WALKING SIERRA MADRE...THE SOCIAL SIDE By Deanne Davis

Artist's rendering of the 2015 Sierra Madre Rose Float Association's Inspirational Story Entry

"I think I can! I think I can! I think I can!"

The Little Engine That Could – Watty Piper (Nom de plume of Arnold Munk of the publishing company of Platt & Munk)

That's us, folks! Sierra Madre really is The Little Engine That Could! We remember this delightful children's story which first appeared in print in 1920. The tale of a little engine who thinks he can pull a long heavy train over a hill and does, indeed, do exactly that! The theme of this year's Rose Parade is "Inspirational Stories" with Louis Zamperini as the Grand Marshall. Although Mr. Zamperini passed away this July 3rd, the Parade will still be honoring his legacy of bravery and indomitable spirit through "Inspirational Stories."

Why, you're asking yourself, are we talking about the Rose Float now? Well, we all saw it in the July 4th Parade and it was so amazing already I'm pretty sure I'm not the only one who wanted to know more Sierra Madre's annual Rose Parade float is truly an inspirational story! All volunteer workers from the design phase right on through the building, the decoration and the ride down Colorado Blvd., every year is a challenge to say the least! Spent an afternoon with long-time Sierra Madre Rose Float Association member, Donna Sutcliffe, and walked away filled with admiration for these dedicated people who work all year to bring our float to life. Donna spoke admiringly and with a real sense of loss of Rose Float Association's President, Robert Young, who passed away July 17th. She spoke especially of Bob's dedication and his insistence that everything involved with the annual float had to be fun!

Donna mentioned Bonnie Colcher, Volunteer Coordinator and her husband, Dave. Bonnie will talk to any group of people she can find to bring in more volunteers and more donations. This is a good time to mention that the float is financed completely by donated dollars! Dave is a scientist at City of Hope by day and a master float welder all the rest of the time. Looking at the float in its current incarnation, i.e., the frame is built - that required a LOT of welding! Originally from Chicago, the Colchers sort of stumbled across the float barn 8 or 9 years ago and were hooked! Bonnie and other Rose Float Association members beg merchants all over town for gifts and prizes for Legendary Bingo, the SM Rose Float Association's major fundraisers, which take place twice a year in April and again in October.

Legendary Bingo, according to Donna, "is not your grandmother's Bingo!" The Bingo caller is an outrageous drag queen, they acquire a one night beer and wine license, there's all you can eat popcorn and pizza (for sale...it's a fundraiser!) from our own Sierra Madre Pizza. is available on Amazon.com; or at https://www.createspace. There was such a huge crowd at the April event they ran out of pizza com/4561071" \t "_blank" before the games even began and had to send out for more! Now that's a successful event! I'm thinking my favorite Rose Parade watching buddy, John, (who watches the Rose Parade anxiously counting the minutes till the game) and I are missing out on a great event and will be playing Bingo in October!

Rose Parade Decoration Week - which is when the flowers are attached to the float - is a super week! This past December, City Council Member, John Harabedian, and his wife, Young-Gi, cooked hamburgers and hot dogs (provided by The Burger Shack in Monrovia, which is owned by local family the Tsinoglous) five days in a row for the volunteers. Mayor Pro-Tem, John Capoccia helped staff the Sales Booth, working the phones, giving directions and helping volunteers from all over Southern California find our float! And find us, they did! From the west side, Riverside, San Bernardino, we had volunteers from all over the place!

'The float design this year for "I Think I Can!" is a compilation of ideas from the Brandstater family, Joanne Garcia and Nancie Filkins. Their design concepts were combined by Charles Meier, Creative Director at Paradiso Parade Floats. You can take a look at our float-in-progress by checking out the Sierra Madre Rose Float Association Facebook page. Here are a couple of things I learned talking to Kay Sappington at the float barn: Float dirt is coffee...regular and decaf! Why both? They're different colors! Blue is impossible to replicate in flowers. What makes up blue is usually purple. It's eleven miles from the barn to where our float is parked at the Rose Parade. There is a float driver, who applies front brakes, a float co-driver, who controls the rear brakes and a road captain who keeps an eye out for anybody suddenly cutting in front

"I Think I Can!" features an engine with a face and a personality, cargo cars filled with giraffes, a teddy bear and a sock monkey!

The cars will rock, steam will rise, And Sierra Madre will win another big prize!

Hey! Mark your calendars for the October Legendary Bingo night, which is planned for October 11th, and plan to glue on flowers in December...oh! And a few dollars would be nice, too! Just say to yourself, "I Think I Can!"

Editor's Note: The date for a Memorial Service for SMRFA President Bob Young has not yet been released.

Sierra Madre Police Blotter

During the week of Sunday, July 27th to Sunday, August 3rd, the Sierra Madre Police Department responded to approximately 383 calls for service.

Tuesday, July 29th

At 7:28 pm, Sierra Madre Police responded to 100 block of South Mountain Trail regarding annoying phone calls. Upon arrival, Officers were informed by the victim that she had received four calls from an unknown number which was listed as Unknown on the caller ID. The first call occurred the week prior with an unknown male asking the victim if she would star in an adult film for a large amount of money, which the victim declined and hung up. A second call was received the morning of the report, but went unanswered. A third call shortly followed from a different unknown male that claimed he had an adult video of the victim and was going to sell it to an adult site. A fourth call occurred and left a voicemail stating the victim's name and address and informing the victim that a vehicle would be coming to pick her up to take her to an audition shortly. A vehicle never appeared. This case has been forwarded to the Detectives Bureau.

Wednesday, July 30th

At 9:21 pm, Sierra Madre Police responded to the 30 block of West Grandview Avenue regarding a petty theft. Once on scene, Officers were informed by the victim that a book that was ordered online was set to arrive by 9:00 pm that night. At around 5:00 pm the victim went to retrieve the mail and noticed the package had not arrived. At around 7:00 pm, the victim checked the mail box again and noticed the package had arrived, but the packaging was open and the book was missing. This case has been forwarded to the Detectives Bureau.

Friday, August 1st

At 4:52 pm, Sierra Madre Police responded to the 200 block of West Highland Avenue regarding a residential burglary report. Upon arrival, Officers were informed by the victim that she had previously rented her back house to the suspect, and when the suspect failed to pay rent, he returned his key and removed himself from the property. While the victim was out doing errands, the suspect arrived at the residence and informed the victim's daughter he was there to pick up the last of his belongings. The victim's daughter gave the suspect her keys to allow the suspect to open the backhouse. The suspect spent nearly a half hour in the residence while the victim's daughter called the victim to come home. As the victim pulled up to her home, the suspect was backing out of the driveway. The victim used her vehicle to block him in to ask about the money still owed. The suspect threatened to hit the victim's vehicle, so she moved it and the suspect fled. Upon investigating, the victim discovered her window air conditioning unit and window curtains were missing from the backhouse that she had provided. The suspect also left with the victim's daughter's keys. This case has been forwarded to the Detectives Bureau.

Stephen Dorek Equipment Rentals will be notifying individual project neighbors of the pending construction work. While every effort will be made to minimize inconveniences to neighboring residents, some impacts are unavoidable. The Water Department apologizes in advance for those inconveniences and asks for community patience with the project. The result will be a more reliable water distribution system.

Motorists are advised to take alternate routes. Construction activity will take place weekdays between 7 AM and 4 PM and the project is expected to be complete October 8. The Contractor will make provisions for trash pickup and vehicular access for residents of the project area. Val Surf to Close

The owners of the Southern California iconic surf and skateboard shop Val Surf have said they are closing the Old Pasadena location citing the high lease cost, record low snowfall and the economy this leaves the family-owned business started in 1962 in North Hollywood with just four locations.

Val Surf co-founder Mark Richards told Californian Apparel News that "everything started to go out of control in 2007," the downturn in the economy. He said Pasadena relies on foot traffic, which he said it does not get anymore, and he said parking has always been an issue.

Val Surf opened the 5,500-square-foot store 169 West Colorado Blvd in 2004. Other locations include, Valley Village, Woodland Hills Thousand Oaks and Valencia. Pasadena Car Chase ends in Highland Park A man wanted for shoplifting led police on a chase Tuesday through Pasadena before crashing a van and running into a motel in Highland Park. The incident started in the parking lot of a Target store on East Colorado Boulevard around 5:20 p.m. police said. Shavar Alexander of Highland Park was arrested for alleged robbery after police surrounded, at gunpoint, a motel at York Boulevard and Avenue 49 in Highland Park. Pasadena police could be seen on the roof clearing out rooms before Alexander was arrested.

Another female suspect was arrested in connection with the robbery. Police followed Alexander by helicopter to the motel where he crashed into a car and tree before running.

Mother Arrested after 2 Children Found Left in Car

Two children, a 3-yearold and 7-year-old, were hospitalized last week after they were found left in a car on Fair Oaks Avenue -their mother, Corina Lopez, was arrested at the scene on suspicion of child endangerment.

Pasadena Fire officials said they were called to the 1800 block of North Fair Oaks Avenue Aug. 1 around 2:30 p.m. after the children were found in the vehicle "for an undetermined period of time." The children were transported

ARCADIA POLICE DEPARTMENT Safe Summer Campaign

With the assistance of Jan's Towing, The Arcadia Police Department Traffic Bureau has developed the Safe Summer Campaign. This campaign gives the Traffic Bureau the opportunity to reach out and educate the community of the importance of not driving while impaired. Education is one of three primary tenets of the Traffic Bureau's mission (Education, Engineering, & Enforcement). The Safe Summer Campaign falls right in line with educating the community and is a great way to remind everyone that driving while impaired is dangerous and deadly.

The Safe Summer Campaign is a display of a vehicle, which was previously involved in a DUI related traffic collision, where an occupant was killed. The vehicle will be on a trailer displayed on the center median of Huntington Drive just west of Gate Three. Surrounding the vehicle are two banners. The first banner reads "Arcadia Police Department Safe Summer Campaign"; the second banner reads "Don't Drink and Drive." Starting on Thursday August 07, 2014, the vehicle will be displayed for two weekends before being removed on Monday August 18, 2014. Nearby, there will be a brochure box containing Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD) brochures titled "Traffic Safety and You". The hope is to grab the attention of passers-by, to make a lasting impression, and cause them to think twice before driving while impaired.

Through the Police Department's partnership with the Arcadia Unified School District and Jan's towing, the Police Department's Traffic Bureau intends to continue their educational efforts at Arcadia High School by utilizing this vehicle display sometime after school starts this fall.

For any questions or additional information regarding the Safe Summer Campaign contact the Arcadia Police Department Traffic Bureau at 626-574-5475.

Don't forget to visit the Arcadia Police Department News & Information Blog or follow us on Facebook, Twitter or Nixle for other pertinent news and information. Remember, the solution begins with you!

Gregory Wolfe as Rod Stewart (Tribute) – August 14, 2014

Gregory Wolfe's first taste in music came at a very young age, listening to crooners like Nat King Cole and Andy Williams. At the age of 19, like most young adults in Lansing, Michigan, Gregory went to work at General Motors. He worked there for 11 years. In the summer of 1984, Gregory entered himself in a Tribute contest that would forever change his future. He would soon move to L.A. and not long after, would start making a career out of impersonating Rod Stewart. He has since taken his act world-wide, from Singapore to South Carolina, from Bangkok to Berlin, Gregory's entertained them all over the globe!

Arcadia Police Blotter

For the period of Sunday, July 27th, through Saturday, August 4th, the Police Department responded to 1,015 calls for service of which 131 required formal investigations. The following is a summary report of the major incidents handled by the Department during this period.

Sunday, July 27:

1. Just after 8:35 p.m., officers observed a male subject drop an open can of beer onto the South sidewalk of Huntington Drive at Baldwin Avenue. An investigation revealed the 58-year-old Hispanic male was under the influence of an alcoholic beverage and unable to care for himself. He was arrested for Disorderly Conduct and Public Intoxication, and transported to the Arcadia City Jail for booking.

2. At approximately 10:46 p.m., an officer responded to the 600 block of Hampton Road regarding two subjects fighting inside a parked vehicle. An investigation revealed a 16-year-old Asian male was having a verbal argument with his girlfriend. The officer discovered the girlfriend, a 17-year-old Asian female, had several self-inflicted lacerations to her wrists. Arcadia Fire responded to the scene and transported the subject to Arcadia Methodist Hospital for evaluation and treatment. She was ultimately placed on a 72-hour psychiatric hold. The boyfriend was released in the field without incident and the report was referred to Department of Child and Family Services for review.

Monday, July 28:

3. At about 3:32 a.m., an officer was dispatched to the 800 block of West Duarte Road in reference to a disturbance. A 24-year-old Hispanic female had an argument with her boyfriend during which she stabbed him with a knife, causing a large laceration to his left hand. She was arrested for Domestic Violence, Assault with a Deadly Weapon, and an outstanding misdemeanor warrant. The suspect was transported to the Arcadia City Jail for booking.

4. At approximately 11:15 a.m., an officer responded to an injury traffic accident at the intersection of Colorado Boulevard and Santa Cruz Road. As Party-2 was making a U-turn, he was struck by Party-1 who was traveling westbound on Colorado Street. An investigation revealed Party-1 failed to stop at the stop sign. Both parties were transported to Arcadia Methodist Hospital for minor injuries.

Tuesday, July 29:

5. Around 10:29 a.m., an officer was dispatched to the area of Tenth Avenue and El Sur Avenue regarding a man exposing his genitals in public. The subject was standing on the sidewalk masturbating and exposing his penis. He is described as a Hispanic male of unknown age, 5?5? tall with dark wavy hair, wearing a black t-shirt and black shorts. An area check was conducted, but the suspect was not located. The victim explained she saw the same subject exposing himself on July 23rd, but did not report the incident. A similar incident also took place on July 21st in which the reporting party provided a similar suspect description.

6. Just after 11:00 a.m., an officer was dispatched to Arcadia Methodist Hospital (AMH), 300 West Huntington Drive, regarding a fraud report. The suspect, pretending to be a doctor from AMH, called a local CVS Pharmacy to fill a prescription for 180 pills of a schedule four opioid narcotic. When CVS called AMH to confirm, AMH discovered the doctor had never treated the patient and discovered one of the doctor?s prescription pads was missing. The suspect?s contact information, which she left when ordering the prescription, revealed she has an outstanding felony warrant. Further investigation is being conducted by the Detective Bureau.

Wednesday, July 30:

7. Shortly after 00:30 a.m., an officer was dispatched to the 300 block of East Norman Avenue regarding a man asleep or passed out inside his vehicle, which was still running and blocking a resident?s driveway. An investigation revealed the 52-year-old Asian male was under the influence with a blood alcohol content greater than 0.08 percent. He was arrested and transported to the Arcadia City Jail for booking.

8. At about 2:50 p.m., an officer conducted a traffic stop on a vehicle in the area of Rosemead Boulevard and Huntington Drive for a broken tail light. The officer discovered the 39-year-old Hispanic male driver was in possession of methamphetamine and drug paraphernalia. He was arrested and transported to the Arcadia City Jail for booking.

Thursday, July 31:

9. At approximately 3:17 a.m., an officer was dispatched to Macy?s at the Santa Anita Mall, 400 South Baldwin Avenue, in reference to a theft report. An adult suspect concealed merchandise inside used shopping bags and exited the store without making payment. The 27-year-old Hispanic female was arrested and transported to the Arcadia City Jail for booking.

10. Around 5:53 p.m., an officer responded to Arcadia Methodist Hospital, 300 West Huntington Drive, regarding an assault investigation. The victims went to the suspect?s house in the 1000 block of Fairview Avenue where an argument ensued. The suspect whom they both previously dated attacked and choked them, causing visible injuries. The suspect was outstanding at the time of the report and the victims are desirous of prosecution. The suspect is described as a 24-year-old Hispanic male, 5?8? tall, 180 lbs., with brown hair and green eyes.

Friday, August 1:

11. Just before 11:40 a.m., an officer was dispatched to CVS Pharmacy, 1401 South Baldwin Avenue, regarding a battery report. An adult suspect, described as a Black female in her thirties, attempted to purchase merchandise using invalid rebate coupons. After the transaction was declined, the suspect became upset, yelled profanities, and attacked the store manager. She exited the store without making payment for the merchandise and fled southbound on Baldwin Avenue on foot.

12. At approximately 9:22 p.m., an officer responded to Macy?s at the Santa Anita Mall, 400 South Baldwin Avenue, regarding a theft report. The suspect concealed merchandise inside her purse and makeup bag, and exited the store without making payment. A search of her person revealed she was also in possession of burglary tools. The 20-year-old Hispanic female was arrested and transported to the Arcadia City Jail for booking.

Saturday, August 2:

13. Around 00:37 a.m., an officer made consensual contact with two subjects in the parking lot of the Santa Anita Mall, 400 South Baldwin Avenue. One of the subjects, a 21-year-old Hispanic male, was drunk in public and had an outstanding misdemeanor warrant. The other subject, a 25-year-old Hispanic male, had two outstanding misdemeanor warrants. Both subjects were arrested for the listed violations and transported to the Arcadia City Jail for booking.

14. At about 1:45 a.m., an officer conducted a traffic stop on a vehicle in the area of Colorado Boulevard and Colorado Place for a broken tail light, broken license plate lamp, and suspended registration. An investigation revealed the driver had an outstanding misdemeanor warrant and was in possession of counterfeit money and ammunition. The 29-year-old Hispanic female was arrested and transported to the Arcadia City Jail for booking.

JULIAN FISHER PARK PLAYGROUND DEDICATION

SATURDAY

By Joan Schmidt

Several times I have driven by Julian D. Fisher Park in Monrovia and wondered who Julian Fisher was. This past Saturday I found out.

Julian Fisher was a very remarkable man. He was born on August 9, 1896 in Denver Colorado and his family moved to Monrovia in 1910. He was the first African American to graduate from Monrovia High School and was Monrovia Monrovi

School and was Monrovia's first African American Police Officer.

Festivities began with a warm Welcome, followed by a beautiful rendition of the National Anthem. Many dignitaries were present including Assemblyman Chris Holden, Brian Mejia on behalf of Supervisor Mike Antonovich, and Hector Elizalde representing Congresswoman Grace Napolitano. All three presented Certificates to the City marking this great occasion. Local officials attending included Mayor Mary Ann Lutz, Mayor Pro Tem Becky Shevlin, Council Members Larry Spicer and Tom Adams, Carl Hassel, Director of Public Works, Chief of Police Jim Hunt, City Treasurer Steve Baker and School Board Members Alex Zucco and Terence Williams.

Mayor Lutz acknowledged many involved in this great project. Mayor Pro Tem Shevlin had a vision and obtained $250,000 in grant funding with Supervisor Mike Antonovich's assistance. There were many people from Monrovia Public Works and many volunteers who brought this to fruition.

Council Member Spicer personally knew Julian Fisher and thanked his family for sharing him for seventy years. Mr. Fisher left a legacy of leadership and love to all citizens by creating harmony among people with different points of view. He was an active member of Bethel AME Church and married Gladys Hall in 1918. They had 13 children and 47 grandchildren. Two of Mr. Fisher's sisters and many other relatives attended and were acknowledged.

After the Ribbon Cutting ceremony, children raced over to the new play equipment, which is colorful and made with recycled materials. It was such a great event- this new playground equipment is the first step in rejuvenating the Park. I also felt it was wonderful for the public to learn about this great man whom the Park is named after and meet his family. Well done, Monrovia and the many who made this day possible!

Monrovia Police Blotter

During the last seven-day period, the Police Department handled 374 service events, resulting in 64 investigations. To see a complete listing of crimes reported, go to

Indecent Exposure

On August 4 at 2:47 a.m., an officer was dispatched to a business in the 800 block of East Huntington regarding a male suspect exposing himself outside the business. A female employee walked out of the business and witnessed the incident. The suspect fled the area prior to police arrival. An area check was made, but the suspect was not located. Through investigation, the identity of the suspect was learned and he was positively identified by the victim. August 6 at 7:08 p.m., the suspect was located at his residence and arrested. The suspect has previously been convicted for the same charge, making this offense a felony. The suspect is a sex registrant out of Monrovia.

Warrant Arrest

On August 6 at 2:44 a.m., officers responded to Walker Avenue and Duarte Road to assist Irwindale Police Department on a traffic stop. Irwindale officers had been in pursuit of the vehicle and had stopped it in this area. Irwindale conducted a DUI investigation on the driver. The passenger had a warrant issued out of Monrovia Police Department and was intoxicated. The subject was arrested by Monrovia officers for the warrant and being drunk in public.

Warrant Arrest

On August 6 at 3:25 a.m., officers on patrol observed a male subject in the 500 block of West Huntington Drive. They recognized the subject from prior contacts and knew he had outstanding warrants. The officers confirmed the warrants and arrested the suspect

EDUCATION & YOUTH

ARCADIA UNIFIED HIRES FOUR NEW PRINCIPALS

District is pleased to announce the hiring of four new principals. The Arcadia Unified School District Board of Education unanimously agreed to the selections of Tom Bruce at First Avenue Middle School, Teresa Oakland at Holly Avenue Elementary School, Ben Acker at Foothills Middle School, and Lauren Leahy at Hugo Reid Elementary School.

"As leaders of our schools and our students, we approach the hiring of principals with the utmost importance here in Arcadia, and it's a very lengthy and thorough process that involves many district representatives," said Arcadia Unified School District Superintendent David Vannasdall. "We were fortunate to have received extremely impressive candidate pools for these positions with applicants from all over California and even some out of state."

After seven years as Principal at Hugo Reid Elementary School, Tom Bruce takes over the top position at First Avenue Middle School. Bruce has nearly twenty years experience as a teacher, and over a decade as an administrator and principal. He has a Master's Degree in Education from Marygrove College, and is currently pursuing his Doctoral Degree in Education

ARCADIA-- The Arcadia Unified School at Azusa Pacific University. Bruce succeeds Jeff Wilson, who was recently promoted to Assistant Superintendent of Educational Services for Arcadia Unified.

> Lauren Leahy takes over the principal position at Hugo Reid Elementary School. Leahy joins AUSD from San Marino Unified School District, where she was an Assistant Principal at Huntington Middle School. Out of the more than 300 middle schools in Los Angeles County, Huntington Middle School, along with Foothills Middle School, ranked highest on the Academic Performance Index (API) with an API of 977 in the 2012-2013 school year. Leahy knows Arcadia and Hugo Reid Elementary School well. She was not only born and raised in Arcadia, but she was a student at the school she is now principal of. Leahy has her Bachelor of Arts Degree in Language and Literacy from Long Beach State University, and her Master's Degree in Education from Cal Poly Pomona.

> Ben Acker has been promoted to Principal of Foothills Middle School, where he has been the Assistant Principal since 2009. Acker is also a native of the San Gabriel Valley and lives with his wife and three children in Arcadia. His wife Brandy teaches first grade at Longley Way Elementary School, where their eldest child Nathanael is entering the first grade this year. Acker earned his Bachelor of Science Degree in Business Administration from University of Southern California, and his Master's Degree in Education from Azusa Pacific University. Acker succeeds Nadia Hillman, who accepted a districtlevel position at Santa Ana Unified School District as the Executive Director o Elementary Curriculum and Instruction.

Teresa Oakland takes over as Interim Principal at Holly Avenue Elementary School, where she has served as a Teacher on Special Assignment (TOSA) since 2007 Oakland has been teaching and working for Arcadia Unified since 2001. She has a Bachelor of Arts Degree and a Master of Arts Degree in Human Development both from Pacific Oaks College, and ar Education Specialist Degree from Poin Loma Nazarene University. Oakland succeeds longtime Principal Christine Blackstock, who has been promoted as the Interim Director of Curriculum and Instruction for Arcadia Unified School District

"We are very excited about our extremely talented and dedicated new principals who will all add tremendous value to our students' education and this community," Vannasdall said.

ANNA MUNTER RECEIVES FULBRIGHT AWARD

awarded a Fulbright U.S. Student Program grant to Malaysia for an English Teaching Assistantship, the United States Department of State and the J. William Fulbright Foreign Scholarship Board announced recently.

Munter is one of over 1,800 U.S. citizens who will travel abroad for the 2014-2015 academic year through the Fulbright U.S. Student Program. Recipients of Fulbright grants are selected on the basis of academic and professional achievement, as well as demonstrated leadership potential.

The Fulbright Program is the flagship international educational exchange program sponsored by the U.S. government and is designed to increase mutual understanding between the people of the United States and the people of other countries. The primary source of funding for the Fulbright Program is an annual appropriation made by the U.S. Congress to the U.S. Department of State, Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs. THE REEL DEAL: by Ben Show GUARDIANS OF THE GALAXY

When it comes to Marvel movies, they all make a ton of money, whether they are good or not. Generally, they are on the better side but there have been a few flops. From the trailers, 'Guardians' looked like it could go either way: it had a massive, 'Avengers' sized cast. Yet, it looked to be a bit quirkier and was made to me more 'family friendly'. Peter Quill (Chris Pratt) left Earth at a young age. He discovered a galaxy full of thugs, strange creatures, and backstabbing friends. After many years, he is sent on a mission to recover an item that will lead him all over the galaxy and throw him into a battle hundreds of years in the making.

Marvel has done it again. What makes 'Guardians' so shocking is how it is able to introduce you to five, fully fleshed out characters, while maintaining a good pace and an interesting story, with a satisfying conclusion that leaves you wanting more, in just two hours. This is the next big franchise for the studio and I cannot wait for the next installment, which will hopefully be just as amazing as this film is.

CENTRAL PARK CAFÉ...NOT SO OLD PASADENA

I have referred to Central Park Café in Pasadena's as a rising star in the competitive Pasadena restaurant scene. Central Park specializes in mouthwatering steaks, fresh fish, handcrafted pastas and gourmet pizzas. I have dined here at least once a month since it's opening over six years ago;

Hence, it's not the newest fire on the block but it remains one of Pasadena's best kept secrets. When I go here, I find myself irresistible drawn to the same dishes over and over again, as I order the Ahi Sandwich ($10.95) with its exceptional partnering of a delicious side salad of Broccoli. If and when I get more adventurous, and break free from the spell that Central Park has placed me under, the eggplant sandwich on foccacia bread has all the makings of a new favorite ($9.50). When I am hungry and have a big appetite, usually at dinner, I dive into the braised short ribs ($18.95).

I love breakfast here. So, on those mornings when the sun beckons with an irrepressible invitation, I invite my friends, Kind Ken Fuller and his wife Becky to meet me for breakfast. I get a sly indicator that they, like me, know that something special is on its way. It is displayed in the little smile that forms as they sit at the table and survey the menu. Ken religiously orders the eggs benedict. Breakfast is notable here and it makes sense, since the owners also own Canoe House and the Diner on Main St. Both places are known for a good breakfast. Now, I wouldn't call Central Park upscale; however it would be wrong to translate the experience visually and flavorfully of those two restaurants to Central Park.

To make your experience more enticing, Central Park add another allure to their award winning and hand selected wine list, they added a full Bar. It is quaint, more the appearance of a service bar than a full one, but if you are in the mood for a Martini, you can use your best James Bond to impress the ladies. It never works for me though! All the Desserts here are created inhouse, and are very affordable in the ($6) range. My recommendation is the Carrot Cake, an expressive ending to a great dining experience.

Central Park occupies the One Hundred year old flower warehouse. You might remember it as Soda Jerk's at one point. It still has the same beautifully exposed brick walls, which tease the imagination into believing that you have entered a Fifties Chicago style Restaurant. If you are a Pop Culture buff, the walls yield in homage as a testament to that nostalgic era. There are black and white photos of celebrities from Joltin' Joe Di Maggio to the cigar taping, comedian, Grouch Marx. With the exposed brick, and the high vaunted ceilings and elegant decor, Central Park will transport you back in time.

Central Park has their own off street parking, which gives you enough time to really enjoy breakfast, lunch or dinner, without worrying if there are enough coins in the

I place Central Park Café in a similar category with Parkway Grill, Houston's and Smitty's. The difference being that Central Park is a little less expensive than these other three. Check out their web page www.centralparkcafe.net hours and exact prices. Bargain Note: $6 Martinis on Monday Nights I am a fan of Central Park Café and I am sure with a single visit, you will be too. Central Park Café 219 S. Fair Oaks Pasadena (626) 449-4499

SLOW COOKER ITALIAN STUFFED PEPPERS

INGREDIENTS

1 onion, minced

6 garlic cloves, minced 1 tbs extra-virgin olive oil

1 tbs tomato paste

1/4 teas red pepper flakes

4 peppers, large and varied - yellow, orange, red 1 slice good white bread, torn into pieces

1/4 cup whole milk

12 oz Italian sausage, removed from casing 1 small zucchini, seeded and cut into 1/4" pieces

3/4 cup shredded Monterey Jack cheese

3/4 cup cooked rice

1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese

salt and pepper 2 tbs fresh basil, minced

DIRECTIONS

In a microwave safe bowl, microwave the onion, oil, tomato paste and red pepper flakes, about 5 minutes, stirring often.

Cut 1/2" top off each pepper, removing the seeds and stems. Chop the tops up fine and reserve.

In a large bowl, mash the bread with the milk and the back of a fork until combined. Mix in the onion mixture and chipped pepper tops. Add the sausage, zucchini, Monterey Jack cheese, rice, Parmesan, and season well with salt and pepper. Mix the filling well by hand and pack into the

Pour 1/3 cup water into your slow cooker and arrange the stuffed peppers upright so that they will remain standing while cooking. Cover and cook about 4 to 6 hours on low, until the peppers

RICH Johnson OLD SCHOOL EATERY!

So, Sierra Madre, what's

Frescos Family Restaurant closed. You know the one. In the shopping Albertsons center. I miss them. Oscar (and family), Carolina, and German. Most of you know I regularly started my day there saving the world by playing cribbage with friends. Playing cribbage in public is what gave me my journalistic career. I was spotted, queried and then asked to write for the paper.

What's new? Several months have gone by and finally the "Old School Eatery" has opened in the old Frescos location. If you have followed their first few weeks on Yelp (the restaurant review site) you have been quite entertained with reviews that run from great to really not so great. I went to the Old School Eatery. Both times were during the slow mid afternoon hours. I experienced great service and timeliness of the delivery of the meals. I've heard the service is not so good when they are busy, but that could be written off as the growing pains of a new eatery. The first time I went I had the short rib sandwich and, to be truthful, I wasn't impressed. Not real flavorful in my opinion.

However, the second time I went, I had the meat loaf sandwich and it may very well be the best meat loaf sandwich I've ever had. And that's saying something as I am somewhat of a connoisseur of meat loaf (Am I a classy guy or what?) What? The sandwich was served on an onion roll which was just perfect. Everything about the sandwich was perfect. I had it with the tater tots. If you're used to tater tots from the freezer section of the store, you do not know tater tots. These were great. Now get this. My friend had the short rib sandwich and loved it. I guess beauty is in the eye of the taste bud.) He also had the side of deviled eggs and shared a little bit. Now deviled eggs are tricky business. My aunts and great aunts made them for years so'I know good deviled eggs. These guys make good, and flavorful deviled eggs.

I would be remiss if I didn't talk about the Chef. His name is Marc and he is from Brooklyn. Where he is from should say it all. If you've ever had any dealings with New Yorkers you probably know they are 180 degrees opposite the casual laid back Southern Californian. To your typical Huntington Beach surfer dude Marc will seem loud, abrupt, arrogant and rude. There is a good chance he will shock you.

Hopefully, the Old School Eatery will fix their service problems. A lot of time, effort, and undoubtedly money, has gone in and being a business owner myself, I want them to succeed wonderfully.

What about Chef Marc? In addition to his culinary artistry, think of him as the entertainment. I'm betting (and hoping) he will mellow out.

Try Old School Eatery out.

NSF INTERNATIONAL SURVEY REVEALS HOW CONFUSION ABOUT

FOOD EXPIRATION DATES CAN IMPACT HEALTH AND WALLETS

ANN ARBOR, Mich. - Expiration date labeling on food products is a source of confusion for consumers according to a new survey from NSF International, a global public health and safety organization. The survey found that people are confused about how to interpret dates on food packaging such as expiration, "best used by" and "sell by" dates, causing many to keep some food dangerously long or prematurely throw away good food.

In fact, the survey indicated that one in four (27 percent) Americans don't throw away food by the expiration date, putting themselves, family or friends at risk of foodborne pathogens such as Salmonella, Listeria and E. coli. Additionally, half of Americans surveyed said they throw out food based on the "best used by" and "sell by" dates (51 percent and 36 percent, respectively), wasting both their food and money.

Information: More Survey Summary | Infographic | Understanding Expiration Dates Tip Sheet

Perhaps because of this confusion, a majority of the respondents (64 percent) said they rely on the decidedly unscientific and incorrect approach of using their senses to decide when to throw out food. Nearly half (47 percent) use visual cues such as mold or a change in texture or color as an indicator of food's freshness. An additional 17 percent said they will throw away fresh foods based on smell. This behavior can be dangerous because the germs which cause foodborne illness cannot be seen or smelled.

"With so many different types of dates on food packaging, it's understandable that consumers may be confused about what they all mean," said Cheryl Luptowski, home safety expert at NSF International. "Some dates are references for food safety, while other dates are meant to inform the consumer of the food's quality or help retailers be aware of how long to display food. Part of NSF International's mission is to educate consumers about food safety, and our survey results clearly show that more education is needed on the subject."

Americans who are confused by the different label dates can refer to the quick guide below and visit NSF International's website for more food safety advice such as the Understanding Expiration Dates Tip Sheet and NSF Food Storage Charts.

Expiration or "use by" dates refer to food safety. Food should be thrown away once this date has passed.

"Sell by" dates are a reference for food retailers and indicate when food should be pulled from the shelves.

Consumers should check to make sure this date has not passed before purchasing food. "Best used by" dates have nothing to do with safety. Instead they refer to the last date when the food will be at peak quality and freshness.

Other findings from NSF International's food expiration dates survey include:

Uncooked meats, dairy products and produce pose the greatest food safety threat when kept too long, yet some still ignore the dates on these products. One in four (27 percent) said they keep uncooked meat past the date on the label and 22 percent said they keep dairy products such as milk and sour cream past the date on the label. Thirtyseven percent don't throw away produce after the expiration date.

Behavior varies according to age. Those under age 34 were more likely to throw out foods regardless of the type of date posted on the package. Conversely, Americans over age 55 were the most likely to hold onto food past any date on the label, which is concerning if they are preparing meals for young children, pregnant women or immune-compromised family and friends. Consumers older than 65 may also be more susceptible to germs which cause foodborne

Americans sometimes avoid eating at other people's homes due to food safety concerns. According to the survey, 39 percent of respondents have avoided eating something at a friend's or family member's house because they didn't trust the safety or quality of the food. The level of concern rises for middle-aged respondents. Nearly half (48 percent) of those aged 45-54 will say "no thanks" to food when they are a guest, while 35 percent of younger Americans aged 18-34 will decline food.

Men and women tend to throw out food for the same reasons. Overall, men and women have similar behavior when it comes to throwing away food. However, women tend to be slightly more cautious when it comes to throwing out specific foods that are past the label date (e.g. uncooked meat, canned goods, prewashed vegetables, etc.). Both acknowledge relying more on changes in appearance, color or texture rather than the date on the food package. "Food expiration dates are meant to offer guidance to consumers," added Luptowski. "Confusion about these dates can result in many people either keeping food long past the dates on the product or throwing away food prematurely. Knowing what the dates

As a dog-walker and pet

sitter, I have had many clients

ask me which is the best type of collar or lead to use for walking their dog. Well, to be completely honest, I am hesitant to respond to that question with full confidence

until I get to know their dog on a personal level. There are so many dog walking and training collar & lead products

on the market these days,

each with their own specified

(even patented) technique and philosophy, that it can be somewhat confusing and rather overwhelming to select the proper product for your pet. With so many types of collars available today, there are equally numerous types of dogs, at various developmental levels of human bonding and obedience. If you take a little time and effort to choose the right tools, you are bound to find a match in the mix eventually. I do not claim to be an expert on the subject,

however I do know that each dog has it's own specific needs and it is important to use humane handling methods to meet those needs, in order to foster positive results and establish a trusting relationship with your pet. It is also important to research the philosophy behind a dog handling product before putting it to use. Having read several articles and doing a little research of my own, I came up with a list of collar types that would most likely be found at the local pet

supply store today, in hopes of informing and helping you select the proper lead product for your beloved canine companion. Be aware that this list is just a good start. It does not include every single are brief, so you will want to research each product more specifically in consideration of your own dog's needs before > making a final selection. Buckle Collars:

These are collars that are simply fastened with a buckle. They are typically made of nylon or leather, and are either flat or rolled. Most buckle collars are adjustable, but do not tighten on the dog's neck once fastened. Rolled leather collars, although more expensive, tend to fit more comfortably. Adjustable nylon collars are recommended for growing pups. For the owner whose dog does not pull to the point of choking and gagging and who also responds well when learning commands, the buckle collar works fine.

Body Harness: Harnesses were originally designed for sled dogs. Pulling is the reaction of about 99% of dogs placed on harnesses, so unless the goal is to teach a dog to pull, it is worthless as a training tool. I recommend the harness as a dog seatbelt. A leash with a solid brass or steel clip strapped around the back of the seat and fastened to the harness makes a great restraint for a dog that might otherwise crash into the windshield upon impact.

Break-away Collars: A special quick-release collar that will unfasten if a strong pull is placed on the collar. However, the collar will not unfasten when attached to a leash. This collar was designed after the inventor's dog choked to death because its collar got caught on something.

Choke Chains / Slip Collars: Metal choke chains are still being used as a training tool in traditional methods, where the dog is corrected by a quick snap of the leash if he doesn't obey a command. Slip collars are similar, except they are made of soft materials such as nylon or cotton. These types of collars should never be left on an unattended dog, and always removed when the leash is removed.

called remote or e-collars by advocates, and shock collars by detractors, these devices deliver an electrical stimulus causing pain to the dog when given a correction. It is my experience, when evaluating most dogs who have been trained using shock devices, that these collars can destroy a dog's self-confidence. I would never use nor do I advocate the use of shock collars as an obedience training device.

Head Halters: Head Halters are the latest in politically correct, morally proper tools that feed into owners' desire to treat their canine companions humanely. The halter is very effective in achieving compliance and obedience without excessive restraint, however some feel that the dog's personality is somewhat marginalized by its use. I personally feel this tool works better than most in controlling a dog's tendency to pull, without choking.

Prong or Pinch Collars: These collars may seem like a kind of medieval torture device, but they are actually humane when used properly. They should definitely be used for training "neck insensitive" dogs only.

I want to make it clear that this article is not meant to advocate the use of any particular collar type over another. A sincere, caring pet owner takes the time to try and understand how his or her dog(s) thinks, learns and bonds with human beings and the best candidate to determine which product works best for their pet is his owner. No training equipment can ever take the place of a strong, mutually respectful relationship between a dog and his master. Finally, do be gentle and loving in the way that you treat your dog and your dog will be gentle and loving in how he responds to you, of that I am sure!

Some poses key us up and others bring relaxation. To better digest our food, to calm our overall world, we need poses that create those effects. We can do a pose called Viparita Karani to activate the parasympathetic nervous system. This is a modified should stand. It is gentle and easy. First, you lie on your back with your knees bent and your feet planted on the floor near your bum. Lift your heart slightly and draw your shoulder blades together and then settle back to the mat. The idea is to be on your shoulder blades, so they should be as close together as possible. Then press into your feet and lift your hips up off the mat and place a block

If you are stable, then take your feet toward the sky. The knees stay slightly bent, the feet, in the air, over your face. Your bum should be hanging off the end of the block. Many people have the block too far down and need to bring it more directly under the low back. You could also do this pose at the wall with your feet up the wall, cushion under your bum.

> It is extremely relaxing and comfortable. It helps lower blood pressure and stress. Do not do it on a full stomach or if you have glaucoma. are over 90% water and contain almost all of the vitamins the body requires. The skin of the cucumber contains a lot of vitamins but because cucumbers are heavily spayed with pesticides and waxed, I would recommend washing thoroughly or peeling. The best bet for a healthier salad is to buy organic and leave the skin on.

Cucumbers are low in calories making them a great snack food. They are not only full of water but they also contain electrolytes, especially potassium. Try putting a few slices in a cool glass of water on a

I bet you don't hot summer day for a refreshing drink.

Cucumber peels are a great source of dietary fiber. Fiber from cucumber skins helps reduce constipation, and helps to eliminate toxic compounds from the gut.

Cucumbers contain a high amount of vitamin K. Most of the vitamin K is found in the peel or near the peel so peeling reduces this greatly. Vitamin-K has been found to possibly have a role in bone mass building activity. It has also been used in the treatment of Alzheimer's disease by limiting neuronal damage in the brain.

If you find yourself having too many alcoholic beverages, try eating cucumbers before bed to avoid a hangover or headache. Cucumbers contain sugar, B vitamins and electrolytes to replenish many essential nutrients. All of these things can play a role in reducing the intensity of a hangover.

If you are looking for an easy way to improve your health, add some cucumbers. They are great in salads, they are great as a salad all by themselves (thinly sliced, then sprinkle with rice vinegar, sesame seeds and some sea salt), they are refreshing in water and they are great alone as snacks.

KATIE Tse.....This and That FEMALE FELINES & OTHER COMMON MISCONCEPTIONS

Not only does driving get you from one place to another, but it also gives you a chance to listen to the radio (something that our Sierra Madre reception is not always great at providing). My husband and I sometimes listen to Ira Glass' radio program, "This American Life". One of my favorite episodes had to do with misconceptions people developed (usually as children) that weren't corrected until much later. The story that stood out was of a woman who assumed that the X-ing signs were pronounced "zing," and referred to any possible person or animal traveling from one side of the road to the other.

I related to this, because I never mentally read it as "crossing." To me it's "X-ing." A "t" is a cross, a "+" is a cross, but an "x" is an x. You don't say, "Cross marks the spot!" But I suppose if they painted "t-ing" on the road people would call it "ting." But I digress. So, this woman went through much of her life never questioning her interpretation of zing signs, until one day she and a friend were stopped on a country road as a herd of alpacas crossed by (I forget what the actual animals were, but they were something unusual). "Ha ha! They should put an 'Alpaca Zing' sign here!" she said. But instead of laughter, her friend gave her a vacant stare. "A what?" he asked. Then it dawned upon her...

While her zing experience is probably not that common, there are some misconceptions that seem to transcend one's own upbringing, and other cultural variables. A classic example of this is the theory that all cats are female and all dogs are male. As a child, I believed this for a while! It's easy to see how kids come to this conclusion. Cats are meticulous about grooming the way many women are about fixing their hair and makeup. They are dainty in their nimbleness and even the way they move is slinky! Dogs, on the other hand, are (generally) slobbery and couldn't give a hoot if their coat is caked in mud.

My mom had some interesting childhood theories about the world. She imagined that the human torso was completely hollow, so that when you ate too much you were literally stuffed. A more understandable misconception Mom had included old and new water. When it rained, that was "new" water, and when it got flushed away that was the end of it. But how was she supposed to come up with the water cycle all on her own?

Not growing up with a lot of "high tech" gadgets, I had a lot of learning to do about modern innovations such as microwaves and answering machines. I remember the odd look one of my friends gave me when I placed a tin foil wrapped quesadilla in her microwave. And I was always careful to be quiet and not let the callers who left messages on the answering machine know we were actually there. Since I could hear them, I figured they could hear me! Also, have you noticed that everyone stops talking when someone is leaving a

As adults we tend to forget the funny things we thought as children, but working at a school lets me watch these early theories unfold. I was working with a group of five first graders. There were two boys, one tried to be a tough guy, and the other had a never ending flow of, what he considered to be, factual information (sometimes a little too much!). It was around Halloween and I had some stickers with photos of cats and dogs in different costumes. The little tough guy pointed to a cat with a leather jacket, spiked collar, and mohawk. "Check out this cool dude!" he said. Little Mr. Information wasted no time in correcting him. "Oh no, Tommy. You see, this is a cat. All cats are girls."

Ellar Coltrane as Mason Jr., Patricia Arquette as his mother Olivia, Lorelei Linklater as Mason's sister Samantha, and Ethan Hawke as Mason

Sr. The film chronicles Mason's life from age

6 to 18. At a running time of two hours and forty-four minutes, the film is epic in technical scope, but never the less an entirely intimate portrait of what life was/is during adolescence for the majority of us. "Boyhood" doesn't rely on any trickery or the use of "big moments" to capture your attention (and heart). It's a steady stream from start to finish, but the results are clear. "Boyhood" is a thing of beauty. However, its true avowal is it allows for one to believe that a real family journey through these twelve years. Arguably, these twelve years could be considered the most crucial, imperative years in a young man's life. Newcomer Ellar Coltrane was absolutely pitch-perfect for the role. He was convincing, sharp, and magnetic on screen.

Both Patricia Arquette and Ethan Hawke are sublime. I've noticed a lot of acclaim for Arquette, even as going as far as touting her as a best supporting actress nominee for next year's Oscars. Hawke, at least for me, stole the the movie as a 30-something year old guy kind of wandering through life in the beginning, of having two stepfathers that are alcoholics. It leans a bit more on the cliché side, which the film generally stays clear of. Maybe a death in the family during Mason's life would have been another way to go. However, despite that very slight criticism, "Boyhood" could still be deemed a modern day masterpiece. It's a film that resonated with me days after seeing it. From the soundtrack (many songs I've enjoyed growing up to) to the sharp direction and completely natural presentation displayed the four leads, Boyhood is one of those films you have to see in theaters. Something of this nature has never been shown before in the cinemas. Experience a film that will have you reflecting upon your own existence, your own upbringing as oppose to wasting valuable time and money on bloated, been there, done that Hollywood mainstream garbage. This film draws you in and holds you captivated. "Boyhood" is a superlative motion picture for all ages, young and old, on the meaning of life. THE HAPPINESS THAT NEEDS NOTHING: POINTERS TO THAT WHICH IS ALWAYS HERE by Colin Drake

This book is about the innate happiness and joy that can be discovered on awakening by becoming 'Aware of' and 'identifying with' Awareness. This is to be achieved by direct investigation of moment-to-moment experience which readily reveals the Pure Awareness that underlies our existence. This leads to discovering the happiness that needs nothing external to ourselves, but which is revealed as we undertake deeper investigations into this Awareness. "As the witnessing background of all experience, I, Awareness, am inherently free from all things; as the substance of all experience, I am intimately one with all things." Rupert Spira

TRAPPED UNDER THE SEA: ONE ENGINEERING MARVEL, FIVE MEN, AND A DISASTER TEN MILES INTO THE DARKNESS by Neil Swidey

The harrowing story of five men who were sent into a dark, airless, miles long tunnel, hundreds of feet below the ocean, to do a nearly impossible job with deadly results. A quarter century ago, Boston had the dirtiest harbor in America. The city had been dumping sewage into it for generations, coating the seafloor with a layer of "black mayonnaise." Fisheries collapsed, wildlife fled, and locals referred to floating tampon applicators as "beach whistles." In the 1990s, work began on a state of the art treatment plant and a 10-mile-long tunnel, its endpoint stretching farther from civilization than the earth's deepest ocean trench, to carry waste out of the harbor. With this impressive feat of engineering, Boston was poised to show the country how to rebound from environmental ruin. But when bad decisions and clashing corporations endangered the project, a team of commercial divers was sent on a perilous mission to rescue the stymied cleanup effort. Five divers went in; not all of them came out alive. Drawing on hundreds of interviews and thousands of documents collected over five years of reporting, award-winning writer Neil Swidey takes us deep into the lives of the divers, engineers, politicians, lawyers, and investigators involved in the tragedy and its aftermath, creating a taut, action-packed narrative. This is a story about human risk, how it is calculated, discounted, and transferred and the institutional failures that can lead to catastrophe. Suspenseful yet humane, Trapped Under the Sea reminds us that behind every bridge, tower, and tunnel behind the infrastructure that makes modern life possible, lies unsung bravery and extraordinary sacrifice.

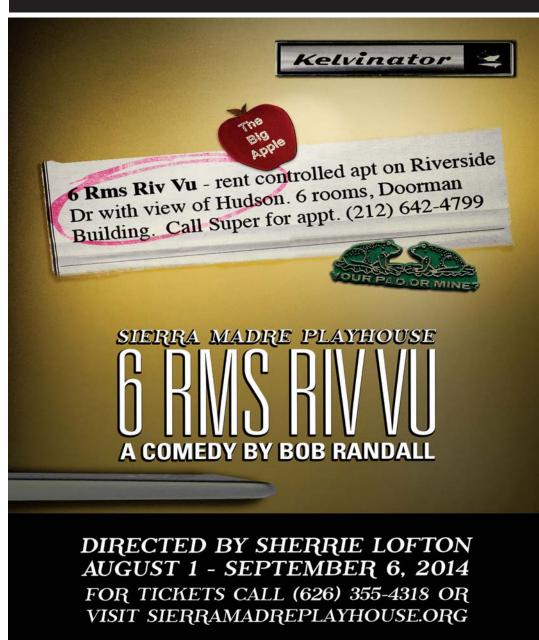

NO PLACE TO HIDE: EDWARD SNOWDEN, THE NSA, AND THE U.S. SURVEILLANCE STATE by Glenn Greenwald

In May 2013, Greenwald set out for Hong Kong to meet an anonymous source who claimed to have astonishing evidence of pervasive government spying and insisted on communicating only through heavily encrypted channels. That source turned out to be NSA contractor Edward Snowden, and his revelations about the agency's widespread, systemic overreach proved to be some of the most explosive and consequential news in recent history, triggering a fierce debate over national security and information privacy. Greenwald fits all the pieces together, recounting his high intensity ten day trip to Hong Kong, examining the broader implications of the surveillance detailed in his reporting for The Guardian, and revealing fresh information on the NSA's abuse of power with never before seen documents entrusted to him by Snowden. Going beyond NSA specifics, Greenwald also takes on the establishment media, excoriating their avoidance of adversarial reporting on the government and their failure to serve the interests of the people. Finally, he asks what it means both for individuals and for a nation's political health when a government pries so invasively into the private lives of its citizens, and considers what safeguards and forms of oversight are necessary to protect democracy in the digital age. No Place to Hide is an essential contribution to our understanding of the U.S. surveillance state.

COMMUNITY SUPPORT HELPS FOOTHILL UNITY CENTER PREPARE NEARLY 1,100 LOCAL KIDS OF VERY LOW INCOME FAMILIES FOR CLASS AT 16TH ANNUAL BACK TO SCHOOL EVENT

After months of planning and work by Center staff, over 700 volunteers and a mass of community supporters, some 1,100 preregistered local K-12 children of very low income families got the backpacks, school supplies and clothing they needed to start the school year with

Throughout the day-long event at Santa Anita Park racetrack in Arcadia, a circle of support surrounded the excited youngsters every step of the way, as DJ Party Pros kept kids, parents and volunteers dancing. Hundreds of volunteers worked the event, staffing distribution tables for everything from uniforms and shoe vouchers to notebooks and calculators. Each child wore a "passport" lanyard with check-offs to make sure no one missed a single table.

Citrus College cosmetology students contributed a full day of haircutting and manicure services. Monrovia Reads and A Foundation for Kids gave new grade-appropriate books to every child.

Health connections were a major feature. The Ostrow School of Dentistry for USC offered free dental screenings, singling out children with the most urgent needs to be treated at the Center's Mobile Dental Clinic this winter. SafetyBeltSafe U.S.A. gave families hands-on demonstrations of how to use seat belts and install car seats and booster seats, and gave free booster seats to qualified families.

Attendees also got access to information direct from an array of health resources, including American Red Cross, CalFresh, CHAP Care, Children's Hospital Los Angeles, Community Alliance of Pasadena, Department of Social Services, HEAR Center, Methodist Hospital, Monrovia Health Center, Options Child Care Services, Pacific Clinics, Pasadena Public Health Department and URDC/Bill More Community Clinic.

Fun was everywhere, as kids lined up to see a model Mars rover from Jet Propulsion Laboratories (JPL) and learn about Exelis 3-D Deep Space Exploration. Other popular destinations included hands-on ceramic art projects with Paint N Play, the Southern California Edison Big Truck display, and fire engines and crew members from the Arcadia and Monrovia Fire Departments. A snack operates locations in Monrovia and Pasadena.

center featured egg rolls from Panda Restaurant Group and popcorn from LA Partyworks.

The Center still needs funds to cover the cost of the massive event, which is paid for annually by donations from hundreds of local individuals, companies and organizations. Support is also needed to underwrite the upcoming Mobile Dental Clinic for which children were screened at the event.

Key sponsors to date include Buddhist Tzu Chi Foundation, LA Party Works, Marshall's/TJX Companies, Monrovia Reads, Monrovian Family Restaurant, Panda Restaurant Group, Santa Anita Park, Southern California Edison Company, The Outlet by E.L.S., Vons Foundation and Wells Fargo Foundation.

Other supporters include 3M Company, Athens Services, Avery Office Supplies, Bowden Development, Inc., Burrtec, California Pizza Kitchen, City of Monrovia, Custom Comfort Mattress, Duarte Transit, Foothill Unity Center Auxiliary, Lakeshore Learning Materials, Monrovia Transit, Pacific Clinics, Red Lobster Restaurant, Southern California Gas Company, Starbucks and The Gables Monrovia.

"79% of our clients have incomes at or below the National Poverty Level," said Center Executive Director Betty McWilliams. "Many are employed, but don't get the pay they need to survive without help. This event helps them send their children back to class with the new items they can't afford to provide — and helps these kids start the school year on a level playing field."

About Foothill Unity Center

Celebrating its 35th anniversary next year, Foothill Unity Center is the primary provider of food, case management/crisis help, and access to health care resources across eleven San Gabriel Valley cities: Pasadena, Altadena, South Pasadena, Sierra Madre, Arcadia, Monrovia, Bradbury, Duarte, Azusa, Baldwin Park and Irwindale. 79% of the Center's clients are at or below the National Poverty Level. The number of people served by the organization has more than tripled over the last five years. The Center, the federally designated Community Action Agency for the Foothill Area,

THREAT OF FLASH FLOODING PROMPTS NONPROFIT FLASH TO OFFER SAFETY TIPS FOR KESIDEI/19

Eighteen to 24 inches of moving water can wash an SUV off of the road. In fact, according to the National Weather Service, more than half of all flood-related deaths are people driving through flooded roads. With the risk of flash flooding in the area over the next few days, the nonprofit Federal Alliance for Safe Homes (FLASH)® reminds residents to "Turn Around, Don't Drown!" and offers the following flood safety tips to protect your home and family.

Before the Flood

Clear yard of any debris, plant material or items garden décor, foliage, or garbage cans) that can block water flow and storm drains.

When time permits, secure and/or elevate outdoor appliances, AC units or storage tanks.

Place important papers (birth/marriage certificates, passports, bank and insurance information) in a watertight container. Take photographs or videos to create an inventory of your personal possessions and keep the camera card handy in case of evacuation.

Identify and move electronics and other expensive items (computers, televisions, phone systems, area rugs, expensive furniture) on lower levels of the home and elevate if possible to keep them dry.

When using sandbags, fill one-half full, fold the top of sandbag down and rest bag on its folded top. Limit sandbag placement to three layers, unless stacked up against a building or sandbags are placed in a pyramid. Tamp each sandbag into place, completing each layer prior to starting the next

Clear a path between buildings for debris flow, and lay a plastic sheet in between the building and the sand bags to control the flow and prevent water from seeping in.

During the Flood

Avoid flooded areas or those with rapid water flow. Do not attempt to cross a flowing stream. It takes only six inches of fast flowing water to sweep you off your feet.

Don't allow children to play near high water, storm drains or ditches. Hidden dangers could lie beneath the water.

Turn Around, Don't Drown! Flooded roads could have significant damage hidden by floodwaters. Never drive through floodwaters or on flooded roads. Water only two feet deep can float most

Do not camp or park your vehicle along streams and washes, particularly when threatening conditions exist.

Be especially cautious at night when it is harder to see flooded roads.

Stay alert as conditions can be ripe for mudslides especially when driving. Watch the road for collapsed pavement, mud, and other indications of a possible debris flow.

Be aware of any sudden increase or decrease in water flow and notice whether the water changes from clear to muddy. These changes may mean there is debris flow activity upstream so be prepared to move quickly. Listen for sounds that indicate moving debris, such as trees cracking.

After the Flood

Take photographs of damage throughout the building and around the property. Assess stability of plaster and drywall. Bulging or swelling ceilings indicate damage. Press upward on drywall ceilings. If nail heads appear, drywall will need to be renailed but can be saved.

Check foundation for any loose or missing blocks, bricks, stones or mortar.

Clean and disinfect heating, air conditioning and ventilation ducts before use to avoid spread of airborne germs and mold spores. Use fans and sunlight to dry out interior spaces. Remove all wet carpets, curtains and fabrics. Allow to air dry completely.

LASER-WIELDING ROBOT PROBES EXOPLANET SYSTEMS

An international team, including Dr. Christoph Baranec of the University of Hawaii at Manoa's Institute for Astronomy, is using the world's first robotic laser adaptive optics system—Robo-AO—to explore thousands of exoplanet systems (planets around other stars) at resolutions approaching those of the Hubble Space Telescope.

The results, which shed light on the formation of exotic exoplanet systems and confirm hundreds of exoplanets, have just been published in the Astrophysical Journal. The design and operation of the unprecedented instrument has just been published in the Astrophysical Journal Letters.

Laser adaptive optics systems are used by terrestrial telescopes to remove the imageblurring effects of Earth's turbulent atmosphere, thereby capturing much sharper images than are otherwise possible from the ground. Baranec, Robo-AO's principal investigator and lead author of the Astrophysical Journal Letter, led the development of the innovative Robo-AO system on the Palomar 1.5-meter telescope. It is the world's first instrument that fully automates the complex and often inefficient operation of laser adaptive optics.

"We're using Robo-AO's extreme efficiency to survey in exquisite detail all of the candidate exoplanet host stars that have been discovered by NASA's Kepler mission," said Baranec. "While Kepler has an unrivaled ability to discover exoplanets that pass between us and their host star, it comes at the price of reduced image quality, and that's where Robo-AO excels."

In fact, analysis of the first part of the Robo-AO/Kepler exoplanet host survey is already yielding surprising results. "We're finding that 'hot Jupiters'—rare giant exoplanets in tight orbits—are almost three times more likely to be found in wide binary star systems than other exoplanets, shedding light on how these exotic objects formed," said Prof. Nicholas Law (University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill's College of Arts and Sciences), Robo-AO's project scientist and lead author on the Astrophysical Journal paper. "Going further, Robo-AO's unique capabilities have allowed us to discover even rarer objects: binary star systems where each star has a Kepler-detected planetary system of its own. These systems will be uniquely interesting for studies of how the planets formed—and for science fiction about what life would be like with another planetary system right next door," added

"AUGUST MOON MOST BEAUTIFUL." In the 1956 movie "The Teahouse of the August Moon," the wise Okinawa elder tells the American soldiers, "All moons beautiful, but August moon most beautiful."

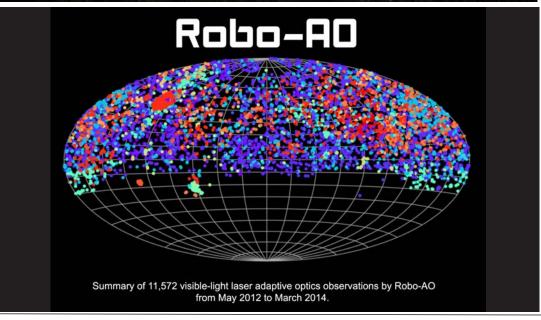

I have always remembered that sentence, and over the years I have found there is something especially beautiful about the moon in August, perhaps because it is so often surrounded and framed by the altocumulus clouds that accompany the moist, monsoonal flow of air typical this time of year in Southern California.

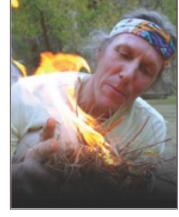

This year's August moon will be full on Sunday, August 10. Unfortunately, the full moon will brighten the sky and so interfere with seeing this year's Perseid meteor shower, which will be at its peak on the nights of August 11 and 12.

Still, a few bright meteors may still be seen, and it's well worth "looking up" for this, the best meteor shower of the year. Caused by leftover grains of dust from Comet Swift-Tuttle, this shower takes its name from the constellation Perseus, which is the part of the sky where the meteors seem to originate as they streak across the sky. The most meteors are usually seen after midnight, though I have seen a beautiful Perseid fireball as early as ten o'clock. Happy viewing!

PYRACANTHA (Pyracantha angustifolia): A common urban hedge with edible berries - more or less... By Christopher Nyerges

Someone may have observed a bird fly erratically in the urban landscape, and it does quite well in the desert and under drought conditions.

You tend to not notice it unless it's in fruit with the striking red-orange fruits (occasionally they are very red). Or you don't notice it until you trip or get pushed into the hedge with its many

The fruits resemble little apples, and I recall my mother telling me never to eat the fruits of this bush that grew along the driveway of our home. She said they were poisonous, and the evidence of this was that supposedly birds have been noted to eat the fruits and then fly around erratically. Really? Had my mother actually seen such a bird? Well, no, she told me, but she'd heard about it and was sure that others had seen that too.

Think about it: is observing what animals eat a good clue to what humans can eat? No, it's not! Certainly anyone and anything can eat the edible foods in nature. But some of the mildly to very toxic plants can be consumed by some of the fauna of nature without sickness. Plus, how do you know that the animal you just observed eating the questionable leaves or fruit didn't just walk off or fly off and die?

after they believed the bird ate a pyracantha fruit. A bird expert told me that he wasn't sure about the story, but that he'd heard this happens mostly after a rain when the fruit is wet and swelled up. It is entirely possible that someone somewhere observed an erratically flying bird that had just munched on lots of pyracantha berries. But so what? It doesn't have any relevance to humans.

Raw pyracantha berries are not particularly flavorful. They are dry and astringent. Squeeze one and it will reveal the somewhat dry insides. Occasionally you might find one that is better than average raw. So if you're going to eat these, you're going to cook them and prepare them into sauces, jams, and jellies.

In the old, now defunct Desert Magazine, they used to publish recipes that you could make from plants that were common in the desert. Pyracantha was a common landscape plant because it required so little care, and is drought-resistant. I would not consider planting it if I wanted an edible landscape, but if it already grows on your property, you might as well try it in various recipes.

To make jams or jellies, you pick and wash the fruits, and then cook them, changing the water at least once. Then you add the sugar, and cook some more until the desired thickness is obtained. If you don't wish to use white sugar, use some other sweetener like honey, or molasses, or even maple syrup. Or if you want to make your own sweetener, try adding the boiled juice from the native palm's little fruits, or grape juice, or apple juice. There are a lot of possibilities here.

I've had some of these fruits simply dried, and used as a trail nibble. They are OK, nothing really exceptional, but you might have a different opinion.

Pyracantha, also known as Firethorn, is a member of the Rose Family. The Pyracantha genus contains 10 species world-wide and at least 3 in California, all introduced. Pyracantha angustifolia is perhaps the hardiest species and can sometimes be found in the wild, having gone feral.

In the February 1976 issue of Desert magazine, Helen Peterson describes her experiments with making pyracantha jelly until she came up with a recipe that all her friends liked.

Peterson first collects three quarts of the berries, and washes them. She puts them into a pot with 3 cups of water, and boils for 20 minutes.

Then she adds the juice of one grapefruit and the juice of one lemon, and strains it all through a jelly bag to get rid of all the pulp. results in about 3 ½ cups of juice. Then, add one box of powdered pectin, and bring to a boil. Add 4 ½ cups of sugar and a pinch of salt and bring to a full boil for three minutes.

Then pour the rosy pink jelly into sterile jars, which Peterson seals with paraffin.

Nowadays, everyone is concerned about the use of white sugar, which has no nutritive value. So, since this is so heavy on the white sugar, you might experiment with other sweeteners, such as honey, or maple syrup, or even date sugar.

Please call 626.821.4623 to register or pay at the door

Make beautiful paved areas for walking and relaxing in your garden by using recycled materials such as broken concrete, local rocks, old bricks and stepping stones. These materials can also be used to build small walls for soil retention or a garden feature. The workshop will cover projects that you can do yourself with a little muscle, a little planning, and a little art.

Laramee, owner of Haynes Landscape Design, will also bring material examples, photos of projects and a handout to help guide you through your first project.

Laramee Haynes is a Pasadena-based landscape contractor and designer with ten years of field experience. Prior to purchasing his father's landscaping business, Laramee worked as a mechanical engineer in manufacturing. He has also designed innovative and wonderful gardens at Pasadena Showcase houses and the LA Garden Show. www.Hayneslandscaping.com http://www.latimes.com/home/la-hm-broken-concrete-20140802-story.html

FAMILY MATTERS

CASEY KASEM'S ESTATE PLANNING: Not in Anyone's Top 40

Casey Kasem, the celebrity radio host who counted down America's Top 40 popular songs for decades, died on June 15 at the age of 82 and left behind an estimated $80 million fortune. He also left a family feud of biblical proportions between his surviving spouse and his three children from a prior marriage. And this is exactly why I do what I do -- to help keep your family connected in love, not conflict.

Kasem married his second wife, Jean, who is 22 years his junior, in 1980. Together, they had one child, Liberty Kasem. Casey also had three children from a prior marriage: Kerri, Mike and Julie. The family was apparently in discord prior to Casey's death; in mid-May, Mike and Julie filed a missing persons case with the Santa Monica police department saying they could not locate their father. At that time, Kerri was fighting with Jean over control of his care.

After Kasem died, news broke that his body had been taken from the Washington state funeral home and a judge awarded Kerri a temporary restraining order preventing Jean from removing his remains or having him cremated before an autopsy had been performed. Kerri hired a private investigator who says the body has been moved to Montreal, the hometown of a man that Jean has allegedly been involved with for the past two years.

A little advance estate planning could have helped prevent this scenario, which is not uncommon when an older man with children from a prior marriage takes a second, significantly

A recent WSJ Marketwatch.com article Marc, a local attorney, father, and CASA volunteer outlined four estate planning tools that could (Court Appointed Special Advocate for Children) have helped head off this disaster:

transfer wishes, and provides the flexibility to make changes as long as the trust owner has the legal capacity to make those decisions. Upon the owner's death, the assets are dispersed as outlined in the trust without having to go through probate. A trust is also more difficult to contest than a will.

Life insurance. A life insurance policy can be a good way to provide for a surviving spouse while leaving the rest of the estate to children from a previous marriage, or vice versa.

QTIP trust. A qualified terminal interest property (QTIP) trust is used to set aside assets for a surviving spouse's benefit while that spouse is alive. After the surviving spouse passes, the remaining assets in the trust are passed on according to the trust terms.

Family meeting. Having a family meeting so that everyone knows their beneficiary status and what will happen to the estate after the estate owner dies is a good way to head off conflict. An estate planning attorney can mediate these meetings, which is usually advisable when there is a potential for conflict.

One of the main goals of my law practice is to help families like yours plan for the safe, successful transfer of wealth to the next generation without conflict or court involvement. Tips of the Trade: Real Estate Revealed

by Luther Tsinoglou

BENEFITS ON BOTH SIDES

There are new rules regarding short sales meant to improve the experience for both sellers and buyers, but the legalities and legwork can overwhelm even the most savvy. Of course, that's where the real estate agent shines, handling the paperwork and the phone calls, leaving you to focus on your move.

Keep in mind that if you're expecting to buy a home on short sale, you can get a great deal, but don't expect miracles from a bank that has agreed to accept a price lower than what the sellers owe on their mortgage. These short sales often generate multiple offers, and if a home has been approved to sell for $200,000, don't expect to waltz in and offer

The real advantage of a short sale deal is that the home will likely be in much better physical condition than its foreclosure counterpart. Often, a foreclosed home will have been abandoned for months, and perhaps trashed before being vacated. A short sale property in better condition is in and of itself a benefit with real value that offsets any lower price you could offer on a foreclosure.

And for sellers, a short sale preserves your dignity, reduces some of the stress, and won't damage your credit history as much as a foreclosure. Whether selling or buying, consult an agent for the best results.

Surveys

As business owners, it's our job to get to know our customers. The better you know them, the better you can meet their needs. The best way to know what they like and need is to ask them.

Surveys give you an opportunity to get feedback fast and they promote brand loyalty.

Our client, Palau Dive Adventures, sends a survey to their customers following a trip. They average 95-100% open rate and are able to collect valuable feedback and information about their customer's experience. At the end of the survey they direct them back to a link with a special offer or other strategic web address. This is an important part of their customer experience and great way to follow up after a customer experience.

Tips for successful surveys:

Keep them short, no more than 5-10 questions.

HOWARD Hays As I See It

"You're very good at English."

- Rep. Steve King (R-IA), responding to an Arizona State University graduate and "DREAM Act" beneficiary (here since age 12), while explaining why the act should be repealed, she should be deported and not allowed to join

There's Fourth of July, then before you know it we're in August figuring out what to cram into the few weeks before Labor Day.

We're the only developed country that doesn't mandate vacations. The EU sets a floor of 20 paid days per year, with 25 days in Scandinavian countries and 30 in France. It's 10 days in Canada and Japan. Only one in four workers here gets paid vacation days; a lot depends on income. If you're in the top quarter of earners, there's a 90% chance you're getting a paid vacation. If you're in the bottom quarter, it's less than 50%.

But there's one rather elite group that annually takes the entire month of August off - and is required to by law. This is our Congress - complying with the August-off provision of its own Legislative Reorganization Act of 1970.

This doesn't mean they spend the rest of the year on the job. Last year, Congress spent 239 days in adjournment; this year it'll be closer to 250. When they return after Labor Day, predictions are they might get a couple weeks of in-session work done before among Americans. the November elections – if that.

With substantive accomplishment look back at what, if anything, this 113th Congress has actually gotten done.

The Republican House of the 113th Congress first had to deal with the mess left by the Republican House of the 112th Congress. Through 2012, they'd tried to get a budget passed for 2013 to prevent another round of sequestration cuts from kicking in – a consequence of tea-baggers the year before threatening to tank our economy by having the United States welch on our debts.

The president proposed letting some Bush tax cuts expire for families making over $250k. Republicans countered with keeping all tax cuts for those making up to $1 million – but that didn't satisfy the teabaggers, who killed the deal, anyway. The Senate in December 2012 passed emergency aid for the victims of Hurricane Sandy, but House Republicans killed that, too.

After they lost eight seats in the November elections, Hurricane Sandy relief was one of the first bills passed by the 113th Congress. In March, they passed a Continuing Appropriations bill to keep the government from shutting down for another six months.

March 2013 also saw reauthorization of the Violence Against Women Act. It got through the Senate, but was too much for House Republicans. They couldn't accept its extending protections to same-sex couples, let alone women with undocumented status and Native American victims of domestic violence. If that wasn't bad enough, reproductive health services would be provided to victims of sex trafficking.

Republicans, though, found that even among their "base" few seemed to share their moral outrage, and the bill passed.

That spring the big news was the13-hour filibuster of Sen. Rand Paul (R-KY), blocking confirmation of John Brennan to head the CIA, warning of President Obama's sending drones over our skies to target Americans - the possibility under this president "to be bombed in your sleep".

The summer of 2013 saw an effort to extend the cap on student loan interest at 3.4%. It was blocked by the Republican minority in the Senate, with House Republicans insisting the matter be left to the "market".

That fall, Sen. Ted Cruz (R-TX) led a filibuster-that-wasn't-really-a-filibuster against the Affordable Care Act; remembered today (if at all) for his reading from Dr. Seuss's "Green Eggs And Ham", while totally missing its message, Sen. Cruz and House Republicans got another crack at the Affordable Care Act when they refused to allow another "continuing resolution" to keep the government open unless it gutted the ACA. The result was the 16-day government shutdown in October 2013, putting 800,000 federal workers on "furlough" and costing our economy some $24 billion (according to Bloomberg).

The Senate in 2013 blocked reinstatement of the ban on assault rifles, offered in response to the massacre of 20 children at Sandy Hook Elementary a few months earlier. It couldn't get through a reduction on allowable capacity for ammo clips - a measure then polling with 60% support Congress last February approved the Agriculture Act of 2014. It cut food stamps unlikely before the election, I took a by $8 billion, effecting 850,000 families. It also cut "direct payments" to farmers, but added $5.7 billion to the program subsidizing over 60% of premiums for crop insurance.

Also this year, House Republicans voted for the 50th time to repeal the Affordable Care Act. They blocked efforts to raise the federal minimum wage to $10.10 an hour (which would be $10.90 had it kept pace with inflation and closer to $25.00 had it kept pace with increased productivity). They blocked the Senate's bill on comprehensive immigration reform, which allocated $46.3 billion over ten years for border security, with 20,000 additional Border Patrol agents. The minority Senate Republicans blocked extensions of unemployment insurance, affecting some 1.7 million long-term unemployed Americans.

In the days before the August break, Congress did manage to get a Veteran's Administration bill ready for the president, and a stopgap measure to keep the Highway Trust Fund solvent until next May. House Republicans also gave approval to sue the president for delaying action on a provision of the ACA - which they'd voted 50 times previously to repeal entirely.

NBC News reports the 113th Congress as being the "least productive in modern history", with 142 bills passed. (President Truman complained of the "Do-Nothing" 80th Congress, which passed 906.) Gallup says the 7% approval rating shown for Congress last June was "not only the lowest on record, but also the lowest Gallup has recorded for any institution."

After Labor Day they'll be in campaign mode. We'll see how many choose to campaign on their record.

ADMIT IT- THEY HATE THE JEWS

The most disturbing news this week is not the civilian deaths in Gaza, but the west's bigotedly misplaced moral outrage. In all quarters – European and domestic – the willingness to selectively and wrongly condemn Israel belies a resurgent Jewhatred which has thankfully abandoned any pretense of being motivated by humanitarian concern. Those are disturbing words to write, but I've been convinced of the truthfulness in that statement thanks to the documentation provided by Andrew Nagorski, Bernard-Henri Levy and Bret Stephens in their respective articles published over the last several days.

The Israelis have hit the Gaza strip hard. There is no debate about that. They've launched airstrikes, missiles and a ground attack. In doing so, they've lost 75+ of their own soldiers and unfortunately caused the death of approximately 1,800 in Gaza. Israeli soldiers openly wear military uniform, but the other side in this conflict wears only civilian clothes. Because of that, it is easy to jump to the conclusion that the Israelis are indiscriminately killing civilians - especially easy if that's the conclusion you want to draw. Honesty demands, however, that we remember at least two things: those who started this conflict by first launching missiles from Gaza into Israel hide among civilians, and second they launch those missiles (and continue to fight from) strongholds built in the basements of hospitals and in school classrooms.

The west's reaction to the war has been swift moral condemnation directed at Israelis for defending their homeland and muted disagreement with those who purposely put civilians at risk. It follows a patterned double standard applied to President Obama has characterized Israel's actions as "indefensible" while the U.N. Secretary General, Ban Ki-moon has accused Israel of "a moral outrage and a criminal act". But what exactly is indefensible, a moral outrage or a criminal act? Is it simply the death toll?

If body count is to be the determinant factor, why is there no outrage at Pakistan? The Washington Post reported on June 30th that "Pakistan's military launched a major ground offensive in the northwestern part of the country". It began a "house-to-house search" which uncovered "underground tunnels and preparation factories for explsoives". The "process followed "two weeks of airstrikes" which have leveled whole blocks. In a territory inhabited by 600,000, "more than halfmillion residents have had to flee". 1,500 have been reported dead.

Do a Google search, and you won't find any western leader expressing much moral outrage at these deaths. You also won't find many protests in western nations. That stands in stark contrast to the ugly marches and protests targeting the Jews in response to the Gaza incursion. In Germany, individual Jews and several synagogues are being attacked. People attend rallies to chant, "Hitler was right" and "death to the Jews". In Belgium, a doctor refused to treat a Jewish woman's broken rib, suggesting instead that she go "to Gaza for a few hours and she'll get rid of the pain". Here in America, perhaps we're a bit more restrained in that we only accuse Israelis of Apartheid and genocide, conveniently ignoring the moral necessity of self-defense and the lengths to which Israeli soldiers try to avoid civilian casualties.

If it's the numbers, why aren't there massive public protests against Syria's killing of 150,000, or against 300,000 murdered in Darfur, or against 200,000 Chechens killed on Putin's orders?

If it's the manner in which the victims are killed, where is the moral outrage at Syria's continued use of chemical weapons it was supposed to have destroyed by now? Since that line in the sand was drawn, there have been at least 15 additional gas attacks.

Perhaps it is the general religious component (Jew vs Muslim) to the conflict and deaths which is so disturbing. If that's true, where is there a substantive rally in support of the Christians in Mosul who have been told by ISIS to either convert to Islam or die by the sword?

Lastly, maybe it can all be explained by the very natural revulsion to the death of innocent children? But if this is our criteria, why do we not express deeper moral outrage against Hamas who A) places military facilities in schools and B) by their own admission lost 160 children in the collapse during construction of one of those nasty tunnels into Israel?

Sadly, it's almost impossible to avoid the conclusion that the determinant factor is who's doing the killing. It's not about the numbers; it's not about the manner of death; it's not about religion in general; and it's not about the age of the victims. The determinant factor is whether and how Jews are involved. If Jews are being shelled, kidnapped, murdered or besieged, well, that's life - pun intended. If the Jews are defending themselves, it's "murder", "indefensible", "a crime", or "genocide".

So, let's just be really clear about what's going on. Those who are protesting or politically posturing against Israel just hate the Jews. If we can at least have that clarity, perhaps we'll be able to get to the root of the problem and solve it.

OUT TO PASTOR A Weekly Religion Column by Rev. James Snyder GOES ON...AND ON...AND ON AND THE HEAT

This past week found me in a bit of trouble with the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage... well, more than normal. It has become rather normal for me to be in trouble with her. No matter how hard I try "not to be," it always is "to

This week was a high point for me getting into trouble. I never relish getting into a pickle with her, but sometimes

All week long, I had been murmuring and complaining about how hot it was. "I've never seen such hot weather," I grumbled. "I don't know how long I can take this hot

You would think that someone my age would have learned long ago that some things should not be vocalized. This is America, and we all have the right to speak our mind although much of the time we should not speak our mind aloud; at least, not to the point that someone, especially someone living under the same roof, can hear you. I have found that the thing that enhances romance is the sounds of silence.

I guess it was getting a little wearisome with all my complaining, but after all, the weather was really hot.

Then, she looked at me and said, "If I hear you complain about the weather one more time, I'm... I'm... I'm..." The look on her face indicated that she was not at a loss for words; she was just trying to control herself and save herself from early widowhood.

I truly respect people who have the ability to control themselves, especially the people who live under our roof. I almost said something, but for some reason I had a flash of temporary sanity. I said nothing, but smiled. I am not boasting here, but I am really good at saying nothing. Even when talking, my wife tells me I am saying nothing.

Saying nothing has gotten me out of many a jam, particularly with my wife. There are times when husbands and wives should sit down and have a rather invigorating conversation. Then there are times when the husband should shut up. I never know which time is which. It was then that my wife laid out the facts for me to evaluate. How she can remember everything is simply beyond me. However, how do I know she is actually remembering things as they were and not making them

It seems, according to her impeccable recollection, that a few months ago I was complaining about how cold it was and anxious for the hot weather to come. "You were just as grumpy about how cold it was as you are now about how

Then she put her hands on her hip and looked at me with "that look," and said, "I don't mind you complaining about one or the other but I really do mind you complaining about everything. You're going to have to make up your mind whether you hate the cold or the heat, and then stick

That put a new light on the situation, and a new burden on me. Now, according to her latest admonition, I need to choose the heat or the cold. I am tempted, although I know better, to complain about this. I do not think it is fair that I have to choose one or the other. I think I should be able to hate both the cold and the heat.

However, here is the problem. If I choose to complain about the heat, then what do I do in the wintertime when it gets cold? Faced with a real dilemma I took it to my good wife and asked, "Can I hate the heat in the summer and hate the cold in the winter, if I alternate it every other year?" To me this sounded like a very reasonable request. After all, I was accommodating her request and getting in my share of complaining.

If you would spend as much time thinking of positive things to say as you do complaining it would be absolutely wonderful.

But how can you think of something positive about the heat when you are sweltering? And, how can you think about something positive about the cold when your bones are shivering to death? Mistakenly I told my wife my dilemma.

"I think I have you figured out," she said. "You're positively negative about everything."

There is only one thing worse than having your wife figure you out. There must be, but I cannot think of any thing right now.

I will not say my wife is right, only that she is not wrong. I must say I have a tendency to complain about everything. Some people can see the silver lining in every cloud whereas I see a cloud over every silver lining. I guess it is a person's perspective.

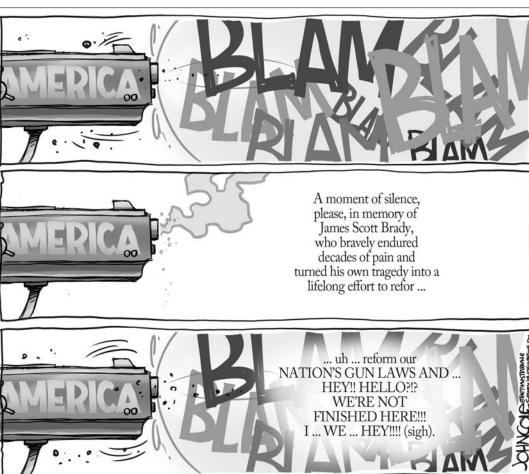

Thinking along this line, I remembered a verse in the Bible. "Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things" (Philippians 4:8).

Some people (like me) see a glass as half empty while others see it as half-full. There are those few souls (like my wife) who are thankful that there is any water in the glass

The envy of Architectural Digest, welcome home to your private oasis, magnificent city/mountain views, nestled in the peaceful, upper canyon of Marlborough Terrace. This 2-story artistic beauty has been completely remodeled in 2008. It has 1,604 sq.ft. of living area, but appears much larger due to high beam ceilings. It has 2 bdrm plus a spacious loft which can be used as a 3rd bdrm since it has a large closet.

The full bath downstairs has custom tile, river-stone flooring in the shower and double vanity sink. The living room has large windows from floor to ceiling to marvel over the views, hardwood custom flooring, and brick, wood burning, fireplace. The open-concept kitchen has state of the art appliances, gorgeous maple cabinets, and terra cotta tile flooring.

The backyard has a pool and a spa overlooking the city lights and valley. The land-scaping is impressive and perfect for entertaining. This home has too many amenities to list. Please come see for yourself.

WHAT ON 98

August 11 - August 17, 2014

Good Time Girl is playing Friday at 3:00 p.m.

Released on April 28, 1948: A young girl in England runs away from an abusive home into a downward spiral of bad luck and crime.

I can only change and evolve who I am. I have no power to change what other people think of me, and what other people think of me is none of my business anyway. The same way that I cannot change anyone else, they have no power over me, either. I am the only one responsible for what I am today, and what I will be tomorrow. But I have felt several times over my life that the prayers of my Mother have followed me and protected me somehow when I was facing what could have been life-changing crises.

Supposedly in the 1500's a British preacher named John Bradford said when looking at condemned criminals, "There but for the grace of God, goes John Bradford." I have thought of this most of my life, and have always been grateful and happy for the path that I was on, and the ability to stay on the right side of the law. I feel very much like one of the writers of the New Testament who said something like, "By the grace of God I am what I am. I have worked harder than anyone else, but it wasn't my hard work that brought me to this place as much as it was His grace." (not an exact quote)

What happens to 16 year old Gwen Rawlings in this British movie about the rough side of life in 1948 shouldn't happen to a dog. Unfortunately, while this movie is undoubtedly fiction, there are young girls and boys around the globe that find themselves in a similar vortex of 'bad luck' and a downward spiral that seems to be out of their ability to control. I'm not sure yet where I stand on the plight of people that seem to be at the bottom of society through no fault of their own. I believe that we are all responsible for our choices, and just like one little bad choice can lead to a bigger bad choice, one better choice can lead to better choices and better days. But does everyone have the knowledge that they can choose something different? I watch Gwen make all of the wrong choices in this movie and I can clearly see the danger ahead at each turn, but at the same time I recognize that Gwen sees those same choices as the right thing to do. She isn't determined to create a life of crime, but each choice that takes her farther away from the straight and narrow seems to be her only choice.

Here's the question that I cannot yet answer - if you can, please contact me and enlighten me. I sincerely think about this and do not yet have the answer. Is there something that I can do, that any of us can do, to help someone change their destructive downward spiral before it consumes their life? I can only change me, but there should be something that I could do to positively effect someone who is on a destructive downward spiral . . . or is it none of my business. I don't know . . . do you?

Model Suites Are Now Open for Tours at The Kensington Assisted Living Residence

Call to schedule your personally guided visit

odel suites are now available to tour at The Kensington, an assisted living and memory care residence currently under construction in the heart of Sierra Madre. We plan to formally open our doors in late fall, but we welcome you for a sneak preview.

A longtime history in senior living tells us that comfortable, accommodating and attractive surroundings can improve morale and make the care experience for seniors more successful overall. We are taking great care to customize our suites and interiors to meet the needs of our new residents. For example, strategic lighting will help prevent slips and falls, ease depression and improve sleep duration. Homelike decor will help residents feel like they're living comfortably at home rather than in a medical setting. Supportive grips and handrails will enable residents to move about with confidence and remain independent.

There's more to know, so call us to schedule a personally guided tour of our model suites. Learn more about The Kensington's environment, care and services—available to the Sierra Madre community this fall.
