UNTHINKABLE TRAGEDY IN BAILEY CANYON PARK

By Susan Henderson

On Sunday, April 27th, visitors to Bailey Canyon Park, the hiking trails and neighbors in close proximity were startled by the sound of a gun-shot shortly before 1 p.m. The normally tranquil park was suddenly marred with the apparent suicide of a local resident in plain sight of several witnesses. The cause of this man's anguish is not known at press time, and under normal circumstances, this newspaper does not report on suicides out of respect for the remaining family members. However, due to the fact that this tragedy took place in a very public place, as many details as can be respectfully reported on are contained herein.

The identify of the victim is known, but also will not be disclosed out of respect for the family.

On the same day as the event, SMPD Chief Larry Giannone issued the following statement:

"The Sierra Police Department is currently assisting with an investigation into the death of a 53 yr. old male at Bailey Canyon Park. Officers were dispatched to the area after several people reported a gunshot victim at the location.

Upon the officers arrival at the scene they found the victim in the picnic area being treated by a doctor who was in the area. Paramedics arrived on scene and pronounced the victim dead.

A weapon was recovered at the scene and at this time it is being investigated as a suicide."

Police Chief Giannone also said "this was an unfortunate tragedy for our community. The park was filled with visitors and hikers, several who witnessed this tragic incident".

The Los Angeles County Coroner's Office responded to the scene and took over the investigation. The victim's identity is being withheld pending notification to next of kin."

SIERRA MADRE RESIDENT - HOLOCAUST SURVIVOR HONORED AT CAPITOL CEREMONY

Sacramento - Earlier this week, Assemblymember Chris Holden (D-Pasadena) today honored Holocaust survivor Helen Rotenberg Lewin of Sierra Madre at a ceremony at the State Capitol. For the past ten years, the California State Assembly has honored survivors and their families during California Holocaust Remembrance Week.

"I am honored to be able to share Helen Rotenberg Lewin's story – a story of triumph over unspeakable evil," said Assemblymember Holden. "Helen lived through extreme privation and horrific experiences that are often neglected in history. We are here today Lewin by saying, 'We will never forget'.

Sierra Madre resident Helen Rotenberg Lewin was Her son, Judge Fred Rotenberg of La Cañada accomforced into hiding in a forest outside of Krasnik, Poland with a band of Jewish partisans to escape certain death at the hands of the Nazis who had ordered all Jews into camps. She and her family had little food or water, and lived in makeshift underground shelters always fearful of betrayal, capture and death. Her parents and six other brothers and sisters were killed during the war; she and three other brothers survived extermination by the Nazis.

At wars end, she and her surviving brothers made their way to the American zone in Berlin. Three years later she and her husband Harry Rotenberg, moved to Northern California where they purchased a chicken ranch and then, later a confectionary store. Several years following Harry's passing in 1988, Helen met Martin Lewin, remarried and eventually relocated to raise awareness of these events and honor Helen to Sierra Madre to be near her son, Fred Rotenberg, daughter-in-law Lori and their three children.

> panied his mother to the ceremony and was honored by Assemblymember Gatto. Her other son, Dr. Keith Rotenberg lives in New Jersey

THANK YOU SIERRA MADRE COMMUNITY FOR A MOST SUCCESSFUL BOOK DRIVE

Rotary of Sierra Madre and Alverno High School combined efforts collect books from Sierra Madre Residence was a huge success.

Ann Gillick of Rotary who is Chair of Literacy created this combined effort with Alverno High School for continuance in Literacy.

Ann made quite a difference by the way she structured the program. She chose to have all the Sierra Madre community involved. One of her students took on a preschool project.

Thousands of books were donated, then separated by categories.

Here is Rotarian Janice

Kramer, (above) sorting. The distributions have begun and Rotary thanks everyone who contributed and went the step beyond by asking friends to get involved. Thank You Sierra Madre.. We love you.

GRAYWATER REUSE – A SOURCE OF WATER

Sierra Madre's primary water source is in decline and residents are required to conserve water. California is facing one of the most severe droughts on record. Reusing graywater is a way to conserve our water supply, save money, reduce your reliance on potable water for outdoor irrigation, and reduces flows to our wastewater system.

What is Graywater?

SOUGHT

Graywater is untreated household wastewater generated from hand washing, laundry and bathing. This wastewater can be diverted from the sewer to irrigate outdoor plants and landscape. Graywater does not include any water from toilets, kitchen sinks, dishwashers or washing machines laundering soiled diapers.

How Graywater Systems Work:

A graywater system is a type of plumbing system which directly reuses wastewater to irrigate your plants. Do not use any detergents or bleaches in your sink, bath and laundry that may ultimately be harmful to your plants. To further ensure safety, graywater cannot be used on the edible portions of vegetables and must be used for sub-surface irrigation in order to reduce human contact or ponding. You cannot store graywater, only divert the amount needed to water your garden. All systems must be installed and maintained according to Chapter 16A of the California Plumbing Code.

Types of Graywater Systems:

There are three types of graywater systems that can be installed in your home that vary in complexity, volume of water produced and permitting requirements. In order to determine which system is right for you, you need to know your irrigation needs, including yard size, soil type, groundwater level and budget. The easiest, most low-tech system uses a washing machine and gravity to move laundry water directly out to the garden - these "laundry-tolandscape" systems do not require a permit as long as no pump or surge tank is used and as long as all code requirements are met. For simple and complex systems which involve altering plumbing, including use of surge tanks and pumps, a permit is required.

For graywater systems which require a permit, the City of Sierra Madre has authorized a 30% reduction of the permit fee to help offset costs and to promote water conservation practices. If you or your qualified professional have any questions on the installation of a graywater system in your home, contact the Development Services Department at (626) 355-7138.

Avoid exercising pets during peak hours. Exercise them early morning or later in the evening.

A dog's paw pads can burn easily when walking on asphalt, artificial grass, cement or other similar surfaces. Walk them later in the evening or early in the morning when it is cool.

Apply sunscreen on your dog's nose, ears and belly to prevent sunburn. Ask your veterinarian what brand you should use.

For rabbit owners: Place a two-liter frozen bottle of water in your rabbit's hutch. This acts as a natural air conditioner.

For cat owners: Place your cat in a sink or bathtub with a few ice cubes to play with. This way your cat can have fun and stay cool at the same time!

For dog owners: Fill a wading pool with shallow water and let your dog's play around in it. Make sure to supervise your dogs while they play.

Do not leave your pet in the car. If you see an animal left in a car in hot weather, you can report it to the Pasadena Humane Society & SPCA. Call 626.792.7151 and ask to speak with Field Services.

Pets exhibiting signs of heat exhaustion (e.g., excessive panting, heavily salivating and/or immobile) should be taken immediately to a veterinarian for assessment.

Additional information including safety may be found at: pasadenahumane.org or by calling 626.792.7151.

Pasadena City College officials flip-flopped Wednesday night voting unanimously to re-invite Oscar-winning actor Dustin Lance Black to deliver the address at the college commencement on Friday after Pasadena Public Health Director Dr. Eric Walsh pulled out due to an unforeseen scheduling conflict.

"Commencement is about celebrating the graduation of our students and the importance of higher education. Mr. Black's participation would be an opportunity for further education and a healing act of community."

No other information about Walsh's decision not to speak was given although reports suggest it may have been due to unflattering comments that surfaced earlier this week online. Ironically, Wash was selected as commencement speaker

According to allgov.com, Walsh has publicly denounced Walt Disney Studios saying Disney is full of witchcraft and superstition. Saturday, went to the stations. Duarte Library for its monthly "Coffee and Conversation with the Mayor. (Fourth Saturday each month, 10:00a.m.-11a.m.in the Community Room). I had no idea what to expect and boy was I pleasantly surprised!

When Mayor Liz Reilly came in, I asked her about attendance and she said about twelve have come each month, and it's always a different

(Donated by "Sweet Nothings"- Owner Isabel Torres is a local-raised in Duarte)

Mayor Reilly began by telling us that an air quality monitoring station, installed adjacent to Valley View School to keep tabs on any unhealthful PM10 particulate matter emanating from Vulcan Materials mining activity above Duarte, is up and running. There is a dedicated web page on the City's website where Duarte residents can monitor the quality of air they are breathing via real time data of hourly and 24hour averages of PM10. Data from the monitoring station streams live to the SCAQMD (South Coast Air Quality Management District) where it is analyzed for quality control, then sent to the City of Duarte and made available for the public on the City's www.accessduarte.com website.

The mayor and a four-year resident of Duarte, Cierina discussed the dust and the effects on people with asthma. Another attendee, Angelica, grew up in Duarte and also expressed concerns over the mining.

Mayor Reilly gave an update on Gold Line Construction and all present felt the work done so far (train tracks and repaving on Myrtle and California Avenues and left turn signals on California Avenue and Duarte Road) was Mayor" will be MAY 24th See you there!

This past excellent. Mrs. Reilly also shared pictures of art I work and tiles to be used at the various train

There also was discussion about "Massage Parlors" and how to keep them at a minimum. Could the Duarte City Council issue a moratorium on the number of operating massage parlors? Mrs. Reilly explained that massage Parlors are considered "health facilities". If an area has a medical clinic, than it must have a massage parlor too!

Jacqueline from the Duarte County area mentioned "confusion." If she called for help, she was told she lived in "Monrovia County." The Mayor explained that if you live in an incorporated area, you pay city taxes and have city services. Unfortunately many years ago, to distinguish between Duarte "City" and "County" areas, Temple Station personnel dubbed Arcadia, Monrovia and Duarte County areas, "Monrovia County". It is VERY UNFAIR and CONFUSING There was Starbucks coffee and special treats to Duarte county residents whose children attend Duarte schools. To this day, I cannot comprehend that a person can't say, "It's Duarte City- send one of the patrol cars contracted to the City", or "It's Duarte County area-send

County Patrol Car #57."

Brian, a resident who works at City of Hope asked about the "C" rating. Mrs. Reilly explained that the City's rating had gone up from "F" to 'C". There must be "NO SMOKING WITHIN 30 FEET of a GREEN AREA" to get an "A" of "B" rating. The City Council needs more discussion and research in this area.

The last issue was a house on Mountain Avenue that has been vacant for three years due to a fire and still is in disrepair. Unfortunately, the owners have filed bankruptcy and it's in the hands of the bank.

MONROVIA ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT UPDATE

MONROVIA, CA – The City of Monrovia is seeing economic development efforts pay off with new businesses coming in and development opportunities on the way.

The longtime vacant blockbuster site near the corner of Foothill Blvd and Myrtle Avenue is undergoing tenant improvements for a new business: Massage Envy. Massage Envy seeks to bring affordable, professional spa services to communities. Currently the site is under construction and is slated to open for business this summer.

- Williams Homes has put in 18 new townhomes at the corner of Olive and Ivy Avenues in Old Town. At this time, almost all units have been sold.
- Izakaya Uppo, a Japanese restaurant that will allow you to sit on the floor and taste traditional Japaense cuisine, opened last week in the 600 block of Myrtle Avenue. This block now features an international dining experience with Chang's Thai Bistro, Rudy's Mexican Restaurant, Jakes BBQ, Izakaya Uppo, and coming soon, Copper Still Grill (serving an updated take on traditional bar and grill classics, will be located at the site of the former Sam's Kabob Room).
- Along Huntington Drive, a Del Taco opened in mid-April on a site that has been vacant for many years- signs that private development and industry are picking up. And the Fast5Xpress Car Wash is expected to open in early May on the same site.
- Panera Bread, Chipotle, Smashburger and Menchie's Yogurt have opened up on the west side of Huntington Drive, bringing more customers to the Huntington Oaks Shopping Center.
- Blaze Pizza is scheduled to open in May 2014 at the Foothill Park Plaza in Old Town Monrovia. Flamzz Pizza on East Colorado Boulevard is already open.
- La Marca Cigars, a specialty cigar shop and lounge, has opened in the 500 block of Myrtle Avenue.
- And American West Bank has opened a new branch at 404 E Huntington Drive.

Since January 1, 49 new businesses have opened up in Monrovia. Building permits are going up, having increased 55% from 2012 to 2013, and Monrovia is seeing a steady stream of applicants at the Building and Planning Counter.

Moving forward, the City's Economic Development team has their eyes set on Station Square Transit Village and the City's former redevelopment properties as opportunity to round out the City's already diverse sales tax base.

Developer Samuelson and Fetter have already submitted renderings of their new 261 unit, multifamily development. And currently the Chevron Station at the corner of Myrtle and Pomona Avenues is for sale in the area, prompting major developers to inquire about other large potential developments.

The City of Monrovia will be hosting a Brokers' Reception on April 30, 2014, 5:30pm at Café Mundial in Old Town Monrovia to discuss further economic development efforts. To find out more about the event, please call (626) 303-6601.

THE REEL DEAL: by Ben Show TRANSCENDA\ENCE

The trailers for this movie had me very intrigued. Johnny Depp's role seemed, and was, very out of his comfort zone. Instead of a quirky, over-the-top fantasy character, Depp's role was very realistic, and that was one of this movie's secret weapons. Dr. Will Caster

(Johnny Depp) and his wife Evelyn (Rebecca Hall) are two scientists on top of their game. Both are making big strides in their perspective fields, however, all of this is stopped when the terrorist group Rift shoots Will. With his body poisoned by radiation, Evelyn and their friend Max (Paul Bettany) find a way to move his consciousness into a mini supercomputer. What their experiments creates is something the world is not ready for: the fusion of humans and technology.

'Transcendence' has a slow beginning but, when it starts up and gets going, it is an unstoppable, brilliant roller coaster ride. The most frightening part of this movie, which comes from a combination of the ingenious plot and Depp's amazing performance, is how realistic it is. 'Transcendence' is not big on action, but that does not mean it is not a good movie. It is a thinking man's sci-fi film.

CINCO DE MAYO CELEBRATION REVIEW

Just this past week I had the opportunity to sit down with one of the most determined and dedicated restaurant owners that we have in Pasadena area, Blair Salisbury owner of the El Cholo Café. Though, his restaurant is well known, Blair still looks after his baby with the greatest of care.

his restaurant is well known, Blair still looks after his baby with the greatest of care.

Self described as "nuts and crazy," Blair's lineage is that of a restaurateur. The Borquez family launched the Sonora Cafe in 1923 in a small storefront on Broadway and Santa Barbara Ave. After a patron doodled a picture of a man and called him El Cholo (the name commonly known for a field hand at the time), Alejandro Borquez loved the picture of the man so much that he changed the name of Senora Café to El Cholo in 1925. The following year,

George Salisbury meets Aurelia Borquez and they fall in love and decide to open their own El Cholo. Racing ahead to the year 2000, Blair, the grandson of George opens El Cholo Cafe in Pasadena, on Fair Oaks. For those of you old enough to remember, it was once the John Bull English Pub. I found out that Blair was determined to open in Pasadena, he was a moment away from Old Town Pasadena, but the Cheesecake Factory beat him to Colorado and Fair Oaks location.

Blair still desired to move into the heart of Old Town and his hopes were realized with the opening of the restaurant at the Paseo. Blair said, "It feels as though it has been here all along. It just felt like the staff and surroundings didn't miss a beat." Truly Pasadena feels like home to El Cholo Café, and Blair wouldn't have it any other way!!!

The restaurant is expansive, with a patio that overlooks Colorado Blvd. and the snow capped San Gabriel Mountains. They offer two different bars, one as you walk in, akin to a service bar, and a great place to wait for a table and enjoy a "Killer" Margarita, and a back bar just next to the Patio.

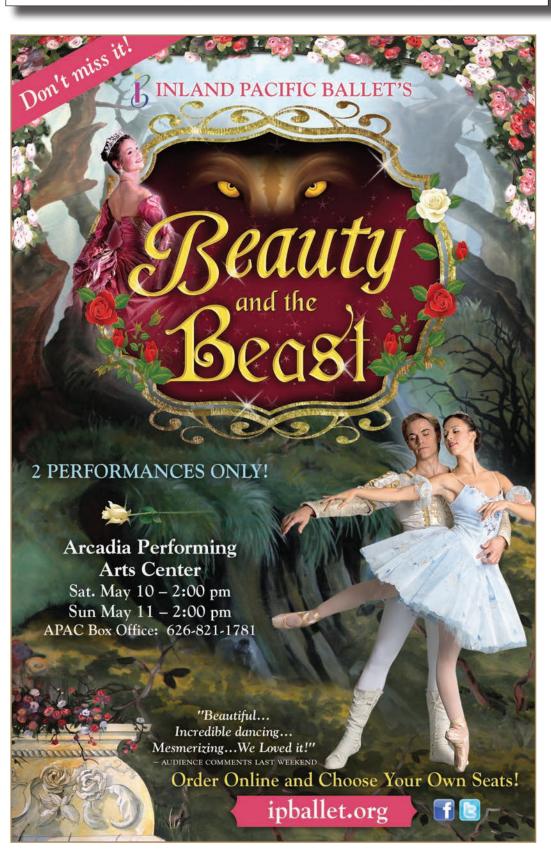

Offering large screen TV's and perfect for slumbering and enjoying the show as they make your Guacamole tableside.

The menu is full of different combinations, Blair believes that the more selections there are.... the better, and he tries to give a little bit of selection for everyone. I descended upon the PLATO DE CARNITAS, roasted pork, served with fresh avocado relish, Pico de Gallo, Nopales, rice and beans ($13.95). When I go to a Mexican Restaurant I always try the pork. It was stunningly tender and fresh, and may be the best that I have ever tasted. My dinner companion gave two thumbs up to the Shrimp Sizzling Fajitas ($16.95). I was just about stuffed when Blair brought out the Blue Corn Chicken Enchilada for us to try. It is item that made El Cholo famous. A must try for anyone eating at the restaurant. Of course I had a Margarita. A Single Margarita that seemed to have the power to bust a piñata. If you love Mexican Food like I do, or just want to spend a sleepy Sunday at the bar with guacamole and chips. Save a seat for me. El Cholo Paseo Pasadena

The Sierra Madre Chamber of Commerce wants you to: Save your local economy... three stores at a time. the 3/50 project. SAVING THE BRICK AND MORTARS OUR NATION IS BUILT ON Think about which three independently owned businesses you'd miss most if they were gone. Stop in and say hello. Pick up a little something that will make someone smile. Your contribution is what keeps those businesses around. If just half the employed U.S. population spent $50 each month in independently owned businesses, their purchases would generate more than $42.6 billion in revenue.* Imagine the positive impact if 3/4 of the employed population did that. For every $100 spent in independently owned stores, $68 returns to the community through taxes, payroll, and other expenditures. If you spend that in a national chain, only $43 stays here. Spend it online and nothing comes home. The number of people it takes to start the trend...you. Pick 3. Spend 50. Save your local economy.

HEALTHY LIFESTYLES

THE JOY OF YOGA THE MIND IS A MONKEY

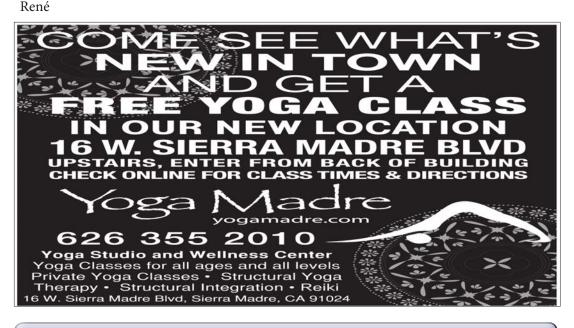

They call it "Monkey Mind". It is when you are trying to meditate and your mind keeps jumping from one thought to the next. You may even be listening to someone telling a story and your mind is flitting all over and you realize that you didn't even catch part of it. Your mind could be jumping ahead to the next thing you want to say or the next thing you need to do or the next meal you want to eat. The mind can be sharp sometimes or dull sometimes. It can be fast or sluggy. But staying focused and present is very hard.

The great sage Patanjali defined yoga in the second sutra. He said that yoga is "...complete mastery over the roaming tendencies of the mind." (Yoga chitta vritti nirodhah, translated by Pandit Rajmani Tigunait). Because until we can stop all the things that we are thinking, we cannot hear our true inner voice. We cannot hear all our subconscious thoughts. We will still be governed by our senses. We use the senses to protect us, but they are not needed much when meditating. In meditation we want to bring subconscious thought forward to consciousness. Only then can we take a look at that thought, resolve and move on from it. Otherwise, it will jump back in every once in awhile.

You already know that I am going to tell you that the physical practice of yoga can help ease the "Monkey Mind". How? Physical stability helps to stabilize this monkey. The physical movement done in such a way that it changes your prana, allows your mind to be a little quieter. This is why we are hooked. I just love the peace that my practice can bring me. I hope you find that inner peace too.

See you in class.

superior mental health... eat up!

Frequent consumption of vegetables appears to cut one's odds of depression significantly. A recent review in a nutritional journal suggests that eating lots of fruits and vegetables "may present a noninvasive natural and inexpensive therapeutic means to support a healthy brain."

To understand this research, we need to understand the underlying biology of depression. It is thought that depression may arise out of a chemical imbalance in the brain. In order for the billions of nerves in our brain to communicate with each other they need chemical signals called neurotransmitters. Nerve cells do not touch, there is a gap between them. When one nerve wants to communicate with another nerve they release a neurotransmitter into the gap. As soon as the first nerve has got its message across the gap it sucks the neurotransmitter back up to use again some other time. The nerves also produce substances that digest the neurotransmitters so just the correct amount is kept. If the levels of our neurotransmitter digesting substances is elevated, then our levels of neurotransmitters drops, and we become depressed.

So why then would fruits and vegetables improve our mood? They contain substances that can be inhibitors of depression. Spices, such as clove, oregano, cinnamon, and nutmeg, can also inhibit the substance that digest neurotransmitters, but people don't eat enough to have an effect by themselves. There are special nutrients found in apples, berries, grapes, kale, onions, and green tea that may indeed affect our brain biology enough to improve our mood. It has been shown that those with superior mental health eat a lot of fruits and vegetables. And who doesn't want

TRAVEL DISCOUNTS AVAILABLE TO OLDER TRAVELERS

Dear Savvy Senior:

What types of senior discounts are available to older travelers? My husband and I are approaching retirement and love to travel, but love to save money too. Almost Retired

Dear Almost:

There is actually wide variety of travel discounts available to older travelers - usually starting at either age 50, 55, 60, 62 or 65.

But, you first need to be aware that when it comes to senior travel bargains, the "senior discount" may not always be the best deal. Hotels, airlines and cruise lines, for example, offer advanced bookings along with special deals and promotions from time to time that may be a lower rate than what the senior discount is. Always ask about the lowest possible rate and the best deal available.

With that said, here's a breakdown of some different senior travel discounts that are available today. Club memberships: If you're a member of AARP, there are dozens of travel discounts available on hotels, rental cars, cruises and vacation packages. To find them, see discounts.aarp.org/travel or call 800-675-4318. Annual AARP membership fees are $16 or less if you join for multiple years.

If you don't like AARP, there are alternative organizations you can join like the Seniors Coalition or the American Seniors Association that offer discounts on hotels and rental cars.

Airlines: Southwest Airlines has the best senior fare program in the U.S., offering discounts to passengers 65 and older. American, United and Delta offer some senior fares too but they are extremely Trains: Amtrak provides a 15 percent discount to travelers 62 and older, and a 10 percent discount to passengers over age 60 on cross-border services operated jointly by Amtrak and VIA Rail Canada.

Bus travel: Greyhound offers a 5 percent discount on unrestricted fares to seniors over 62. Peter Pan, which serves the Northeast region of the U.S., offers the same deal. Trailways, a privately owned bus company also provides senior discounts but they vary by location. And, most local bus lines and public transportation offer discounted senior passes.

Car rentals: Most car rental companies offer 5 to 25 percent discounts to customers who belong to 50-and-older organizations like AARP. Discounts are also available to AAA members. To shop around for the best rental car deals use travel aggregator sites like orbitz.com or kayak.com.

Hotels: Most hotels in the U.S. offer senior discounts ranging between 10 and 30 percent off. Age eligibility will vary by hotel. Hyatt offers one of the biggest discounts, up to 50 percent off, to guest 62 and older.

Cruises: Most cruise lines offer special deals to AARP members. But, if you're not a member, discounts on some cruise lines (like Carnival, Norwegian and Royal Caribbean) are also available to passengers 55 and older. The best way to find these is to contact a travel agent, or check with the cruise line your interested in.

Restaurants: Senior discounts are fairly common at mom-and-pop and family-style restaurants, as well as fast food establishments. The discounts will range from free coffee, to drinks, to discounts off your total order. Chains known for their senior discounts or specials include Burger King, Chick-fil-A, Church's Chicken, Dairy Queen, Dunkin Donuts, IHOP, Subway and Wendy's.

Entertainment: Most movie theaters, plays, ballets, symphonies, museums, zoos, aquariums, golf courses and even ski slopes provide reduced admission to seniors over 60 or 65. If you're over 62, you're also eligible for the popular "America The Beautiful Senior Pass," which provides a lifetime entry to 2,000 national parks and recreation sites. You can obtain this pass in person at one of the federal recreation sites for $10, or through the mail (see store.usgs.gov/pass/senior.html) for $20.

To look for other travel discounts see seniordiscounts.com, a great website that lets you search by location and category for free.

Send your senior questions to: Savvy Senior, P.O. Box 5443, Norman, OK 73070, or visit Savvy Senior.org. Jim Miller is a contributor to the NBC Today show and author of "The Savvy Senior" book.

KATIE TseThis and That COUNT DOWN!

"It's the most wonderful time of the year!" That song is typically played at Christmas, but if you have school-age children or know people who work at elementary schools, you've probably heard them humming it lately. I have several friends and relatives in education, but I draw most of my information from my mom's 30 plus years of teaching third grade in a public school.

Some years, the count down to the last day began the first week of school! My mom's district printed the calendar of the entire school year on a single sheet of paper, with each week represented by a small box containing five dots. Holidays or "student free days" (a.k.a. professional development) were represented by a minus or pound sign. My mom highlighted all the non-dot days, and every Friday she'd shear another week off the page. My grandma used to tell her that she was clipping her life away. But, as my mom put it, "The time's going to pass either way. Why not celebrate it?"

That's how a lot of people in education see the countdown to summer. I've heard of many creative ways teachers make the arrival of the last day more exciting. Nearly every school has a white board in the lounge, and the office staff start numbering the remaining days starting from 20 if it's been a decent year, and maybe 30 if the year's been rough. Some people write the numbers on squares of toilet paper and rip one off each day.

and popping them with darts. I like that idea, but with the heightened security at schools, I somehow doubt that darts are allowed on campus.

With all the excitement surrounding summer, we can forget those people who start counting the days until school starts again --parents! One of my favorite television ads was for Staples and first aired in the 90's. The ad came out around September, and featured an exuberant father sailing down the aisle at Staples on a shopping cart with two sullen school-aged children in tow. They scowled at him as he flung notebooks, pencils, and other school supplies into the cart. People in education can identify with the children, facing the year ahead of them. But for the parents, it is "The Most Wonderful Time of the Year!"

FOOTHILL EXTENSION: Pasadena to Azusa Update

Work on the 11.5-mile Foothill Gold Line light rail project from Pasadena to Azusa continues on time and on budget. This month, crews are completing two more at-grade crossings (Myrtle Ave in Monrovia and San Gabriel Ave in Azusa); leaving only three of the 14 at-grade crossings to be completed. Work is now underway on all three - Magnolia Ave and Mountain Ave in Monrovia and Virginia Ave in Azusa. Mountain Ave will be closing for approximately eight months total (in phases), to allow crews to not only complete the grade crossing work, but also reconstruct the intersection of Mountain Ave and Duarte Rd to improve safety and visibility.

Construction has started on all six stations, and canopy structures are now installed at the three westernmost stations - Arcadia, Monrovia and Duarte. Nearly all of the project's two dozen bridge structures are now complete and light rail track is being installed west of Irwindale. The Overhead Catenary System poles are starting to be put in place, and miles of soundwalls and retaining walls are now installed. See the chart below for details about wall construction progress.

Recently, the California Public Utilities Commission (CPUC) approved the Construction Authority's request for noise mitigation for intersections near sensitive receptors (like homes, schools, hospitals, etc.) in the portion of the project that only has light rail. The CPUC approved installation of shrouds around the crossing bells to direct the noise down to the intersection, as well as the silencing of the bells once the gates are in the horizontal position, for the following at-grade crossings: Mayflower Ave, Magnolia Ave, California Ave, Mountain Ave and Buena Vista St. These measures have worked well in cities along the current operational Gold Line. The Construction Authority has submitted a request to implement similar measures at crossings in the city of Azusa, where the light rail is within a shared corridor with BNSF Railway. A decision is forthcoming.

JANE FULLER: Musical Artist & Educational Crusader

By Christopher Nyerges

is a musical artist who's also on a crusade to increase America's educational level.

Fuller was interested in music from an early age, and began piano lesson at age 10. Eventually, she was given a guitar and she's played it ever since. She began by playing guitar at Mass, and eventually, began playing guitar for the

When she went to college, she was majoring in music, but one day her father asked her how she expected to make a living as a musician. Her father suggested that with a music degree, she might end up with a job washing dishes.

"Actually," says Jane with a smile, "if I did get that music degree, there would have been jobs out there, teaching, etc. But I knew my dad was very concerned about my welfare and security, and I changed my major to creative writing. My dad approved, telling me that you could get more jobs with a writing degree. And as much as I hate to admit my dad was right, I did get more job offers from my writing background."

Twenty-some years ago, Fuller began teaching grammar school, and she still teaches. She loves teaching with the grammar school students, and it has inspired her songs and her upcoming book.

Sierra Madre resident Jane Fuller that her favorite song on the CD is "It's Because of You." "This one was inspired by a boy who I taught Kindergarten through second grade, and he struggled terribly with reading, and wasn't getting support at home. Then, one day in second grade he started decoding letters and I could see that he had a breakthrough. He got excited and said 'I'm reading, huh, teacher?' And I said, yeah you are, and he got very quiet and his eyes glowed and he said 'its because of you.' That incident inspired that song.

> Fuller explains that when she writes, the music usually comes first and then the words come to her. She often has a theme, and she thinks of each song in a CD as the chapters to a book.

> Fuller thinks of her latest, "Someone to Listen," as a book with each song being a chapter.

> Fuller's ongoing project, to be finished soon, is a book tentatively titled "Someone to Listen." She thinks that the subtitle will be 'Things you can do to improve education that don't cost a cent."

> The book will cater to teachers, parents, and anyone learning something new.

"When people say to spend more money on education, I think that the real solution to our educational problems is not spending more money, but to re-discover what Fuller's most recent CD is called teaching is all about. Of course "Someone to Listen." She explains the individual has to want to learn, but the teacher can be very inspirational in the goal," says Fuller, who wants to pass along in her book many of the solutions for meaningful learning. Part of the solution involves teamwork (with parents, and the community), and re-discovering the library. She points out that we have so many resources available to us today that we all should be learning new useful things all the time.

The teachers and parents need to get the student to see that it really feels good to master a skill and to learn," says the educational crusader Jane Fuller.

You can learn about Jane Fuller's musical appearances at www. janefuller.com. If you're interested in her CDs, she suggests you go to CDBaby.com to get a download or hardcopy of her CDs.

TEMPLE CITY SHERIFF'S STATION CRIME TRENDS

The Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department's Temple Station is proud to provide premier law enforcement services to the following cities and communities: Bradbury, Duarte, Rosemead, South El Monte and Temple City; and the unincorporated areas of South San Gabriel, El Monte, Monrovia, Arcadia, Duarte, East Pasadena, and North San Gabriel. Statistics for the month of March have been plotted by our crime analyst, which provides an overview of reported crimes. Based on the statistics, please take the time to evaluate your personal, home and business security plans.

Residential, commercial and vehicle burglary rates continue to rise within our jurisdiction. Tips and information provided each month are provided to help keep you and your property safe. It can only be truly effective when you use the information at home and within your businesses. Currently, crime trends show an influx of thefts involving automotive batteries, wood pallets and auto burglaries. Temple Station actively researches and employs available technology to help the patrol deputies in the field, but we need you to join in and do your part to minimize your vulnerability of becoming a victim. Besides being alert and observant of activities in your neighborhoods and business districts, communicate. Talk to your neighbors. Attend neighborhood watch meetings and other community forums. Accurate and timely information is vital to identifying and apprehending criminals. Write down serial numbers and/or take pictures of valuable property. Keep documents, which are included with computers and other big ticket items which have model and serial numbers. It is important when criminals are found in possession of property that might be stolen for us to quickly and accurately identify the rightful owners. The trend of stealing automotive type batteries is on the r Etch your initials or other symbol unique to you on the battery case. It is not recommended to place numbers on your property such as social security numbers because they could be used in identity

With the cost of energy rising, many of us are inclined to open windows rather than use air conditioners and coolers during warmer temperatures. Please do not forget to lock them when you leave. If you intend to leave them open while sleeping, consider attaching a bell or something that will alert you if someone tampers or tries to make entry. Again, retail tool outlets and home improvement centers offer battery powered devices, which attach quite easily to doors and windows and emit a loud shrill when activated. Contact and impact activated devices are available at a reasonable cost. As with any alarm system it offers no guaranty, but the loud noise could be enough to ward off an intruder. ASTRONOMERS OBSERVE CORKSCREW NATURE OF LIGHT FROM DISTANT BLACK HOLE

For the first time an international team of astronomers has measured circular polarization in the bright flash of light from a dying star collapsing to a black hole, giving insight into an event that happened almost 11 billion years ago.

Dr. Peter Curran from the Curtin University node of the International Centre for Radio Astronomy Research (ICRAR) was part of the team that observed gammaray burst 121024A—a bright flash of light emitted by a dying star collapsing to a black hole—and found a surprising detail in the light they collected. The research was published May 1 in the journal Nature.

"Gamma-ray bursts are so powerful that we can see them clearly at extraordinary distances," Dr. Curran said. "But this one was an unusual case, its light had a strange feature—it was circularly polarized."

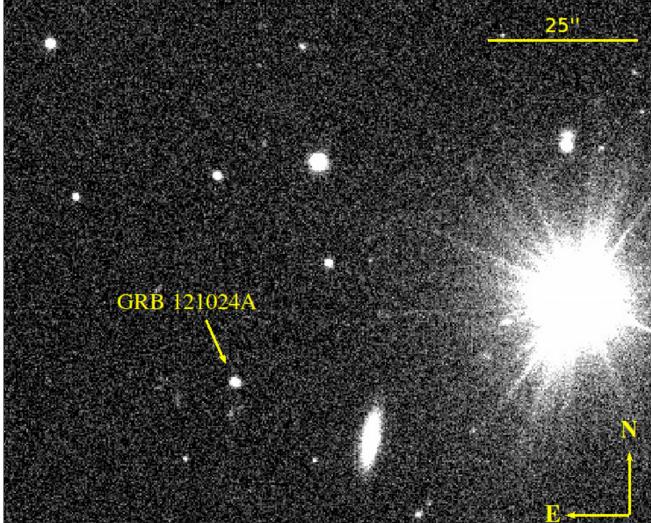

If light is polarized it means the waves are moving in a uniform way as they travel—either bouncing up and down or left and right for linear polarization, or in the case of circular polarization, corkscrewing around in a spiral motion.Dr. Curran said 3D movies make use of circular polarization by feeding a different image to each eye through special glasses, giving the illusion of depth while watching a film.

"Most light in the natural world is unpolarized, the waves are bouncing around at random," he said. "But the light from this gamma-ray burst looked like it was part of a 3D movie—it was about 1,000 times more polarized than we expected. "This means that the assumptions we've been making about gamma-ray bursts need to be completely reconsidered—assumptions of how electrons are accelerated to the incredible speeds we observe. Our results show that gamma-ray bursts are far more complex than we thought," he added.

Gamma-ray bursts are the brightest objects in the entire universe, only lasting a fraction of a second, but sending out as much energy in that time as the Sun will in its entire life. These bursts are emitted by dying stars collapsing to black holes that form jets of material traveling at over 99.995 percent of the speed of light. "These extreme objects are like super-powered versions of the world's largest and most powerful particle accelerator, the Large Hadron Collider, except very far away in space," Dr. Curran said.

"We can use them to study microscopic electrons and how they behave in extreme environments, at a great distance—in this case, 18,500 million light-years away, at a time when the universe was just a fraction of its current age. "This is the first time we've found circular polarization in the light from a gamma-ray burst, but we think we'll find it in more bursts in the future, so we can start to pin down what's actually happening when these bright flashes of energy are released."

LIFE'S TRUE TREASURES: BREAKING THE ICE TO GIVE ANIMALS A BREAK IN LIFE

Nothing makes me happier than to hear stories about people who go out of their way to assist animals in need, and with the mind-boggling number of shelter pets being euthanized in our country every day, I can't think of a better way to help than to do what one can to save the lives of those animals waiting for their deadline on death row.

To me it is especially heart-warming when celebrities use their fame and fortune to help benefit programs that can prevent shelter animals from meeting their ultimate doom behind bars. Indeed, actors, artists and athletes who take the time out of their busy lives to share their celebrity power and resources in order to benefit rescued animals are among my favorite humans. It would be so easy to ignore the need, and no one would judge them if they didn't pitch in, yet they do it because they are truly compassionate about the cause.

One man who chose to make a difference for the better on behalf of the animals is National Hockey League's St. Louis Blues captain, Dave Backes. Although I have to admit I am not a huge sports fan, hockey is one sport that I do enjoy watching. That might be because my dad played hockey when he was growing up in Massachusetts, and later when I was young, he took me to several UAH hockey games in Huntsville, AL. They were the standing college league champs at the time, so it was a very exciting experience for me to witness their repeated victories, season after season.

Dave Backes has used his sports celebrity status to help break the ice between would-be pet shoppers and shelter pets, by exposing the fact that, just because a dog or cat ends up in a shelter does not make it an undesirable pet. In fact, on the contrary most of the animals that are ultimately adopted from shelters turn out to be among the most grateful and loyal pets you could possibly hope to over!

A veteran of almost 500 NHL games, Backes has succeeded in taking rescue to the next level, by being a tireless supporter of animal rescue and by setting an example and sharing his own personal experience with adopting shelter pets himself. Backes got his first taste of animal rescue as a young boy when his family took in a small Poodle a neighbor no longer wanted. With that seed planted early in his life, Backes' interest in animal rescue truly took hold when he and his wife Kelly were students at Minnesota State University, Mankato. That's when he began volunteering at a local shelter.

When Backes and his wife moved to St. Louis, Mo., to be part of the Blues organization in 2007, they sought out ways to become involved in the community and found Five Acres Animal Shelter in St. Charles. During their time of involvement with the shelter, they worked on numerous projects, including a $1 million capital campaign to finance the construction of two new buildings. Recently, Kelly and David stepped away from their duties on the Five Acres' board to concentrate on the next step; the formation of their very own rescue organization!

Backes now hopes to share his and Kelly's good work in organizing an animal rescue, as a template for players in all four major sports to use in starting more rescue facilities in cities throughout the United States. What an awesome way to play it forward! A major part of that good work is educating the public on animal adoption, and networking with others who are equally compassionate about the

At the heart of Backes' goal to proliferate the idea of adoption, is his effort to convince people who are considering pet ownership that rescued animals actually make excellent pets. His desire is to prove through his own experience and that of millions of other Americans who have adopted rather than shopped, that shelter pets waiting for forever homes are equally worthy and valuable to any pet you might find by shopping from backyard breeders or puppy farms. Indeed, many adopted shelter animals have proven to have less health problems and even less behavioral issues than those bred and sold intentionally.

I hope David and Kelly Backes will continue their good work, and succeed in clearing the air and breaking the ice, to help more and more shelter animals find homes before it's too late. The idea that a pet is better because it was bred from a well-known sire, or because it has all the proper marks for it's breed is simply passe. It's time for all of us to re-think the concept of pet ownership. We humans have allowed far too much "accidental" breeding to occur by not spaying and euthanizing, and we have also exacerbated the problem through encouraging intentional breeding by shopping and not adopting.

Let's all get on board with David and Kelly Backes and use whatever resources we have to help educate others on the value of adopting rescued shelter pets. I myself am a witness to the fact that adopting versus shopping can be one of the most uplifting experiences in life. Knowing that I was able to save the lives of such grateful souls as my two girls, Tater and Molly brings me an immense amount of joy. I only wish I could save more. We all need to do our part to turn the table on mass euthanasia in our country. Simply put, it is a cruel and unusual practice.

Kudos to you, David and Kelly Backes, for using your celebrity powers for such an awesome cause. Keep up the good work, and thank you for having so much compassion for the animals!

LOOKING FOR A BEST FRIEND?

Dollar and Peso were surrendered to the shelter together from the same home because their owner could no longer care for them. They look like they are siblings, although Dollar is a little older than Peso. Dollar is about 9 years old, weighs a little over 9 pounds. Peso is 8 years old and weighs just under 8 pounds. They are Chihuahua boys, and are very similar in color and appearance. Even though they are considered "senior" dogs, they are very active and seem to be in good health.

We understand that these boys spent most of their time in the backyard, and were not used to being picked up and bandled. Wh

As volunteers and staff have spent more time with Dollar and Peso, they are becoming more relaxed with touching and petting, and even occasional time on the lap. We have found that Dollar enjoys having his back massaged, and Peso is becoming receptive to cuddling. We see progress each time they are taken for walks or social time, which is usually 2-3 times a week.

Both Dollar and Peso seem to get along well with the other dogs they have encountered at the shelter.

These good-looking boys have short hair and are easy to groom. They are bonded with each other and would love to go to their new forever homes together, but they can also be adopted separately. They would qualify for our "Senior for Senior" program with a reduced adoption rate for any senior that would be interested in taking them home. If they are adopted together, they would qualify for our Buddy Adoption rate.

They currently reside at the San Gabriel Valley Humane Society located at 851 E. Grand Avenue in San Gabriel. We are located off San Gabriel Blvd., north of Mission and south of Las Tunas.

To arrange a 'Meet and Greet' with these special boys (aka....10019 and 10020), please stop by any time from 10:00am to 4:30pm Tuesday thru Sunday.

The adoption fee for a small dog is 120 which includes neuter surgery, microchip, first vaccinations and a free wellness check-up at a participating veterinarian. Feel free to call us at (626) 286-1159 for more information on Dollar and Peso.

SEAN'S SHAMELESS REVIEWS:

By Sean Kayden

FEAR OF MEN

"Loom" marks the debut LP from Bridgton based band, Fear Of Men. The band was created in 2010 when Jessica Weiss and Daniel Falvey got together when meeting at an art exhibition. The duo expanded into a quartet shortly afterward to pursue this new endeavor. Fear of Men is a pristine pop outfit that specializes in jangly guitar pop, but with lyrics that are dour. The cool thing about this band is they create everything—from artwork, to produce their own music and direct their own music videos. Weiss' vocals are heavenly, delicate as a bouquet of flowers. The juxtaposition on "Loom" is the gorgeous vocals paired with despairing lyrics. Fear Of Men's first full length is full of lush, dreamlike melodies that are extraordinarily difficult to overlook. The stark beauty along with the ocean serene echo found here will have you leaving from a daze back into reality.

Fear Of Men Kanine Records April 22, 2014

Theirs is something truly refreshing about "Loom." Perhaps the thought-provoking lyrics that generate a complexity rarely heard in jangly pop music. Track-by-track everything seems incredibly unified. The band took their creative talents found on their 2013 EP record, "Early Fragments," From there they launched their construction of "Loom." Weiss' enchanting vocals along with Falvey's surreal bouncy guitar layout work fantastically well in unison. The sullen lyrics correspond to a more mature outlook on life while the arrangements embody a more youthful sound. The duality here works wonders allowing for Fear Of Men to truly stand out amongst the sea of indie rockers. It's difficult to find a false beat here as each of the eleven tracks offer something to hold on to, something to believe in. The mixture of upbeat tempos alongside melancholy vibes allows for diversity. "Loom" conveys a yearning to simply live again with expressively angst words paired with a buoyant sound that is not

The record begins and ends with identically named tracks. The intro and outro are easily the most minimalistic songs on "Loom." The stripped down acoustic tune is a proper end to a record that's full of life. Sadly, that life is filled with distress and personal pain. "Loom" is a fascinating record that walks down two roads—one paved with obscurity and sorrow, the other with brightness and hopefulness. The roads finally meet at the end, and with ambiguity present, the world keeps spinning. "Loom" is just here to remind us that with darkness, light can still creep in even if it's little by little, inch by inch.

Jeff's Book Picks By Jeff Brown CENTURY TO MODERN TIMES

by Lucy Lethbridge

This is a about the lives of British servants and the upper crust they served. From the immense staff running a lavish Edwardian estate to the poor child doing chores in a slightly less poor household, servants were essential to the British way of life. They were hired not only for their skills but also to demonstrate the social standing of their employers. More than simply the laboring class serving the upper crust, they were a diverse group that shaped and witnessed major changes in the modern home, family, and social order. Spanning over a hundred years, Lethbridge brings to life through letters and diaries the voices of countless men and women who have been largely ignored by the historical record. She also interviews former and current servants for their recollections of this waning profession. A compassionate and discerning exploration of the complex relationship between the server, the served, and the world they lived in. Servants opens a window onto British society from the Edwardian period to the present. With 17 illustrations.

THE RED DEVIL: TO HELL WITH CANCER AND BACK

by Katherine Russell Rich

The Red Devil is a bold, wickedly funny tale of illness, joy, and the improbable triumph of love in the midst of despair. When Katherine Russell Rich was thirty two, a newly divorced, high-powered magazine editor living a glamorous life in New York City, her multi year ordeal with cancer began. Soon she was bald, scrambled, and living in two worlds simultaneously: the world of the ill, filled with treatments, exhaustion, and doctors as focused on avoiding malpractice suits as on healing; and the "normal" world, where dating, career, vacations, and 401(k) plans still matter. Alternately wise and wise-cracking, Rich serves up vignettes from the surreal world only the ill know: the MS patient who crashes her support group, the doctor who fires her patient, dating while bald, working without a brain, and smoking with cancer. Here is a woman who has been brought to her knees by disease several times, only to get up and learn to dance, with grace, even.

AWAKENING TO THE NATURAL STATE by John Wheeler

John Wheeler met Bob Adamson (a student of Nisargadatta Maharaj) on a trip to Australia in 2003. In short order, Bob cleared up John's doubts and questions and pointed out to him the fact of our real nature: self-shining, ever-present awareness. Bob has encouraged John to share this understanding of who we really are. The articles contained in this book cover some of John's experiences with meeting Bob and various aspects of the understanding which subsequently unfolded. Interspersed with these are chapters of email correspondence with enquirers who have been drawn to this radical and direct approach to self-realisation. His simple and direct explanations are wonderful.

FAMILY MATTERS By Marc Garle

THE WEALTH CREATION TRUST: A Gift that keepons on giving

The perfect gift for your child or grandchild on the occasion of their birth, Bar or Bat Mitzvah, Sweet 16 or Quinceañera cannot be found in any store. Instead, the hopes and wishes you have for your child's (or grandchild's) future can best be expressed with a gift of security, resources and a foundation of love - the establishment of a wealth creation trust.

When a new child is welcomed into the family or a child turns 13, 16, graduates from college or has another milestone event, it is not uncommon for grandparents or other family members to want to give that child a monetary gift.

In most cases, a check written to the parents, or perhaps to the child, and put into a custodial account at the bank. The problems with this type of gifting are several:

- 1. Often, the parents cash the check, commingle the funds into the family accounts, and even though intentions are good, the child never gets to see the benefit (you'd be surprised how often this happens);
- 2. The money is put into a custodial account, the child accesses the account at 18 (or perhaps 21) and uses it to buy a car, fund a backpacking trip, or even buy a house; but the decision about how to utilize the money is made without thought or foresight for the future and oftentimes the money is squandered;
- 3. The money is used to pay for college, counting against the child for purposes of financial aid, effectively squandering the money;
- 4. The money is used by the child after he or she is married, commingled with the assets of a spouse and lost in a divorce, squandered.

But, there is a far better way, which is good for your family members who want to make gifts, good for you as the parents of your child, good for your child, and great for the world.

Establish a Wealth Creation Trust for your child (or grandchild) as a birthday (or birth) gift and let everyone in your family know that all gifts for the child should be made out to the Trustee of the [Name of Child} Wealth Creation Trust.

Then, when your child gets to be an age specified in the Trust, he or she can step into the role of Co-Trustee, learning how to operate the Trust and best utilize the funds in the Trust. He or she will be trained on the best types of investments for the Trust (my recommendation is first and foremost self-care, well-being programs and entrepreneurial training for the child, and then one or more entrepreneurial ventures the child is involved in) which have the possibility of doing a lot of good in the world and earning a healthy return on investment in the form of appreciation and purposeful, aligned work by the child.

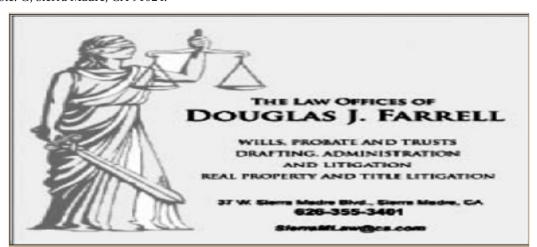

Your child will learn the purpose of the Trust (to encourage the creation of wealth from one generation to the next, rather than the squandering or wasting of assets); how to protect it (keep the investments in the name of the Trust, regardless of how funds are used, so always title investments properly and sign on behalf of the Trust); and how to create more wealth in the future using the Trust assets.

Now, the gift you created when your child was just born, or achieved a specific life milestone becomes not just a vehicle of financial security, but education and impact for a lifetime and beyond.

Gifts up to $14,000 per year (in 2014) per person can be made into such a Trust for your child without the need to file a gift tax return.

If you would like to learn more about how to establish a wealth creation trust to secure the financial future of your children, grandchildren and beyond while encouraging and educating them to create more wealth in the world (rather than squandering what you've worked so hard to create), contact my office for a Family Wealth Planning Session.

Tips of the Trade: Real Estate Revealed

WHAT TO KNOW ABOUT ESCROW

When you buy a home, or just make an offer, you will encounter the term "escrow account." Like making a friendly bet and asking a third party to hold the wager money, the "escrow agent" is the neutral party that holds funds in the interest of the mortgage lender and the borrower.

When the terms of the purchase and loan agreements have been met, the money is released. When your application is approved and the loan takes effect, the lender will likely require money for property taxes and homeowner's insurance also to be held in escrow. These funds are added to your monthly mortgage payment and disbursed when the tax and insurance bills are due.

This protects the lender by ensuring a lien isn't placed against your property for non-payment of taxes, and your home (their collateral) is protected against catastrophe. But escrow also benefits borrowers by spreading the large annual payments for taxes and insurance over twelve months.

For example, if your taxes are $1,600 per year and your insurance is $800, you're budgeting a reasonable $200 per month instead of making two big payments. Escrow accounts do not earn interest, so if you make a large enough downpayment, you may be able to avoid the monthly escrow and pay the bills directly. Ask your agent and your lender about the pros and cons.

the same content in your email campaigns, your content can start to become background noise and may not stand out from the crows.

If you want to get some more action on your content, here are 7 ideas that might help shake things up and engage your audience.

- 1. Ask interesting questions. Open-ended questions tend to get the best action on social media. With email marketing, you might try a survey or poll and give people something interesting to participate in.
- 2. Share information about trends in your industry that could be potential game changers.
- 3. Take advantage of trending news events and put your voice in the conversation.
- 4. Add photos to your posts or better yet a photo album with lots of interesting images.
- 5. Think outside of the box, as a matter of fact, forget the stinking box altogether.
- 6. Offer an incentive for you social media audience to join your Email marketing list. In Constant Contact you can set up your welcome message to reward the new sign-ups with some type of discount on a new order or you could try the Constant Contact Social Campaign tool to grow both your "Likes" and Email list.
- 7. Tell the "behind the scenes" story and give your audience the "insider's scoop." Make them feel like they are getting exclusive information from you.

Ask yourself.... is your Social Media presence a desert or is it a landscaped garden? Doing the same thing over and over may not be the best way to grow your presence. To stand out, you need to shake it up Another wonderful memory was the day I talked to God on the phone in front of 350 children in an assembly. I actually didn't talk to God. I asked the kids at this assembly whether God wanted us to be happy. I said let's call God and ask him. I had pre-recorded the voice of God (a radio news friend named Phil Reed who sounded like God). I then timed my lines to carry on what sounded like a conversation. The next day several Kindergarten parents came to school wondering why their children came home the previous day insisting I had talked to God on the phone and they had heard him. They did!

OUT TO PASTOR

A Weekly Religion Column by Rev. James Snyder

AND THEN IT WAS MAY.....

For a very brief time the impression I was all caught up. Don't you like the feeling that comes knowing you are up to date and everything is accomplished? I do, I just do judgmental? not experience it enough.

It was entirely my own fault. I was gloating over the fact I had accomplished everything on my to-do-list and had some time to spare. Spare time is a rare commodity these days, at least for me. I do not even have spare change and it has been months since I have seen my spare tire.

Time is a different matter altogether. Just when I think I have a little spare time on my hands, I find it slipping through my

As I said, I was gloating over the fact I was all caught up. Being in a rather cheerful mood, I thought I would look at my calendar. I do not look at my calendar that often. It is so depressing, always telling me what to do. I hate it when somebody tells me what to do. My calendar looks at me and I look back and it simply says, do this. And there it is in black and white. What else can I do?

Without actually thinking the issue through carefully, I opened up my calendar and discovered something quite startling. It takes a whole lot to startle me. In fact, it takes a whole lot just to get me started on anything. However, I looked at my calendar and was woefully startled.

I noticed on my calendar it was the month of May. What happened to March and April? In fact, what happened to January

I should have gotten a hint with all the rain we had in April. Remember that little line that goes, "April showers bring May flowers"? While I was focused on the showers in April, I did not notice that April was exhausting itself and May was sneaking around the corner to surprise me.

Boy, did it surprise me.

I guess I was just too occupied during the month of April to realize that April has a time limit. April has 30 days and when those 30 days are kaput, April is over and

I do not think May is any different from any other month. It is just that I wish the months would slow down a little bit. It seems at the beginning of the month everything is going rather slowly and then when you hit the middle of the month the days must go into some kind of panic and race towards the end. Why these days of the month have to hasten towards the remainder of the month is something I will never wrap my head around.

last week I was under If I were a swearing man, I would swear it was still February. I believe there ought to be a month, at least one month in the year, where there are like 75 to 80 days. Why be so legalistic about all of this? Why be so

> Every day of the month insists it will only be around for 24 hours. Not 25 hours. Not even 20 hours. But every day insists on being around for 24 hours and then it disappears. Now, where does it go?

> When I go on a vacation, I know where I am going and the sad part of my vacation is at the end of the vacation I come back. Now where does time go? And, why doesn't

> For instance. I am thinking of celebrating my 37th birthday this year. I am not 37 years old, but I cannot remember what I did on my 37th birthday. I think that if I cannot remember what happened on my 37th birthday, I should be able to repeat it. Why can't I go back and be 37 for just one day? I do not need to be 37 forever, just one

But no, Father Time has made a rule that you can only be 37 one day out of the year and you can never repeat that, ever again. Of course, there was Jack Benny who was

I noticed in my calendar there were many items that needed doing. As I looked at them, I realized I had done them the month before. Some things are so insistent that you do them every month. My electric bill, for instance. Why do I have to pay that every month? Why can't the electric company give me a vacation once a year?

Another thing that bothers me. When I am having a good time at whatever I am doing, why does time pass so quickly? I remember in school the time leading up to recess went ever so slow and I never thought it would arrive. Once I got out to recess, it went so quickly I had to return to class almost before I left the classroom. What is that all

I took a little bit of time to think about what good old King Solomon said about the subject. "To everything there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven" (Ecclesiastes 3:1).

Time is a commodity either you spend it or lose it. The bad part is once you lose it you can never get it back. Enjoy today, it's the only today you have.

(In Buddhism, it's not a matter of "good karma" and "bad karma", but understanding that all words, thoughts and actions, once they occur become permanent – and have a lasting effect not only on those from whom they originate, but on all of us.)

I'd think of that story whenever I saw those ads in the L.A. Times that Donald Sterling took out to congratulate himself on his philanthropy. When I heard this week's news about Sterling, I thought of Justice Roberts' rationalization quoted above for last year's gutting of the Voting Rights Act by the Supreme Court.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar put it best; that he wasn't bothered by Sterling's racism as much as he was that "everyone acts as if it's a huge surprise". Sacramento Mayor (and former point guard for the Cavs and Suns) Kevin Johnson wants to know why the NBA had taken no action in the past, though Sterling's behavior had been part of the public record.

Donald Sterling started out in law and went into real estate, buying properties and seeking to increase their value by bringing in what he considered a higher class of tenants. Those who were with him then recall never having seen an owner so personally, zealously involved in pursuing the most minor infractions to justify breaking leases and evicting tenants.

He knew what kind of tenants he wanted, and what kinds he didn't: "Hispanics smoke, drink and just hang around the building", he's quoted as saying, and "black tenants smell and attract vermin.

Sterling settled a tenant harassment suit brought by the City of Santa Monica in 2001 and a housing discrimination suit in 2005. He settled in 2009 with the U.S. Justice Department for violations of the Fair Housing Act, involving charges he'd kept blacks and families with kids out of his buildings in Koreatown. There never seemed to be any vacancies whenever prospective black tenants came to apply.

Former Clipper General Manager (and Laker forward) Elgin Baylor testified Sterling had a "plantation mentality" towards his team, and told him how he'd like to see a white Southern coach" in charge over "poor

As Abdul-Jabbar put it, "if we're all going to L.A. Clippers' coach Doc be outraged, let's be outraged that we weren't more outraged when his racism was first

> It was only a week before that folk-hero of tea-baggers and Fox News, rancher Cliven Bundy, "shocked" his fans by publicly opining that "the Negro" will "abort their young children, put their young men in jail, because they never learned how to pick cotton." He "wondered" whether they'd be better off as Bundy is a government leech who's grazed his cattle on public lands over the past twenty years, racking up some $1 million in fees he refuses to pay (while scores of fellow Nevada ranchers have paid what they owe).

Thugs and vahoos from all over gathered in support - and they brought their guns, railing against a tyrannical central government, vowing to resist due enforcement of the law but enough about the situation in Eastern Ukraine. Promoters from the Republican Caucus and Fox News bailed when Bundy's comments were aired, but it shouldn't have been a "huge The whole "militia", "sovereign citizen", resist-big-government movement has its roots 150 years ago during Reconstruction, when the former Confederacy resisted imposition of equal protection under the 14th Amendment. Fifty years ago, "states' rights' was the rallying cry to oppose civil rights.

Now, the pretense is to claim that racism is simply not a problem anymore - except for maybe a couple of crotchety old guys - as Justice Roberts did last year in ruling to gut the Voting Rights Act. The same argument appeared with the recent decision regarding use of affirmative action in admissions for Michigan schools; but as Justice Sonia Sotomayor pointed out, "to know the history of our Nation is to understand its long and lamentable record of stymieing the right of racial minorities to participate.

Under the Voting Rights Act, states could get out of the Section 4 requirement for preclearance of election rule changes if only they could go ten years without having a major discriminatory elections complaint. Some states (mostly you-know-where) were unable to pull even that off, so they went to court to have it overturned.

In Michigan, it's okay to give an edge in admissions to those with an established family "legacy" tradition of alumni, but not okay for schools to try and even things out for those unlikely to have such an advantage

When news first broke with doubts of the Sterling tape's authenticity, it was settled for me when his spokesman apologized to "those who might have been offended". The corollary to that is an assumption there are people who "might" not have been offended, or indeed did not find it offensive at all.

Sterling's and Bundy's karma stays with them. As a country, the words, thoughts and actions from our history remain part of our own, shared, permanent national karma. It may not be traditional Buddhism, but it's something we need to accept and admit to if we're going to move forward. Go Clips.

SHARE THE WEALTH OR GREG Welborn GET OUT OF TOWN

With the first GNP growth clocking and prospered in in at a whopping 0.1%, the jury's still America, the land of out on the national economic recovery. As an economist by early training, I personally believe the U.S. will continue to plod along in a forward direction. There won't be a doubledip recession at the national level. But that same economic training tells me California may not be so lucky; the California State Senate seems to be they've built. The technology we doing everything it can to push the Golden State backwards.

For those who haven't heard, a California Senate committee just voted overwhelmingly to increase taxes on companies which don't share the wealth. Rather than trying to stem the tide of employers leaving the they attained is petty envy – one of the state for Texas by offering tax reform, our politicians are determined to tell them to take a hike. Senate Bill 1372 would raise taxes on companies whose pay gap between the highest earning employees and the lowest earning employees exceeds some magically determined threshold known perfectly to Democratic public policy experts. Words cannot describe the stupidity of the concept, let alone of the fact that grown, educated? adults voted for it.

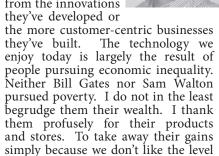

Let's dispense with the theoretical issues before tackling the economics of insanity. Some may be tempted to believe that fairness demands there be some limit to what those on the In an interconnected national top can earn vs those on the bottom. Nobody can come up with a real reason why there should be a limit. They just assume that inequality is bad without trying to understand why the inequality exists.

As a conservative, I'd be the first to argue against a system of government enforced rules which reward a chosen group of people at the expense of others. That type of economic inequality would 'be unfair. But inequality stemming from differences in life choices, education, intelligence and work ethic is not inherently immoral. In fact a strong moral argument in favor of such inequality can be made.

In a free society, as long as everyone is free to pursue their goals using the talents God has given and the skills they develop through education and experience, we should expect unequal outcomes and actually celebrate the attainment of success - even spectacular success. We shouldn't punish it.

poor immigrants who sought, found opportunity. I don't think their success makes me or anyone else poorer. In fact, we usually benefit from the innovations

Now to the economics of insanity. Did anyone notice Toyota's announcement they were closing up shop in California to move their headquarters (along with 5,000 jobs) to Texas. Tax rates and an insane regulatory environment were the cause. For those who missed the recent announcement, it read a lot like Nissan's 2006 announcement when it left California for Tennessee. Even the Liberals of Hollywood are not inured to high taxes. California is losing market share in movie and television production.

economy, and now the growing connectivity of the world economy, local tax rates matter. The U.S. is losing companies, or at least economic activity, to other countries with lower tax rates. The U.S's combined average state-federal tax rate is nearly 40% compared to the global average of 24%, not to mention specific countries where rates are in the teens. As a result, companies like Pfizer announce they will increase production or invest in new ventures in other countries, rather than in the U.S. Pfizer is investing in Britain to reduce taxes. Within the U.S. economic activity and investment gravitates to the states where taxes are lower. I'm sure there's little love-loss between Governors Brown and Perry, but the fault lies with California, not

The unavoidable message in Senate Bill is 1372 is that if you stay in California, Sacramento will reduce your profits either taking them in taxes or forcing you to give them away. We shouldn't be surprised when companies decide not to stay in California and instead As a conservative, I cheer the stories of take the hint to get out of town.

THE DICK VAN DYKE SHOW

WHAT'S ON 98

May 5 - May 11, 2014

The Time of Your Life is playing Monday at 9:00 a.m.
Released on September 3, 1948: Joe is a man that tries to live his life by making everyone around him better.

Before I watched this movie, I read that it bombed in the theaters when it was released. It was proclaimed James Cagney's absolute worst movie. Now maybe I'm just stupid, or maybe I just don't know what a good movie is, or maybe I just like what most people do not like but this is my new favorite movie, and I know that I will watch it many times. Casablanca? The Maltese Falcon? The Thin Man series? It's A Wonderful Life? My Man Godfrey? All pushed aside in my favorite list for this movie.

James Cagney plays 'Joe' a barfly who's hobby is people. Think about the 'Cheers' television show about a neighborhood bar, with a room full of 'characters,' then think about the wisdom of the ages, and where you might find it. In a low-class bar in the rough part of town? You betcha! James Cagney is the bar-fly that mystifies everyone, William Bendix (The Life of Riley television show) is the owner of this strange bar, and Broderik Crawford is the local beat cop. Remember the wealthy Mrs. Howell from the television show 'Gilligan's Island?' She appears in this one as a society lady - she is much younger than when on Gilligan's Island, but you will know her voice in an instant. If you are wondering about the young blonde actress named Jeanne Cagney, she is James Cagney's younger sister.

If you enjoy sunny afternoons with a good book, if you enjoy characters with character, please take an hour and forty minutes and relax and enjoy this one . . . you will have the time of your life!
