THE TALK OF THE TOWN: MATER DOLOROSA DEVELOPMENT

Board Issues Statement To Clear The Air

acres of land at Mater Dolorosa in Sierra Madre has been the primary public comment subject at public meetings in Sierra Madre the last 10 days. The development came up at the Planning Commission held last Thursday and again at this week's City Council meeting.

The discussions come on the heals of disclosure that a developer had been chosen and talks with the community had begun.

Late Friday, the Passionist retreat center issued the following statement:

The Board of Directors of Mater Dolorosa Passionist Retreat Center released this statement today, which is attributable to Cameron Thornton, Board Chair:

"Recent mischaracterizations of the proposed development of surplus land at Mater Dolorosa are unfortunate and terribly misleading. In the interest of providing the public with accurate information, we sent a letter today to our neighbors and other interested parties that made these points:

There will not be 60 homes built on the proposed site. As we have said from our earliest communication, any project that is built must and will be compatible with what is around us. For lot sizes to be similar to those of our neighbors there must be fewer than 50 homes. The size of these homes will not be "massive" either. The homes will be approximately

This will not be a "quick" process driven by "secret" meetings. We recently selected the developer New Urban West for the project because they share our commitment to a embrace. very intensive, long-term, oneon-one type of outreach with the community. That is the best way to hear what is on people's minds. There has been a "get to know you" meeting with city staff and we have reached out to current and former city leaders, so New Urban West can hear their thoughts and concerns. These are merely introductory meetings, where no decisions are made or actions taken.

Funds from the sale of our surplus land will be used to provide for the long-term care of our senior priests and brothers and continue the Passionists' global mission. Currently, 77% of the 62 Passionist priests and brothers of Holy Cross Province are age 65 and older. Of all the options we reviewed over the last seven years, the only one that would provide these funds, protect the Mater Dolorosa retreat experience, and be compatible with the homes in surrounding neighborhoods was the single family home option we are now beginning to pursue.

We look forward to formally introducing New Urban West to the community, which we will do later this summer once our Purchase and Sales

The development of the 88 3,800 square feet in size. Agreement Due Diligence period is completed."

> Although the statement addresses many of the rumors circulating, acceptance of any proposed development is still difficult for many residents to

> In a recent interview with Matthew Bryant, disclosed that his group, Stop The Monastery Housing Project, had offered the Monastery 10 million dollars for the land in order to create a "win, win situation with open space", but that offer was deemed in- adequate.

New Urban West describes itself as a "privately held, Santa Monica based builder/ developer with three decades of experience...".

Bryant noted that the concerns about this develoment crosses all political lines in Sierra Madre and hopes that there will be combined efforts to address the concerns of the community. He also mentioned a possible solution for the community that has been offered to both the Planning Commission and City Council by those opposed to the project - a citywide building moratorium.

With the rumors laid to rest, and a confirmation of their intent one thing appears to be certain. There will be a new housing development on the property at the top of North Sunnyside.

an accomplished artist. "I have a series of watercolors that I have sold prints of over the years. I sold some up at Mary's Market when I had a show there. They are available for viewing at Barryschwam.com"

If you know Barry Schwam, you know he is a many of mystery and many talents. You may recognize him from being Scrooge, at the Sierra Madre Playhouse, or walking the streets as the Grinch during the WhoVille Festival. Or perhaps you might even recognize him for the curious instrument he makes curious sounds with. One thing is for sure, once you meet him, you will never forget him.

Barry was born in Santa Monica, raised in Pasadena and lived in Sierra Madre for 22 years. He wWent to school at CSUN studying broadcasting, and lived in Portland, OR doing radio and music.

 $He has performed in 50 plus plays, mostly at Sierra\,Madre\,Playhouse.$ "I have played Ebeneezer Scrooge in over 140 performances over the years. Other roles include "The Nerd," Henry, in "Cliff Hanger," Long John Silver in, Treasure Island, "You can't take it with you," The old actor in the Fantasticks, and I even played Abraham Lincoln once. Dozens of independent films, one commercial for a toy insect. Sound design for a hundred or more plays, films, etc.

But acting and broadcasting is not all that Barry can do. He is

He is also very creative in the use of his art. His Wall Project stemmed from "a huge hedge that covered the entire wall at his home. Our condo association made us take it down to replace a fence. So there was this beautiful, empty, 32 foot canvas; and all those "creatures in my head." It was a natural fit.'

So Schwam started sketching, and painting, and sketching and painting. The end result is this very humorous, colorful wall of fun! Says Barry, "Maybe I can even paint a creature-scape on your wall!" Above the stages of development of The Wall Project Schwam lives with my wonderful wife Lydia and our cat Princess Putzel. "I have loved Sierra Madre, have done some wonderful things here, including many stints of music at Beantown. Ihave lived the life of an artist because I have to. I have seen life in a different way, and "know to much to argue or to judge," as Bob Dylan said once.

When asked what encouraging words he had for other artists Barry replied, "Never disavow your vision of the world. If you are different, don't try and be like everyone else. Lord knows I have tried, and it brought me misery. Whatever your vision, try and express it in some fashion. You need to; you have to. You owe it to

The Mt. Wilson Trail saw a lot of action this past Saturday, May 24th as over 300 runners participated in the 2014 Mount Wilson Trail Race. It was a successful year with ideal weather, optimal trail conditions, and a hardworking team of volunteers. All 317 participants safely completed the difficult 8.6 mile course—an impressive feat worth a lifetime of bragging rights. Hundreds of spectators stood along the sidelines as the official race starter, Gary Hilliard, fired the start gun. The crowd didn't have to wait long for the first runners to come barreling down Baldwin Avenue a mere hour later. The first place overall male was James Timphony with a time of 1 hour and 12 seconds and the first place overall female was Mireya Vargas with a time of 1 hour and 16 minutes.

The night before the race, families enjoyed the annual Pasta Feed Dinner in Kersting Court. Stonefire Grill catered the dinner which included pasta, salad, and breadsticks. In addition to loading up on carbohydrates, attendees were able to participate in an opportunity raffle, learn about trail history through a Sierra Madre Library docent-led slideshow, purchase souvenirs, and checkin for both the trail race and the Kids' Fun Run. Partial proceeds from the night benefited Sierra Madre Search and Rescue which provides race day safety support on the trail

Fun was had by all on the day of the race. Even those not racing enjoyed themselves either by cheering on the sidelines, visiting the vendor booths, or socializing in the Beer Garden. The annual Kids' Fun Run, sponsored by the Sierra Madre Community Foundation, Sierra Madre Civic Club, and CATZ sports, was a large success with 194 youth participating.

The Community Services Department and Mount Wilson Trail Race Committee would like to thank the following sponsors and donors for making the 2014 Mount Wilson Trail Race such a success: Albertsons, Applebees, Asics, Barrett & Baum Real Estate, Berkshire Hathaway

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

Thanks to a fantastic Mt. Wilson Trail Race Committee, the City of Sierra Madre, dedicated volunteers and sponsors who helped make last Saturday's Mt. Wilson Trail Race such a success. With good cloud cover and a trail excellently maintained by community volunteers, race conditions were perfect!

The 317 runners who ran the 8.6 grueling miles up to Orchard Camp and back all came back safely with smiles on their faces. Ahead of them were Pasadena's J.J. Timphony, who captured his third MWTR men's title with a time of 1:01, and Mireya Vargas, also of Pasadena, the defending MWTR women's champ who won again in 1:16.

All participants were cheered on loudly by the friends, family and Sierra Madre residents, making this a cherished annual community event that promotes fitness and fun.

Through the pasta dinner, raffle and post-race beer garden, the MWTR Committee raised over $2,320 for Sierra Madre Search & Rescue, an all-volunteer organization that made sure the runners were safe on their journey for the race, while making rescues in the Southern California area year-round.

The 2015 MWTR will be run on Saturday, May 23. It is never too early to start training!

WALKING SIERRA MADRE..... The Social Side By Deanne Davis

"A Nation that does not honor it's heroes will not long she is working hard to get one placed on the PCC endure." President Abraham Lincoln

Had the best Memorial weekend ever! Put out our Former Mayor, Mary Ann MacGilivray spoke flags, both American and Sierra Madrean, and are delighted to have them up for a few days.

Saturday morning: The Mt. Wilson Trail Race. Perfect race weather, cool and cloudy. A lone runner or two running up the hill, as we walked down, warming up, expending a little of that nervous energy. This is such a friendly race. Everybody seems to know everybody else and the hugs and good luck wishes are so nice to see. A splendid rendition of The Star Spangled Banner by eleven year old Sierra Madre Elementary School student, Miss Kaiya Wilson was a highlight of the morning. It took the 325 runners thirty seconds for all of them to pass the starting line!

The kids, my personal favorites, took their places at the starting line, seven through twelve group first, did some stretching exercises and shot up the hill chasing The Rabbit, Simon Cooper. The three to six crowd were off a few minutes later, slathered with grim determination, all eyes on The Rabbit, and we retired to Wistaria for breakfast where we barely had time to order coffee and some pancakes when James Timphony was back down crossing the finish line at 1:00:12! That's beyond fast! That's phenomenal!

Monday morning: Got to Pioneer Cemetery in time to get a couple of spots in the shade, admired the flags affixed to white crosses on many of the graves and were happy to see so many of our VFW Harry L. Embree Post 3208 members on hand; some in wheelchairs, some with walkers and canes, but in uniform and able to be there. The color guard presented the colors. Rev. Msgr. Richard Krekelberg gave an excellent invocation, stating that he would be using the National Chaplain's Manual for Memorial Day as he felt that we would be uniting in prayer with many other groups all over the Nation to remember "the awesome cost of the freedom we enjoy."

Speaker, Congresswoman Judy Chu mentioned her father who served in Okinawa, one of the lucky ones who did come home, and her nephew, Harry, who died in Afghanistan three years ago. She also said that health care for veterans must be a top priority for Washington, DC, and that it is shameful that there is no VA clinic in the San Gabriel, but Campus. Let's hope she's successful!

on the origin of Memorial Day, mentioning that 3 p.m. has been set as the National Moment of Remembrance. As she spoke, I could hear the happy voices of young people playing basketball in the court down in the park and see our beautiful swimming pool below us. Mary Ann spoke movingly of our 'citizen warriors' and said, "If you haven't read the Constitution lately, or haven't ever read the whole thing, do it!" She quoted President Ronald Reagan:

"Freedom is never more than one generation away from extinction. We didn't pass it to our children in the bloodstream. It must be fought for, protected, and handed on for them to do the same, or one day we will spend our sunset years telling our children and our children's children what it was once like in the United States where men were

Peter Vecchio sang a piece dating from the Civil War, "Everyone Is Somebody's Darling," Stanley J. Pinta, the VFW Chaplain, asked a blessing; wreaths and flowers were placed on a symbolic grave; Paul Puccinelli played Taps followed by the rifle volley. The colors were retired and the VFW members invited everyone to enjoy refreshments. We wiped our eyes, my dear patriotic best walking partner, John and I, and walked down the driveway through the flag decorated graves and agreed it was the best Memorial Day service we had ever attended. If you haven't been to one of these, like Mary Ann MacGilivray said, "Do it!"

Then we went to see "X-Men Days of Future Past" and I got to look at Hugh Jackman for two hours. It just doesn't get much better than that!

Got a great FaceBook note from my grandson, David, who lives in Germany, letting me know he made the Cinnamon Coffee Cake that's in my book right below and it came out really great! First time he's ever baked anything and discovered that "cream butter and sugar" does not mean melt butter and sugar together.

BIG CHANGES AT SIERRA MADRE'S INTERNET RADIO STATION:

The Board of Directors of Village Vine Online has decided to move the organization in a new direction. In keeping with our mission of community service, we are discontinuing 24/7 live audio streaming. In order to better serve the community, our focus will be on providing live audio and video webcasts and podcasts of community events, podcasts of hosted shows home-grown here in Sierra Madre, video and audio webcasts and podcasts of community sports events, and, by the end of the summer, we will present a community blog, with guest host bloggers rotating every few months.

CITIZEN WEBCASTERS: Part of our new approach is to utilize "citizen webcasters" living here in town. We are now actively recruiting people who can attend public events, and, utilizing equipment as simple as their smart phones, webcast those events through the Village Vine web site. Contact us at hostvi@yahoo.com if you would like to volunteer. Training will be provided.

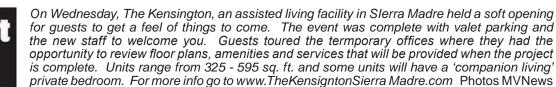

CITIZEN PODCASTERS: We are looking for podcasters who might like to share their homegrown podcasts on the Village Vine web site. Subjects for podcasts could include original music, gardening, cars, dogs, water conservation, sports, etc. The subject matter for potential podcasts is only limited to the degree the community might have interest in it. Contact us at hostvi@yahoo. com if you would be interested in podcasting with us.

Schiff Urges Congress to Pass Gun Safety Laws

Adam Schiff, a former federal prosecutor, released the following statement Tuesday calling on Congress to move on responsible and commonsense gun safety laws in the wake of yet another mass shooting in İsla Vista, California:

"The shooting at Isla Vista is another heartbreaking tragedy, and another example of the senseless gun violence affecting our communities. What will it take to get the Congress moving on responsible gun safety laws? What will it take to keep guns out of the hands of seriously mentally ill people? How many more Hooks, Auroras, Stocktons, Columbines, Virginia Techs, and Isla Vistas must we have? How many more cities and schools will have names that become synonymous with gun violence? Where does it end?

With each of these tragedies, the fabric of our country is torn a bit more. Are we ready to say enough is enough? Will our Congress listen if we do?"

JUST FOR BEST FRIENDS

Of late I have been wondering if I might be spending too much of my free time (what little there is) diddling around on Facebook, and I'm pretty sure I'm not the only one who has such thoughts. Although I must say it has been a godsend for me to keep in touch with family and friends that I might not otherwise have frequent contact with, social networking is a relatively new addition to my daily routine, and I sometimes wonder if my incessant need to "check in" might be not-so-healthy.

However, just when I start to question my apparently ever-growing urge to participate, I find myself encouraged by a friend's timeline post, sharing about a remarkable blessing they've just experienced, or an inspiring quote to help make my day brighter, or a link to an heartwarming video about rescued animals or troops returning from war. It is then that I am reminded I have seen a lot of animal videos, true stories of that socializing on the internet can indeed be a very positive thing for me, if I let it be.

Here's an example of a link a friend shared on Facebook last week, that made it all worthwhile. Having rummaged through numerous seemingly senseless 'shares' and photos depicting what one had for dinner that night, or sharing a selfie of a new outfit one just put on before heading out to a party, amongst all the mundane mish-mosh, there was that one morsel of wisdom that had the capacity to change the way my day would play out. It was a link to a video created by Animal Place, a farm animal refuge located in Grass Valley, California.

The video, entitled Mr. G and Jellybean, was all about a goat named Mr. G that had been rescued from an animal hoarding situation in southern California, where he'd lived in neglect with a burro named Jellybean for years. Jellybean had been rescued by another sanctuary. Unbeknownst to both rescuing parties, the goat and burro had formed a very close bond during their years together at their previous inhumane

When Mr. G arrived at Animal Place, he became very depressed. He refused to eat and would not leave the corner of his stall for 6 whole days. The caretakers decided they had to do something to encourage the goat to eat and go out for some exercise and fresh air. They got in touch with the people who'd rescued Jellybean, and asked if they could reunite the two animals just to see if that would help raise Mr. G's spirits.

Animal Place volunteer, Jeff McCracken drove 14 miles round trip to bring Jellybean to their sanctuary, and what happened next was amazing and emotional. When Mr. G saw Jellybean, he immediately jumped to his feet and ran over to him, nuzzling his muzzle against his cheeks and neck! He then proceeded to strut about the corral, encircling the burro, and rubbing himself along the fence in a gesture of pure pleasure! When the caretaker filled a pale with feed and put it down

Well, I have to say that is when the tears started rolling down my face

ANIMAL PLACE Sanctuary For Farmed Animals

uncontrollably. I felt like I might become overwhelmed with joy to witness the precious bond that those two farm animals had formed while living together in such neglectful conditions. It was clear that they had taken refuge in each other, just to survive. I was elated to know there were people who cared enough about those two furry four-legged friends to realize they needed to be together, and made it so!

It's kind of funny, isn't it? How we humans have managed to morph into isolated beings who spend more time with machines than our own species, while the animals are becoming more and more social, not only with their own kind but with others that are very different from themselves. Indeed, they seem to have a better understanding of each other that penetrates the surface, allowing them to find the friend within regardless of how different they may be.

cross-species relationships that made me smile, but none has ever touched my heart the way this one did. It took me a while to compose myself enough to call Animal Place and thank them for understanding that Mr. G and Jellybean had formed a close relationship in the same way that we humans do, and that they needed to be together. I just had to share the story with anyone who would listen, and obviously felt compelled to write about it.

Founded in 1989, Animal Place is one of the oldest and largest sanctuaries for farmed animals in the US. Nestled on 600 acres in Grass Valley, CA, they provide refuge to hundreds of farmed animals. In addition to permanent sanctuary, Animal Place's Rescue Ranch is a 60-acre adoption center, placing needy farmed animals into permanent homes. They also have a dog rescue program where they work with dog shelters and rescue agencies to provide temporary housing for adoptable dogs.

Animal Place is open to the public for self-guided farm tours Tuesday through Saturday 10:00-4:00 pm. They also offer school tours and private tours by appointment only. I can't wait to visit Animal Place, hopefully in the near future. Meanwhile, I will support their efforts in any way I possibly can. Let's just say they have become another new favorite on my growing list of animal rescue

With so many sad and scary things happening in our society today, it is such a pleasure to know there are people devoted to helping animals simply live out their lives in a loving and healthy environment. Too many people take animals for granted, not considering what they have done for us, but those who do care and take action for the better are the ones I can definitely identify with.

For more information about Animal Place, visit their website at animalplace.org or check their Facebook page and click "Like". You may even want to make a donation, and it is real easy to for them, Mr. G went for it and helped himself to his portion, sharing the same pale with his best buddy, Jellybean. They gobbled up every bite, and even appealed to the caretaker for more! amount you are able to donate. After all, every little bit counts. Now I bid thee to go forth, love and let live!

ANIMAL ID #A471300

Good things come in tiny packages, as is the case with the sweet and petite Audrey (A4713300)! Audrey, also known by the cute moniker "Duckie", is an unforgettable 8-year-old gray female Short Haired Chihuahua who arrived at the Baldwin Park Animal Care Center on May 23rd. Weighing only 5½ pounds, Audrey is a pint-sized wonder with pretty coloring and cute pug-like eyes. Though a bit overwhelmed in the shelter environment, she is highly cooperative with her handlers and wants nothing more than to be held close to them. This lowa soft pillow and lots of pets and belly rubs. A volunteer favorite, Audrey would be a spectacular pup for anyone lucky enough to adopt her! She will make a truly special indoor buddy for any individual or family with older children (who will be careful not to injure her small frame), but we imagine that she might also be a perfect fit for a senior. To watch a video of Audrey, please visit the following link: http://youtu.be/qyl9NBHh1Jk

STAG'S LEAP AND SANTA ANITA GOES UNCORKED

Long before there was Bristol Farms, Whole Foods, and Gelson's there was Jurgensen's Grocery stores, started years ago by Pasadena Resident Harold Jurgensen, where the "upper crust" did their shopping. I know this because long before it was popular for foods to be "organic" and "sustainable" I worked there for many years delivering groceries to the service entrances of many local mansions. During this time, I learned a lot about aged beef, caviar, produce, and wine -- I remember names like Château Montelena, Edna Valley, and Stag's Leap. These days, Jurgensen's is long gone, but Stag's Leap is still producing excellent varieties of wine including a 2010 Cabernet Sauvignon that is worth an investment.

TABLE FOR TWO by Peter Dills thechefknows@yahoo.com

Stag's Leap Winery was founded in the late 1880's and makes it's home in the Napa Valley. They made their way through Prohibition to become one of the oldest and most respected wineries, not only in California but the entire world. Rich ruby in color, their 2010 Napa Valley Cabernet Sauvignon has hints of red fruit and spice. This 2010 is ready to enjoy now, but has a promise for years of cellar age. Remember last week's wine term "aging potential"? Blend: 86% Cabernet Sauvignon, 10% Merlot, 2% Cabernet Franc, 2% Malbec. Single Source.

Retail $50, I found it on sale for $40. Tip: If you search the grocery store aisle and find a Nine Points Cab, it's the same vintner under a different label and only 2/3 the price.

Each week I will give you my Dills Score. I have added points for value. I'm starting with a base of 50 points; I added 8 points for color, 7 points for aroma or nose", 8 points for taste, 8 points for

THE JOY OF YOGA

THE STORY OF THE ELEPHANT

You may have noticed the gorgeous statue of the elephant 'Ganesh" in your local yoga studio. He is very cute and has a great big belly and one broken tusk. Ganesh is very popular in the Hindu tradition. He is in every Hindu household. He would be given an offering before any contract signed or agreement entered. You see, he is known as the remover of obstacles. It is his pleasure to remove the things that may be standing in your way. You just have to ask for guidance. So most yoga studios have Ganesh in their room to remind us of the things that are holding us back and how we can overcome them. Like the ego, for example, Ganesh rides on top of a rat, that symbolizes the ego. But Ganesh is full of love. He has big ears to hear all of our requests. He loves sweets and is holding a "Laddu" in his hand, which is a sweet ball. It symbolizes prosperity and material comforts. Since Ganesh enjoys sweets, he will bestow them on you!

The legend has it that he broke off his tusk to write the Mahabharata, one of the two major Sanskrit epics of India. There is so much symbology in all the tales, it's hard to keep up. But no matter what your faith, God has many faces, just like yours and mine and Ganesh. Ganesh symbolizes our pursuit of Moksha – liberation. So that we may all one day be with

So, next time you are in the studio, go over and rub his belly for good luck, prosperity and Moksha. See you in class.

SALAD DOES A BODY GOOD

Dr. Tina is a traditional naturopath and nutritionist at Vibrant Living Wellness Center

Studies have been carried out to investigate the link between the amount of salad and raw vegetables eaten by both men and women and the nutrients present in the blood stream afterwards. It was found that those who eat these foods on a regular basis have a higher level of vitamin C, E, folic acid and beta carotene in their bloodstream. Before this there had been concerns about the body's ability to absorb nutrients from salad, but the levels present in those tested proved that regular salad eaters were benefiting from the nutrients and were obviously able to utilize them in the body.

Vitamin C is a useful antioxidant for humans and helps your body to perform certain function such as protection of cells, maintaining healthy cells and aiding the absorption of iron into the body. It is found in a lot of salad and vegetable items such sprouts, peppers, broccoli, kiwi fruit

Vitamin E has a number of functions and one of these is to act as an antioxidant within the body. Vitamin E can be found in the wide range of foods and the richest source of this is in plant oils such as soya or olive oil. However, it is also very rich in nuts and seeds which are particularly body and thus performs all the same functions such as maintaining the health of your skin, helping to protect you from infections and also assisting sight in dim light. It is found mainly in yellow and green colored vegetables. It is responsible for giving these vegetables their color! Spinach, peppers and mango are high in this nutrient.

Salads do not have to be boring. Try some of these on your salad:

TOP RATED NEW VEHICLES FOR SENIORS

Dear Savvy Senior:

Can you recommend any credible resources that rate the best vehicles for older drivers? My wife and I are both in our seventies and are looking to purchase a new automobile but could use some help choosing one that's age friendly. What can you tell us? Car Shoppers

Dear Shoppers:

While there are a number of websites that rate new vehicles for older drivers, one of the most credible is Edmunds.com, a top-rated online resource for automotive research information.

For 2014, they developed a list of "top 10 vehicles for seniors" based on user-friendly features that help compensate for many of the physical changes - like diminished vision, arthritis, and range of motion loss - that can come with aging.

But before we get to the list, here is a rundown of different features that are available on many new vehicles today and how they can help with various age-related physical problems. So depending on what ails you or your wife, here's what to look for.

Knee, hip or leg problems: For comfort, a better fit, and easier entry and exit, look for vehicles that have six-way adjustable power seats that move the seat forward and backward, up and down, and the seat-back forward and backward. Also look for low door thresholds and seat heights that don't require too much bending or climbing to get into. Leather or faux leather seats are also easier to slide in and out of than cloth seats.

Limited upper body range of motion: If you have difficulty looking over your shoulder to back up or merge into traffic, look for vehicles with a large rear window for better visibility, wide-angle mirrors which can minimize blind spots, back-up cameras, active parallel park assistance, and blind-spot warning systems that alert you to objects in the way. Also, for comfort and fit, consider vehicles that have a tilt and telescoping steering wheel, adjustable seatbelts, and heated seats with lumbar support.

Arthritic hands: To help with difficult and painful gripping and turning problems, features that can help include a keyless entry and a push-button ignition, a thicker steering wheel, power mirrors and seats, and larger dashboard controls. And in SUVs and crossovers, an automatic tailgate closer can Diminished vision: Look for vehicles with larger instrument panels and dashboard controls with contrasting text that's easier to see. And those with sensitivity to glare will benefit from extendable sun visors, auto-dimming rearview mirror and glare reducing side mirrors.

Short and/or overweight: Look for six-way adjustable seats, adjustable foot pedals and a tilt-andtelescoping steering wheel.

2014 Best Vehicles

Here is Edmunds list of top 10 vehicles for 2014 listed in alphabetical order. Each offers features designed to support drivers coping with the conditions discussed above. Their picks include both sedans and SUVs, and range from top-of-the-line luxury models to those with more affordable price

Acura RDX SUV, Audi A8 Sedan, Ford Taurus Sedan, Honda Accord Sedan, Hyundai Sonata Sedan, Lexus ES 350 Sedan, Mazda CX-9 SUV, Mercedes-Benz E-Class Sedan, Toyota Avalon Sedan and Volkswagen Passat.

To read more about the details of these choices visit edmunds.com and type in "Top 10 vehicles for seniors for 2014" into their search bar.

AAA Resource

Another excellent resource that can help you chose a vehicle that meets your needs is the American Automobile Association's online tool called "Smart Features for Older Drivers."

At seniordriving.aaa.com/smartfeatures you can input the areas you have problems with – like knee problems, arthritic hands or a stiff upper body - and the tool will identify the makes and models that have the features that will best accommodate your needs. Although this tool looks at modelyear 2013 vehicles, in many cases the features shown are carried over for 2014 models.

KATIE TseThis and That MUSICAL RECITALS -- AND OTHER EMBARRASSMENTS

One of my all time favorite authors is James Herriot, author of All Things Bright and Beautiful, The Lord God Made Them All, and other tales of life as a country vet in rural England from the 1930's to the 1970's. It didn't really matter that James was a vet, he could have been a mechanic, dentist, or shopkeeper. What made his writing memorable was his ability to relate to the reader on a personal level. To read Herriot is to share in the common struggles and joys of life. A particularly funny story involved Herriot's young son performing in his first piano recital. The assembled parents were all silently suffering as their children skipped through the songs with carefree abandon, oblivious to the many mistakes they made. But with each sour note, parents tightened their grips on the armrests.

I was reminded of this as I attended my school's spring music performance. I'd never been able to attend this annual event before, so I didn't know what to expect. The students, all fifth graders or older, were huddled together at the base of the auditorium stage. At other occasions, such as the kindergarten promotion or the Christmas concert, parents casually look around and chat with each other between numbers. But not that day. All eyes were trained ahead, and the typical laughter was replaced by an eerie silence.

Someone must've forgotten to tell the junior high crowd that it's rude to laugh during performances. I couldn't really blame them though. I winced every time the performers raked their bows across the strings of their violins. Sitting so close to each other, I was sure one of them was going to poke out another's eyes. Thankfully, no blood was shed, nor eyes impaled.

Besides the majority of violinists, there were a few novice trumpeters. Some of the seasoned eighth graders blew through their numbers with ease. But less experienced players either hadn't achieved the tight lip seal over the mouthpiece or perhaps they hadn't mastered proper pressurized breath control. Whatever their problem was, it caused their songs to be punctuated with occasional flatulent-sounding Sitting in the back row, I was glad to be able to slip out unnoticed before the show ended. I was glad I wasn't a nerve-wracked parent, twitching with every sour note and stray trumpet squeak. I was glad I wasn't down there in the orchestra pit, in danger of having my eye gouged out by a violin bow. I was glad to not be a student in the audience, trying to suppress laughter. I was really glad I wasn't a teacher, having to monitor the many rows of students and to discipline those who were disruptive.

But there was one person whose accomplishments really shined that day. One brave soul led a motley crew of unrefined musicians to a level no other person could have achieved. That person was the music teacher. Despite the discordant moments and near-miss eye injuries, that lady achieved something none of the rest of us could've done. And the fact that she did it in over ten different schools in our district alone makes my head swim! Classroom teachers have a tough job, but I think we can all agree that junior high music teachers are real troopers!

SENIOR HAPPENINGS

FYI - OLDER DRIVERS TIP #1: UNDERSTAND HOW AGING AFFECTS YOU

Everyone ages differently, so there is no arbitrary cutoff as to when someone should stop driving. However, older adults are more likely to receive traffic citations and get into accidents than younger drivers. In fact, fatal crash rates rise sharply after a driver has reached the age of 70. What causes this increase? As we age, factors such as decreased vision, impaired hearing, or slowed motor reflexes may become a problem. You may have a chronic condition that gradually worsens with time, or you may have to adjust to a sudden change, such as a stroke.

Aging tends to result in a reduction of strength, coordination, and flexibility, which can have a major impact on your ability to safely control a car. For example:

Pain or stiffness in your neck can make it harder to look over your shoulder to change lanes or look left and right at intersections to check for other traffic or pedestrians.

Leg pain can make it difficult to move your foot from the gas to the brake pedal.

Diminished arm strength can make it hard to turn the steering wheel quickly and effectively. As reaction times also slow down with age, you may be slower to spot vehicles emerging from side streets and driveways, or to realize that the vehicle ahead of you has slowed or stopped.

Keeping track of so many road signs, signals, and markings, as well as all the other traffic and pedestrians, can also become more difficult as you lose the ability to effectively divide your attention between multiple activities.

You may have driven your entire life and take great pride in your safety record, but as you age, it is critical that you realize your driving ability can change. To continue driving safely, you need to recognize that changes can happen, get help when they do, and be willing to listen if others voice

HELPFUL HINT: Do not give any personal information over the phone or online unless you can verify the source. Telephone and online scams targeting seniors abound. Nobody should ask you for your passwords, code words or any other private information. If someone asks you to 'confirm your credit card number' DO NOT. No matter how professional it sounds or looks. Thieves can reproduce company logos or send e-mails that look remarkably real. On the phone, demand a number you can call them back, demand they send all requests in writing and then forward everything to the local attorney general's office.

FOR YOUR FUNNY BONE

Two elderly women were out driving in a large car -- both could barely see over the dashboard. As they were cruising along they came to an intersection. The stoplight was red but they just went on through. The woman in the passenger seat thought to herself,

"I must be losing it, I could have sworn we just went through a red light."

After a few more minutes they came to another intersection and the light was red again and again they went right though. This time the woman in the passenger seat was almost sure that the light had been red but was really concerned that she was losing it. She was getting nervous and decided to pay very close attention to the road and the next intersection to see what was going on. At the next intersection, sure enough, the light was definitely red and they went right through. She turned to the other woman and said,

"Mildred! Did you know we just ran through three red lights in a row! You could have killed us!" Mildred turned to her and said "Oh, am I driving?"

"We truly hope that her legacy will inspire the children of our great county to overcome whatever challenge in life they might face and see the vast opportunity that our community offers to

The essay contest supports many of the various youth programs offered through the Los Angeles Sheriff's Department and the Sheriff's Youth Foundation. CALTRANS CALLS FOR PUBLIC COMMENT ON PROPOSED REGULATIONS GOVERNING STATE ROUTE 710 PROPERTY SALES

LOS ANGELES—As a crucial step toward moving the California Department of Transportation (Caltrans) out of the residential landlord business and refocusing its efforts on delivering a world-class transportation system, Caltrans is requesting the public's input as it adopts regulations to sell surplus properties along the State Route 710 corridor.

"We are committed to getting out of the residential landlord business so we can focus on our mission to provide a safe, sustainable and efficient transportation system in California," said Caltrans Director Malcolm Dougherty. "These proposed regulations outline how surplus properties along the SR-710 corridor in Pasadena, South Pasadena and El Sereno will be sold

Today's announcement marks the beginning of a 45-day public comment period, which ends on July 14, 2014. HOLDEN'S TRUANCY LEGISLATION CLEARS ASSEMBLY (AB 1672)

Sacramento - Assemblymember Chris Holden's bill to help school districts and counties collect and evaluate information on California's truancy crisis has been approved in the Assembly.

Holden's AB 1672 is part of a package of truancy bills sponsored by the Attorney General's office to address the reasons behind chronic absences in elementary school.

"With this slate of bills we are not putting more students in the juvenile justice system, but inviting the community to intervene before they end up in the penal system, which is why I am happy to join this effort," explained Assemblymember Holden. "I am authoring Assembly Bill 1672 to increase accountability for School Attendance Review Boards, or SARBs, in order to make them more effective.

AB 1672 requires local SARBs to report information on student enrollment, absence and truancy rates, referrals to the district attorney and whether or not the student is doing better. Current SARB reports provide minimal information about intervention outcomes, so it is difficult to get the full picture. This bill ensures schools, districts, and counties can evaluate the success of their truancy intervention efforts.

According to the Attorney General's office, an estimated one million elementary school students are truant each year and 250,000 elementary school students miss 18 or more school days at a cost of $1.4 billion in lost funds to California school

SEAN'S SHAMELESS REVIEWS:

By Sean Kayden

BLUE RUIN

Official 2013 Cannes Film Festival entry "Blue Ruin" is a taut, grim and satisfying revenge thriller that doesn't rely on any cinematic tropes seen in countless other tales. While the story of an every man turned vigilante isn't anything new, "Blue Ruin" positions itself as anything but ordinary. The first twenty minutes is tense and almost entirely wordless. We follow a heavily bearded man known as Dwight, who sleeps in a broken blue Pontiac and eats out of dumpsters. It seems he's been aimlessly wandering around for quite some time. It's not until a sympathetic officer knocks on the window to take up Dwight and takes him to jail where we find out what his story is. While he isn't in any trouble, she told him about this man (Wade Cleland, Jr.) who would be let out of prison in a few days. We come to learn this man was responsible for a double murder in 1993. As the tale unravels, small things are revealed such as the mysterious Dwight who returns to his childhood home in Virginia to carry out an act of vengeance to the man who murdered his parents. Writer, director, and cinematographer Jeremy Saulnier isn't afraid of silence here. Some of the most intense scenes have no words but actions. "Blue Ruin" is all about the characters, mostly carried by the compelling Dwight (played by Macon Blair) and the skillful way it

The peaceful demeanor of Dwight soon erupts once he follows Wade Cleland to a restaurant with his family to celebrate his release from prison. In a bathroom stall, Dwight busts out and stabs Wade. He doesn't go down and goes for Dwight's throat. As panic floods Dwight's face, he is able to stab Wade right in the temple that quickly turns into a bloody and gruesome scene. Dwight sneaks out toward the back of the restaurant only to realize his neck chain, which has his car key attached to it is not on his neck. With time not on his side, he runs over to the limo that picked up Wade to discover those keys lying there. He explosively drives away as the family of Wade starts shooting at the limo. After clearing the scene, Dwight discovers someone else in the limo. He pulls off to the side of the highway where this young boy tells him that you killed the wrong guy. Dwight, fearful that Wade's family will be hunting him down (after all he left his car at the restaurant which is registered to him) returns to his estranged sister's house to inform her what he has done. Dwight knows what to expect now, but it doesn't make anything easier. Blue Ruin isn't about a man who miraculously becomes an unstoppable killing machine like most Hollywood revenge thrillers. It features a reluctant man trying to save his family from very bad people. "Blue Ruin" is this small, Kickstarter funded film that accomplishes some of the biggest Hollywood thrillers with big time stars could only wish to achieve.

The indie picture is a classic tale of an eye for an eye. It uses violence and most of all guns as a way of handling a problem. It's extremely violent at times, but there's no way around that. This low budget film is engrossing and rarely displays a dull moment. It's not as entirely slow paced as I'd imagined going into it. Saulnier's cinematography screams with beauty and vitality. His award winning film is nerve-racking, gnawing, and meticulously crafted. It's one of the strongest American films of the year and even if this riveting film never garners the attention it much deserves, it certainly won't be the last time we hear from Saulnier.

REVOLUTIONARY CHARACTERS: WHAT MADE THE FOUNDERS DIFFERENT

by Gordon S. Wood

In this brilliantly illuminating group portrait of the men who came to be known as the Founding Fathers, the Pulitzer Prize winning Gordon Wood has written a book that seriously asks, What made these men great? and shows us, among many other things, just how much character did in fact matter. Washington, Adams, Jefferson, Franklin, Hamilton, Madison, Paine are presented individually as well as collectively, but the thread that binds these portraits together is the idea of character as a lived reality. They were members of the first generation in history that was self-consciously self-made men who understood that the arc of lives, as of nations, is one of moral progress. A wonderful book about the founders.

JOHN QUINCY ADAMS: AMERICAN VISIONARY by Fred Kaplan

The award-winning author of Lincoln, returns with an illuminating biography of one of the most overlooked presidents in American history, a leader of sweeping perspective whose values helped shape the course of the nation. This fresh and lively biography rich in literary analysis and new historical detail brings into focus the dramatic life of John Quincy Adams, the little known and much misunderstood 6th president of the United States and the first son of John and Abigail Adams, and demonstrates how his inspiring, progressive vision guided his life and helped shape the course of America. Kaplan draws on unpublished archival material to trace Adams's evolution from his childhood during the Revolutionary War to his brilliant years as Secretary of State to the White House and beyond. He examines many sides: the public and private man, the statesman and writer, the wise thinker and passionate advocate, the leading abolitionist and fervent federalist who believed strongly in both individual liberty and the government's role as an engine of progress and prosperity. In these ways, he was a predecessor of Lincoln and FDR . This biography makes clear how Adams's forward-thinking values, his definition of leadership, and his vision for the nation's future is as much about twenty-first century America as it is about Adams's own time. John Quincy Adams paints a rich portrait of this brilliant leader and his significance to the nation and our own lives.

JAMES MADISON: A LIFE RECONSIDERED by Lynne Cheney

This new biography of James Madison explores the astonishing story of a man of vaunted modesty who audaciously changed the world. Among the Founding Fathers, Madison was a true genius of the early republic. Outwardly reserved, Madison was the intellectual force behind the Constitution and crucial to its ratification. His visionary political philosophy and rationale for the union of states, so eloquently presented in The Federalist papers, helped shape the country. Along with Thomas Jefferson, Madison would found the first political party in the country's history. As Jefferson's secretary of state, he managed the Louisiana Purchase, doubling the size of the United States. As president, Madison led the country in its first war under the Constitution, the War of 1812. Without precedent to guide him, he would demonstrate that a republic could defend its honor and independence.

THE WORLD AROUND US

SUNSETS ON TITAN REVEAL COMPLEXITY

Scientists working with data from NASA's Cassini mission have developed a new way to understand the atmospheres of exoplanets by using Saturn's smog-enshrouded moon Titan as a stand-in. The new technique shows the dramatic influence that hazy skies could have on our ability to learn about these alien worlds orbiting distant stars.

The work was performed by a team of researchers led by Tyler Robinson, a NASA Postdoctoral Research Fellow at NASA's Ames Research Center in Moffett Field, California.

"It turns out there's a lot you can learn from looking at a sunset," Robinson said.

Light from sunsets, stars and planets can be separated into its component colors to create spectra, as prisms do with sunlight, in order to obtain hidden information. Despite the staggering distances to other planetary systems, in recent years researchers have begun to develop techniques for collecting spectra of exoplanets. When one of these worlds transits, or passes in front of its host star as seen from Earth, some of the star's light travels through the exoplanet's atmosphere, where it is changed in subtle, but measurable, ways. This process imprints information about the planet that can be collected by telescopes. The resulting spectra are a record of that imprint.

Spectra enable scientists to tease out details about what exoplanets are like, such as aspects of the temperature, composition and structure of their atmospheres.

Robinson and his colleagues exploited a similarity between exoplanet transits and sunsets witnessed by the Cassini spacecraft at Titan. These observations, called solar occultations, effectively allowed the scientists to observe Titan as a transiting exoplanet without having to leave the solar system. In the process, Titan's sunsets revealed just how dramatic the effects of hazes can be.

Multiple worlds in our own solar system, including Titan, are blanketed by clouds and high-altitude hazes. Scientists expect that many exoplanets would be similarly obscured. Clouds and hazes create a variety of complicated effects that researchers must work to disentangle from the signature of these alien atmospheres.

JUPITER'S GREAT RED SPOT IS SHRINKING. Jupiter's trademark Great Red Spot—a swirling storm feature larger than Earth—is shrinking. This downsizing, which is changing the shape of the spot from an oval into a circle, has been known about since the 1930s, but now a striking new Hubble Space Telescope image captures the spot at a smaller size than ever before.

Jupiter's Great Red Spot is a churning anticyclonic storm. It shows up in images of the giant planet as a conspicuous deep red eye embedded in swirling layers of pale yellow, orange and white. Winds inside this Jovian storm rage at immense speeds, reaching several hundreds of miles per hour.

Historic observations as far back as the late 1800s gauged this turbulent spot to span about 25,000 miles at its widest point wide enough to fit three Earths comfortably side by side. In 1979 and 1980 the NASA Voyager fly-bys measured the spot at a

FAMILY MATTERS

YOUR LEGACY SHOULD BE MORE THAN JUST MONEY

One of the most striking aspects of the recent family will cherish forever! opening of the National September 11 Memorial & Museum is the voice recordings left on the phones of the victims' families of their last messages to loved ones. We hear so many stories of family members who keep voicemails and answering machine messages for years after a loved one dies. There is something so comforting about hearing the voice again of someone you love and miss.

Wouldn't it be wonderful if you were able to leave something like this behind - not a voicemail or message that could easily be lost, but a full recording of the hopes and dreams you have for your children and grandchildren, your own history and life lessons you feel are too important

You may have even been intending to do this for some time, but have just never gotten around to it. You may have even written a letter and stuck it away hoping it would be found by the right person at the right time. Unfortunately, this does not always happen - and your words are simply too precious to leave that to chance.

Part of my firm's mission is to make this possible as part of your legacy planning process, helping you capture and pass on more than just your assets, but also your own story and your aspirations for your loved ones through a special video recording we produce for each of our clients. Tips of the Trade: Real Estate Revealed by Luther Tsinoglou

PREVENTATIVE

MEDICINE

It's an understandable conundrum: sellers believe their home is worth more than it is, and buyers think that it's worth less. So where is the proverbial "sweet spot" when it comes to the single most important aspect of marketing your home - setting its price?

Consider how many homes are for sale in your neighborhood. Is that number high? Then your listing price should be lower than the competition if you want to generate the most interest. Obvious, right? But how many of those rival listings are foreclosed properties or short sale listings? The most critical factor in evaluating this type of competition is the condition in which they are offered. Neglected homes aren't likely to affect you, but if they are in good shape and presented at prices 20% below market, you've got some hard thinking to do. If buyers aren't making appointments or showing up at an open house event, you probably priced too high at the start. Don't hesitate to make an adjustment, however, because properties generate the most interest in the earliest stage of the listing.

Finally, give any offer strong consideration. You may counter, but these days, buyers won't engage in extended negotiations - they'll just move on to the next property. You can avoid these bitter pills by practicing a little preventative medicine through competitive pricing right from the beginning.

SAVING THE BRICK AND MORTARS OUR NATION IS BUILT ON

Think about which three independently owned businesses you'd miss most if they were gone. Stop in and say hello. Pick up a little something that will make someone smile. Your contribution is what keeps those businesses around.

If just half the employed, U.S. population spent $50 each month in independently owned businesses, their purchases would generate more than $42.6 billion in revenue.* Imagine the positive impact if 3/4 of the employed population did that.

For every $100 spent in independently owned stores, $68 returns to the community through taxes, payroll, and other expenditures. If you spend that in a national chain, only $43 stays here. Spend it online and nothing comes home.

OPEN ISN'T THE PROBLEM

On June 3rd, California will hold an open primary in which voters can state their preference without consideration of party affiliation. There are many who feel that this is another California experiment in being different' and others who feel that it will allow for the two most popular candidates to battle it out in November to the benefit of voters. Personally, I tend to agree with the latter.

Therefore, when it comes down to endorsements, in certain cases it will be necessary to see where the dust settles by November. Example, in the LA County's Sheriff race, Retired LASD Undersheriff Paul Tanaka and Long Beach Police Chief Jim McDonnell are almost certain to face each other in November. Tanaka, current Mayor of Gardena, while taking the heat for the current investigation of the Sheriff's Department when it was under the leadership of Lee Baca has a couple of things in his favor in my opinion:

- It is clear that Tanaka disagreed with Baca's policies as Tanaka's decision to run for the office and challenge the leadership of the Sheriff's department occurred before Baca resigned.
- In a statement from his campaign earlier this year, Tanaka indicated that as Sheriff he would not be interested in contracting with the City of Sierra Madre for police services. Given the constraints the county is operating under already, I appreciate a leader who is not interested in taking our money and strengthening their coffers while providing fewer services.
- 3. Credit should also be given to the fact that at the trial of one of the deputies on trial in the Sheriff's scandal, Tanaka could have easily 'thrown the deputy under the bus' but instead acknowledged that the man was in fact following orders. In the real world, police officers, firefighters, military men are trained to take orders from their commanding officers without question and it is the expected duty of superior officers to support their men. He gets credit for that in my book. (I'm not saying whether or not any of the allegations of 'hiding' an informant were true, but it is really wrong to allow someone who works for you to go to jail for something they were ordered to do.) If Tanaka had done what most 'politicians' do, he would have let the deputy take the fall.

On the other hand Jim McDonnell, current police chief of Long Beach has an admirable record as a law enforcement officer and has impressive endorsements from current DA Jackie Lacey, former DA Steve Cooley and LAPD Chief Charlie Beck. (All of whom I supported) However, the strength of his campaign lies mostly in the fact that he is not a member of the leadership of the LASD. He was runner up for Chief of the LAPD and ascension to higher office is definitely a part of his career path. It should be noted that Long Beach PD hasn't been without its share of troubles.

So, the good news about this open primary will be that voters will more than likely be able to make an informed decision between whether or not the new Sheriff should be someone with experience from within the sheriff's department or someone totally on the outside. And believe me, by election day in November, all the facts will be laid out on the table.

In the meantime, I'm going to do what most people do, vote for what they believe is in their best interest. As of this date, I'm supporting Paul Tanaka because he's not interested in bringing the Sheriff's Department to Sierra Madre. Come November, however, that may change.

The Governor's race:

Governor: Jerry Brown - This is a no brainer. We were in a deficit when he took office. We have a surplus now. It wasn't easy, but he did it.

As for the openness of this race, looks like Jerry will be running against either 'take a gun on an airplane' former Minuteman Leader, Assemblyman Tim Donnelly who, pleaded guilty to carrying a loaded handgun while attempting to board a commercial flight and was sentenced to three years' probation.

Neel Kashkari who appears to be giving Donnelly a run for his money. Kashkari wants to "unleash the private sector" from regulation, especially manufacturing and energy; he envisions a California oil and gas "fracking" boom much like North Dakota's. And he'd like to see overtime pay kick in only after a 40-hour workweek, not after an eight-hour day. Add insult to injury, his endorsements are almost as scary as his ideas: Jeb Bush, Mitt Romney, Pete Wilson....really?

Short of waking up on June 4th and finding out that Jerry Brown did not make it to the November ballot, this Governor's race should be a done deal. If the top two vote getters end up being Donnelly and Kashkari, we're in for big troubles in paradise.

OUT TO PASTOR

JUST DON'T CALL ME ON MONDAY!

Those who know me would agree that I am cool, calm, and collected, although not in that order. It takes quite a bit to razzle me and get me out of sync with my inner harmony. No matter what happens, I can always find something to amuse me and to laugh it off. I am just that kind of guy.

I must confess that, while that is mostly true, I did have an incident this past week that threw all of that out of the window. That is what I get for leaving my window down!

The week started out as normal. Mondays are usually my down day. After a full weekend of preparation and ministry, I need one day to really chill out and get my wits about me re-collected. On Mondays, I do not wish to do anything or see anybody or go anywhere. My motto for Monday is simply, just don't call me!

I have one rule for Monday and that is it is impossible to oversleep. Whenever I wake up on Monday is when I get up. If ever the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage set the alarm clock for Monday morning, she will have to deal with a grouchy old geezer with an unpleasant attitude. I am sorry, that is the

On this particular Monday when I finally awakened, the first thing I noticed was that my wife had already left the house. Out in the kitchen the coffee had been brewed and waiting for my consumption. There was a nice bowl of oatmeal ready just for me.

Life cannot get any better than that! I only wish there were more Mondays in the week. I think when the Beatles sang that song, "Eight Days a Week," they were referring to two Mondays.

I fixed my coffee, got my oatmeal ready and proceeded into the living room where I could set in my easy chair and watch a little bit of television for as long as I could stay awake. Nothing is quite as nice as a Monday with nothing to do and nobody to bother you while you are doing it.

I got situated and took a nice sip of delicious coffee and then proceeded to turn on the television. That is when my Monday exploded.

I could not turn the TV on; something was wrong with the service. Usually at times like this, my wife takes care of the situation and resolves the problem. Here I was all on my own and I needed to step up and take care of business.

I distinctly remember one occasion when my wife had to face such a situation and she would call the TV service. She would speak to some people there and in a few moments (after some rather angry screeching), the problem was solved. So I decided to do the same thing, minus the screeching.

When was the last time you called a tech person to help you solve a problem with your TV and Internet service? Therefore, you know what I am about to get into. It is something worse than Rod Sterling's The Twilight Zone.

I called the number associated with our TV and Internet service and that is when the games began.

One of my problems is that I can remember 'the day" when you talked to a live person. Someone actually living and breathing and living in your own country. How was I to know that the service technicians were somewhere in the hills of India?

After punching 2,743 numbers on my phone, I finally got somebody. Actually, it was not really somebody; it was a recording telling me that I was 47th in line waiting for the technician.

According to my calculation, it would take me 29 Mondays to get to talk to a live, breathing technician.

By the time I was connected to a live technician, I had completely lost my cool and was close to not being collected.

One of the problems I faced was trying to explain to this technician what my problem was. The next problem was to understand what he was saying to me. I believe if you are going to service American people, you need to speak good old-fashioned American without some accent that makes you sound like you are from Mars.

Each minute on the phone with this technician caused me to lose more of my cool until I was absolutely hot under the collar. He knew almost as much about my problem as some stray cat in the backyard.

Finally, I had enough and thought the best part of valor on my part would it be to bid him adios before I said some things that I would later regret.

After I hung up and cooled down a little bit I thought of something. Why don't I just unplug the whole mess and then restart everything. It worked and I did not have to say it with some strange accent.

In my devotions that morning, I read from Psalms 33:4 where David says, "For the word of the LORD is right; and all his works are

Ms. Cooper wrote, "Can I scream yet? It's time for America to admit what it's long resisted: white male privilege kills". The self-deception here is amazing in its willingness to ignore facts. Mr. Rodger was half Asian, and he killed himself. Why is this white privilege, Ms. Cooper? Why is this white privilege, Ms. Cooper? Why isn't it Asian privilege? Relative to their proportion in the population, more Asians are admitted to the UCs than whites or other racial groups. Isn't that a privilege? To grant Ms. Cooper any semblance of logic to her ramblings, based on the events in Santa Barbara, abouldn't we request that the LICs begin shouldn't we request that the UCs begin instructing their Asian students to "check their privilege" as is being done to so many white students at several of America's elite colleges? Of course, it is ridiculous to ascribe this to Asian privilege, but such linkages are the heart of Ms. Cooper's position.

Come to think of it, why is there any evidence of privilege at all? Mr. Rodger ultimately killed himself and left behind a manifesto documenting a pretty miserable psychological existence. Whatever monetary advantage his family's entertainment industry-generated wealth provided wasn't much of a privilege after all. There is no evidence of any privilege in this situation, but there certainly was an opportunity for a leading intellectual of the Left (she teaches at Rutgers, after all) to push Liberal theories of class, gender and racial divisions.

The same can be said of the Southern Poverty Law Center's attempt to lay blame for the killings on frustrated men the first burial of a victim from Santa but that was probably Barbara's killing spree before the Left started exploiting the situation for political gains. I don't know whether the purpose is to raise money for their cause, the reach through the situation for purpose is to raise money for their cause, coffins of the innocent

A spokesman for the Southern Poverty Law Center told MSNBC on Tuesday that "the killing of four men and two women by Elliot Rodger was part of a war on women which began in 1989" (we even have a beginning date), adding that "the misogynistic man-o-sphere online created a number of mass killers." Not to be left out of the hate-fest, MSNBC's host, Joy Reid, noted that Elliott Rodger spent most of his time on websites in which men expressed their frustrations about feminism and their difficulties in attracting women".

So the war on women is being fueled by online entertainment. That raises some interesting issues which the Left has conveniently neglected to explore. The war on women was previously thought to be a product of conservatism. But if this misogynistic movement is fueled by the entertainment industry, then doesn't that make it a product of liberalism, not conservatism? Secondarily, if the entertainment industry can produce websites which create and/or exacerbate violent tendencies in males, doesn't that give some credence to conservative concerns about the effects on society of the debauchery and violence that passes for mainstream entertainment on T.V. and in the theatres?

I will pass on the opportunity to make the political points to which the answers to the above questions might lead. I do, after all, have empathy for those who have lost loved ones, and I do want to allow them their time to grieve without being drawn into a political debate.

That leaves this article a bit unfinished, but that is at it should be. As for Rutgers, who employs, and MSNBC, who provides airtime, to such insensitive, callous and deceitful opportunists, shame on you. I never expected better from the likes of Brittney Cooper or the Southern Poverty Law Center. I had hoped that a leading educational institution and a mainstream American media firm would have better vetting processes. That was a false hope.

For the victims' families, my apologies that you have to be included in any discussion, debate or distortion at this difficult time in your lives. Our prayers go out to you for healing, comforting and eventually some sliver of peace during your long walk in the valley of the shadow of death where you can know that God is with you.

WHAT'S ON 98

May 26 - June 1, 2014

The Jungle Book is playing Sunday Morning at 7:00 a.m. Rudyard Kipling's famous story of Mowgli the jungle boy comes alive with Sabu as the boy raised by wolves learns to live among people.

Rudyard Kipling was a British Nobel laureate that published a series of stories in magazines of 1893 and 1894. Kipling was born in India, and lived there, in Britain, and later in Vermont, US, where he wrote and published his stories. Most of his stories were fantasy tales about the animals of India, and Mowgli, a boy raised by wolves that returns to civilization.

This telling of the story of Mowgli starts with an English woman on Safari in India that takes a picture of an old sage telling stories of the past. He tells her and us the story of the wolf boy, a child raised by wolves that can speak the language of all of the animals of the jungle. A group of people find a spot in the Indian jungle that they decide will be the home of their new village. There is a little baby boy that walks off into the jungle while no one is paying attention. His father discovers that he is missing and goes off into the jungle calling his son's name and searching for him, but he is killed, leaving his mother as a widow without her son. The boy is raised by a pack of wolves, and one day is chased by a terrible tiger that promises to kill him, but the boy escapes the tiger and stumbles upon the village of his mother. He is discovered by the tribesmen, and they eventually decide that he must be the boy that wandered away many years ago. His mother doesn't think that it is her lost son, but she is a kind woman that promises to care for him and teach him the ways of the people.

One man thinks that the boy is a devil, and wants to kill him, because he will never lose his wild animal instincts. He forbids his daughter to be around the boy, but of course the daughter and Mowgli find an immediate attraction for each other. As Mowgli learns to speak, we learn that he is afraid of the tiger named Shere Khan, who has threatened to kill the boy, and he buys a knife from the girl's father so that when he again meets Shere Khan the tiger he may be victorious in the battle. One day Mowgli and the girl go off into the jungle because she wants to experience the jungle as Mowgli sees it, and hear him converse with his jungle friends. They stumble upon the ruins of an ancient Indian city and discover a King's treasure room with untold riches that is guarded by an old cobra snake. But then the girl wakes from her nights sleep, and is not sure whether she actually experienced the jungle trip, or if it was a dream.

But her father discovers a gold coin in her hand, and when she tells the story of her and Mowgli finding the jungle treasure, her father gets a glint in his eye, and promises not to threaten harm to Mowgli any more, because he secretly wants Mowgli to lead him to the hidden treasures of the lost city. Thus begins an adventure that the whole family will enjoy while munching on freshly popped corn. Sabu, the actor who played Mowgli in this adventure, was a lad of Indian descent that appeared in 23 movies before his death in 1963 at the young age of 39.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF HELEN M. ARTMAN

Case No. BP151826

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of HELEN M. ARTMAN

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Janet L. Breidenbach in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Janet L. Breidenbach be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on June 10. 2014 at 8:30 AM in Dept. No. 5 located at 111 N. Hill St., Los Angeles, CA 90012.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk. Attorney for petitioner:
