WATER RATE INCREASE APPROVED Rate Payers Accept City's Recommendations

By Susan Henderson

Despite an organized effort complete with 'robocalls', opponents of the proposed water rate increase did not garner enough support to stop the new rates from going into effect.

According the Prop 218 guidelines, 51% of the ratepayers were needed to stop the increase from going forward. Based upon the figures available at press time, a little over 1,000 ballots opposing the measure, indicating that approximately 75% of those eligible to vote chose to support the city council's recommendation.

The city sent out an e-blast after Tuesday's meeting stating, "The Sierra Madre City Council held a Public Hearing on January 28, 2014 to receive oral and written testimony on the proposed water and sewer rate increases. At the of approximately $12.70" on each biclose of the Public Hearing, all protest ballots were received and the final tabulation of protest ballots was completed.

The total number of protest ballots received did not reach the quantity of 1,848 ballots for water rates or 1,591 for sewer rates that would be required under Proposition 218 to halt the rate increase proceedings. The City Council, based on the outcome of the protest vote, adopted Urgency Ordinance 1351-U, setting new water and sewer rates effective March 1, 2014 for the City of Sierra Madre.

At Tuesday's council meeting a Resolution was adopted after all ballots had been counted.

City Manager Elaine Aguilar affirmed the information that had previously been distributed. "The typical user of 33 units will experience an increase montly bill.

Ballots opposing the rate increase were opened and counting on Tuesday morning under the supervision of the City Clerk and City Manager. Phóto by Councilman Chris Koerber

YOUR CASH IS NOT GOOD HERE

Chase Bank First In The Nation To Restrict Cash Deposits

Customers who stop by Chase Bank in Sierra Madre may have noticed a handout and other signs that read, "Important News About Cash Deposits". The notice goes on to inform the public that effective March 1, 2014, the bank will no longer accept cash deposits, regardless of the amount, into personal accounts unless the person making the deposit is a signer on the account. In addition, account holders will have to show i.d. when making such deposits.

After looking into the matter further, it was discovered that the bank was adopting this policy, "In a bid to close potential money laundering loopholes. JPMorgan Chase (JPM) told FOX Business it is set to roll out a new policy that requires customers who want to make a cash deposit to show identification and be listed on the actual account.

According to the report, "JPMorgan, the largest U.S. bank by assets, has been in the crosshairs of heavy regulatory scrutiny in the past year, highlighted by a $2 billion settlement last week over lax standards related to the Madoff Ponzi

Chase tellers are expected to begin asking customers for ID when making cash deposits on February 1, but the policy is not expected to be strictly enforced until March 3, Chase.

"We are making this policy change for cash deposits only to combat misuse of accounts, including money laundering," a Chase spokesperson said.

It is believed that the New York-based financial giant would be the first big bank to enact such a change.

"We are making this policy change for cash deposits only to combat misuse of accounts, including money laundering," a Chase spokesperson said.

Neither Bank of the West, nor Bank of America have any such policy change in the planning stages at this point.

This is another policy that may very well have a negative impact on the elderly who often use trusted family members and friends to make deposits for them.

According to the local Chase spokesman in Sierra Madre, the bank now prefers that alternative means of depositing, such as checks, is preferred.

WALKING SIERRA MADRE.....THE SOCIAL SIDE

By Deanne Davis

"Hot Dogs, red vines and potato chips are my favorite foods." Betty White – whose birthday was January 17, 1922. If Betty White loves hot dogs, how bad can they be!

There's new things goin' on in town, including hot dogs! You know, some days are so pleasant, so perfect that we want to stay outside all day and just enjoy. OK, I know, we've all got stuff we need to be doing, but walking Sierra Madre today is so full of surprises and new enterprises that we, my excellent walking partner and superlative spouse, John, were astonished! You would have been, too.

Walking down Baldwin, noticing dark pink camellias on the Gooden School bushes. Their vegetable garden looks amazing, too, some great looking lettuce and Swiss chard. Not so sure their wisteria is going to make it, though. Sorry to see that The Yellow Bus didn't make

There's a new restaurant moving into where Mountain View Sushi was for several years. Coming in February: Vicious Dogs! Every kind of hot dog imaginable! Look at this: "Sweet & Spicy (Our Signature) 1/3 lb. Very Spicy!" There are dozens more, including the peanut butter dog! Can't wait till February! There's another Vicious Dogs in North Hollywood so we figure they've got all the kinks worked out and we'll experience hot dogs like we've never had before!

The Vibrant Living Wellness Center (Dr. Tina's column is on page 9 of this paper!), across from the Sierra Madre Community Medical Group is up and running and just a couple of doors down from them is Subway, Coming Soon! Hot dogs, Subway sandwiches, great health advice and that's just what's going on on the south side of Sierra Madre Blvd.!

There's a new computer place, Foothill TEK, next door to Sierra Madre Pizza, across from Sierra Madre Congregational Church. They're open and ready to repair your Mac, iPhone, iPod, iPad and even your PC! Foothill TEK can also help you with training, data recovery, wired and wireless networking and if you've ever wanted to stand on top of your computer with an ax in your hand, as I have, you'll be thrilled to know we've got computer help right downtown.

Police Kill Pit Bull; Wound Two Dogs Amid Attack

A local man was wounded early Wednesday morning after three pit bulls attacked him, unprovoked, forcing him to jump onto the hood of a parked car in the 1400 block of Fair Oaks Avenue —the incident ended when police shot at the dogs, killing one of

At press time, police were still looking for the owner of the animals. All three dogs were identified as pit bulls or a pit bull mix.

According to Pasadena Police Lt. Tracey Ibarra, shortly after 5 a.m., Andrew Ross was walking his bike southbound on Fair Oaks Avenue when the three Pitt Bulls charged him from across the street. Ross tried to position his bicycle between him and the three attacking dogs attempting to bit his legs resulting in minor puncture wounds. He then jumped onto the hood of a car.

Cellphone video, online, shows an officer discharging his shotgun at the three dogs. One dog immediately yelps as it fell to the ground. The other two dogs ran south but were located nearby and taken into custody by animal control Ibarra said.

Pasadena Humane Society Spokeswoman Ŵhitman said Thursday thát the dog, shot by police, was a young female, possibly in heat. She also said the dog was not spayed.

In Related News,

Dog owners packed city hall Monday night in opposition to a proposed ordinance introduced by Councilman Steve Madison that would mandate spay and neuter of pit bulls within the city. The issue was tabled until July.

"Coincidentally, 36 hours ago my colleagues on the City Council rejected my proposed ordinance that would have called for mandatory spay and neuter of pit bulls," he said in a prepared statement. "Not a ban, mind you, or even a limit on the number one can own, just spay and neuter to control the overpopulation of this breed. One of my colleagues, Terry Tornek, stated the "evidence" did not support the ordinance."

Remo Drums Showcases Rose Parade at NAMM

By Dean Lee

Although company names such as Honda and Macy's are commonplace every year as part of the Pasadena Rose Parade, there is one business that gets more television time during the event New Year's morning than all of them combined drumhead maker Remo Inc.

"There are usually about 20 to 25 bands in the parade and [Remo] makes about 40 drumheads per band," said Mark Branson, Remo's Marching Percussion Manager and Liaison for the Tournament of Roses. "That's kind of the average; some bands are really big, so there are a lot more. Some bands will have 60 drumheads or so."

The math works out to close to 1,000, all donated, Remo logoed drumheads in the parade.

"That's the two college bands [part of the Rose Bowl Game], every high school band, there are bands that repeat every year, like the Marine Band, the Salvation Army Band and there is a local Los Angeles Unified All District Honor Band and there are a couple others that are perennial," Branson said.
After the parade, the drumheads all become keepsakes, "I'm sure that production is centered on the school year, "There is there are people out there our age that were in the parade age that were in the parade an order form they send back years ago and still have them in to me in September, exactly a closet somewhere, so they can say, 'hey look I was in the Rose Parade," Branson said.

He also said each band director is given a special commemorative drumhead, "It is separate and different from the Rose Parade graphic head, it has their name and the name of the school on it."

Pasadena City College officially opened its Center for the Arts last week. Superintendent-President Mark W. Rocha greeted Congresswoman Judy Chu, Mayor Bill Bogaard, Vice-Mayor Jacque Robinson, Assemblymen Chris Holden, the PCC Board of Trustees, and members of the Pasadena community.

The Center for the Arts is 87,000 square feet with 14 classrooms and 3 performance spaces: the Westerbeck Recital Hall, the Boone Family Art Gallery, and the Center for the Arts Theatre. The art spaces include several graphic design classrooms, photography and film studios. AC Martin designed the facility with Gail Bouvrie, AIA, Sr. Associate, and Director of Design spearheading the project. "The building is a modern addition to the Pasadena campus, and also includes elements that recall details, colors, and proportions found in some of the historic buildings." Martin said.

The Center for the Arts will host its first artist-in-residence showing in February with artist and software designer, Casey Reas, as well as its first musical theatre production in the Mayor Bill Bogaard Westerbeck Recital Hall.

Before a packed venue, Bogaard gave this year's State of the City address covering topics such as the SR 710 freeway extension, the Rose Bowl, the Gold line, among others.

The 30 minute speech focused on "Arts + Innovation = Pasadena."

I am happy to share with you tonight that the Gold Line extension east to Azusa is on budget and on schedule," he said "The project will be completed in September of next year. When completed, this important extension will connect our City to historic downtowns, numerous colleges, the City of Hope Medical Center, county treasures like the Santa Fe Dam Recreation Area and County Arboretum."

Bill Proposed to Give Vets seats on College Board Assemblymember Chris

Holden said he is proposing legislation to give veterans a stronger voice in college leadership. AB 1557 increases the number of voting members on the Board of Governors at the California Community College system by adding two new members – both reserved for veterans.

Holdwn said the state's community colleges lead the nation with more than 44,000 vets enrolled - the largest number since World War IĬ.

"Veterans returning to college face unique challenges and colleges across the state are scrambling to offer support. If campuses are not prepared to help these soldiers transition from combat to college, we run the risk of alienating thousands of returning vets," said Assemblymember Holden. "With this bill we are saying, we are committed to helping our student veterans - you are not alone, we hear

Currently there are 16 voting members on the CCC- Board of Governors and one non-voting member. This bill would increase that total of voting members to 18. One would be for a student who is a current or former member of the Armed Forces. The other would be for a current member or veteran who has demonstrated expertise and leadership in veteran's affairs. Both would be voting members.

"With thousands of student veterans attending California's Community Colleges, and the number increasing as we wind down these decade long wars, our Veterans need a voice in their college leadership," stated Patricia D' Orange Martin, Coordinator of Veterans Services, Pasadena City College. "They can assist in finding solutions that will help the California Community Colleges organize a holistic approach for assisting veterans and improving their chances for success."

JOHN SCOTT SWORN IN AS INTERIM SHERIFF OF LA COUNTY

This past Tuesday, the LA Board of Supervisors chose Orange County Undersheriff John Scott to finish out Sheriff Baca's term. I was really surprised,

In August 2001, I met newly-promoted Commander John Scott assigned to Custody Operations Division. At that point, he had been in the Department 32 years. Assignments were Patrol Deputy at Lakewood Station, Sergeant at Firestone Station, Special Enforcement Bureau, and Emergency Operations Bureau, Lieutenant at Men's Central Jail, Carson Station, Field Operations Region II Headquarters, the Office of Emergency Management and Employee Relations and the Executive Aide to the Assistant Sheriff. In 1995 after promoting to Captain, he was assigned to Carson Station. In 2001, he was promoted to Commander and in 2005 he retired as Chief of Custody Division.

What I think is so important is the diversity of Scott's career at LASD. He worked at different Sheriff's Stations, Bureaus, Custody facilities, Emergency Management and Employee Relations during his 36 years there. Many LASD personnel know and respect this man. In addition, Scott holds a Bachelor's Degree in Management from Redlands University and a Master's Degree in Public Communication from Pepperdine University.

After the announcement of Scott as Interim Sheriff, Supervisor Zev Yaroslavky said, "In looking for an interim we were looking for someone who would not be a caretaker. Not someone who would just be marking time for the next 10 months. Someone who would carry on the momentum that has developed in the aftermath of the Citizens' Commission on Jail Violence, deal with some of the other issues the department has and key it up for the next sheriff who will be elected later this year."

At the Press Conference announcing his appointment, Scott said, "I can assure you, I am not going to be a placeholder. I will begin the process immediately, of restoring both the dignity to the men and women of L.A. County and the confidence and the trust of the public that they serve."

On Thursday, Interim Sheriff John Scott was sworn in. His father and his wife Alice, who was with the LA Sheriff's Department for thirty years were present. It was like a reunion. When I first arrived, I ran into Orange County Sheriff Sandy Hutchens and a few coworkers of hers and Scott's. Three LA County Assistant Sheriffs were present: Cecil Rhambo, Todd Rodgers and Jim Helmond, as well as the Division Chiefs and Station Commanders. It was wonderful to catch up with so many old friends, and Alice Scott, John's wife also had people coming up and hugging her!

The BIG SURPRISE and BEST NEWS is that Interim Sheriff John Scott announced his new Executive Aide, retired LASD Chief Neal Tyler. Everyone was very pleased and in fact, when I attended Neal's retirement in July, 2012, Sheriff Sandy Hutchens and Undersheriff John Scott had come up from Orange County. Who could have imagined what the future would bring?

I foresee change and improvement in the Department in the next ten months when Interim Sheriff John Scott is in charge and Neal Tyler is his Aide.

PLANTING TREES IN SIERRA MADRE TO FIGHT DROUGHT By Christoper Nyerges

Trees, grey water recycling, and welcoming the rain are all needed Low-tech solutions to Urban Density

We are not advocates of the "front lawn." Our front area is planted with fruit trees, herbs, and ornamentals. Once, while we were tending this area, a visitor of ours stated that he does not grow anything in his yard. He told us he was so concerned about dry weather conditions, and drought conditions, that he regarded any sort of plant cultivation as "wasting water."

Of course, our visitor was tacitly suggesting that we were wasting water.

We realized that this idea was rather widespread when yet a second person suggested that we forget about planting any more trees, bushes, or vegetables due to what seems to be regular periods of drought and water shortages in Southern California.

This counter-productive idea seems to have gained a foothold in the minds of many residents of our Southland. We've even heard some "garden experts" suggest this idea, that to "save water" we should simply not grow plants.

We are able to grow fruit trees and roses and herbs and other edible plants partly because we direct all of our washing machine water, and most of our dish water, out into the garden areas and not down the city's sewer line. We are using the water twice!

To the visitor who suggested that we stop growing for awhile, we casually asked, as we were showing him our water recycling system, "So where does all your used water go?" He was silent for a moment, and then told us that it all goes into the sewer.

In fact, with careful attention to the type of detergents purchased, we can direct virtually all of our water into our yards. This is done in many possible ways. The dish basin, full of used water, can simply be carried outside and poured manually around your plants. Or you can fill one gallon plastic buckets with your used bath, shower, or dish water, and then carry it outside to where it is needed. With a bit more work, you can disconnect from your sewer line and permanently direct all of your used water into your own yard, as we've done with the washing machine.

There are two major benefits of sending your used household water into your own yards, rather than letting it flow unceremoniously down the sewer.

As more and more people move into this coastal mountain-locked desert plain, we have quickly begun to use the water faster than nature's ability to replenish the supply. Thus, our underground water table has steadily dropped. Directing all our household water into our yards could have at least a minimal positive affect on the water table (as long as we avoid bleaches and dyes in our detergents that could be harmful to the soil and water).

More importantly, one of the best "weapons" to combat desertification and the serious effects of the cycles of drought is the presence of trees! Throughout recorded history, the harvest and non-replenishment of trees has led to weather changes that have resulted in large deserts. All the major deserts on earth were once forests, but the trees were cut down for making boats or other products. Conversely, since the transpiration cycle of trees releases large amounts of water into the environment, the planting of trees on a large scale can reduce the effects of drought, can alter weather and can reverse the downward cycle towards desertification.

We don't want to stop our efforts to plant -- and to nurture -- trees just because there is a period of drought. But we must do so wisely. By using all possible grey water, we're able to keep our necessary trees and plants alive and transpiring.

When we read that the average residence of Los Angeles County uses about 400 gallons a day, we were astounded. We're not sure what constitutes an "average" family, but when we average out out water usage, it doesn't come close to 400 gallons on a daily basis. Imagine how astounded we both were to learn that Hugh Hefner's Playboy mansion uses 25,000 gallons of water daily!! Or that the Hotel Bel-Air, an 11 acre retreat, uses 98,000 gallons a day!

No wonder we have water troubles. People flock her to the desert and they use water profligately, as if they were living in Canada or the Rockies or some other water-rich environment. With all this in mind, we wonder:

Where doesn't every single family residence in Southern California direct all their own gray water into their own yard? This raises the water table, and allows plants to grow with water that was already used and paid for?

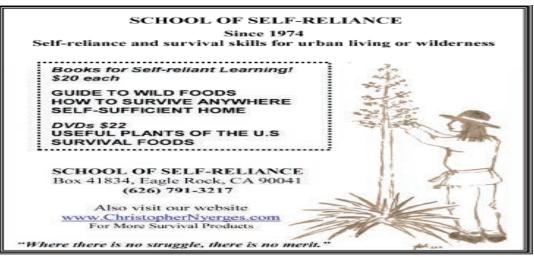

Why isn't the city, or various water agencies, actively promoting not just low-flush toilets but composting toilets, which use NO water at all?

Why does the average residence pay more for the water they so-carefully use, when the "big get to buy their water wholesale?

Why do we allow any new construction at all, either residential or business? If our water situation is only going to get worse as population increases, shouldn't we take some steps to encourage development elsewhere? Or are we so caught up in the suicidal money-making mindset that "development is always good for business" that we are blind to what we are doing to ourselves?

We know that there are countless other "easy" and practical ways to fight water shortages and to live lightly on the earth.

Another deep-seated idea that all should root out of our thinking is that "Sunny weather is good weather, and rainy weather is bad." Most Southern California weather reporters have interpreted the weather this way for decades (with a few rare exceptions, such as the former television meteorologist Dr. George Fischbeck). Though we are not badmouthing sunny weather, we need to begin to think about rain as a valuable, friendly, needed gift from heaven, without which our home here between the sea and the mountains would quickly revert to a semi-barren desert.

SUPERBOWL CAUTION - Upcoming DUI Patrol

The Arcadia Police Department will be out in force this coming weekend and will conduct (2) DUI Patrols in the City of Arcadia during the evening hours of Friday, January 31st and Sunday Feb 2nd, 2014. The Arcadia Police Department recently received two grants from the California Office of Traffic Safety (OTS) for a year-long program aimed at preventing deaths and injuries on our roadways, through the use of DUI checkpoints/patrols, specialized enforcement efforts and public awareness.

One of the goals of our enforcement activity is to promote public safety and increase awareness of the dangers associated with drinking and driving. This will be accomplished by providing a highly visible enforcement and publicity campaign, in order to deter intoxicated drivers from getting behind the wheel and driving. Through these efforts, we also seek to reduce the number of injuries and deaths associated with collisions involving intoxicated drivers.

We would like to remind the public of the dangers associated with drinking and driving. Enjoy spending time with family and friends this weekend watching the big game, but remember; if you want to be an MVP, don't drink and drive!

Don't forget to visit the Arcadia Police Department News & Information Blog or follow us on Facebook, Twitter or Nixle for other pertinent news and information. Remember, the solution begins

Funding for this operation is provided from a grant administered by the California Office of Traffic Safety through the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

DUARTE KIWANIS ENJOYS UPDATES ON YOUTH PROGRAMS

Duarte certainly can be proud of the number and quality of the many youth programs they manage. At a recent meeting, the Duarte Kiwanis Club was provided a wonderful update on these programs. Marilyn Mays, Teen Center Supervisor and Kiwanis member, share a number of new and exciting programs the kids had experienced this past summer from holding their own "Summer Olympics" to enjoying a "Small World" week studying different countries. The Teen Center is also the new headquarters for the NAACP Youth Council and continues to house and lead the champion Boxing Club Program.

The Teen Center is also key in the upcoming ACT-SO Competition. The NÄACP's Afro-Academic, Cultural, Technological and Scientific Olympics of the mind is a yearlong achievement program designed to recruit, stimulate, and encourage high academic and cultural achievement among African-American high school students. ACT-SO includes 26 categories of competition in the sciences, humanities, business, and performing and visual arts. This will be the fourth year the Teen Center has participated in the competition. Duarte Kiwanis continues to support the Teen Center and their programs, and which is shared with the City of Dinner, collected donations for this year's ACT-SO program.

Aida Torres, Crime Prevention Specialist and Kiwanis Board Member and Kalvin Wigfall, Duarte Promise Fellow, shared the continuing efforts of the DART program (the Duarte Area Resource Team). Youth in this program provide hours of public service including graffiti removal, serving at the Duarte Route 66 Parade and providing service for Local Harvest, picking fruit from local homes and delivering to the Foothill Unity Center for Distribution. Duarte Kiwanis continues to support the DART program with funds for their College Visit Trips.

Karen Herrera, Assistant City Manager and Duarte Kiwanis Member provided an update on the Duarte's Promise: Alliance for Youth program. This year the city has eight Americorp volunteers through this program serving 1700 hours. Their service is focused in supporting National Days of Service which include the MLK Remembrance day, Ground Hog Job Shadow Day, Cesar Chavez Beautification Day as well as an annual College Fair. Duarte's Promise is also key to the success of the fourth annual Youth Summit as a part of the annual Installation Monrovia. This year, the Summit is on Saturday, February 22nd from 9 a.m. – 4 p.m. at Monrovia High School. Duarte Kiwanis continues to financially support Duarte's Promise, and also raised funds through the Installation Dinner for the Youth Summit.

The final update of the meeting was on the amazing Music Matters program being led by the Duarte Education Foundation. Gaston, Duarte Kiwanis Member and Ed Foundation Board Member, shared the goal of the Music Matters program - to raise $50,000 annually to provide vocal and instrumental music instruction in all elementary schools. 2013 was the first year of the Music Matters program and has resulted in vocal music being taught in all the elementary schools and a pilot program of instrumental music (and new instruments) in Beardslee Elementary. The community will be invited to experience these wonderful additions on March 29th at the Talent Showcase. The Duarte Kiwanis Club was able to raise funds through their Installation Dinner for Music Matters - so a total of six checks were presented at the meeting.

ST. RITA CELEBRATES CATHOLIC SCHOOLS WEEK

Pack the Church: St. Rita students from each grade participated in the "Pack the Church" Mass last Sunday.

Sierra Madre, CA - Students at St. Rita School celebrated National Catholic Schools Week with a daily line-up of fun activities on campus and community outreach projects designed to honor the Sierra Madre organizations that make our town so unique and special. The week began with students and their families "packing the church" at Sunday's 10 o'clock Mass, followed by a school-wide open house in which current and prospective families could four the classrooms, view the student artwork on display and have coffee and donuts while marveling at exhibits in the students' Science Fair.

In the school week following, students enjoyed a kickball tournament, barbeque lunch for the school's "Buddy" program, the 4^{th} Grade wax museum presentation, Pastries with Parents and the Scripps Nat'l Spelling Bee -- won by 7^{th} -grader Alessandra Soto who will be moving on to the district competition. Classes also competed in a "Penny Crusade" to raise funds for a Haitian orphanage.

The Transitional Kindergarten through 8th Grade classrooms each worked on a community "thank-you" project to recognize those at the Fire Department, Library, Post Office, Parks and Recreation Department, CLIMB, the Chamber, Women's Club, Senior Center and City Hall. For example, the 4th Grade class made oversized valentine posters with raised symbols and greetings for CLIMB, and the 7th Grade made inspirational posters to thank the City's seniors for all they've done for the community through the years.

St. Rita is a top-ranked Catholic parish school, located at 322 N. Baldwin Ave. in Sierra Madre, which focuses on faith, stewardship and academic excellence. Visit www.st-ritaschool.org for more information.

students that may have fine motor issues," said Harris, who is the drama instructor at Frostig School and director of Acting Up!, acting classes for children and teens at the Sierra Madre Playhouse. "This class is a creative outlet for everyone, in a safe and nurturing environment."

Music students can sign up for private or group lessons with Frostig's Music Director, Rich Dembowski. As a songwriter and recording artist, Dembowski has written, produced and independently released three albums under the name Old Californio. He has also played and recorded with artists Victoria Williams and Ben Vaughn, as well as worked on television's popular That 70's Show. Brasswind instruments are taught by Frostig teacher and professional musician Joseluis Jimenez. Lessons will focus on a fun exploration of music with an emphasis on performance and self-expression, said Dembowski. Students ages 9 and up can sign up for private vocal, piano, drum, guitar, bass, woodwind and brasswind lessons at $25 for 30 minutes, and $50 an hour Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Fridays. A 10-week group series is $120.

Private or small group art classes in drawing, painting and ceramics are being offered Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 3 - 5 p.m. for $25 a half hour and $50 for a full hour. Frostig's expansive art room includes pottery wheels, a ceramics kiln, woodworking equipment, an outdoor and indoor facility with plenty of natural light, various work surfaces, and numerous pieces of adaptive equipment to help the beginner get started. "My experience working with many different types of children and many different materials in my own practice, as well as at this wonderful facility, make these art classes perfect for all types of learners wanting to explore different types of art," said Frostig art instructor Jessica Monares. THE REEL DEAL: by Ben Show I, FRANKENSTEIN

With a trailer that had my interests piqued, I had high expectations for this movie. After seeing the film, though, I have mixed thoughts. It delivered in some aspects but was a major letdown in other ways.

After killing his creator's wife, Frankenstein's monster (Aaron Eckhart), who is later named Adam, is nearly killed by mysterious assailants. He is saved by a race of creature called gargoyles, stone-angels who lead the fight against the demon hordes. With Adam now in the middle of a centuries old war he must fight for the safety of the mortal world and unlock the secret behind his amazing reanimation.

The gargoyles and demons were major pluses. They provided all of the movies well shot, well choreographed fight scenes. However, a movie cannot survive on CGI alone. The story was very flawed and hard to believe, especially the part where the audience is supposed to believe that Adam is made up of eight different people but looks completely normal. I would recommend this movie who have some time to kill. Do not go into 'I,Frankenstein' expecting the next masterpiece.

HOUSTON, WE HAVE A SMALL PROBLEM

The pride of Sierra Madre's St Rita, and daughter dearest, had a birthday this past week, so we sped off to Houston's in Pasadena for her celebration. Wise choice, Houston's is one of my all time favorites. It's not that the food is the best of the best. It is good, but I like Houston's because it's a well oiled machine. We must have beaten the lunch rush because we were seated immediately. Now, this writer has admitted before that I am a creature of habit, but my daughter beat me to it. She ordered the Beef Dip sandwich, (pricey at $20) which came TABLE FOR TWO by Peter Dills with what the menu described as freshly cut French thechefknows@yahoo.com fries. I opted for the rotisserie chicken, figuring I'd get a bite or two of her sandwich. My dad used to say we eat with our eyes. I found that to be true, this time, for there was something amiss with my rotisserie chicken. First of all - for some reason - they cut it up into three pieces. Maybe that's how they roll at Houston's, but I like one big hunk of chicken so I can do the work myself. The skin just didn't seem to have that crispy look that I am most enjoy. When I cut into it, it appeared it wasn't cooked all the way through either, so I sent it back. Instead of making a new chicken, I believe they just heated it some more. "Still not right?", the server asked? No, I think I'll pass, Luckily daughter dearest couldn't get through both her $20 sandwich and the $6 Kale Salad – so both of those did the trick for me, too, I'll be back; no sour grapes here. INGREDIENTS

NOODLES: 14 1/8 ounces wheat flour 1/4 tablespoon fine salt About 1 cup cold water

Vegetable oil SOUP:

7 ounces lamb meat, thinly sliced

1 tablespoon cooking wine

1 egg white Vegetable oil

1/2 cup scallions, chopped 1 red onion, thinly sliced

1 tablespoon powdered cumin

1 tablespoon soy sauce, plus more for garnish

1 1/4 teaspoons white sugar 1 teaspoon fine salt

Chili oil, for garnish Black vinegar, for garnish

DIRECTIONS

For the noodles: Mix together the flour and salt in a stand mixer or by hand in a large basin. Slowly add the water with the mixer on low speed, and then knead or mix until the dough is smooth, flat and consistent. Cut the dough into small pieces, about 4 inches long, 2 inches wide and 3/8-inch thick. Cover them with vegetable oil, and place them in the refrigerator right away to prevent sticking.

For the soup: Mix together the sliced lamb, wine and egg white and marinate for 20 minutes. Coat a large saute pan with vegetable oil and heat over high heat until it reaches a smoking point. Add the lamb and egg mixture into the pan and cook until the meat is almost done, then set the meat aside in a small bowl. Add a little more oil to the pan and cook the scallions and onions without browning. Add the meat, cumin, soy sauce, sugar and salt and saute to let the flavor set in, 3 minutes, and then remove from the heat.

Bring a large pot of water to a boil. When the water is almost boiling, take 3 pieces of the dough from the refrigerator. Press the dough flat on a work surface and take one end of the piece in each hand and pull. Slap the dough on the table until it becomes elongated into a wide noodle. Rip this noodle down the middle, creating a longer, continuous, circular noodle and throw it into the boiling water. Repeat

THE JOY OF YOGA

SLOWING DOWN TO SPEED UP

In terms of the physical body, healing takes time and patience. Dealing with a chronic condition or injury also requires patience. How often have we delayed our own healing because we just could not wait to get better? Well, I'll just speak for myself. I have!

Yoga is not a practice of burning calories or even just stretching. Yes, we do those things, but yoga is much more than that. It's supporting, aligning, and structuring the bones, muscles, deep tissues surrounding the muscles. Yoga is methodical and thoughtful. We learn to move in a way that supports and strengthens the integrity of the body. It's a different

Given this approach, yoga is ideal for those recovering from injury and even those suffering from chronic conditions, or people who have limited mobility. The aim in any yoga practice is to improve our overall quality of life. This does take time and concerted effort on the students end. It can be hard at times to be "slowed down" by a teacher in class. We may feel the urge to over-exert; trying to make up for lost time or become goal oriented and want to achieve. Don't give in! Patience, consistency with your yoga practice, and commitment to healing will pay off. You will end up stronger, more flexible, and ultimately gain freedom from respecting your own body's needs

ARE YOU AVOIDING GLUTEN AND LOOKING FOR ANOTHER GRAIN?

"Try Millet" Many people have realized that they suffer with sensitivity to gluten. This has made them look for grain alternatives. Yes there are many new gluten free products at the grocery stores but the savvy consumer is cautious of these products. They realize that many of these substitutes popping up are also highly processed foods. Here's another grain that will expand your gluten free selection and hopefully lessen the dependency on processed foods. This is an ancient grain that is just as old as quinoa and can be considered as a healthy alternative to wheat and gluten and it is millet. Millet is a tiny grain that has been a staple in India and Asia for about 10,000 years.

Millet may be used to make breads, it can be made into the consistency of hot cereal, and it can be prepared like rice. Below are the health reasons you should consider trying millet as an alternative to wheat. Millet is full of nutrients. Millet contains choline and folate, and is high in minerals such as potassium, phosphorus, zinc, and magnesium. These minerals are important for the body to function properly. They build strong bones, teeth, blood, skin, and hair.

These minerals also aide the nerves and muscles to function properly. Millet offers more fiber and antioxidants than any other grain. And the serotonin in millet has a calming effect to your Research shows that millet has antioxidants that may inhibit the enzymes that start cataract development. Eating millet will not guarantee that you will not suffer from cataracts but it is a step in stacking the deck in your favor.

Millet may help to ward off gallstones. Studies have shown that people who consume high amounts of insoluble plant fiber like that in millet have less of a chance of developing gallstones. So if you are avoiding gluten or are just a foodie....try adding millet as a new grain option to your diet. Milletis also easy to digest and aids in the elimination of constipation. As a grain, millet is high in protein.

Post-Surgical Cuddling Canine Proves Breed Profiling

I can't count how many times I've found myself engaged in a conversation with a fellow "animal lover", trying to convince them of the fact that pit bulls are not bad dogs, they just got a bum rap because foolish people started training them to fight in the ring.

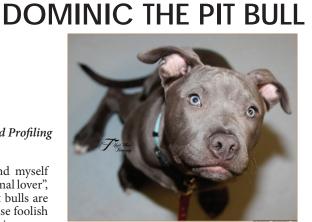

originally bred as a working and dog trained to dog was only 6 months old when he was first found perform a variety of practical tasks designed to make life easier for farmers. The infamous "pit bull" moniker was assigned later on US soil, when kooks like Dallas Cowboy lineman Nate Newton, Phoenix rapper, DMX and Detroit rapper, Calico took it upon themselves to use them for a purpose they were never meant for; that of fighting other bull dogs in the pit.

I remember when the outrageous onslaught of negative news first came out about the pit bull. Headlines claimed "it is a fierce breed to be feared rather than revered". I knew from the very start that any less-than-desirable behavior on the part of the animal had to be due to some form of abuse and mistreatment on the part of the human. Anyone who fell for the media hype that the dogs were inherently evil and should be banned, was clearly mislead by the talking heads. Meanwhile, breeders continued to produce more and more baby bulldogs in back yards or puppy mills, either for cash or to gain status among their thug-let peers.

In 2007, several years after the bull dog breedbashing, mud-slinging media mishmash emerged, the US federal government finally found it's way to illegalize dog fighting in this "culturally correct country" of ours, but unfortunately there are still thoughtless thugs who think it is cool to train dogs for the sole purpose of fighting. They do it for their own personal entertainment or for gambling. Herein lies one of many reason why I often prefer the company of the kind canine to that of the human!

I have a hand full bull dog mixes on my long list of canine clients, and I must say that in my experience, they are among the most easy-going, warm and fuzzy, furry four-legged friends I could ever hope to spend time with. Not to mention that they are absolutely gorgeous animals. If you look up the breed description on line, you will find that they are typically known to be great with children, they are very loyal companions and they tend to be carefully protective of their masters. Now let me ask you, how much better can it get when you are seeking the perfect pet for your family?

One excellent example of why it is all wrong to judge a dog by it's cover, or by it's breed as it were, came out in a January 29, 2014 article on Huffingtonpost.com, entitled Dominic The Pitbull Cuddles and Comforts Animal Patients At Colorado Veterinary Clinic. It is a heart-warming story about a precious pit bull puppy that proved himself worthy of having been rescued, by choosing to be an advocate for healing on behalf of the surgical patients being treated at the Denkai Veterinary Clinic in Colorado, where he was taken in as a babe.

The actual name of the breed is American Bulldog, Dominic, a beautiful, blue-eyed silvery coated bull cuddling up to a post-surgical canine patient at the clinic where he frequently accompanies his new owner, Stephany Haswell on her daily shifts. Stephany is a vet technician at Denkai Veterinary Clinic, and initially volunteered to foster Dominic until he found a forever home. But as it turned out, Dominic found his way into Stephany's heart when he showed his full canine colors by practicing amazing acts of random kindness in the recovery room at the clinic.

> After the first time Dominic proved to be a positive influence on a post-surgical patient, the vet and staff decided to let him continue to help his fellow canines as they recovered from surgery. Remarkably, Dominic seemed to know exactly what each patient needed in order to gain strength and get back on their four feet! It didn't take long for Stephany to realize that Dominic was a special dog with unique talents and that she could never consider letting him

> It is no news to any real animal lover that dogs are fantastic therapy agents for we humans, right? Not only do they perform beyond expectation as pets, by sharing their unconditional love with us, but they are also willing participants in countless programs that allow canines to be kind catalysts for cure.

> Hospitals, prisons, recovery centers and retirement homes are among the many entities that include canine therapy as part of their health and welfare regimen these days, and rightly so. I find it truly amazing how effective four-legged fur therapy can be for those in need. I am especially pleased to see that Dominic, a "pit bull" has chosen to defy what we humans may mistakenly make him out to be; among a breed that is unworthy of our trust or love. On the contrary, Dominic, and several other bull dogs like him are examples of why we humans should refrain breed profiling.

> I may be preaching to the choir on this one, but I feel the need to tell my readers that we must stand by our convictions when it comes to defending our beloved animals. A person who is willing to foster or adopt a dog that may otherwise be euthanized, neglected or abused is a saint in my mind. I do not know Stephany Haswell personally, but based on what I read about her, I imagine she is just that type of person.

> My fellow animal lovers, I encourage you to unite in our effort to defend dogs of all breeds against wrongful profiling, bashing or banning. Do your part to facilitate the therapeutic purposes for the existence of all animals, both wild and domestic. How hard is it to learn from dogs like Dominic that it is high time for we humans to think twice before we judge? After all, that potentially-profiled canine might just be the one sent here to help you some day, by providing therapy in your own desperate time of need. Let's try to be more like Dominic and so many other animals we are blessed with on this earth; love and let live.

THE BUSINESS OF SAVING LIVES, ONE MEAL AT A TIME

A successful entrepreneur, John Tanner is the President of Tanner Research. After he launched his company in 1988, the company went on to garner the Deloitte & Touche's Fast 50 Award five times by 2002, which recognizes exception revenue growth. He is clearly on a mission to help others achieve a level of success with their health that parallels his success in business. An interesting undertaking for an accomplished business leader with an MS in Electrical Engineering and Ph.D. in Computer Science from Caltech.

Last Wednesday, a group of about forty adults was abuzz as they filed out of the building at 825 S. Myrtle after attending the "Nutrition Workshop 101" presented by John Tanner. He talked about how converting to a plant-based diet has been the key to his rebounding from a near fatal heart attack while jogging near his home in Pasadena on October 11, 2009.

The local SGV residents who had RSVP'd to attend the free presentation were privy to some of the latest research on the eating choices proven effective in preventing or reversing health conditions at the top of the list for leading causes of death in the United States. The presentation included easy to understand statistics that clearly demonstrated the correlation between what people eat and the associated risks for cancer, heart disease and diabetes. Each attendee received a folder that included several easy to follow recipe cards along with a few brochures and handouts containing information and tips on how to make the transition to a plant-based diet.

Everyone was treated to a complimentary dinner with menu items from one of John's latest ventures, "Little Green Forks," a healthy food home delivery service with all plant-based, whole foods prepared with no added oils. A hearty split pea soup was a tasty complement to the buffet of lasagna, tamale pie and a sweet potato bowl that included mango and black beans. Even some of the meat eaters returned to enjoy second helpings.

"This was an evening well-spent," was the sentiment expressed by numerous attendees as they were each surprised with selecting a book on health and nutrition from a choice of nine titles as a parting gift. This event was sponsored by The Nutrition Science Foundation, a nonprofit co-founded by Tanner in 2012. Additional workshops are scheduled for February. To learn more about the tasty menus items available for delivery to homes and businesses, visit www. Littlegreenforks.com. For information on upcoming workshops, visit www.nusci.org.

When a child plays, they are motivated by pure curiosity without fear. They question, and they set out to find the answer. Why? Because it's fun.

Then something happens to us over the years. Our experiences tell us a different story: a story of fear and worse case scenarios. We don't feel safe to experiment like we used to. Now we are aware of the consequences -- especially the bad ones. There ARE good consequences, but our mind doesn't focus there. Instead, we begin to narrow our choices in hopes of limiting our risk.

Play requires an attitude of allowance, and openness to possibilities -- to the possibility of good outcomes. To the place of child-like believing. When we start listening again to the natural curiosities that come to us daily, we have the choice to take "Inspired action." Not just any action, but action that is generated from our spirit. It's supported by that "gut feeling."

Questions arrive that we can't answer, such as, "wonder what would happen if I advertised in Yelp?" That thought came to me recently, and my whole body lit up. Because my body reacted that way, I knew my spirit was saying, "do it!" So, I did. I signed up for a year. Because of my body, not my logical mind. Logic was saying, "are you crazy?!! There's no proof." And wanted to play it safe.

Fear will never lead to play. It stops new outcomes and incomes dead in their tracks. Insanity is described as doing the same thing and expecting different results. If we want something bigger, we're going to have to do something different. It requires us to head straight into the unknown.

Am I scared? Heck yeah. I don't know if it will pay off. That's part of play, and a big reason why most people don't. But if we don't play, there's no fun. And isn't that why we're in this? I mean, aren't we just big kids?!

SEAN'S SHAMELESS REVIEWS:

Review By Sean Kayden

GARDENS & VILLA

Gardens & Villa, a band from Santa Barbara, CA, is poised to release their sophomore record, "Dunes." With this specific endeavor, the California fivepiece indie rock act headed to Michigan for a bleak winter experience to record. It was a far different living situation than the boys ever could have imagined. The results were far from a sunny, breezy tone that the band was already accustomed to in California. What was formed ended up being a record consisting of nine dark synth-pop tracks embedded with pulsating snyth lines, effervescent rhythms, and shimmering vocals. The influences of 80s snyth rock bands gloss over the tracks, but the band is far from being imitators. Introspective songwriting, dance jam tunes, and fluttering melodies makes "Dunes" the first great album of the year.

"Colony Glen" covers every 80s sound possible and is down right intoxicating. In "Bullet Train" Chris Lynch hits the notes sky high with

"The young die young, if they work too hard / Palm silhouettes, magnetic rails though the heart young silhouettes, we were doomed from the start." The band's first self-titled record was a lot more experimental and a bit all over the place. It still had some good songs, but it showed a band somewhat green on their first outing. With "Dunes," Gardens & Villa come back like seasoned pros with a remarkable accomplishment of producing nine utterly enthralling and superlative songs. Sonically, the two albums are far different, but "Dunes" is leaps and bounds ahead of its predecessor. "Echosassy" puts the listener in a trance with a heavy snyth tempo. "Purple Masses," best track off the record, is a completely beautiful, downtempo affair. Lynch's vocals are intimate and stimulating and when paired with striking melodies, there's no going wrong.

"Avalanche," another solid entry that will have you dancing in no time and if not, something is terribly wrong with you. "Minnesota" is a slow burn tune that shows Lynch painstakingly singing over a piano. It's heartfelt and pensive. It's a departure from the rest of the album, but nothing to shun. "Chrysanthemums" is another slightly slower track from the other offerings, but no less beautiful and warm. It also feature female vocals that go hand in hand with Lynch's soft tones. "Thunder Glove" closes out the record and it reminds me a lot of a Fleetwood Mac tune. Ironically, the band covered "" their song "Gypsy" a few years ago for a compilation record. At just under forty minutes, "Dunes" is one great listening experience. It has tremendous replay value. It's dark, deep, romantic and filled with insight. The second album from Gardens & Villa surpasses all expectations I had going in. Their travels have served them well and what lies beyond is anyone's guess.

For the moment, "Dunes" will serve as the album to bring in light where winter's darkness occupies.

D'OEUVRES IN AN HISTORIC ALTADENA HOME

PASADENA, CA - On Sunday, February 23rd, Penka Kouneva. These short pieces showcase the from 2:00 to 5:00 p.m., the Pasadena Community Orchestra presents an afternoon of music, wine and hors d'oeuvres for its 3rd annual Chamber Music Benefit. The award-winning Elixir Piano Trio (Lucy Nargizyan, Samvel Chilingarian and Garik Terzian) will perform gems of piano trio literature, featuring Arensky's passionate Trio No. 1 in D Minor, in an historic Altadena home. Admission is $50 per person when purchased in advance ($60 at the door); all proceeds benefit the Pasadena Community Orchestra.

Anton Arensky studied with Rimsky-Korsakov at the St. Petersburg Conservatory, and later taught at the Moscow Conservatory (his pupils included Rachmaninoff and Scriabin). The Piano Trio No. 1 is regarded as Arensky's masterpiece, as well as one of the finest examples of the Russian romantic piano trio, a form "invented" by Arensky's close friend and mentor, Piotr Tchaikovsky. Deeply influenced by Tchaikovsky's works, this trio is lushly lyrical, alternately poignant and tender then intensely dramatic and passionate. Arensky dedicated the piece to the memory of cello virtuoso Karl Davidoff, and the cello plays a major role in the trio, giving the piece a particularly rich, luxurious color.

Also on the program are the heart-rending "Adagio" from Spartacus by Khatchaturian, Winner of the Most Distinguished Musician award at the 2005 IBLA International Competition in Italy, the Elixir is the Trio-in-Residence and on the faculty of the Beverly Hills International Music Festival. Known for promoting works by contemporary composers, the dynamic Elixir Piano Trio performs both traditional and modern repertoire with classical, folk and jazz influences.

The Elixir Trio is a truly international ensemble: pianist Lucy Nargizyan was raised in Moscow, violinist Samvel Chilingarian is a native of Armenia and studied in Vienna, and cellist Garik Terzian grew up in the former Czechoslovakia. HOMES & PROPERTY

Tips of the Trade: Real Estate Revealed

TOO GOOD TO BE TRUE

Many homeowners are still facing mortgage default, and while the best bet is to contact your lender directly, there are tempting advertisements out there for companies that claim they can solve your financial crisis. Fraud is rampant, so look out for the following warning signs.

First, don't believe the hype when you hear, "We'll stop the auction!" or, "Debt eliminated, guaranteed!" If it sounds too good to be true, it is!

You should be suspicious of any company that tries to gain your trust by imitating a government agency. They may (illegally) publish government logos and names, or even copy the look of an official website, so pay attention to the details.

Back out of any deal that requires you to pay any fees upfront. There is no need to pay anyone to modify your mortgage terms, because your lender, and only your lender, can do that.

Most importantly, do not make mortgage payments to anyone but your lender. If a person or company presents you with an official looking statement that indicates payments should now be made to them, don't walk – run for the door, and call the Better Business Bureau.

By working directly with your lender, you may be able to modify your loan terms, or agree to a pay-off through a "short sale" listing. Please heed this advice from an experienced professional.

PASADENA SHOWCASE HOUSE FOR THE ARTS (PSHA) HOLDS ENGLISH-THEMED EMPTY HOUSE PARTY

PASADENA, Calif. It was an enchanted evening when over 500 guests attended the Pasadena Showcase House for the Arts (PSHA) annual Empty House Party. This event is the official announcement for PSHA's annual benefit, Pasadena Showcase House of Design. It is also an opportunity for local dignitaries, our patrons, and the media to see the 50th Showcase House before it is transformed by a cadre of outstanding designers into the exquisite showplace the public has come to know and love for the last 49 years. This year's House will be featured, along with the 49 past Showcase Houses in a commemorative book, 50 Years of Pasadena Showcase Design Houses: Supporting the Arts Through Design.

The 2014 Showcase House is a magnificent 1915 English country estate built in the Arts and Crafts style, designed by noted architect Stiles O. Clements, who also designed El Capitan Theatre in Hollywood and the Mayan Theater in downtown Los Angeles. The estate features seven bedrooms, including a nursery, a nanny's room and a traveler's suite, ten baths, five fireplaces, a media room, oak floors, redwood wall paneling, and floor to ceiling leaded glass windows. The 3.5 acre wooded grounds feature a lily pond, river-rock spring house, a variety of lovely gardens, a pool and dressing rooms, a tennis court, a greenhouse, a gardener's potting shed and an outdoor kitchen. In addition, there is a chauffeur's suite complete with sitting area and kitchenette located above the carriage house.

Party guests were treated to a preview of what the 26 designers from Southern California, have in mind as they transform the house from one that was in need of tender loving care to one that is dazzling. In each room, the 18 interior designers displayed color palettes, fabrics, and sketches for their visions of how Showcase House will appear when it opens to the public on April 13th. The 8 exterior designers also shared their visions and plans for the gardens, greenhouse, pool area and

Current President, Donna Gotch remarked, "I am honored to serve PSHA as its President as we celebrate 65 years of volunteerism and the 50th Anniversary of our annual benefit, Pasadena Showcase House of Design. These are remarkable milestones for an all-volunteer organization. This year we feature yet another architecturally significant home for visitors to view the latest in both interior and landscape design."

As guests journeyed through the mansion, they were able to experience the House in its "before" stage, and were treated to live music by a jazz quartet, and delicious culinary offerings from The Kitchen for Exploring Foods. The menu was English-inspired with foods such as Anne Bolyn Lemon Tarts, English Sticky Toffee Pudding, Stilton Cheese Terrine, English Braised Beef, and a very special 50th anniversary ice sculpture, making for a tasty and tasteful evening.

Vicki McCluggage and Charlotte Varner were Co-Chairs for the event. "We wanted to make it festive for the 50th and people are really noticing the extra touches, like the ice sculpture and the live music," said McCluggage. "We are so happy to have some of our traditional designers return for the 50th anniversary. Designers such as John Cole (salon), Michael Berman (dining room), Cynthia Bennett (kitchen), and Kathryne Dahlman (the great room) are also loyal supporters of Showcase."

Varner reflected on what this party meant to her, "the Empty House party is a perfect kickoff to generate excitement about our project. The fact that it is the 50th Annual Showcase House is a tremendous accomplishment and we are excited to welcome all our guests. I was fortunate to have chaired the 40th Showcase House, and as I said then, and repeat now, every visitor to Showcase is contributing to the arts when they buy a ticket, dine at our Restaurant or shop at the Shops, all contributions enable us to fund music and arts programs in the community."

The 2014 Pasadena Showcase House of Design will be open to the public Sunday, April 13 through Sunday, May 11. For more information about PSHA, the Pasadena Showcase House of Design, or to order 50 Years of Pasadena Showcase Design Houses, please visit www.PasadenaShowcase.org

THE WORLD AROUND US LOOKING With Bob Eklund

MONET'S CLIFF BY THE SEA BECKON'S "CELESTIAL SLEUTHS"

Famed French Impressionist Claude Monet created a striking scene of the Normandy coast in his 1883 painting, "Étretat: Sunset." Now, a team of Texas State University researchers, led by astronomer and physics professor Donald Olson, has applied its distinctive brand of forensic astronomy to Monet's masterpiece, uncovering previously unknown details about the painting's origins.

Olson, along with Texas State physics faculty member Russell Doescher and students Hannah Reynolds, Ava Pope and Laura Bright, published their findings in the February 2014 issue of Sky & Telescope magazine, on newsstands now.

"Claude Monet, founding member of the Impressionist movement, painted a dramatic scene on the Normandy coast," Olson said. "The canvas shows the orange disk of the Sun sinking toward the horizon near a spectacular line of cliffs.

"We like to use astronomy to show students how science can solve real-world puzzles," he explained. "We asked, 'Could we use the dramatic rocks in the landscape and the position of the setting sun to determine where and when, specifically, Monet created this beautiful masterpiece?"

Monet painted a series of paintings featuring this stretch of the Normandy coast during a three-week visit to the area during the winter of 1883. His painting "Étretat: Sunset" shows a cliff known as the Falaise d'Aval along with the arch Porte d'Aval overlapping a tall, needle-shaped rock spire known as Aiguille (the Needle) that stands just offshore. Key to the image, however, is a low, setting sun just to the right of the landforms. Of all the paintings Monet painted at Étretat, this is the only canvas that includes the disk of the sun, and that one detail opens the door to dating the scene precisely.

To determine on which days in February the sun would have set in the proper location for Monet to capture in his painting, the team of Texas State researchers traveled in August 2012 to France.

Student Ava Pope hiked the beach to find exactly where Monet must have stood. "Ava is accustomed to difficult hiking terrain, and she said that the beaches near Étretat had the most difficult footing she'd ever been on in her life. It's really tough," said Olson. "Monet went out there with all of his painting equipment!"

The Texas State team found that the view matched the scene depicted in "Étretat: Sunset" at only one location—a spot 425 yards from the Porte d'Amont on a rocky beach under an overhanging cliff.

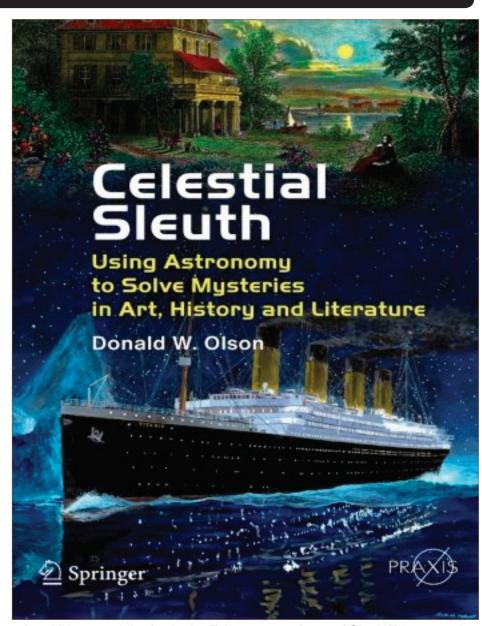

Using planetarium software to compare the modern sky to that of the 19th century, the team was able to calculate that the sun would have set as shown in the painting on Feb. 5, 1883. Allowing for some uncertainty, the researchers concluded that the correct date must fall in the range between Feb. 3 and Feb. 7, 1883.

The group then combed through letters Monet wrote from Étretat during his stay, along with weather records and tide tables from February of 1883, to confirm their date. They discovered that on Feb. 3 Monet was working on nearby Jambourg Beach and that the artist spent all day Feb. 4 entertaining his visiting brother. The tides of Feb. 6 did not match the painting, and Monet's letters show that he paid close attention to the tides. On Feb. 7 cloudy weather and rain storms began. Through the process of elimination, the calculated date of Feb. 5 is the only one remaining that matches the sun's position, the weather and the tide level in the painting.

Armed with that knowledge, the Texas State team used the height of the needle-like Aiguille formation to calculate the exact time from the altitude of the sun above the horizon.

"We were able to determine the month, day, hour and precise minute—accurate to plus or minus one minute—when Monet was inspired by that beautiful scene," Olson said. "Monet observed this sunset on Feb. 5, 1883 at 4:53 p.m. local mean time."

You can contact Bob Eklund at: b.eklund@MtnViewsNews.com.

In addition to publication in the February 2014 issue of Sky & Telescope, the research into the Monet painting is one of two new projects included in Celestial Sleuth: Using Astronomy to Solve Mysteries in Art, History and Literature, out now from Springer Praxis Books. The book collects many of Olson's past forensic astronomy studies published over the past 25 years, including such topics as the Boston Tea Party, Julius Caesar's invasion of Britain, the first Marathon run in ancient Greece; the works of Mary Shelley, Shakespeare, Walt Whitman, Omar Khayyam and Geoffrey Chaucer; and night skies depicted by artists such as Edvard Munch, J.M.W. Turner and Vincent van Gogh.

WORK-AT-HOME EMPLOY-MENT OPPORTUNITIES FOR RETIREES

Dear Savvy Senior: Can you recommend some popular work at home jobs for retirees? I'm interested in earning a little extra cash, but would also like to stay at home and have a flexible schedule. Recently Retired

Dear Retired:

If you have a computer with high-speed Internet access and a home phone, there are unlimited work-at-home opportunities for retirees depending on your skills and interest. But beware of scams. Work-at-home scams that offer big paydays without much effort are rampant on the Internet.

The best way to avoid these scams is to use websites that weed out scammers like the ones mentioned in this column, and never invest any of your own money without thoroughly checking out the business with the Better Business Bureau at bbb.org. It's also a good idea to use search engines like Google or Bing to research a potential employer to make sure it's legitimate.

Here are a few popular home-based career opportunities to check out, along with some trustworthy resources to help you search for employment.

Customer-service agent: These jobs answer inbound customer calls for big companies - you don't place telemarketing calls. Agents earn an average of $8 to $15 an hour and you can usually set your own hours and pick an employer whose products or services are suited to your knowledge and interests. To find these jobs see arise.com, alpineaccess.com, liveops.com and workingsolutions.com.

Web search evaluator: Most large search engines like Google and Bing rely on home-based evaluators to test the accuracy of online search results, examining different search terms and the websites they turn up. Basic Internet skills are required and the pay ranges between $10 and $15 per hour. See lionbridge.com/careers and leapforceathome.com to apply.

Tutor: If you're a college graduate, and have expertise in English, math, science or social studies, you could make money as an online tutor at tutor.com/apply. Tutors work with students from grade school through college and make between $10 and $15 an hour.

Some guy named George Washington delivered the first regular annual message before a joint session of Congress in 1790. In New York City by the way. Thomas Jefferson discontinued delivering the speed in person because he thought it was to "monarchical". In 1913 Woodrow Wilson reestablished delivering the speech. The State of the Union (SOTU) has not always been delivered as a speech. Most Presidents delivered it as a written report. Since Woodrow Wilson every President has made at least one SOTU speech. I think the motivation to deliver it personally became more important with the advent of radio and subsequently television. Calvin Coolidge made the first radio broadcast SOTU speech in 1923. Harry Truman made the first television broadcast SOTÚ speech in 1947.

Something you might not know. Typically, one member of the President's cabinet does not attend in case some catastrophe disables President, Vice President and others in line to succeed the president. This cabinet member is referred to as the designated survivor.

Every year the President emerges and tells us corps as "Lenny Skutniks." what he (and maybe someday she) is going to do. Does it always happen? Not exactly. Here is a ordered the closing of Guantanamo Bay... speeches.

"He shall from time to not. President George Herbert Walker Bush time give to Congress promised to totally eliminate Political Action information of the State of Committees...not. He also said by the year 2000, the Union and recommend American children must be the first in the world to their Consideration such in math and science...not. President Clinton said if you work 40 hours a week and have a child necessary and expedient."

budget...not. President Nixon said in 1974 3 of the U.S. Constitution which requires the we would meet America's energy needs from President to occasionally let Congress in on America's own resources...not. President Reagan what's going on. It sounds more like a command said we should have technology by the end of the than a suggestion. Hmmm, I wonder if we have to change the Constitution when a woman finally becomes President (notice all the pronouns "he" saud we should have technology by the chief of the 1990's that would fly us from Washington D.C. to Tokyo, Japan in 2 hours (25 times the speed of sound)...not.

> Two statements by two different Presidents are argued to be the most honest statements made during a SOTU speech. The first in 1975 when President Gerald Ford began the first post-Watergate speech with the line, "The state of the Union is not good." The second honest statement was made by President Bill Clinton immediately following the 1996 election when the Republicans swept both houses of Congress, not to mention many state legislatures and governorships. He said, "The era of big government is over." Strange words coming from a Democrat.

> In closing we must not forget Lenny Skutnik Who? Lenny was the first person a President used during a SOTU speech to illustrate a point. A tradition that every president since has used. Lenny was the brave soul who jumped into the Potomac River during the Air Florida Flight 90 crash January 13, 1982. He helped save the life of a woman passenger in the water. Lenny was invited to sit in the President's gallery during the speech and honored by the President. He received a standing ovation. Now, anyone invited into the Presidential gallery and honored during the speech is referred to by the Washington press

There, now you may know more than you ever smattering of broken promises: President Obama wanted to know about the State of the Union

SENIOR HAPPENINGS

FYI: The Truth About Cataracts and Cataract Surgery- Part II

Myth: It's normal to see halos around lights. Fact: Along with cloudy vision, halos are a classic symptom of cataracts (Halos can be a sign of corneal disease too; if you're seeing them, be sure to have your eyes checked). Myth: I'll need reading glasses after cataract surgery. Fact: Not necessarily. Multifocal and "monovision" replacement lenses correct vision at various points, near and far, and can sometimes reduce the need for glasses. Medicare considers multifocal lenses an upgrade beyond standard replacement ones however, so if you want specialty lenses, plan on paying for them out of pocket. Myth: Surgery can wait, I won't go blind. Fact: Cataracts may take years to develop, but they progress to the point that you can no longer see people and things (you may perceive light). Although cataract surgery almost always restores sight, doctors prefer that you schedule the operation before lenses get hard, which happens with age and makes them harder to break up and replace. (Final installment next week)

HELPFUL HINT: Snap binder clips on the edge of your desk and thread phone, printer and other important cord cables through the metal openings to hold them neatly in place.

STUART Tolchin......On LIFE WE USED TO BUILD OUR OWN HOUSES

Yes, we used to build our own houses. Of course I didn't; but my wife's mother still lives in the house where she was born, which was built by her father. In fact, this is the very house which my wife and I want her to leave in favor of some sort of Assisted Living Facility. Of course her mother opposes the change, just like my mother did and my friend Gene's mother did and probably every advanced- age parent does. Sure people want to maintain their independence and self-esteem, but there is a danger in living alone and so many elderly people end up falling and lying untended on cold floors until somebody checks on

This business of building one's own house came to my mind after watching the movie Nebraska last night. It's a movie which is up for an Academy Award, but in case you haven't seen it, let me tell you a little. Some old guy living in Montana receives in the mail one of those phony notices that seems to say that he has won a million dollars. Of course the letter is just a sham trying to trick people into buying magazine subscriptions, but the stubborn old guy refuses to believe this. "They can't say it if it isn't true" he says. He is too old to drive himself but, as no one else is willing to drive him, he just sets off in his stumbling gait to walk the hundreds of miles distance. Eventually his son takes pity on him and drives after his dad ,who coerces him to fulfill his fantasy and drive all the way to Lincoln, Nebraska.

The film is in black and white which emphasizes the desolation of the states of Montana, Wyoming, Utah, and Nebraska. There is one side trip to view Mount Rushmore ,which is characterized by the old guy as an unfinished pile of rocks. (As a side note I read somewhere that the designer of the Mount Rushmore Monument lived for a time in Sierra Madre and is buried at The Forest Lawn Cemetery in Glendale.) The criticism of Mount Rushmore is consistent with the criticism that everybody levels at everybody else during the movie. When the father and son finally reach Nebraska, a medical emergency forces them to stop at the father's brother's home in Hawthorne, Nebraska.

Let's forget the plot of the movie. The thing that got to me was when the whole group visited the house where the father was raised. This is where we learn that the father's father built the house by himself. The son asks, "You mean he hired a contractor who built the house." "Nope, he built the house by himself. Maybe, his brothers helped a little bit but basically he built the house himself."

As I left the movie I really thought about the difference in the generations. I had similar thoughts once, when I found myself in an extension class at UCLA which taught yurt building. My fellow writer, Chris Nyerges, undoubtedly knows all about yurt building, but I never really learned much in the class. I think I took the class just to be able to spend time with a girl-friend who had limited time to share but had a world of interests. The one thing I remember from the class was my thinking about nomadic peoples as they wandered through the day, always calculating where they would build their home for the night and where the water was and when the sun would rise and what was the likelihood of being attacked by predators both animal and human. I remember thinking how involved these pre-modernized people were in the conduct of their own lives and how attuned they were to the world around them.

This morning, about thirty-five years after taking the yurt class, I thought of the benefits of self-reliance and the benefits of human awareness upon our interaction with nature. Didn't it used to rain around here? As I walked around the Canyon Circle ,I noticed that the orange trees were full of beautiful oranges that seem to go unpicked. What a shame, I thought. I even thought of looking for some sort of orange-picker but I had to get back home and think about my article. I will make a point though today of looking for a restaurant that serves fresh-squeezed orange juice. I am told that the servers at Dupars on Lake actually squeeze the juice right before it is brought to the table.

I know ordering juice at a restaurant is not exactly building a yurt, but perhaps it's a start. A start to where I am not sure but it's easier than walking to Nebraska.

HOW TO DEAL WITH MOTHER NATURE'S COLD SHOULDER

fession to make. I public confessions, but confession is good for the soul. My confession, however, has nothing whatsoever to do with my soul. Simply put, I am cold to the bone!

I guess I have been colder but I am suffering from brain freeze right now

I was hoping all that chatter about global warming was somewhere in the neighborhood of being true. If so, nobody happened to send the memo to Mother Nature. With the sophistication of our communication technology today, I am not sure how this memo failed to get to her. Of course, they could have sent the message with one of those infamous government computers. We all know how reliable they are.

Another thought along this line is that maybe Mother Nature got the memo all right, but, like all good mothers do, ignored it and went about her own business. After all, mothers really do know best even when it does not seem so at the time.

However, I am cold and need some encouragement or at least some warm thoughts along this line. The warmest thought I have had recently has been that I have relatives in colder areas then I am. I must confess it does make me feel a little better, just not that much warmer.

Where I live we don't have that cold stuff that piles up on the ground like they do up north keeping you from getting to where you want to go.

Whoever was singing, "I'm Dreaming of a White Christmas," please stop singing, Christmas is over. Start dreaming about something a little warmer than all of that white stuff, like a Green Easter.

This probably has been the coldest winter in a good long time and it got me to thinking, after all, what else can you do when everything is frozen?

With all the advancements in science and technology, why is it we cannot control the weather? Something as simple as the weather and nobody seems to be able to Politicians will get up and spout off at how they are going to change things and control things and improve things. Well, Mr. Politician, why don't you begin with the weather? Change the weather for a change.

Why can't these big shots control the weather? They spend a lot of time (and our money) trying to control us. They now want to tell us what we can eat and cannot eat and how much soda we can drink at any one time. They tell us how much of our money we need to send back to the government so they can raise their salaries

I have a little con- and increase their benefits.

It seems quite a paradox that when our do not often make country is going through hard times and people who pay the taxes have to tighten their belts that it is time for politicians to vote on a raise in their salary. For once, I would like to see these political big shots vote on decreasing their salary and standing alongside the American people. The danger of that is, it would be such a shock to the American people that people would be dropping dead left and right.

So why can't these people control the weather? Why can't they pass a law regulating the temperature? They have a law regulating everything else. Why not the temperature? Why not the weather?

I am for having some of these politicians put together one of their infamous "subcommittees," sit down with Mother Nature and negotiate something that will make everybody happy, like warm weather. I would like to see some of my tax dollars go for something that would benefit everybody instead of some party at some insignificant political convention.

Personally, I think Mother Nature would be easy to work with under such circumstances as we have today. Every mother has a nurturing side and I believe there is no exception here with good old Mother Nature. Maybe she does not know how inconvenient this cold weather has been for us. I think she would be willing to negotiate a long these lines.

I would like to select the politicians to be on this committee myself. I have my own list and would be happy to set it up. The reason is, I know that when one of those politicians throws his chest out and begins one of those mind-numbing speeches, and you know they will, they always do, it will irritate Mother Nature. Boy, would I love to see her light into one of them. Nothing is more awesome than the fury of Mother Nature.

Besides, nothing is more idiotic than men or women, big in their own eyes, pontificating on things they cannot control as if they had any say in it.

I think if you cannot control something as commonplace as the weather you had better find out who can and align yourself up with that person.

The Bible tells us exactly who that is. "The LORD is slow to anger, and great in power, and will not at all acquit the wicked: the LORD hath his way in the whirlwind and in the storm, and the clouds are the dust of his feet" (Nahum 1:3).

I do not have to deal with Mother Nature, who incidentally does not exist; I deal with God who controls all things and I am happy to have him control my life as well.

HOWARD Hays As I See It back to when there was no income tax. I want to turn the clock back to when people lived in small villages and took care of each other." - Pete Seeger (1919 - 2014)

If there's one thing those on the right seem to hate more than a government program that suggests we take care of each other, it's when that program works. If it appears to actually do some good, all efforts are made to sabotage it. At the least, there's an effort to convince us that benefits are illusory; that catastrophe (which they giddily root for) is imminent.

Last week, Greg Welborn wrote that if the "death spiral" for "Obamacare" "has not already begun, it is warming up." He reminds that "according to President Obama", "40 million new people were supposed to enroll", and we're far short of that.

I looked into it.

As to that "40 million" number, it's one of various figures used to estimate the total number of uninsured in America. Actual goals have been more modest - if in fact they were stated by the White House at all. Early on, the Congressional Budget Office estimated 7 million would be enrolled in private insurance through the Affordable Care Act by March 31, with 3.2 million of those by the end of last December. A year ago, HHS Sec. Kathleen Sebelius described the 7 million figure as "a realistic target".

When problems hit October 1 with the debut of the federal website, the right could barely contain its glee over the frustration felt by millions of Americans. The president said problems would be dealt with by the end of November and, to a large extent, they were. As of last week, 3 million have enrolled, just shy of the 3.2 million predicted for the end of December - a prediction that had been made assuming a trouble-free roll-out. An additional 6.3 million have confirmed their eligibility for Medicaid coverage and/or the Children's Health Insurance Program. It looks like the 7 million mark might indeed be met by March 31 – despite the two months of downtime on the federal site.

As of last December, 40% of new enrollees have been in the 18-44 age group and, judging from the experience of "Romneycare" in Massachusetts, those numbers are sure to climb as the March 31 deadline draws nearer.

There's been little reflection on why and how the ACA came about in the first place. We had the most expensive, least costeffective healthcare system in the developed world - and far from the best in terms of outcomes, infant mortality, longevity, etc. Medical costs were the leading cause of personal bankruptcy (causing 2 million last year); in the world's richest nation, we've been the only developed country where a family can lose its home if a child gets sick. A bigger share of our GDP, nearly 20%, went to healthcare costs – and this is compared to countries with universal coverage.

With an untenable status quo we rejected socialized medicine (Veteran's "single-payer" Administration) and (Medicare), and went with the system of

"I like to say I'm private coverage and individual mandates more conservative than offered by Republicans as an alternative to Goldwater. He just wanted to turn the clock wanted t Romney in Massachusetts.

Lest credit for this Republican plan go to a Democratic president, there have been 49 votes in the Republican House to repeal, defund or dismantle the law - with three of those votes taking place after thousands of Americans began signing up October 1.

Regarding the Republican mantra of "repeal and replace", there's been a lot of skepticism about the emphasis on "repeal", with no mention of something to "replace". This week, Republican senators unveiled their Patient Choice, Affordability, Responsibility and Empowerment ("CARE" – get it?) Act. A market-based plan, meaning consumers pick up more costs, and insurance companies pick up more profits.

As the Republican-preferred alternative to the ACA, the plan would:

Kick those 3 million Americans who'd already enrolled through the ACA off their plans, along with the millions more eligible under expanded Medicaid. Medicaid eligibility would tighten up, leaving the working poor to the prohibitively expensive private market.

Remove consumer protections and nocost preventive care, such as for check-ups, mammograms, HIV testing, free birth control, etc. No more coverage requirements for maternity care, mental health, prescription drugs. No more prohibitions on gender discrimination, so back to a system where, not counting maternity care, women would pay 30% more for plans similar to those offered men.

Unless currently enrolled, if you have a pre-existing condition, forget it. Those families relieved at being able under the ACA to get coverage for their child born with some medical condition would now have to go back to just praying that child doesn't get sick.

Insurers could once again impose annual caps. You can get sick, but just not too sick, or need too much treatment, within a year's

If you get coverage through your employer, you'll be taxed on it. Under the Republican plan, 35% of the employer's premium cost would be taxed as employee income. A flat subsidy for the lowest incomes might work out if you're poor and healthy, but if you're poor and sick - well, the insurance companies don't want you on their rolls, anyway.

When you hear people knocking the Affordable Care Act, it's helpful to see what they're pushing as an alternative. Not surprisingly, support for the ACA is strongest among those who've actually logged onto the websites, or chatted with one of the plan's "navigators", to see it for themselves.

And, not surprisingly, there are Americans who don't find it so abhorrent that, as a nation, we might come together and find a way to help take care of each other.

As the folk singer said,

"Being generous of spirit is a wonderful way to live. - Pete Seeger

CALIFORNIA'S MAN GREG Welborn -MADE WATER CRISIS

We're in a drought and nothing in this whence it originally article will suggest that we aren't. But came. there are droughts and there are droughts. There are those which are inconvenient Some, of course, and those which are devastating. The jury is still out on this one, but whatever its severity, a large part of it is due to political bungling by the blue crew working in Sacramento.

Everyone has heard the reports; the snow pack in the Sierra Nevada mountains is 20% of its normal level for this time of year, and reservoirs are being depleted. But the pain is not evenly felt, and therein lies the key to understanding how government policies have exacerbated the situation.

The water districts down here in the southern part of the state have indicated they will be able to weather the drought through 2015. This is largely due to the efforts undertaken here over the last several decades to better meter water usage and to build more underground storage, desalination plants and wastewater reclamation facilities. Northern water districts have been much slower in pursuing these solutions prejudices. We should all remember the stories of the central California communities which found the most effective way to prevent development in their little nirvanas was simply to deny water hookups to developers. While this regulatory attitude was effective in preventing growth, it was also effective in preventing the development of more efficient utilization and storage programs.

Additionally, Northern California water districts collectively divert more than 4 million acre-feet of water each year away from irrigation, human consumption or storage in order to meet environmental dictates. The Western Growers' Association estimates that this We charge our elected officials with volume would annually meet the needs of 4 million families, 1 million acres of farmland and 100 million tons of grapes. The famous, or infamous, depending on your perspective, smelt requires the diversion of 1 million acre-feet of water

Because storage facilities in the north have not been updated and expanded as they should have been, 2012 saw 800,000 acre-feet of water flushed out into San Francisco Bay. The north couldn't store the extra water from this wet year, and environmentalists wouldn't allow it to be shipped to the south where storage facilities could have absorbed the surplus. The purists insisted that the extra water be allowed to return to the sea from will accuse me of wanting to destroy the environment. The Left usually resorts to personal attacks when the facts aren't in their favor. The truth is that I, along with my fellow conservatives, want to enjoy a nice environment and certainly want to pass on to our children a pleasant place to live. But we see the need for and benefit of wise environmental management and a balance between human needs and those of lesser life forms. The radical environmentalists see man as somehow alien to the natural order, rather than as a normal and dominant component of nature. Man wasn't somehow transplanted by aliens to this world. Man is the pinnacle of evolution and God's design for the orb we inhabit. We have the obligation to steward our resources and to strike a balance between the needs of the smelt and other wildlife with the needs of the farmers, merchants and residents of this state. because of misguided environmental Flushing water out to see during years extremism and general anti-development of surplus is just stupid. The same can be said for refusals to upgrade and expand storage and reclamation facilities. Cutting famers back to 20% of their legal allotments while providing environmental zones 100% of theirs during lean years is prejudicial and selfdestructive. California has one of the largest agriculture sectors in the nation, and ranks pretty well internationally. If we destroy that industry, California's budgetary and economic problems will only intensify. Outlawing private car washes and tasking police with enforcement reduces the resources available to deter more serious crimes and weakens respect for laws in general.

> the task of acting like serious adults. We can't hold those in Sacramento responsible for the lack of rain this year, but we can hold them responsible for making a bad situation even worse. The political malpractice that passes for statecraft in Sacramento is turning a green and prosperous state into a brown and impoverished wasteland.

WHAT'S ON 98

February 3 - February 9, 2014

The Stork Club is playing Saturday night at 9 p.m. The Stork Club was released December 28, 1945: A wealthy old man is saved from drowning by a hat-check girl, and in appreciation he gives her a fortune . . . but when her boyfriend finds out, he thinks she is a 'kept woman'.

Don't ya just love those old movies that have a young fellow that's in love with a young girl . . . but innocent circumstances makes one of them believe that the other one is a skunk, and everything gets so messed up that it looks like they will never, ever, ever get together? But then somehow, some way, it all gets straightened out and everyone lives happily ever after? Well, this is one of the best, with all of the stars that you know and love.

Barry Fitzgerald, with his huggable face and scottish accent is a wealthy old gentleman that is mourning the loss of his wife. They got into a fight, and when she threatened to walk out on him, he told her to go ahead, he didn't care. So off she went, leaving wealthy 'JB' alone with all his money. So one day he is walking by the water and his hat blows off and rolls towards the water, and as he chased his hat, he fell in, and is drowning. Laying in the sun nearby is beautiful blonde Betty Hutton, playing Judy Peabody. She rushes into the water and saves J.B., and he is very grateful, and asks what her name is and where she works. She thinks he is just a poor old guy, and tells him her name and that she is a hat-check girl at the Stork Club. When J.B. get back to his mansion, he calls for his lawyer, and decides to make Judy a wealthy girl in gratitude for saving his life. And he orders his lawyer to keep his name anonymous - she must never know who gave her all the money. So when the letter is being delivered to Judy, J.B. wants to be there and watch, so he puts on old raggedy clothes and visits her. When Judy gets the letter, she isn't sure it is for real, so she takes her new friend the bum she saved from drowning, and her coat-check partner to the biggest New York City department store where the note says she has an unlimited account. When she discovers that her buying power is indeed unlimited, she buys fur coats, fancy dresses, and anything else she can find. She also discovers that she has been given a luxury apartment suite with many bedrooms, and invites the bum (J.B., her wealthy benefactor) to stay with her in the apartment until she can find him a job.

Now all is well and good, but this is 1945, and WWII is over, and Judy's boyfriend Danny (Don DeFore) is coming home to claim his girl. When he discovers her abundance of wealth, he is certain that she has become a 'kept woman,' but he doesn't know who the man is. Judy thinks that it may be the owner of the Stork Club, who was kind to Judy when she was late for work, but she isn't sure. And every time Danny enters the room where Judy is, she is always innocently with either J.B. or the Stork Club owner, and it looks like more than friendship, so Danny is mad and about to break up with Judy. And J.B. is still mourning the love of his life, his wife of many years that walked out on him, he believes for another man. So we have two couples that are unhappy in love, and it looks like neither of them will find the happiness that they seek.

Grab your bowl of popcorn, get into a comfy chair and enjoy one wonderful romantic comedy with lots of style, big band boogie woogie, the unique megaphone singing voice of Betty Hutton, and a comedy of catastrophes that will keep you engaged right to the happy ending.
