IS THIS SIERRA MADRE?

On Friday, Sierra Madre was challenged with two significant traffic problems, both on N. Sunnyside

Once a year, residents on N. This year, the line of cars created what looked like a 'Sig' Alert, as cars were moving at less than 1 mile per hour, and sometimes not at all.

Last week, however, there must have been a fire sale on Sierra Madre as SMPD Police Chief Larry Gianonne noted that the department had received more than 100 calls from residents reported having been contacted by the con artists. Most of these reports were prompted by report of an abduction of a local resident that was linked to such a scam. On Thursday, April 2nd, SMPD

Can you imagine 600 pounds of rainbow trout available for our young fisherfolk to catch! We ran into one gentleman Saturday afternoon picking up his delighted son, who had two really splendid trout in his net. They were planning their barbeque for that evening and they might even do it like this:

- 2 trout, cleaned and head removed
- $\frac{1}{4}$  cup dry white wine (and now that you've opened that bottle, you might as well have a glass, too.)
- 2 Tb butter, melted
- 1 TB lemon juice 2 Tb chopped fresh parsley
- Salt & pepper to taste
- 1. Preheat your grill for medium-high heat.
- 2. On a flat surface, lay out two sheets of aluminum foil about 18" long so they overlap to make one long wide sheet. Rinse your trout and pat dry. Lay them in the center of the foil about 2 inches apart. Sprinkle with the white wine, melted butter and lemon juice. Season with parsley, salt and pepper. Fold the foil up loosely around the fish and crimp the seams to seal.
- 3. Place the packet on the grill and cook for 15 to 20 minutes or until fish is cooked through.

POLICE MARCH ON CITY HALL OVER PAY

By Dean Lee

Pasadena police officers packed the city hall council chambers Monday night after marching across the street from the police department headquarters, with protest signs, as a public outcry over pay raises and working conditions.

"The police department is in a state of crisis and we need your assistance," Pasadena Police Officer Veronica Burris told the city council. "We are at a point where many of our most experienced officers are looking to work elsewhere... we are at a point where we cannot keep seasoned, well-trained, police officers. Nor can we fill the void of departing officers with qualified applicants."

Burris said to terms of wages, salaries and benefits the department had also failed to keep pace with other surrounding departments. She said the Pasadena Police Officers Association was in a second year of an unsigned contract, because city management has failed to meet with our association to hash out the differences." Burris said as many as 25 officers had left the department.

Other unnamed members of the Pasadena Police Officers Association said more than 150 police officers were involved in the protest. They also said the department morale is at an all-time low due to Pasadena Police Chief Phillip Sanchez and his command staff, Deputy Chief Darryl Qualls and Commander John Perez.

"I don't think there is a more important service that we offer our residents and our business than Council public safety, Member Steve Madison said. "And I personally will do my level best to remedy this situation. I think compensation is a piece of it, I think the working conditions are a piece of it and I also happen to believe we all in our community need to do a better job of valuing our men and woman in our public safety departments."

ARCADIA

FORMER PALACE GUARD NEW ARCADIA CHAMBER PRESIDENT ANDREW GREGSON OF THE EXECUTIVE FACTOR TAKES OVER APRIL 1

ARCADIA, CA (March 31, 2015) - About 225 attendees of Thursday's annual Arcadia Chamber of Commerce Installation Dinner did a double-take at the man wearing a kilt who was introduced as the new President of the Chamber for 2015-16. His name is Andrew Gregson and Chamber members can take comfort in the fact that this man responsible for protecting the interests of the Chamber for the next year is a soldier who once stood guard at Buckingham Palace and guarded Queen Elizabeth's II crown jewels, at the Tower of London. His outfit March 26 was his military dress uniform from his seven years of service in the 1st Battalion Scots Guards (Her Majesty's Armed Forces). During that time he was awarded the General Service Medal for active service in Northern Ireland and the 1991 Gulf Clasp Medal for active service in the first Gulf war.

In 2010, Andrew became client relations director for Arcadia-based Hart, Mieras & Morris Inc. law firm. That's also when he met his wife Tricia who partnered with him to create the innovative office suite service company called The Executive Factor at 255 E Santa Clara St., which is where he began his connection with the Arcadia Chamber of Commerce.

Andrew credits much of the early success of that business venture to the Chamber's networking opportunities and pro-active promotional outreach. The Executive Factor was named the Arcadia Chamber's New Business Member of the Year in 2011-12 and Andrew was quickly tapped to join the Chamber's Executive Committee as Vice President.

Andrew has taken the volunteer position seriously, immediately offering to produce videos for any Chamber member at a bargain-basement price and helping produce the Chamber video "Arcadia's Got it All." He produced Chamber seminars about Microsoft Office 2010 that led to the Chamber getting free copies of that expensive software, set up personalized Excel spreadsheet training for Chamber staff at no charge, and this year he has already conducted two informative and well-attended "Flash Course" seminars on behalf of the Chamber.

The popular new Red Carpet Experience at the Installation Dinner and Taste of Arcadia the past two years was the brainchild of Andrew, and he has developed an ambitious Chamber Community Member program that could catapult Chamber membership and retail business membership

Andrew is anxious to make this year one of the best yet for the Arcadia Chamber and he looks forward to overseeing the special 50th anniversary celebration of the iconic Chamber office building in November that will culminate a three-year interior renovation and include the opening of a time capsule buried in 1965 and the burial of a new time capsule.

This new position as President of the Arcadia Chamber seems to have been Andrew's destiny since he officially takes over on the same day as his birthday, April 1 – and that's no joke!

CALVARY CHAPEL MONROVIA UPDATE

This past week, Calvary Chapel Monrovia held an informational meeting at Krikorian Theatres for the Old Town business community to discuss their proposed plans for acquiring the current 4th Dimension building on Myrtle Avenue. There were around a dozen individuals in attendance to hear Calvary Chapel Monrovia's plans to operate a bookstore and a coffee shop, in addition to their church operations, at the current 4th Dimension facility. The feedback from the business community was generally positive, however, the overall proposal is not yet finalized. Calvary Chapel Monrovia reported at the meeting that they still need to raise 20% of their required down payment in order to finalize the acquisition of the building. Furthermore, from a land-use perspective, Calvary Chapel Monrovia will also need to obtain a Conditional Use Permit from the City in order to operate out of the current 4th Dimension building. Staff is planning on meeting with representatives of Calvary Chapel Monrovia within the next several weeks to discuss next steps in their proposed project and we will continue to monitor this situation moving forward.

JUST FOR BEST FRIENDS

HER BROTHER'S KEEPER

I believe God created the dog with a capacity to feel, among many things, empathy and compassion. Perhaps not to the same extent that we humans experience these emotions, but in a somewhat similar way. I didn't used to believe this. When I was younger I thought it would be sacrilegious to assign that much meaning to an animal's way of thinking, but having spent countless hours with numerous dogs of all types over the years, I am now totally convinced it is so. And I believe that God planned it that way - to create a loveable creature that would properly manage the task of encouraging and loving those around them. God knows we humans have managed to botch that one up more often than not! Good that we have the dog to come to our rescue.

All one has to do is simply observe the behavior of a canine for a short while, to begin to understand that there is more going on inside than initially meets the eye. Here is a perfect example of what I'm trying to say; Among the many fantastic furry four-leggers I have on my friends list, are two pups named Bo and Dixie. They live together along with two cats, Gus & Darby and their two humans, Jim & Janis. The two dogs are not blood-related nor are they the exact same breed - Bo is a cute curly-haired, standard size Labradoodle and Dixie is a sweet, petite purebred yellow lab - yet they clearly regard one another as complete equals and show full mutual respect.

Although they come from different backgrounds and there is a healthy gap between their two ages - Bo is 11 years old and Dixie is a mere youngster at the age of 3 - they hit it off right away. They became instant friends and have been getting along famously since the first day they met. I should probably explain that prior to Dixie's arrival on Bo's turf, he had had another sisterdog named Loucie, several years his senior, who passed away a few years ago. Now, Dixie just so happens to resemble Loucie, and remarkably so. And, during that "between time" after Loucie's death and before Dixie's arrival, I must say poor Bo was beside himself. He would cry anytime he was left alone.

So, now Bo has a new little sister named Dixie and she is one of the sweetest, kindest, most thoughtful dogs I believe I've ever met. You might be wondering how I know all that about a dog who can't talk to me and tell me what she thinks or feels. Well, I'll tell you how I know all that...I know it from the way she behaves! She doesn't have to talk the talk, because she walks the walk.

When Dixie came into Bo's life, he suddenly gained a new attitude. He has always been a gentle giant, always wanting to meet and interact with others, regardless of their species. But after Loucie died, he seemed depressed and lonely. That is, until Jim and Janis introduced Dixie to the family. That's when the lights came back on in Bo's gorgeous golden eyes. It was like giving a child a new toy! He walked with renewed vigor, with his thick curly tail wagging wildly back and forth, nodding his darling head up and down like a pony who just won at show. Yes, that Bo was one happy boy again when Dixie came along.

It has been a couple of years since Bo and Dixie first met and moved in together, and they are absolutely inseparable now. They share a bond stronger than words can describe. Dixie assumed her role as little sister so graciously, and Bo invited her in with open paws. Their body language and behavior toward each other tells it all. It is a love story extraordinaire! You see, Bo is moving up in his years and his body sometimes lags behind his young mind and energetic attitude. It is obvious that, if given the opportunity to have a new body, that big ole boy would jump at the chance to live forever.

Bo just loves to go for walks in hopes of meeting new people. I mean, that is his favorite part about getting out. Most dogs that I know are content to be led on leash, just to sniff all the great scents along the way. But for Bo, it's all about socializing! Every time he sees a person nearby while we are out and about, he immediately starts getting ready to greet them. That person might be half a block away, and his tail is already swishing to and fro with anticipation of having an interlude with a perfect stranger.

Oh, the lessons I learn from my canine companions. They are excellent teachers of kindness and good character. Dixie could easily run ahead of her older brother and leave him behind to fend for himself. But, no, she would never do that. She makes a point of walking within the range that she knows Bo can keep up with. Some days Bo's joints just don't want to work as smoothly as his youthful mind does, so he has to move a little slower than he'd prefer. As we move along at Bo's comfortable pace, Dixie leads the way but she is constantly looking over her shoulder to make sure Bo is close behind, because (I believe) she is truly concerned about her big brother.

I am absolutely sure that Dixie knows Bo is dealing with an aging body, and she wants to comfort him. She has an uncanny way of going slow so Bo can keep up, without letting him know! To me that exhibits respect for his dignity, and, yes...empathy and compassion. There is no doubt in my mind that this is what is going on inside the mind of that darling little lab. She could easily show Bo up by running ahead as if to win the race, but instead she does whatever it takes to make him feel like he is top dog.

I love Dixie and Bo so much, just as I love all the precious pups I get to spend time with. I really don't know what I would do without them in my life. Of course, I have a human family and plenty of human friends, but there is nothing like having a close relationship with a kind canine. I hope you, too, are blessed with that kind of friendship. If so, don't forget to observe and learn from your four-legged friends. Don't forget to appreciate every moment you have with them. They are truly gifts from God. And, as always, don't forget to love and let live!

Heathcliff: Animal ID #A4812231

Those looking for an endless amount of puppy love, look no further and meet Heathcliff (A4812231)! Heathcliff is an intoxicatingly cute 1-year-old black-and-tan male Miniature Pinscher puppy who was found in Monrovia on March 26th with Charlotte [A4812232] and brought to the Baldwin Park Animal Care Center. Weighing 8 1/2 lbs, Heathcliff is a classic puppy. Sadly, he is very scared in the new and uncertain shelter environment. But at his size, we don't blame him! Heathcliff is very bonded with his buddy, Charlotte. He simply lights up when around her, and he gains confidence in her company. He also enjoys the company of people—especially when held like a baby and carried around in their arms. Heathcliff is ready to learn the training basics that all young pups need to grow into the best dogs they can be. Since he seems so new to the ways of the world, we think he will be great for a family looking to share in this growing experience, or even first timedog owners. And since he is so bonded with Charlotte, we would love to see the two of them ride off into sunset together toward the same forever home. In any case, we know that whoever adopts Heathcliff will be lucky to call themselves his pet parents! ### EINSTEIN AND RELATIVITY

By Artistic Director, Christian Lebano

If you think this essay will in anyway explain Einstein's Theory of Relativity boy will you be disappointed - what I mean is relativity in the sense of relationship and connection! When I sold the Board of the Playhouse on launching our Field Trip series it was for a few reasons: my belief that young people need to experience quality theater if we are to have any hope of engaging them as adults, that to fulfill my vision of making SMP a leading artistic venue in the San Gabriel Valley we had to include an educational component to our work, and that reaching out to local schools was a great way to build relationships in the community and with families who might not know our work. I think we've succeeded at all three.

Einstein is a Dummy with its talented casts (we double-cast every role so that we'll always have a full cast available for each show) and a truly spectacular use of projections - the first in our history - has built on the success we had last year with Battledrum. By the time we close we'll have performed 19 days of school matinees for 14 different schools and over 1400 students. Many of the schools which attended this year were new to our program and some were from out of our district - Los Angeles, South Pasadena and Monrovia schools all attended for the first time - getting the word out wide of what we are offering here at the Playhouse. Special thanks to Frank Zgonc, a new SMP Board member, for finding a grant which allowed Monrovia students to come to the show. If anyone knows of other sources of funding for local schools, please let me know, next year we hope to expand our Field Trip Series to all the surrounding School Districts, but public schools rarely have the discretionary funds that allow them to make these kind of field trips.

In addition to the school matinees, Einstein has performed Sunday matinees at 2:30 for general audiences. I must admit that I'm disappointed that these haven't sold as well as I'd hoped. As a parent of a 9 year old (who has seen the show 5 times) I know that there are limited options locally for theater appropriate for kids. I thought that with only one opportunity each week that the show would sell really well to local families. If anyone has any ideas for why this hasn't been so, please let me know. And if you have been meaning to attend, but just haven't gotten around to it yet - you have a four more chances: this Sunday, Easter, at 2:30; we've added two evening shows, Friday & Saturday, April 10 and 11 at 8:00; and a final Sunday matinee on April 12 at 2:30. I hope that we'll see you at one of these shows.

I don't yet have the rights, so I can't yet tell you what show we are planning for next year, but it has BIG name recognition and will be directed by someone everyone in town knows. Stay tuned for that announcement.

As always we do all this for you - our SMP family - whose support and loyalty mean so much to us and for whom we hope we bring pleasure and joy and moving experiences in the theater. Please let me know how you think we are doing. Reach me at ArtisticDirector@ SierraMadrePlayhouse.org

SEAN'S SHAMELESS REVIEWS: DEATH CAB FOR CUTIE - 'KINTSUGI'

By Sean Kayden

Cab For Cutie has been departed late last year. While 'Kintsugi' is the indie heavyweight's eight-studio album, they feel innovative again. After a pair ('Narrow Stairs' and 'Codes & Keys') of moderately disappointing level. attempts, the band's first record in four years is a welcoming return to form. In fact, this may be considered one of their finest endeavors over the span of their lengthy career. 'Kintsugi' is a breakup record, but suggests much more than just that. While the single, "Black Sun" was admittedly less than stellar on first listen; everything else found on 'Kintsugi' is simply breathtaking. Death Cab For Cutie makes one excited again for the future of rock music. For the future of music period is more like it. They are establishing a much-needed new lease on life for the age-old expression, "indie rock." Songs like "Everything's A Ceiling" and "El Dorado" are the purest form of bliss. These two has ever crafted, but the results are remarkable in every possible way. However, the impressiveness that surrounds this record doesn't end just there.

"No Room in Frame" kicks off the record in winning spirit. Ben Gibbard's provides his usual sweet vocals with a powerful sounding chorus. It seems like a song written about his former wife, circumstance, Gibbard's is constructing his best music in years now. "The Ghosts of Beverly Drive" is another strong addition to the band's repertoire. With Rich Costey producing the album, (the first time guitarist Chris Walla didn't produce a DCFC album), the results are spacey synth textures and crisply propulsive beats. It's such a lively record with potent lyrics that allows melancholy to blend Grade: 9 out of 10

Here's a band that needs with uplifting undertones. "You've Haunted Me no introduction. Death All My Life" slows down the record a bit with the strumming of guitar and mellow synth layers together for 17 years, but floating in the background. Gibbard pours out original guitarist and his heart in such an effective and powerful way. producer Chris Walla This is the first album in awhile from DCFC you'll genuinely be entirely moved by. The stories that are unraveling are absolutely universal for anyone and everybody to relate to on some emotional

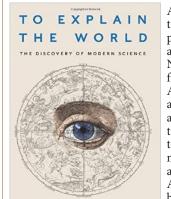

> Death Cab For Cutie Artist: Album: Kintsugi Atlantic Records Label: March 31st, 2015 Release Date:

As I mentioned before, "Everything's A Ceiling," is distinctively beautiful. With lyrical elegance and an inherent sadness, it's a stirring experience from beginning to end. "El Dorado" keeps driving forward with slick guitar riffs, atmospheric synths and faster paced drums than tracks aren't anything like Death Cab For Cutie most Death Cab For Cutie songs. "Ingenue" is another appealing track with Gibbard releases pure catharsis. The ballad "Binary Sea" closes out the album on a lovely number. Death Cab For Cutie expands beyond their natural sound for something much different, something that feels exceptional again. It's a refreshing new beginning for a band steadily formulating good albums even if their last two were slightly misguided. With actress Zooey Deschanel. While it's an unfortunate a new mentality in mind and traveling down a brand new road, Death Cab For Cutie is born again. As a whole, 'Kintsugi' may very well be one of the best albums 2015 will have to offer.

TO EXPLAIN THE WORLD: THE DISCOVERY OF MODERN SCIENCE by Steven Weinberg

A masterful commentary on the history of science from the Greeks to modern times, by Nobel Prize-winning physicist Steven Weinberg-a thoughtprovoking and important book by one of the most distinguished scientists and intellectuals of our time. In this rich, irreverent, and compelling history, Nobel Prize-winning physicist Steven Weinberg takes us across centuries from ancient Miletus to medieval Baghdad and Oxford, from Plato's Academy and the Museum of Alexandria to the cathedral school of Chartres and the Royal Society of London. He shows that the scientists of ancient and medieval times not only did not understand what we understand about the world—they did not understand what there is to understand, or how to understand it. Yet over the centuries, through the struggle to solve such mysteries as the curious backward movement of the planets and the rise and fall of the tides, the modern discipline of science eventually emerged. Along the way, Weinberg examines historic clashes and collaborations between science and the competing spheres of religion, technology, poetry, mathematics, and philosophy. An illuminating exploration of the way we consider and analyze the world around us, To Explain the World is a sweeping, ambitious account of how difficult it was to discover the goals and methods of modern science, and the impact of this discovery on human knowledge and development.

EMPTY MANSIONS: THE MYSTERIOUS LIFE OF HUGUETTE CLARK AND THE SPENDING OF A GREAT AMERICAN by Bill Dedman

When Pulitzer Prize winning journalist Bill Dedman noticed in 2009 a grand home for sale, unoccupied for nearly sixty years, he stumbled through a surprising portal into American history. Empty Mansions is a rich mystery of wealth and loss, connecting the Gilded Age opulence of the nineteenth century with a twenty-first-century battle over a $300 million inheritance. At its heart is a reclusive heiress named Huguette Clark, a woman so secretive that, at the time of her death at age 104, no new photograph of her had been seen in decades. Though she owned palatial homes in California, New York, and Connecticut, why had she lived for twenty years in a simple hospital room, despite being in excellent health? Why were her valuables being sold off? Was she in control of her fortune, or controlled by those managing her money?Dedman has collaborated with Huguette Clark's cousin, Paul Clark Newell, Jr., one of the few relatives to have frequent conversations with her. Dedman and Newell tell a fairy tale in reverse: the bright, talented daughter, born into a family of extreme wealth and privilege, who secrets herself away from the outside world. Huguette was the daughter of self-made copper industrialist W. A. Clark, nearly as rich as Rockefeller in his day, a controversial senator, railroad builder, and founder of Las Vegas. She grew up in the largest house in New York City, a remarkable dwelling with 121 rooms for a family of four. She owned paintings by Degas and Renoir, a world-renowned Stradivarius violin, a vast collection of antique dolls. But wanting more than treasures, she devoted her wealth to buying gifts for friends and strangers alike, to quietly pursuing her own work as an artist, and to guarding the privacy she valued above all else. The Clark family story spans nearly all of American history in three generations, from a log cabin in Pennsylvania to mining camps in the Montana gold rush, from backdoor politics in Washington to a distress call from an elegant Fifth Avenue apartment. The same Huguette who was touched by the terror attacks of 9/11 held a ticket nine decades earlier for a first-class stateroom on the second voyage of the Titanic. Empty Mansions reveals a complex portrait of the mysterious Huguette and her intimate circle. We meet her extravagant father, her publicity-shy mother, her star-crossed sister, her French boyfriend, her nurse who received more than $30 million in gifts, and the relatives fighting to inherit Huguette's copper fortune. Richly illustrated with more than seventy photographs, it is an enthralling story of an eccentric of the highest order, a last jewel of the Gilded Age who lived life on her own terms.

There are certainly advantages to drinking wine with the "closure" being a screw top. There are no bottle openers, no cork residue, plus screw tops don't contaminate the wine like some corks tend to do. In fact, 75% of the wine in Australia now has a screw top. As recently as last week, I was at a wine and cheese party and was making fun of the "screw top" wines that my friends buy. The conversation turned to "Have you ever had the Seven Daughters Cabernet?" Why no, I hadn't. I quickly checked my own wine snobbishness and decided to give it a try.

Seven Daughters is named after the seven grapes that the winery uses to produce a host of varieties of wine (sorry, there weren't seven daughters to be found for this story). I enjoyed a glass of their cabernet with dinner at home,

"Dining with Dills"

Sundays at Noon

and I can agree with my recent host that screw tops have come a long way. To this end, I suggest allowing it to breathe for a little while when consuming straight out of the bottle. The tannins were soft, the color was a dreamy ruby red, and the taste was right up there with any of the $20

California cabernets that I have written about in the last year. For $10 you can't go wrong with this well-balanced cabernet from the Monterey area of the Central Coast. It's a picnic wine, for sure. Consider pairing it with glazed spare ribs, pizza or even a rotisserie chicken. Seven Daughters also produces a pinot noir and a chardonnay in the same price range.

Dills Score

Each week I will give you my Dills Score. Starting with a base of 50 points, I have added 8 points for color, 8 points for aroma or "nose", 8 points for taste, 8 points for finish, and 8 points for my overall impression, which includes my value rating.

Total Score 88

THE IMPORTANCE OF PREPARING FOR POTENTIAL INCAPACITY

Have you thought about the possibility that it comes to your medical care. This document you or your spouse could become incapable of must also be executed prior to any incapacitation handling your own medical or financial affairs? Avoiding the need for a conservatorship – the process whereby someone is appointed by a court to assume responsibility for the property or the personal welfare of an incapacitated adult - is

A serious illness or accident can happen suddenly at any age. And, as Americans are living longer than ever, we have a greater likelihood of experiencing senility, dementia, Alzheimer's disease, or a host of other ailments during our golden years, any of which will affect our ability to make sound decisions about healthcare, or to pay bills, write checks, make deposits, sell assets, or otherwise manage our affairs.

The best way to avoid the need for expensive and burdensome conservatorship proceedings is through estate planning tools like these:

Durable Financial Powers of Attorney Executing a durable power of attorney enables you to name a conservator to act on your behalf if you become incapacitated. The conservator is empowered to handle all your financial and business affairs in case you cannot do so yourself. Although it can become effective immediately, it only becomes active if or when you become incapacitated. To be valid, it must be executed prior to any incapacitation.

Advance Health Care Directives -- Executing an advance health care directive designates someone to serve as your agent for making health care decisions in the event of your incapacitation. This can include temporary hospitalizations or end-of-life care, and your choice should be someone you trust to honor your wishes when

to be valid.

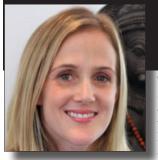

Revocable Living Trusts -- Executing a revocable living trust avoids the need for conservatorship proceedings by designating a successor trustee to serve during a period of incapacity. You can serve as co-trustee along with a trusted person or financial institution of your choice. If you become incapacitated, the co-trustee you have designated will take over the management of your assets held in the trust. Remember though, this is only valid if your property is properly titled in the name of your Living Trust before incapacity. One of the main goals of my law practice is to help families like yours plan for the protection of yourself and your loved ones. If you're ready to start thinking about your own estate planning, call my office today to schedule a time for us to sit down and talk.

LEG CRAMPS AT NIGHT? YOU MAY NEED POTASSIUM.

Less than 2% of Americans get an adequate intake of potassium. This is because we don't eat enough plant foods. When you think of a food source for potassium, how many of you immediately thought of bananas? Bananas are a good source of potassium but there are almost 50 better ones. Every cell in the human body requires potassium to function. Potassium is an electrolyte or a mineral which means it helps your body to conduct electricity. People who eat a potassium rich diet have a lower risk of stroke. They also have lower levels of inflammation. Not enough potassium in our diets can cause fatigue, irritability, and even hypertension (high blood pressure). If you occasionally get nighttime leg cramps, they could be caused by insufficient potassium. Here is a list of some great foods that are very high in potassium and most if not all are higher than bananas:

Avocados Pumpkin Parsnips Papaya Raisins Edamame Sweet Potatoes Winter Squash White beans Prunes Acorn Squash French beans

Dried apricots Spinach (raw) Dark Leafy Greens (raw) Seaweed White potatoes w/skins Beet Greens (cooked)

Give your body the potassium that it needs. Be sure and include plenty of these foods in your diet.

Good news, everyone has insurance. Bad news, it is expensive and covers less.

SOCIAL SECURITY OFFERS LUMP SUM PAYOUTS TO RETIREES

Dear Savvy Senior:

I've heard that Social Security offers a lump-sum payment to retirees who need some extra cash. I have not yet started drawing my benefits and would like to investigate this option. What can you tell me? Almost Retired

Dear Almost:

There are actually two different kinds of Social Security claiming strategies that can provide retirees a big lump-sum benefit, but you need to be past full retirement age to be eligible, and there are financial drawbacks you need to be aware of too.

First, let's review the basics. Remember that while workers can begin drawing their Social Security retirement benefits anytime between ages 62 and 70, full retirement age is currently 66 for those born between 1943 and 1954, but it rises in two-month increments to 67 for those born in 1960 and later. You can find your full retirement age at ssa.gov/pubs/ ageincrease.htm.

At full retirement age, you are entitled to 100 percent of your benefits. If you claim earlier you'll receive less, while if you delay you'll get more roughly 8 percent more for each year until age 70.

Lump Sum Options

If you are past full retirement age, and have not yet filed for your benefits, the Social Security Administration offers a retroactive lump-sum payment that's worth six months of benefits.

Here's how it works. Let's say you were planning to delay taking your Social Security benefits past age 66, but you changed your mind at 66 and six months. You could then claim a lump-sum payment equal to those six months of benefits. So, for instance, if your full retirement age benefit were $2,000, you would be entitled to a $12,000 lump sum payment.

If you decided at age 66 and four months that you wanted to file retroactively, you'd get only four months' worth of benefits in your lump sum, because SSA rules prohibit you from claiming benefits that pre-date your full retirement age.

Another option that provides even more cash is the "file and suspend" strategy. Again, this option is only available to people on (or after) full retirement and you decide to delay your benefits. You could file for your benefit and then immediately suspend it. This gives you the ability to collect a lump sum going back to the date you filed. So if you need money at age 69 for example, and your full retirement age benefit was $2,000, you could get a three-year lump sum of

Drawbacks

The big downside to these strategies is that once you accept a lump-sum payment, you'll lose all the delayed retirement credits you've accrued, and your future monthly retirement benefit will be reduced to reflect the amount you already received.

Here's an example of how this works. Let's say that you are entitled to a $2,480 monthly benefit at age 69. By taking a three-year lump sum payment, your future benefits will shrink back to $2,000 per month, which is what you would have received at your full retirement age. This also affects your future survivor benefit to your spouse or other eligible family members after you die.

You also need to consider Uncle Sam. Depending on your income, Social Security benefits may be taxable, and a lump-sum payment could boost the amount of benefits that are taxed. To help you calculate this, see IRS Publication 915 "Social Security and Equivalent Railroad Retirement Benefits" at irs.gov/pub/irs-pdf/ p915.pdf, or call 800-829-3676 and ask them to mail you a copy.

One other caveat: If you're married and you "file and suspend" your Social Security benefit, you cannot file a "restricted application" too, which gives you the ability to collect spousal benefits while delaying your own retirement benefit past full retirement age.

SENIORS - DON'T BE A TARGET

THE F.B.I. Common Fraud Schemes webpage provides tips on how you can protect you and your family from fraud. Senior Citizens especially should be aware of fraud schemes for the following

Senior citizens are most likely to have a "nest egg," to own their home, and/or to have excellent credit—all of which make them attractive to con artists.

People who grew up in the 1930s, 1940s, and 1950s were generally raised to be polite and trusting. Con artists exploit these traits, knowing that it is difficult or impossible for these individuals to say "no" or just hang up the telephone.

Older Americans are less likely to report a fraud because they don't know who to report it to, are too ashamed at having been scammed, or don't know they have been scammed. Elderly victims may not report crimes, for example, because they are concerned that relatives may think the victims no longer have the mental capacity to take care of their own financial affairs.

When an elderly victim does report the crime, they often make poor witnesses. Con artists know the effects of age on memory, and they are counting on elderly victims not being able to supply enough detailed information to investigators. In addition, the victims' realization that they have been swindled may take weeks—or more likely, months—after contact with the fraudster. This extended time frame makes it even more difficult to remember details from the events.

Senior citizens are more interested in and susceptible to products promising increased cognitive function, virility, physical conditioning, anti-cancer properties, and so on. In a country where new cures and vaccinations for old diseases have given every American hope for a long and fruitful life, it is not so unbelievable that the con artists' products can do what they claim.

you be? In one sense, it's a literal question. Will you be in church? Will you celebrate with family? Will tomorrow be different than any other day? And in another sense it is a spiritual question. Where from the pre-enlightened era? Or is He your Lord and Savior? Because the question, "where will you be?" is really asking more than just the location of your physical body tomorrow. It's asking where your soul will be for all eternity. Most people don't like to talk about these things. I get very uncomfortable at the prospect of telling family or friends that, although they are smart, kind, moral people, the only way they'll get to heaven is through Jesus (John 14:6, Matt. 7:13-14). Talk about narrow-minded! It just doesn't seem fair that a loving God would let kind, moral people go to hell. Shouldn't it be that, if my good deeds outweigh my bad ones, then I get in? The reason this theory is found in so many religions is because it goes right along with our natural way of thinking. When we compare ourselves to ourselves, we look pretty good! Many of us even look great when we compare ourselves to others. "Susie may be nice, but I contribute to charity and volunteer at church." "I may have cheated on my taxes, but it's not like I held up a bank!" But let's extrapolate a bit farther. "I caused someone to become paralyzed, but they're still alive." "Okay, I committed manslaughter, but that's not the same as murder." "I let a village of peasants starve to death, but what is that compared to the nation?" This line of thought vindicates Stalin's infamous quote, "One death is a tragedy, a million is a statistic."

Of course that's an extreme example, but you understand the point. When we use ourselves or others as the standard, we can finagle any conclusion we want. This is especially true in these modern times, when situational ethics and values clarification have replaced objective truth. Issues that used to be black and white have been diluted into 50 shades of gray.

So if God and the afterlife are real, how will He determine whether we are good enough to go to heaven? Maybe we should look at the current occupants of heaven. Who's up there? God is. What's He like? He's sinless and perfect. He's so sinless and perfect, in fact, that He could not tolerate Satan and his demonic angels, and that's why He kicked them out. Anything less than sinless perfection cannot enter heaven.

Who then can be saved? No one is perfect, that's impossible! And that is precisely the point of Christianity.

STUDY PROVIDES NEW EXPLANATION FOR MERCURY'S DARK SURFACE

Peering into space, the surface of Mercury appears dark and unreflective, an observation that has long puzzled planetary scientists due to the planet's very low surface abundance of iron (less than 2 percent).

Iron is an important darkening material in airless bodies like the moon and asteroids. While the intense space weathering environment on Mercury, which efficiently converts the small amount of available iron into submicroscopic metallic iron, contributes to its dark surface, this effect is not sufficient to explain observations of Mercury's appearance. As a result, researchers have long speculated that a "mystery darkening agent" must be contributing to Mercury's dark surface.

In a study published in Nature Geoscience, a team of researchers investigate whether carbon, delivered by comets and/or comet dust, could be this elusive mystery darkening agent.

"Our study answers a longstanding mystery about why Mercury's surface is darker than the moon's surface, by implicating carbon as a "stealth" darkening agent, which is difficult to detect with available remote sensing methods," said lead author Megan Bruck Syal, a postdoctoral researcher at Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory. "Mercury is effectively painted black by the constant influx of carbon-rich micrometeorites."

Numerical calculations to assess impact delivery of carbon on Mercury found that micrometeorites, which are mostly derived from carbon-enriched comets, would deliver enough carbon to affect observations of Mercury's surface. These micrometeorites' relatively low impact velocities allow most impacting material to be retained by the planet, resulting in surface carbon abundances near 3-6 percent.

Hypervelocity impact experiments at the Ames Vertical Gun Range also tested whether carbon could be effectively entrained within glassy, impact-generated melt products, resulting in darker spectral signatures. The results were consistent with remote sensing observations of Mercury by the MESSENGER mission, further suggesting an important role for carbon at the surface of Mercury.

"Without samples from Mercury, planetary scientists rely on spectral modeling of Mercury's surface to interpret its composition and geologic history," said Syal. "Understanding the role of micrometeorites in delivering dark material to Mercury provides new ways of interpreting observations of the planet. Additionally, we are now working on how micrometeorites may have delivered other materials of interest to Mercury, including water."

Sometime in late 1978, my mother shared with me an experience she had with the Aloe vera plant. My mother, Marie, was a Registered Nurse who worked at a Pasadena retirement home as the staff nurse. About three months earlier, a housekeeper who lived on-site at the retirement home began to break out in a hive-like rash that caused her to itch constantly. The cause was said to be a nervous condition. The patient's thighs, back, arms, shoulders, and neck all broke out in this rash, which the patient described as "burning like fire."

My mother offered to apply the juice of the aloe leaf to the patient's red spots, but the patient responded, "No, I'll have the doctor check it." The doctor came and prescribed Atarax (internally) for the itching and allergies, and cortisone (externally), which was applied as a cream. The doctor also prescribed tranquilizers for sleep.

After about 45 days, the patient, Lucille, told my mother that she still could not sleep at night, and that the rash hadn't improved. Lucille noted that there was a slight improvement in the rash when she stayed home and didn't go to work, so Lucille and the doctor assumed this was a nervous condition associated with work.

So my mother, Lucille's nurse, asked again if she'd like to try some aloe. Lucille responded, "Yes, please, bring me anything!" My mother noted that Lucille's skin was hot to the touch, and there were big red spots all over.

At 7:30 a.m., my mother took a fresh succulent Aloe vera leaf, slit it open, and rubbed the gel on Lucille's arms, legs, back, neck - almost her entire body. Lucille said her skin immediately felt better. By 3:30 that afternoon, all the visibly red spots were gone, and Lucille happily told my mother that all of the burning itching was gone. The next day Lucille told my mother that that night was the first night she'd slept in the previous approximately 45 days.

My mother had been somewhat reticent to apply the aloe because she was subservient to the doctor, and could have lost her license by doing something without the approval of the doctor.

When the doctor arrived, Marie told him that Lucille's rash had cleared up, and she admitted to having applied aloe juice. The doctor was somewhat taciturn as he examined the patient, and, without commenting on the aloe, told my mother, "It's good that the medicine finally worked." Really?!

My mother always had a laugh re-telling this story about a doctor who couldn't see the obvious! Eventually, the other nurses referred to my mother as the "witch-doctor" because she used aloe and various other natural methods of healing, behind the doctor's back.

Over the years, I had my mother document the many cases where she use aloe to cure various skin condition, on her patients, herself, and even cats.

Marie used aloe for sun burn, burns from hot oil, skin sores, diaper rash, bed sores, even poison oak

Spotted Owl of the Ojibway Nation looks at an Aloe vera plant, for sale at the Old L.A. Farmers

In one case, our family cat had a large open ulcer on his thigh - we weren't sure of the cause, but we presumed that the cat got into a fight. My mother directed me to put some of fresh aloe gel onto the ulcer every day for three day, while also making some of the aloe leaf into a juice which was added to the cat's water. The wound was completely healed after three days. "It was unbelievable," expressed Marie, "but it worked!"

My mother's experiences took place over 35 years ago, and today, Aloe vera is a common household word. You can buy it anywhere, even Trader Joe's markets. And as the succulent plant was studied and researched all these years, many have come to call it a miracle herb.

The properties of aloe are a broad mix of antibiotic, astringent, pain inhibitor, emollient, moisturizer, antipruritic (reduces itching), as well as a nutrient. It apparently works because of the polysaccharides present, the main one of which is a glucomannan. Others ingredients of the aloe include galactose, uronic acids, and pentoses. The miracle qualities of the aloe is not believed to be the polysaccharides alone, but the synergistic effect of these and other compounds in the leaf.

Obviously, many have tried to create an aloe product that you can buy in the bottle, and some are quite good. I've had some good results from the aloe drink that I have purchased at Trader Joe's market. But please make no mistake about it: the best results come from the gel from the freshly-broken leaf of aloe. And though Aloe vera seems to be the best, any of the juice from any aloe can be used for burns, poison oak, etc.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH HAVING "BLESSED" DAY?

This week I heard of a place that always greeted people with, "Have a blessed day." I have heard that addressed to me and I have said it back many times. On the surface, this looks like a very wonderful, encouraging and positive thing to do and I am all for it. I want everybody to have a blessed day.

Yet, according to the news (and they never get anything wrong!), a certain organization was threatened with a lawsuit if they did not stop saying the word "blessed." At first, I thought I was watching an old Three Stooges clip and started to laugh, but then I realized it was a part of the news. They were serious.

As the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage and I were listening to this news story we both came to the same agreement. Believe me, that is not an easy thing to do. If I had a good memory, I might think of several times in which this has happened, but right now, I cannot think of any. Maybe things are changing for me. Both of us were a little confused by this action. We talked among ourselves while the story was developing and we were trying to find out what part of "Have a blessed day," was harmful or objectionable. I was reminded of the old saying, "Sticks and stones..." I was at the point where I was looking around for some sticks and stones.

It seems to me, too many people do not have enough to do so they have to come up with something and this is it. Complaining about certain words as if it was important

Objecting to certain words is, in some people's thinking (if you can call it thinking), more important than dealing with crime throughout our country. For some people it is okay that the crime rate is rising, just do not use certain words or phrases. For some reason, some people associate the word "blessed" with some kind of a religious connotation. After all, that word is used in the Bible many times. So, for some reason, this word is objectionable.

I was trying to figure out what part of "blessed" was harmful and objectionable. Obviously, the people objecting to the phrase do not know too much about the English language.

One of the definitions of blessed is, "blissfully happy or contented." Who doesn't want to be blissfully happy or contented?

My solution was to use the word "great." Everybody would be greeted with, "Have a great day." I thought this was a good way to greet people, but then my wife brought in another

They can't use the word great," she said rather soberly, "because that word is also in the Bible and usually associated with God."

She was right. The word "great" is usually associated with God in the sense that we have a "Great God." There is just no way some people will use a word that is in any way associated with the Bible or with God and I am not sure why.

I have another phrase that could be used in place of "blessed." Why not tell people to have a good day? After all, is that not the objective every day to have a good day? What is wrong with good?

But then, the word "good" is another religious word and it is also found in the Bible. So, good has become offensive to people because of its association with the Bible.

At this point, I got into a little trouble with my wife. Of course, that is not something new for me. If trouble is not my middle name, it is at least my destination. "Why not," I said quite cautiously to my wife, "tell people to have a cursed day! After all, if they do not want to have a blessed day what else is there?' Well, did I get the lecture to end all lectures. I cannot repeat the lecture because there is not enough space in all of the newspapers in America to handle it. Let me just say, I will never

Once the heat settled down and the room got quiet, my wife said something very thoughtful. "Why are people so terrified of the Bible?"

She hit it that time. The most amazing thing to me are people who do not believe the Bible are deathly afraid of the Bible. People who do not believe in God are deathly afraid of even the word God or a symbol associated with God.

Some people are really obsessed with God. They see a cross and think of God. They see two hands folded together and they think of God. They hear certain words and they think of God.

They see someone pray and are deathly afraid in spite of the fact that they say there is no God and so who in the world do they think they are they praying to? The answer is quite simple. There is something deep inside everybody that believes in God. My advice is, quit fighting and get to know this God you are so afraid of, He is really

David understood this quite well when he wrote, "Blessed be the LORD God of Israel from everlasting, and to everlasting. Amen, and Amen" (Psalms 41:13). So, whoever you are, I say without any apologies whatsoever, "Have a blessed day." Rev. James L. ### HOWARD Hays As I See It

"Indiana Governor Insists New Law Has Nothing To Do With Thing It Explicitly Intended To Do"

headline from The Onion – March 30, 2015 Back in 2004 Karl Rove promised "absolutely" President Bush would push a constitutional ban on gay marriage in his second term - to prevent "activist judges" from "redefining" marriage. The "swift-boating" of Democratic candidate Sen. John Kerry (D-MA) wasn't holding up, and the decorated Vietnam vet called out Rove and Vice President Dick Cheney: "I'm not going to listen to them talk to me about patriotism", those who "went out of their way to avoid their chance to serve when they had a chance." The mess in Iraq wasn't helping, and that photo-op of the president with the "Mission Accomplished" backdrop only made things

The campaign needed help, and Rove saw opportunity in the recent judge's ruling in Kerry's own state of Massachusetts favoring gay marriage. Both Rove and RNC Chairman Ken Mehlman realized a surefire way to draw their base to the polls would be getting gay marriage measures on the ballot in battleground states – never mind that gay marriage had never really been an The measures passed and voters who came all worked up over gay marriage helped bring electoral votes to Bush. Mehlman, who came out as gay in 2010, later apologized: "At a personal level, I wish I had spoken out against the effort. As I've been involved in the fight for marriage equality, one of the things I've learned is how many people were harmed by the campaigns in which I was involved." That campaign was eleven years ago. Gay marriage is now legal in 36 states and the District of Columbia. A WSJ/NBC Poll found nearly 60% of Americans support gay marriage - double the 30% support it had when Karl Rove engineered Bush's reelection. It has 75% support among 18-34 year-olds, with Republican strategists worried about the loss of an entire generation of younger voters. Former RNC Chair Mehlman now says supporting gay marriage "is a net positive for winning elections."

Were they paying attention in Indiana? With the economies of Republican-led states lagging in the recovery, Republican legislators in Indiana (and Georgia and Arkansas) tossed a diversionary bone to their base with a "Religious Freedom Restoration Act" (RFRA). Reaction was swift, powerful and nation-wide, with Gov. Mike Pence (R) appearing clueless as to what

The Indiana' Chamber of Commerce condemned the legislation, as did the mayor of Indianapolis. The Indianapolis Star slammed it in a front page editorial. The U.S. Conference of Mayors is rethinking holding their 2016 convention in the state. NASCAR and the NCAA, the NBA Pacers and NFL Colts voiced their opposition. New York State, Connecticut, San Francisco, Seattle, Denver and Portland imposed travel bans. The heads of Indiana, Butler and DePaw Universities issued a joint statement of condemnation.

Yelp and Salesforce are cutting operations in the state, and Angie's List cancelled a $40 million expansion in Indianapolis, costing a thousand jobs. Eli Lilly, Levi Strauss, the Gap and Subaru warned of the harm to the state's business climate. Marriott CEO Arne Sorenson called it "pure idiocy . . . The notion that you can tell businesses somehow that they are free to discriminate against people based on who they are is madness."

Apple CEO Tim Cook editorialized; "Apple is open. Open to everyone, regardless of where they come from, what they look like, how they worship or who they love. Regardless of what the law might allow in Indiana or Arkansas, we will never tolerate discrimination.

Gov. Pence seemed baffled why anyone considered the legislation discriminatory, apparently unaware of who stood with him at the signing ceremony. There was Micah Clark of the American Family Association, who thought it crucial businesses be allowed to discriminate against gay couples and adoption agencies able to refuse them children. He warned language intended to "clarify" non-discrimination "could totally destroy this bill."

There was Eric Miller of Advance America, who states "Christian businesses and individuals deserve protection from those who support homosexual marriages". He's troubled by "Christian businesses" being "punished" for refusing to allow customers to use the restroom they feel comfortable with. Curt Smith was there from the Indiana Family Institute, who equates homosexuality with bestiality and refers to the details of the Matthew Shepard murder as "gay activist propaganda".

Gov. Pence tried arguing the bill's no different from the 1993 federal RFRA signed by President Clinton. But while the federal law deals with a person's religion, this new Indiana law defines a "person" as "a limited liability company, a corporation, a company, a firm, a society, a joint-stock company," ("It leaves open the question of what sort of religious views a joint stock company would hold", quipped White House Press Secretary Josh Earnest.)

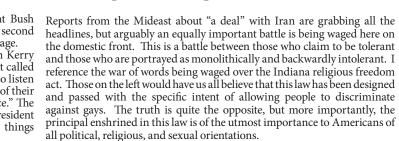

The federal law and those in other states protect individuals from government actions. Under the Indiana law, it can involve two private parties; an individual accusing a business of discrimination, and the LLC, corporation, joint-stock company or whatever citing its "religious beliefs" as a "defense". Oher states with similar laws have prevailing anti-discrimination laws

You'd think a political "strategy" based on exploitation of bigotry would have no place in today's America - but that view isn't shared among current Republican presidential contenders. Jeb Bush and Sen. Marco Rubio (R-FL) seem concerned not about discrimination, but the sensibilities of vendors asked to provide for gay weddings. Sen. Ted Cruz (R-TX), Gov. Bobby Jindal (R-LA) and Rick Perry claim it's all about "religious freedom".

For those jumping on this bandwagon, Apple's Tim Cook has a message for them, too: "This isn't a political issue. It isn't a religious issue. This is about how we treat each other as human beings. Opposing discrimination takes courage. With the lives and dignity of so many people at stake, it's time for all of us to be courageous.

INTOLERANCE AND INDIANA

The Indiana law is simply a version of the federal Religious Freedom Restoration Act (RFRA). The purpose of this law was to both protect the rights of gays and the rights of those whose religious faith forbids gay marriage. The act – both at the federal level and now at the state level in Indiana – requires courts to administer a balancing test between the rights of gays and the rights of the faithful.

As we read the headlines and hear the vituperative accusations of discrimination in Indiana, we need to bear in mind that federal RFRA law was signed in 1993 by President Bill Clinton. That law simply stated that for individuals or businesses to refuse to supply goods or services to a gay they needed to show that their religious liberty would be "substantially burdened", and in turn the government needed to show that before they could compel someone -say a devout Christian baker to support a gay marriage the government's requirement was the least restrictive means to achieving a "compelling" government interest.

Stripping away the legal mumbo-jumbo, here's what the federal law stated. If gays want to do their thing, then the rest of us don't have any right to interfere with it. But at the same time, if someone feels their religion prevents them from participating in, or supporting, a gay event, then that individual has the right to not participate. I can't imagine a fairer and more balanced law. Let the free market determine how products and services are delivered.

If a gay couple wants to have a cake, they have the freedom to find a baker who wants the business. At the same time, if a baker doesn't want the business, he or she is free to pass on the opportunity. The federal RFPA was the ultimate live-and-let-live law. It was the epitome of all that is great with this country's commitment to individual freedom.

The only reason Indiana, or 19 other states for that matter, felt the need to pass their own versions of RFPA is because the Supreme Court in 1997 limited RFPA to federal actions only. In other words, the original federal RFPA was deemed to apply only at the federal level. In response, 19 other states - including such liberal bastions as Illinois and Connecticut - enacted their own versions of RFPA in order to assure that both gays and the religiously devout would receive equal protection of their

As a conservative and a Christian, I write from the perspective of simultaneously believing that gay marriage is wrong and that gays should be allowed to live out in the privacy of their homes their sexuality and moral values as they perceive them. I do not believe I have the right to prohibit gays from being gay, but I also do not believe that gays have the right to compel me to support their decisions and lifestyle. Again, this is the epitome of live-and-let-live principal.

Our founders created a system based on allowing the maximum level of freedom consistent with a properly functioning national government. My freedoms are enshrined up to the point where they impinge on someone else's. As one of our former Supreme Court Justices once wrote, the freedom to swing my arm stops at your face.

The uproar over Indiana's law is clearly politically motivated. But it is equally clear that there is no miscarriage of justice or morality at play. This should have been a slam dunk with no press coverage equivalent to a city council deciding to repair a pot hole on Elm Street. But it was built into a national media story by those forces which are intent on eliminating our country's commitment to religious freedom. This is no trivial matter. Keep in mind that after our constitution was ratified, the very first amendment was to articulate and establish the freedom of speech and religion. And how appropriate

If we, as individuals, do not possess the freedom to speak our minds, or the freedom to practice our faith, then there are few real freedoms we would possess. If you can prohibit a person's opinions from being articulated or prohibit their faith in God from being exercised, that individual has no real freedom remaining.

So, for those who are committed to destroying the Judeo-Christian ethic and/or preventing it from any expression in the public square, attacking the right to object to and abstain from participating in a gay marriage has become the rallying point. But the rest of us should think long and hard before accepting the premise that the federal or state government has the right to restrict our freedoms of speech and religion. Would we want churches to be prohibited from feeding the homeless because they don't meet regulations written for restaurants? We would want the local Baptist church to be forced to hire an atheist? Would we want a Muslim baker to be forced to bake a cake for a Jewish

There are a thousand legitimate questions like this which must be considered before we blithely suspend the first amendment, and in so doing, a common sense understanding of where one person's freedoms intersect with another's.

Honest liberals used to understand that there was a legitimate balancing test. The intolerant left, claims the mantel of tolerance, but in reality seeks to impose their belief system with no concern for the rights of all citizens or for any tolerance of those who disagree with their vision.

The City of Sierra Madre Subject: MUNICIPAL CODE TEXT AMENDMENT 15-01 (MCTA 15-01) City of Sierra Madre Applicant: Properties in the City of Sierra Madre, County of Los Angeles, State of California Project Location:

The City of Sierra Madre gives notice, pursuant to State of California law, that the City Council will conduct a public hearing to consider an Ordinance amending Chapter 17.20 ("R-1 One Family Residential"), of the Sierra Madre Municipal Code, including Sections 17.20.025 ("Conditionally Permitted Uses"), 17.20.050 Code, including Sections 17.20.025 ("Conditionally Permitted Uses"), 17.20.050 ("Primary Structures"), and 17.20.125 ("Allowable Gross Floor Area"), and repealing Section 17.20.130 ("Minimum Dwelling Floor Area"), Subsection 17.20.050.B.2.c ("Second Story and/or Two-Story Additions") and Section 17.20.135 ("Gross Floor Area") in order to adjust the ratio of floor area of new construction to lot size, and enhance the application of conditional use permit requirements. At their meeting on March 5, 2015, the Planning Commission recommended approval of MCTA 15-01 to the City Council.

DATE AND TIME OF HEARING City of Sierra Madre City Council meeting Tuesday, April 14, 2015 (Hearing begins at 6:30 p.m.)

PLACE OF HEARING City of Sierra Madre City Council Chambers 232 W. Sierra Madre Blvd. Sierra Madre, CA

All interested persons may attend this meeting and the City Council will hear them with respect thereto

ENVIRONMENTAL DETERMINATION: The project qualifies for an exemption from the California Environmental Quality Act review pursuant to Title 14, Section 15061(b)(3) of the California Code of Regulations as it can be seen with certainty that there is no possibility the adoption of this Ordinance may have a significant effect on the environment, because it will impose greater limitations on development in the City and protect the aesthetic character of Sierra Madre, thereby serving to reduce potential significant adverse environmental impacts.

APPEAL: If in the future anyone wishes to challenge the decision of the City Council in court, one may be limited to raising the issues that were raised or presented in written correspondence delivered to the City Council at, or before, the scheduled public hearing. For further information on this subject, please contact the Development Services Department at (626) 355-7135.
