SIERRA MADRE POLICE BLOTTER

During the week of Sunday, September 27th, to Sunday, October 4th, the Sierra Madre Police Department responded to approximately 218 calls for service.

Tuesday, September 29th

At 1:24 am, Sierra Madre Police were patrolling the area of Orange Grove and Baldwin when they observed a vehicle stop past the limit line at an intersection. Officers performed a traffic stop and upon contacting the driver, a records check revealed he had a $40,000 warrant. Officers made contact with the female passenger who clarified she was responsible for the vehicle. Officers conducted a vehicle search and discovered syringes, pills, and multiple wallets and checks with other individual's names and ID. Officer's arrested both the man and woman for identity theft, possession of stolen property, and possession of controlled substance. The vehicle was impounded and the subjects were transported to Pasadena Jail.

Wednesday, September 30th

At 11:15 am, Sierra Madre Police responded to the 200 block of East Orange Grove regarding a burglary report at a residential construction site. The victim informed Officers that the day before, the workers left the property around 5 pm and locked and secured the fence that surrounds the house. The following morning he received a call from one of the workers at around 7 am stating that when they arrived they found the fence, the garage door, and the back residence door left open. When he arrived to the residence, he noticed that several of his tools that were left in the garage were now missing. Although the victim claimed that his foreman and himself were the only two with the fence lock combination, Officers determined that the suspect(s) entered the residence by unlocking the combination lock and then entered the house through a faulty door and then into the garage where the tools were stolen. This case has been forwarded to the Detective Bureau.

At 4:34 pm, Sierra Madre Police responded to the 600 block of Gatewood Lane regarding a residential burglary. Officers were informed by the victim that the day before at around 6 pm, he left the residence and secured it. The next day at around 4 pm he entered the home and went straight to his room. Once inside his room, he noticed that his room had been rummaged through and as he checked the rest of the house he saw that other cabinets and drawers throughout the house had also been rummaged through. Officers conducted a search of the property and discovered a damaged window to the rear of the house attached to the garage. A chair was placed under the window and the lock on the window showed obvious signs of damage. This case has been forwarded to the Detective Bureau.

REMEMBRANCE

NANCY LEE DOYLE

September 19, 1933 – September 24, 2015

Nancy Lee Whittemore was born September 19, 1933 to Mr. and Mrs. Marion C. Whittemore of Redlands, California. Nancy came into this world facing adversity with the cards stacked against her. In the first 2 months of life, she suddenly became very ill. Her doctors discovered that her heart and liver were on the wrong side of her body, coupled with a small hole in her diaphragm. These complications had caused her intestines to shift upward, crushing her heart and lungs, pushing her appendix up under her shoulder blade. In December of 1933 she was operated on at Redlands Community Hospital by two surgeons who placed her organs back into a normal position. This successful surgery made Nancy famous and she was referred to by the media as the "Upside Down Baby". The surgery was published in the Journal of The American Medical Association as it was the first time a baby had survived this type of surgery. She was a miracle baby and lived to recently celebrate her 82nd birthday.

Nancy grew up in the San Francisco Bay area. Her desire to be an artist was evident very early in her life. Since the age of 3, she was always seen with a pencil and a sketchpad, constantly drawing pictures. Her formal education was at San Jose State University where she majored in commercial art. Her aunt, a professional artist herself, tutored Nancy through college, where she studied life drawing, design and fashion illustration. Unlike her aunt who preferred pastels, oils and watercolor, Nancy preferred expressing herself in pencil. She began experimenting with Prismacolor wax pencils early in her career, creating such special effects that people would think her drawings were actual photographs.

On May 12, 1962, Nancy married the love of her life, John L. Doyle, at the Wayfarer's Chapel in Palos Verdes, California. They had their first and only child, Kelley Ann, on November 7, 1963. They built a home in Glendale, California, and threw 17 years of great parties. She loved her Scotch, and her favorite food of all time was definitely potatoes. Even though she didn't enjoy cooking, people would fight over her Lemon Meringue Pie.

In 1981, Nancy moved to her beloved Sierra Madre, where she lived for the next 34 years. She worked for the Arcadia Medical Clinic, and after retiring, began volunteering at the Monrovia Police Department. She also volunteered for the Pasadena Humane Society, and was an active volunteer for the Pasadena Playhouse. Her biggest joy was her involvement with the Friends of the Sierra Madre Library's annual Fine Arts Fair. In addition to being an exhibitor, she was on the Exhibits Committee, acting as a juror and new talent scout.

Nancy was a Signature Artist with Women Artists of the West, a prestigious art organization representing talented women artists in the Western United States. Nancy was recognized with many awards and participated in various art shows since the 1960's, including The Sawdust Festival and ArtAFair in Laguna Beach, The Beverly Hills Art Show, The Sierra Madre Art Fair, Indian Wells Art Show and The Southwest Arts Festival in Indio.

Nancy was well loved and respected in the art community, and her works hang in many private collections. Art was within her soul, and her work transcended every boundary of ethnicity; young children in a carefree world, people reflecting in their thoughtful moments, American Indian portraits, and her newest love...horses. She did not discriminate her subjects, and through the medium of her art, her spirit was connected with all of the indigenous human beings in the world.

Nancy leaves behind her legacy to her only daughter Kelley Doyle Hanna and grandson Taylor Hanna. Her Celebration of Life will be held on Sunday, October 18, at 2:00pm at Madeline's Garden, 1030 E. Green Street, Pasadena, California. A small representation of Nancy's art will be displayed and auctioned, with proceeds going to La Salle High School of Pasadena's Visual Arts Program.

In lieu of flowers, please send donations in Nancy's memory to the American Diabetes

Walking Sierra Madre...The Social Side

by Deanne Davis

"Dear Great Pumpkin, I am looking forward to your arrival on Halloween

I hope you will bring me lots of presents. Linus van Pelt" Charles Schulz

"There is no season when such pleasant and sunny spots may be lighted on, and produce so pleasant an effect on the feelings, as now in October." Nathaniel Hawthorne

Even though Charles Schulz, creator of the immortal Peanuts has changed his address to heaven, his kids, Charlie Brown, Lucy, Peppermint Patty, Sally and Linus still show up in our newspapers, which is a good thing. What would Fall be like without Lucy holding the football for Charlie Brown, promising that this time she won't yank it away at the last minute, leaving him flat on his back with all the air punched out of him. Or Linus sitting out in the pumpkin patch with Sally, Charlie Brown or Snoopy, convinced that if his pumpkin patch is the most sincere pumpkin patch that the Great Pumpkin will rise up with his bag of toys and bestow gifts upon him. His friends are skeptical. We probably would be, too.

The giant pumpkins on our street, which have been growing steadily toward monster status, have all been gathered and put away until Halloween when they will emerge again as black widow spider heads and bodies, Cinderella's carriage and all kinds of fanciful creations. Scarecrows are increasing all over town and the tour Creative Arts is planning for Sunday, October 10th, to see them all should be an excellent time. What a clever bunch we Sierra Madreans are! Speaking of scarecrows, let me introduce Sylvie Madre, pictured here, a member of The Secret Bookers Book Club. She says her life is an open book, she's traveled the world through the pages of classics, biographies and historical fiction. sprinklers are off for a few days and it was nice to She also warns us: Don't stop reading or your brain will turn to straw! Sylvie is #11.

Speaking of reading, the In-N-Out reading program is available at our library for children 4 to 12. Each little reader can earn one free hamburger certificate for every five books they read (up to 3 free burgers) while supplies last. This offer is now through November 14th. Our library is wonderful,

Last Saturday evening was an absolutely perfect (cooler than last year) time for the Wine, Rhythm and Brews event, which was a great success. They had more people this year than last which means more money raised. The Spero Foundation who puts this event on is a non-profit corporation founded by professional folks from our own community whose philosophy is there is no greater gift than the gift of giving to a neighbor, a friend and/or an entire community. The list of those who have benefited from their efforts include our local hospital, cancer treatment and research center, food banks; and a number of other local organizations. If you weren't there, you missed out! Folks wandered through town sampling beer, wine and delicious appetizers from most of our local restaurants. There was music in several locations and even a little dancing in Kersting Court to some nifty rock. The silent auction was a hit as most of the items went quickly. The car buffs were happy, too, as the Mustang Classic Car Club lined Sierra Madre Blvd. with their gorgeous, pampered beauties. A great time and very successful.

And then it rained! Yes, late Saturday night! What a wonderful sound to hear rain hitting the leaves of the avocado tree outside our window. The wear a sweater walking Sierra Madre this morning. We need to enjoy it fast, though, as it's supposed to be in the 90's again by Saturday. Ugh! Meantime, the clouds wandering through our sky are fantastic. Have a great week and watch for scarecrows!

"What's Going On?"

News and Views from Joan Schmidt

happened in areas; I don't know where to begin.

In Arcadia, the Commission stepped up to bat by refusing to approve residents!

Last week the Arcadia Chamber Monthly Government Forum Meeting had guest speaker, April Velato. This local attorney, President of the Downtown Arcadia Improvement Association spoke of their vision for a great "Downtown Saturday night-a blend of American and Asian vendors- beginning November 7.

The BIG BOMBSHELL in Arcadia was at the October 6 Council Meeting. Kovacic Mayor read a letter of resignation from Council Member John Wuo due to "personal and health reasons." Council Member Tom Beck and Mayor Garv Kovacic wanted to nominate former Mayor Mickey Segal to finish Wuo's term-six months remaining term. But Roger Chandler and excellent as Lucy will join Linda Sells representing Sho Tay wanted to pursue other candidates. There Arcadia. Gloria Huss and Terrence Williams are will be formal nominations at the next meeting.

The meeting saw settlement of a lawsuit against the City by the "Save the Arcadia Highlands". Nearly 6000 square feet homes will be permitted, but only one-story. On October 20, the City will vote to re-start zoning code update process in the Highlands and include the highlands in a historical home survey.

Lastly there was a petition to eliminate Utility Users Tax on Ballet, April, 2014. This will cut the City Budget 7 million, greatly hinder Police and Fire Services as well as the Library. (Please visit Line came and discussed traffic concerns. Santa Fe the Arcadia Chamber of Commerce Website info@ Middle School is right across from the train.)

has ArcadiaCaChamber.org. There is NOT ENOUGH our SPACE to tell you what a fine job Scott Hettrick cities and and Bill Hacket are doing. They report ALL City surrounding county happenings very soon after they occur.)

In neighboring Monrovia, there was the great Domestic Violence Victims Clothing Drive Kick-off. (Sponsored by Kaiser Permanente, and Planning Representatives Judy Chu and Grace Napolitano) Among those attending were former Mayor Mary Ann Lutz who also attended ALL the Gold Line Ribbon Cuttings-Arcadia, Duarte, Irwindale 2500-square-foot and Azusa besides Monrovia. I wondered where replacement for a the current Mayor was and WHY were there NO 624-square-foot cottage, to the relief of neighboring clothing pickup bins in Monrovia this year? Perhaps I will drop the bags off at the Kaiser Permanente in Baldwin Park.

Many local residents are upset with the closure of Albertson's on Huntington Drive in Monrovia and Ralph's in Duarte. However, Council Member Tzeitel Paras-Caracci told me that Smart and Final Arcadia". First is the plan for "Arcadia Fusion" on is opening in Duarte in the old Ralph's building on Huntington Drive. People were surprised because there already is a Smart and Final in Monrovia on Huntington Drive, but I was told the new one in Duarte will be entirely different. (Last night's news reported Smart and Final was buying Haggens, which is a quality supermarket.)

REP. NAPOLITANO ON GUN VIOLENCE PREVENTION: "IF NOT NOW, WHEN?"

demanded action to prevent gun violence in 1217 mandates universal background checks for America, one week after the horrific shooting at Umpqua Community College in Oregon.

"If not now, when? We have been asking that for many, many generations. American families are crying out, demanding Congress to act. They want action, but Congress has not considered any bills; they refuse. There is nothing of substance being given an opportunity to be shown the light of day or to have some transparency on this issue. The last meaningful gun violence prevention bill was in 1994, the Brady Handgun Violence Prevention Act. Now, shootings, as was pointed out, are an everyday occurrence and it is commonplace. People are becoming numb, except for those that are immediately affected. They are asking us to move and pass legislation, give it the light of day, discuss it, bring it up, start some methodology to be able to understand what Congress is looking at doing for our American people, for our children, for our families.

"Collective action is needed, and transparent discussion is necessary, but enough of skirting this issue. What is more important? Gas and oil, or the lives of human beings? We must keep guns away from people that should not have them, TALK (8255).

'We need real, constructive legislation to prevent and lessen violence. We must keep guns out of the hands of people that should not have access to them, such as domestic abusers and people with violent histories, without stigmatizing those with mental illness. We need to inform, educate, and help young people, families, educators, those who are exhibiting emotional disturbances, and help them learn how to access information and assistance.";

Napolitano later voted to bring up H.R. 1217, the Public Safety and Second Amendment Rights Protection Act. The motion was defeated by a vote of 244 to 183. ### ACCIDENTAL SHOOTING INJURES OFFICER

Pasadena police released little details this week after an officer was shot accidentally in a leg by his partner late last week. The department is conducting an internal investigation into the incident.

According to police, the unnamed officer sustained a non-life threatening wound after his partner's gun discharged in the police parking headquarters structure, off Ramona Street across from city hall, Oct. 2 around 8 p.m.

The two men were unloading things from the trunk of a patrol car at the end of their shift. Investigators said both men were on duty at the time.

The injured officer was shot through the leg and taken to a nearby hospital, treated and released. The other, also unnamed officer has been put on paid administrative leave according to police.

As of now, the department is calling the situation an accident saying that no crime had occurred. They also said on one else was injured during the incident. In 2010, a Pasadena police unintentionally officer discharged his sidearm shattering the windshield of his police car during a felony traffic stop. That incident also sent the officer's partner to the hospital. The officer complained of ear pain.

The officer accidently fired his weapon, May 24, 2010 around 8:45 a.m., inside the car as the two officers exited the vehicle. No one, at the time, was hurt and an investigation also found no criminal action on the part of the officer.

WUO RESIGNS; SEGAL BACK? LAWSUIT SETTLED

From Arcadia's Best

By Scott Hettrick

An already potentially dramatic Arcadia City Council meeting Tuesday night (Oct. 6, 2015) got started with a surprising bombshell announcement that embattled City Council Member and recent Mayor John Wuo had resigned just before the meeting. "I just wanted the city to get back doing city business," Wuo told Arcadia's Bestshortly after the meeting which he did not attend. His letter of resignation read by Mayor Gary Kovacic cited "personal and health

And that was just the beginning of a litany of major announcements and decisions of the Council in front of a standing-room-only overflow crowd that included:

Settlement of a lawsuit brought against the City of Arcadia by Save the Arcadia Highlands - Nearly 6,000 square-foot homes allowed on two challenged lots but only one-story instead of two Verbal indication Council will vote Oct. 20 to re-start zoning code update process in Highlands - Likely vote by Council Oct. 20 to include Highlands in historical homes survey

Former Mayor Mickey Segal nominated to replace Wuo for remaining 6-months of term

Petition to eliminate Utility Users Tax on ballot April 2016, cutting $7 mil. of City budget

Downtown Arcadia Street Fair to re-start with new producer on Saturdays beginning Nov. 7

Public comments over potential Ballot Measure initiative to create voter-determined home size

The lawsuit filed seven months ago in March 2015 challenged the Council's approval of replacing two homes with larger homes and led to very contentious Council meetings and, during the process, raised thepossibility of a connection between Wuo and an Arcadia company that has since been charged by the Securities and Exchange Commission with creating a global pyramid scheme using digital currency called Gemcoins that bilked investors out of $32 million. Wuo has not been named in any official complaints filed by any government agency.

Wuo's letter of resignation said it was with "great regret and sadness that I have to resign effective immediately due to personal and health reasons." After 12 years on the Council, Wuo said there is "still a tough road ahead" but he has "total confidence in the current Council...'

The initial instigator of the protest, attorney April Verlato, did not have her name on the lawsuit filed under the names of David Arvizu and Save the Arcadia Highlands. Thus, she did not have decisionmaking authority during settlement negotiations. But since one of the two homes that sparked all the protests and acrimony was next door to hers at 1600 Highland Oaks Drive, she had input on the compromises being discussed. Ultimately the Save the Arcadia Highlands petitioners compromised on a single story home instead of two stories, though it may still be as large as 5,800 square feet. The Council still gets the final approval of the new homes and the petitioners of the lawsuit will be reimbursed 50% of the legal costs they incurred for their legal actions and only up to $15,000 for each of the two properties — the other is at 29 E. Orange Grove. The petitioners also agreed not to take any further legal action or initiate any delaying proposed (not yet submitted) that would create a voter-determined zoning code for the kinds and sizes only be modified by voters in an election. Some of the petition could do to get their signature removed if they Arcadia Fusion.

With the lawsuit and Wuo no longer factors, the Council is expected to approve the resumption of the residential zoning code update that began with Council approval about nine months before the lawsuit was filed. That process could address many of the issues of concern by those seeking to limit the size of new homes. A committee is being formed to provide community input to the revision of city zoning codes. The Council also seems ready to approve adding homes in the Highlands to the fledgling survey of historic homes and buildings in Arcadia (Verlato said the home next door to hers was historic and therefore should not be demolished.)

Mayor Kovacic — the last person to be appointed to fill a vacant Council Member's seat in 1996 then he was then the chairman of the Planning Commission — and Council Member Tom Beck voiced a preference for former Mayor Mickey Segal as a temporary replacement for Wuo on the City Council for the final six months of Wuo's latest four-year term. It was Segal who was praised Tuesday night for acting as moderator for two lawsuit negotiations that resulted in the settlement. He is not believed to be a fan of the proposed zoning code ballot measure or of eliminating the utility tax, both of which could come to a head before this Council term ends in April 2016. Segal said he needs to check with his "bosses" (presumably his wife Lee and perhaps partners in his firm) about whether he would be a candidate for Wuo's seat, though he assured that he would not mount another campaign to be re-elected next April. The Council agreed to make their choice at the next meeting on Oct. 20, but Council Member Roger Chandler said he was already asking another potential candidate, and Council Member Tay did not immediately endorse Segal or offer another candidate. A deadlock among the four Council Members could result in a special election that would cost more than $100,000 and delay the filling of the vacant seat.

As for the Utility Users Tax (UUT), with the requisite number of petition signatures gathered and validated, the City has no choice but to put the proposal on a ballot. City Manager Dominic Lazzaretto painted a dire future if voters approved the proposed elimination of all utility taxes, which cumulatively add up to $7 million, or about 12.5% of the City's General Fund budget, the third largest revenue source after sales and property taxes. Although representing less than $10 for most residents each month, the elimination of the taxes would mean a dramatic scaling back of police, fire, recreation and senior services. Under one scenario, 18 police and civilian police positions would be cut, 9 fire officers, and the elimination of 19 recreation programs, city newsletters and the senior commission, as well as all building and planning, economic development, code enforcement and all fees paid for services provided by the Arcadia Chamber of Commerce. Under another scenario that preserves much of the police and fire services, the City would have to close the Library, Museum, all parks and 5,800 recreation programs. While the City itself cannot take a position on any ballot initiatives, the Council approved spending $10,000 to disseminate facts about the impacts of the loss of UUT revenue.

Finally, the Downtown Arcadia Improvement Verlato is also behind a ballot measure being Association was approved to move its summer Friday night Street Fair to Saturday nights beginning November 7 under new producer Green Leaf Events, of homes that could be built in Arcadia, which could which began this month producing the Monrovia Street Fair on Friday nights - the third new producer public comments about this initiative Tuesday night of that event since June. ### POLICE DEPARTMENT CASES OF NOTE FROM LAST WEEK

There were two particular cases handled by members of our outstanding Police Department last week that I wanted to share.

On Monday, September 28, 2015, a fight ensued in the 100 block of South Encinitas between several male individuals. One of the individuals pulled out a knife and stabbed a male victim several times, and two suspects fled the area. Our Police Officers arrived shortly thereafter and coordinated the medical treatment and transport of the stabbing victim to a local hospital. During the search for suspects, our Police Officers were able to locate and arrest one of the two suspects. The identity of the outstanding suspect was identified and a "Wanted Person" notification was sent to the surrounding area. Soon thereafter, the suspect was located and arrested in a neighboring city and is now in custody.

On Monday, September 28, 2015, a murder occurred in the City of Montebello. A man armed with an assault rifle shot and killed another man and then fled the area. During the investigation by the Montebello Police Department, the West San Gabriel Valley Task Force, which is made up of officers from several law enforcement agencies throughout the San Gabriel Valley, was called in to assist in locating the suspect. Monrovia Police Department's very own Police Officer Damien Bartholomy, who serves on the West San Gabriel Valley Task Force, worked the case expertly, and ultimately, the team was able to locate, surveil, and safely take the suspect into custody.

Outstanding work by an outstanding team in one of the premier law enforcement agencies around... great work by our Monrovia Police Department personnel!

PALEO SOLUTIONS HERE IN MONROVIA SET TO RECEIVE THE REMAINS OF A 4 MILLION YEAR OLD WHALE

As you may have heard by now, the nearly intact fossil of a 4-million year old mysticete whale (an ancestor of the baleen whale) was unearthed at a construction site in Santa Cruz County in early September 2015. The remains of the ancient whale are currently being transported here to Monrovia, which is home to the company Paleo Solutions.

Paleo Solutions was established in 2004 and provides paleontological and archaeological services throughout California and other western states. City staff reached out to representatives of Paleo Solutions this last week in hopes of developing some original media content highlighting the company and the prehistoric whale remains being sent to Monrovia. Company representatives were very appreciative of the gesture, and we agreed to do an in-depth interview in a few weeks after the whale fossils arrive and company representatives have had a chance to examine the remains. We will continue to monitor this story and will be sure to provide additional information after additional discussions occur with Paleo Solutions

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED TO PARTICIPATE IN THE CITY'S LITERACY TUTORING PROGRAM

One of the really tremendous programs coordinated through the Monrovia Public Library is our volunteer literacy tutoring program, and we need your help! Would you like to make a powerful, positive, and lasting difference for another individual? When you become a volunteer tutor for the Monrovia Public Library's adult literacy program... that is exactly the opportunity that you are provided

All of our adult literacy tutors provide vital services to adults who want to improve their basic reading and writing skills. The program matches volunteer tutors in a one-on-one setting with adult literacy students. Tutors and students meet at times that are convenient for both the student and the tutor, and the program focuses on the learning goals established by the student. Former participants who have served as volunteer tutors have reported such a tremendous sense of accomplishment at making a difference in the lives of another individual.

If you are interested in becoming a volunteer adult literacy tutor, please contact Crystal Noe either via email at cnoe@monrovia.ca.us, or by telephone at (626) 256-8274, extension 3121. A tutor training workshop has been scheduled to take place on Saturday, October 10, 2015, so make sure to contact us and sign up today for an opportunity to not only help another person, but also to become part of a vibrant learning community!

GROCERY OUTLET DISCOUNT MARKET TO OPEN STORE IN DUARTE

The Duarte community has reason to celebrate! The former Mike's Food location, 1322 Huntington Dr., will be the new home for Grocery Outlet Market. The retail space is 18,000 square feet and each Grocery Outlet store is a local, independently run, family business.

Grocery Outlet is the nation's largest extreme value grocery retailer that offers brand name, quality products at up to 60% off conventional retail prices. Shoppers can find trusted name brands such as Kraft, Kellogg's, Tide, Tyson, Amy's Kitchen, Naked Juice and other well-known names. This year alone, shoppers have saved more than $1 billion on products purchased at Grocery Outlet as compared to traditional grocery stores. The chain is able to keep prices low due to their expert buyers who specialize in purchasing product overruns and surplus inventories.

More good news! The property owner is also in the process of a major façade enhancement for a 1/3 of the shopping center, including the former and LinkedIn.

GOVERNOR SIGNS HOLDEN'S BILL TO ELIMINATE THE ACHIEVEMENT GAP BY STARTING TEENS ON COLLEGE AND CAREER PATHWAYS (AB 288)

Sacramento – After years of legislative effort, Assembly Majority Leader limited priority in enrollment. It will also allow better access to career Chris Holden's landmark legislation to increase college opportunity for tech courses that may not be available at the high school level. thousands of California high school students will go into effect January

Governor Brown today signed Holden's AB 288 College and Career Access Pathways Act to allow high school students, especially those in underserved communities, greater access to college courses and career tech classes at both high school and college campuses.

"We need to expand opportunities for a broad range of students or lose our competitive edge with other states and other nations," explained Assemblymember Holden. "Concurrent enrollment can motivate students who aren't on the college track and provide opportunities for students who want to get started in their careers earlier by working towards a degree or certificate in career technical to the challenge, motivated by the chance to try on the role of a college student."

AB 288 creates a partnership between high schools and community colleges to remove barriers that historically kept underserved students from enrolling in concurrent enrollment programs. It will accelerate Governor for signing it into law." the number of credits students can take from 11 to 15 and give students

"This bill is an example of how K-12 and higher education institutions can work together on a local level to solve persistent problems—in this case, how to create better pathways to college and career," stated the Governor in his signing message.

The measure was sponsored by California Community College Chancellor Brice W. Harris: "These partnerships will help high school students achieve college and career readiness and avoid remedial coursework when they begin their college careers," Harris said. "This is critical because students who arrive at community colleges academically prepared and with some college credits already under their belt have a greater chance of achieving their goals."

"AB 288 will help ignite a sense of purpose and drive in high school education. Even those who've struggled in high school classes can rise students that is essential in today's fast-paced world, and ensure that they are better qualified for college and for the jobs of our state's everchanging economy," said Assembly Republican Leader Kristin Olsen, of Modesto, who jointly authored the bill. "I applaud the stakeholders involved in the development of this important bill, and thank the

THE REEL DEAL: by Ben Show THE MARTIAN REVIEW

Ridley Scott is one of the great masters of telling epic stories. While he did find his beginnings with smaller scale movies, such as "Alien", his films like "Blade Runner", "Gladiator", and "Black Hawk Down", while all different genres, each tell large scale epics. "The Martian", at least from the trailers, appears to contain the storytelling elements that only Scott could combine to work: it covers a large, interplanetary, epic tale, while also being a smaller, more intimate character piece, focusing on a single character and his survival.

Ares III, the latest mission to Mars, is just getting started. They finally landed and are beginning to collect samples when a massive storm hits the base and they are forced to abandon the mission; however, in the chaos, Mark Watney (Matt Damon) gets left behind. When he wakes up, he begins his struggle for survival and his quest to get back home. This is one of Scott's best films, and undoubtedly will become a sci-fi classic. The blending of a large scale space odyssey with a character piece, with a focus on the idea of surviving in a completely foreign place, makes for an ingenuous and absolutely immersive film. Everything in this movie is amazing, the lighting, acting, directing, but the stand out is the dialogue, which manages to be both utterly serious and joking at the same time. "The Martian" is this year's "Gravity", an even more scientifically accurate "Interstellar", and a film that will not be forgotten anytime soon.

WALKING MISS DAISY

It is 7:30 AM when my neighbor's cell phone comes to life, breaking the serene silence of dawn and awaking all who sleep. The voice-recorded ring tone resounds loudly, "Chris, dog walker....Chris, dog walker!" Immediately, Daisy snaps to attention, plants herself at the foot of the bed, and places one paw on the top sheet with her fluffy white ears and tail fully engaged.

Next she begins her usual routine of pacing back and forth from the bedroom to the leash that hangs on the hook by the front door, whining softly as she paces, as if to say, "Please hurry, get me ready, Chris will be here any minute". Soon she is greeted on the front porch by her beloved walker who gives her a hug and a pleasant verbal greeting, and off we go. Daisy is absolutely elated to be leashed and heading out on yet another exploratory pilgrimage through the

Within moments, we are well on our way up the steep hill that takes us to the canyon and ultimate apex of our vigorous hour-long hike. The sun has just made it's way over the eastern horizon, and has begun it's typical daily task of steaming the pavement and warming the windows of the houses as we pass by.

Suddenly, Daisy stops in her tracks; her body stiffens and she stares ahead, fully focused on the adjacent hillside. Her ears are perked to a point, her tail is bent forward and the hair on her back begins to raise up. I follow her gaze, hoping to see what may have caught her eye and caused such a sudden change in her countenance, but I see nothing out of the ordinary among the massive, meandering tree branches and low-growing fauna covering the hill.

Seconds later, Daisy relaxes enough for us to resume our steep upward climb as I wonder to myself what could have caused her momentary change in behavior. It crosses my mind that she might have nervous tendencies due to a traumatic experience that occurred when she was a puppy, before she was rescued and adopted. As I ponder the possibilities, we make our way further up and around the curve toward the fire road, where the pavement ends abruptly at the trail head. It is then that I look up to see a small pack of coyotes standing in the middle of the trail just a few yards ahead, looking directly at us! I am a bit surprised to see so many of them standing so close, but having seen coyotes in the canyon multiple times before, I know enough to slowly back away and leave them alone, to avoid confrontation.

As we head back down the hill, it occurs to me that Daisy's sudden change in demeanor on our way up the hill had nothing to do with neurosis, nor was it prompted by something she saw far away in the distant woods. Daisy's brief behavioral interlude had clearly been a natural response to her inherently keen sense of smell. I had recently read that a dog's ability to smell is approximately 1,000 times stronger than that of a human, mainly attributable to a vomeronasal organ that is housed in the dog's olfactory chamber. This specialized anatomical feature, unique to the canine, was no doubt what allowed Daisy to sense the presence of the coyotes from so far away, long before they came into her field of

We finished our hike, and I delivered Daisy back to the safety of her home with lots of hugs and praise. Later that day, I was reflecting on our walk and I realized that my initial assumptions about what could have caused Daisy's unexpected behavior had been a prime example of how the domestic dog is often misunderstood by the human being.

Daisy's response to the scent of the coyotes that morning reinforced my appreciation for the dog's sense of smell, but more importantly it taught me that, if acknowledged from the proper perspective, a dog's sensual abilities and responsive behavior can act as a very important tell-tale for the human's safety in or near the wilderness. Finally, it was a reminder to avoid trying to anthropomorphize the dog. To expect a dog to think and behave the way a human thinks and behaves is to foolishly discount the remarkable unique qualities of the dog that can be of great value and benefit to us humans. In retrospect, my experience that morning taught me two very valuable lessons; to respect the dog and his inherent sensual abilities, and to allow myself a healthy helping of humility as a human being. Who knew a simple morning walk with a dog could offer lessons of such value and Peaceful Pets Aquamation is the nation's first 100% green and gentle alternative to cremation and the "pet project" of an award-winning television executive and 20-year Hearst Entertainment veteran, Jerry Shevick. It's a "high-tech and highnationally and shake up the billion dollar pet industry.

Living on a remote ranch in the mountains above Malibu, surrounded by a gaggle of chickens, cats, canines and various random rescued creatures, Shevick was particularly pained by the loss of one of his pets and the animal's subsequent "disposal" method by the veterinarian. After huddling with a group of the area's plentiful high-profile petlovers and environmentally active residents, spending months researching the somewhat arcane world of pet disposal and meeting with various Southland veterinary organizations, his company was born when he discovered a revolutionary water-based process housed in a machine invented by an unconventional Midwest millionaire.

FOOD AND DRINK

TABLE FOR TWO by Peter Dills thechefknows@yahoo.com

Seems summer doesn't want to leave us quite yet. I turned my attention just this week away from wine and to concentrate on beer. Though there are some fine wines to sip on a hot day. This will go well with your tailgating plans. I left out our regular domestic beers and the new 'craze" of craft beers, to introduce or reintroduce you to three beers that have been around for a while. That are my favorites on a blistering day that I call "beer drinking weather beer".

First we visit the Czech Republic, for Pilsner Urquell-Czech for "original pilsner" was first brewed in the 1840's this is a clean, light beer with a relatively low alcohol rate of 4.4%, this the perfect beer for a tailgate party on a hot summer day, when I see Pilsner Urquell on a menu it is my first choice, probably my favorite beer in the Pilsner class, a little bit of that skunky smell, though not as noticeable as Heineken.

4 ½ stars !!! Available by the six pack at most grocery stores and is on tap at the Yard House.

Off we got to Thailand for Singha Beer also a Pilsner with a German Style, this beer has serious drinkability, and can stand alone without a food pairing, though Mexican and spicy Thai food would indeed complete this refreshing beer. Alcohol content is 5%.

4 out of five stars

For my last beer I travel south of the border for Negra Modelo, sure Corona gets the notoriety but Modelo for me is the best of the best as far as Mexican Beer, go to any restaurant were patriots are drinking beer and nine times out of ten it's Modelo they are drinking. The Negra Modela reminds me of a German Dunkel style, makes sense since many German beer makers made their homes in parts of Mexico. This a dark beer, goes well with tailgating foods such as bratwurst, potato salad and of course fried chicken.

Negra Modelo, is the notoriety me is the best far as Mexican restaurant were drinking beer out of ten it's edrinking. The eminds me of a el style, makes by German beer their homes in to. This a dark with tailgating atwurst, potato course fried

With hundreds of beers I might have missed your favorite.

SEAN'S SHAMELESS REVIEWS: FORT LEAN – QUIET DAY

By Sean Kayden

Lean. The group has been active since 2011 when endearing to be had. they first released their eponymous EP. Throughout the years of discovery, searching for an identity and experimentation, Keenan Mitchell (vocals, guitar), Zach Fried (guitar), Will Runge (keyboard, guitar), Jake Aron (bass) and Sam Ubl (drums) have developed much buzz surrounding their released singles. Likewise, their live performances have stirred much excitement while opening up for acts like Future Islands and HAIM. They've explored an indie rock sound that balances between slacker rock and breezy pop rock. I'd have to say their style is the amalgamation of early 2000s rock (think Weezer) and modern day (think Surfer Blood). However, after all this time of collective songwriting, tweaking their pop sensibilities, and honing their craft, the band is completely prepared to introduce their debut album via Ooh La La Records. Is the band still on the right track as their buzz from 2012-2013 feels like yesterday's news?

"Cut To The Chase" features the yearning vocals of Keenan Mitchell alongside charging drums and billowy snyths. With jangly guitars and powerpop tendencies, the opening track is a great way to get things underway. "Just A Little Spirit" gets you in the dancing mood with its pithy melodies and uplifting arrangements. Fort Lean create sharp tunes that are lean and mean. There's no filler or fat on the edges and this allows the listener to really sink into each of their tracks. "Don't Make It A Habit" is a bit more introspective than the previous two tracks. There's a classic 60s rock quality to it making Fort Lean a band that can connect with those of previous generations. The format of the song shines throughout as Mitchell convincingly belts out the lyrics in the final stretch of the tune. "New Hobbies" explodes out of the gates with thumping guitar sounds and pounding drums. At less than two minutes, it's the shortest track off Quiet Day, but remains equally as effective. The title track closes out the first half of the record. Fort Lean slows down their tempo tremendously with this dreamy, psychedelic endeavor that has the listener Grade: 7.9 out of 10

Quiet Day has been in the becoming lost within. The contemplative song walks making for some time for a fine line between gloom and impending doom, but the Brooklyn quintet, Fort with all the somberness there's still something rather

> Artist: Fort Lean Album: Quiet Day Label: Ooh La La Records Release Date: October 2nd, 2015 Review By: Sean Kayden

"In The Hospital" is Fort Lean's most vigorous and well-crafted gem in their lineup of ten tracks. First of all, it's irrefutably cool as the band takes a bleaker turn within their signature style. The self-destructive tune has a compelling chorus as Mitchell belts out the line, "I hope this night doesn't put you in this hospital." The guitars kind of shuffles back and forth before the chorus erupts into something hauntingly good. "Might've Misheard" brings Fort Lean back to their usual sound of explosiveness. It is a heavily layered as it is brimming with electricity. This band keeps moving forward with each track and it feels Fort Lean probably has way more to offer than just these ten cuts that made it to the record. "21" floats effortlessly with tender guitars and a lo-fi vibe. Once again, Fort Lean leans toward a dreamy affair, but never overplays that card. As dream-pop/dream-rock becomes more popular, Fort Lean knows exactly how to utilize this type of sound without wearing out its welcome. "Home For Dinner" is a bright, poppy, surf rock effort. Swirling guitars and fast drums are once again the right recipe for Fort Lean to cook up.

The record flies by, but it is so, so good. It has this particular way of being an ideal way to transition from summer to autumn. Quiet Day is a cohesive, consistently sounding album from a band that's always had a lot of promise and potential. While it took some years to finally see the light, Fort Lean's debut LP doesn't disappointment and should have them back on everyone's radar that may have counted them out in recent years.

Red and White Quilts: Infinite Variety: Presented by The American Folk Art Museum by Elizabeth Warren and Maggi

This significant catalog is a highly detailed look at the world's most celebrated collection of red and white quilts. Like the Log Cabin or Baltimorestyle, the red and white quilt is a hugely popular genre of quilting. Colorfast Turkey red dye became readily available in the mid-nineteenth century, so red and white quilts became extremely popular, due not only to the newness of the color but also because of the extremely vibrant and punchy contrasting color scheme. Featuring over 650 quilts from the past three centuries, this book is filled with the gorgeous and imaginative designs of feathered stars, diamonds, animals, oak leaves, baskets, lettering, and snowflakes, as well as fascinating examples of careful embroidery and appliqué. With inspiring handiwork, designs, and visual histories, this book exemplifies the sheer magnitude and poetry of red and white quilts and is a staple compendium of this beloved art form.Maggi is a Sierra Madre resident and has written a number of wonderful quilting books which are available on Amazon.com.

On the Marquee: Notes from the Sierra MadrePlayhouse

THE CONSTANT JUGGLE

By Artistic Director, Christian Lebano

The deadline for these essays seems to creep up on me lately. My day job has suddenly become more demanding and I find that I have less time to satisfy all my obligations at the Playhouse. It is a difficult and constant juggle as there is so much to do at SMP and so much more I could do if I just had more time to devote to it.

Just last night I met with a possible designer for The Glass Menagerie, and today I was on the phone with another for a show which will be a special bonus for our audiences – about which I'm not quite ready to talk about. Yesterday I had a long talk with a director and we have decided not to go forward with Of Mice and Men this season which leaves a hole we are trying to fill. This was not an easy decision (I love that play) but the right one. We have a few terrific ideas for a replacement and will decide soon. I was very disappointed this week when we were turned down for rights for what I thought would be the perfect summer musical follow-up to Always...Patsy Cline - you never know why you don't get rights for a certain show. I'm talking with Robert Marra (Patsy's director) about what other shows might satisfy our patrons in that slot.

These are the conversations I need to be having as Artistic Director, but as lean a staff as we have makes me have to deal with a lot of other things that are vital to the growth and future of the Playhouse, as well. It's a constant juggle. But I'm not really complaining. As I said a few essays back, this is what I have always imagined doing with my life - I just wish I could make my living this way and not have to squeeze it into what time I have left over!

We are always looking for an extra set of hands – if any of you have talents that you can share with the Playhouse or can convince others who do to help, I would be thrilled to talk with you. I can be reached at ArtisticDirector@SierraMadrePlayhouse.org. We are looking for a law firm who can help us with contracts and employment questions, we are looking for a CPA firm who would undertake a forensic audit so we can apply to more foundations for grants, we need a technical director to join our theater. Oh, the list goes on and on. If anyone wants to join me in juggling, I'll supply the chainsaws!

Tickets are on sale now for A Christmas Memory and are selling briskly already. I think with the extraordinary reception we've had to Patsy and the great number of new patrons who have found us because of that show that we are likely to sell very well. We cannot extend this show, but should sales warrant it, we can add performances - we currently have 20 planned. I hope we'll see you at a show over the holidays.

If you haven't seen Patsy you have until October 30 to do so. If you think a show may be sold-out it is still worth calling Mary Baville in our box office and getting on the waiting list for the show you want - we sometimes get cancellations and Mary will call you and let you know. Remember we give 20% discounts for groups of 10 or more who purchase their tickets ahead of their attendance date. Please call Mary at 626.355.4318 to arrange your purchase.

If you give away your property (or add someone's child goes to sell the house, the child has to pay capital gains tax on the difference between their basis and what sales price of the property.

So how do you avoid forcing your children to pay capital gains taxes? By NOT adding them to the deed or account!

If your child inherits the property through a revocable living trust, your child will get a "step up" in their basis to fair market value at the date of your death. Thus, if the property above was worth $300,000 at the date of death, the child's basis becomes $300,000 when they inherit it. This means that if your child goes to sell the property, they will pay no capital gains taxes.

Finally, gifting to your children has other dangerous pitfalls. If you add children's names to property or accounts, you are subjecting those assets to potential risk if your child were to accidentally injure someone or run up a credit

By far, the safest way to pass your family's wealth on to your children is through a fully funded revocable living trust. Setting up and funding a revocable living trust avoids probate, protects your children from unnecessary taxes, and gives you the ability to protect their inheritance from divorce, lawsuits, and creditors.

Perhaps you already know all of this. Perhaps you don't. ### HOW TO PLAN AN AFFORDABLE FUNERAL

Dear Savvy Senior,

When my brother died last year, my sister and I had a regular funeral for him and got stuck with a $12,000 bill. Can you recommend some funeral cost cutting tips or cheaper alternatives? I don't want to stick my kids with a big funeral bill after

Looking Ahead

Dear Looking,

With the average cost of a full-service funeral running over $10,000 today, many people are seeking alternative options to make their final farewell more affordable. Depending on how you want to go, here are some money saving options from around $600 (for a direct cremation) up to to consider.

Traditional funeral: If you're interested in a traditional funeral and burial, your first money saving step is to shop around and compare funeral providers, because prices can vary.

If you want some help, contact your funeral consumer alliance program. These are volunteer groups that offer information and prices on local funeral providers. See funerals.org/affiliatesdirectory or call 802-865-8300 for contact information.

like funeralhomeindex.com that lets you compare prices, and funeraldecisions.com that will provide estimates from local funeral homes based on what

 $When \, comparing, \, make \, sure \, you \, take \, advantage$ of the "funeral rule." This is a federal law that requires funeral home directors to provide you with an itemized price list of their products and

Another way to lower your costs is to buy your own casket. You can save at least 50 percent by purchasing one from a store or online and having it delivered to the funeral home, and the funeral home providing the service must accept it. Two good casket-shopping resources that may surprise you are Walmart.com and Costco.com, which offer a variety of caskets and urns at discounted service they can have it at the graveside or at your place of worship without the body. These services usually cost between $1,000 and $2,000, not counting cemetery charges. All funeral homes offer direct burial.

Cremation: An increasingly popular and affordable way to go, cremation can run anywhere $4,000 or higher depending on the provider and services you choose. To locate funeral homes that offer cremation or cremation providers in your area, look in your local yellow pages under 'cremation" or "funeral" or visit cremation.com.

Green burial: An eco-friendly green burial is another affordable option that costs anywhere from $1,000 to several thousand depending on the provider. With a green cemetery burial, the body is buried in a biodegradable coffin or just wrapped in a shroud, without embalming chemicals There are also free websites you can turn to, or a burial vault. The Green Burial Council (greenburialcouncil.org, 888-966-3330) has a state listing of cemetery operators who accommodate green burials, as well as funeral professionals who provide the services.

Veteran's burial: If you are a veteran, you're entitled to a free burial at a national cemetery and a free grave marker. This benefit also extends to spouses and dependent children. Some veterans services so you can choose exactly what you want. may even be eligible for funeral expense allowances too. To learn more, visit www.cem.va.gov or call the VA at 800-827-1000.

> Body donation: Donating your body to a medical facility for research is another popular way to go, and it's completely free. After using your body, your remains will be cremated and your ashes will be buried or scattered in a local cemetery or returned to your family. To locate body donation programs in your state, see anatbd. acb.med.ufl.edu/usprograms.

NASA ORBITER VIEWS SITES OF FICTION FILM'S MARS LANDINGS; WHITE HOUSE TO HOLD ASTRONOMY NIGHT OCT. 19

Images from a NASA Mars orbiter's telescopic camera reveal details of real regions on Mars where the new Hollywood movie, "The Martian," places future astronaut adventures.

The novel of the same name, originally selfpublished by Andy Weir in 2011, used actual locations on Mars for the landing sites for its "Ares 3" and "Ares 4" missions. The landing site for "Ares 3" is on a Martian plain named Acidalia Planitia. The base for the "Ares 4" mission was set inside a crater named Schiaparelli.

Views of these two sites, and other locations pertinent to the fictional story, are in the latest weekly release of images from the High Resolution Imaging Science Experiment (HiRISE) camera on NASA's Mars Reconnaissance Orbiter. They are available online at http://uahirise.org/martian

Each observation by HiRISE covers an area of several square miles and shows details as small as a desk. More than 39,000 of them have been taken since the Mars Reconnaissance Orbiter reached Mars in 2006. They are available online for anyone to explore, from the comfort of home, at http:// hirise.lpl.arizona.edu

Jaime Gutierrez is proud to embrace his role as a husband and father of two children, ages four and one. At age 13, he was well on his way to becoming a statistic within the criminal justice system. By 2000, he had already made his rounds to at least two juvenile residential facilities in San Fernando Valley after being convicted of assault and battery. Yet at that young age he was wise enough to realize that returning to the chaos of his home environment in North Hollywood would not be a good move. When it was time for him to leave the residential boys' home he had been living in for two years, he asked his probation officer if she could help him find another place to live. Journey House was already on her radar screen, as she had already been impressed with the program after placing three other foster probation young men at the Pasadena-based nonprofit agency.

After being interviewed by Journey House founder, Tim Mayworm, Jaime moved into the residential program that the agency operated at that time. Only 14 at the time, he was relieved, for he felt in his spirit that it was one of the best things that could have happened at that point in his life. His status as an undocumented child of Mexican immigrants had never been addressed, so Tim swung into action to assist with the legal paperwork to ensure that the youngster would have legal status as an emancipated minor. Jaime had found a place that felt safe, a place where he felt like he finally belonged. "Journey House helped me to grow up and become a man," says Jaime. He stated that just wanted to learn to be independent, to graduate high school and get into college. He says, "No one else was going to give me that chance." The craftsman house at the corner of Los Robles and Claremont was his home, where he resided with his extended family of colleagues. All of the young men were given the guidance, love and support that all young people need, yet they were held accountable. Jaime still had challenges as he tried to learn how to handle responsibilities as a student, as a young man. He had to repeat one semester of the 9th grade at Pasadena High School and went on to graduate in 2004. He was finally coming of age and at 18 he moved out of the Journey House group home, into The art sketches that Jaime drew when he was living Bridge, a separate transitional housing program in Pasadena that the agency operated at that time.

He got a job in the hotel industry, but like so many others during the related to the onset of the Great Recession in 2008, he lost his job. Like any other unemployed adult with responsibilities, he had to determine what to do next. As timing would have it, Tim contacted him about an opportunity to work as a Career Development Intern working with probation and former foster youth for DCFS. He applied, but it took more than a year before establish Journey House in 1983. For 25 years DCFS contacted him for an interview. One of the people he met when he first moved in was another youth name Luis, and they are best friends to this day. When asked why he feels it is important to maintain a connection with the agency, he shares, 'Journey House is still a support system, there are like my backbone. Tim is just like a father to me and I've always kept that relationship with him.' He says that he calls for advice about many things, including how to go about buying a house.

On the day that Jamie dropped in and agreed to the impromptu interview for this article, Journey House was in the process of preparing for its upcoming semi-annual, three-day yard sale scheduled next Wednesday through Friday, Oct 14th - 16th. While sorting through some old boxes, Tim had found a file that contained some at Journey House. Jaime was excited when Tim handed the drawings to him, stating that he didn't know what had happened to the drawings and figured that he had misplaced them or they had been tossed into the trash years ago. After seeing them, he said, "Now I can show these to my son."

Youth like the 13-year old Jaime who faced challenges, served as the inspiration for Tim Mayworm to leave his teaching position at LaSalle High School and take a leap of faith to

The new politically-correct posture is to say that, "hey, Columbus didn't discover America, he just shipwrecked into the Carribean, and there were already people there...." Yes, of course, all more or less correct, and the politically-correct also suggest that we now call this Indigenous Peoples Day. OK

Every country has dates and years that are integral to its mythology, and in the U.S., the two most important years that every schoolchild memorizes in rhyme is 1492 and 1776. So let's look at the Columbus story from a different angle.

relatively recent origin. Though it was loosely commemorated since colonial times, it began to be commemorated unofficially in New York as early as 1866, and because of pressure from Catholic

It had a lot to do with Italian-pride. Certainly his voyages opened the door for a flood of invaders into the New World which eventually devastated and obliterated the indigenous cultures. Curiously, in the book "1491" by Charles Mann, the author say that apparently a plague or disease spread across north America, in advance of the Europeans. Despite what you hear on popular indigenous population of north America died from various diseases, not by an intentional genocidal effort. And most of those who died in this die-off never even saw Europeans!

Plus, Columbus was not the first to get here. He was only celebrated because he was the one who went back home and told everyone what he found. Columbus' own writings talk about "other maps" that were made by those who went before him, though he does not name who these others are.

In 1976, author Barry Fell released the first of his bombshell trilogy of books, "America B.C." where really should be viewed more honestly, in view of he claims to have interpreted writings on stone throughout the Americas in written languages from such far away places as the British Islands, various parts of Europe, and Northern Africa. When I read Fell's books, I wondered how it was that such epigraphic evidence could be overlooked by so many. In part, this was because the archaeologists weren't looking for linguistic evidence in foreign languages. But Fell sought out such evidence, because he believed – as did Thor Heyerdahl before him – that the oceans were not barriers to travel someone traveling on the trade winds could live off the sea and travel around the globe.

I thought that if even 10% of what Fell wrote was sainthood"?)

[Nyerges is the author correct, it would revolutionize our view of history. "How to Survive Well, Fell had many followers, and many detractors, "Foraging and it turns out that maybe he was very loose and other with transliterations and translations along with some wishful thinking. But because he made so many Every school child in America has learned that mistakes in his unique efforts, traditional academic archaeologists more or less threw Fell out with the the Atlantic with a ragtag crew and made it North bath water, lock, stock, and barrel, including that

Fortunately, others following in his footsteps have confirmed via epigraphy that someone with knowledge in writing systems that were used in Europe about 2000 to 3000 years ago left spotty evidence all over the U.S., but mostly in the Colorado-Oklahoma area, and along the east coast. Who were these people? You can and should read all about them in some of the research that has followed Fell, such as "Ancient American Inscriptions: Plow Marks or History?", which is perhaps the single best book which attempts to approach linguistic evidence on rocks in a strict scientific manner. The evidence shows that there were indeed Celtic people here, who were master mariners. There were many For starters, Columbus Day in the U.S. is of others too, a little here, a little there, nearly always an extreme minority among the Siberian-rooted Plains Indians who were numerous in at least the eastern half of the country.

Did he treat the natives well, or not? and Anasazi"), not only were there other people here before Columbus, there were four distinct "civilizations" in North America that rose and fell long before Columbus was even born.

Joseph's book is a bit too much for most people if it's their first foray into the history of North America that you weren't taught in school. But his book is just the latest in many that have followed in TV shows, Mann believes that at least 80% of the the footsteps of Fell and tried to demonstrate that North America was far more diverse than we ever imagined.

> I'll do a review of Joseph's book another day, but suffice it to say that killing and brutality are all too common human traits, and Columbus and his gang certainly didn't invent that.

> At the end of the day, do we still want to commemorate Columbus? I guess that's for all of us to decide. He did make a "discovery" for Europe, and no one disputes that, within the full definition of what we mean by "discovery." But he today's sensitivities. He was no saint, but he wasn't the almighty demon either.

> In a similar vein, it troubles me that the current Pope chose to create a saint out of a priest who caused so much harm and disruption and destruction to the California natives and their way of life. Serra was no saint either, and shame on the Pope for not knowing this.

(Perhaps the standard is too low for sainthood. I've heard that two healing miracles must be documented in order for one to be regarded as by ancient man, but rather the highways where a saint. Since I believe there were at least two "healings" from "praying" to my purebred pitbull Cassius Clay, shouldn't he be eligible for "dog

OUT TO PASTOR

A Weekly Religion Column by Rev. James Snyder

I AM SO DONE WITH SUMMER!

I just don't want summer all the time. As far as I am concerned, a little bit of good weather goes a long way with me.

Don't get me wrong here; summer is my favorite time of the year. However, the reason it is my favorite time of the year is that when it is over I have some jolly wonderful memories of summer. I have those memories of summer still lingering on and I want to share them.

When you get my age, memories are very important. At my age, I can have what is called "selective memory." I am not quite sure who come up with that phrase, but I think they need a Nobel Peace Prize of some sort.

As a young person when I forgot something it was rather embarrassing and my mother or father would scold me and tell me I need to remember things if I was ever going to grow up. Now that I am older, it is not in the same thing, but rather an Forgetting something enables me to handle life as it comes at me.

For example. The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage will at times ask me, "Did you remember...?" Of course, it does not matter what the subject is because I will look at her with one of "my looks," and she will return it with one of "her looks." She has both hands postured on her hips and I have to back down. I can't find my hips.
"You know, my dear," I always try to explain,

"at my age I can't remember very many things." She will stare at me for a moment and then say, "I think it's rather strange that you can remember what you want to remember but you can forget what you want to forget. I'm not sure age has anything to do with it.

I refuse to get into that tussle because when the wife of the house wins the argument there is a sense of peace and serenity about the house. I like peace and serenity.

I am afraid she has me figured out. If I am not mistaken, she had me figure out the first day she met me. That is the difference between men and

That aside, I am still so done with summer. I want to be able to share my memories of this summer while they are still fresh in my mind. Of course, I can always doctor up those memories to

I was sharing one of my summer memories with someone one time when my wife stepped in jamessnyderministries.com.

You know when you have had enough of and said something like, "I sure don't remember it that way."

What is a husband to do? I am in a position where I can either embarrass myself or embarrass my wife. Now if I embarrass myself, everybody It's not that I dislike summer. I love summer. will have a laugh at my expense. If, however, I embarrass my wife, I am in for some real trouble when we get home, still at my expense.

This past summer I kept a journal of some of the things that happened. I was having a wonderful time jotting down what would hopefully turn out to be marvelous memories to share with anyone who would listen.

I just cannot wait for summer to be over so I can go dipping into that little journal and share some marvelous memories of my summer.

My journal was of such a nature that only I could read it. I did that on purpose because I wanted nobody else to read it. This is my journal, and it should be a private thing. So, during the summer I tried abbreviated and used code words so nobody could figure out what I was journaling about.

One problem. I kept it so private that when I went back over my journal I did not know what I had written. I could not figure out anything in that journal. Nothing made sense. I was a little disheveled about it until that phrase came dancing into my mind, "selective memory."

One thing I have learned through the years is, not very many people are interested in the truth. If a memory sounds likely, you can sell it to anybody.

I want it to be clearly understood that I always tell the truth, but not necessarily in chronological order. I think the one who is telling the memory has the privilege of arranging the memory to suit himself. After all, it is my memory and I should tell it the way I want to tell it.

All I can say is, I am just about done with summer and I cannot wait for it to get over so I can begin with my memories of this past summer. Old boy, what memories I have.

Solomon understood this when he wrote, "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth, while the evil days come not, nor the years draw nigh, when thou shalt say, I have no pleasure in them" (Ecclesiastes 12:1).

I may be done was summer, but thankfully, God is not done with me. And what memories I have about Him.

HOWARD Hays As I See It

"Our thoughts and , "Great Britain, Australia, countries like prayers are not enough."

College in Roseburg, with guns." Oregon

"Stuff happens."

- Jeb Bush, responding to the same incident

Anybody who's taken Poli Sci 101 (I might've gotten more than a "B" had I not argued with the prof) knows that "politics" is more than a derisive term. At times over the past couple weeks, though, you'd hardly think so.

There was the "politics" represented by Rep. Kevin McCarthy (R-CA), who'd been presumed to be the next House Speaker, on Fox News. McCarthy admitted the Benghazi hearings (set in the wake of the killings of four Americans serving their country), going on now for longer than Watergate's, have been all about politics. "Everybody thought Hillary Clinton was unbeatable, right? But we put together a Benghazi Special Committee", he bragged to Sean Hannity, "What are her numbers today? Her numbers are dropping." The Clinton campaign is set to air a 30-second ad this week featuring McCarthy, opening with "The Republicans finally admit it."

In responding to the Roseburg shootings, though, President Obama emphasized the broader definition of "politics"; as a means of doing good for people and holding accountable those who don't. "This is something we should politicize", he explained, "it is relevant to our common life together, to the body politic . . . to change these laws and to save lives, and to let young people grow up".

Democratic candidates specified laws they'd change. Clinton proposed expanded background checks (according to Bloomberg, supported by 92% of Americans, 92% of gun owners and 86% of Republicans), revoking immunity for "negligent manufacturers and dealers", strong penalties for "straw purchasers" and taking guns from domestic abusers. In addition, former Gov. Martin O'Malley (MD) wants required licensing of gun purchasers and to make gun-trafficking a federal crime, while both he and Sen. Bernie Sanders (I-VT) have called for reinstituting a ban on assault weapons.

But on the Republican side, it's the other kind of politics. Donald Trump and Mike Huckabee blamed gun-free zones, with Carly Fiorina flatly stating: "This campus was a gun-free zone", which it wasn't - the Oregon legislature having prohibited them in 2011 (Fiorina, again, choosing talking points over the truth). Jeb Bush warned against laws that "make it harder for people to protect liberty".

Ben Carson blamed the victims, saying "I would not just stand there and let him shoot me." (Army vet Chris Mintz didn't "just stand there", and was shot seven times trying to protect fellow students.) Gov. Bobby Jindal (LA) blamed "cultural rot". Gov. John Kasich (OH) explained, "the deeper issue is objected to the president's remarks. For his citing the examples of other countries

ours", Michael Pascoe of the Sydney Morning Herald complained, "Australia is not like President Obama, the United States. We decided not to be. We the decided to grow up instead and become a shootings that killed nine more reasonable, rational society . . . The US at Umpqua Community is too immature a society to be allowed to play

(Following a mass shooting in 1996, the conservative-led government pushed through a measure tightening licensing and ownership rules and banning assault weapons, with a buy-back of those already in circulation. There have been no mass killings in Australia since; there have been 294 in the U.S. – so far this year. The Australian measure was passed and enacted less than two weeks after the shooting took place.)

We have by far the largest per-capita ownership rate in the developed world (a gun for every man, woman and child in the country) and by far the largest gun homicide rate (30 per million people; other developed nations are all in single digits). Harvard studies make clear: whether in states, communities or households; the more guns there are the greater the rate of gun-related suicides, homicides and risk of being a victim of a homicide - especially for women with a gun in the house. States with the most guns had an accidental firearms death rate 7 times higher than those with the fewest. Kids 5-14 in the U.S. are 11 times more likely to be killed by a gun than in other developed countries.

Roseburg is one of those places where they love their guns. Douglas County Sheriff John Hanlin, who led the response to the shooting, was one of those gun nuts who bought into the notion those 20 six-and-seven-year-olds "allegedly shot" (as he put it) at Sandy Hook, and scores of grieving family members, were part of some conspiracy to create a pretext for disarming the public".

The killers of Sandy Hook and Umpqua College had things in common; both were young men with documented histories of mental and emotional issues, both lived at home with single moms with whom they shared a passion for guns, both had ready access to several - including assault weapons - from home. After the Roseburg shootings, the estranged father noted that if his son "had not been able to get ahold of 13 guns, it would not have happened . . . Someone has to ask themselves, 'how is it so easy to get all these guns?"

Ben Carson characterized President Obama's trip to Roseburg for private meetings with victims' families as "politicizing something". Dr. Carson's statement itself shows the worst kind of "politics".

The president referred to the other kind when he when he said, "This is a political choice that we make to allow this to happen every few months in America. We collectively are answerable to those families who lose their loved ones because of our inaction." In voting, he reminded, we are "making a determination whether this cause of continuing death of innocent people should be a relevant factor in your decision. If you think this is a problem then you should expect your elected officials to reflect your views.

Republicans weren't the only ones who We do, Mr. President.

MICHAEL Reagan Making Sense

TIME FOR SENSIBLE BACKGROUND CHECKS

In the wake of the recent homicidal shooting rampage at an Oregon community college, I'm forced to come to the conclusion that it is high time for common sense national background checks for journalists.

It's time we closed the political loophole and prevented biased, ignorant political operatives from getting their hands on a dangerously misleading national microphone.

RedState has a perfect example this week. Former Bill Clinton White House aide, and current Clinton Foundation donor George Stephanopoulos, is the host for ABC's This Week. He uses his "bully pulpit" to bully conservatives and Republicans.

During an interview with New Jersey Gov. Chris Christie, Stephanopoulos interrupted Christie to assert, "But there's no question the pace of mass shootings is accelerating, happening more frequently than anywhere else. If it's not the gun, then what

This is a perfect example of leftist thinking. As Dennis Prager points out, the left always blames the inanimate object and never

During the Cold War the left wanted to ban atomic weapons rather than condemn and work to overthrow totalitarian regimes that could use The Bomb to further their ends. Leftist—in—Chief Obama continues to be fixated on nuclear weapons and behind the scenes is working to render our nuclear deterrent impotent.

Now the left is fixated on the gun. Blaming the user of the gun is out of the question, because that involves individual responsibility.

Once America starts thinking in terms of individual responsibility again, it has the potential to open up a line of questioning that is very uncomfortable for big government leftists.

For example: Why can't you find a job? Where is the father of your children? How did your home enter foreclosure? What do you spend your money on? Why have we lost the War on Poverty?

After demonizing the gun, leftists like Stephanopoulos use false data from anti—gun pressure groups to contradict defenders of the 2nd Amendment.

First they change the definition of "mass shooting." Before the numbers started to trend against them, the definition was at least four deaths NOT counting the shooter. Now gun grabbers use three deaths as a minimum or they include the wretched shooter in the total.

Naturally, as if by magic in a cloud of cordite, there are more mass shootings, but even doctored statistics can't support the "accelerating" claim.

The RedState graph shows mass shootings peaked in 2004 and have not reached that peak since. Since 2008, mass shootings have been trending downward.

I'm certain rabid Democrat defenders of media bias will block my common sense background checks for journalists bill in the Senate. So in the meantime I can only advise you to beware leftists bearing statistics.

Explorers of the Past

Explorers from many countries had visions of new lands and treasures and of sharing power with their kings and queens and being 'royally' rewarded!

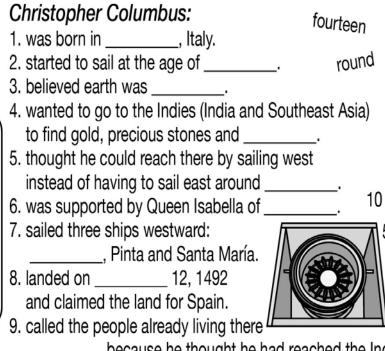

Christopher Columbus is one of the most famous explorers. What do you know about him? Read the clues to fill in the puzzle about him:

Among the crew of Christopher Columbus' ships were grummets or cabin boys. The cabin boys did many small chores and received about one half the pay of the seamen. One of their jobs was to keep track of the time by turning half-hour glasses every 30 minutes.

Read these clues to find out more about the life of the boys.
