SIERRA MADRE BUDGET TOWN HALL MEETING - SATURDAY, JUNE 6, 2015

The Sierra Madre City Council will be hosting a Town Hall Meeting at the Fire Station on Saturday, June 6, 2015. Residents are encouraged to drop by between 10am and noon and enter to win one of six great participation prizes: A Meal with the Mayor, A Helicopter Ride, Dinner with Firefighters, a Free Park Rental, 10 Free Library DVD Rentals, or a Storytime Birthday Party at the Library.

At the Town Hall Meeting, each participant will have the opportunity to "balance" the City's budget with the current projected revenues. Residents will be able to study the impacts of various reductions including, but not limited to, reduction in hours and programs at the Library and Community Services, fewer public counter hours at the Planning Department and City Hall, contracting policing services to the Sheriffs or paramedic services to a private ambulance company. Participants will also be asked to "vote" on various revenue measures ranging from no new revenues to increased fees and fines, or a general or special tax.

The accumulation of input gathered at ten different budget input meetings that took place in May will also be available for further comment and discussion.

All the information collected at the Town Hall Meeting will be presented to the City Council for consideration as the Council deliberates and makes decisions on how to balance the City's budget at their regular meeting on Tuesday, June 9, 2015 at 6:30pm in the Council Chambers. Residents are encouraged to attend and provide public comment on this very important topic.

Residents can send additional comments and suggestions to city@cityofsierramadre. com for distribution to all five Council Members. 2015 MOUNT WILSON TRAIL RACE - PERFECT WEATHER FOR A RACE UP THE MOUNTAIN TRAIL

Sierra Madre, CA. - The cool weather set an ideal stage for the Mount Wilson Trail Race this past Saturday, May 23rd as over 300 runners participated in the 2015 Mount Wilson Trail Race. It was another successful year with optimal trail conditions, and a hardworking team of volunteers. All participants safely completed the difficult 8.6 mile course an impressive feat worth a lifetime of bragging rights. Hundreds of spectators stood along the sidelines as the official race starter, Bob Spears, fired the start gun.

At a time of 1:05:09 later, Alan Reynolds from Sausalito, CA came sprinting across the finish line. At 51 years old, this was not Mr. Reynolds first victory at the Trail Race, he won back to back races 25 years ago in 1989 and 1990.

Quite an accomplishment 25 years later!

Sally June Tracy, 29, ran an outstanding race to win with a time of 1:13:44 upsetting the last two consecutive year's winner Mireya Vargas, coming in second with another impressive time of 1:16:19

Among the Sierra Madre men who participated in the event, Troy Putnam, 25, had the best time at 1:16:24 followed by Filiberto Arizmendi, 45, ran a close second finishing at 1:16:35 among the men.

Sierra Madre females were led by Maia Cohen, 16, had the best time at 1:23:34 and Jill Liston, 52, had the second best time at 1:31:17. There were a total of 34 female entries from Sierra Madre and 58 male entries from the city.

The night before the race, families enjoyed the annual Pasta Feed Dinner in Kersting Court. Zugo's of Sierra Madre catered the dinner which included pasta, salad, breadsticks (donated by StoneFire Grill) and delicious rice crispy treats (provided by Sierra Madre Civic Club). In addition to loading up on carbohydrates, attendees were able to enter an opportunity raffle, purchase souvenirs, and check-in for both the trail race and the Kids' Rabbit leads the way for the Kids Fun Run Fun Run. A new addition this year was a high

SIERRA MADRE NEWS BRIEFS

FALSE ALARM FRAYS NERVES

On Friday evening, the sound of the shared helicopter filled the air near the 300 block of E. Sierra Madre Blvd. in Sierra Madre. Social Media shaared the information too. Facebook and Twitter as well as those who stick to traditional email had heard about the scanner post and began to worry about safety in our own homess. The word was that police were responding to a Home Invasion in Sierra Madre. Fortunately, that was not the case.

According the SMPD Watch Commander Gonzalez, the entire incident stemmed from 3 alert teenagers who were home alone. and were startled when the heard what they thought were footsteps in the house. They immediately ran out of the house and called SMPD. As it turns out, there was no "home invasion" but instead the fear appears to have been prompted by too much 'scary' TV.

CITY OFFERS CLARIFICATION ON EXPENSES

In last week's edition of the Mountain Views News, a graphic provided by the city, was published to show the city's income and expenses. One of the line items listed in the General Fund expenses was categorized as "Administration". This paper received several inquiries and regarding it (The amount was slightly more than a million dollars). City Manager Elaine Aguilar was contacted and asked to explain what type of expenses were included in that figure. As it turns out, that amount is inclusive of all city overhead. Overhead includes such items as liability insurance, utilities, etc. The personnel costs included in administration total $133,000, as staff is allocated to specific departments.

TURF REMOVAL REBATE PROJECT A RESOUNDING SUCCESS

The City of Sierra Madre, through a grant from the San Gabriel Valley Municipal Water District, offered rebates to qualified homeowners who removed their lawns in order to conserve water.

The city was able to reimburse 57 homeowners who removed more than 48,000 square feet of grass. All grant funds have been exhausted at this time, however, there is a waiting list of 25 additional homes that qualify for participation.

City staff is trying to secure additional grant funds so that the program can be extended.

CONSTRUCTION DELAYS CONTINUE TO HAUNT

Sierra Madre Middle School site on May 27th. After the meeting with parents, the Citizens Oversight Committee toured the site. S. Henderson/MVNews

To the dismay of students, parents and teachers, on Wednesday evening officials from the Pasadena Unified School District confirmed what most parents and teachers already knew: the new Sierra Madre Middle School would not be complete by the start of the 2015-2016 School

Year on August 18th.

Newly appointed Chief of Facilities Nelson
Cayabyab, and newly appointed Project Manager Rick Kent met with parents and teachers to announce the new timeline. Also in attendance were PUSD Superintendant Dr. Brian McDonald and SMMS Principal Garret Newsom.

It's been years since this project began. Initially, funds from Measure TT (which passed in 2008), were to be used to upgrade the existing school. However, after sending the proprosed improvements out to bid, it was decided to raze the old building and build a brand new school. Portable classrooms have been used while the construction has been going on.

After a string of bureacratic delays within the district and in Sacramento, and several changes in the construction schedule, a final completion date of April, 2015 was given. Parents, teachers and students were anxious to begin the new school year in the finished state of the art facility without the dust, noise and disruption of construction all around.

It was officially announced that the school would not be complete until November, 2015, almost three months after the beginning of the new school year. Kent explained that over the summer most of the portables would be moved and classes would be held in new Buildings E and F temporarily.

The mew schedule is predicated upon the approval of the 4 elevators by the State. According to Kent, that approval is expected by June 4th. Once received he committed to amp up the construction schedule in order to get as much done as possible by the start of the new school

SIERRA MADRE POLICE BLOTTER

 $For the \ period\ SUNDAY, May\ 17 th\ through\ SUNDAY, May\ 24 th$

During the week of Sunday, May 17th, to Sunday, May 24th, the Sierra Madre Police Department responded to approximately 314 calls for service.

Tuesday, May 19th

At 5:35 pm, Sierra Madre Police responded to the station lobby regarding a suspicious person report. Officers were informed by the young woman that at about 3:50 pm, she was walking west through the Mariposa parking lot when she turned to look behind her and noticed a male subject driving slowly in a vehicle behind her. The young woman stated she was not in the vehicle's path and there was plenty of room to allow the vehicle to pass. Feeling nervous, the young woman sped up her walking pace and soon realized the vehicle started driving faster to keep up with her. The woman became scared and started to run west on Mariposa Ave and noticed the vehicle was still following her. Ultimately the woman was able to safely run home and witnessed the vehicle drive off. The subject was described as a Male Hispanic between the age of 20 and 30 with dark short hair wearing a dark colored tank top. The vehicle was described as a dark colored 4 door with moderate paint damage. This case has been forwarded to the Detective Bureau.

Friday, May 22nd

At 10:45 pm, Sierra Madre Police were patrolling the area on the 100 block of S. Hermosa when they observed a vehicle stopped in the middle of the road, while a nude female was climbing into the passenger window. As Officers approached the vehicle they also saw a male subject in the driver's seat. The female left the vehicle as Officers approached and walked into a residence. The Officers followed the woman and were met by her parents. Officers were informed by the parents that the woman had recently been prescribed medication that made her act out violently. Officers learned that the man in the vehicle was the woman's boyfriend and upon trying to leave, she became upset and violent with him. As he tried to leave the home he suffered an injury from broken glass. The woman's father heard the commotion and attempted to calm his daughter when she physically harmed him. Sierra Madre Fire Department treated both men, and attempted to treat the woman, but were unable to due to her not wanting to cooperate. Officers determined the woman was a danger to herself and others and placed her on a 72 hour health evaluation. The woman was ultimately transported and admitted to a local hospital.

Sunday, May 24th

At 7:30 am, Sierra Madre Police responded to the 600 block of W. Sierra Madre Blvd regarding an unknown male subject in the backyard of a residence. The victims informed Officers that earlier that morning, the wife yelled for her husband that there was a man in the backyard and he was attempting to open their glass sliding door. The husband yelled at the man to leave and the unknown man then left the yard. A short time later, Officers were able to locate the unknown man. As the Officers questioned the man, they noticed he appeared to be heavily intoxicated. The man informed the Officers that he had been drinking and that he believes himself to be an alcoholic. He stated he did not know why he was in the victims' backyard and did not remember going home last night. Officers ultimately arrested the man for public intoxication and he was released to Pasadena Jail.

Walking Sierra Madre...The Social Side by Deanne Davis

What a weekend! The 107th running of the Mt. Wilson Trail Race was last Saturday and, as you already know, Alan Reynolds roared through the winner's ribbon at 1:05:11. Ben Ward and Mark Butala were just seconds behind and the first woman to finish the grueling 8.6 mile run was Sally June Tracy at 1:13:44. If you were there, you had a great time, just like we did. The weather was perfect. Even though we're all heartily sick of the May Grey, it was fine for the race. That Trail is hard enough when it's cool. When it's hot, it's just murder!

Of course, my favorite is the Kid's Race where the 7-12 year olds head up Baldwin first, closely followed by the 3 to 6 year old crowd. We had to laugh at the last little guy, holding his Daddy's hand and shaking his head in a very definite, "I don't wanna go!" at the end of the pack. The rabbit this year, following in the rabbit steps of last year's Simon Cooper, who ran the race and finished 5th, was Robert Vangilder, former jockey and member of the Foothill Flyers. The kids' shirt, designed by Christine Manoukian, 4th grader at Sierra Madre Elementary, was beyond cute. Thanks to the Sierra Madre Community Foundation for these shirts. A highlight of the morning was Kaiya Wilson's beautiful rendition of the Star Spangled Banner. Kaiya is a 7th grader at Sierra Madre Middle School. We have such gifted kids in our town, don't we! If you didn't go this year, be sure you go next year as this is such a fun time to see friends and feel special because you live here! So many volunteers made it all happen, including i-Fruggi's donation of 500 fruit and veggie smoothies! Many thanks to owner, Jerrod Libonati. Sharon Pevsner, who organizes the Kid's Race and gets all these little people stretching, bending and ready to run, worked her magic on one little girl who took a hard spill at the beginning of the kids' race, but Sharon got her up, got the tears dried and she took off like a rocket quickly passing other kids. Sharon, you're so neat!

And then it was Monday, Memorial Day...

"Memorial Day isn't just about honoring veterans, it is honoring those who lost their lives. Veterans had the fortune of coming home. For us, that is a reminder of when we come home we still have a responsibility to serve. It's a continuation of service that honors our country and those who fell defending it." Pete Hegseth Great quote, you're thinking, but who's Pete Hegseth? He's Chief Executive Officer for Concerned Veterans for America. Prior to that he was Executive Director of Vets for Freedom. Before that, he served in Afghanistan and Iraq. He holds two Bronze Stars and a Combat Infantryman's Badge for his time in Iraq and Afghanistan.

Our own Memorial Day Observance was as moving as it always is, seeing our Sierra Madre Harry L. Embree VFW Post 3208 veterans standing straight as straight can get, crowd singing the National Anthem and hearing from Commander David Loera that there are 6800 posts all across the Nation, observing this sacred day. Msgr. Rickard Krekelberg's invocation, "we are privileged to gather with our community in this rich and beautiful land God has given us, at the awesome cost of freedom." Congresswoman, Judy Chu, spoke of her Dad, who served in Okinawa in WWII and passed away at 91 just a few months ago. She also gave an update on the Veteran's Health Center for the San Gabriel Valley.

Ann MacGilivray, dressed in one of her famous sweaters, gave an excellent, thought provoking, heartfelt address and we were so glad we were there. If you didn't go this year, you missed out! Plan to be there next year. After all, we live in the best city anywhere, don't we!

COUNCIL MEETING ON WATER SHORTAGE

The city council's is set to continue a discussion Monday night over a city plan and other possible steps in response to the serious drought in California and Governor Jerry Brown's mandate for a 25-percent cut in water use. The meetings begin at 6:30 p.m. in the Council Chamber at City Hall, 100 N. Garfield

According to officials, Pasadena's Level 2 Water Shortage Plan, under a city ordinance, limits outdoor watering to two days per week during spring and summer, and one day per week during fall and winter. The plan requires water leaks to be fixed within 48 hours and prohibits the filling of ornamental lakes and ponds.

"All of us know by now that California is confronting an unprecedented challenge to our water supply. The Governor and state agencies are mandating draconian water-use reductions which we will be hard-pressed to achieve," Mayor Terry Tornek said. "The City Council will undertake a serious dialogue with the public to discuss various methods to achieve these savings. If all of us work together to reform current practices, we can meet our goals while maintaining our quality of life."

The City is required to hold a public hearing prior to the Council declaring a Level 2 shortage. If approved, the Council will set an effective date for when the Level 2 shortage is declared. The City has been operating on a Level 1 declaration since July 28, 2014 that limits outdoor watering to three days in spring and summer and one day in fall and winter.

More information on Pasadena's water restrictions is available online at www. PWPweb.com/WaterWaste. Fines for repeat offenders can be up to $500 per violation for residential customers and up to $1,000 per violation for all non-residential accounts.

Pedestrian Traffic Enforcement Operation Planned

Pasadena Police Department will step up bike and pedestrian safety enforcement operations on Monday, with focused enforcement on collision causing factors involving motorists, pedestrians and bicyclists.

Ófficers will be looking for violations made by drivers, bike riders and pedestrians alike that can lead to life changing injuries. Special attention will be directed toward drivers speeding, making illegal turns, failing to stop for signs and signals, failing to yield to pedestrians in cross walks or any other dangerous violation.

Additionally, enforcement will be taken for observed violations when pedestrians cross the street illegally or fail to yield to drivers who have the right of way. Bike riders will be stopped and citations issued when they fail to follow the same traffic laws that apply to motorists. All riders are reminded to always wear a helmet – those under 18 years of age must wear helmets by law. Pedestrians should cross the street only in marked crosswalks or at corners.

Bicycle and pedestrian fatalities are rising in California as more people use these non-motorized means of transportation. Locally, Pasadena Police Department has investigated 486 fatal and injury collisions involving pedestrians and bicyclists during the past three (3) years. In 2012, California witnessed 612 pedestrian and 124 bicyclists killed that year while nationally 4,743 pedestrians and 726 bicyclists were killed.

FREE HANDS-ONLY CPR TRAINING THURSDAY, JUNE 4

Methodist Hospital teams with Arcadia Fire Department and Westfield Santa Anita Mall in potentially lifesaving event

ARCADIA - Methodist Hospital, in coordination with the Arcadia Fire Department, will provide free Hands-OnlyTM CPR (chest compressions but no mouth-to-mouth breathing) training 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., Thursday, June 4, near the food court at the Westfield Santa Anita Mall.

"It only takes a few minutes per person," said Ilene Frost, RN, Methodist Hospital educator. "We want to encourage people to come out to the mall and take a few minutes to learn this potentially lifesaving skill."

As part of a countywide event, Methodist Hospital staff and Arcadia Fire Department paramedics will demonstrate the basics and proper techniques of the American Heart Association's Hands-OnlyTM CPR (cardio-pulmonary resuscitation), and participants can practice on mannequins.

Los Angeles County Émergency Medical Services (EMS) Agency and the American Heart Association (AHA) have collaborated to promote this Sidewalk CPR event in communities throughout the county in observance of National CPR Week.

"We want to teach as many as we can how to use this method," Frost said. "Anyone can save a life simply by being aware of the CPR

When performed by a bystander, this method could be even more effective than CPR because more people are likely to perform the hands-only method. There are only two steps to remember:

1. Call 911 2. Push hard and fast in the center of the chest (to the rhythm of the tune "Stayin' Alive")

Cardiac arrest is more common than you think and can happen to anyone at any time. Many victims appear healthy with no known heart disease. Nearly 300,000 sudden cardiac arrests occur annually, and less than 10 percent of people who suffer cardiac arrest outside the hospital survive.

Sudden cardiac arrest is not the same as a heart attack. It is an electrical disorder of the heart that causes it to stop beating. Without blood flow, the brain stops working and the victim collapses and is unconscious. The earlier CPR is started the better.

CPR is a temporary measure until Emergency Medical Services (EMS) personnel arrive and use a defibrillator or other advanced treatments to restart the heart. The interval between the 911 call and EMS arrival is usually longer than five minutes. So, a victim's survival is likely to depend on someone trained in "bystander" CPR. For every minute without bystander CPR, survival from cardiac arrest decreases by as much as 10 percent. Yet, effective bystander CPR given immediately after sudden cardiac arrest can possibly triple a victim's chance of survival.

And because 80 percent of cardiac arrests occur close to home, the life you save with CPR is mostly likely to be someone you know or love. Some may be concerned they might do something wrong, but the only way to make things worse is to do nothing. Don't be a helpless bystander. If you have two hands, you have what it takes to help save a life with Hands-Only CPR.

Anyone can learn CPR - and everyone should. If you see an unresponsive adult who is not breathing or not breathing normally, call 911 and push hard and fast on the center of the chest until EMS

Be sure to visit our Heart Check blood pressure center near the playground outside JC Penney. More information about "Hands-Only CPR can be found at www.handsonlycpr.org.

ANA MARIA BURBANO NAMED CITIZEN OF THE YEAR

Despite daunting personal obstacles, Ana Maria Burbano continues to volunteer in myriad ways, a trait she learned at her mother's knee. "I don't do it for the honors or awards," she says, "I do it because I want to and I like it!" She was recently named Citizen of the Year by the Duarte Woman's Club and honored by the San Gabriel Valley District of Woman's Clubs..

As a member of the La Ramada Veterans and the American Legion Auxiliary, Ana Maria does her part to support veterans and their families by working on projects such as housing and feeding homeless veterans, assisting in activities like collecting toys for needy children and collecting shoes for veterans. In addition she helpos at a local church's food bank and collects crocheted items and blankets for travelling soldiers.

Locally Ana Maria serves as a docent at the Duarte Historical Museum and she has been an active member of the Duarte Woman's Club since 2009.

In spite of her heavy schedule focusing on helping others, Ana Maria is now the caregiver for her 99 year old mother who is living with her. "My mother's mind is quite active," she says. And she gives credit to her mother for teaching her the joys of helping others.

STATION SQUARE STREET PAVING

Due to unanticipated and unforeseen construction delays, street paving for the Station Square project has been postponed to June 4, 2015. Until then, the contractor will be working to finish construction of the new medians and will also spend time installing new pavers throughout the project. Beginning June 4, 2015, all two lane streets within the project area, including Myrtle Avenue and Duarte Road, will be restricted to one lane in each direction. The impacted streets include the following:

- Myrtle Avenue will be restricted to one lane in each direction
- Duarte Road will be restricted to one lane in each direction - Magnolia and Pomona will be restricted to one-way traffic
- Primrose between Evergreen and Pomona will be closed

Per the current paving schedule, the outside lanes will be closed on all streets initially to facilitate paving activities. Once the paving of the outside lanes has been completed, the traffic will be flipped, vehicular access will be allowed on the newly paved street, and then the inside lanes will be closed to facilitate paving work. Upon completion of the inside lanes, the entire road segments will then re-opened to traffic. Based on our current work schedule, it is anticipated that all traffic lanes will be repaved by June 12, 2015, and access to all business and residences will be maintained throughout the re-pavement process.

Please keep in mind that there may be periodic lane closures the week following the completion of paving, as the contractor may need to perform localized construction work during the week of June 15-19, 2015. Additional lane closures will be necessary for street striping activities, which is tentatively scheduled to occur during the week of June 22, 2015.

While it is certainly possible that our current paving schedule may change, staff has been working hard to ensure that all work is completed on-time. We appreciate everyone's patience with us during the process, and we will continue to work hard to manage this process until the overall Station Square project is completed.

UPDATE REGARDING WATER USE IN MONROVIA

Given the recent State mandated water use reductions, there are several sets of data that have been used to describe our current per capita water use here in Monrovia. To help provide a better illustration of our current situation, perhaps the best illustration of Monrovia's water ise reduction efforts can be found in comparing the per capita water use between the period of time before we implemented our Phase 1 vater conservation plans (pre-September 2014) and a similar period of time after we implemented our Phase 1 water conservation plans. or the period of October 2013 – March 2014 (pre-Phase 1 water conservation plan implementation), Monrovia on a per capita basis used 159.5 gallons of water per day. For the period of October 2014 – March 2015 (post-Phase 1 water conservation plan implementation, Monrovia on a per capita basis used 139.4 gallons of water per day. The following outlines this detail:

> October 2013-March 2014 (Pre Conservation Measures) Daily Gallons Per Capita Use - 159.5

his comparison means that Monrovia has seen a 12.6% reduction in daily per capita water use since we implemented our Phase 1 water onservation plans in September 2014. While there is obviously still a lot of work that we have to do to meet the State's mandated 28% water use reduction levels, Monrovia is, as usual, stepping up to the plate!

"What's Going On?"

News and Views from Joan Schmidt

Once again Supervisor Mike Antonovich honored our Veterans with his annual Salute to Veterans and their families at Arcadia County

The Master of Ceremonies was Channel 4's Meteorologist, Fritz Coleman, a sought-out speaker who often has his audience in stitches. But Fritz, a Navy Veteran who served on the USS John Kennedy during the Viet Nam War, was somber. He reminded us of the great sacrifices our servicemen and women as well as their families, had made on behalf of our great country. Freedom is NOT free and many have paid with their lives. Fritz also told us we must embrace our Veterans- 50% of Post Traumatic Syndrome deals with not feeing connected to the community after their return home. Fritz also explained that when he wa sin the Viet Nam War, you served one tour and returned home. Today it's not uncommon to serve FOUR and FIVE tours in Afghanistan.

There were two remarkable women guests, Rear Admiral Sandy Adams, Deputy Commander of the Navy Expeditionary Combat Command and Retired Brigadier General Ruth Wong, who heads the LA County Military Affairs Department. Admiral Adams was the keynote speaker. She included Missing in Action Personnel and how difficult it is for their families. There was a table with a white cloth and various items on it for those MIA. Admiral Adams mentioned what each stood for and of course the white candle representing hope that they would be brought home. General Wong accepted the American Flag after it had been folded and explained what each fold represented. What stays in my mind are the folds that represent mothers and fathers. Losing a child is the most difficult thing to deal with.

There was so much information available. Representatives from various county agencies answered questions and explained available services/programs. All our armed forces had reps also available. There were free health screenings, live music- a band prior to the ceremony and the wonderful CA National Guard 40th Infantry Band performed

OF FINAL CLEAN WATER ACT RULE

SALUTE TO VETERANS AND THEIR FAMILIES

during the ceremony. Lutheran High School's ROTC Members were the Honor Guard and did the 13-Folds Flag Ceremony.

There were skydivers, a flyover, food booths, children's area, and so many info booths that had little give-aways. Also present were the Arcadia Fire Department and Police Department. I saw former Arcadia Mayor Peter Amundson, Jack Orswell and his lovely wife and Burton Brink. Monrovia's Becky Shelvin arrived late-she had been at the Gold Line Maintenance Yard Open House. There were several Veteran events that day, so I believe that's why there were no other local officials except for Linda Sells from the Monrovia-Arcadia-Duarte Town Council.

Thank you Supervisor Antonovich and your deputy Debra Mendelssohn for such a great event that benefitted so many Veterans and their families!

REP. NAPOLITANO PRAISES EPA'S CLARIFICATION

Grace F. Napolitano (D-El Monte), the Ranking Member of the House Transportation and Infrastructure Subcommittee on Water Resources and Environment, praised the public release of the final Clean Water Protection rulemaking by the Obama administration. This rulemaking fulfills the requests of members of Congress, state and local officials, industry, agriculture, and environmental organizations to clarify the scope of Clean Water Act protections over our nation's rivers, streams, and wetlands.

"We have waited 12 years for clarity. For 12 long years, our nation's streams and rivers have been vulnerable to pollution and degradation, and for 12 years, farmers, industry, and developers have been wasting valuable time and money navigating through the regulatory morass on the Clean Water Act left behind by the U.S. Supreme Court and the Bush administration. The Obama administration, and especially EPA Administrator McCarthy and Assistant Secretary Jo-Ellen Darcy, should be commended for their dedication to provide a clear, predicable, and comprehensive way of protecting our nation's waters," said Napolitano.

Today's final rulemaking to define the term "waters of the United States" is the culmination of 12 years of debate, over one year of public comment, and unprecedented outreach by the Obama administration to provide additional clarity and certainty on the scope of waters protected by the Clean Water Act. During that time, as administration witnesses testified before the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure, the EPA and the Corps of Engineers received over 1,000,000 public comments on the proposed Clean Water Protection rulemaking, and held over 400 public meetings to discuss the proposed rulemaking, and to solicit recommendations for additional clarity and certainty.

(Washington, DC) Today, Rep. committed to make to address concerns raised by our constituents on the April 2014 proposed Clean Water rulemaking, especially ensuring that the rulemaking did not, inadvertently, change the status of municipal stormwater conveyances, water recycling or groundwater recharge areas. It is apparent that this administration heard these concerns, listened to them, and made appropriate changes in the final rule to address these concerns. This final rule is significantly improved from the April 2014 proposed rule, and provides a more definitive, more measurable, and clearly limited scope of Clean Water Act authority, based on the science and the law," noted Napolitano.

> "Over the past year, the administration has highlighted the importance of protecting our rivers, streams, and wetlands to protect our water, our Nation's economy, and our cherished way of life – not only for current generations, but for our children and our grandchildren. As the events of the past few years in the West have demonstrated, water is a precious resource that deserves critical protection. In fact, the 99.2 percent of Californians that drink water from public systems that rely on the seasonal, rain-dependent, and headwater streams will greatly benefit from this final rulemaking in the protection of these critical resources," added Napolitano. "As we ask the average Californian to be mindful of his or her daily water usage, we need to ensure that upstream interests share in this effort - this is a fundamental premise of this final rulemaking.";

> "The Obama administration has met its commitment to protect our precious water resources for generations to come; now it is our turn to fulfill our duty to protect these resources. I only hope that those groups that have historically been opposed to reinvigorated protection of our nation's rivers, streams, and wetlands, take the time to read this final rule BEFORE they consider opposing it," concluded Napolitano.

Napolitano is the top Democrat on the House Transportation and Infrastructure Water Resources and Environment Subcommittee. The Subcommittee has Congressional jurisdiction over the Clean Water Act and this finalized rule.

PASADENA COMMUNITY ORCHESTRA'S FREE CONCERT IN THE PARK IS A RELAXING EVENING OF LIGHT MUSIC AND PICNICKING ON THE LAWN FOR ANYONE AND EVERYONE TO ENJOY

Enjoy "User-Friendly" Classical Music in a Laid-Back Setting

PASADENA, CA - -- Pasadena Community Orchestra's summer Concert in the Park presents a rare opportunity for the whole family to enjoy accessible orchestral music for free in an easygoing environment. Long-time Sierra Madre resident Bethany Pfleuger leads these accomplished amateur musicians in a program of light classics, film scores and Americana in the band shell of Sierra Madre Memorial Park. Picnics on the lawn, kids playing or taking a close-up look at the musicians on stage, and even a kid-centric "children's march" around the park mean there's something to

As far as summer entertainment goes, it's kind of the Hollywood Bowl for the rest of us: The venue is easy to get to and parking and admission are free; you can listen to enjoyable, light classical music with family and friends while lounging on the lawn, and your kids can get up and get the wiggles out whenever they need to. They (and you) can also get a casual introduction to classical music (they can even talk with the musicians afterwards).

This year's program includes music from Superman by John Williams, part of the William Tell Overture (the loud part!) and a medley of beloved American folk songs. American composers John Philip Sousa, Leroy Anderson and Scott Joplin are represented. And as always, the orchestra will play a "children's march," welcoming every child in the audience to join the impromptu parade. It's a perfect start to a SoCal summer.

For 32 years, PCO has been bringing fine classical music to the community free of charge (donations are welcome). Well-trained musicians provide a high-quality musical experience. Sierra Madre Memorial Park is located at 222 W. Sierra Madre Blvd., one block east of Baldwin Ave. Street parking is free (arrive early for closest parking). Bring your own picnic, and chairs or blankets for sitting.

JUST FOR BEST FRIENDS

GOLD GONE

For as long as I live, I will never understand travel arrangements to rescue the abandoned dogs. the concept of wanting to own a particular pet because it is the trendy thing to do. Although I may not be the best example of trend following, certainly not when it comes to the clothes I wear, the cell phone I own or the automobile I drive. But at least with regard to the latter, there are no lives at stake, when the frivolous trend inevitably goes out of style. Not so much in the case of 36 gorgeous golden retrievers that arrived at Hartselle-Jackson International Airport in Georgia, a few weeks ago.

The pack of pups had been trying their best to survive in the streets and make-shift shelters in Instanbul for a long time. The trend of having a golden retriever as a pet started in Turkey 10 years ago, and during their short-lived hey day, they were revered as quite a social commodity among Turkish citizens who could afford such a luxury. The dogs were deemed as a status symbol to be flaunted and shown off to those not so fortunate. The cruelty all started when the trend ended, and the dogs were left in the streets to fare for

Due to their sweet spirits and passive personalities, as you can well imagine the retrievers did not fare well in the streets of Istanbul. They had to beg and scrimp for food and try to find a place to sleep, hoping to survive alongside the other 50 thousand stray dogs (in Istanbul alone!) they were up against. The numerous hard-core feral canines they had to contend with were not at all sweet, and would often attack them relentlessly, but because of how they were bred to behave, they would not

I agree with Mahatma Ghandi, when he said, "The greatness of a nation and its moral progress can be judged by the way its animals are treated." And in this case, that quote definitely speaks volumes about the dogs' previous owners in Istanbul; they treated those beautiful, sensitive animals like disposable objects that no longer served a purpose and therefore no longer deserved to be love or respected. But, before I go off too far into left field on how I really feel about people who are cruel to animals, I will shift my focus to dastardly deeds of the idiotic.

Adopt a Golden Retriever, an all-volunteer nonprofit dog rescue organization in Atlanta, Georgia. And she is also a real peach of a woman in my no small task. In an interview with Jaye Watson them, the gold is gone.

of WXIA, a syndicated partner of NBC in Atlanta, Genkinger said, "This is the largest rescue of golden retrievers internationally, ever."

An American living in Istanbul had contacted Genkinger and reported seeing golden retrievers everywhere, running in the streets and filling up the shelters throughout the city. Immediately, Genkinger kicked into action. She contacted the appropriate authorities in Istanbul and began the painstaking process of filling out requisite forms and making

Each of the 36 rescued retrievers required their own personal passport complete with a photo and detailed physical description. After a long and, most likely shocking flight across the ocean, the dogs were quarantined, tested and vaccinated before they could join the general population. There were many other steps that had to be taken in the process of the rescue mission, but Genkinger and her team of volunteers were not discouraged. They came to the plate and did what it took to get the job done!

In partnership with Adopt a Golden Retriever, The Pet Lodge in Alpharetta, Georgia opened their doors to the dogs for safe keeping during their transition into a new country and new culture. Remarkably, considering all they have been through, the precious pups (ranging from ages 6 months to 10 years) are still wagging their tails and wiggling their torsos in gestures of request for a hug or pat on the head. Doctor Michael Davis, who is heading up the trio of veterinarians providing care for the animals said, "These guys are craving human attention and affection. It looks like we are going to be dealing with a lot of ear infections and

In a video posted on the USA Today website, the rescued dogs are shown writhing with joy over the love they are receiving from the wonderful folks at the Lodge. There are 20 boys and 16 girls, although one of the vets said the 2-year olds look more like they are 8 years old, due to the rough life they were forced to lead until now. While they have yet to learn English commands, they are very receptive of human interaction, in spite of having been neglected by the ones who bred them and gave them the false hope of a forever loving home, before discarding them like trash.

Among we mortal beings on this earth, there is nothing like the love that can be shared with a precious pup, I am convinced. They are more forgiving and more affectionate than any human will ever hope to be. I believe God created the dog as a gift to mankind. But, as is true with many gifts, it comes with a responsibility. The human's those who went out of their way to make up for the responsibility is to be a steward and companion to the dogs we are blessed with, not to exploit or Lauren Genkinger is founder and director of abuse them. Those who break that rule will pay dearly one day, I have no doubt. Meanwhile, they will loose here on earth as well. Due to their selfish ignorance, in this case, they will miss out on the book. She is the one who led the effort to bring the amazing and unique loving relationship that can dogs from Turkey to the US, and trust me it was be shared with a gorgeous golden retriever. For

PET OF THE WEEK CHICO: ANIMAL ID #A4070761

Are you looking for a sweet and soulful companion? Look no further at meet Chica (A4070761)! Chica is a deliciously darling 9-year-old tan spayed female Chihuahua mix who came to the Baldwin Park Animal Care Center as an owner surrender on May 22nd for no known reason. Weighing 7 ½ lbs, Chica is a mellow and minute lady who makes for a perfect lap fixture or piece of arm candy! Chica arrived at the shelter wearing a darling, divaesque collar: pink and bejeweled with rhinestones. Not only do we think Chica looks ravishing in this collar, but we also think that it tells her tale: Most likely, she was a much-loved and cared-for pet whose owner either died or was no longer able to care for her (as so often unfortunately happens). The good thing is that Chica is an experienced family pet—gentle, even-keeled, and with a real go-withyou-anywhere attitude! Not only is Chica a great human companion, but she also gets along quite well with other dogs; she has kennel mates here at the shelter, so we expect that she would do well in a household with canine siblings. Chica is a fantastic girl who will make a terrific indoor pet for her new forever home. She will blend well into just about any household around, and she would be a great pick for a first-time pet parent since she is so easy to care for. To see a video of Chica, please visit: https://youtu.be/pW5akKQOHTk

To meet Chica in person, please see her at the Baldwin Park Shelter, located at 4275 N. Elton, Baldwin Park, CA 91706 (Phone: 626-430-2378 or 626-962-3577). She is currently available now. For any inquiries about Chica, please reference her animal ID number: A4070761. The shelter is open seven days a week, 12 pm-7 pm Monday-Thursday and 10am-5pm Friday-Sunday. This is a high-intake shelter with a great need for adoptions. For more information about Chica or the adoption process, please contact United Hope for Animals Volunteer Adoption Coordinator Samantha at Samantha@ hope4animals.org. LOOKING FOR A BEST FRIEND?

Think Disco!! Disco is a goodnatured Corgi mix who came to the shelter as a stray with no identification. It is hard to imagine that no one is missing this sweet senior boy, but he has not been claimed.

Disco is a bit overweight at around 19 pounds, but he doesn't let that bother him. You will find him waiting at the gate of his kennel with a smiling face and wagging tail, happy to have a visitor to greet.

In spite of his chunky size, Disco enjoys going for walks. He can easily climb up and down the steps to the kennels and has a medium energy level. He is happy

ST. RITA SCHOOL CELEBRATES STUDENTS WHO RECEIVED THEIR FIRST HOLY COMMUNION

In early May, the 2nd grade class at St. Rita and other school-aged parishioners completed their journey towards Eucharist. The religious education a student receives prepares them for sacraments, and puts a strong emphasis on Catholic community. St. Rita encourages all students to live and learn with a Christian attitude. The preparation for this event is the foundation of the early religious curriculum at

Throughout the year, the students participate in several events leading up to First Holy Communion. They learn about the different parts of Mass and how to become active participants and not just observers. Students participate in two retreats with their parents prior to their first Reconciliation and First Holy Communion. The focus of these retreats is for families to have a meaningful faith-filled experience within the school community. Prior to First Holy Communion, the children and their families attend the Agape breakfast. They join together to make bread and to break bread together. Each step in the process is tied into a reflection shared between parent and child through sharing a meal together and spending time in prayer.

Following are the St. Rita School students we honor this year. Caitlin Andrews, Eric Baham, Madeline Barber, Jordan Boskovich, Matea Cerielik-Weeks, Jacqueline Chavarry, John Crane, Grace Culver, Zachary DeLeon,

THE REEL DEAL: by Ben Show MAD MAX: FURY ROAD REVIEW

Having not seen any of the previous 'Mad Max' films, I only had what people told me about the franchise to go off of. I could tell that this film had a lot of expectations to live up to; it has many avid fans who hoped that it would succeed, as well as all of the people who had seen any of the visually stunning trailers. But does this movie, which has been in development for over 25 years, have any chance of living up to the originals?

Max (Tom Hardy) has been living alone in the post-apocalyptic world of the future for a long time, alone and haunted by his memories of the past. When a gang of mysterious drivers capture Max, he gets unknowingly involved in a revolution that will completely a small, unstable society of humans and the future of humanity.

'Fury Road' not only succeeds on a visual level, but on an intellectual one as well; it's not just another post-apocalyptic movie. The amazing cinematography makes the film play as if you were actually there, watching things unfold in real life. The story and character development come naturally, with no plot twists that seem illogical or unrealistic. 'Fury Road' is what many directors have tried to create but failed at: an intelligent action

PARENTS FEAR INHERITANCE WILL DO MORE HARM THAN GOOD

A survey recently released by Merrill Lynch's Private Banking and Investment Group -- How Much Should I Give to My Family? -- shows that the #1 concern of wealthy parents is that the inheritances they plan to leave their children will do more harm than good.

Of the 206 high net worth parents surveyed, 91% said they plan to leave the lion's share of their estate to their children. However, they expressed fear that giving too much would thwart their children from reaching their full potential.

Almost two-thirds of the parents surveyed said they were somewhat concerned that an inheritance would have a negative impact on their children, especially when large sums were distributed without guidance or accountability. Yet only 29% said they have had a conversation with their children about their future inheritances.

You don't have to be uber-wealthy to share these concerns. I have them for my own children regarding what my wife and I are planning to leave them. If you share some of these concerns too, I'd be happy to speak to you about when and how to leave your whole family wealth (not just your money) as part of a comprehensive legacy plan for your family so it doesn't create trouble for your children.

Also consider that in some cases, the best time to leave an inheritance to the next generation may be while you are living instead of waiting until death - because you can guide your children through the pitfalls of the inheritance.

For an example let's look at the case of Norman and Stephen Brooks, father and son. Twenty years ago Stephen came to Norman and asked him to support him to build a business that would bring youth to Costa Rica, and together they created a tour business and multi-property development that is now thriving.

Stephen couldn't have done it on his own. And while Norman could have waited to pass Stephen's inheritance to him until his death, Norman would have lost the opportunity to see that inheritance grow, not just financially, but on so many other levels as well.

Today, Norman's inheritance to Stephen is far bigger than anything he would have left at his death and both Stephen and Norman are benefiting from it

The only thing I would have recommended that Norman do differently would be to have given Stephen his living inheritance through a trust, rather than

As things stand now, everything Stephen has created is in his own name remains at risk from creditors, predators, lawsuits, and divorce. If they could go back and change anything, I would recommend Norman set all that up for Stephen in a trust, providing airtight asset protection that Stephen cannot provide for

With inheritance, there is a fine line between enabling our children and providing them with opportunities. But with proper planning, you can absolutely make a safe, successful transfer of wealth to the next generation which will do them much more got it. If you eat contaminated food, symptoms may show up within a few hours to a few days. Most people will experience some degree of one or more of the following: nausea, diarrhea, vomiting, fever, abdominal pain or loss of appetite.

So what can you do to prevent or protect you should wash your hands, surfaces and utensils between different food preparations. This will immune system ready to fight off the bad bugs!

What do lettuce, cut down on the spreading of the bad bugs. Keep beef, cookie dough, perishable foods as cold as possible when bringing alfalfa sprouts and them home from the store and then refrigerate peanut butter all them promptly. Defrost frozen foods in the refrigerator not on the kitchen counter. Keep produce away from meats and cook meats to a safe temperature. You can't always be sure you'll never eat one of these bad bugs so you need to make sure your body is ready to handle them. The most important thing you can do is keep your digestive system in tip top shape. You can fortify your gut with probiotic supplementation (good bugs). Good gut flora will keep your immune system at its peak and improve nutrient absorption. I also recommend eating lots of raw fibrous plant food everyday as they are a good source of prebiotics (food for the good bacteria we have to have in our gut).

Even if your food hygiene is superior you yourself from food poisoning? For the food itself, can still be exposed to contaminated food so do what you can to keep your body strong and your

STAG'S LEAP

Long before there was Bristol Farms, Whole Foods, and Gelson's there was Jurgensen's Grocery stores, started years ago by Pasadena Resident Harold Jurgensen, where the "upper crust" did their shopping. I know this because long before it was popular for foods to be "organic" and "sustainable" I worked there for many years delivering groceries to the service entrances of many local mansions. During this time, I learned a lot about aged beef, caviar, produce, and wine -- I remember names like Château Montelena, Edna Valley, and Stag's Leap. These days, Jurgensen's is long gone, but Stag's Leap is still producing excellent varieties of wine including a 2010 Cabernet Sauvignon that is worth

HOW TO COMPARE AND LOCATE SENIOR HOUSING OPTIONS

Can you go over the different types of housing options available to seniors, and recommend some good resources for locating and choosing one? I need to find a place for my elderly mother, and could use some help. Searching Daughter seniors, but what's appropriate for your mom will depend on her needs and financial situation. Here's a rundown of the different levels of senior housing and some resources to help you search.

Dear Searching,

Independent living: If your mom is in relatively good health and is self-sufficient, "independent living communities" are a good place to start. Typically available to people over age 55, this type of senior housing is usually apartments or town homes that are fully functional. In addition, many of these communities also offer amenities such as meals served in a common dining area, housekeeping, transportation and a variety of social activities.

To locate this type of housing, contact your Area Agency on Aging (call 800-677-1116 to get your local number), or use online services like newlifestyles.com and caring.com. Most of these communities are privatepay only, and run anywhere from $1,000 to over $4,000 per month.

If that's too expensive, another option is "senior apartments," which are often subsidized by HUD for lower income seniors. You can locate these through your local housing authority or online at hud.gov - click on "Find Rental Assistance."

Assisted living: If your mom needs some help with daily living activities, an "assisted living facility" is another option. These facilities provide personal care (like bathing, dressing, eating, going to the bathroom) as needed, as well as meals, housekeeping, transportation, social activities and medication management. Many facilities also offer special care units for residents with dementia. Costs typically run between $2,000 to $5,000 or more per month. Most resident's pay for assisted living from personal funds, and some have long-term care insurance policies. But, some states now have voucher plans that let you use Medicaid money.

Another similar, but less expensive option to look into is "board and care homes." These offer many of the same services as assisted living facilities but in a much smaller

Your Area Aging Agency is again a good resource for of "The Savvy Senior" book.

There's a wide array of housing options available to finding these facilities, as are the previously listed senior housing locater websites. And for help choosing a facility, the Assisted Living Federation of America offers an excellent guide at alfa.org/checklist.

Nursing homes: If your mom needs ongoing medical and personal care, a "nursing home," which provides 24hour skilled nursing care, is the next option. To find a good one, use Medicare's nursing home compare tool at medicare.gov/nursinghomecompare. But be aware that nursing home care is very expensive, costing anywhere between $4,500 and $11,000 per month depending on location. Most residents pay from either personal funds, a long-term care insurance policy, or through Medicaid after their savings are depleted.

Continuing-care retirement communities (CCRC's): If your mom has the financial resources, a "CCRC" is another excellent option that provides all levels of housing (independent living, assisted living and skilled nursing home care) in one convenient location. But, these communities typically require a hefty entrance fee that can range from $20,000 to $500,000 or more, plus ongoing monthly service fees that vary from around $1,000 to over $5,000. For more information see carf.org/

Consider hiring an aging life care expert (aginglifecare. org) who can evaluate your mom's situation, and find appropriate housing for a fee - usually between $300 and $800. Or, you can use a senior-care advising service like A Place for Mom (aplaceformom.com, 866-344-8005) for free. (They get paid from the senior living facilities in their network.)

Some other helpful resources include the National Clearinghouse for Long-Term Care Information (longtermcare.gov), and your State Health Insurance Assistance Program (shiptalk.org), which provides free

KATIE Tse.....This and That MEMORIAL DAY TURKEY

Day and enjoyed your traditional Memorial Day turkey! What? You didn't roast a turkey for the occasion? Shoot, then I guess my husband and I were the only ones who did. Although we've been married nearly six years, we'd never roasted a turkey before. That is, until this past weekend. But our turkey didn't start out as a Memorial Day turkey.

Like most turkeys, ours was originally intended for Thanksgiving. Every year, we came up with excuses as to why we couldn't, or shouldn't, do a turkey. I can't cook, and the kitchen in our old apartment was small. We moved into our house last February, which took care of excuse number two. So back in November we were at a bin inspired us to buy one. Even then we didn't plan to roast it for Thanksgiving, since we were having dinner with our families, we accepted the challenge all the same. My husband checked the expiration date and discovered in our freezer.

It didn't take long for us to get tired of having a fourth of our freezer taken up by the turkey, but since both of languished next to the ice cube tray for months. We decided that a nice, restful three-day weekend would be the perfect opportunity to finally roast our long term guest. We took him (or her) out a few days in advance to thaw in the fridge.

By Friday it seemed fairly soft to the touch --through the plastic anyway. My husband researched roasting methods and decided brining sounded good. We got the special Diamond Kosher salt and other infrequently used seasonings recommended by the "Food Network." However, my husband then noticed that our turkey was "Enhanced." "Enhanced, huh?" I asked. "Does that mean it wears a double D cup now?" He raised his eyebrows as if to say, "You're not serious, right?" "It means it's already marinated and we should just go ahead and bake it."

Turkeys go through a complex transformation on their way from slaughter to main entrée. It gets a pop-up timer implanted in its shoulder and its legs are bound together with a plastic implement resembling hand cuffs that are anchored deep inside its body cavity. Freeing this plastic leg brace was a challenge not made easier by the fact that, although the skin was soft and pliable, the inner flesh was still rock hard. Although we weren't supposed to rinse the turkey since the liquid it was hibernating in was the brining solution, we resorted to holding the turkey under running water in an attempt to melt away some of icebergs lurking inside. (Sorry! We tried to be water conscious!) Its cavity filled up with water and overflowed the ones where they show all the swaths of bacteria on giblets, but we're not quite done yet...

I hope you all had a nice Memorial kitchen surfaces glowing like Christmas lights. After much work digging around the turkey's knees, my husband dislodged the last remaining chunks of turkey juice and freed the legs from their plastic handcuffs.

Then came the rub –seasoning rub, that is. My husband really is a good sport and managed to massage a mixture of herbs and spices into all the nooks and crannies of the unwieldy bird. Turkeys get their revenge by being particularly clumsy to handle, shifting their weight in their sagging skin as soon as you get a grasp on a leg or wing. In doing so we discovered a few extra feathers that somehow made it through the packing plant.

We referred back to the instructions on the bag many times throughout the turkey's preparation. It told us to remove the neck, giblets, and a gravy bag from the body cavity. It was like a treasure chest! Try as we did, we Ralph's and the sight of all the frozen turkeys lined up in couldn't find the giblets. It also didn't help that neither f us were totally sure what giblets were supposed to look like. "It's not that big in there," my husband said. There aren't a lot of places for them to hide." We gave up and figured that if we came across them it would be like it could last a whole year. It took up comfortable residence finding a toy in a box of Cracker Jacks, only these were poultry organs. One of the "Food Network" chefs had suggested putting an apple inside with some cinnamon sticks for aromatics. We didn't have cinnamon sticks, so us work and are fairly busy on the weekends, the turkey I cut up an apple and sprinkled cinnamon on it before stuffing it inside. I think this was my only contribution to the turkey preparation!

When it was finally time to pop it in the oven we realized that with its legs free, the turkey overhung its baking dish. "Do we have anything bigger?" my husband asked. We searched for a larger container but found nothing. "Maybe I can put the ankle braces back on," he said, fishing the plastic leg cuffs out of the sink. After a short struggle he refastened the legs in their restraints and stuck the rest of the contraption back in the cavity. By now we were ready for a break while the bird baked.

For the next few hours we checked the turkey under the oven light and speculated on whether the drippings were burning, since "dry brined" birds supposedly don't produce much liquid. But at the eleventh hour (not really, but it seemed like it) the turkey exuded a lot of juice and that we were able to use with the gravy pack. When my husband first freed the legs from the ankle cuffs and peered inside the cavity he exclaimed, "Oh my gosh! I found the giblets; they exploded!" But it turned out to only be the apple slices, a bit puffy from the heat. At last the turkey was ready to eat, and for first timers, it turned out fairly good! Nearly a week later we are almost done eating it, and have found all sorts of uses for cold and hot turkey. I suppose most people don't have turkey for Memorial Day, but Benjamin Franklin originally wanted the turkey to be the national bird instead of the eagle, so into the sink. I recalled those ads for antibacterial spray, it is patriotic in a way. We still haven't come across the

NASA'S EUROPA MISSION BEGINS WITH SELECTION OF SCIENCE INSTRUMENTS

NASA has selected nine science instruments for a mission to Jupiter's moon Europa, to investigate whether the mysterious icy moon could harbor conditions suitable for life.

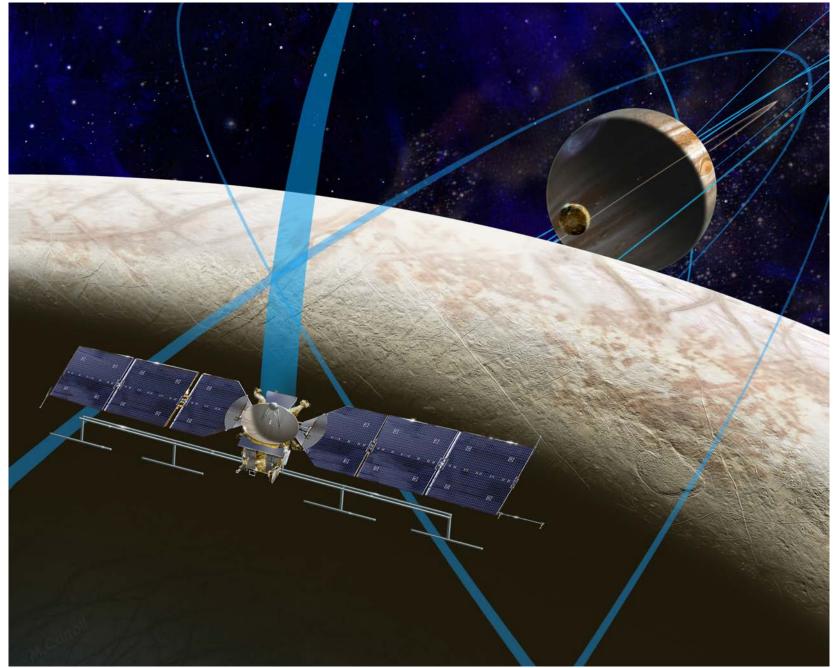

NASA's Galileo mission vielded strong evidence that Europa, about the size of Earth's moon, has an ocean beneath a frozen crust of unknown thickness. If proven to exist, this global ocean could have more than twice as much water as all of Earth's oceans. With abundant salt water, a rocky sea floor, and the energy and chemistry provided by tidal heating, Europa could be the best place in the solar system to look for presentday life beyond our home planet.

"Europa has tantalized us with its enigmatic icy surface and evidence of a vast ocean, following the amazing data from 11 flybys of the Galileo spacecraft over a decade ago and recent Hubble observations suggesting plumes of water shooting out from the moon," said John Grunsfeld, associate administrator for NASA's Science Mission Directorate in Washington. "We're excited about the potential of this new mission and these instruments to unravel the mysteries of Europa in our quest to find evidence of life beyond Earth."

NASA's fiscal year 2016 budget request includes $30 million to formulate a mission to Europa. The mission would send a solar-powered spacecraft into a long, looping orbit around the gas giant Jupiter to perform repeated close flybys of Europa over a three-year period. In total, the mission would perform 45 flybys at altitudes ranging from 16 miles to 1,700 miles.

The payload of selected science instruments includes cameras and spectrometers to produce high-resolution images of Europa's surface and determine its composition. An ice penetrating radar will determine the thickness of the moon's icy shell and search for subsurface lakes similar to those beneath Antarctica. The mission also will carry a magnetometer to measure strength and direction of the moon's magnetic field, which will allow scientists to determine the depth and salinity of its ocean.

A thermal instrument will scour Europa's frozen surface in search of recent eruptions of warmer water, while additional instruments will in the moon's thin atmosphere. NASA's Hubble Space Telescope observed water vapor above the south polar region of Europa in 2012, providing the first strong evidence of water plumes. If the out like eternity, like the last scene from "The Good, The Bad, The Ugly," where you knew there were winners and losers and fools, and you hoped desperately that you'd be a winner. Well, at least a good guy. That's the perspective of a child, seeing the world through simplistic eyes, black and white, good and bad, right and wrong. That's good, really, but as Mark Twain once noted, there is enough good in the worst of us, and enough bad in the best of us, that we should quit pretending and start working together. At least Twain said something like that, and what he meant was that only in movies and childhood dreams do we ever get to see absolute clarity which doesn't exist in the real world.

In childhood, I assumed that the older bodies also contained minds that were more developed, and advanced, and therefore more objective and mature. I assumed that parents were the fair arbiters of disputes and that elected officials took those positions because they cared about the good of the people they represented. I believed in the Jimmy Stewart world of "It's a Wonderful Life," even though I never found it.

I believed that there must be a sanctuary of sanity somewhere where people practiced lives of sanity and non-prejudice, and where fraud and cheating were unheard of. I lived on a farm for awhile right after high school, and I felt that perhaps there, in the rough existence where your work resulted in a very tangible result that supported your existence, it was hard to cheat and defraud, and the folks had pride in their skills, their sense of community, and their honesty.

Could the urbanization of the world be part of the culprit in our fall from grace? Perhaps. But it's still no excuse. Even if I never found Shangra-la on earth, I have not stopped believing in the principles by which such a place must exist. For example, you must keep your word. Yes, printed papers are OK for poor memories, and for those who are inclined to twist the words later to mean something else from the original intent. But when you twist your word, and bend your word, you bend your very soul, and you dis-integrate your very integrity. That's why my father always said to keep your word, that a person is only as good as their word. Even in middle-class Pasadena, my father knew that there was an ineffable something about the giving and keeping of your word. In Shangri-la, you would always keep your word.

In my vision of Paradise, there would be work, but the god that we all trusted wouldn't be money. Money, or some version of it, seems inescapable for daily commerce and for converting your work and time into a medium of useful, recognizable exchange. But in Paradise, money would naturally be a tool to assist others to get their own enterprises going, and to provide for the common good. People would not be obsessed by money and would not be driven by the desire for money. Killing for money would be unheard of.

Work must have a tangible result, within the

At one time, life stretched framework of a goal. A person must naturally feel uplifted by doing one's work, and when one knowingly works at a menial and pointless job to fulfill someone else's desires and goals, it's hard to

> Of course, bits and pieces of this Shangra-la exist right now, everywhere, in most people. I believe that everyone has an innate desire to find rightness, and even fairness, and everyone ultimately recognizes the objective reality of the Law of Thought, that what you think and what you do has ramifications that are scientific result of those specific thoughts

> If you inwardly believe in the possibility of a Paradise on earth, you must start to grasp those principles of living and thinking that lead to Shangri-La. And though you must do so personally, on your own, it is fortunate that there are others, if you can find them, who are also seeking a higher road.

> Shangri-La is not a place that you find, but rather, a place that you earn the right to be a part of, by the evolution of your thought and actions. What does that mean? What must someone do? Again, the answers are everywhere, hidden in plain view. They go by such names as learning to think, separating feeling from emotions, distinguishing empathy from sympathy, learning to use words precisely, working hard to see world events objectively, and not subjectively based on your personal cultural bias. It means learning the practical value and living the precepts taught by all the great Wayshowers of history, from all cultures. Ever heard of the Golden Rule? That's a good place to start. How about the 10 Commandments? Another good starting point.

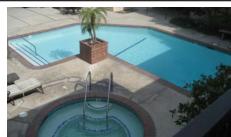

> One winter night during high school, my friend Nathaniel and I bicycled into a little side canyon of the Angeles National Forest, and we made a safe little fire in our campground and talked about the meaning of life and how we thought that civilization might fail. It had never occurred to us that we are barely civilized now, and we only believe we are "civilized" because of our material wealth and technological toys. We bemoaned the fact that society is on the fast road to uncivil barbarousness, and wondered what could be done, and what should be done.

> We always toyed with the idea of becoming hermits and hiding out in a cave somewhere, but both of us were way too social to live out our lives in a cave. By whatever choices we made, we felt that everyone should be a good example, and no one should assume that there is no hope for the future. Our civility, our culture, our sense of civilization, after all, is an internal concept that we first keep alive inside our thinking. Once that flame is bright within, it is proper to share with others, and attempt to be a part of the solution to the many problems we see all around.

I am beginning to think that I have a little bit the "Wizard of Odd." of politician-itis. I hope there is a cure for this. I would hate to go through the rest of my life not running for any political office, and therefore particularly in the society in which we live. I do not need any politician-itis to infect my personality.

Overall, questions are very hard to answer. If you miss one word in the question, in your mind you hear a different question. I must confess that somebody presents their question to me.

By somebody, I am referencing the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage. I noticed a game show on television now called, "500 Questions." I had to laugh when I saw it because my wife has them beat by a long shot. Why, she can give me 500 questions before breakfast.

longevity, not to speak of happiness, in marriage is not taking all of those questions seriously. If I had to answer all the questions that came to me divorced or in an insane asylum, which may be the same place.

genius on many levels. When I began using this phrase, my life took on a little calmer altitude.

One of the things that I have learned about wives is that they will ask questions not really expecting answers. When I first got married, I thought I had to answer every question that stumbled out of her mouth. I still remember the he? day when it dawned on me that she was asking me nod my head and say, "Yes, Dear." Then our marriage took on a very nice direction.

I am not sure what I was doing at the time, but the question that came from my spouse, was, "Are you acting odd, or what?"

Now, according to my spouse, she believes I am an Academy award actor. I only wish I were as be even. good as she thinks I am in the area of the thespian arts. I simply am not.

To her question, "Are you acting odd, or what?" I simply replied by saying, "I'm not acting!"

At the time, I did not know what I was saying, but the more I think about it, the more I think I said the right thing. I am not sure it is possible to act odd, although there may be some very good actors that can pull it off. With me, I am not acting. I am not sure what "acting odd" means from

I must admit that I am not a great one in answering her perspective, but I am coming to understand

I may appear to be "acting odd," but I am really simply just odd. I think I can rightly say that I am

Being somewhat of an expert in the area of "acting odd," I have learned a few things about inflicted with this malady. I promise you, I am it. There is nothing wrong with being odd,

Sometimes people talk about the "average person in America," which does not exist anywhere on the planet. What would the average person look like? Where would you begin?

I know with many people, what I do may look Í do not always listen as carefully as I should. odd. I am not worried about that. I know my wife Usually I am thinking of something else when thinks some of the things I do is odd. But then, she married me. I could not be that odd if she was willing to marry me.

Everybody is odd in different ways. I'm not sure all the different ways in which I am odd, but the more I look into myself and the oddness of my life, I'm getting a little more comfortable in my skin. I am not sure what that means, because It is my opinion that one of the secrets to I have never been out of my skin that I can remember. There were those odd moments when my skin crawled, but that's another story.

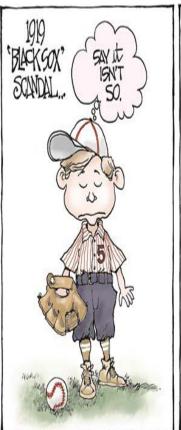

Being odd isn't the horrible thing some people in the order they came to me, either I would be think it is. If I were just like everybody else, how would you know it's me? The thing that makes me different from everybody else is that aspect of Whoever coined the phrase, "Yes, Dear," was a oddness that permeates my personality.

It is not that I have tried to be odd. I am just trying to be myself. I see some of these so-called celebrities on TV and everybody wants to be like them. I have yet to see anybody on TV I would like to be like. If I were like some celebrity, how would you know the difference between me and

I have come to like myself and the main reason me questions not to get my answer but to have I have come to that point is I have discovered how much God loves me. One of my favorite verses is, John 3:16, "For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life."

I accept being odd now because one day I will

CONSERVATIVE CHRISTIANS MISCOUNT

I don't care how popular the Duggar family and their TLC reality show "19 did. Kids & Counting" is with Christian

I don't care how many Republican presidential hopefuls Josh Duggar posed with in Iowa, or how important his celebrity was to the Family Research Council, the conservative Christian lobbying group.

When the Duggar family's oldest son admitted he had molested and fondled five little girls — including some of his own sisters — when he was 14, it was time for conservative Christians to hold Josh and the Duggar family accountable for their actions.

Most didn't.

Also, I noticed, most of those who want to be the GOP's president in 2016 bit their tongues and pretended they hadn't heard the shocking news.

But not Mike Huckabee, the ordained Southern Baptist minister. He really

Rushing to his Facebook page, he said he and his wife affirmed their support for the Duggar family. He said what Josh did was "inexcusable" but not "unforgivable."

"Good people make mistakes and do regrettable and even disgusting things," Huckabee wrote.

Almost 70,000 of Huckabee's Facebook followers "liked" what he said, but he was completely wrong.

Child molesting is not a "mistake" you make when you're young. It's a crime against the innocent that should be prosecuted — and one I believe that should have no statute of limitations. In fact, the statute of limitations is only there to protect the guilty, not protect the innocent.

As we wait for more shoes to drop in this scandal, I have some uncomfortable questions people should be asking.

Let's start with Josh, who's now 27, has three kids and is no longer the executive director of the Family Research Council.

Was he a born a molester? Was he molested as a child?

Were other members of Josh's huge family molested? Should he be in therapy now? Are his own kids safe?

Child molesting is evil, sad, disgusting stuff. I know. I was molested by a camp counselor when I was eight. Though my father wanted to kick his butt when he found out 34 years later, my molester never paid for his "mistake." But I

MICHAEL Reagan

Child molesting is often covered up — and most often it's the family itself that protects the molester.

Did Duggar's parents put their commercial success ahead of holding Josh accountable? Were they afraid to lose the national platform TLC gave them for their strict brand of Christian family values?

And speaking of TLC, shouldn't we be asking its executives what they knew about Josh's "mistake" and when they knew it? Did they care more about ratings and revenues than doing what was right?

Republicans and conservatives should be asking the people who run the Family Research Council the same tough ethical questions.

If it turns out they knew about Josh's past and were still willing to hire him because of his celebrity, the FRC's credibility is finished. Everything it believes in and has fought for will be lost.This scandal was a good time to do more than just fire Josh Duggar from the FRC and put the TV show on hold. It was also an opportunity to hold Josh accountable for his actions. But that didn't happen.

As for Huckabee, I also have some

If you found out tomorrow that Barack Obama had molested his young nieces when he was 14, would you call that "a mistake" and say you were willing to forgive him?

What if teen-age Barack had been caught molesting, was reprimanded and was then caught molesting again a year later?

Would you still say no purpose would be served by discrediting Barack Obama or his family by "sensationalizing" the story? I bet not.

We all know why Huckabee blew it. He had Iowa on his mind, not God.

He didn't want to lose the support of the Duggar family or his Christian base, so he decided to call Josh Duggar's child molesting a "mistake."

But child molesting is never a mistake. No matter who does it, it's always a felony. And it's not something a cable network or a family is ever entitled to cover up.
