Events like this allow Team members and the Air-5 crew to refine skills and build familiarity between SMSR members and the helicopter crew that is necessary to safely conduct mountain rescues. Training in a structured environment removes the variability and time constraints associated with an actual SAR operation. Personnel can easily discuss and practice techniques that are often called upon during rescues.

THE SPIRIT OF CHRISTMAS

recognized as Christmas? The scoffers and skeptics will testify that the enchantment of Christmas with the chatter of voices as a of our imagination and authored he made his way among the streets, in the same resourcefulness that brought Dickens' ghosts to life. If we are to concede that some of our most genuine moments of life nest in the power of dreams, than I think it is best that we should lothes?" The divine power of God never wake from the instruments of heaven's peace, where kindness penetrates the heart in a degree which no other activity is equipped to supply.

The world has never read a story as perfectly powerful as the story of Christmas. To suppose a belief that a simple prophet born to the lowly town of Bethlehem could flourish in importance during an age of Roman rule, is an obstacle to an idea that this is but a dream. Once acquainted with the fact that Jesus was never associated with another piece of information that violates the realms of logic. Jesus is contrary to all that we would anticipate from a famous figure in history. He is even deficient in chronicling his own life as he neglects to author a single line by his own hand, so this raises another question as to how such a story could inspire and endure for 2,000 years. One of the most intriguing aspects of Jesus is contained in the people who detailed his life. Not one of Jesus' biographers professes to be a writer, author or editor. His followers were simple men: identified as fishermen, a tax collector and a traveling doctor. Even Shakespeare in all his imaginative genius did not boast CraigHakola@aol.com the mental proclivity of fashioning a story as completely compelling as the life of Jesus. If there are miracles, more improbable than any of those performed by Jesus, it would be that such men of undecorated backgrounds could conjure up the greatest story ever As I reflect upon the power of

we have to do is touch him. The story of Christmas still astonishes those who are willing to recognize its meaning, and it remains just as powerful today as it was when angels called upon Bethlehem on that glorious night wealth or sought political power, is of antiquity. Christmas is not confined to a single day. It begins with our mind the first moment we establish a belief, and grows in our heart with each passing season. If there exists one verifiable truth in this world, then the thought of Christmas and Christ has added more light to this earthly realm than the dull lit fire of a distant sun. In the full reflection of God's birth and the wonder-filled meditation of a heavenly star, it is my heartfelt hope that you and your family know the power and peace of Christmas.

"You can't buy happiness, but you can buy ice cream and that's kind of the same thing!' "Ice cream is a happy business!"

Karen Klemmens, Mother Moo Creamery

Christmas is just a few days away. Next Thursday to be exact, and I think we're all kind of reaching the point – unless you're one of those people who does your shopping on Christmas Eve – where if it isn't done now, it's just not gonna happen. The tree is up, most of the presents are wrapped, the cards are in the mail and we have some idea of what we're going to have for dinner on Christmas day. I'm thinking ham, and some spiced apple cider, maybe sweet potatoes, and ice cream for

Speaking of ice cream, I spent a delightful hour in the Mother Moo Creamery, right there in the middle of Kersting Court. If you haven't been in there lately, and you still need a few stocking stuffers for special people, you'll be thrilled with what you find there. Everything at Mother Moo is organic, i.e., natural ingredients, and they make everything from scratch. Owner, Karen Klemmens had spent all morning making chocolate ice cream, always in small batches, as her ice cream maker works in increments of three gallons and requires her constant attendance.

Mother Moo Creamery has been an important part of Sierra Madre life for about three years now. Karen started out with a Journalism background and wrote for newspapers in the Chicago area. Realizing that she was ready for a life and career change and wanting to do something totally different, Karen went to Ice Cream School at Penn State where she immersed herself in: The Science Behind Ice Cream. Some months later she learned the business side of the ice cream business. Her three years in Sierra Madre have been a learning experience beyond anything she learned in school. For instance, Karen and the Creamery survived the windstorm of 2011! Remember? Early December and no power for days. Huge trees uprooted all over town. Karen stayed open, even without power for five days, made ice cream and made many new friends, too, as people came and came needing a little comfort food. After all, if your heart is broken, your plans have all collapsed or a tree has fallen on your house, ice cream does wonders.

The mystery of the missing cow, who used to stand in the planter outside Mother Moo's door has never been solved. But, once again, the community of Sierra Madre showed how nice most of us (except cow rustlers) are and rallied to Karen with cows of every size, color and description. This was a hard lesson for her son, who was then seven, as this was his first brush with stealing and he had a tough time trying to imagine why anyone would steal his very different from Thompson raisins, having much more open fiber so the flavors can saturate the raisins. Now there's something you didn't know! Here's another Mother Moo fact you probably don't know: Thanksgiving is their busiest time, much busier than 4th of Mother Moo Creamery was named 2014 Small Business of the Year for Senate District 25 and Karen went up to Sacramento last June to receive her award. Mother Moo was also named one of Los Angeles Top Ten Ice Cream Shops in 2013 by L. A. Weekly, and those are just two of the awards that have come to Karen. She is very proud of Mother Moo and the people who work with her. I met Emily, who is her pie baker, and Rebecca, who is her "everything" person, who also specializes in making marshmallows! Karen loves to teach and has had many classes there at her shop in canning and preserving, pie baking, Soda Jerk Camp - this is where local kids come to learn how to make ice cream, and not only make it, but devour as much as they want, but the sneaky side of Soda Jerk Camp is that they also learn all the math involved in ice cream, how much of various ingredients, the costs, how much goes into a pint, a quart and where the profit margin lies. Which, in the food industry is very small. Karen's employees love working with her and only leave to go away to college but they work at Mother Moo on their breaks.

That's loyalty! Look for Mother Moo's seasonal treats: Peppermint Stick, Candied Ginger, Peppermint Cookies & Cream and Karen had that smile of total satisfaction when she mentioned Salty Butter Caramel. Their cones are all house-made, all toppings made inhouse, and the ice cream is beyond delicious. mom's cow. I have a tough time with it, myself. Wednesday, December 10th

At 6:52 am, Sierra Madre Police responded to the 500 Block of Camillo Rd. regarding a residential burglary. Upon arrival, Officers were informed by the victim that the night before, she secured her residence but failed to lock her vehicle. Upon waking up the next morning, the victim noticed the garage door was open and the passenger door to her vehicle was left open. Upon investigating, the victim noticed the glove compartment was open and the paperwork was left scattered on the floorboard. The victim also noticed the garage door remote was missing. Upon investigating the garage, the victim noticed a circular saw and bicycle was missing. Estimated loss of property was $1,500. This case has been forwarded to the Detectives Bureau. At 8:51 am, Sierra Madre Police responded to the 1900 Block of Liliano Dr. regarding a residential burglary. Upon arrival, Officers were informed by the victim that the night before prior to going to bed, she secured her residence but failed to lock her vehicle. The following morning, the victim noticed her garage door was open. Upon investigating her vehicle, the victim noticed a pair of sunglasses were missing, along with the garage door remote. When the victim investigated the garage, she noticed the arear her roommate kept tools was visibly disturbed. This case has been forwarded to the Detectives Bureau.

At 4:33 pm, Sierra Madre Police responded to the 300 Block of Acacia St. regarding a residential burglary. Upon arrival, Officers were informed by the victim that the night before she parked her vehicle in the driveway at around 9 pm. Upon approaching her vehicle the next morning, she noticed her glove compartment was open and all of its contents had been scattered on the passenger seat and floorboard. No property was found to be stolen. The victim informed Officers she may have forgotten to lock her vehicle as she helped her husband out of the car the night before. This case has been forwarded to the Detectives Bureau.

Friday, December 12th

At 11:36 am, Sierra Madre Police responded to the station lobby regarding a vehicle burglary. Officers were informed by the victim that on the night of Wednesday the 10th, he parked his vehicle in his driveway. On Friday morning, he returned to his vehicle and realized it had been burglarized. The suspect indicated various items from his vehicle were missing, along with a drug prescription. The victim's property has security cameras, which allowed Officers to review the tape for any evidence. The tape revealed an unknown vehicle parking in front of the victims vehicle, blocking the driveway. A passenger, described as Male Hispanic or White with average build with a height of around 6 feet, exits the vehicle and gains access to the victims vehicle and spend less than 10 minutes within the vehicle. The suspect collects the stolen items and loads them into the vehicle. Both suspects flee the residence. This case has been forwarded to the Detectives Bureau.

Saturday, December 13th

At 11:39 am, Sierra Madre Police responded to the station lobby regarding a vehicle burglary. Officers were informed by the victim that the night before she parked her vehicle in her driveway at around 9 pm. The victim stated she left a baby gift on the passenger seat of her vehicle. The following morning, the victim went to her vehicle to retrieve the gift when she realized the gift was missing and her center console was open. The victim could not recall if she had in fact locked her vehicle but felt that she may not have as the vehicle showed no sign of forced entry. This case has been forwarded to the Detectives Bureau.

At 3:15 pm, Sierra Madre Police responded to the 300 Block of Grove Street regarding a vehicle burglary. Officers were informed by the victim that the night before, she parked her vehicle in her driveway, and her husband parked his behind her. The following day, when the victim entered her vehicle, she noticed that it had been rummaged through. At 3:51 pm, Sierra Madre Police responded to the 200 Block of Grove Street regarding a theft report. The victim informed Officers that the morning before, he removed two car seats and one stroller from his vehicle and left them on the driveway of his residence. The following morning the victim noticed the items were missing and confirmed with his wife that she did not have them. The estimated loss of property was set at $400. This case has been forwarded to the Detectives Bureau.

Sierra Madre Police Department would like to remind everyone to lock all vehicles upon exiting them, and remove any items of value from the vehicle each night.

Pasadena News Briefs

Appeal rejected from man charged with murdering girlfriend

A three member justice panel from California's 2nd District Court of Appeal rejected an appeal Tuesday from Corey Lavelle Green, convicted of murdering his girlfriend Maria Donnelly and setting her apartment on fire trying to destroy evidence.

Green confessed to killing Donnelly Sept. 30, 2011, after firefighters found her body during an apartment fire at 59 S. Meridith Ave. Green was arrested in December of that year.

The panel turned down the claim that a judge wrongly denied Green a last minute bid to represent himself as his own attorney.

Green maintained Donnelly's death accidental. He sentenced to 36 years to life in prison.

Hundreds Join March to Pasadena City Hall over Police Violence

Pasadena Police Chief Phillip Sanchez was among hundreds of people that took part in a march Sunday led by the Pastor of FAME, First African Methodist Episcopal Church of Pasadena, decrying policeinvolved killing of black men across the country.

Protesters carried signs, chanting "hands up don't shoot," and "I can't breathe."

Also among the crowd Councilmember Jacque Robinson and Anya Slaughter, the mother of Kendrec McDade, the teen fatally shot by Pasadena police in 2012.

The Pasadena police union filed an appeal last month blocking the release of a redacted report on the

The group also protested the two grand jury decisions that declined to indict officers, both in Yew York where Eric Garner, died of a heart attack after a police officer used a choke hold and in Ferguson, Missouri where police shoot 18-yearold Michael Brown.

Pet of the Week

Cleo is a 1-year-old female black and white shorthaired cat. She is relaxed and calm and enjoys attention. She is curious, and while she may be a little shy at first, she's affectionate once she warms up to you.

The regular cat adoption fee is $70 which includes the spay or neuter surgery, microchip, vaccinations, and a free follow-up health check at a participating vet.

New adopters will receive complimentary health and wellness exam from VCA Animal Hospitals, as well as a goody bag filled with information on how to care for your pet.

CITY BANS SMOKING AT ALL PUBIC LIBRARIES

By Dean Lee

The city council voted unanimously in favor of adding no-smoking on the grounds of all city-owned libraries to an already existing Pasadena municipal code banning smoking in all public parks. The city attorney will return the new ordinance within 60 days.

Pasadena Public Library Director Jan Sanders said the ordnance would broaden no-smoking now in effect at some city libraries.

'We had the ordinance in effect at the La Pintoresca Branch because that is considered park land and it's in the park so are several other libraries,"she said. "And so keeping the smokers away, it does interfere with the people coming in and out of the libraries."

Sanders said the new ordinance make all libraries uniform. She said it was a "right to clean air" as well as a litter issue.

During the meeting Councilmember Victor Gordo asked about signage at the libraries worried that if signs were not visible they enforcement.

would lead to problems similar to no smoking rules at the city's parks.

"I'm getting complaints in my district, of not just smoking cigarettes but other substances as well, at Robinson Park and Washington Park."

Gordo said he was also concerned with enforcement as well as signs.

City Manager Michael Beck said that at some parks they added full time security; he said they are looking at using Pubic Works Security Rangers and the Health Department to beef up

COUNTY CALLS ON CITIES, AGENCIES, COLLEGES & BUSINESSES TO EXPAND EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES FOR FOSTER YOUTH LOS ANGELES COUNTY

To provide young people in foster care with the opportunity to continue their education and find meaningful employment, the Board of Supervisors unanimouslyapproved a motion by Supervisors Michael D. Antonovich and Sheila Kuehl to engage each of the County's 88 cities, public agencies, and the business community to adopt programs similar to those the County has successfully developed. In approving the motion, Supervisor Hilda Solis included employment opportunities at local community colleges and Michael D. Antonovich universities.

"The Board of Supervisors initiated the County's Career Development Internship program to provide transitional-aged foster youth with structured on-the-job training and employment within County departments," said Antonovich. "Our next step is to reach out to each of our cities, public agencies, local colleges and the business community to encourage them to develop similar programs. These opportunities are vital in our effort to help young people gain the skills needed to transition to successful and productive lives."

Among the agencies the County will engage in the outreach effort are the Metropolitan Transit Authority, the Southern California Air Quality Management District, the Ports of Los Angeles and Long Beach, Metrolink, Southern California Association of Governments, local community colleges and universities, as well as business groups and private companies.

COFFEE AND CONVERSATION WITH AUTHOR, MARISELA ADAMS

Duarte have 'Coffee and the last week I had "Coffee and Conversation" with local author Marisela Adams, whose recent Breaking Faith trilogy has been well received. But she has worn "other hats".

Marisela was born in Palau, Mexico. At age two, her family moved to Texas, so she considers herself a very patriotic American citizen-this is where she grew up. However she is very proud of her Hispanic background and loves the culture.

While she was in college, she met James Roland Adams, her husband, a financial planner. He was the student manager for college students and it was "Hate at first sight". But he asked her out anyway and all these years, they have had a great romance; they have two grown children and four very bright grandsons. Her husband Jim, a pilot and photographer encouraged Marisela to pursue her love of writing.

When Marisela was about twenty, her family moved to California for higher education opportunities. Marisela loved to write and has done so since childhood. But there's no guarantee of success. She pursued teachingearned a degree/credential, taught Spanish and English Literature at Sierra Vista HS, Baldwin Park and had no discipline problems. Although successful in the classroom, she felt a need to help students. After earning a credential and Master's in Counseling, she began her second Marisela enjoyed working as a counselor, but with encouragement from her husband, she realized it was time to stop and pursue writing. Throughout the years she had been writing novels, but had to "clean them up' for publishing. She has written in all genres-romance, science fiction and murder mysteries. The Breaking Faith series takes place in Louisiana. Her husband flew her down to Lafayette, they drove down the Bayou, and met a cop, who took them to a "perfect place" for a murder! (Its picture is the front cover of her book. The Faith Betrayed

Trilogy begins with Faith Betrayed. The second book is Ashes to Ashes, Dust to Dust. The third book is Death's Mask.

Marisela has also written non-fiction such as a counselor manual for parents and teachers. She mentioned a wonderful English teacher who inspired her at eight years old, and a teacher Miss Pincheau also encouraged her.

When I mentioned my teaching career and the thrill of seeing former students grown up and doing well, Marisela asked me to tell her former students she would love to hear from them. They may contact her through www.roamncecalling. com Also it's a great way to learn a lot more about a great lady and purchase a good book to enjoy in front of a cozy fireplace!

December 14 at 1:57 p.m., \hat{a} male was seen walking south in the 100 block of South Myrtle and appeared to be heavily intoxicated, staggering back and forth slowly as he walked. Officers detained the subject and determined his was too intoxicated to care for his own safety; he was arrested.

Petty Theft - Suspect Arrested December 14 at 5:29 p.m., a female was detained at a store in the 1600 block of South Mountain by store loss prevention. She had entered the store and stole bathroom items, knowing she did not have enough money to pay for them. Officers arrived and accepted the store's private person's arrest. The female was issued a misdemeanor citation at the store, then released on a citation pending court appearance.

Domestic Battery – Suspect Arrested December 14 at 6:23 p.m., dispatch received several calls reporting a disturbance in the 700 block of West Foothill. Police then received a 911 call from a female, believed to be the victim, who reported her husband had just beaten her up. Officers responded and determined this was an ongoing marital dispute. The female was taken to a hospital for complaint of pain to her back. The husband was arrested for domestic violence.

Mental Evaluation

December 15 at 5:58 a.m., a caller reported an erratic driver in the 200 block of South Myrtle to police. Officers responded and found the subject in the vehicle. After speaking with the subject, it was determined he was a danger to himself and others. He was placed on a mental evaluation hold and taken to a hospital, where he will be held for 72 hours.

ALVERNO HIGH SCHOOL DEFEATS GLENDALE IN FIRST NON-CONFERENCE GAME OF SEASON JAGUARS DEFEAT NITROS 1-0

Sierra Madre, CA (December 8, 2014) - The Alverno High School Jaguars broke in their new uniforms on a rainy December 3 afternoon against the Glendale Nitros for their first non-conference game of the season. Control of the ball went back and forth between the two teams for the first half. The Jaguars first opportunity to score came late in the first half as Junior forward Emma Cavender pressured the Nitros goalkeeper.

Coach Ken Berry made adjustments in the second half to add more speed to the offense. Senior defender Olivia Rivas was moved to forward and freshman defender Jazmin Rebollo was moved to outside-mid. Rivas scored late in the second half. Freshman Subrina Hamdan defended well in front of the goal and freshman goalkeeper Ayanna Melin made a save from a Nitros corner kick to preserve the lead.

ALVERNO HIGH SCHOOL ANNUAL CANDLELIGHT CELEBRATION REMAINS A CHRISTMAS TRADITION

Candlelight Celebration included choral performance and a live reenactment of the Nativity

Sierra Madre, CA (December 18, 2014) - On Wednesday, December 17, Alverno High School hosted its annual Candlelight Celebration at the Villa del Sol d'Oro on campus. Candlelight Celebration, an annual Christmas tradition at Alverno, celebrates the Christmas story through a live reenactment beginning with the Annunciation and concluding with the Birth of Christ.

Upon arriving on campus, guests were be provided with a candle and led to south side of the Villa where the procession began with an introduction by the President and Vice-President of the Alverno Student Union and a tableau depicting the Annunciation of Mary. Guests were then led around the Villa making several stops on their own journey to "Bethlehem" including seeing Mary visit Elizabeth, the first stop at the Inn in Bethlehem, the arrival of Mary and Joseph at the stable, the birth of Jesus, and the visit from the shepherds and wise men. Each stop signified an important part of the Christmas story and guests were invited to join in Christmas carols led by the Alverno choir at each stop.

Once guests had reached "Bethlehem" on the north side of the Villa, they enjoyed two dance performances Alverno's dance students before being invited into the Villa for a final choral performance by both students and alumnae. A festive reception in the Villa followed the procession and performances.

"Candlelight is a time-honored tradition at Alverno that brings our entire community together," said Julia V. Fanara, Head of School. "It is a wonderful way to commence the Christmas season and remind us of the true meaning of the holiday. This event is an opportunity for Alverno to wish all of our friends, family, and community members a wonderful Christmas season."

THE REEL DEAL: by Ben Show EXODUS: GODS AND KINGS

The first trailer that I saw for this film made it look like the 'Lord of the Rings: Return of the King' of Bible movies; it looked very epic. The scope of the movie was huge and it looked very action packed. So, I went into the theater with high expectations.

'Gods and Kings' tells the story of Exodus: Moses (Christian Bale) discovers that he is in fact a Hebrew and is chosen by God to lead his people out of Egypt, which is currently ruled by his brother Ramses (Joel Edgerton). This movie covers everything from Moses' exile, crossing the Red Sea, and the creation of the Ten Commandments.

'Gods and Kings' is a very poor rebelling of the Exodus stories. The visuals are on the level of 'Return of the King' and the production value was obviously very high, but this film is hindered by a very, very weak script, which makes the film move very slowly. 'Gods and Kings' is not a bad movie but it is also not a good movie; it is two and a half hours of gorgeous looking empty shell of a movie.

BEST BURGER AND SPARKLING WINE TIPS

My favorite burger experience is Slater's 50/50, not only do they make arguably the best burger in town, the whole experience is one I look forward to. I have been there three times and Slater's has delivered each and every time. What is a 50/50? It's a burger made of half ground beef and half bacon. On my most recent visit I opted to go all beef. I ordered from the Design It Yourself menu where you pick the size of the burger (from 1/3 lb to 1 a full pound), bread, cheese, toppings, and sauce. I got the 1/3-lb burger on the thick sliced rye bread with pickle chips and roasted red peppers, accompanied by a Munich Pilsner beer -- this kid was in heaven. This burger is truly one that I would go out for and save the time of firing up the BBQ. On this visit I also enjoyed the fried dill pickle chips. The only item that isn't five stars is the french fries. Before you think I'm going soft here, the fries do come with a tangy Slater Ketchup that is good, but with all the work they have done on the burger, a freshly cut order of fries probably would have made me think

I was at Spagos.

The service at the bar, where I usually do my best eating, was top notch. Bartender George greeted us with a handshake and a hello and asked if it was our first time at Slater's. 45N. Baldwin Ave. Sierra Madre Ca, 91024 (626)355-1596

INGREDIENTS

- 1 pound farfalle pasta
- 2 tablespoons unsalted butter
- 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
- 2 cups milk
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon black pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg
- 1 pound white cheddar cheese, shredded (about 4 cups)
- 1 package (10 ounces) frozen peas, thawed
- 1/2 pound finely diced smoked ham (such as Cumberland Gap)

DIRECTIONS

- 1. Heat oven to 350 degrees . Coat $13 \times 9 \times 2$ -inch baking dish with nonstick cooking spray. Cook pasta in lightly salted water following package directions, about 12 minutes. Drain.
- 2. While pasta is cooking, melt butter in a medium-size, heavy-bottomed saucepan (not nonstick) over medium heat. Stir in flour until well blended; cook 1 minute. Whisk in 1 cup of milk and cook, whisking continuously, until smooth. Whisk in remaining 1 cup milk and continue to cook, whisking until thickened and smooth, about 5 minutes. Remove from heat; stir in salt, pepper and nutmeg. Whisk in 2 cups of the cheese until smooth.
- 3. In a large bowl, mix together the pasta, cheese sauce and 1 cup of the remaining cheese. Stir in the peas and ham. Pour into prepared baking dish. Scatter remaining 1 cup cheese evenly over the top.
- 4. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes or until bubbly. Remove from oven; allow to cool 10 minutes. May be served warm or at room temperature.

During a recent conversation with a client of mine, she told me about an animal rescue group that I immediately became intrigued with. I was actually quite surprised that I had never before heard of the organization, as they are located here in Southern California, and have been in operation for 34 years. Because animals are such a big part of my life, I spend lots of time researching rescue groups, and I support as many as I can, so I was surprised that I'd never come across this amazing sanctuary

Living Free Animal Sanctuary is a 501(c)3 nonprofit organization that I feel is uniquely worthy of support because of their commitment to rescuing otherwise euthanized pets from high-kill shelters and promising them a loving home outside of a cage for the duration of their lives. There are many non-profits that rescue animals and work hard at finding them homes through foster and adoption programs. However, due to limited space and resources, the animals are often kept in cages with no guarantee of a forever home where they can roam freely and receive all the love and attention they need. This is why I was so pleased to hear about Living Free.

Founded in 1980, Living Free Animal Sanctuary was among the first privately funded, no-kill sanctuaries to rescue dogs and cats from imminent shelter euthanasia. The sanctuary's founder, Emily Jo Beard (1923-1989), was strongly passionate in her belief that freedom, reverence and justice should prevail for all life, not only for human-kind, and that philosophy is what drove her to carry out her mission. Beard understood that the human's position of "dominion" over animals means guardianship and stewardship, versus power and tyranny. Inspired by the beliefs of Albert Schweitzer, and with a goal to provide hope and dignity to animals, she chose to devote her life to the cause.

Today, the staff and volunteers at Living Free Sanctuary continue to carry out Emily Jo Beard's original mission with equal compassion. Located at 54250 Keen Camp Rd. in Mountain Center, CA off highway 74, the sanctuary offers animals a gorgeous setting in the San Jacinto Mountains. except Wednesday, for visitors to come and see the and let live - freely!

good work they are doing with the animals. They also hold various fundraisers throughout the year, allowing donating supporters the opportunity to socialize and enjoy good food and entertainment, all on behalf of the

Currently, Living Free has a project underway to renovate and expand existing facilities that will allow for more optimal care of the younger furry four-legged friends they take in. As we all know, puppies and kittens have unique needs that require more specialized attention than that of adult dogs and cats, and the good folks at Living Free recognize what it takes to accommodate those particular needs. The newly renovated facility will provide a safe haven where the babes will be cared for as they grown into mature, less dependant

As part of their endeavor to raise necessary funds for their current renovation project, Living Free is planning a fund raiser to be held at the Heather James Gallery in Palm Desert. The exact date is yet to be announced, but it will definitely take place sometime in January or February of 2015. Be sure to visit their website at HYPERLINK "http://www.living-free.org/"www. living-free.org for more information, and to get the confirmed date for the fund-raiser. You can also follow them on Facebook, to read updates about their activities and to view adoptable pets. I personally enjoyed perusing their website, and found it very easy to make a "click-and-pay" donation using my Paypal account. Donations can also be made on-line with a credit card, or by mailed check.

Those of you who read my column regularly, know how strongly I feel about adopting and not shopping for pets. While Living Free ensures a life-long, loving home for the animals they take in, they also make it their mission to find loving adoptive homes for the animals they rescue. So, if you think you are ready to share your life with a precious pet, that might be something for you to consider. For obvious reasons, the folks at Living Free are very selective when it comes to placing their animals into forever homes, but in my mind, that just proves that they truly care about the animals they assume responsibility for.

I have often dreamed of starting an animal sanctuary myself, but so far my life's path has not taken me there. Meanwhile, I am pleased to have the opportunity to play an important role in giving animals a second chance at life with the resources I am able to share, and I hope to inspire other animal lovers to do the same. The domestic pets that are under our "dominion" need us to help them find their way in life, so let's all do our part to make that happen for them. I trust you will do They are open to the public 11am-4pm daily what you can to help out, and as I always say - love

LOOKING FOR A BEST FRIEND??

To sit by the fireplace waiting for Santa? Luna is an adorable Chihuahua mix girl, about 8 years old and weighing 6 pounds. She has a sleek, shiny black coat that is very short and easy to care for. She has white tips on all four paws that make it look like she is wearing little shoes. She is larger than most Chihuahuas, and has very long slender legs, so she has some other breeds mixed in her ancestry.

Luna has calm, gentle energy and is very easy to walk on leash. She has a dainty prance and is light on her feet. She likes to explore and sniff her surroundings, and also enjoys relaxing and rolling on the grass for a belly rub.

Luna loves people and is an affectionate dog who loves cuddling in a lap. She likes the company of other dogs, but prefers those who do not have a high

PET OF THE WEEK Jesso: Animal ID #A3591759

Meet the cutest pup in town, Jesso (A3591759)! Jesso is a loving 10-year-old white-and-tan altered male Shih Tzu whose owners left him at the Baldwin Park Animal Care Center on December 10th because they felt Jesso was "too old." Jesso may be a senior, but that's no real drawback: Seniors make outstanding pets! Weighing 16 lbs, Jesso has many of the desirable assets typical of senior dogs: He already knows how to walk perfectly on leash, is well-socialized with people and other dogs, and has a calm, relaxed energy. Jesso loves to be out and about to meet new people and dogs, and is also happy to spend the day lounging at home. He does seem to have dry eyes that should be evaluated by a vet to see if he needs eye drops. Jesso will be a fantastic indoor pet and best friend for anyone looking for a calm, wise pet, and he will repay you for giving him the good life in his golden years with his wonderful loyalty and humorous antics. To watch a video of Jesso, please visit the following link: http://youtu. be/SBm3p9b9e2Q

To meet Jesso in person, please see him at the Baldwin Park Shelter, located at 4275 N. Elton, as well as the many dogs of all breeds, ages, and Baldwin Park, CA 91706 (Phone: 626-430-2378 or 626-962-3577). He is available now. For any inquiries about Jesso, please reference his animal ID number: A3591759. The shelter is open seven days a week, 12 pm-7 pm Monday-Thursday and 10am-5pm Friday-Sunday. This is a high-intake shelter with a great need for adoptions. For more information about Jesso or the adoption process, contact United Hope for Animals Volunteer Adoption Coordinator Samantha at Samantha@ hope4animals.org. SEAN'S SHAMELESS REVIEWS: BIRDMAN OR (THE UNEXPECTED VIRTUE OF IGNORANCE)

By Sean Kayden

2014 comes in the form of Alejandro González

Iñárritu's "Birdman." Michael Keaton stars as Riggan, a one-time A-list movie star that's attempting to recapture his glory from twenty He's washed-up and is trying to overcome his ego and family distress as his play, which he adapted, directed and starring in is about to be underway. A colorful list of actors round up the cast including Zack Galifianakis, Naomi Watts, Emma Stone, Amy Ryan, and Edward Norton. On paper, Birdman may not seem all that original, but you have to see it to believe the true wonder of it all. Supplying one of the finest ensembles of any motion picture this year as well as the best camera work I've seen all year, "Birdman" truly sets itself apart from the majority of films released this year. The one-two mighty punch of the Michael Keaton and Edward Norton combo alone is easily worth the price of admission. Fortunately, there's so much more than just that to astound you.

Riggan's play, "What We Talk About When We Talk About Love" based on the story by Raymond Carver is going to be a disaster. Various calamities keep occurring in the production. To avoid even further setbacks, they decide to still roll out with the scheduled previews. As Riggan is trying to come to terms with his own existence, he seems to being living in two realms at once—the current one and his past (with the Birdman character being his alter ego). His present reality consists of battling it out with Mike, the new actor that comes on board right before the first preview. Mike, portrayed by the electric Edward Norton, was to replace another actor who is out of commission due to an accident A supporting actor nomination is practically guaranteed. In addition, Emma Stone plays Riggan's daughter/personal assistant, who is out of rehab for drug use. She and her father aren't on Grade: 5 out of 5

The most original film of the best of terms, which has Riggan contemplating if he was actually a decent father all these years. "Birdman" explores the inner depths of what it means to be relevant, important, and noticed. In the world we live in that is rapidly changing and expanding, how long can one hold onto relevance? years ago with his own Broadway production. In fact, most are trying to obtain it, let alone hold onto it for as long as they can.

The way the movie was filmed gives the illusion it was one continuous shot. Obviously the editing is magnificent. Needless to say, this film should take home the film editing, sound editing, and cinematography awards at next year's Oscars. I've never seen such a film with so many close-ups on the actors. You honestly feel right there behind the scenes of a real Broadway play. Things become even more surreal and unconventional in the third act when Riggan hits rock bottom. He's having a meltdown and his comic book character persona a.k.a. alter ego only drives him closer to the edge. As for the ending, the film leaves the audience to their own interpretation. Love it or hate it, it should still be considered an all around original conclusion to a superbly crafted motion picture. The film is also quite humorous, dark, and surprisingly heartfelt. Beautifully shot, spectacularly acted, marvelously executed from screenplay to screen, "Birdman" on set. He is absolutely on fire with this character. takes flight right from the beginning and soars its magical wings for the entire two-hour duration. What a ride!

THE CHRISTMAS BOX

by Richard Paul Evans

More than 7 million people have been touched by the magic of The Christmas Box, a holiday classic that is as beloved in our time as A Christmas Carol was in Dickens's. The Christmas Box was intended it as a private expression of love for his two young daughters, Jenna and Allyson. Though he often told them that he loved them, he didn't feel that they could ever really understand the depth of his feelings until they had experienced the joy of rearing their own children, and by that time their relationship would have changed forever. In writing The Christmas Box, he hoped that at some time in the future they would read the book and know of their father's love. He was amazed at the inspiration that flowed into his mind and heart. He completed the moving story of a widow and the young family who comes to live with her in less than six weeks, and bound twenty copies to give as Christmas presents to family and friends. Those twenty copies were shared and passed along from family to family, from friend to friend, and what began as a tale for two little girls became a message of miracles, hope, and healing for people throughout the world.

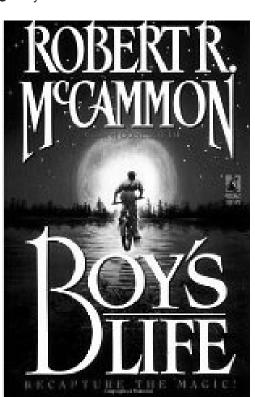

BOY'S LIFE by Robert McCammon

of many) from bestselling award-winning author Robert McCammon, in a book that Publishers Weekly calls "both a mystery that will satisfy the most finicky aficionado and a boisterous travelogue."Zephyr, Alabama, is an idyllic hometown for eleven-year-old Cory Mackenson—a place where monsters swim the river deep and friends are forever. Then, one cold spring morning, Cory and his father witness a car plunge into a lake—and a desperate rescue attempt brings his father face-to-face with a terrible vision of death that will haunt him forever. As Cory struggles to understand his father's pain, his eyes are slowly opened to the forces of good and evil that are manifested in Zephyr. From an ancient, mystical woman who can hear the dead and bewitch the living, to a violent clan of moonshiners, Cory must Eddie's dark and painful journey on the road to confront the secrets that hide in the shadows of his hometown—for his father's sanity and his own life hang in the balance.

THE CHRISTMAS SWEATER

by Glenn Beck

Radio and television host Glenn Beck delivers an instant holiday classic about boyhood memories, wrenching life lessons, and the true meaning of the gifts we give to one another in love. If You Biggest Regrets, Sorrows and Mistakes...Would important in them.

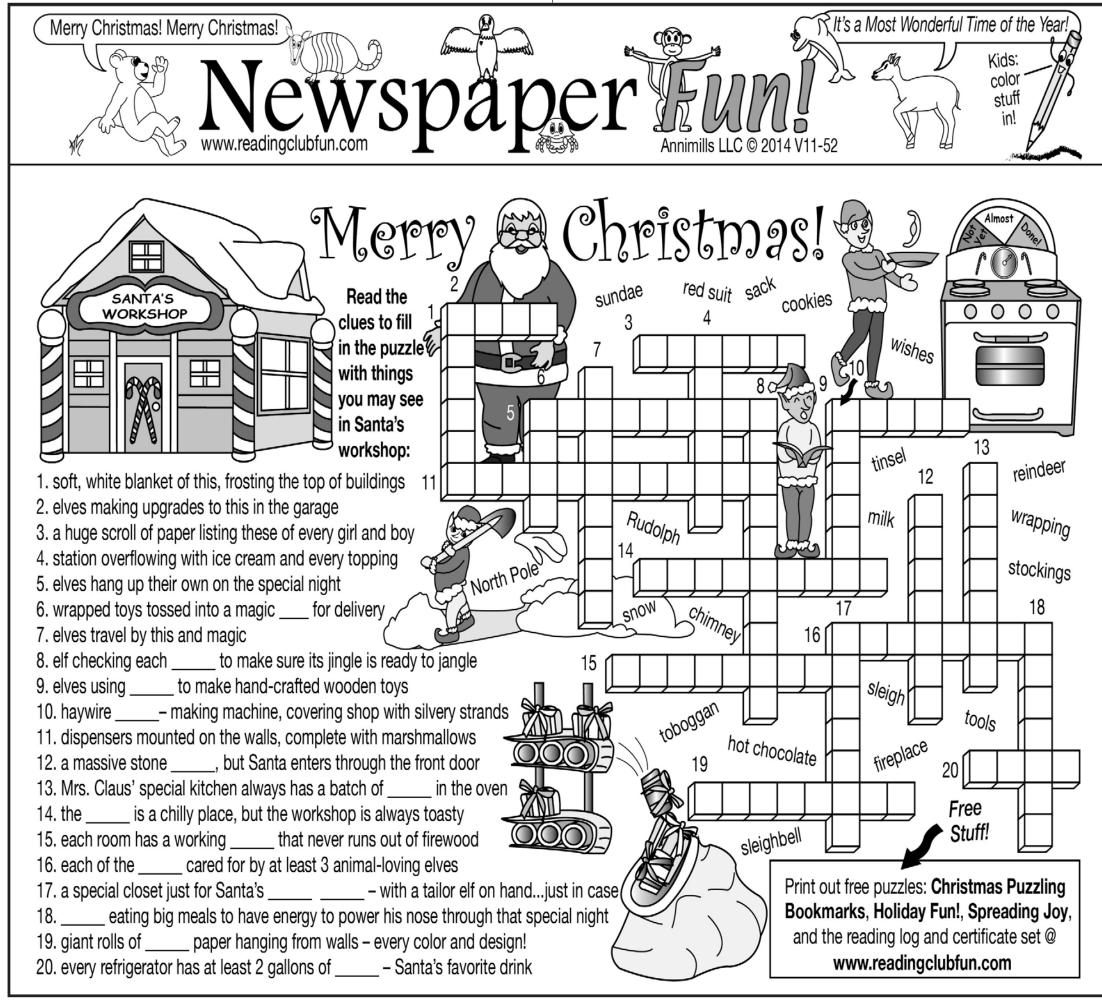

Don't miss this wonderful novel(a favorite book You? We weren't wealthy, we weren't poor -- we just were. We never wanted for anything, except maybe more time together....When Eddie was twelve years old, all he wanted for Christmas was a bike. Although his life had gotten harder -- and money tighter -- since his father died and the family bakery closed...Eddie dreamed that somehow his mother would find a way to have his dream bike gleaming beside their modest Christmas tree that magical morning. What he got from her instead was a sweater. "A stupid, handmade, ugly sweater" that young Eddie left in a crumpled ball in the corner of his room. Scarred deeply by the realization that kids don't always get what they want, and too young to understand that he already owned life's most valuable treasures, that Christmas morning was the beginning of manhood. It will take wrestling with himself, his faith, and his family -- and the guidance of a mysterious neighbor named Russell -- to help Eddie find his path through the storm clouds of life and finally see the real significance of that simple gift his mother had crafted by hand with love in her heart.Based on a deeply personal true story, The Christmas Sweater is a warm and poignant tale of family, faith and forgiveness that offers us a glimpse of our own lives -- while also Could Change Your Life by Reversing Your making us question if we really know what's most

THE JOY OF YOGA KEEPING UP YOUR PRACTICE

Maintaining a state of balance is hard enough during the regular months of the year, let alone during the holidays. Yet, it's during this time that we need our yoga practice the most! In fact, making room in the schedule for our practice is what can give us more energy to do all we need to. Feeling centered and balanced is what allows us to be present in each moment. So how, in fact, can we make room for our practice during one of the busiest times of the year?

Finding a specific time of day for a home practice is extremely helpful and effective. Whether you can commit to 5 minutes or 60 minutes, try and keep it consistent. There may be some days when only 5 minutes is possible, and other days when more is possible. If you have a meditation practice, make sure to do that no matter what. Keep it simple! A steady 5-minute everyday practice is better than 60 minutes once a week. The physical practice of yoga, or asana, is undeniably amazing, but the meditation practice can provide that lovely stability we crave. So, if you have to omit a part, keep the meditation.

When traveling to visit family or friends, bring your mat! There are very thin foldable travel mats that pack well in a suitcase. Upon arriving at your destination, opening your suitcase to find your yoga mat can only bring a feeling of comfort. Maybe there's a local yoga studio you might drop in on during your travels! Attending a class could provide the perfect break needed while staying with family.

There are many treats to enjoy and much visiting to be had during the holidays. Make it point to attend class and show the same spirit of giving with yourself. Acts of self-care and love, not only help us, but translate directly to the people whom we love the most. It's a win-win!

Much Love and Happy Holidays,

THE GOOD LIFE

WHO SHOULD BE SCREENED FOR LUNG CANCER?

What can you tell me about lung cancer screenings? My husband was a long-time smoker, but quit many years ago, so I'm wondering if he should be checked out. Concerned Spouse

Dear Concerned,

According to recent recommendations from the U.S. Preventive Services Task Force - an independent panel of medical experts that advises the government on health policies - if your husband is between the ages of 55 and 80, is a current smoker or quit within the last 15 years, and has a smoking history of at least 30 pack-years, he's at high risk for lung cancer and should talk to his doctor about getting screened.

Pack years are determined by multiplying the number of packs he smoked daily by the number of years he smoked.

You'll also be happy to know that lung cancer screenings – which are recommended annually to those at risk - will be covered by all private health insurance plans starting in 2015, and Medicare is expected to begin coverage this February or March. The Medicare screening, however, will only cover high-risk beneficiaries through age 74.

Lung cancer kills around 160,000 Americans each year making it the most deadly of all possible cancers. In fact, more people die of lung cancer than of colon, breast and prostate cancers

Lung cancer also occurs predominantly in older adults. About two out of every three people diagnosed with lung cancer are 65 or older, and the risk of lung cancer peaks at age 71.

Lung Cancer Screening

The goal of annual screenings is to detect cancer early before symptoms appear, so it can be cured. The five-year survival rate among people with lung cancer when it's caught in its earliest stage is 77 percent, versus only 4 to 25 percent for people whose cancer has spread.

To get screened for lung cancer, your husband will need a low-dose computed tomography (CT) chest scan, which is a painless, noninvasive test that generates detailed three-dimensional images of his lungs.

For the screening, he will be asked to lie on a table that slides through the center of a large, doughnut shaped scanner that rotates around him to take images. Each scan takes just a few seconds, during which time he'll be asked to hold his breath, because movement can produce blurred images. The entire procedure takes only a few minutes from start to finish.

You also need to be aware that a lung CT screening has its downsides. First, it exposes you to some radiation - about the same as a mammography but more that of a chest X-ray.

Lung CT screenings aren't foolproof either. They can produce a high rate of false-positive results, which means they frequently detect small spots (abnormalities) on the lungs that are suggestive of cancer but aren't cancerous. These false alarms lead to more testing and sometimes lung biopsies, as well as unnecessary worry and

Prevention

Because smoking causes 80 to 90 percent of all lung cancer cases, the best way to avoid lung cancer is to not smoke, and if you do smoke, quit. Even if you've been a smoker for a long time, quitting now still decreases your risk. Other factors that can increase the risk of lung cancer include exposure to secondhand smoke, radon, asbestos and other toxic chemicals or fumes.

For more information on lung cancer screenings, call the American Lung Association at 800-586-4872, or use their online tool (LungCancerScreeningSavesLives.org), which will help you determine if your husband needs to be screened.

Ahhh... Remember the good old days when life was simpler, and kids just wanted their two front teeth? While I'm not lusting after a new pair of upper incisors, I do wish I had fingernails, if only for a day. I don't want "glamour nails" with rhinestones. Nor do I want nails that are long enough to fit an intricate reproduction of the Sistine Chapel ceiling. Just normal, healthy-looking nails would be fine for me.

Since my early childhood, the ends of my nails have never extended beyond my fingertips. Of course this is entirely my fault, and I take full responsibility. You've heard of people who grind their teeth, pull out their hair, or engage in other compulsive behaviors. Well, I rip up my nails. I'm not proud of it, but it could be worse.

The only time I made a conscious effort to grow out my nails was for my wedding. And then, the only reason was because I knew our photographer fingernails (or lack thereof) betrayed the secret would take pictures of our hands wearing our rings. I used to think nail-biting (or nail decimation of any sort) was a sign of deep-seated some personality imbalance. Children might bite their nails, but adults are supposed to be above such things. Those were my thoughts until I met a very smart, very "puttogether" intern at our company. We'll call her Lois.

Lois was in the midst of grad school, a scary shadow land pitted with academic quick sand ready to swallow students whole. At least that's my memory of it. Nevertheless, Lois was composed, confident, and cool as a cucumber. She also came to work every day with flawless makeup and not a single coiffed strand of hair out of place. Sigh... I supposed that's how the other confident half lived --until I saw her fingernails.

Looking past her perfect hair and makeup, Lois's anxiety of all nail-biters. I never brought up nail

FAMILY MATTERS By Marc Garlett

'TIS THE SEASON FOR GIVING GIFTS: HOW TO DO IT RIGHT

There are so many things to love about this time of year. Holiday cheer and generosity of spirit flow freely. But if you're not careful, giving gifts could actually land you on the naughty list (at least the naughty list kept by the IRS). So here are some guidelines to follow when gifting to charity or even your own family members this

- Charitable Donation Rules

Household items. Unless you are donating an item with a value over $500 and have a qualified appraisal, household items must be in good condition or better to qualify for a deduction. And if the value of your donated items exceeds $250, you must have a written receipt from the charity that describes the items. If the total of your non-cash contributions exceeds $500, remember to complete Form 8283 and attach it to your tax return. Money. You must have a written receipt or bank statement for any donation of money to a charity, regardless of the amount. You can gift via cash, check, credit or debit card. If you donate via credit card in December, keep in mind that even if you don't actually pay it off until January, you can still take the deduction on your 2014 tax return. Also, if you donate via payroll deduction, you'll need a W-2 wage statement or other documentation from your employer that shows the total amount donated in 2014.

Qualified charity status. Only gifts to eligible charities qualify for a deduction. You can check the eligibility on the IRS website. - Family Gifting Rules

Annual exclusion. You are allowed to gift up to $14,000 in cash, property or other assets to any one person without having it count toward your lifetime gift tax exemption ($5.34 million). If you are married, you can donate up to $28,000 as a couple to as many people as you want, as long as the total given to each does not exceed $28,000. You do not even have to be related to the recipient. Plus, limits on gifts to spouses don't apply. Funding for college plans. Contributing to a child or grandchild's college education is a gift that keeps giving forever. Contributions to a Section 529 education savings plan can be made up to the annual exclusion amount of $14,000 ($28,000 for married couples). Money in these plans grows tax-free and is allowed to be withdrawn tax-free as long as the funds are used for educational purposes.

Other gifts. If you pay someone's tuition or medical expenses (including health insurance premiums) directly to the service provider, this will not count against your annual exclusion or lifetime gift tax exemption. As long as it is paid direct to the provider, you won't have to file a gift tax return.

By all means, be generous this holiday season. There's nothing better... except being generous AND availing yourself of the IRS tax advantages for charitable contributions and gifting. If you need advice on specific gifts or anything else, please give me a call.

CURIOSITY FINDS ACTIVE ORGANIC CHEMISTRY ON MARS

NASA's Mars Curiosity rover has measured a tenfold spike in methane, an organic chemical, in the atmosphere around it and detected other organic molecules in a rock-powder sample collected by the robotic laboratory's drill.

"This temporary increase in methane—sharply up and then back down-tells us there must be some relatively localized source," said Sushil Atreya of the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, a member of the Curiosity rover science team. "There are many possible sources, biological or non-biological, such as interaction of water and Researchers used Curiosity's onboard Sample Analysis at Mars (SAM) laboratory a dozen times in a 20-month period to sniff methane in the atmosphere. During two of those months, in late 2013 and early 2014, four measurements averaged seven parts per billion. Before and after that, readings averaged only one-tenth that level.

Curiosity also detected different Martian organic chemicals in powder drilled from a rock dubbed Cumberland, the first definitive detection of organics in surface materials of Mars. These Martian organics could either have formed on Mars or been delivered to Mars by meteorites.

Organic molecules, which contain carbon and usually hydrogen, are chemical building blocks of life, although they can exist without the presence of life. Curiosity's findings from analyzing samples of atmosphere and rock powder do not reveal whether Mars has ever harbored living microbes, but the findings do shed light on a chemically active modern Mars and on favorable conditions for life on ancient Mars.

"This first confirmation of organic carbon in a rock on Mars holds much promise," said Curiosity Participating Scientist Roger Summons of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Cambridge. "Organics are important because they can tell us about the chemical pathways by which they were formed and preserved. In turn, this is informative about Earth-Mars differences and whether or not particular environments represented by Gale Crater sedimentary rocks were more or less favorable for accumulation of organic materials. The challenge now is to find other rocks on Mount Sharp that might have different and more extensive inventories of organic compounds."

Researchers also reported that Curiosity's taste of Martian water, bound into lakebed minerals years ago, indicates the planet lost much of its history. water before that lakebed formed and continued to lose large amounts after.

SAM analyzed hydrogen isotopes from water molecules that had been locked inside a rock sample for billions of years and were freed when SAM heated it, yielding information about the history of Martian water. The ratio of a heavier hydrogen isotope, deuterium, to the most common hydrogen isotope can provide a signature for planet's history. in the Cumberland rock more than three billion comparison across different stages of a planet's

The ratio of deuterium to hydrogen has changed because the lighter hydrogen escapes from the upper atmosphere of Mars much more readily than heavier deuterium. In order to go back in time and see how the deuterium-to-hydrogen ratio in Martian water changed over time, researchers can look at the ratio in water in the current atmosphere and water trapped in rocks at different times in the

Martian meteorites found on Earth also provide some information, but this record has gaps. No known Martian meteorites are even close to the same age as the rock studied on Mars, which formed about 3.9 billion to 4.6 billion years ago, according to Curiosity's measurements.

CHRISTMAS CHEER By Christopher Nyerges

Memories of Christmas Season 2008

[Excerpted from Christopher's Kindle book, "Til Death Do Us Part?", available from Amazon or as a pdf from the Store at www. SchoolofSelf-Reliance.com.]

In the days after Dolores died I still spent my evenings with Nami and Fikret and Nellie (the little dog that Dolores boarded), cooking dinner, sharing dinner, talking over television. Both Nami and Fikret were living in rooms in the front part of the duplex. Nami was from Tokyo, working at a Japanese firm in downtown Los Angeles while she earned her CPA license. Fikret was a student from Germany who'd be going home in a few days.

That December was dark, pressing, my mind a constricted box of

A close friend had earlier suggested to Dolores that she take Nami and Fikret to see the annual Griffith Park festival of lights, and Dolores had mentioned it to Fikret. I brought it up to Fikret and he wanted to go. I think he was more concerned about me getting out and "getting normal" than he was about seeing some electric light display. Anyway, he arranged with Nami to go one evening after Nami got home from work, and I drove.

I had never seen the light show either, and though I was in no mood for "joy," I wanted Nami and Fikret to feel happiness, and the joy of the American Christmas season that the youth can best appreciate.

My mental state was very constrictive, narrow, even subdued horror. It was as if I'd been hit in the face with a 2x4, and I could not see beyond my shocked pain. But I tried, with great effort, to "enjoy" an evening out with Nami and Fikret as best I could. It was the weekend after Dolores died. Nami got home early from work, and it was already dark. Fikret made a very light meal - more of a snack – for everyone before we drove off to Griffith Park in my Jeep. I was preoccupied with now living a life turned upside-down, with no perception of light at the end of my tunnel.

Fikret and Nami were noticeably happy, upbeat, and they seemed to be happy to be doing something with me. Fikret had come on a few field trips with, but I'd only gone out rarely with Nami. I know they were both fully cognizant of my pain and I think they were being happy because they wanted me to be happy. To me, the lights of Griffith Park were a very minor attraction.

As we drove, we spoke about their day, and other light matters. I always enjoyed talking with Nami over dinner about what sort of day she had at work, and what new English words she learned. We drove into the large expansive parking lot east of the Los Angeles Zoo, and drove around until we saw where to park for the festival of lights. People parked their cars, and then boarded buses which set sail every 15 minutes or so, or until the buses were full. The three of us were the first to enter a bus, so we got the seats we wanted. A few adults filed in, and then a whole group of school children came in and filled the bus. The driver turned off the lights, and we were off down the two miles or so of the electric light display.

The children spontaneously sang Christmas carols at the tops of their voices. Nami and Fikret tried to follow along: Jingle Bells, Rudolph, Silent Night, all the classics. Mostly, the children sang enthusiastically and loud with lots of laughter for the first verse until the song faded as the children didn't know the words. After loud laughter, another song would begin.

I could tell they were all having great fun, though I was barely there. I had to shut off most of my painful feelings and emotions and turn on only that part of me that was needed for ordinary interactions with others. I was glad that there was so much happiness in the world, but I was in pain.

I was in a darkness of my own, alone, as if I was severely and suddenly cut off from all that was important to me. Which was, in fact, what happened. After the light show, we returned to the Jeep, and I drove on in a stupor. I asked Nami and Fikret if they wanted to see more Christmas lights, and they said yes. Christmas Tree Lane was impressive, but monotonous to me. Nami and Fikret just said "Oohh," and "Ahhh," and "Look at those, wow!" I tried to explain the history of Christmas Tree Lane, how I grew up just around the corner, and I drove by our family home on North Los Robles.

I didn't want to go home quite yet. "Going home" would mean that I would go back home alone, would sit there for awhile listening to music or watching TV, feeling the full grief of losing Dolores, by myself. It meant I would go to sleep with my grief, unable to find solace in music or TV. I would turn off the TV and music, and in the darkness I would fall into my abyss of sorrow until I awoke the next day. No, I didn't want to go home yet.

I told Nami and Fikret that I knew of another Christmas light display and we drove across town looking for it. We never found it, but they got a tour of East Pasadena and Sierra Madre before we stopped for some snacks and finally went home.

We then went into the front kitchen when we got home, and enjoyed some cookies and coffee. We all laughed together and we watched a little bit of a Christmas movie on TV. It was a good evening overall, but it would be a long time before I could feel joy again.

That was six years ago this December. Life goes on. I learned to love again, and I realized that one does not want to "forget," as we often hear. For me, it was a truly unique and special time to assist one in their final days. It made me feel the value of each day, of each breath, of each moment.

WINTER SOLSTICE YOGA WORKSHOP

Saturday, December 20: 9:00 – 10:30am

CANDÝCE COLUMBUS, INSTRUCTOR

$20 per workshop/$17 for Arboretum members (Fee includes Arboretum admission)

To register, please call the Education Office at 626-821-4623

The final month of the year often finds us in a frantic state of shopping, decorating, traveling and other high-energy activity. Yet, instead of having fun, we often end up feeling ill, anxious or depressed. The reason, according to Taoist philosophy and traditional Chinese medicine, is that the action-packed schedules we keep at this time of year fall out of sync with the earth's natural cycles. This workshop is designed to aid us through the next few weeks, helping us conserve and increase our energy and stay balanced and centered. It will be a lovely gift to give yourself!

Based on the ancient practice of Hatha Yoga we will combine asanas (yoga poses), pranayama (breathing exercises), mudras (healing yoga in the hands) and guided meditations chosen to help us flow with ease and grace into the next season.

PLEASE MEET IN FRONT OF THE MEMBERSHIP OFFICE AT 8:45am

A Weekly Religion Column by Rev. James Snyder

NAUGHTY IS AS NAUGHTY DOES

It is the time of the year when the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage is busy doing 101 things in as many directions: cookies to bake, presents to buy, Christmas cards to address and send and a thousand other things I probably am not aware of. My job is to make her job easier by staying out of her way.

Usually I am rather good at my job. It has taken many years to perfect my job and I am proud to say I have achieved somewhat perfection. But this week I was caught unawares.

During this time of year, I make it a practice to stay away from the kitchen area as much as possible. This past week, I do not know what I was thinking, but I went into the kitchen to pour myself a cup of coffee. On the surface, it looked rather innocent.

I finished pouring my coffee and turned to exit the kitchen area as quickly as possible when I ran into you know who.

"I'm so busy I was wondering if you might do me just a little favor." The seductive sound of her voice caught me off guard and I stopped and said the unthinkable. At the time I forgot that a "little favor" has nothing to do with "little."

"I will be glad to help anyway I can." After those words tumbled out of my mouth, I could not believe that it was me actually saying those words. In my right mind, I would never respond in that fashion.

'That's wonderful. I knew I could count on you."

I knew I was in some serious trouble. I did not quite know what kind of trouble I was in but I was going to find out in very short order.

"I don't have time to go to the shopping mall and pick up a certain item. I was wondering if you might do it for me? It would help me out so much and I would be so grateful."

I do not know any politician that has anything on my wife. She can smooth talk better than anybody I know. The only problem is, all the smooth talk was directed in my direction. How in the world, and I say this from a husband's perspective, can I turned

'You want me to go to the mall?" I said as carefully as I could, "you do know I don't like

"I know. If I don't get that item at the mall today, I'm going to be in serious trouble. You wouldn't want me to be in serious trouble, would you?'

In order for me to keep her out of serious trouble, I must put myself in serious trouble. "Okay," I said as dryly as possible. "I guess I can go to the mall and pick up that item for you. Just give me the details and I will be off." I was off, alright. Off my rocker and did not now when I would be able to get back on that rocker.

Then a thought came to me. "This will necessitate four apple fritters to give me the energy to do this little favor of

She looked at me with one of those looks that penetrated deep into my soul. 'Okay," I said with a nervous quiver, "how about three apple fritters?'

The stare intensified. I cleared my throat, picked up the keys to my vehicle and headed for the mall. A lot of things I do not like to do and this has to be at the top of that list. However, being the terrific husband that I am (I have no documentation proving this, just trust me) I put my

I got to the mall and found the store where I was to pick up the aforementioned items. I paid for them, which I did not know was part of the bargain, but a guy's got to do what a guy's got to do. Then I set my face like a flint toward the exit door.

Then I saw it. I had forgotten about this facet of the shopping mall at this time of the year. But there he was, Mr. Santa Claus in all of his ho, ho, ĥo-ness. It dawned on me at the time that he was the one responsible for knowing who is naughty or nice. This was my opportunity.

The line to sit on Santa's lap was finished and he was sitting there by himself. I took the opportunity to go up and greet him.

"Do you know me?" I asked him with the broadest smile I could slap on my face.

"No," he said thoughtfully, "I don't believe we've ever met."

"Well, do you know my wife?"

"No," he said, stroking his beard.

I flipped him a "thanks," as I turned around and headed toward a little bakery I knew had some apple fritters. Due to the sensitivity of the situation, the place will remain anonymous.

Eating my apple fritters I thought about what Solomon said, "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might; for there is no work, nor device, nor knowledge, nor wisdom, in the grave, whither thou goes" (Ecclesiastes 9:10).

It is not naughty unless someone connected with my wife sees me. Because I firmly believe, one person's naughty is another person's apple fritter. No names revealed.

THE NFL'S LOOMING CONCUSSION ISSUE

The National Football League (NFL) has a looming major problem and it is not domestic abuse. The NFL's major issue in the coming years will be the massive amount of concussions the players sustained while playing this popular American sport. I have written about NFL's players' issues with brain trauma in prior blogs, but recently I have been contemplating following up on my prior remarks. A few years ago, I intimated to a very good friend of mine that the NFL will probably be banned in the next 20 years. I am not a prophet, but the head injuries some of the game's greatest players have sustained have been my beacon light. Too many of these talented men are suffering debilitated lives after playing in the NFL.

Yesterday I was conversing with my colleague, Everett Glenn, an attorney and former Sports Agent who represented NFL players such as Hall Of Famers Richard Dent and Willie Gault, about NFL games. Everett has started a campaign to advocate for college students rights to receive pay for playing in the NCAA football program (I'll blog on that topic in another post). I told him that whenever I look at NFL games, recently, and observed a player being injured from severe contact with another player, I often wondered what will happen to the players after their careers are over in the NFL. Mind you, this is no way to watch and enjoy this high contact sport. But, since there is no such thing as a "mild concussion," there is no other way for me to surmise this issue while looking at NFL games on Sundays, Monday Nights and Thursday

Two weeks ago, I was chatting with two of my fraternity brothers, Anthony Samad and Lys Bovery, about NFL players' head injuries NFL. We all agreed that this was a major issue which is about to become front and center in the NFL, because too many NFL players in retirement are suffering from the injuries they sustained during their playing days in the NFL. Take for example Terry Tautolo, a former San Francisco 49ers linebacker, UCLA Bruin standout player and a 1981 49ers Superbowl Champion, his family has blamed his tragic decline and battle with substance abuse on the many concussion he sustained during his nine-year career in the NFL. Terry, one of the "first" Samoans recruited from college to play in the NFL, has spent a significant time of his retirement from the NFL in and out of homelessness. There are other players such as Ray Lucas of the New York Jets, Jim McMahon of the Chicago Bears and Lawrence Marshall of the New York Giants who have all been affected with head trauma from playing in the NFL.

I am not certain what is going to happen in the immediate future in the NFL, but this I can assume with 250, 000 young athletes being injured, from some form of head injury, every year playing football in the United States, it is sure going to be a huge task for the NFL to curb the concussions which playing in the NFL predicates. The players are giving so much joy to NFL fans year after year. It is only fitting they deserve to have lives full of dignity and enjoyment after their playing days in the NFL

HOW HARD DOES SANTA REALLY WORK ON CHRISTMAS?

Santa Claus does not get his due. I was reached by his Public Relations Department who asked me to help make the public aware of the sheer scope of his job. I am focusing on the tip of the iceberg so to speak. The days immediately surrounding

Though the data for this article was accumulated twenty years-four ago and should be adjusted for population growth, these 1990 numbers will give us a peek into Santa's Herculean efforts.

There are roughly 2 billion children under the age of 18 in the world. Fortunately for Santa, he need deal with only 15% of that number. He doesn't have the franchise to deliver Christmas presents to Muslim, Hindu, Jewish or Buddhist households. That leaves him responsible for roughly 378 million children or roughly 92 million

Traveling east to west and considering the time zones and rotation of the earth, Saint Nick has only 31 hours in which to deliver his gifts. Do the math and he has to visit 822.6 households per second (less if we discount the houses that have no children that have been good.) This gives Santa 1/1000th of a second to park, hop out of the sleigh, jump down the chimney, fill the stockings, distribute the presents, eat the snacks, back up the chimney, out and on his way. If the average distance between houses is .78 miles he has a total trip of 75.5 million miles. (I'm not counting the occasional rest stops for him and the reindeer.)

Santa's sleigh must be capable of moving 650 miles per second, or roughly 3,000 times the speed of sound. That's a mere 2,340,000 miles per hour. That's fast.

While we're at it let's consider the weight of the Christmas gifts and how it affects Santa's trip. If each child gets a gift averaging 2 pounds, the sleigh is carrying 321,300 tons not counting our roly-poly driver. Now, if a typical reindeer were pulling a sled, that reindeer could pull ten times their weight. We would need 214,200 reindeer to pull Santa's sled. Thank God they're not your average reindeer. Add the weight of the 214k reindeer to the overall weight and we have a whopping 353,430 tons (more than two times the weight of the Queen Mary.)

But wait! There's more. 353,300 tons traveling at 650 miles per second creates enormous air resistance. In other words...heat. The lead reindeer, if they were normal would absorb 14.3 quintillion joules of energy. They would burst into flames instantaneously creating deafening sonic booms in their wake. The rest of the reindeer team would be vaporized 4.26 thousandths of a second later. And Santa is not off the hook. He will be subjected to centrifugal forces 17,500.06 times greater than gravity. He would be pinned to the back of his sleigh by 4,315,015 pounds of force.

All this to say we need to appreciate the effort Santa Claus puts into his job. If you run into him on Christmas Eve and he seems a bit rushed...well now maybe you'll understand.

Merry Christmas everyone!

WORST. REGIFTING. EVER.

EMPTY SEATS AT THE CHRISTMAS TABLE

I'm writing one of my infrequent serious columns, because I realize there is more to Christmas than non-stop holly jolly

There will be many freshly vacant spots at Christmas/holiday gatherings this year, whether because of death, hospitalization, relocation, work schedules, military service, estrangement or

(My nuclear family remains intact; but in the past year, death has claimed my brother's mother-in-law, the preacher's wife, a co-worker, several classmates' loved ones and an alarming number of customers at my day job.)

I can't fill your stocking with any game-changing advice for coping with loss or distance at this festive/stressful time of year, but I'll rehash what others have said. Share warm or funny memories of the departed. Make a charitable donation in their name. Invite a widow or bachelor who has NOTHING BUT empty seats to share the holiday with your family. Stop being a technophobe and avail yourself of the tools for communicating with those who must be far away.

Mostly, I'd like to offer advice to see that YOU don't become one of those being mourned or missed. "Through the years we all will be together, if the fates allow, sang Judy Garland. But sometimes we go out of our way to tempt Fate.

More power to you if you can't meet an arbitrary December 25 deadline because you've traveled cross-country to improve yourself academically or professionally, if you're defending our great nation or if you're overseas performing humanitarian work. But a lot of reasons for being absent are less noble.

Put things in perspective before you let petty squabbles create a yuletide vacuum this year or in the future. Thinking about that babe in the manger should help us do away with some more of the frivolous reasons for being a "no-show" or barring the door. That babe grew up to ask forgiveness for those who sent him to his death. How can we refuse to associate with someone who voted for the wrong party?

That babe grew up to be infamous for associating with tax collectors and sinners. How does one justify writing off a friend or relative whose lifestyle is either too oldfashioned or too ultra-modern?

That babe grew up to be an itinerant preacher who eschewed worldly possessions and had not even a place to lay his head. Isn't it silly to form a permanent family rift over how great-aunt Matilda's crochet bathroom plunger holders were divided up?

Yes, each and every one of us will SOMEDAY merit an empty place at the holiday table. But we don't have to rush the eventuality.

Get those brakes and tire treads inspected. Replace those smoke alarm batteries. Wean yourself from cigarettes. Find a doctor you can trust, have those checkups and heed the advice. Stop texting and driving, running red lights and trying to beat trains to the crossing. Spend a little time pondering whether those guys you hang out with are really your friends or just some bozos who will split once they've made you a candidate for a squad car or an ambulance. Learn to count to 10 before venting your righteous indignation on someone who just might be "packing" and itching for a chance to blow someone away.

The perfect holiday gathering is a myth; but before you Rest In Peace, take a few steps to maximize holiday peace and good will.

Christmas is a time

For laughter and Joy,
You might even get your favorite toy.
Christmas is a time for Buying and Listing.
It's also a time to know why you're living.
Christmas is a time to decorate your house
And wear your favorite Christmas blouse.
Christmas is a time to cook and bake,
You can't forget about the infamous Fruitcake!
Christmas is also a time to Remember the Reason for this Season!
