CUP DENIED PRESERVATIONISTS PLEASED

Preserve Sierra Madre Says, "we are not happy because the applicant is now facing a consequence for his actions. We are happy because the importance of our General Plan and Municipal Code have been affirmed by the highest governing body in the City of Sierra Madre."

On Tuesday, the Sierra Madre city council upheld the denial of an after the fact Conditional Use Permit (CUP) for the owners of the multi unit residential property at 156 W. Highland.

In March, 2015, it was noticed that an additional 2-story, 1322 square foot structure had been built. According to the complaints, the addition was done without complying with the City's Municipal Code and General Plan. Per Director of Planning and Community Preservation Vincent Gonzales, there were no approved permits or plans authorizing the add on.

The motion to deny overturning the Planning Commission's decision was approved by a 2-1 vote. Mayor John Capoccia and Councilwoman Denise Delmar recused themselves because of the proximity of their residences to the property in question. Mayor Pro Tem Gene Goss and Councilwoman Rachelle Arizmendi voted to deny the application. Former Mayor John Harabedian thought that the Planning Commission's decision should be overturned.

A UFO OVER SIERRA MADRE?

Sierra Madre Search And Rescue Has The Answer

Many residents of Sierra Madre may be curious about a search and rescue operation that occurred recently. We've described the incident in much more detail below since it occurred close to town, took place over several hours and involved significant activity from emergency vehicles and low flying helicopters.

Stranded Hiker, Auburn/Bailey Canyon Area, Sierra Madre: On January 29th, a Sierra Madre resident reported hearing calls for help in what seemed to be the canyon area above Auburn Avenue near Bailey Canyon. The Sierra Madre Police and Fire Departments both responded and quickly determined that, given the very faint nature shouts, the hiker was well above town somewhere on the mountainside. SMSR was paged at 6 p.m. and ground crews responded to both the top of Auburn and Bailey Canyon to attempt to pinpoint the hiker's location and coordinate the search efforts with the Foothill Air Support Team (FAST) helicopter. The "search" aspect of search-and-rescue quickly became the initial focus. Initial attempts by the FAST helicopter to locate the hiker were unsuccessful and, with the loss of daylight, a much more complicated situation was confronting emergency responders.

A large cliff created a box canyon effect Although it was extremely steep, trailless and with no obvious routes and hiker. The hiker was flown to an appropriate landing zone near the present, rescuers determined the slopes above Auburn Canyon would provide the most viable point of access. Detailed knowledge of the area helicopter returned to Auburn Canyon and did a one-skid landing on and assessment of the maps raised the possibility of access to the area via the western ridge of the canyon to fly those rescuers to the Baldwin Ct. the Mt. Wilson Trail (MWT). Unfortunately, thick brush and dangerous landing zone. The crew on the east side of the canyon descended back terrain limited the ability of the MWT crew to reach the east side of Auburn Canyon. One of the crews was able to reach the ridge on the west of the canyon and, although they were able to make voice contact, they were not able to pinpoint the hiker's location. The crew assigned to to safely complete a complex search and rescue operation. During the Bailey Canyon returned to the command post at the top of Auburn Ave. month of January, Sierra Madre Search and Rescue (SMSR) responded and located a steep off-trail option that would allow them to ascend an eastern ridge into the canyon. Ascending a third of a mile of very steep terrain allowed this 3-person crew to climb to an area just below a large band of cliffs in Auburn Canyon. Using night vision goggles (NVG), team has been responding to calls for help in the local mountains and this crew was able to spot the missing hiker approximately 100 meters beyond. Funded entirely from their location and a short distance down from the top of the cliff by private donations, but well above the canyon bottom. Rescuers determined that given the SMSR provides a range hiker's precarious position and likelihood that a ground-based rescue of public programs on would take several hours, a helicopter based rescue would be the safest wilderness safety in

Incident command staff at the command post at the top of Auburn Team never charges for Ave. contacted Los Angeles County Fire (LACoFD) dispatchers and any of its services. requested that a hoist equipped helicopter respond to the incident to attempt a hoist rescue. Many residents in the area no doubt heard the unmistakable sound of a low flying helicopter since it was now including how to arrange shortly after midnight. The ground crew on the east side of the canyon a worked with LACoFD's 'copter 11 flight crew to guide them into the demonstration for your hiker's location until they were able to visually locate the hiker using school or group, visit their Night Sun searchlight. The helicopter was able to use their hoist www.smsr.org. to insert a paramedic into the location of the stranded hiker. Once the rescuer was inserted, the helicopter moved away from the immediate area to reduce the noise and risk of debris being knocked down onto

Tomorrow is Valentine's Day and I'm sure you're ready: nice card for your sweetie, maybe a flower or two, like those miniature roses in a cute pot at Trader Joe's, about $5 and they last for weeks long-time Sierra Madre resident, Bill Hobiack. Bill will be 100 years old on February 17th and his family, friends and neighbors are throwing an open house for him to commemorate this achievement. Seriously, living to be a hundred is an achievement! Bill's dentist said that he'll have to live to be 110 because his teeth are going to last that long! Bill is still in his own house, with dear neighbors all around who keep an eye out for him.

Bill loves to dance and has stories galore about dancing all around the world with his Valentine, Dorothy, who was Sierra Madre's Citizen of the Year in 1992 and one of the Community Participants in Sierra Madre's 1996 General Plan. Bill and Dorothy traveled as much as they possibly could, to Hawaii, Tokyo, Taiwan, Hong Kong, Bangkok, Greece, Turkey, Russia, a Caribbean cruise which included the island of Curacao and a stop on the northern coast of South America where they took a bus to Caracas, made memories that most of us will never have and everywhere they went, what did they do? They went dancing!

Bill was born on February 17, 1916 in old Forge, Pennsylvania, an anthracite mining town outside of Scranton. His parents, Andrew and Anna, were miles apart but never met until Andrew migrated to Old Forge in 1902 and worked as a coal miner with Anna's two brothers, Max and Joe. They brought their sister over to the States in 1904 of 1906. Andrew continued working as a coal miner until Bill was six months old. Andrew and their original property. And this is amazing was the 4th child in his family. Oldest brother, Michael, died of influenza at 18 months. Then came Alek, Mary, Bill, Helen, and lastly, Rose. Bill was not happy when Rose arrived as he wanted a little brother. "When they named her Rose, I said we already had a cow with that name till February 20th! Get your tickets! and she never forgave me for that."

Like many folks in that era, school for Bill was one room at the Cherry Township Elementary DeanneDavis@Amazon.com School with 23 students spanning 8 grades. In May 1928, Bill graduated from 7th grade, took a meaning of life by ourselves alone - we find it moved on to high school in September of 1928, graduating in June of 1932 with a GPA of 97, but afraid he would end up being Valedictorian of his

Bill wasn't wild about farm work but as the country was deep in the Depression, there just wasn't anything else available. Bill would sit on his front porch at night and if the wind was coming from the right direction, he could hear the dance music from town. He learned to dance, inside and then you can plant 'em outside where ballroom and swing, when he was about 15 and a they'll grow and bloom and remind you of a lifelong love began. Some years there would be a lovely moment. Speaking of lovely moments, a block dance in the center of Dushore. A 10-piece whole bunch of them came my way when I met orchestra on a flat-bed truck, corn meal sprinkled on the concrete street and the dance was on!

Bill loaded field stone, worked as a shipping clerk, made popsicles at the creamery for 35 cents an hour, worked as a coal miner, hitched Detroit, arriving after a 103day GM strike s e t t l e m e n t with the UAW.

"Working 48 hours per week was like a vacation compared to 84 hours per week on the farm." When he turned 21, his mother gave him a new suit and her blessing and he left the farm.

Bill hitchhiked to New York and has a great story about being the only white guy in a club in Harlem for a battle of the bands; 9 bands that played from 9 p.m. till 6 a.m. He said he would never forget that and everybody there couldn't have been nicer to him. Being young, broke and wanting to dance, he would sneak in to dance places by having a girl open the door for him

Bill hitched and traveled and got himself pretty Venezuela. Bill and Dorothy's travels and cruises much all over the United States then on December 1, 1946, got a job with Dun & Bradstreet and stayed with them till his retirement in 1978, most of the time working from his home, which was, incidentally, an avocado packing station at one Dorothy entered Bill's life on a Saturday night in both born in the Ukraine, in towns about seven December 1964 at the El Dorado Inn, a beautiful restaurant which used to be on New York Drive. They were married on March 6, 1965, and Bill became a stepdad to Dorothy's three sons; Bill, Jeff and John. They moved into their home here and Andrew and Anna married in November in town, traveled, danced, and traveled some more. Dorothy sold real estate here in Sierra Madre and they enjoyed their life together here, Anna bought a 54 acre farm three miles south dancing sometimes three times a week down at of Dushore, Pennsylvania. Around1930 they Frankie's Place on Walnut, which, sadly, is now bought another 54 acre farm which adjoined closed. They loved Sierra Madre's tranquil peace. Dorothy is gone but Bill's eyes gleam when he paid $800 for it on a strictly handshake deal! Bill talks about all the times they danced all over the world. Asking Bill his secret for such a long life, he laughs and says, "Happiness, and always looking for the good wherever you are, not complaining! Pretty good advice! Happy Birthday, Bill!

SIERRA MADRE POLICE DEPT.

During the week of Sunday, January 31st, to Sunday, February 7th, the Sierra Madre Police Department responded to approximately 266 calls for service.

Friday, February 5th At 8:40 pm, Sierra Madre Police responded to the front lobby regarding a court order violation. The reporting individual stated that he had received a court order from a courthouse stating that he shall have his daughter for her birthday for an hour and that pick up and drop off would be at the Sierra Madre station. When the man's ex-wife failed to appear at 5pm, he waited in front of the station for several hours. Several attempts by the father to contact the mother went unanswered. The father then reported the situation to Officers and provided them the legal document that stated the arrangements. The father chose to file a report for documentation purposes and filed charges against the mother for disobedience to court order.

Saturday, February 6th At 12:10 am, Sierra Madre Police were patrolling the area in front of a local bar when they noticed a woman passed out on a bench. Officers approached the woman to ensure she wasn't in need of any medical attention, and soon recognized the woman as one they had previously advised to go home after a night of drinking. Earlier that night the woman was with man who stated he was her boyfriend and that he would see to that she got home safely. When Officers were the man and cited him for driving while under to be seen. The woman had difficulty waking up as Officers shook her shoulder, and once she was awake Officers could see she had watery eyes, disheveled clothes and a strong odor of alcohol emitting from her breath. Officers called Sierra Madre Fire Department to treat the woman and while being treated the woman's boyfriend arrived on scene. When the woman saw the man, she became combative while paramedics were treating her and was ultimately placed in handcuffs for her safety and the safety of others. The woman was transported to a local hospital for further treatment and was cited for public intoxication.

Sunday, February 7th At 2:22 am, Sierra Madre Police were patrolling the area of East Sierra Madre Blvd when they came across a pick-up truck that kept braking multiple times as it traveled down the street. Officers thought it appeared odd due to the fact the vehicle was not approaching any stop signs nor were there other vehicles on the road. Officers followed the truck for several blocks as it swerved from left to right, passing through stops signs, and making right turns from the left lane. Officers conducted a traffic stop and when they approached the vehicle they could smell a strong odor of burning brakes. Officers made contact with the driver, who had watery eyes and a strong odor of alcohol. The man consented to a field sobriety test to determine if he was capable of safely driving, which he ultimately did not pass. Officers arrested speaking to the woman now, the man was nowhere the influence and failing to stop at a stop sign. The man's vehicle was towed and he was transported to Pasadena Jail.

COUNCIL APPROVED LEVEL 4 WATER SHORTAGE

Effective February 25 through March 10, the Metropolitan Water District (MWD) will be shutting down their Weymouth Treatment Plant to conduct planned upgrades to the facility. The shutdown will affect Pasadena from receiving its imported water delivery, which provides 60 percent of the City's overall water supply.
The City Council approved a temporary adoption and implementation of its Level 4 Water Supply Shortage Plan measures during the shutdown period. It is critical that Pasadena be able to preserve its drinking water as it will have to rely on local groundwater from our wells and water stored in our reservoirs. Without strong conservation during this period, Pasadena will not have a sufficient water supply during the shutdown period.

The implementation of the Level 4 Shortage Plan status prohibits the use of all outdoor watering, including the use of hand watering. The City will continue to do its part to conserve water and during this time period will not conduct any scheduled water quality flushing, new service connections, and fire flow testing. During the last MWD Shutdown in 2013, a Level 4 Shortage Plan was implemented and the City received tremendous compliance from the community. We are asking for the same support this year.

Although we are prohibiting all outdoor watering during the 15-day period, below are some additional things you can do to assist during the shutdown.

Take 5 minute showers or

Pet of the Week

Walter (A391266) is a seven-year-old, male, brown and white tabby mix. He is a social and affectionate senior, who will head bump your hand for attention. Even though he can be somewhat shy at first, once Walter warms to you, he will be your new best friend! Walter qualifies for our Seniors for Seniors Program, which waives the adoption fee for adopters age 60 and up. The $20 mandatory microchip fee still applies. Since Walter is already neutered, he would be able to go home with you

The regular cat adoption fee is $70 which includes the spay or neuter surgery, microchip, vaccinations, and a free follow-up health check at a participating vet.

New adopters will receive complimentary health and wellness exam from VCA Animal Hospitals, as well as a goody bag filled with information on how to care for your pet.

Call the Pasadena Humane Society & SPCA at 626.792.7151 or visit at 361 S. Raymond Ave. in Pasadena. Adoption hours are 11-4 Sunday, 9-5 Tuesday -Friday, 9-4 Saturday. Pets may not be available for adoption and cannot be held for potential adopters from phone calls or email. Directions and photos of all pets can be found at www. pasadenahumane.org.

Mayor Announces Mermell as Interim City Manager

News From Your Community

Pasadena Mayor Terry Tornek announced this week that Assistant City Manager Steve Mermell has been appointed by the city council to serve as interim city manager. Mermell assumes his new duties effective Monday replacing outgoing City Manager Michael Beck, who has accepted a new position as Administrative Vice Chancellor for UCLA.

The unanimous decision by the council was made Monday night.

The Council has full faith and confidence that Steve will continue the tradition of providing outstanding executive leadership for the organization and in service to our residents and businesses," Tornek said.

Mermell has devoted his government service career to Pasadena, having joined the City first in 1989. He has served in a variety of positions for several City departments before being appointed in 2008 as one of two Assistant City Managers.

"I'm honored that the City Council has appointed me me as Assistant City Manager seven years ago; I would not be in this position replacement. if not for him. Police to Look for Distracted Drivers

In an effort to make our roads safer, the Pasadena Police Department is deploying extra traffic enforcement officers on Friday, to stop distracted driving. Pasadena police officers are spreading the message that distracted drivers are not only a danger to themselves, but everyone else on the road.

According to police, using any electronic device, while driving, is a serious safety problem. In 2012, 3,328 people were killed and 421,000 were injured nationwide in crashes involving a distracted driver. That same year, eleven percent of fatal crashes were reported as distraction-affected crashes.

In a national survey, almost half (48 percent) of drivers say they answer their cell phones while driving at least some of the time, cell phone.

and more than half of those (58 percent) continue to drive after answering the call. Your Police Department recommends the following safety measures: You can:

• turn off electronic devices and put them out of reach before starting to drive

• speak up when you are a passenger and your driver uses an electronic device while driving. Offer to make the call for the driver, so his or her full attention stays on the driving

Parents can:

 be good role models for young drivers and set a good example. Talk with your teens about responsible driving

• If you know your teen is on the road - don't call or text them until you know they have reached their destination Employers can:

• Adopt, publicize, and enforce company policies that prohibit employees from texting or talking on hand-held cell phones while in a company vehicle or, in a personal vehicle while using a company issued

Music Industry Trade Show NAMM Goes Island Style

Local Altadena Musician "Ukulele Bart" explains the huge comeback of the small Hawaiian instrument, the ukulele.

By Dean Lee

For Your Community

Among the hundreds of venders showing off their latest gear in everything from Electric Violins to digital audio work stations to grand pianos it was some of the lesser, but no less important, Hawaiian instruments that were the talk of this year's National Association of Music Merchants show in Anaheim.

"I wouldn't say [ukulele popularity] it's about Hawaiian music, although I do play that," local ukulele instructor Bartt Warburton said after a jam session with a friend at the Blackbird Guitar booth. " travel all over the world and its popular everywhere because it's very easy to learn, it's really fun to play and if you can pick up enough knowledge about it to play your favorite songs and in a couple of months your strumming along."

Blackbird, a San Francisco company, is known for making ukuleles and other instruments out of carbon fiber and a leader in non-wood guitars.

Other standouts at NAMM included companies such as, Kamaka Ukuleles, BugsGear plastic ukuleles, the magic fluke ukulele, Asher Guitars/ Lap Steels and Duesenberg Pomona 6, a lap steel guitar, with an easy-slide capo allowing the instrument to be adjusted to different open tunings.

Even Gibson got into the Hawaiian grove unveiling a new Epiphone Electar Inspired by the "1939" Century Lap Steel.

Brian Kiernan owner of Kiernan Music in Old Town Kainaliu-Kona on the Big Island Hawaii said, in Hawaii, music is a staple of the culture but outside the islands Hawaiian music's popularity cycles.

"Ukuleles are a good example, ukuleles have surged in popularity four or five times over the last 100 years," Kiernan said. "The last 10 years, we've seen a real resurgence and it doesn't seem like its diminishing. In Hawaii we say what trends? It's always been there."

Kiernan said the Hawaiian lap steel [a guitar played lying flat] has also been a large influence to music in general.

"A lot of people don't realize that the Hawaiian style lap steel was adopted by the country music community, brought to Nashville and evolved into the petal steels," he said.

As part of Kamaka ukulele celebrating their 100th year in business, the company had a number of world renowned ukulele players perform at their both including, Jake Shimabukuro and Taimane Gardner. Ukulele artist, and good friend of Warburton, Brittni Paiva also played. Kamaka is the maker of the original pineapple ukulele and the last family run ukulele maker in Hawaii with its factory in Honolulu. They had their first pineapple ukulele on display.

Warburton said it was George Harrison of the Beatles that inspired him to play the ukulele, "He played it like I've never heard and I said, wow I want to

He said he teaches Los Angeles Unified School District teachers how to play the ukulele. He also said the plastic ukulele is making a big comeback, "One in particular I play it's BugsGear, I really dig those, I leave it in the car, bring it to the beach, it's not going to get thrashed."

Warburton said there are about 700 players in his ukulele meetup in Altadena at the Coffee Gallery Backstage, "thank goodness they all don't go at once because there wouldn't be the room."

At Monday night's Grammys two Hawaiian music albums are up for awards, "La La La La" by Natalie Ai Kamauu and "Kawaiokalena" by Keali'i Reichel.

This year's NAMM show ran Jan. 21 through Jan.24 at the Anaheim Convention Center with nearly 100,000 attendees and more than 1,700 venders showcasing over 5,100 brands.

You can find out more about the meetups, held the first Saturday each month at the Coffee Gallery Backstage on Lake Ave. by visiting meetup. com/UkuleleBartt.

The officer stopped the vehicle and contacted the driver, who admitted to defrauding the DMV. The registration tab was from another vehicle he owned. The driver received a citation to appear in court on the charges and was released in the field. The vehicle was impounded for expired registration.

Trespassing/Under the Influence of a Controlled Substance/Violation of Gang Injunction Court Order Suspect Arrested February 9 at 11:51 p.m., police responded to a business in the 100 block of West Foothill regarding a subject observed by security personnel climbing to the roof of the location. Officers arrived and, with the assistance of a police helicopter, located the subject on the roof. The officers climbed the fire access ladder and detained the subject. A Monrovia Fire Department ladder truck was called to assist in lowering the suspect and officers from the rooftop. The subject was arrested for trespassing. He was also determined to be under the influence of a controlled substance and in violation of the gang injunction court order, which were added to his charges.

Possession of Stolen Property – Suspect Arrested February 10 at 4:03 a.m., an officer was on patrol in the 900 block of South Mountain and recognized a subject riding a bicycle that was very similar to one that had been stolen the previous day. The officer stopped the bicyclist and confirmed the bike was in fact stolen. The suspect was arrested for being in possession of stolen property and taken into custody. The suspect was later released with a citation to appear in court on the charges.

WHEN THE BEE STINGS

quest to learn more about my canine companions. to avoid the untimely death of my precious dog. While Most importantly, I endeavor to educate myself on various canine health topics, and I try to be prepared for whatever emergency might occur on my watch. I am vigilant in paying attention to what my curious little clients are poking their noses into when they sniff about injury. in the grass, and I pull them away from anything that might be harmful or unhealthy, such as a dead bird or reminder of how important it is for me to be aware and droppings left behind by a previous passer-by.

I also watch out for wildlife whenever I am walking dogs in our hillside village. It is not unusual to sight a deer, a coyote or a bear roaming the streets in Sierra Madre, and some dogs tend to react radically, causing a potential confrontation which is totally up to me to avoid. Then there are the small creatures that we either don't see or are so used to seeing, we take them for granted. Birds and butterflies always add an aesthetically pleasing and interesting dimension to the outdoor experience, but some creatures can cause serious injury to our pets. Clearly, our elusive friend the snake is one we should always steer far clear of. And there are also other types of creatures that can pose a threat to our pets during an otherwise pleasant stroll through the neighborhood.

During a local walk around the block with my Molly, she suddenly put the breaks on, sat down on the road and began licking fiercely at the underside of her front paw. Assuming she had stepped on some sort of prickly sticker, I lifted her foot up to take a look and I saw a bee fall to the asphalt. I immediately turned her around and we ran back to the house to get a pair of tweezers so I could remove the stinger. Having read an article on the subject, I knew it was important to get that stinger out as soon as possible, then apply baking soda and water to importance of paying close attention to what your dog is the affected area. If the stinger is left in place, it is sure up to while you are strolling down the street. And, in the to cause further swelling and discomfort, followed by

Before I had a chance to settle Molly down enough to look for the stinger, her gut began to heave and out came her breakfast in a messy pile on the floor. She continued to vomit until the full contents of her stomach had been purged. That's when I ran to the phone and called my veterinarian. I told her I was on my way with Molly, who'd sustained a single bee sting and was apparently having an allergic reaction. She told me to come quickly and they took Molly back to the treatment room the moment I arrived. The vet promptly gave her injections share our natural spaces, just be aware and prepared! of a steroid and an antihistamine, to counteract the venom in her bloodstream and stabilize her system. They kept Molly for the rest of the day, to observe her and make sure her allergic reaction was under

Fortunately, Molly pulled through the ordeal and experienced no further symptoms of concern. The vet told me to give her 50 milligrams of Benadryl every 12 hours, for the next couple of days while the venom continued to work it's way out of her system. She told me how pleased she was that I had gotten her there in such short order, because had I waited much longer it could have been fatal! Who

As a pet sitter, I enjoy spending time with a variety of different dogs on any give day, and I am on a constant was relieved that I had acted in a timely enough manner most dogs don't react so intensely to a single bee bite, there are other symptoms that indicate allergic reaction, such as swelling and disorientation. These signs should be observed and treated promptly to prevent serious

That experience with Molly served as a blatant prepared in case of an emergency when I am out and about with my animals. Had I not been paying close attention, and had I not investigated right away, Molly may not have gotten to the vet in time. I thought later, about how horrible it would have been if I hadn't had my car to take her to the vet, or if I'd been aloof and allowed too much time to pass. The outcome would have been heart-wrenching.

This situation is only one of many potential circumstances that can arise when I am taking care of my clients' pets, which is why I consider it so very important to be aware and be prepared. I know of one other dog walker in our area who does not own a car, only a bike and I can't help wondering what would happen if one of his canine clients were to have a similar experience. Sometimes we don't think of these things until it is too late. I, personally will do whatever it takes to save the life of a furry four-legged friend and would never put them at risk by being less than prepared.

I hope my experience helps others to be aware of what can happen when a dog is stung by a bee. From what I understand, few dogs react the way my Molly did, so I don't want to put fear in the hearts of my fellow pet owners. However, I do want to emphasize the case of a bee sting or stings, you definitely want to look for signs of an allergic reaction, in which case you should transport your pet to the vet as quickly as possible. Even if your dog shows no apparent signs of reaction, you still need to remove the stinger and apply baking soda and water to the affected area right away. Whether there is a reaction or not, it is still a good idea to contact your vet for advice on whether you should administer Benadryl, and if so, the proper frequency and dosage.

LOOKING FOR A BEST FRIEND?

Who wants to be your special valentine? Krissy is a 2-year-old Chihuahua – Miniature Pinscher mix who came to the shelter as a stray with no identification. She has a short coat of tan fur, very easy to care for, and she weighs about 13 pounds.

Krissy has a happy spirit, full of youthful energy and enthusiasm. You will find her at the gate to her kennel, wagging her tail and jumping for joy at seeing new people walk by. Krissy loves people and is excited to spend time with her human friends, always ready to meet new ones as well. She enjoys attention in the form of pets, cuddles and massages, and will return the affection with gentle kisses.

Krissy enjoys going for walks, although her enthusiasm sometimes overwhelms her ability to focus on the leash. She needs a home where she gets regular exercise and a yard where she can burn off some of that excess energy. Krissy seems to be a smart girl who is treat motivated, so she should be easy to train.

Krissy was hit by a car before she arrived at the shelter, so she is nervous around vehicles and street noise. She just needs a little reassurance that she is okay and will not be hurt again. She has fully recovered from her prior injuries physically, but it may take longer to become comfortable walking near traffic. Once she is away from street activity, her happy energy returns and she is ready to romp, play, and explore the world.

Krissy needs an active family to give her a loving home where she gets the training and exercise she needs. She is an affectionate, playful dog who will brighten the lives she touches. Come in to meet this sweet silly girl to see if she is the valentine you are looking for.

Her adoption fee is $130 and includes spay surgery, vaccinations, microchip and a free wellness exam at a participating veterinarian. Feel free to call us at (626) 286-1159 for more information on Krissy. She currently resides at the San Gabriel Valley Humane Society located at 851 E. Grand Avenue in San Gabriel. We are located off San Gabriel Blvd., north of Mission and south of Las Tunas. To arrange a 'Meet and Greet' with Krissy, please stop by any time from 10:30am to 4:30pm Tuesday thru Sunday.

If you are interested in meeting Krissy or any of the other wonderful pets at the shelter, visit the San Gabriel Valley Humane Society at 851 E. Grand Ave., San Gabriel, Calif., 91776, Tuesday through Sunday from 10:30am to 4:30pm. See our website at www.sgvhumane.org for information and photos of all our wonderful pets.

2016 calendars are available at the shelter for a $10 donation. The photos were selected among hundreds submitted by shelter supporters. If you would like to order a 2016 calendar on line, you can stop by the shelter or do so through PayPal. Go to the shelter website at sgvhumane.org for more information.

THE JOY OF YOGA

FIRE IN THE BELLY

Create a fire in your belly and ignite your passion for life!! So much takes place at the navel center. Many studies report that serotonin production begins in the gut and it's often called our "second brain". There are so many articles on this topic. Browse for them and you will be amazed. Thus, the navel center is like a central storehouse for motivation, joy, and power. This is true physically and energetically. We can relate this back to the strong feeling we get from doing "core" work. Although the core goes around back too, this strengthening at the belly helps to stablize the entire body.

In my tradition, when we say "fire in the belly" we are referring to the energy center at the navel. When our fire or flame is lit, the essence of who we are is apparent. We have the motivation, stability and stamina to accomplish what we want and be who we want to be. Creating this fire or vibrant flame at the navel center also plays another role. The heat and flame can help dissolve some of the crud built up in the lower two chakras (energy centers). Most of our "stuff" or trouble from the past are held at the root and sacral regions. These areas have to do with security, desire, and relationships. If the fire becomes bright enough and steady enough, it can help us TRANSFORM beyond our limitations. Thus, fire in belly facilitates our transformation. To create this in our practice, it's best to first, make the body and mind as clean, clear and stable as possible. We'd never want to ignite a flame without the proper fuel for the fire. It will just burn out that way. A steady burning flame is the one we want, with an even, abundant fuel source. The fuel source being our vital energy reserves. Transformation is not going to happen when we're running on empty. Next, we simply begin to gather and direct energy there to strengthen and enliven the entire area.

Think about the power held at navel center, do some work in the area and see what happens. In fact, get with a teacher in the tantric tradition and begin a meditation specific to directing energy there. Enjoy the confidence and joy it produces!

Namaste and see you in class! I teach Tuesday evenings and Friday mornings at Yoga Madre. If those times don't work, we have many other class times with experienced, wonderful teachers.

TMJ is the most used joint in the body, and it opens and closes 1,500 to 2,000 times a day during its various motions of chewing, talking, swallowing, etc.

In modern society, the number of people who clench their jaw or grind their teeth must also be considered as stress factors on the TMJ. It should be noted that pain is not often referred to the TMJ, but the joint often refers to other areas – often to the head and neck. The malfunctioning TMJ is one of the classic examples of a peripheral irritant causing a variety of pain patterns by firing noxious nerve impulses into the nervous system – and has been called "The Great

In an ideal arc of motion, the opening and closing of the TMJ is smooth and unbroken – but there are actually two separate motions that take place - the joint hinges within the glenoid fossa and glides forward to the eminentia. The upper portion of the joint is used for hinge motion, and the lower is used for glide. The dual heads of the external pterygoid muscles act asynchronously, with one head pulling the meniscus forward as the second opens the joint. Normally a person should be able to open wide enough so that they can insert three fingers between the incisors.

http://www.acupuncturetoday.com/common/ viewphoto.php?id=43301"

tmj_1_1_433.jpg" Placing the index fingers into the auditory canal will allow you to feel the motion of the joint. Passive motion can be tested by placing the fingers on the lower incisors and pushing the mouth open (gently) as far as reasonable. Limitations noted may be due to dysfunction, RA, congenital anomalies, ankylosis, TMJ osteoarthritis, or muscle spasm.

Acupuncture can provide great relief. Local points to be considered should include ST7, SJ, SI19, and CB2.3 Distal points should include LU7 and LI4. I have also found ST45 to be a magical point for jaw problems. There are a number of good manual treatment options including manual impulse, Activator, and even Thompson Drop.

The TMJ can quickly become a very complicated joint with many factors to consider.

Not all TMJs are created equal. Kids wearing braces, auto accident/whiplash, and good old fashioned tension can all contribute. Sometimes TMJ problems are entirely secondary to other issues or treatments. such as pressure on the jaw from halter traction for a neck injury. Take the time to slowly evaluate and determine what the best course of care will be. As always, document the presenting complaints, exam findings, diagnoses, care plan, and response to care.

HAPPY VALENTINE'S DAY

First of all, let's agree to agree, Valentine's Day should be a full week. A single day is not long enough to fully express one's love. What do you say about having an evening at home with a bottle of champagne and a candlelight table for dinner? You may wonder why a restaurant critic would dare such treason. In all truth, it's an impossible night for restaurants. Service is less than optimal and even the guarantee of a reservation can lead to a long wait and the siphon of romance.

Every February, across the country, candy, flowers, and gifts are exchanged between loved ones. All in the name of St. Valentine, but who is this mysterious saint and why do we celebrate the passion of this holiday? The history of Valentine's Day — and its patron saint — is shrouded in mystery. But we do know that February has long been a month of romance. Valentine's Day, as we know it today, contains vestiges of both Christian and ancient Roman tradition. So, who was Saint Valentine and how did he become associated with this ancient rite? Today, the Catholic Church recognizes at least three different saints named Valentine or Valentines, all of whom were martyred.

One legend contends that Valentine was a priest who served during the third century in Rome. When Emperor Claudius II decided that single men made better soldiers than those with wives and families, he outlawed marriage for young men — his crop of potential soldiers. Valentine, realizing the injustice of the decree, defied Claudius and continued to perform marriages for young lovers in secret. When Valentine's actions were discovered, Claudius ordered that he be put to death. His love for love lives on each February.

I realize that the stay at home experience will not fly with everyone's better half, so let's go

JULIE'S FAVORITE FAMILY RECIPES

From First Lady Michelle Obama

Spiced Pork Tenderloin with Sautéed Apples Ingredients

3/8 teaspoon salt

1/4 teaspoon ground coriander 1/4 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper

1/8 teaspoon ground cinnamon

1/8 teaspoon ground nutmeg 1 pound pork tenderloin, trimmed and cut crosswise into 12 pieces

Cooking spray 2 tablespoons butter

2 cups thinly sliced unpeeled Braeburn or Gala apple 1/3 cup thinly sliced shallots

1/8 teaspoon salt 1/4 cup apple cider

1 teaspoon fresh thyme leaves Preparation

1. Heat a large skillet over medium-high heat. Combine first 5 ingredients; sprinkle spice mixture evenly over pork. Coat pan with cooking spray. Add pork to pan; cook 3 minutes on each side or until desired degree of doneness. Remove pork from pan; keep warm.

2. Melt butter in pan; swirl to coat. Add apple slices, 1/3 cup shallots, and 1/8 teaspoon salt; sauté 4 minutes or until apple starts to brown. Add apple cider to pan, and cook for 2 minutes or until apple is crisp-tender. Stir in thyme leaves. Serve apple mixture with the pork. Serve with a spinach salad.

2016 TAX FILING REQUIREMENTS FOR RETIREES

Dear Savvy Senior,

What is the IRS income tax filing requirements going to be for this tax season? Due to health problems I stopped working early last year, so I'm wondering if I need to file.

Unintended Retiree

Dear Unintended,

There are a number of factors that affect whether or not you need to file a federal income tax return this year including how much you earned last year (in 2015), and the source of that income, as well as your age and filing status.

Here's a rundown of this tax season's IRS filing requirements. For most people, this is pretty straightforward. If your 2015 gross income - which includes all taxable income, not counting your Social Security benefits, unless you are married and filing separately - was below the threshold for your age and filing status, you probably won't have to file. But if it's over, you will.

Single: $10,300 ($11,850 if you're 65 or older by Jan. 1, 2016).

Married filing jointly: $20,600 ($21,850 if you or your spouse is 65 or older; or $23,100 if you're both over 65).

Married filing separately: $4,000 at any age.

Head of household: $13,250 ($14,800 if age 65 or

Qualifying widow(er) with dependent child: $16,600 ($17,850 if age 65 or older).

To get a detailed breakdown on federal filing requirements, along with information on taxable and nontaxable income, call the IRS at 800-829-3676 and ask them to mail you a free copy of the "Tax Guide for Seniors" (publication 554), or see irs.gov/pub/irs-pdf/ p554.pdf.

Special Requirements

There are, however, some other financial situations that will require you to file a tax return, even if your gross income falls below the IRS filing requirement. For example, if you had earnings from self-employment in 2015 of $400 or more, or if you owe any special taxes to the IRS such as alternative minimum tax or IRA tax penalties, you'll probably need to file.

To figure this out, the IRS offers an interactive tax assistant tool on their website that asks a series of questions that will help you determine if you're required to file, or if you should file because you're due a refund.

You can access this tool at irs.gov/filing - click on "Do you need to file a return?" Or, you can get assistance over the phone by calling the İRS helpline at 800-829-1040. You can also get face-to-face help at a Taxpayer Assistance Center. See irs.gov/localcontacts or call 800-829-1040 to locate a center near you.

Check Your State

Even if you're not required to file a federal tax return this year, don't assume that you're also excused from filing state income taxes. The rules for your state might be very different. Check with your state tax agency before concluding that you're entirely in the clear. For links to state tax agencies see taxadmin.org/state-tax-

Tax Prep Assistance

If you find that you do need to file a tax return this year, you can get help through the Tax Counseling for the Elderly (or TCE) program. Sponsored by the IRS, TEC provides free tax preparation and counseling to middle and low-income taxpayers, age 60 and older. Call 800-906-9887 or visit irs.treasury.gov/freetaxprep to locate a service near you.

Also check with AARP, a participant in the TCE program that provides free tax preparation at more than 5,000 sites nationwide. To locate an AARP Tax-Aide site call 888-227-7669 or visit aarp.org/ findtaxhelp. You don't have to be an AARP member to use this service.

KATIE Tse.....This and That THE FORKS AWAKEN! (EPISODE 1)

Although "Star Wars: The Force Awakens" is a great movie that is sure to entertain, and even on the edge of your seat for a couple of hours, but "Forks Over Knives" may just save your life!

Sometimes God sends us things that seem horrible at the time, but later we recognize them as blessings in disguise. That's how it was when my Mom was diagnosed with rheumatoid arthritis over ten years ago. After she painfully realized approach were worse than the disease itself, she embarked on a selfpropelled journey into veganism that has since revolutionized not only her life, but my Dad's as well.

Along the way she has received invaluable advice from several prominent vegan including doctors. Dr. John McDougall, Dr. Michael Greger, and most notably, Dr. Caldwell Esselystyn, who has phoned her to talk about her concerns more than once (free of charge!). Dr. Greger's site, NutritionFacts. org, is a fabulous free and easy resource for family, it was a thrill to attend "Healthy Taste of L.A." this year with my parents! "Healthy Taste of L.A.," which I lovingly refer to as "Taste of nutrition, and fitness.

It's hard to distill a whole day's worth of my best to condense my most vivid memories of the event. The first speaker was John Pierre, who runs a thriving support system for people learning to eat healthier and be more active. He had some very practical suggestions for "sneaking" exercise into daily routines through simple things like strategically placing sticky notes in different rooms time you come here!" etc. Little changes add up.

The second speaker was Brenda Davis, who Chef AJ, the mistress of ceremonies, dubbed "The inspire, the film "Forks Over Knives" far exceeds sexiest woman over 50." And it's true, this lady is it in scope and impact. "Star Wars" will keep you amazing! At the end of the evening she dropped to the floor and did 57 push-ups, one for each year of her life. I have only one adjective to describe her --enviable!

After her was Dr. Michael Klaper, who spoke on weight loss and diet. By this point the speakers were becoming more academic (but still engaging and understandable). Although I grasped what that the side effects of the standard pharmaceutical he said at the time, I can't relay it as articulately as he did. He started off by debunking the commonly recited mantra, "Carbs fat." make vou "Carbohydrates NOT make you fat!" he asserted, and went on to explain why.

The problem is not in the consumption of carbs (or even healthy fats, for that matter), but the pairing of carbs Despite with fats. elimination of animal flesh and byproducts from their diet, some vegans remain overweight because they keep eating "fat on their carbs." Examples of this include pasta with navigating the sea of research on diet and nutrition olive oil and peanut butter on bread. Our bodies can burn both carbs and fat, but burning carbs is So with the role veganism has played in our much easier. Therefore, when we enjoy a bowl of oiled pasta, our bodies happily burn up the spaghetti and pack away the ÊVO on our bums for future use. He advised topping pasta with Torrance," since it was held in Torrance, was a crushed tomatoes and saving fattier things like one-day event packed with an impressive line avocado for salads. Although this makes sense, I up of speakers and experts in the fields of health, don't think I'm mentally ready to forgo my PB & Js and pasta with olive oil!

I still have many exciting things to share with information into a few paragraphs, but I will try you from "Healthy Taste of L.A.," but this article is growing rather long, and we haven't even gotten to the stars of the show, Dr. Caldwell Esselstyn and Dr. Michael Greger. Also, Dr. Esselstyn's wife, Anne, and daughter, Jane, put on an informative and, might I say, hilarious, cooking demo. We also got to enjoy "AJ burritos" from Sharky's for lunch. This is a great vegan burrito on the secret, "off-list" reminding people to "Do 10 jumping jacks every menu! So, with that I'll see you here next week for part 2, and until then "May the Forks be with you!"

ALL IN THE FAMILY

By Artistic Director, Christian Lebano

We are going into our penultimate weekend with Deathtrap and we are already sold-out. That leaves only the last three performances (Friday, Feb 19 and Saturday matinee & evening, Feb 20) for those of you who haven't seen the show and still want to. I would hurry though because we are already half sold for all the final weekend performances. Because of the presale for Charlotte's Web we won't be able to extend this show – though we could have, I know. Something to think about as we plan future seasons – how to build in the opportunity to extend shows that are doing well.

This will be a difficult show to say goodbye to – most of them are. But this one has been a particularly happy experience. I so enjoyed my time in rehearsal with these actors. Not all rehearsals are happy experiences, but this one was splendid. I've written before about the family that is formed as a show develops - the intimacies that you share, the laughs, the struggles, the triumphs and breakthroughs that you have on your way to opening. Then the incredible high of putting it in front of an audience for the first time - and the pleasure in the confidence that grows as you continue to shape and hone as you play for more people.

One of the things I miss about not acting as much as I used to is the intimacy of the dressing room, the hour before the show when you catch up with your fellow castmates and prepare yourself for the show ahead. There are rituals and routines that get established unique to each cast and dressing room. As the director I am both in and out of the circle – I don't spend time in the to arrange your purchase.

dressing room and by this point in a run I am kind of odd man out.

I am so grateful to everyone who worked so hard to put this show up – all the designers who did such wonderful work, the Stage Managers Kristin Bolinski and her assistant Emily Hopfauf who ran wonderful rehearsals and have kept the show tight and on track (and moved those desks at every show!), the producers who worked so hard to make the show I wanted to produce come alive, and the cast. I am so grateful to each member of the cast for their wonderful work and for sharing themselves with me so fully, so joyfully. It's almost like the end of a love affair – because I do love each of them. One of the frustrations of my job is that I may not have another show for them for a while and when I do they may not be available. So I can only hope that the next time there is a role good enough for their talents that they will want to come back and become part of another family.

I am auditioning for The Glass Menagerie now - we've had over 850 submissions for it. That's a record for us. I'm seeing wonderful actors. As I look at each of them, I wonder about the new family I am forming. I think about all the time we'll be spending together and I can't wait to see how it shapes up. But for now I'll mourn my Deathtrap family – and revel in their triumph these last two weekends. Won't you join us?

Tickets are now on sale for Charlotte's Web - it is going to be terrific fun - hope to see you there with your kids and grandkids. Please visit our website at SierraMadrePlayhouse.org or call Mary at 626.355.4318

There's still time to reserve your spot for these upcoming classes.

SEAN'S SHAMELESS REVIEWS: FRANCIS TOUCH GREATNESS WITH "MARATHON"

As it stands now, the band comprises of vocalist Petra Mases, drummer Petter Nygårdh, guitarist Jerker Krumlinde, bassist Paulina Mellkvist and keyboardist Oskar Bond. While Francis was adapting to their inner changes both with themselves and the band itself, they released a single in 2015, entitled "Follow Me Home." It's a little over five minutes long and it's the kind of track you worry will go down the wrong direction after a minute or so in because the start of it is so good. Fortunately, it did the opposite. It was my introduction to a marvelously original band and I was immediately hooked.

exquisite follow-up entitled Marathon, which also served as the band's official US debut. It's one of the strongest introductions from a band rock. The album strikes an emotional punch with impeccable vocals from Petra Mases. I would say her vocals fall somewhere in between indie veterans Tracyanne Campbell of Camera Obscura and Jenn Wasner of Wye Oak. Lenient, mollifying, and comforting are a just few of the words that come to mind in describing Mases' vocals. However, the same can be said for the music that goes along with it. A Friend of Mr. Lincoln: A novel by Stephen Harrigan

This book gives us a galvanizing portrait of Lincoln during a crucially revealing period of his life, the early Springfield years, when he risked both his sanity and his ethical bearings as he searched for the great destiny he believed to be his. It is Illinois in the 1830s and 1840s. Lincoln is a circuit-riding lawyer, a member of the state legislature, a man of almost ungovernable ambition. To his friends he is also a beloved figure, by turns charmingly awkward and mesmerizingly self-possessed—a

Jeff's History Corner by Jeff Brown

1.Presidents' Day is an American holiday celebrated salary, valuing his image as a selfless public servant. At on the third Monday in February. Originally established in 1885 in recognition of President George Washington, it is still officially called "Washington's Birthday" by the federal government. Traditionally celebrated on February 22—Washington's actual day of birth—the holiday became popularly known as Presidents' Day after it was moved as part of 1971's Uniform Monday Holiday Act, an attempt to create more three-day weekends for the nation's workers. While several states still have individual holidays honoring the birthdays of Presidents, Presidents' Day is now popularly viewed as a day to celebrate all U.S. presidents past and present.

2.George Washington was of primarily English gentry descent, especially from Sulgrave, England. His greatgrandfather, John Washington, emigrated to Virginia in 1656 and began accumulating land and slaves, as did his son Lawrence and his grandson, George's father, Augustine. Augustine was a tobacco planter who also tried his hand in iron-mining ventures. In George's youth, the Washingtons were moderately prosperous members of the Virginia gentry, of "middling rank" rather than one of the leading planter families.

3. The 1st United States Congress voted to pay Washington a salary of $25,000 a year—a large sum in 1789, valued at about $340,000 in 2015 dollars. Washington, despite facing financial troubles then, initially declined the the urging of Congress, however, he ultimately accepted the payment, to avoid setting a precedent whereby the presidency would be perceived as limited only to independently wealthy individuals who could serve without any salary. The president, aware that everything he did set a precedent, attended carefully to the pomp and ceremony of office, making sure that the titles and trappings were suitably republican and never emulated European royal courts. To that end, he preferred the title 'Mr. President" to the more majestic names proposed by the Senate.

4. Washington suffered from problems with his teeth throughout his life. He lost his first adult tooth when he was twenty-two and had only one left by the time he became president. John Adams claims he lost them because he used them to crack Brazil nuts but modern historians suggestthe mercury oxide, which he was given to treat illnesses such as smallpox and malaria, probably contributed to the loss. He had several sets of false teeth made, four of them by a dentist named John Greenwood. Contrary to popular belief, none of the sets were made from wood. The set made when he became president was carved from hippopotamus and elephant ivory, held together with gold springs. Prior to these, he had a set made with real human teeth in 1784. Dental problems left Washington in constant pain, for which he took laudanum. This distress may be apparent in many of the portraits painted while he was still in office, including the one still used on the $1 bill.

FAMILY MATTERS By Marc Garlett

FAMILY FINANCIAL TRADITIONS

To one degree or another, we are all a function of the social environments in which we were raised. Of course, that encompasses both positives and negatives. When it comes to money, the first exposure we have to its management is in our families. That makes good money management practices a real gift that parents can pass on to their children.

Don't Just Buy Your Kid a Car

The greatest motivator for a teenager is freedom, and their path to that freedom is a car. When you buy your kid a car, you are overlooking one of the greatest opportunities you have to support your child to learn to be self-sufficient.

Instead, why not support him or her to earn the money to buy the car him/herself? Or, if you have an extra car already available for your child, at least require your child to pay for the gas and insurance, which will support him or her to begin to be prepared for those requirements of life in the future, when you aren't there to provide for all the needs

Kids Playing the Stock Market?

Introducing children to the stock market is not a far-fetched idea. There is plenty of information available that can be understood by kids. First off, children are very aware of products -- toys and games like the CashFlow Board Game, for example. They can be introduced to the fact that the companies that make these toys are owned by people like their parents, who hold shares of stock. From there, they can be shown the daily stock prices and how they change. As they grow older, your children can begin making small stock purchases and become comfortable with investing.

Family Vacation Saving
Family vacations are usually looked back on fondly and may even be considered family traditions. Saving during the year, by children as well as parents, for an annual vacation can also be part of that tradition and help teach good money management techniques. Whether it be from jobs kids have like grass cutting or babysitting, or just from allowance savings, it will serve children well later in life to have learned the value of setting money aside for a deferred pleasure.

Estate Planning
Involve your children in your estate planning as soon as they are old enough to understand. They will feel secure knowing you've planned well for what would happen to them, if and when something happens to you. Have them meet the lawyer they will work with, tell them about how they will receive their inheritance and when. And, begin to talk now about how you can increase the overall family wealth you have and how you want to be cared for by them in the twilight of your life.

If you feel uncertain about how to approach these issues, contact us. Or read the books Die Wise, Being Mortal, and Family Wealth: Keeping It in the Family, all books that inform our firm's personal process as your family lawyer. Early Entrepreneurship

Supporting your children to think like entrepreneurs can be one of the greatest gifts you give them. As the world shifts, we are moving into a new economy in which traditional jobs don't always provide the security they once did. In fact, technology is already replacing many of the jobs people relied on in the past. As that trend continues, the only real job security will be resourcefulness, creativity and entrepreneurship.

Consider reading the book The Last Safe Investment by Bryan Franklin and Michael Ellsberg for some more ideas around this topic or call us to discuss any of these financial management techniques further.

A FRAMEWORK FOR MARKETING THAT WORKS

Marketing is really about producing compelling content that elicits a physical and measurable response.

A good marketing campaign should produce results: clicks, calls, shares, likes, replies, purchases, referrals, conversations etc. These are the actions that benefit your

Here's a simple framerwork:

Set up a calendar for your marketing. Each month, define goals, objective and a theme for your campaigns. Define your marketing goals. Do you need new customers? Do you need to nurture your current customers? Do you need to bring back dormant customers? Define a measurable objective? Do you want to increase sales by 20% in February? Do you need to fill seats at an event?

Choose a campaign type: Information sharing, announcement, event invite, discussion, offer etc.

What channels will help you get the word out: email, Facebook, Twitter, direct mail.

Come up with unique calls to action, headlines and subject lines. Stay away from "click here," "January newsletter." Be more specific and get creative. For example, if you are selling chocolates for Valentine's day; instead of "buy now," try "send some love."

MYSTERIOUS, FLOATING HILLS IN PLUTO'S "HEART"

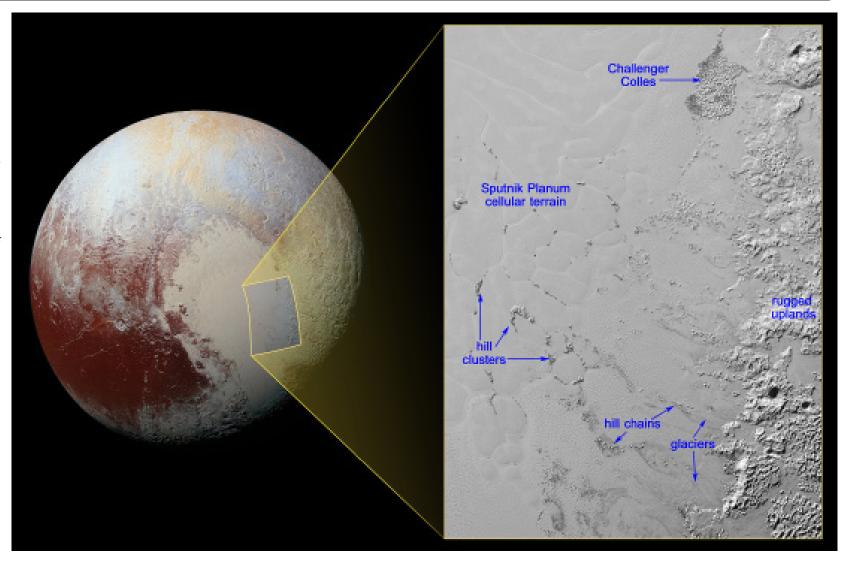

The nitrogen ice glaciers on Pluto appear to carry an intriguing cargo: numerous, isolated hills that may be fragments of water ice from Pluto's surrounding uplands. These hills individually measure one to several miles across, according to images and data from NASA's New Horizons mission.

The hills, which are in the vast ice plain informally named Sputnik Planum within Pluto's "heart," are likely miniature versions of the larger, jumbled mountains on Sputnik Planum's western border. They are yet another example of Pluto's fascinating and abundant geological activity.

Because water ice is less dense than nitrogen-dominated ice, scientists believe these water ice hills are floating in a sea of frozen nitrogen and move over time like icebergs in Earth's Arctic Ocean. The hills are likely fragments of the rugged uplands that have broken away and are being carried by the nitrogen glaciers into Sputnik Planum. "Chains" of the drifting hills are formed along the flow paths of the glaciers. When the hills enter the cellular terrain of central Sputnik Planum, they become subject to the convective motions of the nitrogen ice, and are pushed to the edges of the cells, where the hills cluster in groups reaching up to 12 miles

At the northern end of the image, the feature informally named Challenger Colles honoring the crew of the lost space shuttle Challenger—appears to be an especially large accumulation of these hills, measuring 37 by 22 miles. This feature is located near the boundary with the uplands, away from the cellular terrain, and may represent a location where hills have been "beached" due to the nitrogen ice being especially shallow.

REVIEWING ONE'S LIFE

Extreme Simplicity," "How others. He can be reached

CA 90041, or www.SchoolofSelf-Reliance.com, where you can also view his blogs.]

Since 1977, I have done something called a Birthday Run, taught to me by my mentor as a better and more uplifting way to commemorate one's birthday. Originally, I would go to a local track and run one lap per year as I recalled the highlights of that year. Some years I have run alone, and some years I have run with friends who chose to come and support the run. I have run in the dark, in the rain, in the fog, and on sunny days. One or two years I did not run at all because I was sick, and it wasn't the same when I ran a week later. And over the years, my "laps" have grown shorter, otherwise I would be running those slow laps for several hours and would have trouble walking for days after.

This year I ran alone – other than an occasional hawk and one coyote -- and I found my lap in the bottomlands of the Arroyo Seco. It was quiet and eerily peaceful as I continued the cycles through my life, replaying the mental movie of each year after each year, going to school, moving around, and my interactions with various people.

My mind began to look at the financial side of my life, and perhaps, more specifically, the nonfinancial side to my life. Perhaps this was because of the recent PowerBall game where so many were talking about nothing else but what they'd do if they suddenly had all that money. I realized that I too could do so much more, so much more quickly, if I had a few spare million in the bank, maybe.

As I ran through my years, I realized that I operated mostly in financial ignorance, and in a financial fairy-land. Yes, money was always an element, and yes, money was often the limiting factor in so many endeavors. Money was like oxygen – you just had to have it. But I think, like most people, my school and family discussions were wholly insufficient as any sort of real financial training for dealing with the real world. I moved from activity to activity based on my areas of interest, and when money was needed, I got it somehow – or I curtailed the activity.

But because of my financial ignorance, I found other ways to pursue my goals, ways that seemed more difficult at the time, but which were actually more wholistic ways to pursue my life's interests. Without a car, I often bicycled, and formed friendships so that several of us could travel together. If I wanted to attend workshops or field trips, I learned that I could convince my friends that they'd want to attend also, and invariably, someone had a car.

And I discovered and lived my life utilizing so many of the low-cost and free benefits of our modern society: buses, public libraries, public recreation centers, free hiking in the local mountains, free lectures, clubs and organizations where people just got together and did things. Eventually, somewhat fortuitously and almost by accident, I was a squatter for a year and a half on an acre property on the edge of Los Angeles. It was quite an adventure. I learned how to live well cheaply, and I learned how to solicit individual several books, including I am sure I would have done a lot of this very differently had I been born into wealth, but as I to Survive Anywhere," and looked back, I realized that I learned some very important lessons by simply finding solutions to at Box 41834, Eagle Rock, life's problems without being able to just "throw money at it."

That was one theme that went through my mind this year. Another was relationships.

By my age, one has had many relationships, and many types of relationships. In my mind, a mental movie played of the various people in my life and how I treated them: mother, father, friends, teachers, girl friends, wives, business associates. When I do this annual run, I am looking for what I did right, but mostly what I did wrong so that I can do it better next time around. I felt great pain at the many things I did wrong as an arrogant child talking back to my parents and not obeying. It doesn't matter that others were worse - I was evaluating myself only. And no, my parents were not perfect either. But I felt great joy that I was able to take precious time in my mother's, and my father's, final days and become their friend and speak to them as equals. It was very challenging, but very fulfilling. I also spent a lot of time reviewing my 22 married years with Dolores - the trips, our animals, our self-sufficient home, our accomplishments, our fights, our disagreements, our agreements. We had our ups and downs, and though I was not perfect, I realized I could not have been perfect. I was living life, trying to make ends meet, and trying to be a good husband with all the challenges of life that conspire against us. In the end, when Dolores was dying, I was able to experience a rare time of caring for her when she could do so little. We became inseparable, and best friends, and it was as if all our conflicts dissolved. And then she died and I felt plunged into darkness. And then there were other challenges, and tasks, and relationships.

I thought about a few very special people who I never see anymore, and still felt so blessed that we had the time together that we did, and I wished each one the greatest happiness.

Remember, I tried to recall what was going on in my life, year by year as I ran a large lap in the sand in the dimming light of the late afternoon. I am sure I mixed up some years, but in the end, it is the learning that matters.

My two lessons were that while money is important, and you must earn it, it is a good goal to pursue whatever one feels compelled to pursue in life without focusing upon money. Yes, it seems unrealistic, but it actually can change the quality and character of what we do.

And secondly, I realized that relationships are the most important aspect of life, and you have a good life when you maintain good relationships, however you do that. This does not mean you are always laughing and happy. It means that you deal with others honestly and with the integrity that the close ones in your life deserve.

I know I have not been perfect, and I feel blessed to have been guided to begin this birthday tradition nearly 40 years ago. In just a few hours, I review my life and tried to figure out if what I have done was worth doing. By honestly assessing my self in that way, it helps me to determine what is worth doing - and not doing - this year, and into the future.

WILL THERE BE CELL PHONES IN HEAVEN?

Last Tuesday started out like any other day except I could text.

for one thing. I overslept. you oversleep? Normally, I am up at the crack of dawn. Sometimes I wish the dawn would not crack so loud, but then I would never get awake.

In a strange way, I pride myself with being able to get up early in the morning. At my age, I do not need that much sleep anymore and so it is my motto, "Early to bed and early to rise makes a man healthy, wealthy and wise.

I think I have the healthy down, but the other two are nowhere to be seen, at least from my bedroom window. Maybe I am not going to bed early enough and maybe I am not rising early enough. I have to think that through a little bit.

Tuesday I had a very heavy schedule and it started out early in the morning with appointments all throughout the day. I do not complain about a full schedule because it makes the day go faster. As far as I am concerned, the faster a day goes the better it is. It is not that often that I have a day filled with appointments, but it does happen on occasion. Like,

I would like to blame the alarm clock, but then I did not set it the night before so that is out of the picture. When I did get up and realized how late I was, I put full steam forward in motion and got to my first appointment. Fortunately, I was on time, but barely.

something seemed a little strange. I could not put my finger on it, but I knew something was wrong need? and I did not quite know what it was. I could not give too much thought to it because I had a busy schedule.

It just irked me because I knew something was is www.whatafellowship.com. wrong and I could not figure it out.

By lunchtime I was quite hungry and satisfied that all of the appointments went according to schedule. I was afraid the way my day started that it would affect everything else during the day. As luck would have it, and I do not count too much on luck, but the day was going quite nicely as planned.

I just could not get away from something in the back of my head that was bothering me. I checked to make sure I had the same socks on both feet. I have gone out with a blue sock on my left foot and a brown one on my right foot. If that isn't embarrassing.

That was not the problem. My tie was okay. I had the right shirt on and my pants were okay. But something was wrong.

As I was eating lunch, I thought it would be nice to call the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage. After all, it was a busy day and she had just as busy a day as I did. I thought I would just touch base and tell her

I reached for my shirt pocket to get my phone and discovered, much to my chagrin, that my shirt pocket was empty. That's right. Empty!

I frantically searched my person and did not discover my cell phone anywhere. Then I had one of those "aha" moments. I had left the house that morning in such a hurry that I forgot to pick up my cell phone. How was I going to get through the day without my cell phone?

As I sat there finishing my lunch my fingers began to itch and twitch. They were insisting that I text somebody. Anybody! But I had nothing upon which

I cannot remember any day that I did not have my Isn't it strange that when you have a full schedule cell phone with me. It is just one of those automatic things with me wherever I go. I need to be careful that I do not take it into the shower because that would be a disaster. Wherever I go, I always take my

I am old enough to remember back in the day when nobody had a cell phone. Texting was not even invented at that time. If you wanted to make a telephone call, you had to stop at one of those telephone booths and hope Superman was not ahead of you. Making a telephone call at that time was a major business.

Today, cell phones have made our lives so mobile that we can go anywhere, that is as long as there is Internet service, and talk to anybody.

Sitting there munching on my dessert I began to think about cell phones in heaven. The thought came to me quite suddenly, are there cell phones in heaven?

Here on earth we cannot live without these contraptions, but will we need them in heaven?

As I was musing on the subject, I thought of a verse in the Bible. "And call upon me in the day of trouble: I will deliver thee, and thou shalt glorify me" (Psalms 50:15).

Long before cell phones were ever thought of, God had a plan for us communicating with Him. It was right after the third appointment that All I need is to "call upon" God and His promises that He "will deliver" me. What more does a person

THE KEYS TO HEALTH AND HAPPINESS

Get this: Wealth, fame and success don't make us happy, but strong relationships do.

That's according to a 77-year-long Harvard Study of Adult Development that I read about in The Independent. The study began in 1938 with 724 men from two distinct groups. The first group included 268 sophomores from Harvard. The second group included 456 16-year-olds from an impoverished area in Boston.

At the beginning of the study, the subjects were given medical examinations and researchers interviewed their parents to gain "a deep understanding of their lives." Then, every two years, researchers surveyed their lives and "explored their attitudes toward their work and home lives...." Every five years they were given medical examinations. Of the 724 subjects, 60 are still alive and still participating in the study. So what have researchers learned from the study about human happiness? According to Harvard Psychiatry Professor Robert Waldinger, the study's fourth director, there are three key findings.

First, loneliness can kill.

"People with more social connections — be that to family members, friends or in a community — are happier, physically healthier and tend to live longer," reports The Independent. But "those who are more isolated from others than they wish to be suffer with poor health and experience a decline in brain function sooner than those who aren't." But we know all this to be true. We know that the happiest moments in our own lives involved friends and family. These are the people who affect the deeper part of our nature — our spirits and souls — where true happiness resides. These are the people who can make us laugh so hard our guts hurt or help us when we're down or engage us in deeply satisfying conversations.

And yet we spend most of our waking hours not nurturing our friends and families but chasing success and money and a bigger house. And the happiness that is right under our noses eludes us.

The second key finding of the study is this: The quality of relationships matters. "While being lonely is harmful, being surrounded by people isn't necessarily helpful in itself," said Waldinger. "We know that you can be lonely in a crowd and lonely in a marriage."

In the era of social media, when we have more "virtual" friends than ever, why are so many lonelier than ever?

The study's third key finding should be obvious: Strong relationships are what we need to be happy, but they require work.

"Waldinger said that people who feel they can count on another person when they face trouble have stronger memory, while those who don't see this faculty decline earlier," reports The Independent.

The Harvard study validates what we all know in our bones to be true. But we're a conflicted people in America.

On one hand, we think wealth and fame are the keys to happiness. We want adulation and expensive cars and big houses staffed by a dozen servants.

But on the other hand we know wealth and fame are bogus. You don't know who your friends really are until your money is gone. And if you ever do anything stupid, the media will broadcast it all over the world.

Well puts to that

If you want to be healthy and happy, follow the Harvard study's findings and engage a handful of good people in high-quality relationships.

Or, to put it another way, just follow the advice of the great singer-philosopher Kenny Rogers. He said that all anyone needs to be happy is someone to love, something to do and something to look forward to.

HATE-WATCHING THE ELECTION

"I love Bernie! I've donated to his campaign! He's great!" my super conservative Beltway establishment Republican friend says. "Feel the Bern!!" He texts me with a snicker during all of the Democratic debates. The night of the Iowa Caucus I retaliated, texting, "Cruz! I'm so happy!!" I knew that'd make him cringe.

So while Republicans are swooning over Bernie, I'm obsessed with the GOP field for the same reason I spent a year getting into Real Housewives of Whatever Awful Place: I loathe all the cast members. They're disgusting, short-sighted narcissists and I just can't look away.

In the immortal words of Twitter heat noet Donald Trump: They're all horrible.

In the immortal words of Twitter beat poet Donald Trump: They're all horrible. Total losers.

It boggles the mind to think of all the incompetent, unimaginative, unaccomplished and unintelligent Republicans who decided to sit this one out. One has to praise Michigan Governor Rick Snyder for staying home and merely poisoning his own state instead of the entire country.

own state instead of the entire country.

Wisconsin is way at the bottom (if not "dead last") in job growth, and yet college dropout and wet cardboard impersonator Scott Walker still put his hat into the ring. This year Politico ranked Louisiana last in basically everything. Still their twangy "stop being the stupid party" exorcist-in-chief Bobby Jindal thought that'd be a great launching pad for him to be POTUS.

GOP-gadfly and former Hewlett-Packard CEO Carly Fiorina ruined a major American company, lost to Barbra Boxer by 10 points, was fired by the McCain/Palin campaign for (wait for it) gaffes, yet she somehow got this idea that what the country really wanted in the White House was a Bizarro Hillary. I mean, Texas Governor Rick Perry, Mr. Oops himself, saw this pathetic clump of corporate-ese spewing militia-kissers and mused, "Even I could win this thing this time!"

But what's really fun about this election is witnessing the coal-burning "with us, or against us" Nixon-Reagan-Bush Republican machine break down. Like everyone else in 2000 who saw the Brooks Brothers riot take over the country, I thought this "perception is reality" brand of the Bush-Cheney-Rove holy trinity would come back in full force for Jeb. I just assumed. I mean, "Fool me once, shame on — shame on you. Fool me — you can't get fooled again." Right? But no! Jeb has affluenza, a word someone came up with describing those who are wealthy and yet still pitiful Jeb Bush, everyone. Please clap.

Ted Cruz reminds me of the creepy film that develops on the top of mushroom soup. Marco Rubio's credibility is on par with his personal credit score. Sorry, I'm not buying your plans to defeat ISIS when no one would let you finance a Honda. So out of this compost pile has grown a monosyllabic, monomaniacal outer-borough sue-happy mutant man-child named Donald Trump. Every day he comes up with a new human right he'd like to violate: Bombing the hell out of civilians being held by ISIS; shuttering Muslim places of worship; killing the families (women and children) of alleged terrorists; or closing the Internet. In the last debate he got an applause break for the war crimes he promised to commit. The Party of Lincoln has devolved into the party cheering for torturing the right people.

Trump won 35 percent in New Hampshire, which means 65 percent of GOP primary voters don't want him to be their nominee. But he's still winning! The Republican machine that cut taxes while putting a couple of wars on credit cards, that buckled the economy, that waterboarded innocent people, that sat idle while thousands of Americans died in Hurricane Katrina, that had 9/11 happen on their watch, now can't save themselves and stop Trump?!

This is fantastic!

Then there's the delicious irony that because there are so many candidates still running—Trump will continue winning. So because the entire field is flawed and terrible and incapable of honest self-reflection they're staying in and allowing Trump to sweep. The only way out of this mess is for the field to become selfless, think of the party over their own personal ambitions and drop out, allowing the least horrible candidate who's not named Trump to win.

Trump is a goiter on the neck of the GOP. He's sticking out because the party is sick. And they have no one to blame but themselves. (You know, personal responsibility and all.)

Go hate-watch 2016! Go Trump!

HOWARD Hays As I See It

"It was really stressful and difficult, (a) headache and expensive, everything you could name."

- Rosanell Eaton, on recent efforts to exercise her right to vote

Tina Dupuy had a great column last week (check it out on mtnviewsnews.com if you missed it). She wrote how the likes of Sens. Ted Cruz (R-TX) and Marco Rubio (R-TX), in characterizing rights as somehow "God-given", are summarily dismissing a history of American heroes; those who defined that history as one of struggle and sacrifice for rights we cherish as Americans – rights not "given", but fought for.

That struggle continues against efforts to restrict those rights; from the right to decide for ourselves whom we marry to the right of a woman to have the most intimate of decisions made not by the state, but between herself and her doctor. It continues among countless Americans who may not make the headlines, but whose contributions are nonetheless heroic.

Such is the case with 94-year-old Rosanell Eaton of Louisburg, North Carolina. The granddaughter of a slave, upon turning 21 in 1942 she sought to exercise one of our most fundamental rights – the right to vote. She took a two-hour mule-wagon ride to the courthouse and then, as recounted by Ari Berman in The Nation, "The three white male registrars told her to stand up straight, with her arms at her side, look straight ahead and recite the preamble to the Constitution from memory." She did, and then passed the literacy test given her - becoming one of the few blacks to actually make it on the voting rolls.

In addition to exercising her own right to vote over the next seventy years, Ms. Eaton saw to it that others could do so – registering some $4{,}000$ to vote before, as she admits, she lost count.

That seventy-year streak of direct participation in our democracy appeared to be ending with North Carolina's passage in 2013 of new voter suppression laws, rammed through a month after being given a green light by the U.S. Supreme Court's decision gutting the Voting Rights Act. New laws imposed restrictions on registration, wrong-precinct voting and photo-ID eligability.

It was ostensibly about combatting voter fraud but, according to a study out of Rutgers University, out of 35 million votes cast between 2002 and 2012 in North Carolina, the number of cases of voter fraud totaled exactly two. Another study, this one from four years ago out of the University of Massachusetts, found three major factors behind states' enactment of voter suppression laws: Republicans in control of statehouses; an increasing number of minorities turning out to vote; and an upcoming election that could go either way.

North Carolina Republicans saw a threat and had to act. Through the efforts of civil rights groups over a dozen years, black participation in elections had increased from 42% in 2000 to 69% in 2012. Latino involvement also increased. With no meaningful prospect of increasing white participation, something had to be done to reverse those numbers. By the following year, the new restrictions succeeded in cutting back minority participation by some 30,000 votes for the 2014 elections.

For many voters, it meant going to where they'd been voting for years, then being directed to another location, and then another – until finally giving up. Ms. Eaton's disqualifying issue was the name on her driver's license ("Rosanell Eaton") being different from the (married) name on her voter registration card ("Rosanell Johnson Eaton"). Ms. Eaton, though, wasn't about to give

She joined in the suit brought by the U.S. Justice Department and civil rights groups, asking for an injunction to prevent the new rules from going into effect for the November 2014 elections. Also joining were college kids whose student IDs would no longer be accepted at polling places. (In Texas, a gun permit could get you into a voting booth, but not a student ID.) The court didn't grant the injunction, but didn't dismiss the suit, either – as the State of North Carolina had hoped.

For her own photo-ID problem, beginning in January 2015 Ms. Eaton over the next month made four trips to the DMV, an additional four trips to Social Security offices and three trips to banks – a total of 20 hours' travel covering 200 miles. After seventy years, she wasn't about to let her right to vote be legislated away.

Many in Alabama had the same determination as Ms. Eaton - not to allow new photo-ID laws to take away their right to vote - so last summer the Montgomery statehouse responded by announcing the closure of 45 of their 49 DMV offices providing photo IDs; leaving just four offices to service the entire state in advance of this November's elections.

They were called out by Sen. Bernie Sanders (I-VT): "Anybody who is suppressing the vote, anybody who is intentionally trying to keep people from voting because the candidate knows that those people would vote against him or her, that person is a political coward. If you don't have the guts to run for office on your ideas, then you shouldn't run for office at all."

Rosanell Eaton remains a plaintiff in an ongoing federal court challenge to North Carolina's voter suppression laws, but with recognition for efforts begun with her reciting the preamble to our Constitution in that registrar's office seventy years ago:

"I am where I am today only because men and women like Rosanell Eaton refused to accept anything less than a full measure of equality. Their efforts made our country a better place. It is now up to us to continue those efforts... Rosanell is now 94 years old. She has not given up. She's still marching. She's still fighting to make real the promise of America. She still believes that We the People have the awesome power to make our union more perfect. And if we join her, we, too, can reaffirm the fundamental truth of the words Rosanell recited."

- President Barack Obama

MAKING SENSE MICHAEL Reagan

THE TRUMP LANE OR THE CONSERVATIVE LANE?

Goodbye, Chris.

You did your best in New Hampshire.

And you sure did put a good New Jersey-style hit job on Kid Rubio, whom you out-psyched and out-boxed at the debate last weekend.

But the primary voters of New Hampshire sent you a clear message Tuesday night – quit.

Gov. Chris Christie did the right thing for the Republican Party on Wednesday by taking himself out of the presidential primary race. It was not a hard decision.

When you finish 6th and can't reach double digits in a presidential primary, it's time to start planning your career as a future U.S. Attorney General. Carly Fiorina also has finally faced reality.

She also "suspended" her hopeless campaign – which is a way to call it quits but still be able to raise money, pay your bills and jump back in if a miracle occurs. Ben Carson needs to join the rush of losers to the exits – and soon. The good doctor never should have cluttered up the over-cluttered GOP primary race in the

As I said in last week's column, Republicans are rapidly running out of time if they want to stop the Trump Express. They have to settle on one candidate so all of the party's conservative voters can unite behind him.

The media likes to say there are three lanes in the GOP primary – the Trump lane, the establishment lane and the outsider lane. But there are really only two lanes – the Trump lane and everyone else The everyone-else lane is now the conservative lane, which includes outsiders

Cruz and Carson.

Trump has his lane all to himself – and always will. Except for his own ego, he has no competition that can split up the Trump vote.

He has the same advantage my father had in the 1980 Republican primary, when he was the only conservative candidate in a sea of moderates who were splitting the moderate vote.

The reverse happened in 2008 when John McCain, the only moderate in the primary, won because Huckabee, Romney and Giuliani split the conservative vote. Meanwhile, this year, even with Christie and Fiorina gone, the remaining candidates are still be splitting up the conservative vote into six pieces.

Trump captured 35 percent of New Hampshire voters. Kasich had almost 16 percent and Cruz, Bush and Rubio virtually tied for third with around 11 percent. Fiorina, Christie and Carson collectively got almost 14 percent.

Fiorina, Christie and Carson collectively got almost 14 percent. In other words, about 65 percent of New Hampshire voters didn't want Trump and voted for one kind of conservative or another.

Conservatives have to get out of their own way and choose their one hero to battle Trump before the wave of March primaries, when it'll be too late. But it's not looking good.

In South Carolina and for the near future, even if Carson and someone else quits, it looks like we're going to have three or four conservative Republicans taking turns beating each other up, while Trump gets his automatic 35 percent. With Hillary Clinton's cruise to the Oval Office being sunk by a 74-year-old socialist, the Democrats seem to be trying their best to hand Republicans a victory

It'll be a major tragedy if conservatives in the GOP blow their big chance and America ends up with President Trump. But that would still be better than Hillary.

Michael Reagan is the son of President Ronald Reagan, a political consultant, and the author of "The New Reagan Revolution" (St. Martin's Press).

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF: GERALD MEERKREEBS CASE NO. BP170171

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the WILL or estate, or both of GERALD MÉERKREEBS.

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by MICHAEL MEERKREEBS in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that MICHAEL MEERKREEBS be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests the decedent's WILL and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The WILL and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held in this court as follows: 02/24/16 at 8:30AM in Dept. 67 located at 111 N. HILL ST., LOS ANGELES, CA 90012

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

lots, and elimination of the modified front yard setback for cul-de-sacs.

We have recently heard in the press that several members of the that when we look at the number quoted by the Sheriff it is for only Sierra Madre Police Department have left to take jobs elsewhere, bare bones service, and that at any level, the level we are accustomed leaving our force short. I don't blame them for a minute. As someone to or any other level, the Sheriff would cost at least 25% more than who works for a living, I understand perfectly. Some people are our own department, as well as being less satisfactory to most Sierra advocating that we should slash the utility tax, which essentially Madre residents. As Pogo so famously said, "We have met the enemy provides the money for police services, and a lot of other things. Some and it is us". people are advocating that we switch our police service to the Sheriff's Department. Both of these ideas are false economies. Without the utility tax we do not have the money for a huge percentage of our Eric Olson budget including police, no matter where we get it from. My bet is Sierra Madre

WHY I WILL VOTE NO ON MEASURE UUT & WHY I WILL NOT VOTE FOR A CITY COUNCIL CANDIDATE

I know there are Sierra Madre residents who are willing to pay whatever it takes to keep our local Police Department. They value the camaraderie of a small town department where the officers know us by name and feel part of the community. Unfortunately the days of such a police force are just no longer possible. Small towns like Sierra Madre cannot compete with larger cities for police personnel. Especially since the larger cities are now facing recruiting problems themselves.

The ever increasing cost of maintaining our police department is the main reason the city has serious budget problems and why the city council is putting Measure UUT on the April ballot. The additional $1,000,000.00 is needed to increase police salaries, benefits, and pay for the unsustainable, underfunded retirement plan. I believe this is throwing good money after bad, and is completely unnecessary. The Sheriff can provide better services at a much lower cost. The Sheriff has the benefit of size to achieve cost efficiencies we could never realize.

Many make the Sheriff sound like a terrible thing. The fact is that hiring the Sheriff would be the best thing that could happen to protect the citizens of Sierra Madre from criminals. For years we have used the Sheriff's and Pasadena's services to do much of our heavy lifting for us with gratitude.

If the UUT Measure fails we will have no choice but to hire the Sheriff. Even if Measure UUT passes we should still contract with the Sheriff. The Sheriff will provide us with increased services at a much lower cost. How could this not be the most responsible thing to do? And think of all the money we will start saving that could be used for infrastructure improvements which has been neglected for decades.

This is why I will vote NO on Measure UUT. We need to discipline Respectfully, ourselves, learn to live within our means, hire the Sheriff, save lots of money, Barry Gold get more services, and then look for ways to pay for new water pipes, street, sidewalk, and other repairs.

Now as for voting for a city council candidate here is why I will not vote for either one. First of all Mayor Capoccia and Council Member Harabedian can't lose. They are running unopposed. So if we vote either for or against Measure UUT and do not vote for either candidate we will be sending a message to the entire city council who will see the lopsided number of votes cast for the UUT measure as opposed to the votes cast for the candidates.

Those who vote no on Measure UUT and do not vote for a candidate will be saying, loud and clear, that they do not want to give the city the money to pursue the futile effort to save our police department. They want the Sheriff so we can save a money, get better police service, and then figure out how to fund the neglected infrastructure repairs.

Those who vote yes on the UUT Measure and do not vote for a candidate will be saying, loud and clear, that they are willing to pay more taxes as long as the money goes to infrastructure improvements and not our local police department which within a year, two at the most, will be financially impossible to maintain.

I encourage everyone to vote on Measure UUT how they think is best. I will vote no on Measure UUT and I will not vote for a candidate for the reasons stated above.

I truly believe, that in the long run, this is in the very best interest of all who live in our cherished Village to the Foothills.
