HUNDREDS TURN OUT TO CELEBRATE THE LIFE OF SMVFD CAPT. CHRIS MORRISON

(Below are excerpts from Bill Coburn's coverage of the event. For the full story and video, go to: www.sierramadrenews.net.)

The flag at the Sierra Madre Fire Station was at half mast Saturday as hundreds of Sierra Madreans, turned out to Memorial Park to join the Sierra Madre Fire Department in celebrating the life of retired SMFD Captain Chris Morrison, a volunteer firefighter for more than 20 years. Chris passed away Aug. 15th following an extended battle with cancer. His love of his home state of Ohio, where he lived from age 8 through 13, was reflected in the crowd, many of whom wore Cleveland Browns or Indians jerseys and colors in his honor.

Sierra Madre-Pasadena-Altadena-

REMEMBRANCE MARY EDNA YULE

October 25, 1920 – August 12, 2015

Mary Yule, a 78 year resident of Sierra Madre, passed away August 12th from complications due to a stroke. Mary was born in Akron, Ohio to Julia and Rudolph Davis (Davidovich). The oldest daughter, she had five sisters and four brothers. She was attending high school in Ohio until 1936 when her mother moved with Mary, two brothers and her five sisters west to California, all traveling in a 1931 Buick sedan, pulling their belongings in a small trailer. Along the way they had to sell the trailer to get money to continue the trip. After relying on the kindness of strangers and sleeping beside the road, they arrived in Pasadena with 35 cents to their names. Mary and her oldest siblings found work within days of arriving in California. The family moved to Sierra Madre in 1937.

Mary began her career with California Water and Telephone in 1941 as an operator in the office at Highland and Baldwin Avenues and remained with the telephone company for 31 years, retiring in 1972. In 1947 she married John J. Yule of Sierra Madre and they remained together for 52 years until his passing in 1999.

A devout Christian, she was a member of the Church of the Nazarene, and before being slowed by strokes, the Congregational Churc $\bar{\rm h}$ of Sierra Madre.

Mary loved to walk and could be seen all about town power walking long before the term became popular. Always thinking of others, ready to help anyone in need, she was known by many in town for her Poppy Seed and Rum

She is survived by sons John and Dennis of Sierra Madre, daughter Valerie Chasin of Malibu, her brother James Davis of Granite Bay and sisters Katherine Jenkins of Sierra Madre and Jean Lewis of Monrovia, three grandchildren and two great-grandchildren and many nieces and nephews. Walking Sierra Madre...The Social Side

by Deanne Davis

"The biggest difference between summer and winter machine is staying and if you haven't used yours in a colds is how we respond to them. In the winter, we're while, dust it off and bake a loaf. So easy...just stick naturally more accepting of staying under the covers the ingredients in there in the correct order and push and eating chicken soup. That's easier said than done the button. Smells divine and three hours later, you in the summer months when Little League games, pool parties and backyard barbeques are in full

Not to mention weddings and other good things. What does one do when one is laid low with a summer cold? Same old stuff, drink plenty of fluids (that probably doesn't mean a really nice Chardonnay), wash your hands a lot, don't shake hands if you can help it and use a hand sanitizer if you do. Eat lightly - that's easy, nothing tastes good anyway. Get lots of rest. Fat chance of that! Have you ever noticed that whenever you come down with a cold your entire calendar is stuffed with stuff you can't get out of? Next is how to treat your rotten summer cold: I highly recommend complaining a lot about how crummy you feel. DayQuill will get you through all the stuff vou have to do and NyQuill helps you sleep. A day spent in bed with a marathon of Devious Maids or The Walking Dead helps, too, as you drink gallons of water. Yes, friends and neighbors, I haven't been doing much walking Sierra Madre as the common summer cold has me in its clutches. But I'm sure I'll quit coughing and sneezing soon.

Some friends of ours are currently on Bear Watch, reporting their progress on FaceBook: "Dave is keeping guard in darkened living room, will whistle when the bear starts up the driveway. From my post in the darkened sun room, I will wait till she ("she"?) gets close to the garage then press the panic button on the car remote. It could work." A further report states, "We gave up after 40 minutes...no bear. Will try again tonight. FYI, Dave was going to whistle the theme from the Andy Griffith Show." Nothing further. However, my Mt. Wilson Sherpa buddy and Milk Bone provider to the Trail pooches, John, did indeed encounter a bear last week as he was returning from First Water. Trail runner, Vern, flying down the trail, came up by John, just as a bear poked his head up out of the bushes on the downside of the trail. Vern clapped his hands together and yelled, "Scat!" The bear turned around and went back down the hillside. John took that opportunity to race down the trail with a burst of speed he didn't know he still possessed! Now that's a bear sighting! John was somewhat chagrined that he hadn't even brought his brand new Bear Whistle with him.

We've been trying to get rid of a few things around here. Like everybody else, we've accumulated more stuff than we really need. The thing I was planning to let go of first was the Bread Machine which has been sitting, unused, on my kitchen counter for several years. I mentioned passing mine along in "The Joys of Having Less" in my blog (HYPERLINK "http:// www.authordeanne.com" www.authordeanne.com) and got a whole bunch of responses from folks saying they use theirs constantly and can't imagine life without it so I gave it another try. First was cinnamon raisin bread, except I forgot to pay attention and put in raisins. We devoured it! Then Crunchy Wheat and Honey Bread because a friend in South Carolina sent us a jar of Tupelo Honey. Incredible! So, the bread have something beyond delicious.

Crunchy Wheat and Honey Bread

The wedding I mention up at the top was one of the best ones we've ever attended. The young man who will be 21 in October, married his sweetheart and long time love. They met when they were both in drug rehab at the age of 15. They successfully completed the struggle to overcome drug and alcohol addiction and have both been sober for five years. Their rehab counselor, who is also a minister, officiated at their wedding. These two have been each other's rock, comfort, supporter, encourager, and best friend ever since. She is going to college to become a Marriage-Child-Family counselor and he has a supervisory position with her Dad's alarm installation company. This marriage was made in heaven for sure. "Today I'm marrying my best friend," is what they both said in their vows. "When the world says Give Up, Hope whispers...Try it one more time."

Possible Road Rage Leads to Gunfire

Police this week are still looking for a motive and a gunman who opened fire on an Orange County rap artist driving on the 210 freeway in Pasadena early Tuesday morning. A bullet grazed the artist neck but he was not seriously hurt. His girlfriend was also in the car.

Pasadena Lt. Tracey Ibarra said they did the right thing, 'They didn't try and follow the vehicle, they immediately exited the freeway, and they got to a point of safety and called 911."

According to police, Marco Archer, also known as rapper Phora was driving home to Corona with his girlfriend when around 12:30 a.m. another car pulled beside them and fired three shots at Archer's car, one striking him in the neck.

"I didn't know if it was a gun, if someone was throwing rocks... I looked over to my left and the windshield was cracked, he said. "I believe they were trying to kill me."

Archer told police he did not know why someone would do

"We are looking for a car similar to a 2009 or 2010 Infiniti G35, or BMW, silver in color possibly a four door," Ibarra said.

There were no descriptions of the suspects she added.

Health Department to Probe Bacterial Infections

'Infections involving three patients are not contagious to the general public and there is no risk of a disease outbreak."

The Pasadena Public Health Department (PPHD) announced last week they are investigating several incidents that occurred in July involving Huntington Hospital patients who contracted a bacterial infection possibly related, but not yet confirmed, to endoscopic procedures performed at the hospital.

The infections involving three officials said. patients are not contagious to the general public and there is no risk of a disease outbreak similar to a flu virus or measles, according to Pasadena Public Health Officer Dr. Ying-Ying Goh. The PPHD has no specific patient information available to release and has not confirmed the cause or source of the infection. Huntington Hospital officials are cooperating fully in the investigation.

PPHD is being assisted by experts from the Los Angeles County Public Health Department. The PPHD investigation is at a very preliminary stage and here is no timeline for the investigation

AROUND SAN GABRIEL VALLEY

BEHOLDER AND GARY STEVENS MAKE HISTORY: SCORE ONE FOR THE LADIES! By Joan Schmidt

Sierra Madre——Arcadia——Pasadena—

On Saturday morning, August 22, about 7:45, I said to my husband, "How about going down to Del Mar to see Gary and "Beholder" make history? I have booked a room in Oceanside!" Of course my dear husband was game and by 9:25 we were on the road. The traffic was awful-which is normal for a Saturday AM in Californiaeveryone is headed south to a beach!

We arrived a little after noon and purchased clubhouse tickets, but no seats were available. That was okay; we sat on a bench and ate our lunch. Then we walked over to the tunnel area and found another bench. This was the second visit to Del Mar. Two years ago, we went, but were in seats one level up. We prefer being on the clubhouse level where you can take great photos, wish the guys luck, and run into old friends.

The number one fan is a sweet "senior" named Pat and ALL the guys love her because she goes to every race at Del Mar, Los Alamitos and Santa Anita. I believe she lives in San Diego and takes public transportation to get to the area. But while in town, her friend Christine drives her all around. Pat was all "dolled up" in a white dress and great hat!

The day we went, Raffy (Bejarano) was leading in wins and probably will put another title under his belt. He is so friendly to all of his fans-young and old. Flavien Pratt has a lot of wins too and after a race.

Open Sunday 2-4pm

3215 ELDA STREET | DUARTE 91010

Pat went over to congratulate him after his win on "Twentytwentyvision", and he hugged her and then posed for a picture. We met one of the "New kids on the block", Apprentice Bruno Panicucci. (No, he's not Italian; but is French like Flavian.)

There was so much excitement for all the races. Joe Talamo won on "Appealing Tale", which insures entry in the Breeders Cup Dirt Mile Division. On hand to cheer Joe was his beautiful fiancée Elizabeth Ellis, Ron's Daughter, and her mom, Amy and other family members. Ron has been doing commentaries on TVG and of course is a trainer.

Great Jockey Joel Rosario was in town for the $1 million TVG Pacific Classic. His mount was Red Vine and he came in 3rd. Flavien's "Catch a Flight" placed, and of course "Beholder" ridden by Gary Stevens won! What a race! It was sheer pandemonium! When the race began, she was in 3rd, but then when Gary let her go, she did! Her win was something to Behold! (Pardon the pun.)

The "Meet" at Del Mar ends on Labor Day. If you don't want to go that far, the races will resume at Los Alamitos and then back to the Great Race Place, Santa Anita. Hope to see you there!

Sierra Madre--Pasadena---Arcadia-

PROPOSITION 218 NOTICES HAVE BEEN MAILED!

Last week, the City of Monrovia mailed out two sets of notices for the proposed rate adjustments for our water service charge as well as our sewer service charge. It is important to note that some customers were sent multiple notices depending on the number of water meter accounts established under their name, and depending on the number of sewer connections established for each individual customer. For those individuals that have multiple water and / or sewer accounts, a separate individual notice was sent for each account on file in order to ensure that every customer has the appropriate number of ballots that can be filled out and returned to the City Clerk's Office if they wish to protest the proposed rate adjustments.

Each water service notice and sewer service notice includes details related to the Proposition 218 Public Hearing, the reasons for the rate adjustments, and information regarding how customers can participate in the process. In addition, the notices outline that the overall proposed sewer and water rates include a provision that provides for a senior rate discount and economic hardship rate discount.

If you should have any questions regarding this matter, please feel free to contact our Public Services Department at (626) 932-5575. In addition, information regarding the current Proposition 218 Hearing process can be found on the City's website at www.

MONROVIANS CONTINUING TO CONSERVE WATER DURING THE MONTH OF JULY 2015, REDUCING OVERALL USAGE BY 23.5%!

During this extended drought that we are all dealing with here in California, Monrovians have stepped up to the plate to do their part to conserve water. As you may recall, based on the water conservation goals that have been established by the State, the City is comparing our current monthly water usage rates with the same corresponding monthly period in 2013.

During the past several months, our community has continued to step-up to the challenge of using less water. In May 2015, Monrovians utilized 20.25% less water than when compared with May 2013. That trend continued in June 2015, when Monrovians utilized 34.5% less water when compared against June 2013.

We just recently were able to compile our July 2015 water usage numbers, and again, Monrovians have been doing their part. In total, for the month of July 2015, our community used 23.5% less water than when compared with July 2013!

For tips on how to use water wisely and upcoming water conservation events, please visit the City's website at:

APARTMENT FIRE AT 550 WEST FOOTHILL BOULEVARD EXTINGUISHED THIS LAST WEEK, WITH THREE DOGS BEING RESCUED BY MONROVIA FIRE DEPARTMENT PERSONNEL

On Thursday, August 20, 2015, fire department personnel from Monrovia, Arcadia, and Pasadena responded to a reported structure fire at 550 West Foothill Boulevard. Battalion 10 (Chief Dover from Monrovia Fire) reported smoke showing from two blocks out, and initial fire attack units found a two story four-unit apartment complex with heavy smoke and fire coming from the first floor of Unit B.

The fire was contained to the front bedroom where it started, but fire and smoke damage was found throughout the first floor and smoke damage throughout the second floor of unit B, as well as minor smoke damage in unit C. No occupants were home, but three dogs were rescued by firefighters, two of which were unresponsive and not breathing. Fire and police personnel, as well as the department nurse educator began to resuscitate the animals with special airway devices for pets, and within 15 minutes all animals were awake, alert, and walking around on scene... a true save by our personnel, as can be seen in the attached pictures below. In addition to our Monrovia Fire Personnel, special thanks go to Sergeant Patty Newton & Sergeant Glen Coleman, as well as our Nurse Educator Christine Norton, for assisting with resuscitation efforts that led to the reunion of the pets and their owners. To ensure the dogs were medically cleared, Pasadena Humane Society was called to the scene for follow-up care.

The cause of the fire is under investigation and the City's Building Division has been called out to assess the damage to the unit, which most likely will be red-tagged. Edison was also on scene to restore power to the units, which was disconnected for safety purposes during the fire fight, while the Red Cross was called to assist with housing of the two apartment residents. And finally, the two occupants were provided a Monrovia Fire Department Supplying Aid to Victims of Emergencies (SAVE) $100 gift card to help with initial costs of post-fire recovery.

ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE WITH LEADERSHIP, SERVICE, ETHICS, AND VALUES

THE REEL DEAL: by Ben Show HITMAN AGENT 47 REVIEW

Most movies based off video games that were made in the past generally left a bad taste in people's mouths (the Mario Bros. movie is one of the biggest examples of this). However, in upcoming years, there will be more video game-based movies coming out, such as Assassin's Creed and Warcraft. With filmmakers deciding to revisit this franchise, which was previously made into an unsuccessful film, can the people behind this film do the franchise justice while actually making a good movie?

Katie (Hannah Ware) is searching for a man who she does not know, yet feels is extremely important to who she is. While searching, she is discovered by the mysterious John Smith (Zachary Quinto) and the even more mysterious, and dangerous, Agent 47 (Rupert Friend), who are both after the secrets in Katia's head. Their motives are unknown to Katia, and she must find out which side she should fight for before the world is conquered by an army of super-powered Agents.

'Agent 47' works as a film. The story is coherent enough that it flows from scene to scene without the viewer getting confused and the acting is good enough that what happens on screen is believable and enjoyable to watch. The standout aspect of the movie, however, is the cinematography, which spectacularly captures the beautiful fight choreography and terrific landscapes depicted throughout the film. 'Agent 47' is a good end-of-summer blockbuster, and gives video game franchises being turned into movies hope for the future.

According to statistics reported by Los Angeles Animal Services during the short 12 month period from April 2011 to March 2012, a total of 57,640 cats and dogs were taken in at LA animal shelters alone, 22,569 of which were euthanized, including puppies and kittens. This does not include all of LA County, this is just in the city of

In a highly developed, educated, sophisticated society with so many advantages, how on earth can could this be? I don't understand why people are still breeding and/or failing to neuter or spay their pets, with these statistics in mind. As radical should be a law against breeding altogether, until we can get this thing under control. The fact is there are far too many homeless animals with far too few good homes to place them in. When will the madness end? Unless we make some major changes in our animal protection legislation, thousands more innocent, defenseless pets will perish. We should be ashamed for allowing this

Fortunately, not everyone is turning their back on this important issue, in fact many are uniting to help provide more humane conditions and a second chance for life. United Hope for Animals (UHA) is a 501c3 non-profit organization committed to community-based solutions to animal welfare issues. Through three programs, they take a holistic approach to ending and preventing suffering. Two of their programs are in Mexico. Through the 'Perrera Program', UHA provides drugs to Baja pounds (perreras), to humanely end the suffering of pets who have no other options.

pounds in Baja, dogs were euthanized through electrocution. In partnership with their sister organization, Animal Advocates of the United States, they have succeeded in reaching all of the perreras in Baja, which are now electrocution free! UHA also sponsors a monthly spay/neuter clinic in Ensenada and surrounding communities to prevent suffering due to pet overpopulation. At the last spay/neuter clinic, 92 animals were altered and won't be contributing to the overpopulation

'Shelter Support Program' wherein they work pet adoptions. Baldwin Park is an LA County different cities. On any given day, they house to you! up to 350+ dogs and 250+ cats. They intake as many as 50-70 pets a day, and even more during the summer months. UHA works very hard in partnership with the staff at the Baldwin Park shelter, to reduce the euthanasia rate. They do this in a few ways.

UNITED HOPE FOR ANIMALS

An Humane Approach to the Pet Overpopulation Problem

First, they hold "Glamour Shot Days" at the shelter every two weeks. Their dedicated volunteers go to the shelter, get to know about 80 pets, mostly dogs but some cats too, take studio quality photos and videos and write a bio on each one, after which the photos, videos and bios are compiled and networked to the rescue Los Angeles. These statistics are a few years old, so community and adopting public. Next, UHA's I am sure the numbers have grown exponentially volunteer adoption coordinators interface with potential adopters, to help identify and match them with the pet that would best fit their home and lifestyle. They also assist the new pet owners in navigating through the adoption process, to help make it an easier, more positive experience.

UHA's goals with their Shelter Support as it may sound to some, I feel strongly that there Program are two-fold; First, to bring identity, dignity and hope to the lives that would otherwise pass anonymously through the city/county animal control system And second, to educate the public. Many people are not even aware of the magnitude of the pet overpopulation problem, and are surprised to learn about Baldwin Park, which is just one of several shelters in this city. They recently worked with a couple of classes from Cal State LA, and the students found the experience quite illuminating. Most of them, professed animal lovers, had never been to a shelter and had never heard of a microchip. Many even said that the experience with UHA helped change their view of animals.

In addition to advocating adoptions at the Baldwin Park shelter, UHA also holds a mobile adoption event once a month at the PetCo store in La Canada. Their volunteers also take on personal rescue projects such as fostering and placing dogs and cats in loving homes. The Shelter Support Program has recently been expanded to the Downey and Carson areas as well. The ultimate goal for UHA, with sufficient Before UHA established relationships with the funding, is to expand this excellent program into every city they possibly can.

If this article had ended after the first paragraph, it would be pretty depressing. But, thanks to the animal-loving, hard-working volunteers at United Hope for Animals, it ends in a happier tale of hope. UHA advocates approximately 160 shelter pets a month, with a 94% success rate, and as an avid animal lover myself, that makes me very happy! For more information about how you can volunteer or support United Hope for Animals through the a donation, please visit Here in Los Angeles, UHA sponsors the their website at: www.unitedhope4animals.org. It is through the generosity of donors such as with the Baldwin Park Animal Shelter to facilitate yourself that they are able to carry out their good work on behalf of the animals. Many thanks to shelter that manages animal control for several the beautiful people at UHA. My heart goes out

TABLE FOR TWO by Peter Dills thechefknows@yahoo.com

My new Radio Gig is taking me on a weekly basis to the OC, the Orange Curtin the 714, not that I'm complaining there are many great restaurants in that area, just this past Sunday Night I stopped at the Catch Restaurant right across from Angels Stadium and had a glass of Estancia Chardonnay, the bartender said it was her best value on the wine by the glass program. Though for a review a full bottle was in order, the price point is right on spot at $11 a bottle at my local Vons, I opened the ice cold bottle let it breathe for a good hour and poured it into a chilled glass. The breathing worked, I was very impressed with the straw color and the slight fruitiness of my first and last taste. I was surprised with the spicy overtone --that told me that this wine was best paired with a roasted chicken, grilled shrimp or even a fish dinner.

Estancia is located in Monterey County, seems more and better wines are coming from that region. The Estancia Chardonnay was an easy drinking Chardonnay that was equally easy on the wallet (I like that). While the wine is not quite perfect, I do thing that Estancia has brought us a really great value with this wine. So, if you are in Pasadena or the OC stock up on this wine if you can find it for less then $10 a bottle go for it !!! My new favorite chardonnay for the price.

Retail Around $14 on sale $11 $10 if you buy a six pack -wide distribution throughout So Cal

Each week I will give you my Dills Score. Starting with a base of 50 points, I added 8 points for color, 7 points for aroma or "nose", 7 points for taste, 9 points for finish, and 8 points for my overall impression, which includes my value rating. SEAN'S SHAMELESS REVIEWS: ATLAS GENIUS - 'INANIMATE OBJECTS'THE GIFT

By Sean Kayden

In 2013, Australian band Atlas Genius, featuring brothers Keith and Michael Jeffery, exploded onto the scene with the infectiously catchy, "Trojans." The hit song had percolated through the minds of many listeners of the course of the following year. Now the band is back with their next intoxicating single, "Molecules." Easily just as appealing, the indie-electronic summer jam, "Molecules" has major hooks giving Atlas Genius a run for having the hottest summer song of 2015. I don't think the band has strayed too far off their signature sound, but that's a good thing. Inanimate Objects is out on August 28th via Warner Bros. Records and serves as the suitable follow-up to their debut record, When It Was Now. After hearing the pure ecstasy "Molecules" has gracefully delivered, does Inanimate Objects match up to its hot single? You know, there's not a single song here that tries to refreshing as a whole album. Inanimate Objects differs greatly from Atlas Genius' introduction album. There's something a little richer, a little darker here. They aren't going full-blown gloomy by any means of the imagination, but these musicians are growing up. Atlas Genius is cultivating their artistry with more substance than style. The approach they are taking begins with "The Stone Mill," a stunning, transfixing track. Keith's smooth vocals are comforting over the soundscape that keeps building as the song progresses. Throw in some great guitar work half way through, you start to realize this isn't the Atlas Genius you once knew. Atlas Genius is stacked with solid tracks on this record as "Stockholm" rolls in with much vitality. Keith Jeffery pours everything he has in the delivery of his vocals while brother Michael intermittently rocks hard on the drums. The hard, driving rhythm differs from the first tracks of the album, but once again Atlas Genius are taking some risks on their sophomore release. "Refugees" is a mighty jam, especially when kicked into high gear. The downright addicting chorus is beautifully distributed by Kevin's attractive vocals. The track imitate "Molecules," and surprisingly, that's utterly is certainly multi-layered; it has a lot going on and quite a bit going for it. "A Perfect End," which ideally would have been the quintessential closer, really catches on about half way through. Atlas Genius simply as a convincing way to pull you in even when you're unsure if it's worth being pulled into it. In the end, you're happy they did.

Artist: Atlas Genius
Album: Inanimate Objects
Label: Warner Bros. Records

Release Date: August 28th, 2015

"Friends and Enemies" slows the album down in the best possible way. A careful approach is taken here. The vocals and lyrics take the forefront, the background music is subtle but noticeable. This soothing rendition takes the listener by surprise that the band traveled down this road. With eleven tracks on Inanimate Objects, "Friends and Enemies" is a welcoming to shift in direction. The detour stays on course with follow-up track, "Where Belong." It's another reflective tune, but adds a little downbeat synth work to give it an extra push. The City We Grow" brings the excitement back with a catchy beat, something that reminds me of The Airborne Toxic Event. There's this intrinsically elevating quality to it. As the song grows deeper, the listener feels more attached to it. "Levitate" closes out the record and it's the most stripped down song off the record. A stimulating change of pace as the band find themselves to be contemplating a lot more for this go around. You have to admire where their heads are at, where their heart has taken them. Inanimate Objects gives Atlas Genius another run at a banner year into 2016. The deeper rhythmic sound, diversity found within each track, and improved lyrics, gives Atlas Genius an edge over their peers within the genre. The sound of Atlas Genius you thought you knew before has ripened into something worth holding onto for longer than you could have ever anticipated.

On the Marquee: Notes from the Sierra MadrePlayhouse

THE BOTTOM LINE ... PART ONE

By Artistic Director, Christian Lebano

Always...Patsy Cline continues to sell-out. This show is doing business unlike any other in our history. And still...we haven't vet broken even on the show. The cost of presenting this show is very high - between the royalties for the show and the songs, the cost of the band, the performers and the crew and all the amortized costs of mounting the show (personnel, costumes, sets, programs, etc.) it will be a couple more weeks before we are in the clear. I am not complaining. couldn't be prouder of this production. And we knew what we were getting into when we decided to do it. Happily, it is bringing in so many new patrons who are telling me that they had no idea we existed, but that now that they do will be back! So many good things are coming out of it.

Arts organizations generally operate on a 60/40 unearned income/earned income (ticket sales) ratio. We have managed to survive with a muchgreater dependence on our box office. But as we've increased the per show expenses – by hiring more established artists and raising production values - our costs have gone up as well. We are working on developing strategies to raise the additional funds from our loyal supporters, but understandably not everyone is in the position to make donations.

There is one way that everyone can help – make us your Community Charity of choice through Ralphs and Amazon. This adds no cost to you but can net us several thousand dollars (depending on how many people sign up) a year. EVERYONE must sign up each September for the Ralphs contribution – your current choice expires on the last day of August. Unfortunately, you MUST wait until September first to re-enroll. Personally, with a 10-year old son, and knowing how high my grocery bills are, it takes a little of the sting out knowing that some money is coming back to the Playhouse. Easy to follow instructions can be found on our website or at ralphs.com – our code for Ralphs is #83942.

We are hoping to build foundational support through grants and underwriting. We have a Development Professional working with us now to outline strategies and a way-forward. We are incredibly grateful to all of the loyal patrons who have generously given us donations over the years – we wouldn't be poised to keep growing without you. For those of you who have considered donating or making us your charity for matching grants at work and have any questions or concerns – I would be happy to speak with any of you. I can always be reached at ArtisticDirector@SierraMadrePlayhouse. org.

Always...Patsy Cline is now closing on September 27 – and sales continue strong. If you think a show may be sold-out it is still worth calling Mary Baville in our box office and getting on the waiting list for the show you want – we sometimes get cancellations and Mary will call you and let you know. But book ahead – shows are selling out rapidly. Remember we give 20% discounts for groups of 10 or more who purchase their tickets ahead of their attendance date. Please call Mary at 626.355.4318 to arrange your purchase.

THE POPE AND MUSSOLINI: THE SECRET HISTORY OF PIUS XI AND THE RISE OF FASCISM IN EUROPE

by David I. Kertzer

From Pulitzer Prize winner David I. Kertzer comes the gripping story of Pope Pius XI's secret relations with Italian dictator Benito Mussolini. This groundbreaking work, based on seven years of research in the Vatican and Fascist archives, including reports from Mussolini's spies inside the highest levels of the Church, will forever change our understanding of the Vatican's role in the rise of Fascism in Europe. The Pope and Mussolini tells the story of two men who came to power in 1922, and together changed the course of twentiethcentury history. In most respects, they could not have been more different. One was scholarly and devout, the other thuggish and profane. Yet Pius XI and "Il Duce" had many things in common. They shared a distrust of democracy and a visceral hatred of Communism. Both were prone to sudden fits of temper and were fiercely protective of the prerogatives of their office. "We have many interests to protect," the Pope declared, soon after Mussolini seized control of the government in 1922.) Each relied on the other to consolidate his power and achieve his political goals.In a challenge to the conventional history of this period, in which a heroic Church does battle with the Fascist regime, Kertzer shows how Pius XI played a crucial role in making Mussolini's dictatorship possible and keeping him in power. In exchange for Vatican support, Mussolini restored many of the privileges the Church had lost and gave in to the pope's demands that the police enforce Catholic morality. Yet in the last years of his life—as the Italian dictator grew ever closer to Hitler—the pontiff's faith in this treacherous bargain started to waver. With his health failing, he began to lash out at the Duce and threatened to denounce Mussolini's anti-Semitic racial laws before it was too late. Horrified by the threat to the Church-Fascist alliance, the Vatican's inner circle, including the future Pope Pius XII, struggled to restrain the headstrong pope from destroying a partnership that had served both the Church and the dictator for many years. The Pope and Mussolini brims with memorable portraits of the men who helped enable the reign of Fascism in Italy: Father Pietro Tacchi Venturi, Pius's personal emissary to the dictator, a wily anti-Semite known as Mussolini's Rasputin; Victor Emmanuel III, the king of Italy, an object of widespread derision who lacked the stature—literally and figuratively—to stand up to the domineering Duce; and Cardinal Secretary of State Eugenio Pacelli, whose political skills and ambition made him Mussolini's most powerful ally inside the Vatican, and positioned him to succeed the pontiff as the controversial Pius XII, whose actions during World War II would be subject for debate for decades to come.

ARE YOU ENTITLED TO UNPAID TIME OFF WITHOUT RISKING YOUR JOB?

The Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA) may provide unpaid time off due to the serious health condition of an employee or an employee's immediate family member. Only certain employers, however, known as "covered employers," are required to comply with this law. Additionally, employee must be placed in his or her former job employees must meet certain requirements before or one that is substantially equivalent. they are entitled to the leave.

Employer Requirements

Only employers who are considered "covered" under federal law must comply. Public agencies are all covered, as are elementary and secondary schools. However, private employers are only covered by the FMLA if all of the following apply: Employed at least 50 employees In 20 or more workweeks

In the current or preceding calendar year

If your employer doesn't meet these requirements, you are not entitled to unpaid leave and if you take unapproved time off, your job could be at risk.

Employee Requirements

When FMLA leave is requested for an employee or an immediate family member, the qualifying health condition must be considered "serious." This means that the affected person either requires inpatient care or a continuing course of treatment. In addition, an employee must meet the following requirements:

Once these requirements are met, an employee may take up to 12 weeks of unpaid leave, as long as proper, timely documentation is provided. An employer may require an eligible employee to submit a certification from a health care provider to support the request for FMLA leave. The employer may also require additional medical opinions, at its own expense.

If the need for leave is foreseeable, the request for FMLA leave must be submitted 30 days in advance. If the need is not foreseeable, the request must be provided as soon as possible and practicable. An employer may require an employee to substitute paid leave to cover part or all of the 12-week period. FMLA leave may be taken all at once, intermittently, or on a reduced schedule. For example, one employee may need to take off eight weeks after the birth of a baby; another may need to take leave from time to time for migraine headaches or cancer treatments.

The employer must continue existing group health care coverage during the period of leave. The employer may also request recertification at reasonable intervals. At the end of the leave, the

THE JOY OF YOGA WHY HOLD?

As you've probably found, there are many different types of yoga classes. Some classes have a lot of poses, while others may have less. The pace at which the class flows can vary greatly. I've attended classes where it felt like I was tossed around in a windstorm, non-stop movement, with very few stopping points. It was hard to keep up. Alternately, I've experienced a lovely flow class that had incorporated longer holds into the poses. The effect produced by this was the exact opposite of a windstorm! It felt warm, solid, and energizing all at the same time.

There are a few reasons why we prefer to hold poses for a bit in class. First, we are able to find our alignment in the pose. Each supporting muscle can engage, we can line up our legs, hips, belly, arms, head and hands. Additionally, after we make our physical adjustments, we can settle into our breath and simply experience the pose. The mind will want to tell us to come out; we may have an itch, clothing adjustment or any myriad of other reasons. It's hard to Secondly, performing poses with longer holds creates stability for the mind. Through practicing one-pointed focus, we begin to train the mind. It's this focused concentration that builds strength, stability and stamina. We often joke that we're "building character" as we hold a pose. This is so true. We hold steady in midst of challenge. Additionally, our heightened awareness not only empowers us, but it assists us toning our energetic body as well. We become aware, balanced, and self-regulating.

Ultimately, we stay in the pose for the benefits. Our physical body benefits from the muscular engagement and cardiovascular workout. Our mind body and energetic bodies are simultaneously enlivened, toned and stabilized. Granted, there are poses that you don't want to hold indefinitely, but most of the standing poses and even cool down poses that release tension are best held. Start with 4 breaths, working on smooth and steady inhales and exhales, then work up to 6-8 breaths for more stamina. Advanced practitioners may take up to 12 breaths in a pose.

See you in class. Namaste and Love,

STUNNING NEW IMAGES FROM DWARF PLANET CERES

Striking 3-D detail highlights a towering mountain, the brightest spots and other features on dwarf planet Ceres in a new video from NASA's Dawn mission. The video is available at:

http://www.jpl.nasa.gov/video/details.php?id=1392

A prominent mountain with bright streaks on its steep slopes is especially fascinating to scientists. The peak's shape has been likened to a cone or a pyramid. It appears to be about 4 miles high, with respect to the surface around it, according to the latest estimates. This means the mountain has about the same elevation as Mount McKinley in Denali National Park, Alaska, the highest point in North America.

"This mountain is among the tallest features we've seen on Ceres to date," said Dawn science team member Paul Schenk, a geologist at the Lunar and Planetary Institute, Houston. "It's unusual that it's not associated with a crater. Why is it sitting in the middle of nowhere? We don't know yet, but we may find out with closer observations."

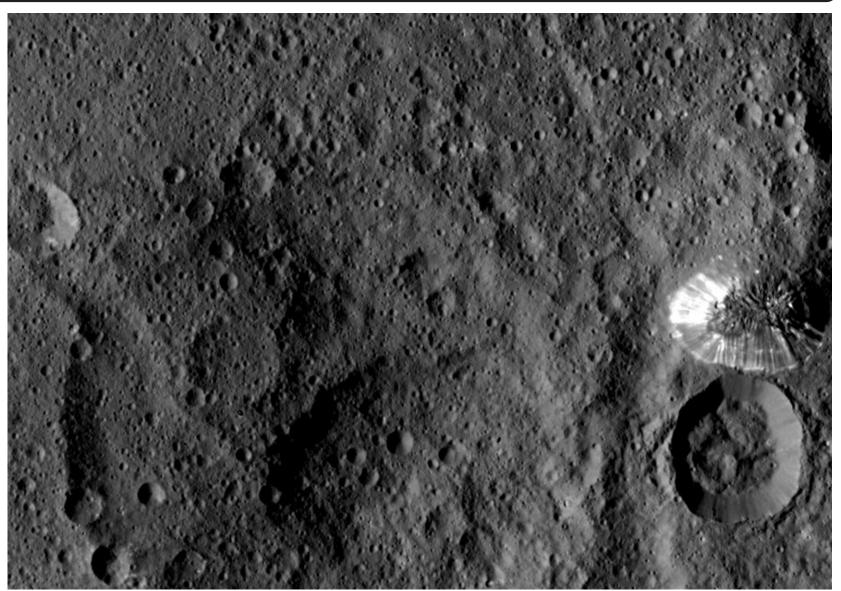

Also puzzling is the famous Occator (oh-KAHtor) crater, home to Ceres' brightest spots. A new animation simulates the experience of a close flyover of this area. The crater takes its name from the Roman agriculture deity of harrowing, a method of pulverizing and smoothing soil.

In examining the way Occator's bright spots reflect light at different wavelengths, the Dawn science team has not found evidence that is consistent with ice. The spots' albedo—a measure of the amount of light reflected—is also lower than predictions for concentrations of ice at the surface.

"The science team is continuing to evaluate the data and discuss theories about these bright spots at Occator," said Chris Russell, Dawn's principal investigator at the University of California, Los Angeles. "We are now comparing the spots with the reflective properties of salt, but we are still puzzled by their source. We look forward to new, higher-resolution data from the mission's next will map the entirety of Ceres six times. orbital phase."

Ceres, with a diameter of 584 miles, is the largest object in the main asteroid belt between Mars and

The spacecraft is using its framing camera to extensively map the surface, enabling 3-D modeling. Every image from this orbit has a resolution of 450 feet per pixel, and covers less than 1 percent of the surface of Ceres.

Engineers and scientists will also refine their measurements of Ceres' gravity field, which will help mission planners in designing Dawn's next orbit as well as the journey to get there. In late October, Dawn will begin spiraling toward this final orbit, which will be at an altitude of 230

CLUES TOWARDS NATURAL HEALTH

By Christopher Nyerges

Health. What is it, really? When most of the world speaks of the "health profession," they're not speaking of health at all. They're speaking about maladies, discomforts, and disease. They speaking about what the western doctors can do to relieve or eliminate the symptoms of our problems.

So it always bugs me that we've hypnotically switched "health" with "symptom relief" in our thinking.

It also bugs me that no where in all the "healthcare" debate about "Obamacare" being forced upon us is there any discussion whatsoever about what constitutes health! So what is health? How do we achieve it? What does it look like?

When I was about 17 I got a job at a local health food store. The owner made a point of telling me that he got into the "health field" because he'd nearly driven himself to death because of his desire to be an actor. He would recount for us his various diseases and symptoms, all of which he says he overcame by a change of diet. He still died a young death in his 50s, perhaps because his years of stress and drugs and drinking still caught up with him. But for awhile, he was the image of radiant health. What did he do? Perhaps more importantly, what did he not do?

I am not a fan of a big government dictating what constitutes health, and so I have no faith in the current dictates that everyone should get "mandatory" vaccinations. I don't believe it is safe, nor efficacious, and yes, I am one of those who believe it can be harmful. (But this is not primarily about vaccinations.)

What is good vibrant health, and how can we all achieve it?

It is something that Obamacare can give us? Is it something that most doctors can tell us how to achieve? For starters, just look at your doctor. He or she might be the epitome of radiant health, but chances are, your overworked doctor is not an exemplar of radiant health.

In one of my books, Integral Health, I have proposed the "Pyramid of Health," where the bottom foundation of the pyramid constitutes all those things that are the most important foundations of health. The very tip of the pyramid – those things that are least important – include the drugs and care of doctors.

What you do, and eat, and think, and how you spend your life, are the building blocks to radiant health. This is nothing new, and is not a mystery.

Hippocrates, sometimes called the father of modern [Nyerges is the author of medicine, used a variety of "natural methods" to "Extreme Simplicity," "How to relieve sickness and bring about a state of health. These Survive Anywhere," "Guide to methods included exposure to sunlight, exercise, diet, Wild Foods and Useful Plants," fasting, water therapy, etc. There are whole books and other books. He can be today about the scientific foundation for each of these means of promoting health.

> Of course, the greatest focus in our society is upon the foods that we eat, and the intensity of the exercise we do. It is easier to quantify the effects on our health of various foods we eat than it is to quantify our state of mind on our health. But that is the direction in which we should be headed.

> In a recent discussion with a mentor, he brought up what he felt is a major source of mental and physical sickness. He expressed that whenever any of us carries on with unpaid debts (and these debts can be financial, ethical, moral, or spiritual), that nightmares and sicknesses result. The obvious solution is to delve deep within, and find a way to pay that debt. But what most of us do, instead, is to dig in our heels and resist, resulting in much mental anguish and even manifesting as various sicknesses and diseases. Then, the common next step is to get a doctor (of some sort, even a psychiatrist) to give us drugs to deal with the pain. Of course, all the drugs have side effects, sometimes worse than what it was trying to cure. Or maybe we drink alcohol to relieve the pain so we can carry on with our life without ever having to deal with the cause.

> Healthcare should promote regular vigorous exercise, and an excellent diet, and should guide each patient to see how our thinking, and the jobs we do, can ruin our health, or improve it. Real health educators should teach how to use foods as medicines, and how we can allow our body to heal itself, if we let it. For example, using the fresh aloe leaf to treat cuts and wounds. Or using garlic (internally or externally) to deal with infections. I told a friend how I once used garlic after a root canal, and didn't use any antibiotics that the dentist prescribed. He believed I was lying!

> Another "natural method" involves using vinegar in our drinking water and fruit juices to help us adjust to external temperature fluctuations, or externally to deal with bug bites.

> We are, of course, in the early stages of a health revolution, where people know something is wrong with the overall direction and focus of the "health profession." But don't expect changes from the industry or from government. Educate yourself, and learn to treat yourself and your family. And keep

A Weekly Religion Column by Rev. James Snyder

A MIDSUMMER'S DAY NIGHTMARE

I am not sure who invented /acation, but I think they deserve a Nobel Peace Prize. Every year is worth the intense strain when there is a summer vacation to look forward to.

Ah, summer vacation. The freedom of not having anything to do. No schedule in my face. No appointments frustrating me. Just an agenda of fun and more fun and don't forget the

Both the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage and me got up early to begin the drive to the airport to take us to our vacation location. I was so full of energy I could not sit still. It was then that I broke into singing, comfortably off key, a Carpenter's song much to the agitation of my

"We've only just begun, White lace and promises,

A kiss for luck and we're on our way."

All my wife could do was stare at me. Finally, she said, "You sure are excited. I've never seen you so excited. Are you sure you're all right?" I could not have been more all righter.

All I could think of was a week before me surrounded by grandchildren I have not seen for over a year.

"How old is...?" I went through all the grandchildren. It is easy to forget how old kids are because every year their age changes. When you get to be my age, it is hard to keep up with all of these changes.

A week of stuffing them with all the candy I could carry. Taking them out to a restaurant and showing them the proper use of the drinking straw and the fine art of a spitball battle. After all, it is a grandfather's solemn duty to teach his grandchildren the fine art of shenaniganism. Where else are they going to learn it? Their grandmother? I don't think so.

We finally arrived at the airport, parked our car and proceeded to the check-in counter. I am not sure my feet touched the ground, so excited was I to get on our way.

We finally arrived at the check-in counter with our baggage and one of the attendants asked me a simple question. I hate it when people ask me a question when I am in one of my silly moods. Believe me; I was in one of my silliest silly moods at this time.

'Sir," the attendant asked me very seriously, "do you have anything perishable or flammable in your luggage?"

With silliness smeared all over my mug I said, "I sure do. I got a Bible in there and it is Dyn-O-Mite." And, I had the audacity to smile very broadly.

Then it happened.

summer Someone said, "Did he say dynamite? Where's tne dynamite! The attendant said, He said the dynamite was in his briefcase."

> Suddenly, lights went on, buzzers began ringing, men in uniforms surrounded me, two grabbed and subdued me. In a few moments, the hazmat men arrived asking where the dynamite was.

> The man in charge pointed to my briefcase and said, "It's in the briefcase."

> They begin moving people away while the hazmat men came in to remove the briefcase with the alleged dynamite. At this time, I was absolutely stunned. Every ounce of silliness had drained from my person and I knew I was about to go to jail. Finally, the senior security guard came and looked at me. "Where did you say the dynamite was, sir?"

> I stammered and stuttered, but finally I said, "I said my Bible was dynamite." He stared at me. Look me up and down, glared at me with eyes that burned into my very soul. Then he spoke.

'Would you by any chance be a minister?" He said rather gruffly.

"Yes sir," I stammered as if my life depended upon what I was going to say, "I am a minister, a preacher of the gospel." I thought the last part might do something for me. At least it was a shot, excuse me, a try.

He glared at me and shouted, "False alarm. Just another crazy preacher."

As he walked away, I could hear him muttering under his breath, "Where do all these crazy preachers come from?"

The terminal finally quieted down, I went through the inspection and I must say, I am not complaining, mind you, but the pat down was a little longer and rougher than I remembered it being in the past. They stripped me down almost to my birthday suit. Thank God for

As I walked down the aisle on the plane, I could hear people whispering, "That's him. That's the crazy preacher with the dynamite."

"Slow down," my wife pleaded. "I can't keep up
I finally sat down next to my wife who was staring out the window. In a few minutes, the plane took off and as we reached our altitude she, while still staring out the window, said to me, "Next time we'll take separate planes." She paused for a moment and then said, "In fact, we'll take separate airports."

I think I am going to stick to what the Bible says.

"For the word of God is quick, and powerful, and sharper than any twoedged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, and of the joints and marrow, and is a discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart" (Hebrews 4:12).

God's Word is powerful and therefore needs to be used in a way that will honor God.

DICK Polman WILL JOE BIDEN FEEL THE TINGLE?

Truth is, nobody really knows. And that includes Joe, who at most has another month - until the run-up to the first Democratic debate on Oct. 13 - to make up his mind. It'll probably depend on whether he feels the

According to the late Richard Ben Cramer author of the seminal political tome "What It Takes" and unsurpassed Biden chronicler, Joe trusted his instincts. When he didn't feel the time was right to make a big move, he'd tell his aides, "I can't feel the tingle.

Supposedly, he sees a late bid as potentially tingleworthy, because Hillary's email baggage has created an opening. And lest we forget, Biden got his start in national politics as a ballsy gambler. In 1972, at age 29, he was a unknown newbie who challenged - and defeated - a twoterm Republican senator named Cale Boggs. As Cramer wrote in his book, "Biden was at three percent in the polls when he rented the best and biggest ballroom in the state for his 'victory celebration.

But we're not talking Delaware here. A decent presidential bid costs roughly half a billion bucks. Biden hasn't raised a cent or hired any staff; by contrast, the Clinton machine is still prodigious.

More importantly, at a time when grassroots liberal voters are ticked off at Wall Street and the financial industry, Biden would have to defend his long cozy friendship with the banks and credit card companies. And at a time when Black Lives Matter activists are highlighting racial disparities in the criminal justice system, Biden would have to defend his key senatorial sponsorship of the 1994 federal crime law that has exacerbated those racial disparities.

Without populist liberals and African Americans, he wouldn't have a prayer of winning the

Imagine what Hillary would do with this: In 2005, Sen. Biden serviced the banks and credit

The latest Joe Biden specu- card companies by supporting a bill that made lation basically falls into it harder for tapped-out consumers to file for two categories: He's leaning toward a presidential bid (unless he isn't), and he's similar bill in 2001. And, coincidentally or not, a potentially formidable his son Hunter earned consulting fees from a candidate (unless he isn't). major banking company, MBNA Corp., during the same period (2001 to 2005) when these bankruptcy bills were in the hopper.

> The 1994 crime law would be a bigger problem. Biden was a key player, and has often boasted about it. In Time magazine last year, he referred to himself as "the guy who did the crime bill." In an essay on crime that he wrote earlier this year, he referred to the law as the "1994 Biden Crime Bill." Known formally as the Violent Crime Control and Law Enforcement Act, it established mandatory minimum sentences for drug offenses, incentivized the states to lengthen other sentences, provided funding for lots of new prisons, and created a three-strike provision that mandated life sentences for violent felons with two or more prior convictions.

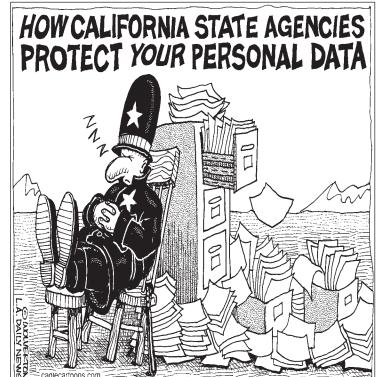

This was smart politics at the time, but in the Democratic electorate of 2015, it looks like bad politics. The Clintons have already distanced themselves from the law. Bill signed it, but last month he told the NAACP, "I signed a bill that made the (incarceration) problem worse. And I want to admit it." And Hillary moved left on the issue back in April, when she said it was time to end "the era of mass incarceration."

All of which prompts me to quote a passage from Richard Ben Cramer's book. This is an anecdote about young "Joey" Biden:

"Joey was always quick, with a grace born of self-possession....Once Joey set his mind, it was like he didn't think at all - he just did. That's why you didn't want to fight him. Most guys who got into a fight, they'd square off, there'd be a minute or two of circling around, while they jockeyed for position. Joey didn't do that. He decided to fight - BANGO, he'd punch the guy in the face...So Joey got into fights, and BANG it was over quick. What he was, was tough from the neck up. He knew what he wanted to do and

But does he have enough fight left in his tank to take on the House of Clinton?

FACT: MORE AMERICANS DIE FROM GUN VIOLENCE EVERY 6 MONTHS THAN DIED IN TERRORIST ATTACKS IN 25 YEARS

HOWARD Hays As I See It

"The whole object of travel is not to set foot on foreign land; it is at last to set foot on one's own country as a foreign land." ~G.K. Chesterton

My wife and I took some time offlast week, travelling to Sedona, Arizona. We learned that if the rock formation is taller than it's wide, it's a "butte", and wider-than-tall it's a "mesa" – and all breathtaking.

Mitsuko indulged me by allowing the drive out on what remains of Route 66. Pre-travel research showed what remains not just on the drive to Flagstaff or from San Bernardino, but even when driving home from, say, Monrovia. Heading west on Huntington, the original route turned north on Shamrock (a few blocks east of Myrtle) continuing west on Foothill, then south on Santa Anita and west on Huntington, past the race track up to

Even close to home there are sights mentioned in the Route 66 guidebooks; that preserved gas station at Shamrock and Walnut, the Aztec Hotel (est. 1925) on Foothill and the Denny's at Santa Anita and Huntington - one of the last surviving windmills of the once-ubiquitous Van de Kamp chain of roadside bakeries.

Once home, I tried catching up with the news and what's up with the presidential candidates.

In Louisiana, Gov. Bobby Jindal (R) stepped into the fight over monuments to the Confederacy in New Orleans, vowing to invoke the state's "Heritage Act" to protect them. As was later pointed out to the governor, however, the law he vowed to invoke did not

When asked about parental choice over vaccinations, Carly Fiorina responded that with a vaccine that's "proven", it could be required for school - but not for "some of these more esoteric immunizations" for which there's no "proof" they are needed.

According to FactCheck.org, numerous requests were sent to Fiorina's office for clarification as to which of the 14 vaccinations recommended by the Centers for Disease Control she considered "esoteric", without proven necessity - but no response was received.

Dr. Ben Carson commented on the Black Lives Matter movement, which seeks to address racial disparities in our criminal justice system. He called it "silliness".

(Time out for statistics: According to the group Mapping Police Violence, over 200 black people have been killed by police so far this year. Blacks were three times as likely to be killed by police as whites, though while 18% of white victims were unarmed, 33% of black victims were. Last year, only 29% of blacks killed by police were both armed and suspected of a violent crime.)

Dr. Carson, though, in a USA Today oped blamed the situation not on what's going on in our communities, but rather on what's coming out of Hollywood. (He'd apparently seen a trailer for "Straight Outta Compton".) Jeb Bush – again – stepped in it over the issue of women's health. Two weeks ago, voicing support for defunding Planned Parenthood, he told the audience at a Southern Baptist conference in Nashville he was "not sure we need a half-billion dollars for women's health issues". Last week at a town hall in Colorado he took it a step further, arguing the organization shouldn't get "a penny" because "they're not actually doing women's health issues. They're involved in something way different than

So maybe he regards the breast exams, STD treatments, HPV vaccinations, cervical exams, pregnancy testing and contraceptive services at some 700 clinics around the country to be "something way different" than "doing women's health issues." Maybe he'll issue a clarification like he did after the Nashville comments, when he explained it wasn't about cutting funding for women's health, but to take funds slated for Planned Parenthood and "redirect those funds to other women's health orgs", "In line with my FL record".

As Florida's governor, however, as reported in The St. Petersburg Times in 2003, Bush shifted Planned Parenthood funds not to "other women's health orgs" but to abstinenceonly "education" programs and anti-abortion

(Another statistical time-out: A University of Miami report shows that while Florida's teen pregnancy rates have always been above the national average, at the end of Bush's governorship the rate among black girls was highest in the country.)

Jeb Bush was a founder of the Hispanic Leadership Network, hoping to build Republican support among Latinos. Two years ago, the group sent out a memo advising against using terms like "illegals", "aliens" and "anchor babies". The current GOP frontrunner had gotten a lot of mileage off the latter term, however, so in a radio interview Bush decided to throw it in, as well.

At a McAllen, Texas press conference, Bush was reminded that the term "anchor babies" is indeed an offensive slur to many Latinos. When asked if he would apologize for having used it, Bush's advice was for them to "chill out". He then added, "Frankly, it's more related to Asian people coming into our country."

Woops. After having offended Hispanic voters, Bush now seemed to be brushing off Asian-Americans, as well.

"Really, Jeb?" asked Rep. Mazie Hirono (D-HI), who came as a young girl from Japan, "This is still remarkably offensive and out of touch, regardless of which group you're referring to." Rep. Lucille Roybal-Allard (D), Congress' first Latina from California, reminds that "Throwing dehumanizing insults is unworthy of those seeking our nation's highest office."

I can't say I really missed any of this while out of town. Back home, though, I wanted to get back to more serious stuff. I thought of tuning in to a CNN special on the tenth anniversary of Hurricane Katrina; an event costing the lives of over 1,800 Americans, displacing over a million people, with over $108 billion in damages and controversy still surrounding the response and aftermath.

The show was bumped, however. CNN, and all major networks, decided to break from programming to provide live coverage of an Iowa speech by the GOP's Donald Trump.

Now I'm thinking of heading back to Sedona.

MICHAEL Reagan Making Sense

TRUMP IS ALL TALK

Donald Trump is the first talk radio candidate. Everything he says on the primary trail sounds just like what you can hear on conservative talk radio every day.

When he's riffing about the failures of the political class in Washington, calling for an end to birthright citizenship or handling a media heckler like Jorge Ramos at a press conference, Trump is talking straight to the hearts and minds of the talk radio demographic.

He's not much of a conservative, or much of a Republican, for that matter. But as Trump forces many of the other timid GOP candidates to address subjects they're otherwise too scared to address, he's echoing what millions of conservative talk-show listeners have been yelling about for decades. I know. I used to be one of those talk show guys. I've heard what the silent majority yells and bitches at their radios about.

Trump is an entertaining showman. Though he'd hate to admit it, he's also a natural-born politician. He might not be likable. But he knows how to relate to and communicate with his constituents. All he needs are catchy slogans, half-finished sentences, quips and

The Donald is authentic all right - to a fault. But because he's immune to criticism from the media or other politicians, as a candidate he has it easy. Like any conservative talk show host, he can say any wild-and-crazy thing about immigration or the Iran nuclear deal he likes without paying a political penalty or having to explain his sketchy policy ideas. For example, he can promise us over and over that the first thing he'll do as President Trump is build a 1,900-mile wall to stop the illegals coming in from Mexico.

But the wall is the simple part. Every conservative talk radio guy in North American has been calling for a strong southern border wall for years.

But what would President Trump do about the 12 million illegal immigrants already living in the U.S.? And what about the millions of illegals who didn't wade across the Rio Grande to get here? Studies say as many as 50 percent of them came here legally but then overstayed their tourist or student visas and never left. More than 10 percent came from Asia.

That "Great Trump Wall" he'll build on the Mexican border won't stop those kinds of "unauthorized" guests, no matter how tall it is. It'd be nice if Trump – or any of the genuine conservative Republican candidates – had a few smart ideas about fixing our horrible legal immigration system. With its long wait times, Soviet-style paperwork, high legal costs and politicized selection process, it's the epitome of a Big Government bureaucracy.

Last I heard, conservatives were supposed to be against such things. Meanwhile, a one-man party like Trump will not be able to fix immigration, legal or illegal.

It's going to take a "boring" career politician like John Kasich, Rick Perry, Chris Christie or Jeb Bush to accomplish that and everything else Trump is talking about doing in Washington to "make America great again."

As Republican governors, Perry, Kasich, Christie and Bush have proven track records. Perry and Kasich have done all the right conservative things in Texas and Ohio. They've cut taxes, cut back government and created new jobs by encouraging economic growth. Poor Perry did all three, plus he dealt with the border and hundreds of thousands of illegal immigrants.

Trump has many accomplishments. He's a fabulous negotiator and builder. He's also stirring up Republican primary politics-asusual in a beneficial way. It's really great that he's not afraid to say what a lot of conservatives in the country want to hear him say. But as any talk radio guy can tell you, saying something and getting something done are two different things. What Perry and the other governors actually have accomplished in their states is what Trump can only espouse and promise if, by some miracle, he gets
