In addition to Sierra Madre's own celebrities such as Triple Crown Jockey Victor Espinoza and our elected officials, we had the honor of having our 97 year old Older American Laurie Cooper riding in the parade. Congresswoman Judy Chu, Assemblyman Chris Holden and LA County Supervisor Michael Antonovich also attended the event. When the parade completed route down Sierra Madre Blvd.,

PROPOSITIONS 109 & 47 & INCREASED CRIME

Editorial

By Joan Schmidt, East Valley Editor

In the last two months, I have attended three events, listened to reports/statistics, Crime Victims' Clinic, The Chiefs of Police Luncheon and Supervisor Antonovich's annual Meeting with the City of Monrovia.

Government ordered the state to reduce its overcrowded state prisons. I can accept that. The problem was the governor refusing to house them out of state at half the cost. No he chose to send 30,000 prisoners down to already overcrowded county jails. I did research and found this not only here in LA County, but other counties as well. We were told that the prisoners send to county jails would be non-violent, nonserious, non-sex offenders. (Unfortunately the classification is based on the prisoner's CURRENT offense-doesn't matter if manslaughter previously!)

and Innocence Protection Act) was passed. Unfortunately Proposition 47 has misdemeanors. These "misdemeanor" (This point was emphasized at the Crime Deputy April Nelsen

Victims Clinic, the Chiefs Luncheon and the Monrovia City Meeting!)

Los Angeles County Assistant Sheriff Mike and the outlook is bleak. The Governor Rothans and Chief Dave Bender attended the began the trend, and CA voters continued Monrovia City Meeting. Sheriff Rothans said it. The three events were the Third Annual crime has increased 7% in the 42 contract cities and 107 unincorporated areas served by LASD. It's happening everywhere-from Malibu, Palos Verdes, Walnut and Diamond Bar-to name a few. He also said LAPD also Let's start with AB 109, which has reported a spike in crime. (LAPD Lt. Phil been around for four years. The Federal Tingirides at the Crime Victims' Clinic also reported this.)

Sheriff Rothans gave some sobering figures: 31,000 people have been arrestedbut only 1/3 of them remain in jail. What is sad is I read an article where an officer just gave a warning-because the crime was just a misdemeanor and the person would be back on the street anyway. (That is scary!) So how many perpetrators are walking around? I am within ½ mile of a beautiful housing complex where the rapist was from-the one who held a woman captive for 11 hours and continued to there were charges of armed robbery or harm her! (I believe he was supposed to be on probation.)

In November, 2004, Proposition 69 At the Chiefs' Luncheon, Supervisor (DNA Fingerprints, Unsolved Crime, Antonovich asked about an increase in crime since Proposition 47, and all attendees said it was happening in their jurisdictions. (This negated it. Proposition 47 downgraded included the Captains/Commanders of the drug possession and minor thefts to Sheriff's Stations and the Chiefs of Police in the 5th Supervisory District. For instance, offenders may be avoiding jail, but Chief Rainey, from Covina reported 13% unfortunately also the drug treatment increase. (Also at the recent Monroviathat could have turned their lives around! Arcadia Duarte Town Council Meeting, (cont. on page 4)

REMEMBRANCE

HELEN NOMURA OBAZAWA August 10, 1920 to June 17, 2015

Helen was born in Sierra Madre, California in 1920. Although born in the USA, Helen was raised by her Grandparents in Japan from age 2-10 years old. She returned to Sierra Madre in 1930, attended Sierra Madre Elementary, Wilson Jr. High School, Pasadena High School and Pasadena Junior College. In 1941, she attended the University of Washington in Seattle, where she met Ray Obazawa. The War broke out and to avoid going to an Internment Camp, Ray moved to Spokane. Helen then joined him and they married. After a few years in Spokane, Ray was drafted into the Army when Helen and Ray moved to Chicago to join Ray's sister, Masa and his parents.

When the War was over, Helen, Ray and twoyear old Susie moved to Pasadena and eventually to Sierra Madre where they have been active members of the Sierra Madre Community. Helen was a member of Sierra Madre Bethany Church and Choir, a Girl Scout Leader, a Cub Scout Leader and a Pioneer Girl Leader as well as working at Sierra Madre and Sierra Mesa Elementary Schools in the cafeteria. She eventually became a school cafeteria Manager and Manager Trainer for the Pasadena School District. Because of these activities, she has had significant influence on many, many children over the years.

In her retirement, Helen kept cooking by teaching classes, she sang in choirs, at weddings, funerals and other celebrations. She also organized craft groups for fund raisers. She also did a lot of entertaining, i.e., her Christmas Eve 11:00 am party, hosting Home Stay students from Japan Buffet Lunch in Church Social Hall following and having birthday, anniversary and other celebratory parties. She loved being with people, young and old alike and made many, many people happy.

Helen is survived by her husband of 73 years, Ray Obazawa; John Obazawa, son; Susie Berteaux, daughter; John Berteaux, son-inlaw; David Berteaux, grandson; Yuko Ishizaki, granddaughter-in-law; Anthony, Taylor and Alicia Berteaux, great grandchildren; Sho and Florence Nomura, brother and sister-inlaw; plus a multitude of nieces, nephews and cousins.

Walking Sierra Madre...The Social Side

by Deanne Davis

"If you're in the front row of the parade and you stop walking, pretty soon you're back in the tuba section. And if you want to lead the parade, you've got to keep moving!" Dr. Phil McGraw

"If you're not in the parade, you watch the parade. That's life!" Coach Mike Ditka

If you didn't enjoy this past July 4th weekend, you just weren't trying hard enough! First of all, the weather was absolutely perfect. Remember July 4th last year when we all just about melted? This year couldn't have been better. Best parade ever, too. Highlight for just about everybody was seeing Victor Espinoza, Triple Crown winning Jockey. And then, the U.S. Women's soccer team won the Women's World Cup title. As Carli Lloyd put it, "I was just on a mission. I was on a mission to help my team win this game!"

Back to the parade...we're still laughing about the Sierra Madre City College float, "Bullet Train To Nowhere!" Happy to see our VFW guys stepping along smartly carrying the flags. Bud Switzer - you know who he is, the guy who started all the Halloween and is now 92! festivities years ago up on Alegria when he and his son, why everybody doesn't stand up when the flag is going by, though. One of the mysteries of our age, I guess. We always do.

All the kids from various scout troops, nursery schools, softball association, Little League were great to see. Dr. Walter Cailleteau, of Sierra Madre Animal Hospital made a parade appearance. All sorts of folks have made him their main veterinary guy since he moved into the area and set up his practice on Michillinda, where Albertson's used to be. Speaking of Albertson's and a new grocery store to set up shop there, we were so hoping when we read that Aldi's Markets will be coming to California that maybe one of them would land there. We're going to keep hoping. Liked Father Richard's classic Chevy, too. St. Rita's was well represented.

We got so many goodies just sitting there on the parade route: Cookie tokens from Mary's Market, which made us laugh as it says on there, "Find us if you can!" We know exactly where Mary's is in the Canyon and we'll be heading up there for our free cookie. Think they're still doing Taco Tuesdays, too. Creative Arts invited us to a free Scarecrow Workshop in September so we can beat the crowd and create the winning scarecrow for Halloween. The Community Emergency Response Team (CERT) gave us a pamphlet telling us when their next training class will be held. August 15-22 if you're interested. Here's their phone number: 626-470-7426 and classes are FREE! Zombies were all over the place looking particularly ghoulish and the Sierra Madre Playhouse passed out cards about their Halloween events...more great family FREE shows! Candy was flying in every direction and watching the little ones scramble for it is just a hoot. We were delighted to see the Search & Rescue Team, and riding with them was our friend, Rae Anderson, who is on the Search & Rescue Board

Isn't this the greatest place to live! Every restaurant Kevin, started carving a couple hundred pumpkins in town was doing fantastic business all day on the and lining them along his driveway, which drew 4th and that's good for all of us. Loved seeing Citizen neighbors first, then a few folks from around town of the Year, Dave Loera and Nina and Clem Bartolai, and now thousands pour into Sierra Madre to take a our Grand Marshals. Sierra Madre Music had a look at Halloween the Sierra Madre way. Anyway, it super float with a great band and singer. Our Rose was great to see Bud looking sharp, marching with the Float is going to be incredible with paddle wielding rest of our VFW guys to start the parade. Don't know flamingos floating in umbrellas. This year's winning design was submitted by Richard Burrows and is a fitting design/tribute, as longtime SMRFA President Bob Young, who passed away last year, was a big fan of flamingos.

Well, our tomatoes are looking better, the cantaloupe seeds we planted are making nifty little vines and our potato salad was devoured at the family barbeque. Doesn't get much better than this! Hope you have a great week and shorter showers than you ever thought possible are becoming a personal challenge.

NASA Finds Oceans Slowed Global Temperature Rise

A new NASA study of ocean temperature measurements shows that in recent years, extra heat from greenhouse gases has been trapped in the waters of the Pacific and Indian oceans. Researchers say this shifting pattern of ocean heat accounts for the slowdown in the global surface temperature trend observed during the past decade.

Researchers Veronica Nieves, Josh Willis and Bill Patzert of NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory, Pasadena, California, found a specific layer of the Indian and Pacific oceans between 300 and 1,000 feet surface has been accumulating more heat than previously recognized. They also found the movement of warm water has affected surface temperatures. The results were published Thursday in the journal Science.

RBOC Votes No to Hosting an NFL was unlikely.

By Dean Lee

The Rose Bowl Operating Company voted unanimously Wednesday night not to move million to the stadium for the forward with a request for proposal, by the National Football League, looking to temporarily host a football team that might relocate to Los RBOC members said the request was an indication of a bidding war by the NFL who also asked for proposals from Dodger Stadium and the Coliseum among others.

Victor Gordo, RBOC President and a City Councilmember, said they wanted to focus instead on bringing a proposed Arroyo Seco Music and Arts Festival to the stadium, by next year. Gordo suggested they simply not respond to the NFL's proposal sent to them last month.

Darryl Dunn, CEO for the Rose Bowl estimated an NFL offer could bring as much as $5 to $10 2016 season. RBOC members said a long term deal with AEG/

Goldenvoice to run a music and arts festival was a better option. AEG offered to run the festival for 10 to 20 years.

The community, in May, got the first ideas of what the two day Arroyo Seco Music and Arts Festival might look like similar to the Coachella Valley Music and Arts Festival — also ran by AEG.

At that time, Vice President and COO of Goldenvoice Skip Paige explained that they plan five stages, with the main stage, called the Rose Bowl Stage, inside the stadium. The others would be the Huntington Stage, Arroyo Stage, Foothill Stage The city council could still and an unnamed stage outside override the RBOC decision the Rose Bowl area. The festival although city officials said that would take up both Brookside

Park and the Brookside golf course and well as the stadium. There would also be a food and drink area, partnered with local eateries such as Lucky Baldwin's and large scale art from both local and world artists Paige

"The footprint you have here is pretty much the same as you would have for New Year's Day at the Rose Bowl." He said.
"We're really not talking up any more parking than would be displaced on a normal New Year's Day event."

Neighbors around Rose Bowl, last year, lost a lawsuit filed alleging the city's environmental impact study, centered on hosting an NFL team, was not accurately taking into account the impact, such as traffic, on the area for the added events.

According to reports, NFL teams possibly looking to relocate include San Diego Chargers, the Oakland Raiders and St. Louis Rams.

ADVISORY: SCAMMERS PREY ON SO CAL EDISON (SCE) CUSTOMERS

In recent months, APD has fielded reports from both residential and commercial customers of Southern California Edison falling prey to persistent phone scammers.

So how does the scam work? Phone impostors claiming to be with SCE call customers and fraudulently threaten to disconnect their electrical service unless immediate payment is made on a supposedly past-due bill. The caller demands payment immediately and tells the unsuspecting customer to buy a prepaid debit card — and there are many different kinds — and load a specific amount of money on it and call the impostor back, providing the serial number off the back of the card. Once you give out the serial number, the cash is untraceable and gone for good.

Although more customers are learning to recognize phone scams, impostors continue to cheat people out of their money using more elaborate, deceptive, and persistent ploys. Scammers also have created fake telephone lines and recordings that state: "Hello. Thank you for calling Southern California Edison Disconnection Department." Another trick is telling customers local police will be called if they don't pay immediately.

Don't fall for these types of scams! Utility companies will not call and make such demands. HERE is additional information on scams from SCE. If you receive such a call, please report the incident to both your local police and SCE at 1-800-655-4555.

MONROVIA - DUARTE

Sierra Madre-Arcadia--Pasadena-

RESIDENTS TO CELEBRATE THE CITY'S 32ND ANNUAL NATIONAL NIGHT OUT AGAINST CRIME, AUG. 4TH WITH NEIGHBORHOOD WATCH BLOCK PARTIES

DUARTE, CA, July 7, 2015 – Ribs, hot dogs, popcorn and a free screening of the classic flick Jurassic Park may not appear like traditional crime fighting but that's exactly what Duarte residents will be doing when they gather at Encanto Park on August 4, 2015 to celebrate the City's 32nd annual National Night Out Against Crime.

Neighborhood Watch block captains, with the support of Duarte Public Safety and the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department, are inviting all Duarte residents to this free event. Non-profit, Marvell West will provide free hot dogs, ribs and hot links at 6:00 p.m. with the movie starting at sunset. Duarte deputies, firefighters, nonprofit and other local organizations, as well as city officials will be on hand to serve food and giveaway over $500 in raffle prizes provided by event sponsor, Target of Duarte. Residents are also invited to bring donations of canned goods to the movie night.

Neighborhood Watch is one of the most effective and least costly ways to prevent crime and reduce fear because it fights the isolation that crime both creates and feeds upon. It forges bonds among area residents, helps reduce burglaries and robberies, and improves relationships between law enforcement and the communities they serve," said Duarte Public Safety Director, Brian Villalobos.

Hundreds of Duarte residents are expected to participate in the annual citywide "going away party" for crime. As a National Night Out participant, Duarte residents join citizens, law enforcement agencies, civic groups, businesses, neighborhood organizations and local officials from over 10,000 communities across the nation in the fight against crime. The crime, drug and violence prevention program, sponsored by the National Association of Town Watch is designed to send a message to criminals that neighborhoods are organized against crime and fighting back. Encanto Park is located at 751 Encanto parkway, Duarte, CA 91010. Don't miss this opportunity to go outdoors, mingle with neighbors, deputies, firefighters and local organizations and enjoy a free dinner and a movie. Following are the weekend's highlighted issues and events. To see the victim closed his automatic garage door and went into his house. He thought it had closed all the way, but at 7:00 a.m. the next morning, he walked outside and saw the garage door was partially open, with enough room for someone to crawl underneath. He closed it all the way and went to work. When he returned home from work, he opened his garage door and noticed several car batteries and a hydraulic fuel pump had been stolen. He immediately called the police. The investigation > Drug Paraphernalia/Under the Influence - Suspect Arrested July 7 at 1:21 a.m., an officer was on patrol in the 500 block of South Myrtle when he saw a male subject loitering around a bank's ATM machines; however, he was not using the machines. The male had a bandana covering his face and he was sweating, appearing suspicious. The officer contacted the subject, who told the officer he was stealing electricity from the bank by charging his cell phone in their outside electrical outlet. The subject was showing signs of being under the influence of a controlled substance, so the officer conducted a drug evaluation. He was arrested for being under the influence, and he was found to be in possession of an almost empty baggy of methamphetamine and a used, glass smoking pipe.

Park Closed - Citations Issued July 7 at 2:08 a.m., an officer was patrolling a park in the 500 block of South Mountain and located two male subjects camping out and sleeping after the Possession of a Controlled Substance/Outstanding Warrant park closed. Signs were posted notifying the subjects that the park was closed; they were both issued citations and asked to leave the park.

> Grand Theft Auto July 7 at 4:38 p.m., a vehicle was reported stolen from the 600 block of West Huntington Drive. The vehicle is a 2015, Chevy Camaro and was stolen from a business parking lot. The victim saw the vehicle being driven away by a male suspect, but did not realize the car was hers until she found that her vehicle was gone from where she had parked it. The investigation is continuing.

> Warrant - Suspect Arrested July 7 at 10:28 p.m., officers responded to a market in the 400 block of West Foothill regarding a male subject who was causing a disturbance in the parking lot with store customers. When the officers arrived, a computer check revealed the male had two outstanding warrants for his arrest. The male subject was arrested and taken into custody for the warrants.

HELP A GIRL IN NEED!

The Girls Empowerment Summer Camp runs Monday through Friday, 9:00 am to 6:00 pm, from June 29th to August 7th. Our camp builds self-esteem and new friendships, explores new ideas, develops fresh skills, and empowers girls to dream big. We provide countless activities based on several components: physical, emotional, spiritual, environmental, intellectual and social wellness to provide a well rounded experience for the girls. For more information, please see bit.ly/GESC15

Many of the girls that attend the camp are underserved and from economically challenged backgrounds. That's where we need your help. Over 60% of the girls in our summer camp this year are on partial or full scholarships. These girls are the most in need of what our camp has to offer. It gives them the chance to see and experience things that might not otherwise be possible due to financial and/or familial circumstances. Many of our girls have never had a family member go to college, visited the Huntington Library & Gardens, or even been to the beach. Your support will allow them to broaden their horizons by allowing them to visit landmarks like the LA Zoo and the Getty Museum, learn new skills and concepts with our science, technology and financial workshops, and build a community with each other and our camp counselors.

Please donate today and change the life of a girl in need.

THE REEL DEAL: by Ben Show INSIDE OUT REVIEW

It has been quite a while since Pixar has made an original movie (not a sequel). Pixar, in the late 90s and early 2000s, was a powerhouse in the market of animated movies, but has taken a back seat in recent years with Marvel creating so many movies, Disney also starting a new path of remakes and animated movies, and Lucasfilm developing the new 'Star Wars' film. Is 'Inside Out' as good as the other Pixar classics or has the studio lost its magic touch?

Joy (Amy Poehler) finds her job of keeping young Riley (Kaitlyn Dias) happy all the time with all the other emotions running around her head: Sadness (Phyllis Smith), Fear (Bill Hader), Disgust (Mindy Kaling), and Anger (Lewis Black); however, all of their lives are completely changed when Riley and her parents move from Minnesota to San Francisco. Major changes start happening in Riley's head and the emotions must figure out how to get themselves and her through them.

'Inside Out' is one of Pixar's greatest films to date. The bright colors and funny characters will keep kids interested, while the inventive story and complex ideas presented in the film will keep adults fixated on the screen. This film not only introduces kids to important ideas about growing up, but teaches adults not to forget their childhoods, but to grow from them. 'Inside Out' is truly amazing.

JUST FOR BEST FRIENDS

When I was a kid, I remember the adults saying, "When one stops learning, one stops living". That probably meant very little to me at the time, but as I grew older and had my own personal experiences with living, I began to realize the amazing lessons released back into the wild. that God's wonderful creatures can teach us.

Alright." ~ Bob Marley

I once saw a video that reminded of an amazing phenomenon of nature that truly astounds me, and makes me wonder, "How can this be?" I am talking about animals of distant and unrelated species who are apparently able to put away their inherent other beings that are for the most part, very different from themselves.

There have been many documented accounts mind, was uniquely inspiring. It was a home movie south part of Germany in 2006.

The dog was apparently quite a social sort, but there were no other pets in his home to interact with, so having become lonely for companionship, he decided to befriend a huge crow that came flying out of a tall tree nearby and plopped itself down in the backyard. The crow promptly commenced squawking at the dog and taunting him. Instead of rushing forward and frightening the seemingly crazy crow, the dog approached slowly, whimpered humbly and proceeded to rub his furry neck against the big black bird's beak! Soon they were inseparable pals, spending all their time together under the tree canopies in the back yard. Who knew?

more information about unusual cross-species relationships, and I found a few similar stories. One was about a maternal relationship that developed between "Pixie", a darling standard poodle, and beyond their control, showed up on the poodle's property in March 2010. The tree where the squirrel family had nested for years was felled by chainsaws, so the adult squirrels were left with no choice but to abandon the nest.

The three infant squirrels were too tiny to run when the tree came down, so they were left lying in the grass where Pixie romped and played daily. In an epic stroke of fate, Pixie opted to befriend the squirlets rather than attack them, as one might expect a dog to do. Not only was

WE'VE GOT TO LOVE ONE ANOTHER

"One Love, One Heart...Let's Get Together and Feel Pixie friendly with the baby squirrels, she allowed them to exploit the remaining lactated milk left over from a recently birthed litter of puppies. If it hadn't been for Pixie's willingness to show random kindness, those baby squirrels would most likely have perished. As it turned out, all three of those squirrels survived and grew strong enough to be Another remarkable account of an unlikely loving relationship between members of two very different species happened at the Elephant Sanctuary in Hohenwald, Tennessee, just southwest of Nashville. In this case, a young female elephant affectionately named "Bella" instinctive differences to not only survive, but to bonded with a yellow lab named "Tara". All of the share symbiotic and friendly relationships with other elephants at the sanctuary chose a friend of their own species to connect with, but apparently Bella ended up the 5th wheel in the deal, so with no other elephant to partner with, she focused of cross-species relationships over the years, but her need for friendship on a cute, cuddly canine the e-mailed video that brought this subject to companion. There are several rescued elephants and dogs at the Sanctuary in Hohenwald who showing a dog and a wild crow playing together in share the same open space, but the two species an enormous back yard at the pup's home in the typically avoid contact with each other. However, the two unlikely lovebirds named Bella and Tara are absolutely inseparable. They eat together, wander together and even sleep together.

> I observe and learn so much from the animals every day. They truly inspire me, and I hope to play it forward by inspiring others in the same way. If animals, both domestic and wild can be willing to forego instinctual expectations in order to love and be loved by someone very different from themselves, why can't we humans do the same?

İ don't know about you, but I am willing to cross the bridge of unfamiliarity and reach out to those with whom I may have very little in common. When I do take that chance, I find that I learn a lot, not After watching that video, I decided to look up only about other people, but about myself. I learn about living with a giving spirit and it allows me the opportunity to get out of my own head and be part of something bigger than myself. And, interestingly enough, I typically find out that I have more in three abandoned wild squirrels who, by forces common than not, with the folks I thought were so very different from me. Learn from the animals, love and let live!

PET OF THE WEEK OREO: ANIMAL ID #A4846601

Dogs know when they are rescued, and they return the love tenfold! Such will be the case with Oreo (A4846601) if he were to be adopted. Oreo is a tender loving 1½-year-old black-and-white male Chihuahua and Dachshund mix (aka a Chiweenie) whose owner left him at the Baldwin Park Animal Care Center on June 22nd for no known reason. Weighing 11 pounds, Oreo finds the noisy shelter environment stressful, but we expect he will blossom once in a home. He is initially shy with new people, but warms up quickly into a sweet and attentive character. He walks fine on leash, but could use additional training to polish his skills. Oreo gets along with other dogs, and is a wonderful listener, watching his handler carefully with his big brown eyes. Oreo will thrive in a bighearted home eager to have the wonderful reward of watching his confidence flourish outside of the shelter. To watch a video of Oreo, visit the following link: https://youtu.be/GkGgdUZltsA

To meet Oreo in person, please see him at the Baldwin Park Shelter, located at 4275 N. Elton, Baldwin Park, CA 91706 (Phone: 626-430-2378 or 626-962-3577). He is available now. For any inquiries about Oreo, please reference his animal ID number: A4846601. The shelter is open seven days a week, 12 pm-7 pm Monday-Thursday and 10am-5pm Friday-Sunday. This is a high-intake shelter with a great need for adoptions. For more information about Oreo or the adoption process, contact United Hope for Animals Volunteer Adoption Coordinator Samantha at Samantha@hope4animals.org. PARKWAY GRILLE GOOD AS IT EVER WAS good reason. Parkway Grill has proven to be very consistent, which has always been a formula for

Would Friday's lunch pass the Peter Dills' test? Sure, with flying Colors. Why is The Parkway Grill so successful, I believe owners Gregg and Bob Smith will settle for nothing less. Am I giving you a "homer" review? Nope!!! Paid for my own meal . Both Gregg and Bob were present at the restaurant, a good sign.

But let's stick to the task at hand. On my Friday afternoon visit,Seems that I have been here a hundred times, I decided to sit in the bar for lunch I wanted to keep on eye on CNBC in hopes that my stock my actually break even. server/bartender was Kevin and he gleefully handed me lunch menu. After he rattled off a few weekly specials, I opted to stick with the regular lunch menu. I started with Parkway's Caesar salad ($13), ahhh perfect, Caesar Cardina would be very proud!!!

The Romaine was prefect and the croutons were mixed correctly with the dressing. We are off to a very good start. Second up, blue crab cakes($18) while not the same as I remember from my days living in Maryland, I good choice nevertheless.

My final choice the main course was the Roasted Mary's chicken ($28), cooked perfectly and was a big enough portion to share with my table (bar) mates. All in all two thumbs way up!!! Parkway Grill always is a great choice and today's lunch was no different. Dessert? Forget about it! I'm stuffed.

THE GOOD LIFE

HOW TO CHOOSE THE BEST PLACE TO RETIRE

Dear Savvy Senior,

My wife and I will both be retiring in a year or two and are interested in moving to a smaller house in a better climate but could use some help. What resources can you recommend for locating and researching good places to retire in the U.S.?

Looking To Relocate

Dear Looking,

If you're interested in relocating when you retire, like millions of other baby boomers, there are a wide variety of free Web-based resources that can help you get started.

Where to Retire?

If you aren't sure where you want to retire, a good place to begin is by taking a retirement test at sites like Sperling's Best Places (bestplaces.net/fybp) free quizzes that ask dozens of questions on your preferences such as climate, recreation, community size and more, and suggest possible destinations that best match your answers.

There are also various media sources and websites, like U.S. News and World Report, Kiplinger's, Forbes, Money magazine, Reuters, Bankrate.com, TopRetirements.com, the Milken Institute and is a nice advantage. You should also investigate AARP that publish top retirement location lists you alternative transportation options, since most may find helpful too. To find them, go to any search retirees give up driving in there eighties. To do this engine and type in "best places to retire" along with the name of the media source.

You should also consider getting a subscription to "Where to Retire" magazine (wheretoretire.com, 713-974-6903), which is designed to help you find ideal retirement settings. A yearly subscription runs

Once you find a few areas that interest you, your next step is research them. Here are some important aarp.org) along with Epodunk.com and Gangs Away. areas you need to investigate.

Cost of living: Can you afford to live comfortably in the location you want to retire to? BestPlaces.net and Numbeo.com offer tools to compare the cost of living from your current location to where you would like to move. They compare housing costs, food, utilities, transportation and more.

Taxes: Some states are more tax friendly to show and author of "The Savvy Senior" book.

retirees than others. If you're planning to move to another state, Kiplinger's has a tax guide for retirees at Kiplinger.com/links/retireetaxmap that lets you find and compare taxes state-by-state. It covers income taxes, sales tax, taxes on retirement income, Social Security benefits taxes, property taxes, and inheritance and estate taxes.

Crime rate: To evaluate how safe a community you find and research a new location that meet your or area is, NeighborhoodScout.com is a top tool wants, needs and budget. Here are several to help that provides property and violent crime rates, and crimes per square mile.

Healthcare: Does the area you want to relocate to have easy access to good healthcare? To locate and research hospitals in a new area, use HospitalCompare.hhs.gov and QualityCheck. org. To search for new doctors that accept your or Find Your Spot (findyourspot.com). These are insurance, contact your plan, or, if you're 65 or older use Medicare.gov/physiciancompare. It's also important to know that healthcare costs can vary by region, so you should contact your insurer to check out possible cost variables.

Transportation: If you plan to travel much, or expect frequent visits from your kids or grandkids, convenient access to an airport or train station contact Rides in Sight (ridesinsight.org, 855-607-4337), a free transportation referral service, and the Area Aging Agency - call the Eldercare Locator at 800-677-1116 to get the local number.

Other Resources

To learn more about specific communities across the U.S., AARP's new livability index (livabilityindex. com are three excellent resources, as well as the city's chamber of commerce office. To locate it, go to any search engine and type in the name of the city and state followed by "chamber of commerce."

When my mom relays her friends' stories to me, by the middle of it I can usually tell if Florence is the source. After their most recent get together, my mom Florence thanked for the laughs and said that now I'd have material for my articles. So, you

You can imagine their surprise when their nugget-sized bunny grew into a big, honking Flemish Giant!

It was one of these family gatherings at Florence's house that Styx met his match. Zeus didn't move

However, being the slow learner that Styx was, the Zeus-and-Styx-flying sister got a baby rabbit, a tiny thing about the size routine played out many more times at holidays and other get-togethers. I can imagine Florence telling her childhood friends to come and see the giant rabbit and the flying dog -- and their surprise when they did see it!

Using spell check sometimes "blocks the flow" when I'm writing, therefore I save it until the final draft. This time my proofreaders (a.k.a parents) laughed so hard at my horrible mispellings I decided to leave them in!

BOARD ENHANCES EFFECTIVENESS OF COUNTY GOVERNANCE STRUCTURE

LOS ANGELES COUNTY — The Board of Supervisors unanimously adopted the recommendations of the Interim Chief Executive Officer on a motion by Mayor Michael D. Antonovich and Supervisor Sheila Kuehl to enhance the efficiency of the governance structure and end the failed 2007 interim structure. The Board also directed the CEO to report back to the Board in 90 days with additional changes to governance to further enhance operations.

"Today's action will improve the Board's ability to address emerging priorities and ensure effective service delivery with increased collaboration on vital county issues." said Mayor Antonovich. "The previous costly and bureaucratic interim governance structure was bloated and hindered the ability to provide coordinated services to emancipated youth, veterans, the mentally ill and other vial services."

In February, the Board unanimously approved a motion by Mayor Antonovich and Supervisor Kuehl that directed the CEO to provide flexibility, transparency and accountability to the County governance structure. The new structure provides Board interaction with departments and improves decision-making by creating ad hoc

In 2007, the Board of Supervisors adopted an ordinance establishing an interim governance structure for the County which created a "Chief Executive Officer" (CEO). However, a consequence which added layers of county bureaucracy was an increased distance between departments and the Board of Supervisors -- thereby reducing accountability to County residents.

SUMMER CAN BE PRIME TIME TO ENCOUNTER SNAKES OUTDOORS

BURBANK-GLENDALE-PASADENA, Calif.—City officials want to run away without looking carefully where you are going. Wildlife parks or open spaces and while on hiking trails. Remember, snakes generally seek shelter from the sun by hiding under rocks, bushes or in caves and animal burrows during the day. When it's cooler at night, they can become more active as they hunt for prey. The City offers the following safety tips to help avoid snake bites:

- Always be aware of your surroundings.
- Walk in areas where the ground is clear so you can see a few steps
- Be aware of where you sit, before you sit, especially in shady areas. - Wear protective clothing, such as long pants, long-sleeved shirts and
- hiking boots
- Wear gloves and long-sleeved shirts when moving brush or rocks. - Never reach into cracks in rocks, animal burrows or under bushes.
- Avoid nighttime hikes & sleeping outdoors on the ground when
- snakes are most active.
- Do not tease, handle or attempt to kill a rattlesnake. - If you encounter a snake, move out of the way. Do not panic or blindly remind the public that summer months can be prime time to encounter officials say it is a misconception that all rattlesnakes make noise before snakes, including California rattlesnakes, while recreating outdoors in striking. The majority of rattlesnakes are silent, but also generally will not attack unless provoked. The most important first-aid tip if bitten by any snake is to call 9-1-1 immediately or get to the nearest hospital or emergency room right away. It is best to not use other first-aid methods because they are often useless and may cause you more harm.

If you are bitten by a snake, follow these safety precautions:

- Put a safe distance between you and the snake.
- Call 9-1-1 for help; speak clearly and give accurate landmark information about your location for first responders to find.
- Immediately remove rings, watches and bracelets from all limbs due to the potential for swelling once bit. - If possible, get to the nearest hospital or emergency room right away.
- Keep the bite area immobilized and level with the heart.
- Have a cell phone with you while outdoors camping or hiking to call for help if needed. For more information regarding California rattlesnakes, visit www.wildlife.ca.gov/News/Snake.

SOUTHLAND DEMAND FOR METROPOLITAN TURF REBATE PROGRAM EXHAUSTS AVAILABLE SUPPLIES

Applications are still available for water-saving device rebates Facing unprecedented public demand for incentives to transform the region's landscapes, the Metropolitan Water District of Southern California announced today it will be closing its turf rebate program to new applications later this week because available funding has been fully allocated.

Metropolitan's $450 million conservation program, the largest of its kind in the nation, will focus remaining available funds on rebates for water-saving devices and a multi-media outreach campaign to promote greater water conservation in homes, gardens and communities throughout the Southland. The district will also maintain a waiting list of interested turf rebate applicants in the event that some of the approved projects do not move forward with their planned landscape changes.

"We knew that the popularity of the turf program would exhaust the available funds at some point, but even we didn't predict just how popular turf rebates would become," said Metropolitan General Manager Jeffrey Kightlinger. "Metropolitan is proud to have accelerated the movement by hundreds of thousands of Southern Californians to embrace a new outdoor aesthetic and lock in water savings permanently."

Last December, Metropolitan's board increased the conservation budget from $40 million to $100 million to keep pace with the extraordinary public demand. Facing a 20-fold increase in watersaving rebate requests, stoked primarily by turf removal reservations and Gov. Jerry Brown's April 1 executive order to reduce statewide residential water use by 25 percent, Metropolitan's board in May increased the budget by an additional $350 million for a total investment of $450 million.

In addition to the budget increase, the board modified the turf removal program so that funds could reach as many residents, businesses and government agencies as possible. These actions spurred unparalleled interest in turf removal as the historic dry spell Kightlinger noted that the board's May action anticipated turf removal funds would be spent at some point this year. As a result of extremely high interest throughout Southern California, all funds have been allocated for either completed projects or for those with approved work plans. He noted that rebates are still available for water-saving devices such as high efficiency clothes washers, toilets, weather-based irrigation controllers and rotating sprinkler nozzles. Metropolitan estimates that the program will fund removal of over 150 million square feet of turf, more than three times the statewide goal set by Governor Brown to respond to drought conditions and promote more drought-tolerant landscaping.

We truly believe this campaign helped push the tipping point to shift the cultural norm away from lawns and toward California Friendly® landscapes that embrace the region's Mediterranean climate," added Kightlinger. "This rebate program was intended to stimulate interest in turf removal to the point that government incentives were not necessary for the long term."

A variety of conservation tips are provided at Metropolitan's online drought information and conservation rebate website, bewaterwise.com. In addition, television, billboard and digital advertisements in five languages will be showcasing Metropolitan's new conservation outreach campaign called "Turn" throughout the six-county region. The campaign encourages all Southland residents to take their turn at lowering water use.

Metropolitan staff will be presenting a comprehensive update on the rebate programs at the district's next scheduled committee and board meetings July 13-14.

The Metropolitan Water District of Southern California is a cooperative of 26 cities and water agencies serving nearly 19 million people in six counties. The district imports water from the Colorado River and Northern California to supplement local supplies, and helps its members to develop increased water conservation, recycling, storage and other resourcemanagement programs.

SEAN'S SHAMELESS REVIEWS:

By Sean Kayden

WHICH SHOWS TO WATCH THIS SUMMER

gritty, well-acted and just plain good. This week, Mr. Robot, and the arrival of the best show on of Rectify from the Sundance Channel.

of Entourage, which returned this year on the big screen to poor reception. Ballers is a sports dramedy that explores the lives and families of former and current football players, including retired football star Spencer Strasmore (Dwayne "The Rock" Johnson), who is struggling to adjust to David Washington, Rob Corddry, Omar Benson Miller and Troy Garity. It's a moderately light and entertaining addition to the HBO lineup. While the show won't be picking up any awards, Dwayne Johnson is simply enjoyable to watch on the small screen. Known for his action roles in films, it's terrific to see him do a little more acting with an ideal balance of comedy and drama. Overall, if you were a fan of Entourage and are into football, this show will do the trick. It's not Shakespeare light to watch on a Sunday night, Ballers will most certainly fit the bill.

Many critics are hailing USA network's Mr. Robot as the best summer show. After two episodes, I may not consider it the best, but a damn good one. Created by Sam Esmail, Mr. Robot follows a mysterious anarchist who recruits through hacking them. Wide-eyed actor Rami Malek is convincing in the lead role as a young hooked after just one episode.

Last week, I delved into why you should be man who loathes today's society and for good watching True Detective season two. It's dark, argument to boot. Christian Slater pops up as the titular character, but Malek is the main attraction I want to share my thoughts on some new original here. The series pilot was a special one and I programs that have recently started up and a understand why it had so much buzz surrounding returning favorite that premiered this week. I will it. Obviously, it's a darker show than Ballers, but be taking a look into HBO's new comedy series it's worth seeking out since it's so relevant to Ballers, USA networks brooding hacker drama, today's culture. As far as summer shows usually go, this one may have the potential to stack up television that no one knows about, season three with the best of the year if it can continue to evolve and refrain from being a retread every episode as HBO's Ballers comes to us from the producers it airs each subsequent week. Presently, with its political and cultural views as for something to contemplate about, I say pull the trigger on Mr. Robot. In the end, it may get you thinking which is a rare thing for summer shows these days.

After spending nineteen years on Death Row for the rape and murder of his teenage girlfriend, life as a financial advisor. The series also stars John Daniel Holden (Aden Young) is going home. His conviction has been relinquished due to new DNA evidence, propelling him back into a world he no longer knows. Having spent his adult life waiting to be executed, Daniel must now learn how to live again. But, his return into the outside world may be as merciless as prison. He is disturbed by the past, dogged by the present, and unclear of his future. Rectify is absolutely magnificent. I am at a loss for words when I speak about the sheer beauty of this one of a kind series. With incredible here people, but if you're considering something storytelling that I'd considered chill worthy to spectacular acting across the board (especially lead actor Aden Young, who deserves an Emmy), Rectify is the best drama on television hands down. wonderfully atmospheric and a cozy read. In this book Sergeant Hamish Macbeth is alarmed to receive a report from a woman in the small village of Cronish in the Scottish Highlands. She has been brutally attacked and the criminal is on the loose. But upon further investigation, Hamish discovers that she was lying about the crime. So when the same woman calls him back about an intruder, he simply marvels at her compulsion to lie. This time, though, she is telling the truth. DISCOVER THE DEEPEST CAVE ON EARTH BY JAMES M. TABOR In 2004, two great scientist-explorers attempted to find the bottom of the world. American Bill Stone took on the vast, deadly Cheve Cave in southern Mexico. Ukrainian Alexander Klimchouk targeted Krubera, a freezing nightmare of a supercave in the wartorn former Soviet republic of Georgia. Both men spent months almost two vertical miles deep, contending with thousand-foot drops, raging whitewater rivers, monstrous waterfalls, mile-long belly crawls, and the psychological horrors produced by weeks in absolute darkness, beyond all hope of rescue.

On the Marquee: Notes from the Sierra MadrePlayhouse

COMING HOME TO THE PLAYHOUSE

By Artistic Director, Christian

I'm just back from a vacation in Ashland, Oregon visiting friends and seeing shows at the Oregon Shakespeare Festival (OSF). I had the good fortune to work there in the 1990's and I still have many friends in the company. OSF is the largest theater in America. This season it is producing 11 plays in repertory and its company numbers over 500 people – all paid! I saw three shows there, with a really fun production of the musical Guys and Dolls being my favorite (it will tour to the Wallis in the Fall so you will have a chance to see it.) My best friend is the head of their costume shop and she gave me a tour of the new production building – 78,000 sq. ft. of shops and storage. It truly is state of the art – they even have a 3D printer. It was impressive, to put it mildly - and jealousy-inducing!

As I attended shows and, especially, as I toured the facilities, I couldn't help but think about what SMP could accomplish with even the smallest amount of their resources. I fantasized about being able to produce theater and not have to go begging for props and furniture, to not have to cajole artists and artisans to work for less than they should be paid, to have access to the kind of production support that could make happen whatever we dreamed of in a show. Just once, I would love the chance to realize a show exactly as I imagine it in my head. As the Artistic leader of SMP, I am so proud of what we are accomplishing on our limited budgets and with our limited staff – we have been attracting remarkable talent to work with us, both on and off the stage. I made a promise to the Board and to you, our loyal patrons, that the shows at SMP would be as wonderfully realized as possible and I think our past season was a good example of how we are doing.

We are about to launch our second season under my artistic leadership – I certainly have learned much this past year (I've made my share of mistakes, too – but never the same one twice, thankfully!) I still have much to learn, but I'm so excited to be a part of the growth of SMP. And I've heard from many of you that you like what tricky thing putting a season together – balancing the offerings against our resources and the availability of the shows (we were turned down again this year for a comedy that I would love to stage – I'll try again for next year.)

The adage says "there is no place like home" and though I've been to the largest theater in America, I'm happy to be working for you at SMP. As one of our slogans says: "Come Home to the Playhouse". I'm glad to be home - and I hope you'll find your way "home" as well.

As you can see from the picture Always... Patsy Cline is going to be fantastic. Tickets are selling well for this one already – don't miss out, buy yours now! The show opens July 31. Remember we give 20% discounts for groups of 10 or more who purchase their tickets ahead of their attendance date. Please call Mary Baville at

FAMILY MATTERS By Marc Garlett

IF YOU HAVE YOUNG KIDS, DON'T SETTLE FOR A FALSE SENSE OF SECURITY

Does your estate plan name permanent guardians for your minor children? It absolutely must, and most plans do. But how about temporary guardians? And does your plan include medical powers of attorney for your kids? What about instructions and guidelines for your guardians (both permanent and temporary)? Do you carry a card in your wallet stating you have minor children and identifying your temporary guardians in case of emergency?

Naming and legally documenting temporary guardians will prevent your kids from ever being put into the arms of strangers, even for a moment. But without temporary guardians in place, there's a very real possibility your kids could be handed over to foster care until a judge orders the children into the custody of the permanent guardians. Even if that's only for a day or two, that's far too long.

Without a medical power of attorney for your children they may not receive the medical care you would want them to have if you are not with them when they need it.

Providing instructions and guidelines to guardians is one of the best way to ensure your children will be raised with your values, learn about your story, benefit from your wisdom, and continue to feel your love even if you are not able to be physically present

When you go to bed at night, do you lock the front door but leave the back door wide open? Your estate plan shouldn't do that either, especially where your kids are concerned. Yet most estate plans simply slap in a quick paragraph about permanent guardians but fail to address the myriad of other issues those of us with young children need to be concerned about.

You see, traditional estate planning focuses on the elderly. And if you have a traditional estate plan, it is most likely n incomplete and less than comprehensive if you also have minor children at home. But it doesn't have to stay that way.

Taking care of my kids the way they deserve to be taken care of is what got me into estate planning in the first place. And I love empowering other parents to take care of their kids, too. Let me know if you have any questions.

To your family's health, wealth, and happiness,

THE WORLD AROUND US

Looking with Bob Eklund

EYEING UP EARTH-LIKE PLANETS WITH THE JAMES WEBB SPACE TELESCOPE

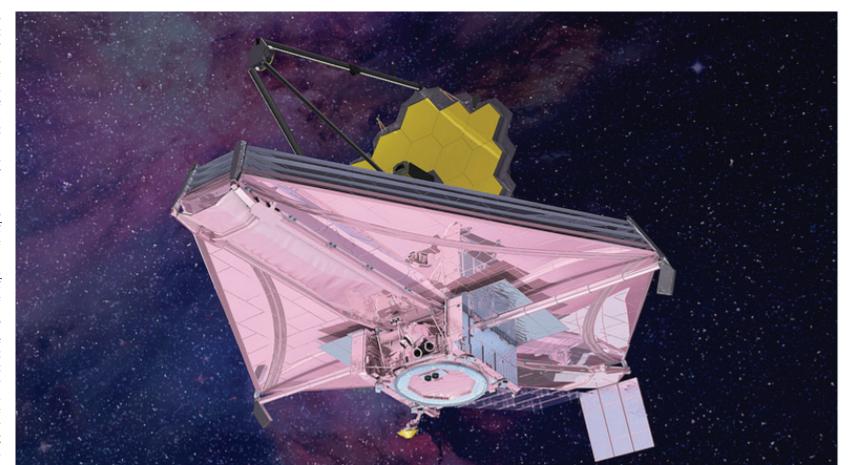

Almost 2,000 exoplanets have been discovered to date, ranging from rocky Earth-like planets to hot Jupiters, and orbiting every type of star. But how many of these distant worlds are habitable? Today's technology means that we currently have very little information about what exoplanets are like beyond their presence, size and distance from star. With the launch of the James Webb Space Telescope (JWST, http://www.jwst.nasa.gov), we may have our first glimpses into atmospheres of Earth-like exoplanets, according to the results of a study by Dr. Joanna Barstow, presented at the British National Astronomy Meeting in Llandudno, Wales, UK, on Wednesday,

"A planet's atmosphere provides a good guide to likely conditions on the surface," said Barstow, of the University of Oxford. "The Earth's atmosphere contains significant amounts of nitrogen, oxygen, ozone and water. By contrast, its inhospitable 'evil twin,' Venus, has an atmosphere made mostly of carbon dioxide, which drives its surface temperature to a blistering 450 degrees Celsius."

A successor to the Hubble Space Telescope, JWST is due for launch in 2018 and will study the universe in infrared wavelengths. Barstow's study shows that JWST may be able to differentiate between a planet with a clement, Earth-like atmosphere, and one with more hostile conditions such as are found on our neighboring planet Venus. JWST will have the capability to detect key markers that could indicate the presence of a climate like our own when looking at Earth-size planets around stars that are smaller and redder than our Sun.

successfully in the atmospheres of several large, hot, Jupiter-size planets by studying tiny variations in the starlight that passes through their atmospheres when they cross in front of their parent stars. However, these variations are minuscule: the light filtered through the exoplanet's atmosphere is one ten-thousandth of the total starlight detected. Studying planets the size of the Earth is an even greater challenge. Although JWST would struggle with analyzing a solar system exactly like our own, it would be capable of studying least 30 times, taking valuable telescope time. Earth-like planets around cooler stars—if such a system were to be found.

"If we took the Earth and Venus, and placed them in orbit around a cool, red star that's not too far away, our study shows that JWST could tell them apart. meantime, JWST will observe many other weird Earth's ozone layer, 10 kilometers above the surface, and wonderful planets in unprecedented detail," said is produced when light from the Sun interacts with molecules of oxygen in our atmosphere, and it produces an unmistakable signal that could be MtnViewsNews.com.

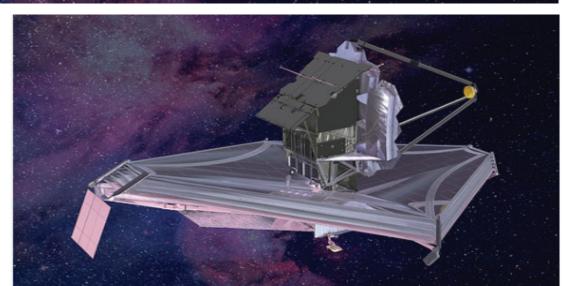

Different gases have already been identified detected by JWST. Venus, without a substantial ozone layer, would look very different," said Barstow. "That's assuming that planets starting out like Earth and Venus would evolve in the same way around a cool

WATER IN MEXICO

By Christopher Nyerges [Nyerges is the author of 'How to Survive Anywhere," and other books. He has led survival skills classes since 1974. He can be reached at www.SchoolofSelf-Reliance. com or Box 41834, Eagle

Rock, CA 90041.] I've heard it so long that it sounds like some religious "Don't drink the water in Mexico.' The meaning is that a visitor to Mexico should not drink the water untreated. And why is that? One explanation that I used to hear back in the 1970s when I first visited Mexico was that, while every place has its own bacteria and organisms in their water, one will get used to the organisms in their water after a while. And supposedly, this also meant that native Mexicans could drink their municipal tap from the water without concern. When I went to language school in Mexico, I always boiled my water or added water about asking native Mexicans if they drank their water out of the tap. A light-colored tinaco. More recently, having visited the Yucatan region several times, I asked some of the natives about this. These days bottled water is everywhere, and most of the people whose homes I stayed in purchased all their water and did not drink from the tap. When I asked whether or not they'd get sick by drinking water out of their tap without purchased bottled water.

They buy their water.

Back then, I never thought

Finally, I met someone who seemed to know a thing about the Mexican water situation. I asked Julia, who was an American who married a Mexican man and now calls the Yucatan region her home where she and her husband run a farm.

purifying it, they shrugged and said they didn't know.

"Do you drink from the tap directly?" I asked Julia. "No, though I'm not afraid to," she responded. "If I'm out in the fields and I'm thirsty, I will drink from the hose and I don't get sick. But usually, we buy purified and filtered water and they deliver it to our

Julia went on to explain that the tap water is used directly for washing, brushing teeth, irrigation, etc.

When people say not to drink the water in Merida (Yucatan), I don't believe the reason is that the water has bad bacteria. I believe it's because the water here is very high in minerals and calcium, etc. And it's those minerals that might cause sickness if you're not used to it," explained Julia.

I asked Julia about the people living in all the small villages where they could not afford to buy water. "I don't know what they do," responded Julia.

"However," added Julia, "I've been told that in 20 years or so, you won't be able to drink the water in the Yucatan region because it will be so polluted." Julia > that everyone uses septic systems in Yucatan, and there is no sewer system (like in most parts of the U.S.) where the waste water is treated before it is discharged into the soil or water. Although the local politicians all talk about installing a sewer system after each flood, Julia doesn't think that comes from underground, and that of the immensity of such

So, because there is no sewer system, there is flooding after every major storm, and everyone blames the mayor and they elect a new mayor who makes new promises, and then it rains again and floods again because nothing was done." I concluded that it was a good thing for me to buy my water, or purify it, whenever I travel. And it's not wise to judge the water of such as large country as Mexico with one yardstick because the "water situation" of any country is vastly more complex than what I've presented here. Unfortunately, we should be suspect of most tap water and most open sources of water, wherever we are.

I asked Julia about the black tanks on nearly everyone's roof in most parts of Mexico. "Those are called tinacos," Julia told me, which my dictionary told me simply means "water tank."

In the United States, people often let their water run a bit so it starts to cool off. However, due to the lack of pressurized water in Mexico, most homes and buildings have large water tanks - tinacos - on their roofs. These then deliver the water by gravity as needed. But since these are traditionally black, the coolest water comes out first and then the water gets hotter as you let the tap run because the water was heated by the sun. Now you can find tinacos white or light-colored so that the water is not heated so much by

OUT TO PASTOR

A Weekly Religion Column by Rev. James Snyder

AND THEN IT WAS SUMMER

Summer is my favorite time of the year. It makes up for the nastiness of winter, the cold and the gloom, not to mention the snow. The only place I like my snow is on a postcard sent by some family member up North where they have all the kind

My love affair with summer began when I was in school. I know school is supposed to be a great time and it was for me except for those classes where the teachers were trying to teach me something. They had their work cut out with me.

School was rather boring, but then, Summer came and set all the prisoners free, me being one of them. Since that time, I have always appreciated the good nature of Summer and have celebrated it as enthusiastically as possible.

Now that summer is here, the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage and me are planning to take a wee bit of vacation. It is not often that we can pack up our bags and "get out of Dodge." When we do, it is a very special time.

When it comes to vacations, my wife and I are at opposite ends of what a vacation is all about. As soon as we mention the word "vacation," I am ready to go. Not so with the better half. She has all kinds of planning and preparation work to do and me that lasts for weeks. it takes more work for her to plan our vacation than it does to stay home and just work.

way! I learned this a long time ago and have the scars to prove it.

Some people believe that women are masters at multitasking. My wife is the queen. I, on the other hand, am a master at anti-tasking. My wife can juggle four or five different jobs at the same time while I can do nothing at the same time. It's a gift on my part.

For vacation, I only need three things, which makes my vacation the wonder and joy that it always is.

The first thing I pack for vacation is my incorrigible laziness. I am not boasting, mind you, but I have mastered the art of laziness like nobody you know. In fact, if I was not so lazy, I would do several workshops on Mastering the Art of Laziness. I have a Master's degree in laziness and if I was not so lazy, I would prepare a diploma to hang on the wall.

Some people go on vacation to do all kinds of things and get involved in all kinds of activities; I go to work on my laziness. My wife has a little bit of trouble with this. She is the Queen Bee when it comes to busyness and is buzzing all the time. I am the honey that flows

Another important thing in my baggage for vacation is my non-vegetable diet. I know vegetables are good for you, but please, on my vacation this is the one thing I am vacating. When I sit down at a meal on my vacation, I do not want to see any vegetables or anything green or leafy on my plate. I want my plate piled high with apple pie à la mode, chocolate cake topped with a scoop of ice cream, and for dessert, a bowl of ice cream topped with a scoop of ice cream, and do not be stingy with the chocolate fudge.

Of course, after such a lunch I am feeling a little woozy and need to go back to my room and sleep it off. This is carefully planned on my part. After every lunch, my vacation companion has this uncontrollable desire to visit thrift shops. She can smell a thrift shop 25 miles away. You can imagine how someone as lazy as me is not too interested in visiting all of these stores during vacation. It has something to do with my drug problem. I do not like being drug from one thrift shop to another all afternoon.

Then there is my Sun Sponge attitude that soaks up all the sun available. When I come back from my vacation, I want to have a sunny glow about

This is where the art of laziness is quite handy. In order to get as much sun as possible you have My part of the planning is to stay out of her to be able to do as little as possible. Sitting out in the sun with nothing to do is the best posture for soaking up the sun.

So, here I am, sitting all packed and ready to go, while the wife is making sure she has everything packed she needs. I could go on vacation on a scooter while she needs a U-Haul.

No matter who you are, vacation is a time for rest and I suppose everybody has their own definition of rest.

The Bible speaks of "rest" around 380 times. Most people have not caught this idea.

My favorite verse is, "Rest in the LORD, and wait patiently for him: fret not thyself because of him who prospereth in his way, because of the man who bringeth wicked devices to pass" (Psalms 37:7).

It is easy to get all caught up with the activities of the world around, but it takes a lot of discipline to really "rest in the Lord."

TOM Purcell Free-Range Parenting Getting Costly

Ah, summer. We all know what that means for young children.

If your kids are seen walking without adult supervision, somebody will call the cops, Child Protective Services will conduct an investigation and charges will be filed.

That is what happened recently to Danielle and Alexander Meitiv, two Maryland parents who allowed their young children to walk home alone from a park near their

"The Meitivs say they have gradually allowed their son, Rafi, 10, and daughter, Dvora, 6, more freedom to walk on their own in areas they know," reports The Washington Post. "But police twice picked up the siblings as they made their way home in Silver Spring, and CPS neglect investigations

What were these parents thinking, you ask. They were thinking about the well-being of their kids. You see, the Meitivs have embraced the "free-range" kids movement, which encourages childhood independence.

"When you let children out, all the good things happen — the selfconfidence, happiness and self-sufficiency that come from letting our kids do some things on their own," says columnist and blogger Lenore Skenazy, founder of the free-range kids movement. She caused a firestorm in 2008 when she wrote, in the New York Sun, about letting her 9-year-old son ride the New York City subway alone.

Free-range parents are the polar opposite of helicopter parents. According to The Washington Post, helicopter parents have "watched their (child's) every move, checked their grades online hourly, advocated for them endlessly and kept them busy from event to activity to play date"

Helicopter parents would never allow their children to walk home from a park alone.

According to The New York Times, it's routine for such parents to drive their kids to and from school — even if they are 10, 11 or 12 — and even if the school is only a few blocks away.

At some schools, there is a rigorous process for picking children up. Parents display their kids' names on their dashboards. A school official radios to the building and the kids are escorted, one at a time, to the cars.

Prison inmates receive less monitoring than the kids of helicopter parents. Why are so many parents obsessing over their kids these days?

According to WebMD, "if you grew up in the '70s and '80s (and earlier, of course), you probably remember going out to play after school and being expected to return home only when the street lights turned on. But as more other nations."

- Thomas Piketty I don't write much international happenings; it's hard enough trying to figure out what's happening here at home. And with the big story over the past week in Greece, it seems even the Greeks are conflicted as to what's at stake. With that referendum last weekend, Europeans were framing it as a choice for Greece of either agreeing to more austerity demanded by the creditors or leaving the Eurozone and going back to the drachma for their currency. After the vote, it seems the overwhelming consensus among the Greeks was to stay in the Eurozone, keep the Euro as their currency - but to vote "no" on those demanded austerity measures, anyway.

It's not like the Greeks won't accept blame for the mess they're in. They don't hesitate in calling out the corruption and nepotism that had crippled their government. And, as the owner of a small Athens restaurant put it in a BBC interview, when the foreign loan money was offered, they took it - "not to put in a business", she said, "but

One thing is clear, though: With few exceptions (maybe Spain and Ireland coming out of the Recession), austerity only makes things worse. And, much as some would hate to admit it, debt forgiveness is often the only way to get some countries, like some people, back on their feet. It's ironic that Germany, the country taking the hardest line against Greece today, is the country that benefited most from debt forgiveness over the last century. At Versailles following WWI, President Wilson argued against piling on a defeated Germany by saddling it with an essentially unpayable debt of war reparations. Our allies disagreed and got their way, however, and through the 1920s we loaned Germany the money to pay its war debts. This spigot was turned off when the Depression hit in 1931, we were stuck with the bad loan, Germany's economy tanked and the breeding ground for Nazism was laid.

We weren't going to make the same mistake after WWII. In 1953 we got our allies to cut Germany's war debt by 60%. Repayment of the remainder was tied to Germany's economic growth - giving others an incentive to buy German exports. Despite the devastating losses incurred by the war, European countries agreed to forgo reparations due them - including Greece. What resulted was the "economic miracle" of post-war Germany. As economic historian Albrecht Ritschl put it in Spiegel Online, "No one in Greece has forgotten that Germany owes its economic prosperity to the grace of other nations." In 2010 the International Monetary Fund predicted these new austerity measures would cost Greece a 5.5% contraction in its economy

"Germany is the and a 15% unemployment rate. Just over a year country that has never ago, it fantasized that with a little tinkering repaid its debts. It has with interest rates and maturation dates, no standing to lecture Greece could make payments while enjoying 4% annual economic growth. Instead, the economy contracted by 17%. Unemployment stands at 25%; a third of its citizens are in poverty, 75% of bank loans are nonperforming, and the government survives by not paying its bills. This comes after a cut of 30% in the public workforce since 2009 and a 48% cut in pensions - with 45% of remaining pensions providing incomes below the poverty line.

As it is now, what money Greece is offered is not so much to bail out the country, but to bail out the banks and investors who gambled on buying pieces of Greek debt. It's like the approach seen when our own cities, from Detroit to San Bernardino, went through bankruptcy: investors aware of the risk in investing in municipal bonds have to be taken care of, while those assured there was no risk in investing their working lives towards a pension get stiffed. Of all that tens of billions in aid, as of last January only 11% of it has gone to help Greece directly, with the rest going to pay off creditors. Sen. Bernie Sanders (I-VT) commented, "At a time of grotesque income inequality, the pensions of the people in Greece should not be cut any further to pay back some of the largest banks and wealthiest financiers in the world." Days after the election of Greek Prime Minister Alexis Tsipras early this year, President Obama weighed in; "You cannot continue squeezing countries that are in the midst of depression. Greece's debt amounted to 175% of its entire annual economic output. In his book "Capital in the Twenty-First Century", Thomas Piketty figures a debt of 200% of output would take 50 to 60 years to repay.

As economist Paul Krugman explains, the problem with austerity is that it shrinks economies faster than it shrinks debt - with that debt then comprising an ever-larger portion of the economy. The effect on Greece has been to transform the Recession of 2009 into a fullblown Depression.

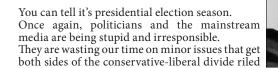

There's speculation that recent demands on Greece have been made not so much expecting to see them accepted (documents show the IMF regarding them as impossible to meet, anyway) but rather to get Greeks to dump their new, leftist government. That didn't happen, as voters resoundingly made clear. Now it's time to get real and weigh the consequences of a Greek default.

'We need to look ahead," says Piketty. "Europe was founded on debt forgiveness and investment in the future. Not on the idea of endless penance."

One of the things the Nazis did when occupying a country would be to go to its treasury and extract "costs" incurred by the occupation. It would then arrange "loans" from that country to the government in Berlin. Greece was among the countries that later forgave these loans, to help Germany get back on its feet. But perhaps it could resurrect some old I.O.U.s, if need be.

THE CONFEDERATE

up at each other, but prevent us from focusing on what really matters. We have a mess of serious problems we have to fix or deal with at home and overseas. And what have the media, the politicians and the whole country been yapping and arguing about for two weeks?

The symbolism of a 150-year-old Confederate battle flag.

Jeb Bush - as predictably as Donald Trump and the others - said on Monday that the flag is "a racist symbol" from the past that divides people and causes disagreement today.

He said the Confederate flag should be removed from South Carolina's statehouse grounds, just as he removed it from Florida's capitol when he was governor. I agree.

Though it was originally designed to prevent southern soldiers from killing each other in battle, the flag has been a symbol of both heritage and hate since the beginnings of the civil rights movement.

Sadly, it took a horrible tragedy in Charleston to make the country and our leading politicians realize that a state government has no business giving the Confederate flag a place of honor.

Like it or not, in 2015 the Confederate flag we all saw on the roof of those 1969 Dodge Chargers on the "Dukes of Hazard" is no longer so innocent. Now it symbolizes two totally different and incompatible things to whites

Many Southern whites still see it as a symbol of the battlefield bravery of their ancestors, or as a roman-tic symbol of their Southern heritage and

Meanwhile, for obvious reasons, the exact same flag is an insult to blacks. Many of their ancestors were slaves when the flag was first waved in battle. And then, though freed, for the next 100 years their grandparents and parents were treated as second-class Americans by racist state governments that incorporated the Confederate symbol in their official flags. If you can't understand why the black citizens of the South might consider the old Confederate battle flag an insult today, ask yourself how a German Jew would react to seeing a swastika fluttering proudly in front of the Reichstag in 2015. The Confederate flag deserves no place of honor on government property

But, as usual, some have gone overboard with political correctness. Amazon and Wal-mart made fools of themselves when they announced in America. It never did.

that because of the Confederate flag flap they were going to stop selling products that carry its image. The TV Land channel was just as idiotic when it pulled episodes of "The Dukes of Hazard." NASCAR hasn't banned Confederate flags at its races,

At least the Confederate flag hasn't been outlawed. And the First Amendment hasn't been repealed. If Confederate flag worshippers want to fly their colors, they are still free to do so on their own property. Or they can make their own flags and put them on their T-shirts or pickup trucks or sell them at flea mar-kets and gun shows

Meanwhile, let's try to get back to things that really matter in this election

Our economy is still a wreck. We have too few good full-time jobs and way too many people on unem-ployment, food stamps and welfare. We have to come up with sensible ways to reform immigration, health care and Social Security/Medicare. High debt and heavy taxes are going to turn

We don't know yet how our presidential wannabes plan to fix immigration or healthcare.

Or how they plan to defeat ISIS or get the economy back on track after eight years of Obama. All we know for sure so far is what they think about the Confederate flag.
