WALKING SIERRA MADRE The Social Side By Deanne Davis

"You have to love a nation that celebrates its independence every July 4, not with a parade of guns, tanks, and soldiers who file by the White House in a show of strength and muscle, but with family picnics where kids throw Frisbees, the potato salad gets iffy, and the flies die from happiness. You may think you have overeaten, but it is patriotism." Erma Bombeck

I'll bring the hot dogs, You bring the beer, The Fourth of July, Is finally here!

It's our day to celebrate, Our Nation's story. Is your hand on your heart? Here she comes! It's Old Glory!

Let's walk downtown, And watch the parade. I hope we can find, A place in the shade.

Here come our V.A. guys, Standing so tall and straight! Thank you, guys, for your service, We think you're just great!

Oh Look! Here she comes! There's a tear in my eye. Let's stand up and cheer! Old Glory's passing by.

We love those old cars, Filled with folks that we know. Hey! Throw us some candy! How far can one little Tootsie Roll go!

Katrelya will belly dance, The whole parade long, and The Sierra Madre City College Band Will give us a song.

The Fire Department won't Be spraying us this year. Water in our town, Right now, is too dear.

We'll barbeque later, A burger...or three, And have potato salad, Sure! It's calorie free! (Not!)

We'll go watch the fireworks, Down at the park. And count all our blessings, There in the dark.

Be glad that we live, In a land that is free. To celebrate Independence Day! To Celebrate.... Liberty!

July 4th this year was pretty much just like that. We love our parade, my best parade kibitzer buddy, John, and I. We love seeing the kids from all the teams, the parents pulling wagons with little people looking bewildered. We admire the Search & Rescue Guys, wave at the dignitaries who are smiling, trying not to sweat and wondering if they've got enough sunblock on.

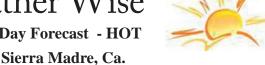

For more years than I care to count, I hosted the entire family at our house and did the BBQ-ing and now, a wonderful thing has happened, our middle daughter, Patti and her husband, Dave, host the July 4th festivities and our job is to show up with the aforementioned calorie-free potato salad (Repeat: Not!) and a cake. Did that! Now on to celebrate the rest of the weekend.

BIG CHANGES AT SIERRA MADRE'S /ILLAGE INTERNET RADIO STATION:

The Board of Directors of Village Vine Online has decided to move the organization in a new direction. In keeping with our mission of community service, we are discontinuing 24/7 live audio streaming. In order to better serve the community, our focus will be on providing live audio and video webcasts and podcasts of community events, podcasts of hosted shows homegrown here in Sierra Madre, video and audio webcasts and podcasts of community sports events, and, by the end of the summer, we will present a community blog, with guest host bloggers rotating every few months.

CITIZEN WEBCASTERS: Part of our new approach is to utilize "citizen webcasters" living here in town. We are now actively recruiting people who can attend public events, and, utilizing equipment as simple as their smart phones, webcast those events through the Village Vine web site. Contact us at hostvi@yahoo.com if you would like to volunteer. Training will be provided.

CITIZEN PODCASTERS: We are looking for podcasters who might like to share their home-grown podcasts on the Village Vine web site. Subjects for podcasts could include original music, gardening, cars, dogs, water conservation, sports, etc. The subject matter for potential podcasts is only limited to the degree the community might have interest in it. Contact us at hostvi@yahoo.com if you would be interested in podcasting with us.

Sierra Madre Search and Rescue Blotter

As we move into the summer the Sierra Madre Search and Rescue (SMSR) Team is experiencing a high volume of calls with 21 in May and June to date. Three incidents are described in more detail below.

Missing Hiker, Mt. Whitney, Inyo County: On June 16th, SMSR was requested to provide mutual aid support in the search for John Likely, a 60-year old hiker from Dumont, NJ. Mr. Likely was part of a three-person group that summited Mt. Whitney on June 14th. The group had hiked together regularly throughout the years and during the descent Mr. Likely was hiking at a slower pace than the other members of the group. This was not unusual based on prior hikes and the group used binoculars to verify that Mr. Likely was just below the "cable" area on the 99-switchback portion of the main trail. Mr. Likely power made it to Outpoot Comp. The two friends searched never made it to Outpost Camp. The two friends searched for their colleague before contacting Inyo County Search and Rescue. SMSR Team members were inserted via helicopter at various locations on Mt. Whitney including on the summit to search off-trail areas where a hiker could slip and fall or become

Early in the evening of June 19th, search crews located a body in an extremely steep chute above Mirror Lake. Our thoughts go out to Mr. Likely's family and friends during this very difficult

Missing Hiker, Sespe Wilderness, Ventura County: As part of a mutual aid request received on June 18th, members of SMSR joined the search for missing Arcadia firefighter Mike Herdman. Mr. Herdman, an experienced outdoorsman, was camping with a friend in the Tar Flats area of the Sespe Wilderness near Fillmore. The friends were two days into a four-day backpacking trip when Herdman left camp late in the night to chase after his dog, Duke. When Herdman didn't return, his friend looked for him before eventually deciding to go for help. Given the distance and difficult terrain, it took two days to reach the trailhead and summon help. Ventura County search and rescue units immediately responded and, given the remote location and size of the search area, requested help from surrounding counties. SMSR Team members were inserted by helicopter on various search assignments near the location where Herdman was last seen. Similar to the Likely search on Mt. Whitney, this search brought together SAR teams from across the region. Additional resources included, dog teams, divers to check the deep pools along Sespe Creek, and two unmanned aerial vehicles (UAVs) providing photo and infrared (IR) imaging. Due to the remote location, AT&T and Verizon provided mobile cell towers, and the Civil Air Patrol (CAP) provided aircraft as flying radio relays. Sierra Madre members put in over 475 hours over 4 days working on the search. Mr. Herdman's body was found late in the afternoon on Friday, June 27th.

SMSR extends our thoughts and prayers to the Herdman family and his friends and colleagues at the Arcadia Fire Department during this difficult time. The Team would also like to extend best wishes for a full recovery to the SAR personnel injured during this difficult operation.

Dog Rescue, Big Santa Anita Canyon/Chantry Flat: SMSR was preparing for a scheduled training on Saturday, June 14th, when a page was received at 7:15 a.m. to respond for the rescue of a dog who had fallen 110 feet over the side of the Upper Winter Creek Trail. Rescuers arrived on scene and found a 60 lb. dog along with two good Samaritans over the side near the bottom of the canyon. It was quickly determined that the 2 hikers were unhurt, but the dog, Buster, was suffering from a leg injury. After rappelling into the canyon, rescuers set-up a low angle rope rescue. Buster was safely secured in a Stokes litter and brought up to the trail where he was wheeled out to the parking lot and transported by his owner to the veterinarian. The hikers who had gone to Buster's aid were assisted back to the trail using a stranded hiker rescue technique and continued on their hike. Good Samaritans are often the very first people to render assistance in an emergency and can be instrumental in keeping a situation from getting worse. This would not be the only dog rescue during this period with the Team responding to another successful dog rescue off the Chantry Road on the 18th.

For over 60 years the all-volunteer Sierra Madre Search and Rescue team has been responding to calls for help in the local mountains and beyond. Funded entirely by private donations, SMSR provides a range of public programs on wilderness safety in addition to its search and rescue activities. The Team never charges for any of its services.

City Issues Mandatory Inspection Placards For Restaurants

Restaurants and other type food facilities throughout Pasadena started Tuesday being issued inspection placards required for public display by the City's Public Health Department—the new placards indicate a facility's status of Pass, Conditional Pass or Closed at the time of an inspection.

According to city officials, along with Pass or Conditional Pass the placecards have numeric scores displayed. Placards showing a Closed status means an inspection revealed there was an imminent health hazard that required closure or that the permit was suspended due to non-compliance. Closed placards will indicate the reason for closure instead of a numerical score.

All placards also include a special "QR" code that can be scanned with a smart phone app for additional information linked to a new inspection database on the City's website.

Permanent food facilities to receive the new placards include restaurants, markets, bars, cafeterias, commissaries and retail food processing facilities.

Initial inspections, resulting in scores of 85 to 100, receive a Pass placard. Conditional Pass placards with scores of 75 to 84 means minimal code compliance was achieved and a follow-up inspection must be done. Conditional Pass scores of 74 and below mean minimal compliance also was achieved, but violations that were found require a mandatory Permit Suspension Hearing plus a follow-up inspection.

The Health Department's mandatory inspections are required per the California Health and Safety Code officials said.

Tournament of Roses officials said Thursday that they are committed to honoring Louis Zamperini as Grand Marshal of the 2015 parade after it was announced, by the family, that Zamperini had passed away Wednesday at the age of 97.

Revealing Saturn lectures: Cassini's Tenth Year

Free lectures on July 17 at JPL and July 18 at Pasadena City College both start at 7 p.m.

Cassini's findings have revolutionized understanding of Saturn, its complex rings, the amazing assortment of moons and the planet's dynamic magnetic environment. The robotic spacecraft arrived in 2004 after a 7-year flight from Earth, dropped a parachuted probe to study the atmosphere and surface of Saturn's big moon Titan, and begn making an array of discoveries that continue today. Icy jets shoot from the tiny moon Enceladus; Titan's hydrocarbon lakes and seas are dominated by liquid ethane and methane; and complex pre-biotic chemicals form in the atmosphere and rain to the surface. Cassini's findings at Saturn have also fundamentally altered many of our concepts of how planets form around stars. Cassini Project Scientist Linda Spilker will present highlights from 10 years of Cassini's studies at Saturn.

MONROVIA - DUARTE

The Southern California Mormon Choir and Guest Speaker Hilda Solis: A Perfect Evening for any Proud American

By Joan Schmidt

Once again, my husband and I were treated to a very special evening, thanks to the Southern California Mormon Choir, Guest Speaker Hilda Solis, Member-Elect, Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors, District 1 and Hosts, the Arcadia Stake.

The Southern California Mormon Choir, a 100 member choral group established in 1953, performs classical, sacred, folk, patriotic and popular choral music throughout Southern California with LA Philharmonic, Glendale Symphony, California Philharmonic and many others! They also have been on stage with Utah Symphony Orchestras and Mormon Tabernacle Choir. Quite Impressive!

President Scott Magnusson's warm welcome and Invocation by Duarte Council Member Margaret Finlay were followed by Presentation of Colors by Junior ROTC Color Guard, Gladstone High School, and Pledge of Allegiance. After the National Anthem and America the Beautiful, Guest Speaker Hilda Solis

Hilda, a "product of the San Gabriel Valley and proud of it" felt it was a "joy and blessing" to attend this Patriotic Concert. She grew up in La Puente and graduated from its high school. She is married to Sam Sayyad, a business owner and resides here in the San Gabriel Valley.

What an amazing woman Hilda is, and knowing her background explains why. The daughter of immigrants, Hilda was the first of seven children to graduate from college. (Bachelor of Arts in Political Science from CAL Poly, Pomona and a Masters in Public Administration from USC)

Hilda's mother, Juana (Sequeirra) from Nicaragua and her dad, Raul Solis from Mexico met at a Citizenship class. Her father worked at Quemetro Battery Recycling Plant and organized Teamsters for better health benefits for workers. After the children were of school age, Hilda's mom worked on the Assembly line of Mattel, belonged to the United Rubber Workers and was outspoken about working conditions. She stressed the importance of education. With parents like Juana and Raul, how could Hilda not grow up wanting to serve others?

Hilda spoke of her remarkable mother and how hard she studied-many hours preparing to become a citizen. When Hilda served in Congress, she swore in many citizens and it was so gratifying to her-she remembered her mom and her journey to achieve citizenship.

Hilda felt we have so much to celebrate: our families, the values of our country, the many freedoms and opportunities. She related

Roger Lamb for a few selections. Jan's smile is so contagious; it is obvious how much this patriotic concert means to her. Her husband Bill was narrator and explained the backgrounds of the different music selections. It was so entertaining.

Duarte Council Members John Fasana, Margaret Finlay, Hilda solis, Hilda's Husband, Sam Sayyad, Brad Finlay (Margaret's husband.)

Part I included When the Saints Go Marching In, Pilgrim Song and I'm Runnin On. The first two selections are traditional American songs and the latter, an African-American Spiritual. Part II featured America, Hymn for America and God of Our Fathers, Whose Almighty Hand.

Part III is always my favorite! It includes Who Are the Brave", the Salute to Armed Forces, God Bless America and Lee Greenwood's God Bless the USA.

Thank you so much to the Arcadia Stake, the great Southern California Mormon Choir and awesome Hilda Solis. (State Assembly, State Senate, US House of Representatives, Secretary of Labor and come December, LA County Supervisor District 1) Once again, we returned home with a deep love of our great country and appreciation of all our freedoms.

The penalties for possession or use of fireworks can range from a fine of up to $1000, to confinement in a County jail for up to one year. Certain products like M-80's and M-100's are considered Every year people are injured, property explosives and are a felony to possess. ELISE NAVARRO has something she wants you to do!

By Susan Henderson and Elise Navarro

More often than not, we hear of stories about our youth and their trials and tribulations. We don't hear enough about the many good things that are done by young people to help others. Such is the story of Sierra Madre resident

Elise Navarro. She is committed to making a difference in the lives of others and after reading what she has to say, perhaps you will do the same or be inspired to help someone in another manner.

Her story was brought to my attention not only because of the goodness of her heart through her actions in this instance, but also because her generosity began when she was just seven years old. It is best for you to hear of her journey in her own words:

survivor and she donated her hair once she was free

She donated to a non-profit organization called

2007 when I, Elise Navarro age 7 also donated to girls alike have been donating their hair to victims of hair loss, whether it is due to cancer, accidents, or other hair loss diseases. Donors come from all over the world giving their hair to those that have lost their hair. Some Donors are survivors giving their hair to people they have a special connection with through their own hair loss. My aunt Esther Schroeder is now a two-time cancer of cancer the first time. Locks of Love. Then in Locks of Love.

After 17 years my Aunt Esther's breast cancer had returned and now spread to her bones. Along with this she has developed a mild case of Alopecia. Now my aunt is on a strong road to recovery, and I am ready to donate my hair for a second time to a new organization called Children with Hair Loss. This organization donates to all children who have medically related hair loss not just cancer patients. CWHL also only requires 8 inches of hair which is less than other organizations.

There is another nonprofit organization for hair loss called Beautiful Lengths partnered with Pantene. They also accept gray and colored hair in good condition to be donated to a company that makes "Hair-Mats" to soak up oil spills. The purpose of this article is not to bring myself glory, but to raise awareness of alternative donation organizations and the option of donating your hair in the first place. The reason an alternative donation option is needed is that some organizations have a sliding scale based on financial needs, while others have free of charge and others also help the environment.

Being a Donor, I would like my hair to go to any child in need free of charge so they can regain their self esteem because of my donation, no matter what their financial standings are. Please donate!

Clockwise from top: Elise and her parents at Salon Nia in Pasadena waiting for her turn in the 'chair'. After Elise and her stylist decide on exactly how much hair is to be cut, the process begins. Photos by S. Hendeson/MVNews

After the haircut is complete, Elise poses by a tree, holding her 'locks' which are ready to be donated. On the far right you see a young Elise, age7, displaying the pigtail that she is going to donate for help others. Photos courtesy of Navarro family.

PASADENA UNIFIED BOARD OF EDUCATION APPOINTS BRIAN MCDONALD, ED.D., INTERIM SUPERINTENDENT

Pasadena, CA - At a special closed session meeting June 26, the Pasadena Unified School District (PUSD) Board of Education voted unanimously to appoint Deputy Superintendent Brian McDonald, Ed.D., as Interim Superintendent until further notice. The appointment will take effect when Superintendent Jon Gundry's impending resignation is effective.

"Dr. McDonald's experience and leadership will be crucial in maintaining consistency and continuity during this time of transition," said Board of Education President Scott Phelps. "His proven track record in closing the achievement gap, along with his collaborative leadership skills, will help usher PUSD into its next phase of growth."

Since joining PUSD as Chief Academic Officer in October 2011, McDonald spearheaded the district's magnet school program, expanded the district's popular dual language immersion programs, led the early implementation of the new Common Core State Standards and placed a strong emphasis on researchbased professional development for all employees.

"It is an honor to serve the Pasadena Unified community in the position of interim Superintendent," said McDonald. "I look forward to the opportunity to work together with the School Board for the achievement of all students in our schools."

McDonald joined PUSD from the Houston (Texas) Independent School District, where he last served as School Improvement Officer. Prior to that, he was an elementary and middle school principal in the same district. As principal of William S. Holland Middle School from 2005-2011, McDonald successfully increased reading, math, social studies, science and writing scores, and raised the number of students taking Algebra I by 100 percent.

Dr. McDonald has a Bachelor of Science degree in Accounting from the University of Houston-Downtown, Texas, and a Master's in Education Administration from Texas Southern University. He earned a certification in principalship from Harvard Graduate School in 2002, and a Doctorate in Educational Leadership from Sam Houston State University in 2010. A Phi Delta Kappa, he is a fluent Spanish speaker.

THE REEL DEAL: by Ben Show THE FAULT IN OUR STARS

With every teen and tween girl freaking out about the book and, therefore, the movie, it was hard not to get annoyed towards the film. I was going to read the book before I saw it but never got around to it. And I have to say, the film does not make me want to read the book any more

Hazel (Shailene Woodley) has cancer. She gets treatment, special things called 'cancer perks', and is forced to go to a support group. One day, a mysterious boy named Augustus Waters (Ansel Elgort) appears in the group and the two instantly fall in love.

This movie brags to not be the cliché romantic chick flick, with a more realistic view on love. While that may be somewhat true, it is a love story. It is going to be cliché no matter what. If you are into teen angst, romantic movies with a cancer twist, then go ahead and see 'Fault in Our Stars'. If not, it really is not anything special, and can be avoided. Unless you have a teenage daughter or girlfriend who drags you to it.

JUST FOR BEST FRIENDS

love my dogs so much and it makes me very happy when I know they are happy. I make sure they get lots of loving attention, I take them for daily walks, I play with them and I drive them to the vet for annual check-ups and other visits when I think they need it. It gives me much pleasure to spend time with them.

I realize my dogs are not children, and I do try to keep it all in perspective, but I have to admit I am very attached to those two cuddly canine critters. They give me so much in terms of entertainment, fur therapy and relentless love. I just want to give back to them at least as much as they give to me. I also believe it is my responsibility to be a good steward of God's creatures, particularly those that I chose to adopt into my home and family. In doing that, I made a promise to God that I would take care of them for the rest of their lives.

There is nothing wrong with wanting to please our pets, however I do find myself wondering if it is possible to kill them with kindness by allowing them to have more than they actually need. For example, we have a cookie jar that sits atop our kitchen counter. The outside of the jar is decorated with a fancy dog bone design. The handle on the lid is even in the shape of a dog bone. That's where we keep all the canine cookies and other tasty treats for Tater and Molly to enjoy, now and then. The only problem is, the times we tend to hand out the goodies is more often NOW than THEN! In other words, I think they are probably getting way too many treats!

Pet obesity in America is on the rise and has been for several years. Did you know that there is actually an organization focused specifically on researching the blight of pet obesity in America? The Association for Pet Obesity Prevention conducts an annual survey to analyze the percentage of pets that are considered technically obese in America, and the most recent study showed that 54% of dogs and cats in our society are indeed overweight. How embarrassing is that, with so many people literally starving in other parts of the world?

I'm sure most pet owners are not intentionally trying to fatten up their furry friends, and I totally understand how tempting it is to hand out the goodies to our darling dogs and kitties when the notion arises, but let's face it folks, food is not the only way to show our love to them. It's time we start to reign it in when it comes to feeding our pets as a way to show how much we love them. In fact, it seems we are on the verge of loving them nearly to death!

Animals are a lot like humans when it comes to how obesity effects their health. The difference is, we humans are the ones in charge of what goes on the plate, or in the bowl. Our pets have to rely on us to do the right thing by making healthy choices for their daily diet and regulating their rations. Remember the old adage, "You are what you eat"?, well that is one flip-phrase that rings true, as much as might wish it didn't. I first realized how important it is to be careful in selecting the quality and quantity of food I feed my pets, while reading an article in the waiting room at my vet's office. The article compared the affect of certain foods on animals versus human beings. It listed

ARE WE LOVING OUR PETS TO DEATH?

"people food" items such as cookies, cheese, hot dogs, etc. that we might have a tendency to share with our pets while sitting at the table, or as leftover scraps after a meal. It showed the caloric equivalent for a dog eating those particular items compared to the human. The biological results were mind-boggling and potentially devastating to the health of a dog.

For example, a chocolate chip cookie falls to the floor only to be gobbled up within seconds by your beloved beastly buddy, right? Well, if you had eaten that cookie it would have rendered a reasonable amount of calories that could be easily burned by a basically healthy person. However, the caloric value and physical affect of a single cookie consumed by a canine becomes the relative equivalent of eating an entire hamburger.

The article also showed the compared caloric value of a one ounce chunk of cheddar cheese, which to the human is not a big deal, but to a dog it becomes equivalent to the caloric value of 1 ½ hamburgers! For a cat, a single potato chip is equal to half a hamburger, and one cup of whole milk equals three entire burgers for your favorite furry feline. When we think about it this way, we begin to realize how important it is to limit the types and amounts of foods we feed your pets. Their little bodies are simply not designed to process the amount of food we are accustomed to consuming. And it wouldn't hurt us to back off a bit on the binging as well!

The "Treat Translator" article I read was meant to encourage we modern day animal lovers to resist feeding our pets "people food", which is most definitely a valuable message, but we also need to be careful about how much pet food we give them on a daily basis. Some animals are pretty good about not eating more than they need while others will eat every bit you put out for them. It is up to us to control their daily caloric intake.

In addition to diet, exercise also plays a very important role in keeping your pet happy and healthy. It goes without saying that physical activity is essential, and dogs are not much different from us when it comes to maintaining our cardio-vascular systems and burning access calories. Another reason why it is important for a dog to get regular walks, is so they can sniff around outdoors. The olfactory system (aka: nose) of a dog is a key stimulator for keeping their bowel movements regular, so by allowing them to sniff about the neighborhood you are helping them "take care of business". There are other factors involved with keeping your dog's digestive system in good health, but a daily walk is definitely a major factor in the process.

We all like to think we are good pet owners, and for the most part I am pretty sure that we are, but let's not forget that food should not be the most important way we show our love and affection to our furry four-legged friends. We need to focus more on giving them lots of verbal encouragement, grooming therapy, loving and snuggling, exercise and play time and a lot less treats, if we want them to live long, happy and healthy lives.

PET OF THE WEEK: ZEKE

Animal ID #A4726957

Looking for a silly, outgoing, and all-around awesome puppy? Zeke is your boy! Zeke (A4726957) is a friendly 6-month-old brown-and-white male German Shepherd and Australian Shepherd mix puppy who was found in Baldwin Park and brought to the Baldwin Park Animal Care Center on June 27th. Weighing 33 lbs, Zeke is a happy and playful boy with a unique, true-blue mutt look to him. Social with other dogs, he has small-sized kennel mates and seems eager to play with the larger dogs he encounters while out for walks at the shelter. He also shows signs of being housebroken and seems to know basic commands, so we predict that any additional training (such as leash-walking skills) will be a real "treat." Zeke is a real well-rounded winner of a dog, and he will make an excellent indoor pet for any active individual or family who will bring him along on all of life's adventures. Adopt Zeke today, he is such a love! To watch a video of Zeke, please visit the following link: http://youtu.be/Ro3Df1WNAng

To meet Zeke in person, please see him at the Baldwin Park Shelter, located at 4275 N. Elton, Baldwin Park, CA 91706 (Phone: 626-430-2378 or 626-962-3577). He is currently available now. For any inquiries about Zeke, please reference his animal ID number: A4726957. The shelter is open seven days a week, 12 pm-7 pm Monday-Thursday and 10am-5pm Friday-Sunday. This is a high-intake shelter with a great need for adoptions. LOOKING FOR A BEST FRIEND?

Gazoo is too!! He is a friendly, happy-go-lucky stop by Corgi-Chihuahua mix boy.....at least that is our a n y best guess for his breed. He has a sturdy body, but time his legs are on the shorter side, like a Corgi. He from has a short smooth coat - more like a Chihuahua. It would take a DNA test to really pin down his exact ancestry. He weighs about 15 pounds and is estimated to be 4 years old.

Gazoo is an active, energetic boy who loves to go on walks and play with people and other dogs. He is very smart and can catch a treat that is thrown to him, so he'd probably take well to Frisbee play. He is very charming with people and joyful when he is out of his kennel. Just watching him will put a smile on your face. He loves to roll on the grass and once he knows you, he might just jump into your lap and give you a kiss. He has a lot of energy and would do best with daily walks and a yard to run in.

Gazoo would prefer to be the only dog in the home as he would like to have all your attention. If you want a happy, playful hiking companion, Gazoo could be the one for you. Please come and meet him.

He currently resides at the San Gabriel Valley Humane Society located at 851 E. Grand Avenue in San Gabriel with his roommate. We are located off San Gabriel Blvd., north of Mission and south of Las Tunas.

To arrange a `Meet and Greet' with Gazoo, please

10:00am to 4:30pm Tuesday thru Sunday.

His adoption fee is $120 which includes a microchip, neuter surgery, first vaccinations and a free wellness check-up at a participating veterinarian. Feel free to call us at (626) 286-1159 for more information on Gazoo.

See our website at www.sgvhumane.org for information and photos of all our available pets.

SPICE UP YOUR LIFE FOR GOOD HEALTH

Throughout time, humans have used plants or herbs for everything imaginable. We have used herbs as food, weapons, baskets, clothes, shelter and very importantly medicine. Hippocrates, the father of medicine said, "Let food be thy medicine and medicine be thy food." He was encouraging us to eat a wide variety of plants and especially herbs. One step towards great health is to use a wide variety of herbs and seasoning in your everyday life.

All edible herbs are beneficial for good digestion. They also provide nutrients as well as vitamins and minerals and should be part of any balanced diet. Some herbs help us to better utilize the nutrients we get from other foods while other herbs are simply nutrient or vitamin dense like seaweeds or alfalfa sprouts. The choices of herbs vary from the spicy cayenne or black pepper to the sweat herbs such as basil or the not-to-be without garlic! If you ever suffer from indigestion, two exceptional digestive herbs are caraway and ginger. Both ginger and caraway are stimulant herbs that can improve digestion as well as sooth indigestion.

Cinnamon is a spice that has ancient origins and is popular in cooking but it can also be used as a general digestive aid. Cinnamon is known to provide various medicinal benefits that include supporting sugar and fat metabolism.

It can also help to fight bad breath and may play a role in staving off common

It is no secret that healthy digestion or a "healthy gut" is a key proponent of longevity and vitality. Finding creative ways to use more herbs in your diet can increase your intake of vitamins and minerals, improve your immunity and aid in digestion.

THE JOY OF YOGA

FREEDOM ONCE AGAIN

I have been thinking so much about freedom lately - what with our wonderful holiday and all. We are such a fortunate people to be free. But I continue to come back to what freedom really is. Are you free?

We all think that freedom is being able to do what we want, say what we want, eat what we want, drink, think, feel, behave. And then what do we have really? Excess. Excess weight, extreme behaviors, drinking problems, emotional turmoil and the ability to be a slug and not take care of ourselves. Hmm, then comes illness or the inability to run or even touch our toes. True freedom is the ability to adapt. Adapt to our surroundings and the needs of our bodies; the ability to adapt to a situation and thrive. To make the right choices and breathe into adversity -THAT is freedom.

Freedom is not the constraint of our beliefs, or slavery to our ever-chattering minds, or the pressures of the lives we have created. That is suffocation.

How do we then explore our freedoms? Get on the mat, of course. Learning about how we can transform ourselves, learning about the possibilities, getting to know our egos, our fears, our edges, getting stronger and feeling the empowerment, learning to fly (ardha chandrasana), these are freedoms. It's not about a diet it's about making the food choices that will allow our bodies to do paschimotanasana (forward fold) or hike up the Mount Wilson Trail. It's about staying in balance so that we have a better chance of surviving by not getting sick. The best freedom of all is for our minds to be calm, for us to learn to love ourselves and for us to be happy.

So once again, I advocate getting on your mat every day. Create a discipline for yourself that will allow you to be free!

TIPPING ABROAD

Last year I wrote an article abut tipping abroad and the interest poured in about the article. So, with the summer travel season upon us, I thought I would run that article again.

TABLE FOR TWO by Peter Dills thechefknows@yahoo.com

Here in the states it is customary to tip your server, carwash person, hairstylist, and just about anyone that provides a service. Tipping the bartender that owns the bar or the stylist that owns the saloon, or even the delivery person that owns the florist. My research tells me that they want to be tipped as we. After all, we are tipping for those who provide a service, however if they own the establishment I never feel that bad about lowering the tip or rounding it down. I know that won't get me front row seats, but I have found that tipping a $1 at Starbucks at the end of the week is sufficient.

Now the question is do you tip in Europe? In my first trip to Athens as an adult I lavished 20% tips on waiters and service people and was rewarded on the end of my trip for that indulgence. I will explain later. In ten days of vacation we never really got outstanding service. We never got bad service but the server's job was to get the food to the table and that amounted to it. I found it curious coming from California where we expect plenty of up sell and a full glasses of water that Europe did not shower me in attention as I am accustom to in the states. Another restaurant, but the same medium of the road service greeted me. So I stared tipping 10%. I asked our tour guide as to the policy of tipping. She said that everywane in Crosco works at what is called a living ways and that any gratuity is real come. said that everyone in Greece works at what is called a living wage and that any gratuity is welcome. So, what about other parts of Europe, or was this just in Greece? The rule of thumb is to check your bill, and look for a service charge. Believe it or not many restaurants don't allow the workers to keep their tips.

have three suggestions: 1/ Round up the amount; say it's 35 Euro, round it up

Leave the tip portion as cash. 2/ Give tip directly to your server 3/ Check the bill and if there is a Tax or Service charge and you feel that you got great service, by all means leave a few more Euros.

Now back to my story on the 20% tip, we went back to the original restaurant in Athens that we started out trip at, the one I gave a full 20% tip to. After such a journey, now I know why he was so happy to see me. The beer, and the desserts were all on the house, so maybe the 20% did pay off!

THE GOOD LIFE

LOW-COST AND FREE CELL PHONE OPTIONS FOR SENIORS

Dear Savvy Senior:

What are the cheapest cell phone options available today to seniors living on a shoestring budget? I only need it for occasional calls.

Seldom Calling Senior

Dear Seldom:

For financially challenged seniors who only want a cell phone for emergency purposes or occasional calls, there are a number of inexpensive no contract plans you can get. Or, depending on your income level, there are also free cell phones and monthly airtime minutes you may qualify for. Here's where to find some of the cheapest deals.

No-Contract Phones

One way infrequent cell phone users can save money is with a prepaid cell phone – also known as pay-as-you-go phones. With a prepaid phone there's no contract, no fixed monthly bills, no credit checks and no hidden costs that come with traditional cell phone plans. With this type of service, you buy a special prepaid phone then pre-purchase a certain amount of minutes (for talk or text) that must be used within a specified period of time.

While most major carriers like AT&T and Verizon offer inexpensive prepaid plans, as do independents like Net10, Cricket and Virgin Mobile, some of the best deals are offered by TracFone (tracfone.com, 800-867-7183) and T-Mobile (t-mobile.com, 800-866-2453).

TracFone has phones that start as low as $10 and call plans that cost under $7 per month. And T-Mobile has a super-cheap 30-minute plan for $10, and minutes don't expire for 90 days. That averages out to $3.33 per month. If you need more talk time, they also offer an annual plan where $100 gets you 1,000 minutes that are good for a full year. T-Mobile does, however, charge a one-time activation of $35.

Or, it you would rather have a no-contract senior-friendly phone with big buttons and simplified features, the Doro PhoneEasy 618 sold through Consumer Cellular (consumercellular. com, 888-345-5509) is probably your cheapest option. It costs $60 for the phone, with calling plans that start at $10 per month.

Free Cell Phones

If your income is low enough, you also need to check into the Lifeline Assistance Program.

This is a government-sponsored program that subsidizes wireless (and landline) companies who in turn provide free cellphones and around 250 minutes of free monthly airtime and texts to low-income Americans. (Some programs in some states provide more minutes, some less, and some charge a small monthly fee.)

There are currently around 15 million Americans who have a free cell phone through the Lifeline program, but millions more are eligible.

The free phones and minutes are provided by a number of national prepaid wireless companies like Safelink and Assurance Wireless, along with a host of other regional carriers throughout the country.

Many states have more than one wireless company that provides the free phones and minutes. If you are eligible, the free cell phone you'll receive is a basic phone that also offers text messaging, voice mail, call waiting and caller ID.

To qualify, you'll need to show that you're receiving certain types of government benefits, such as Medicaid, Food Stamps, SSI, home energy assistance or public housing assistance. Or, that your household income is at or below 135 or 150 percent of the Federal Poverty Guidelines – it varies by state. The 135 percent poverty level is currently $15,754 for singles and $21,235 for couples. The 150 percent level is $17,505/singles, $23,595/couples.

To find out if you're eligible, or to locate the wireless companies that provide Lifeline government cell phones in your state, visit lifelinesupport.org. You can also learn more at freegovernmentcellphones.net.

KATIE Tse.....This and That

Punch Needle, And Other Obscure Crafts

God has blessed me with the most wonderful mom in the world, and I take every opportunity to shamelessly brag about her! Not only is she compassionate, patient, and humorous, but she and my dad are model retired people. For my parents, retirement released all the creative energy they didn't have enough time or money for when they were working. Retirement freed my mom to pursue her passion in fiber.

What exactly does "fiber" mean? Some people are seamstresses, others are knitters, and some are weavers. But when you become immersed in all these and more, the only common denominator is fiber. Now that my mom has two sizable looms, she tries to get me interested in weaving.

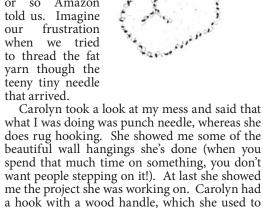

It's not that I don't like weaving, it's just way too complicated. First you measure the warp. Then you count an exact number of "ends" and tie them evenly onto the back rod. Then you painstakingly thread the heddles, which can end up in disaster if you are not totally focused (sometimes it ends up in disaster anyway). After that you sley the reed and tie the ends onto the apron rod. And that's just the set up before you actually start weaving!

Weaving involves so much math, interpretation of charts and graphs, and fluency in a foreign language ("shuttle, reed, castle, temple," etc. have entirely different meanings) that it should be offered as a educational prep skill. If learning to play an instrument improves children's math skills, learning to weave will turn them into

My mom and her fiber friends love a challenge, but I gravitate toward simplicity --which is why punch needle appealed to me so much! My mom emailed me a YouTube video of a woman doing punch needle embroidery. Instead of stitching, this lady was stabbing fabric with what looked like a sharpened marker in rapid fire movements. "It's like coloring with a crayon!" someone posted. Higher math is beyond me, but coloring with crayons is something I can do!

The rub, however, was that neither of us knew anything about how to use a punch needle. Even my mom's fiber friends were unfamiliar with it. For a long time we couldn't tell the difference between punch needle and rug hooking. One of my mom's friends very nicely hooked (Ha ha!) me up with a friend of hers in town who does rug hooking, and she graciously invited me over. We'll call her Carolyn.

So, I went to her house with my ragged "project." The kit was for a heart-shaped pillow with "Love" written on it. (Cheesy, I know, but it was supposed to just practice). The kit came with canvas that had "evol" on it, and yarn, but no needle. So we ordered a needle that is often bought when customers purchase the kit, or so Amazon told us. Imagine our frustration when to thread the fat yarn though the teeny tiny needle she said, "I believe you work from the wrong side of the pattern." So that's why it said "evol"!

Additional differences between the two crafts are that with rug hooking, you cut strips of wool using a very expensive fabric slicing machine. Other fabrics can be used, but wool is traditional. With rug hooking, you must make sure that you're pulling out the loops to the correct length. Rug hooking has been around since Colonial times, and has certain classical designs. Punch needle, on the other hand is a faster, simpler, and cheaper method to produce a similar product. Essentially, rug hooking is like making a cake from scratch, and punch needle is like using a pull strands of cut wool up through the fabric to form a series of little loops. "With punch needle," boxed cake mix. Well, I've learned a little more since embarking on this punch needle journey. Simple as it is, I still haven't gotten the hang of it completely. But that's oaky --it's a heck of a lot easier than

FOOTHILL GOLD LINE UPDATE: METRO'S SHORT RANGE TRANSPORTATION PLAN

With the Draft Short Range Transportation Plan (SRTP) set to go before the Metro board of directors for approval in a few weeks, Metro is being urged to: include the Foothill Gold Line from Azusa to Claremont in the "Future Projects – Transit and Highways" project list and map; and to recognize the full cost and possible completion schedule of the project to Claremont as required by statute. As reported in the news late last week, Metro staff responded by adding a dotted line on the SRTP map between Azusa and Claremont. However, no progress was made to add transparency on the cost or schedule elements of the project. The portion of the plan that assumes new funding becoming available still doesn't include the full cost of the project to Claremont, which has been provided to Metro on several occasions.

As written in a letter sent by U.S. Representatives Grace Napolitano, Judy Chu and Adam Schiff to Los Angeles Mayor Eric Garcetti (who takes over as Metro board chair in July), the two segments of the Foothill Gold Line are on schedule to be completed well within the time frame of the SRTP. Although Metro staff has added a dotted line to Claremont, it does nothing without acknowledging the full cost of the Foothill Gold Line to Claremont. The unfunded Azusa to Claremont segment of the Foothill Gold Line is currently in the advanced conceptual engineering phase and will eventually be ready for design-build in 2017. The project could be completed by 2022 should funding become available, assuming Metro staff properly amends the SRTP to reflect the latest cost estimate and completion schedule provided by the Construction Authority following the project's environmental clearance last year.

Meanwhile, on the Pasadena to Azusa segment, construction continues to progress more visibly as track installation takes place throughout the alignment. Below left, you can see the finished track switches on the alignment along the I-210 Freeway median. What's not visible to most is the work that's taking place on top of the Gold Line Bridge, seen below to the right, with crews having recently begun track installation on the north side of the iconic freeway structure.

REP. SCHIFF ON HOUSE REPUBLICAN DECISION TO BLOCK IMMIGRATION REFORM THIS YEAR – POLITICAL NEEDS OVER INTERESTS OF NATION

Washington, DC – Today, Rep. Adam Schiff (D-CA) released the following statement after learning that Speaker John Boehner has now definitively ruled out bringing up immigration reform this year:

"Speaker Boehner's decision to block a vote on immigration reform in the House more than a year after bipartisan legislation passed in the Senate, is a terrible disservice to millions of families and elevates the political needs of his GOP conference over the interests of the nation.

"Our broken immigration system is a drag on our economy, unnecessarily divides families and is in desperate need of repair. If the Speaker scheduled the Senate bipartisan bill for a vote in the House tomorrow, it would pass. That he is unwilling to do so, will be a permanent stain on his record as Speaker and require the President to address the problem as well as he can through executive order. While the President can and should mitigate the most damaging consequences of inaction on immigration reform through executive action, it is not a substitute for a comprehensive solution to the problem and Members of Congress must continue to do all we can to overcome the Speaker's intransigence."

SEAN'S SHAMELESS REVIEWS:

By Sean Kayden

HOW TO DRESS WELL

How To Dress Well new album dives into a deep uncertainty. Velvet voice singer Tom Krell, who performs under this moniker, returns with third LP, "What Is This Heart?" This R&B-induced album is more polished boosting higher production values than previous raw recordings. I wasn't too familiar with his previous material, mainly because his music at the time didn't appeal to me. However, Krell has some tender, heartbreaking R&B tracks. His minimalistic approach piqued my interest. He doesn't go overboard and that in itself is a refreshing experience. Sometimes his emotions and feelings seem lost and blurred, but when he connects, he hits it out of the park. "Repeat Pleasure" is his best track. It's lovely and as gentle as Krell's spirit. The Chicago based singer-songwriter clearly has his heart on his sleeve. His discord is on display and the music he crafts is both entrancing and exasperating.

Opener "2 Years On (Shame Dream)" has Krell singing over only an acoustic guitar. It's a painful, grief-stricken tune that doesn't open up the album on any sort of exultant note. Most of the record deals with trauma, opening up old wounds and finding a way to cope. The struggle is real, but is there a particular way to deal with it? These essential themes guide "WITH?"

Artist: How To Dress Well
Album: "What Is This Heart?"
Label: Domino Recording
Release Date: June 23rd, 2014

with plenty of ease as you navigate from start to finish. "Precious Love" is something special. By far, it's the catchiest song off the record. Krell, a storyteller first, musician second, leaves it all on the table. He doesn't shy away from the inner pain nor does he find a need to mask it. "Childhood Faith In Love (Everything Must Change, Everything Must Stay The Same)" is utterly gorgeous. It's a song that sparks something profoundly within. As time goes on in life, you find yourself at a point many times where everything must change, but everything must stay the same. Krell explores the darkside of life, but hopes there is still light to be discovered.

Some tracks are heavy R&B such as "Very Best Friend" and "Face Again." Both are a bit louder and push the electronic soundscape a bit further than the other songs. While that pair of tracks didn't do all that much for me, the rest of the album is fairly powerful. "See You Fall," describes a love that has fallen. It's a slow jam with Krell's falsetto vocals on display, as the beats and piano remain weightless in the background. With the blend of R&B, pop and electronics, washed out reverb, and Krell's silky vocals, "WITH?" is something that's oddly potent. It may not know exactly what it wants to express. The dichotomy is a bit off with not enough dancefloor jams and a little light on heartbreak tunes. How To Dress Well improves upon his craft and the darkly scattered emotions are apparent despite being unclear what it all means, all of the time.

THE ORANGE AND THE DREAM OF CALIFORNIA BY DAVID BOULÉ

Juicy with anecdotes and deliciously illustrated. David Boul shows and tells readers the history of the Orange -- the "Golden Fruit" -- and how it came to be the symbol of a dream that is California and a draw for farmers. It even became a topic that has even been a continuing story line on Mad Men: advertisers who followed the pattern set by Sunkist -- to turn a product into a lifestyle. Did you know that before Sunkist put its spin on the orange, drinking orange juice was barely ever heard of? yep, it all happened here in California. The whole country started eating and drinking from the big Orange and they just couldn't get enough. Boul tells us how and why, and shows us from his extensive personal collection of Orangeabilia(color photos, postcards, and classic advertisements.)

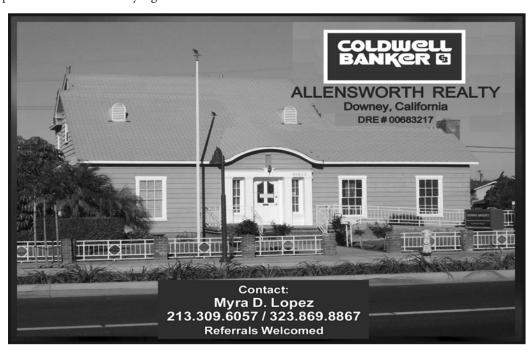

THE FOUR AGREEMENTS: A PRACTICAL GUIDE TO PERSONAL FREEDOM by don Miguel Ruiz

When you get tangled in endless dilemmas -- at home, at work, or with friends -- you need to simplify. Don Miguel Ruiz offers the means. In this small book of wisdom, Ruiz, a shaman and healer, instructs us in the four agreements that ensure right conduct. Be impeccable with your word, Ruiz urges. Don't take anything personally. Don't make assumptions. Always do your best. Through this small but potent tract, Ruiz explains how Toltec laws can help us simplify and how they can lead us out of everyday snares and into personal freedom.

TIBETAN PEACH PIE: A TRUE ACCOUNT OF AN IMAGINATIVE by Tom Robbins

Internationally bestselling novelist and American icon Tom Robbins delivers the long awaited tale of his wild life and times, both at home and around the globe.. In Tibetan Peach Pie, Robbins turns that unparalleled literary sensibility inward, stitching together stories of his unconventional life, from his Appalachian childhood to his globetrotting adventures told in his unique voice that combines the sweet and sly, the spiritual and earthy. The grandchild of Baptist preachers, Robbins would become over the course of half a century a poet-interruptus, an air force weatherman, a radio dj, an art-critic-turned-psychedelic-journeyman, a world-famous novelist, and a counter-culture hero, leading a life as unlikely, magical, and bizarre as those of his quixotic characters. Robbins offers intimate snapshots of Appalachia during the Great Depression, the West Coast during the Sixties psychedelic revolution, international roving before homeland security monitored our travels, and New York publishing when it still relied on trees. Written with the big-hearted comedy and mesmerizing linguistic invention for which he is known, Tibetan Peach Pie is an invitation into the private world of a literary legend

THE WORLD AROUND US

LIKE A DIAMOND IN THE SKY

"Up above the world so high, like a diamond in the sky...." A team of astronomers, using multiple telescopes, has identified the coolest, faintest white dwarf star known. White dwarfs are the extremely dense end states of stars like our Sun: after their nuclear fuel is exhausted, they collapse from the size of a star (about 1,000,000 miles across) to the size of the Earth (7,000 miles across). This white dwarf, located in the constellation Aquarius, is so cool that its carbon has crystallized, and crystallized carbon is...diamond! In other words, this star is one very big, Earth-sized diamond, with a mass similar to that of our Sun.

The path to this discovery began when Dr. Jason Boyles, then a graduate student at West Virginia University, identified what astronomers refer to as a millisecond pulsar in this location, using a radio telescope.

This pulsar, or spinning neutron star, is the 20-mile-diameter collapsed remnant of a star that was originally many times more massive than our Sun. Known as PSR J2222-0137, which simply identifies its position in the sky, it is spinning more than 30 times a second. Its orientation is such that as it spins, a beam from its magnetic pole sweeps repeatedly past the Earth, giving rise to regular blips of radio waves. (The pulsar is detected only in radio waves, not in visible light.) The observations also revealed that this pulsar is gravitationally bound to a companion star: the two orbit around each other every 2.45 days. This companion object appears to be either another neutron star or, more likely, a remarkably cool white dwarf.

The distance to the pulsar was already known from parallax measurements made by Dr. Adam Deller at the Netherlands Institute for Radio Astronomy. Parallax, which utilizes the motion of the Earth around the Sun, is the "gold standard" for determining distances to astronomical objects. At only about 900 light-years away, this is one of the closest neutron stars known.

Knowing the distance is crucial for calculating the intrinsic brightness, and therefore the temperature, of the stellar remnants. And as the lead author of this paper, Prof. David Kaplan, remarked, "These same observations also pinpointed the position of the pulsar extremely precisely."

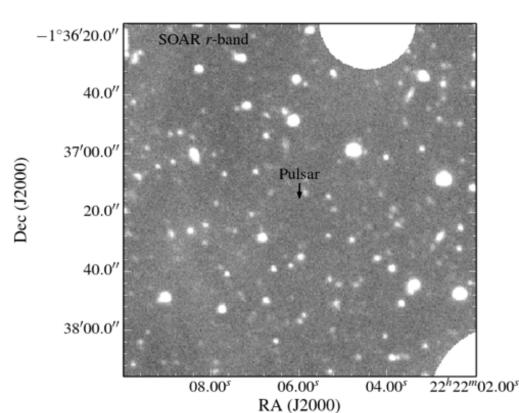

It is also critical to know the mass of each component of the binary system. They found the pulsar has a mass of 1.2 times that of the Sun and the companion has a mass of 1.05 times that of the Sun.

Next, they searched for visible and infrared evidence of the companion, using the Southern Astrophysical Research (SOAR) telescope in Chile and the Keck telescope in Hawaii. With their knowledge of the distance of the pulsar, the team was able to calculate how intrinsically faint the companion object is. But nothing could be seen at the position of the pulsar and its white dwarf companion! As Bart Dunlap, a graduate student at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and one of the team members, said, "Because of the radio observations, we know exactly where to look, so we pointed SOAR there and collected light for two and a half hours. Our final image should show us a companion 100 times fainter than any other white dwarf, orbiting a neutron star and about 10 times fainter than any known white dwarf—but we don't see a thing. If there's a white dwarf there, and there almost certainly is, it must be extremely cold."

Cold as stars go, that is. The researchers calculated that the white dwarf's temperature would be no more than a comparatively cool 3,000 degrees Kelvin (2,700 degrees Celsius).

FAMILY MATTERS

WILL THE INHERITANCE YOU LEAVE BE A BLESSING OR AN ALBATROSS?

Rock musician Sting recently announced to grandchildren but want to be sure those that his children will not inherit his estimated $300 million fortune, saying these riches are "albatrosses around their necks."

The product of a British working class background, Sting is currently one of the world's wealthiest musicians, but says he will not be passing that fortune on to his six children. In an interview with the Daily Mail, Sting said,

"I told them there won't be much money left because we are spending it! We have a lot of commitments. What comes in we spend, and there isn't much left. I certainly don't want to leave them trust funds that are albatrosses round their necks. They have to work. All my kids know that and they rarely ask me for anything, which I really respect and appreciate."

While this may sound a bit harsh, Sting's concerns about inherited wealth are not uncommon among parents (wealthy or not) who wrestle with whether bestowing wealth upon their children or grandchildren will be a blessing or a

Fortunately, for parents and grandparents with these concerns, estate planning does offer a valuable tool: a Wealth Creation trust, prepared using incentive provisions.

A Wealth Creation Trust with incentive provisions allows you to pass along your values along with your wealth by attaching incentives to the distribution of your assets. For example, if grandparents want to pass on wealth CA 91024.

grandchildren get a good education so they know how to handle their inheritance wisely, they can set up a Wealth Creation Trust that names scholastic circumstances under which the assets will be distributed.

If your desire is to nurture your children's entrepreneurial spirit, you can establish a Wealth Creation Trust to provide funding for a business startup, which allows you to foster that spirit while passing on your values regarding the benefits of hard work.

While most parents want to leave something behind for their children, passing along a solid set of values as well as inherited wealth is generally the desired outcome. A Wealth Creation Trust allows parents and grandparents to accomplish this worthy goal.

about which type of lender best suits your situation.

Tips of the Trade: Real Estate Revealed by Luther Tsinoglou

IT'S ALL ABOUT APPROVAL

These days, a buyer's biggest concern shouldn't be so much about finding the lowest interest rate, but finding a lender who will approve their application. There are three basic types of mortgage providers, each regulated by a different agency, and following different disclosure laws.

Banks: generally employ their own underwriters and provide loans with their own money. They often have mortgage products matched to particular situations, such as manufactured homes or new construction. Minimum credit score requirements will vary from bank to bank. Brokers: work on a commission and make a little more than bankers, but their business is highly regulated and transparent. They prepare your application file and present it to banks or investors. Involving a third party can take more time, of course, and since they have higher credit score requirements and fees, don't shop at a broker if your score is below 620. Correspondents: draw from their own credit lines and sell your mortgage shortly before closing. Since their ability to lend depends on their own credit, it's possible for closing to be delayed if they are processing more loans than they have funds to cover. That doesn't mean you can't still get good terms, however. You need to assess your financial position and your needs, and speak with your real estate agent

Planning, Posting, Participation and Persistence are the 4P's for social media marketing.

Think about your message, its purpose, its call to action, its value. Create a simple calendar and jot down when and how often you will post and check in. Just like you need to regularly check your phone messages and email, you also need to check your Social Media activity. There are free tools like Hootsuite and Nutshell Mail that allow you to look at all your social media tools in one place.

If your last post was six month's ago, the perception is your business no longer exists. Ouch! Social Media loves fresh content. Frequent posts create content that can help a prospective customer who may be searching for you online, to find your products and services. We suggest posting 3-5 times a week. You can schedule posts in Facebook and you can also use Hootsuite to schedule on Twitter, LinkedIn and Facebook.

Build a system. We think one of the best practices is to feed your Facebook or Twitter posts right into your website. It is an easy way to freshen up your web site and let your visitors see what is happening with your company. Our mantra is Post once, populate many. Create a system that will become your online marketing machine and it will save you time.

Participation

It's important to engage with your audience. That not only means posting regularly, but also listening to them and responding and commenting on their posts. Let your audience know you care about them with active listening.

There are no silver bullets. Simply having an account on Facebook, Twitter or any of the other Social Media tools will not make you millions over night. You'll find you will get more out of social media if you roll up your sleeves and keep at it. Try new things, repurposing content that has value, build relationships and get to know others better by listening to them.

HOWARD Hays As I See It

"The ability of women to participate equally in the economic and social life of the Nation has been facilitated by their ability to control their reproductive lives."

- Former Justice Sandra Day O'Connor

That's from Justice O'Connor's opinion in a 1992 case upholding Roe v. Wade, cited by Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg in her dissent in (HHS Secretary Sylvia) Burwell v. Hobby Lobby. It was also included in Emily Badger's blog for the Washington Post, in which she notes that while in Justice Ginsburg's 35-page dissent "women" (singular or plural) is mentioned 43 times, it's only 13 times in Justice Samuel Alito's 49-page

Women's well-being isn't mentioned at all.

Although the case has been in the news a lot, it can be hard to figure out. Nobody has been compelled to accept any medical treatment, or help pay for it, that their conscience, religious or otherwise, might object to - neither the Green family, owners of Hobby Lobby, nor anyone else. As part of the Affordable Care Act, there are certain requirements insurance policies must meet to be offered on the exchanges. Businesses with more than 50 employees (Hobby Lobby has over 13,000) can choose to either make such policies available to heir employees (perhaps with offsetting wage decrease) or pay a tax, instead.

One of those ACA requirements is that preventive care be made available to both men and women with no co-pay – including certain types of contraception.

Hobby Lobby didn't seek to have contraception coverage per se removed from policies it offers employees. (And it never objected to coverage for Viagra or vasectomies.) Hobby Lobby's objection was to four specific methods of contraception it considered tantamount to abortion - which is banned under the ACA.

According to the medical and science communities, however, the methods Hobby Lobby objected to (Plan B, IUDs) as being "abortifacients" in fact, are not. Hobby Lobby contended these plans interrupt pregnancies, though what they do is prevent ovulation implantation. According to Judge Alito's opinion, however, it doesn't matter whether these methods are "abortion-inducing" or not; all that matters is Hobby

There's a lot of reference in this case made to the Religious Freedom Restoration Act of 1993 (RFRA). It arose from a couple of cases heard by the Supreme Court a few years earlier in which Native Americans complained their religious rights were violated; one involved a planned road through what they considered sacred grounds, and the other the use of peyote. In both cases, the Court ruled public interest trumped religion. The RFRA was passed to protect individuals from "unduly burdensome" restrictions on their free exercise of religion - but it was later declared unconstitutional by the

The two earlier rulings favoring the public interest over the religion of Native Americans were signed onto by Justice Antonin Scalia. The ruling finding the RFRA unconstitutional was signed onto by Justices Scalia and Clarence Thomas. That's right two justices who later cited that same RFRA in favoring the "religion" of Hobby Lobby over the rights of its female employees.

So, to sum up: the health and well-being of women is not considered in a case primarily affecting the health and well-being of women; plaintiffs complain of being compelled to provide coverage they aren't compelled to provide; contraceptive methods are objected to for doing something they don't in fact do; and Justices who previously ruled the public interest trumps religion now find the opposite, citing in heir argument a law they'd previously found unconstitutional. Got it?

It started to make sense when I realized the plaintiff was not the Green family, owners of the corporation, but Hobby Lobby itself.

Justice Alito wrote, "Any suggestion that for-profit corporations are incapable of exercising religion because their purpose is simply to make money flies in the face of modern corporate law". He was referring to corporations, not people, when adding, the HHS mandate demands that they engage in conduct that seriously violates their religious beliefs." House Speaker John Boehner (R-OH) commented,"The mandate overturned today would have required for-profit companies to choose between violating their constitutionally-protected faith or paying crippling fines." He wasn't referring to the "constitutionally-protected faith" of an individual or a family, but of a for-profit

One of the most jaw-dropping examples of "judicial activism" in recent years was the Court's finding, in "Citizens United" (2010), that corporations enjoy First Amendment protections of freedom of speech which our founders intended for We the People. Now, the Court maintains that corporations have constitutionally-protected rights regarding "religion", as well. In its amicus brief, the Constitutional Accountability Center reminded, "From the Founding until today, the Constitution's protection of religious liberty has been seen as a personal right . . . Business corporations, quite properly, have never shared in this fundamental aspect of our constitutional tradition for the obvious reason that a business corporation lacks the basic human capacities -- reason, dignity, and conscience -- at the core of religious belief and thus the free exercise right." The Court conveyed upon corporations "rights" to unlimited campaign participation like the rest of us, though corporations have never felt patriotic at a Fourth of July parade, worried about what we're leaving the next generation or mourned the loss of a loved one at Arlington.

Now, they can have "religion" - though corporations have never had to temper conviction with concern over the health and well-being of a wife, mother, sister or daughter.

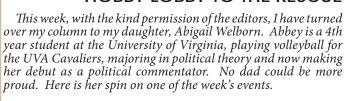

Decades ago, Justice Ginsburg was a pioneer in protecting the rights of women and fighting sex discrimination. Now she serves on a Court which rules that not allowing a corporation to come between a woman and her doctor would be "unduly burdensome" - on the corporation.

"I still cannot understand how the Court's majority could put the ideology of closelyheld corporations above the health and religious freedom of thousands and thousands of their female employees", says our Sen. Barbara Boxer (D-CA).

Neither can I – but I'm beginning to.

HOBBY LOBBY TO THE RESCUE

Feminists and Liberals of all sexual orientation are foaming at the mouth over this week's Supreme Court decision in the so-called Hobby Lobby case. Average Americans think the decision was pretty reasonable - expected even - which just infuriates the left more. The mainstream media, which has largely abandoned any pretense of even pretending to be objective, just parrots back the talking points. This leaves erious analysis of the decision as road kill.

Lefties can't figure out why the Supremes and every other American can't see how hateful, mean-spirited, discriminatory, bigoted and apartheid-like refusing to pay for someone else's birth control is. It flummoxes them and agitates them to the point where they've given us some pretty outrageous

Courtesy of N.OW.'s president, Terry O'Neill, "apartheid in South Africa was justified on religious grounds. The Southern Baptist convention justified slavery and later Jim Crow and segregation on religious grounds... The Supreme Court is simply wrong to honor gender bigotry... It's bigotry to keep women away from basic healthcare."

Wow! In the delusional world which these Liberals inhabit, a court decision stipulating that someone is not obligated to pay for the consequences of someone else's sexual hijinks is discriminatory. Making someone pay for their own abortification procedures is equivalent to sweeping women's rights back to the dark, dark ages of the late 19th century. It's all outrageous rhetoric, of course, but it's also deeply flawed

Hobby Lobby (the employer) will still provide its employees a health insurance plan with several forms of birth control. In fact, of the 20 HHSmandated birth control methods, which were stipulated in Obamacare, Hobby Lobby will still offer 16. To claim anyone is being denied basic birth control is just factually wrong

The key issue in this case was whether a closely-held company, owned by deeply religious people who object to abortion on well documented religious beliefs, should be forced to pay for medications which cause a women's body to self-abort a fetus (the medication known as an abortifacient). To force someone to act against their most deeply rooted religious beliefs is immoral, impractical and most certainly unconstitutional, and the

The most hyperbolic of the Left's criticisms and fears is that this decision allows a slippery slope down which all forms of healthcare could be denied. Such a fear represents a terrible misreading of several hundred years of court decisions which shape our understanding and implementation of the first amendment to the constitution. It also belies a dangerous misunderstanding of what representative democracy should look like.

Our constitution provides us with a form of government in which the majority's will can be implemented while at the same time protecting the rights of the minority. If there were no restrictions on what the majority could decide, then any majority of people at any given time could take advantage of a small minority. The framers' genius was to provide a series of amendments (the first 10 known as the Bill of Rights) which stipulated which rights were inviolate.

The first amendment states in elegant simplicity, "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof..." Straightforward, simple and tremendously valuable to each and every American. We are each free to practice our religion, but none of us can impose our religion on others. Catholics can be Catholic, Protestants Protestant, Mormans Morman, and atheists can play golf on Sunday mornings.

The Hobby Lobby decision simply recognized this. If a woman wants to use birth control or to use an abortion pill, she can do it. Hobby Lobby, on the other hand, is not obligated to pay for it. This doesn't mean that Hobby Lobby is preventing the woman from obtaining the pills. No right has been stripped from anyone. In fact, one of the most important rights for every American has been affirmed.

The last and most troubling aspect of this decision is the fact that it was a 5-4 decision. Four Liberal justices believe that an American can be forced to violate their religious beliefs to pay for another person's abortion. As outrageous as the belief is, it's scarier to think what one more Liberal justice would mean. Tip the Supreme Court's scales just one more person to the left, and basic American freedoms could be eliminated. Now that's worthy of some hyperbole!

The great irony in all this is that the Hobby Lobby decision did more to protect and affirm civil rights than most Liberal activists can lay claim to in a lifetime. When Liberals finally emerge from their fever swamps, they'll realize just how lucky they are.

OUT TO PASTOR A Weekly Religion Column by Rev. James Snyder

The Haves, the Have Nots and the Whatnots

When it comes to politics, I am as confused as the politicians themselves. I do not like to discuss politics because I do not understand it and just as soon as you understand one opinion, everything changes and you do not know where you are at. Just as soon as a politician voices a position on an issue, he spins it around and it sounds like he has taken an opposite view. All that spinning has me in a whirl. Politicians change positions more than the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage

It seems to me that when God ran out of brains and intellectual capacitors, He turned to an angel and said, "I know what I will do. I'll make me a politician." He gathered up all the leftover dirt He could find and threw together what we now know

I do not know if this was a joke on God's part or if He is just trying to test us to see how much pain we can endure. The only consolation I have, and I have read my Bible over 100 times, there is no mention of politicians in heaven. Maybe that is one of the things that makes heaven, heaven.

I know I do not understand much that goes on in the political arena, but one of the things I have been hearing has to do with what they call, "The Haves and the Have Nots." It must be important because now there is a TV series with this name. Do not dare ask me if I have watched it because I will have to tell you the truth. I "Have Not." What do people mean when they use this phrase? Who are these Haves? And who are these Have Nots? Probably more importantly, what is it that these Haves have that the Have Nots

I am reminded of my old uncle Amos, who often brags, "I can afford anything I want, I just don't want anything." If you ever saw old uncle Amos, he really does not have anything. At least, he did not have anything that I wanted or any sane person, for that matter. The problem as I see it is simply this. If I want what somebody else has, am I really going to be happy when I have what he has?

There are many things that I do not have and I am quite happy that I do not have I do not have an incurable disease. I do not have a debt so far above my head that I am going into bankruptcy. I do not have a table full of bills that I cannot pay.

I am happy that I do not have any of these things.

It could be the benefit of getting old. I guess I am getting old, at least I am getting older and my plan is to get as old as I possibly can. Next month I will celebrate another birthday, but I am getting to the age that I cannot remember how old I really am. I "Have Not" a clue. I guess I will have to count how many candles are on my cake if I can see through the smoke.

But as a part of the "older generation," I do not really need anything that I do not have. I suppose it would be nice to have a new truck, but there is nothing wrong with my old truck. It still gets me where I want to go, the air conditioner still works and the radio still plays my kind of music. Why would I need a new truck?

It probably would be nice to have a new house. At our age, my wife and I do not have the energy to pack up everything and unpack everything in a new place. As it stands, everything in our house is exactly where we want it. I think I will be happy with what I Have and not waste time on what I Have Not.

I choose to focus not on what I "Have Not" but on what I really do "Have."

I have a wonderful wife, but do not tell her I said so, it might get me into some kind of a situation. This year we will have been married some 43 years and why she has put up with the likes of me all this time I will never know. Actually, the fact that she has put up with me all these years brings into question her sanity.

I know I could not put up with myself all that time. Last week I was beside myself and had to get up and move.

I have some wonderful children and grandchildren. It would be nice to live long enough to see my great-grandchildren, but I am not pushing that issue. I am rejoicing in what I have.

The best thing that I have, the thing I treasure the most, is my relationship with God. I can identify with what David said, "The LORD is my shepherd; I shall not want" (Psalm 23:1).

What David is really saying here is that when "the Lord is my Shepherd," then the reality is simply, "I shall not want." The other side of the picture is true as well. If I find myself constantly in want, maybe the Lord is not my Shepherd.

Have A Safe & Sober Holiday!

Remember the extras like ice for drinks - and good music.

Have you ever planned a party? Setting up a birthday party can be as easy as calling, texting or emailing a couple of friends and inviting them to come to your house at the same time. All you really need to celebrate a birthday is a cake – and, of course, the person whose birthday is being celebrated! This is a low-cost, but fun time that needs only a little planning.

On the other hand, if you want a larger party you'll need to plan, decide on a budget and do more work to get everything running smoothly. No matter what kind of party you might choose to throw, this week's puzzles will help you learn "How to Plan a Party or Event!"

Read the clues to fill in the puzzle with the things you need to think about when planning a party, event or get-together:

1. What is the _____ for the party or get-together: birthday, holiday?

2. Figure out a fun subject or ______ for your party: pirates, dinosaurs, cartoons, princesses, robots or animals.

3. Decide on the kind of party or its _____: luncheon, picnic, tailgating.

4. _____ will your party be held: beach, backyard, bowling alley? 5. Think of the cost and set a ______ to cover food, drinks, decorations.

6. Who and how many _____ will you invite: family, friends, neighbors?

7. What sort of refreshments or _____ do you want to offer your guests: taco buffet, hot dogs, ice cream, cake? It's up to you!

8. What kinds of _____ will you do: horseshoes, badminton, swimming, pin the tail on the donkey, races?

9. What kinds of _____ do you want to spice up your party: streamers, balloons, lanterns, centerpieces?

10. Make sure you finish the ______ before your guests arrive.

What's the Reason for the Event? Fill in the blanks to name some: 1. CON _ RAT _ LAT _ ONS 2. B _ R _ H _ A _ 3. H _ L I _ A Y Party or 4. WHAT ON 98

July 7 - July 13, 2014

The Girl from Rio' is playing Friday at 1:00 p.m.

Released on August 7, 1939: Marquita's brother is falsly accused of murder, and she must go to New York City to clear his name and find the real killer.

Movita Castaneda was born on December 4, 1917 on a train from Mexico to Arizona, just as the train was approaching Nogales, Arizona. Thus Movita earned American citizenship and this Mexican American beauty starred in several movies in the thirties and forties, usually as a Latin singing beauty. But her acting career isn't all that makes her famous. Although six years older than him, Marlon Brando made her his second wife in 1960, and she was mother to two Brando children, Miko and Rebecca Brando.

In this movie Movita is a young beautiful girl in Rio who is about to go on stage for the first time as a singer, and her maid is working to squeeze Movita into her dress for the performance. During this scene, Movita makes an offhanded remark that was probably very scandalous for 1939 motion pictures. Her maid complains that if she doesn't get the dress buttoned carefully it may fall of in the middle of her performance, and how would that look? Movita doesn't pause a second before replying that she thinks she would look pretty good if that happened.

Before she can leave for the theater, she gets a telegram from New York City, where her brother is dancing. The telegram says that her brother has been arrested and charged with murder. Marquita (Movita) drops everything and heads for New York City to help her brother. It seems that her brother and his new wife were dancing for a nightclub that burned down and a man was killed in the fire. Her brother is framed quite well for the fire and death, and it looks like prison for him if Marquita cannot prove her brother innocent. She manages to get a job singing for the nightclub owner that probably framed her brother, and we watch as the tension builds and The Girl From Rio risks her life between songs to save her brother from the electric chair.
