Walking Sierra Madre... The Social Side

by Deanne Davis

Walking Sierra Madre this time of year is simply a delight. There are still pumpkins on lots of folks' porches, which will last for months, till the squirrels find a weak spot. Those easterners who say we don't have Autumn color haven't seen OUR leaves and it finally feels like Fall. I expect we're all doing something about Thanksgiving. Brining our turkey (best thing ever for a moist and tender Festive Bird!), making a pie, looking for something new to do with sweet potatoes and, best of all, inviting family and friends to share the feast. I don't suppose any of you folks have ever had the following experience?

The Ghost of Thanksgivings Past

The Festive Bird is in the stove, And time now for a nap. I laid me down, closed my eyes, And on the window heard a tap.

It's far too soon for guests to come, I need a little peace!
The stuffing's ready, cranberries chillin, Pies overflow with pumpkin fillin'.

The tap just keeps on at my window, But I'm not gonna look! There's nothing more for me to do, This is one tired and sleepy cook.

So I snuggled deep down in my afghan, Turned my head the other way. I don't care who's at that window, They can tap all day.

Off I went to slumberland and dreamed a A kitchen, clean and washed and spotless, everything just right. But then I dreamt a dreadful dream, That made me shriek with fright!

> The tapping at my window, More insistent grew. And what was out there tapping, I'll now describe to you.

The Ghost of my Thanksgivings Past, A turkey that was huge! Tapped an enormous beak at my window, And gobbled.... "J' accuse!"

"Forty Thanksgivings, and more," he said, "Śince you walked down the aisle. Forty turkeys you've served up, With sweet potatoes and a smile."

"Forty turkeys come and gone, And still your gravy's awful! And the year the turkey hit the floor, Should be declared... unlawful!!"

"Most of them were nicely done, I'll give you that," he said.
"But some were cooked so badly, You should have ordered Chinese instead!" What an awful dream, I thought, as I cowered in my bed.

> The Ghostly Turkey wasn't finished, With his accusations many. And I, offering excuses, Discovered I hadn't any!

But then he smiled and said to me, 'Your crimes are all forgiven. For those who've gathered at your table, Have rejoiced and laughed for hours."

"We turkeys relish meals like these, They are sweet as summer flowers! Enjoy today, with friends and family, gathered 'round your table, Give thanks for health and joy and peace... Then share this Thanksgiving fable."

And with a last gobble...gobble, the Ghost of Thanksgivings Past, Flew up, up, and away...
And I heard him exclaim, ere he flew out of sight...

"Happy Thanksgiving to all... And for heaven's sake, learn to make better gravy!"

Happy Thanksgiving to you all! Hope it's the best one ever!

JAMES GARCIA Of Sierra Madre, passed away Saturday, November 14, 2015, due to complications from Parkinson's Disease. Jim was surrounded by his loving family at the time of his passing. Born on August 28, 1922, in Arcadia, CA Jim grew up in San Gabriel. Jim was one of eight children, and lived most of his adult life in Sierra Madre, CA.

In 1942, Jim answered the call of his country, and went into the U.S. Army - where he served in an anti-aircraft battery. On June 6, 1944, Jim was among those brave men to hit the beaches in Normandy, France, and was actually in the second wave at Omaha Beach. Jim went on to serve in several major battles in Europe, and after the war in Nuremberg, Germany, for which he was awarded five (5) Bronze stars, as well as various other medals. Jim was honorably discharged in December 1945, and – shortly after his return home -- met Esther Reyes. Jim and Esther remained married for 68 years, until Jim's passing.

Jim worked for Lee & Daniel as an ironworker for 30 years. After retiring, Jim continued to remain active and had a successful landscaping business throughout the San Gabriel Valley. Jim also remained dedicated to serving his country, and was active member of VFW Post 3208 and The American Legion. He enjoyed socializing with family and friends, music and good food.

At 11:36 am, Sierra Madre Police responded to the 00 block of North Baldwin Avenue regarding a theft report. Upon arrival, the victim informed Officers that the day before while working at the local gas station, two male suspects pulled in the station and asked her to break a $100 bill for smaller bills. The woman took the $100 bill and handed the suspect five twenties, to which he pulled out another $100 and asked her to break it as well. After breaking the second bill, the man handed her two twenties and purchased gas. After filling up the tank, one of the suspects returned and asked the clerk to break another $100, which she complied. After the men left, the clerk realized that the last $100 bill felt and looked different. The following morning the manager called in the clerk and informed her at all three $100 bills were fake. In all the suspects stole over $250 cash and $40 gas. This case has been forwarded to the Detective Bureau.

Friday, November 13th

At 12:54 am, Sierra Madre Police were patrolling the area of Auburn Avenue when they noticed a suspicious vehicle with two occupants parked in front of a residence. Officers noticed out of state plates and decided to approach the vehicle. Upon their approach they discovered a man who was partially undressed and woman who appeared to be sleeping. Officers woke the pair and immediately the man began yelling and erratically moving his hands while the female complied with Officer's commands to roll down her window. Both the man and woman informed Officers they did not have any identification and when Officers informed the man that they were being detained due to their suspicious activity, the man turned on his vehicle and drove off.

During the week of Sunday, November 8th, to Sunday, November 15th, the Sierra Madre Police the woman yelling for the man to stop. The male Department responded to approximately 249 calls led Officers on a vehicle pursuit reaching speeds of up to 45 mph in residential streets. During the pursuit the passenger door kept opening and closing, as the woman attempted to exit the vehicle but was unable due to the reckless driving of the man. The man finally came to a stop on Coburn Avenue and Officers initiated a high risk stop. Officers safely detained both the man and woman without incident. When Officers questioned the man why he fled, he stated that he was annoyed by not being able to sleep. Officers determined the woman was attempting the exit the vehicle but the man kept telling her to shut the door. The man was arrested and charged with felony evading, kidnapping, and driving on an expired license. The woman was released at the

When Officers approached the men, one of the fighting males took off. Officers detained the two other men while waiting for back up, and shortly after sitting the two men on the ground, the third man came back into the area. When Officers instructed the man to come over to the scene, he began screaming profanities and took off running again. Officers searched the immediate area but were unable to locate the man. Officers continued to speak with the two other subjects and quickly realized one of the subjects who was seen fighting was arrested a few weeks prior for public intoxication. The subject was clearly intoxicated with slurred speech and having trouble maintaining his balance. Officers arrested and cited him for Public intoxication. The second man detained at the scene spoke clearly and did not appear to be intoxicated and was released at

City Releases OIŔ Report On Mcdade Shooting

City officials Tuesday released a redacted copy of a report on the March 24, 2012 police officer-involved shooting of Kendrec McDade after the city's plan to release the report was confirmed by Los Angeles County Superior Court Judge James Chalfant. The report was prepared for the City by the Office of Independent Review Group

Additional court proceedings regarding the OIR report are scheduled and the city expects to be able to release a copy of the report with fewer redactions. The next court hearing is scheduled for Dec. 1, at which time the city anticipates the court will issue further direction in the case.

"We are pleased with Judge Chalfant's confirmation that the city can provide the public with this version of the OIR report, which is consistent with the city's position that we need to be transparent by releasing as much as legally possible so that the community has the opportunity to read the report," Pasadena Mayor Terry Tornek said.

The report is posted online for the public at www.cityofpasadena.net/ OIRreport.

McDade, then 19, was fatally shot by Pasadena police officers responding to a 911 emergency caller who falsely claimed McDade committed an armed robbery. McDade, whom officers later learned was unarmed, died at the scene. The officers involved in the shooting were cleared of any wrongdoing by the Los Angeles County District Attorney's Office and an internal review by the Pasadena Police Department. The FBI also found no civil rights violations occurred.

SAN GABRIEL VALLEY HABITAT FOR HUMANITY - 75 HOMES IN 25 YEARS!

Sonya Yates, Executive Director of San Gabriel Valley Habitat for Humanity has an amazing story to share. In the 25 years the organization has been here, they have built 75 homes for lowincome families. These families all contribute over 300 hours of "sweat" equity into their homes. They apply for their 0% mortgage with Habitat and provide 1% down payment. In these 25 years there have been 0 (zero) foreclosures - and 0 (zero) home sales. All of these homes are owned by their original families – and many have paid off their mortgages!

Habitat is always looking for new ways to support our community. Finding affordable land and appropriate partners is key. Their latest project, Desideiro Project in Pasadena will provide 9 homes for families in West Pasadena on the land previously used by the Desiderio Army Reserve Base. Habitat is also expanding into exterior home repair programs as well. At a recent meeting of the Duarte Kiwanis, Sonya was able to share these stories and coordinate potential volunteer opportunities through Volunteer and Youth Programs Manager, Kathy Karimi. WAYS TO GIVE BACK THIS HOLIDAY SEASON

(StatePoint) When making this year's holiday gift list, consider how you might also give back to your local community. The holiday season is the perfect time of year to do this, when volunteer and donation opportunities increase. Here are a few ideas to give back in your community:

The Gift of Literacy

Only one-third of all students entering high school are proficient in reading, according to a National Assessment of Education Progress report. Brighten children's smiles this holiday season while also giving them an opportunity to succeed at school and beyond. The Marine Toys for Tots Foundation has given new toys to children in need for more than 60 years. The organization also extends its reach through a partnership with The UPS Store through the Toys for Tots Literacy Program, which provides economically disadvantaged children an opportunity to succeed in school and beyond. Donations can be made at The UPS Store locations nationwide or online at toysfortots. org/literacy.

One-hundred percent of all proceeds go to support local children and literacy programs. Your donations go even further thanks to the Marine Toys for Tots Foundation, which is able to purchase books at a deep discount. To find a participating location near you and make a donation that will help ensure families everywhere have access to books, visit

Bake Sale

When you're busy making trays of cookies for your big holiday party, consider making an extra batch or two, and encouraging friends and neighbors to do the same. With your combined efforts, you can host a bake sale, which can be a lucrative and enjoyable way to raise money for your favorite charity.

If you don't have time to organize an event like this, you can still give back through your baking. Wrap packs of cookies or other goodies in bags as thank you gifts to your children's teachers, coaches and others in your community who have served or been kind to your family all year.

Volunteer Your Time

One of the best ways to give back is by donating your valuable time. Make a trip to a local nursing home and spend time with residents who may not have family or anyone else to visit them this season. Additionally, soup kitchens are often in need of extra hands during the holidays. Ask your local organizations about volunteer opportunities.

While holiday wish lists are often full of fun gadgets, clothes and toys, there are still many in your community lacking more basic necessities. This season, think beyond your personal wants and do your best to give back.

THE REEL DEAL: by Ben Show THE 33 REVIEW

Generally, I try to stay away from films with faith as a strong central theme; however, I remembered hearing about the Chilean miners and, while I knew about what was going on, I did not know the details of the story. So, when I sat down to watch 'The 33', I had some very mixed feelings about what would be the main focus of the film: faith or the story of the miners?

In 2010, a Chilean gold mine collapsed, trapping 33 miners down several thousand feet below the surface of the Earth. When the mining company looked as if it was going to do nothing about it, the families of miners took a stand and forced them into action. What ensued was a massive, international effort to reduce the men.

This is not a typical movie that centers on religion. There are religious aspects, yes, but they are presented in a very realistic way: faith, accompanied by hard work from all sides, can get you anywhere or out of any situation. The miners and their families did not simply sit there and pray for a miracle; they worked hard and kept their faith. 'The 33' holds a very powerful message of faith, especially for the modern world; it is definitely a film worth seeing, whether you are religious or

JUST FOR BEST FRIENDS

THANKFUL GIVING HELPS KEEP THEM LIVING

Thanksgiving is once again upon us, reminding us of the many blessings we have to be grateful for. It is the season to share special times around the table with family and friends, and it is also a time to share with others who are less fortunate than ourselves.

There are numerous non-profit programs that one can participate in to help facilitate the thankful giving process this time of year, not the least of which are those focused on helping animals. With countless precious pets locked up in shelters hoping to be given a second chance at life and certain few lucky ones who've temporarily escaped that fateful destiny through the kindness of rescues and foster families, there is no shortage of ways we can give to help animals live. Here is a list of non-profit organizations that offer unique and easy ways of spreading the wealth to help animals in need. These are groups with which I am personally familiar and have had positive experiences. It is actually the short list, as there are far too many to include in this small column.

5 REASONS WHY YOU NFFD AN FSTATF PLAN REVIEW

Lots of people bring me their existing estate plans to review. Sometimes I get to deliver the good news that their documents are well drafted, their assets are properly protected, and their plans are up to date with the current laws as well as their present family situation. Unfortunately, more often than not, I have to tell them one or more of those essential planning elements is lacking or even missing altogether. Of course the silver lining is that they caught the problem before it was too late to do anything about it.

I recommend every estate plan be reviewed at a minimum of every three years (and I do that for my clients' plans as an added value benefit – at no additional charge). If you haven't had your plan reviewed within the last three years, you should. And here are 5 triggers that mean it's time to review your existing estate plan now, no matter how long it's been:

Family changes. Marriage, divorce, birth and death are four family changes that should prompt an immediate estate plan review. If one of your beneficiaries dies, you will need to remove them from your estate plan. A new child or grandchild means adding beneficiaries. If your daughter gets a divorce, you will likely want to remove her ex from your estate plan but keep their children in. These circumstances can also trigger changes to those people designated as guardians, executors or agents.

Health changes. The state of your own health may dictate changes to your estate plan, especially when it comes to long-term care. You may want to help a family member who has no other resources for longterm care, or if you yourself suddenly need longterm care, you may need to provide a trustee with new instructions on the kind of care you want - i.e., staying at home with in-home help or paying to live in a senior living facility.

Work changes. You may suddenly want - or need to retire, which could necessitate withdrawing funds from your IRA to support yourself instead of contributing more. If you have a family business, you may want to sell it or perhaps convert a sole proprietorship into an LLC or corporation, which could mean a significant change for your overall Market changes. If the total value of your securities and retirement plans has fluctuated by more than 20 percent, this should prompt an immediate estate plan review. A significant gain could provide you with assets you may want to gift to children or grandchildren to reduce or remove estate taxes.

Law changes. Tax and estate laws change all the time, so reviewing your plan to ensure you are taking advantage of any new changes that could benefit you, or revising your plan so those changes do not adversely impact your estate, is critical.

To review an existing estate plan (or create a plan if you don't have one already), call our office today. As the holiday season approaches, there really is no better gift you can give yourself and your family.

Dedicated to your family's wealth, health, and

UNDERSTANDING ACUPUNCTURE THROUGH BIOMECHANICAL MECHANISMS

"Intellectuals Solve Problems, Geniuses Prevent Them." -Albert Einstein-

The National Institute of Health (NIH) panel has concluded that acupuncture maybe an effective adjunctive therapy for many painful conditions. It has been over 30 years since acupuncture and Eastern medicine has been introduced to Europe and America, and there has been overwhelming evidence supporting acupuncture treatments for pain relief. It could be used as the primary treatment for many conditions, or an adjunct to western medicine, or as a good way to maintain health and prevent illness.

At this time, the purpose of this column is to educate patients and medical professionals about the scientific basis of acupuncture. When we treat patients, we use different technique and one of them is Vertex Synchronizing Technique (VST), which is founded on the principles of biomechanics under the premise that acupuncture meridians lie on interstitial connective tissue, as current research shows. The shoulder and pelvic girdles compose the four vertices of our body linking the trunk to the extremities. Misalignment in any of these vertices is the source of musculoskeletal pain as other muscle groups try to compensate for the misalignment. By achieving proper alignment at these vertices, the source of pain can be targeted and treated, producing immediate results and preventing recurrence. Such analyses and studies allow for effective communication with patients as well as health practitioners outside of acupuncture who may find Eastern medical philosophy difficult to grasp. Moreover, VST acts on the source of pain which can be located via proper muscle exam and assessment. The source can then be treated by aligning the vertices within the framework of our bodies. In doing so, structural integrity is restored and patients experience not only immediate pain relief but increased Range of Motion (ROM).

If time is allowed later, we would like to introduce some other Korean Acupuncture techniques, which is very effective for chronic internal disorders.

THE GOOD LIFE

HOW TO GUARD AGAINST DEADLY AORTIC ANEURYSMS

Dear Savvy Senior,

My father died several years ago, at the age of 76, from a stomach aneurysm, which now has me wondering. What are my risk factors of getting this, and what can I do to protect myself, as I get older?

Just Turned 60

Dear 60,

Stomach aneurysms, also known as "abdominal aortic aneurysms," are very dangerous and the third leading cause of death in men over 60. They also tend to run in families, so having had a parent with this condition makes you much more vulnerable yourself.

An abdominal aortic aneurysm (or AAA) is a weak area in the lower portion of the aorta, which is the major artery that carries blood from the heart to the rest of the body. As blood flows through the aorta, the weak area bulges like a balloon and can burst if it gets too big, causing life-threatening internal bleeding. In fact, nearly 80 percent of AAAs that rupture are fatal, but the good news is that more than nine out of 10 that are detected early are treatable.

Who's At Risk?

Around 200,000 people are diagnosed with AAAs each year, but estimates suggest that another 2 million people may have it but not realize it. The factors that can put you at increased risk are:

- Smoking: Ninety percent of people with an AAA smoke or have smoked. This is the number one risk factor and one you can avoid.
- Age: Your risk of getting an AAA increases significantly after age 60 in men, and after age 70
- Family history: Having a parent or sibling who has had an AAA can increase your risk to around one in four.
- Gender: AAAs are five times more likely in men than in women.
- Health factors: Atherosclerosis, also known as hardening of the arteries, high blood pressure and high cholesterol levels also increase your risk.

Detection and Treatment

Because AAAs usually start small and enlarge slowly, they rarely show any symptoms, making them difficult to detect. However, large AAAs can sometimes cause a throbbing or pulsation in the abdomen, or cause abdominal or lower back pain.

The best way to detect an AAA is to get a simple, painless, 10-minute ultrasound screening test. All men over age 65 that have ever smoked, and anyone over 60 with a first-degree relative (father, mother or sibling) who has had an AAA should talk to their doctor getting screened.

You should also know that most health insurance plans cover AAA screenings, as does Medicare to beneficiaries with a family history of AAAs, and to men between the ages of 65 and 75 who have smoked at least 100 cigarettes during their life.

If an AAA is detected during screening, how it's treated will depend on its size, rate of growth and your general health. If caught in the early stages when the aneurysm is small, it can be monitored and treated with medication. But if it is large or enlarging rapidly, you'll probably need surgery.

While some risk factors like your age, gender and family history are uncontrollable, there are a number of things you can do to protect yourself from AAA. For starters, if you smoke, you need to quit - see smokefree.gov or call 1-800-QUIT-NOW for help.

You also need to keep tabs on your blood pressure and cholesterol levels, and if they are high you need to take steps to lower them through diet, exercise and if necessary, medication.

ALMOST TURKEY DAY

Here are my favorite dining experiences so far for 2015. Look at this as a report card to dining in the Pasadena area.

TABLE FOR TWO by Peter Dills thechefknows@yahoo.com

If you're looking for a steak, I recommend the Arroyo Chop House. In Pasadena, the steaks are above average and the Grand Marnier Soufflé for dessert is a must. I also recommend Taylor's Steak House in La Canada, an old-school steak house. It's a little less pricey then the aforementioned Chop House, and I love their Molly Salad, and although service can favor the regulars, it's one of my favorites. Looking for ribs? There is only one place to go in the San Gabriel Valley -- Robin's Wood Fire Grill. Robin Salzar has been smoking the best beef and baby back ribs for years.

Lunch? I have two places in mind. First is the Central Park Café; I always order the ahi tuna sandwich with the delicious broccoli salad on the side, and you can't go wrong with the short ribs. Also, I like Houston's. It's called a steak house, and but while I've been there twenty times in the past few years, I've never have ordered a steak (I'll bet its good, though!) I love the service and the non-chain attitude, the beef dip sandwich is my favorite, and the $21 price is worth it. A favorite of mine for Middle Eastern is Sahara, a little café on Colorado Blvd., which features dining, wine and beer. Order the Chicken -- I liked it and you will too. Pizza? I like several places, but the one out-of-towners must check out is Tarantino's on Green St. They are small and quaint, and only take cash, but the pizza is great – you can get traditional style pepperoni or sausage. The lasagna is a hit as well, and they offer sandwiches, but stick with the pizza. Is Sushi your thing? Again, we have a few chains in the area, but for my money it's Gin Sushi on E. Colorado. Right next door is the wonderful Chiquita Bonita, Mike Bingley's all time favorite and owner Tavo is always there with a Bud Light ready.

Good Eats Roast Turkey

Recipe courtesy Alton Brown

Prep Time: 15 min

Inactive Prep Time: 7 hr 0 min Cook Time: 2 hr 30 min Level: Easy Serves: 10 to 12 servings

INGREDIENTS

1 (14 to 16 pound) frozen young turkey For the brine:

1 cup kosher salt

1/2 cup light brown sugar 1 gallon vegetable stock

1 tablespoon black peppercorns

1 1/2 teaspoons allspice berries

1 1/2 teaspoons chopped candied ginger 1 gallon heavily iced water

1 red apple, sliced 1/2 onion, sliced 1 cinnamon stick 1 cup water 4 sprigs rosemary 6 leaves sage

For the aromatics:

Canola oil DIRECTIONS

2 to 3 days before roasting:

Begin thawing the turkey in the refrigerator or in a cooler kept at 38 degrees F. Combine the vegetable stock, salt, brown sugar, peppercorns, allspice berries, and candied ginger in a large stockpot over medium-high heat. Stir occasionally to dissolve solids and bring to a boil. Then remove the brine from the heat, cool to room temperature, and refrigerate.

Early on the day or the night before you'd like to eat:

Combine the brine, water and ice in the 5-gallon bucket. Place the thawed turkey (with innards removed) breast side down in brine. If necessary, weigh down the bird to ensure it is fully immersed, cover, and refrigerate or set in cool area for 8 to 16 hours, turning the bird once half way through brining.

Preheat the oven to 500 degrees F. Remove the bird from brine and rinse inside and out with cold water. Discard the brine.

Place the bird on roasting rack inside a half sheet pan and pat dry with paper towels. Combine the apple, onion, cinnamon stick, and 1 cup of water in a microwave safe dish and microwave on high for 5 minutes. Add steeped aromatics to the turkey's cavity along with the rosemary and sage. Tuck the wings underneath the bird and coat the skin liberally with canola oil.

Roast the turkey on lowest level of the oven at 500 degrees F for 30 minutes. Insert a probe thermometer into thickest part of the breast and reduce the oven temperature to 350 degrees F. Set the thermometer alarm (if available) to 161 degrees F. A 14 to 16 pound bird should require a total of 2 to 2 1/2 hours of roasting. Let the turkey rest, loosely covered with foil or a large mixing bowl for 15 minutes before carving.

From the Pen & Kitchen of Deanne Davis:

Thanksgiving Day Breakfast

The festive bird is stuffed and in the stove, the potatoes are boiling for mashed potatoes, you've said the gravy prayer (please, Gravy Deity, let it be smooth this year). And people are saying, "we're hungry!"

This is not a problem, put down that ladle and in just minutes, you can hand everybody an Eggnog-Brandy Muffin!

If you're truly feeling like Wonder Woman, whack up some bacon and an onion into small chunks, sauté them together, throw in some eggs, scramble it altogether, and serve the Thanksgiving breakfast they'll remember with delight all year long.

Eggnog-Brandy Muffins

2 cups flour

2/3 cup granulated sugar 1 TB. Baking powder

½ tsp. Salt

3/4 cup prepared eggnog

½ cup brandy

5 TB butter, (unsalted if you've got it...use a little less salt if you don't) melted

1 egg, beaten

½ tsp. Grated nutmeg plus a little more for sprinkling on top

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Grease 12 muffin pan.

In a large bowl mix flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Add eggnog, brandy, butter, beaten egg and ½ tsp nutmeg. Stir only till mixed. DO NOT OVERBEAT or muffins will be rubbery and tough.

Spoon batter into greased muffin cups and sprinkle tops of muffins with nutmeg. Bake about 20 minutes or until tester inserted into center of muffin comes out clean. Remove from tin, butter and enjoy.

They freeze nicely and are probably about 200 calories per muffin.

Happy Thanksgiving!

May your turkey be tender, succulent and juicy, and may somebody who really knows how..

offer to carve it.

FOOD AND DRINK

AUNT CATHERINE'S CORN PUDDING

I almost listed this as My recipe, but then I remembered that I actually got this recipe from my dad's sister and my favorite Aunt Catherine. For whatever reason, we only had this on Thanksgiving and you had to be quick if you wanted a serving. One pass around the table and that was it. (The same can be said for my household today. Susan Henderson)

12 to 13 ears fresh corn, husks removed

1/4 cup sugar

3 tablespoons all-purpose flour 2 teaspoons baking powder

1 1/2 teaspoons salt

Pepper to taste. (You can spice it up with a little Cayenne pepper instead).

2 cups evaporated milk (I use Half and Half instead but either is good) 1/2 cup butter, melted

DIRECTIONS

Preheat oven to 350°. Get a 13 x 9 baking dish and grease the sides with butter or butter flavored cooking spray - my Aunt did not tell me that!

Cut corn off the cobs into a large bowl (about 6 cups). You can substitute frozen corn if you like but canned corn really is only to be used if there is a blizzard and you can get to the grocery store. In a separate bowl or measuring cup, mix sugar, flour and baking powder together.

Next, whisk eggs until smooth then gradually add milk or half and half and butter in a large bowl. Pour the sugar mixture into the bowl with the egss and continue whisking. Make certain the mixture is smooth and then stir in the corn. Abandon the whisk, use a wooden spoon and stir the mixture so that the corn is distruted evenly. Pour mixture into prepared baking dish and bake at 350° or until you can stick a cake tester in it and it comes out clean. Let it stand about 5 minutes before serving.

Paul Neiby's - *The Mountain Views News exists in part because of the support of Paul and Louise Neiby. Paul is no longer with us and I miss him greatly, especially this time of year when we would argue about whether he was the better cook. These were two of his favorite Thanksgiving recipes.

CORN BREAD DRESSING

Ingredients:

2 - 6 oz. bags Mrs. Cubbison's Seasoned Cornbread Stuffing Mix

1 cup chopped, raw white onions 1 cup chopped raw celery

10 dried apricots cut into pieces

4 oz. Walnuts (they can be bought in a bag of about that size 6-8 oz. Sausage, sauteed brown, defatted & crumbled. (Jimmy

Dean brand sage flavored is good

2 cups heated Chicken Broth 4 tbsp. butter melted in with 1 cup of the chicken broth

Directions:

Toss the vegetables and stuffing mix in a bowl. Add 1 cup of the heated broth with the melted butter and toss again. Load lightly in a greased covered casserole and bake for 45 minutes in a 350 degree oven. Half way through, pour the additional cup of chicken broth over the dressing.

This recipe is modified from the one that appears on the Cubbison pack by the addition of the sausage, apricot, and walnuts. The additional broth added half-way through the baking, makes the dressing moist enough but still light and discreet.

Also from Paul Neiby: CREAMED PEARL ONIONS

Onions, small pearl as needed

You may make a Mornay Sauce by adding shredded cheddar if desired. Flavor with Worchestshire, Cayenne and salt and pepper. The sauce should be fairly thick as the cooking onions will Pour the sauce over the onions in a casserole and bake covered in a medium oven for 30-40 minutes.

Mary Lee's (Dean Lee's Mother) Sausage Appetizers - Also makes great sandwiches the next day!

Refrigerated dinner rolls (10 in a tube)

Farmer John sausage links (cut in half or thirds) butter on top

Directions:

Take rolls and flatten separately with hand or rolling pin Put link in half of flat dinner roll

(if using thirds spread sausage to cover roll) Fold over and seal edges by pinching

Put 10 in ungreased cake pan

Bake 350 degrees/20 minutes until top is golden brown

Richard Garcia's

Cranberry-Pomegranate Sauce

1 1/2 pounds fresh or frozen cranberries (6 cups)

2 cups sugar 1 cup pomegranate juice

2 cups fresh pomegranate seeds

Directions

In a medium saucepan, combine the cranberries with the sugar and pomegranate juice. Bring to a simmer and cook over moderate heat, stirring occasionally, until most of the cranberries have burst, about 10 minutes. Scrape the cranberry sauce into a medium bowl and let stand until cool, about 2 hours. Fold in the pomegranate seeds and serve the sauce chilled or at room temperature.

Pat Ostrye's Non-Recipe Turkey(The Best)

My recipe would be that my husband always fixed the turkey. I really don't know how it began but, even when we had turkey a lot through the years, he always fixed it. So when he died 21 years ago, the men in the family thought I didn't know how to do it, which was fine with me. So, for this Thanksgiving, the family is going to Martin's in Arcadia. He is the youngest who was 27 when his dad died in October of '88. A few days before Thanksgiving that year he called to say he had the turkey but where about the fix it since he had a small that year he called to say he had the turkey but where should he fix it since he had a small apt in Arcadia at that time. Two of his sisters helped him do it and they brought it all to my sister-in-law's because I was living in Escondido yet, moving back to the area the first of that year. That Christmas, the oldest son took care of it, buying and fixing 2 turkeys. As long as the family doesn't run out of men, we have it made.

Dixie Countant's Easy Anti-marshmallow Yams

For those of us who don't like marshmallow on our yams, here's the family recipe for Candied

Yams or sweet potatoes Butter Light Brown Sugar

Buy as many yams as you need depending on how many people are coming to dinner. I plan two medallions per person if I'm doing a full-blown dinner with all the trimmings. Wash and slice yams (or sweet potatoes) into one-inch medallions. Steam medallions until barely done. (Not too soft) Skin the medallions by gently cutting the skin and lifting - it Arrange medallions in baking dish. (They can touch, but don't stack them) Put a small pat (aprox 1/4 tsp of butter on top of each medallion. Sprinkle light brown sugar over medallions. Cover and bake in 350 oven for 1/2 to 1 hour.

On the Marquee: Notes from the Sierra Madre Playhouse

THE FINISH LINE

By Artistic Director, Christian Lebano

"A poem is never finished, it is simply abandoned." Paul Valery

I came across this quote the other day and thought how timely to have found it while in the midst of the build of A Christmas Memory. I thought if you replaced the word "play" for "poem" it would be as fitting for theater as writing (and I suspect it's equally true of any art form).

Since Always...Patsy Cline was such a big hit and stayed in our theater through the space of two shows, it has been a while since we have moved a new production into the theater. I've been reminded this week what an enormous undertaking that is and how many compromises are made in the name of expediency and the budget. I have written about that before, but what got me thinking about this quote was considering where we are now with A Christmas Memory and where we were with Always....Patsy Cline when we closed that show.

Obviously, a show deepens and solidifies over time. The actors learn from the audience how to play moments, the stage manager gets to know the actors in performance and can begin to anticipate their reactions and timing, and the director and producers learn more clearly what is needed after seeing a show grow in front of an audience. Sometimes we can make changes or adjustments to timing or to movements involved will ever know the compromises that were during a run. But all too often, the realization of what is needed comes too late to change and you are left with the disappointment of not having anticipated the as "finished" as possible. need or seen more clearly what should have been.

This is only partly to blame on the limited number of hours we have to work on a show – I suspect that food. I can tell you truthfully that when I am counting even those companies that have the luxury of very blessings around my table, your support and loyalty of long rehearsal periods are frustrated by the lack of time! – but also on the grandness of the undertaking. am grateful for. By that I am not speaking of the size of any particular show, but the sheer hubris of trying to recreate life on stage in all its messy complexity. Life is complicated this Friday, the day after Thanksgiving and runs learned is that we have to be content with the play that 626.355.4318 to arrange your purchase.

THOMAS JEFFERSON AND THE TRIPOLI PIRATES: THE FORGOTTEN WAR THAT CHANGED AMERICAN HISTORY by Brian Kilmeade and Don Yaeger

This is the little-known story of how a newly indepen dent nation was challenged by four Muslim powers and what happened when America's third president decided to stand up to intimidation. When Thomas Jefferson became president in 1801, America faced a crisis. The new nation was deeply in debt and needed its economy to grow quickly, but its merchant ships were under attack. Pirates from North Africa's Barbary coast routinely captured American sailors and held them as slaves, demanding ransom and tribute payments far beyond what the new coun try could afford.Over the previous fifteen years, as a diplomat and then as secretary of state, Jefferson had tried to work with the Barbary states (Tripoli, Tunis, Algiers, and Morocco).

Unfortunately, he found it impossible to negotiate with people who believed their religion jus tified the plunder and would show no mercy—at least not while easy money could be made by extorting the Western powers. So President Jefferson decided to move beyond diplomacy. He sent the U.S. Navy's new warships and a detachment of Marines to blockade Tripoli—launching the Barbary Wars and beginning America's journey toward future superpower status. Among the many sus penseful episodes: Lieutenant Andrew Sterett's ferocious cannon battle on the high seas against the treacherous pirate ship Tripoli.Lieutenant Stephen Decatur's daring night raid of an enemy harbor, with the aim of destroying an American ship that had fallen into the pirates' hands.General William Eaton's unprecedented five-hundredmile land march from Egypt to the port of Derne, where the Marines launched a surprise attack and an American flag was raised in victory on foreign soil for the first time. Few today remember these men and other heroes who inspired the Marine Corps hymn: "From the Halls of Montezuma to the Shores of Tripoli, we fight our country's battles in the air, on land and sea." Thomas Jefferson and the Tripoli Pirates recaptures this forgot ten war that changed American history with a real-life drama of intrigue, bravery, and battle on the high seas.

BEHIND THE BEAUTIFUL FOREVERS: LIFE, DEATH, AND HOPE IN A MUMBAI UNDERCITY

by Katherine Boo

In this book by Pulitzer Prize winner Boo, a bewildering age of global change and inequality is made human through the dramatic story of families striving toward a better life in Annawadi, a makeshift settlement in the shadow of luxury hotels near the Mumbai airport. As India starts to prosper, the residents of Annawadi are electric with hope. Abdul, an enterprising teenager, sees "a fortune beyond counting" in the recyclable garbage that richer people throw enslavement of non-Muslims. These rogue states away. Meanwhile Asha, a woman of formidable ambition, has identified a shadier route to the middle class. With a little luck, her beautiful daughter might become its first female college graduate. And even the poorest children, like the young thief Kalu, feel themselves inching closer to their dreams. But then Abdul is falsely accused in a shocking tragedy; terror and global recession rock the city. With intelligence, humor, and deep insight into what connects people to one another in an era of tumultuous change, Behind the Beautiful Forevers, based on years of uncompromising reporting, carries the reader headlong into one of the twenty-first century's hidden worlds—and into the hearts of families impossible to forget. NASA'S CURIOSITY MARS ROVER HEADS TOWARD ACTIVE DUNES

On its way to higher layers of the mountain where it is investigating how Mars' environment changed billions of years ago, NASA's Curiosity Mars rover will take advantage of a chance to study some modern Martian activity at mobile sand dunes.

In the next few days, the rover will get its first close-up look at these dark dunes, called the "Bagnold Dunes," which skirt the northwestern flank of Mount Sharp. No Mars rover has previously visited a sand dune, as opposed to smaller sand ripples or drifts. One dune Curiosity will investigate is as tall as a two-story building and as broad as a football field. The Bagnold Dunes are active: Images from orbit indicate some of them are migrating as much as about 3 feet per Earth year. No active dunes have been visited anywhere in the solar system besides Earth.

"We've planned investigations that will not only tell us about modern dune activity on Mars but will also help us interpret the composition of sandstone layers made from dunes that turned into rock long ago," said Bethany Ehlmann of Caltech and JPL..

As of Nov. 16, Curiosity has about 200 yards remaining to drive before reaching "Dune 1." The rover is already monitoring the area's wind direction and speed each day and taking progressively closer images, as part of the dune research campaign. At the dune, it will use its scoop to collect samples for the rover's internal laboratory instruments, and it will use a wheel to scuff into the dune for comparison of the surface to the interior.

What distinguishes actual dunes from windblown ripples of sand or dust, like those found at several sites visited previously by Mars rovers, is that dunes form a downwind face steep enough for sand to slide down. The effect of wind on motion of individual particles in dunes has been studied extensively on Earth, a field pioneered by British military engineer Ralph Bagnold (1896-1990). Curiosity's campaign at the Martian dune field informally named for him will be the first inplace study of dune activity on a planet with lower gravity and less atmosphere.

Observations of the Bagnold Dunes with the Compact Reconnaissance Imaging Spectrometer on NASA's Mars Reconnaissance Orbiter indicate that mineral composition is not evenly distributed movement of Bagnold Dunes.

"We will use Curiosity to learn whether the wind size," Ehlmann said.

Ehlmann and Nathan Bridges of the Johns in the dunes. The same orbiter's High Resolution Hopkins University's Applied Physics Laboratory, Imaging Science Experiment has documented Laurel, Maryland, lead the Curiosity team's planning for the dune campaign.

"These dunes have a different texture from dunes is actually sorting the minerals in the dunes by on Earth," Bridges said. "The ripples on them are how the wind transports particles of different grain much larger than ripples on top of dunes on Earth, and we don't know why. We have models based on or "singing" dunes because of the low-pitched the lower air pressure. It takes a higher wind speed resonant noise they produce—especially when to get a particle moving. But now we'll have the first someone slides down their steep face. Do the opportunity to make detailed observations."

Desert are a good example of somewhat similar dunes on Earth. These dunes, covering 45 square miles near the town of Baker, are called "booming"

LESSONS FROM THE TONGVA Foods That Were Eaten In This Area

As Thanksgiving day approaches, many are thinking about their family meals with turkey and cranberries, which were possibly eaten at the "first Thanksgiving" on the east coast of North America. Out west, in what is now Southern California, other foods were eaten.

Growing up in this area, I had the regular opportunity to hike these mountains of my "backyard." I had a great interest in the native American culture, and foods. What did our ancestors eat for centuries if they did not practice agriculture? I wondered if I could find the food plants that the natives regularly used.

But simply identifying these plants was only the first step. I also wanted to taste the foods that had sustained my geographical ancestors. Such personal experience would be invaluable if I ever got lost while hiking. These plants still grow all around us, in the canyons, river beds, vacant lots, and in the chaparral and mountains.

In July 1769, Father Junipero Serra, writing of the areas near Pasadena, said, "We found vines loaded with grapes. We have seen Indians in immense numbers.... They continue to make a good subsistence from various seeds and by other grasses were harvested for their grain. And the wild grape vines can still be found in some of the foothill canyons, though they rarely produce fruit today.

The main plant staple was the acorn which falls from the oak trees every fall. Acorns are edible, but very bitter when raw due to the presence of tannic acid. To remove the bitterness, the Native Americans first shelled the acorns and ground was poured over the meal so that the tannin then made into bread, or boiled into a mush-like soup and eaten cold.

PRICKLY PEAR CACTUS

The Indian residents of this area ate the young succulent pads and the sweet fruits of the prickly pear cactus. Stands of the prickly pear cactus are still common. I eat the raw pads in salads, or peeled, diced, and cooked in omelettes. The fruits are tasty raw, or made into juice, pie, jam, and even ice cream.

The leaves of yucca were one of the most fishing." Wild oats (Avena fatua) and various important fibre sources. Once processed to get just the hardy fibre, the leaves were made into rope or braids, which were then used to weave sandals, construct shelters, make packs, bow strings, nets,

BERRIES AND CHERRIES

The Gabrielinos ate the native wild berries, such as wild grapes, elderberries, blackberries, currants and gooseberries, manzanitas ("little apple" in Spanish). Another common food was the wild or holly-leaf cherry (Prunus ilicifolia). them in stone mortars. The meal was then put The fruit consists of a large stone wrapped by a directly in a hollowed-out section of sandy stream thin layer of pulp. These wild cherry pits were bed, or placed in a shallow basket. Then hot water dried, ground, and leached in much the same way as acorns, and mixed with other ingredients into would wash out. The processed acorn meal was a "soup." All of these berries and fruits can still be found throughout the foothills, making good trail snacks for hikers.

Though cranberries don't grow here in the wild, we do have the common native toyon tree. These are perhaps the closest you'll get to cranberries out west. The fruits are dry and astringent when picked off the tree, but when boiled and sweetened, can be used in a variety of dishes.

Learning the skills and specialized knowledge of our ancestors provides us with one tool to break our unnecessary dependence upon others. Learning these skills instills a deep desire to "live lightly on the earth" as much as possible. The yucca plant, the most important fibre plant Knowing these basic survival skills enhances our for all the Southwestern Indians, was also a source day-to-day life, and certainly increases our safety

TOO MUCH TURKEY AND NOT ENOUGH GRAVY

This time of the year, my thoughts drift back to from my grandmother. memories of my maternal grandmother. The Thanksgiving season brought all her special talents to the forefront. To me, my grandmother reigned as queen of the kitchen and functioned as the World's Greatest Cook

Thanksgiving brought all my relatives to my grandmother's house. My grandfather lived there too, but with all the food on the table, nobody

To be honest, my grandmother did not do everything. My grandfather made a major contribution to the Thanksgiving preparation. In fact, he had the most important part — he stayed out of grandmother's kitchen. I have always appreciated that quality of my grandfather.

As November made its debut, everyone in my family eagerly awaited Thanksgiving Day. We talked of nothing else for weeks in advance. Someone might think all this excitement about Grandmother's Thanksgiving spread a little extreme. That is simply because they never had any of her "vittles." One bite, or even one good whiff, could convince anyone that my grandmother's cooking rapided number one. cooking ranked number one.

There were times when circumstances severely challenged Grandmother's patience, if not her sanity. But no matter what happened, she always came through with fried goodies. No matter what the crisis, somehow my grandmother had the perfect recipe.

One year, contrary to her usual good sense, my grandmother allowed my grandfather to watch he turkey while she went down the road for an important meeting at the church. As an active member of her church, Grandmother felt an obligation to do her part. "If everybody did their part," she explained to me once, "everything would get done."

Although not completely comfortable leaving the important turkey under Grandfather's watchful eye, Grandmother felt she had no other option.

"Jim," she said to my grandfather, "I want you to pay attention to every word I say."

My grandfather was a great old man. I always enjoyed the many romps I had with him. He seemed to know exactly what children liked to do. Despite Grandmother's warnings, he somehow managed to sneak in a little fun for his grandchildren. For example, there was the time he let all the grandchildren slide down grandmother's banister.

But trusting my grandfather with something as important as the Thanksgiving turkey was just asking too much. "Jim," grandmother instructed, "all you have to do is make sure the turkey doesn't go dry. Just baste the turkey every 15 minutes with this turkey baster and make sure it doesn't go dry," my grandfather's life's partner explained. To make sure my grandfather understood the importance of her instructions, Grandmother added one last note. "If this turkey goes dry, your goose is cooked.

We all knew Grandmother was not joking. She never joked about her cooking. Martha Stewart com. could learn a thing or two about culinary etiquette

To be brutally honest about the whole incident, it was not my grandfather's fault that the meeting at the church lasted as long as it did. Everyone knows church committee meetings sometimes have a life of their own and can go on for days.

During the first hour of his vigil, my grandfather did everything my grandmother instructed him to do. However, it was cold outside and the oldfashioned wood stove in the room off the kitchen spread a warm blanket throughout the house. creating a drowsy ambience. Anyone in the same situation would have done the same thing my grandfather did.

He fell asleep. Grandmother's Thanksgiving turkey not only went dry, it shriveled to a dark black lump.

The excited voice of my grandmother shrieking aroused my grandfather from his slumber. "Oh, Jim, the turkey, the turkey!" Although groggy, Grandfather knew his goose was cooked — and nobody cooked goose like my grandmother.

How well I remember that Thanksgiving. Although a smaller turkey than usual, my grandmother had more than enough gravy to go around. One strange thing about that Thanksgiving that has lingered in my mind all these years was that my grandfather did not eat any turkey. When the turkey plate came his way, he quickly glanced at my grandmother and said with a familiar laugh, "Oh, I couldn't eat another bite." Then he passed the plate.

With a chuckle in his voice, he said something I did not quite understand at the time.

'Some folks make too much fuss over the turkey and not enough on the gravy." Turning to my grandmother, he continued. "Mary, this has to be the best gravy you've ever made." My grandmother smiled one of her maternal smiles and everyone went back to the business of the day

I learned that day that there is a danger in making too much of the turkey and not enough of the gravy

The Bible puts it this way; "For ye see your calling, brethren, how that not many wise men after the flesh, not many mighty, not many noble, are called: But God hath chosen the foolish things of the world to confound the wise; and God hath chosen the weak things of the world to confound the things which are mighty; And base things of the world, and things which are despised, hath God chosen, yea, and things which are not, to bring to naught things that are: That no flesh should glory in his presence." (1 Corinthians 1:26-29 KJV.)

Like gravy, many things we overlook and consider insignificant God uses for His glory.

France was among nations punishing Russia the October 31 downing of a Russian airliner over the Sinai, killing all 224 aboard, and the massacres in Paris two weeks later, leaving 129 dead (coming after a half-dozen other strikes Sinai to Yemen to Tripoli, with nearly a hundred additional deaths), the two countries are joined in military actions against ISIS targets in Syria.

In Vienna at a conference on Syria last week, the U.S., Russia and regional adversaries like Saudi Arabia and Iran were among some twenty nations taking the side of solidarity against ISIS. Iran's President Hassan Rouhani labeled the Paris attacks a "crime against humanity".

Also choosing sides have been Muslim leaders increased surveillance on Muslim Americans. and organizations throughout the world, both Shiite and Sunni, overwhelmingly condemning terrorism, the Paris attacks, and loudly protesting that Islamic State has nothing to do with Islam. A blogger out of Libya tweeted, "If you think Muslims aren't condemning ISIS, it's not because Muslims aren't condemning ISIS. It's because you're not listening to Muslims."

As for the U.S., a few hours before the Paris attacks President Obama explained on "Good Morning America", "from the start our goal has been first to contain and we have contained them. They have not gained ground in Iraq and in Syria they'll come in, they'll leave. But you don't see this systemic march by ISIL across the terrain."

Soon after the Paris attacks, U.S. airstrikes were taking out ISIS leaders in Libya. The day before, U.S. air support helped Kurdish forces retake the Iraqi city of Sinjar – and the roads which were important ISIS supply lines. In Syria, a U.S. drone strike took out ISIS executioner "Jihadi John." Two days after the Paris attacks, we destroyed 116 fuel trucks used by ISIS in Syria.

become more dependent on attracting new recruits; both in the Middle East and from abroad. One way is to inhibit the emigration of refugees to western countries. The more hopeless they become in crowded camps in Jordan, Lebanon, Egypt or Turkey, the more susceptible they become to radicalization. Another is to encourage a backlash against Muslims established abroad, to show that Western promises of inclusive democracy will never apply to them; that their place is within the refuge of the Caliphate. And they'll frame the conflict as an apocalyptic "clash of civilizations" between Islam and the Crusaders.

In trying to clarify which side they themselves are on, Republicans have echoed ISIS propaganda

But Republicans fell for it. Or of Iran and Syria's Bashar al-Assad. They belong on a suggested, they've just been "playing on fear in list of the world's bad guys. They are also actively order to try to score political points or to advance their campaigns."

Republican governors either fell for it or for its incursions in the Ukraine. But now, after are themselves "playing on fear in order to try to score political points" by refusing to admit Syrian refugees to their states. If they knew about refugees, they'd know that of the 748,000 admitted since 9/11/01, exactly three have been over the past two months, from Beirut to the charged with plotting terrorist acts - and none of those were planned for the U.S. (two were for conspiring to send weapons to Iraq, and the third involved guns for Uzbekistan). If they knew about the process, they'd know of the 18 months to three years of vetting by the State Department, FBI, Homeland Security and U.N. before they're allowed to cross the ocean. If they knew about the law, they'd know they have no say over this immigration, anyway.

> Republicans in Congress have called for Donald Trump suggested shutting down mosques entirely, although he'd "hate to do it".

> As for the apocalypse, Jeb Bush warned that "The terror attack in Paris is part of an organized effort to destroy Western Civilization". Sen. Marco Rubio (R-FL) parroted the ISIS line by characterizing the conflict as a "clash of civilizations". After taping his remarks, he then skipped a Foreign Relations Committee classified security briefing on the Paris attacks to attend a fundraiser in Newport Beach. (Following the Paris massacres, French President Hollande pointed out that those involved could not be considered any part of any kind of "civilization".)

> Both Bush and Sen. Ted Cruz (R-TX) suggested some religious test for refugees; that only Christians need apply. President Obama described such a notion as "offensive and contrary to American values"; "We don't have religious tests to our compassion."

Perhaps mindful of our xenophobic refusal to accept boatloads of Jewish refugees escaping Nazi Germany in 1938 and 1939, or the internment With setbacks on the battlefield, ISIS has of Japanese-Americans because of racismstoked fear, President Obama called Republican statements and actions "irresponsible. Then there was the Republican reaction, of which President Obama said, "I cannot think of a more potent recruitment tool for ISIL". It's time to choose sides.

MICHAEL Reagan Making Sense

WINNERS, LOSERS AND LEADERS

President Obama's reaction to the horrible terrorist attacks in Paris has been strange — and disturbing. Instead of rallying the country and calling United States to lead the fight to wipe out the Islamic State, what did he do first? He took pot shots at Republicans for their reluctance to open our borders to thousands of Syrian

He even said some Republicans were helping ISIS recruit new fighters by suggesting that the United States should give preference to Christian refugees over Muslims.

We're stuck with Obama and his failed leadership for another 13 months. Meanwhile, we'll have to hope that Francois Hollande of France and Vladimir Putin of Russia can lead a coalition to victory over the Islamist extremists.

Unlike Obama, President Hollande reacted to the Paris attack like a real He immediately called it what it was – an act of war perpetrated by terrorists – and he promised the whole world that his government would not let ISIS get away with it. "I want to say we are going to lead a war which will be pitiless," Hollande said as he toured the music hall where more than 100 of his countrymen and women were slaughtered.

"Because when terrorists are capable of committing such atrocities they must be certain that they are facing a determined France, a united France, a France that is together and does not let itself be moved, even if today we express infinite sorrow." Obama did not seek to unite America after Paris. He sought to divide it. He didn't promise to make the Islamic State pay for Paris or any of its earlier atrocities and war crimes.

The mass murders in Paris and the blowing up of a Russian airliner finally woke up Hollande and Putin to the threat posed by ISIS.

What will it take to wake up Obama?

His policy towards ISIS reminds me of détente, the foreign policy practiced by Republicans and Democrats alike during the Cold War.

Détente is the French word to describe the easing of tensions and hostilities between the governments of the United States and the Soviet Union. What the policy of détente meant in practice, however, was not exactly something to be proud of if you were a freedom-loving American. It basically said to the Soviets - and other totalitarian countries - that we don't care if you torture or imprison or mistreat your own people as long as you don't do anything to harm us. Détente with the Evil Empire was OK with both parties and it would have continued for God-knows how long except that my father came along in

Shortly after his inauguration, when he was asked what his foreign policy was vis-à-vis the Soviets, he shocked everyone in Washington. "We win. They lose," he said. That was his "radical" position from Day 1

He didn't say how he was going to achieve victory over Communism or how long it would take, but eight years later the Berlin Wall came down. President Obama has been practicing a form of détente with ISIS.

As long as you are only slaughtering and enslaving people over in Syria and Iraq, he seems to have been saying, we'll just bomb you here and there but we won't try to destroy you.

Well, ISIS is no longer just "over there." It's in Paris and Lebanon and Egypt and it's certain to be coming soon to our backyards.

Ōbama says what he is doing is the right way to defeat ISIS, but that it'll take a long time. He says we Americans have to stay the course, yet he is unwilling to change his failed course and assume leadership in the fight against terrorism. Once he does that, his foreign policy should be real simple. "We win. They

It's Thanksgiving! What do you know about the people we call the Pilgrims - who we think about on this day? The Pilgrims left England in search of a place where they could worship God in their own way. They went to Holland where they found more religious freedom, but life was hard there. Also, they didn't like seeing their children begin to take on Dutch customs, language and ways of life. They decided to travel to the "new" land called America, where they could get a completely fresh start.

The Pilgrims had enough people to fill two ships. One ship was called Speedwell, the other Mayflower. The Speedwell was found to be leaky and unsafe, so it was left behind for repairs. One hundred and two people crowded onto the larger Mayflower to set sail. After a rough voyage, the Pilgrims spotted land and went ashore at Cape Cod to explore, do laundry and exercise. They lived on the ship until December 11, 1620, when they pulled into a cove and (it is said) stepped out onto Plymouth Rock. They settled near that cove, building a common house to share. Through the harsh winter many fell sick and died. By spring only 53 people were still alive to start the new colony!

When spring arrived a Native American named Samoset walked into the Pilgrim's colony and welcomed them. By the next fall, the 53 Pilgrims celebrated the harvest with 90 Native Americans, including the Wampanoag chief Massasoit. They feasted for three days on fish, waterfowl, wild turkey and deer. This "First Thanksgiving" is what we think about as we celebrate our Thanksgiving with family and friends.
