NEIL THE PIG - A SIERRA MADRE ICON - IS HERE TO STAY!

If you are a Sierra Madre resdent and have been in a deep trance this week or didn't turn on the TV or Radio; or if you didn't log on to Facebook or Twitter or You Tube; or just in case you didn't speak to any of your neighbors since Wednesday, then there is a good chance that you don't know much about how this community rallied together to save Neil, the quiet, peace loving, vegetarian, PIG that lives on W. Montecito.

The furor began when Neil's big sister, Kate Emerson was cited twice for allegedly breaking the city's municipal code regarding having a hog. Problem was, Neil isn't a hog, just a little chubby Pot Belly

Nevertheless, the idea that Neil, a 17 year resident of Sierra Madre might have been asked to leave town, did not sit well with a lot of people. And to make matters worse, the whole controversy over Neil's right to live here was the result of our porcine resident being caught in the cross-fire of a dispute among neighbors.

As with all Sierra Madre drama, the stories grow each time they are told, but the bottom line is this: When the Pasadena Humane Society came out to cite the owner of a rooster who was probably not in compliance with the city's early morning noise ordinance, they noticed Neil who they thought, erroneously was a hog and therefore in violation of the city's 'no hogs here' ordinance. (Yes, we have one).

There was also an investigation of whether or not Neil's cousins - dogs that belong to his Big Sister, were responsible for attacking one of the chickens in the neighbors yard, but that hasn't been proven either. Nevertheless, the dogs were not cited for possible chomping a chicken, but poor Neil, who was in his own house, minding his own business was suddenly the focus of attention. Neil lives in his own yard with a lovely white picket fence, his own playground and his own house. His yard is very clean and he has delighted children and adults in Sierra Madre since at least 1996.

However, in the end, SMPD Chief Larry Giannone paid a visit to Kate Emerson and let her know that it was official, Neil was not a hog and as such, was not in violation of anything other than being a cute, little chubby pig.

The story didn't end there however, the next day the TV crews attended a rally in support of Neil held in Memorial Park and proceeded to take Neil's story and how the community rallied to save him to the airwaves. Moral of this story: Be careful, things that people in town really care about, they will fight for! By the way, the poor Rooster was taken away because we do have laws that govern chickens and roosters. Hmm, do we have a 'turkey' ordinance? CITY COUNCIL MEETING WRAP-UP

By Marina Coco La Salle

Mayor Nancy Walsh, Mayor Pro Tem John Harabedian, and Council Members John Capoccia, Chris Koerber, and Josh Moran were all present at this week's city council meeting. This week's reports were short and sweet. In fact Council Member Capoccia was the only one to report highlights from the Golf Tournament that took place over the weekend. He happily stated, "It was a good time had

Public Facilities Fee Adjustment

Development Services Director, Danny Castro, led the first public facilities fee. This was a follow up topic from the last city council meeting. This proposed alteration to the resolution is to raise the public facilities fee for new development taking place in our village.

Building Code Adoption
Building Official, James Garrick gave a short presentation to begin this public hearing on the California Building Code Adoption. Every three years the cities of California are to adopt up-to-date codes. Time is given after the new codes are accepted for local amendments based on specific city laws. City Clerk, Nancy Shollenberger, pointed out an interesting fact, saying, "If it's a demolition of an historic structure, in addition to the $1000 fine, you will not be able to pull any building or construction permits or put anything on that parcel for five years." There followed much discussion. The council decided that for the second reading, there needs to be a presentation on the possible options of changing repercussions to those who demolish or build a structure without a permit. Fire Code Adoption

The last public hearing on the agenda was led by Fire Marshal, Captain Richard Snyder. He repeated that every three years there are adoptions of new fire codes stating, "It's that time of year again." There are a few adoptions of amendments in the California fire code and the international fire code, which he briefly touched on. There are no significant changes that will impact Sierra Madre. The codes will go into effect this coming January.

Youth Seat To Community Services Commission

After the past months of trying to hearing on the adjustments to the public add a youth seat to the community services committee, it was decided that this would be a good idea, and was passed. To get the word out on this new opportunity there has been advertising at the local schools in hopes of receiving many applications to the commission. Months have passed and time is ticking. The commission is ready to appoint this new promising young person, Peter Siberell Jr., as the youth seat. He will hold this position for the rest of the school year ending in

Future Budgets

Director of Administrative Services, Karen Schneider gave a brief presentation highlighting the information that was given on the staff report. There were only two specific highlights: the history of the use of the Utility Users Tax and the classic expenditure reductions.

From The City of Sierra Madre E-Blast discoloration will continue. Water De-Several Sierra Madre water customers have contacted the City with questions and concerns regarding water coming from their taps that is yellow or orange in color. Although the discolored water does not pose health concerns, it is perfectly understandable that our customers do not want to drink that or use it for cooking. The water is safe for use, but aesthetically unappealing.

The discoloration of the water is a direct result of the change from our deep well water treated with free chlorine to the use of MWD chloraminated water. The difference in chemistry between the two sources has caused a scouring effect on our distribution system. While the imported water has zero iron and manganese when it leaves the MWD treatment plant, the discoloration is caused by iron precipitating from the City's older steel pipelines and the galvanized plumbing of many of the city's residences and businesses. The iron is what gives the water its coloration.

Buildings and homes with galvanized steel plumbing are more likely to see water discoloration. Moreover, within those buildings, a little-used bathroom or faucet is more likely to produce redtinged water. If this happens, please be patient and allow your cold water to run for a few minutes at full velocity. After a few minutes the water should clear. In addition when running laundry allow for whites to be laundered last as discolored water may stain partment staff has estimated that these incidents may continue for as long as 6 months, particularly in low flow areas where water system circulation is minimal. In order to reduce the acclimation time, water department staff is "flushing" the water system frequently, by opening fire hydrants to rapidly move water through the system. The City is dedicated and committed to water conservation. We understand water is a limited resource that must be carefully managed. Since flushing is critical to maintain high-quality drinking water, an efficient flushing program is also essential. The flushing program is monitored to ensure the least amount of water is used. Whenever possible, flushed water is captured in a water tanker and released at the spreading grounds so that it does not go to waste.

Sierra Madre's water system has for over 100 years provided the highest quality well water possible. The situation with the discolored water is likened to the fuel system of a car, for years a system running on "premium," will notice the car just doesn't run as well when the grade of fuel is switched. This is all the more reason to continue to conserve water as much as possible to allow for the City's underground aquifer to recover to a level at which the City can return to its historic water source.

The Sierra Madre Water Department remains committed to providing the best quality water possible to its customers. To that end, we continue a rigorous water sampling and quality

REDUCTION OF STAFF AT POST OFFICE NOT TO EFFECT SERVICE, POST OFFICE SAYS

By Bill Coburn

If you're wondering why the parking I stopped by today, and whose name lot at the Sierra Madre Post Office is so tag said she was lead clerk. When I empty tonight, totally devoid of Postal Service delivery trucks, even in the evening, the answer is, they're in Arcadia. Trucks that left Sierra Madre's office to go out on their Sierra Madre delivery route today didn't return to Sierra Madre, they went to the Arcadia office. In an effort to cut costs, delivery to Sierra Madre will now be handled by the Arcadia office.

The Sierra Madre office isn't closing, purchase stamps at the windows in moved to Arcadia, according to Liz, consolidations in the last year who was working the counter when asked if this move might be indicative of a future closure of this office, Liz responded that "I hope not."

According to an article by Adam Poulisse in the Pasadena Star News which quoted Raul Halili, the officer in charge of the Sierra Madre post office, removing the carrier operations out of Sierra Madre will decrease facility related costs there, ultimately saving money for the USPS. Halili told the Star News that "It will be trans still be receiving mail, and residents to the community...There will still be will still be able to drop off mail and the same number of letter carriers." CROSS COUNTRY CYCLING UPDATE:

It's been a little over a week since Jerry Poole and Mike King set started on their journey to support a cause important to them. The are on a 3,000 mile bicycle journey from Sierra Madre, California to Key West, Florida in order to raise money for, and bring attention to the Wounded Warrior Project. They intend to bike 50 miles per day and should arrive in a little less than two months. At press time, this dynamic duo was resting comfortably in Yma Arizona. After spending Thursday night in El Centro, California, they began a 56 mile trip to Yuma, Arizona. According to Jerry's Facebook Post, "It was 106 degrees outside and an uphill grade the entire ride."

Jerry's best friend since high school, David (Duck) Foster, has joined the effort as their Road Manager. According to Vicki Poole, "Dave has done a lot of promoting and has become a tremendous asset to this event. He has been mapping out bike shops, checking roads, informing the local media, Highway Patrol and military of what they are doing. They have been fed, clothed, comped at bike shops for significant costs of repairs, and really shown a great deal of appreciation for the cause they are promoting.

They have a fundraising goal of $10,000. If you would like to support their efforts, please go to the link below and make a donation to WWP in the name of their Ride: Coast To Coast For Courage.

Sierra Madre's newest restaurant, Monsieur Crepe!

Right across the street from the old city hall and just a door or so down from The Bottle Shop, 54 W. Sierra Madre Blvd, to be

The patient and hungry John and I stopped in for lunch on Monday after hearing rave reviews from our daughter, Leah, and her husband, Chuck, who dined there on Sunday. They gave Monsieur Crepe two thumbs up and we're adding our thumbs up, too.

Host and owner, Aurelien Mosconi, took our order and our crepes were out in short order. John had L'Indienne, which is shredded grilled chicken in a homemade curry sauce, fresh spinach, julienned apple and a touch of cream. My choice was L'Óceane, smoked wild salmon, dill, avocado, lemon and another touch of cream. We shared and both were absolutely delicious.

Monsieur Crepe serves a selection of Sweet Crepes which involve jams, ice cream, fruit and even one entitled La Banana Split, which is exactly that! We had Savory Crepes which are more of a main course. Monsieur Crepe will please just about anybody with choices such as La Forestiere, white mushrooms cooked in cream, caramelized onions, arugula and bits of crispy bacon; or La Vegan, which is spinach, roasted bell peppers, caramelized onions, asparagus and a dash of pesto. So many choices! La Mediterranee, which involves grilled shredded chicken, cucumbers, kalamata olives, red onions, romaine lettuce, feta cheese and homemade mayonnaise! I'm ready to go back for more right now!!

Gluten free buckwheat ($2.00 additional) or whole wheat are your crepe choices and for a couple of dollars you can add a Caesar or baby greens salad. Speaking of salads, there is quite a variety of them: Quinoa or Nicoise, Spinach Mango, Kale, Beet just to name a few. AND there are croissant sandwiches of every variety imaginable. AND Les Baguettes sandwiches, which looked incredible as made whole wheat crepes, we watched one of the Monsieur Crepe chefs creating Aioli sauce. Their mayonnaise and other sauces are made right there, fresh is wonderful!

looked delicious. Unfortunately, we were too full to continue to the dessert portion of our lunch but we'll be going back to try those another day.

The décor is bright, minimalist, with framed scenes of Parisian landmarks. Monsieur Crepe serves coffee, espresso, cappuccino and a variety of sodas. There is inside and al fresco dining available and, on a day like today, al fresco is divine. Monsieur Crepe's hours are: 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. every day and 7

So! Stop for coffee and a croissant while you're walking, or possibly the La Douceur crepe: salted caramel and homemade Chantilly cream or L'Americaine: peanut butter, strawberry jam, banana slices, almond bits and more of that Chantilly! Elvis would have loved that one! Bon Appetit! And

OPEN LETTER OF GRATITUDE TO THE COMMUNITY OF SIERRA

I am writing this letter as a parent of an adolescent child with special needs who had an incident in town this last week that was very unsettling to me and I'm sure to many of you. First of all, it goes without saying, I apologize to any of you who were negatively affected by her loud screaming. It was something I did not see coming and is not something that has happened in town but I can at home and at school. Basically, what I saw happen this past week in town felt like an unbelievable outpouring of care and kindness. I had to call the police to help me get her home. They know her behavior as I've had to call them to the house on more than one occasion and they have been incredibly sensitive to her emotional and developmental disability.

However, this time nothing was working to get her to calm down and the paramedics had to take her to the hospital. To the woman who came up to me to ask if she could do anything to help me with her, I thank you. To the man who walked by with his dog and asked if his dog could help calm her, I thank you. To Larry, for disrupting your karate class, I thank you for your kindness and apologize for the major disruption. To the man who said he was praying for me and my daughter, I thank you. It is rare to live in a town like Sierra Madre where people genuinely care and show they care by words and actions. The police and paramedics and offers of support helped me through this very difficult ordeal. Thank you so much,

EDUCATION BASED INCARCERATION: A STEP IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION

There have been a lot of negative reports about Los Angeles County Men's Central Jail and the excessive use of force and multiple lawsuits. My task is to inform the public that there IS something positive being done. The Sheriff is aware that wrongs took place and has acknowledged that. The Department has undergone changes. Although Undersheriff Tanaka has retired, Teri McDonald has come from the State Prison system as an Assistant Sheriff.

Last year, I heard about Education Based Incarceration (EBI). When I met Assistant Sheriff McDonald, I asked to learn more. Consequently, I met with Sgt. Ray Harley and Dep. Dave Bates, M.E.R.I.T. Program Coordinator to discuss EBI, and was given a manual explaining the program. At first glance, its cover caught my eyes with its message- "Create a Life Worth Living."

"Create a Life Worth Living" is quite extensive and consists of 50+ pages explaining the

"Create a Life Worth Living" is quite extensive and consists of 50+ pages explaining the program, charts with info on recidivism-repeat offending -and safer jails, and mention of 40 incidents of recognition/awards for the jail system. Because there is so much information in the manual, I will report on it in two segments.

On the first page Sheriff Baca's message speaks of running the nation's largest jail system. "From documented high rates of recidivism across the country, we realize traditional incarceration with punishment doesn't work." That is why the LASD established its Bureau of Educational Incarceration in May, 2012 and began to utilize its programs.

Part One: Going In explains that the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department (LASD) manages the largest jail system in the United States, nearly 19,000! Each day, The Inmate Reception Center (IRC) receives approximately 440 new bookings. Each inmate goes through a detailed classification process and medical screening, and is asked if he/she would be interested in entering an educational program while incarcerated. If the answer is "yes", they are given a second assessment to indicate which studies and courses they should take to improve all aspects of success in life and which subjects and career training they would like to pursue. A "Master Plan" is made for each student with his/her active participation and they are appointed a "Case Manager", who creates a computer file to chart the student's progress. All completion certificates/awards are placed in that student's record and can be forwarded to schools, authorities or prospective employees on request.

Part Two: Time In explains The Transformation during incarceration: Aristotle is credited with "Education is not the filling of the bucket: education is the lightning of a flame." This section speaks of the learning environment -to be successful, an education program depends on a stimulating environment. Incentives include Video: A library of over a thousand Discovery Education Network videos, Animal Planet, History and other educational channels; Music: EBI is expanding the network of good music (favorites, cool jazz, light classics and other specialties) to all facilities for sleeping or restful medication; Libraries: There are thousands of books available to inmates in libraries and delivered on "rolling libraries" to those who are disabled or have no access.

The Inmate Programs Unit's primary mission is coordinating all the educational, vocation and behavioral therapy programs for inmate students.

Academic Programs include Adult Basic Education –A series of courses offered to students preparing for the formal GED preparation course and General Education Development-An alternative program of a state-approved equivalency series in language arts, math, science and social studies.

The Sheriff's Department offers a wide variety of industrial training courses:

Cement and Concrete Block Masonry (Modern masonry techniques), Art Education (General art skills techniques & expression, Automotive Body repair and Detailing (Repairs, Maintenance, welding, power tools, metal techniques, spray painting, refinishing, details, Commercial Painting (Instruction in brushes, rollers, spray equipment, abrasive blasting and rigging/scaffolding), Building Maintenance (Custodial repair, basic repairs, floor care, insect/rodent control, Residential Construction (Comprehensive course from foundation to roofing and everything in between, Commercial Welding (Various types), Computer Operations (Basic Microsoft 2010, Word, PowerPoint, Access/Excel), Landscaping (Lawn care, irrigation, plant care, landscape design), Culinary Arts (Food services, baking/cooking) and Directory Assistance Operator (Taught by a contracted education agency, inmate students provide info services 24/7.)

The Jail Enterprises Unit oversees vocational shops spread over several jail facilities. Credentialed instructors train the students and the products they manufacture are sold to Los Angeles County departments and employees generating revenue for the Inmate Welfare Commission to support the entire scope of inmate programs. These courses include Print Shop (This Commercial building at Pitchess Detention Center; students learn basic/advanced printing application and produce forms, flyers, brochures, invitations, envelopes, magazines), Wood Shop (Millwork, Finish Carpentry, Cabinet making; repair furniture & crafts signs for LASD), Wheelchair Repair Shop (Repairs wheelchairs for Medical services Bureau), Sign Shop (Learn computer-aided fabrication & introduced to graphic arts design; produce engraved signs, plaques, trophies/medallions), Bike Shop (Repair & refurbish bikes donated from nationwide shops), Plastic Bag Manufacturing (Industrial machine operation, packaging and small-scale warehousing, Commercial Embroidery Shop (Embroidery basics, machine maintenance & technical application), Pet Grooming (Job training skills to work at kennels, animal shelters, pet shops/salons), And Commercial Landscaping, Plant Nursery, Landscaping, and Grounds keeping (Training for nursery operations, equipment maintenance, horticulture skills, soil preparation, plant preparation, sprinkler installation/maintenance).

Next week, I will explain the Behavioral Modification Courses (Cognitive Behavioral Therapy

Next week, I will explain the Behavioral Modification Courses (Cognitive Behavioral Therapy which offer a wide variety of critical thinking and perception courses-over 150 community volunteer members have been trained and recruited for this and the MERIT PROGRAM (Maximizing Education Reaching Individual Transformation) which provides an avenue for change through personal accountability and increases the student's skills at utilizing options and resources for success.

WITCHES AND WITCHES EYEBALLS

By Christoper Nyerges

From Christopher Nyerges' unpublished book about growing up in Pasadena

[Nyerges is the author of "How to Survive Anywhere," "Guide to Wild Foods," and other books. You can learn about his books and classes from School of Self-reliance, Box 48134, Eagle Rock, CA 90041, or www.ChristopherNyerges.com.]

I entered first grade at Saint Elizabeth school with great anticipation, and some fear. I initially felt pain at being separated from my mother and family, but that dissipated once I got used to my "school family." Besides, two of my older brothers were there too, and a few other boys who I knew from Kindergarten and the neighborhood. The school day was very regular, with topics planned for each hour and each day. For example, Thursday was art day.

On the Thursday before Halloween, our nun gave everyone "construction paper" – heavy colored paper – and we were to make our choice of Halloween themes. Most students made jack-o-lanterns, or cutouts based on other examples that were posted around the classroom.

I decided to make a witch on a broom, which was not one of the examples posted. I cut out a large moon from orange paper and pasted it onto the black sheet of paper. Then, as best I could, I cut out the silhouette of a witch on a broom stick, with pointed hat and hair flowing in the wind. It was very crude, of course, and I cut the image based on something from my memory. I didn't talk to anyone about what I was doing. Most students enjoyed talking to each other during art class, but it took me a long time to talk to anyone at all. After about 2 hours, the nun went around and looked at everyone's art. She held up some examples from a few of the more popular students, and everyone oohed and ahhed at these examples. They were good variations of the examples that had been posted around the classroom. I was sitting in the last seat that the nun got to, and she acted stunned when she saw my witch

"Look at what Christopher made," she said. At first, I thought she was going to be mad. After all, I just made what I wanted to make, not what she gave as examples.

"That's very good," she said, holding it up for everyone to see. The popular girls came over to my desk, with many other students, and they were all looking at my art work with many other students, and they were all looking at my art work.

"We didn't know you were an artist," said Mary, apparently speaking for the entire class.

I didn't know what to say, and said nothing. After the excitement wore off, the teacher posted all the art works on the little clips that were located at the top of the blackboards. I was given a "first place prize," as my art was different from everyone else's. I wondered about this myself. Was I an artist? What inspired me to make the witch? I knew that I liked to create art pieces but I didn't have the discipline to continue to make examples in each motif until I'd mastered it. Art was simply a medium for something else.

You'd think that because of my interest in the witch, I'd be interested in all things Halloweenish. Such was not the case. The next weekend, the "older boys" (8th graders) had a "haunted house" in one of the classrooms. You paid your fee, got blindfolded, and someone held your hand, and pushed your hand into one plate of "stuff" after another. Yes, I knew I was not really touching witches eyeballs – they had to be grapes. But after having my hand pushed into icky stuff two or three times, and having the "grown-ups" cackle and laugh and try to scare me, I was terrified, and with all my might, I pulled away from the grownup holding me, and made a mad dash outside. I got out and I ran and ran until I was far from the classroom haunted house. I didn't stop until I was satisfied that no one was going to grab me and take me back in there.

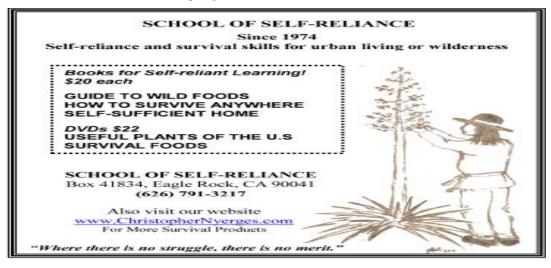

Partly, I think, I was frightened due to the blindfold and the feeling of vulnerability. But that cured me of paying to have someone scare me. I found that henceforth, I preferred my eyes open in any such frightening experience. And somehow, I never had the desire to go on rides where I could get killed, such as roller coasters and other "fun" and fast amusement park rides. I found that having a steady emotional state meant that I would forego all such future "thrills." It was a cost that I paid easily.

To this day, I don't understand why anyone would pay good money to get frightened, and so I have rarely watched "horror" movies.

Halloween on the streets of our neighborhood in 1960 and the early 1960s was like a wild scene from a Fellini movie. The streets were packed with children and their parents going door to door, and there was a din of yells and screaming as children made the rounds in costumes with their paper bags.

My father enjoyed sitting on our front brick porch, and giving out small cups of apple cider to each person who came by. Many of the adults and youngsters enjoyed this because they were thirsty from all their running around. So people would pause briefly on the porch and talk with my father, usually wearing some silly wig.

But today, I think even parents have grown weary of all the bad things that can happen when mobs of children roam the streets in the dark. I think it's a good thing that Halloween commemorations have returned to social and group events.

WUO BABY BABY – SMOKEY AT CRYSTAL BALL

ter Saturday night with hits such as "Ooo Baby Baby," "I Second That Emotion" and "Tears of a Clown" to honor Arcadia City Councilman John Wuo and wife Jane Wuo and to raise money for Methodist Hospital.

Mayor Mickey Segal proclaimed Oct. 19, 2013 as John and Jane Wuo day, then proceeded to join with a professional auctioneer to raise tens of thousands of dollars from silent and visual auction bidders. Wuo said the people of Methodist Hospital are like his second family and he will not forget them.

Among the other attendees at the elegant affair with dazzling decor and delectable dining were Congresswoman Judy Chu, County Supervisor Michael D. Antonovich, Methodist Hospital CEO Dan Ausman, Arcadia City Councilmen Bob Harbicht and

This year's co-chairs for the Methodist Hospital Foundation's annual fundraiser, cardilogist Dr. K. Heiner Vogelbach, and Christine Antonovich, previously announced eight major sponsors were recruited at about $30,000 each. The goal was to reach a half-million dollars in net proceeds. Last year's event co-chaired by John Wuo and Peggy Cherng, netted $475,000. Tens of thousands of dollars are typically bid during a live auction among high-rollers at the event, as well as a silent auction held during the pre-show reception.

Proceeds from this year's event will be used for cardiac care at the hospital, including full renovation of the Catheterization Laboratory #2 and replacing current equipment with updated imaging systems, ensuring physicians and technologists experience easy integration while seamlessly increasing the quantity and quality of procedures performed.

Many of the most high-profile items in the auction were donated by Segal, a longtime Foundation supporter, and his family members and his Century City financial firm, including a sports package of VIP tickets to the Dodgers, Lakers, Clippers and Kings; a 20-person suite at Dodgers Stadium; a vacation by private jet; and a trip to New York with tickets to a Broadway show and the Late Show with David Letterman. A VIP private party for 10 at a Panda Inn went for $12,000.

The suspect is described as male, thin build, wearing a dark colored beanie, grey colored hooded sweatshirt, blue jeans and black shoes, and carrying a tan colored backpack. Further investigation is being conducted by the Detective Bureau.

Friday, October 18:

- 11. Just after 8:00 a.m., an officer was dispatched to a residence in the 000 block of Woodland Lane regarding a theft report. An investigation revealed an elderly victim suffering from Alzheimer's disease issued a $4,500 check to an unknown suspect from "Indoor Air Quality" for fictitious air conditioning work. The suspect attempted to cash the check at Bank of America, 169 East Foothill Boulevard; however, when the teller became suspicious, the suspect fled the location with the check. He is described as middle-eastern, 20 to 30-years-old, medium skin tone, with short brown hair. Further investigation is being conducted by the Detective Bureau.
- 12. At about 9:23 p.m., an officer responded to a residence in the 000 block of Colorado Boulevard regarding a report of child endangerment. A search of the residence revealed a 28-year-old Black female was in possession of marijuana without a medical marijuana license and had willfully endangered her two children by leaving the drug and other alcoholic beverages within their reach. She was arrested and transported to the Arcadia City Jail for booking. The children, six and nine-years-old, were taken into custody by the Department of Child and Family Services.

DUARTE SENIORS HAVE A NEW PLACE TO HANG OUT

DUARTE, CA, -- Joann Stroup has been a Duarte Senior regular for years but she confessed that she had never stepped foot on the Senior Center patio until now, the big day of the patio renovation

Before the facelift, the Senior Center patio was perhaps not that inviting with its plastic chairs, sparse landscaping, and little shade. It lacked ambiance. The improvements includ brand new sturdy and attractive patio furniture with umbrellas, decorative pots and plants and a fountain. The barbeque area was refurbished, patio walls were given a fresh coat of paint and the old planter irrigation system was replaced and beautiful new landscaping installed.

With the City operating on a lean budget and with a reduced work force, the transformation not have happened at all at this time except for the teamwork between two City departments and their staffs to get the job done. The Parks and Recreation Department Facilities Maintenance Division and the Community Development Department's Field Services Division worked the project into their regular schedules over a four-month period and kept all the work in-house, for the most part utilizing equipment and materials on hand.

Seniors, community leaders and City staff who attended the ribbon cutting ceremony were impressed with the new look.

"We are so happy with our attractive new patio, just in time for the holiday parties," said Senior Services Supervisor, Peggy Diamond.

LA SALLE'S HOMECOMING COURT

Pasadena, CA - La Salle High School students had the opportunity to experience entertainment both on and off Kohorst Field for Homecoming Week. The Student Life team worked throughout the month to bring "A Blast from the Past!" to the students and Royal Court at the rally before the big game on Friday, October 18.

Watching the school come together at the rally further motivated the student body to come watch the Lancer football team compete that night against Mary Star of the Sea High School. During halftime of the football game, Robert McCreary and his sister Missy McCreary were crowned Homecoming King and Queen. With their mother and father by their sides, the King and Queen wore their crowns in front of the crowd and cheered the Lancers on during the second half where the Lancers defeated the Stars 51-20! The Homecoming Dance, sponsored by the Junior Class Council, followed on Saturday night.

CARRIE

THE REEL DEAL: by Ben Show

I have been a huge Stephen King fan ever since I read the book Carrie. To me, it was one of the best horror books ever written. However, when I watched the original movie version of the book, I found myself very disappointed (except for the prom scene, of course). For this reason, I was looking forward to see this remake for quite a while and I am happy to say that it does not dis-

This remake follows the plot of the book and the original film, focusing on a poor girl, Carrie (Chloe Grace Moretz), who is severely bullied at school and lives with an insane, abusive mother (Julianne Moore). When she discovers that she has the ability to control objects with her minds, she takes life into her own hands and decides to get her revenge.

I liked this remake for three reasons, the first being Chloe Grace Moretz's performance, which was amazing. The second was that the character of Carrie's mother is developed more. For example, she shows even more signs of insanity than in the original film, which made this movie even more interesting. The final reason is the prom scene. It is done absolutely perfect and the chain of chaotic events that leads to the explosive conclusion is absolutely stunning to watch. I would recommend this movie for fans of the original movie, the book, or someone looking for an interesting plot, characters, and awesome CGI telekinetic fight scenes.

REAL FOOD DAILY

Onto a New Adventure

A few years ago I visited a now defunct BBQ Joint on the west side of town, a BBQ lover that I am, the drive from Pasadena I felt is no problem and I would drive anywhere for great Q, the hostess as she was bringing us to our table, said "enjoy your meal", I responded, what do you recommend? She said I am a Vegan I don't eat here,yikes!!!

FOOD & DRINK

I digress onto the question. What is a vegan? What is veganism? Veganism is a type of vegetarian diet that excludes meat, eggs, dairy products and all other animal-derived ingredients. Many vegans also do not eat foods that are processed using animal products, such as refined white sugar and some wines. Most vegans also avoid the use of all products tested on animals, as well as animal-derived non-food products, such as leather, fur and wool. Vegan refers to either a person who follows this way of eating, or to the diet itself.

TABLE FOR TWO by Peter Dills thechefknows@yahoo.com

Although there is some debate as to whether certain foods, such as honey, fit into a vegan diet, if you are cooking for other vegans, it is best to err on the side of caution and avoid these foods. What do vegans eat?

This is perhaps the most common question about veganism. A vegan diet includes all grains, beans, legumes, vegetables and fruits and the nearly infinite number of foods made by combining them. Many vegan versions of familiar foods are available, so you can eat vegan hot dogs, ice cream, cheese and vegan mayonnaise.

I was summoned to Real Food Daily in Pasadena by my sense of curiosity, we have established the fact that I am not a vegan, but I do love food. So was I impressed with Real Food Daily and can I recommend it you? Will I return. ? Yes, yes and yes, the menu includes salads (of course) sandwiches, wraps, pizza and burritos, all familiar choices right? Well it would take me a 2000 words to explain the ingredients, let me tell you what I had to eat, my starter was a Sea Cake ($8.95) explained to me by the server as a great alternative for a crab cake, ingredients were all organic vegan choices described as a savory vegetable and sea croquette with pesto and sweet chili aioli. Man the flavor was superb as far as comparing it to a crab cake, well I have had crabcakes that I would describe as blah and boring, the sea cakes I would order again however if I was given my choice of a crab cake with real lump crab and a sea cake, I'd lump it, but for $8.95 order it! My entrée was the Fettuccini Alfredo ($12.95) tossed with broccoli and red peppers; the alfredo sauce wasn't a dairy product (can't be) but an almond milk base. What visit would be complete without a fresh juice, I had the Verde ($5.95) all things green or sweet green with apple, On my next visit to Real Food Daily I will check out the Sunday Brunch, the menu looks very interesting Vegan dishes of sausage, fruit, granola and waffles.

All and all a very good first impression, for you red meat eaters, give it a try, I promise that you'll like. As of this writing still waiting for the beer and wine license. The servers can artfully and skillfully explain any ingredients to you, and shhhh!! They aren't all Vegans.

At the end of summer it was harvest time. The sunlight hours were waning and people were getting ready for a long, cold winter. Some people felt that the line between the living and the dead was very thin at that time of year.

People built bonfires for their harvest celebration. Some wore costumes and masks so spirits wouldn't recognize them, damage their crops or cause illness. Some people would go door to door asking for money, cheese, apples or bread for the festival night. This is thought to be the beginning of kids Trick-or-Treating for candy in neighborhoods.

Today, on October 31st, many people carve pumpkins into Jack-O'-Lanterns and light them to greet children. They have costume parties and may bob for apples.

JUST FOR BEST FRIENDS

"TWO FUR TWO" A Second Dog in the Household

There are various reasons why people choose to find a companion for their existing furry, four-footed friend. Among the most common reasons are companionship for their canine, and another is hoping the new dog will act as a help-meet in buffering the blow of saying goodbye to the older dog, when his time comes. These are reasons why people choose to adopt a second dog, but the fact is, such a scenario can play out for reasons other than intention or choice. As of 8 weeks ago, I have had a second dog in my home, due to the unexpected passing of a very dear friend, and I have learned some amazing lessons through

When my next door neighbor called saying he felt sick and asked me to come over, so I did. At the time, I had no idea he would be rushed to the hospital, never to return home, leaving his 3-year-old dog "Molly" in my care. I never gave it a second thought as to whether or not I would take care of Molly, but I would be lying if I said I wasn't a bit overwhelmed by the sudden loss of my friend and the addition of a second dog to my home. You see, I already have a 10-year-old bloodhound named "Tatertotts". I adopted her 8 ½ years ago. Tater was adoptable because she was too aggressive for the show ring. Her unpredictable behavior is apparently the result of in-breeding, or at least that's what I think caused her social short comings. For this reason. Total has always been a schallenge when it I think caused her social short-comings. For this reason, Tater has always been a challenge when it comes to social interaction. She is fine at home with me and my husband, but as soon as she is forced to share her space with others, trouble ensues.

For the first two weeks, Tater and Molly got along fine and I was so happy for Tater, as I had thought she would live out the rest of her life lonely with no social interaction other than me and my husband. Unfortunately, the fun-loving ended about halfway through the third week of having Molly in our home. I guess Tater got tired of sharing her space, and decided it was time to put her foot down! (And, in case you haven't met Tater, I'll tell you now, she's got a big foot to put down!). Well, that's when the "fun" started for me. I soon found myself rotating 2 dogs in my home to avoid confrontation and rotatial blood shed. Finally I called my yet and asked her what I should do to help facilitate the new potential blood-shed. Finally, I called my vet and asked her what I should do to help facilitate the new relationship, and her first bit of advice was that I continue giving Tater lots of positive reinforcement, and allow her to be the "top-dog" in her own home.

My vet gave me some very specific tips on how to go about dealing with Tater and Molly to ensure the best outcome. First of all, she said that if a fight should break out, I should not yell or get excited (easy for her to say), rather I should keep an even tone and talk to Tater calmly, saying such things as "it's ok, girl, I know you are just protecting your territory, and we know you are number one, now come on and let Molly have a little space too, just be yourself and she'll know you're the boss". It may sound silly to talk to your dog like a person, but they pick up on the vibes you are sending out, so it really does help to tell them what they need to hear.

The bottom line is I must confirm Tater's position of hierarchy over Molly, and not reprimand her for protecting her territory. Well, I'll tell you right now, that is a challenge when my 108-pound bloodhound is standing over Molly, who weighs about 40 pounds! Still, I get the logic behind my vet's advice and I trust her opinion, so I am doing my best to carry it out. I still keep Molly and Tater separate most of the time, but I am working toward allowing short, closely monitored visits together in the back yard. I'm just not confident enough to allow a potential confrontation between them yet, although I am told it is necessary in order to let them work things out and establish their respective roles. My situation is one in which I did not choose to adopt a new dog, but I love Molly and I made a promise to Fred that I would always be there for her if she needed me, so I am committed to making

Many pet owners are making the choice to adopt a second dog, and with so many in shelters these days, I think that is wonderful! In this case, it is important to find the best match for your existing pet. Although each dog is an individual, some handle change better than others. There are some basic considerations to be made before adopting dog # 2. Age, gender, size and energy level are among the most important variables to be considered. It is also important to recognize the fact that, unless the existing dog allows otherwise, the new dog will most likely have to play 'second fiddle'. If your dog has lived in your home for quite a long time, unless he happens to be very passive and allows the new one to dominate, he will assume the position of "top dog" when you bring another one home.

Another important thing to be considered is that the new dog should not be too energetic or hyperactive, compared to the energy level of the existing dog. For example, bringing a rambunctious puppy into the home of an elderly, perhaps even deaf or blind dog could create a disaster for all involved. If the purpose is to find a friend for an older dog, do your best to find a younger dog that will show full respect to the elder. In fact, regardless of age, energy level is a very important issue to be aware of in general. Also, dogs are very territorial, so if a dog has lived in it's home for many years, naturally he will defend his territory against a potential predator, even another dog. Be aware of your dog's level of territorial tendencies, do not punish him for such behavior, and try to find another dog who will

There is much more to know and prepare for before adopting a second dog, so take the time to research the issues and ask questions. The more you know and understand about the nature of dogs and how they interact, the better your chances of maintaining an harmonious home with more than one pup on the premises! So far, in spite of the challenges, I think we are making progress here at the Leclerc home. I love Tatertotts with all of my heart, and I love Molly, too. They both bring so much joy to my life that I refuse to give up on helping them get along. They are teaching me so much through the process, I feel like I'm back in school! I guess you could say I am 2 for 2 as a dog lover and pet owner at this point. I wish the best to those of you who wish to add a second dog to your home. Try to understand the reasons behind their behavior, stay positive and above all, don't give up!

LOOKING FOR A BEST FRIEND??

So is Mac Donald! He is approximately 5-6 years old and weighs 9 pounds. He's a sweet, friendly boy and a good steady walker on leash who loves to sniff and explore. He enjoys petting and loves a good back rub, but he is not overly needy. He gets along with his kennel mates, but especially likes being with female dogs. He perks up and a big/playful smile appears on his face when he meets them. Mac has big brown eyes that seem to say take me home. He is neutered, up to date with all routine shots and ready to move in. Please stop in and consider making Mac part of your family! He currently resides at the San Gabriel Valley Humane Society located at 851 E. Grand Avenue in San Gabriel with his roomie. We are located off San Gabriel Blvd., north of Mission and south of Las Tunas.

> To arrange a 'Meet and Greet' with Mac Donald, please stop by any time from 10:00am to 4:30pm Tuesday thru

His adoption fee is $120 which includes his neuter surgery, a microchip, first vaccinations and a free wellness check-up at a participating veterinarian. Feel free to call us at (626) 286-1159 for more information on Mac Donald.

LOLLIPOP: ANIMAL ID #A4644365

Puppies do not come any cuter than Lollipop (A4644365)! Lollipop is a kissy three month old brown and white spayed female Pit Bull mix puppy who was brought to the Baldwin Park shelter on October 19th. The family who found her kept her for two months and tried to find her owner, but had to give her up because of their landlord. Weighing twenty-two pounds, this puppy is utterly perfect and a volunteer favorite! She is great with kids and other dogs, exceptionally affectionate and outgoing, and has never met a person she didn't like. Lollipop is the perfect indoor pet for an active individual or family living in a private home or large apartment/condo. To watch a video of Lollipop please visit: www.youtube.com/watch?v=sxHa5KCNZvE

To meet Lollipop in person, please see her at the Baldwin Park Shelter, located at 4275 N. Elton, Baldwin Park, CA 91706 (Phone: 626-430-2378 or 626-962-3577). She is currently available now. For any inquiries about Lollipop, please reference her animal ID number: A4644365. The shelter is open seven days a week, 12 pm-7 pm Monday-Thursday and 10am-5pm Friday-Sunday. This is a high-intake shelter with a great need for adoptions. REASSESSMENT TIME FOR MEDICARE PART D BENEFICIARIES

Dear Savvy Senior:

I have been enrolled in the same Medicare prescription drug plan for three years now, but my pharmacist told me I should look for a new plan during the open enrollment period that would fit my needs a little better. What's the easiest way to do this? Need Help

Dear Need:

Because all Medicare prescription drug plans can change their coverage and costs each calendar year, the only way to ensure you're getting the best coverage at the lowest cost is to compare your Part D plan against the competition during Medicare's open enrollment period (which is Oct. 15 – Dec. 7). Here are some tips and resources that can help you compare drug plans, and select one that better fits your needs.

Important: Don't confuse Medicare open enrollment with the new health insurance marketplaces that have just opened under the Affordable Care Act (aka Obamacare). They serve two totally different populations. Health insurance marketplaces are for people under age 65 who don't have health insurance, while Medicare open enrollment is for Medicare beneficiaries who wish to review their current Medicare policies and make changes.

Open Enrollment Website

If you're comfortable using a computer, you can easily compare Medicare's drug plans yourself online. Just go to Medicare's Plan Finder Tool at medicare.gov/find-a-plan, and type in your zip code or your personal information, enter in how you currently receive your Medicare coverage, select the drugs you take and their dosages, and choose the pharmacies you use. You'll get a cost comparison breakdown for every plan available in your area so you can compare it to your current plan.

This tool also provides a five-star rating system that evaluates each plan based on past customer service records, and suggests generics or older brand name drugs that can reduce your costs.

It's also important to keep in mind that when you're comparing drug plans don't judge a plan strictly by its monthly premium cost. Low-premium plans are often associated with higher prescription copayments and may end up being more expensive. Look at the "estimated annual drug costs" that shows how much you can expect to pay over a year in total out-of-pocket costs – including premiums, deductibles and co-pays.

Also, be sure the plan you're considering covers all of the drugs you take with no restrictions. Some plans may require you to get permission or try a number of cheaper drugs before they will cover certain prescriptions.

If you need some help with this or if you don't have Internet access to compare the plans yourself, you can call Medicare at 800-633-4227 and a customer service representative will do it for you over the

Another resource that you can call on for help is your State Health Insurance Assistance Program (SHIP), which provides free one-on-one Medicare counseling in person or over the phone. They also conduct seminars during the open enrollment period at various locations throughout each state. To find the contact information for your local SHIP visit shiptalk.org, or call the eldercare locator at 800-677-1116.

You also need to know that Medicare's "donut-hole" – the coverage gap in which you must pay out-of-pocket for your drugs – continues to shrink. In 2013 and 2014, you will get a 52.5 percent discount on brand-name drugs, and the federal subsidy for generic medications will rise from 21 to 28 percent

The 2013 coverage gap begins when your total drug cost exceeds $2,850 (that includes your share and the insurer's share of the costs) and ends when combined spending is $6,455. After that, your Part D plan usually covers around 95 percent of your remaining drug costs for the year.

KATIE Tse.....This and That APPLE MONTH!

Happy Apple Month! No, I'm not talking about your iPad, iPhone, or any other device you can't live without. I'm talking about the apples that you eat, the apples that adorn kitchen counters in "Crate & Barrel" catalogs, and the ultra shiny red apples kids across the nation toss into the trash each day with their cafeteria lunch.

I can understand that most kids aren't naturally inclined to bite into an apple, when there are pizzas, burgers, corn dogs, and tater tots to be had. Also, something about the skin on those school lunch apples make them seem overly tough and impenetrable. It's as if the apples expected to be thrown out, and were preparing for impact.

Somewhere, however, far from the grocery aisles, school lunches, and Starbuck's counters are apples that actually taste good! (Honestly, what's the turn around time for fruit at a place like Starbucks? You know people are there for the blueberry scones, triple chocolate brownies, and whatever other fatty pastries they pass off as "breakfast items.") Yes, there is a place where apples taste like apples!

Although I've lived in Southern California all my life, I'd never been to Oak Glen before. My parents and I didn't know what to expect when we went there for the first time last week. So, when the narrow road became lined with parked cars, we figured we might as well leave the car and walk from that point.

We continued uphill past little tents offering handmade soap, sage sachets, and raw honey. There were also burly men handing out baskets to young kids so they could pick apples with their families. We admired the lovely trees and wondered when we'd start seeing actual apples. Then it dawned on us that these were apple trees, but all the apples, save for the ones at the tippy-top had already been plucked.

Well, that stinks. If that was all there was to Oak Glen, we would've been sorely disappointed. But I recalled their website featured stores (more substantial than tents), and at least two or three restaurants. We backtracked to the car and drove

At last we found "the village" and were lucky enough to snag a spot near the shops and restaurants. Then it was time to find a place to eat. All the restaurants seemed equally crowded, so we put our names in at the closest cafe and settled in for a long, long wait. My Dad held our place while my Mom and I explored Law's apple stand.

Sampling apples at Law's was sort of like wine tasting. There were many "exotic" varieties we never tasted before, like Arkansas Black, Spartan, and Mutsu. The men behind the counter described each of them, cutting slices for us to try. I almost expected them to say, "Here's a full-bodied red with a smooth mouth feel and complex finish." Like wine tasting, it was a little difficult to recall the differences after we'd sampled about six different apples. When you don't remember your favorite four out of six apples, you might as well buy all six types just to cover your bases. After all, apple season comes only once a year!

Copyright © 2012 Katherine Tse

After an hour and a half of apple tasting and poking around in different shops, we were seated for lunch. By that time we had already memorized what we wanted, and then sat for another 45 minutes until the food arrived. Any other time, I might've been a bit annoyed at the slow service. But this place was PACKED! These little cafes get swamped for one month in the fall, and probably starve for business the rest of the year. Anyway, I think the food tasted all the better after waiting for it so long.

We were about to leave when we spotted a sign for Peddler's Pack, specializing in alpaca yarns and unique gifts. My Mom is a fiber nut (as in textiles, not dietary fiber). How could we pass up the opportunity to see alpacas? We followed the signs to an enclosure with about a dozen docile, big-eyed alpacas. "Aw! So cute!"

Peddler's Pack had lovely handmade clothing and jewelry, but my Mom decided on a bag of very soft wool. The proprietress told us that the particular bag my Mom chose was most likely from a single alpaca, whereas the other bags were composites of several different animals' hair. Always the sentimentalist, my Mom asked if the owner knew which alpaca her wool was from. She fingered the "roving," inspected its color, and then said it was either from Quid or Stan.

'Quid or Stan!" my Mom said, "How nice! Are they outside?" I wondered if the lady would break into a fit of laughter at the lengths to which my Mom was taking this. But she just replied, "Yes, they're both out there." Before leaving, we looked again at the alpacas and speculated as to which ones might be Stan and Quid. Driving home, we could now say that we've been to Oak Glen, tasted apples we'd never heard of before, and bought some lovely alpaca roving. Whether it was from Stan, Quid, or a little of both, it all made for a great time!

SENIOR HAPPENINGS

By Pat Birdsall

FYI: HALLOWEEN PARTY-SENIORS ONLY

I just read a short article on Halloween parties for seniors with a genealogy twist thrown in the mix. I wish I had read it earlier when something could be planned in time for Halloween. Then I thought that the idea could be shaped to encompass any holiday, or no holiday at all! In a party setting, whatever the occasion or non-occasion, seniors could be encouraged to share memories of the "good old days." Maybe several topics could be suggested: Holidays past, growing up in a non-technological world, military service, weekend fun, school days, etc., etc. The memories should be recorded, transcribed and perhaps even filmed for posterity. (Talk about dating oneself! Is "filmed" even a term used these days?) At any rate, I know the Sierra Madre Historical Society is doing a series of oral histories, but they can only be done at glacial speed because off availability of equipment and time constraints of the interviewers. I'm being a total Pollyanna perhaps, but I think oral histories on various topics can be accomplished in one fell swoop. All we need to have are volunteers to attend to the details and willing participants to party and reminisce. Oops, and one minor detail...a place to have the party. It used to be that anywhere people were gathered WAS a party but I think that's one of those memories I have from the "good old days." Time flies and some people don't always have a "tomorrow's another day. "Think about it.

HELPFUL HINT: Make a watering can for your indoor plants; another use for empty plastic milk jugs. Make sure the bottle is washed thoroughly, using any size, and then you will need a needle or a safety pin and matches or a lighter. Take the cap off and pierce the back side of it with the heated needle or safety pin as many times as you determine necessary for your watering needs. (You can always put more holes in the cap later).

FOR YOUR FUNNY BONE - This was an actual letter from the Ann Landers column of yesteryear... My husband and I were newlyweds, getting ready to attend a Halloween party given by friends. I came home from work and asked my hubby to answer the door for the trickor-treaters while I took a bath. As I was running the water, I thought, "Wouldn't fun to play a trick on him?" So, I put on my flapper raccoon coat, a mask, and without a stitch on under the coat, I sneaked around the house and rang the doorbell. When my husband answered, I threw open the coat and shouted, "Trick or Treat!" He was so stunned; he backed up, fell down the steps of the sunken living room, hit his head and knocked himself unconscious. I called the emergency phone number and had to explain what happened to the paramedics. My husband was taken to the hospital where they said had suffered a concussion. We never made it to the Halloween party and, of course, I had to let my friends know why. They thought it was hilarious.

My husband and I will celebrate our 40th anniversary soon. I still love Halloween, but have refrained from pulling any more startling surprises.

RESCUE LOG SIERRA MADRE SEARCH AND RESCUE

The Sierra Madre Search and Rescue it is not possible to safely ascend or (SMSR) Team responded on seven descend. Avoid placing yourself in search and rescue calls in September. With schools back in session the tempo of rescues is beginning to drop after a busy summer.

As part of the larger local search and rescue structure, Sierra Madre Search and Rescue often responds to assist other agencies and SAR teams on incidents. One of these mutual aid assists is detailed below along with the search for a missing hiker.

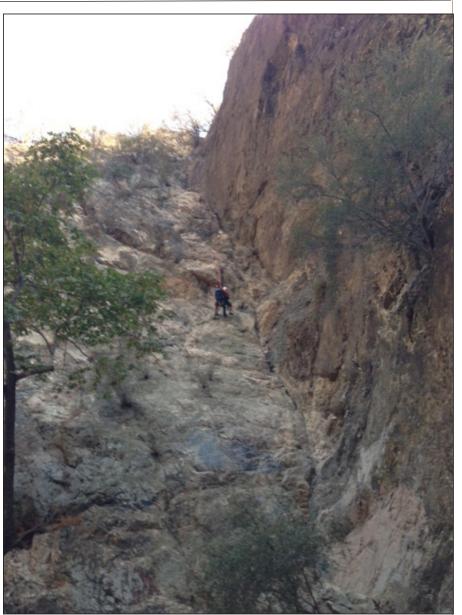

Stranded Hiker, Eaton Canyon:

(pictured on the right) The Altadena Mountain Rescue Team (AMRT) contacted SMSR at 2:28 p.m. on September 11th to assist in the rescue of a hiker stranded on a cliff in Eaton Canyon. SMSR and AMRT personnel established a command post at the entrance to Eaton Canyon and assembled rescue teams to access the subject. The initial rescuers on-scene determined that the hiker was uninjured but was stranded approximately 200 above the canyon floor and unable to safely ascend or descend from his position. Rescuers quickly determined that accessing the subject from above by lowering a rescuer to his position at that point and the operation was and then lowering both the rescuer and secured at 5 p.m. hiker to the canyon floor would be the safest course of action. This type of rescue scenario is one that members of all the SAR teams regularly practice. Familiarity with working together and the topography of the canyon allowed rescuers to execute the plan safely and efficiently. Hikers are reminded that getting off trail into the vertical or near-vertical areas of our mountains activities. The Team never charges for can be very risky. It is often very easy any of its services. to climb up into an area and find that this situation if at all possible, but if you do, to avoid the risk of serious injury or death, do not hesitate to request assistance if necessary. The rescue was secured after all personnel were out of the field at 6 p.m.

Missing Hiker, Clamshell/Monrovia Peak area: SMSR was paged at 8:56 a.m on September 22nd to search for a missing hiker in the area east of Chantry Flat near Monrovia Peak. Crews initially staged at the upper helicopter pad at Chantry Flat for potential helicopter insertion in the search area. Information associated with cell phone information placed the hiker in the so-called Clamshell area high above Monrovia. Due to aircraft availability and timing, field crews made the long drive into the area via fireroad. Teams hiked into the area to check trails and the register on Clamshell Peak. No sign of the hiker was located and the field crews returned to Sierra Madre. Late in the afternoon, the hiker was able to contact his family and report that he had been able to get back to town safely. Search efforts were cancelled

For over 60 years the all-volunteer Sierra Madre Search and Rescue team has been responding to calls for help in the local mountains and beyond. Funded entirely by private donations, SMSR provides a range of public programs on wilderness safety in addition to its search and rescue

HEAVENLY BEAT

"Prominence," the sophomore release from John Pena a.k.a. Heavenly Beat is essentially the first album revisited all over again. Some may deem it a dead on sequel to 2012's "Talent." Since the first album was a pleasant surprise it's not all that alarming this one is too. Moreover this was also a complete departure from the previous band (Beach Fossils) he was a part of. The tropical pop resonance with daydream lyrics is

The echoed low voice of Pena is extremely calming. With his proclivity for electronic beats, lush, and layered melodies, Pena is a masterful composer of pop-orientated songs. At the same token, most songs blend together, making it rather difficult to differentiate the tracks. I'm a fan of Pena's work, but I find myself bored with the album as it comes to a halt. It's less than 35 minutes in length, but feels greater since most songs have overlapping sounds. Heavenly Beat creates a very ethereal atmosphere from beginning to end. The record sort of glides throughout, but could be due to the lack of diversity. With nearly every song sounding overwhelming similar to the next, the record never takes a much-needed detour. One of the better tracks here is, "Expectation." Sure it's not a whole lot different than the other songs, but Pena's voice is a lot clearer here. The lyrically gloomy tune displays words such as, "I wanted that and so much more/won't accept that I lost out/it hurts to think that all I've felt was only leading me nowhere." Overall, it breathes such beauty and warmth. "Forever" is another highlight that has Pena painfully reciting the lines, "can't remember a time when I didn't feel awful," and "it's so hard believing there's nothing more I could do/forever's a long time to spend hurting for you." The man's sensitivity shines throughout even if sometimes it appears more on the doom and gloom side.

"Prominence," is a decent record that puts on display a musician with many talents. However, it would be great to see (and hear) what Pena can do beyond this sound he's cultivated over the span of two albums. I will say his music doesn't sound like any other American musician since the influences span different cultures. While I applaud his creativity, I can't say that I was utterly enamored by this experience. There are things to appreciate with "Prominence," however becoming completely stimulated by it may not be the case. Heavenly Beat has a lot of potential but with "Prominence" it's only shown in small doses. Not bad by any means, just kind of substandard seeing how Pena has a lot going for him artistically.

HEALTHY LIFESTYLES

THE JOY OF YOGA YOGA ELEMENTS

There are many schools of yoga. I am not talking about todays styles of yoga, but the ancient ones. Some of these schools speak of God and some don't. Samkhya philosophy and Vedic science are based in the elements. There are 5: earth, water, fire, air and space. We are all made up of these five. It's much the same in Chinese and Native American medicine, even in astrology, everything is based on the interaction of these five things. After we identify everything with the five elements, we can look at how they interact. The Gunas actually gave life to the elements according to the philosophy and the gunas determine how they work together. There are 3 gunas These are rajas, tapas and sattwa. Rajas can be stimulating, aggressive and heating. fire can be rajasic and so can our personalities.

Tamas can be dull,lifeless and inert, like a slug. Our minds can be this way as well. But sattwa is a blend of the two that brings just the right amount of heat, just the right amount of stimulation so that we end up with a calm, yet enlivened state. Tranquility is what we are after. Balance is what we need. Learning to blend these 5 elements with just the right amount of attitude can help us lead a rich, peaceful, happy and fulfilled life. Yoga science is not just exercise. It is a beautiful blend of elements to help you learn sensitivity to your inner workings and to create sattwa in your life. Then maybe you go on to develop the spiritual side of yoga, or not. Maybe you use it to enhance your own faith.

Whatever the direction you go, may you go there with increased awareness, inner peace and the knowledge that you can change.

See you in class. Namasté, René

TAKE A HIKE By Kevin McGuire

Fall is here and the cooler weather is perfect for outdoor activities. Hiking in the hills of the beautiful San Gabriel Valley is a great place to start! But, hiking, isn't just about spraying on some bug repellant, grabbing a water bottle and hitting the trails. There are many factors to consider, especially if you are new to hiking. Keep in mind that you are sharing these majestic mountains with many species of wildlife, plants and you can meet with some challenging, steep terrain. Being properly prepare can be almost as challenging as the hike itself!

Preparing For the Hike

Mark Nelson, of Eagle Rock, has been an avid hiker for more than 20 years. Nelson emphasizes the importance of being properly prepared before heading out on your hike. "Prepare the day before so you can get an early start," Nelson says. He suggests filling a small backpack to the rim with important supplies such as: a map, flashlight, sun block, first aid kit (which should include Band-Aids, antibiotic ointment, alcohol pads, pain relief tablets, an ace bandage, blister kit, nail clippers, tweezers for splinters, and duct tape, for temporary repairs.)

Making wise clothing choices is also a must. Nelson suggests bringing an extra pair of socks and wide-brimmed hat to keep the sun off your neck and ears. "Comfortable pants tend to work better than shorts, protecting your legs and minimizing dirt in your shoes," according to Nelson. "In cold weather, layering works best. Remember, you will be warm when hiking up hill."

Keeping hydrated and snacking on energy foods are the way to go when hiking. Bring at least a liter of water, and snack foods such as nuts, power bars or a sandwich. "But, there is no need to bring a lot of food—you won't starve on a morning hike,"

Avoiding Foot Injuries

Jodai Saremi, DPM earned her doctorate in podiatry medicine from Temple University and is a personal trainer in the Los Angeles area. She notes that some of the most common injuries related to hiking occur on the toes, the ball of the foot and the heel. "On the downhill portion of a climb, the toes are jammed into the toebox of the boots or sneakers. The nail beds experience blunt trauma which causes bleeding under the nails and results in painful subungual hematomas," Saremi notes. Saremi suggest socks should be thicker in order to whisk away moisture which can contribute to nagging blisters.

Sprained ankles are another common injury for hikers. "On a long trail, it's a good idea to take along an ace wrap and a single use cold pack, which can weigh anywhere from 3-16 ounces, for emergencies," Saremi suggests. "If there is a cold lake or stream available that is safe to approach, and the skin is not broken, soaking the ankle in cold water may help reduce swelling.

Saremi says to avoid wearing running shoes or

I WANT MY MEMORY BACK!

Are you forgetting names? Can't remember where you placed your keys? Keep leaving your phone places like on restaurant tables? I am not talking Alzheimer's here, I am talking about what some people refer to as foggy brain or slow recall. Memory does erode a bit as we age. There is new evidence that with a little effort you can boost your memory and recall and even build new memory networks.

There are 7 things that are known to improve memory. The first is getting more sleep. The recommended amount of sleep is 7.5 to 8.5 hours a night. If you are like most people, you have a set time that you need to get up to go to work. If you're not getting enough sleep, then your only option is to go to bed earlier.

Dr. Tina is a traditional naturopath and nutritionist at Vibrant Living Wellness Center

The next thing you need to do is exercise. Researchers from UC Irvine discovered that a little exercise yielded good mental benefits. Some researchers believe that exercise increases your brain size and your ability to remember. Brisk walking everyday can yield these benefits.

It is also beneficial to play memory games like Sudoku or crossword puzzles. It has long been thought that these games delay brain decline. My new obsession is an iPhone app, called Lumosity which aims to improve concentration and cognitive ability. And there's a mini version you can download for free (works on a computer also).

If you are one of my clients then you know that the number one thing I believe will improve all areas of your health and especially memory is eating the right foods. Those foods are antioxidant rich, colorful vegetables and fruits and anything containing omega-3 fatty acids. At the same time avoiding foods containing refined sugars which can cause brain inflammation.

Along with eating your vegetables you need to stay properly hydrated. We are composed largely of water and need to keep our hydration levels up all day long to keep our memory accurate.

It is also important to quit multitasking (or at least slow down). Many times we don't remember names or where we put the keys because we are not paying enough attention to the task at hand. Concentrating on each task is vital to memory. Try saying out loud "I am setting my keys on the counter". The more attention you give to the act, the more likely you are to remember the act later. Lastly, learn something new. It does not matter whether you learn to knit, a sport or learn a new language, research shows that it will improve your memory.

There denying that our { memory fades as we age but there } are things we can do to save our memory if we are willing to put forth a little effort.

sneakers as they hold little support. "Superior hiking footgear should provide a solid lug sole, some would even recommend a steel shank, and a roomy, reinforced toebox," she says. "Also, depending on the time of year and the terrain being traversed, water-proofing may be desired, along with thinsulate lining and a gussetted tongue. For more breathability, mesh insets allow air flow."

Good Spots to Hike for Beginners and

For the first-timers, Nelson suggests O'Melveny Park in Granada Hills. "It's an easy two-mile hike along a stream. A fire road leads East up a ridge, offering excellent views of the Valley out and back," he says. For a more moderate hike, try Mt. Waterman, which is about 34 miles north of La Cañada off of State Route 2, prior to Buckhorn Campground. A National Forest parking pass is required. This five-mile loop takes you up around 1300' in elevation with breathtaking views of the desert and San Gabriel wilderness creating a "true mountain experience," according to Nelson. Hike up single-track trail and down fire road. There may be snow on this trail, Nelson cautions.

The mountains of the San Gabriel Valley are filled with friendly wildlife such as varying species of birds, insects (though pesky) and amphibians.

Even some of the larger inhabitants such as bears and mountain lions will keep to themselves if not bothered. According to the Mountain Lion Foundation, "Only 14 fatal attacks on humans have occurred in North America during the past 100 years." If you encounter a bear, stay calm, and back away slowly and give the bear room to escape. Talk loud to make sure the bear is aware of your presence (bearsaver.com).

Other things to consider is never hiking alone and always dispose of food waste in garbage cans. Open food wrappers can attract unwanted wildlife and hiking with a partner makes for a safer and fun journey! Enjoy!

The European Space Agency (ESA) is preparing for a November 20 launch of its "Gaia" space observatory, designed for a five-year mission to map and study one billion stars in the Milky Way Galaxy. Gaia will be launched from Europe's spaceport in Kourou, French Guiana, on the South American coast.

COUNTDOWN TO LAUNCH A BILLION STAR SURVEYOR

Gaia's main goal is to create a highly accurate 3D map of our Milky Way Galaxy by repeatedly observing a billion stars to determine their positions in space and their movement through it.

Other measurements will assess the vital physical properties of each star, including temperature, luminosity and composition. The resulting census will give astronomers an unprecedented new database for determining the origin and the evolution of our galaxy.

Gaia, named for the goddess of the Earth in Greek mythology, will map the stars from an orbit around the Sun, near a location some 600,000 miles beyond Earth's orbit known as the L2 Lagrangian point. The gravitational forces at a Lagrangian point act to keep an object in a stable position relative to the Earth and Sun.

The spacecraft will spin slowly, sweeping its two telescopes across the entire sky and focusing their light simultaneously onto a single digital camera, the largest ever flown in space—it has nearly a billion pixels.

For the last two months Gaia has been rigorously tested in Kourou as part of the launch campaign. The Kouru site is particularly suitable as a location for a spaceport as it is quite close to the equator, so that the spinning earth can impart extra velocity to rockets as they are launched eastward.

"Getting ready for launch is an extremely busy phase for the mission teams, but it's also extremely exciting and rewarding to see our mission so close to launch," says Giuseppe Sarri,

Earlier this month the spacecraft's sunshield passed the final deployment test in the cleanroom in Kourou. It has now been stowed in its final configuration ready for the launch. Shortly after launch, the sunshield will be deployed, forming a 35-foot-wide "skirt" around

The shield has two purposes: to shade Gaia's sensitive telescopes and cameras from sunlight, allowing them to cool to their operating temperature of -110°C, and to provide power to operate the spacecraft. The Sun-facing side of the shield is partially covered with solar panels to generate electricity.

"With this important milestone—and others—now completed, we are working through an intensive checklist of final activities that will culminate in the much-awaited launch of our 'discovery machine,"

In the first week of November, the spacecraft will be mounted on the Soyuz launcher adapter and then integrated with the upper stage, which will eventually help boost Gaia onto its journey to L2. The Soyuz fairing—the nose cone that protects the sensitive spacecraft during the first four minutes of launch—will then be added.

On 15 November, Gaia will be moved to the launch pad for integration with the Soyuz launcher itself. Finally, the rocket will be fuelled. Gaia's launch time is set for November 20 at 08:57:30 GMT, and will be streamed live on the ESA Portal at http://www.esa.int

"Our quest to create an enormous stellar census to solve questions on the origin, structure and evolutionary history of our home galaxy, and to discover tens of thousands of supernovas, previously unseen asteroids and even planets around nearby stars, is finally about to begin," says Timo Prusti, ESA's Gaia project scientist.

CRUNCHING THE NUMBERS

You recently read here about formulating your offer based on the information included in a CMA (Comparative Market Analysis). You can fine-tune that offer by applying current market trends. Trends may vary by region, state, city, and even the neighborhood, so do your homework.

You and your agent can study a lot of available statistics - the CMA, local listings' DOM (Days on Market), and list to sale price ratios. The CMA compares similar properties, while the DOM figure gives you an idea of whether you're looking at a buyer's market or a seller's market (in which you'll have more competition and less negotiating power). If possible, look at DOM for listings within a mile of the home you want to purchase - it's that area-specific.

Let's move on to the average "List Price to Sales Price Ratio" (LP:SP). Like it sounds, it's simply a percentage based on how closely the final sales price corresponds to the price at which the home was listed. A house that sells for the asking price has an LP:SP ratio of 100%. So a house that lists for $175,000 but sells for $160,000 has an LP:SP of 91%.

Look at the these ratios for the homes on the CMA that most closely match yours, and you'll have a sound basis for what percentage of the list price to offer.

for a free donut. Normally, I am not overly Walter Mitty in many ways. excited about "free.'

All I had to do was fill out a little survey online and they would send me a code that would guarantee me a free donut. In my "daily diary diet," I have a whole section devoted to the subject that when a forbidden food is free it cancels out all

When I first told the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage she looked at me rather strangely and said, "Who said that?"

I know we are both getting old but we are not

I got close to her, waved my hand so she could see me and said, "It's me. I just said it. Can you see me now?"

"That is not funny. You know exactly what I meant."

My grin drained from my face and I said to her, "Well, I said it."

"Did," she said inquisitively, "anybody ever say that before you said it?"

My wife has many talents, skills and gifts. It would be difficult for me to say which is her best gift but at the moment, her greatest skill is backing me into a corner. And in a corner I was thus

I then had to explain to her, in detail, how this was an observation I worked through with much research. This is an original with me and I am would you like me to get for you?" quite proud to be the author.

All she said was, "Huh, that is exactly what I

I will go to my grave believing when a donut is free it means it is free of calories. Call it what you will but free by any other name is still free in my personal dictionary.

Getting back to my free donut. I was anxious to get to the donut shop, cash in the coupon and enjoy a donut. I do not know when the best time to eat a donut is, so I just started at my convenience.

walked up to the counter and presented my cou- about Jesus Christ. He is the only One capable of pon for a free donut. It was at that moment I saw delivering something absolutely free.

I cannot express how ec-static I was when some-the circus. Many things get by me without noticone gave me a coupon ing them. Sometimes I am just in deep thought and not aware of my surroundings. I can relate to

> There they were, freshly baked Apple Fritters. I was stunned. It just never crossed my mind that a donut shop would have this kind of delicious tidbit. But there they were. Freshly baked and staring at me with alluring eyes of desire.

I do not know how much better a day can get than this. When I got up this morning, I did not realize this would be a wonderful day. There they were staring at me and I staring back and immediately there was a connection.

Standing in line I could hardly wait for my turn to order. I presented my coupon for a free donut and the young woman behind the counter said, "Which donut can I get for you, sir?"

I savored the moment, licked my drying lips and said, "I'll have an Apple Fritter." With that said, I sighed a deep sigh of true contentment.

"I'm sorry, sir," the young woman said.

"There is no need to be sorry, young lady," I said as cheerfully as I possibly could.

"No, sir, I'm sorry but an Apple Fritter is not a

'Excuse me," I said almost breathlessly.

Apple Fritter is no joking matter.

"An Apple Fritter is not a donut, so what donut

The thought began unfolding in my mind at this point that she was not joking. She sincerely believed an Apple Fritter was not a donut. I know an Apple Fritter is among the Cadillac of donuts but in my mind, it is still a donut.

I did not have much opportunity to set this young woman straight with one of the great fundamentals of life. I had to take one of her "free" donuts along with my coffee, go to a corner and think about these things. What good is "free" if it is not really what you want?

Sometimes people use the word "free" as a de-I got at the donut shop and walked in and the smell was overpowering. Nothing like the smell something else.

The Bible is the only place I will accept a "free"

This is often used out of context. The truth that when I became adjusted to the ambience, I makes us free indeed is none other than the truth

HOWARD Hays As I See It

"The shutdown was so magnificent, run beautifully. I'm so proud of these Republicans" - Ann Coulter on Fox News reading his stuff, I want to look into it. Last week, he wrote, "a small group of politicians will be selected to negotiate a broader-scope deal, but we've already had one of those - The Simpson Bowles Commission – but its very reasonable recommendations were pronounced DOA by the White House". I hadn't thought much about Simpson-Bowles lately, so I thought I'd look into it.

President Obama and Vice-President Biden actually got a lot of flak from progressives during the 2012 campaign for having endorsed Simpson-Bowles. The original 2010 proposal envisioned Congress giving an up-or-down vote on its recommendations. That idea was nixed when Senate Republicans who'd initially supported the proposal ended up voting against it. Co-Chairman former Sen. Alan Simpson (R-WY) complained they did so for no reason other than "to stick it to the president".

There was never an official Simpson-Bowles "report", as it didn't get the required support of 14 of the 18 commission members. Democrats objected to the cuts in Social Security and Medicare. Republicans couldn't accept its assumption that Bush tax cuts would expire for those with incomes above $250k a year, nor its suggestion that tax rate reductions for all be offset by closing loopholes for the top

Greg also assures that as a result of the budget "sequestration" and the partial government shutdown earlier this month, "not much bad happened". I looked into it, and found the Council of Economic Advisors predicts the sequester will cost 750,000 full-time jobs this year. It's caused The International Monetary Fund to lower its U.S. GDP growth forecast from 2% to 1.5%.

600,000 jobs in research and development could be lost over the next three years because of sequestration, with a resulting half-trillion dollars' hit to our GDP. Francis Collins, head of the National Institutes of Health, looked into it and warned, "I worry desperately this means we will lose a generation of young

The F.B.I. looked into it last month and reported that because of sequestration, "New intelligence investigations were not being opened. Criminal cases were being closed. Informants couldn't be paid. And there was not enough funding for agents to put gas in

For the 2013-2014 academic year, 57,000 children have been cut from Head Start programs because of the sequester.

As for the shutdown, Standard & Poor's looked into it and calculated a $24 billion cost to our economy, with billions more in lost tax revenue. Buyers of our debt from China to Saudi Arabia now question the soundness of U.S. Treasury securities, and whether the U.S. dollar is no longer fit to be the world's preeminent currency.

As Greg motivates me to look into things, Sean Hannity got Eric Stern, writing for Salon, to look into a recent show on Fox News

I'll say it again - one of the featuring "average Americans . . . feeling the first things I turn to in the MVN is Greg Welborn's acare". The Hannity show featured three marcolumn – because after ried couples arrayed, according to Stern, "like game show contestants", telling their personal experiences. As Hannity put it, "These are the stories the media refuses to cover." Eric Stern decided to look into it.

One couple from North Carolina told Hannity how, because of Obamacare, they've been unable to grow their construction business and had to trim employees' hours to keep them at part-time status. Affordable Care Act requirements on employer-provided coverage only apply to businesses with fifty or more employees. Stern looked into it, and found this particular construction business has four. The only ACA requirement that applies to them is that they inform employees of the existence of the "healthcare.gov" website. Another couple said they'd received notice from their carrier that their policy would be changed to become ACA-compliant. They complained to Hannity this was evidence the president "lied" when he said folks could keep their current coverage under the ACA (as if insurance companies never changed terms of coverage prior to the ACA).

This couple was currently paying $13,200 a year for coverage, which didn't include one of their two kids because she had a "pre-existing condition" (whose coverage would bring their yearly premiums up to $20,400). Stern plugged their information into the exchange website and found, assuming they're nonsmokers and make too much to qualify for subsidies, they could get comparable coverage for $7,600 - which would include their previously-uninsured daughter. When Stern asked if they'd looked into it themselves to see what was available, they said they hadn't because they'd heard the website wasn't

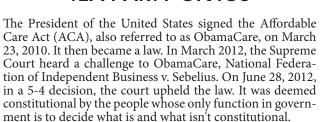

The third couple (he's described as a "Christian youth motivational speaker") complained to Hannity that under the ACA their premiums would be hiked 50-75% to cover stuff they don't need; maternity care, prenatal care, etc. Their current premiums are $10,000 a year. Stern looked into it and found a comparable plan for them on the exchange for $3,700 - which does include a lot of that stuff they "don't need". When Stern asked where that 50-75% rate-hike figure came from, they said it was from an insurance agent. When asked if they'd go on the exchange themselves to see what's available, they said they don't like "Obamacare" and want nothing to do with it; they wouldn't consider looking into it.

Greg states, "a strong case can be made for a Republican victory". A post-shutdown CNN poll shows 75% of Americans think Republican House members don't deserve to keep their jobs. Public Policy Polling shows Democrats would take control of the House if the election were held today. Confidence in President Obama and support for the ACA grows, as the numbers for Congressional Republicans sink to historic lows.

Before Greg or Ann Coulter again choose to extol the virtues of Republicans in Congress, I think they'd be well-advised to first look into it.

HOW A LAW BECOMES A BILL:

TEA PARTY CIVICS

Tea party intellectual Rand Paul wrote an op-ed this June titled: "Obamacare 'is still unconstitutional' one year after Supreme Court approval." Which is like saying, "Just because it's a force that makes things fall to the earth, doesn't make it gravity."

Actually, Rand, it does.

There's an old adage that says it's better to be silent and thought a fool than to open your mouth and remove all doubt. Rand Paul is a man of no mystery.

But he's not alone. Tea-guzzling lawmakers still refer to this more-than-three-yearold law as a bill. Just last month, in September, Rep. Peter King (R-NY) on O'Reilly said: "We could have started three two or three weeks ago negotiating parts of the ObamaCare bill..." Sen. John Thune (R-SD) said on On The Record: "Well, I don't think you can do what they did in the health care bill." Sen. Bob Corker (R-TN) on CNN's New Day said: "Republicans all are very concerned about the policies that are occurring through this health care bill."

Why this word choice? I may be giving Republicans too much credit by saying it's a subtle way of communicating there's still time to stop ObamaCare and that will help in fundraising (Ted Cruz raised $1.9 million in the third quarter from his Cruz-ade.)

I think they actually just don't know basic civics. They don't want to know basic civics. They claim a monopoly on "common sense." And that's whatever their gut tells 'em. And their gut tells 'em willful ignorance is what those elitist professorial founding fathers would have loved about the tea party. That knowing nothing is a virtue if you believe hard enough.

As if this were finger painting instead of governing a nuclear super power.

Case in point: The tea party Republicans planned to shut down the government in hopes of killing ObamaCare. Senator Cruz offered some pretzel logic—if you want to call it that—in his marathon on-and-on. He remarked: "There are a lot of people with a vested interest in maintaining the status quo" right next to his recurring, "ObamaCare will hurt you" hook. According to Cruz, ObamaCare is the status quo and we have to stop it before it goes into effect.

It hurts, yes...one's head.

So Cruz and his clan shut down the federal government. All but essential personnel. Which led to three weeks of tired quips with overused air quotes about Congress being "essential." Since the tea party lawmakers can't be bothered to learn about the thing they hate (government) and the thing they now work in—tea partiers were outraged that the government they shut down, shut down DC monuments. Monuments, of, by and ABOUT the gubmint.

Randy Neugebauer (R-TX) who was instrumental in the government being closed for WWII vets (and other Americans) famously told a park service employee who at that moment for all was an unpaid volunteer, "The Park Service should be ashamed of themselves."

What does Rep. Neugebauer know about shame? Yet another desirable quality lost to willful ignorance.

Now tea party Republicans are upset because the government is open again, the country didn't default on its debts and ObamaCare is still (as it has been for more than three years) a law.

The government goes back to being just dysfunctional and the tea party thinks it's a loss for them.

Losers indeed.

WHAT'S ON 98

October 28 - November 3

The best crime movies can glorify criminal activities of people from all walks of life.

The best crime movie is based on the lives and/or illegal activities of criminals. Some of these films are realistic depictions of real criminals doing real crimes, and some are made-up, unrealistic tales of imaginary criminals doing imaginary crimes. As opposed to most film genres in the American cinema, these types of films generally glorify the criminals and their crimes. The crime film genre has many variations, including crime comedies, crime thrillers, film noir, heist films, hood films, legal dramas, mob films, mystery films, police procedures, heroic bloodshed, and Mumbai underworld.

The best crime movies got its start in 1903 with Edwin S. Porter's The Great Train Robbery. This film was also considered the first Western film ever made. The film was a silent short of only about twelve minutes. The film was about two bandits that hijacked a locomotive train. This film set the stage for hundreds more Western and Crime films to come. Other early, notable Crime films from the 1900s- 1910s are The Third Degree, 99, and The Chinese Puzzle.

The Crime film genre has continued to grow from its start in the era of silent films into the recent and, now, even current decades. The most popular Crime films of the 1930s included Doorway to Hell, The Public Enemy, and G Men. By the '40s, Crime films were becoming more and more popular. Some of the most popular Crime films from this decade include The Fatal Hour, Double Indemnity, and The Woman in the Window. In the '50s, some of the most popular Crime films included 12 Angry Men, Vertigo, Some Like it Hot, and Touch of Evil.

The best Crime movie has greatly affected today's culture. As with other types of film and TV show genres that include crime, violence, and other types of general wrong doings, it can be argued that watching these types of shows influences more people to commit crimes and do wrong things. There have been several studies done that show the how much the shows we watch affect our behavior. However, these studies have never made shows and films about violence, criminals, crimes, etc. illegal or less popular with the general public.

If you're looking to watch the best Crime movie but don't know where to start, here is a list of classic, must- see the best crime movie from free movie websites: What Price Crime?, Unforgotten Crime, The Rebel Set, Money Means Nothing and Code Name Zebra.
