FORMER SIERRA MADRE PARAMEDIC MURDERED

By Susan Henderson

Broadcast news carried the tragic story of the murder-suicide that took the life of LA County Sheriff's Deputy Cecilia Hoschet. The story touched many in Sierra Madre, as Ćecilia was a Sierra Madre Fire Department Paramedic from April, 2007 to December, 2014. "She was such a classy young woman, so caring and so professional", said one Sierra Madre resident. Hoschet was part of the emergency team that responded to a 911 call at that resident's home.

The 32 year old mother of a 6 year old son had served with the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department for two years, having begun her career in a civilian capacity. She worked at the county's inmate reception facility in downtown Los Angeles.

According to news reports, "Deputies responded to "a woman screaming" call in the 5000 block of Crown Avenue, La Canada Flintridge." Homicide detectives learned that the husband of the victim, a firefighter and 5 year veteran of the Los Angeles County Fire Department, entered the residence and allegedly shot the female victim.

The suspect then fled the scene and drove to Los Angeles County Fire Facility in Pacoima, where he killed himself. The suspect died from a self-inflicted gunshot wound.

PLEASE PARDON OUR NOISE

Portions of the City's water distribution system are 90 years old, and sadly the number of system leaks has increased dramatically in the last few weeks. It has always been the City's policy to repair leaks as soon as we become aware of them; compliance with that policy is critical in this time of drought. As system leaks do not respect regular work schedules, it is not uncommon for Public Works staff to work late into the night or in the wee hours of the morning repairing leaks. While we will do all we can to keep the accompanying noise down, please understand, it is by its very nature noisy work. We apologize in advance for the disturbances we are creating.

And PLEASE, if you see water coming out of the street pavement, call 355-1414 (PD Dispatch) and report it; you have spotted a leak!

THIS IS YOUR LAST CHANCE TO ORDER YOUR MEMORIAL BRICKS!

The Sierra Madre Garden Club and the City of Sierra Madre in conjunction with the Sierra Madre Community Foundation are raising money to replace the dead lawn at City Hall with beautiful drought resistant gardens! You can help support this project by purchasing a memorial brick, park bench, picnic table or footbridge. Remember the last day to place your orders is September 15th!

SCARECROW'S LAMENT "IF I ONLY HAD A BRAIN."

By Donna Packer

maiden scarecrow, for as long as he can remember (approximately two weeks). Lovesick and forlorn, Hayworth finally screws up enough courage to profess his love to the object of his desire, and donning his best attire hastens on foot to pour out his heart to the beguiling Scarlett. Undaunted by the high garden wall separating him from his love, Hayworth climbs atop a lawn chair, swings one leg over the wall and startled by an approaching shuttle, promptly knocks over the chair leaving himself hanging from the gate. Hayworth was endowed with courage and heart but having no brain, was unable to extract himself from his embarrassing position and woo his lady love.

REMEMBRANCE MORTIMER GREEN

Mortimer Green died on August 31, 2015 at the age of 92. Born and raised in Brooklyn, New York, Mortmer spent most of the last 30 years in the Pasadena - Sierra Madre area.

Mort, as he was called by his close friends, had a great love for the outdoors and was an active member of the Sierra Club, hiking every week up into his mid-80s. He was also an avid reader, movie goer and participant in local life.

Mortimer Green was a gentle, witty, elegant, caring, attentive, loyal and observant friend, neighbor and family man. He is survived by one of his daughters, a brother and many loved ones and friends.

We will miss his memorable presence very much. We would have hated to go through life without meeting Mortimer. Rest in Peace dear friend.

Walking Sierra Madre...The Social Side

by Deanne Davis

"Labor Day is a great opportunity to reflect on what you failed to accomplish this summer."

"Sometimes it's important to work for that pot of gold. But other times it's essential to take time off and to make sure that your most important decision simply consists of choosing which color to slide down on the rainbow." Douglas Pagels

Hope your Labor Day holiday consisted of nothing more difficult than relaxing in the shade, eating a hamburger or hot dog that somebody else cooked and taking a long afternoon nap. I made pancakes for breakfast and my best buddy, John, went to OSH to take advantage of the No Sales Tax weekend. He bought me six big bags of ornamental bark to help contain our water!

College football is back....at last!! We watched the Stanford game, the Cal game, part of the Oregon Ducks game, the UCLA game and part of the USC game last Saturday. Yes, it is possible to watch football all day and well into the night and live to tell about it. All our teams won, too!

Met a really splendid person this week, Susan Wallis of John Wallis & Associates, Designers, Makers and Restorers of Stained Glass Windows. Susan's studio is in that nifty 38 East Montecito Center, east of Baldwin. She's in #7. Just walking in the door is an adventure in beauty as the walls are covered with designs and renderings of stained glass windows that have been created by Susan and her Dad, John Wallis, who passed way several years ago, but Susan had no desire to change the name of their business. John Wallis created stained glass masterpieces for 70 years, starting in Boston, MA. Susan spent her childhood in the studio and learned the stained glass business from every perspective, later adding a Fine Arts degree from Cal State Long Beach. Everywhere I looked something fabulous was under construction. Exquisite diamond shaped leaded glass windows to go into homes. One piece featuring flowers and a small bunny in one corner of the glass took the homeowner several years to decide upon. Stained glass is not a rush rush business!

Much of Susan's antique glass comes from Germany where it is still glass-blown by mouth, just as this glass has been created for hundreds of years. Each piece is uniquely beautiful, no two alike... and the colors!! The biggest piece the Wallis family ever created is the Pearl Harbor Memorial window for St. Andrews Cathedral in Honolulu, Hawaii. The window is 50' tall and 25' wide. If you Google the Cathedral, you can see this window in all its splendor. They also created the windows along the side walls in this Cathedral and another window 45' wide and 30' tall, which took six months to create. The stained glass windows in our own Ascension Church are also Wallis work.

All of Susan's, and her father's work has been done in the traditional method with the old fashioned tools which have proved to be the best. The process is a thousand years old and the finished product is beyond amazing. Each client tells Susan what they think they'd like, Susan does a water color or ink rendering, the client approves it and, as Susan says, "If you like the design, you'll love the windows!" It takes months to finish a 5' square piece and there is a waiting list. She is working on 7 or 8 projects currently, in addition to restoration work. After all, lead deteriorates and has to be replaced after about a hundred years or so! All the lead and solder products Susan uses are Made In America and a great deal of her glass is also U.S. made: cathedral glass from Kokomo, Indiana and opalescent glass from Washington and Oregon.

John Wallis came to California after World War II and set up shop in Pasadena for some fifty years. Susan brought the business to Sierra Madre in 2002 and she's a resident, too, along with her mother who is now 96, who worked with the glass for over 50 years. My Dad, who was a well-known artist in many mediums, from oil to water color and pen and pencil drawings, learned to make stained glass late in his life so when I saw Susan Wallis had a studio here in town, I had to meet her. SIERRA MADRE POLICE BLOTTER

Sierra Madre Police Department responded to approximately 303 calls

Monday, August 31st

At 7:16 pm, Sierra Madre Police responded to the 500 block of Lotus Lane regarding stolen mail. Upon arrival, Officers were informed by the victim that when she arrived home she noticed the mailboxes belonging to herself and two other neighbors were wide open. Officers inspected the mail boxes and discovered damage to the locking mechanisms. Upon notification, all the victims informed Officers that the last time they saw their mailboxes closed and secured was around 9:00 am earlier that morning. The victims were unable to determine if any mail had been stolen, as they each reported they either only receive monthly bills or have their mail delivered to a P.O box separate from their residence. This case has been forwarded to the Detective Bureau.

Tuesday, September 1st

At 5:09 pm, Sierra Madre Police responded to the 700 block of Alta Vista Drive regarding a vandalism report. Upon arrival, the victim informed Officers that the day before, she observed the padlock on her mailbox to be fully operational. She explained her postman padlocks the mailbox after they deliver her mail. When she returned home later that evening, she noticed she could not get into her mailbox has her key to the padlock would not go in. Officers inspected the padlock and discovered the

During the week of Sunday, August 30th, to Sunday, September 6th, the keyhole had been filled with an unknown gray substance. Officers cut the padlock of with bolt cutters and the victim was able to retrieve her mail. This case has been forwarded to the Detective Bureau.

Saturday, September 5th

At 7:22 pm, Sierra Madre Police responded to the 200 Block of East Orange Grove in response to a female jogger who felt she was being followed by a vehicle. Upon making contact with the woman, who informed them that while jogging west bound on Orange Grove she felt a vehicle drive past her really closely. As it passed her up the driver, a male Hispanic, raised his right hand at her as though he was trying to gestor something to her. The man proceeded to drive past her and parked and waited approximately two houses ahead of her. The woman felt uneasy and chose not to continue jogging towards the man and instead called police. While she called police, the man then drove off. The vehicle was described as a grey sedan. Officers checked the area but were unable to locate the vehicle.

Monday, September 7th

At 12:12 am, Sierra Madre Police responded to the 100 Block of West Bonita Avenue regarding a suspicious person. The reporting party informed Officers that at around 11:30 pm, she came home and saw a tall and skinny subject with dark clothing running across her front lawn. She stated her son was home at the time and he informed her that he did not hear or see anything as he was asleep. When the woman checked her home, she confirmed everything was locked and secured. On scene, Officers investigated the residence and discovered that the pool house door was wide open and inside Officers discovered open cabinets. The home owner stated she had not checked the pool house in several days, but believed that nothing appeared to be missing. A check of the immediate area provided no further details on the incident. This case has been forwarded to the Detective Bureau.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF REVEREND MONSIGNOR ROLAND ZIMMERMAN NOVEMBER 17, 1926-AUGUST 26, 2015

By Joan Schmidt

Yesterday, we attended the funeral services for our beloved Monsignor Zimmerman, who came to Annunciation Parish forty years ago. The Church was packed with many parishioners, and former students of Annunciation School and Bishop Amat High School, whose ENTIRE football team was Honor Guard as well as the Knights of Columbus in their beautiful attire. It was quite a sight to behold.

The official celebrant was Archbishop Gomez. Concelebrants included Cardinal Mahoney, Bishops O'Connell, Sartoris and Monsignor Carroll and several Diocesan Clergy including Monsignor Nichols, and Father Duyshart. (From our Parish) Altar Servers were Joshua Logan, Jeremy Dixon and James Ballard. Pastor Father Herbert read the gospel and did the homily which included wonderful memories of Monsignor. Father Herbert came to Annunciation thirty years ago as an Associate under Pastor, Father Zimmerman. Sixteen years ago Father Herbert returned to Annunciation as Pastor, and Monsignor as Pastor Emeritus, technically under Father Herbert, a unique situation! Father Herbert spoke of Monsignor Zim, a great pastor, priest, mentor and friend.

If I wrote all the wonderful memories I have of Monsignor, it would be volumes. This man was our Pastor, Spiritual Advisor and friend. During my twenty-five years teaching, he'd visit the classrooms-much to the children's delight. He'd get involved with a lesson, congratulate them on a win the day before, or just pop in to say "hi". The last year I taught, he left the room and said, "Hasta La Vista Baby". The students were shocked and cracked up. He'd say something outrageous-what a sense of humor!

I need to thank our joint choirs for the fine music and the MANY FINE PEOPLE OF ALL AGES involved in making Monsignor's funeral and reception so special. There were hours of planning, making programs, food prep, set-up, clean-up-you all are BEYOND AWESOME!

Monsignor had many devoted friends who went on Pilgrimages with him; many dinner invites; a faithful group at his special Saturday 8:30 am Mass; others visited him in his final days. God bless all of you for your kindness, love and friendship to this fine man. Fight on in Heaven, dear Monsignor!

SAN GABRIEL VALLEY CHORAL COMPANY KICKS OFF 21ST SEASON WITH HISTORIC SAMUEL COLERIDGE-TAYLOR PROJECT SEPT. 15 AT ST. LUKE'S MONROVIA

The San Gabriel Valley Choral Company will ensemble based in Monrovia. The group's artistic launchits 21st season with an historic presentation, The Samuel Coleridge-Taylor Project: A Musical Legacy in Concert. The performance will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, September 15 - the 140th anniversary of Coleridge-Taylor's birth — at St. Luke's Episcopal Church of Monrovia, 122 S. California Ave. Admission is free, with a donation of $20 suggested.

In his time, African British composer Samuel Coleridge-Taylor (1875-1912) was acclaimed as "the African Mahler." Because of his incredible success in a field dominated by white males at a time when racism in America was peaking, his influence on African American artists and intellectuals was powerful and far-reaching. SGVCC Artistic Director Dr. Zanaida Robles created The Samuel Coleridge-Taylor Project to perpetuate the study and performance of the music of this celebrated composer and others of African descent. Also featured during the evening will be works by William Grant Still, Margaret Bonds, Jester Hairston, Zanaida Robles, Robert Owens, Joshua Uzoigwe, and Sydney Guillaume. About San Gabriel Valley Choral Company director, conductor and soloist Dr. Zanaida Robles, holds a Doctorate in Musical Arts in Choral Music at the University of Southern California. She was previously director of classical choirs for the Los Angeles County High School for the Arts and prepared elite choirs for performances with such luminaries as Josh Groban and Kristin Chenoweth. Donations to SGVCC, a non-profit organization, are gladly accepted online at http:// www.sgvccsingers.org and by check sent to San Gabriel Valley Choral Company, P.O. Box 2225, Monrovia, CA 91017.

With roots in Monrovia dating to the 1890s, St. Luke's Episcopal Church is an inclusive church that welcomes and embraces all to its community. The landmark 1924 Romanesque church is located at 122 S. California Avenue at Foothill Boulevard. Eucharist services are held on Sundays at 8 a.m. and 10 a.m. and Wednesdays at 12:10 p.m. The Reverend Neil Tadken is Rector. For more, visit saintlukesmonrovia.org.

Owners of timeshare properties can be inundated with offers that buyers are eager to take over their payments. But often these offers are scams targeting seniors.

Con artists in this scheme require an upfront fee to move forward with the process. They claim the fee s needed for appraisal, marketing analysis, transfer and/or closing. In some cases the fees supposedly go toward marketing – and include such wording in a phony contract.

But the truth is the con artists have no buyers and simply walk off with the money you paid.

TIPS:

Never pay upfront fees to anyone promising to sell or rent your timeshare. List your timeshare for free or minimal payment on reputable websites.

Drought Interim General Manager for Pasadena Water and Power, Eric Klinkner, will kick off the start of the new club year for The Women's Civic League of Pasadena with a presentation on "Pasadena and the Drought" on Monday, September 14 at noon.

A 23-year veteran in the utility industry, Klinkner has been with Pasadena Water and Power since 1995, a community-owned utility serving more than 125,000 customers. His utility experience covers a wide range that includes power generation, transmission, trading and scheduling, water and power conservation, renewable resource procurement, and environmental and strategic policy development. Early in his career, Klinkner was instrumental in preparing Pasadena's electric system for deregulation and participation in the California Independent System Operator markets. In 2000, Klinkner was promoted to Assistant General Manager of Power Supply where he guided Pasadena through the energy crisis and was instrumental in diversifying Pasadena's power supply to include a variety of renewable sources and more efficient local generation. In 2004, Klinkner was selected as Deputy General Manager, where he spearheaded significant increases in Pasadena's energy efficiency, water conservation, and solar incentive programs. Today, Pasadena amongst the highest levels of energy efficiency and renewable resource goals in the state.

Klinkner serves on the Board of the Southern California Public Power Authority, the Intermountain Power Authority Coordinating Committee, and is a member of the Pasadena Rotary Club.

Altadena-Sierra Madre-Arcadia-

CORE ISSUE BEHIND MANSIONIZATION"

From Arcadia's Best

By April Verlato

I was recently asked, "Since San Marino is also having complaints about "mansionization," isn't the real issue that some people just don't like change and label it "mansionization?"

No. The issue concerning "mansionization" is not about change, it is about who has the authority to decide what should be built in a particular neighborhood. The real question is, who should "decide" to what tastes a house will be built to fit?

In the Highlands and the other four Homeowners' Associations (HOAs) in Arcadia, the residents voted back in the 70's to have an Architectural Review Board made up of neighbors to make that decision. The City Council adopted a Resolution (or "agreement") with the HOAs to designate the areas as a Design Review Zone, so that anyone buying in one of these areas would know that there were special rules regarding what could be built. The Resolution outlined specific criteria that could be used to determine what was "harmonious and compatible" and it specifically stated "the ARB shall have the power to determine the compatibility with the neighborhood of the mass, scale, design and appearance of the proposed project."

Resolution 6770 was meant to grant to the residents the power and authority to define what is harmonious and compatible; that anyone who wants to "change" their house would have to get "permission" from the neighbors to do so. This has been the way new projects in the HOAs have been treated for 40 years. The Resolution is actually a very good tool for curbing neighborhood complaints of "mansionization." A neighborhood can't complain that they are being "mansionized" if three of their neighbors, elected by them, approved the project. But when City Council overturns a neighborhood's denial of plans because the City Council thinks the neighborhood is being unreasonable in its determination of "compatible and harmonious," City Council is taking away the effect and purpose of the ARB. So then you start getting complaints about being "mansionized" because now someone other than the neighborhood is deciding what "looks right".

To say that the size of the house is allowed by code, so, therefore, the ARB cannot deny on the basis of size, is wrong. Size is one of the attributes of "harmony and compatibility." Therefore, as the City Attorney confirmed, an ARB can deny because of size even if the code allows more square footage.

A California Appellate Court case determined the terms of a compatibility ordinance in the city of Rolling Hills were not vague and ambiguous and that the ARB had the authority and power to determine that a patio in the back (that no one could see from the street) was not harmonious and compatible because it obstructed neighboring properties' views. The code would have allowed the patio otherwise. The denial by the Highlands ARB of plans for new "mansions" based on the size of the new homes was valid.

There are two issues raised by the Save The Arcadia Highlands' lawsuit.

Whether or not an Environmental Impact Report is required to build the homes in the Highlands.

What is the standard of review of ARB decisions on appeal before the City

The City Attorney decided that the standard of review on appeal was "De which means City Council looks at the proposed project and votes according to their own opinion as to what is harmonious and compatible. I disagree with the City Attorney. I believe that the standard of review on appeal is "Abuse of Discretion" which allows only a review of the ARB's decision to determine whether or not the ARB had grounds for their decision, not whether or not the City Council agreed with the decision. I base my opinion on a case decided by the Court of Appeals that held the review of an ARB decision in the City of Del Mar had to be under a "deferential substantial evidence test." It is my opinion that when City Council overturns an ARB denial because they think that the project will look "harmonious and compatible," the City Council is not following the law. And that is why a group of neighbors from the Highlands filed the lawsuit.

A ballot initiative has been proposed to set limits on the amount of square footage because much of the "mansionization" debate has been fueled by the dispute over the size of the new homes. Limits on square footage would benefit both residents and developers. The amount of square footage would be quantitative and objective, instead of the subjective term of harmonious and compatible.

Everyone is going to have their opinion of what is "harmonious and compatible." It's a subjective term that is not easily defined. As the saying goes, "Beauty is in the eye of the beholder." The issue of "mansionization" is really whose eyes are

Arcadia's Best Editor's note:

April A. Verlato, is an Attorney at Law in Downtown Arcadia, where last year she was named president of the Arcadia Downtown Improvement Association by the board of directors. In the past year she was also named Chairperson of the Architectural Review Board by the Highlands Homeowners' Association. For more background summary on the issue that sparked and are referenced in this guest blog, Background on the issues noted above and impetus for this guest blog: Last week it was reported that San Marino is having political issues over complaints and challenges related to the development of large homes there.

Most every Arcadia City Council meeting this year has featured passionate public comments to the Council about this issue, many of them residents who are opposed to so-called "mansion-ization," and many of whom have cited San Marino as an example of a city that controls and limits the development of large homes to the satisfaction of those Arcadians making the comments.

The author of this guest blog, April Verlato, is one of two of the most public and primary opponents of the development of homes in the Highlands and throughout Arcadia that are deemed to be too large for the size of the lot and not harmonious and compatible with surrounding homes. The issue sparked a lawsuit early this year by a newly-formed group called Save the Arcadia Highlands over two specific large homes in the Highlands approved for development by the Arcadia City Council (noted above - on Council votes of 4-1 and 3-2), one of which is next door to the home of Verlato's family. The lawsuit halted work on those two homes, which led to the Council's split-vote decision to indefinitely suspend a long-in-progress updating of citywide redsidential zoning codes and to limit a historical survey of Arcadia residences to exclude the Highlands. The issue also sparked a recently-proposed ballot measure spearheaded by Verlato that she mentions above. That measure, if qualified and approved following the gathering of the required number of signatures, would be placed on an upcoming election ballot.

FIRST-EVER VALET PARKING SERVICE AT TASTE OF ARCADIA SEPT. 28

Arcadia-based Power Valet to offer valet parking at Arboretum for only

Taste of Arcadia will offer valet parking for the first-time ever this year, and for only $7.

This year's traditional outdoor event produced by the Arcadia Chamber of Commerce is being held from 5:30 p.m. - 9 p.m. Monday evening at the beautiful Los Angeles County Arboretum at 301 N. Baldwin Avenue in Arcadia, made possible by returning Gold sponsors Westfield Santa Anita, Methodist Hospital, and BMW of Monrovia.

Parking for 1,500 attendees, including several hundred vendors and entertainers, is always at a premium and the main entrance lot fills up quickly, after which attendees are directed to park across the street at Santa Anita Park's Gate 7 and walk or ride a tram back to the main entrance. Some people park further away and walk.

This year Arcadia-based Power Valet, a member of the Arcadia Chamber, will offer valet parking service to any attendees for only $7, with drop off in the main parking lot just a few feet from the entrance to the event, which will not only make arrivals much easier for far more patrons but also provide a major convenience as attendees leave in the

Valet service is offered at no charge to selected sponsors and for one vehicle per VIP reserved table at the Taste. A couple VIP tables for 10 are still available to reserve. Those designated vehicles must have a pass displayed in the window that has been provided by the Arcadia Chamber in

The Arboretum's trams will continue to be available for overflow parking at Santa Anita from 5 p.m. - 10 p.m. As in the past, limited free public parking will also remain available to the earliest arrivers in the Arboretum's parking lot along Baldwin Avenue - attendees should enter that lot from Baldwin Avenue near Ayers Hall, not the main Arboretum entrance.

Advance tickets $65 ($55 for Arcadia Chamber of Commerce members; $80 at gate; or VIP reserved table of 10 for $750 -Chamber members $599) under "Shop" at www.ArcadiaCaChamber.org, by calling 626-447-2159, or in person at the Chamber office at 388 W. Huntington Drive, Arcadia,

About 1,500 people are expected to attend what City officials refer to as the "signature event of Arcadia." From 5:30 p.m. - 9 p.m. on a Monday evening attendees enjoy tastes of everything for no additional charge, plus live music from three performers, the most exciting new cars from local dealers including Tesla, and 40 community organization and business booths.

LABLAUNCH MONROVIA MAKING GOOD PROGRESS!

Staff spent time last week discussing with LabLaunch Monrovia representatives several initiatives that are currently being coordinated. During those discussions, we were happy to hear that they have signed up another new tenant, which means that there are now five businesses in the incubator facility. LabLaunch Monrovia was also featured in this week's SGV Economic Partnership business blog. In addition, we learned that a formal ribbon cutting for LabLaunch Monrovia has been scheduled to take place at their facility (605 East Huntington Drive, Suite #103) on Wednesday, October 7, 2015, at 4:30 p.m.

Moving forward, staff has started working with LabLaunch Monrovia on executing several exciting initiatives, including: -Developing the internship program

- -Coordinating the Monrovia Biotechnology Day event
- -Introducing our Teen Advisory Board to LabLaunch Monrovia -Establishing the LabLaunch Monrovia Community Advisory Panel -Integrating the City onto the LabLaunch Monrovia Board of Directors
- LabLaunch Monrovia is certainly making good progress, and we will continue working closely with the biotechnology incubator as we

MONROVIA RENEWAL AND PROPOSITION 218 WATER / SEWER RATE ADJUSTMENT COMMUNITY MEETINGS SCHEDULED FOR SEPTEMBER 19TH AND SEPTEMBER 29TH

As you may recall, the City is currently in the midst of coordinating a Proposition 218 Hearing, which is scheduled to take place on October 6, 2015. At that hearing, the City will consider proposed adjustments to our water and sewer rate structures that have been developed to address our current deferred maintenance related issues connected to our water system and sewer system. In addition, the City has developed a comprehensive multi-year capital improvement program called Monrovia Renewal, which seeks to repair our road infrastructure, sidewalk / curb / gutter infrastructure, water infrastructure, and sewer infrastructure over the course of the next 3-5 years.

In an effort to provide additional background related to the Monrovia Renewal capital improvement initiative, along with detailed information regarding the proposed water and sewer rate adjustments, the City has coordinated two community meetings, which are set for the following dates / times:

Saturday, September 19, 2015 from 10 a.m. - 11:30 a.m. at the Library Community Room (321 S. Myrtle Avenue)

Tuesday, September 29, 2015, from 7 p.m. - 8:30 p.m. in the City Council Chambers (415 S. Ivy Avenue)

THE REEL DEAL: by Ben Show THE TRANSPORTER REFUELED REVIEW

Every so often, franchises that had faded into obscurity in your mind seem to be brought back from the dead. Most of the time it seems like there is no good reason for it (do we really need a Ghostbusters remake with Melissa McCarthy?); however, there is the occasional remake that manages to surpass the original (the live-action Cinderella, for example). Can Luc Besson resurrect his action-thriller franchise or has it been in obscurity for too long?

Frank Martin (Ed Skrein) is a transporter: he takes important packages from one point to another without asking any questions. His packages usually consist of important letters, legal documents, and large sums of money; however, this all changes when four identical looking women lure him into a life and death game with Russian crime lord.

'Transporter Refueled' is laughably bad, it's that simple. The plot, which is extremely uninteresting, goes back and forth between either being shoved down your throat, with characters repeating plot points several times, or is just nonexistent at times. The dialogue is terrible and the actors' accents are so strong half the time you cannot understand what they are saying. The acting is stiff, the cinematography is bland, and, overall, this remake is not worth your time or money.

JUST FOR BEST FRIENDS

to enjoy the flowers on the bougainvillea bushes growing along the fence in my back yard, and like a voyeur, I like to watch them through the window flying back up into the sky and on their merry way. They intently investigate each blossom on the bush with their bright orange wings striking a stark contrast against the green fauna. The way they fold their massive wings in and out with such grace somehow gives me a sense of peace.

Seeing so many monarch butterflies in such a short period of time reminds me of an experience I had several years ago while visiting the beach in Carpentaria. There was a huge colony of monarchs lingering in clusters, hanging onto the bark and leaves of a very dense and shady eucalyptus grove. That was the first time I had ever seen so many butterflies lurking together in one area at the same time. I had to blink and take a second look before I could be certain of what I was seeing. All those butterflies clinging in clusters to the trees created a surreal scene that, from a distance looked like a colorful work of moving art. And, I guess that is indeed what it was. God's art.

Until I got close enough to see that the brilliant orange menagerie was actually made up of thousands of live butterflies, it crossed my mind for a split second that perhaps someone had come along and spray-painted that entire grove of trees with some sort of sophisticated stencil. But, in reality I was looking at a vast population of magnificent migrating monarchs taking a break to rest and restore their energies before resuming a very long and treacherous journey from their original spring season home, to their final fall destination.

The monarch is the only butterfly in North America that is known to migrate north in the spring and south in the fall, much like various species of birds migrate semi-annually. I find it quite remarkable that I have been seeing so many monarch butterflies such a small and delicate creature could have the flitting about in Sierra Madre recently. They seem energy and tenacity to travel so far without loosing it's way or falling from the sky to it's death before reaching the next resting spot. It is a phenomenon of nature that I find hard to wrap my mind around, as they pass from one blossom to another before and certainly one that is worthy of human attention and appreciation.

> The Monarch butterfly migrates for 2 reasons. One, they cannot withstand the freezing weather in the northern and central continental climates during the winter months. And two, the larval food plants do not grow in their over-wintering nest sites, so the spring generation must fly back north to places where the plants are plentiful. The south-bound monarch migration usually starts in about October of each year, but can start earlier if the weather turns cold sooner than that.

> When the weather changes again, and the temperatures in the south start to rise in the spring, the monarch knows that it is time to head back north, and off they go once again on that long journey to their next seasonal destination. This magnificent migration pattern explains the sudden appearance of the many monarch butterflies we have been seeing in Sierra Madre recently.

> It blows my mind to think that those little winged wonders I have had the privilege of observing in my own back yard will soon be living in a place very far away from here, planning their next move to survive the winter months! Nature never ceases to amaze me, and it really brings things into perspective for me when I take the time to notice and appreciate all of it's wonders.

LOOKING FOR A BEST FRIEND?

Do you remember the movie by this name? We have our own group of seven special dogs who found themselves suddenly surrendered to the shelter when their owner passed away recently. We don't know the details of their lives, or why there were not any friends or family able to take them in, but they are being safely cared for in their transition to the next chapter of their journey.

"The Seven" all appear to have been well loved and cared for in their pre-shelter life. Some of them are carrying a little extra weight, so it appears they were regularly fed and rewarded with treats. The longer haired dogs were in need of a good grooming session - a couple of them have already received a professional grooming donated by West Coast Grooming Academy in Pasadena, and a couple more will be sent to WCGA when they have adjusted a little more.

Let me introduce you to our Magnificent Seven dogs. MAX - At 37 pounds, Max is the largest of the group. Max is a Wheaten terrier mix, about 2 years old. He was dirty and matted when he came to the shelter, and was one of the first to get professional grooming. He is now quite a handsome dog! Max is a happy boy who is easy to harness and take for a walk. He is responsive to his handler, sits for treats, and loves getting a good belly rub.

DAISY - Daisy weighs in at 21 pounds. She is a 4 year old Lhasa Apso mix who was also badly in need of grooming when she arrived at the shelter. She got a professional bath and haircut, and now is showing off her beautiful white coat. Daisy is a friendly girl with a happy disposition. She is easy to harness and walk on leash, and she gets along well with her kennel mate.

PEBBLES – Pebbles is a terrier mix, about 3 years old, weighing 22 pounds. Pebbles was shy and withdrawn when she arrived at the shelter, but after a few volunteer visits, she was able to take her first walk last week. That seemed to lift her spirits so much that she is now friendly with people, and loves to engage in chasing toys with her kennel mate. Pebbles will greet you with a wagging tail

BLACKIE - Blackie is another female terrier mix, about 3 years old and weighing 13 pounds. Blackie also was shy at first, but she has warmed up with more contact with a variety of people, and was able to go on her first walk last week as well. Blackie surprised us on a very hot day by going into our small wading pool and lying down in the water. She's a smart girl and knows how to cool off. Blackie also likes to give kisses in exchange for some pets has been timid when meeting new people, still adjusting to life at the shelter. When volunteers sit quietly with Styx, he will slowly approach and climb into a lap for some love and petting. We think with a little more time, his personality will blossom. Styx has the potential to be a loving companion in a safe and secure home.

BUDDY - Buddy is being called a Chihuahua mix, although at 17 pounds, he is larger than most of that breed, and is most likely just "dog." Buddy is about 2 years old and volunteers report that he is a wonderful dog. He is a friendly boy who seems to enjoy the company of people and is equally happy receiving affection, and giving it back. Buddy is easy to harness, and walks well on leash. He also has a playful spirit and gets along well with his kennel mate. Buddy would make a great family pet.

JUANITA - Juanita is a 2 year old Chihuaĥua mix, weighing in at a petite 10 pounds. Juanita has a joyful personality and is easy to harness and walk on leash. She s friendly and affectionate with people, social with other dogs and loves to play. Juanita is very agile and will jump onto a chair or into a lap if she has the opportunity.

So you can see there is a lot of variety with this group of lovely dogs, all deserving a loving forever home where they are treated as part of the family. We think that is the situation they came from and they should have nothing less when they move on to their forever homes. Please come in to meet "The Magnificent Seven" to see if you have a place in your heart for one or more of them

Their individual adoption fees are $130 which includes pay/neuter surgery, a microchip, first vaccinations and a free wellness check-up at a participating veterinarian. They currently reside at the San Gabriel Valley Humane Society located at 851 E. Grand Avenue in San Gabriel. We are located off San Gabriel Blvd., north of Mission and south of Las Tunas. To arrange a 'Meet and Greet' with any of the magnificent seven, please stop by any time from 10:00am to 4:30pm Tuesday thru Sunday.

If you are interested in meeting them or any of the other wonderful pets at the shelter, visit the San Gabriel Valley Humane Society at 851 E. Grand Ave., San Gabriel, Calif., 91776, Tuesday through Sunday. For more information, call (626) 286-1159.

Readers are invited to join the San Gabriel 'Strut Your Mutt' dog walking team and the 'Race for the Rescues' team to raise funds for shelter animals. The Walk is Saturday, October 10th at Exposition Park and the Race is Saturday, October 24th at the Rose Bowl. Go to the shelter's website at sgvhumane.org for more information

MOBILE SPAY/NEUTER VEHICLE APPROVED

LOS ANGELES COUNTY - On a motion by Mayor Michael D. Antonovich and Supervisor Hilda Solis, the Board of Supervisors approved a public/private partnership to expand needed spay and neuter services throughout the county.

"Access to spay and neuter services is vital to reduce the number of unwanted pets which are abandoned, neglected, contribute to public health concerns and may ultimately be euthanized at County animal care centers," said Antonovich. "A mobile clinic can bring services to communities where transportation to a stationary clinic may be difficult."

The Department of Animal Care and Control (DACC) has received a generous offer from the Coalition for Pets and Public Safety, a local nonprofit animal welfare organization, for the donation of a mobile spay/neuter clinic and half a year of operating costs to run the clinic. The motion directed the Department of Animal Care and Control and the Chief Executive Office to pursue a donation agreement with the Coalition for Pets and Public Safety for the development of a mobile spay/neuter vehicle.

PET OF THE WEEK ATHENA: ANIMAL ID #A4865125

Cuteness comes in many forms, and in this case, it is that of an adorable puppy! Athena (A4865125) is a wiggly-butt 5-month-old chocolate-and-white female Pit Bull Terrier mix whose owners left her at the Baldwin Park Animal Care Center on August 10th. Weighing 35 pounds (and likely to get to around 55 pounds when fully grown), Athena is all puppy. She has tons of energy and the strength that goes with the Bully breeds, and she loves everyone-people and dogs alike. Given her age and size/strength, she requires exercise and attention, plus the puppy basics and leash training to build both her bond with her person and her attention-paying skills. She's quite beautiful, with a white chevron pattern on the back of her neck and a wide white chest. She's also silly, displaying that puppy clumsiness and wiggliness that's so delightful. Shelter volunteers think Athena will do best as an indoor pet in a home where people understand and appreciate how strong and energetic she is. She's currently a "mouthy" (which training may address) puppy, too, so we think it's best that she not be in a home with small children. To watch a video of Athena, please visit the following link: http://youtu.be/ qlMnsLzBpS4

To meet Athena in person, please see her at the Baldwin Park Shelter, located at 4275 N. Elton, Baldwin Park, CA 91706 (Phone: 626-962-3577). She is currently available now. For any inquiries about Athena, please reference her animal ID number: A4865125. shelter is open seven days a week, 12 pm-7 pm Monday-Thursday and 10am-5pm Friday-Sunday. This is a high-intake shelter with a great need for adoptions. For more information about Starlet or the adoption process, contact United Hope for Animals Volunteer Adoption Coordinator Samantha at Samantha@hope4animals. SEAN'S SHAMELESS REVIEWS: YOUNG EMPIRES - "THE GATES"

By Sean Kayden

squad Young Empires have finally release their long awaited debut record, The Gates. Matthew Palahnuk (bassist), and Taylor Hill (drummer) make up the dynamic trio. The genre-mashing group has taken elements of pop, rock, electronic, and worldbeat to deliver a strong, official first outing. The ten tracks that have been in the Artist: Young Empires - "The Gates" works for quite sometime as the band previously released the EP, Wake All My Youth, in 2012. As Young Empires wavers between genres, they are displaying exceptional raw talent with their introduction record. The Gates is a fun, pop-infused effort brimming with dance beats and deep synth work. They have a noticeable penchant for uplifting arrangements. However, the band wrestles with serious themes within their songwriting propensities. Their lyrics echo with internal struggles and challenges as they glaze it over with catchy and infectious beats. Vlahovich's vocals display much fortitude track by track. It's evident that Young Empires have shed any greenness they may have had approaching their

The Gates begins with "The Mercy," which starts off with heavy R&B tinged beats. The song is epitome of cool with terrific sounds and heartpounding pulsations. The title track slips into a younger generation. While the music is sleek, the realm of intense reflectiveness. It's the kind of song to get lost into it, remain lost within. It engulfs the listener both on a lyrical and musical front. As you become more in tune with Young Empires, you get a feel for what they're going for. The direction remains pretty straightforward, The Gates gleams throughout as it navigates across but it just simply works well. "Stranglehold" is multiple genres in Young Empires' pursuit to another one that's transfixing in its execution. convey meaning behind the polished sounds. Young Empires have a predilection for arranging songs that start off moderately low beat before they erupt into something much more grand. This Grade: 7 out of 10

Toronto-based indie pop style works well to their advantage even if they rely on it for nearly every track. Perhaps the band was light on taking major risks, but their final product blends incredibly well together from beginning to Vlahovich (vocalist and keyboardist), Jacob end. Given the musical territory they are playing within, Young Empires do a fine job standing out from their peers.

> Album: The Gates Label: PIRATES BLEND RECORDS Release Date: September 4th, 2015

"House Lights" is another electrifying track. The seductive jam gets the listener into a great mindset. The elevating chorus is sharp, definitely hitting the mark. "Sunshine" is gloriously poppy and aptly titled. The band trades in R&B and deep electronic work for bright beats and saccharine melodies. It's a very 'Foster The People' kind of song, but hey, no complaints here. It remains a solid entry in a group of songs that have similarities in the sound department. The following track, "Uncover Your Eyes," is tunefully in the same vein as the aforementioned song. It also serves as closing song to the 40-minute endeavor. "Uncover Your Eyes" is bouncy, buoyant, and robust. It is unmistakably a radio-friendly jam that should connect with Young Empires try their best to convey richer messages. The track deals with overpowering the trials and tribulations one endures. The dramatic lyrics may be similar in theme to a lot of songs out there, the way this one is packaged shines bright.

of our subtle body, or the energetic body. The first seven chakras are described as "wheels" of energy and consciousness located on the central axis of the body. Each chakra is an energy center because of the number of Nadis or energy channels that run and intersect through that region. The chakras underlie every aspect of our physical, energetic, mental and emotional body. We can learn about the chakras through traditional study of theory, but we can also experience them in practice.

If traveling up the central axis of the body, the first chakra, mulahdara, is located at the root or pelvic floor. This chakra is associated with the Earth element and linked to our security, safety and self-preservation. Continuing to the sacrum and hips, we hit the 2nd chakra, swadhistana. This is often called the chakra of desire. When in balance, our trust and relationships are stable. We can control our urge for overindulgence. Next, at the solar plexus we have Manipura chakra. Associated with the fire element, this chakra is linked to motivation, confidence, power, and digestion. The 4th chakra is Anahata, located at the heart center. Our heart center

The chakras are part is the place of compassion and love. If our compassion for ourselves is rightly placed and others then get an outpouring from our abundance. The 5th chakra is Vishudhi, located at the throat center. The throat is our place of self-expression and communication. When out of balance, we might be at loss for words and lack creativity. Next, we move up to our third eye, or Ajna chakra. This is an important one. The seat of the mind is located here. When our third eye is awakened and conscious we can calm our mind and focus on spiritual practice. The last chakra (of the initial 7), Sahasrara, is located at the crown. This region is responsible for our universal consciousness and connection to absolute, all knowing divinity. All of the chakras work together as a system. It's important that each one is balanced and clear or the imbalance can affect all others.

It appears that meditation may be beneficial in learning, something we all want to keep doing as we age. Successful aging requires that we eat well, stay active and exercise our brains.

Meditation does not need to be difficult: Find a quiet room and sit comfortably, in comfortable clothes with your eyes closed. Breathe normally through your nose. Relax and concentrate on your breathing. Quiet your mind and try not to have any thoughts. This may be difficult. Some people find that repeating the word om (as in dome) in a natural repetition helps in this process. Don't be worried or give up if you can't keep thoughts out of your mind. This comes with practice.

LIFE INSURANCE POLICY

THAT'S RIGHT FOR ME

Life insurance products can be complicated, and because they often come with high commissions for the people selling them, it can be hard to know what to buy and who to trust when you are making that decision. The place to start is to think about whether and why you need life insurance.

The most basic reason is if you have an obligation or need to provide income replacement for others who depend on

you. That means if you have anyone dependent on you, you probably want some kind of life insurance--as they say, your family goals and circumstances. The two main types of insurance you'll hear about are "term" and "whole life."

and if you do not die during that period, the insurance doesn't pay. For example, you may have a 10-year term policy. Each year, you pay your premium and if you don't

AND MY FAMILY?

'insurance says I love you."

to re-apply for the insurance, which means full application and health exam and a rate increase because you are 10 years death. That means that no matter when you die, if your policy is paid up, your insurance will pay out. Whole life policies have an investment component that accumulates a cash value while also guaranteeing a death benefit. So each year that you pay your premium and don't die, part of the premium you paid is gone, but part of it is allocated to the investment part of your policy, which means you are building up an investment.

Here's the thing about that ... sometimes (maybe often) insurance is not the best investment vehicle, primarily because of how much of the premium goes to pay commissions on the policy rather than to your investment

But, if your spouse or child or business is going to need insurance when you die, you will want to get a permanent, whole life type policy.

The bottom line with life insurance is to make sure you realistically assess your needs and then purchase an amount of insurance that meets those needs. I recommend running your insurance decisions by a trusted advisor who is objective, not paid a commission, and shares the same goal as you--keeping your family out of court, out of conflict and well-cared for when you can't be there.

I believe in developing relationships with families for life. That's why my firm not only helps identify the best legal strategies for you and your family; we also incorporate insurance, financial, and tax strategies into our holistic approach to estate and legacy planning.

ROADSIDE ASSISTANCE SERVICES FOR OLDER DRIVERS

Dear Savvy Senior,

I would like to get my wife and I set up with some type of roadside assistance service in case we get a flat tire or our battery conks out. Can you recommend some good and affordable services for retirees on a budget? Too Old to Fix a Flat

Dear Too Old,

Getting set up with a roadside assistance service you can call on day or night if your vehicle breaks down is a smart idea, and can provide you and your wife some real peace of mind. Here are some different options to look into that help you find a

If you find that you aren't covered, or you want a better roadside plan than what's currently available to you, you'll want to check out auto/motor clubs. Most of these clubs offer two or more levels of membership depending on how much roadside assistance you want and are willing to pay for, and they often provide a variety of discounts on things like hotels, rental cars and other services.

One of the best known and longest running clubs, AAA (aaa.com) offers comprehensive services and has an extensive network of more than 40,000 roadside assistance providers, which usually means fast response times. motorized witches dominated the front of the store. I'm sure it's only a matter of time before elaborate yard decorations start springing up around town. Aside from the people who celebrate Christmas by festooning their houses and yards with super-sized Santas and mammoth reindeer, Halloween seems to be the holiday for which people "go all out."

Why is Halloween so popular? Of co it's fun for kids to dress up and binge on candy, but why go to all the effort of transforming your yard into a labyrinth of doom? After careful consideration, I've come up with a few possible explanations.

Halloween's place in the order of holidays allows for more energy to be spent on it. After the Fourth of July, we get the rest of July and all of August to relax. There's Labor Day in September, but who decorates for that? Some people might have a BBQ, but it's not really big on the holiday hit parade. Columbus Day is in October, but you never hear of Columbus parties either. (Besides, modern culture has vilified Columbus so much that hardly anyone even gets the day off.) So, there's been a lot of latent holiday energy building since the last firework fizzled away on July 4th.

Also, Halloween isn't a "milestone" holiday. As kids, we all enjoyed our birthdays. But as we get older, we chide ourselves for failing to achieve goals. We say, "I'm [30, 40, 50...], and I'm still not married, earned my masters, bought a house, or [fill in the blank]." New Year is another "celebration" famous for this kind of melancholy. Heck, just listening to "Old Lang Zine" is depressing enough!

But out of the calendar of holidays, you can count on Halloween to not be sentimental. There are no tear-jerker songs like "I'll be home for Halloween," or "Have Yourself a Merry Little Halloween." So, deck your lawn with tombstones and stock up on Snickers and Twix. But be sure to save some Twix for yourself --you'll need the energy for Thanksgiving and all that lies beyond. Come to think of it, you might as well save all the Snickers, too. So many kids have peanut allergies these days. "Happy Snacking" -- I mean, "Haunting!"

CERES' SPOTS AND SATURN'S RINGS

The bright spots on dwarf planet Ceres gleam with mystery in new views delivered by NASA's Dawn spacecraft from an altitude of 950 miles. These closest-yet views of Occator crater, with a resolution of 450 feet per pixel, give a deeper perspective on these very unusual features.

Animations are available at: http://www.jpl.nasa.gov/spaceimages/details. php?id=pia19890 a few bright dots into a complex and beautiful, gleaming landscape," said Marc Rayman, Dawn's chief engineer and mission director based at JPL.

Dawn is the first mission to visit a dwarf planet, and the first to orbit two distinct solar system targets. It orbited protoplanet Vesta for 14 months in 2011 and 2012, and arrived at Ceres on March 6, 2015.

ONE OF SATURN'S RINGS IS NOT LIKE THE OTHERS. When the sun set on Saturn's rings in August 2009, scientists on NASA's Cassini mission were watching closely. It was the equinox—one of two times in the Saturnian year when the sun illuminates the planet's enormous ring system edge-on.

Like Earth, Saturn is tilted on its axis. Over the course of its 29-year-long orbit, the sun's rays move from north to south over the planet and its rings, and back again. The changing sunlight causes the temperature of the rings—which are made of trillions of icy particles—to vary from season to season. During equinox, which lasted only a few days, unusual shadows and wavy structures appeared and, as they sat in twilight for this brief period, the rings began to cool.

In a recent study published in the journal Icarus, a team of Cassini scientists reported that one section of the rings appears to have remained warmer than expected during equinox. This provided a unique window into the interior structure of ring particles not usually available to

"For the most part, we can't learn much about what Saturn's ring particles are like deeper than 1 millimeter below the surface. But the fact that one part of the rings didn't cool as expected allowed us to model what they might be like on the inside," said Ryuji Morishima of JPL, who led the study.

A Weekly Religion Column by Rev. James Snyder

flower is simply a flower. I do not acquainted with those thorns later. know the difference between a rose and a lily. If it looks pretty, I like it. I like to keep "Where," I asked, "are the roses?" things simple.

When I have to buy flowers for the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage, I have a wee bit of difficulty. Thankfully, the florist where I purchase flowers seems to know quite a bit about flowers. All I need to do is say, "I'd like to order flowers for my wife."

Usually they will begin the conversation by saying, "What kind of flowers would you like?"

To which I will respond, "Flowers for my wife."

I explain to them my flower deficiency and the flowers are not for me, so I do not care, they are for my wife. They nod their head, smile knowingly, and make a selection for me.

By the time we had been married for eight years, she commented on the flowers, which I did not quite get at the time. She simply said, "These flowers are as lovely as the same ones you bought last year for me."

At the time, I smiled and thought I had hit it out of

As a young husband, I did not quite know how to interpret many of the comments coming from my wife. I soon began to understand wives speak a different language than husbands. To this day, I am not quite sure what she is saying to me, but I smile broadly, nod my head vigorously and hope I'm somewhere in the ballpark.

Then came the time she wanted to plant roses in our backyard. I was all for it. When she brought the subject up, I smiled broadly and nodded my head vigorously not really knowing what was before us. Actually, not knowing what was before me.

First, we went to a garden store, of which I have never been to before, to select the roses for our backyard. I am always excited about any new experiences, especially if it involves both my wife and me. It is nice to do things together.

As we entered the store, my wife knew exactly where to go and led the way to the flower center. It was such a new experience to me I walked behind her with my mouth open staring to my left and then to my right. I never knew so many different flowers existed.

My wife, on the other hand, seemed to know exactly where she was going.

Then, we finally arrived at our destination. The Rose must confess I was rather confused. It was the Rose Center but there were no roses to be found. All I could see were a bunch of pots with sticks sticking

When it comes to flowers, a out of them with thorns. I was to become personally

"Right in front of you!" I ignored her sarcastic tone and looked at what she thought were roses. Under the circumstances, I decided to let it go. I figure there is no sense to embarrass her in front of the public. If she sees roses, who am I to contradict her?

Then I had a panic moment. One of the customer service personnel was walking in our direction. My "husband-mode" kicked in and I wanted to rescue my wife from an embarrassing moment.

I stepped up, shook the customer service personnel's hand and said, "I think we're a little lost here. We're looking for roses."

"Well," he said with a big smile, "you're in the right place. These are the best roses you will find anywhere."

To which, I was discombobulated. I looked all around and could not see one rose. I really do not like to be snookered like this. When I want to buy a rose, I want to buy a rose.

At this point, my good wife took over and began a very technical conversation about the roses she wanted for our backyard. I tried to keep up, but I was so confused and I am not sure I understood exactly what they were talking about.

Before I could figure it all out, we were loading all of these pots with sticks onto a shopping cart and headed for the checkout counter. Looking at me my wife said, "You do have your credit card, don't you?"

Still in a maze, I pulled out my credit card and in short time we were headed for my truck to load all of these pots in the back.

When we got home, we began the arduous task of transferring the sticks from the pots into our backyard. The only thing I could see were the thorns and they seem to like my hands. I know where the red comes from, it's my blood.

Several weeks later, my wife came running into the house very excited and said, "Come and see the roses."

Much to my surprise on these sticks were these little rosebuds between all the thorns. I wondered where all those roses came from.

James, in his epistle, sets the stage for this. "My brethren, count it all joy when ye fall into divers temptations; Knowing this, that the trying of your faith worketh patience" (James 1:2-3).

Just like a rose bush, life has its share of thorns. Between those thorns are roses, which make the thorns worthwhile.

DICK Polman

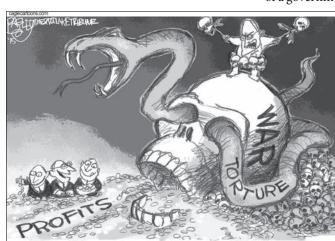

I'd like to invite you to The longcourse. discredited former veep has been roaming the land lately, agitating against the nuclear deal with Iran. His timing is poor - President Obama has already secured enough Senate Democratic votes to sustain the pact - so there's actually no need to heed the guy at all. But still, what happened Sunday on Fox News is worth a few paragraphs. It was almost as delicious as a holiday weekend dessert.

Host Chris Wallace asked Cheney: "You and President Bush, the Bush/Cheney administration, dealt with Iran for eight years.... During your time - let's put these numbers up on the screen - Iran went from zero known centrifuges in operation to more than 5000. So in fairness, didn't the Bush/Cheney administration leave President Obama with a

Props to Wallace for pointing out reality. During the Bush/Cheney reign, from early 2001 to early 2009, Iran's nuclear program went from zero to 5,000 nuclear centrifuges, and the purported administration tough guys did nothing to stop it. There was no stick (no military action), and no carrot (negotiations). But here's what Cheney said in response yesterday, when asked about the mess that he and Bush bequeathed to Obama:

"Well, I don't think of it that way. In fact, there was military action that had an impact on the Iranians, when we took down Saddam Hussein. There was a period of time when they stopped their program because they were afraid of what we did to Saddam we were going to do to them next."

Cheney is still defending his disastrous Iraq a barbecue with Dick invasion, which he somehow thinks made Cheney as the main Iran "afraid." It's pitiful what selective memory and willful denial can do to the human mind. Truth is, the Iraq invasion made Iran stronger in the region. Bush and Cheney "took down" Iran's longtime enemy, and created a vacuum - which Iran promptly filled. After Hussein and his ruling Sunnis were forcibly removed, Shiites loyal to Shiite Iran took over. Iraq has essentially been a client state of Iran's ever since. Compliments of Bush/Cheney.

> Anyway. Chris Wallace, to his credit, shrugged off Cheney's propaganda and persisted: "But the centrifuges went from zero to 5,000."

> Whereupon Cheney, realizing that he was trapped, resorted to one of his favorite tactics: Falsehood. He replied, "that happened on Obama's watch, not on our watch."

> But Wallace refused to swallow the lie: "No, no, by 2009, they were at 5,000."

> Cheney, caught in his lie, finally surrendered: "Right." But, alas, the moment was short lived. The next thing out of his mouth: "But I think we did a lot to deal with the arms control problem in the Middle East." Wow. Invading Iraq, and flooding the Middle East with weaponry, was good for arms control? Clearly this guy spent too much time in that secret undisclosed

> At this point, the only people who listen seriously to Cheney are denizens of the neoconservative bubble, people who long ago lost all credibility on national security policy and who have already lost the battle with Obama over the nuclear deal.

> The saner option, on TV Sunday, was Colin Powell. Referring to the Iraq disaster, Powell said on NBC News: "Once you pull out the top of a government, unless there's a structure under it to give security and structure to the society, you can expect a mess." As for the nuclear deal with Iran, he pointed out that Iran will be cutting its centrifuges by 75 percent; and cutting its uranium stockpile from 12,000 kilograms to 300 -'a remarkable reduction....We've stopped this highway race they were going down."

Decide for yourself who's right. As for me, I'll take word of a career military man over the word of a desk jockey who got five draft deferments.

SAVED ONCE AGAIN BY MY 9 IRON A 9 iron is a golf knew that if I took that flight which club, one that my game. When traveling with golf clubs, I 'chipping' in my hotel room with my 9 Iron, than practicing with any other club. It has saved me on the golf course countless times, and on day, 14 years ago, it saved my life.

Most people remember where they were on that fateful day -September 11, 2011. I for one, remember where I was not. Except for middle aged fatigue and my 9 iron, I may very well not have been here today to share this story.

In 2001, I was deeply in the throes of being semi-retired, consulting on various projects across the country. One of the projects was in New Orleans and fit the best of all my worlds. It was golf related and it served the youth of the community. I had taken my golf clubs forgetting how hot and humid it was in New Orleans in August. It's a good thing I did though, because those clubs kept me from being another 911 casualty.

Very early on Friday Morning, September 7th, I received a call from Fred Williams of the Venus and Serena Williams Tennis Academy in Los Angeles, informing me that Richard Williams had called and asked that the leadership of the academy and I come to Flushing to see the girls play. They had made it to the finals. I had just finished a very successful fund raiser for the academy in LA, and Richard and the Williams sisters extended this invitation in appreciation for my work on that event. Since I was in New Orleans flying to New York wasn't a problem. Their match was on Sunday so there was plenty of time to make it. My initial thought was ok, I'll change my flight and go. I also thought about calling my daughter who lived in Memphis at the time and having her meet me in NY so we could spend a day shopping on Monday. I would return on Tuesday, September 11th via flight 93 and reschedule a meeting I had in the Bay Area for Wednesday. I knew the itinerary well, as traveling was a major part fate that change our lives forever. of what I had done for years. I was going to San Francisco, I could is invaluable to kill two birds in one stone, be done with my business in the Bay Area and come home uninterrupted for a few weeks without traveling. spend more time Sounded like a plan so my response was yes, but I told them not to book my flight until I was done with my last New Orleans meeting, probably mid afternoon.

So, everything was set. I completed my NO meeting around noon and went back to my hotel room to pack and check out. I was really tired after several days of non stop meetings, but I started to pack anyway. I called Fred and missed him so I waited for his return call to tell him what to book. Now, when you travel with your golf clubs, in addition to your regular golf bag, you have a 'travel bag' to protect them. It is a struggle to get that bag on, and when you are done, you have an object that weighs about 40 lbs and looks like a stuffed body bag. Just as I finished my cell phone rang and it was Fred. I asked him to hold on for a moment so I could steady my golf monstrosity against the wall. That's when I saw it! I had done all that maneuvering and packing of golf clubs and inadvertently left my 9 iron out. That was it. I looked at that club, knowing that I had to reopen the monstrosity to pack it and almost cried. I began to feel every bit of my age. I would never muster up the energy to repack, hop on a plane to NYC, lug those clubs around, go to the US Open, and fly back to California all between Saturday and Tuesday. I and picked up the phone and told Fred that I would have to pass on the opportunity. After I hung up, I called the airline, got on the next flight out to LAX and was home by midnight to everyone's surprise.

It wasn't until about a week later while still reeling in disbelief over the events of 911, that I realized that I could have been on that fateful Flight 93 on my way to Northern California. Yes, I would have witnessed Venus' historic victory, but I would not have been able to share it with a soul. Sometimes we just never know the little twists of Events leading up to and over the Labor Day weekend, however, brought to mind Mark Twain's above response to his premature obituary. True, union membership has gone from nearly a third of the workforce in the about working men and women they find so 1950s to 11% in 2014, but the collective voices offensive?" of our workers were heard loud and clear over the past couple weeks.

The week leading up to Labor Day began with the U.S. Chamber of Commerce reporting that for the 2nd quarter of 2015, the 3.7% growth rate of our economy under President Obama far outpaced that of the rest of the developed world (Japan at 1.6%, the U.K. 0.7%, Germany 0.4%, any time under President Ronald Reagan.

The focus, though, was on the workers responsible for that performance.

A report from the Institute for Women's membership - particularly on women, who worker represented by a union earns an average 31% more than one who isn't (the difference see a 34% wage boost in union membership, with a 42% advantage for Hispanic women. workers, with women making 89% of what America is strong." men do, but it's narrower than the general workforce figure of 78%.

Figures released from the Bureau of Labor Statistics showed the impact of Seattle's minimum wage law, passed last year raising it to $11 as of January this year and to $15 by 2017. Republicans warned of massive job losses, particularly in the restaurant industry. The new figures show a net gain of 1,800 jobs in Day shows Americans' support for organized "food services" and bars since the law went into

The week saw a landmark ruling from the National Labor Relations Board, which declared a California recycling plant a "joint employer". The far-reaching ruling went against those who claimed that being a franchisee or subcontracting with staffing firms allowed them to ignore workers' rights - including the right to organize. UFCW President Marc Perrone called it "a victory for hard-working men and women". Republicans vowed to reverse it.

But that's not how the economy works. That's not how working people get ahead." Referring to Republican presidential candidates, the president quoted Ted Kennedy; "What is it

At the Labor Day parade in Pittsburgh, Vice President Joe Biden laid out what's at stake in collective bargaining; "Without the ability to sit down with the most powerful entities in the world, without that ability to negotiate . . . there is no shot for any American worker. This is what I do. This is what I believe in."

A Gallup poll released two weeks before Labor labor climbing five points (to 58%) just in the last year - its highest approval in six years. (Other polls show the candidacy of Wisconsin Gov. Scott Walker, the Koch brother's posterboy for union-busting, taking a nosedive.) The poll suggests that any report of the demise of organized labor in America should be regarded as, at best, "an exaggeration".

HUCKABEE PLAYS THE FOOL

Watching Republicans on TV is getting more painful by the week.

And believe it or not, my pain has nothing to do with the successful candidacy of Donald

The pain started Tuesday, when, joining a few score of my fellow Americans, I accidentally tuned into MSNBC. There was big Mike Huckabee, live, making a religious, political and constitutional fool of himself. He was standing in front of a public building somewhere in Kentucky, railing about "judicial tyranny," damning the Supreme Court for upholding gay marriage, pretending to be crying now and then and openly pandering to Christian conservatives for their votes.

The event was supposed to be a rally for Kim Davis, the anti-gay marriage county clerk who'd just been released from jail after serving six days for refusing a judge's order to issue marriage licenses to all couples, gay and straight.

But it really was a campaign stop for Huckabee – and not a very successful

When he urged the crowd to defy the U.S. Supreme Court's ruling on gay marriage in the name of religious liberty or state rights, he only proved he's not a constitutional scholar.

When he said that what the Supreme Court decides is not the law of the land, he proved it's time for him and his faith-based conservatism to quit running for the White House. And when Huckabee acted as if Ms. Davis was a cross between Rosa Parks and Joan of Arc, instead of a local bureaucrat who decided she wouldn't do the job she took an oath to do, he insulted everyone's intelligence. Huckabee clearly - and cynically -- used Davis and her dilemma to try to advance his own political cause. But all he actually managed to do was hurt the Republican Party's already beat up brand and give the mainstream media another chance to make it look like the GOP's Big Tent is crawling with freaks. Huckabee, who has become an embarrassment-by-association that hurts the other Republican presidential candidates, had the Davis case all wrong from the start. He tweeted that "Kim Davis in federal custody removes all doubts about the criminalization of Christianity in this country. We must defend #religiousliberty."

It's true that religious liberty needs to be defended in the private sector, whenever the law is used to force owners of bakeries or photographers or preachers to violate their religious beliefs and take part in a gay marriage.

But Davis is not a private citizen. She's an elected public official. As a county clerk, as a part of the government, it's her job to follow the law - including the U.S. Supreme Court's ruling on same-sex marriages -- until it's overturned. Or she's free to quit if her moral principles won't let her sign same-sex marriage licenses.

Most Republican candidates - the smartest ones - stayed as far away as they could from Kentucky and Davis. But Donald Trump, who can say anything about anything without suffering the slightest political scratch, waded in right in – and was right. He basically said America is a "nation of laws" and Davis should have followed the law or figured out a way to recuse herself from any gay marriage licensing process.

That sounds like something Ronald Reagan might have said if he had been watching the Davis sideshow. I know he definitely would have followed the law, not Mike Huckabee.

I also know my father would agree with me that the worst thing the Davis circus in Kentucky did this week was make his Republican Party look bad. Copyright ©2015 Michael Reagan. Michael Reagan is the son of President
