COUNCIL AUTHORIZES PLACING USER UTILITY TAX ON APRIL BALLOT

A special Sierra Madre City Council meeting was held on November 19th for the specific purpose of discussing whether or not to place a User Utility Tax Measure on the April Ballot. The matter was carried over from the November 12th meeting.

City Manager, Elaine Aguilar started the discussion of the UUT Ballot Measure with an overview of our current UUT and the proposals to either extend or allow the law to sunset, noting the impact of each action.

The history was the first topic brought up, which let those present understand that tax increases took place in 2008. When that measure was approved, it included a UUT Oversight Committee which has met as prescribed in the ordinance. After each meeting of the committee, reports were made to the council indicating that the funds were being spent as the voters had directed.

City Manager Aguilar also explained how much the recession hit the projected UUT revenues stating, "When the recession hit, everybody had previously seen the utility users tax revenues in terms of being recession proof, but this last recession proved everybody wrong. We saw a drop as people conserved." We are just now getting back to the level the city was before and there are high hopes of keeping it that way.

City Manager Aguilar ended her presentation with a list of questions for the council members to take into consideration before they made a decision on the UUT.

When the presentation ended, the council members each addressed the City Manager Aguilar as well as Karen Schneider, Sierra Madre's Finance Director, regarding their concerns.

The majority of the council agreed to put a measure on the ballot that would extend the UUT and cap any increase to 10%. With that vote, Mayor Walsh made a comment saying, "This should be an interesting election." Hopefully the people of Sierra Madre will weigh the pros and cons before making a decision during the elections and the financial future of the town will stay at ease.

WATER RATE INCREASE CALCULATOR NOW AVAILABLE ONLINE

The City of Sierra Madre has given residents another tool that will help them decide whether or not to support an increase in the city's water rates. Citizens can now go online and calculate exactly how much of an impact the proposed water rate increase will have on their finances. The calculator allows a rate payer to input the amount of water consumption they currently have, and the program will project the dollar amount and percentage increase each year through 2018.

Based upon the tiered billing system, some water users will find that the increase may not take effect until 2015. Others it will go into effect in 2014.

This tool has become available in time for residents to see what the real impact of an increase will be rather than speculate. It should prove to be helpful in assisting residents in deciding whether or not they want to protest the proposed rate increase when they recieve their ballots in the coming days.

An example of how the new calculator works is illustrated below. In the calculation shown, the resident chose the classification, residential and meter size. Users then insert their usage levels. Once that is done, click 'calculate' and the table will show what your water bill will be each billing cycle for the next five years. To calculate your own projected water bills, go to: http://www.cityofsierramadre.com/water-rate-calculator

STOP THE HOUSING PROJECT AND PRESERVE MATER DOLOROSA MONASTERY

As you read this, a proposal is moving forward to sell a significant portion of the Mater Dolorosa Monastery to a developer to build a housing project. This project must be stopped before it's too late. The project itself will require a zoning change from institutional to residential.

For most of us, we first heard the news of this project in the Mountain Views News article of November 16th entitled: "Mater Dolorosa Retreat Center Contemplating Housing Project." Only after this news was leaked out did the Monastery send out a letter on November 19th to nearby residents to inform them of this development.

Since then, there has been a groundswell of concern and shock, that this 88 acre oasis of beauty is about to be carved up, sold to a developer and lost forever. Amidst the increasingly frenetic pace of modern life, do we really want to lose this beautiful property with its majestic vistas and open space to another unnecessary housing project?

What makes this property special is the buffer of land separating the Monastery structures from the hustle and bustle of modern life. Without that buffer, the essence of this property will be ruined.

WE NEED YOUR HELP!!!!!

- If you have ever taken a walk on the Monastery grounds and enjoyed its natural beauty, we need your help!
- If you are from a nearby Parish and have ever taken a retreat there and enjoyed the solitude and spirituality of this unique place, we need your help!
- If you are a long-time Sierra Madre resident who fondly remembers the annual Fiesta and other events held at the Monastery, we need your help!
- If you are a Catholic or non-Catholic who has ever made the annual pilgrimage on Good Friday and followed the Stations of the Cross, we need your help!
- If you simply live in Sierra Madre and want to preserve 88 acres that has been a city landmark since 1926 and a refuge for a wide array of wildlife, we need your help!
- If you are a homeowner living near the Monastery and don't want to endure a lengthy construction project lasting for years with caravans of noisy, smelly, grinding trucks parading up to the once tranquil grounds only to end up with increased traffic and congestion, widened streets, a significant decline in your property values, and maybe Sierra Madre's first traffic light, we need your help!

HOW CAN YOU HELP?

- 1. Send us your email address so that we can contact you and give you the latest information and news alerts.
- 2. Email us and ask for a "Stop the Monastery Housing Project!" yard sign.
- 3. Call the Mater Delorosa Monastery at 626-355-7188, Archbishop Gomez at 213-637-7534 and Father Donald Webber at 773-631-6336.

Share with them what the Monastery has meant to you.

- 4. Contact your Sierra Madre City Council members and let them know how you feel.
- 5. Contact everyone you know who may share your concerns about this project.
- 6. If you have any special expertise that you can lend to the cause, let us know. We are interested in retaining formal legal representation to assist us in our efforts.

WE NEED YOUR HELP!

It is that time of year - the Sierra Madre Rose Float Association (SMRFA) needs your help! Have you always wanted to help create a Rose Float? Have you helped in the past and look forward to coming again? Come get involved in the wonderful community event of creating our Sierra Madre Rose Parade float.

Get involved right now! SMRFA needs construction and decoration crew members now and ongoing until the float is finished. Presently we are working on Saturdays and Sundays.

Bring your skills and we'll teach you new ones!

Ready to plan for the week between Christmas and New Years? SMRFA needs lots of volunteers and needs you to get involved! New this year you can schedule your shifts online!

After Thanksgiving, visit the SMRFA website www.smrosefloat.org to sign up and plan that wonderful week between Christmas and New Years. Shifts run December 26-December 31 between 9am - 10pm (and sometimes go even later), so there should be something for everyone. Have family in from out of town? Sign them up, too!

SMRFA is also looking for people to help with a number of things that don't include flowers or seeds! Volunteers are needed to help with food for volunteers (grilling burgers at lunch, serving and clean-up for lunch and dinner), help with the sales booth selling t-shirts, pins and postcards to community supporters, picking up supplies, cleaning up after the float moves out on the 31st, float-sitting overnight on January 2nd when the float comes home to Kersting Court and selling excess flowers on January 3rd. It takes a village to produce a beautiful Rose Parade float which is why the City of Sierra Madre has been so successful for so many years.

If those volunteer opportunities are not enough, SMRFA is also looking for donations of some key supplies including working blenders and non-steam irons, which help us prepare the floral materials. Or do you have an RV that could sleep 6 on New Year's Eve? The SMRFA float crew needs a place to sleep while parked on the parade route and would be grateful for a one-night loan.

If you can help with any of these items or if you have further questions, please contact Bonnie, the SMRFA Volunteer Coordinator, at volunteers@smrosefloat.org or leave a message at the float barn (626-355-7005) and include your name, phone number and how you would like to get involved.

SIERRA MADRE CHRISTMAS TREES HAS A NEW HOME

Well, at least for this year. Our town's favorite (and only) Christmas Tree lot has been moved to a temporary location for Christmas 2013.

Due to the construction of The Kensington Skilled Nursing facility on Sierra Madre Blvd., there was a mutual concern by both the owners of the Christmas Tree lot and developers of The Kensington that the construction activity might inconvenience Christmas Tree shoppes. So, the lot has been temporarily moved to 89 E. Montecito for your convenience.

HOLIDAY CRIME PREVENTION TIPS

The Holiday Season is upon us and unfortunately so are some thieves. The city was fortunate to go almost 60 days without a residential burglary. Unfortunately burglars were back in the area on Wednesday on the 200 Blk of West Carter. Witnesses in the area did see a vehicle parked adjacent to the victim's residence that was not known to the residents in the area, however they did not call the police.

This is just a reminder "If you see something say something". We urge you to call the Police Department if something just does not seem right to you. The Holiday times are a prime time for crooks. Let's work together to take a strong stance on reducing crime in Sierra Below are some Holiday Tips for keeping your residence and property safe.

 Be extra cautious about locking doors and windows when you leave the house, even for a few minutes.

· When leaving home for an extended time, have a neighbor or family member watch your house and pick up your newspapers and mail.

• Indoor and outdoor lights should be on an automatic

• Leave a radio or television on so the house looks and sounds occupied. Large displays of holiday gifts should not be visible through the windows and doors of your home. • When setting up a Christmas tree or other holiday display, make sure doors and passageways are clear in-

 Avoid having packages delivered to your home if they have to be left on the porch or other open area. This is a target for thieves.

Strangers at Your Door

• Be aware that criminals sometimes pose as couriers delivering gifts.

• It is not uncommon for criminals to take advantage of the generosity of people during the holiday season by soliciting donations door-to-door for charitable causes although no charity is involved.

· Ask for their identification, and find out how the donated funds will be used. If you are not satisfied, do not

• Donate to a recognized charitable organization.

WALKING SIERRA MADRE.....THE SOCIAL SIDE

By Deanne Davis

I don't know about you, but my mind has been filled with thoughts of turkey, stuffing, cranberry sauce and pumpkin pie. Yes, pumpkin pie.... Which reminds me of an old Sierra Madre legend. Names have been changed to protect anybody who needs protecting and just remember, magical things happen in our magical town...

The legend...

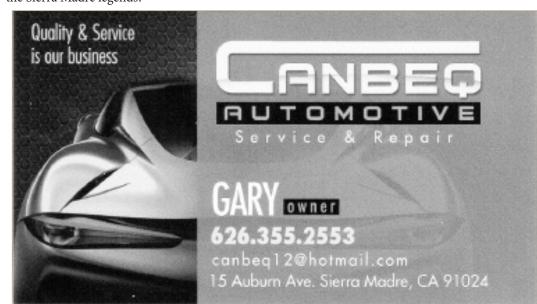

Emma Gainsworth lived on the edge of town, somewhere between Michillinda and Santa Anita. Emma, being rather poorer than richer, had discovered that occasionally there was a treasure to be found if she walked along Grandview or Orange Grove early in the morning. On a bleak Tuesday in May, Emma found a bundle of seeds which looked somewhat like squash seeds and she decided to plant them in a sunny spot behind her small cottage, hoping they would produce something edible and, possibly, saleable, within the next months. Zucchini, dark green and heavy filled her thoughts.

May turned to June and then to hot, humid July and the vines behind Emma=s cottage, which had begun to grow almost as soon as she put the seeds into the ground, were now thick and lush, with bright orange pumpkins here and there along their length. APumpkin pie!@ Emma thought, "Oh my yes! Just in time for Thanksgiving. I can take my pies to the Farmer's Market!" Saleable indeed! August, September, October came and went and the pumpkins were huge; boulder-size, unmovable, uncookable, unsaleable....too big for anything except possibly Cinderella=s coach.

Emma, discouraged, but determined, decided to take her carving knife out to the pumpkin patch one November morning, and carve enough off one of them to make herself a pie. The pumpkins had taken on a dazzling shine in the subdued Fall daylight, enough to make Emma shade her eyes as she advanced upon the smallest one. She_lowered the knife, the pumpkin dazzled and gleamed; and as the knife disappeared into its meaty orange flesh, it began to pull Emma right in after it! Hand, arm, head, shoulders, right down to Emma=s well-worn shoes. Emma now found herself inside a brightly glowing orange sphere containing an entire world of brightly shining creatures who thanked Emma for helping them get home to their own bright orange world and promised her she would live a glorious life of happiness and ease where she would never have to find treasures by the side of the road again. With that, the pumpkins all detached themselves from the vines, rose, in a stately fashion, straight up into the sky and neither they, nor Emma, was ever seen again.

The recipe for the pumpkin pie Emma was planning to bake was found on her kitchen table, next to a canister of flour, jars of cinnamon, cloves and nutmeg and a 9" pie pan. Emma, by the way, was rumored to be a very good cook.

Next time you're walking along Grandview, or any one of our Sierra Madre streets, keep your eyes peeled for a small bundle of something or other. Who knows, you might find yourself listed among the Sierra Madre legends!

MANDATORY PIT-BULL SPAY/NEUTER ORDINANCE APPROVED

By Dean Lee

Even with objection from the Pasadena Humane Society, the city council approved an ordinance Monday night that will mandate the spaying/ neutering of Pit bull and Pit bull cross breed dogs in the

"Even though Pit-bull breeds are four to six percent of total dogs, they account for over half of the fatalities," said Councilmember Steve Madison. 'That's really what stimulated this whole discussion was how every month or two you read about a Pit-bull killing a toddler or senior, we don't want that to happen in Pasadena."

Representatives from the Pasadena Humane Society said they were concerned over the identification of a Pit-bull, "who is going to come up with the definition of what a pitbull is, and who at the end of the day is going to tell people that their dog is a Pit-bull." Pasadena Humane Society officials said identification and notification is outside their contract with the city. "What backing would we get if we make a recommendation a resident disagrees with?"

Director of Public Works Siobhan Foster said they followed a similar County of Riverside ordinance where a Pit-bill is any Staffordshire Bull Terrier, American Pit Bull Terrier, or American Stafford Terrier or any mix. She said they would work with the Humane Society to come up with a definition for Pasadena.

"There are a lot of dogs that appear to some people as a Pit-bull but are not those three breeds," a Humane Society official said adding that it could also end up costing them a lot of money.

They said they do recommend the spaying/neutering of all dogs and cats in the city and not just one breed, something the council is set to take up

Only councilmember Jacque Robinson voted against the ordinance which goes into effect in 60 days.

"I don't think we should be putting the Humane Society in the position of determining, for dog owners, what is a Pitbull," she said.

"What's Going On?"
News and Views from Joan Schmidt

We HAVE Arrived

At the recent Monrovia-Arcadia-Duarte Council, there were two special guests from Los Angeles County Department of Public Works: Tremmel and John J. Walker from the Programs Development Division, and easels. two pictures of the projected new signs, acknowledging OUR UNINCORPORATED MONROVIA-ARCADIA-DUARTE COMMUNITY!

What a long saga it has been. It began in late 1992 when deputies were being shot at, and then-Temple Station Commander, Captain Bob Mirabella, called a community meeting at Maxwell School, Duarte. He introduced ALL his deputies from Temple Station and asked the jam-packed room to voice their concerns. In attendance was also Sarah Flores, Mike Antonovich's Chief Field Deputy. At the second meeting, Pamela Park Director Maurice Wyre who lived in Acton, spoke of his Town Council as a liaison between County agencies and the residents.

A Town Council Formation Committee formed and met EVERY Tuesday from March-June, 1993. Because Sgt. Sammy Jones attended all meetings, residents brought issues that were solved by the LASD. An election workshop was held. In early June, newspapers were contacted and prospective candidates sought. For two straight weeks, my students, the Mc Nally twins and their grandma helped me pass 500 flyers in South Arcadia. The result was Arcadian Carolyn Ziegler came to the final meeting and asked to be a candidate.

Carolyn Ziegler, Dave Hall, Yvonne Bullock, Richard Brown, Paul Diffley, Stan Trinaystich and I were elected to the first Council. There was much surprise that Reyna Diaz, who had been there from Day 1, had translated at every meeting and was an integral part of the community, wasn't elected. However, Reyna became one of the first members of the LASD Community Advisory Committee and, when Paul Diffley relocated to another state, she came aboard the Town Council.

We all contributed. Carolyn Ziegler is WHY the unincorporated area has Transit Service. Reyna walked the Duarte area and registered voters. She was part of the annual Posadas and became a Duarte School Board Member. Yvonne and I were on the Duarte Ed Foundation and served on Habitat for Humanity. Stan kept track of finances and Dave represented us at so many important functions. He is well-respected. (He and Captain Mirabella calmed residents after a local shooting). Lack of space prevents me from telling all that was accomplished, but the stop sign at Daines/Tyler, and the red painted curbs across from Arcadia Baseball Field are highlights. What actually stands out is that the Town Council Meetings have provided a venue for issues to be discussed and its' members call in the appropriate agency. A few months ago, there was an issue with street lighting; current Town Council Member Terrence Williams brought in an official to explain the procedure for better lighting. At EACH meeting, residents hear updates from the Sheriff's Department on crime, Pamela Park happenings, and Library programs. Current Council Members Linda Sells and John Nicoloro from the Arcadia area report on the Arcadia Chamber's Monthly Government Forum Meeting. Gloria Huss, a Monrovia business owner and Terrence Williams, newly elected Monrovia School Board Member bring news from the Monrovia area.

The Town Council meets on the THIRD WEDNESDAY of each month. Sites alternate: Annunciation Hall, Arcadia; Pamela Park, Duarte; and All Nations Church, Monrovia. Please visit their www.facebook.com/MADTownCouncil for more into.

He saw the vehicle swerve off the road, passing vehicles on the right, and then it turned south on Shamrock. The vehicle was stopped and the officer could smell a strong odor of alcohol. The victim was walking to work on Duarte Road with his headphones on when two male subjects passed by him. After they passed, the two subjects ran back up behind the victim and grabbed him. They pushed him into a parking lot, where one suspect held him, while the other suspect took his cell phone and wallet from his pockets. The suspect took cash from the wallet, threw it on the ground, and then both suspects ran west on Duarte Road. #### A VISIT FROM AN AUTHOR AND LOCAL ILLUSTRATOR TO OUR CLASS

By Ms. Carolyn Halpern and her second grade class students at Sierra Madre Elementary School

Summer Saltz visited Sierra Madre Elementary School last Friday. Actually, she is adorable, funny, and spunky character created by author Connie Sewell and illustrator and Sierra Madre Elementary mom of two, Elyse Whittaker-Paek. They came to school to teach the fourth grade classes of Ms. Palmer and Ms. Ogtanyan, and second grade, Ms. Halpern's class, on how to develop a story and what goes in the making of a book. Through a PowerPoint presentation, they also talked about how they collaborated on writing and illustrating the book.

After the presentation, the students in Ms. Halpern's class took on a buddy or two to both write and illustrate a book. The kiddos had a lot of fun doing it and will be publishing their books soon. Parents have reported that they kids are now working on chapter books at home because of this experience. This fits perfectly with the new Common Core second grade unit "Be a Writer".

After Ms. Sewell and Ms. Paek left the school, they attended a sell-out book signing at Belles Nest in Sierra Madre. You can also find out about the book and Summer's adventures in Summer Saltz "I'm so Hollywood" online at www.summersaltz.com

WHAT TO DO WITH THE KIDS SPECIAL REPORT:

2013 Top 10 Family Christmas/Holiday Movie or Television Shows

In 2011 What To Do With The Kids® polled our followers and we asked them to give us their list of the top Christmas or Holiday Movies or Television Shows that the whole family can watch. The list was well received and judging by the feedback was very popular. Two years later however we decided to ask our followers again and there has been quite a shift in popularity of some of those classic movies.

It seems that black and white movies are now out. Many parents suggested that once the movie started, the kids would complain about the color, or lack of it. Many families have said that although they enjoyed watching the old black and white movies in past years, they tend to agree with their kids that it has very little appeal today. The Frank Capra classic "It's a Wonderful Life" dropped from second to third place while "Miracle on 34th Street" went from a tie in fifth to a tie for eighth place. "Miracle on 34th Street" fell off the list.

Animated features are as popular as ever but many adults commented that they were not able to watch them on regular television as they normally would because of their busy schedules so they opted to purchase a copy on DVD. Many parents commented that they had purchased DVD or Blue Ray versions of their favorites but made an effort to only bring them out during the holiday season.

Ron Howard's "The Grinch" went from honorable mention to a tie for number six faster than a runaway sled pulled by a little dog while "A Christmas Story" was shot off the list

(by a BB gun) all together.

Most respondents however had said that they still do get the family together to watch at least one holiday movie.

With over 1,400 entries, What To Do With The Kids® presents the updated Top 10 Family Christmas/Holiday Movie or Television Shows:

"How The Grinch Stole Christmas" (1966 – Animated) – (#1 in 2011) "The Polar Express" (2004 - Animated) - (#8 in 2011)

"It's A Wonderful Life" (1946) -3. (#2 in 2011)

4. "Rudolph The Red Nosed Reindeer" (1964 – Animated) – (#6 in 2011) "Elf" (2004) - (Not ranked in 5.

2011) "A Charlie Brown Christmas" (1965 - Animated) - (#4 in 2011) "The Santa Clause" (1994) - (Not ranked in 2011)

"Frosty the Snowman" (1969 - Animated) – (#7 in 2011) "The Grinch" (2000) - (Not ranked in 2011) "Miracle on 34th Street" (1947) -

"National Lampoon's Christmas Vacation" (1989) – (#8 in 2011)

"The Grinch" (2000) - (Not ranked in 2011)

"A Muppet Christmas Carol" (1992) – (#10 in 2011)

Movies that are no longer on the list: "A Christmas Story (1983) - (#3 in 2011); "A Christmas Carol (1951) - (#5 in 2011); "White Christmas" (1954) - (#7 in 2011); "Home Alone" (1990) – (#9 in 2011)

(626)599-5000 Website: www.duarte.k12.ca.us THE REEL DEAL: by Ben Show

Having read the books I already knew everything that would happen in this movie. Since this is my favorite of the books, my expectations were very high. I hoped that this would be better than the first movie (which was pretty good) and I was not disappointed.

After winning the Hunger Games and disobeying the Capitol at the same time, Katniss Everdeen (Jennifer Lawrence) and Peeta Mellark (Josh Hutcherson) prepare themselves for the Victor's Tour. They must travel through all of the Districts, ending with the final party in the Capitol. When President Snow (Donald Sutherland) warns Katniss of uprisings throughout the country, she and Peeta must make everyone believe that they are truly in love. If they fail, their and the rest of the Victors' lives will be at risk.

I was very excited for the change of directors (Gary Ross to Francis Lawrence), and I knew that there would be many improvements in the second installment. The Hunger Games was not a bad movie but it could have been as good as Catching Fire. Hopefully the trend of getting better as it goes along will continue with Mockingjay, parts one and two.

HOW TO STAY HEALTHY DURING THE HOLIDAYS PLUS WINE TASTING THIS SUNDAY

Along with all the wonderful things that holiday brings, it unfortunately can come with stress, unwanted pounds and feeling run down and sluggish. Add travel on top of that for some. However,

Holidays at the

Tranciscan Estate

Peter Dills and Blogger

area for 8.5x11" sheet

if you're smart, you can stay on track and have happy and healthy holidays.

In no particular order, here are my best tips to still indulge, still have a wonderful time and still feel great throughout

1/Drink More Water

No surprise here. You've heard it before and you'll hear it again, but it's one of the best and easiest things you can do. Start your day by polishing off two huge glasses of water, especially during a holiday like Thanksgiving. Your goal is to drink half your body weight in ounces. Example: If you weigh 150 pounds, drink 75 ounces. It may sound a bit much, but it's necessary. Remember, you can flavor your water, if that helps.

2/Eat a Healthy Breakfast and Don't Skip Your Meals

During the holidays, people often think saving all their calories for the "big" meal is a fantastic idea. Sorry to break it to you, but this is not a good idea at all. It will just make you moody; you'll overeat and, as a result, feel awful. It's never a good idea to not eat.

This will only backfire and make you feel worse physically and mentally. Instead, start your day with a superstar breakfast. Great examples include oatmeal, eggs, high-fiber cereal, smoothies and green drinks. Again, most people try to save calories during the holidays – but I recommend packing a snack and having something to eat before the big feast. Also, bring your own dish if you really want to have this nailed. There's nothing wrong with bringing in a veggie tray with hummus or fruit. This will help curb temptation to indulge, and it will also keep your energy levels high.

3/Eat Carefully

This is a great time to eat mindfully - which will help you keep the pounds off. We're all on the go, especially during the holidays, but we need to slow down. This helps you savor your meals. A food journal is a terrific tool to help you monitor meals. Try to not hurry, watch your portions and skip seconds - and you may just realize you don't need them after all. (And that's particularly thanks to that healthy breakfast and snack you've already had.) See how this works? You can still indulge without packing on the pounds. Just be smart. Remember to eat until you're satiated, not stuffed.

Hows That?

THE JOY OF YOGA 'TIS THE SEASON

During this season of Thanksgiving and bounty, it seems natural to reflect upon the idea of abundance. Just how can we get everything we want, anyway? Well, it's about gratitude.

Abundance is not necessarily about material things or money but about the relationships in our lives -- especially that unique relationship with ourself. Do you wait until 2 p.m., to ask yourself how you feel that day? How about asking that question first thing in the morning and honoring the answer throughout your day.

Think of a tired, thirsty, lifeless plant. It's existing in a state of scarcity. But give it some water and sunshine, and it totally regenerates. Stands taller, blossoms. It's then able to share its gifts -- the beauty of its flower and fragrance, and the life-giving oxygen it produces.

Care for and nourish yourself in supportive ways that energize and allow you to thrive: get adequate rest, drink plenty of water, eat well, breathe completely and do your yoga.

Receive each breath as a gift, and practice receiving gracefully . . . and gratefully. The more attentively you receive the gift of breath, the more you will start to notice all the other gifts you've been receiving all day long. You'll likely rediscover the powerful truth that your life is abundant and full already. See you in class.

COULD YOU NOT BE GETTING ENOUGH POTASSIUM?

Less than 2% of Americans get an adequate intake of potassium, and why is this you may ask? It is because we don't eat enough plant foods. When you think of a food source for potassium, how many of you immediately thought of bananas? Bananas are a good source of potassium but there are almost 50 better ones. Every cell in the human body requires potassium to function. Potassium is an electrolyte or a mineral which means it helps your body to conduct electricity. People who eat a potassium rich diet have a lower risk of stroke. They also have lower levels of inflammation. Not enough potassium in our diets can cause fatigue, irritability, and even hypertension (high blood pressure). If you occasionally get nighttime leg cramps, they could be caused by insufficient potassium. Here is a list of some great foods that are very high in potassium and most if not all are higher than bananas:

White beans Prunes White potatoes w/

French beans Acorn Squash Lima beans Mushrooms

Give your body the potassium that it needs. Be sure and include plenty of these foods in your diet.

JUST FOR BEST FRIENDS

Happy by Chris Leclerc

With Thanksgiving now behind us (already?), and Christmas quickly (already?), and Christmas quickly approaching, many folks are now scrambling to come up with creative holiday gift ideas for family and friends. I am personally of the mind that the holiday season should be treated more like an opportunity to be thankful for our blessings, joyful in our attitude, and thoughtful to re-new our minds on what is most re-new our minds on what is most important in life. However, I still enjoy the traditional festivities of our culture. Gathering together with family and friends, decorating the tree, and wrapping gifts to surprise others with is certainly a fun part of the process. Of all the activities that come with Of all the activities that come with the traditional holiday season, I find selecting the right gift for the right person most challenging. I must admit, every year I tend to buy basically the same things for my husband, (who'd actually be quite content to receive nothing for Christman) and this year I started quite content to receive nothing for Christmas), and this year I started early, buying gifts I know he will appreciate and make good use of. Now, with that done, I am on a quest to find some unique gifts for those on my list who happen to love their furry, four-legged friends the way I do

Notwithstanding the fact that technology has changed the way many of us go about reading these days, I still think books (you know, the ones with printed paper pages) make great Christmas gifts, and this year I thought it would be fun to find a few books with themes about our beloved canine companions. During my search for "recommended rover reads", as I like to call them, I came up with a few that I think would make great gifts. Here's a short list of dog-related reads for those of you who are still looking the perfect

Alexandra Horowitz, Scribner Press, 2009: This non-fiction New York Times Bestseller has been out for a few years, but you will still find it displayed prominently on the shelves of most mainstream bookstores. Written by a dog-loving psychology professor at Columbia University, it is an excellent and enlightening scientific-based book that also turned out to be a timeless reference for those who are interested in better understanding their dog's behavior. I read it 2 years ago, and I have referred back to it several times since, when a question has come up about why dogs behave the way they do.

THE ART OF RACING IN THE RAIN ~ Garth Stein, HarperCollins Publishers, 2008: This novel made the New York Times Bestseller list the New York Times Bestseller list upon it's first publication, and has sustained itself as a hot seller for several years now. The short synopsis on the back cover sums it up best: "A heart-wrenching but deeply funny and ultimately uplifting story of family, love, loyalty and hope - a captivating look at the wonders and absurdities of human life...as only a dog could tell it."

MANADOOB MYSTERY OF THE MOOBIA STONES ~ June Salin, Sadiki Press, 2008: This children's book (Age 8+) is focused on enhancing the child's self-esteem, kind interaction with other beings, and social awareness. I was given a several years now. The short synopsis and social awareness. I was given a copy by the publisher's sister, Janis Salin who also happens to be one of my Canyon Canine clients here in town! This may sound kind of silly to some, but I read it to my dogs a little at a time, and I was surprised to see how much they seemed to enjoy listening to it's text. I fell in love with the book, myself as it reflects many of my own thoughts on how the human's connection with other animals can enrich and broaden their perspective on life. THE FIRESIDE BOOK OF DOG STORIES ~ Edited by Jack Goodman, Simon & Schuster, 1943: Although this antique book might be hard to find, I decided to add it to this list because it is a classic collection of short stories written by various famous authors such as Walter Edmonds, Rudyard Kipling, Jack London and E.B. White. A friend of mine found it at an estate sale and thought of me. I had such sale and thought of me. I had such fun reading each story one-by-one, and thought it would make a great holiday read for the family who enjoys gathering around the hearth and hearing classic tales about dogs. If you are interested in the book but can't find a copy, feel free to contact me through the Mountain Views News and I will be happy to share the list of titles and author names for your use in seeking them out for your use in seeking them out individually, in case you can't get your hands on a copy of the book

Well, that's all I have time for, on my list of recommended rover reads but I would like to close with a sincere wish to you all, to have a very happy holiday season! May it be filled with fun times shared with your beloved family members and friends. And, don't forget to spend quality holiday time with your four-legged furry family members tool family members too!

By the way, if you are looking for a festive holiday activity to take part in along with your pet, you might want to check out Pasadena's Pet Day in the Courtyard where your dog can enjoy the unique opportunity of sitting on Santa's lap for a photo session. # LOOKING FOR A BEST FRIEND??

STILTS IS TOO!

Our tiny friend, Stilts, is a brown, black and white Chihuahua, Yorkshire terrier and Kuvasz mix according to recent DNA testing. He is a very mature gentle soul in a young boy's body and is approximately 1 to 1 ½ years old. He got his name because of his very long skinny legs that appear to be stiff at times. He is very delicate, thin and weighs only 5 ½ pounds. He has the cutest little face full of expression and the cutest white trimmed paws that make him look like he is wearing socks.

He is a little shy at first, but warms up quickly. He does like other dogs, but it is a challenge for him to keep up with them. Because he is tiny, fragile and easily knocked over, he is a little sensitive to fast movements and a little hand shy. He will need a special someone who is patient, nurturing and will handle him gently. He would make a great best friend for a senior or senior couple who would love having him on their lap, taking him for short walks and letting him soak up the sun's

HOW TO GUARD AGAINST WINTERTIME HEART ATTACKS

Dear Savvy Senior:

When I had a mild heart attack about six months ago my doctor told me I needed to be extra careful during the winter when recurring heart attacks are more common. Is this true? How can the seasons affect your heart? Leery Senior

Everyone knows winter is cold and flu season, but most people don't know that it's also the prime season for heart attacks too, especially if you already have heart disease or have suffered a previous heart attack. Here's what you should know, along with some tips to help you protect yourself.

Heart Attack Season

In the U.S., the risk of having a heart attack during the winter months is twice as high as it is during the summertime. Why? There are a number of factors, and they're not all linked to cold weather. Even people who live in warm climates have an increased risk. Here are the areas you need to pay extra

Cold temperatures: When a person gets cold, the body responds by constricting the blood vessels to help the body maintain heat. This causes blood pressure to go up and makes the heart work harder. Cold temperatures can also increase levels of certain proteins that can thicken the blood and increase the risk for blood clots. So stay warm this winter, and when you do have to go outside, make sure you bundle up in layers with gloves and a hat, and place a scarf over your mouth and nose to warm up the air before you breathe it in.

Snow shoveling: Studies have shown that heart attack rates jump dramatically in the first few days after a major snowstorm, usually a result of snow shoveling. Shoveling snow is a very strenuous activity that raises blood pressure and stresses the heart. Combine those factors with the cold temperatures and the risks for heart attack surges. If your sidewalk or driveway needs shoveling this winter, hire a kid from the neighborhood to do it for you, or use a snow blower. Or, if you must shovel, push rather than lift the snow as much as possible, stay warm, and take frequent breaks.

New Year's resolutions: Every Jan. 1, millions of people join gyms or start exercise programs as part of their New Year's resolution to get in shape, and many overexert themselves too soon. If you're starting a new exercise program this winter, take the time to talk to your doctor about what types and how much exercise may be appropriate for you.

Winter weight gain: People tend to eat and drink more, and gain more weight during the holiday season and winter months, all of which are hard on the heart and risky for someone with heart disease. So keep a watchful eye on your diet this winter and avoid binging on fatty foods and alcohol.

Shorter days: Less daylight in the winter months can cause many people to develop "seasonal affective disorder" or SAD, a wintertime depression that can stress the heart. Studies have also looked at heart attack patients and found they usually have lower levels of vitamin D (which comes from sunlight) than people with healthy hearts. To boost your vitamin D this winter, consider taking a supplement that contains between 1,000 and 2,000 international units (IU) per day. And to find treatments for SAD, visit the Center for Environmental Therapeutics website at cet.org.

Flu season: Studies show that people who get flu shots have a lower heart attack risk. It's known that the inflammatory reaction set off by a flu infection can increase blood clotting which can lead to heart attacks in vulnerable people. So, if you haven't already done so, get a flu shot for protection. See flushot.healthmap.org to find a nearby vaccination site.

NOVEMBER 22, 1963 AND THE BEATLES

Most of us have spent part of this week re-living the tragic events of November 22, 1963. In the twinkling of an eye, Americans were plunged into a season of despair, mourning and disbelief. Our youthful, charismatic President had been taken away from us in a brutal fashion. A President we knew rather intimately due to the advances in media technology, President Kennedy was the most visible President in the history of our young country. And that media visibility made him particularly accessible to American youth. And us young people (I was 12 at the time) suffered right along with older Americans.

At the same time America was beginning to take notice of a phenomenon out of England: The emergence of the Beatles. Actually on November 22, 1963, CBS ran a five-minute feature on their CBS Morning News on this phenomenon known as "Beatlemania." The feature was to be rerun on the evening news but was cancelled for obvious reasons. On December 10th Walter Cronkite ran the "Beatlemania" feature again on the CBS evening news. This motivated Capitol Records to rush to release the single "I Want to Hold Your Hand" single. And the rest is history

What do these two events have to do with each other? British critic Ian MacDonald wrote: "I Want to Hold Your Hand", "the record's joyous energy and invention lifted America out of its gloom, following which, high on gratitude, the country cast itself at the Beatles' feet."

Would the Beatles have achieved their meteoric level of success here if there had been no assassination? Of course we will never know. But a good case can be made that by February, when they premiered on the Ed Sullivan Show, America, particularly its youth, was ready to start living again. I know I was. And I am a musician today as a result of the impact of the Beatles on me

Some interesting evidence supporting the impact of the Beatles on America. The week of April 4, 1964, the top five songs on the Billboard Top Ten were Beatle songs: 1. Can't Buy Me Love, 2. Twist and Shout, 3. She Loves You, 4. I Want to Hold Your Hand, and 5. Please Please Me. No other artist or group has ever come close to that record.

On April 11, 1964 the Beatles had a record 14 separate songs on Billboard's Hot 100 songs. Before that, Elvis held the record with 9 in 1956. The Beatle song "Can't Buy Me Love" jumped from number 27 in the charts to number 1 in the space of one week. The single, "Can't Buy Me Love" had an advance worldwide order of over 2 million copies.

Can I give you more? The Beatles had 3 consecutive songs reach number one in the American charts. "I Want to Hold Your Hand" was number one for 7 weeks, followed by "She Loves You" which was number one for 2 weeks. That was followed by "Can't Buy Me Love' which was number one for 5 weeks. Elvis had 2 songs back to back: "Don't Be Cruel" followed by "Love Me Tender".

One final note: Do you happen to know the song Frank Sinatra said was the single greatest love song ever written? Nope. It wasn't written by Lennon and McCartney. But it was written by George Harrison. That song? Simply titled "Something". I hope you had a wonderful Thanksgiving celebration.

FYI: BEING A SENIOR IN A CYBER WORLD

The thought of using a computer can be overwhelming to some people, especially to individuals who didn't grow up with all the technology that we have access to today. For instance, when I was growing up there were no cell phones, internet, IPod's, IPads, etc.

came to the conclusion that I would have to get with it if I was to survive in this day and age. Okay, a bit melodramatic. The information at our fingertips is endless. Personally, I have barely scratched the surface. Below are some benefits of computers to you as a senior citizen.

Access to more information. You can learn about any topic that interests you from hobbies to medical information.* Enables you to keep in touch with others. It's a cost effective way to keep in touch with your friends and family either through email or facebook. * Serves as a form of entertainment. Games, magazines, newspapers, Internet radio, movies, message boards and forums are all easily accessible online.*Shop in the comfort of your own home. Shopping on the internet is convenient, cost-effective and safe, as long as you shop reputable sites. You can have the items delivered directly

Once you start using a search engine like www.google.com for example, you will wonder why you waited so long. Topics that interest you, topics that don't, you can find out about anything...It's so easy, informative and just plain fun!

HELPFUL HINT: Make that chunk of cheese slide across your grater with ease by coating the grater with a little bit of non-stick spray.

FOR YOUR FUNNY BONE - Three men were hiking through a forest when they came upon a large raging, violent river. Needing to get to the other side, the first man prayed, "God please give me the strength to cross the river." Poof! God gave him big arms and strong legs and he was able to swim across in about two hours, having almost drowned twice. After witnessing that, the second man prayed, "God, please give me the strength and the tools to cross the river." Poof! God gave him a rowboat and strong arms and legs and he was able to row across in about an hour after almost capsizing once. Seeing what happened to the first two men, the third man prayed; "God please give me the strength, the tools and the intelligence to cross the river." Poof! He was turned into a woman. She checked the map, hiked one hundred yards up stream and walked across the bridge.

IceCube PUSHES NEUTRINOS TO THE FOREFRONT OF ASTRONOMY

The IceCube Neutrino Observatory, a particle detector buried in a cubic kilometer of Antarctic ice, is a demonstration of the power of the human passion for discovery, where scientific ingenuity meets technological innovation. This week, nearly 25 years after the pioneering idea of using ice to detect neutrinos was first suggested, the IceCube Collaboration has announced the observation of 28 very high-energy particle events that constitute the first solid evidence for astrophysical neutrinos coming from extragalactic

The research appeared in the Nov. 22 issue of the journal Science.

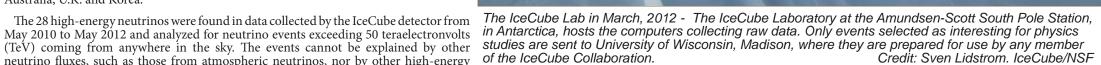

"This is the first indication of very high-energy neutrinos coming from outside our solar system, with energies more than one million times those observed in 1987 in connection with a supernova seen in the Large Magellanic Cloud," says Francis Halzen, principal investigator of IceCube and professor of Physics at the University of Wisconsin-Madison. "It is gratifying to finally see what we have been looking for. This is the dawn of a new age of astronomy."

Because they rarely interact with matter, the nearly massless subatomic particles called neutrinos can carry information about the workings of the highest-energy and most distant phenomena in the universe. Billions of neutrinos pass through every square centimeter of the Earth (including our bodies) every second, but the vast majority originate either in the Sun or in the Earth's atmosphere.

Far rarer are neutrinos from the outer reaches of our galaxy or beyond, which have long been theorized to provide insights into the powerful cosmic objects where high-energy cosmic rays may originate—including supernovas, black holes, pulsars, and quasars

IceCube, run by the international IceCube Collaboration and headquartered at the Wisconsin IceCube Particle Astrophysics Center (WIPAC) at UW-Madison, was designed to accomplish two major scientific goals: measure the flux, or rate, of highenergy neutrinos; and try to identify some of their sources. UW-Madison is the lead institution, and the international collaboration includes 250 physicists and engineers from the U.S., Germany, Sweden, Belgium, Switzerland, Japan, Canada, New Zealand, Australia, U.K. and Korea.

May 2010 to May 2012 and analyzed for neutrino events exceeding 50 teraelectronvolts neutrino fluxes, such as those from atmospheric neutrinos, nor by other high-energy of the IceCube Collaboration. events, such as muons produced by the interaction of cosmic rays in the atmosphere.

IceCube is comprised of 5,160 digital optical modules suspended along 86 strings embedded in a cubic kilometer of ice beneath the South Pole. The National Science Foundation-supported observatory detects neutrinos through the tiny flashes of blue light, called Cherenkov light, produced when neutrinos interact in the ice.

'IceCube is a wonderful and unique astrophysical telescope—it is deployed deep in the Antarctic ice but looks over the entire universe, detecting neutrinos coming through the Earth from the northern skies, as well as from around the southern skies," says Vladimir Papitashvili of the National Science Foundation (NSF) Division of Polar Programs.

CARRIE GOLDMAN

BULLIED: WHAT EVERY PARENT, TEACHER AND KID NEEDS TO KNOW ABOUT ENDING THE CYCLE OF FEAR By Carrie Goldman

We slowly approach the end of November, and this columnist continues with another serious topic: the issue of bullying, which brings us to the next pick: "Bullied: What Every Parent, Teacher and Kid Needs to Know about Ending the Cycle of Fear". Again, this selection is long on title, but it is a bold one, which is sure to speak volumes about the issue at hand that is presented to readers. Carrie Goldman presents us with blunt and straightforward observations and thorough research on the broad subject of bullying, as well as presenting the story of Katie, who received support from her community when she was bullied for liking Star

Goldman does not just touch on bullying, but its various forms: from teasing and taunting in elementary years to much more aggressive bullying, cyberbullying, being gay or having disabilities (mental or physical). With each subject Goldman addresses she brings to light the lasting consequences of the victims, as well as the bullies themselves, and the lasting effects it can leave on parents, friends, and through extensions of any community. Readers will be able to see the buildup as well as the relevance of the topic of bullying through divided into three parts: first on Katie's story, then kids who are at a high risk for victimization, and then the last part which addresses prevention, intervention and reconciliation. Also adding to its depth in "Bullied" are the personal letters of support, (as well as a few harsh and critical ones) that are provided from various individuals who provide their insight and perspectives which show that bullying can be overcome and that one can learn to fight for themselves as well as having the support of those who can fight with them in any way they can.

Copyrighted in 2012, and receiving praise from various critics, Kirkus, and the New York Journal of Books, "Bullied" is a recommended read for all ages that will not only be thoughtprovoking, but one that provides valuable life lessons.

ANTHONY GREEN

The third studio solo album from Anthony Green entitled, "Young Legs," is brimming with grace and luminousness. The thematic "Young Legs" explores love and disenchantment. It also covers existentialism, as Green has become a father again. Green conveys a much tranquil vibe here as opposed to his previous solo endeavors and the material from his full-time band,

Circa Survive. The eleven tracks are pleasant and soothing. The arrangements, backed by fellow Philadelphia natives, Good Old War, are calming and atmospheric. Green's first two albums were mostly reflective on his own marriage and then his first-born, respectively. This time the lyrics are a bit distant and more about others around him than merely just himself. Evidently we are led to Green's deep understanding the world isn't solely about one's self, but those who you surround yourself with. Never are the lyrics all that intricate but still deeply personal and transparent. However, not all the tracks work perfectly since some seem repetitive in nature. The ones that do stand out are heartfelt and striking.

"Breaker" kicks off the album in stellar fashion. It's one of the more complex tracks found on "Young Legs." Dazzling guitars come into play during the choruses. Green's saccharine vocals are light and tender as usual. "100 Steps" is another gorgeous tune that is sweet and tranquil. Green's vocals can get a bit overly sentimental, but it's always sincere. The delivery is nearly exceptional. The songs here range from barebones acoustics to fully expanded sounds. "Anytime" is honest and utterly touching. Green's passionate lyrics are easily applicable for any listener dealing with love or lost. "I'll Miss You" is another sensitive, thoughtful tune. Green's perspective on this record is about those around him or ones he lost. The songs aren't selfish or self-absorbed but rather compassionate and empathetic. "Shine" has striking harmonies and astounding guitar arrangements. With ethereal vibes and comforting vocals, "Young Legs" definitely shines in most areas. In other areas, he loses his way trying to set out to be too intricate.

Sad and cordial, "Young Legs" cuts deep. However, it stumbles along the way. The less than two minutes tracks, "Too Little, Too Late" and "Stolen" are nothing more than filler. They feel like uncompleted tracks that either should have been reworked or never should have made the final cut. There's a lot to enjoy with "Young Legs." It's a considerably meaningful record overflowing with beautiful melodies and earnest lyrics. Most of the songs will ruminate within the mind and soul and permeate through the heart. I wouldn't consider it one of the best albums of the year, but another big step forward for a singer/songwriter that has so much drive and passion. That alone is admirable, but I still wish there was something more here to put "Young Legs" into a league of its own. For now, it fits decently well with other good folk/acoustic rock albums of the last few years. Grade 7.7 out of 10 Key Tracks: "Breaker," "100 Steps," "Anytime," "I'll Miss You," "Shine"

Tips of the Trade: Real Estate Revealed

LIKE MOTHS TO A FLAME

by Luther Tsinoglou

Have you done your "spring cleaning" yet? If you're selling your home, it's essential to take care of the details, both inside and out. Since buyers first see your property from the street, there are some steps you can take to pique their interest in seeing more.

Obviously, color makes an impact. Emphasize two or three colors in your flowerbeds and shrubs, and coordinate your blooms with the seasons, be it spring or summer. Also make sure your trees and shrubs are properly sized to the house and grounds, and not blocking any of your home's positive features.

Perfectly maintaining your lawn is critical while you're listing, since a well-manicured lawn powerfully symbolizes your pride of ownership and attention to maintenance. You can reduce the time invested in mowing and watering if you can do some simple landscaping with rocks, ornamental grasses and drought-tolerant plants.

The sound of water also turns buyers on. Even if you don't have a pond, you can achieve the same effect by installing a small fountain in the front yard, or even running an electric fountain on your porch or deck.

Finally, there are a couple of architectural flourishes that add interest, such as colorful window boxes, a trellis with flowering vines, or even a pretty new mailbox. Contact your agent for a wealth of other ideas to attract buyers.

A YEAR-END REVIEW CAN HELP YOU RENEW

Taking time to conduct an assessment of your business as the year comes to a close is very important. The information that you gather is a valuable resource to further support and propel the growth and success of your business throughout the upcoming year.

The first priority is to determine the overall financial health of your business by applying a set of standard business measurement tools. The tool kit includes at least three financial statements that should be prepared on a monthly basis, along with the calculation of some basic ratios. Combined, the following financial statements and ratios provide business owners with the means to measure and monitor the financial aspects of operations.

Balance Sheet – this statement provides a snapshot of what the business is worth and serves as the starting point to calculate how much someone else would be willing to pay to purchase the business if it were for sale. It includes a list of the business's Assets (everything owned by the business), minus Liabilities (all outstanding debt) to calculate what the business is worth (Owner's Equity).

Income Statement – sometimes referred to as a Profit & Loss Statement (P&L) or Operating Statement, this statement includes a list and tally of the total revenue (sales) generated by the business, minus the total expenses incurred to generate revenue during the respective time period. This statement is used to determine the net profit or net loss of a business.

Cash Flow Statement – this statement is prepared to reconcile the beginning and ending amount of cash available to a business within a specific time period. It will also indicate the range and timing of increases and decreases in the flow of cash, which is critical to ensuring that a business will have what it needs to meet all of its obligations and operational needs in a timely manner. A business can experience tremendous success in generating increased sales, yet may be unable to support the growth if there is a shortage of cash to finance everything needed to ensure the fulfillment of the sales.

Ratios – there are numerous ratios that can be used to measure liquidity, profitability, debt and other financial indicators. The following two ratios that measure liquidity* are recommended as a starting point for small businesses:

- Current Ratio provides a way to look at the working capital available, which is a measurement of the solvency that a business has to pay its obligations on an ongoing and long-term basis.
- Quick Ratio measures a company's ability to pay short-term obligations. (Current Assets divided by Total Current Liabilities)

These are some of the tools that entrepreneurs and managers should use to monitor and manage the financial aspects of their businesses.

Peter Drucker said, "any business enterprise has two — and only these two—basic functions: marketing and innovation."

You could have the latest, greatest innovation but if nobody knows about it, then all you have is a great idea; you don't have a business.

Loyal fans and customers (people) make a business successful. A good marketing strategy focuses on building a quality list of contacts of current and potential customers. Getting the word out about your products and services to people who care about what you offer and turning them into raving fans is the other part of marketing. Keep in mind that it is a waste of your time telling people who don't care, or those don't need or can't afford your product or service.

Email is a popular marketing channel because it is affordable and most everyone uses it. But, it will only work for you if you have a quality list of emails. You can spend hours coming up with the most brilliant subject line and design, offer 75% off your best product but if you don't send it to a quality list, it won't produce any ROI.

We have all kinds of tools at our fingertips to help us create messaging but it takes real creativity and strategy to build a quality list. Here are a few things to think about as you work on building a quality list.

- Are the important people on your list current customers, vendors, raving fans?
- Are you collecting emails at every touch point in store, phone, web, social media?
- Are you using tools that make it easy to join? Text to join, QR codes, simple guest book at the counter, form on your web site, forms on your social media channels?
- Have you trained your employees to ask for contact information from new customers?
- Can you create a VIP club for only those who are on the list and give them something exclusive that no one else has access to?
- When you attend events or networking meetings do you ask people if they would like to stay in touch through social media or receive your emails?
- Do you provide an instant reward (i.e. a special coupon) when people join your list?
- Are you following through if someone takes the time to sign up for your emails and you never send them an email, it can be frustrating. This is especially true if they have signed up and expect to receive schedules or exclusive discounts.

Marketing to the right people is an investment in future sales. It takes time to build a good list but if you make it a priority and part of an on-going routine your marketing efforts will start to pay off.

STUART Tolchin......On LIFE THINGS DON'T GET ANY EASIER

This afternoon just before sunset my wife, her two young nephews, and I drove up the hill to view the sunset. At the top of the hill a huge housing project has been planned and the plans have gone so far as to include landscaping and painting lines for designated parking spaces. Parking lots have been constructed for as yet non-existent cars. The construction of the homes has not yet begun as our local city council has prohibited construction. The dispute is ongoing and just about everyone in town is opposed to the construction. The reasons for opposition are many but the most commonly verbalized is that the construction of the project will create all sorts of traffic problems in our little village city of 10,000. This is undoubtedly true, but a deeper reason is that the housing project threatens the nature of our very independent little, tucked-in-the-hills and hard-to-find village.

I know this is a fight against "progress" and probably in the end, just as Joanie Mitchell predicted about forty years ago, future generations will notice that "they paved paradise to put up a parking lot." We older Southern Californians still remember the orange groves that used to be all around us and now have disappeared. Their disappearance, of course, was connected with the construction of homes and commercial facilities that created jobs and were part of a new thriving economy. Well, now along with the orange groves, the jobs have disappeared and the house owners have faced foreclosure and there is a strange ghost-like quality to much of the city and much of the country.

It's all very confusing. The stock market is daily setting record highs and the very rich are getting richer all the time. Still, for recent college graduates, jobs are not very plentiful. Many young grads seem resentful and regretful about the time and money spent going to college. The huge loan debt that follow most college graduates puts them in an immediate economic bind and I hear the pundits saying that present college curricula are more like trainings than an education. If people can't get the jobs they trained for they are not able to do much else, because they have not acquired any new skills or interests that would prepare them to do other kinds of work. On the Bill Moyers Journal this weekend I heard college described as a time for the destruction of imagination.

Where will this all lead? The very rich still need the rest of us to buy their stuff. I can still remember when the area around Santa Anita Race Track was just a huge parking lot. Of course a large portion of this parking lot was soon filled with the huge Westfield Mall. Stores keep closing in the mall; but new ones open and on week-ends it's impossible to find a place to park. Can this go on forever? Can Americans consume their way to economic equity? Where will all this progress

This whole article was inspired by a question that my wife's 12-year old nephew asked me while we stood in the empty parking lot watching the ever-changing sky. Remember, he's a pretty smart kid who plays all kinds of video games and does pretty well in School. He has known my children for all of his life, so I was quite surprised by the question he asked me. Ready for the question? "Uncle Stuart, are you a virgin?" Shocking don't you think? I asked him how I could be a virgin if I had children. He said he knows that people can have children without having sex and he knows kids who have gay parents and, besides, that he head heard something about turkey basters being used to make people pregnant.

As I tried to maintain my cool and hold in my laughter, I got a real sense of how confusing this modern world is. Kids are exposed to all kinds of information, with the end result that they are frequently more confused than previous, more sheltered, generations. I wondered about how the future will treat these over-informed but clueless kids. I don't mean to be insulting towards my wife's nephew. He's the same wonderful kid about whom I wrote a few years ago when he noticed some tomatoes lying on the ground. Maybe you remember the article when I described him saying, "We should bury those tomatoes, but first we should name them."

He had this basic humanity and imagination when he was 7. Over these past five years he has acquired much more information, but perhaps not much knowledge. I fear that forty or fifty or sixty years from now he will be left standing in an empty parking lot wondering what happened---and you and I won't be around to tell him even if we knew.

'TIS THE SEASON TO STUFF MYSELF LIKE A TURKEY AND GET AWAY WITH IT!

out of the way and the holiday season has begun, I can throw out the kitchen window all of those diet restrictions introduced by the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage. After all, the whole purpose of the holiday season is to eat.

It begins in late October with the mass distribution of candy, which I have no objection. A little candy in somebody's life can go a long way to produce happiness. Why, a handful of jelly beans really makes the world go around, which may be why I am just a little bit dizzy.

From October all the way through to New Year's Day, it is nothing but one delicious delicacy after another. And, I love it.

Around the middle of October my wife announces, "This year you need to be a little careful about what you eat during this holiday season." Of which I smile back at her and nod my head in the affirmative, whatever that means. Far as I am concerned, a nod is not quite as committed as a word spoken.

In October when I am doling out candy to the kids knocking on my door, I always use this formula: one for them and one for me. After all, what's fair is fair. I have to make sure I have enough candy to go all the way around. As one who is very conscious about not wasting anything, I make sure all of the candy is properly consumed by midnight.

I get away with this because my wife usually has the grandchildren on the other side of the neighborhood going door to door get-ting candy. My duty is to distribute the candy however I see fit.

Thanksgiving really tickles my fancy. It is an opportunity to stuff myself like a turkey and get away with it. After all, with all the family around the Thanksgiving Day table there is little opportunity for my wife to supervise what I eat or do not eat. As long as the dishes keep passing, I keep participating.

One thing that makes the Thanksgiving Day dinner so wonderful is that you can stuff your stuff without feeling guilty about it. "Don't you think you've had enough?" my wife will

I have one response to this query I have used

"Do not worry, my dear," I say as I pile more mashed potatoes on my plate, "I plan to go on a diet for my New Year's resolution." What a wonderful New Year's resolution scenario. Whoever invented that should receive the Nobel Peace Prize because it has come in quite handy in my situation.

Thanksgiving is so close to New Year's that it makes a very convenient excuse.

Now that summer is Take the Fourth of July picnic, for example. That is a long way from New Year's Day and the New Year's resolution scenario that I cannot use that excuse. At that picnic when my wife says, "Don't you think you have had enough?" I have to smile and agree that perhaps I did have enough, and lay down my fork

> What about the summer family picnic time when all of us are getting together? The same thing is happening there. New Year's Day and its resolution scenario are too far in the future to use as a ploy to get second or even third helpings. During any summer picnic, I am on my own and in some regards, I do not like it.

> But the Thanksgiving-Christmas-New Year's holiday season is my kind of season.

The holiday season is a time for indulgence. After all, has anybody ever seen a skinny Santa Claus? It would be blasphemous to go to the mall during the holiday season and see a skinny Santa Claus. Personally, I would turn around and go home and sit in the corner for a while to get over it.

The holiday season is for extravagance. Christmas gift giving is giving people presents they do not really need. I cannot recall how many ties I have received down through the years as though I have not enough ties, but every one was an absolute delight.

The season begins with the hearty Thanksgiving dinner, goes to the Christmas Day dinner and then ends with the New Year's Day dinner. What more could a person really ask for?

There is something about the family gathering around the table indulging in the delicacies of the season and just having a good time. It is not a time to count calories, but rather, a time to count your blessings. It is not a time to monitor what somebody else is eating, but a time to enjoy the family fellowship around a good table set by somebody who knows how to set a good table.

If someone in our family did not cook so well I would not have a problem in restraining my eating. So, I do not believe it is my fault.

After the festivities have subsided and all the food has all been consumed, we still are left with the rest of our life. In light of that I like what Paul said, "Giving thanks always for all things unto God the Father in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ" (Ephesians 5:20 KJV).

For those who know the Lord Jesus Christ giving thanks for everything is a wonderful way of life all year long.

affordable health care in this country, that I think it's important for us to step back and take a look at what's already been accomplished, because a lot of times it doesn't make news. Controversies make news."

- President Obama

Best I can interpret Greg Welborn's column from last week, he's suggesting "liberals" are revamping the Senate's filibuster rules to distract attention from the Affordable Care Act. I don't think that's entirely true.

A number of "liberals" have themselves capitalized on the ACA's problems as an "I told you so" opportunity: had the administration not settled on a plan reliant on for-profit in-surance, developed by the Heritage Foundation, promoted by Republicans as an alternative to "Hillary Care" and implemented by Gov. Mitt Romney (R) in Massachusetts - we might have gone instead for universal coverage through a single-payer system requiring nothing more complicated than expanding "Medicare for all".

In filibuster reform, it's not like Democrats are bucking some kind of tradition. The filibuster has been around since 1789, but a third of all filibusters over the past 225 years has occured only over the past six years - since Sen. Mitch McConnell (R-KY) became Minority Leader, and especially since Barack Obama became president. 86 presidential nominations have been blocked by filibuster under Presidents Washington through George W. Bush combined. 82 have been blocked under President Obama alone.

Sen. McConnell declared early on the goal of Senate Republicans was to make Obama a "one-term president". The filibuster isn't used anymore to stall legislation or nominees for whom there are strong objections, but rather to make sure none of the president's initiatives, executive branch picks or judicial nominees makes it to the floor for an up-or-down vote. It's not to promote the well-being of our country, but the hoped-for failure of our president.

The final straw came with Republican refusal to even consider the president's nominees to fill three vacancies on the D.C. Court of Appeals. It has nothing to do with qualifications or quality of the nominees. Some, like Sen. Jeff Sessions (R-AL), complain the Court has too many judges already. (The president is required by law to fill the vacancies, regardless.) Sen. Lindsey Graham (R-SC) vowed not to let any nomination come to the floor until he gets more dirt on Benghazi.

In retaliation for the Democrats' action on restricting filibusters, Republicans have vowed to block all pending legislation (as if they haven't been doing that over the past five years, anyway). One of their first targets is a bill addressing the problem of sexual assault in the military. As Robert Bowen writes on examiner.com, "They want sexual assault victims in the military to pay a price because Republicans did not get their own way (on the tion from Obamacare". filibuster)."

"There's been so much The tactic of distracting attention remains in noise and so much mis-information, and this in-credible organized effort to block the notion that everybody should have 1.3% - the smallest three-year increase in history (while health care price increases were at 50-year lows). The CBO cut its projection on Medicare and Medicaid spending in 2020 by 10% - a $147 billion reduction. A Think Progress study shows that while this was covered in 23 news stories in print and online media, there were 224 stories on website problems.

> Similarly, as Jonathan Chait observes in New York Magazine, "Florida Woman Facing Higher Costs" is a more "attractive" media story than "Millions Set to Gain Low-Cost Insurance".

> Stoking fears of what might come with full implementation of the ACA distracts attention from the situation right now. A report from the Commonwealth Fund released earlier this month reminds that while the U.S. spends more per capita on healthcare than any other industrial nation, 37% of us failed to get recommended care (seeing a doctor, filling a prescription) because of costs. (It's 6% in Sweden, 4% in the U.K.) 23% of American adults had serious problems paying medical bills, or were simply unable to pay them. (The next highest was France at 13%; the U.K. Sweden and Norway were all at 6% or lower.) Replays of the president's "you can keep your plan" promise distracts attention from the fact that for nearly a dozen years now, according to former Cigna exec Wendell Potter, insur-ance companies have been cancelling policies to move customers away from the HMO/PPO 'managed care" model and into policies with higher deductibles, fewer benefits - and more profits for the insurance companies. Now, they can conveniently blame the ACA.

> Complaints about cancellation notices distract attention from the 25 Republicancontrolled states which have refused to go along with the ACA's provision that Medicaid eligibility be expanded to cover those with incomes up to 133% of the federal poverty level (with costs picked up by the federal government). It's estimated that while 2 million cancellation notices have gone out in these states, 5 million working poor will be denied coverage altogether – as a direct result of Republican governors and legislators hoping to see the program fail.

> Families USA estimates that only 0.6% of non-elderly Americans risk losing their current plans while failing to qualifying for either subsidies or expanded Medicaid eligibility. As pointed out by the group's executive director, Ron Pollack, "That number is a tiny fraction of the 65 million non-elderly people with preexisting health conditions who will gain new protections . . . It is also a small fraction of the tens of millions of uninsured Americans who can also get help.'

> In other news, after months of behind-thescenes diplomacy, the U.S. and major powers have reached agreement on an interim deal with Iran. Most will wait to see what happens over the six-month term of the agreement. Sen. John Cornyn (R-TX), however, was quick with his reaction on Twitter: "Amazing what White House will do to distract atten-

IRAN: A DEFEAT SNATCHED FROM THE JAWS OF VICTORY

I seriously didn't think the Obama Presidency could get much worse. Well, maybe I thought it was possible, but I hoped it wouldn't be so. We're well past the point where defeats only hurt the President and his fellow travelers. We're at the point where his defeats are American defeats, and the Iranian interim nuclear deal is one hell of a loss - made worse because it truly is being snatched from the jaws of victory.

Like President Clinton's bombing of some aspirin factory when his presidency was floundering, President Obama is desperate to change the subject from his domestic policy failures, vanishing Syrian red lines, the fatal incompetency at Benghazi, Russia's mockery of American exceptionalism, and the presidential snubbing at the U.N. So desperate is he to get "an agreement", any agreement, that he took a deal which even the French call a "sucker's deal". As we open the covers of this wonderful impressive agreement, we find that the French were actually cutting us some slack.

This defeat is especially hard to swallow because the U.S. was on the verge of winning the strategic battle with Iran. I can say that with confidence because the only reason Iran has come to the table after years of venomous deceit and stonewalling is because the economic sanctions were hurting so deeply. Iran's economy is in shambles, its currency is all but worthless, and the regime for perhaps the first time truly feels a threat to its survival. There are only two things that really matter to the mad mullahs: retaining power and building a nuclear bomb, which, of course, earns them more power. Both were in jeopardy.

The economic sanctions took years to negotiate with our allies and the U.N., resulting in dozens of specific resolutions calling for Iran to suspend all uranium enrichment and full access to all facilities. It took time for the impact to be felt, but almost precisely at the moment of our maximum negotiating clout, President Obama offers relief from the very pressures that were forcing the mullahs to get serious. The West weakens sanctions in return for pledges, assurances and meaningless reductions. There is no weakening, let alone termination, of Iran's nuclear weaponization infrastructure.

The President took to the airwaves to assure us this is only an interim six-month agreement to "build confidence" until we reach a final agreement, but how can that make any sense at all. We've all gone up against the school yard bully; we've all dealt with a really tough negotiator at one point or another. When you reduce the pressure on your opponent, you don't get a better deal. If assurances, pledges and unverifiable reductions are the best we can get from Iran now, what version of sanity makes us think we'll get a better one when the Iranians are 6 months further in nuclear development and their economy has had time to recover? It's a rescue package thrown to the mullahs in return for a fig leaf, political rescue package given to this overwhelmed and under-prepared President who fears headlines more than he fears

Iran promises to reduce enrichment and to not push forward. But Iran specifically stipulates that certain sites will not be subject to full-access, unescorted inspections. In other words, we get to look at their right hand, but aren't allowed to see what's in their left. In return, we allow more trade, release frozen Iranian assets, and increase the regime's access to foreignexchange reserves. It's a massive infusion of capital for an economy on the brink of collapse. Those of who said that President Obama "blinked" in his negotiations with Syria had no idea how quickly, and significantly, he would be asked to blink again.

As tragic as the Syrian situation is, it was the canary in the gold mine. Iran's ambitions are seriously dangerous, and they have now been advanced significantly. That's the essence of the danger that comes from appearement. It's not the bad deal you just did, it's what it says to your enemies who you'll have to confront in future negotiations. It communicates weakness. It says the American president is not serious about standing by America's allies and therefore is not serious about American values or goals.

We want a stable Mideast; we want a limited nuclear club; and God forbid there's a nuclear war - even a small one. America's retreat creates a power vacuum which others will rush to fill; there goes any hope of stability. Saudi Arabia will pursue (and most likely obtain) a nuclear bomb – from Pakistan. Egypt will seek one, and from there the list grows quickly; welcome to proliferation. Iran will get its bomb, and/or Israel will start a war to prevent it; the threat of war and a nuclear exchange just grew substantively.

History tells us how bad the Munich deal with Hitler was for Europe and the rest of the world. This deal is worse than that one because our enemies are equally as deranged and committed as were the Nazis, but today the stakes are bigger. Ego and fear are terrible things

The best horror movies uses people's fears and nightmares against them to provoke a strong sense of anguish.

The Best Horror movies are made especially to produce negative emotions in their viewers. This is achieved by playing on the viewers' fears and nightmares. Horror movie scenes include startling the viewer with violent, evil, or supernatural elements. The Best Horror Movies lull you into a false sense of complacency and then scare the wits out of you. You like that don't you!

Horror films made their debut in the 1890s. Maori du adiable produced by Georges Melies is thought to be the first horror film. A few years later in 1910, Edison Studios produced the first Frankenstein film. These early horror films were quite mild on scariness scale compared to the horror films we watch today. These early horror films didn't have eerie music to make the mood tense, special effects, and didn't have scenes involving the supernatural. These films were often silent films, featuring monsters such as Frankenstein, Quasimodo, and Dracula, Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, and the Phantom of the Opera.

Each decade has it's the best horror movie. Horror movies became very popular with the public over the years. In the 1930s, Tod Browning's Dracula became popular, and more versions of Frankenstein were produced. The Old Dark House, The Invisible Man, and The Mummy were also some popular horror films of the '30s. These films featured gothic horror, mad scientists, and incorporating horror into real- life scenes.

In the 1940s, the horror movie genre progressed and become increasingly popular. Some notable horror films from the decade are The Body Snatcher, Cat People, and I Walked with a Zombie. During the 1950s, with the popularity of horror movies still on the rise, technology was also advancing, and the horror films started shifting from Gothic horror to more contemporary horror. Also, this is when the supernatural started to become a regular part of horror films. Some popular examples of horror films of the '50s are Godzilla and its sequels, The Thing from another World, and Shrinking Man.

The best horror movies has greatly changed the film making industry as well as the culture. People find horror films to be thrilling and exciting. They want to feel that rush of adrenaline they get when they watch a horror film. As a result of this, people are more aware of violence, evil, and the supernatural. Some argue that watching violent films makes a person more inclined to violence. Also people have more interest in and experiment with evil forces and the supernatural.

The best horror movies have been around for so long, there are obviously going to be a lot of them out there! If you want to see a few horror movies, but don't know which ones are the best, the following list of horror films should be on your must- see list: Alien, Psycho, The Texas Chainsaw Massacre, The Shining, and The Exorcist.

The Best Romance Movies moves the viewer through a variety of strong emotions seeking the to heighten your emotions to what your are viewing.

The best Romance movies are mainly about passionate, emotional, and affectionate love stories. Often, the romance genre overlaps with the drama genre because of the genre's intense and dramatic search for love, journey of love, etc.

The romance genre, similar to the drama genre, is extremely popular and has several subgenres, such as romantic dramas, chick flicks, romantic comedies, romantic action comedies, and romantic thrillers.

The May Irwin Kiss was the first romance film ever made. It was produced in 1896 by William Heise and was only 47 seconds long! The short, silent film, according to Thomas Edison, was the reenactment of May Irwin and John Rice "getting ready to kiss, beginning to kiss, and kissing and kissing and kissing in a way that brings down the house every time!" This film, although short, lacking a plot, and seemingly insignificant, set the stage for hundreds and hundreds of romance films to come.

Over the years, the best romance movies have become very popular with the public. Some of the best romance movies of the 1930s are Selznick International Picture's ever- loved Gone with the Wind, George Cukor's Little Women, and Robert Wiene's German- Hungarian operetta film A Night in Venice.

In the 1940s, the romance genre continued to gain popularity, but the films produced in that decade are less recognized today. However, some of the popular films from the '40s were The Blue Lagoon, Wagon Train, and The Men in Her Life. By the 1950s, films such as Singin' in the Rain, Seven Brides for Seven Brothers, Some Like it Hot, and South Pacific hit the big screens and will not soon be forgotten.

The best romance movies greatly affect the culture of films and people. Romance films was one of the first film genres and set the stage for other genres to emerge. The best romance movies, especially the ones of recent decades, have changed the way the general public views romance and love.

This is because the romance movies of late contain unrealistic plots and characters. People feel that their lives and love lives should be like that of these romance film characters, despite the fact that these characters are fictional and the romances that they have are also fictional, greatly exaggerated, and unrealistic.

If you want to watch to some good, classic best romance movies, but don't know where to start, here is a list of must-see romance films from free movie websites: Titanic, Safe Haven, Fifty Shades of Grey, Crazy Stupid Love, and The Notebook, and Dear John.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF: RICHARD S. WELSH AKA RICHARD STEPHEN WELSH CASE NO. BP146656

Γo all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the WILL or estate, or both of RICHARD S. WELSH AKA RICHARD STEPHEN WELSH.

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by SUSAN K. WELSH in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that SUSAN K. WELSH be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held in this court as follows: 12/10/13 at 8:30AM in Dept. 29 located at 111 N. HILL ST., LOS ANGELES, CA 90012 IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk
