough to be in Sweden in late June there are plenty of city and country mid-summer celebrations, a real treat!!

For food, as you can imagine, salmon is plentiful and we enjoyed our fair share. An adventure like this calls for whale, elk, reindeer, and many restaurants have those. Do they taste like chicken? No. The whale is a little salty, and cured to be almost like a beef jerky. Reindeer can be bought at many restaurants or outside markets, sold almost like a pastrami roll. I had a fantastic elk burger at the Ardbeg Embassy in Stockholm. If you get frustrated paying the high prices, look for a bakery and get some of the best sweets and rolls I have had in the world. The restaurants are expensive, so look for Thai, Indian or Vietnamese. I agree, "why go on vacation to eat food available back home?" but if you get homesick there are McDonald's

(at $8, the most expensive Big Mac in the world) in Zurich and even Paris.

The best time to go is late June through September. In some parts of Norway there is still plenty of snow, and the region does stay wet. Stockholm has more favorable weather conditions with temps reaching 75 degrees on a good day, but come November expect cold and snow. The sun is out most of the day, and while it makes it difficult to sleep the 10 PM sunsets are spectacular.

Dress meat with oil, salt and pepper. Brown the meat over medium-high heat in a Dutch oven. Add water, cilantro or parsley, oregano, onion, celery, carrots, garlic and bay. Bring to a boil then reduce heat to simmer and cook uncovered for 1 1/2 hours. Turn off heat and let rest for half an hour.

Remove meat to shallow platter and shred with forks, cover and reserve. Strain the braising liquids and return to pot, reduce over medium high heat about 30 minutes more.

Meanwhile, prepare the sauce: Heat EVOO, 2 turns of the pan, in a deep sauté pan over medium-high heat. Add peppers, onions, garlic and chili pepper to oil, and season with cumin, oregano, salt and pepper, and cook to soften 8-10 minutes. Add in cilantro or parsley, olives, tomato paste, stir a minute then deglaze with reduced braising liquid and stir in tomatoes to combine.

Slide in shredded beef and simmer a few minutes more to allow beef to soak in sauce.

Serve with rolls or tortillas for a party snack or serve with rice and beans as a meal. Top beef with red onions dressed with lime and pickled jalapeños for garnish.

IS THIS THE YEAR OF THE COMET?

Comet ISON may put on a show when it skims through the sun's atmosphere later this year. Right now, it's still far away, but we're keeping track and will give you regular updates. Here are some key facts about ISON as we await its arrival:

Comet ISON was discovered by Russian astronomers Vitali Nevski and Artyom Novichonok in September 2012. It's named after their nightsky survey program, the International Scientific Optical Network, a group of observatories in 10 countries organized to track objects in space.

Measurements taken by the Hubble Space Telescope in April indicate ISON has a nucleus that is 3 to 4 miles across. The comet's head, or coma, is estimated to be 3,100 miles across, or 1.2 times the width of Australia. The Hubble team says its dust tail extends more than 57,000 miles—more than twice the circumference of Earth, and far beyond the telescope's field of view.

Some early comet prognosticators have tagged ISON "the comet of the century."

According to Dennis Bodewits, an astronomer at University of Maryland at College Park, "Comet ISON has the potential to be among the brightest comets of the last 50 years."

Bodewits and other astronomers used NASA's Swift satellite to estimate ISON's water and dust production.

"Comet ISON belongs to a class of comets called Sungrazing comets," Karl Battams of the Naval Research Lab told CNN. This means it will fly relatively close to our sun. These comets "teach us not only about comets, but also yield valuable and unique results about the sun," he said.

But before you get too excited, other experts caution that it's too early to know what ISON will

"Predicting the behavior of comets is like predicting the behavior of cats—can't really be done," Don Yeomans of NASA's Near-Earth Object Program told CNN.com in March.

In November, ISON is expected to fly through the sun's atmosphere at about 700,000 miles above the surface. If it survives the sun's heat, experts say it might glow as brightly as the moon and be briefly visible in daylight. Its tail might stretch far across the night sky. Or the sun could cause it to break apart. Welcome to the Year of the Comet (we hope).

GALAXIES, COMETS, AND STARS! OH MY!

In a composite image taken with the Hubble Space Telescope's Wide Field Camera 3 on April 30, 2013, Comet ISON floats against a seemingly infinite backdrop of numerous galaxies and a handful of foreground stars. The icy visitor, with its long gossamer tail, appears to be swimming like a tadpole through a deep pond of celestial wonders.

In reality, the comet is much, much closer than its background of stars and galaxies. The nearest star to the Sun is over 60,000 times farther away, and the nearest large galaxy to the Milky Way is over thirty billion times more distant. These vast dimensions are lost in this deep-space Hubble exposure, which visually combines our view of the universe from the very nearby to the extraordinarily far away.

Humans have been decorating graves with flowers for 14,000 almost years according to archeologists: The first evidence of the tradition of floral tributes has been dug up in Israel where sage, mint and other plants were used ceremonial burials. ancient Romans often laid out the ground of the tomb as a garden so the spirit could enjoy itself as it wandered. The latest discovery was unearthed at the bottom of 13,700 to 11,700 year old graves at a scenic prehistoric burial spot known as Raqefet Cave overlooking the Mediterranean coast.

Greenhouse gas seen as clean source of electricity: A troublesome greenhouse gas could be an energy source, say Dutch scientists describing a method for producing electricity from carbon dioxide in the American Chemical Society's journal Environmental Science & Technology Letters. The new technology could produce about 1,570 kilowatts of electricity annually, about 400 times the annual output of the Hoover Dam, harvesting CO2 from power plants, industry and residences.

Study Links Omega-3 Fatty Acids with prostate cancer: Fish oil may have some benefit for the heart. But a study at the University of Washington in the Journal of the National Cancer Institute links higher blood levels of the omega-3 fatty acids in fish oil to a higher risk of prostate cancer. Study author Alan Kristal says the mechanism is unclear, but he warns that supplements can sometimes increase the risk of the very diseases they're meant to prevent. No causation was implied here, only that it was correlational data. Are we confused yet?

Can we control the weather? CIA helps bankroll $600,000 study to see if controversial geoengineering can control weather: The National Academy of Sciences' study will explore whether geoengineering, including solar radiation management, could be used to halt climate change. American institutions including the CIA, National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration and NASA are funding the study. Flu spreads via airborne droplets. Hand washing goes only so far in retarding transmission: Half of flu cases arise when people inhale tiny particles that float in the air, researchers report in Nature Communications. The finding flies in the face of conventional wisdom, which says that nearly all flu spreads by large droplets that sick people release when they sneeze or cough. These large droplets get on people's hands and transmit the virus from there. While scientists knew that small particles called aerosols represent possible routes of disease spread, they thought that cases almost never arise that way. Officials say that knowing how often flu transmits via the air is important for controlling outbreaks.

JUST FOR BEST FRIENDS

As a long time resident of Sierra Madre, I am a lot like many of the residents in our small town, in that I prefer patronizing the local "mom and pop" businesses as opposed to shopping at the many mega stores that now dominate the commercial storefronts on our major nearby boulevards. I have always appreciated the hard work that goes into a brick and mortar business, and I believe the keys to success in building a small business are hard work, honesty and tenacity; basically it takes a willingness to do what it takes to see through the tough times in order to enjoy the fruits of one's labor. In short, it is what we know as the American Dream incarnate.

My parents were both small business owners at one point or another in their lives. In fact, when I was a teenager, my mother succeeded in supporting our missionary family during hard times with the profits she made through her hand-tailored lingerie shop. In retrospect, I find it rather ironic that while my father worked hard to spread the gospel and sacrificed most of his time and energy to benefit inner city children who were less fortunate than we were, my mother was sewing sexy underwear for the my own way in order to have something to give back to others. For that, I am grateful and I know that is why I appreciate what it takes to be a small business owner.

When Jill Jungheim purchased Highlander Pet Center in 2005, being the avid animal lover that she is, her vision was to educate customers about animal care and nutrition, so their pets could live long and healthy lives. Over the past 8 years, Jill's specialty pet food and supply store has evolved to cater to the pet owner's needs, while maintaining excellent customer service and providing the highest quality products on the market.

Highlander Pet Center carries a wide variety of premium pet foods not found in other stores, making it a very unique source for healthy pet nutrition. And although the store is small, they will special order your pets' favorite food, toys or treats which gives them the edge of that personal touch you typically will not find in a mega store. When you visit Highlander Pet Center, not only will you find the best foods available for your pet, you will also have access to some excellent nutritional education and consultation. Another reason I love Highlander Pet Center is because it has become a destination for pet adoptions.

The aspects of my up-bringing were the basic ethics I learned about working hard to pay and well-cared for during their stay at the store and most adoptions are by word-ofmouth customer recommendations. Most importantly, each homeless pet they take in goes to a loving, caring family.

> I caught up with Jill last week, and she shared with me another unique recent addition to the offerings she has at her store. For several years, she has been studying essential oils and aromatherapy for pets and has dabbled in creating special soaps for dogs. She has recently become affiliated with doTerra essential oils and is now teaching workshops at the store. Essential oils have many medicinal and therapeutic benefits to people and pets, and can be valuable in preventing the need for unnecessary veterinary care or pet prescription drugs. BENJI: #A4611224

Meet a puppy with movie-star good looks, Benji (A4611224). Benji is a perfect gentleman - an eight month old tan male Border Terrier mix puppy who was dumped at the Baldwin Park Shelter on July 26th because his owner could not live up to the responsibility of having a dog. Weighing fourteen pounds, Benji has basic leash skills but prefers to be carried and will reward you with kisses. He is good with other dogs and we think he would be a cheerful playmate for children. This is a calm, gentle dog that is made to order for anyone who wants to adopt a dog without creating chaos in their household. Benji is the perfect indoor pet for anyone, anywhere! To watch a video of Benji please visit: www.youtube.com/watch?v=6L3bDod Byg

To meet Benji in person, please see him at the Baldwin Park Shelter, located at 4275 N. Elton, Baldwin Park, CA 91706 (Phone: 626-430-2378 or 626-962-3577). He is currently available now. For any inquiries about Benji, please reference his animal ID number: A4611224. The shelter is open seven days a week, 12 pm-7 pm Monday-Thursday and 10am-5pm Friday-Sunday. This is a high-intake shelter with a great need for adoptions. For more information about Benji or the adoption process, please contact United Hope for Animals Volunteer Adoption Coordinator Samantha at Samantha@hope4animals.org. Have you heard the expression "as cool as a cucumber?" I'm so cool that I get to be the guest host on the page this week while all of the regular animals are chillin' out on vacation. Now that's cool!

SHINGLES VACCINE PROTECTS SENIORS AND IS COVERED BY MEDICARE

Dear Savvy Senior:

What can you tell me about the shingles vaccine? I just turned 65 and have been thinking about getting vaccinated, but would like to know how effective it is and how it's covered by Medicare. Äfraid of Needles

Dear Afraid:

Older adults who get the shingles vaccine can actually cut their risk of getting the painful condition in half, and those that do happen to get it are likely to have a milder case if they've been inoculated. Here's what else you should know about the shingles vaccine, along with how it's covered by

Shingles Overview

Shingles, also known as herpes zoster, is a burning, blistering, often excruciating skin rash that affects about 1 million Americans each year. The same virus that causes chickenpox causes it. What happens is the chickenpox virus that most people get as kids never leaves the body. It hides in the nerve cells near the spinal cord and, for some people, emerges later in the form of shingles.

In the U.S., one out of every three people will develop shingles during their lifetime. While anyone who's had chickenpox can get shingles, it most commonly occurs in people over age 60, along with people who have weakened immune systems. But you can't catch shingles from someone else.

Early signs of the disease include pain, itching or tingling before a blistering rash appears several days later, and can last up to four weeks. The rash typically occurs on one side of the body, often as a band of blisters that extends from the middle of your back around to the breastbone. It can also appear above an eye or on the side of the face or neck.

In addition to the rash, more than one-third who get shingles go on to develop severe nerve pain that can last for months or even years.

Vaccination Coverage

The Center for Disease Control and Prevention recommends that everyone age 60 and older should get a one-time shingles vaccination – called Zostavax. Even if you've already had shingles, you still need the vaccination because reoccurring cases are possible. See zostavax.com or call 877-974-4645 for more information or to locate a vaccine provider in your area.

The vaccine is also very safe. For most people the worst side effect is mild redness or arm soreness.

You also need to know that Medicare covers the shingles vaccine as one of its preventive benefits. But, unlike some other vaccines that are paid through Part B, the shingles vaccination is covered by

If you have a Part D prescription drug plan, it will pay for the vaccine itself and for your doctor or other health care provider to give you the shot. You are only responsible for paying the plan's approved copay at the time you get vaccinated, which usually runs around $60 to $80.

But, you need to make sure you follow your plan's rules in order to keep your out-of-pocket costs

If you're vaccinated at a drugstore, check to make certain it's in your Part D plan pharmacy network. Otherwise, the shot will cost you more than your usual copay.

If you're inoculated in a doctor's office, check to make sure the office can bill your plan or at least can work through a drugstore in your plan's network. Otherwise, you'll have to pay the entire bill upfront and then claim reimbursement from your plan. Just to be safe, call your Part D drug plan ahead of time and ask which pharmacies and doctors in your area you can use to receive the shingles vaccine at the plan's regular copay.

KATIE Tse .....This and That HERE'S JOHNNY!

If you're of a certain age, you know how you miss the days when you used to stay up past 11 p.m. to watch Johnny Carson's monologue on "The Tonight Show," even though you had to be out of bed by 6:00 the next morning. My parents are in this age group, and recently told me about a Johnny Carson special they saw. Besides all the funny clips from "The Tonight Show" and Carson trivia, they learned that he willed the rights to all of his episodes to his alma mater, the University of Nebraska. And, to date, they haven't done much with this veritable gold mine entrusted to them.

While it's not impossible to watch episodes of "The Tonight Show" (there are several packages available for purchase), the Carson Entertainment Group has made it very difficult. If you want clips from any of the old shows, you need to make a formal request, which may be denied. If your request is granted, you still need to fork over a fee. It must be nice for the Carson Entertainment Group to enjoy omnipotence over Johnny's reruns, but they should realize that their time to profit off his antics is limited. What do I mean by this? Simply that Johnny's fan base consists mostly of Baby Boomers. So, in 20 to 30 years the demand for these films will be gone or greatly diminished.

Enter my modest proposal for the University of Nebraska and the Carson Entertainment Group. Right now they have a death grip on the taped shows, but most things can be bought if the price is right (no TV show pun intended). Why not create a reality show pitting students from different cinematography programs against each other in a competition to restore beloved, but "forgotten," TV shows from the 1960's and 70's? Think "Peter Gunn," "Bat Masterson," and "Soupy Sales." The ultimate prize would include cash, of course, and the honor of restoring the entire collection of "The Tonight Show" for modern viewing,

The format of the competition could be friendly, such as allowing every contestant a shot at the final prize. For instance, 10 students or teams of students could each get an episode of an old show to restore. The public would see clips of the original, and then watch the restored version. Next they would vote for their favorite, according to the quality of restoration the students achieved.

Or, the show could take on the ever-popular cut throat format in which a pool of contestants get whittled down to a select few by a panel of judges (e.g., "America's Next Top Model," "Chopped," etc.). Personally, I dislike this formulaic model. It doesn't take great powers of observation to see that there are always "stock" contestants making up these groups. There's always the "airhead," the "nice guy/ girl," and "the mean guy/girl." Inevitably, the mean person survives until the last few episodes. This draws in viewership --no one can believe that such a jerk has made it this long, and are eagerly waiting for his or her expulsion from the game. Also, the judges frequently come up with lame excuses for eliminating contestants. When you get two contestants of equal skill, the judge's critique becomes increasingly subjective. "Your dish was delicious, but I felt like you were playing it safe with your treatment of the ingredients." Granted, I'm no foodie, but it's just food for goodness sake! Both dishes probably taste great, and neither of them caused food poisoning. Heck, they're both winners in my book! But I digress...

Aside from what specific form this hypothetical show would take, it would have the public service benefit of reviving all these old shows which the media has forgotten, but the Baby Boomers haven't! Come on, you know you miss "Sea Hunt," "My Little Margie," and "The Edge of Night." So, when you see "Project Carson" or whatever they choose to name this reality show, remember... you read it here first!

Tips of the Trade: Real Estate Revealed by Luther Tsinoglou

ATTITUDE ADJUSTMENT

In spite of the real estate roller coaster of the last few years, homeownership remains the bedrock of financial and familial security. Having a long-term investment that provides the satisfaction and pride of ownership beats just about anything else you can do with your savings.

When the market exploded several years ago, the expectations of many consumers grew too high, too fast. Homes became more commodities than investments, and now markets and attitudes have been forced to realign.

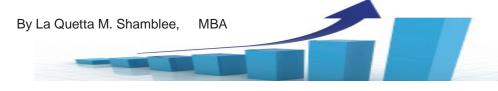

Conditions today make it an opportune time to secure your future. Home prices and interest rates are still low, and tax advantages are abundant. You just have to get past all the negativity in the media. All the bad news has drained consumer confidence, and frankly, you cannot underestimate the effect of intangibles like confidence and expectation on the real estate industry.

Real estate transactions are unlike any other financial transaction. The demand and desire for homeownership doesn't expire like other flashy investment instruments. The inherent value of a stock can be calculated by a formula of company profits, earnings ratios, performance history, fund managers,

To find out if you are creating content that your Facebook audience is gobbling up, take a look at Facebook's Insights. It allows page owners to measure metrics around their content and get a better understanding of the audience subscribing to the page. If you have a page for your business, you can find this tool in your Admin panel. Note: in order for you to be able to access insights on your page, you need to have more than 35 "Likes."

Here are some of the things you can measure on a Facebook page:

Last 5 Posts by Reach, Clicks, Engagement

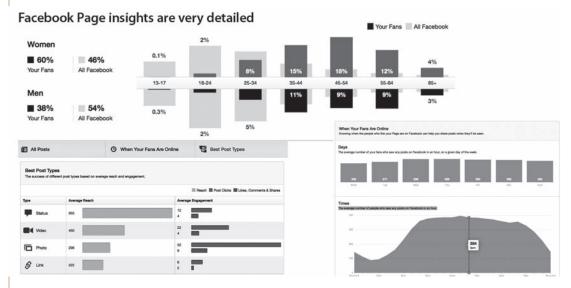

You can learn about the types of posts (photos, links, text, video or links) that get the most interaction from your Facebook. For example, I find that posts that have a picture in them get the most action so I try to use more images in our content.

Page and Tab Visits

This metric will show how many people visit your Facebook page and tabs. There are several types of tabs/apps you can install on a Facebook page, for example, job listings, trending industry news, download a coupon, view videos, sign up forms etc. If you have installed a lot of these tabs, Insights will show you what tabs are getting the most attention. This is very helpful especially if you are running a campaign on your page (give-away, free download or promotion).

People Reached

You can compare the people who "like" your page with the demographics of Facebook's total population. You can find out if more men than women like your page and what age the majority of your audience falls into. You can see what country or city your audience lives in and language(s) spoken. This type of information can help you shape your content. For example, if your audience is younger, they might respond to more acronyms. If your audience is older, they might appreciate some old-school jargon.

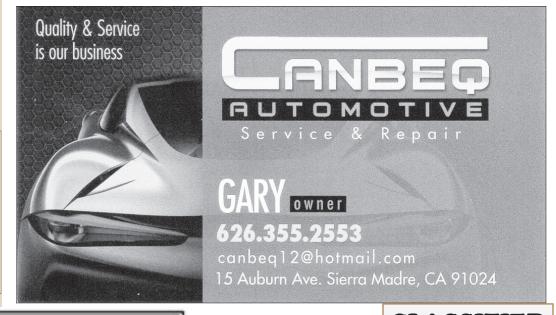

When your Fans are Online

You want to be able to catch your fans when they are on Facebook. If you are scheduling your posts, insights will let you know the best time and day to post for your fans. If you find your fans are midnight users on Sunday night, use Facebook's scheduling tool so you can sleep and still reach your target audience.

Learn where you need to make some changes

Facebook's insight tool allows you to measure your overall Facebook strategy. Are you reaching your target demographic and are they engaging with your content? If you market to women, but more men "Like" your page and engage with your posts, it's time to make some changes and test new content and targeting strategies. Insights will reveal what's working and what's not. Use this feature to identify your Facebook activities that may be a waste of your time, then you will be able to focus on doing more of the things that actually work best for your business.

HOW CAN YOGA HELD Living TRUE

"What's The Story With YOGA?**

A friend of mine wanted to know what the story is with yoga. Why do we have a statue of an elephant god in the studio. Why is there a picture of the Buddah? Do we worship these things? If so, she would not be able to come, she is Christian.

Yoga is many things to many people. It is spiritual. It is NOT religious. You can be any faith to come to yoga. You can be any age and any color and any weight. Yoga is about who you are and who you want to be. If you want to come to yoga for a better booty, cool. If you want to be calmer, cool. If you want to loose weight, cool. Yoga is all about where you are. We have the statues to honor the tradition that has been around for thousands of years. They are much the same as in Greek and Roman mythology -God has many faces. But yoga is very respectful of all faiths. Yoga is very spiritual, your own spirit. It is that we want to nurture. It does not matter if you are Jewish or Catholic or atheist. The spirit inside of you can benefit from the mind/body connection. The spirit inside of you needs nourishing. The mind needs to focus internally. In yoga we withdraw the senses (pratyahara) in order to not be distracted by them. This allows us to get to know our deepest selves better.

Om is the universal vibration, very simple and non-denominational. Sometimes we chant that at the end of class. So, if religion is keeping you from coming to class, don't worry, it will only help make your faith stronger.

See you in class. Namasté, René

THE ZEN OF SLEEP

by Dr. Tina Paul

When people are surveyed on what they find pleasurable, sleep ranks near the top. However, at least with the clients I see, most people do not allow themselves to get enough sleep on a daily basis. Sleep allows the brain to isolate itself from the outer world. Sleep is a time when the body does most of its repair and maintenance. Think of the body as a fine, expensive automobile. If you owned such a vehicle, you would surely take it to a mechanic for a tune-up to keep in running in optimal condition. Our bodies need daily tune-ups as well and those daily tuneups occur when we sleep. How much sleep is enough? We are all unique but generally speaking, adults need between 7.5 and 8.5 hours a night. Females generally need more sleep than males. The best way to ensure adequate time for sleep is to develop a bedtime and try to stick with it the majority of the week.

Here are some habits you can establish to ensure a pleasurable night's sleep.

- Avoid caffeinated drinks in the afternoon and evening.
- Eat your evening meal at least 3 hours before going to bed. 2. 3.

a good night's sleep is Mother Nature's anti-aging pill!

- Lower the temperature at night. 4.
- Make the room as dark as possible. Ideally, there should be NO light. 5.
- Have the best bedding you can afford. You spend a third of your day in bed, make it
- 6. Be active during the day (take the stairs rather than the elevator or get out for a brisk walk). Get some sunshine every day.

Anti-aging has become a very popular phrase. However, the only time you really do not age, is when you are dead. Therefore, I like to say that we should slow down the aging process and one of the best ways to do this is to get adequate reparative sleep. The way we slow down aging is to give your body the time it needs to repair itself. Most cellular repair occurs during sleep. So proper nutrition and

The challenge of work-life balance is without question one of the most significant struggles faced by modern man." - Stephen Covey

Balance: it is a state of mind. It's not about equal measures on a scale, like equal life and work. That's physical balance. What we're talking about here is emotional balance. Finding peace within your life and your business... at the same

I have a client who drives her kids back and forth between activities, and is happy to support them. However, when she is with the girls she feels guilty about not working on her new business. And when she is working, she feels guilty about not spending time with the girls. She's torn between wanting to support her kids and their growth, and birthing a business she's passionate about.

Subconsciously she thinks, "if only I could give 100% of her time to each, then I would certainly be successful." And that is where her frustration comes from: unrealistic expectations. Nobody gets 200%. We each get an equal portion... 100% of our time to spend.

To find peace and restore balance, it is necessary to recalculate. Begin by drawing out a typical week and blocking in the areas of your day that are already committed to certain activities. Use different colored markers to represent the various themes, for example: the kids, meals, carpooling, exercise, housework, family time, etc. What is left uncolored is the time available for your new business. Or for whatever else you have in mind. By making it visual, the truth becomes

A Right Brain Approach Take a careful look. Are you surprised? This is reality.

And this is the place to start to create peace. Maybe it will necessitate a change in expectation. Or perhaps, a change in time allocation. You get to choose. Follow what feels good.

DEVELOPING TALENTS: CAREERS FOR INDIVIDUALS WITH ASPERGER SYNDROME AND HIGH-FUNCTIONING AUTISM

By Temple Grandin & Kate Duffy

We now move from July into August, and this means that we will gradually begin to wind down the summer season and start to depart from summer reading to stronger themes and this next book should do just that. This next choice is also another personal recommendation and should hopefully follow the theme of being informative yet enlightening and will not be too overbearing on you readers. "Developing Talents: Careers for Individuals with Asperger Syndrome and High-Functioning Autism" is another wordy title, but a title that should come in handy for individuals such as myself or others who are affected by it who wish to provide a helping hand.

"Developing Talents" is not just another facts of life book from two authors, but also ac

"Developing Talents" is not just another facts-of-life book from two authors, but also acts as guide for those on the autistic spectrum and helps to provide steps, a layout, and even a basic foundation to find an area of work they are not just good at, but one that they could excel at or even make a career out of. Grandin and Duffy outline nine detailed and precise chapters that lay out a mental map of different autism spectrum disorders, how they affect the work place, and finding a vocation or job that will match one's unique talents as well as being one they can enjoy.

Chapters 4 or 5 ("Finding a Vocation You Love" and "Searching for an Ideal Job") really help in narrowing down one's areas of interest while Chapter 6 helps in pointing doing what you do best. Each of these chapters is explained in thorough detail from Grandin and Duffy about how each of these steps taken are not just beneficial but can eventually help shape a pathway in adult life and learning to become independent on their own, even coping techniques for on the job when working with someone who is on the spectrum.

First printed in 2004, then copyrighted in 2008, and receiving praise from various critics, while also receiving praise from Midwest Book Review, "Developing Talents" by Grandin and Duffy is not just a beneficial read for young adults and parents, but one that is sure to provide confidence in helping to plan a solid future.

Monrovian native and resident Adrianne Marie Hall was already a pretty good wordsmith by the time she finished elementary school. As the "surprise" baby who is almost nine years younger than her closest sibling, she found lots of time to entertain herself inside the pages of colorful children's books and mystery novels. Her childhood penning of poems and short stories was inspired by The Twilight Zone, her favorite television show. Over the years, this avid read every novel by Stephen King and her personal library was filled with the latest best-selling titles by other contemporary masters of this genre.

In 2012, Adrianne made the decision to publish one of her fictional works and to the delight to a growing number of readers, "Thresholds: The Novel" was released in paperback and Kindle at Amazon.com. The description of the book at her website provides a sense of the cover-to-cover adventures and unexpected twists and turns surrounding two key characters.

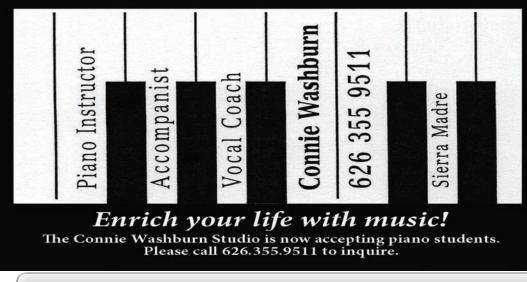

The brilliant prism illustration on the Thresholds book cover sheds light on the graphic design talents of this author who earned a bachelors degree in Multimedia Design from Mt. Sierra College in Monrovia. Always intrigued by human behavior, Adrianne's went on to earn an associates degree in Psychology from Citrus College after graduating Monrovia High School. She continued studies at Cal State Fullerton as a young adult until presented with a timely opportunity to move up the career ladder in the insurance industry.

Adrianne's creative process for story development is as out-of-the-box as the unpredictable story lines of murder, mystery and unexplained phenomenon found within her favorite books, movies and television shows. One of her fans shared thoughts after finishing Thresholds while enroute to Hawaii, "I finished your book on my last six hour flight and found the story very complex and interesting. I could not stop because I wanted to find out how all the pieces fit. Let me know when your next book is ready. Aloha - Midi (3/22/13)

Anyone with a Kindle and an Amazon Prime Membership can borrow a copy of Thresholds for free. Available at Amazon. com, Thresholds is almost 500 pages of entertainment, from beginning to end.

A member of Sierra Madre Woman's Club, Adrianne is enjoying life with her spouse as an empty nesters now that her three children, Kameryn, Annekah and Mackenzie are now blazing their own lives as adults. This proud new grandmother of Aleigha, already has several exciting projects in the works as a follow-up to Thresholds. Earlier this year, she launched Anthurium Publishing to provide a user-friendly, affordable resource for other writers to bring their works to market. #### FRUITVALE STATION

Written and Directed by: Ryan Coogler Rated R for some violence, language throughout and some drug use Release Date: July 12th, 2013 (limited); July 26th, 2013 (wide)

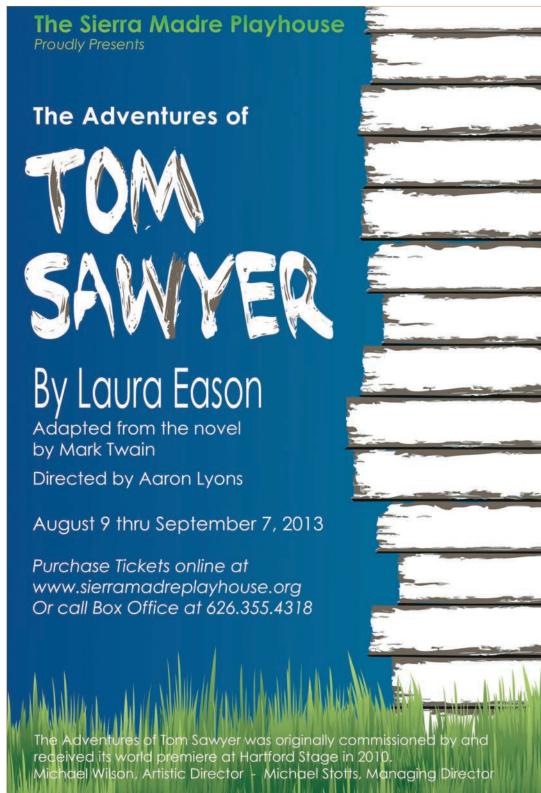

On Jan 1st, 2009, in the wee hours of the night, tragedy struck Oakland that would forever change a city. Oscar Grant, 22 year-old African American, was shamelessly shot and killed by a transit police officer at the BART train station. "Fruitvale Station" is the film based on the last day of Grant's life. You already know the outcome, but "Fruitvale Station's" retelling of an ordinary man trying to do well that will move you and ultimately, leave you shattered.

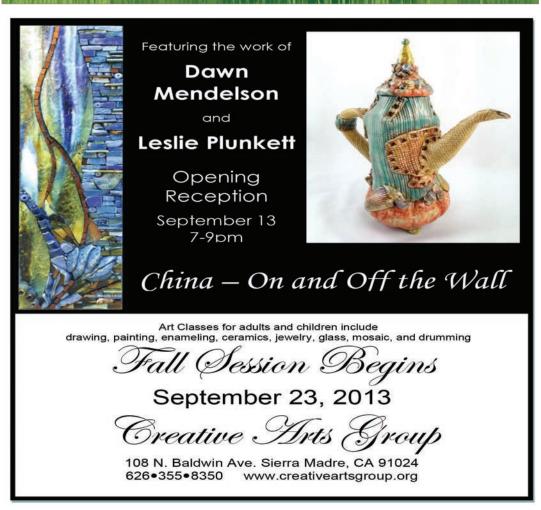

Actor Michael B. Jordan, best known for TV roles in both "Friday Night Lights" and "The Wire" as well as last year's superhero film "Chronicle," gives a subtle yet stirring performance as Oscar. The film follows Grant as he tries to navigate through his laborious day. We know he's strayed away from girlfriend (Melonie Diaz) and got caught. However, he loves her dearly and tries to convince her it will never happen again. He lost his job at the supermarket for being late and comes up empty trying to get rehired. His rent is due and he could sell marijuana (something he was busted and charged for a few years prior), but decides he doesn't want to go down that destructive path again. Grant wants to be there for his young daughter. She's what drives him to become a better person. The scenes between the two of them are flawless and poignant. But everyone who comes across Oscar's radiant personality is somehow, some way moved by him. He isn't a thug. He isn't a bad human being. He's made mistakes that he's paid the price for. Still, Oscar is genuinely trying to improve himself for those who continually lift him up.

Writer-director Ryan Coogler's debut film is simply stunning. His plan of dramatizing the last day of Oscar's life is straightforward, but severely affecting. Coogler's portrait of Oscar as a troubled young man is distressing at times. The style of filmmaking is very raw and never does Coogler glorify the man. It's a heartbreaking tale that never should have happen. It's deeply upsetting to see trigger-happy police officers behave in such a despicable way. "Fruitvale Station" never tries to play the race card, but lays it out all for the audience to consider what happened as an accident or something that could have been avoided entirely. By the time the shooting occurs, we are fully invested in this man's life. While "Fruitvale Station" started off a bit slow, it quickly turns into a powerful, imperative story that will resonate with one long after the credits. It will make you angry, sad, touched by the turn of events. "Fruitvale Station" is an undeniably small movie that tells a larger story of a man's life unexpectedly coming to an end for really no good reason other than the misguided intentions of particular police officers' definition of "protect and serve."

Since the audience is already aware of what happens in the end, the results are a little less painful, but nonetheless heartrending. While the movie surely isn't for everyone and doesn't scream typical summer escapism, "Fruitvale Station" stands tall as the most important film this summer and possibly of all 2013.

"Detroit's not going into bankruptcy. bankruptcy shouldn't be on the table." - Gov. Rick Snyder (R-MI) – June 2011

Fifteen years ago, the cure for Detroit's economic ills was obvious: the city, and the State of Michigan, simply needed to commit hundreds of millions of dollars in public funds to finance new professional sports facilities. First was $300 million for a new home for the AL Tigers. They got $66 million back by selling naming rights to Comerica Bank, and Comerica Park opened in 2000. The Tigers are owned by Mike Ilitch, founder of Little Caesar's Pizza - with a family net worth of $2.7 billion.

Next, taxpayers were committed to shelling out $430 million for a new home for the NFL Lions. The team is owned by William Ford (son of Edsel, grandson of Henry – whose business model was based on the principle that those who built his Model T's should be paid enough to be able to afford one) net worth $1.25 billion. $40 million was paid for naming rights, and Ford Field opened in 2002.

A decade later, it was clear that the promised economic benefits of providing affluent suburbanites new places to watch millionaires play ball would never materialize. All it amounted to was billionaires getting taxpayers to commit hundreds of millions to subsidize their Four months ago, Michigan Gov. Rick Snyder (R) turned Detroit over to Washington D.C. bankruptcy attorney Kevyn Örr under Michigan's Émergency Financial Manager Law – which allows the appointee to take over all financial affairs from a city's elected officials.

(At the time of his appointment, Orr was reminded he owed $15,800 from four liens placed on his $1 million Chevy Chase, MD home by the Maryland Office of Unemployment Insurance for unpaid taxes on childcare for his two kids. Orr called the oversight "embarrassing".)

Last November, Michigan voters rejected a tougher version of the law pushed by Gov. Snyder – which would've allowed the appointee to take over virtually all civic authority; leaving the mayor, city council, and all elected officials with only whatever powers the Emergency Manager decided to grant them. It would've allowed the appointee to personally shape curricula in financially troubled school districts.

After that rejection, Gov. Snyder pushed through an even more draconian measure that took effect last March - one that allows his appointees to summarily dismiss elected officials, cancel labor contracts, sell public assets and unilaterally impose taxes on residents. (I wonder if the tea-baggers who helped Snyder get elected were paying attention.)

Two weeks ago, Detroit became the largest U.S. municipality to file for bankruptcy. Gov. Snyder and Emergency Manager Orr are now appealing a circuit court's ruling issued the day after the filing, following actions brought by municipal pensioners and pension funds, that the bankruptcy violates the Michigan State Constitution - which describes government pensions as a contractual obligation that "shall not be diminished or impaired."

Ingham County Judge Rosemary Aquilina told the state's attorney general, "I have some serious concerns because there was this rush to bankruptcy court that didn't have to occur and shouldn't have occurred. Plaintiffs shouldn't have been blindsided." Judge Aquilina ruled, "It's cheating, sir, and it's cheating good people who work."

EM Kevyn Orr is not unsympathetic to those who, after a lifetime of hard work, face having their retirements wiped out at his sole discretion; "This is very personal to me . . . My mother is a pensioner." He promised all retirees would continue receiving full payments for another six months.

The target always seems to be pensions – especially public (lest workers in the private sector get subversive ideas of being somehow equally deserving of a secure retirement). In Detroit, there's $3.5 billion in unfunded pension liabilities. (In L.A., the figure's $30 billion.) It's only 18% of Detroit's total $19 billion of indebtedness, but for Gov. Snyder and those bankrolling his political career, the discrediting and destruction of pensions (along with privatizing however much of government they can get away with) is what this opportunity is all about.

There's the talk of bloated pensions and greedy pensioners. The average pension for a retired Detroit municipal worker is $19,000 a year. For a retired cop or firefighter, it's $30,000 - and they don't collect Social Security.

William Shine, 76, a retired Detroit police sergeant, was quoted in the NY Times; "Does Detroit have a problem? Absolutely. Did I create it? I don't think so. They made me some promises, and I made them some promises. I kept my promises. They're not going to keep theirs."

No money for pensions. No money for schools, hospitals, public safety, or to put people to work helping revitalize their communities. Priceless works are to be sold off the walls of Detroit museums.

Less than a week after he announced Detroit's bankruptcy, Gov. Rick Snyder had another announcement - one enthusiastically embraced by EM Kevyn Orr - that taxpayers would be providing $400 million to once again subsidize the hobbies of Little Caesar's billionaire Mike Ilitch – this time to share the $650 million cost of a new arena for his NHL Red Wings.

As once our nation's fourth-largest city and one of the industrial hubs of the world, over most of the past century Motown was a place where, thanks to strong unions, with a good blue-collar job you could afford a home, send your kids to college, take your family on vacation a couple weeks a year and be assured of a secure pension providing a comfortable retirement.

Thanks to a government purchased by the one-percenters, there will now be taxation without representation to raise hundreds of millions for a project providing, as described by Dave Zirin in The Nation, "No living wages. No job security. No tax base. Just spanking new stadiums for suburban sports fans, which Detroit residents will be able to enter only if they're selling foam novelty fingers."

WHATEVER HAPPENED TO THOSE LAZY DAYS OF SUMMER?

According to my calculations, summer is quite sure how this came about but the calendar has never lied to me before. It has confused me and taunted me but it has never

Looking at my calendar I can see no lazy days of summer noted anywhere in the foreseeable future. I am not sure if this is an oversight on my part and that I should have at least penciled in one lazy day of summer or if those lazy days of summer are a thing of the past. I sure hope it is not the latter. can hardly imagine a world without any lazy days of summer. It just would not be summer in my opinion. This probably is the price people pay for getting old. When I was young most of my summer was filled with lazy days where I practiced the fine art of doing nothing. Oh how I yearn for the return of those good old days

Someone once told me, "Sonny, don't ever grow old." At the time, I did not know what he meant. I assumed he was referring to his loss of hair or arthritis in his joints or forgetting things. I thought that was what it meant to grow old. He meant nothing of the sort. Now that I am old, I understand exactly what he was warning. There is no doubt in my mind; he was bemoaning the fact that his lazy days were gone. Perhaps, he was envious of the fact that at the time I had loads and loads of lazy days on my hands. I did not know just

Mistress of the Parsonage hoping to get some empathy at least. Instead of sympathizing with me, all she did was look at me and say in that tone of voice that I know so well, "You just want an excuse to do nothing."

To which I replied most sharply, "I don't need an excuse to do nothing, all I need is an

Thinking about what I said I discovered there was more wisdom in that one sentence than anything else I have ever said. I had to sit in the corner for a few moments recovering from the shock of saying something with wisdom in it. I probably say many things with wisdom in it without even thinking. In fact, I am good at saying many things without mean, never forget those lazy days of summer. thinking.

Although I may not be good at a wide variety of things, I have mastered the art of doing half over. I am not nothing. I can do nothing better than I can do anything. Of course, I do not have too many opportunities to do anything; I have more opportunities to do nothing. If I had my choice, I would rather do nothing than anything. My philosophy is simply this, why be good at nothing and not put it to good use? I have invested a lot of time and energy into doing nothing and I am concerned that not having an opportunity to do nothing I might forget the finesse associated with that art.

I do not get a chance very often to do nothing so I am anxious to practice the skills associated with nothing. In this regard, my calendar has not been very cooperative. Where are those lazy days of summer where I can do nothing?

Not only has my calendar not been cooperative but also my wife has been the epitome of obstruction in this pursuit of mine. Just when I think a lazy day is looming on the horizon, she comes up with something for me to do. Even though all I wanted to do was nothing, she insists that I do her something. Either I do her something or else. I do not want to do her or else for nothing.

Those lazy days of summer were the perfect opportunity to perfect the fine art of doing nothing. Regretfully I have to honestly face the fact that those times are far behind me. No more lazy days of summer for me. At least not as many as there used to be.

The old preacher in Ecclesiastes was right when he said, "To every thing there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven:" (Ecclesiastes 3:1 KJV).

I can look back with a sense of satisfaction I was whining about this to the Gracious and know that when I did have those lazy days of summer I put them to good use and developed skill in doing nothing. I know before me are some days when I will not have the strength or energy to do anything, then my ability to do nothing will come in good

DESPITE INCREASING POVERTY AND UNEMPLOYMENT, IMMIGRATION ADVOCACY CONTINUES

Paul Ryan, U. S. Representative, Chairman of the House Budget Committee and former vice-presidential candidate recently declared that the federal war on poverty "has failed miserably." No one argues. During the fifty years since President Lyndon Johnson first promised to end poverty, the United States has wasted $15 trillion; 46 million Americans live in poverty and 15 million more receive food stamps than before the 2007 recession started.

The complete story is worse than Ryan indicated. For every job that the White House claims to have created, two Americans have been added to the food stamp roles. Over the weekend, the Associated Press reported that four out of five U.S. adults have struggled with joblessness, nearpoverty or welfare reliance for at least parts of their lives, a sure sign that the economy is deteriorating and the American dream more elusive than ever.

Despite the obvious truth that the last thing the nation needs when so many Americans are suffering is more people, especially more poor people like those who would be invited through the illconceived Senate immigration bill, S. 744, advocacy for the legislation grinds on.

Poorly written immigration bills like S. 744 translate into importing poverty. Historically, immigration legislation admitted only the foreignborn who would be self-sufficient. Those who entered but became welfare dependent were subject to deportation under the policy then known as the public charge doctrine.

Today, because of political correctness, the public charge doctrine has disappeared. Whether they are legal or illegal immigrants, the poor, undereducated and unskilled are welcome, fund more services depleted.

The current and future beneficiaries of lax immigration enforcement are has identified as the group with the syndicated since 1986.. or comments to nation's highest poverty rate. On Joe email joeguzzardi@capsweb.org.

average, 23.2 percent of Hispanics live below the poverty line compared to the national average of 14.3 percent.

Ryan, a self-proclaimed budget-busting Republican has curiously assumed Senator Marco Rubio's role as the GOP's most vocal proponent of granting amnesty to 11 million illegal immigrants and importing millions more overseas workers. In private meetings with Senate and House members, Ryan has been trying to map out a strategy to pass amnesty legislation before the year's end.

According to Ryan, passing a generous immigration reform bill is "the right thing to do." But amnesty is the wrong thing, especially for millions of impoverished immigrant-headed households and the 20 million jobless or under-employed Americans. Part-time job creation now exceeds the numbers of full-time jobs added each month. Even Ryan, a supposed budget guru, can't deny the math. Every authorized worker added to the labor market makes it tougher for unemployed Americans to find work.

Ryan is rumored to be considering a 2016 White House bid. Like Rubio earlier this year, Ryan may think that if he takes a leadership role in passing an immigration bill, his chances will improve. But immigration advocacy ended poorly for Rubio. In January, a Public Policy Polling report ranked Rubio number one among potential Republican presidential candidates. Today, after assuming a prominent role as the Gang of Eight's most visible immigration advocate and promoting S. 744 for months, Rubio ranks sixth.

Veteran Capitol Hill observers know that immigration is Congress' most toxic issue. Wise politicians listen to their constituents who strongly oppose to rewarding illegal immigration with legalization and importing millions even though jobs are few and budgets of overseas workers to compete with struggling Americans.
