WATER WOES CONTINUE FOR SIERRA MADRE

City Receives Warning From State; Discoloration Escalates

State Water Resources Control Board, (SWRCB), noting that the City did not meet its state mandated 32% conservation goal in July, attaining only 28.4%.

The State letter is the first step in enforcement action against the City that can be taken by the State for not meeting the specified goal.

According to Sierra Madre's Director of Public Works, Bruce Inman in his Public Works report, noted that water production figure production data already submitted to the SWRCB for August shows an even lower conservation rate, 24.8% so the city can expect to receive a Notice of Violation and Information Order from the State in the next few weeks. September's water production numbers are even more dismal than August at 23.4%. It is entirely possible that the result of the production report we will have to turn in for September (Due October 15) the SWRCB may assess a significant fine against the City and/or order the City to take specific conservation-related actions.

While the City response to the Information Order soon as possible.

In this week's City Manager's report, Elaine Aguilar reported that the city had received a warning from the conservation, the fact that the result of those efforts has not met state requirements is expected to result in the City being required to take more stringent actions. Note that the conservation is calculated by the state on a cumulative basis beginning in June 2015. At this time, not only will the city have to increase its monthly conservation to attain 32% cumulatively, but we will actually have to exceed that conservation rate to make for those months in which the 32% wasn't met.

> Part of the responsibility for not meeting the state mandates may be attributed to the numerous water main breaks that have been occurring throughout the

WATER DISCOLORATION INCREASES

Inman also noted in his report that portions of the City are experiencing an increase in water discoloration due to the temporary shutdown of the water treatment system that had been somewhat effective in reducing the iron being released into the water from public and private piping. Treatment of the water will resume as

SIERRA MADRE PLAYHOUSE GETS FIRST EVER OVATION NOMINATIONS

The Sierra Madre Playhouse received two Ovation Award nominations for the 2014-15 season. John Prosky was nominated for Best Leading Actor in a Play in last winter's production of A Walk in the Woods. Cori Cable Kidder was nominated for Best Leading Actress in a Musical in the current production of Always...Patsy Cline, running through October 30. Nominations were announced on Thursday by the LA Stage Alliance. The recognition represents the first Ovation nomination received by each actor, as well as the first nominations to honor the Sierra Madre Playhouse.

The Ovation Awards are the most prestigious theater awards in the Greater Los Angeles area, the equivalent of New York's Tony Awards. They are also the largest peerevaluated awards in the country. LA Stage Alliance selects 240 Ovation Awards voters from area theater professionals who rank eligible productions according to a point system. In the 2014-15 season, 297 theater productions were registered for the Ovation Awards from 118 participating theaters. A total of 203 nominations were delivered to 73 productions presented by 45 organizations.

"I'm so proud of the recognition for Cori Cable Kidder and John Prosky, as well as our theater," said Christian Lebano, Artistic Director of the Playhouse. "It's unfortunate that John's work isn't still on our stage, but audiences can see Cori's performance through October 30 at the Playhouse." Lebano also acknowledged the many designers and actors nominated for work at other theaters who had also been involved with the Playhouse this past season. nominations reflect our commitment to drawing the very best talent we can," said Lebano.

Cori Cable Kidder

The Ovation awards ceremony will be held at the Ahmanson Theater at the LA Music Center on Monday, November 9.

"I will be there to cheer on our nominees," said Lebano, "and to show the theater community that SMP is in the house!"

SIERRA MADRE POLICE BLOTTER

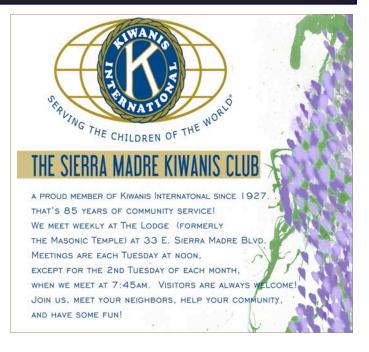

During the week of Sunday, September 13th, to Sunday, September 20th, the Sierra Madre Police Department responded to approximately 229 calls for service.

Sunday, September 13th

At 10:47 pm, Sierra Madre Police responded to the 200 block of Ramona Avenue regarding a suspicious person. Upon arrival, the resident informed Officers that several minutes before when he arrived home, he parked his car in his driveway. When he got out of his vehicle he heard a noise coming from the bushes. When he looked over towards the noise, he noticed a dark figure looking over his fence back towards him. The figure, which was described as a male, approximately 5'8" tall with a medium build and wearing a black hoodie, quickly ducked down. The man immediately went into his home to check on his father then called the police. Officers searched the area but did not find any further evidence. This case has been forwarded to the Detective Bureau.

Wednesday, September 16th

At around 3:37 am, Sierra Madre Police were patrolling the area of Sierra Madre Blvd and Auburn when they heard a vehicle's tires spinning on the wet pavement. When Officers continued on the boulevard they witnessed a white truck with missing passenger side tail and brake lamp, traveling at a high rate of speed. As the truck approached the intersection of Sierra Madre Blvd and Baldwin, it made a right turn at approximately 8 mph, failing to stop at the stop sign. Officers witnessed the truck veer in and out of the north bound lanes while driving south bound. The truck did not immediately come to a stop once asked and drove through another stop sign before pulling off to the side. The man consented to a vehicle search, and Officers located an expired disabled person's parking placard that was registered to someone else, as well as blank checks. When Officers questioned why he was in possession of someone else's belongings, the man stated that they probably belonged to the previous owner of the truck as he did not clean it out when he bought it a few weeks ago. Officers noticed the names on the checks also matched the names on the vehicle registration card for the previous owner. Officers cited the man for crossing the double lines and appropriation of lost property. This case has been forwarded to the Detective Bureau for a follow up with the names on the

Walking Sierra Madre...The Social Side

by Deanne Davis

"Nuclear disarmament and non-proliferation are not utopian ideals. They are critical to global peace and security." Ban Ki-moon

What a week! Will Farrell and Amy Poehler filming in town, our favorite jockey, Victor Espinoza, dancing with Karina Smirnoff on Dancing With The Stars, the scarecrow workshop last Saturday at Creative Arts, and rain! We had actual rain!

The best thing that happened to me this week was meeting Amadea Tanner. Occasionally one meets a young person who is so awesome that one is filled with hope for our future. Yes, there are wonderful teen-agers out there! The hour I spent at The Only Place In Town with her is one I shall treasure. This young woman is probably the busiest person I've talked to in some time, and everything she's doing is beneficial to the world at large.

A research project about the Humanitarian Impact of Nuclear Weapons led to her being one of two Pasadena High School students chosen to accompany the Assistant Principal to Hiroshima, Japan this past summer to represent PHS at a conference on non-proliferation. Additionally, she created a nuclear non-proliferation website. Also attending the conference were students from two schools in Russia, four in Japan and an additional four U.S. schools. Now how amazing is that! Students stayed with host families and Amadea's impression of Japan is that it is very clean...no litter, no graffiti, with very strict social conduct. She was there during the Cherry Blossom Festival and said the locals aren't that wild about it, even though this is one of the most world-famous-save up for years to see it events. Why on earth not, you're asking...well, being over-the-top clean, neat and tidy, they don't like having to keep cleaning up those blossoms! You know, like us when it's Jacaranda blossom time. We love looking at the purple clouds but get really tired of tracking those blossoms into the house.

How was the food? Amadea's host family, wanting to be sure she got the full Japanese food experience served lots of sushi and included her in a family celebration at a sashimi restaurant where ten different courses of raw fish were served. Let's just say that being the delightfully polite young woman she is she smiled a lot and got through it. The Sake ice cream was, "interesting." Her host family live in a very modern, upper-middle class house on a mountain at the edge of the cherry blossom forest, the trees of which have been there for centuries.

Her trip included a visit to the Hiroshima Peace Park and Museum, where the 70th anniversary of the WWII bombing was observed this past summer. This park, filled with numerous memorials, stands on the site of the original bomb crater in downtown Hiroshima. Two of the monuments which most impressed Amadea were the Cenotaph for the A-bomb Victims. Below the Cenotaph arch is a stone chest holding a register of the names of those who died because of the bomb, either due to the initial blast or exposure to radiation. There are over 220,00 names. Also, The Atomic Bomb Memorial Mound, a large, grass-covered knoll which contains bomb. She commented on the thousands of paper too!

cranes which are everywhere in the peace park, originating with one little girl, Sadako Sasaki, who became ill with leukemia several years after the bombing. Sadako believed that folding a thousand paper cranes would help her to live and, sadly, she did, indeed, fold a thousand paper cranes. Her death was the inspiration for the Children's Peace Monument at the Peace Park. Needless to say, this student conference in Japan to promote non-nuclear proliferation impacted Amadea in a big way.

What did she do the rest of the summer? Traveled to Europe to visit friends and family in France and Florence, visited cousins in Quebec, spent some time looking at Canadian colleges, wrote a terrific blog about her travel adventures and had, basically, a fabulous summer. School is back and Amadea, now a senior, keeps herself busy at PHS being a violinist in the orchestra, she also plays piano and taught herself viola. She's Editor in Chief of the yearbook, runs cross-country, and plans to attend film school and be a screen writer. She made it into the second round for the Rose Court and her goal is to keep expanding on her life experiences. At 17 she's already had more life experiences than a lot of people ever get around to! And then, just to make this wonderful hour we spent together even more special, I discovered that she is the little girl I have observed over the years living right here in Sierra Madre next door to our daughter, Leah, and her husband, Chuck! She babysits their cats and plays their piano! I am convinced that we are going to hear great things about Amadea Tanner in the next few

Patricia Ancona: As an artist I promote Arts and Artists. This is an obsession and as an obsession I can only share the fruits and hope to share the emotions. These textiles are hand-made by Mexican women who will share their skill and tradition. My passion is to support their beautiful work and pay them a rate that respects their skill, with the hope that their children will learn and continue

Elizabeth Converse has known several artistic professions from the inside out: painter, writer, educator. In the last year, she began devoting herself to a new series of painting. Her Away paintings on display reflect her recent interest in landscapes and the notion of Being Away and Renewal. Also on display are current designs and Textiles from her growing Leda Collection

Sophia D'Auria launched her company SoPhab in 2014. After 10 years of working for others in the decorative lighting industry, honing her wood and metal working skills on both large commercial projects and intimate one of a kind designs, she decided to start her own artisan business. She is committed to creating fun, friendly and functional lighting for both homes and workspaces.

. Jennifer Lindstrom is an artist of many colors and mediums from henna to glitter and paint or collage. You never know what its going to be, it could be anything. On exhibit will be a collection of bird prints mounted in hand painted distressed picture frames. There may also be a few original paintings for sale or possibly an entirely new project altogether. SIERRA MADRE COMMUNITY NURSERY SCHOOL RELEASES 70TH ANNIVERSARY EDITION OF NURTURING HUMAN GROWTH

The local preschool Sierra Madre Community being. It demonstrates how a school program Nursery School has published a new edition of its based on this philosophy is developed for children, signature handbook Nurturing Human Growth. This edition is in honor of their upcoming 70th Anniversary and includes a special dedication a new foreword by school Director Beverly Slocum and Assistant Director Amy McGinnis.

For many years the handbook created at Sierra Madre Community Nursery School, Nurturing Human Growth, has been used by colleges and early childhood teaching programs throughout the country. Now in its third printing, this valuable text is available for purchase by interested nursery schools, libraries, universities, parents and others.

It is a book about human beings, each worthy of celebration. In it, the school shares their philosophy and understanding of the unfolding of the human parents and other adults, and offers practical suggestions for parents to use at home or school.

About Sierra Madre Community Nursery School The Sierra Madre Community Nursery School is a non-profit, parent participation preschool and kindergarten that has been nurturing young children in the San Gabriel Valley since 1947. Since its inception, parents and friends of the school have provided their manpower to build the facilities and maintain them. Over the years it has become one of the largest, most respected parent co-operative preschools in California. The school ascribes to the recommendations of NAEYC, the National Association for the Education of Young Children, and has been accredited by that organization. CONGRESSWOMEN JUDY CHU AND GRACE NAPOLITANO PARTNER WITH KAISER PERMANENTE FOR ANNUAL DOMESTIC VIOLENCE AWARENESS CAMPAIGN AND COLLECTION DRIVE

By Ioan Schmidt

This past Tuesday I attended the Kick-off Press Conference for the 12th Annual Domestic Violence Collection Drive. Twelve years ago, Congresswoman Judy Chu (CA-27) saw firsthand domestic violence, her friend, an educator with an abusive husband. During the divorce, the abuser was going to get HALF of the victim's retirement pay. Chu couldn't believe this; hence her Assembly Bill 2018, protecting victims from being forced to share financial assets with abusive spouses. Also Chu penned AB 1288-This prevents perpetrators of abuse to purchase firearms. If they do so, victims are alerted.

Within the last two years, Congresswoman Grace Napolitano (CA-32) has joined with Chu. Rep. Napolitano said, "It is a privilege to continue working with Congresswoman Chu, Kaiser Permanente and so many other local heroes in our fight to end domestic violence. The emotional wounds inflicted by domestic violence are often invisible, so increased mental health awareness is critical to ensure those in need seek health." (All in the 32nd District applaud Napolitano's focus on Veterans and Mental Health issues-especially in our schools)

Dr. Victor Cheng, Physician In-Charge, Kaiser Permanente, and on-board these twelve years spoke of victims of ALL ages, socio-economic/ ethnic groups.

Ken Muche, Public Relations Manager, Verizon Wireless, told us Verizon has also been involved in this project of victims of domestic violence for many years and has obtained $29 million in grants.

Other speakers included Penny Wilson, President, General/California Federation of Women's Clubs; Ana Interiano, Director, YYCA San Gabriel Valley-Wings, and Personal Testimony from "Jessica".

At first, Dad and I didn't see eye to eye about moving to The Kensington, but ever since he did, we've both been thrilled

The Kensington why he should, he'd have assured you that everything was fine—that there was no need. However, I didn't see things the same way. Sure, my Dad had enjoyed a wonderful life with his wife in their home. But for the last few years, he'd been caring for her while she was terminally ill. Once she died, he was lonely and sad living by himself. It broke my heart. I understood that leaving memories behind would be hard, but when The Kensington came to Sierra Madre, I got excited for both of us. It took some persuasion to get my Dad to move. Finally, he did! Now, he is joking around again. New friends and lots to do have made him incredibly happy. Thanks to The Kensington, I have my Dad back.

City Appoints CITY MOVES New Finance Director

City Manager Michael announced week the appointment of Matthew Hawkesworth the new Director for Pasadena Finance Department. Hawkesworth will be responsible for the administration and operation of the department, including overall financial management of the City, accounting, debt management, investments, purchasing and payroll. He is expected to begin October 5.

Hawkesworth's appointment caps an eight-month recruitment nationwide process.

Hawkesworth was the Assistant City Manager for Rosemead, overseeing the Finance, Human Resources, Public Works, Technology and Risk Management departments.

"Mr. Hawkesworth brings managerial financial experiences to help restore public confidence in our financial operations," Beck said. "His experience overseeing departments and personnel at various levels will add to our existing Executive Leadership Team."

Hawkesworth said "I'm looking forward to joining the City Executive Leadership Team and serving the residents and businesses of the remarkable City of Pasadena."

The maximum annual salary for the Director of the Finance Department is $199,799, according to information on the City's website. Contract terms will be finalized prior to the start of his formal duties.

Pet of the Waak

Greyson (A384119) is a stunning four-year-old, affectionate gray domestic Shorthaired cat. He always wants attention and will talk you into picking him up. Greyson enjoys being carried and he will nuzzle into your neck. Greyson was previously living in our communal room at the shelter so we know he gets along with other cats. His favorite past time is cuddle time; all he wants is someone to hold him. Greyson would love to find a home where he will receive a lot of attention. He seems to get along with men, women, children, cats, and even small dogs. The regular cat adoption fee is $70 which includes the spay or neuter surgery, microchip, vaccinations, and a free follow-up health check at a participating vet.

New adopters will receive complimentary health and wellness exam from VCA Animal Hospitals, as well as a goody bag filled with information on how to care for your pet.

Call the Pasadena Humane Society & SPCA at 626.792.7151 or visit at 361 S. Raymond Ave. in Pasadena. Adoption hours are 11-4 Sunday, 9-5 Tuesday -Friday, 9-4 Saturday. Pets may not be available for adoption and cannot be held for potential adopters from phone calls or email. Directions and photos of all pets can be found at www. pasadenahumane.org.

NEW SUSTAINABLE LANDSCAPE DEMONSTRATION GARDEN WILL HELP DUARTE LEAD THE WAY IN OUTDOOR WATER CONSERVATION!

MONROVIA, CA, -The Upper San Gabriel Municipal Water District and the City of Duarte are pleased to announce the completion of a new water-wise, landscape demonstration garden located on the corner of Buena Vista Street and Village Road on the City of Hope A ribbon campus. cutting ceremony with be held for the Duarte community on Thursday, October 8 at 6:00 pm. Following the ribbon cutting ceremony, guests will be able to tour the garden area and enjoy light refreshments. Free parking is available in the lot adjacent to the project site and guests are encouraged to wear comfortable shoes.

The garden is part of Upper District's Sustainable Landscape Demonstration Program, a community-based conservation program that provides grant funding to cities as a means to convert high-water use landscapes to low-impact, drought tolerant gardens. For this project, Upper District was pleased to partner with the local water retailer, California American Water, who provided additional grant funding for the project. Additionally, the project was supported through the partnership of City of Hope, where the garden is located, and Burrtec Services.

"With California exper-iencing a severe drought, we wanted to select a site that would provide optimum visibility to the community and we are very pleased with the location and community partners that stepped up to the table," said Director Bryan Urias, representing Division 5 of Upper District's service area. "This location will provide community members with a great example of sustainable landscaping; drawing further attention and interest to water efficient gardening practices."

Now completed, the sustainable landscape demonstration garden in Duarte will significantly reduce the site's existing water footprint through the installation of high-efficiency irrigation systems, low-water-use plants, and on-site stormwater retention and capture. The approximately 2,000 square foot demonstration project was constructed by EcoTech Services, Inc. and showcases a variety of California native plants, including sage, toyon, yucca and other colorful plants.

"We are pleased to partner with Upper District, Cal American Water and the City of Hope on this wonderful project," stated Duarte Mayor Tzeitel Paras Caracci. "Now that the garden is complete, our Duarte residents and the many visitors coming to City of Hope will see how beautiful and efficient these sustainable landscapes can be."

Outdoor landscaping accounts for the highest percentage of regional water usage and grass turf is one of the most commonly used, water-thirsty plants. Thus, it is also one of the most promising targets for future water savings.

Upper District encourages residents and businesses throughout the San Gabriel Valley to consider using sustainable landscaping on their own properties as a means to significantly reduce their overall water use. For more information on removing grass turf, drought tolerant landscaping ideas, and other water-saving tips, please visit: www.bewaterwise.com and www.saveourwater.com.

The City of Duarte was incorporated on August 22, 1957. With integrity and transparency, the City provides exemplary public services in a caring and fiscally responsible manner with a commitment to our community's future. For more information visit www.accessduarte.com or call (626) 357-7931. Follow the City of Duarte on Facebook at facebook.com/duartecommunity; Twitter @CityofDuarte; Instagram @city_of_duarte and LinkedIn.

Upper District's mission is to provide a reliable, sustainable, diversified and affordable portfolio of high quality water supplies to the San Gabriel Valley; including water conservation, recycled water, storm water capture, storage, water transfers and imported water. Upper District services nearly one million people in its 144 square mile service territory. Governed by a five member elected board of directors, Upper District is a member agency of the Metropolitan Water District of Southern California. Annually, more than 78 billion gallons of water is used in Upper District's service area. ALVERNO HIGH SCHOOL STARTS NEW SCHOOL YEAR WITH INCREASE IN ENROLLMENT

Sierra Madre, CAThe halls of Alverno High School are a little busier this year as Alverno is reporting an increase in enrollment over last year.

"We are thrilled, and grateful, to report that Alverno's enrollment is up 7.75 percent from last school year. Alverno has made a number of improvements over the past few years and we are grateful that our local community has taken notice of these changes," said Julia V. Fanara, Head of School. "As we continue to evolve and grow, we do so while maintaining the values and excellence that have been pivotal to Alverno High School for the past 55 years. The Class of 2015 had a 100 percent college acceptance rate and received more than $1.5 million in scholarships and financial aid; we currently boast 16 AP scholars, and

THE REEL DEAL: by Ben Show BLACK MASS REVIEW

Lately, the movies that Johnny Depp has stared in have not been received very well. 'The Lone Ranger', 'Transcendence' and 'Mortdecai' have made up the legendary actor's low point in his career. With the fifth 'Pirates of the Caribbean' movie and the 'Alice in Wonderland' sequel still a few years away, can Depp revive his career by going back and to a more serious role, or is he unsalvageable?

At first, James Bulger (Johnny Depp) was not a big-time criminal. He was kept from becoming a large crime lord by the Italian mafia, who competed with Bulger and his Winter Hill gang for dominance in South Boston. However, when Bulger starts working with FBI agent John Connolly (Joel Edgerton) to get the Italian mafia out of Boston, Bulger begins to grow in power and insanity, wreaking havoc across the city.

Black Mass' is not only the movie that saved Depp's career, but it's also a really good gangster movie. The acting across the board is stellar, the writing is crisp and keeps the movie moving at a good pace, and the directing always makes you afraid of Bulger, while also being completely on his side. 'Black Mass' is definitely a film worth seeing, and will go down with 'The Godfather' and 'Goodfellas' as one of the best gangster films ever made.

JUST FOR BEST FRIENDS

OJAI RAPTOR CENTER

Rescue. Rehabilitate. Release. Educate.

There is nothing quite as captivating as seeing a huge hawk or owl, wings spread wide side-to-side, soaring over the treetops of our local foothills. When I am fortunate enough to catch a glimpse of such a beautiful sight, I can't help thinking it is a good sign that nature has things well in check and in good balance. Knowing the raptors are plentiful and engaged in seeking out their next meal in our area indicates to me that the local prey must be plentiful as well, and on it trickles down to all of the species, both plant and animal in nature's food chain.

However, there are numerous risks in our suburban sprawl that can cause valid concern about the local bird populations. Freeway traffic is one example. Also, the dwindling population of trees due to clearing for building and development creates a problem for birds when they go looking for a good nesting spot. Pollution, both in the air and on the ground is yet another potential hazard to the healthy proliferation and survival of all wildlife in our

I once read a statistic in an article telling the number of raptors killed each year by rapidly passing trucks on the freeway, entanglement in fences, electric cables and wires or other man-made obstructions. I can't remember the exact statistical figures quoted, but I do remember being absolutely floored when I read that article. Suffice it to say there are way too many birds being killed or injured by vehicles and other obstructions versus those that die a natural death after a full life in the forest.

The good news is there are people in the world who recognize the challenges birds of prey are met with by living so close to an urban setting and they realize the importance of doing everything possible to protect them. Ojai Raptor Center (ORC) is a state and federally licensed 501c3 non-profit organization made up of just those kinds of people. Folks who are dedicated to the rescue, rehabilitation and release of birds of prey, as well as to providing educational programs about wildlife and our shared environment.

ORC director, Kimberly Stroud started her training at the Raptor Rehabilitation & Release Program in 1992. Shortly after that she co-founded Wildlife Care of Ventura in 1994, where they received permits from California State and US Federal Fish & Wildlife Agencies, and went on to found ORC in 2000. There was no real 'Center' back then. In those days ORC operated out of volunteers' homes, including Kim's and a small outbuilding on the campus of outdoor clothing manufacturer, Patagonia. Thanks to the generous donations and help of many who care, today ORC has a 3 acre facility where Kim leads a part time staff of 2 and great group of 200+ volunteers. The Center's core goals are to rescue, rehabilitate and release birds of prey and other wildlife, but above and beyond wildlife rehabilitation, their Wildlife Education Program is of paramount importance to the work they do. They are committed to teaching the public about local raptor species, and how human interaction affects them. They carry out this mission by going to as many public events as possible with their 'education ambassadors' and every month they go to several schools to perform education programs for children in hopes that the next generation will have a deeper love and respect for birds of ORC also holds fund raisers and open house events throughout the year, inviting the public to come and learn more about their facility and programs. On Thursday, October 1 from 6-9pm they are having an art show at the Bell Arts Factory located at 432 N. Ventura Ave. in Ventura. There'll be refreshments including locally brewed beer, raptor ambassadors, and a variety of bird of prey-based fine art including photography and sculpture. $10 donation at the door. A second showing will be held the next evening as part of Ventura's traditional monthly "First Friday" event, so if you can't get away until the weekend, Friday night might work better for you.

Another upcoming ORC event is their annual Raptors of the Valley Fall Open House on Sunday Oct. 25th 12pm-4pm, to be held at the Ojai Raptor Center, 370 Baldwin Rd. in Ojai, CA. The whole family is invited to come and meet the staff and volunteers who do all the good work and get up-close and personal with the raptors themselves! There'll be refreshments, stage presentations, chumash stories, a silent auction and lots of activities for the kids. $5 at the door, children under 10 are free, no dogs please.

For more information about Ojai Raptor Center, you can visit their website at www.ojairaptorcenter.org. You may want to consider making a donation while you are visiting their site. It's as easy as 1-2-3, and you will benefit greatly from knowing that you have contributed to a very worthy and important cause.

LOOKING FOR A BEST FRIEND?

To watch football games with? Chester is your guy!

It is a shame that any animal has to end up in a shelter, rather than in a safe and happy home. But it seems especially sad when an older animal is either surrendered by their family, or is found stray on the streets trying to fend for themselves. Unfortunately, this is not a rare occurrence, and many shelters become nothing more than a quiet home to call his own the only option for animals that are no longer able to stay in the homes they have known for most of their lives. It is also a sad reality that older animals have a much lower chance of finding a new home most adopters want puppies or young dogs that can grow up in their families – so the seniors are most often passed over without a second look.

Meet Chester - this sweet guy can't help but melt your heart if you spend a little time with him. Chester was found as a stray dog in San Gabriel with no identification to help him locate his owner. He Chihuahua mix weighing almost 13 pounds. His coat is speckled with gray hairs, and his face is mostly

Besides his gray hair, Chester also has a bit of stiffness in his legs, probably from age related arthritis. It doesn't discourage him from walking, though he loves to get out of his kennel and get some mild exercise when he has the opportunity. He has a calm energy level and is very easy to harness and walk on

Chester also has some visual impairment. He does not seem to be blind, as he notices a few objects in his surroundings, but he needs some guidance when he walks, especially around steps and curbs and other changes in surfaces. In spite of his limited vision, Chester shows an interest in exploring his world, using his nose to find his way.

Chester is a loving dog, friendly with people, as well as with other dogs. He will happily sit in a lap for pets and will eagerly take treats if they are offered. He shares his kennel with another senior dog, and the two of them get along very well with each other.

Chester is a gentle, non-demanding dog and wants where he can spend his retirement years. He would enjoy a shady yard during the day, and a soft comfortable bed at night. Chester needs a loving person who is able to see beyond his age and mild disabilities. Please think about adopting Chester or another senior dog so they don't have to spend the cold winter months sleeping in a kennel. They will reward you with love and loyalty, and will bring many blessings to your life. Chester qualifies for our reduced fee 'Senior For Senior' adoption

Since he doesn't require a lot of is estimated to be around 13 years old, and is a tan exercise, he would make the perfect lap dog in a quiet environment. PET OF THE WEEK: PEPE -ANIMAL ID #A4875766

Amazing things sometimes come in tiny packages! Meet Pepe (A4875766), a distinguished 9-year-old black with white male Chihuahua who came to the Baldwin Park Animal Care Center as a stray on September 9th. Weighing 5 lbs, Pepe is a little bundle of senior-ness, which just means he is easy-going with a light-hearted energy - he is just an all-around awesome companion! He's not all that fond of walking on a leash, at least not in the shelter environment; but he has absolutely no issue with being carried to his destinations.

He would like his life from here on to be calm, structured, and preferably devoid of children, and full of inviting laps and soft beds to sit and sleep on, as well as comfy purses and/or pockets he will thrive as an indoor pet and companion in a loving household consisting of one or more in a loving household consisting of one or more Pepe, please reference his animal ID number:

SEAN'S SHAMELESS REVIEWS: THE CELESTIAL DEBUT LP FROM ASTRONAUTS, ETC.

By Sean Kayden

Debut record Out Wandering

Astronauts, etc. captures a heavenly soundscape in the course of ten commendable tracks. The man behind this moniker is Anthony Ferraro. The culmination of Astronauts, etc. didn't just happen by accident or overnight. While studying music at the University of California, Berkeley, Ferraro's arthritis began to affect his hands. Unable to perform etudes or concertos at the level that was deemed necessary, he dropped out of school and began to seek new avenues. It wasn't too long afterward when he started recording music in his bedroom under the name Astronauts, etc. He broke out in 2012 with singles, "Mystery Colors" and "Coldboy," and now the road has led him to his first full-length record. Ferraro was able to record his debut with jazz musicians at San Francisco's prominent Tiny Telephone. The album gracefully embodies 70s soft rock as well as echoes with modern day indie rock. Mind Out Wandering features crisp and laidback beats, but the dominant presence of Ferraro's work on the piano as well his powerful falsetto are on full

"If I Run" strikingly introduces Mind Out Wandering. It opens with a soft piano as it leads into a soulful 70s sound. There's a very earthy quality going on here too. After listening to the first song, the title of the album makes perfect sense. The melodies and vibes have a strange way of pacifying one's mind. In doing so, your mind runs wild with thoughts and imagery. "No Justice" is a dreamy track balancing between the likes of melancholy and optimism. The way Ferraro's songs are constructed seem as if there is an exact science to them. Every echo, beat, and pulse is on cue perfectly. The smooth work conquers the soul with sentimental lyrics and beautifully arranged melodies. "I Know" follows suit with wondrous guitars, effective vocals, and a poignant cadence throughout. You can feel the passion and laborious efforts that went into crafting each track on Mind Out Wandering. "Eye To Eye" speeds up the tempo when compared to the tracks before it. The R&B tinged tune is dance-ready from

Mind the beginning. With sultry vocals and marvelously crafted beats, it's a standout track amongst an already praiseworthy collection. "Eye To Eye" marks the halfway point of the record, but after just 5 tracks, you're already on full escape mode.

"Shake It Loose" is a superbly produced melodicpop song. As cliché as it is to say, this song (let alone the band itself) is a real breath of fresh air. Both invigorating and endearing, this upbeat endeavor puts you in a tremendous mood. "Control" is driven steady by the piano and Ferraro's tender vocals. The meditative effort picks up half way through, but still packs an emotional punch. As the song rises louder and louder toward the last fifteen seconds or so, it cuts off abruptly at the very end. "See You" starts off with hypotonic guitar vibes. It flows so smoothly as you follow along with Ferraro's lyrics that capture the spirit of falling in love and keeping your mind steady in the process. The finale for Mind Out Wandering is "Upward Swing." The warm beats and jazzy arrangements shine over the duration of the track. The record is cohesively stitched together as every track feels united, but at the same token, each song can stand firmly on its own. Farraro and his band have developed something refreshingly exceptional here for Mind Out Wandering. It's a special record that may give a nod to another era, however, finds its own originality in the progression. The album sounds gorgeous from start to finish as it soars with imagination, beauty, and depth. Astronauts, etc. have carved their own path midst the already worn out roads led by others in this modern

HONORS AND EXTENSIONS

By Artistic Director, Christian Lebano

Thursday was another good day for the Playhouse. We received our first two Ovation Award nominations ever! John Prosky and Cori Cable Kidder were both honored with nominations for their leading roles in A Walk in the Woods and Always...Patsy Cline respectively. I couldn't be happier for both of them - and for the Playhouse.

These nominations announce to all that we are serious in our goal of becoming a leading theatrical venue in the San Gabriel Valley and that we are committed to bringing audiences the best performances in the best productions we can. Even though we have grown so much in the last few years, we still struggle against a perception that we are a community theater. I still hear from some actors, "Sierra Madre - why would I want to work way out there - who will even notice?" Now I'll be able to point to these two nominations – for two different shows -- and tell prospective talent that our work DOES get noticed. And that we have great and loyal audiences as is evidenced by the tremendous response to Always...Patsy Cline.

The recognition that these awards bring goes so much further than the personal honor to John and Cori, but state unequivocally that we take seriously what we do. The Ovations honored several designers who have either worked with us the last few years or will be working with us later this season with nominations for work they did at other theaters. I am thrilled for them and for us because I know they will be bringing their best efforts to realizing the shows that they will be working on for us.

I will admit to being disappointed that Always...Patsy Cline wasn't nominated for Best Musical, I thought we really had a shot after we received our Ovation Recommendation, but then I didn't see the other shows that were nominated - all traditional book musicals. Awards aren't the endgame however, I am happy to exchange a nomination for the incredible response we've gotten to this show - AND am very proud to announce that we will be extending Patsy one final time to October 30. We are planning a big party after the last performance to which we will invite our patrons to join us. More about this as plans firm up.

If you haven't seen Patsy you now have until October 30 to do so. If you think a show may be soldout it is still worth calling Mary Baville in our box office and getting on the waiting list for the show you want – we sometimes get cancellations and Mary will call you and let you know. Remember we give 20% discounts for groups of 10 or more who purchase their tickets ahead of their attendance date. Please call Mary at 626.355.4318 to arrange your purchase.

THE JOY OF YOGA PRATYAHARA

In Patanjali's Yoga Sutras, the eight limbs of yoga lay out a path for living and practice. It is thought that the practitioner must master each limb before proceeding to the next. Some yogis practice it in precise order while others invite all eight limbs into their life. The fifth limb is Pratyahara, or withdrawal of the senses. This withdrawal of the senses, is essential for mastery of limbs that lie ahead such as one pointed focus, sustained concentration and devotion and ultimately, total bliss.

sound, touch, smell and taste. Using the senses as a guide, what negativity could you remove from your awareness? Or what is incredibly distracting? We are constantly bombarded with sensory experiences that divert us from our life goals and desires.

The most simple Pratyahara practice is to close the eyes and find your breath. Hear only the sound of your breath. Notice immediately where your attention goes. Further, you may try closing the eyes and using the thumbs to plug the ears. Again, hear the sound of your breath, notice your inner landscape. This practice could progress to close the eyes, ears, nostrils and mouth (careful measure should be taken to not deprive yourself of oxygen).

There's a relationship between the inner world of breath and meditation and the external world of screen by your senses (through food or screen time for example), incorporate Pratyahara into your day. It's super effective paired with pranayama or breath

Heathcare the Way Nature Intended WHY I LOVE AVOCADOS!!

What doesn't taste better with avocado on it? Not much! Avocados are a wonderful thing to add to your diet. Native to South America, it is an excellent source of soluble fiber which gets plaque out of your arteries and lowers cholesterol. This can help people reverse arteriosclerosis (hardening of the arteries). Avocados are an excellent source of protein and one of the highest sources of glutathione. This gives you energy, helps your cells to repair themselves and it is anti-aging!

Avocados, due to their mono and polyunsaturated fat content, are a great substitution for foods rich in saturated fat. Try substituting avocado for cheese on a sandwich or burger. Avocados also contribute nearly 20 vitamins, minerals and beneficial plant compounds that can add to the nutrient quality of your diet. Most American diets are deficient in magnesium and potassium. Avocados are a great source of both of these minerals. They improve the absorption of carotenoids rich foods when they are consumed at the same time. Many of our best foods for obtaining carotenoids—for example, sweet potatoes, carrots, and leafy greens contain very little fat so it is hard for our bodies to absorb these beneficial carotenoids. Adding avocado to your salad may be just the answer. Try substituting avocado for oil of any kind in your favorite salad dressing recipe. Using a blender for this generally works best. Avocados can be mixed with some cocoa powder and stevia to make delicious chocolate pudding.

At the end of the Feeling less than Vibrant? day, avocados are an awesome food. Taking the Complexity Out of Estate Planning Remember that old joke: How do you eat an elephant? Answer: One bite at a time. At the heart of that gag is the truth about how you tackle any seemingly complex task, taking it one step at a time so as not to overwhelm yourself.

Many people neglect to create an estate plan because they see it as the proverbial elephant...too big, too complex. But if you approach estate planning in a systematic fashion, it takes the complexity right out of it – especially with the help of a knowledgeable estate attorney.

Here are some tips on how you can reduce the complexity in creating an estate plan:

Add up your assets. Take into account your retirement accounts, life insurance policies, potential inheritance, savings, property ownership, etc.

Consider setting up a trust. Trusts are simply vehicles for protecting your assets from creditors - yours or your heirs - and from potential future ex-spouses. They are also a great mechanism for maintaining your privacy and allowing your assets to pass to your heirs without the expense and hassle of probate, which can tie up assets for a year or more. And they also help you and your heirs avoid estate

Please

Think about whom you trust to act as your agent(s). You will need to appoint a person or persons to act as your agent through a power of attorney in case you become incapacitated and are unable to make decisions yourself. This applies for health care decisions as well as financial oversight.

Realize what a will can and cannot do for you. A will gives you the legal power to pass along assets and property to heirs as well as name a guardian for minor children and appoint the people you want to carry out your wishes after you are gone - i.e., who will administer your estate and safeguard assets for your minor

A will does NOT shield your assets from creditors, predators, or opportunists - yours or your heirs nor does a will enable your family to avoid the very costly, lengthy, and public court process known as probate. A trust, on the other hand, accomplishes all of that and more.

If you would like to learn more about your own estate planning options, call our office today to schedule a time for us to sit down and talk. We normally charge $750 for a Family Estate Planning Session, but because this planning is so important, I've made space for the next two people who mention this article to have a complete planning session at no charge. Call 626.355.4000 today and mention this article.

SPECIALIZED SERVICES THAT HELP SENIORS RELOCATE

Dear Savvy Senior,

I need to find some help with selling my elderly mother's house - where she's lived for almost 50 years - and relocating her to an apartment or condo closer to where I live. Can you recommend any businesses or services that specialize in helping seniors relocate?

Overwhelmed Daughter

Dear Overwhelmed,

The process of selling a house and moving to a new home, or downsizing to a condo, apartment or senior housing facility is a big job for anyone. But it can be especially overwhelming for seniors who are moving from a long time residence filled with decade's worth of stuff and a lifetime of memories. Fortunately, there are several specialized services available today that can help make your mom's move a lot easier.

Housing Professional (CSHP). These are realtors emotional issues that can come with selling a long time family home and relocating.

SRES and CSHP designees are educated and knowledgeable in such areas as downsizing, aging-in-place, senior housing options, reverse mortgages, as well as ways to use pensions, 401k accounts and IRAs in real estate transactions. And, if you need help from other professionals, a SRES and CSHP can put you in touch with qualified home inspectors, movers, attorneys, CPAs and

To learn more or to locate a professional in your area, contact the SRES Council (sres.org, 800-500-4564) which also offers a free "Moving On" guide that help seniors and their family members with the decisions and transitions that come with moving. And to find a CSHP see SeniorsRealEstateInstitute.

Moving Manager

To help your mom get packed up and move, you should consider hiring a "senior move manager." These are organizers who assist older people with the challenges of relocating, and can minimize the stress of this major transition by doing most of the work for you.

They can help your mom pare down her belongings, decide what to take and what to dispose of, recommend charities for donations and help sell her unwanted items. They also get estimates from moving companies, oversee the movers, arrange the move date, supervise the packing and unpacking, have the house cleaned and just about anything you need related to her move.

Costs vary depending on the services and size of the move, but you can expect to pay between $1,000 and $5,000, not including the cost of movers.

To locate a senior move manager visit the National Association of Senior Move Managers website at nasmm.org or call 877-606-2766. You can also search at Caring Transitions (caringtransitions. com), the largest senior relocation and transition services franchised company in the U.S.

But, before you hire one, be sure you ask for references from previous clients and check them. Also find out how many moves they have actually managed, and get a written list of services and fees. And make sure they're insured and bonded.

If you can't find a senior move manager in your area, another option is to hire a certified professional organizer who specializes in downsizing and relocating. To find one, check the National Association of Professional Organizers who has a searchable database on their website at

Send your senior questions to: Savvy Senior, P.O. Box 5443, Norman, OK 73070, or visit SavvySenior. org. Jim Miller is a contributor to the NBC Today show and author of "The Savvy Senior" book.

September 16th - The Imitation Game (2014)

During the winter of 1952, British authorities entered the home of mathematician, cryptanalyst and war hero Alan Turing to investigate a reported burglary. They instead ended up arresting Turing himself on charges of 'gross indecency', an accusation that would lead to his devastating conviction for the criminal offense of homosexuality. Little did officials know, they were actually incriminating the pioneer of modern-day computing. Rated PG-13. Start time: 1:00pm (run time 114 to view the total lunar eclipse on Sunday, Sept. 27, from 6:45 p.m. to 9:45 p.m. Telescope and binocular viewing of the Moon will be available free to the public, with commentary by Griffith Observatory staff members. During parts of the evening, the L.A. Philharmonic and Steinway & Sons will present live piano music performed by Ray Ushikubo of the Colburn School. He will perform Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata" and other Moon-related pieces on the Observatory's front lawn. Blankets are welcome, chairs are prohibited.

LUNAR ECLIPSE TO SHINE IN SUNDAY EVENING TWILIGHT; PLUTO 'WOWS' IN SPECTACULAR NEW BACKLIT PANORAMA MOONLIGHT AND MUSIC MERGE AS GRIFFITH OBSERVATORY HOSTS LUNAR ECLIPSE SUNDAY, SEPT. 27.

People can safely view the eclipse from anywhere and don't need a telescope or other viewing device. Just look near the horizon to the east, beginning just after sunset. (Although the dim eclipsed Moon rises at about 6:45 p.m. PDT, it may be somewhat hard to see until after dark, around 7:30.)

You can also watch Griffith Observatory's live online broadcast at http://new.livestream.com/ GriffithObservatorvTV

A total lunar eclipse occurs when the Moon passes into the shadow cast by the Earth. The round disk of the full Moon slowly moves in to the dark shadow, and the bright Moon grows dim. The Moon, however, does not become completely dark. Instead, it usually glows with a faint copper or red color, a result of sunlight being filtered through the Earth's atmosphere.

STUNNING NEW VIEWS OF PLUTO. The latest images from NASA's New Horizons spacecraft have scientists stunned—not only for their breathtaking views of Pluto's majestic icy mountains, streams of frozen nitrogen and strangely familiar, arctic look.

A new view of Pluto's crescent—taken by New Horizons' wide-angle Ralph/Multispectral Visual Imaging Camera (MVIC) on July 14 and downlinked to Earth on Sept. 13-offers an oblique look across Plutonian landscapes MtnViewsNews.com.

Griffith Observatory will host a free public event with dramatic backlighting from the Sun. It spectacularly highlights Pluto's varied terrains and extended atmosphere. The scene measures 780 miles across.

"This image really makes you feel you are there, at Pluto, surveying the landscape for yourself," said New Horizons Principal Investigator Alan Stern, of the Southwest Research Institute, Boulder, Colorado. "But this image is also a scientific bonanza, revealing new details about Pluto's atmosphere, mountains, glaciers and plains."

Owing to its favorable backlighting and high resolution, the MVIC image also reveals new details of hazes throughout Pluto's tenuous but extended nitrogen atmosphere. The image shows more than a dozen thin haze layers extending from near the ground to at least 60 miles above the surface. In addition, the image reveals at least one bank of fog-like, low-lying haze illuminated by the setting Sun against Pluto's dark side, raked by shadows from nearby mountains.

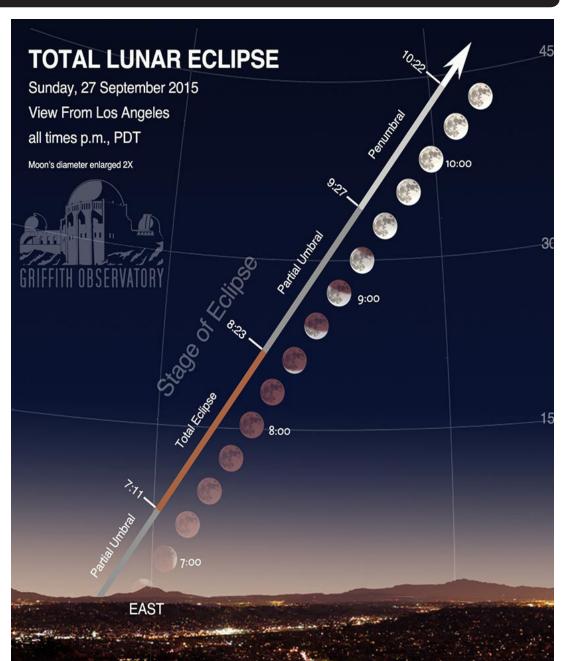

Combined with other recently downloaded pictures, this new image also provides evidence for a remarkably Earth-like "hydrological" cycle on Pluto -- but involving soft and exotic ices, including nitrogen, rather than water ice.

Bright areas east of the vast icy plain informally named Sputnik Planum appear to have been blanketed by these ices, which may have evaporated from the surface of Sputnik and then been redeposited to the east. The new Ralph imager panorama also reveals glaciers flowing back into Sputnik Planum from this blanketed region; these features are similar to the frozen streams on the margins of ice caps on Greenland and Antarctica.

"We did not expect to find hints of a nitrogenbased glacial cycle on Pluto operating in the frigid conditions of the outer solar system," said Alan haunting low-lying hazes, but also for their Howard, a member of the mission's Geology, Geophysics and Imaging team from the University of Virginia, Charlottesville.'

"Pluto is surprisingly Earth-like in this regard," added Stern, "and no one predicted it."

WHAT HAPPENS TO FORMER FOSTER YOUTH?

Highlights from an Interview with Jessie Castillo

The mural that covers the entire west wall in the kitchen at the Pasadena-based nonprofit agency, Journey House is the work of Jessie Castillo. Now 27 years old, he credits the organization with helping him transition into life as an adult after spending years in the foster care system. He was first placed into foster care at age five and says, "I was bounced around from place to place until I was eight when I went back to live with my mother." The devastation of crack cocaine addicted adults resulted in Jessie and his younger sister being placed into foster care when he was 16.

Fortunately they were placed in the same home. She is now 15 years old and remains in foster care.

At 16, when he learned that he could start the legal process to become emancipated, he proceeded and completed it by the age of 18 after he had moved to an Independent Living Program (ILP). When it came to his future, he had figured out that he really was on his own. His life has taken many twists and turns, and his experience provides us with a glimpse into some of the challenges faced by older foster children. The current system that assigns a "graduated from foster care" status based on a young person turning 18 or 21 doesn't appear practical considering that there is virtually nothing in place to assist them beyond foster care.

Eight years ago when Jessie first learned about Journey House from another youth who lived in the same Independent Living Program (ILP), he was 19 years old. The ILP applies to all foster youth ages 16 to 21 and is intended to prepare them for the transition into being independent. On his 18th birthday, the clock starting ticking as a reminder that he would need to be prepared to fend for himself by his 21st birthday.

At age 14, Jessie had started developing an interest in art and became intrigued with sketches and drawings that his peers drew in their books. He found the images more interesting than what he was learning in the art classes at school, so he applied his restless adolescent creativity to tagging. Certainly a nuisance to property owners, his unsanctioned "public art" became his outlet and fortunately his love for art outweighed the lure of joining a gang.

When he first came to Journey House at 19, Jessie was still tagging. Journey House Executive Director, Tim Mayworm and Program Director, Jorge Camerana encouraged him to focus his talents in a legal and more constructive manner. They purchased art supplies and Jessie took to painting on canvas with a vengeance. Over the years he has developed a reputation for beautiful abstract paintings. His work has been exhibited in various galleries and shows throughout Los Angeles County and he been commissioned to paint several murals. One can be seen from the Metro Gold Line near the Highland Park Station. Jessie has sold over 40 paintings, but like all creative people, he would love to make his livelihood with his talents, stating, "I would like to sell some more of my art." Yet he is the first to realize that he has to make a living and is currently going to school for welding, with plans to join the Iron Workers Union. It is no surprise that Jessie has also expanded his repertoire into creating sculptures out of metal. He is eager to share his creations and stated, "I'd like for people to enjoy some of my works posted online at at www.flickr.com/photos/kastleart and https://m.youtube.com/#/uset/KastleArtwork. When asked about his future he says, "I'd like to get married and have kids, and make sure that I always have a place for my little sister to live with me."

When Jessie came to Journey House for this interview last week, he was treated like one of the adult "kids" who was just stopping by, to catch up and connect with family members. Staff are elated that one of the "kids" is still making strides as he navigates life as an adult. Jessie is assured that he will always be able to journey back to the place where he can always count on support and encouragement whenever he needs it, beyond foster care.

We were getting ready to visit our son and his family for a week. Four of our grandchildren live with my son and his wife.

Grandchildren are God's way of apologizing for children. When you have children, you are too young and busy to know what to do with them. At the grandfather stage, it is a different story altogether. I now have the experience and the time to spend with these grandchildren.

Half of my grandchildren live here in Florida and the other half lives in Ohio. It would be great if I could spend half of my time in Florida and the other half in Ohio, but nobody has bought into that suggestion, and by "nobody" I'm referencing

Grandmothers have a positive influence on their grandchildren. Grandmothers teach the grandchildren many nice things. My wife always has a craft party when she gets together with the grandchildren. They are so excited to see her and so eager for the next craft she has prepared for

THE POPE'S PROBLEM

I've been a Roman Catholic since 1954.

OPINION

I have great respect for Pope Francis. When it comes to matters of faith and morals, what he

But when it comes to politics and economics, the pope is about as far from infallible as anyone can get.

For example, he was in Cuba earlier this week, meeting informally with Fidel Castro and touring the island to say Masses and meet with Apparently the pope was having such a good time he forgot that for more than half a century Cuba has been a rotten communist prison camp and his hosts Fidel, and his brother Raul, have been the wardens.

The people of Cuba have been denied every basic human freedom there is, plus they've been impoverished en masse and deprived of the simple blessings of modern life by the Castros' brand of atheistic socialism.

Yet apparently Pope Francis couldn't see the barbed wire that still surrounds Fidel's broken-down paradise.

His visit to Cuba was a perfect chance for him to throw his moral weight around and shame the Castro brothers before the whole world. But unlike John Paul II, who went to Communist Poland to encourage the creation of Solidarity and meet with its brave leaders, Francis ignored the existence of Cuba's political dissenters and prisoners of conscience. How great would it have been if Pope Francis had stood in Havana Cathedral and delivered a "Mr. Castro, cut down that barbed wire"

Instead, in the poorest and least free dictatorship in the Western Hemisphere, he warned the people against letting riches rule your life. Getting too rich and losing your spiritual values is the last thing the poor of Cuba need to fear right now.

I'm afraid Pope Francis wouldn't get that joke because, unfortunately, he really does think capitalism and its love child, manmade climate change, are the world's two biggest problems. Not ISL taking territory and beheading people. Not terrorism. Not the Syrian refugees. Not a nuclear Iran. Not the civil wars in Ukraine or Yemen or Libya or Iraq. Not the poverty or lack of electricity or clean water for half of Africa. Not a hundred other things. Global warming and capitalism. Seriously.

On Wednesday, one of the first things the pope did in Washington was call for a fight against climate change, which he said is a planetary crisis so serious it "can no longer be left to future generations."

He didn't explain how spending hundreds of billions of dollars to lower the global temperature a tenth of degree a hundred years from now will help the poor, because it's unexplainable even for a pope.

Before he heads back to Rome, Francis will surely get around to scolding America for the inequalities of its capitalist economic system and the greed of Wall Street.

But like so many Americans of the liberal faith, he has capitalism and socialism backwards.

It's capitalism that has made America the wealthiest and most generous country in the history of mankind and has brought forth everything we

It's capitalism and freedom, not socialism and its chains, that have brought a much better life on Earth for billions of the poor souls the pope

Does the pope realize that 401(k)s and pension funds owe their good returns to the health of Wall Street and the stock market?

Or that most of the enormous wealth the Catholic Church has acquired over the centuries was generated by greedy immoral capitalism?

Pope Francis is rightly praised for caring deeply about the poor and the marginalized.

But he'll never figure out how to actually help them until he understands what made America so wealthy and stops worrying about the wrong

HOWARD Hays As I See It Mike Huckabee opened by pointing out,

"None of us on this stage are under investigation known to the Secretary of by the FBI because we destroyed government State as being members of the records, or because we leaked secrets." Neither is

Communist Party and who Hillary Clinton, according to filings by the Justice

nevertheless are still working Department. Trump claimed "Illegal immigration is costing us more than $200 billion a year". In 2013, the CBO Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R- estimated a bill giving illegal immigrants a path to citizenship "would decrease federal budget deficits by $197 billion over the 2014-2023 period". The measure, passed by the Senate, was killed by House Republicans

When the issue of climate change (finally) came up, Sen. Marco Rubio (FL) suggested there were but two options; either ignore it or wreck the economy. End of discussion.

Most disturbing was Fiorina's statement quoted above. When I worked as a supplier of stock footage (which led to the Oscar tickets), we'd get requests for newsreel footage from the sinking of the Titanic to Khrushchev banging his shoe at the U.N. and, when informing such footage didn't exist, the response would often be, "But I've seen it". Maybe they thought they actually had, but that's no excuse for Carly Fiorina. When reminded by Chris Wallace on Fox News that fact-checkers determined the footage she referred to in the debate doesn't exist, Fiorina was defiant; insisting any who would "challenge" her on it would first have to "prove" they'd seen the footage themselves (footage that doesn't exist to be seen). Well, I did – or at least tried to find what she was talking about. What I saw was a former employee of a biotech company on-camera describing the scene related by Fiorina. The only accompanying visual was a graphic photo which, it turns out, was lifted from the personal blogsite of a woman who suffered a miscarriage at nineteen weeks.

The opening quotes above remind how our nation has suffered under leaders who, rather than leveling with the American people, sought to advance agendas by making stuff up.

Hillary Clinton noted on "Face the Nation" that if there was indeed concern over the issue they've focused on, there would be calls to revisit the rules governing fetal tissue research, passed by Congress over twenty years ago. There haven't been. Rather, we have the cynical strategy of latching onto an inflammatory issue, as with guns and gay marriage in years past, hoping to energize a "base" – with no concern over jeopardizing accessible healthcare for millions of American women.

We also got the candidates' preferences on what woman might replace Alexander Hamilton on the a doctor than a politician. When Trump linked $10 bill – with Trump, Rubio and Sen. Ted Cruz (TX) advocating for Rosa Parks. Much more than the woman who refused to give up her seat on the bus (not because she was "tired", according to her autobiography, but "tired of giving in"); she was a lifelong activist for equal rights and justice from the days of the Scottsboro Boys to the movement against the Vietnam War.

It was especially nice to hear those three Republicans propose such an honor for a woman who, among so many accomplishments, served on the national board of Planned Parenthood deaths, 322 million illnesses, 21,000 hospitalizations Federation of America.
