first aid, and light search and rescue. Search and Rescue operations help the members decide when to enter a building after a disaster (or even if they should) and how to search for victims in and around a building. The final exam consists of a simulated disaster in which teams work together to practice the material they have learned.

This year's simulated disaster took place at the Sierra Madre City Yards where 17 "victims" suffering from everything as minor as cuts and bruises, to severe burns, an arterial bleed, and a severe head wound causing "death". What made this exercise more fun was the fact that Emily Stouffer and her group of teens used their moulage (makeup) skills to depict the injuries. The head wounds were especially realistic.

The course consists of modules on disaster preparedness, small Sierra Madre Community Emergency Response Team Students learn disaster preparedness Aug. 16, through small fire suppression, basic first aid, and light search and rescue. This year's training graduated 26 new CERT members.

Following a written test and evaluation, the participating students were awarded FEMA certificates signed by Sierra Madre Mayor John Harabedian, Fire Chief Stephen Heydorff, and CERT Instructor Dudley Rainey.

Many thanks to the City of Sierra Madre for the use of the YAC as our training base; Bruce Inman who allowed us to use the City Yards; and to the Sierra Madre Volunteer Fire Department for their assistance with our disaster drill including fire suppression and basic first aid. Team members assisting with the class were De Alcorn, Stephanie Coyne, Robert Gjerde, Caroline Brown, Lucy Guerrant, Pat Alcorn, Simmie Salembier and Richard Mays.

MURDERER SENTENCED TO 221 YEARS BEHIND BARS

Robinson, was sentenced to a total of 221 years in state prison. Deputy District Attorney Keith Duckett who prosecuted the case, said that the sentences are without the possibility of parole. Also convicted were his co-defendant, Breanna Hernandez, 20, as an accessory after the fact. She was credited with time served and is on probation for two years.

Robinson, 22, lived in Sierra Madre most of his life. He was gunned down while chatting with a friend in South Los Angeles last year. His friend was also shot, but survived a bullet wound to the head. Robinson was the adopted son of Mountain Views News publisher Susan Henderson and Hattie Harris. At the time of his murder, he was at the home of his biological mother.

Villalobos was arrested by LAPD Detectives within days of the shooting and was charged and ultimately convicted of four felonies: First Degree Murder, Attempted Murder, Felon in Possession of a Firearm and Resisting Arrest. Villalobos, was held on a Sergio Villalobos, the man $4,050,000 bond and was on arrested, tried and convicted parole after serving time for for the murder for former robbery in 2009. His adult Sierra Madre resident Treavor criminal arrest/conviction rerecently cords go as far back as 2003 when he was 18 years of age.

> During the trial it was disclosed that Villalobos randomly choose Robinson and his friend as targets for a gang motivated killing. Neither Robinson nor his friend had any association with gangs. In fact, according to DDA Duckett, the two men were targeted simply because they were African American.

> Duckett indicated that the killer was an active gang member. One member of the LAPD gang task force said that the murder was part of a turf war in which imprisoned Latino gang leaders are calling for the killing of blacks in neighborhoods where Latino gangs want to take over.

> Although media coverage has been sparse on the extent of the Gang Wars in Los Angeles, they are a constant threat to the lives of innocent people who live in the cross hairs of the gang turf wars. On the day of Robinson's death, there were multiple other murders in the same area that went unreported. MVNews

WALKING SIERRA MADRE...The Social Side By Deanne Davis

"The cars we drive say a lot about us." Alexandra Paul

"It's not just a car, it's a person with a car." Chris Hovland

Have you walked by Sierra Madre Independent Honda at Baldwin and Montecito? It's kind of just across the street from Beantown, which is really convenient. You can leave your car with Chris, and go across the street for a cup of coffee and some oatmeal.

Chris Hovland is a California native, which is pretty neat as most everybody is from someplace else. He started his career at Alhambra Motors (now Goudy Honda) then moved on to Pasadena Honda but realized that he really wanted to talk to customers himself, rather than having problems relayed through a service manager and various other folks. Let's face it, when our car is going EEERRRKKKK!! Or UMMMMMM KLUNK, we want to describe it to the guy who's going to work on it, not somebody who might not get it right. That's why Chris started his own Honda maintenance/repair business; he thought he could do it better and wanted to deal with people, not just cars. He figured out early on that direct contact works best.

Twenty years ago when Chris was looking around for just the right place to set up shop, he was thinking maybe La Canada-La Crescenta but then Mike Eing, who owns the building which houses both Sierra Madre Independent Honda and Village Auto Clinic, called Chris to let him know there was an available spot there in his building. After spending a little time around town, he realized Sierra Madre was the right place for him. And as so many of our Sierra Madre business people say, "The people are nice here!" Chris proudly reported he has never had one bad check! That's pretty cool! His very first customer who wasn't a friend or family member, Marie Crimins, is still coming to see Chris with all three of her family's Hondas. My fellow happy Honda owner, John, and I are on our third Chris maintained Honda.

Chris's son, Brian, is now working with his Dad and it's a happy relationship. Starting at Goudy, working for Chris's old boss there, Brian was doing OK till the economy took a downturn and Chris said, "Hey, come work for me...I'll pay you more!" Talk about an offer you can't refuse!

Sierra Independent Honda may be one of the only auto shops that have a garden in front where tomatoes usually flourish except right now when his look kinda droopy like everybody else's. He's got red peppers, a watermelon which is being harvested today, eggplant and is willing to take gardening advice from anybody who's got a good suggestion. He said it's not uncommon to arrive at work and find folks feasting on his cherry tomatoes!

Chris lives in Pasadena and commutes by bike to work two or three times a week. He's a hiker, enjoys our Mt. Wilson Trail and Winter Creek Trail off Chantry Flats. He likes motorcycle riding and is generally doing his best to keep fit, just like most of us are.

Iasked Chrisifanything funny ever happened and he immediately told me about one of his clients arriving with a problem under the hood, which was resolved when they opened said hood and there was a rat living in there, dining on his wiring! He said people lose all sorts of stuff under their seats - wedding rings and money came to mind - which require taking the seats out, which he's happy to

Advice for car owners? Check your fluids! Check your tires. Condition your leather (Chris gave me a reproving look at this point as this is one of the things I'm afraid I'm not very good about.)

If you see coolant leaking, don't drive! Your temperature gauge is really important. If you don't overheat it, your car will live forever. One of our adorable daughters started driving to LAX to pick us up and discovered the hard way that overheating is not a good idea!

Chris loves being part of Sierra Madre, loves to work and is very proud of his business. He says that he has such a feeling of usefulness and accomplishment in his work and enjoys talking to his clients. If you haven't met Chris, go by and say hi! He's available Monday thru Friday 7:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. - 54 North Baldwin. Phone is 626-355-4663.

I Read this on Yelp.com...pretty much says it all:

"Under Chris' Expertise, my 2001 Honda is about to hit 300,000 MILES and still runs in Top condition. If you appreciate Quality Craftsmanship and Mechanics who have Integrity, I highly recommend you bring your car to his shop. I have been bringing my Honda here for 8 years now, I drive the distance from Orange County to get all of my Honda's work done at this shop. I recommend Chris to my closest friends, he is THE BEST!"

Sierra Madre Police Blotter

During the week of Sunday, August 17th to Sunday, August 24th, the Sierra Madre Police Department responded to approximately 449 calls for service.

Monday, August 18th

At 3:47 pm, Sierra Madre Police responded to the 500 block of Santa Anita Court regarding a residential burglary. Upon arrival, Officers were informed by the victim that she had been away from her home for several days, and when she returned she noticed her exterior double pane glass door, located to the rear of her residence, was shattered. She informed Officers that a glass vase that was located on a patio table was missing, which was later found shattered near the door. When Officers questioned nearby neighbors, they learned that on the night of Friday, August 15th a neighbor had heard the sound of shattering glass but did not report it. Through investigation, Officers determined the suspect(s) entered the property through an unlocked side gate. They used a glass vase from the property to attempt to break the rear glass door, but were only able to break the exterior layer of the dual paned glass. The suspect(s) also attempted entry through a separate rear door by breaking the door handle, but were unsuccessful. A thorough walk through determined the suspect(s) did not make entry into the residence. This case has been forwarded to the Detectives Bureau.

Wednesday, August 20th

At 8:50 am, Sierra Madre Police responded to the area of Michillinda Ave. and Fairview Ave. after receiving a call to the station regarding a suspicious man unknown to the residential area. A man matching the description of the caller was located. During a consensual encounter, a records check was conducted. Investigation revealed the man had 3 outstanding arrest warrants. The man was arrested and transported to Pasadena PD jail for booking. The agency issuing the warrant was notified and they later took the man into custody.

Friday, August 22nd

At 7:13 pm, Sierra Madre Police responded to the 200 block of Old Ranch Rd. regarding a missing vehicle. Upon arrival, Officers were informed by the victim that she had parked her vehicle on Mountain Trail Avenue north of Grandview Avenue earlier in the day. When she later returned, her vehicle was missing. The victim informed Officers she did not know who could have taken it and never gave anyone permission to use her vehicle. This case has been forwarded to the Detectives Bureau.

Sunday, August 24th

At 11:55 am, Sierra Madre Police responded to lobby of the station regarding a suspicious circumstances report. Officers were informed by the subject that while out in the community, she noticed a flyer posted on a tree that was soliciting friendship from juveniles between the ages of 15 and 17 years old. The flyer had also referenced the term "cuddle buddy." The reporting subject was concerned the flyer may exploit or lure young adults into potential danger and wrongdoings. Officers canvassed the reported area the flyer was first found and removed any additional flyers they found. The flyer advertised a contact number. Officers called the number and made contact with a young man aged 16. Officers later arrived to the young man's address and were met with the young man and his father. When questioned about the flyer, the young man informed Officers he simply made them and posted them because he was bored and later realized it wasn't the best idea to have done so. The young man also told Officers that he had yet to be contacted by anyone regarding his offer of friendship. Officers advised the young man to use smarter and better decisions when trying to make new friends and dismissed the case.

ANGELENOS: WILL YOU PROTECT WHAT YOU LOVE?

From Arcadia to Zuma, volunteers sought for huge Sept. 20 Coastal Cleanup Day

SANTA MONICA, CA (Wednesday, August 27, 2014) -- Local environmental group Heal the Bay today issued a call for Southland residents to join the world's biggest single-day volunteer event – the 29th annual Coastal Cleanup Day, Saturday, Sept. 20

As part of a global effort, tens of thousands of concerned citizens in Los Angeles County will link to remove harmful and unsightly trash and debris from more than 50 coastal and inland sites, an area that spans close to 100 square miles.

Since 1990, Heal the Bay has coordinated the county's Coastal Cleanup Day, mobilizing an army of volunteers from 9 a.m.-noon to canvass beaches, parks, creeks, lakes, highways and alleys to remove ocean-bound trash and beautify neighborhoods.

Last year, more than 11,000 volunteers collected nearly 24,000 pounds of debris in Los Angeles County. Worldwide, 684,000 volunteers in 92 nations amassed nearly 12.3 million pound of debris in a single day. Cigarette butts, food wrappers and bottle caps remain the three most common items found by Coastal Cleanup Day volunteers. Among the unusual items found in the sand by Heal the Bay volunteers at last year's event: a beekeeper's comb box, a 35-pound car battery and 120 pounds of rolled-up carpeting.

Heal the Bay seeks volunteers of all ages and physical abilities; no experience necessary. Site captains will organize a diverse mix of individuals, families, neighborhoods, community groups, schools, faith-based groups, sports teams and businesses. To sign up, please visit healthebay.org/ccd

No special training or equipment is necessary. But in a bid to reduce waste even further, Heal the Bay encourages volunteers to "BYO"-bring their own buckets, reusable bags and gloves to pick up trash.

In addition to picking up debris, volunteers learn first-hand the importance of keeping trash out of waterways and improve their own community environments, thus protecting what they love – be it their local beach, park, avenue or creek.

Runoff from more than 200 storm drains flowing out to Santa Monica and San Pedro bays causes the vast majority of local ocean pollution. By removing tons of debris from beaches and inland neighborhoods, cleanup participants reduce blight, protect marine animals and bolster the regional economy.

"Code Red" locations in need of special attention this year are Medea Creek in Agoura Hills, Compton Creek and the Los Angeles River confluence. These urban sites drain runoff from huge swaths of Los Angeles County and are overwhelmed by such litter as plastic bags and fast-food packaging.

In addition to the Code Red sites, approximately 50 sites have been confirmed this year, including more than 15 inland locations. SCUBA dive sites will include Leo Carrillo State Beach, Malibu Pier, Redondo Beach, Dockweiler Beach and the Santa Monica Pier. There will be a kayak effort in Marina del Rey, where participants will need to preregister with the Bay Foundation.

About Coastal Cleanup Day

Heal the Bay organizes Coastal Cleanup Day in Los Angeles County in partnership with the California Coastal Commission. The L.A. campaign is part of a global international event led by the Ocean Conservancy. The day has been recognized by the Guinness Book of World Records as the world's biggest 24-hour volunteer event.

This year's sponsors include Toyota, Union Bank, Mattel, Simplehuman, Ralphs, The Vons Foundation, Kaiser Permanente and Darden.

SACRAMENTO - President Barack Obama will take his rightful place in California textbooks under legislation signed today by Governor Jerry Brown. AB 1912 authored by Assemblymember Chris Holden (D-Pasadena), will be the first step toward acknowledging President Obama's legacy for generations to come. The measure enjoyed overwhelming, bi-partisan support as it made its way through the legislative process this year.

"I am very grateful to Governor Brown for signing this important legislation and to the lawmakers on both sides of the aisle who agreed that this presidency should not be relegated to a footnote in textbooks,' said Assemblymember Holden. "We want to make sure that future generations understand that the election of our nation's first African American President was a historic step in the effort towards equality and that previous elections involved intimidation and violence that prevented millions of African-Americans from voting."

AB 1912 asks the State Board of Education and the Instructional Quality Commission to include the significance of President Barack Obama's election in the state's history and social science standards for grades seven to twelve. The state's history-social science standards haven't been revised in nine years due largely to the state's fiscal crisis. The next review and adoption of instructional materials will not take place until the 2015-2016 school year.

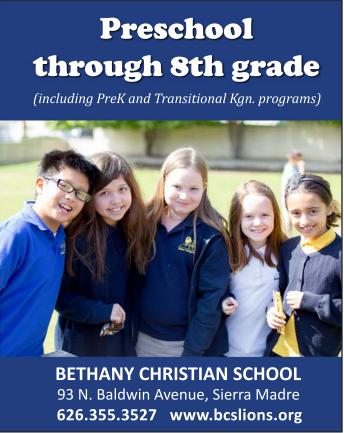

"Just 145 years after the signing of the Emancipation Proclamation, and only a generation removed from the civil rights struggles, President Obama's election represented the moment when all things seemed possible," concluded Holden.

THE REEL DEAL: by Ben Show

IF I STAY REVIEW

Teen romance films seem to be getting sadder and sadder, and 'If I Stay' is definitely part of that trend. It introduces you to very likable characters, pushes them into tough and sometimes cruel situations, and lets you see their struggles. However, what makes this film different is its ending. Mia Hall (Chloe Grace Moretz) is not used to much attention from boys, let alone the popular rocker type, like Adam (Jamie Blackley). But when the two meet, sparks fly, hormones rage, and a massively devastating car accident interrupts the young love affair.

'If I Stay' is a truly sad movie; you just feel bad for every character at some point. In many ways it breaks out of the teen romance genre and becomes a very intriguing, dramatic character study on the teens who start out as unpopular and become popular. It is a rough yet worthwhile journey.

HAIL HAIL THE CHARDONNAY IS HERE

My new Radio Gig on KLAA AM 830 is taking me on a weekly basis to the OC, the Orange Curtin the 714, not that I'm complaining there are many great restaurants in that area, just this past Sunday Night I stopped at the Catch Restaurant right across from Angels Stadium and had a glass of Estancia Chardonnay, the bartender said it was her best value on the wine by the glass program. Though for a review a full bottle was in order, the price point is right on spot at $11 a bottle at most area grocery stores, I opened the ice cold bottle let it breathe for a good hour and poured it into a chilled glass. The breathing worked, I was very impressed with the straw color and the slight fruitiness of my first and last taste. I was surprised with the spicy overtone --that told me that this wine was best paired with a roasted chicken, grilled shrimp or even a fish dinner.

Estancia is located in Monterey County, seems more and better wines are coming from that region. The Estancia Chardonnay was an easy drinking Chardonnay that was equally easy on the wallet (I like that). While the wine is not quite perfect, I do thing that Estancia has brought us a really great value with this wine. So, if you are in Pasadena or the OC stock up on this wine if you can find it for less then $10 a bottle go for it !!! My new favorite chardonnay for the price.

JUST FOR BEST FRIENDS

As an avid animal rights advocate and dedicated pet owner and lover, I spend a lot of my time reading about and researching current issues and affairs that are related to the humane treatment of animals. As part of my endeavor to stay informed on what's happening regarding animals in today's society, I am an enlisted recipient of several organizations' periodic e-mail notifications, which does actually help keep me up-to-date and aware. Among my favorite non-profit organizations to whom I subscribe is a group called Social Compassion In Legislation (SCIL).

SCIL has become a favorite of mine, because they go above and beyond in doing whatever what it takes to make legal changes on behalf of domestic animals in America. They send me periodic e-mails, with initiatives or issues that need to be addressed, and I do my part to participate. Last week I received an e-mail from SCIL proclaiming the victory of a bill that was signed into law by governor Jerry Brown. The message included links to mainstream media reports that covered the epic breakthrough, one of which was an interview with SCIL's Judie Mancuso and Jane Velez-Mitchell on HLN.

In case I have not made it obvious enough in previous articles, let me just say that I am one who likes to cut to the chase. It's a personality trait I sometimes wish I had not inherited, most likely from my mother. But, when it comes to accomplishing something truly important in life, I think it is imperative that one states their mind clearly and concisely, so as not to be misunderstood. We can chit chat casually with friends, about what we don't like in our society. We can complain for hours about things we don't agree with, but until we are ready to take action toward change, we might as well shut up and accept things as they are.

The idea of complaining while doing nothing to make a change for the better reminds me of a verse I was taught in Sunday school as a kid. It goes something like this; "Though I speak with the tongues of men and angels and have not charity, I am become as sounding brass or a tinkling cymbal" ~ I Corinthians 13:1. The point being, you can jib jab all you want, but until you are ready to get off your butt and get your hands dirty to fix the problem, your voice carries no meaning.

That is why I revere and respect the good work being done at SCIL, whose mission is to reduce pet population through legislation. President Judie Mancuso and her dedicated team of animal advocates have proven that they are willing to take whatever action is necessary to complete the mission at hand. I have been on the bandwagon with SCIL on many issues they've share with me over the years, and rather than becoming frustrated at the end of the day, which can easily happen when it comes to such efforts, I have found myself inspired and hopeful for positive change.

GUESS WHO'S COMING FOR DINNER?

This past week, during our state assembly's final session for the year 2014, Governor Jerry Brown kindly signed Assembly Bill 1965 into legislation, making it much easier for pet-owners in California to include their dogs when they go out for a bite to eat or have a quick drink in town. Passage of the initiative was a long time coming after a challenging row-to-how, but thanks to the help of Assemblymember Mariko Yamada, Social Compassion In Legislation's President Judie Mancuso and the others at SCIL, along with numerous other animal rights advocates in California, victory was indeed achieved.

The newly signed bill allows food establishments in California to invite patrons and their canine companions to dine freely together in an outdoor setting legally, as long as the restaurant meets the standards set forth. This may not seem like big news to we locals in Sierra Madre, since we've been enjoying the privilege of dining with our dogs on the sidewalk for as long as we can remember, but a lot has changed in recent years for other cities in California, and for some, this is huge news!

I once wrote an article entitled Two Steps Forward, One Step Back for this column. There's no need for me to step back and reshare the subject of that article now, but the same concept applies for this week's column. I'll just say that many of us totally understand the nature of the relationship between we humans and the canines, while others simply do not. Some have gained a slightly better understanding in recent years, but still would never allow their own rights to be "infringed" by the presence of a dog at dinner.

I don't see animal rights as a contender to my own. I actually view the interaction with animals as an opportunity to learn, and when it comes to domestic animals (made domestic by the hands of the human, as we all know), I feel a sense of obligation to accommodate their needs, even more than my own, at times.

Some things in life are worth the effort necessary to obtain desired results. Some are not. There is no question in my mind that the efforts required to enhance respect for nonhuman beings in our society is a worthwhile cause. I no longer care what others think of my mission. I do not care if people think I put too much time and effort into caring about the animals. I have only to answer to my Maker, and I believe my Maker is happy with the focus I have found in my fifties.

I look forward to visiting our local food establishments in Sierra Madre more often, now that I know they have state legislative backup on having Tater and/or Molly dining along with me. I want to thank Judie Mancuso and her team and SCIL, Assemblymember Mariko Yamada, Governor Brown and everyone else who cared enough to pay attention to this important bit of legislation. Kudos to you all! Love and let live.

LOOKING FOR A BEST FRIEND?

Looking for a best friend to share the end of summer with? So is Milo is a very lovable and adorable white fluffy, curly haired terrier mix boy with light creamy brown patches and a cute under bite when he smiles and looks up at you. He is still a very young chap, approximately a year old, weighs 17 pounds and looking for his best friend(s) to spend and enjoy the rest of his life with.

Milo is a very friendly, affectionate, playful, happy go-lucky guy with a lot of personality! He loves people, playfully and lovingly interacting with them, and always greets them with a big smile and wagging tail. He also loves their attention, pets, cuddles and belly rubs.

Milo is also friendly and very social with other dogs. He enjoys their company on walks, running, chasing, and playing with them and toys in yards.

During his walks with us, we found him to have average energy and to be a great companion on a walk. He enjoys his walks, sometimes galloping happily, and sometimes taking his time exploring and strolling along. But his favorite part of the walk is when he can lie and stretch out on the grass under a shady tree and snuggle close to you.

Little Milo is a very lovable boy and has a way of easily capturing your heart and making you smile. He is going to be a great companion and addition to a person, couple or family with children!

He currently resides at the San Gabriel Valley Humane Society located at 851 E. Grand Avenue in San Gabriel with his roommate. We are located off San Gabriel Blvd., north of Mission and south of Las Aloe is great as a skin moisturizer as it hydrates and provides nutrients for the skin. It is full of vitamins C, E, and beta carotene which are all known to help prevent premature aging.

Aloe is not only anti-inflammatory but it is also anti-microbial. These two properties make aloe a great choice to treat a wide range of skin problems such as eczema, rashes, psoriasis, and acne. It reduces inflammation, cools and moisturizes the skin all while promoting cell renewal

Lastly is you have stretch marks either from weight gain or from pregnancy, applying aloe gel on a daily basis helps to reduce their visibility. Stretch marks are the result of minor tears that appear in the top layer of our skin. Aloe can help to heal those tears when applied early to stretch

Aloe is so easy to grow... everyone should have a plant somewhere in their yard. It can even grow in a planter on a balcony.

HOW TO RECOGNIZE AND HANDLE SENIOR GAMBLING PROBLEMS

Dear Savvy Senior:

How can you know when someone has a gambling problem? Since my father passed away a couple years ago, my 76-year-old mother spends a lot of time at an Indian casino near her house playing slot machines. Troubled Son

Dear Troubled:

It's a great question. Problem gambling among seniors is definitely on the rise. Seniors have time and money on their hands, and the influx of casinos across the country have made access to gambling much more convenient. Here's what you should know, along with some tips and resources that can help your mom if she does indeed have a problem.

Problem Gambling

For most older adults, gambling is simply a fun recreational activity, but for those who become addicted to it, it can be a devastating disease that can financially wipe them out.

There are a number of reasons why seniors can be vulnerable to gambling problems. For starters, seniors are often catered to by casinos with free bus transportation, free or discounted meals, special rewards and other prizes as a way to entice them.

In addition, many seniors use gambling as a way to distract or escape feelings of loneliness, depression, sadness, or even a chronic health condition. Some may have financial problems they are seeking to overcome. And some may have cognitive impairment that interferes with their ability to make sound

Adding to the problem is that many seniors may not understand addiction, making them less likely to identify a gambling problem. Or they may be confused or embarrassed that they can't control their urges to gamble and reluctant to seek help because they think that at their age, they should know better. And even if they recognize that they have a problem, they may not know that help is available or where to get it.

You should also know that while there are many gambling options for people to get hooked on today, casino slot machines are far and away the most popular among seniors. Slot machines are much more addictive then the old machines of yesteryear with spinning lemons, cherries and melons. Many of today's slot machines offer intense sensory stimulation with large video screens, music and vibrating,

Find Help

How can you know if your mom has a gambling problem? Gamblers Anonymous offers a 20 question online test at gamblersanonymous.org that your mom can take to help determine if she has a problem. In the meantime, here are some questions you can ask to help evaluate her situation.

- Is she preoccupied with gambling, constantly talking about it, or planning to gamble versus doing her normal activities?
- Is she gambling more and more money to get the same level of excitement?
- Is she using her retirement funds or other savings to gamble, or is she pawning or selling personal items to get money to gamble with?
- Has she lost control to the point that she can't she set a limit of time and money to spend in the casino, and stick to it?
- Does she become uncomfortable, angry or lie when you ask her about her gambling activities?

If your mom answers yes to any of these questions, she may have a problem. To find help contact the National Council on Problem Gambling (ncpgambling.org), a non-profit organization that operates a 24-hour national hotline at 800-522-4700. They can direct you to resources in your area, including counselors who have been trained through the National Certified Gambler Counseling Program.

Send your senior questions to: Savvy Senior, P.O. Box 5443, Norman, OK 73070, or visit Savvy Senior. org. Jim Miller is a contributor to the NBC Today show and author of "The Savvy Senior" book.

SEAN'S SHAMELESS REVIEWS ENDOFSUMMERPLAYLIST

By Sean Kayden

J Mascis – "Me Again" – "Tied To A Star" is only the second solo album from alternative rock legend,

I Mascis. Mainly known for his 90s alternative band, Dinosaur Jr., Mascis is making new music in his 4th decade as a musician. Opening track, "Me Again," is a soft, barebones, longing jam. It's reflective and melancholy, but easily one of the finer tracks of the year. The soothing guitars alongside Mascis' cool and collective vocals are a terrific combination. I believe Mascis is at his best when he quiets down and gets pensive. "Me Again" isn't a typical summer song, but it will be a good way to kick off the fall season later next month. "Tied To A Star" is out now on Sub Pop Records.

Merchandise - "Telephone" - Tampa Bay DIY rockers find themselves on a brand new, bigger independent label (4AD) with their third LP, "After The End." A complete shift in direction, the band is focus on more of a sparkling, crisp pop sound. "Telephone" has a 80s new wave sense of style to it. Their previous sprawling rock sound is completely gone. In replace are Carson Cox's baritone vocals that mix very well with The Smithsesque arrangements. Merchandise probably won't ever be huge, but their ability to progress entirely into something brand new is definitely commendable. The new album is more pop-oriented. Don't let that scare you off if you're already a fan of this band. The change in arrangements may be the most refreshing sound you hear all year from any band. "After The End" is out now on 4AD.

Tennis - "Never Work For Free" - The Denver band is set to release their third LP, "Ritual in Repeat," in just three years. Brand new single, "Never Work For Free" demonstrates the band's peppy, lush sound. Tennis is composed of married couple, Alaina Moore and Patrick Riley. This tune sounds a lot like something off HAIM's debut record of last year. Their sound more polished than ever, is mainly because of producer Patrick Carney (The Black Keys). The lo-fi days seem to be a not so distant memory as the band, formerly a duo, has widened their musical soundscape. I'm usually under the impression all these kind of female led bands sound the same, but I have a hunch with their third album, Tennis will strive to the lead in this seemingly crowded race. "Ritual in Repeat" is due out September 9th on Commission Records.

Wildcat! - Up & Beyond -The debut record from LA electronic pop enthusiasts is catchy as hell. The indie R&B inspired style, which is ever so popular these days, is the scene Wildcat! Wildcat! occupies. The band is catching a lot of buzz these days with their infectious sound. "Up & Beyond" is the perfect example. Lush melodies and falsetto vocals, the band pushes the envelope but with much restraint. Never does it feel overblown and only just right, Wildcat! Wildcat!'s debut record is something much more than what it seems to be on face value. They also specialize in some more ethereal jams, reminiscent of M83. The band is off to a promising start, but the scene they're in is brimming with bands just like them. "No Moon At All" is out now on Downtown Records.

"Arrows (featuring Macklemore & Rvan Lewis)" - Fences, not a household name, is an alternative pop band from Seattle. Macklemore & Ryan Lewis on the other hand won a bunch of Grammys last year with their hip-hop opus, "The Heist." However, this song, has the potential of being a huge hit for everyone involved. With a catchy chorus, terrific arrangements and emotional depth, it's easily one of the best songs of the season. "Arrows" could be the one to end your summer on the right track. Fences may just escape obscurity when their sophomore LP is released this October via Elektra Records.

IT'S ALL ABOUT CONTEXT

By Christian Lebano, Artistic Director

I have always felt that my best theater experiences were those where my complete experience was thought about and crafted by the producers of the show. From my interaction at the Box Office to walking through the lobby to the program to the show itself and then any post-show talkbacks - all are part of the experience of going to the theater.

When the SMP Board created our new mission statement it was important to us that it include a fuller understanding of what "theater" could or should be. That's why part of our mission is to put all of our plays into a cultural and historical context. This is something we started in a small way with Driving Miss Daisy last year with our post-show events with 2 Civil Rights Freedom Riders and Maiya Sykes adding her beautiful voice to the songs of that movement.

We went further with our production of Battledrum last year for which we created a beautiful Study Guide; had Civil War historians at every performance, both student shows and general audience shows; and created a marvelous exhibit in our lobby featuring six different aspects of the War which were touched on by the play. This exhibit was curated and planned by Diane Siegel. Diane has been an educator and has worked in museums for years crafting experiences for patrons. In fact, she and I met when I was hired to produce a series of student radio plays at the Museum of Television and Radio in Beverly Hills.

Anyone who has seen our current production of 6 RMS RIV VU knows that the lobby exhibit has become an integral part of our productions. Diane has done a wonderful job creating an interesting and informative "Google Wall" (as she calls it) - which illustrates some of the more obscure and not so obscure (to those of us of a "certain age") references in the show. It's been fun watching our younger patrons learning about "Miss Subways," "Elaine

May and Mike Nichols," and "the Daitch." She's also created interactive pieces with her quiz of NYC real estate lingo - the title of the play refers to a six room apartment with a river (Hudson) view. And most amusingly, she has challenged the audiences to decide what kind of chair they would prefer - a running question in the play. I'm definitely more of the club chair-type myself.

We have already planned the exhibits for our next two plays 4000 Miles which opens September 26 and A Little House Christmas which opens November 28. I hope you'll see them both and let me know what you think of this new feature. And if you haven't seen 6 RMS RIV VU you have two more weekends to catch it before it closes September 6 with two performances - a matinee at 2:30 and a closing show at 8:00.

THE NEW INSPECTOR GENERAL

Recently that noted Inspector General Max Huntsman was introduced Supervisor M i k e Antonovich' s annual Police Chiefs Luncheon. Huntsman actually assumed this position on January 2, 2014. He was appointed by the Board of Supervisors upon recommendation of the Blue Ribbon Commission on Jail Violence. (LAPD has had an Inspector General for more than 20 years after the Christopher Commission's recommendation following the Rodney King beating and LA Riots.) Huntsman came to this position very qualified. His education includes a Bachelor of Arts from UC Santa Cruz and a Juris Doctorate from Yale. Prior to assuming his position as Inspector General, he served as Los Angeles Deputy DA from 1991-2013 where he specialized in public corruption and white collar crime. A few of his many notable prosecutions include: People v. Rizzo, Spaccia (Misappropriation of public funds, City of Bell:); People v. Destefano, et al (LA Coliseum, Bribery and conflict prosecution arising out of fatal "rave concerts"); People v. Ludlow (Top L.A. Union official funneling union money into city council campaigns.); People v. Gardner (Tried the largest state money-laundering case in California history arising out of a multi-million dollar capping operation run by Dr. David Gardner)

What exactly is the Office of Inspector General? Deputy Inspector Daniel Baker gave me the following information taken from the Proposed Code of Ordinances, section 6.44.190:

The Office if the Inspector General (OIG) is charged with providing independent and comprehensive oversight of the Sheriff's Department and its facilities. The Office has four primary functions:

Monitoring the Department's operations, conditions of the jail facilities, and the Department's response to inmate and public complaints.

Reviewing periodically the Department's uses of force, the Department's investigations of force incidents and allegations of misconduct, and the Department's disciplinary decisions.

Reviewing the quality of the Department's own audits and inspections. Communicating regularly with the public, the Board of Supervisors and the Department regarding the Department's operations.

The OIG also receives and with permission of the complainant, refers complaints about specific conduct to the Department for action. If the OIG determines the Department has not, after being given an opportunity to investigate the incident, conducted an adequate investigation, the OIG may, without interfering with the Department's investigative functions, conduct its investigations, and the OIG currently reports to the Board of Supervisors.

Because this Office of the Inspector General has been established, the LA County Board of Supervisors voted against creating a civilian oversight commission. It also no longer contracts with the Office of Independent Review or Special Council Merrick Bobb. I feel the establishment of the Inspector General office with Max Huntsman at its helm and its reporting to the Board of Supervisors will bring positive changes to the Sheriff's Department.

FEINSTEIN: WEST COAST NEEDS EARTHQUAKE FARIY-WARNING SYSTEM

Washington—Senator Dianne Feinstein (D-Calif.) today released the following statement on the earthquake in Napa, Calif., and the need for an earthquake early-warning system: "With more than 100 injured and estimates of damage approaching $1 billion, the Napa earthquake reminds us how incredibly dangerous these temblors can be. There's no doubt a major earthquake will hit California, the only questions are when and where.

"I believe an integrated earthquake early-warning system is essential to save lives and property. Two bills from the Senate Appropriations Committee move us toward that goal. The bill to fund the Department of the Interior includes $5 million to begin work on an early-warning system, while the bill to fund the Department of Homeland Security urges FEMA to a much larger earthquake strikes."

prioritize grant funds for such a system. These bills will advance this fall and I will continue to prioritize funding for this system.

"An earthquake early-warning system would provide crucial time to carry out lifesaving actions. A warning of even a handful of seconds would allow for emergency notifications to be sent; trains and traffic to be slowed or stopped; supplies of oil, gas and chemicals to be turned off; nuclear plants to be safeguarded; even elevators to be safely emptied. "What we need is the political resolve to deploy such a system. Officials in Washington and along the West Coast should partner with the private sector to make an interoperable earthquake early-warning system a reality, and we should do so as soon as possible before

REMEMBERING OUR FALLEN

LOS ANGELES COUNTY — Supervisor Michael D. Antonovich, along with Chief Daryl L. Osby and members of the Los Angeles County Fire Department, marked the fifth anniversary of the Station Fire by honoring the memory of Fire Captain Ted Hall and Fire Fighter Specialist Arnie Quinones.

"Ted and Arnie will be remembered as proud, cherished family men, and courageous firefighters who were steadfast in their quest for excellence, hard work and completion of the mission," said Antonovich of the two men who lost their lives battling the fire. The Station Fire, one of the largest fires in L.A. County history, began on August 30, 2009 and burned over 160,000 acres and more than 100 homes and structures.

NASA's New Horizons Spacecraft Crosses Neptune Orbit En Route to Historic Pluto Encounter

NASA's Pluto-bound New Horizons spacecraft has traversed the orbit of Neptune. It is due to make a close encounter with distant Pluto on July 14, 2015.

The sophisticated piano-sized spacecraft, which launched in January 2006, reached Neptune's orbit on Aug. 25, 2014, in a record eight years and eight months. New Horizons' milestone matches precisely the 25th anniversary of the historic encounter of NASA's Voyager 2 spacecraft with Neptune on Aug. 25, 1989.

"It's a cosmic coincidence that connects one of NASA's iconic past outer solar system explorers with our next outer solar system explorer," said Jim Green, director of NASA's Planetary Science Division. "Exactly 25 years ago at Neptune, Voyager 2 delivered our 'first' look at an unexplored planet. Now it will be New Horizons' turn to reveal the unexplored Pluto and its moons in stunning detail next summer on its way into the vast outer reaches of the solar system."

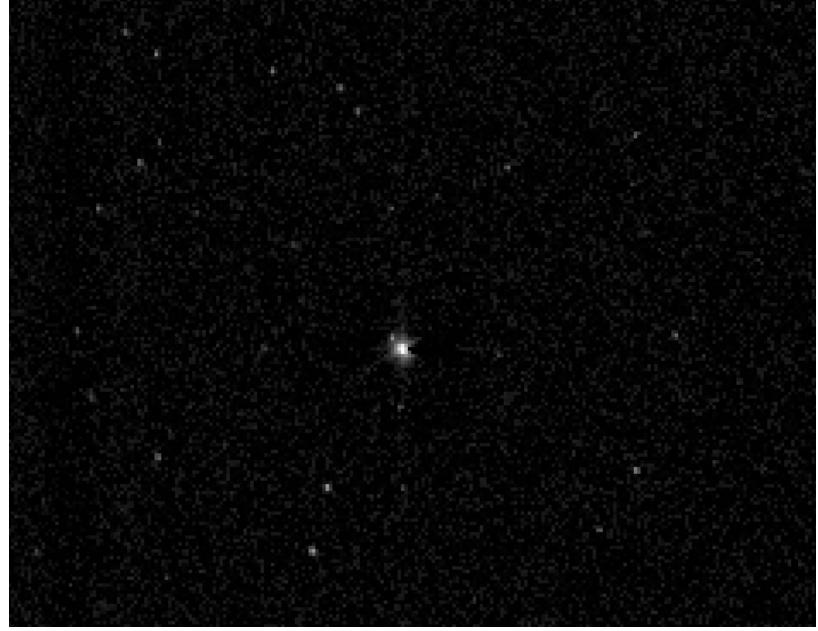

"NASA's Voyager 1 and 2 explored the entire middle zone of the solar system where the giant planets orbit," said Alan Stern, New Horizons principal investigator at the Southwest Research Institute in Boulder, Colo. "Now we stand on Voyager's broad shoulders to explore the even more distant and mysterious Pluto system."

Several senior members of the New Horizons science team were young members of Voyager's science team in 1989. Many remember how Voyager 2's approach-images of Neptune and its planet-sized moon Triton fueled anticipation of the discoveries to come.

"The feeling 25 years ago was that this was really cool, because we're going to see Neptune and Triton up-close for the first time," said Ralph McNutt of the Johns Hopkins University Applied Physics Laboratory (APL) in Laurel, Md., who leads the New Horizons energetic-particle investigation and served on the Voyager plasma-analysis team. "The same is happening for New Horizons."

Voyager's visit to the Neptune system revealed previously unseen features of Neptune itself, such as the Great Dark Spot, a massive storm similar to, but not as long-lived, as Jupiter's Great Red Spot. Voyager also, for the first time, captured clear images of the ice giant's ring system, too faint to be clearly viewed from Earth. "There were surprises at Neptune and there were surprises at Triton," said Ed Stone, Voyager's long-standing project scientist from Caltech. "I'm sure that will continue at Pluto."

Many researchers feel the 1989 Neptune flyby— Voyager's final planetary encounter—might have offered a preview of what's to come next summer.

Scientists suggest that Triton, with its icy surface, bright poles, varied terrain and cryo-volcanoes, is a Pluto-like object that Neptune pulled into orbit.

"There is a lot of speculation over whether Pluto will look like Triton, and how well they'll match up," McNutt said. "That's the great thing about first-time encounters like this—we don't know exactly what we'll see, but we know from decades of experience in first-time exploration of new planets that we will be very surprised."

Voyager 1 and 2 were launched 16 days apart in 1977. Voyager 1 is now the most distant human-made object, about 12 billion miles away from the Sun. Voyager 2 is 9 billion miles from the Sun.

Similar to Voyager 1 and 2, New Horizons also is on a path toward potential discoveries in the Kuiper Belt—a disc-shaped region of icy objects past the orbit of Neptune—as well as other unexplored realms of the outer solar system and beyond.

HOW TO DEAL WITH A SORE THROAT AND COUGHING USING NATURE'S MEDICINE CHEST

By Christopher Nyerges

It seems that sore throats and coughs have afflicted people forever, whether resulting from the proximate causes of pollen, dust, woodsmoke, or from talking too much, or yelling, or even from "catching" something from another person.

Fortunately, there are quite a few natural remedies which help relieve the pain and discomfort of coughs and sore throats, and many of these have been used for at least centuries.

Each of the plants described are commonly available in the wild, and typically can be purchased in the dried form in herb shops.

MALLOW

The various mallows have been used to soothe a sore throat for centuries. In fact, even the ancient Egyptians used one of the mallows for this purpose.

In the United States, the common mallow (Malva parviflora) is a widespread "weed" of vacant lots and fields. It is sometimes referred to as poverty weed or cheeseweed. In fact, the tender leaves of mallow are tasty in salads, added to soup, and can be cooked with other vegetables or like spinach. They are high in vitamin C.

In Mexico, mallow leaves (known as malva) have long been chewed so that the slightly mucilaginous quality can soothe a sore throat. Herbalists consider the mallow leaves an emollient and a demulcent. Whether the leaves are eaten, or made into a tea, this plant helps to relieve inflammation, especially to the throat.

HOREHOUND

The horehound (Marrubium vulgare) is a bitter mint, native to Europe, which has now naturalized throughout the entire United States. It is called marrubio in Mexico, where it also grows in the wild. When you see it in the wild, it is an obvious mint, yet it lacks any strong aroma so typical of most mints. However, you'll see the square stem, the opposite leaves, and the wrinkled leaves on horehound which makes it easy to recognize.

Do any of you remember horehound candy? This was a popular "old-fashioned" cough drop, made by boiling the horehound leaves, straining out the leaves, and adding sugar or honey to the liquid. It is then cooked until it is thick enough to harden. (Recipes for horehound candy can be found in most candy-making books).

Horehound is made into a tea, which is very bitter and unpleasant. No one would ever drink it if it weren't so effective. Besides soothing a sore throat and a cough, horehound is an expectorant, which means it can help clear your throat when it is congested.

To make horehound tea, I collect the young leaves in the spring. They can be used fresh or dried. I place about one teaspoon of the herb into my cup, pour boiling water over it, cover it, and let it sit until it is cool enough to drink. The flavor? Terrible! Its bitterness must be experienced to understand. So add honey and lemon juice to your horehound tea to make it more palatable. The honey and lemon are also good for your sore

MULLEIN

Mullein (Verbascum thapsus) is another European native that has now naturalized throughout the entire United States. It is particularly common in dry waste areas throughout the Southwest. I can recall driving to the Grand Canyon once, and the dominant roadside plant was mullein.

Mullein leaves feel like flannel or chamois cloth. The plant produces large basal leaves the first year, and then in the second year it sends up a seed spike that can reach up to four and five feet.

To make a tea, use the first year leaves of mullein, and infuse them. There is not much flavor, so I typically add mint to mullein tea. Mullein acts like a mild sedative on the lungs, and it helps to relieve the roughness in the throat common with coughs and some fevers.

MORMON TEA

Ephedra viridis

Growing on canyon rims and slopes at the south ends of the mesas or at low elevations, Mormon tea is a medium-sized shrub with upright broomlike clusters of olive green, jointed stems. Its leaves are reduced to small, unnoticeable scales. The rather attractive, yellow flowers become papery dry, and the fruits are black nuts which are eaten by small animals. A pinkishbrown tea steeped from the stems is used medicinally as a decongestant or diuretic. A tan dialso can be made from the stems, while the roots are used to treat colds.

MORMON TEA

Throughout the Southwestern United States is found a stick-like plant called Mormon Tea (Ephedra sp.). It is common in the California high deserts, in the Great Basin area, throughout Southern Colorado, and downa into Texas. It is commonly available at herb stores.

The plant appears as a low shrub, with branched needle-like segments, with scales at the nodes.

In China, a related member of the Ephedra genus is the source of the drug ephedrine, which is used as a decongestant and a bronchial dilator. Though the wild U.S. species contain much less ephedrine, they are nevertheless useful in home remedies where there are breathing problems associated with coughs and colds. Typically, the stems are brewed into a tea at low temperatures in a covered pot. There is a mild but distinctive flavor and aroma that I like.

No doubt there are many, many other remedies for coughs and sore throats. Included here were just a few of the common wild plants which are safe and easy to use.

[Nyerges is the author of "Guide to Wild Foods" and "Foraging California" which describe these plant medicines in more detail. He has led wild food and survival skills walks since 1974. He can be reached at Box 41834, Eagle Rock, CA 90041 or www. SchoolofSelf-Reliance.com.]

FAMILY MATTERS

ROBIN WILLIAMS: A LESSON IN DEEDS, NOT WORDS + ONE ERROR IN PLANNING

One of the most eloquent responses to Robin would have controlled as co-trustees, and then Williams' death came from his best friend Billy Crystal, who posted on Twitter simply: "No words."

When someone close to us dies -- especially in a sudden and tragic way -- the grief is so deep that we truly don't have words to describe it. And while Robin Williams may have lost the battle to take care of himself, it appears that he did take care of his family through various estate planning strategies that will at least spare them the pain and cost of a public probate court proceeding.

According to a Forbes article following Williams' death, Williams had significant real estate holdings including a 653-acre Napa Valley estate and a waterfront home in Tiburon, California. The Napa Valley estate has been for sale since April with a price tag of $29.9 million; the Tiburon home has been valued at $6 million. Both properties are held in the name of a real estate holding trust, which can remove the value of the properties from Williams' estate and result in significant estate tax savings for his family.

Williams also set up a trust for his three children that splits the assets into equal distributions for each child once they reach the ages of 21, 25 and 30. This trust was established during his 2009 divorce from his second wife.

This is the one place Williams could have done better. Leaving assets to children outright when they reach specific ages is a common strategy of many estate planning attorneys, but it isn't always the best strategy. Instead, Williams could have left the distributions in lifetime asset protection trusts that his children as they got older, sole trustees. This would have protected the trust assets from lawsuits, divorce, bankruptcy or any other type of creditor and future estate taxes, for generations to come. While most of us do not have the wealth that Robin Williams enjoyed during his lifetime, we can all protect what we do have and ensure it passes to our loved ones using many of the same estate planning devices Williams did. For example, a trust allows our assets to pass outside of probate so our families will not have to endure a court proceeding or have assets frozen during the probate process. This can be a lifeline for grieving families in trying times. One of the main goals of my law practice is to help families like yours plan for the safe, successful transfer of wealth to the next generations. If you have any questions about how to ensure your family is protected and provided for, no matter what, please get in touch.

LIKE MOTHS TO A FLAME

Have you done your "spring cleaning" yet? If you're selling your home, it's essential to take care of the details, both inside and out. Since buyers first see your property from the street, there are some steps you can take to pique their interest in seeing more.

Obviously, color makes an impact. Emphasize two or three colors in your flowerbeds and shrubs, and coordinate your blooms with the seasons, be it spring or summer. Also make sure your trees and shrubs are properly sized to the house and grounds, and not blocking any of your home's positive features.

Perfectly maintaining your lawn is critical while you're listing, since a well-manicured lawn powerfully symbolizes your pride of ownership and attention to maintenance. You can reduce the time invested in mowing and watering if you can do some simple landscaping with rocks, ornamental grasses and drought-tolerant plants.

The sound of water also turns buyers on. Even if you don't have a pond, you can achieve the same effect by installing a small fountain in the front yard, or even running an electric fountain on your porch or deck.

Finally, there are a couple of architectural flourishes that add interest, such as colorful window boxes, a trellis with flowering vines, or even a pretty new mailbox. Contact your agent for a wealth of other ideas to attract

MOBILE-FRIENDLY EMAIL CAMPAIGNS PRODUCE BETTER RESULTS

I just read a statistic that says the average person looks at their phone 150 times a day and more than 43% of all emails are read on a smart phone or tablet.

Let's face it, we are never going back to the old way of email marketing...long-winded, multicolumned emails. Those types of emails don't look good on a mobile device, plus people don't have time to read them. They want content that is quick and easy to digest.

We are finding that simple, one-column emails with a single clear call to action (above the scroll) are getting the best results. Constant Contact has found that there is a trend in the type of links people are clicking on too. Believe it or not, text links vs. fancy buttons are getting more action.

If email marketing is important to your business and you haven't switched to a mobilefriendly design and content strategy, it's time. Format your email campaigns in a way that's easy for your readers to consume and take action on. Throw out the over-thinking process and keep them simple.

LEFT TURN AND MORE

HOWARD Hays As I See It

"What does labor want? We want more schoolhouses and less jails; more books and less arsenals; more learning and less vice; more leisure and less greed; more justice and less revenge;

in fact, more of the opportunities to cultivate our better natures."

- Samuel Gompers, 1915

I opened a column earlier this year with that quote, but realized there are probably a number of readers who don't really know It's apropos for this weekend. When I was a kid, Labor Day was the last big summer blast before heading back to school. For many now, it's the first holiday of the school year, which has already begun.

Back then, rather than (or in addition to) a "Business Section" with news of mergers, acquisitions, and stock and commodity prices, the local paper had a section called "Labor News".

This was a time when, whether bluecollar assembly-line worker or whitecollar aircraft designer, one-in-five American workers were union members. The dominant class in America was the middle-class, where the single income of a blue-collar worker could buy a home, send a kid to college and take the family on summer vacations with the promise of a secure pension for a comfortable retirement. They read the Labor News to follow the efforts of their and others' unions to help maintain and raise that standard - with the American economy the envy of the world.

At least by high school we would've learned about John L. Lewis and the United Mine Workers, the Flint, Michigan auto workers' strike, Harry Bridges and west-coast longshoremen, the AFL-CIO and Samuel Gompers.

Gompers and his family came to America from London at the time of the Civil War, and settled in the Lower East Side of NYC. He was pulled out of school shortly after turning ten and put to work, like his Dad, in a cigar factory.

As he later put it, it took some doing, learning the proper way to roll a tobacco leaf. But once you got the hang of it, it became sort of automatic - allowing one to use the time to think, listen, sing, and talk about new ideas circulating as America adjusted to its post- (Civil) war

He joined the Cigarmakers' union at fourteen, and in his mid-twenties became head of their International Union. With the financial crises of righted and may not be the 1870s, he helped put together a reproduced without the system for using union dues to fund out-of-work, sick and death benefits for members. His goal was that "in time we may secure for every person in the trade an existence worthy of human beings."

This was a time when much of the labor movement was taken with imported European ideas like socialism and class warfare. When in the 1880s Gompers, then in his thirties, helped found and became the first head of the American Federation of Labor, he made it clear the purpose was not to combat capitalism. As he put it, "The worst crime against working people is a company which fails to operate at a profit."

It was a means to improve workers' lives, and he fought to protect non-violent options like strikes and boycotts in the face of violent attacks by mercenaries ("private detective bureaus") hired by employers.

The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters became the first major black-led union to receive a charter from the AFL in 1925 - the year after Gompers died. It was founded by A. Philip Randolph, who forty years later organized the March on Washington, featuring the Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr.

The union was formed by employees of the Pullman Car Company, which back in the 1890s had created a "company town" for employees in what is now part of Chicago. The homes workers lived in and the stores they shopped at were owned by the company. During the "Panic of 1893" wages dropped but living expenses and store prices stayed the same - and Pullman refused to meet with workers to discuss the low wages and 12-hour work days. Employees went on strike, and soon railroad workers throughout the country were refusing to handle trains pulling Pullman cars.

Pullman responded by having Pullman cars attached to trains carrying the U.S. Mail, forcing the federal government to step in. President Grover Cleveland dispatched 12,000 U.S. Army troops, and days later the strike ended with 13 strikers killed and 57 wounded. Partially in atonement and partially because of the political need to stay on the good side of the growing labor movement, President Cleveland latched onto an annual observance held by the Central Labor Union of New York (the first major integrated union), and six days after the strike ended pushed through a measure to make that observance a national holiday, "Labor Day".

For most of the hundred years since Samuel Gompers, the strength of unions helped grow the middle class by helping those in the lower classes rise into it. As union membership dropped In the first decade of the present century, however, census figures show that the median household net worth of the top 20% grew by 11% between 2000 and 2010, while the median net worth for all Americans

The question used to be how to grow and strengthen the middle class. Now it's how to keep those at the bottom from getting an increase in the minimum wage; even with a Goldman Sachs study showing states that increased their minimum wages as of last January 1 experiencing faster job growth than those that didn't.

Years ago, we aimed higher: establish a normal work-day, to take the children from the factory and workshop and give them the opportunity of the school and the play-ground. In a word, our unions strive to lighten toil, educate their members, make their homes more cheerful, and in every way contribute an earnest effort toward making life the better worth living."

- Samuel Gompers, 1912 Enjoy the Labor Day weekend

RICH Johnson POLITICS 2014, VOL. ONE

I realize it may be a bit premature to comment on the upcoming elections but hey, I promised I would try to tickle and entertain you this week. What could be a better venue?

I wonder how many of us will turn out to vote in November? After all, it is just what we would call "The Midterm Elections". It's not like picking a President or anything. And there aren't even Senators running for re-election. Ms. Boxer gets to spend millions in 2016 and Ms. Feinstein gets to spend millions in 2018 running for re-election. We do have a Governor's race.

In that race we have Jerry Brown running for re-election against Republican challenger Neel Kashkari. I wonder how many times a day Mr. Cashcarry, I mean Mr. Kashkari has to put up with that obvious play on his name? He is Indian, not to be confused with Native American, and his parent are from Kashmir, not to be confused with cashmere. He is also a Hindu American. There is another Hindu American in California politics: Ami Bera is our Congress person from the 7th District (that's Eastern Sacramento County). Two other Hindu Americans are challenging Mike Honda, not to be confused with Hindu, in California's 17th District (that's South San Francisco Bay area and into parts of the Silicon Valley). Democrat Ro Khanna, and Republican Vanila (never mind) Mathur Singh.

Since we are on the issue of Congress let's revisit my favorite political commentator, Will Rogers. Let's see what he had to say about our distinguished bi-cameral body of

As to why there are two bodies of legislators Mr. Rogers said,

"You see, in Washington they have two of these bodies, Senate and the House of Representatives. That is for the convenience of visitors. If there is nothing funny happening in one, there is sure to be in the other, and in case one body passes a good bill, why, the other can see it in time and kill it."

"If we took Congress serious, we would be worrying all the time."

"Our Senate always opens with a prayer, followed by an investigation. "A foreigner coming here and reading the Congressional Record would say that the President of the United States was elected solely for the purpose of giving Senators somebody to call a horse thief."

As to pork barrel spending, Mr. Rogers said, "The height of statesmanship is to come home with a dam, even if you have nowhere to put it."

On lobbyists, "California had a bill in to investigate lobbying, and the lobbyists bought off all the votes and now they can't even find the bill. Putting a lobbyist out of business is like a hired man trying to fire his boss."

"Hurray! Congress is to adjourn! Only four more days of the Congressional burglary of the Treasury!"

"Every newspaper in the United States runs what you say, even if you don't say anything. Look at the President. Every paper was full of what he didn't say."

It's amazing to this reporter the perception of the people toward our elected officials hasn't changed in all these years. The only shift has been the ever increasing invasion in our lives of the media.

I have a thought: Wouldn't it be nice if we had a law where the candidates could only discuss what they individually would do if elected and had to keep mum about

I particularly like that last quote. Might lessen the level of finger pointing and nastiness dominating cable and the social media.

What did the bugs do before I came? Gracious

Mistress Parsonage

of the and Yours Truly finally exercised our right to a vacation and planned for a whole week to spend with our son and his family. Preparing for a week vacation takes about six weeks prior to the vacation and then six weeks after the vacation to get caught up. I do not know how people take vacations all

It was to be a great week of relaxing and spending time with our son and his family in the state of Ohio. Ohio is remarkable for a lot of things but when my wife and I think of Ohio we think of one thing: our grandchildren.

remarked that Someone once grandchildren was God's way of apologizing for our children. Maybe that is so, I do not know. If so, I gladly accept His apology. All I know is it is wonderful to spend time with grandchildren. The important thing about being a grandparent is discovering the skills necessary to adequately spoil your grandchildren within a week's time frame. Secretly, my plan is to get back at my children for their childhood in my home by spoiling my grandchildren in their home.

Revenge is sweet and wonderful. It was about the middle of the week and my wife and I were sitting outside enjoying the cool weather. All of the grandchildren had been snuggled down into their beds for the night. It certainly is tiring to spend the day with grandchildren who have no shortage of energy and whose tongue is a well oiled machine and does not know how to be quiet.

Our ears were still tingling from the day's childish verbiage extravaganza.

We were sitting in the backyard sipping some hot coffee, enjoying the quiet evening when I heard this buzzing sound on the left side of my head. Automatically my hand swatted in that area and I went on drinking my coffee as though nothing had happened. I thought perhaps the kids were still up or maybe it was a flashback from the afternoon.

My wife looked at me as though something weird happened, but we continued enjoying the evening atmosphere with only the soothing sounds of sipping coffee.

Then I heard the buzzing sound again. This time it was on the other side of my head and as I swatted I began to realize what was happening. All of the bugs in the state of Ohio had received a memo that I was vacationing in the state. In well organized shifts they began the welcoming process. Within a short time I was swatting bugs with both hands which did not seem to change the situation at

I know I am a sweet person, but this was becoming ridiculous. I would like to retain my sweetness for something other than bugs.

I am not quite sure how many bug bites I received that night, I stopped counting at 2,973,442 bites. I am not quite certain, but it was feeling more like it had exceeded 3 million bites. If I had a penny for every bug bite I would buy some very expensive bug repellent.

It seemed like they were working in shifts and it got to the point where my mind shifted into a murder scenario. Is it a crime to murder a bug who has bitten me so many times? Of course the real question is, is it really murder? Could it be considered a mercy killing?

And if it is murder, what is the penalty for murdering a bug? I was at the point that I would gladly have paid handsomely for the privilege of putting some bugs to

As a spiritually minded person, I wondered if bugs go to heaven when they die? If they go to heaven, do they continue to bite? And, would it be proper for an angel to swat a bug in heaven?

The mood I was in, after being bitten so many times by these lousy bugs, I had an opposite destination in mind. Since they like fire so much and are attracted to it, I would be glad to accommodate them. I know a place that would fit the situation quite well.

After two hours of fighting these stinking bugs, my sanity, as fragile as it is, was on the brink of collapsing. Once my sanity collapses I am not responsible for what I will do or say. It was hard to find a place on my body one finger wide where a bug had not tasted the delicacy of my

One question I reflected on was simply, what did the bugs do before I arrived? Did they save up all their energy for when I would come and visit? This is not the kind of celebrity status I am seeking. My preference is to be anonymous to all the bugs in Ohio.

All of these insects, whatever they were, were simply bugging me to death.

When I regained some composure, I thought about what it must have been like for Jesus to come into this world. The writer of Hebrews puts it this way, "So Christ was once offered to bear the sins of many; and unto them that look for him shall he appear the second time without sin unto salvation" (Hebrews 9:28).

So many things in this world bug me, but I have something greater to look forward to, a place called heaven.

September 1 - September 7, 2014

The Rouges Tavern is playing Wednesday night at 9:00 p.m. Released on June 4, 1936: During a dark and ominous night at the Rogues Tavern and Inn, there is a mad killer on the loose.

The Actors: Wallace Ford (Jimmy Kelly), Barbara Pepper (Marjorie Burns), Joan Woodbury (Gloria Robloff), Clara Kimball Young (Mrs. Jamison), Jack Mulhall (Bill), John Elliott (Mr. Jamison), Earl Dwire (Morgan), John Cowell (Hughes), Vincent Dennis (Bert), Arthur Loft (Wentworth), Ivo Henderson (Harrison), and Silver Wolf as himself.

This movie's advertising tag line is: Was it a Wolf, Dog or Fiend in Human shape? Several groups of visitors stop at a spooky hotel during a rain storm. When one of the visitors is murdered, the suspense begins. As others are murdered one by one, the mystery continues. The best part of this movie is seeing silent movie star Clara Kimball Young (Mrs. Jamison) in one of her few 'talkies'. During the height of silent movies, Clara was one of the biggest stars of all. Watch carefully during her speech near the end of the movie and you can spot a photo of a much younger Clara Kimball on the wall behind her. Not very scarry by today's standards, but very entertaining.
