On Thursday, a special meeting of the City Council was held to begin discussions on the Fiscal Year 2015-2016 budget. Deemed as a 'status quo budget' by City Manager Elaine Aguilar, the discussion was limited to the General Fund which will face a reduction in revenue when the User Utility Tax decreases from the current 10% to 8% on July 1st. The reduction will result in a loss of revenue of approximately $762,000 for FY 15-16 and $1 million in FY 16-17. The council is looking for ways to maintain a balanced budget without adding new programs or reducing services. The budget discussions will continue at the May 5th.

Walking Sierra Madre...The Social Side by Deanne Davis "A little bit of this town goes a very long way!" Hunter S. Thompson

"Las Vegas, all the amenities of modern society in a habitat unfit to grow a tomato." Jason Love

Why, you're wondering, is Walking Sierra Madre talking about Las Vegas? Well, friends and neighbors, my convention-going, best walking partner, John, and I spent the last few days in Las Vegas attending the National Association of Broadcasters Convention (John conventioned and I hit the outlet stores). And, yes, we had a very good time. Having attended this particular event for many years, we know what to do; we go as quickly as possible to the Bellagio Hotel and spend an hour in their Conservatory & Botanical Gardens. It's hard to believe the creativity behind this display, and each time we go it's completely different. It's like the Rose Parade only it's standing still. And the tulips! There are thousands and thousands of tulips in every conceivable color. Banks of tulips, fields of tulips. There are daffodils, chrysanthemums, and the artistry is beyond anything most of us could imagine.

Currently, the Botanical Gardens is featuring a show entitled Spring Celebration. Think cherry blossom time in Japan with enormous faux cherry trees covered with acrylic blossoms. A huge turtle covered in flowers which are replaced every three days, by hand! Streams of water passing under bridges, an enormous crane, wings spread, ready for flight. An six foot tall Faberge egg created of flowers, umbrellas suspended from the high glass ceiling and everywhere you look, people are silently admiring, taking pictures, wide-eyed and appreciative. If you happen to be walking Las Vegas, take an hour or so to feed your soul. The Botanical Gardens are free and open 24/7. The exhibit changes four times a year to celebrate the changing seasons.

Looking forward to next month when I'll be chatting with Lew and Joyce Watanabe, dear friends of Sierra Madre. Joyce says tax time and eye surgery are taking up all their time and after her cataract is gone and her new glasses are on hand they'll be ready to tell us all Getting home from Las Vegas, I realized I wanted comfort food and this is definitely it, one of those recipes that you can make five million times and nobody ever gets tired of it. It's quick, relatively inexpensive, kids love it, and you can serve it with tomato soup and everyone who sits down with a couple of these will go, "Ahhhhhhhhhhh....." guaranteed! We call it....

- 1 lb. Tillamook cheese (now that you can buy it, pre-grated, in a bag at the market, this is an even more attractive dish.) 2 cans chopped black olives (small cans)
- 1 can chopped green chiles (Ortega) (small can, unless you really love chiles!)
- 2 cans tomato sauce

1 Tb. Vinegar Mix together, chill three hours, if you've got three hours. But we always wanted it NOW and it works just fine on that basis. Spread on sourdough bread and put under the broiler till it's melted and slightly browned. You can use any kind of sharpish cheese, I think Pepper Jack would be fantastic with this. Don't think too much about calories, just enjoy it. Remember, life is short and dessert should be eaten first. My book page: Amazon.com: Deanne Davis

THANK YOU JUNE CHANDLER

By Christian Lebano Ártistic Director

It is with sadness that the Playhouse has said goodbye to June Chandler's "For the Love of Acting" classes which she has decided to discontinue. She began offering adult acting classes in 2002. June has been associated with us in various ways since she appeared in a production of Neil Simon's The Good Doctor in the 1981-1982 season. She went on to direct that same play in 2007.

In 2009, she and her husband, Randy, started Fairy Tale Theater, a series of Saturday morning children's plays. The actors came from her acting classes. Fairy Tale Theater was very popular with children, their parents, and grandparents who came just to see the kids enjoy themselves. June wrote the scripts, recruited and rehearsed the actors, and, with Randy and their longtime friend, Kathy, came up with some very imaginative costumes and props. Each Saturday morning, for a single performance and to a production - as is seeing work. As fun as it was, it was a great deal of work, and they stopped a couple of years ago. anymore that she will continue to work with us as we grow Remember we give 20% and evolve. Thank you, June discounts for groups of 10 or Chandler for all you've done for the Playhouse over the years!

The set is going in now for The Odd Couple. The count-down to opening begins. Much to great first day on the set they will be living on for the next two months but have only imagined in a rehearsal hall. I love those first rehearsals on set – so much changes and solidifies. Then we sound) and dress rehearsals (putting on costumes for the

they decorated the proscenium first time is another big boost struck it afterward. Randy ran your fellow actors in something lights and sound and did most other than the rehearsal clothes of the setup and strike ladder you've gotten used to.) And then, of course, the cast has those first audiences to look forward to – so important June has been very supportive of me and the changes we've been making at the Playhouse when playing a comedy. There is nothing like getting those first validating laughs for lines over the last couple of years.

I'm hoping that though she funny but have been saying in won't be offering her classes empty rooms!

CELEBRATING THE LIFE OF MIKE MITCHELL

By Joan Schmidt

Yesterday I had the privilege of attending the Celebration of the Life of Mike Mitchell in the Chandelier Room at Santa Park. Racetrack fans certainly will know this Hall of Fame trainer, but there was a lot more to Mike. Perhaps recalling the highlights of the service will show the many facets of this remarkable man.

After a beautiful rendition of Amazing Grace, Amazing Love, Pastor Albert Tate told us that when we celebrate Mike's found the winners.' After Pastor Tate spoke of Mike's deep faith, he told us that Mike's family-wife Denise and daughters McCall and Shea-were his "trophies". Even Columnist Art Wilson had dubbed Mike, "The Ultimate Family

The song Beautiful Things followed Pastor Tate's uplifting remembrance, and then there were several speakers. Trainer Phil D'Amato spoke of Mike-"his hero and mentor", whom he met fourteen years ago. "He gave me a week trial, made me part of his stable...a hall of fame guy, who made

Father-in-law Ralph Weaver spoke of the extraordinary man whom he will always love. Gary Jones told us that Mike, a brilliant horseman, was like a brother to him, and the "the best thing that ever happened to Mike was marrying Denise who brought gold to him.".

Scotty McClellan, relayed meeting young jockey Joe Talamo, becoming Joe's agent, and how Mike gave Joe opportunities to workout horses and eventually ride them. Scotty had to compose himself a few times during his talk-he will miss his friend Mike, who is loved and respected by so

Tom Rathman, Running Back Coach of the San Francisco 49ers and a former pro football star gave us a look into a part of Mike's life-pro football-that many of us didn't know about. Tom met Mike in 1994 at Santa Anita, and Mike loved pro football. The two became fast friends and Mike began advising Tom when Tom was with the LA Raiders on coaching players and choosing draft choices!

Tom said "We talked about ownership, coaches, trainers, horses-all are very similar...and the parallels...and Mike stood next to Tom during the Playoffs and Super Bowl.'

A young woman, Casey, had a hard home life, and often was at the Mitchells' home. She told us how Mike was there for her and supported

After the speakers, there was a video of highlights of Mike's life. What stood out to me was his deep faith in God- he was Christian and was proud to tell that to everyone, and his deep love and commitment to Denise and his daughters. What a remarkable man he was- and the great turnout- there were many standing in the balcony. Racing legends, Laffitt Pincay and Gary Stevens, jockeys Joe Talamo, Aaron Gryder, Martin Garcia, trainers Ron Ellis and Art Sherman, TV Commentators, Paul Lo Duca and Brittany Eurtin are just a few I noticed. Mike Mitchell, a man who lived life to the fullest.

REP. ADAM SCHIFF STATEMENT ON THE 100TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE ARMENIAN GENOCIDE

Los Angeles, CA - Today, Rep. Adam Schiff (D-Burbank), a lead of murder against the Armenians as an example of what genocide was sponsor of the Armenian Genocide Truth and Justice Resolution in meant to describe. Congress, released the following statement on the 100th anniversary of the Armenian Genocide:

"One hundred years ago, the Ottoman Empire attempted to annihilate an entire race in the first genocide of the last century. When it was over, 1.5 million Armenian men, women and children lay dead and many thousands of others barely survived. Despite a brutal campaign of massacres, forced death marches, lootings and rape, the Young Turks failed to destroy the Armenian people as evidenced by the vibrant diaspora and Armenian nation.

"When this heinous acts crime was committed, an entirely new word had to be invented to describe it - genocide. The author of the term, Holocaust survivor Raphael Lemkin, specifically cited the campaign genocide. The time for silence is over."

The horrors of the genocide have been compounded by decades of denial by the Turkish government, which continues to fight the truth to this day. The United States has become complicit in this denial by failing to recognize the genocide for decades - and I was deeply disappointed by President Obama's refusal to use the word 'genocide' in his statement today. If not this President, who spoke so eloquently and passionately about recognition in the past, whom? If not after one hundred years, when?

'The United States must join the world community – as it has in speaking out against other atrocities and in confronting painful chapters of our own past - in calling the Armenian Genocide a

UNION STATION HOMELESS SERVICES BREAKS GROUND TO HELP HOMELESS FAMILIES IN PASADENA

PASADENA, CA – On April 14, Union Station Homeless Services joined original site near Fuller Seminary. The abandoned apartment complex fell National Community Renaissance (National CORE), representatives of Los Angeles County, and the Mayor and Council Members of the City of Pasadena to celebrate the ground breaking of Mar Vista Apartments, an affordable housing development for low-income, homeless families. Mar Vista features 10 one-bedroom and 10 two bed-room units, with four units equipped for the mobility impaired and audio or visually impaired, and one unit reserved for an onsite coordinator. Other amenities include a community garden, tot lot, community room, onsite computer lab, and laundry rooms.

The project, scheduled to be completed in the summer of 2016, is a collaborative effort between Union Station Homeless Services and National CORE, one of the nation's largest nonprofit developers of affordable housing. Funding for Mar Vista Apartments will be provided by Los Angeles Community Development Commission (LA CDC), First 5 LA, Low-Income Housing Tax Credits through the State of California, and the City of Pasadena. Union Station will provide the onsite wrap-around services to residents, such as health care, substance abuse counseling, mental health counseling, and employment assistance.

It all started with a vision from Mary Gross to provide the homeless clients they serve at Union Station with permanent housing," says Julie Mungai, VP of Acquisitions with National CORE. The vision became a reality when William Huang, Director of Housing for the City of Pasadena, approached Union Station and National CORE about the reuse or demolition of the former Broadway Apartments, located on North Mar Vista Avenue.

The previous owner of the apartments had relocated it there from its lives. This is something we can all be proud of."

into disrepair as efforts to preserve the building as a historic structure were constantly delayed. The construction of the Mar Vista Apartments will be a positive change for the once dilapidated lot, and will bring change for the lives of its future residents.

"This is an important neighborhood improvement project," Victor Gordo, council member of the City of Pasadena states. "Families will soon come here and we'll be proud when they leave here as successful members of the

For over 40 years, Union Station has worked with the City of Pasadena to help individuals and families transition from homelessness. The results from Pasadena's 2015 Homeless Count show a 5% decrease in the overall homeless population from last year, with a reduction of 48% within the past 4 years. However, while the number of people experiencing homelessness has decreased, the remaining population has greater and more extensive needs, making them more visible to the public.

"This is a critically important project," says William Huang, the City of Pasadena's Director of Housing and Career Services. "It will end homelessness for 19 families. If you think of 632 homeless people in a city that's only 23 square miles, it's still way too many people."

"This effort has required many hands and many hearts. Mar Vista has been a labor of love," Mary Gross, CEO of Union Station Homeless Services addressed the crowd. "We're groundbreaking today, but this event is ground breaking because this is the first purpose built permanent housing for families in Pasadena. Families will have the opportunity to rebuild their

KOVACIC MAYOR FOR SIXTH TIME

By Scott Hettrick Courtesy of Arcadia's Best

Gary Kovacic was elected Mayor tonight, April 21, 2015, by his peers on the Arcadia City Council for this sixth time since 1998 (including once in a shared rotation among all five Council Members during the 2003-04 Centenial Year).

Incoming Mayor Gary Kovacic (l) honors outgoing Mayor John Wuo, standing next to new Mayor Pro Tem Roger Chandler (center) and Council Members Sho Tay and Tom Beck

And three-time former Mayor Roger Chandler since 1989 was elected Mayor Pro Tem tonight, lining him up for a likely fourth term as Mayor in

Mayor Kovacic is in the final year of a second consecutive four-year term, meaning he will need to step away from the Council for at least two years after he concludes his latest term as Mayor next April.

The quick and uncontested nominations and unanimous elections of Kovacic and Chandler came moments after outgoing Mayor John Wuo was praised by his peers, representatives of other County, State and Federal legislators, and local organizations for the end of his fourth gig as Mayor since his abbreviated debut during the Centennial year in

Among those groups honoring Wuo with presentations were the Arcadia School Disitrct and School Board, the Arcadia Chamber of Commerce, and the Arcadia Chinese Association. Wuo will remain on the Council for the final year of his fouryear term. He has not said whether he will run for re-election less than a year from now.

The other two Council Members, Sho Tay and Tom Beck, both completing their first year on the Council, apparently were never considered for Mayor or Mayor Pro Tem this time around. Often these arrangements are quietly coordinated to a certain degree a year ahead of time amongst the Council Members, although they are restricted from discussing any topic with more than one other Council Member and nothing is ever official under they actually vote at the regular public City Council meeting each April.

Some of the discussion amongst Council Members with others attending the pre-meeting reception tonight was about the next election in 2016 for which the campaign begins late this year. Only two seats will be open — Wuo's and the outgoing Kovacic. If Wuo runs again, he will likely be one of three former Mayors running, including fourtimer Bob Harbicht, and Peter Amundson, who was Mayor once in 2010-11 and was on the Council for eight years before having to sit out the past year and the next before running again.

Burton Brink, who ran a pretty strong campaign a year ago, has announced publicly many times that he will be running again. And attorney April Verlato is also expected to run. Verlato is the new President of the Downtown Arcadia Improvement Association and has been prominent as one of the leaders in the battle of Highlands homeowners against the City of Arcadia over the last six months or so.

Before the ceremonial portion of the City Council meeting began, Highlands homeowner David Arvizu used his full five minutes of public comment to reiterate the fact that he has filed a class action lawsuit against the City to overturn their decision to allow two large homes to replace two smaller homes. He also said that in case city officials didn't get the message in a recent meeting, there will be no settlement of the suit, that there may even be another lawsuit, and that work has begun to mount a petition drive to recall three sitting Council Members, outgoing Mayor John Wuo whose term ends in a year, newly-elected Mayor Roger Chandler, and first-year Council Member Sho Tay.

Two other people making public comments complained about the City's new requirement that operators of massage services have a business license from the State of California instead of the City of Arcadia. The first woman was emotional and wiping away tears during her comments. Although City Manager Dominic Lazzaretto advised them that as long as they have a valid City license, they should of Council Members who came to celebrate special qualify for the state license without much problem, they each said it was not that simple because there are other requirements that will take time and are causing them to lose their license to operate their business in the meantime.

The meeting began with an invocation during which the Almighty was called on to help Arcadians make it through this period where criminals are "terrorizing" our community and to help Arcadians who are dealing with the water shortage.

After a preamble filled with such concerning characterizations, pointed criticisms, legal threats and uncomfortable and emotional pleas in front of of Council Members who came to celebrate special moments for their loved ones, the more upbeat portion of the meeting got underway. Several of the Council Members noted that despite some challenges faced by Arcadia, as always and no different and still fewer than most cities, Arcadia remains a very well run and very safe community.

Kovacic said that he encourages his Council peers and the community to heed the advice of Aretha Franklin's "R-E-S-P-E-C-T" for one another as they grapple with the challenges ahead.

ARCADIA AAUW TO LEARN MORE ABOUT FUNGI AND GLOBAL WARMING CONNECTION

Who would have thought that the lowly fungi (think of molds and mushrooms) are also contributing to global warming? Because of longer springs and summers in such cold regions as Alaska, fungi are more rapidly reproducing and releasing more carbon dioxide during their brief life cycles. Researcher Adriana L. Romero-Oliveres can explain this phenomenon and its possible long-term effects. Adriana is an International Fellowship recipient from Mexico who is working toward a Ph.D. in Ecology and Evolutionary Biology at UC-Irvine. Her Fellowship is partially funded by the American Association of University Women (AAUW) through its AAUW Funds project which supports women in research and advanced studies.

The Arcadia Branch of AAUW will climax a successful year of meetings and events with a luncheon meeting that features Adriana L. Romero-Oliveres as speaker. An inveterate researcher, Adriana has done lab work and has also spent months doing field experiments in Alaska, both in the forest soil and in a special greenhouse. Adriana hopes to resolve an ongoing debate: "Do fungi adapt to global warming and what are the consequences to our environment?" Her is open to all women and men holding a university or college degree, apcoming doctoral dissertation will conclude with the answer to that question.

The luncheon meeting will take place on Monday, May 11, in the Church of the Good Shepherd's Jordan Hall, at 400 W. Duarte Road (SW corner of Duarte Rd. and Holly Ave.), Arcadia. The luncheon is scheduled to begin at 11:30 a.m., with Adriana Romero-Oliveres' power-point presentation to follow. The AAUW-Arcadia meeting will conclude with a brief business meeting. The Board of Directors will be installed. Long-time members Shirley Campbell and Kathryn Brandes-Tyler will be honored with certificates for their fifty years of AAUW membership.

A festive Mexican-style luncheon is planned for the occasion with Taco Salad, Fruit Kebobs, Flan as a dessert topper, and a choice of beverages. HISTORIC STURTEVANT CAMP UNDER NEW OWNERSHIP AND MANAGEMENT Station, they have, at last succeeded in closing donation, and the promise of another upon the deal on their purchase of historic Sturtevant Camp. The US Forestry Service permit was still pending two administrative items as of last Monday, but the approval has been granted, and that is the most important part. This comes as very its reputation of historical preservation, good news to the hiking and camping enthusiasts who enjoy visiting this gorgeous part of our local national forest!

Purchasing Sturtevant Camp was no small task for FSG, but with generous donations from their dedicated supporters and hard work on the part of Deb Burgess and her tenacious team of volunteers, they were able to raise the $75,000 needed to complete the purchase and cover the required first two years of operating capital. What a great victory for a relatively small non-profit that could have easily deemed it too daunting a task to take the purchase of the camp is fantastic news, FSG on, when word was heard that the camp may have to close in the absence of a buyer.

FSG came to the rescue, and there could not have been a better prospect to take over the camp and keep it thriving. The group has a vested interest in maintaining the historic camp site, by virtue of their strong desire to keep Big Santa Anita Canyon the beautiful, natural place that it is while at the same time helping keep it accessible to other nature lovers who enjoy hiking and camping

Sturtevant Camp has a long and very interesting history that dates back to the late 1800's. Located in the upper reaches of Big Santa Anita Canyon, to enjoy the great outdoors in a rustic historic Sturtevant was established as a tent camp in setting, while taking part in a very important 1893, originally accessible by way of Mt. Wilson endeavor to preserve a fabulous Sierra Madre via the Old Mt. Wilson Trail. By 1897, proprietor treasure. I hope you will all get on board and William "Wilbur" Sturtevant had refurbished offer your personal skills to help keep Sturtevant an abandoned trail to Winter Creek, extended it Camp alive! over Mt. Zion to his camp and constructed woodframe cabins for his visitors.

After a series of subsequent delinquent owners, the camp was sold in 1954 to the California-Pacific Annual Conference of the United Methodist Church. "The church" made many improvements over the years, while maintaining its historic integrity and rustic charm.

Reservations had been declining and, especially after the Station Fire in late 2009, the church seriously considered selling the camp. Not wanting the camp to change hands, Friends of the San Gabriels rallied the troops to save Sturtevant Camp

Friends of the San Gabriels (FSG) announced from the uncertainty of new ownership. A silent last week that, in partnership with Adam's Pack benefactor stepped forward with a generous meeting certain performance standards.

The future is now looking bright for Sturtevant Camp, and with the logistical help of FSG volunteers, the facility is maintaining cleanliness and hospitality. If you are interested in visiting Sturtevant Camp, go to their website at sturtevantcamp.org to make reservations. You can also read more interesting history about the camp as well as other recreational areas and hikes located in Big Santa Anita Canyon by visiting the FSG website at friendsofthesangabriels.org. And, you can keep up with current FSG goingson through newsy updates by visiting and liking their Facebook page.

While this new breakthrough of finalizing acknowledges that there is still a lot of work to be done. Most urgent among their current projects is re-piping of the sewage drainage from the manager's cabin, so if you are plumber who'd like to help out by offering your skills to this project, I'm sure they would welcome you with open arms!

They are also planning a training session in June for prospective volunteer camp hosts, so if this sounds like something you would like to participate in, tune into their Facebook page and visit their website to get the specific training date(s) targeted for the month of June. What an awesome opportunity for we local nature lovers

PET OF THE WEEK PEANUT: ANIMAL ID #A4816555

Meet Peanut, a peaceful, gentle soul that anyone would want as his or her best friend. Peanut (A4816555) is a 13-year-old white-andbrown female Jack Russell Terrier mix who was surrendered to the Baldwin Park Animal Care Center by her owners on April 9th because they were moving.

Weighing 16 lbs, this elderly, royal-family sort of a lady is having some walking difficulties (her gait is stiff) and thus prefers to be carried in your arms. She impressed us with how curious and alert she is-two traits one doesn't always find in a lady of her age—and she's very gentle in nature.

We think Peanut will do best as an indoor pet and love magnet in the home of a person (perhaps a senior?) or family who will provide her with what she dearly deserves and needs (a soft bed, warmth, affection, kisses, cuddles, loved ones, good care) to make her next years absolutely golden. Do not pass up on sweet little Peanut! This treasure of a pup will return your kindness with an endless amount of doggie love. To see a video of Peanut, please visit the following link: https://www.facebook.com/l. php?u=https%3A%2F%2Fyoutu.be%2FhDkFHLAvOjc&h=TAQGNiOIU&enc=AZO6P892Tg96X78vsB _lnNjTbG7I-3pc-O7Wob8R4_Echm0lHUdHAQ7WnfubyQxkLvG8Ku5Pf7At_edc2q8_r3kvR_dZadI qSQsARNmvlNJyBtXrDI0hvyuojj_06EymvQY88HvUxKKwmnMg6UZlTXUo&s=1"https://youtu.be/ hDkFHLAvOjc

To meet Peanut in person, please see her at the Baldwin Park Shelter, located at 4275 N. Elton, Baldwin Park, CA 91706 (Phone: 626-430-2378 or 626-962-3577). She is currently available now. For any inquiries about Peanut, please reference her animal ID number: A4816555. The shelter is open seven days a week, 12 pm-7 pm Monday-Thursday and 10am-5pm Friday-Sunday. This is a high-intake shelter with a great need for adoptions.

LOOKING FOR A BEST FRIEND?

Princess is a 3 year old Chihauhua mix girl weighing around 11 pounds. She has the most beautiful soft, reddish brown coat of fur that is short and easy to care for.

Princess was surrendered to the shelter by an owner who was unable to continue caring for her. Initially, Princess was confused and frightened to lose her comfortable home and to be thrust into shelter life. At first she was timid around staff and volunteers, and not very happy to be living in a kennel. Gradually, as she learned that she was in a safe place, and that there were kind humans who would care for her, she started to relax and warm up to people.

Volunteers have noticed that Princess seems more comfortable with women than men, but given enough time and patience, she should be able to adjust to either. When Princess sees someone she is familiar with, she smiles and wags her tail vigorously. She loves attention in the form of pets, cuddles and belly

Princess has taken a nurturing role with the younger dog who shares her kennel, and the two of them have developed a very loving relationship. They enjoy going for walks together; Princess has a calm energy level, is easy to harness, and walks well on leash.

Princess is looking for a secure, peaceful home where she can be loved and cared for. She has a lot of love to give in return. This sweet, quiet girl is not demanding, and deserves a forever family to call her own. Please come meet our special Princess to see if she is the right royal lady to live

Her adoption fee is $120 which includes her spay surgery, a microchip, first vaccinations and a free wellness check-up at a participating veterinarian. Feel free to call us at (626) 286-1159 for more information

She currently resides at the San Gabriel Valley Humane Society located at 851 E. Grand Avenue in San Gabriel with her roommate. We are located off San Gabriel Blvd., north of Mission and south of Las Tunas.

To arrange a 'Meet and Greet' with Princess, please stop by any time from 10:00am to 4:30pm Tuesday thru Sunday. THE REEL DEAL: by Ben Show FURIOUS 7 REVIEW

Having not seen any of the previous 'Fast and Furious', I had no idea what to expect from this movie. This franchise has a massive fan base, and I had heard from many people that this was the best film yet, so I had high hopes for it; however, I was worried that my lack of knowledge of the franchise would not enable me to enjoy the film, and so I went into the theater with high hopes but slightly doubtful.

Having taken down Owen Shaw (Luke Evans), Dom (Vin Diesel) and his team have attracted the unwanted attention of Shaw's older brother, Deckard (Jason Statham). They have also got the attention of the mysterious Mr. Nobody (Kurt Russell) who will give them the tools they need if they get him the powerful hacker known as Ramsey (Nathalie Emmanuel).

'Furious 7' is an exceptional action film simply because you do not have to have seen any of the previous films to not only understand what is going on but also feel for the characters. The story is very slick and wellrefined for an action film, with no extraneous action sequences and the clunky, cliché dialogue cut back to a minimum. The standout of this film is the cinematography, which is extremely revolutionary. The camera angles and shots that are chosen make the film flow beautifully. 'Furious 7' is an exciting yet highly emotional film that works as a perfect action movie as well as a stunning tribute to the work of Paul Walker, who shines

SEAN'S SHAMELESS REVIEWS: PASSION PIT - 'KINDRED'

By Sean Kayden

third LP, 'Kindred,' is exceptional on many levels. It's the more optimistic counterpart to 2012's sophomore release,

'Gossamer'. The previous record covered a more synthpop frantic vibrancy, but explored much darker lyrics than ever before for the late twenty year old musician. While Michael Angelakos, the mastermind behind Passion Pit, still travels down his not-sohalcyon days on occasion here, the overall theme feels much less about his own personal plight. In fact, it's more of a reflective album with the pursuit of happiness in its sight. Angelakos has always taken his personal experiences and inject them into bubbly-pop music. In 2012, he spoke candidly about depression, suicide, and substance abuse. The sounds he creates as a backdrop acts as mask for his lyrics, which get into heavy subject matters. However, sometimes he pens ambiguous lyrics for the listener, but you know they are extremely close to home. Nonetheless, 'Kindred' is blissfully intoxicating. 'Gossamer' may be considered Angelakos opus, while being grander, ambitious, and simply put, sadder. 'Kindred' is a toned down version than previous efforts, but in 2015, it's kind of refreshing. While other acts try to mimic Passion Pit's past success, the former leader of snyth-pop shows he has new tricks up his sleeves.

"Lifted Up (1985)" is directly about Angelakos' wife. He's been very open about his bi-polar disorder and living through all the turmoil it has brought to his relationship. However, as he poured out everything he had on the last record, this time around he's apologetic. The same notion follows suit with "Whole Life Story." "Sorry darling, how could you forgive me when our life's some story out for them to buy?" is emotionally sung by Angelakos in front of a wildly electro-pop soundscape. "Where The Sky Hangs' brings a slower tempo to the forefront. Angelakos' angelic vocals have always been a strong selling point for the band and he's still at the top of his game "All I Want," "Five Foot Ten (I), point for the band and he's still at the top of his game

Passion Pit's long awaited here with 'Kindred.' The sentimental mania, slick productions, and intrinsically likeability to each and every song is outstanding to the say the least. "Five Foot Ten (I)" is one of the more chaotic tunes off the album, but there's a deep heartbeat underneath it all The saccharine melodies never come up too sugary or syrupy, however just the perfect amount of infectious sweetness. "Dancing on the Grave" paints a delicate portrait of pensive inclinations. It's a low-beat track off the record, but in return may very well be the most

"Until We Can't (Lets Go)" is Passion Pit's new anthem. This will be the song to remember off 'Kindred'. It's unabashedly fun, but digs deeper looking for a better future. "My Brother Taught Me How To Swim" is utterly therapeutic in nature. There's just something so peaceful within Angelakos' honeyed vocals. The candy-colored works of 'Kindred" are delightful and addicting as hell. The closer "Ten Feet Tall (II)" extends on the other track with the same name, but Angelakos vocals are auto-tuned heavily in some areas giving off a distorted delivery. It feels like a rushed song and utterly filler (perhaps to make the album full-length suitable at 10 tracks). Other than that somewhat misguided attempt, 'Kindred' is completely spectacular. Let's not forget, Passion Pit's debut 'Manners' was a thing of absolute beauty. With 'Kindred', Angelakos features sprightly melodies and sparking vocals. He may be older, he may be wiser, but he's clinging onto the idea eternal youth and frankly, who isn't in this day and age?

Many of you remember Fess Parker as the actor who played Davy Crocket King of the wild Frontier and Daniel Boone of the TV series in the 60's , In fact 1954, Walt Disney personally signed Fess Parker to a contract. His fame and fortune set up his second career as real estate developer. Fess Parker died in 2010 but left his mark in the hospitality arena in Santa Barbara.

Parker built his first resort hotel in Santa Barbara in 1986. Fess Parker's Double Tree Resort. I've stayed there a few times it has the prefect view of the Pacific Ocean.

In 1987, Parker purchased a 714 acre ranch thirty five miles north of Santa Barbara, in the Santa Ynez Valley, where he set up Fess Parker's Winery

& Vineyard. Still operated by family members to this day. The winery produces many award winning wines many that have received 90+ ratings, a true American success story you bet! Many of you know that I have a radio show that airs live from Santa Barbara every Thursday and I have been introduced to many wines from the Santa Barbara area and I can say that the 2014 Fess Parker Chardonnay is a true representation of the emerging wine industry. The Chardonnay is crisp, aromas of citrus, a touch of honey and for you "oak fans", you'll love the fact that is has been 100% barrel aged and fermented in new French and Hungarian oak. . On the palate, great texture with subtle tannins, with a refreshing acidity a true balance making this Chardonnay a great food friendly wine. The price is right at less then $15. I paired it up recently with my signature home made crab cakes and what a great combination.

5 THINGS TO CONSIDER BEFORE NAMING BENEFICIARIES

insurance policy, retirement account, or bank that most beneficiaries of a retirement plan take becomes important.

naming beneficiaries:

1. Beneficiaries of a will have to wait. Any assets you bequeath to a beneficiary via a traditional will have to wait for their money or property until the probate process has been completed. In some -- and if the estate is complex, the legal fees can deplete that inheritance. If you want to make it A trust does not go through probate; upon your death, the successor trustee distributes the assets to your beneficiaries.

2. Retirement plan and life insurance policy benefits are paid directly. The assets in a life insurance policy or retirement plan are not subject to probate and pass to your (adult) beneficiaries directly. These beneficiaries will receive the assets after providing the account owner's proof of death and a proof of identity for the beneficiary. Naming contingent beneficiaries is important; if the primary beneficiary predeceases you, the assets will likely go into your estate and will be subject to taxes.

3. Minor children should not inherit directly. Naming a minor child as the beneficiary of a life insurance policy or other assets is never recommended. Because minor children cannot receive assets directly, the state could take over the assets and name someone to manage those assets on the child's behalf. This can result in additional expenses that eat into that inheritance, and those assets may not be managed according to your wishes. Instead, the wise move is to create a trust to hold these assets for the benefit of a minor child and name a successor trustee to oversee the management and distribution of the funds in a security for your family by calling 626.355.4000 or way that complies with your wishes.

Naming your estate as beneficiary of Here are five things you need to consider before a retirement plan is also not recommended since doing so would not allow your spouse or younger beneficiary to take advantage of an IRA rollover or the "stretch" IRA option that could allow your

IRA to grow tax-deferred over many years. 5. If there are multiple beneficiaries, name them cases, this can take many months or even years all. If there are multiple beneficiaries for an insurance policy or retirement plan, don't make the mistake of just naming one person -- say, easier for your beneficiaries, consider creating a the oldest child -- and assuming they will make Revocable Living Trust as part of your estate plan. the proper distributions. Instead, designate a separate share for each beneficiary. If one of your beneficiaries has special needs, create a trust for their share so any inherited assets don't disqualify them from important government benefits.

One of the main goals of my law practice is to help families like yours plan for the safe, successful transfer of wealth to the next generation. Naming the correct beneficiaries, in the right way, is an important part of that process. Please let me know if you have any questions about this or if there's anything else I can do to help.

If you are like me and originally had normal to dry skin, it stinks! Even my friends with oily skin eventually are not happy. At the same time, your second layer of skin thins and loses its elasticity.

New research suggests there is a way to really slow and even reverse some of this skin aging, yeah! Scientists at McMaster's University in Ontario, today, vibrantly!

As the years go by, Canada found that frequent exercise as we are aging our skin changes. We will keep or even reverse some skin aging. They found that people who exercised regularly had a feet around the eyes, thinner outer layer of skin and a thicker inner layer. People as old as 65 were found to have skin close to a 20 to 30 year old.

CAN SKIN AGING BE REVERSED?

You may be thinking what I was thinking, maybe the test participants eat a healthy diet and have great genes. Well, the researchers did a second study using sedimentary volunteers who were 65 or older with skin representative of their age. They had them exercise moderately, 2 days a week for roughly 60 minutes, for three months. What the researchers found was that most if not all of these participants had skin that looked like that of a 20 to 40 year old. OK, I do have to state that the researchers used skin that wasn't expose to the elements or so called skin care products. They used the skin from the participants bottoms.

Research shows that we are living longer. The question is how do you want to live your last 20 or so vears? Skin is a part of our bodies and maintaining its health is part of maintaining our overall health. So maybe the fountain of youth is available to all of us. Just think of the possibilities of eating a healthy diet and getting regular physical activity. I know I want to live my last 20 years the same way I am living

THE GOOD LIFE

UNDERSTANDING MEDICARE'S ENROLLMENT RULES

Dear Savvy Senior,

Can you give me a rundown on Medicare's enrollment choices and rules along with when and how to apply? I turn 65 next year and want to make sure I know what to do. Almost Retired

Dear Almost,

The strict rules and timetables for Medicare enrollment can be confusing to many new retirees, so you're wise to plan ahead. Here's a simplified rundown of what to know.

First a quick review. Remember that original Medicare has two parts: Part A, which provides hospital coverage and is free for most people, and Part B which covers doctor's visits and other medical services, and costs $104.90 per month for most enrollees in 2015.

When to Enroll

Everyone is eligible for Medicare at age 65, even if your full Social Security retirement age is 66 or

You can enroll any time during the "initial enrollment period," which is a seven-month period that includes the three months before, the month of, and the three months after your 65th birthday. It's best to enroll three months before your birth month to ensure your coverage starts when you turn 65.

If you happen to miss the seven-month signup window for Medicare Part B, you'll have to wait until the next "general enrollment period" which runs from Jan. 1 to March 31 with benefits beginning the following July 1. You'll also incur a 10 percent penalty for each year you wait beyond your initial enrollment period, which will be tacked on to your monthly Part B premium. You can sign up for premium-free Part A, at any time with no penalty.

Working Exceptions

Special rules apply if you're eligible for Medicare and still on the job. If you have health insurance coverage through your employer or your spouse's employer, and the company has 20 or more employees, you have a "special enrollment period" in which you can sign up. This means that you can delay enrolling in Medicare Part B, and are not subject to the 10 percent late-enrollment penalty as long as you sign up for within eight months of losing that coverage.

Drug Coverage

cover prescription medications, so if you don't have credible drug coverage from an employer or union, you'll need to buy a Part D drug plan from a private insurance company (see medicare. you don't have coverage - if you enroll later.

Insurance" to shop and compare policies.

All-In-One Plans

Instead of getting original Medicare, plus a stand-alone Part D drug plan and a Medigap policy, you could sign up for a Medicare Advantage plan (see medicare.gov/find-a-plan) that covers everything in one plan. These plans, which are also sold by insurance companies, are generally available through HMOs and PPOs and often have cheaper premiums, but their deductibles and co-pays are usually higher which makes them better suited for healthier retirees.

How to Enroll

gov/find-a-plan) during your initial enrollment if you want coverage. If you don't, you'll incur a premium penalty - 1 percent of the average national premium ($33.13 in 2015) for every month

Supplemental Coverage If you choose original Medicare, it's also a good idea to get a Medigap (Medicare supplemental) policy within six months after enrolling in Part B to help pay for things that aren't covered by Medicare like copayments, coinsurance and deductibles. See Medicare.gov and click on "Supplements & Other

If you're already receiving your Social Security benefits before 65, you will automatically be enrolled in Part A and Part B, and you'll receive your Medicare card about three months before your 65th birthday. It will include instructions to return it if you have work coverage that qualifies you for late enrollment. If you're not receiving Social Security, you'll need to enroll either online at socialsecurity.gov/medicare, over the phone at 800-772-1213 or through your local Social Security office.

People have had different reactions to this. Some find it mentally stimulating, like a Sudoku puzzle on steroids. This group is further divided into the people who try to solve the problem straight, and those who take the "correct" answer and try to figure out the logic by working backwards.

My experience with the people who try to solve it straight is that they invariably come up with a different conclusion than what the authors claim to be the correct one. Sometimes they become defensive, arguing that if their answer is not correct, it is due to poor wording in the question. attempting to prove why his answer was right and My husband and dad fall into this category. Bless their souls, they came up with their own answers and were convinced their logic and reasoning were flawless.

Then there are the uber-snobs whose online posts typically read something like, "Well, the solution is clear to any student of theoretical astro-physics [or fill in the blank with any highfalutin' science of your choosing]!" The anonymity of the internet brings out the worst in people, and the only difference are crude. But the same critical spirit underlies

When Dad first read the problem to Mom and I, about an assignment given to I assumed it was yet another example of Common students in Singapore. Here it is Core. It has all the earmarks of Common Core --unnecessary steps in a situation that will never and Bernard just became friends with Cheryl, and occur in the real world outside the classroom. So they want to know when her birthday is. Cheryl my initial response was like all my responses to gives them a list of 10 possible dates: May 15, May Common Core, "Who cares?" But to humor Dad, 16, May 19, June 17, June 18, July 14, July 16, August Mom and I attempted the problem. After some time Dad said, "I think I got it!" He left to go check the and Bernard separately the month and the day Daily Mail article from which he got the problem of her birthday respectively. Albert says, 'I don't originally to see if he was right. While he was gone,

"This Cheryl is kind of weird, posing this problem to people she just met" I said. "Yeah," Mom responded, "It's really kind of narcissistic of her. I mean, does she really expect Bernard and Albert to be that interested in her birthday?" "Seriously!" I said, "Why all the intrigue?" "Maybe Cheryl has some problems --like delusions of grandeur," Mom added. "Hmm," I replied, "I wonder if Albert and Bernard are really her 'friends?' Maybe she's an inmate in some mental facility, and Bernard and Albert are the guys in white coats in charge of her." "Ha!" Mom laughed, "They could just peek inside her file and find out when her birthday is. They're just acting interested to placate

By now Dad had returned and was busy the one Daily Mail published was incorrect. "Don't worry, Dad, we figured it out!" "Really?" he asked. Although we laid out the watertight logic behind our conclusion, Dad pointed out that we still did not come up with the same answer as the authors of the problem. "But in Common Core it doesn't matter what answer you come up with" I replied. "As long as you can give an argument for your reasoning. It's as good as getting the problem right!"

I'll leave you with that to consider in closing. between posts like these and expletive-laden rants Next week, we'll apply higher level criticism to the are that the former are polished whereas the latter problem "2 + 2 = ?" Spoiler alert! It's not what you

SENIOR HAPPENINGS

FYI - SENIORS - DON'T BE A TARGET

THE F.B.I. Common Fraud Schemes webpage provides tips on how you can protect you and your family from fraud. Senior Citizens especially should be aware of fraud schemes for the following

Senior citizens are most likely to have a "nest egg," to own their home, and/or to have excellent credit—all of which make them attractive to con artists.

People who grew up in the 1930s, 1940s, and 1950s were generally raised to be polite and trusting. Con artists exploit these traits, knowing that it is difficult or impossible for these individuals to say "no" or just hang up the telephone.

Older Americans are less likely to report a fraud because they don't know who to report it to, are too ashamed at having been scammed, or don't know they have been scammed. Elderly victims may not report crimes, for example, because they are concerned that relatives may think the victims no longer have the mental capacity to take care of their own financial affairs. When an elderly victim does report the crime, they often make poor witnesses. Con artists know the effects of age on memory, and they are counting on elderly victims not being able to supply enough detailed information to investigators. In addition, the victims' realization that they have been swindled may take weeks—or more likely, months—after contact with the fraudster. This extended time frame makes it even more difficult to remember details from the events. Senior citizens are more interested in and susceptible to products promising increased cognitive function, virility, physical conditioning, anti-cancer properties, and so on. In a country where new cures and vaccinations for old diseases have given every American hope for a long and fruitful life, it is not so unbelievable that the con artists' products can do what they claim.

EARTH-SIZE TELESCOPE EXPANDS TO SOUTH POLE TO SEE BLACK HOLES IN DETAIL

Astronomers building an Earth-size virtual telescope capable of photographing the event horizon of the black hole at the center of our Milky Way have extended their instrument to the bottom of the Earth—the South Pole—thanks to recent efforts by a team led by Dan Marrone of the University of Arizona.

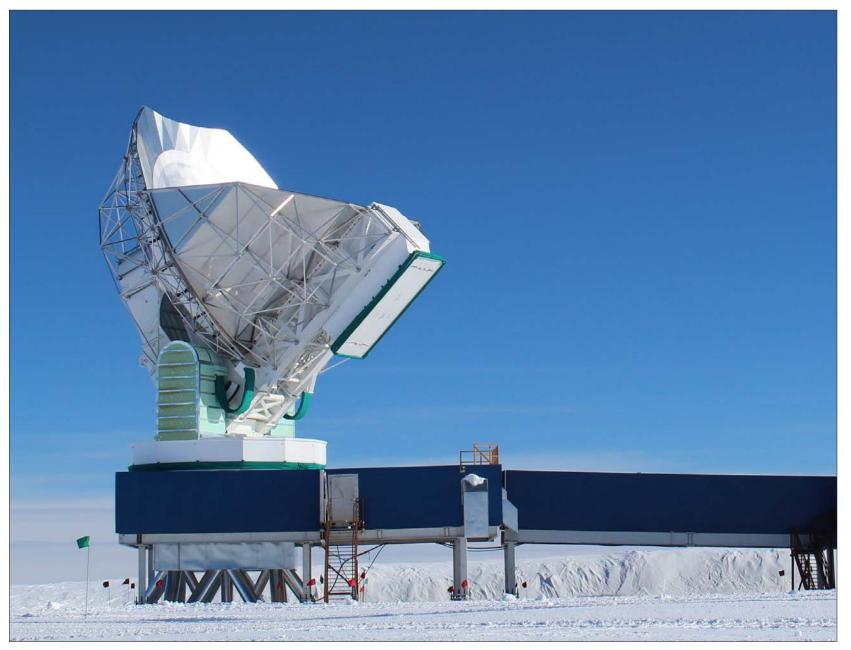

Marrone, an assistant professor in the UA's Department of Astronomy and Steward Observatory, and several colleagues flew to the National Science Foundation's Amundsen-Scott South Pole Station in December to bring the South Pole Telescope, or SPT, into the largest virtual telescope ever built—the Event Horizon Telescope, or EHT. By combining telescopes across the Earth, the EHT will take the first detailed pictures of black holes.

The EHT is an array of radio telescopes connected using a technique known as very long baseline interferometry, or VLBI. Larger telescopes can make sharper observations, and interferometry allows multiple telescopes to act like a single telescope as large as the separation or "baseline"—between them.

"Now that we've done VLBI with the SPT, the Event Horizon Telescope really does span the whole Earth, from the Submillimeter Telescope on Mount Graham in Arizona, to California, Hawaii, Chile, Mexico, Spain and the South Pole," Marrone said. "The baselines to SPT give us two to three times more resolution than our past arrays, which is absolutely crucial to the goals of the EHT. To verify the existence of an event horizon, the 'edge' of a black hole, and more generally, to test Einstein's theory of general relativity, we need a very detailed picture of a black hole. With the full EHT, we should be able

The prime EHT target is the Milky Way's black hole, known as Sagittarius A* (pronounced "A-star"). Even though it is 4 million times more massive than the Sun, it is tiny to the eyes of astronomers. Because it is smaller than Mercury's orbit around the Sun, yet almost 26,000 lightyears away, studying its event horizon in detail is equivalent to standing in California and reading the date on a penny in New York.

With its unprecedented resolution, more than 1,000 times better than the Hubble Space theory of relativity, the existence of black holes Telescope, the EHT will see swirling gas on its has since been supported by decades' worth of final plunge over the event horizon, never to regain contact with the rest of the universe. BEING PREPARED at large, to fear these days - and we find that we now have much to fear... terrorism, GMOs, inflation, comets....

It is worth reminding ourselves of the famous Presidential quote, "There is nothing to fear but fear

What is the cause of fear, that irrational reaction to known and unknown events? Though this is obviously complex, the overpowering emotion of fear fills the void where there is no thinking, no physical preparedness, no systems that have been worked out to deal with challenges, and no love. Fear fills the void in our modern computer and ipod age where neighbors no longer no neighbors.

But, as always, we can choose our destiny. We can get to know our neighbors. We can learn together how to prepare for earthquakes by storing food and water, and learning first aid. We can learn with students and neighbors how to grow trees and vegetables, especially in the cities where we have allowed ourselves to become so dependent on everyone and everything else.

And, as my associates and I have attempted to for several decades, we also find solutions in looking to the past. It is amazing how many children "couldn't function" (so they say) without a cell phone or Americans fed and housed themselves, took care of their own politics and crime, and created a high social at www.SchoolofSelf-Reliance.com. system with no electronics, no K-Marts, no piped water, and no e-bay.

Of course, things were different then, but human nature is largely the same. Did they have things to fear then? Of course! Their guaranteed income was zero, there were no guaranteed health plans, no pensions, no automobile insurance, no welfare, no WIC, no EBT were simply the people and their resolve to do what it bright indeed.

It seems that there is a lot in took to provide for themselves. As we have grown in Sierra Madre, and the world numbers, we have specialized ourselves into stupidity,

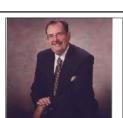

Let us look at how native peoples of the past deflation, right-wingers, left-wingers, war, hurricanes, provided food. Every fall, when the acorns fell from the oak trees, the acorns were collected, shelled, and then leached. Leaching means that they were ground into flour and "washed" by pouring water over the meal until the bitter tannic acid was removed. I still do this today, except I do it in my kitchen, soaking the shelled acorns in a pan rather than in a rock hollow by the stream. By my estimate, 99% of this quality food rots and decays on the forest floor or is raked to the curb to be picked up by the city's street-sweepers. Yet, to collect your own acorns, and to make your own bread and pancakes, is a wonderful feeling It is living history. And each such simple act of doing something for yourself make you more independent, more selfreliant, more confident that "the way" is out there, available.

Additionally in the fall, we have the cactus fruits ripening, as well as the manzanita berries, and toyon berries. All of these are good foods that we could all use today. Though Homeland Security hasn't (yet) told us what to do to become self-reliant, these are just a few of the ways to look to the past to eliminate fear, and to be self-reliant.

The late Paul Campbell wrote an excellent book computer. But just a few hundred years ago, here in called Survival Skills of Native California which California's rich coastal plains, generations of Native describes how California Indians provided for all their needs from the land. This and other books can be seen

> The School of Self-reliance also conducts weekend classes in plant identification and survival skills. Check the web site for details, or write to Box 41834, Eagle Rock, CA 90041.

But whatever you do, don't let fear take over. Take action. Some action, and learn at least one new thing each day to become more self-reliant. If we all look to cards, and no FEMA or Homeland Security. There the past for some of our solutions, the future will be

OUT TO PASTOR

A Weekly Religion Column by Rev. James Snyder

WHY GRIN WHEN YOU CAN LAUGH OUT LOUD

I am of the opinion that standing in line is not a career although I have been so employed most of my life. If it is a career, I am not applying for any employment.

I have searched colleges and universities and have yet to find any of them offering a PhD in Standing in Line. I believe there is no such thing, although I stood in line for so long now I probably have earned a PhD.

This past week I had this brought to my attention in an interesting manner. I had ordered a printing job at Staples and went in to pick it up. Walking in the door I noticed that at the printing department there was a long line of people waiting. My heart sank.

Nothing seems to be more of a waste of time then standing in line waiting for service or to pick up something. The woman behind the counter was doing the best she could, but the line did not seem to shrink very much. In fact, it seemed to grow.

As I stood there, I noticed the people in line were getting a little grouchy. You could tell by the grimace on their face that they were not in one of their "happy moods." At the time, most of the people in line were women. Nobody was talking to anybody, just staring or should I say glaring at the woman behind the counter trying to move the customers through as fast as

It is always true that when you are in a hurry, things go rather slow. I try to pretend I am not in a hurry and whistle, usually, "Rudolph the Red Nose Reindeer." If it is this time of year people look at me as though I am crazy. Looks can be deceiving, but not in my case.

If you pretend that you have all the time in the world, things seem to go by quicker. It is like your computer. If you are in a hurry, the computer will run as slow as possible. On the other hand, if while you are waiting for the computer to get up and running you have many other things to do the computer is up and running before you know it. I was thinking all these things as I was standing in line because I was not really walking in line. I thought of Johnny Cash's song, "I walk the line," and was tempted to start singing it, but I did not think it would be appropriate. Then things began to take another turn. A woman came behind the counter, saw me and asked very loudly, "Are you here to pick up?" There are times when something happens inside my head that makes me say things that I have not really prepared. I do not know what it is, maybe it is my upbringing but I am still not Without hardly a thought, I said in my outdoor voice, "No, I'm married, but thanks for the offer. It's not often an old geezer like me get such an invitation."

Then the whole atmosphere changed. Most of the people in line broke out in hilarious laughter. They never heard such a line in all their life. One woman looked at me and said, "Thanks, I needed that." Another said, "You've made my day."

Everybody was laughing and talking and the time seemed to go by very quickly and soon I

My observation is that most people are too serious, but too serious about the wrong things. Everybody seems to be uptight particularly when they are in the store standing in line.

One rule I have in life and that is, I do not take myself very seriously. After all, I do own a mirror! If what I see in the mirror is what other people see when they encounter me, I better start laughing now and join the crowd.

There are things that we need to take seriously. Most people do not take the serious things seriously, but they take instead, the hilarious things seriously. We live in an upside down

A time comes when you have to really laugh out loud. I have noticed that when one person starts laughing pretty soon everybody in the surrounding area will join in the laughing. Laughing seems to be rather contagious.

If you get up in the morning and listen to the news, you are going to be down in the dumps all day. So much on television and radio for that matter, contribute to the degree of sadness infecting our country today.

I think occasionally everybody needs to have what I call "Laughter Therapy." The way to begin this "Laughter Therapy," is to begin laughing at yourself. After all, everybody else is laughing at you; why not join in the hilarity?

Of course, some things are not funny. The wise person knows the difference between what is funny and what is not funny. To laugh at the wrong thing can be disastrous. Solomon understood this quite well when he wrote, "A merry heart doeth good like a medicine: but a broken spirit drieth the bones" (Proverbs 17:22). I refuse to go through life with a strained grin on my face. I choose to laugh out loud and invite the whole world to laugh with me.

HOWARD Hays As I See It

"This is embarrassing" - President Obama on the Senate's delay in confirming Loretta

Lynch as attorney general

Loretta Lynch (finally) is in the news again. Most of the country was introduced to her six months ago, when President Obama nominated her to succeed Eric Holder as attorney

As the president remarked, Lynch has now been waiting for confirmation from the Senate for longer than all previous seven nominees for attorney general - combined.

In case you've forgotten, she's a Harvard Law grad, originally from North Carolina. Her preacher grandfather helped blacks move north in the 1930s to escape Jim Crow laws. Her father, also a minister, opened his Greensboro church in the early 1960s to organizers of sit-ins and protests, and she rode on his shoulders as he stood with them. She became a prosecutor for the Eastern District of New York, handling drugs and violent crimes. As U.S. Attorney for the Eastern District under President Clinton, she successfully prosecuted NYPD cops for the beating and sodomizing of Haitian immigrant Abner Lynch was returned to the post by President Obama. Her prosecution of political corruption was non-partisan; getting a guilty plea from now-former-Congressman Michael Grimm (R-NY) and prosecuting Democratic members of the New York state legislature. Following the 2008 financial meltdown, she got multi-billion settlements out of Citicorp

Ironically (to those following the story) her office was also lauded for its success in going after human traffickers. As reported in The Guardian, Lynch "has a prodigious history of throwing sex traffickers in prison, breaking up prostitution rings, rescuing underage victims forced to work as prostitutes and reuniting mothers held captive by the rings with their long-lost children." A former prosecutor says she made such cases a "personal priority". It's also ironic that during her confirmation hearings last January, Republican Senators spent significant time expressing impatience to see Eric Holder go. Gun groups were outraged that Lynch would continue enforcing gun laws. There was indignation she wouldn't call illegal the executive actions on immigration taken by the president who nominated her for the job. She explained that while not being familiar with the details, establishing priorities for enforcement is not uncommon.

She supports the death penalty, takes a harder line on marijuana than does the president and stated unequivocally that waterboarding is "torture . . . and thus illegal". She said a priority of hers would be strengthening "the vital relationships between our courageous law enforcement personnel and all the communities we serve."

Loretta Lynch cleared the Senate Judiciary Committee last February on a 12-8 bipartisan vote, and has majority support in the Senate to ensure confirmation. So what's been the Part of it's payback for the Senate rules change in 2013, when Democrats put a stop to Republicans' routinely blocking nominees with 60-vote cloture demands. Lynch is (or was) one of 18 nominees currently awaiting a Senate vote, with 130 stuck in committees. Last week, a judge in Texas became the first confirmed by the Senate in three months under Republican control, with 23 vacancies identified as "judicial emergencies" in the federal

Also, as Eugene Robinson put it in the Washington Post, "most Republican senators feel obliged to oppose anything Obama proposes, especially this close to an election year." The latest hang-up involved a bill to combat human trafficking. Its passage was assured as it came out of the House, but Senate Republicans added language threatening to expand the Hyde Amendment - a provision tacked onto appropriations bills prohibiting taxpayer funding for abortions. A vote on Loretta Lynch would have to wait until this bill with its new anti-abortion language was passed.

A Senate Democratic aide put it this way to The Guardian: "Whether it's chipping away at women's reproductive options in an anti-trafficking bill, or trying to repeal the Affordable Care Act that did so much to expand access to healthcare for women, the bottom line is Republicans are still laser-focused on putting politicians in between a woman and her

That observation was confirmed in the House last week as well, where Republicans sought to overturn a local D.C. ordinance barring employment discrimination based on a woman's reproductive health choices. Republicans argued that prohibiting the firing of someone based on birth control, in vitro fertilization, an abortion or unwed motherhood would violate the employer's "religious freedom". Rep. Carolyn Maloney (D-NY) countered that they are "activities which are none of an employer's business."

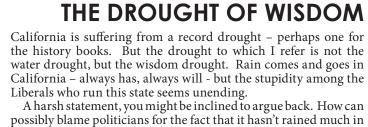

For this current bill, Republicans figured they'd hold Loretta Lynch's confirmation hostage in order to force agreement on expanding the Hyde Amendment to cover private as well as taxpayer funds, while in the meantime blaming Democrats for stalling action on human trafficking. President Obama called it "political gamesmanship in the Senate on an issue that's completely unrelated to her."

It didn't work. As passed, taxpayer funds in the bill remain covered by the Hyde Amendment, as they would anyway, while other funds (fees from traffickers) simply won't

Despite Republicans' best efforts, we now have legislation passed to address human trafficking, the Hyde Amendment has not been expanded, and Loretta Lynch will soon be sworn in as our nation's 83rd attorney general.

If her confirmation process is referred to at all during next year's congressional campaigns, it will be to recall President Obama's observation that "There are times where the dysfunction of the Senate just goes too far. This is an example of it." As he said, it's "embarrassing".

GREG Welborn

A harsh statement, you might be inclined to argue back. How can the last 4 to 5 years? But I'm not holding them accountable for how much it rains; I'm holding them accountable for what they did with the water when it rained a lot and was plentiful, and now for what they're doing with the water when it's in relatively short

California is an arid state. It is on the low end of rainfall volume in the United States. We get more than the truly desert states, but certainly less than the east coast and Midwest. But that's a given. We've always been at the low end, on top of which we're subject to the occasional drought. Even severe droughts are not unheard of in California. Again, though, all this is normal; all this has been known to the state's leaders since the state was founded. That's why previous generations put so much effort into building what once was one of the greatest reservoir and aquifer systems of its time

Our present problems are the result of short-sighted and callous politicians who allowed that system to fall into disrepair, who refused to build any new storage facilities over the last 30+ plus years when our population grew to 40 million people, and who gave into the ruinous policy prescriptions of the crazy wing of the environmentalist

The numbers tell the story pretty clearly. In an average year, California receives enough snow and rain to accumulate 200 million acre feet of water (an acre foot is an acre of land covered 1 foot deep). During that same average year, California consumes approximately 60 million acre feet. The consumption estimates I found actually ranged from 40 million to 60 million acre feet. I'm giving the politicians the benefit of the doubt, going with the higher estimate. Even still, in an average year, there's more than enough water to use and - if we had intelligent leadership - to store for the dry years. In fact, in normal years - let alone "wet" years - we are relative to our consumption needs

On the opposite end of the spectrum in droughts, the water received can decrease substantially while the usage stays fairly constant. That just emphasizes the need to store the water we do receive. Here's where the bunglers in Sacramento did the bungling. Environmental laws intended to protect various fish species and wetland habitats have us dump half the normal water we receive out to the ocean. That's 100 million acre feet flushed out to San Francisco Bay and the Pacific to save a couple of fish. Carly Fiorina, former CEO of Hewlett Packard and thus a pretty sharp cookie, quoted one estimate that 70% of our rainfall is flushed out to sea.

The magnitude of the water we throw away is staggering in its own right, but it might be attributable to some sliver of logic if this actually helped the fish. Unfortunately, the "endangered" fish populations have decreased over the last 40 years, which is also roughly the time period during which no new reservoirs were built. The best laid plans of mice and Dems have truly gone awry.

The failure to build those reservoirs and damns is the other component of our present problem. Even if we decided to keep the water we get in average and good years, we would need to store it some place. Environmental groups have passed laws and used the courts to effectively block the construction of any new significant storage facility since 1980. In a weird way, we have to grant the logic of this last one. If you've passed laws mandating that you not keep the water you get, why would you spend any money to build damns or reservoirs to store the water you aren't keeping?

Liberals are always surprised when their policy prescriptions make things worse, and California's water policies are no exception. One of the unintended consequences of refusing to store more water in order to "help" the environment is that farmers in the great valley are being forced to dig their wells deeper, thus reducing the water table lower than is probably good for us. The law of unintended consequences has not been suspended.

The sad reality is that even under the most dire of circumstances this year (official measurement of rain and snow fall for the year won't end until June 30th), we will have received enough water to meet our needs if we had captured and kept everything that fell from the sky. The lack of water can't be blamed on Mother Nature. All she did was expose the drought of common sense and wisdom that passes for political leadership in
