MATER DOLOROSA RETREAT CENTER

CONTEMPLATING HOUSING PROJECT

VOLUME 7 NO. 46

CITY COUNCIL MEETING WRAP UP by Marina Coco La Salle

Mayor Nancy Walsh, Mayor Pro Tem John Harabedian, and Council Members John Capoccia, Chris Koerber, and Josh Moran were all present at this week's city council meeting. Most of the members seemed to reminisce on the town's Halloween festivities and the turn out of the VFW Veteran's Day Commemoration. Mayor Nancy Walsh and Council Member Chris Koerber specifically took the time to thank the Civic Club, Kiwanis Club and Sierra Madre staff for their efforts and continued support with the community.

Tentative Tract Map

Development Service Director, Danny Castro gave the council and audience an overview of what a recent applicant submitted. The applicant created a tentative map for the development of seven condominiums on the property located at 413 Mariposa Avenue. The city's planning commission made their final decision to approve the seven-unit, two-story, twenty-eight foot high project.

Building Code Adoption

This was the second reading of the building code adoption. When last discussed, Council Member Capoccia requested options regarding higher penalties for those who build without a permit and expanding protection for areas that are not listed in the historic register. Due to government policy the maximum penalty fee is and will stay at $1000. Most building codes protect at $1000. Most building codes protect historically classified spaces but an addition of (cont. on page 3)

It is an area well known to most residents of Sierra Madre for a variety of reasons. From Madre for a variety of reasons. From gated community", and "It will be an gated community", and "It will be an area of the water of the wate 1932 to 1991 the land included the home of the Passionist Father's Monastery. (The Monastery was destroyed by the 1991 Sierra Madre Earthquake and ultimately demolished.) The retreat center was built in 1949 and is still very much in use for religious purposes and for use by the general public. The property has also been the site of many festivals and events and was the site of the Sierra Madre Town Picture taken during the Centennial Celebration in 2007. Every Good Friday, the property is opened for the Annual Seven Stations of the Cross service. Dog walkers and hikers have also availed themselves to the property for years. However, much of those 88 acres are about to change.

According to Jerry Pearson, President of the Board of Directors for the Retreat Center, there are preliminary discussions underway surrounding the implementation of portions of the retreat center's 2006 Master Plan. Those plans currently include the development of an unspecified number of "low density housing units" on the lower (southern) portion of the City Manager Elaine Aguilar, in an interview earlier in the week, confirmed that "preliminary inquiries" had been made, however, "nothing has formally been submitted to the city". No timeline was given by either Aguilar or Pearson as to when anything more substantive will be available. According to Pearson, "We are just in the feasibility stage".

Pearson, along with the center's Director, Father Michael Higgins, and Deacon Manuel Valencia, the Associate Retreat Director, emphasized that their primary concern was retaining "a sense and the County of Los Angeles; on of open space and an atmosphere of the east by Bailey Canyon and on the reflective tranquility", and yet, "evaluate South by Sunnyside Avenue. the best use of the property."

project but he was very clear on what environmentally sustainable project". He also added that nothing would be done to the hillside area behind the Retreat Center.

When the Mater Dolorosa Passionist Retreat Center was incorporated in 2004, one of their immediate goals was to "evaluate and enhance the property to support the retreat ministry, Passionist Community life, and Holy Cross Province". In order to develop the property and maintain their goals, whatever is constructed must support the serene and reflective environment of the retreat center.

Sierra Madre residents have been noticing that there has been some "unusual activity" at the Monastery for a while. Earlier this year, several residents who walked their dogs on the grounds inquired about the construction of a fence around the property. Others noticed a number of large trucks, "larger than brush clearing trucks", that had been going up and down the street.

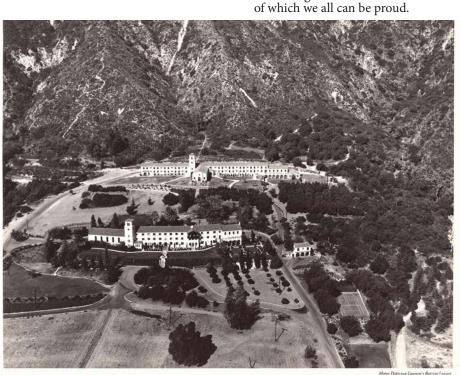

If there is any housing at all constructed on the property, street access will have to be considered. Currently, the only direct access is North Sunnyside. However, Pearson indicated that discussions have included expanding and improving the portion of Carter that dead ends into the retreat center's property. If that is done, then Grove Street would also be impacted by the project. The land is bordered on the North by Angeles National Forest; on the west by Pasadena, Sierra Madre

Several property owners on At this point, Pearson was not Sunnyside and Grove who are aware about the impact it will have. A local realtor, who is thoroughly familiar with the history of the site and property values in Sierra Madre, says, "What will happen to home values will depend on the type of units constructed. If they are truly low-density, single family, market rate homes, then property values will increase."

> Regardless of what type of housing is developed, the city will have an increase in funds. Currently the development fees for each unit are $45,000, to cover the increased demands on our infrastructure. If streets have to be widened, those costs would also be the responsibility of the developer. And, additional housing units will eventually mean additional property tax revenue.

There does not appear to be any way of blocking reasonable construction on the monastery property. When speaking with Aguilar, she pointed out that the city's General Plan allows for the Monastery to construct either recreational or residential projects on the land. This is in the current plan, written in 1996, and there was no change to that segment of the proposed new General Plan.

However, when the formal application is made to the city, regardless of the size and scope, there are a number of steps that have to be taken and most include input from the community. The process includes an environmental impact report and a zoning change among other things. When questioned as to whether or not Pearson thought getting through the process would be difficult, he responded by saying that he looked forward to working with the city and residents in order to make this project something that all could embrace and

Water and Sewer Rate Increase

City Manager, Elaine Aguilar and Director Bruce Inman took the council and audience on a three piece presentation regarding the sewer and water of Sierra Madre. Habib Isaac presented a power point to help lead those through this section of meeting. Isaac attempted to reassure residents by saying, "This is just going to be the next step for discussion and what should be the final rates moving forward." The presentation opened with a review of the water and wastewater financial plans. The concern regarding costs and functional components then followed, which brought up further discussion. The presentation was wrapped up with the proposed rates and a Q and A to help fine tune things.

Council Members tried very hard to make sure everything was dealt with fairly. In the end, Council Member Koerber made an appeal to the people of Sierra Madre stating, "Do not protest this rate increase. We've worked it down as low as we can, but we need to hit these numbers so that we can have a sustainable water department. think the people of Sierra Madre care about keeping the water supply solvent and this is the way to do it. I please ask you to support us with this rate increase."

Due to the extended discussion on the water and sewer issues of Sierra Madre a special meeting has been scheduled for the sole purpose of discussing the User Utility Tax. That meeting will take place on Tuesday, November 19, 2013 at 6:30 pm at

WALKING SIERRA MADRE.....THE SOCIAL SIDE

By Deanne Davis

"Lead me not into temptation...I can find it all by myself!"

That's a line from a pretty good country song, and will give you a hint as to where we were walking this week; that's right, our own Farmer's Market right below Śierra Madre Blvd., between Sierra Madre Congregational Church and Memorial Park, each and every Wednesday afternoon. Talk about a splendid shopping opportunity!

If you're a bread lover, which I happen to be, you will have to be dragged away from The Rustic Loaf's booth where they had rapturously beautiful loaves of bread guaranteed to put you into bread heaven... like these: Lemon Rosemary, Kalamata Olive, Cranberry Walnut, Multigrain Whole Wheat, Asiago Sourdough, and Cinnamon Raisin. With a bottle of EVVO, as Chef Rachel Ray would say (Extra Virgin Olive Oil for the rest of us) I could have done real damage. John, the dear ever-patient person who keeps me out of too much trouble, said, "No, it would be really bad for you to sit on the curb and devour a loaf of bread." The Rustic Loaf travels to a number of Farmer's Markets and, much to my delight, donates all unsold loaves to a variety of food banks.

Reluctantly, we moved on and immediately encountered the tamale guy and then the Mediterranean Feast Guys with quantities of hummus, tabouli, tzakziki and pita bread. Folks were sitting on the curb eating those goodies! Then the Dry Dock

Fish Guy with gorgeous fresh shellfish, smoked fish and sushi grade fish. The best part, though, was the produce. Magnificent raspberries, plump and perfect; next to late season strawberries that were crying out for a big bowl of whipped cream. Bushel baskets of shiny apples, heaps of celery, radicchio, radishes, lettuce and veritable mountains of kale, the hot veggie of the moment. Did you know that Trader Joe's has even added kale to their Spinach-Sour Cream dip?

But the persimmons, oh, the persimmons! American persimmons (the kind that have to be squishy before you can eat them) and Fuyu persimmons, which are small, firm fleshed and equally delicious. We have a Fuyu persimmon tree right here at our house but the squirrels never leave me even one! I went wild at the Farmer's Market and persimmon bars are in our future.

You might give these a try after you buy persimmons next Wednesday at our Farmer's Market. Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

2 cups persimmon pulp (about 3 persimmons of the American or squishy when ripe kind)

1 tsp. baking soda

1 cup brown sugar, packed 1/2 cup oil

1 egg

2 cups flour

1 tsp. cinnamon (or a little more if you like cinnamon) 1/2 tsp. ground cloves

1/2 tsp. ground nutmeg

1/2 tsp. salt

1 cup walnuts or pecans, chopped

1 cup raisins

Powdered sugar for dusting after baking. Puree persimmon pulp and soda in blender.

Blend sugar, egg and oil and add to persimmon pulp-soda. Mix flour, cinnamon, cloves, nutmeg, salt, nuts and raisins. Combine with wet ingredients, mix well.

Place batter in greased 13 x 9 baking pan.

Bake at 350 degrees until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean, 35 to 40 minutes.

When cool, cut into bars, dust with powdered sugar and put a few on a nice plate. Make yourself a pot of tea, sit down with someone nice and enjoy!

We'd like to hear from you! What's on YOUR Mind?

Yoga Instructor Convicted of Sexual Battery

A jury Wednesday found a Pasadena yoga instructor and owner of Yoga Kingdom Sanctuary guilty of four counts of sexual battery by fraudulent representation City Prosecutor Beal Bagneris announced Thursday. The conviction requires he register as a sex offender for life she Naader Shagagi, 56, was convicted of committing the sexual crimes at his 553 S. Lake Avenue yoga studio. He was convicted under sexual battery. The jury could not reach a unanimous verdict on two other sexual battery charges Bagneris said.

The case was based on complaints from three young female yoga students who were assaulted by Shagagi during so-called private "healing" sessions. Evidence provided by Deputy City Prosecutor Joon Kim showed the victims were told that his intimate touching would help "heal" the victims.

Other fraudulent representations that the defendant made to the victims included that he was a "healer" who had cured others of breast cancer and that he was a "messenger of gods" who could communicate with gods.

One of Yoga Kingdom Sanctuary's brochures advertised "Curative Yoga" brochures that could cure "any ailments." The victims were convinced to participate in multiple private "healing" sessions with Shagagi during which he repeatedly groped and touched them according to a released statement.

Bagneris said victims of sex crimes need to know "they are not alone and that the police and prosecutors are here to help them."

CHIEF INVOLVED IN PREVIOUS OFFICER-INVOLVED SHOOTINGS

News From Your Community

Video uploaded to YouTube Wednesday shows that Pasadena Police Chief Phillip Sanchez has been personally involved with at least five officer-involved shootings before being hired to lead the city's police force.
In the 23 minute deposition video Sanchez is questioned by attorney Caree Harper who represented the family of 19-year-old Kendrec McDade, shot by police March 24, 2012. Sanchez is asked about his record with previous officerinvolved shootings, his stand on public oversight of the police department and if the McDade now said they were unaware exists, only the Public Safety shooting incident could have been handled differently.

"You felt you could have been objective having been involved in 'waistband shootings' yourself as the officer, that you could objectively, either, disciplined these officers or exonerate these officers," Harper asks, at the beginning of the video, about disciplining officers Matthew Sanchez indirectly admits, by answering "yes" to his involvement in five officerinvolved shootings. According to a statement by Lt. Tracey Ibarra, the shootings all took place before 2000. She also said Sanchez was honored for saving councilmembers."

ROSE QUEEN AND PRINCESSES SHARE AFTER-NOON TEA WITH GIRLS OF HILLSIDES CHARITY

(PASADENA) The Tournament of Roses 96th Rose Queen and her court may be on a whirlwind schedule, but they weren't too busy to stop by for their annual tea with the girls living at Hillsides.

Rose Queen Ana Marie Acosta, who attends Polytechnic School, and the six Rose Princesses visited Hillsides' auditorium on the charity's main campus in Pasadena on Thursday, November 7, 2013 for an afternoon of crafts, fresh fruit, vegetables, cookies, and Dots cupcakes.

The afternoon was a huge hit for the girls of Hillsides, who enjoyed every minute of their "royal treatment."

"I love meeting new princesses every year. I want to become one myself," said one Hillsides teen who had participated in the tea for five years. She had been counting down the weeks until the event for over a month, and she was thrilled that the day had finally arrived.

The afternoon started with the Royal Court introducing themselves, each providing her name, age, school, and favorite food. When Princess Sarah Elizabeth Hansen, 19, who attends Pasadena City College, shared the fact that she liked pizza, she received applause and laughter from the audience.

Hillsides Director of Community Resources Laura Kelso encouraged the Hillsides girls to stand up and share the same information, which some willingly did. When one girl was hesitant to introduce herself, Queen Ana stood up with her so it would lessen the awkwardness.

After the introductions, the girls decorated frames with stickers, colored markers, and patterned duct tape, with the Queen and Princesses giving advice and using the time to get to know the girls. "It's beyond special being able to inspire, help or provide giggles to girls, and can keep you beaming for days," said Princess Elizabeth Woolf, 17, from La Canada High School. She said community service was ingrained in her by her parents, who encouraged her to participate in service at church.

Rose Queen Ana Marie Acosta chats with a girl living at Hillsides during a visit from the Rose Court to Hillsides.

"The Rose Queen and Royal Court is an amazing Pasadena tradition, and we feel fortunate Hillsides is able to share in it," said Hillsides chief executive officer, Joseph M. Costa. "This annual visit is something the girls look forward to, and we can't thank the Tournament of Roses Association enough for making it happen."

The Rose Queen and her Royal Court make more than 100 community and media appearances during their reign, culminating with the 125th Rose Parade and 100th Rose Bowl Game. The Hillsides tea, which lasted from 3:30 – 5:00 p.m., was the last of two events on the day's schedule.

Hillsides is a premier provider dedicated to improving the overall well-being and functioning of children, youth, and families in need. For more information about Hillsides, please visit www.Hillsides.

ARCADIA HIGH STUDENT EARNS RARE PERFECT SCORE ON AP EXAM

ARCADIA-- Nathan Chou, a senior at Arcadia High School, earns a rare perfect score on his Advanced Placement Calculus Exam. Of the 3,938,100 AP exams taken in 2013, Chou was one of just 11 students in the world that reached perfection on the AP Calculus BC Exam. Nathan answered every multiple-choice question correctly, and earned the maximum scores on each of the essays in the free-response section of the exam.

"We are very proud of Nathan and his amazing accomplishment," said Dr. Brent Forsee, Principal at Arcadia High School. "We have some of the best students in the country attending Arcadia High School, and Nathan is a proud example of that."

The Advanced Placement Exams are written and scored by college professors from around the world, and are typically designed to cover a full-year of intensive, college-level knowledge and skills, so it is very rare for a high school student to earn every point possible on the exam. With nearly 4 million AP Exams taken in 2013, in subjects ranging from Art History to Calculus and Physics, the percentage of students receiving a perfect score is extremely low. This astonishing result is characterized by the College Board's AP Program as "an extraordinary academic achievement." In total, more than 104,000 students took the AP Calculus BC Exam in 2013.

Nathan has received nothing but A grades since attending Arcadia High School, and is very active in the school's many academic clubs. Chou is a member of the Math Team, Science Bowl, Quiz Bowl, Science Olympiad, and Physics Team. He also has been in the Arcadia High Symphony Orchestra for the past four years playing the violin and piano. Chou, a National Merit Scholarship Semi-Finalist, also speaks Mandarin and Spanish in addition to English. He also enjoys competing in website coding competitions, and has designed and developed academic student support websites with his friends. Nathan's proud parents moved to Arcadia before he was born, because they wanted him to be educated in the Arcadia Unified School District. Before attending Arcadia High, Nathan was a student at Baldwin Stocker Elementary School and First Avenue Middle School.

"Being in the Arcadia Unified School District has allowed our son to fully develop his potential," said Nathan's Father, Wen-Feng Chou. "There is certainly a lot to celebrate, but I think as a parent I am also proud of the district. This proves our public school system really works."

Born and raised in Arcadia, Nathan also traveled to Taiwan over the summer for a short-term mission and helped children learn English. He also enjoys playing the piano for his church.

While Nathan, "did not see this coming at all", he was quick to thank all his teachers, especially Kerry King (his AP Calculus teacher), his parents, and his friends for all their support and encouragement over the years.

Nathan is excited to continue his academic studies in college, but has not selected which university he will attend.

THE DISAPPOINTMENT OF "MAN VS.

WILD" By Christoper Nyerges

[Nyerges is the author of "How to Survive Anywhere," "Guide to Wild Foods," and other books. You can learn about his books and classes from School of Self-reliance, Box 48134, Eagle Rock, CA 90041, or www.ChristopherNyerges.com.]

For the first time, I watched an episode of "Man vs. Wild" with Bear Grylls. Yes, I have heard about it for years, and yes, I have seen young teenagers drooling over their Bear Grylls' knives, and yes, I even saw Mr. Grylls doing some silly act on the Jay Leno Show. But I had never watched the "Man vs. Wild" show.

I expected some great lessons on survival, and relevant topics on how to protect myself and my family from the many threats within and without. I expected entertainment also; I mean, it's television after all. But I naturally assumed that with all the popularity of this show, it would have something useful, interesting, relevant, and imminently valuable to share. Boy was I wrong!

During the one episode I watched, I don't think I saw any useful survival skill that I would ever be in a position to employ. In fact, most of it would be categorized as what NOT to do! Furthermore, there was no sense of purpose or reason to what the man was doing. OK, he was dressed a bit too neat and clean and he was on this quest for water in the desert.

He jumps into a deep rocky hole looking for water. Really? A "survival expert" would never have jumped into such a chasm in this dangerous manner since a real expert could have seen there was no water in there merely by looking. But you do get to see him scramble out of the hole. OK, so he has athletic abilities, but not the wisdom to demonstrate what not to do.

He then dug a little hole in a dry stream, which is indeed a spot where you'd find water. I have done just that many times and dug deep enough to where water would seep in, clarify on its own, and then I could drink it. But Mr. Grylls, instead, proceeded to pack wet sand into the sock he just took off his foot and squeeze the sock to get out a few drips of water. Really? Again, a real expert would not do that, and the bad thing about the show is that someone will leave thinking that is a bonafide survival skill. He's appealing to the lowest common denominator of thrills and grossness but he didn't show real useful skills, and he could have, and he should have.

Folks, it only got worse.

Next, he is purportedly wandering along and found some debris in the desert. Looks like some hang-glider crashed here, he tells us. Really? All the gear was relatively new – not worn out and weather worn like you'd expect to find in the desert. And lo and behold, he found just the right amount of debris to rig together a little three wheel cart and then the old parachute was used so the wind could pull him along. Very ingenious yes, but the debris was most certainly planted there, and the likelihood of anyone ever actually fashioning such a vehicle from found objects is so remote as to be laughable. In fact, I began to ask my friend if the show was intended to be comedy.

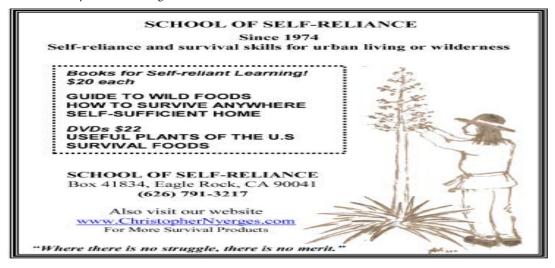

There were numerous dangerous maneuvers when one could have taken a safe route. He chooses to whirl around edges of a mountain on his supposedly-found parachute cord, rather than just hike the safe and sure way around. He squeezes through holes in rock when he could have safely gone around. And he quickly makes a bundle bow to shoot a rock tied to a string to a distant hill so he could hang on the rope to get to the distant mountain. Really? He would have done far better simply by tossing the rock. But most of the purported skills seem faked. I could not help but wonder how many naive teenage boys will die when they try to duplicate what the "survival expert" on TV did.

And part of my point is, there was no point! Grylls chooses danger when there are obviously many safe ways. You survive not by taking ridiculous and unnecessary risks, but by thinking your way through a situation and choosing the wisest route. This was bad TV, bad advice, there was no real drama and no point to Mr. Grylls' wanderings. Is the show really popular? If Mr.Grylls is really the expert he is made out to be, why does he allow himself to be paid to demonstrate the antithesis of "survival"?

Before we turned off the pointless show, my viewing companion and I watched as Mr. Grylls took two aluminum tubes and purported to make a fire piston. He stuck a little bit of some sort of tinder in one end, and hit one tube of aluminum into another and magically produced a glowing ember. Folks, that was as phony as they come. If any of you have tried to get an ember with a fire piston, you know that everything has to be "just-so," and even then it will be very difficult. This was just one more staged aspect of a phony show that is not even good entertainment.

We turned off the TV and found it far more enlightening and enriching to discuss Paul Campbell's latest book on the Universal Tool Kit.

And what of the hour or so I spent watching Bear Grylls? Well, as Alan Halcon likes to say, that's an hour of my life I'll never get back.

VERY SPECIAL CONGRATULATIONS: Methodist Hospital Receives A Most Prestigious Award

By Joan Schmidt

Recently I attended a very special event at the Methodist Hospital. Hospital was awarded ECRI Institute's 8th Annual Health Devices Achievement Award. When I first heard about the upcoming event, I was very excited, but really had never heard of ECRI Institute before and didn't really understand what this award was for.

Doneva Garcia, Media contact from Methodist Hospital's Relations Public and Communication Department following shared the information with me.

ECRI Institute (www.ecri.org) is a nonprofit organization that dedicates itself to bringing the discipline of applied scientific research to healthcare to discover which medical procedures, devices, drugs and processes are best to enable improved patient care. A pioneer in this science for 45 years, ECRI Institute is designated as Evidence-based Practice Center by the US Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality, and ECRI Institute PSO is listed as a federally certified Patient Safety Organization by the US Department of Health and Human Services. Visit www.faceboo.com/ECRInstitue and www. twitter.com/ECRI Intitute to learn more.

Why did Methodist Hospital receive this great award? Methodist Hospital received this award for its cybersecurity program. The hospital's winning submission, Redefining Medical equipment Management and Giving a Solution to Vulnerabilities from New Medical Device Technology, describes its development of a new integrated systems management program that identifies equipment vulnerabilities related to patient safety, information availability and cybersecurity that result from the introduction of advanced and increasingly complex medical devices in the healthcare setting.

At the event, I met Anthony Coronado, Methodist Hospital biomedical engineering manager and the team. On behalf of the entire team, he said, "We are honored that ECRI Institute has recognized the innovative systems-based approach that our team took to address medical device cyber security vulnerabilities." The biomedical engineering team revised its procedures for incoming inspections and ongoing device oversight to include verifying the cyber security of networked devices and the protected health information they contain.

Coronado further stated that "Our integrated systems management program was developed" by a team who was committed to ensuring patient safety and delivering better healthcare." Coronado was a featured presenter in a recent ECRI Institute web conference, "Tackling Medical Device Cyber James Keller Jr., ECRI Institute's vice president, health technology evaluation and safety, told us that cybersecurity risk with medical devices is a serious and emerging concern. However, most hospitals have yet to significantly address this issue! "We congratulate Methodist Hospital for this important initiative-it sets a great example for other hospitals on how to tackle this issue.

After listening to Mr. Keller and learning about cybersecurity, I was disappointed more members of the Press weren't present in person to see this great award bestowed on Methodist Hospital. What an honor! A complete description of the award-winning initiative is featured in ECRI

Institute's Health Devices journal and on the ECRI Institute website.

Besides learning about ECRI Institute, I learned Methodist Hospital, founded in 1903 is actually a not-for-profit hospital. It's licensed for 581 beds and services include 24/7 emergency department, outpatient surgery, labor and delivery, neonatal intensive care, neurosurgery, acute physical rehab and complete cardiovascular services including open-heart surgery. The Hospital is a Los Angeles Countycertified stroke center, as well as an approved STEMI receiving center for heart attack patients. It is a recognized center of excellence for heart care, knee and hip replacement and bariatric surgery. Methodist Hospital is accredited by the Joint Commission with advanced certification in heart failure and stroke, and is accredited as a Comprehensive Community Cancer Program by the American College of Surgeons Commission on cancer. 95,000 AT SANTA ANITA BREEDERS' CUP

Between two weeks of overskies, the weather turned clear and spectacular for national TV coverage and the nearly 95,000 people who went through the turnstiles at Santa Anita Park in Arcadia during the two-day Breeders' Cup event Friday and Saturday, Nov. 1-2, 2013.

That was a 5%

increase over Gary Stevens running Mucho Macho Man to victory in Breeders' Cup Classic Nov. 2, 2013

last year's twoday crowd of 89,742, and the second biggest at Santa Anita in recent years after the combined 96,496 in 2009, the year Mike Smith rode Zenyatta into history in one of the most memorable races ever. This year's event had its own set of new records and memorable moments, with 50-year-old jockey Gary Stevens coming out of a seven-year retirement to win the BC finale $5 million Classic by a nose for the first time in his Hall of Fame career and in prime time on NBC no less. And 48-year-old Smith won three races to extend his BC records to 20 victories and $25,614,260 in earnings. Smith also rode to second, third, and fourth place finishes in other races to earn his second consecutive Bill Shoemaker Award for the weekend.

And popular Santa Anita trainer Bob Baffert's two victories brought his BC total to 10, moving him into second behind only D. Wayne Lukas.

Breeders' Cup, which was hosted in a different city each year for its first 25 years of existence until an unprecedented back-to-back run at Santa Anita in 2008-09, has already committed to return to Arcadia for a never-before-scheduled third consecutive year in 2014 (Oct. 31-Nov. 1) despite far larger crowds and slightly bigger betting handles in other locations such as Churchill Downs in Kentucky (114,353 fans and $173 million in betting in 2010.

"We're thrilled with the crowd over both days, strong wagering levels and our gracious hosts here at Santa Anita, Arcadia and the greater Los Angeles area," said Breeders' Cup President and CEO Craig

On Saturday alone, the crowd of 58,795 was 6.6% bigger than last year's attendance of 55,123, following the Friday crowd of 35,833, according to Breeders' Cup officials.

Nearly $161 million was bet on races during the two days from all betting outlets, an 11% increase over last year, while bets placed at the track itself increased 2% to $21 million. Total two-day wagering on the 14 Breeders' Cup World Championship races up 7% to nearly $137 million, and Saturday betting up 13% to $109 million.

Stevens pushes Mucho Macho Man (inside) to hang on for victory against furious finish line push by horse trained by Bob Baffert

The Breeders' Cup helped push Santa Anita's 24-day Autumn Meet, which ended Sunday, Nov. 3, up 12% in overall handle and up 16% in out-of-state handle. The number of horses in each race during the meet was also strong, with an average of nine horses per race from Sept. 27 -Nov. 4. Attendance and wagers placed at the track itself were flat for the overall meet.

The next and main racing season at Santa Anita opens December 26, with the first-ever extended season running until early July rather than ending in mid-April, due to the closure of Hollywood Park this year.

"We intend to build upon the foundation we've established at this meet," said Santa Anita Chairman Keith Brackpool. "The future of racing and of Santa Anita is bright; we have an incredible, historic venue, and the renovations we've made have merged the glory of Santa Anita's original design with amenities now necessary for long range success in the decades to come."

HONORING OUR VETERANS IN DUARTE AND MONROVIA

Photos and Story By Joan Schmidt

On Veterans Day, I was privileged to attend two great events honoring our Veterans and thanking them and their families for their great sacrifices.

With my daughter Karen (Thanks for photos) and granddaughter Jenny, our awesome day began at Thorsen Park, Duarte. Mayor Margaret Finlay welcomed us and reminded us to "Thank a Veteran" for the many freedoms we have such as attending Church. Congresswoman Grace Napolitano told the Veterans "We thank you, we salute you and God bless you". She also urged all present to teach little ones how grateful we are to our Veterans.

Chuck Keen, American Legion Monrovia Post 44 gave the meaningful Invocation, followed by the Posting of Colors, Duarte's Melinda Smith's beautiful rendition of the National Anthem and the Pledge led by Earle Sweeney. (Post #44)

Mayor Finlay acknowledged many dignitaries/local officials: Besides Napolitano, Assemblyman Roger Hernandez, Field Deputy Brian Mejia representing Supervisor Antonovich, Mayor Pro tem Liz Reilly, City Councilmembers John Fasana and Tzeitel Paras-Caracci, Superintendent Terry Nichols, School Board Members Ken Bell and Tom Reyes, City Manager Daryl George, Public Safety Coordinator Brian Villalobos and many more!

The first speaker was Corporal Carlos Garcia, U.S. Marine Corps Veteran of the War in Afghanistan, (right) who graduated from Duarte High. In 2010, he lost both his legs in the war, but didn't lose his fighting spirit and bravery. He shared his story of enlisting in the service and took us on his journey from basic training to that fateful day. What an inspirational human being and example to all. He credits his therapist Marla for pushing him to his limits-Carlos has done 6 marathons on a hand cycle, fishing, hunting and playing basketball. (His team is 24-2) Currently he lives in Temecula with his family and a home is being built. (hfotusa.org)

The second speaker was Sandi Beverage, who spoke for her father, Ezequiel Lopez, Master Sergeant, U.S. Army Air Corps, World War II Vet. She also traced his remarkable career and spoke of how proud she was of him.

Assemblyman Roger Hernandez read the names of all Duarte Veterans, followed by Melida Smith's "God Bless America", closing comments by Mayor Finlay and Joseph Reyes (Son of School Board Member Tom Reyes) played taps.

After Duarte's great tribute to Veterans, we drove to Monrovia for another amazing event-The Allied Veterans Council of the Upper San Gabriel Valley's "Veterans Day Observance".

We were welcomed by Scott Sinclair, President of the Allied Veterans Council. The Posting of Colors was by Commander Willie Williams and members of Arcadia/Monrovia VFW Post # 2070, Monrovia HS Band played the National Anthem, and the Pledge of Allegiance was led by Scott Sinclair. Sinclair introduced local officials in attendance including Monrovia Mayor Lutz, Mayor Pro Tem Becky Shevlin, Council Members Tom Adams and Larry Spicer, City Clerk Alice Atkins, City Treasurer/Historian Steve Baker as well as Arcadia Mayor Pro tem John Wuo and City Clerk Gene Glasco. Also attending was Congresswoman Judy Chu whose father is a World War II Veteran. Judy is always eloquent and a real champion of Veterans and their rights. She is working diligently for Veterans to receive the benefits they are so deserving of. It infuriates her that they have to wait so long for medical appointments and drive all the way into Los Angeles. Another Chu project is to bring a medical outpatient facility to the Valley for Vets.

During the Veterans Day Observance, there was recognition of all attending veterans- each service branch was announced and its vets were acknowledged as were Blue Star Families. (They are the families of current service members) Lt. Col. Charles West Civil Air Patrol Vice President and Civil Air Patrol Cadets placed the Memorial Wreath followed by Arcadia/Monrovia VFW Post #2070 presented a 48 state flag. Benediction by Chuck Keen, Senior Officer American Legion Post # 44, Taps by MHS Band Members Ray Quiroz and Josue Silva and the Retiring of the Colors by Arcadia/ Monrovia VFW Post # 2017 concluded the festivities.

DUARTE INSTALLS NEW TRAFFIC SIGNAL ON HEAVILY USED HUNTINGTON DRIVE

A new traffic signal has been installed and is now operational at the intersection of Huntington Dr. and Pops Rd. that will help pedestrians cross the boulevard safely and facilitate access to transit routes on both sides of Huntington Dr.

Several senior citizen housing complexes are located in the vicinity of the Huntington Dr. Pops Rd. intersection, including Andres Duarte Terrace and Westminster Gardens on the south side of Huntington Dr., owned by Southern California Presbyterian Homes (SCPH). and Huntington Oaks on the north side. SCPH assisted with a portion of the funding for the traffic signal. Other funding for the $268,000 project, long on the priority list for the City of Duarte, was provided by Proposition B and Los Angeles County Aid to Cities.

The section of the boulevard between the traffic signal at Highland Ave. and Pops Rd., is where three pedestrians have been struck and killed by cars in the last four years while attempting to jaywalk across four lanes of traffic. With the traffic signal at Highland Ave., and the new signal at Pops Rd., pedestrians will now have two signal crossings on Huntington Dr. within 400 feet of each

In addition to the new traffic signal, the City also installed a Duarte signature Mission Bell marker in the Huntington Dr. median at the Pops Rd. intersection.

We hope people will consider their own safety by only crossing at signaled intersections and marked crosswalks," said Duarte Public Works Manager, Rafael O. Casillas. He cited a recent study which found that the severity of accidents increase on four-lane highways that carry traffic of over 10,000 cars a day at 40 miles per hour. Casillas said some 26,000 vehicles a day travel through Duarte along Huntington Dr., at an average speed of 46 miles per hour.

If personal safety isn't enough of a concern, there's another good reason for pedestrians not to jaywalk. Duarte Public Safety Director, Brian Villalobos has a reminder that the penalty, if cited, is a possible $191 fine.

SIERRA MADRE STUDENTS ATTEND TEEN LEADERSHIP TRAINING

Submitted by Peggy Beauregard

Rotary of Sierra Madre sponsored 9 eighth graders to 2013 TLC who spent the weekend at Thousand Pines in Crestline, CA Rotary Teen Leadership Camp (TLC) is a leadership-training program for students to interact and participate with 184 other students from the San Gabriel Valley, High Desert and So. Nevada. They learn new skills, build confidence and are challenged in many areas of their lives. Some of the skills learned were how to be specific in setting goals, how to create successful teams and the difference teams make for success, what failure teaches such as it is better to go for what you want and fail than to let the fear stop you from doing anything.

Veterans Day is an official United States holiday to honor all people who served in armed service. The date coincides with Armistice Day, celebrated worldwide, to commemorate the end of World War I.

Not to be confused with Memorial Day, when those who lost their lives in service are remembered, Veterans Day honors people who have served in the United States Armed Forces, also known as the veterans.

THE REEL DEAL: by Ben Show THOR: THE DARK WORLD

From the time when the first Thor movie came out, I had been looking forward to this movie. Now that I have seen it, I can say that my anticipation was not a waste of time and that Thor: The Dark World was worth the wait.

In a time of utter turmoil, Thor (Chris Hemsworth) must make peace in the Nine Realms. When the war against chaos pauses, he returns to Earth to see Jane Foster (Natalie Portman). When they are forced to return to Asgard, Thor, Jane, and Odin (Anthony Hopkins) discover that she has been overcome by a dark force that has not been seen since the beginning of the universe.

While this film is criticized for its abundance of computer graphics, I disagree. The spectacular worlds, space ships, and amazingly shot fight scenes were beautifully made with computer images. This movie looks different from all the other stereotypical CGI-fest movies because the effects look very refined and detailed. There is not just an amazing world to look at in Thor: The Dark World. The plot it very interesting and keeps building up until the very last second. I would recommend this movie to those who are following the Marvel chronicles, who have seen the first Thor, or who are fans of the comic books.

ONE OF MY FAVORITE LETTERS AND WINE REVIEW 101

The tragic hero of our story, Tony, recently went to a Pasadena Restaurant and ordered a glass of House Cabernet. He liked the initial selection and proceeded to order another glass. The bill arrived and Tony was shocked to discover that each glass of wine was ($14). His night went for a great evening to one of disappointment and incredulity. Tony asked me to investigate the practice of mark ups at restaurants. Tony also did some research and discovered the same bottle for ($15) at Vons. The waiter told Tony it was ($52) to purchase the whole bottle and those they pour five glasses per bottle.

I reached out to my many sources in the industry and this is what I found out. Ian Blackburn, founder of Learnaboutwine.com, said, "That ($14) is common for a good glass of wine and the math works out to ($52) for the full bottle at that price." Many chain restaurants use a Libby wine glass that costs them a couple of bucks; upscale restaurants will use a higher quality glass. My next call was to Randy, who owns the Domenico's restaurant on Washington, he tells me that, "His wine purveyors suggest triple the cost of the bottle. Thus if you see a bottle for ($30) at your favorite restaurant the rule of the thumb is that they paid ($10) for it." My suggestion to Tony and my readers is it to never let the server blindly pick the wine. Ok, how about corkage fees? Most restaurants charge between ($4) to ($15) for this service, yes, they still have to open your bottle and clean the glasses. It is unacceptable to bring in a bottle of wine that is already listed on the restaurant's menu. If it is an owner occupied restaurant, often it is a good gesture to let the owner sample the wine that you have brought in. The erudite wine broker Eddie Ramirez offers this insightful advice, "Always have the wine list when ordering and I do not recommend asking the servers for a wine recommendation unless you do not have any issues with the price." Hope that helps, I learned something as well.

So Tony here is a suggestion on a Cabernet that you can purchase at most wine shops and supermarkets. 2011 Cabernet Sauvignon from the Franciscan Winery, located in Napa Valley, California. The wine is made up of 86% Cabernet Juice plus a bit of Merlot, Petite Syrah and Cabernet Franc. This is one Cabernet that goes well with a steak and it's priced so reasonably that you can bring it to a backyard BBQ, which is exactly how I first discovered this wine! As my friend Five Star Sommilier friend George Millotes says, "If it is ready to buy it is ready to drink." Being a 2011 you can opt to decant the wine for twenty minutes, but my opinion is, it's ready to drink now! The color is a deep garnet; you might smell red plum or cherry. I smelled a hint of berries but flavors are definably cherry with a hint of vanilla. This reviewer doesn't swirl his wine, I sip and look for a taste of a long finish, and this did just that.

The following is the scoring method of the Wine Spectator. However, I have added points for Value to that equation also. I'm starting with a base of 50 points; I added 5 points for Color, 7 points for Aroma or "Nose", 12 points for Taste, 8 points for Finish, and 8 points for my Overall Impression, which includes my Value rating.

INGREDIENTS

Kosher salt

12 ounces gemelli, cavatappi or other spiral-shaped pasta

3 tablespoons unsalted butter 1 tablespoon all-purpose flour

1 teaspoon dry mustard

Pinch of cayenne pepper

1 (12-ounce) can evaporated milk

1/2 cup whole milk

3/4 cup shredded yellow sharp cheddar cheese 3/4 cup shredded monterey jack cheese

1/2 cup grated parmesan cheese

1/2 cup panko (Japanese breadcrumbs)

2 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley, chives and/or scallions

DIRECTIONS

Bring a pot of salted water to a boil; add the pasta and cook until al dente, about 8 minutes.

Meanwhile, melt 1 tablespoon butter in a saucepan over medium heat. Add the flour, mustard and cayenne and stir with a wooden spoon to make a paste. Cook, stirring, until the paste puffs slightly, about 1 minute. Whisk in both milks and 1/2 teaspoon salt and simmer, whisking occasionally, until slightly thickened and creamy, 6 to 7 minutes. Add the cheddar and jack cheeses and all but 2 tablespoons of the parmesan and whisk until melted; keep warm.

Combine the panko, herbs and/or scallions, 1 tablespoon butter and the remaining parmesan in a microwave-safe bowl and microwave until the butter melts, about 1 minute; toss.

Drain the pasta, reserving about 1 cup cooking water, and return to the pot. Toss with the remaining 1 tablespoon butter, then stir in the cheese sauce, adding the reserved cooking water if needed. Season with salt and top with the breadcrumb mixture.

SCIENTISTS AT CERN IN GENEVA HAVE ANNOUNCED THE DISCOVERY OF THE HEAVIEST ELEMENT

The following piece is clever and funny. And like most cleverness, it has its basis in truth. The writer is Martin A. Armstrong. I strongly recommend his website, "Armstrongeconomics.com."

I hope you enjoy reading it and passing it on.

"The new element is Governmentium (Gv). It has one neutron, 25 assistant neutrons, 88 deputy neutrons and 198 assistant deputy neutrons giving it an atomic mass of 312.

These 312 particles are held together by forces called morons which are surrounded by vast quantities of lefton-like particles called peons. Since Governmentium has no electrons or protons, it is inert. However, it can be detected because it impedes every reaction with which it

Even a tiny amount of Governmentium causes a reaction which normally takes only a few days to complete to four years or more to finish or resolve.

Governmentium has a normal half-life of 2- 6 years. It does not decay but instead undergoes a reorganization, in which a portion of the assistant neutrons and deputy neutrons exchange places. In fact, Governmentium's mass will actually increase over time since each reorganisation will cause more morons to become neutrons, forming isodopes.

This characteristic of moron promotion leads some scientists to believe that Governmentium is formed whenever morons reach a critical point of concentration.

When catalysed with money, Governmentium becomes Administratium, an element that radiates just as much energy as Governmentium since it has half as many peons but twice as many morons. Vast sums of money are consumed in the exchange, yet no other by-products

(Source: http://armstrongeconomics.com/2013/07/21/the-discovery-of-a-new-element)

Other fictitious funny elements include: Unobtainium, Veryrarium, Tedium, Belgium, Linoleum, Geranium and my favorite: Delirium (also the local pub in Sierra Madre).

Did you see last week's cover of Time Magazine? The image on the cover was the silhouetted profile of Governor Chris Christie's from the neck up. The caption on the cover was "The Elephant in the Room." Though the expression was offensive to a large group of people (a magazine the stature of the Time should know better), the triple entendre was very clever. First, "the elephant" referred to Governor Christie as the big winner in last week's election and how he is the front runner in the 2016 presidential season. The elephant entendre also made reference to him as a member of the Grand Ole' Party, (the elephant is the image associated with Republicans). And, of course, third the elephant is a reference to his size, though he has lost 70 mands on far. To his gradit, this is how Course of Christia reacted to the magning course while pounds so far. To his credit, this is how Governor Christie reacted to the magazine cover while on the George Stephanopoulos Show, "You know, if I'm bothered by jokes about my weight, it's time for me to curl up into a fetal position and go home, okay?" Yay Chris Christie!!

JUST FOR BEST FRIENDS

CANINE COGNITION

Well Founded Fact or Fallible Fantasy?

Much ado has ensued in recent years, regarding the cognitive capacity of the "common" domestic canine, and some psychologists who have conducted and successfully completed studies in this field of interest, have earned due respect from their peers in the animal behavioral science community. The burden of proof always lies on the individual whose desire it is to prove a particular theory as scientific fact, and with that comes the responsibility and challenge of addressing and proving un-true numerous pertinent opposing viewpoints.

Science is a discipline defined by very specific perimeters that must be acknowledged in determining the difference between fact and theory, and the process of proving a theory as fact requires accurately documenting the results of repeated controlled studies with consistency, tenacity and patience. Therein lies the uniquely inherent value of the discipline itself. Anyone can come up with a theory, and hopefully we all have a theory or two of our own that we make known at some point in our lives, but it is the proven fact that ultimately becomes a part of true science in the end.

When it comes to studying and accurately defining the thought processes and learning abilities of a dog, the first major challenge is communicating effectively with the subject. As we all know, animals don't speak human language, so in order to figure out what is really going on the mind of a canine, an alternative language that the subject will hopefully comprehend and respond to in a consistent manner, must be employed. There have been various studies conducted over the past several decades wherein sounds, signals, sign language, objects and/or graphic imagery were used to communicate with the canine, in an effort to learn more about what they are thinking. The results of some of those studies have sustained strongly enough scientifically to be accepted as true building blocks for future research into how a dog actually thinks and learns and why he even bothers to.

Does "Fido" respond consistently to a hand signal or verbal command simply out of natural instinct, or does he do it because he feels the desire to please the human? Is his response more the result of empathy about what the human is asking of him, or is it simply an inherent reflex or robotic response completely absent of logic? How much of how "Fido" responds to stimuli comes from cognitive comprehension versus natural instinct? These are among the questions yet to be answered definitively and ones that many animal behavior psychologists and professionals are on a major quest to find answers to.

It is a fine line to define whether our four-legged furry friends understand what we are saying and thus respond by virtue of cognition, or if they respond in a certain way simply because they were wired by nature to do so. This subject stirs up an immense amount of interest and intrigue not only among professionals in the field, but also among lay people such as myself, who love their pets and want to know what they are thinking in order to form stronger bonds and perhaps know better how to care for them when they are ill. It also stirs up a big hot pot of controversy among certain folks of various schools of thought regarding the cognitive capacity of a canine, and whether they are even capable of having emotions as we humans understand them.

Indeed, the concept of canine cognition is a very touchy subject among some religious groups who deem it blatant blasphemy to give a dog the credit for being anywhere near able to have feelings the way we humans do. I don't see the connection, myself. I believe God created the dog (and every other animal for that matter), for very specific purposes, just as He created each of us for a specific purpose. We come from different species, but we all play an important part in this universe and on this globe. I would never be so bold as to assume my reason for being is more important than any other creature's on earth. We are all part of a big picture, and we should humble ourselves to the knowledge that we are blessed to even be alive at all.

I don't have time or space in this article to go into the details of studies that have been conducted or are currently underway on canine cognition, but here is a short list of websites that I found during a brief Google search, for those readers who are interested enough to look them up:

- Duke Canine Cognition Center (Duke University) http://evolutionaryanthropology.duke.edu/
- Max Plank Institute for Evolutionary Anthropology http://www.eva.mpg.de/psycho/dogcognition.php
- Horowitz Dog Cognition Lab (Columbia University) http://www.columbia.edu/~ah2240/ Harvard Canine Cognition Lab (Facebook) https://www.facebook.com/pages/Harvard-Canine-

If you are interested in learning more about what goes on in the mind of your dog, you can visit Dognition.com, a website where you can assess your dog's cognitive tendencies in a list of categories such as empathy, communication, cunning, memory and reason. There are various games and tests you can choose from for you and your dog to participate in. When you complete the assessment, you enter the data results, and the website provides feedback that is supposed to be accurate and somewhat valuable regarding your canine's cognitive capacity. I found it interesting, but how scientifically correct the results are is another question. At least you and your dog will have fun in the process! You can purchase a one time tool kit for $39. If you are not interested for yourself, it might make a great Christmas gift idea for a friend! (No, I don't get a kick back, it's just a friendly suggestion!)

I am fascinated by the concept of canine cognition, and I am glad there are so many scientific projects underway to help us better understand our furry four-legged friends. I may know what my two girls are thinking, but I can't help believing there is more going on in their heads than, "When's dinner?", or "I need to go out and pee!" Regardless of what Tater and Molly think, one thing is for sure...they KNOW I love them!

PET OF THE

MOUSE: ANIMAL ID #A4650833

You've got looks and personality all rolled into one unique mix with Mouse (A4650833)! This boy is a gem. Mouse is a spirited five year old black and white male Corgi/Jack Russell Terrier mix who was brought to the Baldwin Park Shelter on November 7th. Weighing fifteen pounds, Mouse walks well on leash, is well socialized and most likely housebroken. He has a medium energy level, is good with other dogs and it is our belief that he will be good with children. Volunteers who have met Mouse think he is a great little guy. Imagine him just hanging out with you as content as can be, while you watch TV or surf the web -- what a great life! Mouse is a trouble-free dog who is the perfect pet for anyone in any living situation and he would be a great companion for a senior citizen. To watch a video of Mouse please visit:

www.youtube.com/watch?v=SFHh0jK8UK8

To meet Mouse in person, please see him at the Baldwin Park Shelter, located at 4275 N. Elton, Baldwin Park, CA 91706 (Phone: 626-430-2378 or 626-962-3577). He is currently available now. For any inquiries about Mouse, please reference his animal ID number: A4650833. The shelter is open seven days a week, 12 pm-7 pm Monday-Thursday and 10am-5pm Friday-Sunday. This is a high-intake shelter with a great need for adoptions. LOOKING FOR A BEST FRIEND??

Zander is too! He is a friendly, mellow, easy going 2 - 3 year old white terrier boy. He is very handsome and often turns heads on his walks. Although he loves the lap and to spend time with you, he is not a needy, demanding dog. He is very mannerly and independent. He has been great on our walks, loves to explore and is curious about everything around him, especially other dogs. He doesn't pull, goes with the flow and will stop when you do. He was one of the participants in our recent "Tea for Tails" event and was very cooperative, well behaved in public and attracted a lot of attention. He is up to date with all routine shots and ready to be part of your family!!

He currently resides at the San Gabriel Valley Humane Society located at 851 E. Grand Avenue in San Gabriel with his roommate, Arthur. We are located off San Gabriel Blvd., north of Mission and south of Las Tunas.

To arrange a 'Meet and Greet' with Zander (aka....TC12233), please stop by any time from 10:00am to 4:30pm Tuesday thru Sunday.

His adoption fee is $120 which includes his neuter surgery, a microchip, first vaccinations and a free wellness check-up at a participating veterinarian. Feel free to call us at (626) 286-1159 for more information on Zander.

MONSTER MATCH IS A TREMENDOUS SUCCESS

The San Gabriel Valley Humane Society proudly announces donations in excess of $113,000 as a result of its October "Monster Match" fundraising event. Challenged to match $30,000 in donated funds, shelter supporters mobilized throughout the San Gabriel Valley to meet the challenge.

The shelter has been rescuing animals and finding homes for them for almost 90 years. Throughout its long history, the SGVHS has provided food, shelter and medical care to thousands of dogs and cats who were stray and homeless, who were rescued from abusive conditions or were relinquished by their owners. Dedicated staff and volunteers work hard to socialize the animals in their care, and adopters know their new pet has been well cared for and loved. Every healthy, adoptable animal deserves a home and the SGVHS is committed to providing every animal with the opportunity to find its forever family.

The shelter provides spay/neuter services, scheduled vaccinations, and sponsors adoption programs including 'Seniors for Seniors' and the 'Buddy System'. Animals are spayed/neutered, have their first vaccinations, a microchip and come with a free wellness check-up at a local veterinarian.

The shelter is located at 851 E. Grand Avenue in San Gabriel off San Gabriel Blvd., north of Mission and south of Las Tunas. Hours are 10:00am to 4:30pm Tuesday thru Sunday. To learn more about the shelter, visit the website at www.sgvhumane.org for information and photos of all available pets.

HOW TO PUT TOGETHER YOUR FAMILY'S HEALTH HISTORY

Dear Savvy Senior:

What can you tell me about creating a family health history? My doctor recently suggested that I make one as a way to predict potential health problems as I get older, but I could use some help. Getting Old

Dear Getting:

It's a smart idea! Even with all the high-tech medical tests and procedures that are available today, an accurate family health history remains one of the most important tools in keeping yourself healthy as you age. Here's what you should know, along with some tips and tools to help get you started.

Inheritable Diseases

Just as you can inherit your father's height or your mother's eye color, you can also inherit their genetic risk for diseases like cancer, diabetes, heart disease and more. If one generation of a family has high blood pressure, for example, it is not unusual for the next generation to have it too. Therefore, tracing the illnesses suffered by your relatives can help you and your doctor predict the disorders you may be at risk for, so you can take action to keep yourself healthy.

Family Tracking
To create a family health history, you'll need to start by collecting some basic medical information on your first-degree relatives including your parents, siblings and children. Then move on to your grandparents, aunts, uncles and first cousins.

You need to get the specific ages of when they developed health problems like heart disease, cancer, diabetes, arthritis, dementia, depression, etc. If family members are deceased, you need to know when and how they died. If possible, include lifestyle information as well, such as diet, exercise, smoking and alcohol use.

Some relatives may not want to share their medical histories or they may not know their family history, but whatever information you discover will be helpful.

To get information on diseased relatives, get a copy of their death certificate. This will list their cause of death and the age he or she died. To get a death certificate, contact the vital records office in the state where your relative died, or go to vitalchek.com.

Helpful Resources

To get help putting together your family health history, the U.S. Surgeon General offers a free webbased tool called "My Family Health Portrait" (see familyhistory.hhs.gov) that can help you collect, organize and understand your genetic risks and even share the information with your family members and doctors.

Another great resource that provides similar assistance is the Genetic Alliance's online tool called "Does It Run In the Family." At familyhealthhistory.org you can create a customized guide on your family health history for free. Or, if you don't have Internet access, call 202-966-5557 and ask them to send you a free hardcopy of these booklets in the mail.

And, if you're adopted, the National Foster Care & Adoption Directory Search may be able to help you locate your birth parents to get their medical history. See childwelfare gov/nfcad or call 800-394-3366.

Managing Your Results

If you discover some serious health problems that run in your family, don't despair. While you can't change your genes, you can change your habits to increase your chances of a healthy future. By eating a healthy diet, exercising and not smoking, you can offset and sometimes even neutralize your genetic vulnerabilities. This is especially true for heart disease, stroke, type-2 diabetes and osteoporosis.

A family medical history can also alert you to get early and frequent screening tests, which can help detect other problems (high blood pressure, high cholesterol, and cancers like breast, ovarian, prostrate and colon cancer) in their early stages when they're most treatable.

KATIE Tse.....This and That PUBLICITY MONEY CAN'T BUY!

Everyone wants to be young and beautiful forever. Cosmetics, wigs, corsets, and other means of disguise have been around since time began.

I picture a cave woman spreading soot from the previous night's barbeque around her eyes to give them that "smokey" look. Or maybe she stuffed extra fur in strategic places within her primitive clothing to appear more shapely. Somewhere there's got to be a cave drawing or carving showing humans' early attempts at making themselves more attractive.

Though you're probably captivated by my theory of the history of cosmetics, that isn't what this article is about. No, this article is about a relatively new kid on the block as far as beautification goes --plastic

It seems like you can't turn on the TV without seeing an ad for facelifts, tummy tucks, liposuction, or breast (or buttocks) implants. Apparently everyone is satisfied with the amount of fat they have; they just want it repositioned.

While plastic surgery is, in itself, neither good nor bad, it's hard to discuss it without bringing morality into the picture. Of course anyone disfigured from birth or by accident should be able to have their looks changed. Costly procedures purely for the sake of vanity are hard to justify --not to mention the danger of developing "surgery addiction." This condition is evident in many celebrities and the contestants of the reality show, "Bridalplasty." (Twelve brides compete to have the most procedures done on their personal wish lists.) Frankly, they should all have their heads examined before they go slicing and dicing other body parts.

Yes, surgery addiction is a real thing -- and not just in America. There was a story out of China about a man suing his wife after their child came out looking unbelievably ugly. The article didn't include photos of the baby, so it's hard to comment on the actual degree of ugliness. This child was so revolting, that the husband accused his wife of having an affair! (Personally, I think she should've kicked him to the curb at that point. But I suppose she had her reasons not to.)

Paternity tests absolved the wife of this accusation, but she still had some explaining to do. She confessed to having had extensive plastic surgery (in the neighborhood of $100,000) done before she met the man she ultimately married. Hmm... So is the moral of the story that you should ask your prospective partner if they've had major cosmetic surgery along with other important topics like religion, politics, and child rearing?

In the end, the wife lost the suit and had to pay damages to the jerk. I don't recall the details of the case, but I doubt the couple had any pre-nup agreements involving the authenticity of the wife's appearance. If the guy married her with the intention that their children would become super models, I can understand his point of view. But that probably wasn't the case.

Who can benefit from this sad series of events? Laying ethical issues aside, this lady's plastic surgeon has the publicity opportunity of a lifetime! "Let me give you the face and body you've always dreamed of! Your spouse will never know the difference!" But he should probably add, "Reproduce

FYI: ELDERLY DRIVING: Cautions and Concerns

To some extent, driving improves with age. Statistics show that young drivers aged 16 to 25 may be more aggressive, inexperienced, cause more accidents and receive more citations than other age group. However, studies also show that vision, hearing, reflexes and cognitive abilities may deteriorate as we age and accidents of drivers over 75 are comparable to that of young drivers. In addition, older drivers are more susceptible to injuries.-Some simple steps may prolong one's time behind the wheel: Schedule periodic eye exams, update prescription glasses, increase the brightness on the instrument panel; keep the windshield and headlights clean and replace faulty windshield wipers. 2) Choose a car with automatic transmission, power steering, power brakes and easy to read instrument panel. 3) Reduce noise and distractions, e.g. limit conversations and turn down the radio and air conditioner or heater vents. 4) Use extra caution: Avoid driving in inclement weather, check traffic when changing lanes, look before backing up and use signals, mirrors and the horn. 5) Plan ahead, e.g. take easier routes, avoid rush hours and avoid driving in the dark. 6) Take a driving test to assess abilities, or take a course to sharpen skills and learn new strategies. Courses, such as AARP's Driver Safety Program, may help an older person become a better driver and it may qualify the driver for an insurance premium discount.

(www.kansashighwaypatrol.org) Next Week: It may be time to make some changes.

HELPFUL HINT: Wrap a piece of cardboard in fabric and put it at the back of a bookcase instead of painting or wallpaper. You can change it as often as you want.

FOR YOUR FUNNY BONE - While on a road trip, an older couple stopped at a roadside restaurant for lunch. After finishing their meal, they left the restaurant and resumed their trip. When leaving, the woman unknowingly left her glasses on the table and she didn't miss them until they had been driving about twenty minutes. By then, to add to the aggravation, they had to travel quite a distance before they could find a place to turn around in order to return to the restaurant to retrieve her glasses. All the way back, the man became classic grouchy old man. He fussed and complained and scolded his wife relentlessly during the entire return drive. The more he scolded her, the more agitated he became. He just wouldn't let up for one minute. To her relief, they finally arrived at the restaurant. As the woman got out of the car and hurried inside to retrieve her glasses, the man yelled at her. "While you're in there, you might as well get my hat and credit card."

SIERRA MADRE POLICE COMMUNITY SERVICE TEAM

By Marina Coco La Salle

It has been just about a year and a half now since the Sierra Madre Police Department developed a new division comprised of volunteers wanting to help make a difference in the community. After the shocking news of increased criminal activity within the city a few weeks back, SMPD has been working hard to put residents' minds at ease. By fully incorporating this new team of volunteers into the department, there is another set of eyes and ears to keep the little village of Sierra Madre safe and worry free.

Interested in becoming a part of this team? Sergeant Joe Ortiz gave this writer an insight on the process of becoming a member. First and foremost, anyone who is interested should fill out and turn in an application, which can be found at the station. Next a brief background check will be made on the individual, who if they pass will move on to an oral interview process. This twenty to thirty minute interview is done at Sierra Madre City Hall and is conducted in front of a panel of city employees and officials. Once the panel has come to a consensus and approved of the candidate, the last step is to take a live scan of your finger prints. When all things have checked out, the applicant will have a one on one with Sergeant Ortiz himself to be trained on all necessary skills.

When it comes to individual tasks, these volunteers learn to wear many hats. They can help at local events, direct traffic, and even work on the records. Their most current addition to their previous tasks is a newer project called Volunteers On Patrol. Sergeant Ortiz elaborated saying, "They basically conduct residential checks. They're mobile. They're on patrol. If they see something that doesn't make sense they will let our dispatcher know on the radio. So it's an extra set of eyes and ears out doing that a couple times a week." There are approximately twenty police volunteers all of whom are involved with Sierra Madre's CERT program as well.

Sergeant Ortiz ended his interview stating, "I'm pretty fortunate to have such a huge group of people to come out and help the city."

Greaves will talk about his series set in town and featuring the Sierra Madre police department. He has written the first three of the Jack MacTaggart series of legal mysteries, - Hush Money, Green-eyed Lady, and the forthcoming, The Last Heir. Starting with the second installment, this year's Green-Eyed Lady, the series is set in Sierra Madre.

Greaves is a former resident of both Sierra Madre and Pasadena who spent 25 years as an L.A. trial lawyer before turning his attention to fiction. His debut mystery, Hush Money, has been nominated for several national awards and honors, including the Shamus Award (Private Eye Writers of America), the Rocky Award (Left Coast Crime) and the Audie Award for Best Mystery Audiobook of 2012.

ST. RITA RAIDERS ADVANCE TO CYO "FINAL FOUR"

Sierra Madre, CA - Last weekend was a big one for St. Rita's Varsity football team! A Saturday win over Beatitudes of La Mirada put them into the "Elite Eight" for the ninth year in a row, and their nail-biting win over Corpus Christi of Pacific Palisades on Sunday shot them straight into the "Final Four" of the 60-team CYO playoffs.

The Raiders trailed at the half in the Beatitudes game as they traded touchdowns with the defending CYO champs, but jumped out to a lead in the second that they never relinquished. An interception by Luca Farroni, thwarting a Bruin drive, followed by another interception returned for a touchdown by Blake Howard contributed to a final score of 38-26.

Sunday's game against high-scoring Corpus Christi had parents looking for throat lozenges! St. Rita's boys in blue scored twice quickly in the first quarter and never trailed in the intense defensive battle. Two point conversions ultimately became the difference in the game against the Wildcats. A clutch interception, fourth-down conversion and careful clock management ended the final-minute threat by Christi, securing a 16-12 win for St. Rita.

"After the rough start in the opening tournament, I'm very happy to bounce back to win league and make it to the Final Four." said Quarterback Blake Howard 'We're really hoping to bring home a championship trophy for Coach Randy Davies' first CYO title!'

St. Rita will now face the dominating St. James of Torrance, from the powerhouse South Bay Conference, at 12:15pm on Nov. 16, at St. Paul High School.

St. Rita School, located at 322 N. Baldwin Ave. in Sierra Madre, is a top-ranked Catholic parish school with an award-winning, championship CYO sports program.

THE BIG DISCONNECT: PROTECTING CHILDHOOD AND FAMILY RELATIONSHIPS IN THE DIGITAL AGE By Catherine Steiner-Adair

We now approach the middle of November and our next selection brings us to the theme of socialization and interaction (especially with the upcoming holidays), but with a stronger topic and one that can fully apply to adults and today's youth alike. "The Big Disconnect: Protecting Childhood and Family Relationships in the Digital Age" is yet again long on title, but plentiful in its subject and themes that Steiner conveys. The main theme here is the importance of not just fostering, but also keeping and maintaining close relationships with family members, especially with some of today's youth much more tech-savvy than ever, and as a result, tune in more to their screens and electronic devices (smartphone, videogames, etc.) rather than engage with their parents. The tone of "The Big Disconnect" is not meant to criticize, but rather inform and enlighten readers about today's technology and Steiner provides key points in explaining this. Steiner explains how even though today's technology is gradually becoming more advanced and interactive but it can sometimes take away rather than being beneficial. One example Steiner provides is how as a result of families acquiring technology in their home such as laptops and smartphones, but as a result, miss out on any potential quality bonding as well as the guidance and instruction that parents to provide to teach the workings of social skills to their children. Another follow-up that Steiner points out is that when children turn to their screens, they start to slow down on picking up habits that help to engage them with others, such as emotional reasoning (learning to process how they feel within the moment). Steiner's words speak with encouragement, constructive criticism, and guidance on how too much technology can hinder and not help with today's youth and instead provides informative tips and observations on how to unplug and interact, as well as the difference of learning a subject onscreen versus learning the same subject in the flesh, hands-on, without the aid of a smartphone or an app. Copyrighted in 2013, and receiving generous praise from Booklist, USA Today, Kirkus Reviews, and Wall Street Journal, "The Big Disconnect" is an excellent and personally recommended choice that is sure to provide insight on both today's youth and technology.

SEAN'S SHAMELESS REVIEWS: By Sean Kayden

LOS CAMPESINOS!

"No Blues," is Los Campesinos! fifth studio album. The band from Wales continues their streak of solid albums. This time around they've crafted their finest one to date. Known for their raucous arrangements, outlandishly selfaware lyrics, and big hooks, Los Campesinos! changes gears with "No Blues." It's a more mature outing from the six-piece outfit. With each reocurring listen, you'll find something you didn't pick up on from the previous run through. Frontman Gareth Paisey sings with such passion and pathos as he navigates through themes of unsuccessful love, lost, life and death in this incredibly enjoyable record. The erratic melodies are still present, but "No Blues," while not all doom and gloom is more focused, direct, and straightforward than their past outings.

Los Campesinos!'s music has been described as twee-pop. Their sound is very vivacious, packed with lively melodies and impassioned vocals. With "No Blues," they carry on the tradition, but everything feels more heartfelt. As the band grows older, they've actually become wiser. They've always had incredible wit when it came to their lyrical choices.

This latest album is very melodic and while being earnestly heartfelt, it's rather uplifting as well. "No Blues" navigates the terrains of misguided love and sadness, but never does it come across as too sentimental or crestfallen. Instead, there is a youthful sound attached to it. "No Blues" is comprised with a joyous assortment of songs that make up for one unforgettable listening experience. In the world of Los Campesinos!, "No Blues," is their most superb record yet and one that should be heard by anyone dealing with their own melancholy.

"No Blues" consists of 10 gloriously melodious tracks. It's their most complete sounding record. While other albums were good in their own right, they were more rambunctious. With this effort, it's their most consistent sounding album. Paisey still packs on the self-deprecating and bleakly humorous lyrics with much passion and vigor. LC! are undoubtedly making some of the best indie pop music today. "No Blues" is a near faultless pop record that has astonishing replay value with finely crafted melodies, multi-layered guitars, and deeply ardent signing. No matter what, there's a little something for everyone in "No Blues." And frankly, it may be the answer for your own blues.

THE JOY OF YOGA WHEN THINGS GET IN THE WAY

"I was practicing everyday. I felt great. Then I got a cold. 3 weeks later I made it back to class. It felt great. I was weaker, but got it back. Then we went on vacation, then it was the Holidays, then taxes, then..." well, you get the picture. There are a million reasons not to go to class today. "I have to help my sister. I have to go to a meeting at school. My son has a dentist appointment. Work is crazy right now. I feel too fat to go to yoga. I just haven't had time." -I hear this all the time!

This is the story of everyday life. The thing is – we feel so much better when we practice. Our lives start flowing better also. What about if there is a bigger tragedy or strife? What do we fall back on? It is then that we need the yoga more than ever. Our practice centers us, calms us focuses us, helps with our physical wellbeing, our spiritual wellbeing. In a nutshell: yoga helps us live a better life. Yoga is about finding happiness in our selves. What better way to face adversity than from a place of calm? With a better understanding of ourselves and how we process and overcome – we can be powerful creatures indeed.

When things are busy, not going great, stressful, and we have no time - that's when we need to get on the mat even more!

But here's the best part: yoga is always there for you. It doesn't have to take up your whole day, you can do just a little bit today or you can just do a gentle class. Yoga welcomes you back home, to yourself, whenever you wish to be there.

See you in class. Namasté, René

Eating greens of any kind are good for you but kale is super nutritious and provides many health benefits. Among those benefits, studies have shown that kale can reduce the risk of dying from cancer and aids in lowering cholesterol. Kale belongs to the same family as collards, cabbage, broccoli, and Brussels sprouts, which are known as cruciferous vegetables.

Why should you try introducing kale into your meals more regularly? Here are just a few kale facts: One cup of kale contains only 33 calories. So it is low in calories, high in fiber and has zero fat. It is packed with powerful antioxidants like vitamin C, A and K. Kale is a good source of iron and calcium. Calorie for calorie, kale has more iron than beef and more calcium than milk.

Here is a simple, healthy kale recipe that is DELICIOUS! BLACK BEAN, KALE, AND SWEET POTATO HASH

Ingredients:

Directions:

1 cup sliced green onion

1 cup chopped onions (white or sweet)

4 cups roasted sweet potatoes

Astronomers viewing our solar system's asteroid belt with NASA's Hubble Space Telescope have seen for the first time an asteroid with six comet-like tails of dust radiating from it like spokes on a wheel.

Unlike all other known asteroids, which appear simply as tiny points of light, this asteroid, designated P/2013 P5, resembles a rotating lawn sprinkler. Astronomers are puzzled over the asteroid's unusual appearance.

"We were literally dumbfounded when we saw it," said lead investigator David Jewitt of UCLA. "Even more amazing, its tail structures change dramatically in just 13 days as it belches out dust. That also caught us by surprise. It's hard to believe we're looking at an asteroid."

Jewitt leads a team whose research paper appears online in the Nov. 7 issue of The Astrophysical Journal Letters [http://dx.doi.org/10.1088/2041-8205/778/1/L21].

P/2013 P5 has been ejecting dust periodically for at least five months. Astronomers believe it is possible the asteroid's rotation rate increased to the point where its surface started flying apart. They do not believe the tails are the result of an impact with another asteroid because they have not seen a large quantity of dust blasted into space all at once.

Scientists using the Pan-STARRS survey telescope in Hawaii announced their discovery of the asteroid Aug. 27. P/2013 P5 appeared as an unusually fuzzy-looking object. The multiple tails were discovered when Hubble was used to take a more detailed image Sept. 10.

When Hubble looked at the asteroid again Sept. 23, its appearance had totally changed. It looked as if the entire structure had swung around. "We were completely knocked out," Jewitt said.

Careful modeling by team member Jessica Agarwal of the Max Planck Institute for Solar System Research in Lindau, Germany, showed that the tails could have been formed by a series of impulsive dust-ejection events. She calculated that dust-ejection events occurred April 15, July 18, July 24, Aug. 8, Aug. 26 and Sept. 4. Radiation pressure from the Sun stretched the dust into streamers.

Radiation pressure could have spun P/2013 P5 up. Jewitt said the spin rate could have increased enough that the asteroid's weak gravity no longer could hold it together. If that happened, dust could slide toward the asteroid's equator, shatter and fall off, and drift into space to make a tail. So far, only about 100 to 1,000 tons of dust, a small fraction of P/2013 P5's main mass, has been lost. The asteroid's nucleus, which measures 1,400 feet wide, is thousands of times more massive than the observed amount of ejected dust.

September 10, 2013

Jewitt's interpretation implies that rotational breakup must be a common phenomenon in the asteroid belt; it may even be the main way small asteroids die. "In astronomy, where you find one, you eventually find a whole bunch more," Jewitt said. "This is just an amazing object to us, and almost certainly the first of many more to come."

NASA and ESA

Jewitt said it appears P/2013 P5 is a fragment of a larger asteroid that broke apart in a collision roughly 200 million years ago. There are many collision fragments in orbits similar to P/2013 P5's. Meteorites from these bodies show evidence of having been heated to as much as 1,500 degrees Fahrenheit. This means the asteroid likely is composed of metamorphic rocks and does not hold any ice as a comet does. You can contact Bob Eklund at: b.eklund@MtnViewsNews.com.

Tips of the Trade: Real Estate Revealed by Luther Tsinoglou

BENEFITS ON BOTH SIDES

There are new rules regarding short sales meant to improve the experience for both sellers and buyers, but the legalities and legwork can overwhelm even the most savvy. Of course, that's where the real estate agent shines, handling the paperwork and the phone calls, leaving you to focus on your move. Keep in mind that if you're expecting to buy a home on short sale, you can get a great deal, but don't expect miracles from a bank that has agreed to accept a price lower than what the sellers owe on their mortgage. These short sales often generate multiple offers, and if a home has been approved to sell for $200,000, don't expect to waltz in and offer $125,000.

The real advantage of a short sale deal is that the home will likely be in much better physical condition than its foreclosure counterpart. Often, a foreclosed home will have been abandoned for months, and perhaps trashed before being vacated. A short sale property in better condition is in and of itself a benefit with real value that offsets any lower price you could offer on a foreclosure.

And for sellers, a short sale preserves your dignity, reduces some of the stress, and won't damage your credit history as much as a foreclosure. Whether selling or buying, consult an agent for the best results.

CAN YOU MONETIZE SOCIAL MEDIA?

September 23, 2013

STScI-PRC13-52a

There is no question that social media plays a big role in creating brand loyalty and brand awareness. But... the big question sits on all of our minds is "Can a Facebook post or Tweet generate a sale?"

For certain, email marketing can monetize your social media.

There is a technique I call the "Immediate Welcome Reward" which I've seen generate sales from a single Facebook post.

Basically, you promote a link on social media that asks people to sign up for your email list. Immediately after signing up they receive a welcome email with a reward for subscribing to your emails.

It's important that all the pieces work together when you are setting up the immediate welcome reward:

1. Make sure you are using a credible email marketing service, my favorite is Constant Contact.

2. Customize your email sign-up form with your logo and other content that is important to your business. Make sure you know the URL of your sign up form.

Customize a Welcome email that immediately goes out after someone signs up on your form.

4. Include an immediate reward in your Welcome Email – a generous discount code or a coupon (great for retail). It could also be something they download (great for a B2B).

5. Promote the link to your email sign up form on social media. For example: "Don't forget to sign up for our emails, we send out exclusive offers that you don't want to miss!" Include the link to your sign-up form in this post.

6. If using Facebook, I highly suggest paying $5-$10 to boost the post so it reaches more

7. Once the users subscribe to your list, they will automatically receive your Welcome email. If your immediate reward is something that is valuable to the person signing up, say a coupon for 50% off first order, they just might make a purchase right then and there!

If this starts to work for you and you notice that it is generating sales, repeat, repeat and repeat. Drive people to sign up for your emails at least once a month. You might even consider a floating email sign-up form on your web site too.

By the time I came on the scene my father was already losing his eyesight but still attempting to drive and make his rounds as a salesman. The big fear in our family was that his eyesight would get so bad that would not be able to pass the eye test and qualify to have his drivers' license renewed.

it became time for my father to renew his license and he was pretty certain that he would not be able to read the eye and check out the eye chart and see if I could memorize it and then later go over it with him. I went to the Motor Vehicles place saw the eye chart and memorized it. I can still remember the letters-the Big E, then F,P, third line T,O,Z, fourth things were still the same. My wife had line L,P,E,D, fifth line P,E,C,F,D and that's about all I can remember; but, after all, I memorized it sixty years or so

A Weekly Religion Column by Rev. James Snyder

IF YOU LIKE YOUR APPLE FRITTER, YOU CAN EAT YOUR APPLE FRITTER

Growing up back be a great win. in "the day," most people put a lot of tis at time more like a re-credence on promises and lived by the motto, "A man is as good as his word." Most agreements were sealed with a handshake. If you said you were going to do something, you did it. Period.

Today it is an altogether different story. We need a lawyer with a pile of paperwork in order to do anything these days. A lawyer has the sneakability to make words say anything convenient at the time depending on what the word "is" is, and when you said it.

It matters not what a man says anymore, only what he can get away with at the time.

This brings me to the dilemma flavor of

Not mentioning any names, I am too much of a gentleman for that, but some person living in my house can be a little tricky when it comes to the usage of language. I may be the "wordsmith" in our house but she definitely is the "word butcher." She can take any word and slice it so thin its meaning all but smile. disappears.

topics, Apple Fritters. Anybody who knows me knows that an Apple Fritter is at the top of my list of scrumptious delicacies. My motto: An Apple fritter a day makes it all worth living and two turns it into heaven.

Satan may very well have tempted Eve with an Apple but God has more than made up for that by introducing into humanity a freshly baked Apple Fritter. At least, that is my interpretation. Another theologian in our house has different hermeneutics on the

In our discussion, I was reminding the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage that she made a promise that if I liked an Apple Fritter I could eat an Apple Fritter. I laid out my argument very clear, at least I thought so, and encouraged her to follow suit.

She then disrupted the whole discussion by insisting on evidence.

"When," she said with a very suspicious look on her face, "did I ever say if you liked your Apple Fritter you could eat your Apple

It was up to me at this point to produce a strategy that would convince her she said

"Don't you remember," I said as confidently as I could possibly muster at the time, "we were at a restaurant and our discussion centered on dessert."

"I don't remember such an occasion."

I started to wiggle a little bit but I knew if I could win this argument at this point it would

It is at times like this I wish I was a little more like a politician. A politician can say something and it means different things to something and it means different things to different people at different times. It does not matter what they say at any particular time it can always be reinterpreted the way a politician wants it any particular time he needs it. Oh, how I envy those skills.

Let me point out very quickly that according to common knowledge, this is in no way lying. In fact, I am not sure what the definition of lying is anymore. Nobody lies, they are just being misinterpreted. They can get anybody to believe anything if they rearrange the truth in such a way it is no longer the truth but it is not necessarily a lie.

"Don't you remember we were talking about dessert," I said as calculatedly as possible, "and you said a person should be able to like what they eat and eat what they

She thought for a moment and then A while back, we were having a little discussion centering on one of my favorite along that line but I do not recollect that along that line but I do not recollect that we were talking about Apple Fritters. The words "Apple Fritters" never came up in the conversation, as I remember it."

> My challenge was to reconstruct the memory of that discussion somehow to fit in the words "Apple Fritter" or at least the idea.

"When I said that," she said looking at me straight in the eye, "I did not have Apple fritters on my mind. In fact, if the truth were known, I had broccoli on my mind at that moment.'

How did broccoli get into this conversation? Nowhere in the recesses of my mind did the word broccoli ever appear.

I knew I was losing the battle at this point.

It is one thing to say something but it is quite another thing to hear something. Many times what I hear is not really what is being said. At times what is being said is not exactly what I hear, especially if my wife is doing the speaking.

Why is it people cannot say what they mean and mean what they say?

Only God really says what He means and means what He says. I like the encouragement he gives to Joshua. "There shall not any man be able to stand before thee all the days of thy life: as I was with Moses, so I will be with thee: I will not fail thee, nor forsake thee" (Joshua

HOWARD Hays As I See It

to the Washington Post explaining his five draft deferments

How many of us actually thought about veterans last Monday? Sean Hannity managed to devote a minute at the end of his Fox News show on Veterans Day to those who fought wars on behalf of our country. Earlier in the show, he'd given twice as much time to Sarah Palin's new book on the "War on Christmas". I'd almost forgotten until noticing the mini Iwo Jima depiction on a webpage masthead that day. I began thinking of veterans who'd been a part of my own life - and thought of them a lot.

An early memory is of being aware that when a new young family with small kids moved into our comfortable middle-class neighborhood, chances were it was headed by a WWII vet. They could afford a nice house in a nice neighborhood because of a nice job obtained because of a good education – courtesy of the G.I. Bill.

My buddies and I would sit around a card table on Saturdays assembling plastic model kits of B-17s, B-24s and P-51s. The father of one of those friends would stop by to tell of being a side-gunner in a Flying Fortress on bombing runs over Europe. An uncle shared Kodachrome slides of when he was an officer in occupied Japan. Another uncle spoke of war hardly at all, and then only in utter disgust - with a decidedly left-wing tilt. I only learned years later of this uncle's service in the infantry at the Battle of the Bulge. A younger uncle served in Korea, but that war wasn't talked about.

The neighbor who was the gunner in the Flying Fortress became a U.S. History professor at a local college. Well-liked family man, active in his church and community, but then the whispers started: "You know, he's such a nice guy, but - I hear he's against the war."

Up until the mid-1960s, in many communities, questioning our involvement in Vietnam was akin to confessing Communist sympathies a decade earlier.

I have two cousins a few years older than me. (When you're in grade school and they're teen-agers, it's a lot of years.) One joined the Army. He was into cars, and chauffeured officers in their jeeps over the muddy roads between the rice fields. He was into business, and marveled at the young pre-teens helping support their families by dealing in the black market.

When he came home, we piled into his Falcon convertible headed to McDonalds. The Beatles' "Get Back" came on the top-40 station. He grinned and floored it. He cranked up the volume – loud ("Get back to where you once belonged"). He got back okay. When we gathered for a family reunion, he flipped when the youngest cousins brought their toy cap guns into a group photo ("No guns! Guns aren't

His brother went with the Marines. My

"I had other priorities mother read us a letter he'd sent about how in the 60's than military he was "scared spit-less" before going out on service." - Dick Cheney patrol. (I saw the letter, noticing he'd spelled "spit-less" with an "h", rather than a "p".) Not more than a couple days later, the backs of his legs were blown off when he triggered a

I remember my aunt (his mother) describing her stunned horror upon seeing two Marines in full dress-blues arrive at her workplace. She thought it could mean only one thing, unaware such appearances were to inform of serious injury, as well.

I'd heard the apocryphal stories of returning vets being spat upon and cries of "baby killer". That wasn't as I saw it; the vets I knew were the many who joined us in the anti-war marches and moratorium demonstrations I participated in.

A generation later, vets weren't to be honored, but rather hidden - especially when they didn't come back okay. Cameras, reporters – even families were banned from Dover AFB as the remains of the fallen came home. When patients at Walter Reed complained of neglect and lousy conditions, steps were taken not to address the problem, but to punish the complainers. With WWII, every family had some connection to a vet. The Vietnam-era draft, along with nightly news coverage, ensured that war remained an inescapable part of our lives. Over the past fifteen years, for the majority of us there's been no personal connection to someone who's recently served. The likelihood of having such a connection depends a great deal on what part of the country you live in. And, unfortunately, those parts of the country where the likelihood is greatest are those parts where services for our veterans are most lacking.

Under the Affordable Care Act, the Urban Institute estimates Medicaid expansion could provide insurance coverage for half the 1.3 million (mostly young) veterans currently without it, or supplement whatever VA benefits they may have. States with Republican governors who've refused to participate are predominately those states with the highest concentrations of vets with the most vets who'll suffer as a result.

The Center for Budget and Policy Priorities estimates the recent cuts in food stamp benefits will affect some 900,000 veterans - with Republicans determined to slash even more. One in five households benefiting from the Household Energy Assistance Program is a household with a veteran - a program threatened by further cuts from the sequester. Veterans comprise 7% of our population, but 13% of our homeless. As cited in the NY Times, the fastest growing segment of our homeless population is female veterans. House Republicans have announced they plan on being in session no more than about fifteen days the rest of the year, with much of that devoted to their war on Obamacare. As for those who've fought the real wars for us, the focus will return to them a year from now next Veterans Day. In the meantime, we can turn to Fox News where the focus will be on "the War on Christmas".

IN HONOR OF THOSE GREG Welborn WHO SERVE

America has its problems, most likely always will, but there are also many things great about America. This week saw the observance of another Veterans Day and thus an opportunity to move beyond the debates about spending, unemployment and Obamacare. There will be sufficient time for those. This week, let me pay homage to America's spirit as evidenced in the lives, service and sacrifice of her soldiers, sailors, airmen and marines.

Beyond just the mark on the calendar and clock – "the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month" – this Veterans Day was very personal because I spent much of it at a funeral. I didn't know the man that well, but I knew his daughter and her family quite well. There was more than sufficient evidence in the tenor of the lives they lived to attribute greatness to the man, but I learned more of his greatness from the particular duty and sacrifice to his fellow man which was chronicled in the celebration of his life.

Don Richter, like almost everyone else of his generation, was just a boy when he felt that pressing duty which called so many to service in the 40s. He came from humble means, loved his family and friends, played sports in school and ultimately sought a simple life. In fact, he wanted to be a farmer. But WWII interceded, and he volunteered to serve, and to sacrifice.

With each passing of Veterans Day, we are all reminded of the sacrifice these men made, and while they are appreciated, I dare say we don't truly understand their undertakings until we understand the context in which they occurred. The pastor officiating at this service was one of them, and he reminded us of what they truly faced when they agreed to don a uniform, pick up arms, set aside 3 to 4 years of their life and walk into a hell not of their making.

The pastor reminded us all that when we entered the conflict, the Nazis controlled the European continent, save for that tiny speck, Switzerland. Only Britain held out, even then just barely, Russia was in Hitler's sights, and there were many here in the homeland who said it was a lost cause. There were still sentiments toward striking a deal with Hitler when the Japanese bombed Pearl. Japan, herself, was a fearsome opponent. As of that day, December 7, 1941, the Imperial Japanese army had never been defeated. China had fallen, Korea had fallen, the French and British in Southeast Asia had fallen, and Russia retreated. On both sides of the oceans protecting us lay disciplined military forces in control of continents, each planning how we would be destroyed.

We asked these young men, and they came forward, to confront the fears of a nation, bear unfathomable hardship, persevere against overwhelming opposition, and, for too many, pay the ultimate sacrifice so the rest of us at home, and around the world, could resume a life of peace and security. To put a gritty, real world face on that, we asked these men

to penetrate jungles, march hundreds of miles in the dead of winter, take hills and hamlets - too many to recount, traverse the Sahara, land on a sliver of a beachhead and climb cliffs under withering enemy opposition. They did it all. And then they returned to their civilian lives. Neither they, nor we as a nation, claimed conquered territory as our own, took title to colonies or bled populations of their sustenance. In fact, after the conflict, we, as a nation, shipped food and supplies to starving populations and rebuilt countries ravaged by this war. We asked not for repayment. These soldiers, sailors, airmen and marines were, as they are now, the greatest force for peace the world has ever seen.

And when it was all over, they returned home to resume peaceful and productive lives. Many toiled to build up the greatest economy the world had ever seen, while others – like Don Richter – turned their attention and efforts to their communities, both secular and sacred. Public service has always been part of the heartbeat of Americanism, and this generation - and Don Richter in particular - was no exception. In point of fact, he was emblematic of this American trait.

Don, earned his credentials as a minister and then returned to the South Pacific, where he had fought as a marine, to nurture and preach the Gospel. He left a legacy of service and sacrifice beyond the short years he spent in uniform. He devoted a lifetime

Fast forward to today - November 2013 – and we read that the U.S., through its uniformed ambassadors, is lending a needed hand to those in the Philippines ravaged by what is being called the worst storm ever recorded. Typhoon Haiyan has displaced a million people and killed thousands. Into the midst of devastation sails, flies and marches today's next greatest generation. The USS George Washington, support ships, and crew have entered Philippine waters. Once again, in a story that has been repeated countless times in history, the U.S. military is bearing witness to the true meaning of America.

So, let me conclude with a salute to America, its military, and one Don Richter U.S. Marine, minister of the gospel of Jesus Christ, but at heart just an average American - this Veteran's Day week. Don, you bore as impressive a witness on the hearts and minds of your family and friends as the U.S. has born on the hearts and minds of the world. That is why we

The Best Film Noir Movies brings to life the dark side of the human condition.

The best film noir movies are dark in nature. Film noir is a French term used to describe films that portray cynical, pessimistic attitudes and/or sexual motivations. This genre of films was rooted in German Expressionist cinematography, and their plots were often derived from the Great Depression.

The words "film noir" are actually French for "black film," so it is no surprise that these early films were often black and white. The film noir genre didn't officially begin until the '40s and '50s, but there were some precursor films from as early as the 1910s that were similar to how we define film noir films today. Some examples of these early films are The Musketeers of Pig Alley, which was produced in 1912, The Escape, produced in 1914, and the Underworld, produced in 1927.

By the 1930s, the film noir genre was still about ten years away from its official beginning, but some the best film noir- like films of the decade are You Only Live Once, The Roaring Twenties, and the famous, Scarface. By the '40s, the film noir genre had officially begun and produced movies such as The Gangster, Lady in the Lake, and Jonny Allegro. By the 1950s, the film noir genre was in full swing and was putting out films such as The Damned Don't Cry!, The Las Vegas Story, City of Fear, and Odds Against Tomorrow.

The best film noir movies changed the film making culture as well as it reflected and changed the culture of the people. This genre changed the film making culture by introducing a totally new type of film. Up until film noir made its debut, most films were not based on sad, depressing plots and attitudes. Film noir reflects and changed the people's culture, as well. Film noir often reflects the current perspective on existence held by some people in the world, nation, or sections of the nation. This type of film then takes these opinions and perspectives of a few people or a select group of people and makes them widely known to the film's viewers. This can cause people to take on opinions and perspectives about portions of the nation, the whole nation, the world, or life in general that they normally wouldn't have had or thought of.

If you want to watch the best film noir movies but don't know where to start, here is a list of must-see classic film noir films from free movie websites: Sunset Boulevard, Double Indemnity, Dangerous Crossing, The Third Man, Strangers on a Train, and Touch of Evil.

PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE

From: The City of Sierra Madre

MUNICIPAL CODE TEXT AMENDMENT 13-03 (MCTA 13-03) Subject: Applicant: City of Sierra Madre

Project Location:

Properties in the City of Sierra Madre, County of Los Angeles, State of California

The City of Sierra Madre gives notice, pursuant to State of California law, that the City Council will conduct a public hearing to consider recommending adoption of a text amendment to Chapter 17.22 of the Municipal Code to revise various zoning standards related to second units, including minimum and maximum allowable floor area, height, parking and affordability requirements. The proposed revisions implement a program objective identified in the 2008-2014 Housing Element adopted by the City Council on June 11, 2013 to encourage the creation of second units in order to meet the City's Regional Housing Needs Assessment (RHNA) allocation. At their meeting on September 5, 2013, the Planning Commission recommended approval of MCTA 13-03 to the City Council.

DATE AND TIME OF HEARING City of Sierra Madre City Council meeting Tuesday, November 26, 2013 (Hearing begins at 6:30 p.m.)

PLACE OF HEARING City of Sierra Madre City Council Chambers 232 W. Sierra Madre Blvd. Sierra Madre, CA

All interested persons may attend this meeting and the City Council will hear them with respect thereto.

ENVIRONMENTAL DETERMINATION: An Initial Study was prepared for the 2008-2014 Housing Element in accordance with the City's guidelines implementing the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA). This Initial Study was undertaken for the purpose of deciding whether the measures identified in the Housing Element to fulfill the City's RHNA allocation may have a significant effect on the environment. On the basis of the Initial Study, City staff concluded that they will not have a significant effect on the environment, and a Negative Declaration was adopted by City Council on June 11, 2013.

APPEAL: If in the future anyone wishes to challenge the decision of the City Council in court, one may be limited to raising the issues that were raised or presented in written correspondence delivered to the City Council at, or before, the scheduled public hearing.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR: REMEMBERING THE KINNELOA FIRE

Dear Editor:

October 27th marked the 20th Anniversary of the Kinneloa Brush Fire which challenged the resources of the Sierra Madre Fire Department and the surrounding cities. To set the stage, it was early on the morning of October 27, 1993 when a brush fire started above Kinneloa Mesa, an unincorporated area above Pasadena, protected by the Los Angeles County Fire Department. Upon arrival at the scene the Los Angeles County Fire Department found a rapidly moving brush fire driven by severe winds. It wasn't long before the fire would be determined to be a major threat to Altadena, Pasadena, Sierra Madre and Arcadia.

Monitoring the situation throughout the day, the Sierra Madre Fire Department's strategic preplan was implemented to try to direct the approaching fire in a northeasterly direction away from the Sierra Madre Monastery, Bailey Canyon, and the Sierra Madre homes bordering the wild land interface. During the early afternoon hours a briefing was held in Altadena lead by the Los Angeles County Fire Department and the U.S. Forest Service and a representative of the U.S. Forest Service stated that if the fire got behind the Sierra Madre Monastery, "Sierra Madre could expect to lose everything from the Monastery all the way through Santa Anita Canyon." Well, obviously we were not going to let that happen. As a result, a meeting was held with Arcadia's Fire Chief, Chief Jerry Gardner, who was also at the time, the Area D Coordinator. A request was made for at least ten (10) Strike Teams (each Strike Team consisting of five – four person engines, lead by a Battalion Chief). Chief Gardner agreed with the strategy developed and immediately began requesting the resources to respond to the Sierra Madre Recreation Center located at 611 East Sierra Madre Boulevard. As the resources began to arrive at the Staging Area, they were briefed with the strategy developed, provided with an overview of their assigned areas reinforcing their primary roles in life, structural protection, and wild animal awareness in the area, assigned a radio frequency and introduced to the Sierra Madre Fire Department's Command Staff who lead them to their assignment locations.

By five o'clock all of the resources were in place and a strategy and tactics briefing was held with the Sierra Madre Police Chief, the City Administrator and the members of the Sierra Madre City Council, led by Maryanne MacGillivary. Shortly after six o'clock the fire "came in" from Pasadena, as expected, and the battle began. The Sierra Madre Fire Department's resources along with the mutual aid resources from Arcadia and Monrovia, who were under the command of Arcadia Battalion Chief Richard Brown, a former member of the Sierra Madre Fire Department and son of long-time Sierra Madre Fire Chief Charles Brown, were successful in the strategy implemented and the Monastery was "saved." As the fire came through the Monastery grounds the pre-positioned resources began the fight to protect Bailey Canyon and to the East, all the homes in the wild land interface on the northern section of the City. During the course of the entire incident, the media was conducting interviews; however, their questions were never directly answered and the opportunity was used to broadcast to the community the strategy and what was happening throughout the City.

Although it is twenty years later, once again, I am thankful to the residents of Sierra Madre for their cooperation and the hospitality they extend to the mutual aid fire resources and the confidence they had in the Sierra Madre Fire Department to protect them and their homes, the Sierra Madre Police Department who did an excellent job in traffic control and assisting the fire resources in their deployment to their assigned areas on a timely basis, the Sierra Madre City Council for all of their support, the City Administrator and his staff, Chief Gardner and all of the mutual aid fire resources, my Command Staff (i.e., Chiefs Lerner, Spears, Lowe), and, of course, all of the unselfish Captains and Firefighters of the Sierra Madre Fire Department who were gallant in their efforts to protect the lives and property of the residents of Sierra Madre on that night and the three days following this major event.

Sincerely,

Edward D. Tracy Chief of Department (Ret.) Sierra Madre Fire Department
