WHAT A BIRTHDAY PRESENT!

Laurie Cooper Chosen As Sierra Madre's Older American Of The Year On Her 97th Birthday

SMEAC nominates Laurie Cooper for the Older "Sierra Madre" American of the Year, 2015. Using the hard earned but much appreciated G I Bill, Laurie and husband Dick came to Sierra Madre in the late 1940's and built one of the first homes in the new tract at Laurel & Canon. From that moment on Laurie assumed active participation in her new community and has never stopped. At the age of 96, Laurie is one of SMEAC's earliest members and a leader and active participant throughout the organization's 45-year history. Notably active in the creation and continual stewardship of Bailey Canyon Wilderness Park and a volunteer docent for SMEAC's Natu re Awareness program in the schools, she also served as president for a 12-year term! Laurie's commitment to environmental issues and action sustained SMEAC's other brainchild - the first volunteer recycling center for the City of Sierra Madre before curbside recycling was enforced. With Laurie at the helm our little homegrown recycling center reached an effectiveness unsu rpassed in all of Southern California, bringing to the City of Sierra Madre the Los Angeles Regional Agency's Chevron Award of Recognition of Excellence in Environmental Stewardship as early as 1985 when recycling was still a new concept. Not only did this award bring acclaim, it also brought the city significant savings in its efforts to meet government required refuse diversion.

Laurie has been committed to community service her entire adult life. Photo by Jacquie Pergola

Laurie has spent countless hours speaking with thoughtf ul precision to the City Council, City Commissions, and other community groups on behalf of issues she felt impacted the health, beauty, and responsible operation of our community. She is a stalwart proponent of collaboration between citizen groups and city government and is a true role model epitomizing what makes a caring, responsible, and ACTIVE citizen. She is also a lifelong member of the League of Women Voters and through this organization has hoped to promote educated citizen participation in the voting process so crucial to democratic governing. She still hosts monthly meetings and encourages all people to learn, listen, speak carefully, and work together for mutual solutions.

WHAT LIES AHEAD MAYOR DISCUSSES SIERRA MADRE'S MOST CRITICAL CHALLENGES (excerpt from The State Of The City)

(1) Water quality and our water source –

We have heard from many of you over the past year about the lacking quality of water that we now have since we started importing our water. There is no doubt about that – we were used to drinking the best water in the county from our taps, and now people are finding themselves running to the store, buying expensive filters, and signing up for Arrowhead and Sparkletts accounts for their drinking water. I assure you that we are making progress, with the help of our staff and our hired Water Expert. As many of you have probably witnessed, the discoloration has largely subsided, and we are working expeditiously to eliminate it altogether.

However, the only real way to solve the problem is to get back to relying on our own acquifer for our water. We need to stop importing water: it's not only more expensive, but it is just not what we're used to drinking. And the only way we will be able to do that is with continued conservation, which is why your efforts are so important. Sierra Madre is tied to our water source historically - it really is engrained in our DNA, from the very beginning of this town with Lucky Baldwin and Nathaniel Carter. Therefore, we are going to continue to aggressively approach this issue, and won't stop until we're back drinking Sierra Madre

(2) Development/Land Use - We have taken important steps with the recent demolition moratorium to show that we are serious about preserving this town. We are not some of our neighboring cities we will not allow our beautiful homes which represent the visual fabric and history of this community fall victim to overdevelopment. While we will continue to respective property rights, we also want to ensure that we are doing everything we

The enactment be our police department, our library, our But I remind and challenge every person of the revised General Plan will help as well. Essentially, we will be deciding how best to protect this community from overdevelopment through the use of smart, sensible zoning codes that will ultimately protect our historic homes. While this is popular with some, it is unpopular with others. I respect and understand both perspectives. However, what we do as a council is not always popular - being popular is not necessarily our job, and I hope we never make decisions based on whether we will be loved or liked for such decisions. What we are doing, and will continue to do, is make the right and prudent decisions for the community as a whole as your fiduciaries. The goal is simply to keep Sierra Madre, Sierra Madre - that is, to ensure that, long after we're gone, the next generations get to continue to enjoy this little piece of heaven that we call home. That starts with our planning.

(3) Budget - Finally, and most importantly, our budget is the largest and most important challenge we will face in the upcoming year. We are all aware that, starting in July of this year, our Utility Users Tax will decrease from 10% to 8%, and in July 2016, it will decrease to 6%. That will have a material impact on our budget and our ability to deliver services to this community – there is no doubt about that. As you can see, we are projecting a deficit in 2016 of approximately $230,000, and a deficit in 2017 of $730,000. Those are large numbers -- $230,000 is almost our entire Community Services budget. $730,000 is essentially the size of our Library budget, or a substantial portion of our Fire Department.

In other words, based on our projected loss of revenue, we are faced with very difficult choices. The reality is that, if we are unable to replace these lost UUT revenues, we will be forced to cut services substantially. You can to protect our historic homes. Our have heard this before; this is not new. We much, an idea that has been alive and well soon-to-be passed revised demolition have already been forced to outsource the for a long time. In fact, I believe everyone ordinance is an important first step in that operation of our community pool, and the in this town wants to preserve Sierra Madre, fire department – is quickly approaching. The reality is that we will not be able to operate as a full-service city after losing over 12% of our General Fund budget.

We have two basic choices – the first option is we, as a community, implement an acceptable revenue alternative - whether that be a UUT at 8 or 9%; a parcel tax to support our Library; or something else. We need residents to start thinking creatively and proposing ideas for this. We as a council will have our own ideas of course, but community buy-in is essential here. Or, the second option is we decide in the 6 months what is expendable, and begin implementing steps to outsource a department or cut programs until we have a balanced budget. The third alternative – to operate in a deficit and burn through our reserves, is frankly not an option that I am willing to consider. In order to facilitate this, we will begin in the next few months a series of town hall, community, and online meetings to discuss the budget and our path forward. My personal view, as your Mayor and as a resident, is that we find a workable solution on the revenue side so that we do not have to lose any of our precious services. For example, I would be in favor of discussing a UTT at a rate higher than 6% -- whether that be 7, 8, 9, or 10%. I would also be in favor of seeing this community rally around a Library parcel tax. I do not want to cut one of our departments – especially public safety. To me, the most important services we provide is keeping our residents safe, and as long as I'm on the City Council, I will not jeopardize that.

We have had a movement that has organization "Preserve Sierra Madre." It is a movement that is founded on the idea that we should preserve this town that we love so and lives here because of that very reason. I City are (1) our continued water quality and changes to our R-1 zoning codes, which the But the time when we will likely lose applaud Preserve Sierra Madre's efforts and who supports their efforts to realize that preserving Sierra Madre goes well beyond protecting the physical structures within this City - it requires a commitment to preserve our way of life and the community that we have built over the past 107 years. I challenge each member of the community that comes to City Council meetings to implore us to preserve Sierra Madre by protecting our homes to come to our meetings to implore us to preserve Sierra Madre by protecting our services as well.

The two go hand-in-hand - without Police officers protecting us from burglaries or firefighters protecting us from catastrophic injury what good is it living in a historic home with a view of hillsides? Without being able to provide our children or seniors with social outlets through our community centers and Library, what good is it to have a General Plan that supposedly protects our way of life. The people of Sierra Madre, more so than the homes or the hillsides themselves, are the backbone and fabric of this community. We cannot forget to protect them (us) and preserve the quality of life we have come to know and love.

I am confident that, whatever happens, the team we have behind the dais and in City Hall will solve this problem working together. There is not a problem too big or complex that we as a Council cannot handle - nor a solution to that problem that our staff will not be able to implement. The buck will always stop with your City Council, and I would have it no other way. That is why you elected us – to make the tough decisions for you, which we will continue doing with

Sierra Madre Altadena-Pasadena

"Jack" (John) DeWitt Tierney passed away quietly at home from a long term illness on Thursday March 12. He was 77 years old.Born and raised in Pasadena, Jack had called Sierra Madre "home" for the last twenty some years. During his many years here, he touched so many lives. To anyone who frequented Bean Town during that time, he was well known as a fixture there. More than just one of the many recognizable faces, he was the very heart of the Bean Town community. He loved people, and his outgoing and warm personality drew in anyone who had a moment to chat...friend or stranger. He had a genuine fascination with everyone's "story", and his child-like enthusiasm about about what anyone brought to the table served to motivate each of us to be all that he saw us to be.

He also was the hub of his church's community. He was very active in Grace Pasadena Church and he derived great joy out of knowing and supporting the children in the church. Church members remember Jack as a firm believer in Jesus Christ and how he regularly shared stories about how God intervened in his life, dramatically changing him and his lifestyle.

Jack was incredibly fit for his age. An avid cyclist, he biked many miles a week. He was a founding member of the local bike club "The Chain Gang" who cycle the San Gabriel Valley and the local mountain roads, frequenting favorite food establishments

It was Jack's desire that we let people know how much he appreciated us all and how much joy others brought to his life. It was also his desire that we all come together to celebrate his life. He made arrangements for that to happen before he passed on. There will be a memorial party for him at Bean Town on Sunday, March 29th from 3 to 6 pm. All who knew Jack are welcome to attend.

In Jack's memory, we will be collecting used bicycles, bicycle parts, and cash donations to be donated to Bike San Gabriel Valley, a group who is establishing a bike co-op in El Monte that is geared toward getting kids on bikes and encouraging cycling as a more economical and enjoyable alternative for local transportation. The co-op will offer a more affordable place for bike maintenance and repair, community education for cyclists, and a hub for the local cycling community and cycling clubs. Please drop off all bike and part donations to 565 Woodland Drive in Sierra Madre between now and Sunday, March 29th. Monetary donations will be collected at the memorial party on March 29th. A member of the co-op will be on hand to accept the donations.

Jack is survived by his sister, Sandra Cooper of Stockton, his brother, Wayne Tierney of Santa Cruz, his aunt, Betty Ryan, his daughter, Debbie Tierney, and his son, RIck TIerney. He will be deeply missed by his family and by members of each of his communities. We all wish him peace and will carry him in

Walking Sierra Madre...The Social Side by Deanne Davis

"Of Wistaria blooms, I caught sight, today, And ever since as violet of the deepest hue,

My passion, grows ever more profound!" Ise

That pretty much says it all. Walking Sierra Madre this week, gearing up for the Festival this weekend, we've noticed, my horticultural expert walking buddy, John, and I, that the wistaria this year all over town is spectacular and the Vine should be absolutely amazing. Don't know if it's more rain or warmer days, but we saw a wistaria on Laurel today that was beyond beautiful and I hope they took a picture of it. It's all over town, just keep an eye peeled for those lovely purple blossoms.

This weekend's activities look to be a lot of fun. The music should be great, too. How can you miss with bands like The Gem City Jazz Cats and

We don't know about you, but Daylight Shifting Time last Sunday took the starch out of us for a couple of days. This is one of those concepts that has definitely outlived its usefulness. Did you know there are more auto accidents right after Daylight Shifting time than usual. Could it be because drivers are crankier than usual and a little off their game, too. Apparently, it was Benjamin Franklin's original idea to save on candles. Probably needed something to fill up a blank spot in "Poor Richard's Almanac."

How did your daffodils do this year? Ours were a little disappointing...well, a lot disappointing, as they put up the usual stalks but produced few flowers. The Dutch Iris, however, are looking like they're planning to give us a bumper crop.

St. Patrick's Day is next week, March 17th, which reminded me of a really splendid family of folk singers, The Galligans, we knew a few years ago, who made an amazing Irish Soda

You might give it a try to go along with your corned beef and cabbage...
Put 3 cups of flour in a bowl with 1 TB. of baking powder, 1 tsp. baking soda, 1 tsp. salt.

Blend in 4 TB. of soft butter, add 1 TB caraway seeds, 1 cup of currants, 1 cup dark raisins, 1 cup

Then add ¾ cup of sugar, one beaten egg and 2 cups of buttermilk. (As few of us have 2 cups of buttermilk lounging around in our fridge, try this: 1 TB of white vinegar per cup of milk. Measure the vinegar into the cup then add the milk to get a correct measurement. Let it sit for about 10 minutes and...voila! buttermilk.)

Pour into a greased iron skillet or loaf pan. Bake 10 minutes at 400 degrees then 45 minutes at 350 degrees. Test with toothpick in the center for doneness. Let it cool a bit, spread with butter and enjoy. As Jim Galligan says on his recipe, "Grandma Galligan made it this way in Ireland, County Armagh, many years ago." He never said, "Faith and Begorra!" and probably nobody else Irish does either, but he was a fine singer and this is really good bread. Happy St. Patrick's Day!

We are going to have such great weather for the Wistaria Festival this Sunday. Be sure you plan your day to be there. We're going to check out the music, the Art & Garden Faire and the Vintage Cars. Sorry to see that Sierra Brigante is closed for remodeling so we won't be sitting out on their lovely patio enjoying a snack, a glass of something, and a spectacular view of our own personal

Did you know we have one of those curbside libraries where you can take a book and leave a book? They're called Little Free Libraries and we admired ours this morning. This is such a fantastic thing to do. It's on Laurel, if you need a book or can give a book. Their selection was

SIERRA MADRE POLICE BLOTTER

During the week of Sunday, March 1st, to Sunday, March 8th, the Sierra Madre Police Department responded to approximately 390 calls for service.

Tuesday, March 3rd

At 9:25 am, Sierra Madre Police responded to the station lobby regarding a suspicious incident that had occurred on her residence on the 300 Block of North Baldwin Avenue. The victim informed Officers that on February 28th, between the hours of 6:00 and 7:00 pm, she left her apartment to go to the laundry facility within the apartment complex. The victim stated she left her front door open with the screen door closed but not locked. She returned a few minutes later and discovered her front door closed with the deadbolt locked and the blinds on the front door drawn. The victim looked between the blinds of the front door and saw her back door was open, which was closed and locked prior to her leaving the apartment. Nothing appeared to be missing from the apartment and she never saw anyone enter or leave the area of her apartment. This case has been forwarded to the Detectives Bureau.

Wednesday, March 4th

At 10:18 am, Sierra Madre Police responded to the station lobby regarding an identity theft report. The victim informed Officers that the night before, she attempted to file her income tax online using an online software. During the process, she received an alert from the software which informed the victim that her social security number had already been used in an incomé tax return. This case has been forwarded to the Detectives Bureau.

Saturday, March 7th At 5:50 am, Sierra Madre Police responded to the 400 Block of West Highland Avenue regarding a vehicle burglary. The victim informed Officers that earlier that morning while he was getting ready to leave for work, he noticed the driver side panel of his work utility truck was open. The victim inspected the panel and discovered several of his tools were missing. Upon inspection, Officers discovered the metal hooks to keep the panels in place were bent and appeared to be damaged to gain access to the interior. Fortunately, the victim had a working security camera and recorded the incident. The video displayed a newer model dark colored sedan drive past his residence, then come back a short time later and park in front of the driveway. Two male subjects exit the vehicle, wearing grey sweatshirts and jeans, and approach the driver's side panel. The suspects gain access to the panels and remove the tools and flee in the dark colors sedan. Estimated loss was totaled at around $1800. This case has been forwarded to the Detectives Bureau.

At 9:11 am, Sierra Madre Police responded to the 600 Block of Valle Vista Dr. regarding a theft report. The victims informed Officers that they went out to their vehicle earlier that morning and discovered the rear passenger door was open. Upon further inspection, the victims noticed various small items were missing from the vehicle, along with petty cash and coins. The husband stated the last person to use the vehicle was his wife, who often forgets to lock the vehicle. The estimated loss was totaled to be less than $50. This case has been forwarded to the Detectives

At 1:00 pm, Sierra Madre Police responded to the 2100 Block of Santa Anita Ave. regarding a theft report. The victim informed Officers that earlier that day, she came out to her vehicle which was parked in her driveway, and noticed the front left door and trunk door were open. Upon further inspection, the victim discovered her car had been rummaged through with the contents of her glove compartment being strew all over the vehicle. Other than a $5 dollar bill, nothing more from the vehicle appeared to be missing. The victim informed Officers that she never locks her vehicle doors, as there were no signs for forced entry. This case has been forwarded to the Detectives Bureau.

Sunday, March 8th

At 2:40 pm, Sierra Madre Police to the 200 Block of North Hermosa Ave. regarding a residential burglary. The victim informed Officers that they were contacted by the fumigation company that was working on their house, after the workers discovered two tears in the tarp covering the home, with the both the front and back door left open. During the Officer's investigation, it appeared the suspect(s) entered the home by tearing the tarp and gaining access through a back door. The suspect(s) ransacked several rooms stealing various items including jewelry. The suspect(s) then tore a second hole and exited the home through the front door. Current estimation of loss is totaled to about $1,000. A more detailed investigation will occur once the pesticide is cleared from the home. This case has been forwarded to the Detectives Bureau.

Teacher Pleads to Falsely Imprisoning Teenagers

A former high school teacher pleaded no contest Thursday to falsely imprisoning students in their car while they drove over a weekend through Altadena, the Los Angeles County District Attorney's Office announced. According to Deputy District Attorney Melanie Buccat, Arroyo Pacific Academy teacher John Edward Maust, entered the plea to two felony counts of false imprisonment by violence.

Los Angeles County Superior Court Judge Elaine Lu of the Pasadena Branch immediately sentenced Maust to five years formal probation, 180 days of community service and more than 50 Alcoholics Anonymous

Maust also was ordered to one year of counseling and to stay away from the victims. Additionally, he is prohibited from consuming any alcohol while on probation according to the ruling.

According to Los Angeles County Public Information County Public Information Officer, Ricardo Santiago, on June 7, 2014, three teenagers, two of whom attended Arroyo Pacific Academy where Maust taught, were driving when they saw the defendant in his driveway. After the victims stopped to talk to him, Maust got into the back seat and told one of the victims to drive, the prosecutor said.

During the drive, Maust took out a pocket knife and began waving it around at which point the driver pulled the car over and two of the victims were able to exit. When the driver attempted to also exit, Maust placed him in a choke hold with the pocket knife up to him and demanded that he be taken to a fast food restaurant, the prosecutor added.

After the victim complied, he drove the defendant home and Maust fled from the vehicle, according to the prosecutor.

The case was investigated by the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department, Altadena Station.

ARCADIA POLICE BLOTTER

For the period of Sunday, March 8th, through Saturday, March 14th, the Police Department responded to 1,048 calls for service of which 128 required formal investigations. The following is a summary report of the major incidents handled by the Department during this period.

Sunday, March 8:

1. Just before 12:52 a.m., an officer conducted a traffic stop on a vehicle in the area of Colorado Place and Gate 5 of the Santa Anita Race Track for having expired registration. Upon contacting the driver, the officer discovered the 33-year-old black female had never been issued a driver's license. She was cited and released in the field. Her vehicle was left legally parked.

1. At approximately 4:44 p.m., an officer responded to a residence in the 1300 block of North Baldwin Avenue regarding a burglary report. The victim stated he was lured to his backyard by Suspect #1 who offered to show the victim the quality of his work he performed on a neighbor's wall behind the victim's house. While the victim and Suspect #1 were in the backyard, Suspect #2 entered the victim's home, ransacked the residence, and stole three designer watches. Suspect #1 asked the victim to wait in the backyard while he, Suspect #1, drove to the other side of the wall to retrieve some tools he had left there. The victim saw Suspect #1 flee in a newer model, white Ford Mustang with paper plates. After a brief wait, the victim returned to his home and noticed the items missing. The victim never saw Suspect #2.

Suspect #1 is described as a Hispanic male in his late twenties, approximately 5'10", 200 pounds, with short black hair and a tear drop tattoo under each eye. Both suspects are outstanding as of the date of this report and the investigation is ongoing.

Monday, March 9:

1. At about 10:12 a.m., an officer initiated consensual contact with a person laying near the entrance of 7-Eleven, 200 East Live Oak Avenue, due to the need for possible medical assistance. After contacting the subject, a records check revealed the subject had an outstanding warrant. The officer arrested the man and transported him to the Arcadia City Jail for booking. During the booking process, the jailer discovered the subject had marijuana hidden in his sock and the subject had given the officer his brother's name and date of birth. Fingerprint identification revealed the subject was a 35-year-old Hispanic male with three outstanding misdemeanor warrants. The offenses of Impersonating Another and to Bring Illegal Drugs Into A Jail were added to the list of charges.

1. At approximately 5:26 p.m., an officer responded to a residence in the 1200 block of South Third Avenue regarding a report of mail theft that occurred on Thursday, March 5th at 3:23 p.m. Surveillance footage revealed a Hispanic female, approximately 30-years- old, with dyed red hair took the victim's mail from her mailbox and continued walking southbound on Third Avenue. The suspect is outstanding at the time of this report. The investigation is ongoing.

Tuesday, March 10:

1. Around 11:08 a.m., officers responded to the area of 948 West Huntington Drive regarding a vandalism in progress. The officers located a vehicle with a driver fitting the description of the suspect in a nearby area. An investigation revealed the driver of the vehicle, an 18-year- old Hispanic male, was responsible for the vandalism and was also in possession of a large quantity of prescription medication. He was arrested and transported to the Arcadia City Jail for booking. The offense of Possession of Prescription Medication For Sale was added to the list of charges.

1. Just after 11:40 p.m., an officer responded to the area of 941 West Huntington Drive regarding the sound of a possible traffic collision. The officer located two damaged vehicles and a subject walking away from collision. Upon contacting the individual, the officer detected a strong odor of alcohol emitting from the 40-year-old Asian male's breath. Through a field sobriety test, the officer determined the subject was driving under the influence of an alcoholic beverage during the time of the collision. He was arrested and transported to the Arcadia City Jail for booking.

Wednesday, March 11:

1. Shortly after 9:46 a.m., an officer responded to the 300 block of Warren Way regarding a report of possible mail theft. The reporting party found opened mail belonging to his neighbors in his mailbox. No suspect was seen and no witnesses were located. The investigation is ongoing.

1. At about 11:47 p.m., officers responded to 24-Hour Fitness, 125 North First Avenue, regarding a theft report. The victim stated he secured his backpack in a locker, and when he returned, found his property and lock missing. The crime occurred between 4:00 p.m. and 7:00 p.m. No suspects were seen and no witnesses were located.

Thursday, March 12: 1. At approximately 7:54 a.m., an officer responded to 825 Arcadia Avenue regarding a commercial burglary report. An investigation revealed sometime during the previous evening, unknown suspect(s) cut the lock to the location, entered the main office, stole several sets of keys, accessed additional containers, and stole miscellaneous property. No suspects were seen and no witnesses were located.

1. Around 6:47 p.m., an officer conducted an enforcement stop on a vehicle in the area of North Santa Anita Avenue and East Huntington Drive for talking on a cell phone while driving. The officer discovered the driver, a 27-year-old Hispanic female, was driving with a suspended license. A consensual search of the vehicle revealed two methamphetamine pipes, one belonging to the driver and the other belonging to the passenger. The passenger, a 31-year-old Hispanic female, admitted to having a bag of methamphetamine in her pant pocket. The officer also located a bag of methamphetamine in the driver's purse. Both females were arrested and transported to the Arcadia City Jail for booking.

Friday, March 13:

1. Just after 12:14 p.m., an officer responded to the Arcadia Association of Realtors, 601 South First Avenue, regarding a vehicle burglary report. Surveillance footage revealed an unknown Hispanic male broke the front passenger window of the vehicle and was seen searching through the vehicle before fleeing on foot. The male suspect was seen talking to a Hispanic female suspect in a van at the time of the crime. No loss was reported. The investigation is ongoing.

1. At about 4:05 p.m., an officer responded to Arcadia Congregational Church, 2607 South Santa Anita Avenue, regarding a nude man in front of the location. The officer located a 55-year-old white male sitting naked in front of the location with a methamphetamine pipe and nude photographs scattered around him. He was arrested and transported to the Arcadia City Jail for booking.

Saturday, March 14:

1. Just after 8:38 a.m., an officer responded to the 200 block of West Live Oak Avenue regarding a vehicle burglary report. The officer determined an unknown suspect entered the vehicle by unknown means, ransacked the vehicle, and fled without stealing any property. The crime occurred sometime during the previous evening. The officer did not locate any witnesses or surveillance cameras nearby.

1. At approximately 10:16 p.m., officers responded to the 400 block of West Duarte Road regarding a theft that just occurred. An investigation revealed an unknown suspect cut the cable lock and stole a tennis ball cart. A witness described the suspect as a Hispanic male, 20 to 30-years-old, approximately 5'8" tall, with a shaved head. An area check did not locate the suspect. The investigation is ongoing.

HISTORY OF AFRICAN AMERICANS IN MONROVIA

SECOND BAPTIST AT IT'S BIRTH

THEN LOCATED ON ROYAL OAKS DRIVE - APPROXIMATELY 1904 THROUGH 1924

"History of African Americans in Monrovia: South of the Tracks" is the presentation at the Monrovia Historical Museum on Sunday, 29 March 2015 at 2 pm. Pasadena City College History Professor, Susie Ling, has done a year of research to document this important story. "Monrovia is unique in that it had an African American community since the 1880s," said Ling, "In many ways, this is a quintessential American story. People came West to build better lives for their children. There was chain migration, hard work, purchase of homes, and pursuit of educational advantages."

The African Americans lived side-by-side with their Mexican American and Asian American neighbors in the southeast corner of Monrovia. Some of the homes on Maple and Walnut were constructed in the 1910s. The Red Line came down on Olive Avenue and residents of color were expected to stay south of these Pacific Electric tracks. In fact Huntington Elementary School was 94% African American at one time. The segregated public school was not closed until 1970 – years after the 1954 Brown v. Board of Education Supreme Court order.

"My interviewees told stories of racial discrimination," said Ling. "They talked about how the public pool had 'Colored Days' and how certain establishments would not serve Blacks. There was a 'crow's nest' or balcony area in the former Lyric Theater for African Americans. Live Oak Cemetery was segregated in its beginning years. Blacks even had a hard time getting a library card." But the story is also about how African Americans fought for social justice, built community organizations, and nurtured families. "There are three historic Black churches in Monrovia that are still very active. There was also a Monrovia chapter of NAACP and a Junior NAACP. The Anna H. Jones Women's Club is nearing 100 years," said Ling.

'The most surprising parts were the racial fights at Monrovia High School each year between 1969 and 1972," continued Ling. The Black Student Union at Monrovia High was established in 1969 and has a very proud and long history. "The diversity and history of Monrovia is something we should all be proud of. This is our shared legacy." Monrovia Historical Museum, staffed by community volunteers, is open to the public each Thursday and Sunday afternoon.

DIVISION 35 LT. GOVERNOR VISITS DUARTE KIWANIS

Division 35 Lt Governor, Mahmood Bashir, recently visited a Duarte Kiwanis meeting and shared this year's vision for Kiwanis Cal-Nev-Ha District - Grow, Eliminate and Celebrate. Our focus in growth in our Clubs, expanding the focus on Eliminate and Celebrating 100 years in existence! The Eliminate Project is in conjunction with UNICEF. The focus is to Eliminate Maternal and Neo-Natal Tetanus. The numbers tell us that it only costs $1.80 to save a baby's life. When Kiwanis International began this initiative, a child was dying of this horrific disease once every 9 minutes. Kiwanis fundraising goes to pay for the vaccines - UNICEF provides the vaccines and the health care workers to vaccinate the moms. Kiwanis International has taken on the theme this year of growing clubs through a shared formula "Love It, Share It, Live It" as their theme. Within Division 35, Mahmood's theme is 100% Participation - in all projects, meetings and support to Service Leadership Groups at the High Schools, Middle Schools and Colleges. His vision includes the concept of "breaking down and eliminating barriers". He encourages all the clubs to reach past city or club boundaries and partner where each group can make the best impact. # PROJECT SCIENTIST PARTNERS WITH CALTECH

Project Scientist STEM summer camp for girls is accepting applications now.

Project Scientist Academy is a five-week summer camp that provides an engaging and fun environment for girls, ages 4-14, with a passion for science, technology, engineering, and math (STEM). Newly established in Pasadena, the camp will be held June 8 – July 24, 2015 at the campuses of California Institute of Technology and Longfellow Elementary. Each week investigates a different STEM theme and offers an expedition to local STEM companies. Daily class incorporates science experiments, art projects, physical activities, and the opportunity to meet a STEM Superstar (a local female employed in a STEM field). Project Scientist mom Angela Willis says, "We were thrilled to find a place where our daughters could continue exploring their interests in STEM with other young female scientists. We are so grateful to Project Scientist!"

On partnering with Project Scientist, Spiros Michalakis, Theoretical Physicist, Caltech, says, "We are extremely proud to be able to bring Project Scientist to girls in Los Angeles. After spending a week at Project Scientist camp last summer in Charlotte, I knew it was the type of program that Caltech would want to support and collaborate on in support of girls and women in STEM. They are inspiring the next generation of STEM Superstars and the research from Harvard and UNCC proves their impact." The need for Project Scientist was based on a vast amount of research that shows girls with a high aptitude for STEM subjects are not currently served or identified at a young age and lack opportunities commensurate with their talents and interests. "This is a big opportunity for girls...It makes you think more about earth and about how many things you can change through science. I want to be a surgeon because I love helping people. I think everyone can change the world," says Grace, age 10. Research shows that 78% of school-aged girls have an interest in STEM, yet women only make up 25% of the STEM workforce, and somewhere along the line society is losing these STEM girls. Project Scientist is determined to reach STEM girls and hold their hand through a PhD or as long and as far as their STEM dreams will take them.

About Project Scientist:

Sandy Marshall established Project Scientist in Charlotte, North Carolina in 2011. She says, "Project Scientist is 110-percent research based. Every action we take is strategic in the best methods to teach and inspire girls in STEM fields." Each year, Project Scientist partners with Harvard University and the University of North Carolina Charlotte to examine Project Scientist's teaching model and validate their impact upon the girls. The vision of Project Scientist is to transform the face of STEM by nurturing today's future scientists who will lead the world in solving tomorrow's greatest challenges. Finally, by highlighting these girls through public relations and marketing efforts, Project Scientist hopes to change society's overall perception of girls' interest and aptitude in STEM, which will ultimately help all girls. Mayra, age 13, sums it up by saying, "I love math and financial topics. Bank of America coming to talk with us is like me seeing myself in the future for what I want to do when I grow up." Visit www.projectscientist.org for more information and to apply to the summer academy.

THE REEL DEAL: by Ben Show CINDERELLA REVIEW

The original 1950 animated version of this classic story has always been considered the definitive version. Millions of dollars of merchandise have been created because of the world famous princess and her castle has even inspired Disney's logo. So, how does the modern, live action film stand up to the power of the original?In the tale that everyone knows by heart, Ella (Lily James) experiences the death of both of her parents. Heartbroken and lonely, she is enslaved by her stepmother (Cate Blanchett) and forced to serve her and her stepsisters (Sophie McShera and Holliday Grainger). Then, against their will, she attends the Prince's ball and the two find that the love between them is greater than anything life can throw at them.

Before now, there was a certain level of detail that only animated films could achieve; however, this film proves that that fact is no longer true. The live-action 'Cinderella' is like an intricately wrapped present, with each layer more detailed and beautiful than the last. The set pieces and costumes are some of the most beautiful I have ever seen and the story, more particularly the stepmother and Cinderella and the Prince's romance, are updated just enough to keep the magic of the original while helping to explain it to a new generation.

The Pasadena Sandwich Shop has done what Jerry's Deli. The New York Deli and Ben's Deli weren't able to do. Stay in business. The restaurant itself is small; in fact it is located in a small office building, sandwiched between a strawberry lot and a kids hair place and is across from Bed Bath and Beyond. # INGREDIENTS

Marinade

- 1/2 cup orange juice
- 1 cup white wine 3 cloves garlic, minced
- 2 teaspoons of fresh thyme or 1 teaspoon of dried thyme
- 2 Tbsp of fresh chopped rosemary or 1 Tbsp of dried rosemary
- 1/4 teaspoon of fresh ground pepper

Blend marinade ingredients in a blender, just a few pulses until well mixed.

1 (6-pound) leg of lamb, bone-in or boneless. If boneless, the leg should be tied up with kitchen string by butcher.

Marinade

Salt and freshly ground black pepper

1 Place lamb and marinade into a plastic bag. Squeeze out as much of the air as possible from the bag and seal. Wrap again with another plastic bag to ensure that the marinating lamb doesn't leak. Marinate for several hours, or overnight, in the refrigerator. Remove the lamb, still in its marinade bag, from the refrigerator at least an hour (preferably two hours) before putting in the oven to help bring the lamb closer to room temperature before roasting.

2 Preheat oven to  $425^{\circ}$ F. Arrange two racks in the oven - a middle rack to hold the lamb, and a lower rack to hold a roasting pan with which to catch the drippings. Note that this arrangement of racks and pans, with the roast sitting directly on the oven rack, will create a natural convection of heat in the oven, causing the roast to cook more quickly than if cooked the traditional method in a rack in

3 Remove the lamb roast from its marinade bag (you may want to temporarily place lamb in another roasting pan, just to make it less messy to work with.) Pat dry the marinade off the lamb with paper towels. Generously salt and pepper all sides of the roast. Arrange the roast fattiest side up, so while the lamb is cooking the fat will melt into the meat. Insert an oven-proof meat thermometer into the thickest part of the roast, not touching the bone if your roast is bone-in. Place the roast directly on middle rack of the oven, with a roasting pan on a separate rack a rung lower, to catch the drippings. You may also want to put some water (a cup or so) in the bottom roasting pan, so that the drippings fall into the water instead of burning in the hot pan and smoking up your kitchen.

4 Roast at 425°F for 20 minutes. Then reduce the heat to 300°F and roast an additional 40 minutes (for a 6 pound boneless roast) to an hour (for a 6 pound bone-in roast). If you are cooking a roast bone-in, the bone will act as an insulator and will require a longer cooking time than a boneless roast. In general estimate 10-13 minutes per pound for total cooking time (for rare), including that first 20 minutes at high heat. (Assuming you let the roast sit out for an hour or two before putting it in the oven. If it's right out of the fridge, it will take longer to cook.)

Note that the method of cooking directly on the oven rack will mimic a convection oven and the cooking time/oven temp needed will be less than you would need if you cooked the roast on a rack in a roasting pan. If you are cooking the roast in a roasting pan, rack or not, start the roast at 450°F and then reduce the heat to 325°F. Also, the shape of the roast will have an impact on the cooking time. Our roast was rather long and thin, so it cooked up fairly quickly. A thicker roast may take longer than expected.

So, use a meat thermometer!

About 20 minutes before you expect the roast to be done, start checking the meat thermometer. Note that every time you open the oven door, you'll need 10 minutes or so to bring the oven back up to temperature, thus slowing down the cooking process. So, don't check too often. Remove from the oven anywhere from 125°F to 135°F for medium rare. Lamb should never be cooked until well done or it will be too dry. Let stand for 25-30 minutes before carving. Cut away the kitchen string and slice with a sharp carving knife, 1/2 inch thick slices, against the grain of the meat.

5 While the roast is resting, use a metal spatula to scrape up the drippings in the roasting pan. Use the drippings to make a gravy, or use just the drippings themselves to serve with the lamb.

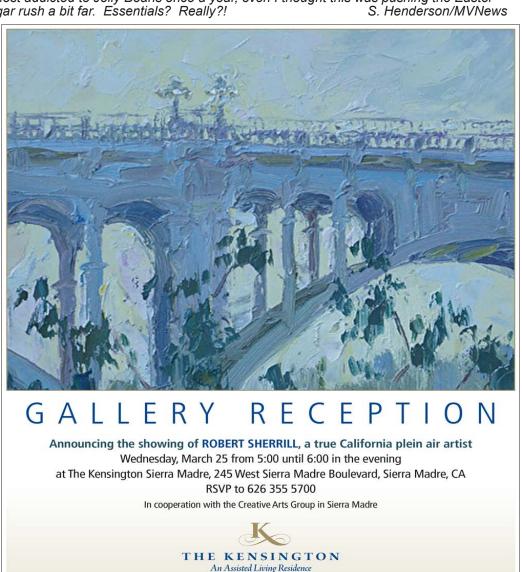

Serve with some homemade mint jelly for an added treat.

ability to take a step back in moments of reaction or emotion and have a chance to act or not act. Not always, but eventually, I reach a point when I'm not overwhelmed or dominated by my emotions or stuck in the actions of others. It is incredibly empowering to experience this, as it is the very beginnings of non attachment. Applying this philosophyis note asyatall, but the payoff is immense. In the effort to have the ability to observe rather than react, attention must first be directed toward my physical well being. How can I be expect to in times of stress, indecision or big emotions. We keep a cool head when I missed lunch? What if I didn't sleep the night before? How smoothly

Although, we cannot apply asana to our diet, we can use yoga to raise our heartbeat, strengthen begins on the mat! See you in class. and stretch our muscles, improve sleep and balance our energy. Through movement in Namaste, asana, we unblock energetic snags and tone the Keely Totten

I love to having the internal systems of the body. Most importantly, we use asana to breathe in a way that's nourishing, rejuvenating, and calming to the nervous system.

All of this work has a direct effect on the mind. As we settle the mind and the emotions, there's a chance to view ourselves from a non judgmental "witness" point of view. We can take a step back, focus and really notice what's going on. You'll often hear this in class from the teacher, "check in", "how are you?". In our everyday comings and goings, we often forget to do this.

This method of "checking in" can be applied in regular everyday living. The more often we do this, the better chance we have at remaining objective can choose our non-reaction. We can choose to remain happy and joyful under any circumstances can I handle situations or emotions in that case? and not be diverted from what we want in our life. As you've heard before, it all

You can be sure of this, things do change; A new day, a new challenge, a new opportunity, a new way of seeing things. You wish you could count on things and some things you can (like death and taxes) but surprises pop up.

In regards to health, challenges can manifest seemingly from nowhere. In my office I see patients who hobble in with a problem and in questioning them more than often they say, "I woke up with it. I didn't do anything." Yet they are really suffering. How does this happen?

In one's personal health there are certain things you must do to have the best chance of staying healthy and avoiding injury and illness. In regards to the patient who showed up in crisis, but did not 'do anything' to cause it, the questioning that follows exposes the cause of the problem.

"How much exercise have you been getting lately?" "How has your diet been?" "How have you been sleeping lately?" "When was the last time you were checked for nerve interference and adjusted?"

Usually the answers are as follows: No exercise (too busy), Bad diet (too busy), Not enough sleep (Stressed from being too busy) and have not seen their chiropractor because they haven't had any problem and/are too busy.

I have to tell them, "Yes, you didn't do anything before this crisis hit today. You're not making good choices and not living the 100 Year lifestyle so this is the result. You weren't too busy today to come in but as we know pain is a great motivator.

The things you can be certain about, the disciplines you can put yourself through, can help you navigate the uncertainties of life. Unforeseen problems and challenges will pop up, this we are certain of, but it is the uncertainty of when and how that can strike you down that catch us off guard and when we look back we realize we weren't doing the things we know we should do on a regular basis to be proactive and protect our health.

Regular great nutrition, proper rest and a spine and nervous system that is free of interference will certainly help you deal with the uncertainties of life. Be prepared. See chiropractor and get checked and receive lifestyle care or most certainly you will need to go for crisis care.

HOW TO PROTECT YOURSELF FROM OSTEOPOROSIS BONE FRACTURES

Dear Savvy Senior,

Can a person in their early 50's have osteoporosis? When I fell and broke my wrist last winter the doctor that treated me told me I might have osteoporosis. What can you tell

Worried Ronda

Dear Ronda,

seniors, it can strike at any age. In fact, the National Osteoporosis Foundation estimates that half of women and up to 25 percent of men in the U.S. over the age of 50 will break a bone due to osteoporosis. Here's what you Here's what else you can do to protect your bones. should know.

Who's at Risk?

Osteoporosis is a disease that causes the bones to become brittle and weak and more susceptible to fractures. Around 10 million Americans already have osteoporosis (80 percent are women) while another 43 million have "pre-osteoporosis," or osteopenia. But the good news is this disease is both preventable and treatable.

Most people, by the time they reach their late 30's, gradually start losing some of their bone mass, but for women, menopause is the time when this process really accelerates. Bone loss for men occurs much more slowly. However, by age 75, osteoporosis is as common in men as it is in women. Some of the key risk factors of developing osteoporosis include: being over age 50; being female; menopause; having a family history of the disease; being small and thin; having an eating disorder; not getting enough calcium and vitamin D; getting too much protein, sodium and caffeine; having an inactive lifestyle; smoking; drinking too much alcohol; taking certain medications (see nof.org/articles/6 for a list); and having certain medical conditions (see nof.org/ articles/5).

To help you determine your risk of osteoporosis, the National Institutes of Health has a quick, online quiz you can take at bonecheckup.org.

Prevention and Treatment

A good first step in preventing and treating osteoporosis is to get screened. For women, that should start around menopause, especially if you're not taking estrogen, or anyone who has broken a bone after age 50 or who has other risk factors.

All women over 65 and men over 70 should be author of "The Savvy Senior" book.

While osteoporosis is much more common in older tested every two years - Medicare covers it. Screening for osteoporosis is a simple, painless, bone density test, which takes about five minutes.

Boost your calcium: The best way to get bone-building calcium is through your diet. Dairy products (low-fat milk, cheeses and yogurt), dark green leafy vegetables (broccoli, kale, collards), sardines and salmon, cooked dried beans, soy foods, almonds and fortified cereals and juices are all good sources of calcium. Vitamin D is also important to help you body absorb calcium.

The National Osteoporosis Foundation recommends 1,000 mg of calcium daily for women under age 50 and for men under 70, and 1,200 mg for women 51 and older and for men over 71. Note: Recent studies have found that excess calcium could increase the risk of heart

They also recommend all adults under age 50 get 400 to 800 IU of vitamin D, or 800 to 1,000 IU if you're over 50. If you're not getting enough vitamin D through sunlight or food, consider taking a supplement. Most daily multivitamins contain at least 400 IU.

Exercise: Weight-bearing exercises like walking, and strength training with weights or resistant bands three or four times a week can also significantly improve your

Control these vices: Avoid smoking, limit alcohol to no more than two or three drinks per day, and limit caffeine (coffee, tea or caffeinated soda) to three cups a

Consider medications: The most widely prescribed for osteoporosis are bisphosphonates, a class of drugs designed to slow or stop bone loss. Talk to your doctor about these and other medication options, as well as

THE GOOD, THE BAD, AND THE CRAZY

The weather's getting warmer,

That leaves only about 30 school days left, and ring! My dad gave it to me!' both students and teachers are running on fumes.

Most "naughty" kids push the envelope of their teacher's patience at the beginning of the school year. But there are always a few who students Mom: (she takes the paper ring back and draws the race. This is what happened near the end of diamond." one of my mom's last years of teaching third grade in a public school.

The student in question (let's call him Ned) came to third grade with a reputation for chronic sassy-ness, noncompliance, and general misconduct. Ned's previous teachers had exhausted all the usual disciplinary methods: e.g., behavior contracts, punishment, rewards, screaming --all to no avail. Since my mom had 30 plus years of experience in the trenches dealing with every variety of students, she had a full arsenal of strategies at her disposal.

You see, some kids just get so callused and jaded over the years that traditional approaches at behavior modification fall short. These kids have grown accustomed to having teachers negotiate with them, cajole them, punish them, and yell to the point of Ned: (walking away with his new ring) "I'm developing vocal nodules. What they're not used telling my dad!" to is teachers who are just as crazy as they are!

My mom and Ned maintained a working relationship for most of the year, but near the end Ned started to slip back into his whinny, argumentative habits. Specifically, he claimed beginning of the year, and now he wanted it back. him!"

Of course there was no such ring, but that didn't matter to Ned. He just wanted a fight. civil servants. But occasionally there's something Their conversation went something like this: Ned: "Hey, Mrs. Hopkins, you never gave back my ring that you took away."

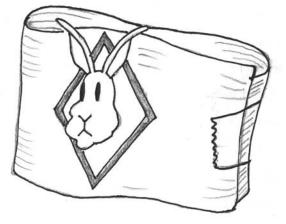

It's that time of year again! Mom: "I never took a ring from you. What are you talking about?"

aring for an older adult is loving, kind and generous. It is also stressful. Research shows that emotional, mental and physical challenges often arise for those coping with the strain of caring for a frail or disabled family member. As a result, it is important to strike a balance between caring for someone else and caring for yourself. Join us for a presentation by Dr. Edward Castner as he explains the risks of caregiving, shares ways to manage demands and addresses when it's time to "let go" and enlist the support of a senior living care community.

After all, I'd never looked into buying pet insurance myself and I in case", simply doesn't make sense to me when I couldn't think of anyone I knew who had. Soon am already spending thousands a year for the care after that conversation, I got curious and decided to do a little research on the subject. This came as a challenge to me, as I am hard pressed to spend insurers, so you can do the research and decide for time shopping out health insurance even for yourself. myself, let alone for my dog. But, I was interested in learning more, so I did what I always do when I get curious - I Googled it!

Fortunately, I got lucky during my search, #6 - Pets Best - petsbest.com; 877-738-7237 when I hit on a website called consumeradvocate. org, which just so happens to be featuring pet #8 - Pet Partners - petpartners.com; 866-774-1113 health insurance during the month of March. #9 I've heard ABC news refer to Consumer Advocate 888-716-1203 now and then, while discussing certain products #10 or services, so the name rang a bell for me. The 800-935-7280 website was actually quite helpful, in that they listed the top 10 pet health insurance companies based on the number of stars they've earned or previous customers.

Ultimately, I was able to determine that they all seem to share one common denominator; other exclusions that did take me by surprise, don't forget to love and let live and definitely made me wonder if paying for pet insurance makes any sense at all.

For example, nearly all of them exclude coverage for veterinary exams (really?), spaying and neutering (what a shame!), and last, but certainly not least, preventative care such as vaccinations, heartworm medication, de-worming, grooming, flea control, dental care and anal gland expression. I don't know about you, but this list of exclusions just about sums up for what I typically pay out to the vet

I admit, it would be nice to have coverage (I calculated an average of about $1.50 a day) "just they exclude. Regardless of my opinion, I decided to share Consumer Advocate's list of top ten pet

Myth. Geographer's mastermind, Michael Deni, blurs the lines between electronic and alternative Modern, Deni mostly avoids much of the spastic electronic beats with tranquil, tender structures to enthrall listeners. In fact, the direction the band is seemingly heading down is different than preceding journeys. There's an incredible amount of elements that make Ghost Modern stand out as a deeper than expected type of release. Deni and company profoundly create a sonic palette that resemblances a dreamlike scenario. There are a wide assortment of instruments at work here too, including both live and drum machines, cello, violin, guitar, percussion, and piano. Nonetheless, Michael Deni's most dominant instrument is his reaches four minutes in duration, but the celestial placid vocal abilities that have been extremely distinguishable over the years. While Ghost Modern is an ephemeral endeavor at 37 minutes long, the dreamy arrangements and strong vocals evoking pure catharsis makes the listening experience irrefutably exceptional.

Their first single, "I'm Ready" is a warm tune that features honeyed melodies and airy vocals. The musing tune is a skillful demonstration of delicate arrangements paired with a heartbreaking cello. It opens up the record with much beauty and grace indicating this record sound much sweeter than previous records. "Need" has a slow build up before catching any momentum. Deni's vocals elevate high with this serene tune. "You Say You Love Me" includes synth-y undertones that add a certain spacey vibe to the track. The tempo is faster than the first two tracks, but it doesn't take away from the emotional aspect of the song. The strongest new song from Geographer is "Too Much." THE WRIGHT BROTHERS by David McCullough

 $D\quad a\quad v\quad i\quad d$ McCullough, twotime winner of the Pulitzer Prize, tells the surprising, profoundly American story of Wilbur and Orville Wright. On a winter day in 1903, in the Outer Banks of North Carolina, unknown brothers from Ohio changed history. But it would take the world

some time to believe what had happened: the age of flight had begun, with the first heavierthan-air, powered machine carrying a pilot. Who were these men and how was it that they achieved what they did?Far more than a couple of unschooled Dayton bicycle mechanics who happened to hit on success, they were men of exceptional courage and determination, and of far-ranging intellectual interests and ceaseless curiosity, much of which they attributed to their upbringing. The house they lived in had no electricity or indoor plumbing, but there were books aplenty, supplied mainly by their preacher father, and they never stopped reading. When they worked together, no problem seemed to be insurmountable. Wilbur was unquestionably a genius. Orville had such mechanical ingenuity as few had ever seen. That they had no more than a public high school education, little money and no contacts in high places, never stopped them in their "mission" to take to the air. Nothing did, not even the self-evident reality that every time they took off in one of their contrivances, they risked being killed.In this thrilling book, master historian David McCullough draws on the immense riches of the Wright Papers, including private diaries, notebooks, scrapbooks, and more than a thousand letters from private family correspondence to tell the human side of the Wright Brothers' story, including the little-known contributions of their sister, Katharine, without whom things might well have gone differently for them.

THE SENSE OF DARKNESS

by Cinzia De Santis

A world of intimacy, of smell and touch, is all Clara knows. Her blindness doesn't bother her: she is gifted with an extraordinary sense of smell which guides her through life. Raised by her aunt Trinidad in a small village in Latin America, Clara becomes a renowned healer. She can smell people's diseases and can heal them with her particular recipes. Their lives fall apart when members of a guerrilla gang bring to their home a wounded prisoner whom Clara has to heal. While she struggles to understand the feelings he produces in her, Trinidad's past returns, carrying the power of an obsessive love, but, will it be enough to save hers and Clara's lives? "...it is a story about love and magic - touched by the narrative power that Venezuelan writers can have - and also a fable that make us remember that the most important things are seen by the heart and not by the eyes" Javier Puebla, Cambio16

THE PRINCE OF TIDES: A Novel by Pat Conroy

Pat Conroy's masterpiece,a huge, brash thunderstorm of a novel, stinging with honesty and resounding with drama. Spanning forty years, this is the story of turbulent Tom Wingo, his gifted and troubled twin sister Savannah, and their struggle to triumph over the dark and tragic legacy of the extraordinary family into which they were born. Wonderfully written and a great memorable story.

PUTTING IT TOGETHER

By Artistic Director, Christian Lebano

By the time you read this we will have opened Stephen Sondheim's revue Putting it Together which we are offering in repertory (our first ever!) with Einstein is a Dummy. Estelle Campbell and I were invited to see a production of Putting it Together last Fall by Kristin Towers-Rowles who was starring in that production at another theater. We were bowled over by the wonderful performers and, of course, by the beauty of Stephen Sondheim's music and lyrics. I told Kristin (who has appeared at the Playhouse in 6 RMS RIV VU and in A Lovely Lineage – her sold-out Sunday Series tribute to her acting family) how beautifully I thought the show would fit on the SMP stage and that I thought our audiences would love it. This started a conversation between Kristin, the director-choreographer Cate Caplin and me about bringing this production to Sierra Madre. We decided not to transfer the production but to reconceive it for our theater. And now several months after first seeing the show it has opened and is everything we could have hoped for. It really is a treat for music-lovers - and it looks fantastic on our stage. I hope you'll come see (hear) it.

so grateful to all the people who made it possible donated to our production: Steinway Piano Gallery for providing the gorgeous baby grand used in SierraMadrePlayhouse.org

the show; Friar Tux of Arcadia for the handsome tuxedos; and Sierra Madre's T-Neer for once again hosting our opening night party. I am so thrilled how the community is coming together to help the Playhouse in our ambitious goal to becoming the premier intimate theater in the San Gabriel Valley.

Einstein is a Dummy is a big hit with the kids from local schools who are coming to see it. You only have four more chances for general audiences to see it at Sunday 2:30 matinees: March 22 and 29 and April 5 and 12. Please bring your kids, it really is a wonderful show - and wait until you see the video projections. SMP has never done anything on this scale (and I'm not sure we'll be able to do it again - it really taxed our resources) and it is truly magical. Putting it together" is certainly what we are trying to do at the Playhouse - as we continue to fulfill our mission to provide quality productions which celebrate the American experience. Oh, and now we are in rehearsal for The Odd Couple - boy have we put together a terrific cast for this show. You'll hear more about it soon, but I'm very excited about it.

As always we do this for you - our SMP family -This has been a big undertaking for us and we are whose support and loyalty mean so much to us and for whom we hope we bring pleasure and joy and moving but especially the community sponsors who have experiences in the theater. Please let me know how you think we are doing. Reach me at ArtisticDirector@ team composed of astronomers and biologists has measured the multicolored "chemical fingerprints" of 137 different species of microorganisms in order to help future astronomers recognize life on the surface of exoplanets (planets outside our solar system).

THE DIVERSITY OF ALIEN COLORS: HOW TO RECOGNIZE LIFE ON DISTANT PLANETS

Some of the microorganisms hail from the most extreme environments on Earth; taken together, the samples should allow for a (cautious) estimate of the diversity of biological colors on planets other than Earth. The results are available in an online catalogue and have also been published in the Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences of the United States of America (PNAS).

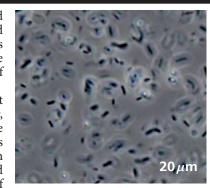

Astronomers are gearing up for a new phase of exoplanet research, teaming up with biologists to formulate search strategies for life on these distant planets. So far, these efforts have focused on what are known as indirect biosignatures, such as byproducts of life that could be detectable in a host planet's atmosphere.

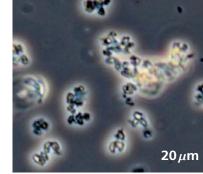

But if the surface of an exoplanet were dominated by one particular life form, a more direct form of detection might be possible: a detection based on light reflected by that life form, taking on a characteristic tint in the process.

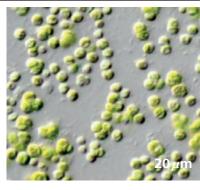

We observe planets by studying starlight reflected off their atmospheres or surfaces. When Jupiter or Venus shines brightly in the night sky, the light you see is sunlight reflected by those planets. Alien astronomers making detailed observations of Earth would notice a greenish tint when sunlight reflected by trees and other vegetation reaches their telescopes covering large swathes of an exoplanet's surface they could be. Hegde, then a graduate student at could be measured directly through the imprint left by the organism's pigmentation, the chemical makeup that determines its color. This imprint is the reflected light's spectrum: the light split up teamed up with biologist Lynn Rothschild, into its component colors, as we see in a rainbow. It is the chemical analogue of a fingerprint, allowing for the identification of different types of microorganisms.

Now, a group of astronomers and biologists led by Siddharth Hegde has teamed up to explore what

It was Tuesday, August the 14th, 1984, the last the day camp sponsored by the City of Pasadena. believed to be true. "Yes." I told them. After their lunch, I began by showing my group of children some wild edible plants. These were mostly plants that I brought to camp, because, remember, the day camp was held at Victory Park, which is a large park west of Pasadena High School, and it was mostly lawn with some introduced trees and bushes along the edges.

Next we practiced some Indian sign language of the buffalo gourd leaves which I'd brought. I demonstrated how to make soap by wetting a few leaves and then vigorously rubbing a few between my hands. It's not the best plant for making soap, but it was all that I could collect for that day. Each child then made soap from this plant and in their very excited way they cleansed their hands, splashing and yelling as they did so.

The day before, I'd hinted that we might do a raindance, and now, as the children were returning to their circle, a few were now asking with their eager voice, "Are we going to do the rain-dance now?" Once they were all seated, I explained that a rain dance is actually not just one thing, and that it could take many forms and is usually a part of a larger ceremony.

I didn't have a specific "formula" or procedure, but rather I was attempting to share several key elements with the children.

I removed my hand-made clay pipe from its container and filled it with tobacco. I carefully lit it and puffed on it. The children were silent and the teen-age counselors were not sure what to say or do. Once the pipe was smoking well, I stood in the center and blew smoke to the four directions and to the sky and to the earth. I explained to the children that I was offering my smoke as a way of giving respect and thanks, in an attitude of humility. I didn't use the word "God," but indicated that this was giving respect and thanks to a higher intelligence, a great spirit of the universe. The children watched in awe anything like this before.

smoked the pipe as it went around, and I told them not to inhale. I explained as we did this that the smoking of the pipe was a traditional sign of our friendship and unity.

Once this was done, I conducted half the children in dancing around the outer circle, as the other half clapped their hands. We all chanted a simple rain chant that I led, and the we all let up a cheer for curiously asked me as they departed.

My time with the children was over and they all departed for their next session.

"Of course," I replied with assurance. "It will rain by Saturday." Of course, I was just expressing confidence. I really had no idea whether or not this would be "effective," and I'd not checked any weather patterns. For that matter, I'd not even planned to do the rain dance until that morning.

A heavy rain fell early the following morning. By the time I arrived at the day camp on noon Counties, and clear up in Las Vegas.

[The following is an Wednesday, only a drizzle continued to fall, and excerpt from Christopher most of the day camp activities had been moved

Some of the children yelled out to me: "We made rain! We made rain!" I quickly pointed out that we didn't make anything. Rather, I told them, our request was answered.

A few children asked with open eyes, "It rained day I'd be working with some of the children at from our rain dance, didn't it?" I answered what I

> Pursuing the premise that there was a relationship between the dance and the rain, I attempted to delineate my learning:

> 1)We washed ourselves before our little ceremony. 2) We requested rain in an attitude of humility. 3) We shared the pipe in a posture of unity and > friendship. 4) We sang, chanted, and danced our ceremony not by the book" but with feeling. After that I showed the children some of 5) And perhaps most important, the ceremony was conducted by children. These children were young enough to still be uncorrupted by the limitations of adult minds. They had never been told that they couldn't invoke rain. So I believe that the innocence and lack of prejudice on the children's part was a key factor in the apparent "success" of our rain

> I found that this episode forced me to look at myself and the world very differently. What had happened here? It was the middle of August when there is usually no precipitation, and rain came within 15 or so hours of doing a rain dance.

> This led me to research the many recorded episodes of rain-making and rain ceremonies among Native American traditions, and try to find some common elements. Eventually, I compiled a file full of newspaper accounts and interviews and book excerpts all about rain ceremonies.

> The more I looked into it, and inquired, the key idea to keep in mind was that personal attitude was the essential ingredient, and that "asking for" or "praying for" rain was an inaccuracy.

> It also became clear to me that it is actually a blessing that most people are unaware that they have such a power over the elementals of nature. You could say that our ignorance protects us from the irresistible urge to abuse such ability.

I spoke to Dr. George Fishbeck, L.A. area weatherman and meteorologist, and he told me that he noted a storm off California's coast at 7 p.m. Tuesday. That evening by 11 p.m., Dr. Fishbeck said with wide eyes. I could tell that they'd never seen that he knew rain would fall, but not where. He was calling it a freak storm. Someone had called Dr. Then I passed the pipe around the circle for each Fishbeck and told him about the rain dance, so he child to take a little puff. Each child nervously already knew about it. He believed that there was no connection between the rain dance and the rain, discounting the ability of what he called "prayer" to affect the weather. Still, Fishbeck told me that he recognized and respected the sacred nature of the Southwestenr Indians' rain dances and ceremonies, having lived among the New Mexico Indians for two years as an anthropologist.

In the Los Angeles Times of August 16, 1984 on the front page, it read "First Rain of Season Snarls Traffic, Causes Blackout." The report read, "The first rainstorm of the season struck the Los Angeles "Is it really going to rain?" a few children area with surprisingly heavy showers Wednesday morning, spawning a rash of minor accidents on slick freeways and power failures affecting thousands of customers. Rainfall at the Los Angeles Civic Center measured .40 of an inch, nearly double the .21 of an inch recorded by this date last season, before tapering off in mid-morning." The report talked about auto accidents, blackouts, and flash floods up in San Bernardino and Riverside Rather smugly, she said, "Look at this article. It says that women live longer than men."

I was not quite sure what I was in for but I knew I was in for it. Throughout the decades of our relationship the word "it," has come to mean a variety of things. I never know the definition of "it" until after the incident, which puts me in a great

For example, I know I am in for "it," when I come back from the store without the main reason she sent me to the store. The "it" is a tongue lashing on the merits of getting everything on the list she puts there. According to her, the items on the list are not suggestions but are put there for a purpose and that purpose being me purchasing said items when I go to the store.

I know I am in for "it," when I lollygag (a word she uses often when speaking to me) in the backyard instead of getting to the business at hand of mowing the grass. In this occasion, the "it" is a tongue lashing on the merits of mowing the grass in a more timely manner. I know I am in for "it," when I fail to do anything on her "honey-do-list" when she is away for several days. The "it'" is a tongue lashing on the merits of doing at least one thing on that list before her

When I look at it from this light, it seems to me that more often than not, her definition of "it" is a

Getting back to women living longer than men do, I was tempted to opine that the reason is they work men to death. However, I knew if I said that I would really be in for "it."

Being experienced in husband-lore, I smiled and simply asked, "Why do you think that is, Honey?" I never really understood this matter of "the birds and the bees," until I got married. Wives have their "honey-do-lists" and husbands defer to his better half as "Honey." It does not take a birdbrain

There are all kinds of to figure that one out.

"I'll tell you why that is," my wife said with great done by people who have feeling. "The reason women live longer than men is nothing more important in the world to do. It is that men don't have enough work to do."

Then she threw an old quote that I have heard all topics and studies. There must be somebody my life, "Man works from sun up to sun down, but I could have said that men do not lollygag

Usually, I do not pay much attention to these around, but just get to the job at hand and gets it rveys. I have more important things to do... like done. I knew if I responded like this I would really

"Another thing," she said with a smirk, "the reason women live an average of four years longer I was afraid the Gracious Mistress of the than men is it takes that long to clean up the mess men have made after they die."

There are arguments you cannot refute and then there are arguments you should not refute. I am not sure which category this one fell under but I knew I needed to have a "golden" moment.

Of course, it is hard to argue with statistics. The cold hard facts are that women do live on an average four years longer than men.

If the wife works outside the home, she still has to work inside the home. The man, on the other hand, works outside the home and "lollygags' inside the home. I'm not sure why this is but this is a point on her side of the chalkboard.

There was a time in our marriage when I was out of work and my wife was the primary breadwinner in the home. At that time, I took on the duties of the house and the care of the children. After one week of her coming home to my home-cooked dinners, she graciously assumed the responsibility of cooking supper for the family each night when she got home. It was not a matter of convenience but rather of survival. To say I was a bad cook is to denigrate the word cook.

I do not know if this longevity is different between a single woman and a married woman.

If anybody was an expert on wives, it has to be King Solomon in the Old Testament.

"House and riches are the inheritance of fathers: and a prudent wife is from the LORD." (Proverbs 19:14 KIV)

'Whoso findeth a wife findeth a good thing, and obtaineth favour of the LORD." (Proverbs 18:22

Perhaps the primary reason women live longer than a man is that women lie about their age. But you didn't hear it from me.

- By and large, mothers and housewives are the only workers who do not have regular time off. They are the great vacation-less class.
- Most women with children will put their children's needs before their own.
- Women earn 78% less than men and are at risk of a compromised lifestyle if they and their husband do not plan well for a future in which his income is no longer there.
- The history of all times and of today especially, teaches that women will be forgotten if they forget to think about themselves. - Louise Otto

Women, you especially, need to know the following about estate planning:

Kids Protection Planning provides parents with important legal tools to name short- and long-term guardians, gives instructions and guidelines for those guardians and executes medical powers of attorney that allow you to dictate medical care for your minor children in case they are injured and you are not with them.

A will and a living trust are both essential estate planning tools, and although both can be used to transfer assets upon death, they serve separate purposes. A living trust takes effect when you become incapacitated or after death. It allows you to hold assets for your benefit during your life and transfer those assets, without the need for probate, after your death. A will only takes effect upon death and is used to cover assets that do not need to go through probate.

Make sure your partner/spouse has life insurance to support you and your children for as long as you will need support in the event of their death. Women often don't have their own life insurance if they don't bring in an income. This is a mistake. Think about the cost of finding someone to handle your responsibilities if you aren't able to take care of them yourself and secure enough life insurance to cover those costs.

HARDER THAN IT LOOKS

With markets so rapidly changing, it's easy to imagine how property appraisers might sit in a darkened room, waving their hands over a crystal ball, and producing the mysterious and all-powerful document of a home's value. Let's dispel the notion of magical figures and look more carefully at

When comparing against similar properties, it's not just the final price that counts. Appraisers also factor in any "incentives" offered, such as sellers who pay closing costs or remodeling allowances.

Perhaps the most important factor that lenders review in an appraisal is the closing dates of the "comparables" (other homes by which yours is measured). Unfortunately, with today's stricter lending requirements, most "comps" must have sold within the last 60 or even 45 days to carry weight.

Markets change so quickly that any sale price over two months old may be completely irrelevant. Now a few words about how foreclosures in a neighborhood affect determination of value. Technically, appraisers shouldn't consider them, because they don't fit the Appraisal Institute's definition of "a property reasonably exposed in a competitive market." However, if several area homes have been abandoned, we know the negative effect that can have on a home's "perceived" value.

COLOR EXPLORER: FIND YOUR HEX VALUES

Colors play an important role in brand recognition. Sometimes I can't remember the name brand of a product I'm looking for at the market. But, I still find the product because I remember the color of the container!

Big brands like McDonalds, Starbucks, Pepsi and Coca-Cola are very particular about consistent color use. You should be too!

Have you ever been asked for the HEX (hexadecimal) values for the colors in your brand?

Different on-line tools often allow you to plug in a specific color # (HEX value). For example, in Constant Contact, you might want to match a background color, headline or graphic element to a color in your logo to tie it all together. That's good design technique.

I recently discovered a cool tool at a Constant HEX colors a snap.

Color Explorer (www.colorexplorer.com) is free to use. It allows you to easily create, manage and evaluate color palettes for your web designs, email campaigns, Canva creations and much more.

With Color Explorer, you can simply upload your logo or an image, and it will extract a complete color palette of all the colors in that image. It will give you the HEX value as well as the RGB values.

I suggest that you print out your brand's color palette and keep it handy as you create email campaigns, graphics in Canva.com and other online tools.

DEATH TAX REPEAL IS LONG OVERDUE

On April 13, 2005 the House of Representatives voted overwhelmingly, 272 to 162, to permanently repeal the federal estate tax, also known as the death tax. But in the ten years since, they have all but dropped the issue. A stunning 236 of the current members of the House have never had an opportunity to vote on it. Fortunately, the Ways & Means Committee under Chairman Paul Ryan (R-Wis.)

will soon consider a bill, H.R. 1105, written by Reps. Kevin Brady (R-Texas) and Sanford Bishop (D-Ga.) that would repeal the death tax. House leadership should bring it to the floor before April's tenth anniversary of the last such vote, because it's a winning issue both politically and economically.

Polls consistently show the death tax is hated by the American people. A 2006 study by two Yale professors, Mayling Birney and Ian Shapiro, did a comprehensive review of this issue. They said: "Many polls since the late 1990s have shown widespread public support for estate tax repeal, in the range of 60, 70 or 80 percent. Moreover, supporters appear to be spread more or less equally across income groups, contrary to what selfinterest would predict."

The study's remarkable findings, which confounded the study's authors, belie the claim that strong public support for repeal depends on misunderstanding or misleading information. They found surprisingly high public support regardless of who asked the questions or how they were phrased.

Most recently, a November 2014 survey by Public Opinion Strategies that asked the neutral question: "Do you personally favor or oppose completely eliminating the estate tax, that is, the tax on property left by people to their family when they die?" found the public supports repeal by a typically robust 61 to 35 percent margin, with even a majority of Democrats supporting repeal.

Americans fundamentally do not believe that death should be a taxable event. The Founders of our country believed this so strongly that they included a clause in the U.S. Constitution that forbids seizing an estate at death as a punishment for treason. Yet, we now have a tax on the books that takes up to 40 percent of everything a person leaves to his or her children as a punishment for success, for achieving the American Dream. The death tax punishes virtue and rewards vice. It tells older Americans: "You can't take it with you, and you can't leave it to your kids." So it discourages and punishes the traditional American virtues of hard work and thrift, savings, and investment, while it encourages lavish, reckless consumption.

That has serious economic consequences. A broad coalition of free-market and business groups organized by the Family Business Coalition recently noted in a letter to Congress that multiple recent studies show repeal would create over 100,000 jobs, and that the tax is responsible for the destruction of $1.1 trillion in capital. A new study from the Tax Foundation finds that the U.S. now has the fourth highest death tax in the OECD and that 13 countries have completely repealed their death taxes since 2000. They found repeal would boost the U.S. capital stock 2.2 percent, resulting in a net increase in federal revenues.

The bottom line is the death tax is wrong, and advocates of economic freedom shouldn't be afraid to say so and fight for full repeal. While liberal editorial pages and cable news talkers will shriek about it, the American people strongly support repeal. The House has a great opportunity to do the right thing by bringing H.R. 1105 to the floor for a vote, and, with the tenth anniversary of the last vote approaching, they should do so as soon as possible.

THINK OF THE CHILDREN!

'What about the children?"

Politicians of both parties often stoop to using our children as props whenever they're fighting for a new law or pet government program. They argue we need to cut the $18 trillion debt, regulate the Internet or pay teachers more "for our children." Think of the children" is almost always an emotional and irrational appeal made in desperation by those who don't have a reasonable or legitimate argument.

Invoking "the children" is pure BS. It's obvious political BS. But it's BS that's been used for a long time by Democrats and Republicans.

It became so common that it was satirized way back in the early 1990s in the "The Simpsons," when the character Helen Lovejoy constantly shrieked "Think of the children" during town debates over everything from lowering taxes to what to do about too many bears roaming the Despite becoming a cultural joke, using "the children" as emotional weapons in political warfare still goes on all the time.

Every other lousy politician in Washington who wants to tax, subsidize or regulate something still claims he's doing it "for the children" -- whether it's saving the planet from climate change, giving amnesty to illegal immigrants or intervening in Syria. But when it comes to passing a piece of legislation that will actually do something to help hundreds of thousands of real children, it's another story.

As part of the latest parliamentary maneuvering and cat-fighting between Democrats and Republicans, the passage of the Justice for Victims of Trafficking Act of 2015 has been delayed

Passed by the House, and having broad bipartisan support, the act would strike an important blow in the fight against human sex trafficking.

The act would create a fund to help authorities in the USA deter and combat sex trafficking, prosecute traffickers when they are caught and provide assistance to private groups that work to rescue and restore the lives of trafficking victims - most of whom are children.

We hear little about it, but human trafficking is a serious problem in the United States and around the globe. The U.S. State Department estimates there are 27 million victims of trafficking worldwide. Human trafficking is a $32 billion industry involving more than 125 countries. The majority of victims are women and girls who are forcibly trafficked from one place to another to do work or provide sex, usually under horribly unsafe and unhygienic conditions. The United States is not untouched by this crime against children. Experts say 17,500 people are trafficked into the U.S. each year and about 300,000 American children, particularly children in foster care, are continually at risk of being pulled into the hell of human trafficking.

According to the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children, the typical sextrafficked child in the United States is 13 or 14 years old. The average pimp makes upwards of $200,000 a year from one of his four to eight children, who are forced to have sex 20 to 48 times

Private organizations like the Polaris Project and Arrow Child and Family Ministries in Texas, which I'm affiliated with, are working hard to educate the public about the horrors of sex-trafficking and rescue as many young victims as they can.

But it's a huge job and the public and private resources to do it are spread thin and hard to

With the Justice for Victims of Trafficking Act, Republicans and Democrats are in a great position to actually do something "for the children" instead of just talking about it. For now the act has become another bargaining chip in Washington's never-ending private

It will pass eventually. Even Congress gets it right once in a while. But it's time for politicians to quit playing politics with the lives of our children.
