SIERRA MADRE CROWNED THE 8TH SAFEST CITY IN CALIFORNIA

Earlier this week they released the following report:

Report issued by real estate industry leader Movoto, the work of the SMPD was recently validated. According to their ranking, Sierra Madre is one of the safest places to live in the entire state.

When it comes to laid back living, California is literally the Golden State. Eve-rybody knows that the vibe here is all about taking it easy—but did you ever wonder why? Sure, it might have something to do with the nearly perfect weather and con-stant sunshine. More than that, though, California is generally a pretty safe place to live, allowing us to relax. But which of the state's fine places are the safest of them all? According to our latest analysis at the Movoto Real Es-tateBlog, here are the 10 safest places in California:

- 1. Town of Hillsborough
- 2. City of Saratoga
- 3. City of Laguna Woods
- 4. City of Imperial
- 5. Town of Moraga
- 6. City of Rancho Santa Margarita
- 7. City of Los Altos
- 8. City of Sierra Madre
- 9. City of Palos Verdes Estates
- 10. Town of Danville

What exactly makes these 10 communities so safe?

In order to find these 10 safest places in California, we started by gathering a list of all of the places in the state with populations of 10,000 or more that pro-vided crime data to the FBI in 2012. That left us a grand total of 365 places. Then, we used the FBI's latest Uniform Crime Report (2012) to research each of these places according to the following seven criteria, measuring each for crimes per 100,000 people:

- Murder
- Rape Robbery
- Assault Burglary
- Theft
- Vehicle theft

We divided these crimes into four distinct categories:

- Murders
- Violent crimes
- Property crimes
- Total crimes

We then ranked each of our places with a score of one to 365 according to each category, with one being the safest. Next, we weighted these scores so that murder, violent crime, and property crime each comprised 30 percent of the final score, while total crime made up 10 percent. We averaged these weighted rankings together for each place to get a Big Deal Score. The place with the lowest Big Deal Score was our safest place; in this case, Hillsborough.

TWO SUSPECTS ARRESTED IN VALERO GAS STATION BREAK IN

Edvard Martirosyan

Fast action by the Sierra Madre Police Department and enhanced security at the Valero Gas Station at Baldwin and Sierra Madre Blvd. led to the capture and arrest of two men suspected of a variety of criminal acts.

At 2:40 AM Sierra Madre Police Officers responded to an alarm call at the Valero Gas Station 4 N. Baldwin Ave. and quickly detained to suspects who were installing a skimming device to capture credit card numbers in the gas pumps. Edvard Martirosyan 27 and Aram Manasaryan 22, both residents of Glendale, were taken into custody without incident. There were other skimming devices, laptop computers, counterfeit credit cards, and other tools used to compromise the gas pumps inside the suspects' vehicle. This is the second incident at the Valero Station within two weeks.

Police Chief Larry Giannone said" the Officers quick response to the alarm call allowed us to catch the suspects in the act. Officers were on scene within 1 minute of being dispatched to the call and caught the suspects as they were attempting to leave". Chief Giannone also urges anyone that has used a credit or debit card from May 22nd to June 6th at the Valero Gas Station to monitor their bank statements for any unusual activity just to be on the safe side. "At this point in the investigation we cannot be 100% certain that some personal information was not captured". Martirosyan and Manasaryan were booked at the Pasadena Police Dept. Jail on multiple felony charges and then were transferred into Federal Custody and taken to the Metropolitan Detention Center. Martirosyan also has a pending case with Secret Service and was out on bond at the time of his early morning

As admonished by the Police earlier this month, residents who made purchases with credit and/or debit cards at Valero should monitor their accounts carefully.

WALKING SIERRA MADRE...... The Social Side By Deanne Davis ZIPLINING AT 90

"Angel On Duty!" That's what it says on a sign outside Ann Tyler's lovely apartment, where she's lived since 1972, where our own George Maurer is agreed to take the lead in the investigation.

her apartment manager. And, after spending the morning with her, I'm inclined to think SHE is the Angel who is on duty! This charming lady turned 90 last October and celebrated by doing her second zipline run. Where was she? In Icy Strait Point, Alaska, located on Chichagof Island, 1.5 miles away from the Alaska town of Hoonah! To pin it down a little more for you, it's a cruise ship stop down a little more for you, it's a cruise ship stop between Juneau and Ketchikan. The Icy Strait Point folks advertise their zipline as being "the world's largest," 5,330 feet long, a 1,300 foot vertical drop, 60 mph maximum speed, 300 feet from the ground at the highest point (taller than the Empire State Building) and it's a real fast 1.5 minute ride with six cables shooting fearless zipliners down simultaneously! You've gotta be kidding, you're saying! Nope, Ann Tyler did it and enjoyed every minute. But this was old news to her, she's done it before in Alaska! Her son told her she had to go so he wouldn't be scared. We won't say who did the screaming, but it wasn't

Ann's an inveterate world traveler, having taken twelve cruises with her son and his wife. She's been four times to Alaska, all over Europe -Amsterdam, Russia, the Caribbean, Hawaii and plans are underway for a 2016 cruise to Antarctica!

That's not all Ann's got going...she is currently President of the Priscilla Club, the oldest social club in Sierra Madre, which started in 1906. The Priscillas are ladies who meet monthly to visit and are involved with local charities. She's the only Honorary Charter member of the Civic Club left, past President of the Women's Club and she is a serious knitter, making chemo caps for our Veterans and working currently on a throw for them. She is also an usher at the Pasadena

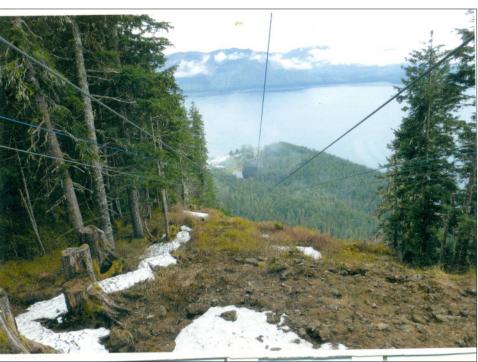

Ann was born in Long Beach and she and her family moved to Sierra Madre the day after the Long Beach earthquake in 1933, to join her aunt. Ann graduated from St. Rita's, spent some time in Jr. College in Pasadena and married her husband, James Bryce Tyler, in 1941 when she was 17. They had been married 61 years when James passed away in 2002. Some of you may remember James was Fire Chief here for a while. Ann is related to the Collins family, long time residents of Sierra Madre. Ann's mother was married on their front lawn. Ann and James had six children; their oldest died at just 3-1/2 and their daughter passed away at an early age, leaving three sons who came to live with Ann and James. She had 9 boys at the table! Having fed and put shoes on 9 growing boys was probably far more of an adventure than ziplining in Alaska at 90! Ann's cruising buddy son, lives in Georgia and tells her he expects her to live to 100! Another son is a resident of West Covina, a third is in La Verne and one of her three nephews is in Azusa.

Ann says that the changes she's seen in her beloved Sierra Madre have been mostly for good, and it's a delight to see many of contemporaries in town who are also over 90! Of course, kids all walked to school in her day and played outside till dark. Seems she was always the daring one, mentioning that she once walked across the dam to impress a boy!

After reading Lauren Hillenbrand's book, "Unbroken," detailing Louis Zamperini's World War II story of survival, resilience, and forgiveness, she would really like to meet him. Ann was reminded of another of our local authors, Fay Angus, who has also written of surviving a Japanese prison camp in Yangchow, China during World War II (see Fay's book, The White Pagoda").

A cockatiel added his thoughts to our conversation from time to time as he watched from his cage close by and a tropical fish Ann won at the Women's Club over a year ago is alive and well on the coffee table. Ann feels that she inspires people, which is why she is still among us. Her favorite job, which she started after she was 50, was working as a medical assistant, where she had opportunities to be a listening ear and a comforting hand to patients who needed someone to care. She practices yoga at the Senior Center and was gearing up to go to Bingo as I was saying goodbye. $2.60 is her biggest pot so far but the sky's the limit for Ann Tyler, one of the busiest and nicest

BIG CHANGES AT SIERRA MADRE'S LLAGE INTERNET RADIO STATION:

The Board of Directors of Village Vine Online has decided to move the organization in a new direction. In keeping with our mission of community service, we are discontinuing 24/7 live audio streaming. In order to better serve the community, our focus will be on providing live audio and video webcasts and podcasts of community events, podcasts of hosted shows homegrown here in Sierra Madre, video and audio webcasts and podcasts of community sports events, and, by the end of the summer, we will present a community blog, with guest host bloggers rotating every few months.

CITIZEN WEBCASTERS: Part of our new approach is to utilize "citizen webcasters" living here in town. We are now actively recruiting people who can attend public events, and, utilizing equipment as simple as their smart phones, webcast those events through the Village Vine web site. will be provided.

CITIZEN PODCASTERS: We are looking for podcasters who might like to share their home-grown podcasts on the Village Vine web site. Subjects for podcasts could include original music, gardening, cars, dogs, water conservation, sports, etc. The subject matter for potential podcasts is only limited to the degree the community might have interest in it. Contact us at hostvi@yahoo.com if you would be interested in podcasting with us.

LIZZIE'S FAMOUS CHICKEN & RAVIOLI DINNER JUNE 28, 2014 5-8PM

On the west side of the Mount Wilson Trail, Lizzie's Trail Inn had its start about 1890 as a lunch stand and coffee shop. Walt Douglas ran this stand in 1905. By the time Mr. W.P. Caley purchased the entire property in June 1907, it included the stand, a store, house and stables. The stand was moved across the trail to its present location in 1913. Even though Lizzie only ran the restaurant for 13 years, there are many great stories related to her ownership.

The Sierra Madre Historical Preservation Society will be celebrating that ownership with a Chicken and Ravioli Dinner at the Mt. Wilson Trail Park, located next to the Richardson House and Lizzie's Trail Inn, in Sierra Madre. You will be able to not only enjoy a great dinner, but also visit our native plant demonstration garden, view the new Interactive Digital Storyboard in Richardson House with presentations by the Sierra Madre Library's Teen Docents, participate in our raffle of items donated by local merchants, and visit with Lizzie in person!

We can't wait to see you there for an evening of good food, good fun, good entertainment, and good

THE MONEY TALK

By Greg Welborn

It's time to talk about "the talk" - the money talk, the talk we all need to have with our adult kids, the one that surveys show almost everyone agrees they should have, but that the vast majority avoid. So here are a few suggestions on how to make it easier.

First, acknowledge that you're avoiding it. Acknowledging a problem is the first step to fixing it. There are several reasons why parents avoid this conversation. A) Nobody wants to talk about death. B) Many parents are concerned that talking about an inheritance will demotivate their kids. C) Guilt gets in the way if there's a chance you might need the kids' help.

Second, break it down into multiple conversations. Some of the fear, concern and potential guilt can be relieved by having several talks, rather than one BIG one. Start early, broach the subject, judge reactions or concerns, and then continue as you feel right for your

Third, start with concepts and end with specifics. Don't announce out of the blue, "we need to talk". Use a family B-day, or friend's situation as a reason to bring up the topic. Then start with concepts, talk about your goals, what you've done, what needs to be done, etc., and gradually start filling in the details as you go

Fourth, share your reasoning. Whatever your plan is, the kids will learn about it. The only question is whether that is after your death when they can't ask you what your reasoning was, or now when you can have a healthy dialogue about what you want to accomplish and why.

Fifth, pick your executor/trustee logically. Too many people simply default to the oldest child. You need to think about capabilities, experience, education and geography. Some really great people just aren't organized, or like handling money, or live close enough to do the job affectively. Pick the person who can do the job well.

Lastly, use a facilitator if necessary. There are those family dynamics which just make this conversation too difficult to have without professional help. Use an objective financial advisor to orchestrate the meeting. We have served in this role for a number of clients, and each has been thankful for the support.

Talking with the adult kids about money doesn't have to be difficult, but it does have to be done. If the topic is left unaddressed, there is greater risk of misunderstandings, hurt feelings, or awkward surprises and burdens. Stretch it over several conversations and/or use an advisor to help, but by all means get going before it is

LOCAL GREEN BERET KILLED IN AFGHANISTAN

Flags flew at half-staff in the city Wednesday in honor of a Green Beret from Pasadena killed Monday, along with five other US soldiers, after a NATO aircraft may have accidentally bombed his unit instead of enemy attackers.

Scott Studenmund, 24, was a graduated from Flintridge Preparatory School in La Cañada Flintridge.

School officials confirmed his death on Tuesday.

"Scott went on to play football for Pitzer College for a year before deciding to take a leave from college to pursue his life's dream of becoming a Special Forces Green Beret soldier, Headmaster Peter Bachmann said in a statement. "He spent two years in training, including six months of foreign language, during which he learned to speak Arabic. In his class of 38, Scott was one of three to complete the program and earn the Green Beret title. In 2013, Scott completed one of the most difficult military trainings, a seven-week combat dive school at Key West."

Studenmund graduated in 2008 from Flintridge Preparatory School. He was deployed to Afghanistan in January of 2014.

According to a statement The International Security Assistance Force (ISAF), "We can confirm five International Security Assistance Force service members died in southern Afghanistan. The casualties occurred during a security operation when their unit came into contact with enemy forces. Tragically, there is the possibility that fratricide may have been involved. The incident is under investigation."

Reports suggest that a B-1 Bomber, called in by ground troops, could be resp for the friendly fire.

Remembering A Great Man: Retired Arcadia Police Chief Neal Johnson

This past Monday, there was a special Memorial and Celebration of a truly great man, Retired Arcadia Police Chief Neal Johnson (November 13, 1934-June 3, 2014) at the Church of the Nazarene in Pasadena. When I arrived, I was totally surprised by the great number of peace officers. From Arcadia PD, there was

Retired Chief Bob Anderson, current Chief Bob Guthrie, Captain Paul Foley, Lieutenant Mike Castro, recently retired Sgt. Tom Levesque and many officers and explorers! From Glendale PD, there was Chief Rob Castro and officers; Monrovia PD Chief Jim Hunt, Captain Alan Sanvictores, Lt. Mike Lee and officers; Sierra Madre PD Chief Larry Giannone and officers; San Gabriel PD Chief David Lawton and Alhambra PD Lieutenant Jennifer Weiss. There also were representatives from so many other agencies: El Monte, Chino, Pomona, San Marino, Monterey Park, Torrance, and even Indio Police Department! The CHP Assistant Chief Marc Shaw, Commander Mark Odel from the Newhall Station and many CHP officers also attended. From the Sheriff's Department, retired Lt. J.P. Harris, Lt. Corinne Jacob, Sgt. Burton Brink and several officers and deputies came to pay their respects. There also were several police explorers from various

The service included three speakers: Arcadia Police Chief Bob Guthrie, Larry Lear, Director San Gabriel Valley Law Enforcement Explorer Academy and retired Arcadia Police Chief Bob Sanderson.

Chief Guthrie traced Chief Johnson's great career at Arcadia Police Department. It was he who founded the Police Explorer Academy so many years ago in Arcadia. Chief Guthrie relayed how he (Guthrie) was an explorer, and later was hired as an officer by Chief Johnson. As Chief Guthrie's career advanced, the retired Chief Johnson still kept in touch and was always his mentor. Chief Johnson was Guthrie's personal friend whom he could call for assistance or advice. Chief Johnson was "Chief of Chiefs for all of man who was in charge of the Christmas Toy Drive and dressed as the "Easter Bunny" to the delight of many children.

Larry Lear, Director of the San Gabriel Valley Law Enforcement Explorer Academy spoke of the outstanding impact Chief Johnson had on youth. In addition to the Academy, he was very involved in boy scouts. I also would like to mention that explorers from the entire program in El Monte and San Gabriel attended. I asked the Indio Policeman why he attended and he had gone through the Explorer Program! So many officers came for that reason; many attended to pay their respects to a fine man who had given so much of himself to his community and surrounding communities.

Retired Chief Robert Sanderson read tributes from Chief Johnson's children and son-in-law. Neal and wife Norma Jean had three children, Neal, Terri and Roger. When Jerry Ligget was fourteen, his parents died and Norma and Neal adopted Jerry. In Jerry's tribute, he speaks of an awesome Dad who took him in at fourteen years-not many people would do that, and what a wonderful father he was. Neal, Terri and Roger also spoke lovingly of their dad- they were disciplined, but there was a lot of love and many fun times traveling, camping and fishing!

Prior to the service, I spoke with Glendora Mayor Joe Santoro and wife Jeannie. Joe was Monrovia Police Chief for several years, and was succeeded by Neal's son Roger as Monrovia Police Chief. Joe knew Neal as a neighboring Police Chief, but also came out of respect for Roger. Jeanie Santoto told me their son Ron went through the Academy, worked at Arcadia PD and is now a DA in Orange County. Ron was very disappointed he couldn't attend because of work commitments.

Neal's son Roger is also well-liked and respected as a former Monrovia Police Chief and great human being like his dad. Many from Monrovia PD came for Roger, including retirees Rick Miglia, Don Lacher, Bill Couch and Steve Cofield.

What a wonderful man Neal Johnson was. I cannot believe how much he accomplished during his life and how many people were truly inspired by him.

DR. SERENA BEEKS ENCOURAGES EIGHTH-GRADE GRADUATES AT THE GOODEN SCHOOL TO SPREAD JOY, MAKE A DIFFERENCE

School's 2014 eighth grade class, Dr. Serena Beeks, encouraged the member of the National Association of Episcopal Schools, and is students to spread joy and "be the kind of person who in every an Honorary Canon of the Cathedral Center. Additionally, Beeks situation brings possibility or creativity, light or hope, respect, compassion and love."

The graduation took place on Thursday, June 5, on the school's campus in Sierra Madre. As the executive director of the Diocesan Commission on Schools, Beeks oversees nearly 40 Episcopal schools in the Los Angeles Episcopal diocese.

Beeks advised the students to make a difference, regardless of their ages or circumstances. "Right now, today, as an eighth grader who can't yet drive or vote (soon, though!), you are smart enough, rich enough, talented enough, and good enough to make a difference in the lives of others, right now.

"When you have interacted with a lonely person and realized your common humanity, you will want to treat others as you would wish to be treated, and your patience and tolerance for the differences and problems and worries of others increases. In everyday small ways you will want to think about easing the burdens of others rather than adding to them; spreading joy rather than sadness. You will find your greatest joy in bringing joy to others," she said.

As Beeks congratulated the young graduates, she offered a prayerful perspective: "May you always, beginning right now, speak and act with confidence in your abilities to be a blessing to others. May you always take the time and make the effort to look deeper - for the good in the people you meet, for the good in yourselves. God bless, preserve, and inspire you all."

Since 1998, Beeks has served as Executive Director, Diocesan Commission on Schools, Episcopal Diocese of Los Angeles. She did however take a break to serve as division head of a new independent school in Las Vegas for five years, which gave her a perspective on challenges and opportunities in education outside of the world of Episcopal schools. Prior to her position at the diocese, Beeks served as founding head of school of St. Mark's, in Upland, for 16 years. Beeks received her Doctor of Ministry degree from Virginia Theological Seminary, and is a graduate of UC Berkeley

MALEFICENT

THE REEL DEAL: by Ben Show

Growing up, I saw every Disney movie. From 'Snow White' to 'The Lion King' to 'The Princess and the Frog', I saw them all. Except for 'Sleeping Beauty'. For whatever reason, I never saw it and never wanted to. However, now that it has been 'remade' as a live action movie, I am interested in the original animated film.

Maleficent (Angelina Jolie) grew up as a fairy, stuck between the conflict of the world of magic and humans. At a young age, she was betrayed by Stefan (Sharlto Copley), who would use her to become King.

Filled with rage, Maleficent would take her revenge by cursing his daughter, Aurora (Elle Fanning).

'Maleficent' takes the idea of the original animated film (Princess gets cursed, falls asleep, true love's kiss must be used to wake her up) and expands upon it greatly. It gives the character Maleficent an interesting origin and provides the reason for her vengeance. 'Maleficent' is the best live action fairy tale since the 'Lord of the Rings' trilogy, and deserves to be seen by anyone, whether a fan of Disney movies or not.

JUST FOR BEST FRIENDS

A few weeks ago I was having coffee with a couple of my BFF's, and during the course of our conversation my friend Kim shared with us a story she'd heard about a guy who helped rescue a very sick, critically injured American bald eagle, and through much effort and tender-loving-care managed to bring her back to good health and has been giving her refuge ever since.

The poor eagle was found nutritionally deprived to the point of near death with two broken wings, and covered in lice. She was barely able to move, yet with remarkably tenacious resilience and strength, she was still holding on to dear life. The ravaged raptor's rescuer, Jeff Guidry was strongly compelled to do everything he could to help that innocent, ill eagle recover, in spite of the dire condition she was in. Jeff's compulsion to remain hopefully devoted to the cause was mainly driven by the look in that eagle's eye when she stared up at him as he assessed the situation and formulated a plan to give her a second chance.

You see, even though the injured eagle's frail body seemed ready to succumb, her desperate call for help clearly came through to Jeff in her intense gaze. It was as if she was saying, "Please, give me a second chance, and I will be forever grateful to you, and perhaps I can pay you back some day." These are my own words for what that beautiful bird might have been thinking at the time, but Jeff has his own set of words to describe the experience, and was kind enough to share them in his book entitled, An Eagle Named Freedom: My True Story About a Remarkable Friendship, HarperCollins Publishers, New York,

It was 1998 when Jeff first met the desperate, dying juvenile eagle, whom he later named Freedom". Freedom had been brought in to the Sarvey Wildlife Care Center in Arlington, WA where Jeff volunteered and teamed up with the others to assist in saving her life, if at all possible. As it is so nicely put in the preface of his book, "From the moment Jeff Guidry saw the emaciated baby eagle with broken wings, his life was changed." As a miracle might have it, the eaglet did indeed recover and Jeff became her forever stranger to miraculous recoveries. Not only had he born witness to and played a major part in the second chance his new found friend, Freedom experienced, but he also had a brush with death himself in the year 2000 when he was diagnosed with stage 3 non-Hodgkins lymphoma. That is when it became clear to Jeff that Freedom had a very important purpose to play out in life; him what he had given her - hope for a second chance.

Between

chemotherapy treatments and doctorcountless appointments, Jeff maintained a regular regimen of visiting Freedom at Center, taking her out for walks and talking to her about what he was going through. He knew she could relate to his experience.

A SECOND CHANCE FOR FREEDOM

Soon the two were inseparable companions, connecting with one another in a way that most friends cannot fully understand. They had each been granted a front-row-center seat that provided an all-too-close-up view of life's potential final moments, yet remarkably, they were both still alive! Both had been through a dark tunnel that would eventually lead back to the light of living, but not without much pain and suffering. And both knew what it meant to appreciate every breath they would take thereafter

As I read about Jeff and Freedom's story, I began to wonder how I, myself might deal with such a challenge. Not only a challenge IN life, but a challenge OF life. Would I be so strong, as to not give up or give in? I believe that one can only be sure of their own reaction to such a situation if they are met with it, and so far I have been spared from such a traumatic life-threatening ordeal. However, I also believe that when a person (whether it be an human or an eagle) is willing to give their all to survive, they are transformed into a stronger creature with much deeper potential for thought, reflection, appreciation and

And so it seems that is indeed what happened to Jeff and his wonderful winged friend, Freedom. As it turned out, Freedom would never fly again, or at least not in the way she understood flying before her demise. Even though her broken bones and fragile body healed amazingly well, the damage that had been done was such that she would never be able to join the others of her species in soaring above the clouds, as she had when she was a child. However, part of the lesson learned by both Freedom and Jeff through their brush with death is that flying or soaring are terms that can be applied to more than just the physical act as we know it.

Without spoiling the entire story written in Jeff's book, I will say that in many ways both Freedom and Jeff fly or soar every single day of their lives! They soar above those of us who have never had to come to the crossroad of whether we will be strong enough to overcome, rather than succumb to death, and I can't help wondering if they could have done it without each other's loving strength and relentless support.

I don't have a great summary with which to end this Happy Tail, and in fact I don't think it is my right to offer such wisdom, since the experience was not my own. I can only offer what I have drawn from the story those two amazing By the time Jeff wrote his book, he was no individuals were kind enough to share with me and the rest of humanity. I find it to be one of the most inspiring accounts of what can happen when a dieing person is encouraged by another, to live and not give in. Miracles do happen, I believe. And when miracles happen, positive changes are played forward. I'd like to say thank you, Freedom and Jeff for playing it forward to this humble human being who can only imagine not the least of which was that of giving back to the wisdom of truly loving and appreciating life to which you are now privy.

LOOKING FOR A BEST FRIEND?

Think of Tommy!

Tommy may impress you as being on the shy or quiet side at first, but once he gets comfortable, a cute and playful personality comes out that makes him irresistible. He gets cuter and cuter the longer you get to know him and he has a way of bringing laughter and fun into your day!

Tommy's fur coat is very soft and makes you want to cuddle him in a ball in your arms, but he is all "boy" and sometimes will try to turn that into playtime with you. He also loves to play with toys including tug-of-war with his human and dog

Tommy has a pleasant disposition and is a friendly, social boy with both people and other dogs of all sizes. He loves being part of a family group on a pack walk or in a play yard. He has average energy and walks very nicely on a leash. But when he is trailing behind in a group walk, a really sweet and humorous part of his character comes out. He doesn't want to miss out on anything and will huff and puff and work those short little legs as fast as he can to keep up with everyone! You can almost hear him tell the human on the other end of the leash to "hurry up"!

Tommy is a 11 $\frac{1}{2}$ lb. dachshund mix boy approximately 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ years old and he is looking for his forever family who he can have fun and enjoy life with.

He currently resides at the San Gabriel Valley Humane Society located at 851 E. Grand Avenue in San Gabriel with his roommate. We are located off San Gabriel Blvd., north of Mission and south of Las

To arrange a 'Meet and Greet' with Tommy, please stop by any time from 10:00am to 4:30pm Tuesday thru Sunday.

His adoption fee is $120 which includes a microchip, neuter surgery, first vaccinations and a free wellness check-up at a participating veterinarian. Feel free to call us at (626) 286-1159 for more information on Tommy.

PET OF THE WEEK: BARNABY

Animal ID #A4716755

Meet Barnaby, a sweet pup that is ready to give you a lifetime full of love and affection if you'll let him! Barnaby (A4716755) is an endearing 8-yearold, black with tan accents, small male canine. We believe him to be a Miniature Pinscher and Apple Head Chihuahua mix. Barnaby came to the Baldwin Park Animal Care Center as a stray on June 2nd. Weighing only 5½ pounds, Barnaby is a mostly low-energy boy who is not too shy to show the pep he's still got in his step every now and again. His favorite activities are being carried around or lounging in a lap—just as long as he's close to his humans! Who wouldn't want him as their lap or purse dog, with his adorable face that often has a tongue or tooth hanging out of it? Barnaby will make an awesome indoor pet for any household around; but because of his easygoing nature, we imagine that he will be an especially good fit for either a first-time dog owner or a senior. Barnaby is a great little guy! To watch a video of Barnaby please visit the following link: http://youtu.be/WskWpNlxjpA

To meet Barnaby in person, please see him at the Baldwin Park Shelter, located at 4275 N. Elton, Baldwin Park, CA 91706 (Phone: 626-430-2378 or 626-962-3577). He is available now. For any inquiries about Barnaby, please reference his animal ID number: A4716755. The shelter is open seven days a week, 12 pm-7 pm Monday-Thursday and 10am-5pm Friday-Sunday. This is a high-intake shelter with a great need for adoptions. For more information about Barnaby or the adoption process, contact United Hope for Animals Volunteer Adoption Coordinator Samantha at Samantha@hope4animals. org. HAPPY FATHER'S DAY TO ALL

Since I grew up in a Sparkling Wine/Champagne household, it seemed like there was always something for us to celebrate! Thanks to my father Elmer Dills, he made me the sparkling wine drinker that I am today! As we continue our month-long look at these Holiday Sparklers, this week's highlight, the Chandon Brut is indeed the "Father" of California Sparklers!

TABLE FOR TWO by Peter Dills thechefknows@yahoo.com

With the Chandon Brut, the price is right and the quality is always there. Though considered an everyday "House Sparkler", I certainly consider this a step up from the basic Korbel or Cooks.

I have visited and taken the tour of this 30-year-old winery numerous times in Yountville, CA, and can say I still enjoy the trip. The air temperature of Yountville is slightly warmer then its neighbors, thus producing a crispier Chardonnay grape. The same winemakers who have their French roots embedded with the likes of Moet and Dom Perignon own the Chandon Winery. With that, this sparkler is made using the same Champagne Method as its French cousins, using a combination of Chardonnay and Pinot Grapes to produce the perfect bubbly.

This is my favorite sparkler that's under $15. A perfect pairing with sharp cheddar or even a fine sheep cheese.

Dills Score

Each week I will give you my Dills Score. I have added points for value. I'm starting with a base of 50 points; I added 8 points for color, 8 points for aroma or "nose", 10 points for taste, 9 points for finish, and 9 points for my overall impression, which includes my value rating.

Total Score 92

Retails for $19.00 On Sale around $14 at most Vons.

INGREDIENTS

1 lb bacon

½ cup Panko (Japanese bread crumbs)

½ cup shredded Mexican cheese blend

1 lb lean ground beef

¼ cup salsa

¼ cup red onion, diced

¼ cup red pepper, diced

1 jalapeño, diced (These peppers are HOT, so if Dad doesn't like spicy foods, substitute a bell pepper.

Should you want the Jalepenos get help from an adult. Don't try to handle them yourself.)

1 Tbsp garlic, minced

1 tsp chili powder

1 tsp ground cumin

salt and pepper to taste

3-4 cups mashed potatoes (You can actually buy mashed potatoes already mashed in the deli section)

DIRECTIONS:

Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

Flip muffin tin upside down and spray with cooking spray. Cut 1 bacon slice in half and crisscross over bottom of tin cup. Wrap 1 full bacon slice around tin cup to create bacon cup. Repeat to create 5 more bacon cups. Place muffin tin on baking sheet and refrigerate.

Spray another muffin tin (right side up) with cooking spray and set aside.

Mix remaining ingredients in medium bowl (except potatoes). For a softer flavor, try sautéing the jalapeño for a couple of minutes before adding to the mix. Form 6 balls and place in prepared muffin tin.

Bake bacon and meatballs for 25 minutes. For a crispier shell, gently remove bacon cups from muffin tin. Turn tin over and place formed shells into right-side-up tin and broil bacon on high for an additional 3-5 minutes.

Warm pre-prepared mashed potatoes. Place meatballs into bacon cups and serve on top of mashed potatoes. Photo and recipe from cherylstyle.com about the senses in yoga. The 5 senses sound, sight, touch, taste and smell lives in so many We need these senses to provide us with vital information. If one of them is not available the others are heightened to compensate. They are also our enjoyment centers. But most of us have learned to become slaves to them. Temptation stems from repeated use of a certain sense that provides a benefit or stimulant. It can actually be good or bad, it's the repetition that fuels our addictions. When we have no idea what we are slaves to, our senses take over and create havoc. Then we bounce form one sensory fulfillment to another. We bounce from hunger, to sex, to drink, to visual and audio stimulation with out a thought. These de-sires drive our lives. We can just be sitting there and yet thinking about our next meal or addicted to Facebook.

The wise yogis decided to retreat from the senses See you in class. Namasté, René and the more you practice re-treat - the easier

We speak a lot it gets. I mean, who is in charge here You or your sens-es? You should be in charge, not your cravings. This is not like dieting. Diet-ing is just redirecting. The sensory stimulation addiction just shifts somewhere else. You need to develop direct our awareness of the inner you and the driven by sens-es you. After some practice at this, you can let your senses help you decided what is best for you. But that is with refinement, not "I want this and that and this."

> Temptation creates more temptation and pretty soon – ya gotta have it.

> The practice of discipline and withdrawing from the senses gives us heightened appreciation of the senses. It gives us the power of our own choice. The phys-ical discipline of yoga is the first step. If we crave pizza and coke and give in 3 days a week, our practice will suffer. Focusing on the physical body in pos-tures can help us see the temptation when it rises. Continued study can help us break patterns and get control. Next time you hear the teacher say "Pratyahara", you will know – withdrawal of the senses. It is another of the eight limbs of yoga.

HOW TO AVOID GAS AND BLOATING WITH FOOD COMBINING

Yesterday a good friend asked me about food combining and if I could recommend any books that explained it well. So I thought I would give you a brief idea of what food combining is and how it can work for or against you. The first thing you need to know is that all foods require different amounts of time to digest and move though our system. Natalia Rose author of the" Raw food Detox Diet" calls easily digest foods quick exit foods. The next thing you need to know is that eating certain food combinations can hinder digestion. If you suffer from gas or bloating after meals you may want to give food combining a try.

One of the secrets of establishing good health as well as maintaining weigh loss is to have a properly functioning digestive system. This means that you are able to absorb the maximum amount of nutrients, proteins and enzymes from your food. When this is accomplished it can prevent bloating, burping, gas and even indigestion. When done properly, food combining will make this all possible.

Fruits digest faster than any other food. Next in line would be nonstarching vegetables including herbs, nuts, seed, and olive and seed oils. The third group is your grains (products made from grains), sugars and starchy vegetables like corn on the cob. The foods that digest slowest are meats, dairy and fish.

- 1. Fruits (fresh fruits that is... cooked fruits take a little longer and dried fruits even longer still) take approximately 30 minutes to exit the stomach. Try to eat fruits first thing in the morning or 3 hours after a meal.
- 2. All non-starch vegetables may be eaten with flesh dishes.
- 3. All vegetables may be eaten with starches.

This is very basic description of food combining. You can get much more detail and fine tune what you eat but this is a quick primer for those just starting with food combining. What I take away from this is that the traditional meal I grew up on of meat, potatoes, vegetables and a raw lettuce salad is hard on the digestive system. A better meal would leave out the potatoes...or keep the potatoes and eliminate the meat.

28 DAY HEALTH TRANSFORMATION

by Dennis R. Buckley, D.C.

Whether you are just looking to improve and protect your health, or you have a serious condition that threatens your ability to live and function, there is a foundation that must be in place to support living well or recovering.

The foundation of health is based on four main areas being maintained.

- 1. Regular exercise and movement including stretching.
- 2. Proper nutrition to fuel your body.
- 3. Proper and sufficient rest to help your body heal and regenerate. 4. A fully functional spine and nervous system to control and coordinate all of your body's
- Many people are looking for the 'next best thing' without addressing or fortifying the foundation.

Promises are made all the time that this lotion, notion, product or pill will take you to the promise land of health.

Many people are suffering in many ways due to the fact that they have ignored taking care of their foundation. It is estimated that 70% of the problems people go to the doctor for are related to lifestyle therefore preventable because they have cracks in the foundation.

So what has happened is that their train has come off the tracks as they are trying to leave the station on their journey. They are stuck.

The 28 day health transformation is simplistic in its design to get your train back on the tracks so it can leave the station. It shores up your foundation on which all health and healing is based.

For 28 days, 4 weeks you are going to give your body a break and nourish it with activities to address strengthening your foundation.

For exercise, it includes movement and mobility on a daily basis. Nutrition wise you stop putting toxic stuff in your body and give your digestive track a break. When you exercise regularly and eat healthy great sleep is a by-product as your body detoxifies and repairs itself. Posture awareness and evaluation using chiropractic, massage, yoga, core training all help maintain the frame and allows the nervous system to flow and function without interference.

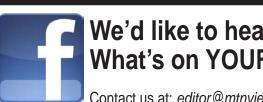

The 28 day health transformation has been tested and since it is simple and you don't have to buy any pills or equipment the question is asked, "What makes this program so special?" The answer is

You are the main factor of whether it works or not. You must change. You must get leverage on yourself to get back on track and set a new direction for your life. You must walk, you must do the stretching, you must make the choices and discipline yourself.

28 days is not a long time but can put you on course to build a foundation that you can then build on to sustain and protect your health for a 100 years.

TOP RATED NEW VEHICLES FOR SENIORS

Dear Savvy Senior:

Can you recommend any credible resources that rate the best vehicles for older drivers? My wife and I are both in our seventies and are looking to purchase a new automobile but could use some help choosing one that's age friendly. What can you tell us?

Car Shoppers

Dear Shoppers:

While there are a number of websites that rate new vehicles for older drivers, one of the most credible is Edmunds.com, a top-rated online resource for automotive research information.

For 2014, they developed a list of "top 10 vehicles for seniors" based on user-friendly features that help compensate for many of the physical changes - like diminished vision, arthritis, and range of motion loss – that can come with aging.

But before we get to the list, here is a rundown of different features that are available on many new vehicles today and how they can help with various age-related physical problems. So depending on what ails you or your wife, here's what to look for.

Knee, hip or leg problems: For comfort, a better fit, and easier entry and exit, look for vehicles that have six-way adjustable power seats that move the seat forward and backward, up and down, and the seat-back forward and backward. Also look for low door thresholds and seat heights that don't require too much bending or climbing to get into. Leather or faux leather seats are also easier to slide in and out of than cloth seats.

Limited upper body range of motion: If you have difficulty looking over your shoulder to back up or merge into traffic, look for vehicles with a large rear window for better visibility, wide-angle mirrors which can minimize blind spots, back-up cameras, active parallel park assistance, and blind-spot warning systems that alert you to objects in the way. Also, for comfort and fit, consider vehicles that have a tilt and telescoping steering wheel, adjustable seatbelts, and heated seats with lumbar support.

Arthritic hands: To help with difficult and painful gripping and turning problems, features that can help include a keyless entry and a push-button ignition, a thicker steering wheel, power mirrors and seats, and larger dashboard controls. And in SUVs and crossovers, an automatic tailgate closer can be a real bonus.

Diminished vision: Look for vehicles with larger instrument panels and dashboard controls with contrasting text that's easier to see. And those with sensitivity to glare will benefit from extendable sun visors, auto-dimming rearview mirror and glare reducing side mirrors.

Short and/or overweight: Look for six-way adjustable seats, adjustable foot pedals and a tilt-andtelescoping steering wheel.

2014 Best Vehicles

Here is Edmunds list of top 10 vehicles for 2014 listed in alphabetical order. Each offers features designed to support drivers coping with the conditions discussed above. Their picks include both sedans and SUVs, and range from top-of-the-line luxury models to those with more affordable price

Acura RDX SUV, Audi A8 Sedan, Ford Taurus Sedan, Honda Accord Sedan, Hyundai Sonata Sedan, Lexus ES 350 Sedan, Mazda CX-9 SUV, Mercedes-Benz E-Class Sedan, Toyota Avalon Sedan and

To read more about the details of these choices visit edmunds.com and type in "Top 10 vehicles for seniors for 2014" into their search bar.

AAA Resource

Another excellent resource that can help you chose a vehicle that meets your needs is the American Automobile Association's online tool called "Smart Features for Older Drivers."

At seniordriving.aaa.com/smartfeatures you can input the areas you have problems with - like knee problems, arthritic hands or a stiff upper body – and the tool will identify the makes and models that have the features that will best accommodate your needs. Although this tool looks at model-year 2013 vehicles, in many cases the features shown are carried over for 2014 models.

KATIE TseThis and That PROMOTION! (TO 1ST GRADE) Happy Father's Day! And speaking of fathers, if you read my column last week, I would like to reassure you that the bird making a nest in my dad's SUV has been safely relocated. So, onto the promotion! This article was printed a few years ago, but I figure that a new crop of students is being promoted, and the topic is still School's been out a couple of weeks for me. The last week is always a little hectic and unpredictable. There's the 8th grade trip to Disneyland, the 8th grade dinner dance (thank goodness I don't have to chaperone that!), and the 8th grade promotion. And that's just three of the last four days! The very last day includes individual class parties, report cards going home, and the Kindergarten promotion!

I wasn't able to watch the whole ceremony, but I've seen many of them, and this one seemed nearly identical to the rest. It had all the typical graduation elements; "Pomp and Circumstance," robes, mortarboards (of construction paper), diplomas, and speeches. However, in contrast to graduation from high school, kindergarten promotion doesn't have a valedictorian speech. No one waxed eloquent about "closing a chapter in their lives" and "embarking on a brave, new future." But since these young scholars range from five to six years of age, we can't expect too much of them. When you're only five, any chapters you're closing are pretty short.

Since I missed the first half of the program, I can only assume that there was the customary slideshow of the students throughout the year. My room is close to the kindergarten area, so, besides the playing and laughter, I often hear crying, and that whiny intonation kids make when they are tattling on each other. By the first month of school, I can tell which students get in trouble the most. "Kyle hit me!" "Kyle, get back in line!" "Kyle, let go of his neck!" Poor Kyle, I haven't even met him, but I know his whole kindergarten rap sheet.

Given that kindergarten is rife with crying, tattling, and children attempting to strangle each other, I'm always impressed by the teachers' ability to snap nice pictures of all of their students (not necessary all of them at once, but at least all of them individually). But most five and six year olds are inherently cute, so even if they're pulling another kid's hair, you can crop it into a nice picture. Love covers a multitude of sins, and cuteness covers a multitude of heinous acts committed by children.

This ever-present slideshow is usually set to some saccharine sweet song like "You've Got a Friend in Me" from "Toy Story" or Jack Johnson's "Upside Down" for "Curious George." They probably used Celine Dion's "Wind Beneath My Wings" back when that song was popular.

Despite the endearing pictures and stirring music, I wonder if turning the completion of kindergarten into a ceremony sort of cheapens the whole concept of graduation. It used to be that graduating was something everyone was expected to accomplish at the end of high school. Depending on what schools kids go to now, they can have as many as four graduation ceremonies before finishing high school. There's promotion from eighth grade to high school. Some schools have sixth grade promotions, and if a student is retained a year in kindergarten, that makes four! But on the other hand, no good thing is too small to celebrate. If parents get a kick out of having their youngsters wear square hats and pose holing a roll of paper, good for them!

So I congratulate all the graduates out there, and encourage those still in school. Don't worry; there is a light at the end of the tunnel -and it is called retirement. But that's a whole other article!

SENIOR HAPPENINGS

FYI - WHEN DOES OLD AGE BEGIN?

By Sharon O'Brien, Senior Living

At what age does a person stop getting older and actually becomeold? When does old age begin? When researchers at the Pew Research Center put this old age question and many others to nearly 3,000 adults, ranging in age from 18 to well over 65, the answers were revealing. Like many other questions in life, the definition of old age depends on who you ask.

As explained in Growing Old in America: Expectations vs. Reality, the report based on the Pew study, if you average all of the responses together the average answer is clear: Old age begins at 68. On the other hand, the average response of adults under 30 is that old age begins at 60. More than half of the adults in under 30 said that old age actually begins before people hit their 60th birthday.

As People Age, Old Age Moves Back

It's no surprise that the older people get, the longer they think it takes for a person to reach old age:

On average, adults between the ages of 30 and 49 think old age begins at 69.

People who are currently 50-64 believe old age starts at 72.

Responders who are 65 and older say old age begins at 74.

Responses to the question, "When does old age begin?" vary by sex as well as age, with women taking the more generous view. On average, women say old age begins at age 70, according to the Pew study. Men, on average, say that old age begins at 66.

Old Age is for Other People

The study also shows that only one thing is certain when it comes to old age: The majority of people agree that none of this applies to them.

Among the old age survey respondents who were 65-74, only 21 percent said they feel old. Even among those who are 75 and older—an age that many of those surveyed would call "old"—just 35 percent said they feel old.

Maybe it's true, as the old saying goes, that you're as young as you feel.

HELPFUL HINT: What to Do For A Smelly Garbage Disposal

Sprinkle 1 Tbsp. or so of baking soda in it along with a few drops of dishwashing liquid. Scrub with a brush (a new toilet brush works well), getting all around the interior. Turn on the water and the disposal; run for a minute. For a citrus scent, throw in a few cut-up lemons and run through the disposal with water.

FOR YOUR FUNNY BONE

An elderly gentleman who had had serious hearing problems for a number of years went to the doctor to be fitted for a hearing aid that would return his hearing to 100%. The elderly gentleman went back for further tests a month later and the doctor said, "Your hearing is perfect. Your family must be really pleased that you can hear again." To which the gentleman replied, "Oh, I haven't told my family yet. I just sit around and listen to the conversations. I've changed my will three times!'

SAN GABRIEL VALLEY ADDS 12,240 $JOBS \quad \text{By: Cynthia Kurtz, President SGVEP}$

jobs in 2013 - the largest yearly job increase since the recession devastated the local economy causing the loss of 55,000 jobs in less than two Healthcare is leading the San Gabriel Valley's recovery adding close to 8,000 jobs in 2013 and between 26,000 and 29,000 jobs over the last decade. Healthcare now accounts for 115,200 of the region's 645,400 jobs. Over the last 10 years, the largest job growth has been in physician offices (+5,000 jobs), hospitals (+3,900 jobs), home healthcare services (+1,900 jobs), and outpatient care centers (+1,800 jobs).

We aren't talking about administrative jobs in doctor offices and hospitals which are included in the ad-ministrative and support services sector. These jobs are health practitioners people with M.D. degrees and professionals who are registered or licensed to provide health services like dental hygienists or dieti-tians. These are good paying jobs with average annual salaries between $55,000 and $64,000.

The growth in healthcare has also generated job growth in other related industries. Scientific research and development services, management and

consulting, and pharmaceutical medical manufac-turing are also adding jobs.

Healthcare is not the only sector adding jobs. 2013 saw an increase of 3,200 jobs in leisure and hospitali-ty the businesses that support tourism. This is on the heels of adding 2,900 jobs in 2012. Tourism is a growing industry throughout Los Angeles County Angeles County and 2013 was a banner year with a record 42.1 visitors coming to the LA region. These visitors spent a record $16.5

The SGV is benefiting from these visitors - especially from Chinese tourists. They come to the SGV to visit friends and family, to see the Lio Fang Yuan Garden - Garden of Flowing Fragrance - at Huntington Hallelujah! The San Gabriel Valley added 12,240 Library, to visit the Hsi Lai Temple and of course to enjoy authentic Asian foods - just as good as back home.

> The average SGV hotel occupancy rate increased to an impressive 77.4 percent in 2013 - up from 61 percent in 2009. The average SGV room rate was $129.89 - up from a low of $118.52 in 2010. Don't be surprised to see some new hotels in the SGV. When it comes to tourism...we're hot.

> Another bright spot in the SGV economy is international trade. Our valley has a high concentration of international trade businesses. Some 6.7 percent of the region's total jobs are in international trade com-pared with a total of 5.3 percent in Los Angeles County.

> The Ports of Long Beach and Los Angeles handled 14.3 million containers in 2013 - a 3.4 percent in-crease over 2012. The outlook for increased trade in 2014 and 2015 is good. California's top trading partners are expected to continue to experience strong growth. We certainly haven't "recovered" yet. We still need 29,000 jobs to get back to the employment total in 2008 - a number we are unlikely to reach before the end of 2015. However, adding 12,240 jobs in a year is a good reason to celebrate.

SEAN'S SHAMELESS REVIEWS:

By Sean Kayden

BROKEN RECORDS

"Weights and Pulleys" is the third LP from Scottish folk infused indie rock group, Broken Records. The six-piece band has often been compared to Arcade Fire, The Editors, and the raw intensity of Bruce Springsteen. The similarities drawn from those bands are rooted within the anthemic songwriting Broken Records overtly display. The band's known for swapping instruments during live performances that consist of a violin, a cello, and an accordion as well as standard equipment. While Arcade Fire has consistently changed their music styles (for better or worse) and catapulted into a mainstream rock act, Broken Records keep plugging away with their solid yet reliable sound. On the contrary, the band is honing in on their trademark sound with "Weights and Pulleys," which marks the band's first LP in four years.

A record such like this is all about what's in the live performance. There is so much raw, passionate energy with nearly every song. Broken Records are storytellers that tell deep and richly crafted stories. The band has developed a well-rounded signature resonance. This ultimately provides them with the essential ingredients to ignite their unique tales on fire. From powerful drumbeats, to swirling guitars, and lead singer's Jamie Sutherland's brooding vocals, "Weights and Pulleys" has a series of highs and lows, but no matter where vocals destined in 100 matter where where vocals d no matter where you're floating in life, you will be rapt with all you hear. "Winterless Son," the best track on "Weights and Pulleys" is too good. It's infused with Springsteen's uncompromised provided in the life of the original tune. The arena type rock song will lift up any tired mind that lives a humdrum existence. "You'll Be Lonely (In A Little While)" is absolutely enthralling. The final stretch of the song has the group rocking out but with all that is going on, you're still heavily pulled in. After forty minutes, I was ready for another listen. "Weights and Pulleys" may not be groundbreaking, however, I was deeply fixated on nearly everything I heard.

"So Long, So Late" is another solid gem with dominant arrangements and dynamic song writing. I believe "Weights and Pulleys" consistency works to the group's advantage. Instead of having a solid single or two with the rest of the songs disappointing after that, Broken Records have crafted a piece of work that carries more weight than most rock albums released this year. It's richly layered, uplifting, reflective, and charming to the fullest. "Weights and Pulleys" exhibits a lot of depth and good-natured song writing that fans of folk rock, indie rock, and anthem type rock tunes should congregate and experience one of the finest rock records of the year.

Grade: 8.8 out of 10

HARD CHOICES by Hillary Rodham Clinton

Hillary Clinton's inside account of the crises, choices, and challenges she faced during her four years as America's 67th Secretary of State, and how those experiences drive her view of the future."All of us face hard choices in our lives," She writes at the start of this personal chronicle of years at the center of world events. "Life is about making such choices. Our choices and how we handle them shape the people we become." After her 2008 presidential run, she expected to return to representing New York in the United States Senate. To her surprise, newly elected President Obama, asked her to serve as Secretary of State. This memoir is the story of the four extraordinary and historic years that followed. .By the end of her tenure, Secretary Clinton had visited 112 countries, traveled nearly one million miles, and gained a truly global perspective on many of the major trends reshaping the landscape of the twenty-first century, from economic inequality to climate change to revolutions in energy, communications, and health. Draw-ing on conversations with numerous leaders and experts, Secretary Clinton offers her views on what it will take for the United States to compete and thrive in an interdependent world. An astute eyewitness to decades of social change, she distinguishes the trendlines from the headlines and describes the pro-gress occurring throughout the world, day after day. Secretary Clinton's descriptions of diplomatic con-versations at the highest levels offer readers a master class in international relations. A great piece of history.

55 YEAR OLD FAR SIDE OF THE MOON MYSTERY SOLVED

The Man in the Moon appeared when meteoroids struck the Earth-facing side of the Moon creating large flat seas of basalt that we see as dark areas called maria. But no "face" exists on the far side of the Moon and now, Penn State astrophysicists think they know why.

"I remember the first time I saw a globe of the Moon as a boy, being struck by how different the far side looks," said Jason Wright, assistant professor of astrophysics. "It was all mountains and craters. Where were the maria? It turns out it's been a mystery since the fifties."

This mystery is called the Lunar Far-Side Highlands Problem and dates back to 1959, when the Soviet spacecraft Luna 3 transmitted the first images of the far side of the Moon back to Earth. Researchers immediately noticed that fewer "seas" or maria existed on this portion of the Moon that always faces away from Earth.

Wright, Steinn Sigurdsson, professor of astrophysics, and Arpita Roy, graduate student in astronomy and astrophysics and lead author of the study, realized that the absence of maria, which is due to a difference in crustal thickness between the side of the Moon we see and the hidden side, is a consequence of how the Moon originally formed.

The general consensus on the Moon's origin is that it probably formed shortly after the Earth and was the result of a Mars-sized object hitting Earth with a glancing, but devastating impact. This Giant Impact Hypothesis suggests that the outer layers of the Earth and the object were flung into space and eventually formed the Moon.

"Shortly after the giant impact, the Earth and the Moon were very hot," said Sigurdsson. The Earth and the impact object did not just melt; parts of them vaporized, creating a disk of rock, magma and vapor around the Earth.

"The Moon and Earth loomed large in each other's skies when they formed," said Roy.

The Moon was 10 to 20 times closer to Earth than it is now, and the researchers found that it quickly assumed a tidally locked position with the rotation time of the Moon equal to the orbital period of the Moon around the Earth. The same real estate on the Moon has probably always faced the Earth ever since. Tidal locking is a product of the gravity of both objects.

The Moon, being much smaller than Earth, cooled more quickly. Because the Earth and the Moon were tidally locked from the beginning, the still hot Earth—more than 2500 degrees Celsius radiated towards the near side of the Moon. The far side, away from the boiling Earth, slowly cooled, while the Earth-facing side was kept molten, creating a temperature gradient between the

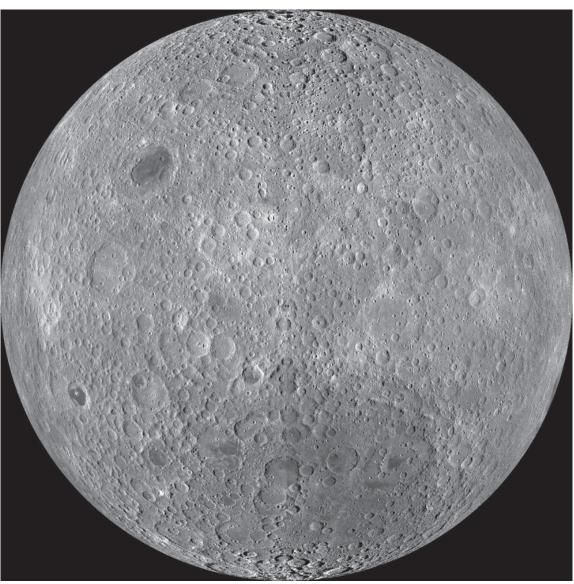

This gradient was important for crustal formation on the Moon. The Moon's crust has high concentrations of aluminum and calcium, elements that are very hard to vaporize.

"When rock vapor starts to cool, the very first elements that snow out are aluminum and calcium," said Sigurdsson.

Aluminum and calcium would have preferentially condensed in the atmosphere of the cold side of the Moon because the nearside was still too hot. Thousands to millions of years later, these elements combined with silicates in the Moon's mantle to form plagioclase feldspars, which eventually moved to the surface and formed the Moon's crust, said Roy. The farside crust had more of these minerals and

The Moon has now completely cooled and is not molten below the surface. Earlier in its history, large meteoroids struck the nearside of the Moon and punched through the crust, releasing the vast lakes of basaltic lava that formed the nearside maria that make up the "man in the Moon." When meteoroids struck the far side of the Moon, in most cases the crust was too thick and no magmatic basalt welled up.

FAMILY MATTERS

By Marc Garlet

GREATEST WEALTH TRANSFER IN HISTORY UNDERWAY - What's your plan?

A new study by the Boston College Center on Wealth and Philanthropy found that the greatest wealth transfer in history is currently underway, with more than $59 trillion passing to heirs, charities and Uncle Sam between now and 2061. The majority of this wealth -- $36 trillion -- is passing directly to heirs and another sizeable chunk -- $27 trillion -- is passing to charity, either through final bequest or total lifetime gifts. And even though the study notes that the transfer

And even though the study notes that the transfer of $59 trillion is the largest in history, it goes on to estimate the final figure will likely be even higher - much higher.

So what is your plan for either transferring or receiving inherited wealth?

If you don't have one – and far too many people don't – I encourage you to start planning now, since in my view your estate plan is more of a process than a static document. In fact, my relationship with clients continues long after the estate planning documents have been signed.

As your life changes and your family grows, legacy planning will play an important role in how you choose to transfer wealth to future generations. The law firm you choose to work with on your legacy planning should keep all your estate planning documents accessible to you in an electronic file, and schedule timely reviews so they can furnish you with three very important services:

1. Ensuring all your assets are owned correctly so your family isn't stuck dealing with an expensive, unnecessary, and public Probate

Court process. Establishing a Trust once and then never looking at it again isn't the answer -- regular updating and assurances that all your assets are documented and owned properly, is the right way to do things.

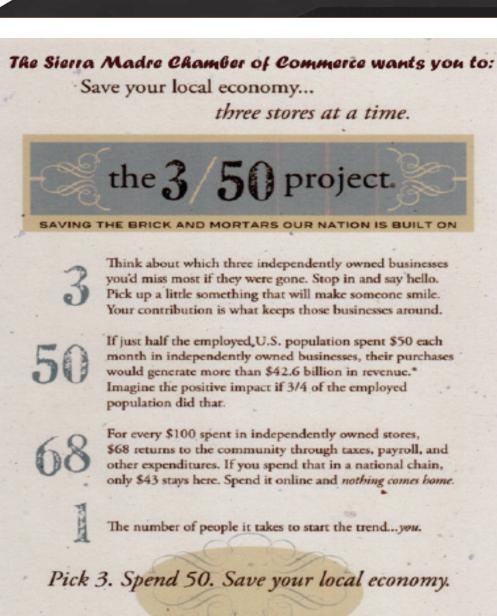

2. Making sure the guardians you have named for your minor children, the trustees you have chosen to carry out the terms of your trust, and the agents you have designated to make health care decisions for you in case you cannot make them yourself are still the people you want in charge.

3. Helping you record your values, experiences, family history and the other important intangibles you want to pass on to future generations so they are never lost. A comprehensive estate plans should cover far more than just your money, focusing on what matters most -- your values, insights, stories and experiences. The things most often lost when someone dies.

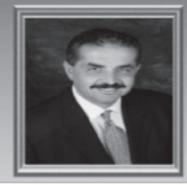

Call our office today to schedule a time for us to sit down and have a Family Estate Planning Session, so we can help you look at what would happen now if something were to happen to you and ensure everything passes to your loved ones exactly the way you want. THIS TOO SHALL PASS

Even with recent gains in the market, the concept of homeownership is still under attack. Owners feel let down by falling values, critics say the American Dream has become a nightmare, and others say renting is the best option now. There is no doubt that many have suffered at the hands of bad lending practices and economic turmoil associated with the recession.

However... owning a home has always been a huge part of the American Dream, and will continue to be so long after the current economic crisis and wave of defaults has passed. Our homes are a place of security for our fami-lies and for establishing traditions with our friends.

No one can argue against the benefits that homeownership provides to our communities and to society in general. Homeowners have a higher level of self-esteem, education, and involvement in civic activities. Why try to tear down these fundamental truths simply because we are in a downward part of the always dynamic cycle of real estate?

The time has come to reaffirm the dream of homeownership, but in a more so-ber and accountable fashion. We should emphasize responsible ownership for the long term, which helps us and our communities achieve the common goals of financial and social well-being. Today's naysayers will change their tune when the cycle rises again, and you can count on that.

Statistics show that images posted on Facebook get more engagement (likes, comments and shares). I like to create word box images for Facebook posts: a simple colored rectangle with a few words. It's like a call-out box in a publication. It stands out amongst all the text and pulls a reader in for more.

I use photoshop to create most of my images but there is also another option that is easy to use and is free.

Picmonkey.com is an online photo editing, collage maker and graphic design tool. You can add text to images, boarders, whiten teeth, remove wrinkles, create collages and do all kinds of fun tricks. They even have a Facebook cover maker and a Pinterest and Estsy collage template. It's really easy and fun to use.

Remember the last time you lost your cell phone... what did you say to yourself? If you're like me, you said "I'm backing up my data from now on!"

Have you?

schedule

Imagine you had to rebuild your whole contacts list. How many contacts would that be? How many hours would you consume? All wasted time. And if you're like most entrepreneurs, you don't have much to spare.

Take this minute to think back... when was the last time you backed up your computer? Your cell phone? Your pictures?

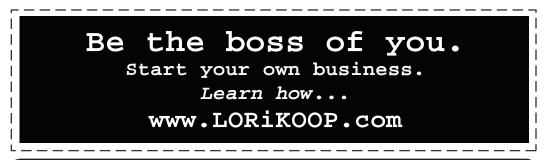

Schedule it right now. Put it on the calendar. Turn it into an intention, and it will most likely get done. It's not only smart, but it provides peace. Once complete, you're safe. You will have covered yourself should anything unexpected happen. Well, you never know... that's the downside of technology. But you can be prepared... that's the upside.

So, backing up... it's simply generating a second copy of your data and storing it at a second location in case the first version gets damaged or destroyed. If you do so regularly, awesome! Pat yourself on the back. Great job! (I bet you've lost data before.) If you've never backed up your data or don't do it regularly, consider making it a monthly practice at the very least. How about the first of every month? Be sure to reward yourself after you're done. Go for coffee. Or take 15 minutes with a favorite book. Yes, we still respond to treats.

If you're not tech savvy, hire someone. I like Peter at Foothill Tech in Sierra Madre (626-355-5152). He can program your equipment to back-up automatically. This way you don't even have to think about it. It's done while you sleep.

Technology... it's pretty flawless. But we are human. Take a moment and avoid the nightmare.

Flag Day 2014

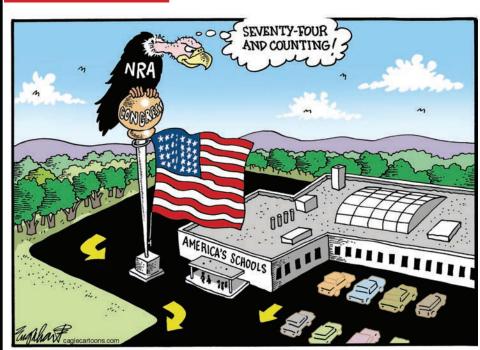

On January 1, 1776, when the Continental Army had the British Army under siege, General George Washington ordered that the Grand Union Flag be hoisted. That flag was made by Betsy Ross and consisted of 13 stars accented with red and white stripes.

The Second Continental Congress adopted the flag designed by Betsy Ross as the official flag of the United States on June 14, 1777.

In 1916, President Woodrow Wilson issued a proclamation that officially established June 14 as Flag Day. In August 1949, National Flag Day was established by an Act of Congress.

Our flag isn't just a cherished emblem of national pride. It also serves as beacon of liberty and self-determination for peoples around the world. Our brave armed forces have carried this beacon into every battle. Schools that help our students learn the skills they need to become productive citizens proudly fly the flag, as do the buildings where we craft, interpret and enforce our laws. The number of stars representing each state may have grown from 13 to 50, but the message of freedom, justice and equality under the law has not changed.

I hope that all 29th District constituents join this special day by displaying our "star spangled banner" at their homes or businesses, and by taking the time to remember all that it represents.

A Weekly Religion Column by Rev. James Snyder

THE SWITCH ON MY BEHIND SAVED TIME

My father was a reserved person. He did not have much to say except when he was talking about his hunting or fishing adventures, and to hear from him. It was always an adventure. When he got started on one of his stories, you better just sit back and forget about everything else.

Outside of that, he was rather quiet and reserved and did not have much to say. I always liked that about him for a variety of reasons. I think I take after him in that regard. I just do not have time to hear somebody bloviate on something I am not interested in. For one, my father had no time at all for politics. I am not sure if he was a Republican or Democrat, but I knew he voted every election.

"Son," he often said, "you don't have to take sides one way or the other. When I'm with a Democrat, I talk Democrat and when I'm with a Republican, I talk Republican. The only thing that matters is what I do when I get in that voting booth."

This attitude of his, since Father's Day is coming up, was something that made a deep impression upon me. Following his counsel has kept me out of quite a few battles throughout the years, especially when I got married.

I can never remember my father arguing with my mother. Now, my mother argued with my father, but he never reciprocated. "If you want a happy home," he once advised, "make sure everybody in the home was happy particularly the one you

That has helped me through many sticky situations for which I am eternally grateful. Another bit of advice he gave me was simply that you do not have to fight every battle. "Only fight those battles," he said with a sly smirk on his face, "that you know you can win."

I mentioned that he was rather reserved in his speaking, but there was one area where he was profusely proactive. That was in the area of discipline, especially directed

My father was not much different from any of the father's during that time and they all believed in the biblical admonition, 'Spare the rod and spoil the child." These fathers were united in making sure none of their children would be spoiled.

One rule we had in the house that I did not fully agree with was, if you got a spanking in school (and in those days we got spankings in school) you got a spanking at home. Talk about double dipping!

The assumption was that the teacher was right and that the one receiving the spanking was wrong. Back then, 99.9% of the time that was true. The spanker was in charge, the spankee took it like a man and you know where.

I spent 12 years in the public education system and during that time, my teacher was never wrong. I will not divulge how many times I was wrong, that is between me and the area I sit on.

I clearly remember that my teachers back then had what was called "the Hickory stick." And boy did those teachers know how to use that Hickory stick and where it would do the most good.

My father did not have a Hickory stick as such. Hanging on the wall in the kitchen was an old wooden paddle engraved with,

"I need thee every hour." I am surprised that that one wooden paddle lasted during my entire childhood. I made one mistake during those childhood days. I was going through a period where the paddle and my bottom were close friends. I was getting a little weary of such friendship and decided I would do something about it.

My father had gone to work early that day, as I remember it now, and I was going out the door to go to school when a thought danced in my head. I would take that paddle and dispose of it so that it could no longer be attached to my person.
With the advantage of 20/20 hindsight, it was not a perfect plan.

I had forgotten about that and two days later, I got into some trouble. It was the kind of trouble that could be resolved only by that wooden paddle. My father went to get the paddle and to his chagrin, and my posterior harm, it was not there.

Very seldom did my father paddle me when he was really angry. There was one case when that hap-pened, and this was it. I will not repeat the lecture that he gave at that time, but I will say that it had a lasting impression upon my posterior. At that time, I wished he had been a man of fewer

I know times have changed, but I am not sure they have changed for the better. There was a time when parents were in charge of children and responsible for the discipline. Sadly, that day is far gone.

The only thing I would say is, are we better off today than we were back then?

The Bible admonishes us, "And, ye fathers, provoke not your children to wrath: but bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord" (Ephesians 6:4).

Discipline, not abuse, is drastically needed among our children today. My father would put it this way, lack of discipline is a

HEY GOP: Stop Politicizing Terrorism

Let us pause to observe a moment of silence for a time when politics stopped at the water's edge. That quaint notion of national unity was mortally wounded immediately after the attack in Benghazi, and finally succumbed to complications after a prisoner exchange for an American POW in Afghanistan. There's nothing wrong with disagreeing on foreign affairs. In fact, it's our duty as citizens to engage in our democracy. You want to protest for peace? Burn the Dixie Chicks' CDs? Criticize how a president is waging a war or how Congress is funding it? Go nuts. The First Amendment isn't a trophy in a glass case on the mantel.

You're supposed to use it.

There is a difference, however, between publicly disagreeing with the President's handling of foreign policy and using international incidents to gain a political advantage. The GOP's aberrant handling of Benghazi provides a sad example. In 2012, the Romney campaign was looking for an opportunity to highlight what they saw as the President's weakness on foreign policy. To be clear, Romney had every right to

But Romney didn't even wait to find out how many Americans had died in Benghazi before claiming the President "sympathize[d] with those who waged the attacks." RNC Chairman Reince Priebus at least waited until a minute after midnight on September 11 before tweeting, "Obama sympathizes with attackers in Egypt. Sad and pathetic." That last part was true, but not in the way Priebus intended.

Out of the murders of four Americans, a political scandal was born. More than a dozen hearings, 25,000 pages of reports, and 50 briefings later, and the biggest thing we've learned is that congressional Republicans have no shame when it comes to politicizing terrorism. Recently, the National Republican Campaign Committee solicited donations via an email that invited Republicans to "become a Benghazi watchdog" by making a contribution, literally using terrorism for political profit.

I would have thought that we could all agree that bringing POW Sgt. Bowe Bergdahl home from captivity in Afghanistan was the right decision. Gen. Stanley McChrystal, the former commander there, said the policy of leaving no one behind in a warzone is "unequivocal." But now politics doesn't stop at the water's edge. It keeps going all the way into the dark room where Bergdahl was being held prisoner.

Until recently many Republican politicians and tea party activists were demanding that the President bring Bergdahl home, but then they Black-flipped when the President brought Bergdahl home. The President had done exactly what they demanded of him, so Bergdahl, once a tragic hero, had become a traitor not worth saving.

The worst example of this was John McCain. In February he supported a prisoner exchange with the Taliban to free Bergdahl. With alacrity rivaling Romney's craven grandstanding on Benghazi, McCain didn't wait for Bergdahl's return stateside before criticizing the trade as "ill-founded" and a "mistake." For what it's worth, in 1973 the US traded North Vietnamese prisoners to free Capt. McCain and other U.S. POWs. The rank hypocrisy by Bergdahl's former champions is the least of it. In 2012—before anyone had ever heard of Benghazi-Michael Hastings of Rolling Stone exposed the GOP's behind-the-scenes political machinations over Bergdahl. Congressional Republicans threatened the White House and State Department that they were prepared to use any prisoner exchange for Bergdahl to paint the President as an appeaser who sympathized with terrorists.

"They keep telling me it's going to be Obama's Willie Horton moment," Marc Grossman, the special envoy to Afghanistan, warned the White House. Yes, the President broke a law requiring 30 days notice before doing this, but if I had to deal with this Congress I wouldn't tell them what time it was if I had the last clock

In his recent commencement address at West Point, the President articulated a vision for American leadership in the world, but that will only be possible if Republicans provide a loyal opposition. The reason we don't leave anyone behind is because we're supposed to be in this together. When Republicans are ready to put their country ahead of their partisan political interests, there's a place waiting for them at the grown-ups' table.

THE NEED FOR COPS

primary election in which House Majority Leader, Eric Cantor, was defeated by an underfunded, little-known college professor. All the political wags are wagging and all the talking heads are talking. But the most important story concerns the need for cops and what we're willing to pay for

Is a cop's salary worth the cost? It's not a silly question. I mean it in all sincerity. As tax payers, we have to pay a certain amount in taxes to pay the cops who patrol our streets. Do we receive a benefit from the money we forego in order for them to walk their beat? I doubt I could find a serious observer (there is always the fringe) who would say "no".

The more informed might ask how good is the cop before answering the question, but in doing so, they've acknowledged the value of the police; they're just debating the quality of the specific police force. Having a police force to enforce the laws and keep the peace is almost a universally acknowledged public good. That the cops must be honest and affective is assumed, but nonetheless an important criterion. If the police were collectively corrupt or ineffective, we might question why they were being employed, but we'd still validate the principle that we need police to maintain order.

The answers to the questions I've posed, and the principle I've outlined, are easy when viewed in the domestic context. Whether it's Los Angles, Atlanta, Chicago or New York, the answers would be the same. When we apply the question to the international stage, things get muddled.

Does the world need a policeman? Here's where some people – primarily Liberals – hedge their answer. Even if we take the bluest of blue cities in the bluest of blue states (San Francisco), Liberals who would have affirmed the need for police in San Fran would hesitate, if not outright reject the need for police in the world at large. But my question to them would be, what's different? Human nature is human nature. If there are likely to be bad guys in the city, necessitating an honest and effective police force, aren't there also likely to be bad guys (usually worse) in the world, necessitating an honest and effective police force? Stated this way, it's hard to believe anyone -Liberal, Conservative or Independent would answer in the negative.

The key question then becomes, who should serve in this role? Right now, as it has been for many decades, it's either the U.S. or Russia. Some may argue that China should be thrown into the mix, and I won't quibble with including them in the question, but the answer is still the same. The one power on the planet that stands for democratic principles, human rights and equality before the law is the United States of America. The thuggery that is Russia and the cleptocracy that is China are not reasonable alternatives. There is absolutely no sense that Russia or China would uphold moral principles. They will uphold the positions which benefit their congressional district As an example, please consider Russia's position and actions vis a vis Syria and the Ukraine, or consider China's position and actions vis a vis North cop, and the world needs an honest cop. The only candidate is the United States of America. For those who might offer the United Nations - I'm tempted to laugh - I would simply point to Ukraine, Syria, North Korea, Tibet, Angola, etc. The list is long. The next key question is how long should the United States stay involved in any area to insure the maintenance of order, democracy, and respect for human rights? The answer is - a long time.

The U.S. was instrumental in the moral victories of WWII and the Korean conflict. We have maintained a presence in Germany and Japan since 1945, and in Korea since the mid-1950s. Germany, Japan and South Korea are, as a result, steadfast and respected members of the civilized order of nations. They would not be so were it not for the United States' longterm commitment of blood and treasure to the cause.

This brings me to Iraq. The recent fall of Mosul, the second largest city in Iraq, and the second major city (after Fallujah) to fall to Al Qaeda insurgents, suggest that the country is moving backward toward civil war and domination, if not outright control, by Al Qaeda forces.

Saddam Hussein tortured his own people, used chemical weapons against them and others, invaded his neighbors, and refused to abide by the most basic of human rights. He was the crook, and President Bush sent in the only police force that mattered the U.S. – and we liberated a people and a country.

President Obama, on the other hand, has never liked the concept of policing anything anywhere. Obama's benign neglect and continued insistence on full withdrawal by 2016 has resulted in a catastrophe. Bush left office with Iraq largely at peace and a developing democratic country. Civilian casualties fell from 31,000 to 5,000 in 3 years. Five years of the Obama Doctrine no police needed, everyone loves one another - and the country is on the verge of falling to terrorists with monthly casualties in the 1,000 range.

The simple fact of life is that peace requires sufficient force and presence to maintain it. Human nature hasn't changed in thousands of years. There will always be bad guys, whether at a city level or an international level, and an honest, effective cop needs to stand in the breach. If nobody does, people die, violence reigns and civilizations wither. You won't find that on the front page, because it's not the "hottest story", but it is the most important story.
