WWII GRENADE BROUGHT TO THE SIERRA MADRE POLICE DEPARTMENT

Sierra Madre, CA. – On Saturday, July 19, 2015 at 3:38 pm, a Sierra Madre resident brought a WWII (pineapple type) grenade in a box into the police station for destruction. Not knowing the status of the old device police personnel immediately apply and City and Ci grenade to a secure place between the Police Department and City Hall. The Los Angeles County Sheriff's (LASD) Bomb Squad was notified and responded to the City.

For a short time Sierra Madre Blvd. was closed off between Lima St. and Hermosa Ave. to both vehicle traffic and pedestrian traffic. The residents at a nearby senior living facility were moved to the rear of their facility. Police personnel were evacuated from the Police Facility for safety purposes. Emergency 9-1-1 calls were routed to the Monrovia Police Department.

At 4:43 pm, the LASD bomb squad arrived. After inspecting the grenade they found it was a real WWII US ordnance type grenade, however it was no longer live as the fuse had been previously

Director of Public Safety, Chief Larry Giannone, stated "the incident was handled quickly and efficiently because of the cooperation of our neighboring police agencies. Because of this there was little disruption to the community." Chief Giannone also would like to remind members of the community that when you come across devices, such as an old grenade, to please leave it where it is located and call 9-1-1. Although many of these devices are not functional, if they were they can become unstable and hazardous to those around them.

AS MATER DOLOROSA PROJECT PLANS ADVANCE RESIDENTS PROTEST Preserve Sierra Madre Organizes Protest As Local Realtors Are Invited To Discuss Plans

By Susan Henderson

In November, 2013 when it was reported in this paper that the Passionist Fathers were planning to develop housing where the Monastery once stood, (http://mtnviewsnews.com/v07/htm/ n46/index.htm) opposition from the community was swift. Signs with "Stop The Monastery" were planted on lawns not only on streets like Sunnyside and Grove which will bear the brunt of the increased traffic should be project be built, but from preservationists all over town. At that time, the scope of the project was mere speculation, as no formal application had been submitted to the city. Speculation was rampant that anywhere from 50 to 100 homes were being planned. Jerry Pearson, who is part of the Monastery's 'development team' was and is very clear on what they do not want. "We don't want any 'McMansions'". "It will not be a gated community", and "It will be an environmentally sustainable project". He also added that nothing would be done to the hillside area behind the Retreat Center.

Fast forward to 2015. The Monastery's need to support itself through the development of the property has not changed, nor has the opposition to it. On Thursday, Matthew Bryant and supporters of Preserve Sierra Madre staged a peaceful and orderly protest in front of the property gate when they became aware of a planned meeting between Monastery officials and a group of local realtors. At one point it was estimated that as many as 40 people of all ages carried signs opposing any development plans. One young Sierra Madre preservationist made a banner admonishing the Passionist Fathers to protect the wildlife (photo left by Maila Thomas). In addition to concerns about wildlife, the impact of any project on the city's resources, especially water, were expressed peacefully. One supporter of the Monastery's efforts however did shout to the crowd, 'The City's broke", as he drove onto the grounds, most likely referring to the $2 million in development fees that would be paid if the revised project of 40 homes is approved.

To date, no formal application has been made to the city. The Passionist Fathers will continue their outreach to the community in hopes that a project that is acceptable can be developed.

Walking Sierra Madre...The Social Side

by Deanne Davis

"I like zombie movies. I like "The Walking Dead," I like the metaphor of it, simply because if we go with the zombie concept - if you're bitten by a zombie, you don't transform into something else like a vampire or a werewolf or whatever. You become something that's not you."

Marilyn Manson (Huh?)

I met the coolest guy today, a prominent figure around Sierra Madre on Halloween, being the go-to guy for the Halloween shows at the Sierra Madre Playhouse. He introduced himself as Val Lewton, head of Vanity Productions - Zombie Players Associated. He confessed he's not really Val Lewton, my guy is channeling the original Val. Who's Val Lewton? Only the best B horror movie producer ever! The original (the real) Val Lewton lived from 1904 to 1951. Born in what is now the Ukraine, Val and his mother immigrated to the United States in 1909. Starting his career as a journalist, Val lost his job as society reporter for the Darien-Stamford Review at age 16 (16? Seriously?) when he decided that a nifty little story, right out of his imagination, about a truckload of kosher chickens dying in a New York heat wave, was way more interesting than society in Darien. I'd be going with the chicken story, too, as opposed to who wore what to the ball! The real Val went on to write the best-selling pulp novel No Bed of Her Own, in 1932 which was later used for the film No Man of Her Own, with Clark Gable and Carole Lombard!

My Val Lewton, intriguing and mysterious entrepreneur that he is, waxed eloquent about his borrowed persona's film career which unleashed upon an unsuspecting world such gems as Cat People, I not, Boris Karloff! My new BF, had tears in his eyes as of human brains. Val Lewton (currently alive and he spoke of the highlight of the original Val Lewton's career, when he was named head of the Horror Unit at RKO studios in 1942, with two ironclad rules: Each film had to come in under a budget of $150,000, each was to run 75 minutes. A master of nuanced (translate: incredibly cheap) effects, Lewton never received the accolades and recognition he deserved. Speaking of one effect from The Leopard Man, a simple trail of blood seeping under a door reduced my Val to silence. The original Val Lewton was one of the early Film Noir pioneers, using black and white to stunning effect.

How did I meet the mysterious pseudo-Val Lewton? A few weeks ago, before the July 4th parade, I saw an ad in the Pasadena Star News stating simply, "Zombies Needed To March in the Sierra Madre 4th of July Parade – Make-up Artists Needed." Realizing that an urgent need existed for enough zombies to make our parade interesting, I mentioned it a couple of times in Walking Sierra Madre. Would-be zombies galore showed up and we ended up with about 30 of them in the parade, looking as ghoulish as possible, walking with the classic arms outstretched, one leg dragging zombie gait. With that triumph behind him, my new friend, Val, who is the genius behind the scenes at the Sierra Madre Playhouse Halloween shows for the past four or five years, really wanted to talk about his plans for Halloween 2015, which will be bigger, better, more amazing, more awesome than ever before. And, yes, it's all FREE

Remember the Time Machine you saw in the parade? You'll be able to sit in it and have your picture taken as you plan your trip back into the Jurassic Period! Remember War of the Worlds? The 1938 radio broadcast by Orson Welles which produced mass hysteria throughout the Nation? Of course you don't remember the original broadcast, but War of the Worlds is coming back and it will be scarier than ever. Remember Abbott And Costello Meet The Zombie? "Costello said to Abbott, I think we should beware! Look behind you quickly, there's a zombie over there!" It's coming back as "Abbott and Consuelo Meet the Zombies!" I realize it's months till Halloween, but when you meet the ultimate zombie expert, you want to talk about it! For instance, did you know that zombies have very sensitive digestive Walked With a Zombie, The Leopard Man, The Curse systems? They can't eat Twinkies without saltwater of the Cat People, The Body Snatcher, Isle of the and bubblegum. However, Zombie nutritionist, Dead, Bedlam - the last three featuring, believe it or Dr. Albert Rossum, highly recommended a diet well and planning Halloween horrors) declined to comment.

City to Enhance Anti-Scavenging Laws

By Dean Lee

The Pasadena city council is set to vote Monday night to enhance the city's antiscavenging ordinance to include special events and large venues, such as the Rose Parade, football games and concerts at the Rose Bowl. The item is on the council's regular meeting consent calendar,

They will also vote to clarify the definition of "scavenging" to include all material that is placed in residential or commercial city collection containers, including organic material.

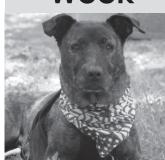

According to a city staff report, The Rose Bowl's events are of special concern since, as the Rose Bowl's waste hauler, the city provides recycling services. The city proposes incorporating the State's definition of large venue. "Large venue" means a permanent venue facility that seats or serves an average of more than 2,000 individuals within the grounds of the facility per day of operation of the venue facility. For purposes of this chapter, a venue facility includes, but is not limited to a public, nonprofit, or privately owned or operated stadium, amphitheater, arena, hall, conference or civic center, performing arts center, museum, theater, or other public attraction facility.

Police will also issue tickets to drivers scavenging for materials or organized groups utilizing vehicles for large scale scavenging. Fines would start at $106 for the first offence.

If passed, the city attorney will draft the ordinance amendments within 60 days.

According to city staff, residents are also encouraged to report instances of scavenging that they observe. The Department of Public Works and the Pasadena Police Department conduct focused enforcement of the antiscavenging Ordinance on a quarterly basis, concentrating on the residential curbside recycling program the staff

PETA Files Lawsuit against Police Chief

PETA sues Pasadena police over failure to hand over records on alleged Seaworld spy

People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals filed a lawsuit Monday morning against the city of Pasadena and Police Chief Phillip Sanchez over the city's failure to comply with a Public Records Act requests relating to a SeaWorld protester arrested during the 2014 Rose Parade.

PETA is claiming that the arrested protester "Thomas arresting officer's notebook, Jones," was recently exposed which could contain details of Jones," was recently exposed as SeaWorld employee Paul McComb.

McComb worked at SeaWorld in human resources according to a resume at Jresume.com —which has since been taken SeaWorld has also updated an earlier statement saying that it couldn't comment on its security measures to saying that McComb had been placed on paid leave.

In their own statement, PETA claims that McComb "incite animal advocates to perform illegal acts and that McComb took to social media calling for activists to "just burn it [SeaWorld] to the ground." In another Twitter post using Thomas Jones, McComb states, "grab your pitch forks and torches! Big protest tomorrow at #SeaWorld."

statement, McComb may have informed the Pasadena police of PETA's plan "to engage in a traditional, peaceful act of civil disobedience—sitting down in front of SeaWorld's float during the Rose Parade."

The statement also states that McComb was only one out of 16 adult protesters who was released with no charges after they were arrested. In response to PETA's records requests, the police initially claimed that McComb, going by "Jones," had never been arrested. PETA's lawsuit looks to examine the any arrest, they said.

Jeffrey Kerr, PETA's general counsel, said "SeaWorld continually covers up the suffering of orcas in its concrete tanks, and now we wonder if the Pasadena Police Department is covering up the extent to which it has been used by this particular SeaWorld spy."

He continued, "The State of California guarantees the right of access to government records, and that includes the documents that will tell PETA how much time and taxpayer money the City of Pasadena and the Pasadena Police Department have spent catering to SeaWorld's interests."

PETA's lawsuit states that while the other protesters were booked, charged, and listed in the daily arrest log, McComb was separated from them at booking and released.

Motorcycle Safety Enforcement Operation

The Pasadena Police Department will be conducting specialized Motorcycle Safety Enforcement Operation on Sunday, in an effort to lower deaths and injuries. Extra officers will be on duty patrolling areas frequented by motorcyclists and where motorcycle crashes occur. Officers will be looking for violations made by drivers and riders alike that can lead to motorcycle crashes. They will be cracking down on both those operating regular vehicles and motorcycles who are under the influence of drugs or alcohol, speeding, making illegal turns, or any other dangerous violation.

California collision data reveals that primary causes of motorcycle-involved crashes include speeding, unsafe turning and impairment due to alcohol and other drugs by both riders and drivers alike. Safety tips for riders – See and Be Seen:

• Ride with lights on during daylight hours

• Use your lane position to increase visibility; change lanes only when there is ample room

• Match your speed to surrounding traffic

 Always wear a DOT compliant helmet and brightly colored, protective clothing Safety tips for drivers – Share the Road:

• Look twice for motorcyclists, especially when entering the roadway, turning or changing

• Motorcyclist are allowed in HOV lanes unless prohibited by signage

Riders are urged to get training through the California Motorcyclist Safety Program. Information and training locations are available at www. CA-msp.org or 1-877 RIDE 411 (1-877-743-3411).

Funding for this program is provided by a grant from the California Office of Traffic Safety through the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

SPECIAL OLYMPICS WORLD GAMES 2015 COME TO LOS ANGELES

News and Views from Joan Schmidt

day this paper goes to print-July 25- the 2015 Special Olympics World Games begin! Games Γhe will last from July 25-August 2 with 7000 athletes and 3000 coaches from 177 countries. From the time of arrival until departure, some 30,000 volunteers will have assisted in so many activities! Special Olympic World Games 2015 is the largest sports-and-humanitarian event anywhere in the world and the biggest event in Los Angeles since the 1984 Olympic Games!

Last year I learned about the wonderful "Host Town" program, a special 3-day event that takes place prior to the Opening Ceremony of the Games. Delegations of athletes from around the world are welcomed and celebrated by 100 Host Towns from San Luis Obispo to San Diego. While in their "Host Town", the athletes train and become part of a community while learning about its culture and visiting special local attractions/

Yesterday morning I went to the Arcadia HS Football Field as the AUSD welcomed Athletes from Trinidad and Tobago and Kyrgyz Republic. At one end of the Field was an inflatable tunnel which the athletes walked through. The Arcadia High Band, Cheerleading Squad, and many students seated in the bleachers waving banners of encouragement, gave a rousing welcome as each group arrived. Holly Avenue Students made an individual greeting picture for each athlete with a special hand-written message. After their special welcome and photos, the athletes went to practice. The Olympians were the FIRST to use the newly renovated swimming pool. Lunch was at Wilderness Park (Thank you, former Mayor George Fasching) and dinner provided by Matt and Denny's. I was THRILLED to meet basketball, track and volleyball players!

"What's Goina On?" In Duarte, athletes from South Africa enjoyed lunch and a tour of the City of Hope. Duarte teamed with Azusa and Glendora to be a "Host Town". Azusa Pacific University facilities were used for lodging/practice.

So many cities and their residents had the opportunity of a lifetime- to welcome athletes from all over the world, share their culture and make lifelong friends. Claremont's Corey Calaycay posted photos of their athletes from Bolivia, Republic of Georgia, Latvia, and Curacao. Pomona College facilities were utilized.

Some of the other "Host" cities included San Diego who hosted Bulgaria and Finland; Glendale, the Dominican Republic and Bonaire; Manhattan Beach, Hungary; Hacienda Heights, Chinese Taipei; South Pasadena, Morocco and Paraguay; Pasadena, Namibia, Tanzania and Singapore; Alhambra, Monterey Park and Lincoln Heights, Germany; La Mirada, Russia; La Verne, Pakistan and US Virgin Islands; Whittier, Macao; West Covina, Japan; and La Habra, Lithuania, Myanmar, Norway. (Biola University provided housing for Whittier and La Mirada.

Throughout the three days, various cities posted on their Web sites, different activities/ events where the public could meet the athletes such as parades. I am really looking forward to watch the games on TV-this is a really exciting time.

Most importantly we should think of the late Eunice Kennedy Shriver and her vision. Special Olympics began in 1968-a movement of only a few hundred athleteshas grown to more than 4 million in 170 countries. Special Olympics addresses inactivity, injustice, intolerance and social isolation by encouraging people with intellectual disabilities. This leads to a more welcoming and inclusive society. Thank you, Mrs. Shriver and all the hard workers and volunteers who believe these individuals with special needs are truly very special people.

SGVCOG COORDINATED ENTRY SYSTEM HOMELESSNESS WORKSHOP

On July 14, 2015, the San Gabriel Valley Council of Governments (COG) held the first of three workshops to provide an overview of the Coordinated Entry System (CES) and the Homeless Family Solutions System (HFSS). Both systems have been designed to coordinate the assessment of individuals and families experiencing homelessness within a network of agencies throughout the San Gabriel Valley to ensure that resources are allocated as efficiently as possible. One aim of these new systems is to ensure that those most in need are served first, and that clients are linked with a variety of services that will benefit them. In the San Gabriel Valley, Union Station Homeless Services is managing these efforts, and Monrovia's very own Foothill Unity Center (415 W. Chestnut Avenue) serves as the closest CES Intake Site.

Another innovative process that has been coordinated for those in need of homeless support services is that those in LA County will be able to dial "2-1-1" on the telephone to reach a referral line to schedule an appointment at a Regional Family Solution Center via the HFSS program. The nearest HFSS intake site is located in Duarte at 1755 E. Huntington Drive.

Moving forward, we will be working to integrate these overall support services into the City's existing efforts to address homelessness in Monrovia.

FOOTHILL GOLD LINE UPDATE: SUBSTANTIAL COMPLETION ONLY TWO MONTHS AWAY

With only two months remaining until substantial completion of the Foothill Gold Line from Pasadena to Azusa, work is ramping down. Final touches are being made at each station and at the

Bridge in Irwindale. Greatly anticipated station dedications have been scheduled for each city, and all are welcome to attend. Here are details; more information can be found on the Authority's website: · Duarte/City of Hope Station Dedication: Saturday, August 15, 2015

· Arcadia Station Dedication: Saturday, August 22, 2015 - 10:00 AM · Irwindale Station Dedication: Friday, August 28, 2015 – 5:00 PM · Monrovia Station Dedication: Saturday, September 12, 2015 – 10:00

Azusa Downtown & APU/Citrus College Station Dedication: Saturday, September 19, 2015 – 10:00 AM

Metro staff recently provided the Authority board an update on their plan for operating the Pasadena to Azusa segment. As of now, Metro plans to begin passenger service in Spring 2016. Vehicle delivery and staff hiring and training are important factors in that schedule. Earlier this month (pictured below, left) Metro delivered the first 3010 Kinkisharyo-produced vehicle to the Foothill Gold Line Operations Campus. In all, 74 vehicles are being delivered to the Monrovia facility over the next 18 months; 15 vehicles are needed for the Foothill Gold Line from Pasadena to Azusa.

The Azusa to Montclair design and engineering effort meanwhile ramps up with successful community meetings in April and May, and city councils briefings in May, June and July. Individual Master Cooperative Agreements are now nearly complete with all six cities, laying out the working relationship and process between the cities and the Construction Authority relating to the advanced engineering and future construction phases.

The project's current schedule is dependent on receiving funding from the county's proposed 2016 sales tax measure. Metro has asked each council of governments to provide their itemized priority list for the proposed tax measure's expenditure plan by September 1. The San Gabriel Valley Council of Governments (SGVCOG) is nearing completion on their process; and the draft priority list includes $1.019 billion in funding to complete the Foothill Gold Line project to Claremont. This is of course good news for the project; however the funding amount is about $111 million short of the full estimated cost to build the project. On Thursday, the SGVCOG transportation committee will be meeting to discuss the priority list and provide a recommendation to the SGVCOG board. They anticipate having the board vote at the August 20 meeting.

WORLD-FAMED BOOGIE, BLUES, SOUL KEYBOARDIST/SINGER DOÑA OXFORD TO HEADLINE FUNDRAISER AT SAINT LUKE'S, MONROVIA

August 1 "Boogie Under the Stars" will benefit building fund and community outreach for historic church

Monrovia, CA, July 16, 2015 — Fresh from a three-month UK tour with legendary blues guitarist Albert Lee, powerhouse "Queen of Boogie" and "Goddess of Soul" Doña Oxford will perform a benefit under the stars on Saturday evening, August 1, in the courtyard of St. Luke's Episcopal Church, 122 S. California Ave. at Foothill in Monrovia. Tickets to the 6:30 p.m. event, which includes dinner and first drink, are $25 each. They can be ordered in advance http://www.brownpapertickets.com/ event/1995961. Proceeds from the evening will benefit the parish's community service efforts and the building fund for the 1924 church, whose Monrovia roots go back to the 1890s.

Oxford, a longtime friend and colleague of St. Luke's Rector Neil Tadken, studied her craft with Chuck Berry sideman Johnnie Johnson. Her style fuses old school blues/soul vocals and two-fisted boogie-woogie piano. 'Take a bit of Bette, a tad of Tina and a slice of Stansfield, and you get a deluge of Doña," declares Tadken.

Oxford has performed with a long and growing list of legends info@saintlukesmonrovia.org. including Keith Richards, Buddy Guy, Levon Helm, Bob Weir, Stevie Ray Vaughan, Julia Fordham and Shemekia Copeland. Her tours draw devoted fans across Europe, Japan, Canada and the US. "Doña Oxford is one of LA's underappreciated assets," says Patrick O'Heffernan, host of the syndicated online Music Fridays program. "Every show is a blowout, with the audience standing, whistling and demanding more. When she tours the UK, stars like Van Morrison ask her to be part of their recording sessions."

Opening for Doña:

Also appearing will be violinist and pianist Dr. Adam Kendall, a physician whose passion for music has paralleled his career. In 1995, Dr. Kendall studied violin performance at UC San Diego and went on to play with the Columbia Symphony Orchestra during a research year abroad from the USC Keck School of Medicine. Since 2011, he has taken his music directly to passersby at street markets in addition to playing benefit recitals. In 2014, his performances raised over $25,000 for Bloom Where Planted, 501(c)3, an African Children's Fund charity that supports secondary education in Kenya.

Dr. Kendall's program will include American Ragtime favorites The Entertainer, Solace and The Maple Leaf Rag by Scott Joplin; Aaron Copland's Hoedown from the Rodeo Ballet; and a classical selection including Ave Maria (Schubert), Meditation from Thaïs (Massenet) and an excerpt from Tchaikovsky's Piano Concerto No. 1. Youth Patriotism. The mission of CFYP is "To instill in California youth a sense of civic, non-partisan pride and a better understanding of our common heritage, through the use of audio/visual programs and personal presentations". THE REEL DEAL: by Ben Show TERMINATOR GENISYS REVIEW

There has been a wave of "remakes and reboots" of classic movie and TV series in recent years. 'Star Trek', 'Jurassic Park', and 'Star Wars', just to name a few; however, most of them have been received well by both critics and audiences. Can 'Genisys' continue in the footsteps of the first two 'Terminator' films, or has it fallen too much in quality?

John Connor (Jason Clarke) has discovered a way to stop Judgement Day from happening: by sending Kyle Reese (Jai Courtney) back in time to save his mother, Sarah Connor (Emilia Clarke. When sent back in time, though, the timeline that John thought existed has been erased, and a new, much more terrifying one must be faced in order for Skynet to finally be eradicated.

'Genisys' really has one fatal flaw: it makes all of the movies in this series that came before it totally pointless. Much like 'Star Trek' in 2009, which successfully reset the franchise, 'Genisys' attempts to pull off a similar feat, but with far less success. The end result makes the bad CGI effects feel even worse and, once you've realized that the original's have been torn to shreds by this poorly written, sloppily put together hodge-lodge of ideas, the film is almost unwatchable

JUST FOR BEST FRIENDS

Last week turned out to be a rather challenging and frustrating one for me. As hard as I try to avoid focusing on issues that are less than up-lifting, there are times when I find myself inadvertently faceto-face with news of vicious violence or needless able to voice such news as if it were nothing more than a lunch menu. Most recently, a grim yet true tale came to me from a way less likely source. A random acquaintance who happens to know I care about animals and thought I should know because I might be able to do something about it. I sure hope

I try to digest and work through those 'hard-tohear' stories when they do sneak in, but when I hear reports of animal cruelty I find it very difficult to remove myself emotionally and carry on with daily life as if nothing happened. Because I am a sensitive soul, I tend to let sad news get to me, and in the wake of reports about animal abuse, I find it extremely challenging to ignore and move on. It gets to be too friends who share my immense love and respect for animals. I always know they will come alongside and give me encouragement and hope.

The precious pets I get to spend time with also play a big part in keeping me from plunging into the depths of depression when news of animal abuse succeeds in penetrating my space. Sincere and heart-felt appreciation go out to all my friends, both two-footed and four, who help keep me from "going off the deep end" when I might otherwise be

Just when I think we humans are on the good path, moving in the right direction toward kindness and compassion in our interaction with other species, something happens to remind me a healthy balance. It is as if we take one step forward and two steps back. Therein lies my frustration this old husky pup that was brutally kicked to death by a moving forward! local dog walker two months ago.

when those 50 big cats were needlessly gunned down streets before he committed suicide. It is an awful feeling, like you've been punched in the stomach. humans involved handled both situations is very justice will prevail for Gracie. Love and let live. much the same.

I believe in God as sole Creator of the universe, and I also believe that God gave the human respectful dominion over other animal species, but most importantly, I believe He appointed us as stewards to ensure the well-being of the animals, not to ensure our position of control or power over

ONE STEP FORWARD,

In some ways I wish I could "un-know" what I saw on the news back in October, 2011, and more recently, the gruesome details of how Gracie was brutally murdered by someone who professed to neglect, often delivered by talking heads who are be her trustworthy and caring handler. However, I am convinced that there is a reason for me knowing these sad facts. We can run but we cannot hide from reality. We can't bury our heads in the sand with regard to animal cruelty. There is a season for sadness and anger, but it should be a short season that ultimately prompts us to positive action.

The Zanesville tragedy broke my heart, but it also had a very positive impact on me. It forced me to start educating myself about animalprotection laws, and to find out what part I can play in making things better. I began tuning in to current related issues and signing all the petitions and initiatives I could find, designed to help prevent animal abuse.

Early on in my constant quest to stay abreast of much at times, but I try to surround myself with current affairs having to do with animal advocacy, I came across a group called Social Compassion in Legislation. Among the many good things they do, they provide information and advice to people who are interested in being more proactive in their desire to help protect the animals. They also offer valuable resources that have proven quite helpful to a novice advocate such as myself. I learned a lot perusing the pages on their site. It gives me a sense of accomplishment to sign the petitions they have linked in, and I have been also able to put a few of their free tools to use in assisting with Gracie's

There are a lot of things in this world that I simply do not have control over when it comes to preventing animal cruelty, but when given the that we still have a long way to go before we achieve opportunity to take action on those things that are within my reach, the untouchables somehow seem to fade away and that overwhelming feeling past week, as I continue to help my friend in her of frustration, anger and sadness is replaced with pursuit of justice for Gracie, her beautiful 2 1/2 year a renewed sense of hope. That's what keeps me

If you are like me and want to make a The frustration I've been feeling over Gracie's difference for the better on behalf of the case somehow brought back memories of how I felt animals, I highly recommend visiting socialcompassioninlegislation.org. It is my hope in Zanesville, Ohio in October of 2011 after their that all true lovers of animals will do what they "caretaker" opened the gates and let them out in the can to help prevent animal abuse wherever and whenever they can. Let's make it our job as stewards, to ensure that what happened in Ohio in While the death of one dog may not be comparable 2011, and what happened to Gracie in May of this to that of 50 big cats, the disappointment in how the year will never happen again. I HAVE A CRUSH ON YOU

Most of you know Musician Dave Mathews, songs such as Satellite and Two Step. But Dave is also a winemaker and a good one at that. Dave Mathews has not only lent his name to Dreaming Tree Wines, Cabernet, Chardonnay, white and the reviewed 2011 Blend "Crush". He also is on record of being the co-winemaker of this increasingly popular North Coast Winery. I first came across this wine at my friend Ken Fuller's BBQ in Altadena. The 2011 growing season was a little tough with an above average rainfall and a smaller crop of grapes. The grapes used for the "Crush" Merlot, Zinfandel, Petite Sirah produced a moderate alcohol content of 13.5%. This reviewer tries to be consistent in his reviews by always pairing the wine with the appropriate food, this time I had a brussell sprout salad and honey glazed spare ribs (pictured), might not be a textbook pairing, but I could still taste the hint of berries that really jumped out with the pork rib. I have a crush on The Crush and you will too.

Dills Score 89

Wine Notes Crush goes through 16 months of oak aging, and indeed you have learned that having five varieties of grapes make the "Crush" a blend. Matthews's claims his wine philosophy is "If it tastes good to you, then it's good wine, sure we have heard that before, but I agree. Retail is $15, average supermarket price is $11. Try opening the wine twenty minutes before drinking. Available at Vons and other fine wine shops Next week we find a few romantic restaurants for you to take your sweetheart to.

show renewed for a fourth and stars in, debuted to strong critical praise and healthy box office numbers. It was directed from Judd Apatow, known as the king of comedy for the past several years. Apatow is coming off two average comedies, "Funny People" and "This is Forty," but is better recognized for helming "The 40-Year Old Virgin" and "Knocked Up," and producing a ton of popular R-rated comedies throughout the years. However, Apatow rebounds terrifically here and the best reason I can postulate is that he did not write the screenplay. His directorial style remained the much for about 75% of the movie. same with the long scenes (rare for comedies) and particular soundtrack choices, often utilizing a song or two from the band Wilco in his films. What's even more surprising is that Apatow didn't include his usual cronies (Seth Rogen, real-life wife Leslie Mann) that have appeared in multiple films of his. Being said, "Trainwreck" is a one-woman show and Schumer nails it and nails it damn hard.

She drinks, smokes, and has a foul mouth. Basically, she's a riot in this film with zingers lined up one after another. As for her character, she has numerous one-night stands and believes she is sees her sister (Brie Larson) married with a family and at first doesn't seem to want that. However, after meeting a nerdy, but sincere sports medicine seems to have a bright future ahead of her writing starts to slowly change for the better. "Trainwreck" is very contained and is purely straightforward. It is refreshingly humorous though. Schumer not only has a great delivery, but she writes terrific jokes. What I loved about "Trainwreck" is that it relied on smart, witty, funny dialogue for humor and not physical action such as characters doing dumb things or saying completely vulgar verbiage. "Trainwreck" was a wonderful adult comedy that In "Trainwreck," Schumer plays Amy, a magazine easily can reach out to many generations, especially young females. While R-rated Hollywood comedies tend to gravitate more to a men demographic, it's stimulating to see a young, successful woman in the driver's seat delivery way better humor than most male driven comedies. Thanks to "Bridemaids" (also produced by Judd Apatow), R-rated female comedies are becoming more and more popular and rightfully indeed having fun while actually she's in a rut. She so. In the end, "Trainwreck" is the comedy of the summer thus far. It deserves your full attention and is a perfect starring vehicle for Amy Schumer, who doctor (Bill Hader), her skewed view of relationships and starring in movies. I am definitely looking forward to what she does next. Let's just hope she doesn't hit the sophomore slump, but my feeling is, this girl is just warming up.

SEASON'S GREETINGS IN JULY By Artistic Director, Christian Lebano

Being the Artistic Director of there is a production in NYC that People's Money - a terrifically goal for me - one I never really the larger theaters in town have thought would happen. There was a time in my life that I more vigorously. I was very lucky to work at some of the best regional theaters in America and I thought that would be my future. But then my desire for a family overtook me and I couldn't see how to make both work, so I put my energy into building a life that would support building a Finding the Playhouse and establishing the relationship that I have created here has given me so much satisfaction and allowed me to have both my family and my dreams. I'm a lucky man.

I tell everyone that I am a work in progress as an Artistic Director. I had my fantasies about what the job would entail and now I'm learning the realities. There are so many aspects of this position that are more complicated than I had anticipated. Take putting a season together, for example. Elsewhere in the paper we have announced our complete season for 2015-16 and I'm very excited about the plays we'll be putting on in this, my second year as Artistic Director, but they were not all my

Scheduling a season is a little like putting together a house of cards
- so much depends on balance, timing and luck. As you know, the Playhouse's mission is to celebrate the American experience so that was the starting place for putting the season together. From the many wonderful American plays we needed to find seven that would make a season that had something in it for all of our patrons – understanding that not every play would appeal to every patron. Then there is the whole rights issue. I was turned down for several plays - being in LA produce shows. A lot of shows go on "hold" because of film and many shows that deserve to be TV, or aren't available because seen again. I've settled on Other has satisfied a long-time may move west, or because one of expressed interest – you never learn why you've been denied pursued my theatrical ambitions the rights to a piece. But then you have to rethink your choices and rejigger your plans. Beyond that you have to consider the resources we have available cast size, set requirements, and technical needs.

Here's a little of my thinking about the plays you'll be seeing in the coming year: Always...Patsy Cline is pure entertainment. It is a wonderful way to end the summer (I think of this first slot as the musical slot because we have a little longer lead time to produce the show and musicals are such great entertainment.) Deathtrap is another show that we've been talking about doing for a while. I'd been turned down for rights before, so was overjoyed when we got them this time. The show takes SMP back to its roots - we haven't produced a thriller in a long time and many patrons have been asking for one. This one is the best of all of them. I found a beautiful holiday musical in A Christmas Memory and we are thrilled to be doing the LA premiere of this wonderful show. It will be perfect for the entire family; it celebrates everything that is good about Christmas and friendship. I think you'll love this little gem.

Those were easy choices, but then how to start the new year off? I knew I needed something more contemporary, I looked at several comedies but this slot needed to be a smaller cast because of rehearsing over the holidays, with minimal set and be more contemporary to balance against the last plays of the season. And I was hoping it might have a part in it for me – I've been hoping to get back on stage for a while. I'm also a big proponent of saving makes it harder to get rights to neglected plays - last year it was 6 RMS RIV VU - there are so funny adult comedy about the go-go 80's and all the financial wheeling and dealing of the period. It was very popular when it was first released but hasn't been produced in a while.

Finding a Field Trip Series play that worked was easy when I came across the script for Charlotte's Web. We'll be marketing this one to elementary schools. It's a perfect show for our younger patrons and the adults who love them. It is such a beloved American story – I am thrilled that we'll be doing it. But then I needed to find a play that would work in repertory with it and was so excited when I thought of Of Mice and Men. The play was adapted by John Steinbeck himself from his novel. It is a beautiful story about friendship and loyalty - the perfect thematic companion to Charlotte's Web AND will be able to work on the same set.

Finally, we are ending the season with one of the greatest American plays ever written – Tennessee Willliams' The Glass Menagerie. I'm so excited to finally bring this play to SMP and to get to direct it. It will be such a joy to spend time with those characters and Williams' beautiful story. So there it is. I hope we've piqued your interest and that you will be in the audience for every one of these shows. You are the reason we do this. Let me know what you think by writing me at ArtisticDirector@ SierraMadrePlayhouse.org

FINANCIAL AID FOR OLDER ADULTS GOING BACK TO SCHOOL

Dear Savvy Senior,

Are there any financial aid resources you can recommend to baby boomers who are interested in going back to school? I've been thinking about taking some classes at a nearby college, and wanted to check into financial aid opportunities first.

Looking For Aid

Dear Looking,

If you know where to look, there's quite a bit of financial assistance out there that can help working baby boomers and retirees go back to school. Here are some steps to take that can help you find it.

Fill out the FAFSA form: A good place to start is by filling out the Free Application for Federal Financial Aid (FAFSA). This will help you learn about grants, federal student loans (which are a better option than private student loans), and even work-study jobs. But, be aware that for most types of federal financial aid you will need to be enrolled at least half time in a degree or academic program to be eligible. To learn more or to fill out an application online, visit fafsa.gov. Or call 800-433-3243 and request a paper FAFSA.

Search for scholarships: While most scholarships are aimed at traditional undergraduates, there are a number of national and local scholarships offered specifically to older, non-traditional students. To find them try fastweb.com and scholarships.com. Both sites will prompt you to enter your birth date to find ones that are age appropriate.

Contact financial aid office: Call the financial aid office at the college or university that you plan to LLIs offer a wide array of courses in such areas as attend to see if they offer any other financial aid options you may be eligible for. Also, find out if they offer any special tuition wavers or discounts for students over age 50. Many community colleges and some four-year colleges offer discounted tuition rates, and many allow older students to audit courses for free.

Seek a tax break: Uncle Sam may also be able to help you with a tax credit, like the annual $2,500 American Opportunity Tax Credit, or the Lifetime org. Jim Miller is a contributor to the NBC Today Learning Tax Credit, which is worth up to $2,000 per year. Or, if you're not eligible for the tax credits, the government also provides tuition and fees deductions for students that can cover up to $4,000 in expenses.

To learn more, visit the IRS's Tax Benefits for Education Information Center at irs.gov - type in "tax benefits for education" in the search bar to find it. Or call 800-829-3676 and request a copy of IRS Publication 970: Tax Benefits for Education (irs.gov/pub/irs-pdf/p970.pdf).

Open a 529 account: If you don't plan to go back to school right away, you should consider opening up a 529 college-savings plan for yourself (see savingforcollege.com). Available in every state, 529's allow you to save money for college tax-free. And in many states you can even deduct part or all of your contribution on your state tax return.

Sign up for a free or low cost MOOC: That's the acronym for the popular "Massively Open Online Courses," which offers thousands of certificate and no-certificate courses by the best universities around the world. MOOCs offer a free or cheap way to learn from their instructors anytime, anywhere. See mooc-list.com to search for courses.

Consider lifelong learning: If you're interested in taking classes just for fun, consider Lifelong Learning Institutes (LLIs). These are noncredit educational programs designed for retirees that involve no tests or grades, just learning for the pure Usually affiliated with colleges and universities, literature, history, religion, philosophy, science, art and architecture, finance, computers and more.

To find an LLI, call your closest college or search the websites of the two organizations that support and facilitate them - Osher (osher.net) and Road Scholar (roadscholar.org/ein/intro.asp). Together they support around 500 LLI programs nationwide. Send your senior questions to: Savvy Senior, P.O. Box 5443, Norman, OK 73070, or visit SavvySenior.

KATIE Tse.....This and That BATES MOTEL, AND OTHER FUN DESTINATIONS

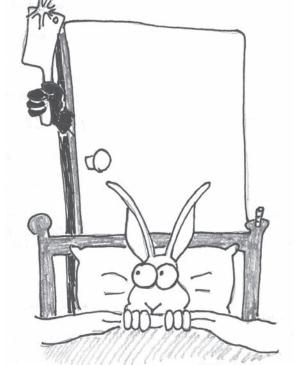

Ah, summer, the most wonderful time of the year! And summer just wouldn't be summer without a family vacation! This year our vacations were fun and memorable without being scary, like the time my Mom, Grandma, and I went to Michigan about 20 years ago. Unbelievable as it may sound, parts of Michigan are very nice (or at least they were 20 years ago).

We were there for two or three weeks. The time not spent going to various touristy places was filled with family visits and get-togethers. At one point, too many guests had used up all the available beds at my aunt's farm house where we were staying. This meant that Mom and I had to find a motel until the crowd cleared out and we could get our beds back. So Mom and I left Gran at the farm house and looked for lodging for the night. Already you can tell this is going to be bad.

Based on the advice from a relative, Mom and I decided to spend the night at the "Airport Motel" in Sebewaing. Keep in mind that this was before the days of cell phones, GPS navigation, and other helpful devices that make life more livable. All we had was the address, a map book, and the smiling endorsement from our relatives as we drove out into rural Sebewaing.

At the time, Sebewaing was mostly cornfields with a double lane highway running through it with deep ditches on both sides. Needless to say, it gets darker than the inside of a cow at night! Practically all we could see were the yellow lines on the road until late at night we finally came to our destination -- the Airport Motel. By "motel," I mean six rooms separated by an office in the middle. There were maybe one or two other cars in the lot, and the man at the desk was creepy. This being 20 years ago, I don't remember what specifically was creepy about him, but there must have been something for me to remember 20 years later that he was creepy.

We got our room and tried to forget the creepiness of the whole situation, but it was difficult. The faucet and shower ran muddy reddish sulfuric-smelling water whenever you first turned it on (this isn't that uncommon in Michigan, but it still didn't add anything to the ambiance). The knobs on the TV were missing and the beds were different sizes. It wasn't as if one bed was a king and the other was a queen, they were totally different designs, as if they had been found at a yard sale earlier that day. But what was most disturbing was a door behind one of the beds. I can forgo TV and a shower, but having Norman Bates come in and murder us during the night in the middle of Sebewaing was

Luckily, Mom and I have no shame when it comes to things like this, and were perfectly fine with returning our key to the surprised, but still creepy, manager. The long drive back through the cornfields was still as dark and scary as it was the first time, but at least we knew where we were going -- and it wasn't the Airport Motel! Thank goodness for Best Western!

*Preserve Sierra Madre from overdevelopment! This last Thursday I had the opportunity to attend a rally to preserve the open space at Mater Dolorosa. Many thanks to the tireless work of the Steering Committee. Also, be sure to come to the Town Council meeting this coming Tuesday, which will involve the selection of another member for the Planning Commission.

FAMILY MATTERS By Marc Garlett

IF YOU HAVE A TRUST, DON'T SETTLE FOR A FALSE SENSE OF SECURITY - PART II

Last week I talked about how boilerplate documents often cause trusts to fail. This week I'm going to talk about funding. Funding is the fancy legalese way of saying, "transferring assets into the trust" and it is just as important as having a solid, customized set of documents. You can have the best set of documents in the world, but if the funding isn't done correctly you've just wasted a bunch of paper (not to mention your time, energy, and money).

Improper, incomplete, or nonexistent funding causes trusts to fail more often than you can probably imagine. In fact, it happens all the time. Just last week I got a call from a widow whose husband just passed away a few weeks before. The couple had set up a trust but only after the husband died did the wife realize their house was pulled out of the trust (defunded) for a mortgage refi, but never put back (funded) into the trust. Now she is left facing probate, capital gains taxes, and a host of other problems that could have and should have - been avoided.

Unfortunately online legal document services (and even most lawyers) don't include funding as part of their service to clients. This means lots of people who've paid for a set of legal documents think their estate plan is all in order. But without properly funding the plan, it's not worth the paper it's written on. That leaves these unfortunate folks (and their families) with a false sense of security which catches up to them when the trustor dies and the plan fails.

So how can you avoid a false sense of security with the funding of your estate plan? First of all, talk to your preparer about funding before committing to doing your planning with them. Ask questions: How do they support clients to ensure plans are fully and properly funded? Do they charge extra to answer funding questions when they come up (as they surely will)? Do they offer the option of fully funding your plan for you? If not, will they at least prepare and file your deed transfer documents so your house - your most valuable asset – is properly funded into your plan?

Avoid document preparation services altogether as they will offer very limited funding support if any at all. And if the attorney or firm you're thinking of doing your planning with doesn't focus on funding just as much as they do on documents, do your family a favor and find someone who does. Also, beware the cheapest alternatives. Cheap estate planners are cutting costs (and corners) someplace, and that's often in the area of funding. Why? Because most consumers aren't aware of funding issues let alone educated enough about funding to demand that level of service.

Remember, getting your documents in place is only the beginning (even though that's where most legal services and law firms stop). Don't let them short change you. Demand that any plan they create be properly and fully funded. If they don't offer funding as part of their service package, do not engage them to do your planning. If you do, you will likely be left with a false sense of security and your family will be left holding the

If you're going to do your estate planning, do it right. Make sure your plan documents are tailor made for your own unique situation and goals. Then make sure all of your assets are funded into the plan. You deserve a real sense of security and so do your loved ones.

To your family's health, wealth, and happiness,

HEALTHY LIFESTYLES

THE JOY OF YOGA SANTOSHA

There comes a point in our personal and spiritual growth where we come to enjoy our hard work and challenges we have overcome. There's a feeling of contentment. In yoga, we call this contentment santosha. It is one of the Niyamas within Patanjali's eight limbs of yoga. We can relate santosha with the feeling of being comfortable in our skin. It's a great feeling! Fully experiencing santosha does mean we have to endure the challenges that came before. There are many uncomfortable moments before this, which require our unwavering, sustained focus. This feeling of being comfortable is different from staying in the "safe" zone and doing what we always do. There's freedom, fulfillment and illumination. No boredom, staleness or stuckness at all to this satisfied feeling. Pandit Rajmani Tigunait gave a great simple statement: "any action that leads to spiritual illumination is yoga." This is yoga on or off the mat. Actions rendered in love, compassion and service often bring great satisfactions.

This is not to say that we should stop seeking our growth with the same fierceness we would seek food to eat, but this principle does bring us back to the right to enjoy each step of the process. The fruits are in our own journey.

Enjo this week and relish the great life you have!

improvement in their weight, energy or their ability to sleep. I see these three things as symptoms or a message that something is out of balance in their life. One cause that I often see with many of my clients is that they are eating too late at night or too close to bed time.

When we sleep, our bodies set out on a task to build, repair and clean up. We are like a fine automobile, we need tune-ups. But unlike a car, we though many people sleep at night, their bodies are sleep, repair itself, and not digest food!

When someone comes not able to do the maintenance it needs because it is too busy using resources to do other things, like usually have certain digesting food. Our last food intake should be no more than 70 minutes to 2 hours before we go to bed and our last full meal should be closer to 3 hours before bed.

WHY END NIGHT TIME EATING?

Both your mind and your body will benefit from this practice. Digestion brings about changes in blood sugar, cholesterol, and circulation which may disrupt blood flow to the brain. Studies show that people who eat late at night or close to bedtime have more issues with being overweight and on average gain 3 ½ pounds more a year than someone who does not eat at night.

I have this conversation with most of my new clients. Especially those who have issues with not sleeping well or their weight. I have yet to meet someone who does not want to age a little more slowly or add life to their years. Here is a way to do just that! If you are a night time eater, try to start training yourself not to graze to close to bedtime. need daily tune-ups. Sleep is a necessity of life. INTERNET INVESTOR YURI MILNER COMMITS $100 MILLION TO SEARCH FOR EXTRATERRESTRIAL INTELLIGENCE

The Breakthrough Prize Foundation and its founder, internet investor Yuri Milner, have committed $100 million to a major escalation in the search for extraterrestrial intelligence, or SETI. This is about five times the amount of money now spent worldwide on SETI. The foundation has contracted with UC Berkeley and other participating institutions for a project called Breakthrough Listen, the most comprehensive scientific SETI project yet.

The Breakthrough Prize Foundation has already contracted with two of the world's largest radio telescopes—the 100-meter Robert C. Byrd Green Bank Telescope in West Virginia and the 64-meter Parkes Telescope in New South Wales, Australia—to devote major telescope time to searching for signals from other civilizations.

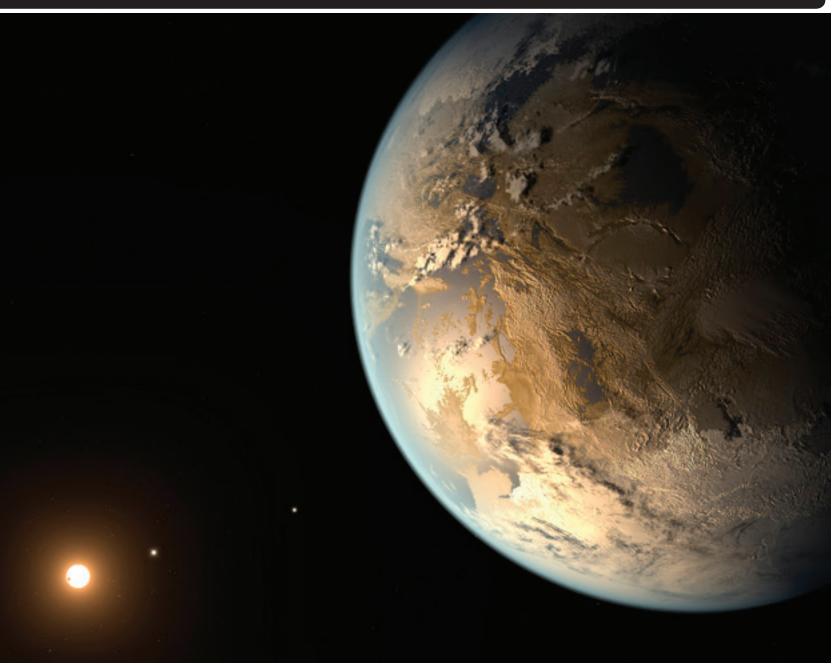

The initiative was announced by Milner July 20 in London at The Royal Society, where he was joined by physicist Stephen Hawking, Astronomer Royal Martin Rees, SETI research pioneer Frank Drake, UC Berkeley astronomy professor Geoff Marcy and postdoctoral fellow Andrew Siemion, and foundation chairman Pete Worden.

For the Breakthrough Listen program, UC Berkeley will build high-speed digital electronics and high-bandwidth signal processing instruments to gather and analyze the radio and optical data collected by the telescopes, and will train the next generation of SETI scientists, said Dan Werthimer, one of the leaders of the effort.

OPTICAL LASER SEARCH. Could other civilizations be using optical laser beams instead of radio for communicating? To answer that question, a significant part of the Breakthrough Prize Initiative will be the use of the Automated Planet Finder (APF) Telescope at Lick Observatory above San Jose, California, to undertake a new deep and broad search for optical laser transmissions from nearby civilizations.

The APF is the newest telescope at Lick Observatory. It consists of a 2.4-meter automated telescope and enclosure, and the high-resolution Levy spectrograph. It operates robotically on every clear night of the year; its main emphasis to date has been on discovering and characterizing extrasolar

With this new Breakthrough Prize Initiative, the APF telescope and its Levy spectrometer will search 1,000 nearby stars and 100 nearby galaxies for visible-light laser emission from technological sources. Lasers may be used by other civilizations for communication between their home planet and satellites, interplanetary spacecraft, or colonies on other worlds.

Such laser emissions will be distinguished from the emission from astronomical objects by the extreme single-wavelength nature of laser emission, and by the unresolved point source (a dot in the sky) from which the emission originates. It may even be that the Milky Way contains a galactic internet of laser emission. If so, the APF may be able to eavesdrop on their transmissions.

1,000,000 closest stars to Earth. It will scan the center of our galaxy and the galactic plane. Beyond the Milky Way galaxy, telescopes will listen for messages from the 100 closest galaxies.

THE TALE OF ROADKILL BILL

By Christopher Nyerges

www.Schoolof Self-Reliance.com.]

I knew a homeless guy who called himself Roadkill Bill. He was also known as Wild Bill, but he told me to just call him Roadkill. I never knew his real name until a few decades late, after he died.

Along the way, I picked up fragmentary details about his past. He was from the San Gabriel Valley, where he attended local school. He was in the Army, from which he was discharged for some reason. He had a family with whom he could have lived, but he

In the mid-1980s, I would encounter him along the trail in the local mountains. He always had good gear and good clothes, and the word was that he lived in that canyon, camping here and there as he chose. When we happened to converse, if you could call it a conversation, I was never sure what we were talking about. His responses were always occurred, I would quickly walk away from him in another direction.

When he was in an area, there were specific rangers told me that the carvings were Roadkill's, that he was drawing the faces of the aliens who were invading earth, which helped to seal his reputation as a "kook."

Occasionally, after he'd be in an area, someone would call the police or sheriff deputies to find Roadkill, because "a violent man" had been reported. To the best of my knowledge, he was never violent with anyone, though his rantings were aggressive and animated.

He's usually be arrested as a 51-50, and released

Years went by and I never saw or heard from him, and then I would occasionally notice him over in one of the parks in the Arroyo Seco. He lived there for the last 10 years or so of his life.

This time, he no longer had good gear and good clothes. He clearly looked homeless, disheveled, and was widely regarded as "crazy."

He would see me occasionally when I was at the park teaching or class. We would exchange a few friendly words, and he would keep a good distance from the class. He would stand there at about 40 feet away and begin to howl, and laugh wildly. One woman said to me, "Can you get rid on? of him?" I told her just to carry on with our class work, and to ignore him, that he was harmless.

He must have a hard life living by begging, Roadkill was actually right.

And a lot of people saw him and Anywhere," "Guide to interacted with him over the years, because over interacted with him over the years, because over Wild Foods and Useful a hundred people showed up for a makeshift Plants," and other books. He can be reached at memorial that was held for him in the park.

I remember the last time I talked with him. I was there with only two friends, and Roadkill sat at our table. We were sitting very close to his "home," though I did not know that at the time. He shared a few books that he was reading, and he began to tell me about his major thesis, and belief. There were police who helped him out, so he didn't have a fear, or hatred, of police. But he said that when the aliens began to land on earth in the last few decades, they began by taking over the bodies of police and local politicians, and national politicians, and world politicians. He didn't name names, but he said some priests were taken over too.

By "taken over," he meant that the person we knew who occupied a particular body was no longer in charge of that body, and that it was actually the alien in charge, pretending to be that former person. It was very much like the theme of the movie which very unresponsive, about other topics, and his voice was made in Sierra Madre, the original "Invasion of would grow agitated and aggressive. When that the Body Snatchers." However, Roadkill said he'd never even heard of that movie, but that he would try to see it.

Even though Roadkill's conversation was always carvings that would appear on the trees. One of the disjointed, with howling mixed in with normal conversation, he was clear on this point that the people we think we know are not those people anymore. The alien beings who intend to "take over" the world had taken over these key people. We laughed, of course. But Roadkill was very serious about it. When I asked him what we should do about it, he would shrug, and say "Don't get taken

> I have no way of knowing if this was just his wild fantasy, or some unique insight of the delirious mind which sees the world in a way that "ordinary" people do not. In the few years since Roadkill died, I have periodically thought about his worldview, and wondered why leaders on all levels make the decisions they do, often so contradictory to the common good. Why, for example, can our Sacramento leaders think it is OK to force parents to vaccinate all children, or be subject to arrest or expulsion from schools? Why is it OK for Washington politicians to tell us that we do not have the right to know if our food is made from GMOs, or even the very origin of the foods? Who are they protecting? Whose side is Hillary Clinton actually on? Who side is President Obama actually looked forward to my birthday. I could not wait until it came around and usually it was in the summer. I distinctly remember graduating from the age of nine to the double-digit number of 10, I thought I had arrived.

At 20, I thought I arrived and had become a full-fledged adult. Becoming an adult was important until I realized how expensive it was to be an adult. Had I known that, I would have reverted to my sixth birthday.

Now that I am well beyond that magical age of 20, I am not so excited about birthdays. In fact, I would like to forget my birthday completely and how old I really am. This year I was making some good progress in this area.

said, "Don't you have a birthday this month?" Without missing a beat, I said, "What do you think of Donald Trump running for president?"

It had the intended effect. For the next half hour, love him or hate him, my friend went on and on about Donald Trump running for president. I discovered that if you want to diverge attention away from one subject all you need to do is introduce something political. And it worked for me. I guess politics does have its next. place in our society.

The thing I have come to and I get no argument forget your birthday in any year that birthday does not count.

I do not want to know or care about how old I really am. After all, you are only as old as you feel and I must admit there have been times I felt 192. I guess everybody has been in that category.

Age does not make much difference, except when I can use it to my advantage. Like when I go to McDonald's and get a senior coffee. Then I bank on my age. If my age can save me a nickel, I will use it. Beside that, I have little time for how

I am hoping good old Uncle Sam has also My accomplice was the Gracious Mistress of forgotten my age. So, if I can keep my uncle from knowing how old I am he cannot talk me into some kind of early retirement. I plan to work myself to death.

I was doing quite well hiding my upcoming birthday when an incident happened. The mailman came and my wife went out to to pick up the mail. When she came back, she handed me a package and said, "Here's a package from your publisher."

I was so excited, as you can imagine. That is, until I opened the package. It was a birthday card wishing me a happy birthday along with a birthday present. Thanks, I thought to myself, for reminding me I am getting old. Now that cat is out of the bag and I am not sure what to do

Maybe I will celebrate my birthday with an Apple fritter representing each year of my age. This year I might be 100.

Do you remember Max Cleland?

He pushed veterans' issues as Georgia state senator and served as administrator of the VA. He was later elected to the U.S. Senate where he was considered a Democratic "centrist" - supporting many of the security and economic policies under George W. Bush, while remaining pro-environment

At the urging of Karl Rove, Rep. Saxby Chambliss (R-GA) took on and defeated Senator Cleland in his bid for re-election. In a TV campaign ad featuring pictures of Saddam Hussein and Osama bin Laden, Chambliss questioned Cleland's commitment to our nation's security.

Decades earlier, Chambliss received student draft deferments and a medical deferment for bad knees from football. Cleland received a Silver Star, Bronze Star and Purple Heart as an Army Captain in Vietnam. A month before he was to come home, Cleland lost both legs and his right forearm in a grenade explosion at Khe Sanh. He was 25.

That bin Laden / Hussein ad was condemned by a Senate colleague of Cleland's and fellow Vietnam vet, Sen. John McCain (R-AZ). For Rove and the rest, though, it meant another GOP pick-up in the Senate. As for the grenade explosion that took Cleland's limbs, Ann Coulter dismissed it as an "accident" that could have happened "at Fort Dix . . . Luckily for Cleland's political career and current pomposity about Bush, he happened to do it while in Vietnam.'

Tammy Duckworth earned her Purple Heart serving as an officer in the Army National Guard, deployed to Iraq as a helicopter pilot. She suffered the loss of both legs and a shattered right arm when the Black Hawk she was co-piloting was shot down. After serving in Veterans Affairs, in 2012 she took on Rep. Joe Walsh (R-IL) for his seat in Congress.

Walsh accused Duckworth of not being a "true hero" because she talked about her injuries too much. That statement didn't bother the Republican bankrollers. He raised $7 million ($6 million from outside funders) to Duckworth's $4.7 million, but went on to lose by 10 points.

Tammy Duckworth spoke at the 2008 Democratic Convention that nominated Barack Obama for president. Four years earlier, Democratic nominee John Kerry was introduced at the convention by Max Cleland.

That 2004 convention featured a number of Kerry's fellow Vietnam vets in addition to Cleland. Kerry

"Enough with the could have skipped the war as a student at Yale, but slanderous attacks. Sen. instead enlisted in the Naval Reserve and requested

> Kerry received a Purple Heart after receiving shrapnel wounds north of Cam Ranh Bay. He still has shrapnel in his leg from when his boat was hit by an RPG round on the Bo De River, for which he received a second Purple Heart.

According to the citation awarding Kerry's Silver Star, he "expertly directed" his boats' fire and coordinated the charge on enemy positions after his boats were ambushed on the Duong Keo River.

A third Purple Heart and a Bronze Star (with "V" for valor) came for actions taken when his boats hit a minefield on the Bai Hap River. Wounded himself, Kerry ordered his boat back, jumped in under enemy fire and rescued a Green Beret who'd been knocked overboard by one of the explosions.

Bush's having secured a stateside spot in the "Champagne Unit" of the Texas Air National Guard was still an issue in 2004, so Rove and the re-election team sought to discredit Kerry's own military service. Major donors bankrolled "Swift Boat Veterans for Truth", calling Kerry a liar and trivializing his medals. Its charges were later debunked by the official military record and by prior and subsequent statements of those veterans themselves. (Jerome Corsi, who wrote the book compiling the charges, went on to obsess about President Obama's birth certificate.)

Sen. John McCain supported Bush's reelection, but condemned the Swift Boat campaign; "I deplore this kind of politics. I think this ad is dishonest and dishonorable . . . None of these individuals served on the boat (Kerry) commanded. Many of his crew have testified to his courage under fire."

No matter - delegates at the Republican convention had fun wearing Band-Aids with purple hearts drawn on them to mock Kerry's service.

This history came to mind as the Republican National Committee released a statement responding to Trump; "There is no place in our party or our country for comments that disparage those who have served honorably." On CNN, Jake Tapper added, "Well, unless you're a Democrat".

Many in the GOP field now calling Trump's comments on McCain's service disqualifying have themselves received support from those who bankrolled the Swift Boat campaign. Their umbrage isn't about Trump's disparaging anyone's service, however - it's about his ability to suck up all the media attention for himself. It's about his refusal to rule out running as an independent should he not get the nomination, and about a recent poll showing that while Hillary Clinton leads in a match-up with Jeb Bush by 6 points, with Trump in the race that lead expands to 16 points.

It's about realizing that when Sen. McCain accused Trump of having "fired up the crazies", he was referring to the base the Republican Party has been creating and encouraging over the past seven years. Do you remember Sarah Palin?

She came to the defense of the man who'd picked her as his running mate, "the sacrifices made by all ethical service members are heroic" - but then added, "Donald Trump is a hero in another area." Sometimes the crazies just won't go away.

MICHAEL Reagan Making Sense

NO OUTRAGE FROM ENVIRONMENTALISTS ABOUT POT?

File this in the large and growing 'Government Unintended Consequences' folder.

It seems that when the government tries to make good capitalists out of outlaws, many of the outlaw business practices stay the same.

When repeal of the 18th Amendment legalized alcohol in the United States, after 13 years of poorly enforced teetotaling, the Mafia and the Outfit got out of the booze business and left it to the major distillers that had been on the sidelines waiting for sanity to return to a thirsty nation.

That didn't happen in California when the state legalized the sale and production of marijuana, because there were no major agribusiness firms that had ever been part of the tokin' culture. Instead these pot outlaws that had been illegal for years were now legal, but with that old outlaw mentality.

In fact, it appears the growers don't appear to be very mellow at all.

According to an editorial in the Fresno Bee, "Acres of ancient trees are disappearing and illegal marijuana farms are popping up in their place. Streams and rivers are being sucked dry, diverted sometimes miles away through plastic pipes into tanks. Several species of fish, along with a rare breed of wild rodent, are on the verge of extinction."

Evidently this is because when you are an outlaw, it's cheaper to despoil parkland and steal water than it is to buy your own land and your own

The Bee puts part of the blame on consumers: "Apathetic consumers seem unaffected by the environmental damage that weed causes. We buy fair-trade coffee and free-range chickens. Where's the outrage about the environmental impact of marijuana?"

But this is confusing. I always thought it was the marijuana consumers who were "free—range" instead of the products.

Naturally the Bee is calling for more "regulation" of growers, but since when is squatting on state or federal parkland legal? To say nothing of diverting water and endangering species.

Can't the same environmental laws that crush homeowners who want to build an addition, farmers who want to spray for pests, developers that want to build on their land or manufacturers that find a dead bird on the property be used to stop lawless former maryjane outlaws?

Wouldn't it make sense to enforce the law already on the books and see if that solves the problem?

Uprooting illegal marijuana fields in parks, confiscating the harvest, seizing bank assets and impounding growing equipment now would do more to restore order now than more "regulation" in the future.

The EPA is filled with environmental law ninjas that honed their skills on unsuspecting, law—abiding citizens. Why not turn them loose on the gangster growers?
