SIERRA MADRE CORRECTION TO SAMPLE BALLOT

Sierra Madre, CA. - March 11, 2016 - The City of Sierra Madre is hereby providing notice to all voters of a correction to the "Impartial Analysis of Measure UUT" on page 6 of the Sample Ballot for the election on Tuesday, April 12, 2016.

The first bullet, under "Measure UUT WILL" should read:

Increase the existing 8% UUT tax to a maximum of 10% on July 1, 2016. The bullet in the Impartial Analysis of Measure UUT in the sample ballots mailed to all voters mistakenly reads 2015; this date is a typo. The actual ordinance, which can be found on pages 9-10 of the sample ballot states that, if approved, "Effective July 1, 2016, the taxes imposed by this Chapter shall be at the rate of ten (10) percent, unless a lesser rate is established by the city council on or before August 1st of any year."

CELEBRATE HOLY WEEK & EASTER AT SIERRA MADRE'S VILLAGE CHURCH OF THE ASCENSION

son, you can count on Church of the Ascension - Sierra Madre's Village Church - to be the place where you can join with friends and neighbors to remember the events of Holy Week and rejoice at the miracle of Easter. All of the services point to the joy of the Paschal Mystery - the Resurrection of Our Lord Holy Week 2016 include:

(Passion) Sunday March 20th at both 27 AM and 10:15 AM Both services include the Blessing of Palms. The 10:15 AM service will begin in the Memorial Garden with a procession into the Church.

There are two distinct servicis the Stations of the Cross which begins in the Church and processes around the grounds. The second service is the Good Friday Liturgy & Veneration of the Cross be-fore the Church "goes dark" until Easter Eve.

Easter Vigil & 1st Eucharist March 27 6:00 AM The pre-dawn Sunday morning Easter Vigil is both a spiritual and physical awakening

As at any joyous holiday sea- as the sun rises over the outdoor service and the congregation shares the joy of the Resurrection. The service then moves into the sanctuary where we experience the music of Easter, the beautifully decorated church, the Easter sermon, and together celebrate the first Eucharist Mass of Easter. An old tradition at Ascension is for ev-Jesus Christ. Services during eryone to bring bells to ring as a sign of our joy.

Easter Service March 10:15 AM Church Traditional Easter message, Music, and Festival High Mass. The proclamation of Jesus' Resurrection is again accompanied by the bells brought by the congregation. Come for some part or all of this series of reflection. es on Good Friday. The first Holy Week and Easter services are great ways to meet new neighbors and check out a wonderful community church.

> For more information, please call the church office at (626) 355-1133 or visit: www.ascension-sierramadre.com.

Walking Sierra Madre...The Social Side

"Spring has returned. The earth is like a child that knows poems.' Rainer Maria Rilke

"Spring is nature's way of saying "Let's Party!" Robin Williams

It's definitely Spring! Everywhere we look buds are ready to burst into leaves on all the deciduous trees, daffodils are brightest yellow, purple, white eaves. and yellow dutch iris buds are open, ornamental cherry and plum are showing off with pink flowers all over town, the first roses are blooming and Sierra Madre has never looked more beautiful. Enjoy these beautiful spring days when the mountains are so clear and there's always something to be happy about...even gophers! Remember the gopher in Caddyshack?

We are totally ready to party here in town with the Wistaria Festival coming up tomorrow and we've been crossing our fingers all week that it doesn't rain. Wistaria is in bloom in places you never noticed before and our world-famous wistaria vine should be beyond fabulous. If you've never gone to see it, make this the year you go and bring a friend! We were thrilled to see last Monday's rain, which Days like this don't come around that often. was quite something with lightning, thunder, wind and a cloudburst at 7:00 a.m. that shook the house and rattled all the palm trees.

Trader Joe's has 10 stems of daffodils for $1.49 and they last about a week. Sitting on the kitchen table, they make you smile every time you walk through there and, let's face it, does walking through the kitchen usually make you smile? ## Foundation to Host Officer of the Year Event

The Pasadena Police Foundation will hold the second annual Officer of the Year event on Friday, April 15 at 6 p.m. at the University Club of Pasadena, 175 N. Oakland Ave., Pasadena. The evening will feature a no host bar, dinner, auction and dancing. The Pasadena Police Foundation has renamed this award in memory of the late Myron Yanish. Myron's life was woven into the fabric of the Pasadena community. He served as President of the Foundation and was also active in the Tournament of Roses Association. Myron always had the utmost respect for law enforcement. He was delighted when asked to join the Pasadena Police Foundation in 2013. He became President of the Foundation in 2014 and served in that capacity until he passed away in late 2015. It was his vision to honor an officer of the Pasadena Police Department who exemplified mentorship efforts with the youth of this great city. It is appropriate that this honor would bear his name because it distinguishes the officer that has best served the youth of our community during the past year.

The Pasadena Police Foundation was founded in 1993 to foster involvement of the Pasadena community with its Police Department.

Tickets are $125 each. Funds raised at this event will go towards furthering youth programs sponsored by the Foundation. To purchase tickets visit www. pasadenapolicefoundation.

Pet of the Week

Carmen (A390225) is an eight-year-old, female, black and white pit bull mix. Carmen is a lovely senior with a very sweet personality. She has been out on our Mobile Unit where she was friendly with people of all ages. Carmen has earned her Blue Ribbon from our Behavior Staff, which means she knows her "sit," "down" and "stay" training \cues. Her Blue Ribbon also reduces her adoption fee to $100. Carmen is a little overweight and will need a home where she can get plenty of exercise and have her diet monitored. Because of her age, Carmen qualifies for our Seniors for Seniors program, which waives the adoption fee for adopters ages 60 and up. The mandatory microchip fee of $20 still applies. Carmen is already spayed and ready to go home with you today!

The regular dog adoption fee is $125 which includes the spay or neuter surgery, vaccinations, microchip, and a free follow-up health check at a participating vet.

New adopters will receive complimentary health and wellness exam from VCA Animal Hospitals, as well as a goody bag filled with information on how to care for your pet.

Call the Pasadena Humane Society & SPCA at 626.792.7151 or visit at 361 S. Raymond Ave. in Pasadena. Adoption hours are 11-4 Sunday, 9-5 Tuesday -Friday, 9-4 Saturday. Pets may not be available for adoption and cannot be held for potential adopters from phone calls or email. Directions and photos of all pets can be found at www. pasadenahumane.org.

ARCADIA PD'S PROACTIVE STANCE AGAINST INCREASED CRIME: LT. CASTRO EDUCATES WEST AREA

Sami Taylor of the City of Arcadia's Water Conservation Program will speak to the Arcadia Branch of AAUW on April 11.

By Joan Schmidt

THIS MESSAGE IS FOR EVERYONE: FROM ANY CITY, ANY COUNTY AREA-THIS PERTAINS TO YOU!

I consider myself pretty knowledgeable about AB 109, and Proposition 47. (Thanks to Supervisor Antonovich, his staff, LASD, and local Police Agencies for their facts and

However last night's Neighborhood Meeting called by Lt. Mike Castro for Arcadia's West Area really shed more light on residential burglaries.

Arcadia PD is a proactive Department. First they divided the city into five areas and assigned a Lieutenant to each area. Because of the increased rate in residential burglaries, Lt. Castro realized the need to educate the public and decided to have a meeting. He asked volunteer Mike Vercillo to get the about the meeting, and many attended.

There was a lot of good information, so I will use "bullets" in the hope it is easier to understand. There has been a great spike in residential burglaries in ALL areas. In Arcadia, the thieves are mostly LA gang members going after CASH and EXPÉNSIVE JEWELRY.

- The first step is surveillance. They target an area or even just a house. They watch the residents, and learn their schedules. Is the house vacant during the day?

- They even look at the resident's attire. For instance, a woman leaving in jogging clothes. Will she be at the gym for a while?

- High-end vehicles are being rented, windows tinted and plastic dealership tags put over the license plates hiding the numbers. (REPORT ANY UNFAMILIAR VEHICLES!

These perpetrators have a "Shot Caller", who is "Running a Business". He sends people out to do the surveillance.

- The driver is usually a female wearing a

"Hoody"- trying to hide her identity. There are usually two males working with her.

The men get out of the car. One knocks on the door. If there is no, answer, he goes around back.

Most break-ins occur in the back through windows or sliding-glass doors. Even if you have an alarm system, the response time is nine minutes.

AB 109 has sent 10,000 state prisoners down into ALREADY overcrowded jails. (These are N3's-non-violent, non-serious, non-sex offenders. Lt. Castro explained that the "N3" ONLY refers to the current charge.) AB 109 also shifted supervision of "Low Level" parolees to be supervised by county probation instead of state parole agents.

WHY THESE BURGLARIES ARE HAPPENING: Proposition 47, the SAFE NEIGHBOODS and SCHOOLS ACT changed crimes from FELONIES to MISDEMEANORS. Many misdemeanors are strictly a ticket and no jail time. No

MOST IMPORTANT: CALL YOUR POLICE DEPARTMENT IF ANYTHING SEEMS UNUSUAL or SUSPICIOUS.

Lt. Castro said the only way to stop or lessen this crime is by educating the public and by the public working with their local law enforcement agency. This is the SAME UNIVERSAL MESSAGE TO RESIDENTS ANYWHERE:

know your neighbors and their schedules. Report ANY unusual activity, unfamiliar car or person you don't know. A Mercedes Benz may mean someone is scouting your area. Lastly CONTACT your local Assembly Member, (Roger Hernandez, Chris Holden or Ed Chau, depending on your residence) and implore them to work on a repeal of Prop 47. Thank you.

DROUGHT SOLUTION FROM CITY OF ARCADIA

California residents are all aware that our state is still in a drought, and they are aware of local restrictions placed on available water use. But who of us in this area has not said, "Why don't we capture more stormwater instead of just letting it flow to the ocean?" That is exactly what the City of Arcadia is planning to do, and Sami Taylor, Management Aide of Water Conservation for the City of Arcadia is just the person to explain the City's "Median Master Plan." According to Taylor, the City is "in the process of updating the Median Master Plan to renovate the City's existing (street) medians with water efficient designs" that help to "harvest stormwater." This is exciting news!

Sami Taylor is well qualified to speak on the subject of water conservation. She holds an MPA and certificate in Sustainability Policy and Planning from USC's Price School. Her B.A. in Environmental Studies and Geology is from Oberlin College. She has the distinction of playing an integral part, along with the USC Office of Sustainability, in transforming the L. A. Memorial Coliseum into a zero-waste venue! Her many credits include being active with the L. A. Food Policy Council and Roots of Change.

Sami Taylor will speak at a meeting of the Arcadia Branch of the American Association of For information about membership in the University Women (AAUW) on Monday, April American Association of University Women 11. ## DUARTE SETS MARCH 29TH NEIGHBORHOOD WATCH MEETING TO UPDAT RESIDENTS ON RECENT BURGLARIES AND CRIME PREVENTION EFFORTS

DUARTE, CA, March 10, 2016 - The City of Duarte, supervision plan. In order to continue to be proactive like every City in California is experiencing a spike in Part 1 Crimes; particularly in the area of property crimes. This trend is the exact opposite of the rest of the Country that continues to enjoy historically low Part 1 Crimes rates. What is behind this startling trend? Duarte Public Safety and the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department have set a community wide Neighborhood Watch meeting to keep the public up-to-date on what the Departments are doing to collectively suppress, intervene and prevent property crimes in our City. The meeting will be held Tuesday, March 29, at 6:30 p.m. at the Royal Oaks School Cafeteria, 2499 Royal Oaks Drive. The public is welcome and encouraged to attend.

Duarte Sheriff's Sgt. Tony Haynes, Director of Public Safety, Brian Villalobos, and City Manager Darrell George will discuss in depth recent property crime activities as well state and nation Part 1 Crime trends. They will also provide an overview of the suppression, intervention, and prevention programs that the City and law enforcement are utilizing to help keep Duarte neighborhoods safe. "Our number one priority is ensuring the safety of our residents, said City Manager George.

The City of Duarte saw an 8.53% spike in Part 1

Crimes during 2015. Although it is still too early to pin this solely on the voter approved Proposition 47, Public Safety professionals are drawing a correlation between allowing non-violent offenders and drug users out of jail without a mandatory, funded treatment and in the City's approach to this crime trend, the Public Safety Department is studying the introduction of another patrol unit to the Sheriff's Department contract and has also initiated talks with the City of Bradbury to possibly share the cost of this additional patrol car.

'The importance of the community's role in helping to keep Duarte a safe place to live and work is vital, said Villalobos. "We need the community's help. Every Duarte neighborhood should be involved in Neighborhood Watch. It's a program that works. We also want the public to know that if they have information about a crime, but may be concerned about 'getting involved', Duarte Public Safety has an Anonymous Tip hotline where they can leave a detailed message.

The hotline number is (626) 359-5671, ext. 462. For information about starting a Neighborhood Watch program, call Aida Torres, Duarte Crime Prevention Specialist at (626) 359-5671, ext. 316.

GOVERNOR BROWN SUPPORTS CHECKOFF CA MONTH TO BENEFIT CHARITABLE ORGANIZATIONS

California Governor Jerry Brown urges taxpayers State Income Tax forms. "In 2015, more than 390,000 to support leading charitable organizations during Checkoff CA Month. Tax payers "checking off" contribution boxes on their State Income Tax Form can help support organizations like the California Senior Legislature continue fighting on behalf of California Seniors in the years to come.

"As the April 15th tax deadline nears, Californians can have a positive impact on their communities... These donations help fight cancer, protect seniors, prevent child abuse and support a host of other charitable endeavors. The people of our state have contributed over $20 million in the past five years, and this generosity has made a difference in the lives of our fellow Californians." Stated Governor Brown.

The California Senior Legislature Fund is participating in the tax Checkoff program and you can make a contribution by checking Code 427 on your priorities, please contact Janice Bailey.

Californians checked off their favorite cause on the state tax form 540, raising over $4.9 million" Said Governor

"We at the California Senior Legislature (CSL) have been the most vocal advocates for seniors in our state and we are aware of the challenges facing us in the coming years." John Pointer, Chair Joint Rules Committee of CSL.

CSL has a 35-year history advocating for senior rights. Its track record includes the Silver Alert Program and protections against elder abuse. CSL is California's biggest champion for the elder community. However, CSL is only able to continue its work for the elderly through donations and "checking off" code 427 on State Income Tax Form 540.

Sierra Madre Middle School Girls' Basketball team win 3rd consecutive Learns League Title, Defeating Marshall 45-44

Pasadena, CA - Stifling defense, a four-point-play, and a surging comeback leading to a nail-biting finish, capped off the 2016 LEARNS Girls Basketball Championship game held at Pasadena High School on Wednesday, March 9th.

The Marshall Eagles jumped out to an early 1st half lead, only to see that lead dwindle as they went into halftime tied at 21 each. The second half saw the Sierra Madre Hawks jump out to a 10-point lead with strong guard play, anchored by Kamesha Moore and a gritty all-round performance by forward Carrie Fleming. Then it was Marshall's turn to mount a comeback as they erased the 10-point deficit with two minutes left in the contest. Trading free throws down the stretch, the Hawks went ahead 45-44 with 5 seconds remaining in the contest, but the Eagles failed to get a last second shot off. This is the Hawks 3rd consecutive LEARNS program championship.

LOVE FOR THE GAME STARTS HERE! 2016 SMGSA SOFTBALL IN FULL SWING

On Saturday, March 5, 2016, over 250 girls from Sierra Madre and neighboring cities converged onto Heasley Field to begin the 2016 Girls Softball season. One of the largest recreational softball leagues in San Gabriel Valley, SMGSA goal is to providing quality athletic experiences through which our girls develop positive characterbuilding traits and love for the game. This year's opening ceremonies were dedicated to the memory of Chris Nelson, a SMGSA parent that was struck and killed by a drunk driver on Sunday, February 21st on his way home from work. Two of Chris' daughters are players this season and the opening ceremony moment of silence was especially touching. (for more information on the Chris' memorial fund, visit http://www.smgsa.org/)

The regular season will run through May and with 21 teams in the 6U, 8U, 10U, 12U, and 14/16U divisions, this season promises to be very exciting and competitive.

Opening Day Highlights

Angels in the Outtfield 8, Code Red 6

After trailing by 6 runs, the Angels in the Outfield stage a dramatic leading to an 8-7 victory. Jazmin Frias scattered four hits and struck rally (with a little help from the weather) for an impressive win over team Code Red in the opening day finale. With big hits, runs and rbi's from Isabela Nelson(dbl), Sheridan Albright (dbl), Bella 10U Ortega (dbl), kennedy Lum (single), Hannah gray (single), Julianne rose (single) and runs from Melissa Mendoza, Taylor rose. Pitchers for the Angels in the outfield were Sheridan Albright and Isabella Ortega.

THE JOY OF YOGA

time of day for a nourishing yoga practice. It's the right combination of freedom of movement for my body and pure love and acknowledgement within my spirit. And, since a good asana practice can do so much, my reasons, or needs for practicing change. If my body aches, I concentrate on joint care and do poses that free up each joint and give a gentle stretch or attention to the problem areas. If my attitude needs an adjustment, I add more poses that change the flow of my energy. You get the point. In each focus, I am creating a subtle feeling

In a group yoga class, we have a beautiful, skilled teacher leading us in and out of yoga poses. Is the job of the student to perform each pose to textbook form? Is the goal to have the best down dog ever? No way! Teacher Lauren Toolin, made such a wide point on this. She said the job in each pose is not to be on the cover of Yoga Journal, but to be in the Bhavana, or Mixed Levels & Fridays 11am Beginning with my practice. This feeling is called a Bhavana.

It's always the right the feeling and connection. (Oh yes! Ha. That's right.)

Our bodies and minds contain the divine wisdom we crave. It's in that Warrior pose where I can experience strength, determination and clear communication. It's in easy sitting pose, Sukasana, that I experience my internal divine relationship. The entire class, in fact, becomes a venue for connection, development and creation of what I want in my life. The teacher is there to help develop specific Bhavana through poses, breath work and cleansing techniques.

Being in the feeling without resistance is happiness. It's peaceful, unchanging and uniquely beautiful. See if you can bring your awareness to this next time you are practicing. "Be in the Bhav".

SAN ANTONIO WINERY OFFERS WINE TASTING, TOURS, AND DELICIOUS CUISINE IN THE HEART OF LOS ANGELES

Pasadena is home to many of my friends in the restaurant business. One family that has made their home here for many years is the Riboli family. Does the name sound familiar to you? If not, I bet you know their wines. The San Antonio Winery is just a few miles away from where you are reading this right now - no long drive to Napa or Temecula. Los Angeles is home to the longest and largest producing winery in Southern California. San Antonio Winery, located just east of downtown Los Angeles in Lincoln Heights, offers the ultimate romantic experience, or the ideal spot to celebrate love and good times with friends. Step into the vast tasting room and up to the counter, and one of the friendly, learned staff will guide you on your wine tasting adventure. You can choose from a selection of award-winning dry wines from San Antonio Winery's Maddalena and San Simeon collections, or semi-sweet, semisparkling wines from their popular Stella Rosa line, like Stella Rosa Red, and sparkling Stella Rosa Moscato Rosé, perfect for "stellabrating" romance.

On my recent visit I took a tour of the entire winery, where I learned about the original urban winery's history. I even got to see where the wines are fermented, aged, and bottled. Once I worked up an appetite, I indulged in homestyle Italian cuisine at Maddalena restaurant. Named after the winery's matriarch, Maddalena was the first restaurant inside a winery in California. It was opened in the 1970s after Maddalena Riboli's sandwiches became so popular, a long line would form outside the winery.

Today, you can still enjoy some of Maddalena's delicious recipes, like her outstanding lasagna and handmade ravioli. You can listen to live music in the restaurant all weekend long. San Antonio Winery is located at 737 Lamar Street. There is also an ample parking lot with complimentary parking.

ACUPUNCTURE AND FROZEN SHOULDER

Treatment Plus Exercise Better than Exercise Alone

of conditions that cause pain and limit the range of motion of the shoulder joint.

Once a person is diagnosed with frozen shoulder, the initial stages of care are aimed at reducing inflammation and increasing range of motion. Toward that end, various treatment methods have been devised, including anti-inflammatory drugs, ultrasound, heat, massage, and stretching and isometric exercises. Steroid injections and nerve blocks have also been employed at times, but the effectiveness of these therapies can vary greatly from patient to patient.

Several studies have reported that acupuncture can successfully treat frozen shoulder, but the majority of these studies have not been of the randomized, controlled trial (RCT) variety. A new study using the RCT format compared the use of acupuncture (along with exercise) to exercise alone in a small group of frozen shoulder patients. The study, published in the Hong Kong Medical Journal, found that patients treated with acupuncture and exercise demonstrated "significantly greater improvement" on shoulder assessment tests than those using just exercise, and suggests that acupuncture could be useful in cases where more conventional therapies have been unsuccessful.

Thirty-five adults diagnosed with frozen shoulder were randomly allocated to an exercise group or an exercise plus acupuncture group and treated for six weeks. Subjects in both groups were assessed using a test called the Constant Shoulder Assessment, which combines patient ratings for pain and activities of

The term "frozen shoulder" is used to describe a variety daily living with range of motion measurements for a maximum score of 100 points. Assessments were taken at three intervals: baseline (just prior to the start of the study); at the completion of treatment; and at 20 weeks. CSA scores were relatively equal for both groups at the beginning of the study. Within six weeks, however significantly higher" scores were reported in patients receiving acupuncture and exercise, with an average improvement rate nearly twice that of the exerciseonly group. These improvements were also seen at the 20 week follow-up test (see Table I).

Table I: Constant Shoulder Assessment scores and percentage of improvement following treatment. Group CSA score, baseline CSA score, 6 weeks CSA score, 20 weeks % improvement from baseline, 6 weeks % improvement from baseline, 20 weeks Exercise 42.8 57.6 57.9 39.8% 40.3% Exercise plus acupuncture 41.3 66.8 67.3 76.4% 77.2% Some limitations were noted by the investigators -- for instance, the number of exercise minutes between groups. The exercise-only group performed supervised shoulder exercises for a total of 360 minutes over the treatment period, whereas the acupuncture/exercise group performed supervised exercises for 600 minutes (360 in a group setting, 240 while being treated with acupuncture). Because acupuncture is known to relieve pain, the researchers speculated that patients who had acupuncture before exercise may have shown greater improvements because they experienced less pain during exercise.

HOW RETIREES CAN SAVE ON

Dear Savvy Senior,

What tips can you recommend for finding affordable prescription eyeglasses? I used to have vision insurance through my work, but lost it when I turned 65, retired, and signed up for Medicare. Looking For Eyeglasses

Dear Looking,

Prescription eyeglasses today aren't cheap. You can easily spend $200 for a basic pair, but if you want designer frames or need bifocal or progressive lenses the price can more than double. Here are a few different options that can help you save.

Medicare/Insurance Coverage

If you are a Medicare beneficiary, you already know that original Medicare (Part A and B) and Medigap supplemental policies do not cover routine eye exams or eyeglasses (unless you've just had cataract surgery), but there are some Medicare Advantage (Part C) plans

Many of these plans, which are sold through private insurance companies, cover vision as well as dental, hearing and prescription drugs, in addition to all of your hospital and medical insurance. To locate Advantage plans in your area that provides vision coverage, visit Medicare.gov/find-a-plan or call 800-633-4227. But before enrolling in a plan, check the benefit details to ensure the plan's vision coverage includes routine eye exams, eveglass frames and lenses.

You can switch from original Medicare to a Medicare Advantage plan each year during the open enrollment period, which is between Oct. 15 and Dec. 7.

If, however, you don't want a Medicare Advantage plan, you can still get coverage by purchasing an inexpensive vision insurance policy – see eHealthInsurance.com. Policy costs vary depending on where you live, but they usually start at around $6 to $9 per month for an individual. Before signing up, make sure your savings potential is worth the cost of the premiums and copays.

Discount Stores

Purchasing eyeglasses from discount retailers is another way to save. Costco is one of the best discount stores for good eyewear and low prices. Eyeglasses cost an average of around $150, but to shop there you have to pay a $55 annual membership fee. Some other good retail options for low prices include For Eyes Optical, author of "The Savvy Senior" book.

BJ's Optical, Sam's Club and Walmart.

You also need to find out if you are eligible for any discounts. Many retailers provide discounts to membership groups like AARP and AAA. AARP members, for example, can get 30 percent off a pair of prescription eyeglasses as well as discounts on eye exams at any LensCrafters, most participating Pearle Vision, Sears Optical, Target Optical, JCPenney Optical and thousands of private optometrist offices.

Buying eyeglasses online can also offer huge savings. Some online stores like ZenniOptical.com, Goggles4u. com and EyeBuyDirect.com sell prescription eyeglasses for as little as $7 plus shipping. These sites let you upload a photo of your face, so you can see what you'd look like in different frames.

Or, for a fancier choice of frames see WarbyParker. com, which offers single-vision glasses for $95. They even offer a free program where you can request up to five pairs to try on at home for five days.

To purchase glasses online, you'll need your eyeglass prescription from a local eye doctor, plus your pupillary distance number, which is the distance, measured in millimeters, between the centers of your pupils in each

Low-Income Assistance

If your income is low, depending on where you live, there may be some local clinics that provide free or discounted eye exams and eyeglasses. Put in a call to your local Lions Club to see what's available in your area. See directory.lionsclubs.org for contact information.

You may also be able to get free eyeglasses through New Eyes (new-eyes.org, 973-376-4903), a nonprofit organization that provides free eyeglasses through a voucher program to people in financial need.

Send your senior questions to: Savvy Senior, P.O. Box 5443, Norman, OK 73070, or visit SavvySenior.org. Jim Miller is a contributor to the NBC Today show and with a significantly bigger budget, starring Charlton Heston. Recent moviegoers will recognize its latest rebirth as "I am Legend," (I suppose the name gives it away).

The premise of "The Last Man on Earth" is that an air borne pathogen is spreading across continents, making people sick, killing them, and subsequently turning them into the walking dead. But these night walkers don't exactly conform to our modern stereotype. zombie Although they have the classic zombie dead pan expression and stiff gait, they also possess vampire qualities. They are repelled by garlic and their own reflection in mirrors. Like Bram Stoker's "Dracula," they are most effectively killed when impaled with a wooden stake through

The story begins with Robert Morgan (Vincent Price) exiting his mirrored and garlic-laden home, to drive around and collect bodies of the infected dead. (As with most zombie flicks, there seems to be a period of time between death and zombiehood). His task is made funnier by the fact that the dummies must've weighed about 15 pounds, so Price effortlessly tosses them into his 50's gas mask (left over from "Plan 9 from Outer Space" discretion.

I've been guilty again lately of recycling old articles. or some similarly cheesy production), douses the I chose this one not only because the current state of wrapped, staked bodies with gas, and chucks them national and global events puts me in a Doom's Day in. Over coffee, Morgan begins to suspect that his lovely guest is infected. A potent whiff of garlic proves his theory. Ruth flees the room and starts to inject herself, but is interrupted by Morgan. She tells him that she, and her people, are infected, but keep the germ at bay through regular injections of treated blood plus vaccine (I didn't understand that, but then science was never my strong suit. Apparently it wasn't the screenwriter's strength

Overcome by exhaustion, she falls asleep on the couch. While she's knocked out, Morgan hooks up a transfusion of his own blood into hers. In his kitchen laboratory he discovers that the transfusion has cured her! Unfortunately, the "Infected Resistance" captures Morgan after a long chase, and harpoons him in a church as he shouts, "You're freaks! I'm a man --the last man!" Ruth consoles him as he dies in her arms.

Yet we are left with a sense of hope as Ruth leaves the church hugging her freshly injected arm. They killed the last man, but Ruth's blood holds the station wagon, not bothering to close the tailgate.

On the Marquee: Notes from the Sierra Madre Playhouse

SPINNING PLATES AT SMP

By Artistic Director, Christian Lebano

So much going on at the Playhouse – I feel like one of those plate-spinners you used to see on the old Ed Sullivan show breathlessly running from plate to plate just getting to a plate as it starts to wobble! We had our first school-day matinee of Charlotte's Web on Thursday for a full-house of K-3 and their teachers. They were a wonderful first audience and so now we are underway. Diane Siegel, our Education Coordinator and Emily Hopfauf, her assistant, have done a wonderful job marketing this show to schools - we have close to 3300 students and their chaperones coming to our daytime shows. And Saturday we have our first general audience matinee at 2:30 with a party to follow. NO performance this Sunday during the Wistaria Festival, but we'll be having shows on both Saturdays and Sundays (including Easter) at 2:30 through April 17. Get your tickets soon because some of the shows have sold-out already.

I've cast The Glass Menagerie with 4 remarkable actors – all new to the Playhouse but sure to become family. Not complaining – I love every minute of your new favorites. I have long wanted to direct it. I just worry that I'm not able to make the right this show and I'm so eager to start rehearsals this Thursday. I have assembled a wonderful group of designers and the show is going to look terrific. I'm is going to be terrific fun - hope to see you there working with the composer Jonathan Beard on the music. Some of you may remember his beautiful visit our website at or call Mary at 626.355.4318 to music for Driving Miss Daisy and 4000 Miles. purchase tickets.

Music plays a big part in creating the right mood for this show and he has created beautiful themes for each of the characters.

I've been teasing you with the name of the Summer Musical for a while now. This has been another learning experience for me. We have been working hard to try to make the numbers work for the show we really want to do, but they are just not coming together. I have the rights to a second show that we will announce this week. There are still a few things to settle before it is solid. I hate that this has worked out this way, but again I chalk this up to my learning how to manage a theater - keeping an eye on pleasing our audience AND being able to balance our budgets.

On top of all of this we have had to juggle the new reading series: Off the Page, the Colburn Series, and next season to finish setting, and some of the physical upgrades to the theater. This really could be my more than full-time job, but as it is I have to work it around my day job and the needs of my decisions fast enough.

Tickets are now on sale for Charlotte's Web - it with (or without!) your kids and grandkids. Please

SEAN'S SHAMELESS REVIEWS: DMA'S - "HILLS END"

By Sean Kayden

Australian trio, DMA'S, are preparing for US domination. These 90s revivalists wear their deep influences on their sleeves as the Brit-pop sounding group undeniably show hints of Oasis, which is difficult to ignore. Consisting of vocalist Tommy O'Dell and guitarists Johnny Took and Matt Mason, DMA's are part of a current wave of rock acts emerging from Down Under. While formed in 2012, "Hills End" marks the debut album for the triad and it's a collection of 12 catchy songs that more or less linger with you afterward. The record clocks in at 47 minutes, but it's definitely time well spent as the record explores great depth. There really isn't much filler here either, which is surprising for a young band just making their debut. "Hills End" is tight yet not restrained. While the band definitely know how to slow things down, most of their material displays much exuberance. It's not in an obnoxious or brash way either like most bands that fall into this category of music. DMA'S demonstrate a lot of heart and sensitivity as they showcase captivating sounds and lyrics through a series of songs that rarely take a misstep along the

The rollercoaster opener "Timeless" kicks off the record with high energy. It's reminiscent of The Arctic Monkeys. So once again, as far as comparisons go, DMA'S are in good company. "Lay Down" starts off with an infectious drum beat as it intertwines with jangly guitars. As it continues on, it blends into transcendent melodies. "Delete," one of the group's latest single is a blissful ballad that blossoms into a lush dreamscape. It's the highlight off the record and proof that DMA'S is not a carbon copy of their influential idols. "Too Soon" is another vintage sounding 90s alternative track. O'Dell sings with a cavernous poise as if he is already a seasoned pro with much swagger to boot. "In The Moment" reminds me immediately of The Smiths. The melody and lyrics trigger that time period, but time again your alley after all.

DMA'S express an all-encompassing style and range. As you reach the half way mark of the record, it's easy find yourself falling in love with this band. No matter if you're listening in your bedroom or car, the mood always feels right when DMA'S are playing.

Artist: DMA'S Album: Hills End Label: Mom + Pop Release Date: February 26th, 2016 Grade: 8.6 out of 10

'Step Up The Morphine" is dreamy and comes off as a little shoegaze-y. Lyrically speaking, it's the band's finest effort. It's a hazy and heavily textured track. While it may never be a single, it's my dark horse pick for the band's best song in their small, but effective assortment. "So We Know" is another gorgeous ballad and sinks into your soul. The band's reflective tune separates itself from its peers once again showcasing their strong abilities both musically and on a lyrically forefront. "The Switch" reaches new heights for DMA'S. It is a swirling, dream-like endeavor that blends ethereal guitars and subtle reverb. DMA'S journey from beginning to end is nearly flawless. The closing track, Out" comes off as perhaps the weakest of the bunch. Nothing blatantly flawed about it, but seemingly a filler track. Nonetheless, DMA'S display bountiful potential with their wickedly solid debut album. The band may show off their inspirations more than necessary from 80s-90s alternative/brit-pop. However, their craftsmanship and tight sounding material is idyllic. With confidence, I believe "Hills End," is one of the best records this year will have to offer despite only being in March. If you're a fan of Oasis, The Arctic Monkeys or indie rock British act, The Crookes, then DMA'S should suit you well. Frankly, even if you're not a fan of those groups, DMA'S has enough style and zest that may be up

So when her little brother Jamie is shipped the situation facing us is too large to be solved piecemeal and proposes a solution commensurate with the magnitude of the problem: dedicate fully half the surface of the Earth to nature.If we are to undertake such an endeavor, we first must understand just what the biosphere is, why it's essential to our survival, and the manifold threats now facing it.Half-Earth provides an moving and naturalistic portrait of just what is being lost when we clip "twigs and eventually whole braches of life's family tree." Wilson documents the many ongoing extinctions that are imminent, paying tribute to creatures great and small. Uniquely, Half-Earth considers not only the large animals and star species of plants but also the millions of invertebrate animals and microorganisms that form the foundations of Earth's ecosystems. He states that the biosphere does not belong to us and addresses many fallacious notions such as the idea that ongoing extinctions can be balanced out by the introduction of alien species into new ecosystems or that extinct species might be brought back through cloning. This includes a critique of the "anthropocenists," a fashionable collection of revisionist environmentalists who believe that the human species alone can be saved through engineering and technology. Despite the Earth's parlous condition, Wilson is no doomsayer.He suggests that we still have time to put aside half the Earth and identifies actual spots where Earth's bestselling author Dr. Mark Hyman introduces a attainable goal that we can strive for on behalf of all life.

JUST FOR BEST FRIENDS

A STREET CAT NAMED BOB

A Best Seller Inspired by a Best Friend

Anyone who denies the fact that animals play a very important role in the lives of humans has a heck of a lot to learn about animals, and about humans too, for that matter. I was taught and quickly convinced at a very young age that God created all animal species and placed them on this earth for very specific purposes, not the least of which is to help bring joy to the hearts and wisdom to the minds of humans who need it most. Throughout my life I've heard numerous accounts of animals helping people heal, both emotionally and physically, so while this week's true happy tale is a remarkable heart-warming example of this fantastic phenomenon, it came as absolutely no surprise to me.

James Bowen was a homeless heroin addict trying to eek out a sparse living playing guitar for tourists and passers-by on the streets of London for a decade, when in 2007 he moved into a government-sponsored apartment building where he came across a sickly kitty, equally as desperate as himself. The pitiful but hopeful orange tabby cat he found wandering the hallways of his new dwelling was riddled with fleas, and hungry as could be. It was clear at first glance that the cat he'd just met had no home and probably spent it's days roaming about town, foraging and begging for necessities to sustain it's life. he could so relate to that lonely little

In spite of the dire circumstances that could have caused that poor cat to resist interacting with a human, he chose to humble himself and make it clear to Bowen that he was open to establishing a long term friendship with his new-found two-legged pal. And rather than refusing the furry feline's friendship, considering his own limited resources and personal problems, James Bowen chose to take that little kitty in and do what he could to restore him to good health. Bowen recognized the striking similarities in both of their circumstances, and felt compelled to connect by their common need for two basics in life; love and companionship.

That proved to be an excellent choice on that desperate man's part, because the needy cat that found him that day did indeed get healthy, and became a catalyst for some desperately overdue positive changes in Bowen's own life. You see, when a person is "down on their luck" or having a tough time surmounting the challenges of life they often tend to pull away from others, distancing themselves from successful individuals whose lifestyles might strike a vivid contrast to their own, causing even more discouragement and deeper depression.

We all like to think we are OK, don't we? And we all hope to be accepted by others, whether we admit it or not. But, when we view ourselves as inferior to other people, it is easy to put ourselves down and slip into the chasm of chaos that comes with having a sense of being a misfit in society. Fortunately, cats don't think in terms of comparing themselves to other people, nor do they judge others the way humans do. So, when Bowen caught up with that furry feline that day, no condescendence or rejection was exchanged between the two, therefore there was no need to retreat from pursuing a closer companionship. They took to each other right away, and Bowen decided to name his new-found friend "Bob". When Bob got healthy enough to tag along, he began to accompany Bowen on his sidewalk concert trips each day, perching himself on Bowen's shoulders where he could keep up with him, without getting lost in the crowd. As Bowen played guitar in the streets for tourists and other passers-by, Bob entertained them with little tricks and using his easy demeanor and positive vibrations, he drew the crowd

It wasn't long before Bowen's street musical act became quite the attraction in the neighborhood, and the tips landing in his hat began to show it. Bowen recognized that his new friend, Bob was the main reason for the increased interest and resulting increased income. Bowen had also been working very hard at cleaning up his own act since he and Bob found each other. After all, when you have someone else besides yourself to take care of, you can't afford to waste money on drugs. It seems we are often more willing to keep ourselves healthy when we know we have a loved one

James Bowen has remained clean and sober and he even wrote a book about how Bob saved his life. The book, entitled A Street Cat Named Bob, published in 2012 (Hodder & Stoughton - UK) became a best seller, and Bowen's life is very different now compared to how it was before he met Bob as a homeless addict, barely

Now, if you are still not convinced that animals can play a major role for the better in the lives of us humans, I have to say that you my be destined to miss out on the amazing blessings animals can bring to your life. There is a passage in the Bible that is often paraphrased to say: "Pride goes before the fall." Well, I believe that is very true and I also believe that human pride is why God knew we would need the animals to help humble us for our own sakes. Take it with a grain of salt, but with the moment's thought it deserves. Show respect for all species, enjoy life to it's fullest and last but not least, love and let live!

LOOKING FOR A BEST FRIEND?

EARL

Earl is a handsome 3 year old "Blue" American Staffordshire mix weighing about 70 pounds. He has a beautiful grey coat with bouncy floppy and a silly personality that will make anyone smile! Earl was found walking the streets of Rosemead and although his previous owners were located, they decided to abandon Earl at Despite this heartbreak, Earl is still a loving boy with a positive outlook in life. He is also smart as he has quickly learned the "sit" and "shake" commands and is gentle taking treats. He is also not shy around the camera, and is into posing for pictures and "selfies".

Besides going on brisk walks around the park, his other favorite activity is to lounge around near someone's legs while receiving non-stop belly rubs. He is also quite the curious boy and is often on two legs investigating his surroundings while looking for treats.

Earl definitely deserves a truly loving and forever home where he can be a beloved family member

Editors Note: In the last 30 days or so I have come across two amazing acts of kindess directed at man's best friend. Though I'd share them with you and I'm certain after reading each one, you'll know what to do!

*WE RIDE FOR THOSE WHO DIED*

There are so many things that we take for granted as we go along our daily activities. Rarely does the average person take the time to think about the sacrifices of others, especially those who give their lives so that we may continue on our merry way. Rarely do we give much thought to those heroes but today is our lucky day, you get to learn about such a hero and the heroic effort being made in the memory of one who gave the ultimate sacrifice.

Meet Los Angeles County Deputy Sheriff Aleshia Costello, a nineteen year veteran of the department. This May Deputy Costello will be riding in the Fallen Officer Memorial Bike Tour. Sworn Police Officers from around the world will be taking part in a three hundred mile ride from Florham, New Jersey to the National Law Enforcement Memorial in Washington, D.C. The Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department will have 47 riders who will make the 300 hundred mile journey in three days.

Each participant will be riding for a, fallen officer, one that has died in the line of duty.

In 2015 there was over 1900 sworn officers that made the trip, and the group was able to donate 1.97 million to National Law Enforcement Officers Memorial Fund.

The Peace Officer that Deputy Costello will be honoring had been on the force for only eleven months. In that short period of time he made quite an impression on his partner, fellow police officers, and the community which he served. Officer Falko was a member of the Toledo, Ohio Police Department in the K9 unit, he was a two year old German shepherd. During his short time on the force Falko was called to duty 260 times, was involved 58 arrest, and as a trained explosive detector he responded to numerous bomb threats.

The incident in which he lost his life occurred on August 12, 2015 Falko was called upon to find a homicide suspect. The suspect had an outstanding warrant for aggravated murder occurring on May 21, 2015. The man was wanted for having killed another man in Cleveland, Ohio. On August 12, 2015 the police spotted the suspect in a stolen vehicle. A short chase ensued the suspect abandoned the stolen vehicle, and then ran into a vacant building. Falko was called to track

wanted man, suspect was hiding in a crawl space in the empty

Because Deputy Costello is an avid lover of dogs and more importantly, because police dogs perform vital services, she rides for Falko. * As the motto of the unity tour states "We Ride For Those Who Died" - had not Falko gone into that crawl space

Officer Falko

we would be mourning

Deputy Costello is attempting to raise $2,500 dollars in Falko's honor. If you would like to support this effort you can do so by sending a donation to:

FREE ANIMAL DOCTORS? YOU'VE GOT TO BE KIDDING!

This is Willie. He urgently needs your help!

Have you ever had to take your beloved pet to the Vet only to require help for yourself after seeing the bill? Yes, sometimes the right kind seeing the bill? Yes, sometimes the right kind of treatment for our pets can get a bit pricey. Fortunately, if you're reading this article, you are able to pay for the services and bring your best friend home all fixed up. But what happens to those who cannot afford that surgery when their dog breaks their leg? Or when they discover that their beloved pet has a genetic deficiency that needs to be corrected? The emotional toll on the owner is just as great as it is for those who can whip our a credit card. emotional toll on the owner is just as great as it is for those who can whip our a credit card and pay for the treatment. Actually, it has to be worse when they realize there is nothing they can afford to do. Some pets end up abandoned on the streets, others wind up in over crowded shelters. The poor animals are sick, suddenly without their families and everyone is suffering

Well, two pretty amazing guys came up with a solution that fits right in with today's high tech way of dealing with problems and sharing with others. Attorney Sam Bernardo who owns a cat and a dog, and Entreprenuer Ryan Boyd, who owns 3 dogs, have founded a non profit organization called Free Animal Doctor. Inc. (www freeanimal doctor org.) that tor, Inc. (www.freeanimaldoctor.org) that crowd funds health care costs for very sick pets who otherwise would face death or the rest of their lives with a severe disability.

Here's how it works. An animal in need is taken to a vet, or brought to a shelter and it is determined that medical treatment is required. The family cannot take their sustenance money to pay for it, so they contact Ryan or Sam and present their case. Free Animal Doctor verifies the need and the cost with the vet, and then the animal goes on the website where people can make donations for their care. Funds raised are used 100% for the diagnosed treatment. Whatever the amount of the Vet's bill will be raised and it goes directly to the health care provider. Nothing to the family or the agency. Donations can be made independently to support Free Animal Doctor.

To date, over 30 animals have been saved! Right now there is a campaign to save Willie. On the website it says, On New Year's Eve 2015 Holly found a little maltese guy walking around stray. He was in rough shape, so she took him in. Holly was having a hard time herself, being unemployed and struggling to make ends meet... but she couldn't leave this little guy out on his own! She named him Wally and came to find out he was blind. But she fell in love with him and he is just the sweetest little dog, but she was knew he needed some serious veterinary help, which she could not afford.

Holly contacted a everyone she could think of, and fortunately a Maltese rescue was able to get Holly in touch with us! Holly is a great mom for Willy, she takes great care of him, but she just cannot afford the care he needs. That's where we can help!

We took Willy to a well regarded eye-specialist, and the in short he needs on eye removed. He has severe glaucoma which is constantly painful, and is surely causing consistent headaches. Willy is a stoic guy, and he doesn't show it, but the vet is certain he is in pain daily.

He is young, only about 5 years old... and has a great long life in front of him. Can you you help us get Willy out of pain so Holly can give him the life he finally deserves after years of abuse and neglect? Thank you! Go to freeanimaldoctor.org and learn more about how to help our friends.

The Vine

Sierra Madre's122-Year Old Wistaria* Vine By Phyllis Chapman

In 1894, William and Alice Brugman purchased a home on what was then called Piedmont, which is now called W. Carter Ave. The house had been built one year before by builder Amos Trussell for his daughter Winona and son-in-law Edward B. Jones when they married. It was the first wedding celebrated in early Sierra Madre.

The Trussells and the Jones had a change of plans, sold to the Brugmans and moved away. To enhance her new home, Alice Brugman and her neighbor Mrs. W. B. Crisp, drove by horse and buggy to the R. H. Wilson Pioneer Nursery in Monrovia and for $.75 purchased a gallon can of wistaria. It was the Chinese Wistaria variety (Wisteria sinensis). She planted it in a corner of her front porch remarking to her neighbor: "They say Wistaria grows fast." And grow it did.

Mr. Brugman, a mining engineer, was in Mexico when the vine was planted. He died in 1899 and Mrs. Brugman sold the home in 1906. The property changed hands until it was purchased in 1913 by Henry T. and Estelle Fennel. Mr. Fennel, who was a bit of a horticulturist, loved the vine, and gave it devoted care, even building support trellises.

Although the Wistaria is a vigorous grower, the added support of the trellises may have contributed to this vine's phenomenal growth. The arbors prevented the end tendrils from hanging down and causing the tender terminal buds to die from the added weight. Wistaria requires good drainage, certainly provided by this hilly, terraced location. There may also be an underground spring providing water to the

The vine eventually destroyed the original home, growing into the walls and fireplace and causing the roof to collapse. Mr. Fennel built a new home 200 feet to the north (the present upper home) and trained the vine to grow up to, but not covering the new residence. A portion of the foundation of that original home was saved to continue to provide support for the vine as its branches extended such a distance.

When the vine was in bloom, the Fennels would invite friends to come and enjoy the blossoming plant. Visitors also came from Pasadena's main hotels: The Green, The Huntington, and The Raymond. In 1918, the Fennels opened the vine to the Sierra Madre Chapter of the American Red Cross, which sponsored a very successful fundraiser to help the war effort. 12,000 people attended the event. This was the beginning of many Wistaria festivals that took place year after year. Sierra Madre became known as the Wistaria City. Many local organizations, including the Board of Trade (now the Chamber of Commerce), the Woman's Club, the Masons and Eastern Star, the Sierra Madre Volunteer Fire Dept., etc. were involved.

Many homemade items, fancy work, ceramics, artwork, gift books, and Wistaria fragranced perfume, hand lotion and bath salts were sold at booths under the vine. Luncheons and teas were served, often with young Japanese women wearing their kimonos.

The hard work and money earned at the vine by the Woman's Club paid off the mortgage of their first clubhouse. One year the Fire Dept. parked 30,000 cars on the parking lot that existed in Floral Canyon. (This is now Sierra Meadow Dr.). Easter sunrise services were among vine activities. People came from all over the world and extra street cars were added to handle the crowds. Among the famous were Fritz Kreisler, Janet Leigh, Mary Pickford, and Norman Rockwell. These two helped select the festival's Wistaria Queen. Packard Automobile Co. used the vine as a backdrop to advertise its automobile.

On December 5, 1936, Carrie Ida Lawless purchases the vine property from Mrs. Fennel, who was now a widow, for $17,000.00. December 5th was Mrs. Lawless' birthday, and according to one account, she was making a present to herself of the world's largest bouquet. Also a widow, her husband William J (Bill) Lawless was mayor of Sierra Madre during 1928-29. She, herself, was a successful businesswoman having founded the Weaver Jackson Beauty Co. in Los Angeles and was active in the community, serving as president of the Woman's Club and the Garden Club.

Mrs. Lawless spent a small fortune (around $100,000) enhancing the grounds of her new property and caring for the vine. When the festivals were held they often lasted for the weeks the vine was in bloom, not just for one day. Mrs. Lawless, a patron of the arts, also sponsored vine activities all year long.

She hosted art exhibits, musicales, and poetry readings. Nearby residents objected to the constant activity and took their complaints to the City Council. Nothing was done as Mrs. Lawless presented the argument that the vine existed before these neighbors purchased their properties.

In recognition for her contributions to the community, the Garden Club planted another Wistaria in the terraced garden on the west side of what is today the Solt's garden. It blooms a bit later than the original vine and the plaque commemorating the occasion is gone.

When Mrs. Lawless died in 1942, she provided for the vine by leaving a legacy to her nephew and heir, Bruce McGill, to continue care of the property with a committee headed by the Garden Club President. In 1944, the property was purchased by Richard and Marian Thayer. Marian is the daughter of M. Penn Phillips, a well-known developer of desert property. In 1944 the vine was overgrown and in poor condition. Richard Thayer planned to chop it up and get rid of it. A protest was raised and an association was formed to protect the vine, with money provided to pay property taxes and provide year-round care for the vine.

In 1961, after Richard Thayer died, the lot was split. Marian married builder Ronald Cook who developed the west side of the property with homes and built the present Solt home for he and Marian in1962. The upper home was sold to Joseph and Marie Feeney who raised eight children there. In 1972, Ron and Marian sold the lower home to Bob and Nell Solt. In the late 1990s, Joe Feeney died and Maria sold the property. It was purchased in 2003 by the present owners, Dan and Dana Dorrance.

By the 1970's Vine Festival activity had about ended. It started up again in the late 70's when sponsored for one day each year by the Chamber of Commerce. The Sierra Madre Beautification Committee was the yearly sponsor in the 1980's. Approximately 500-600 people attended the festival each year. In the spring of 1989, Huell Howser came to film the vine for his program Videolog, which aired on KCET. The next year, approximately 6,000 people came to view the vine. The festival organizers were unprepared for such a turnout; lines stretched for two blocks. Howser returned in 1992 to film again for his California Gold program. Sierra Madre and the Chamber of Commerce quickly organized and combined the annual Vine viewing with a downtown street fair. A shuttle bus is provided, and people procure tickets to see the vine at a pre-scheduled time.

The Guinness Book of World Records has named the Vine the World's largest flowering plant. It is estimated that at the height of bloom it has 1.5 million blossoms with 40 blossoms per sq. ft., weighs 250 tons and has branches that extend 500 feet. Wistaria is a member of the pea family though its seeds resemble a flat bean. Seed pods burst open in the summer. The plant is deciduous, losing its leaves in the winter. Wistaria seeds were brought from China by Marco Polo in the 13th century.

Today, the vine covers approximately one acre. Over the years, it has shown distress and seemed to be dying. Experts have been brought in from Cal Tech, Occidental, and Cal Poly Pomona. Correct pruning, treatments with hormones, and vitamin B have helped the vine to recover and to flourish. To help maintain the Vine's health, records of vine growth and care are now kept on a computer log. The Vine seems to produce its greatest flowering after a cold winter followed by a sudden hot spell.

What is the correct spelling for wisteria wisteria or wistaria? In the Sunset Western Garden Book it is spelled wisteria. Sierra Madre has always spelled it wistaria. According to L. A. County Arboretum and Botanic Garden senior biologist Jim Bauml and Librarian Joan De Fato, the plant was named to honor Caspar Wistar (1761-1818), an American physician and teacher, who taught at the University of Pennsylvania. Among his accomplishments, he wrote the first text-book on anatomy. When the name of the genus Wisteria was put into the books, it was incorrectly spelled, says De Fato. So, one could say that all along, Sierra Madre has correctly spelled Wistaria!

WISTARIA FESTIVAL SHUTTLE TICKETS STILL AVAILABLE!

www.sierramadrechamber.com

Shuttle tickets to ride up to view the Wistaria Vine at the annual Wistaria Festival are still available for purchase! The 2016 Wistaria Festival will take place next Sunday, March 13th, 2016.

The Festival features tours of the world's largest blossoming plant, certified by the Guinness Book of World Records. Each year, the property owners upon whose land the vine sits open their homes to allow thousands to view the vine. Dozens of Sierra Madre residents volunteer to act as docents at the property, telling the story of the vine, which was originally planted from a 1-gallon pot that was purchased for $0.75 in 1894.

In addition to the tours of the vine, the two main downtown streets of Sierra Madre are closed to traffic so that crafters and artists can set up booths to display and sell their wares. This year we have added a free Vintage Car Show to the festivities. Downtown village shops are open, and musical acts perform at multiple outdoor venues. Memorial Park is transformed into a combination Kids/Food zone and a hub of information about local non profits.

The shuttle to the vine from downtown avoids a long uphill walk from downtown to the neighborhood in which the vine sits. Tickets for the shuttle are $8 for ages 6 -75 Seniors 75-89 and children uner 6 are $6 and Super Seniors - 90+ ride for $1. Children under 2 and under ride for free. Families of 6 or more can ride the shuttle of $30. (No more than 2 adults).

You can purchase tickets on the chamber's website, www.sierramadrechamber.com or by stopping by The Bottle Shop in Sierra Madre.

—Licata Brothers—

Since 2010, the youthful Licata Brothers – Jimmy (age 18) and Tony (age 15) have thrilled local audiences with a unique combination of heartfelt vocals, infectious acoustic guitar and a multi-lingual song catalog that spans the past 90 years. Their 2015 four-song debut CD "Grizzly Bear", a tribute to lesser known but beloved tunes from the 1920s and 1960s, has received rave reviews. Not only have the Licata Brothers been working on original material but they are also in demand to showcase the work of professional local songwriters.

With wonderful support from their parents, Stephen and Juliana Licata, they regularly perform at local coffeehouses as well as at the nationally-renowned Coffee Gallery Backstage in Altadena.

A PERFECTLY STILL LABORATORY IN SPACE

Following a long series of tests, ESA's LISA Pathfinder has started its science mission to prove key technologies and techniques needed to observe gravitational waves from space.

Predicted by Albert Einstein a century ago, gravitational waves are fluctuations in spacetime produced by exotic astronomical events such as supernova explosions or the merging of two black holes. Recently, the first direct detection of these waves inaugurated the era of gravitational astronomy.

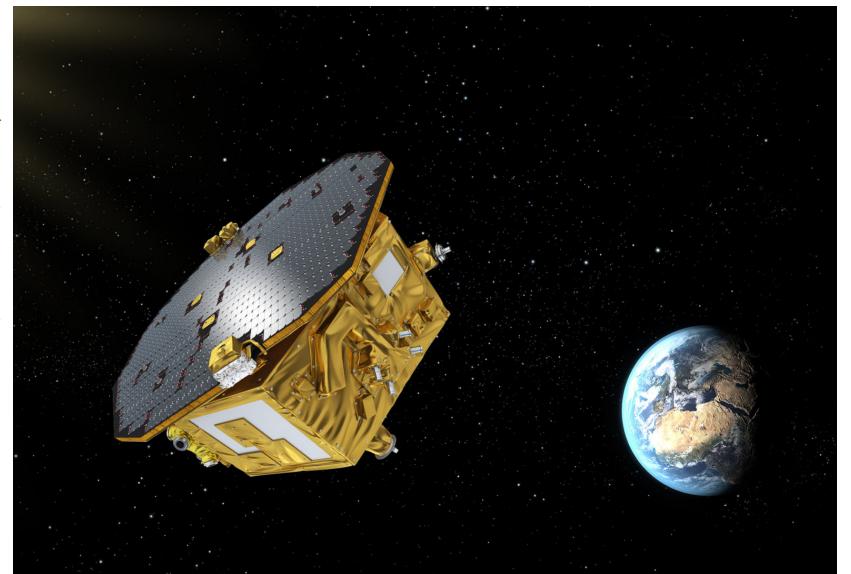

A future observatory in space, sensitive to gravitational waves with longer wavelengths than those detected on the ground, would be an essential tool to exploit this new field of study by probing some of the most massive and powerful objects in the Universe.

The LISA Pathfinder mission was launched in December, 2015, from Europe's spaceport in French Guiana. This space-borne observatory, now operating at a "Lagrange Point" millions of miles from earth, is designed to achieve the purest-known "freefall," the extremely challenging condition necessary to build such an observatory. To do so, the team released two test masses—a pair of identical 2 kg gold-platinum cubes measuring 46 mm—inside the spacecraft, and is now verifying that they are truly moving under the effect of gravity alone.

This is by no means trivial: Even in space, there are forces capable of disturbing the cubes including the radiation and "Solar wind" from the Sun—and the cubes need be isolated from all of these non-gravitational influences. To do so, LISA Pathfinder continually measures their positions and maneuvers around them with micro-thrusters to avoid ever touching them.

"As they fall freely through space, the two test masses should be extraordinarily still, since no other force is perturbing their gravitational motion—only a gravitational wave could jiggle them around," explains Stefano Vitale of University of Trento and INFN, Italy, Principal Investigator of the LISA Technology Package, the mission's core payload.

LISA Pathfinder, however, is not capable of detecting gravitational waves itself. For this crucial technology demonstration, the two freefalling cubes are only 38 cm apart—too close to record millionth of a millionth of a meter.

the minute wobbles in the fabric of spacetime.

The variation in distance caused by a passing gravitational wave is so small that a full-scale space observatory will need test masses separated by roughly a million kilometers, and be able to detect changes in that separation of about one observations of gravitational waves from space are in the most precise freefall ever obtained, the is so high that it demands an unprecedented scientists will now spend the next six months understanding of the physical forces at play on the running experiments, "poking" the masses to test masses," says Paul McNamara, ESA's Project verify how still they really are. ## OPEN LETTER TO DONALD TRUMP

Dear Mr. Trump:

time, and I've finally gotten around to it. I didn't know much about you in the past, though your name was occasionally in the news. I watched and like your Apprentice show, because it forced people to quickly make a plan, and quickly implement a plan to get some business going. In general, I liked the show because I saw young entrepreneurs working creatively to make a buck. I kept a lot of my ideas to myself as I watched the show, such as "it seems that it doesn't really matter HOW you make a buck, as long as you make the most." I mean, sometimes the "winner" wasn't really a winner in my eyes, but they always made the most money, which was the tangible and measurable factor by which you gauged "success." Sometimes I agreed with your reasons for "firing" one of the contestants, especially when you thought they used less than ideal or socially acceptable means to earn their day's money.

Overall, the show seemed like an aggressive business boot camp where you do or die, make money or go home.

It was very entertaining, and it made me realize that American business and creativity are not dead. (Though, to be honest, I much prefer the recent "Shark Tank," where existing small business people vy for investment money.)

Somewhere in there, I recall seeing on TV how you sold Merv Griffin an old apartment building. Merv was happy, and you got the price you wanted, but in talking about it, I was a bit perplexed that you had to call Merv Griffin names and belittle his character, because you wanted it known that you won and he lost. I recall wondering, why couldn't you both have "won"? You got rid of something you didn't want, and Merv got something he wanted. Win-win. But no, you had to demean Merv, for reasons I never knew. Surely a "big businessman" doesn't resort to such tactics.

Now we see you more often than during the Apprentice in your bid for the presidency. Let me explain why I am ashamed at what I now see you

Yes, you say you want to make America great again. That's all fine and dandy.

I was brought up in the world of William Buckley's Firing Line on Sunday afternoons, where he would debate complex matters with people he disagreed with, always with a smile, always sticking to the issues, never ever stooping to such puerility as calling each other names, as boys do in the bathroom or out on the school

I do not understand why you stoop to 3rd grade bully tactics when talking to and with people who should be, at least on a certain level of abstraction, your colleagues and potential partners. To bring up Carly Fiorone's face and to suggest that she is not good looking was a low blow, and unnecessary. Come on, Donald, have you ever looked in a mirror lately? Everyone ages and beauty is fleeting. The presidency is not a beauty contest. You have nit-picked every other running mate, in one way or another, in personal attacks that are not worthy of a presidential candidate, and definitely unbecoming and undesirable in an have nothing at all to do with their ability to run international consequences.

I have been thinking of I cannot remember another President in writing to you for some my lifetime who ever publicly stooped to such personal attacks. Probably the closest thing was Ronald Reagan saying he was going to whip Jimmy Carter's ass. But he never again, to my knowledge, stooped to a gutter level in his interactions with, or his speaking about, Carter or others.

The fact that you continue to do so means that this is a very natural state of mind for you. It is also painfully obvious that you have no one in your inner circle (that you listen to) who tells you the great harm you are doing by this continued childish name-calling. You hurt yourself, at least it seems so. You hurt the Republican party, which to date, has been used to a campaign with at least outward civility. And you hurt the office of the

Believe me, I am no fan of Hillary in this extraordinary campaign year. She has out-Nixoned Nixon already, and amazingly, her supporters are legion, who seem not to care about her deep character.

Nevertheless, Mr. Trump, don't you understand that civility and yes, even politeness and tactfulness, are the hallmarks of a real leader? I fear that all your money is going to your head, and you believe that you have so much money, that you can say whatever you want. Yes, you can, but you bring down our revered institutions each time you belittle another candidate in your childish tirades. Can't you stick to the real issues upon which a presidency will be involved?

Your quick and ridiculing and belittling comments are unworthy of a chief of state who will also need to interact other world leaders, whose co-operation is better than their anger. You will not be able to "fire" other world leaders who do not see things your way.

Yes, I know there are the frustrated masses who like you because you are not politically-correct and because you "speak your mind." These are good things, to a point. Being candid and honest is generally a good thing. But your "letting it all hang out" is not a good thing. It is the political version of the Oregon Bhagwan's free-for-all orgies where anything could and did happen, and eventually the towns organized to eliminate the Bhagwan guru and his followers. Some people like your style now, and I tremble to say that they like the style which has no substance, and they are swaved by the apparent free-style which has gone out of the bounds of presidential decency.

Perhaps someone will arise who can be a real uniter, someone who Democrats and Republicans and Independents can unite behind for the good of the country. Perhaps it is time for the rise of a meaningful third party, since the available options are looking increasingly bleak.

It would be better for the country, and the presidency, Mr. Trump, if you dropped out of the race and went back to your very entertaining Apprentice show, and your many business enterprises which you enjoy so much. You have not demonstrated the ability to negotiate on a political level, and to bring people together in a common win-win agreement. At least if you go back to the Apprentice and to your business enterprises, you will be able to call those actual president, and nearly always in ways that under your control whatever you wish without

I am not going to say I am quite frustrated with all of this political nonsense. I am but if I say it, it will make me even angrier. To watch a political "debate" (and I'm really stretching the meaning of that word) feels like you are watching a bunch of grade schoolers having a brawl on the playground.

Actually, I probably would enjoy the playground brawl more than the political brawl. One has class and the other, well, doesn't.

It all came to a head last Tuesday. I was frustrated. I was mumbling under my breath. I was clenching my fist and roaming through our

I just am glad I did not say it.

However, it got me thinking along this line. If it ain't over until the fat lady sings, where in the world and who in the world is this fat lady? Does

I think we need to pool our resources together as a nation, find who this lady really is and then get her to sing. I don't care what she sings. If it The question that I pose is simply, am I voting ain't over until she sings, then for goodness sake, let her sing whatever she wants to sing.

No matter what she sings, everybody ought to come together and not only nominate, but elect her for the next five Grammy awards in a row. She can sing off key if she wants to. She can screw up the lyrics as much as she wants. She can screech and holler for all I care. But if by her singing all of this nonsense comes to an end, it will be well worth it, I assure you.

I wish the phrase went, "It ain't over until the fat man sings." Then I would volunteer, for I believe I would fully qualify and even though I can't carry a tune, İ would gladly volunteer my voice for such a patriotic act.

As we were watching some political program on TV, my wife sighed very deeply and sadly said, "These are the people who want to run our

I had to agree with her and the thought that until we have somebody that can actually run our country. Let that "fat lady" stand in silence I wish she would not have asked me because until someone comes along that can actually do something in our country and then have her sing to high heaven.

I am not the first one to think in this direction. Solomon, that wise old man in the Old Testament had some things to say along this line. "Better is the end of a thing than the beginning thereof: and the patient in spirit is better than the proud in spirit" (Ecclesiastes 7:8).

To have what Solomon calls a patient spirit, For a moment, she just stared at me. You is an admirable goal, and I work on it as hard as I can but I know that my hope is not in the political cycle" but in the Lord Jesus Christ

FAMILY MATTERS By Marc Garlett

TALKING WITH YOUR FAMILY ABOUT YOUR ESTATE PLAN

Is it time to have "the talk" with your kids? I'm not talking about a "birds and bees" talk but one that is equally important, perhaps even more so.

Everyone has concerns about what will happen when they die. Some people worry about their homes, cars, or money. Others worry about their children. Rare, however, is the person who actually wants to talk about these things with their families.

Opening these conversations with your family will be difficult, but nowhere near as difficult as it would be on your family in the absence of advanced planning. Fortunately, there are steps you can take before - and during - the conversation to help it go more smoothly.

Preparation Is Paramount

As with many things in life, preparation is a key to success in these types of conversations. First, when you designate key people in your plan, make sure you match the skills of the person to the job. For example, the executor of a will must be able to gather assets, prepare paperwork, handle finances, and deal with potential family disputes. It would be unwise to select an executor who lacks the ability to carry out these tasks.

Too often, people choose executors, trustees, guardians, and powers of attorney based on emotions or arbitrary factors, such as who is the oldest child or who might be offended if not chosen. These are difficult, demanding jobs, and you need to choose people who can handle them. It also helps to talk these issues through with an experienced attorney or confidant in advance of making your selections.

Next, prepare your paperwork before your family meeting. Work with your lawyer to make the best decisions possible, and commit them to writing. This will help reduce any misunderstandings about your wishes.

Before the meeting with your family, consider the questions that may arise. For example, if you are concerned that one child will be upset because you name another child executor, be ready to answer questions about why you made that decision. It may be that the person you chose is an accountant and would be well-suited for the job, or it may be that you're concerned about overburdening the other child. Whatever the case, be prepared to offer your reasoning. Your explanation will go a long way toward reducing any hard feelings and potential disputes when the plan comes into play.

Come Prepared for Business

Once you have your family together, it is important that you not only let them know what your decisions are, but also that it is important to you that they support you and each other. Have copies of your documents available so your family can ask questions about them.

You should be prepared to answer potential questions. And remember, this may be an uncomfortable topic of discussion for your family members. If someone just can't get onboard, remember that you are dealing with your life and your assets. The ultimate decisions as to how you handle them are yours, and you can even terminate the meeting if necessary. Also, make sure your family knows that your decisions may change as time goes on.

Finally, remember the goal for this discussion is to provide your family with more than just a set of legal documents outlining your wishes. By talking to them about your intentions you are helping them gain understanding, comfort, and even buy-in with your plan.

A CASE STUDY: WHEN YOU GIVE, YOU GET

We recently helped the Downtown Arcadia Improvement Association with a Give Away campaign at the Gold Line the day of the event, our booth was buzzing with excited Grand opening event. Instead of having a booth with smiling faces show up for one day and be forgotten, we decided to design a campaign to get real results, exposure for the local small businesses and grow the email list.

The campaign started a month before the event (not the day of the event). Downtown businesses joined forces and donated big prizes (bikes, an electric guitar, a hotel stay, spa certificates, coupons to restaurants and stores etc.) These were promoted all month long with emails, social posts and word of mouth. The campaign continued after the event with pictures of winners and another give away for 5 unclaimed prizes.

Some of the results:

The new owner of Stacked Sandwich saw the value in giving big. He donated 8 certificates for $25, one certificate for $50 and a dinner for two (off menu) valued at $100. We did a simple video on Facebook about him; 5,071 people saw it! During the day of the event, he ran out of hamburgers and tripled his business. When you give, you get!

We grew the email list by 660. We reached over 20,000 people ready to win and aware of the generous small business owners in Downtown Arcadia.

The bottom line:

Leveraging a large event or holiday can help you grow your business. Collaborating with other businesses and working together is good for everyone! Be generous if you do a give away campaign; don't just give a 10% off coupon. There has to be a good hook to create a good buzz. When

HOWARD Hays As I See It

real peach." - Rachel Dicker, writing in US News & World Report I checked out Mary

Lou Bruner's picture online; a silver-haired retired teacher and grandmother from East Texas with a pleasant smile.

I checked out her views. She believes President Obama worked as a gay prostitute to support a drug habit. Dinosaurs aren't around today because Noah brought only baby ones aboard the ark and there wasn't enough vegetation to feed on after the flood. School shootings arose from the teaching of evolution in the classroom. JFK was killed by Democrats so they could put socialist Lyndon Johnson in power. The United Nations is set on reducing world population by two-thirds - by famine, disease, WWIII, whatever it takes. Islam must be banned to thwart its aim of conquering the United States.

Mary Lou Bruner is the odds-on favorite to be elected to the Texas Board of Education this May. She came just two points shy of avoiding the run-off, receiving 48% of the vote on Super

On the Board, she will help determine the curriculum taught in Texas' public schools. She will also help determine the content of textbooks and, with Texas being such a major market for publishers, her views will affect textbooks used throughout the country.

As for allowing personal beliefs to influence her work on the Board, Ms. Bruner makes it clear: "I don't intend to apologize for my opinions because I still believe my statements were accurate." Her story was picked up by John Oliver on his HBO show, featured in a segment along with fellow Texan Robert Morrow.

To suggest Morrow uses Twitter and Facebook as others use the walls of public restrooms would be unfair; Morrow employs the "n-word", "f-word(s)" and "c-word" with far less restraint - while indulging his obsession with certain components of male and female anatomy. His targets are not just Bill and Hillary but Chelsea, as well; not only does he insist our president is a closet queen but also Sen. Marco Rubio (R-FL) and members of the Bush family - while former Gov. Rick Perry (R-TX) is a "rampaging bisexual adulterer".

Robert Morrow isn't headed for any run-off. He won his race outright, garnering 54% of the vote to become Republican Chair of Travis County - Texas' fifth largest, home to the (relatively progressive) state capital of Austin.

The Texas Republican establishment is having fits. In case Morrow doesn't withdraw prior to taking his seat come June, they're developing contingency plans to maybe cut funding for the county operation, setting up some parallel structure for "official" party business - or something. Concerning these moves, Morrow told the Austin American-Statesman, "I just

The establishment line is that Morrow's win is likely due to voters' unfamiliarity with the names on the ballot; but it's not that far-fetched to see them electing someone who, albeit a remains "a real peach".

"Mary Lou Bruner is a potty-mouth, describes himself as "Trump on steroids" (though he himself appears leaning towards Sen. Ted Cruz).

The reaction at the state level to Robert Morrow's becoming the face of the GOP mirrors the national "establishment" reaction to Donald Trump: they seem confounded as to how he got where he is, and now that he's there are desperate to find a way of dealing with it.

As for the rise of Trump, columnist Josh Kraushaar in the National Journal blames Sen. Al Franken (D-MN). You see, when Franken was seated, giving Democrats a super-majority in the Senate, the president no longer had to "negotiate" with (i.e. relinquish control to) minority Republicans - and thus the "polarizing" began.

Writing in the Wall Street Journal, former Louisiana Gov. Bobby Jindal (who left his state an economic basket case) places blame for Trump squarely on President Obama. It was the president, after all, who brought about this "polarization" by pushing through bills like the 2009 stimulus (which saved us from a full-blown depression) and the Affordable Care Act (which brought healthcare to 20 million Americans) despite knowing full-well that Republicans didn't like them. It was the president who insisted the Environmental Protection Agency do its job, regardless of whether Congressional Republicans wanted it to.

Keith Ablow on Fox News does place some blame for Trump on Republicans, because "we let this guy (Obama) occupy the Oval Office for eight years" - as if it was their decision to make.

To explain a constituency where condemnation of the front-runner by past standard-bearers Mitt Romney and Sen. John McCain (R-AZ) only brings more support to that front-runner, one could look back not seven but nearly fifty years.

In Nixon's day it was the "Southern strategy" to get voters to the polls; bringing them in by stoking fear over LBJ's Civil Rights and Voting Rights legislation. Under Reagan it was the "welfare queen", conjuring images of something other than a white single mother in Appalachia.

Karl Rove took it to another level; increasing turnout by warning of gun confiscation and a "gay agenda". With Barack Obama there was fear over a Kenyan-Marxist-Muslim whose background was somehow "foreign" to the "real America", as Sarah Palin put it.

That fear has caused the average number of firearms held by American gun-owner to double from four to eight over the past twenty years, according to the Washington Post. But at the same time, the percentage of gun-owners among us has dropped to 32% - less than a third of all Americans, the lowest percentage of gunownership in forty years.

That 32% might be enough to win a primary or even a presidential nomination, but not a general election. That's what's stoking fear among the GOP "establishment" - especially when they see their constituency hitching their wagons to the likes of a Robert Morrow or Donald Trump.

As for Mary Lou Bruner, she promises to work hard seeing that schoolkids are taught that climate change is nothing but a "hoax". For that effort alone, as far as this Republican "establishment" is concerned, Mary Lou

LIBERALS AND THEIR UNINTENDED RICK Jensen CONSEQUENCES

If the law of unintended consequences was actually a law enacted by legislators, it would likely be of no consequence at all. Unfortunately it's a force of nature, not of man.

When the government has exerted force to raise the minimum wage by fiat outside of free markets, the result is immediate higher unemployment among minimum wage

When seat belts went into effect, the number of traffic accidents actually increased. Economist Sam Peltzman discovered that total fatalities were about the same as before the seat belt law. But while the death rate for motorists decreased, there was a higher death rate among pedestrians and cyclists hit by cars. Why? The seat belt gives drivers a false sense of extra security, encouraging them to drive more recklessly.

This brings us to lawmakers who have decided that banning plastic grocery bags or nudging people away from using them by charging five or ten cents per bag will save the occasional sea turtle from eating one, thinking it's a jellyfish.

It's a lovely thought, isn't it?

Supporters of these bills will cite thousands of bags menacing beaches and hyperopic fish. Good-hearted citizens will cheer and feel good about "doing something" to save the environment, then drive home past massive, mostly hidden graveyards of truck and car tires.

La-de-dah.

Depending upon your view, it's either unfortunate or no big deal that there's a direct correlation to banning plastic bags and the deaths of more than five people each year in a city the size of San Francisco.

According to a study by two university professors, it's actually 5.5 people in San Francisco who die each year as a direct result of the grocery plastic bag ban.

For some people, that's a fair trade for potentially, possibly, maybe saving a turtle.

San Francisco has been leading the fight against plastic bags. In 2007, the Environmental Department of the City of San Francisco reported plastics bags distributed by retail stores account for 0.6 percent of litter.

Six tenths of one percent.

A federal EPA study found plastic bags make up four tenths of one percent of our country's municipal waste stream.

Four tenths of one percent.

Back in 2013, Ramesh Ponnuru noted news reports from around the country describing nesses caused reusable grocery bags.

"A reusable grocery bag left in a hotel bathroom caused an outbreak of norovirus-induced diarrhea and nausea that struck nine of 13 members of a girls' soccer team," Ponnuru reported. "Researchers examined reusable bags in California and Arizona and found that 51 percent of them

The most extensive study seems to be that of University of Pennsylvania Professor Jonathan Klick and George Mason University Professor Joshua Wright.

contained coliform bacteria."

They found that as soon as the ban went into effect, emergency-room admissions related to E. coli infections increased in San Francisco. It's their study that estimates the ban is directly responsible for a 46 percent increase in deaths from foodborne illnesses.

Unfortunately, there doesn't seem to be any study measuring the number of sea turtles saved per human death.

The difference is that human deaths are preventable if humans would just wash and disinfect their reusable bags. 97 percent don't.

Huntington Beach, CA has rescinded their plastic bag ban, realizing it's just "token environmentalism" with no real effect except more grocery store profits.

One city council member said, "Our ordinance has not had any positive, measurable impact on the environment and has only caused headaches for citizens and small businesses alike."

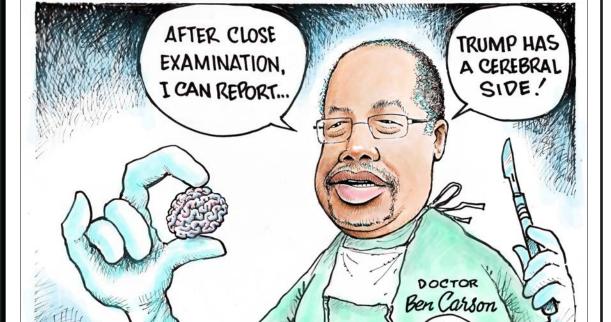

Delaware is considering the ill-conceived notion of forcing grocery stores to charge five cents for every plastic bag distributed.

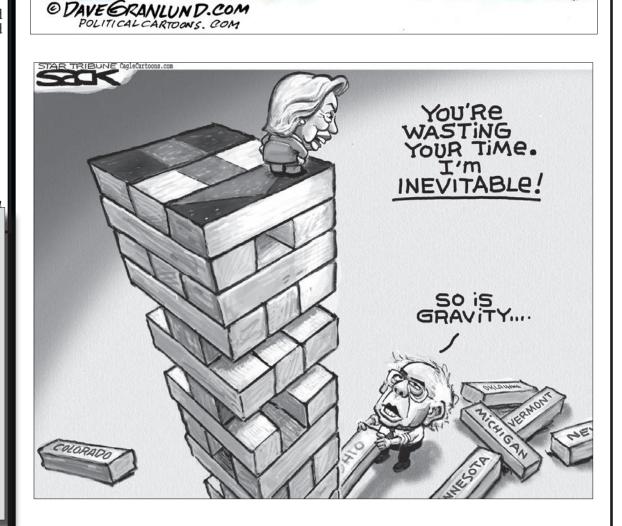

The danger is in having citizens believe they're doing something positive when the opposite is true, giving them a false sense of accomplishment or security, like gun buy-

Perhaps this is to be presumed in a state run by Democrats who think they're so awesome that they have sponsored legislation extending their terms in the state house and state senate by two years.

Americans who would actually like term limits, not extensions, are obviously not currently living the life of the electoral elite.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

UUT A MUST!

Let me begin by being direct: Measure UUT in the upcoming election MUST pass. If it does not, then the long fought battle to preserve Sierra Madre's small town charm will have finally been lost. Is that what the majority of us want? Of course not. However, there is a relatively small but vocal group of us who would like you to believe otherwise, mainly that the City would have plenty of revenue, even without the UUT, if they only managed the revenue we do have properly. Well, I've taken the time to look into this, going over the numbers, talking to people in a position to know etc. and for what they're worth, these are my conclusions.

All small towns like Sierra Madre wishing to maintain their charm and independence struggle financially and always will. That is the challenge and why few cities like Sierra Madre still exist. Ours is a particularly difficult challenge because we're not large enough to generate sufficient property tax revenue and as much as possible we have always resisted the temptation to outsource our internal operations or to allow the kind of businesses in town that would generate considerable sales tax revenue but bring with them the kind of traffic we'd rather not have. What I think most people in town don't realize is that, in the form of various fees and assessments (that we don't have), residents of other like cities in the area pay nearly twice as much as we do just to live where they do. So in our case, the UUT is not "extra" or an "add-on" tax but rather a mainstay of the revenue required to run our town. So any assertion that Sierra Madre has "plenty of revenue" is absurd.

As to the accusations of mismanagement, let me solve that mystery for you. Yes, occasionally mistakes are made. Yes, sometimes decisions are made by the City Council and Commissions that in hindsight could have been better. Occasional errors are easy fodder for haters but I have never worked for a company nor been part of an organization where the same couldn't be said. The truth is that there is no "US vs THEM" as these Orwellians would have you believe. Sierra Madre

Dear Editor:

In the upcoming April election, we have the opportunity to determine the financial health of our city. At stake is Measure UUT. If passed, it would return our Utility User Tax to the 10% level

The City Council held many town-hall meetings to explain and discuss the financial issues. A revenue commission studied and then recommended a raise in the UUT. After considering a 12% UUT, the City Council opted to propose Measure UUT,

Several important things to know about the

It is an elegant tax—all of it goes directly to the is self-governed. Members of the City Council and Commissions are all volunteers from among US and most City employees are our friends and neighbors. I have known many of these people for years and can attest to the fact that they all care very much about our community and work hard at their jobs, often working nights and weekends for which they are not compensated. For those who have made it a hobby to be critical of these people and the job they are doing, applications for all of these positions are available at City Hall.

While it might appear that various City employees have some pretty lucrative benefit and retirement packages, I have compared the total compensation for like positions in other similar communities in the area and we are right in line, sometimes a little bit lower, sometimes a little bit higher but no significant difference overall. All of these figures are easily available on-line.

By far the largest expense in the General Fund is for our Police Department. The NO on UUT folks would have everyone believe that by getting rid of our PD and outsourcing our law enforcement to the LA County Sheriff's Department we would save money, in fact enough money that the UUT would be largely unnecessary. There is some truth to this but very little. Two of the three options presented by the Sheriffs actually cost more than having our own PD and the third, while on paper saves us around $200,000 a year, does so by reducing personnel and operating out of the Temple City Sheriff's station while closing our local facility. What people may not realize is that this concept is not new. I attended a Homeowner's Association meeting in 1992 where the Sheriff's made the same pitch and it's something that comes up every time the City is in financial trouble. Polls show that the vast majority on Sierra Madreans want to keep our police department but can't seem to comprehend that this is a luxury for which we have to pay. If we truly want this, we have to allocate MORE money because right now the problem is we don't pay our officers enough to keep them or attract new ones. As a result, half of them have moved on to better paying jobs and we were recently forced to contract City's General Fund. Unlike sales or property taxes, which are divided among many entities. Simple and direct.

Should the City ever need to borrow money, it will help our credit rating, and therefore the interest rate we pay, to be able to show that the City has a steady source of income.

Everyone will pay proportionately to their utility

To me, the results of the workshops and meetings, showed that we do not want to sacrifice our quality of place or life here. This is a very small price.

Renee Cossutta

out the night shift to the Sheriffs on a temporary think these reductions were added at the time to basis to the tune of around $100,000 per month. We can thank all the people who voted NO on the UUT the last time for this debacle. Maybe at some scheduled, it created and annual budget deficit, point it would make sense to outsource our law enforcement but that's a decision that should made on its own merit and specifically approved by the voters, not something we are forced to do because happens, there are no more cuts to make and we'll the City is broke.

Of course there are arguments being made on both sides of the upcoming vote on the UUT and how to vote may not be as clear to some as it is to me. For those I would suggest looking at the people in support of the two sides and their motivation for doing so. Among those supporting a Yes vote on Measure UUT are many of Sierra Madre's leading citizens, past elected officials and people who have volunteered countless hours and worked tirelessly over the years to make and keep Sierra Madre the charming community we all cherish, yet they are supporting a measure where they too will have to pay a little more money out of their pocket each month if the Measure passes.

On the No on Measure UUT side you have a few business owners and people who own rental properties in town where any reduction ( or elimination ) of the UUT will result in a direct increase in their personal income. You also have a lot of people looking for a more credible excuse for voting against the Measure than the fact that they selfishly don't want to pay an average increase per household of $20 per month. Seriously? By the way, these are all people who can well afford it because there are reductions and exclusions built into the a community effort to win. Please vote on APRIL UUT for anyone in our community who can't.

The fact is: Sierra Madre does not bring in enough sales and property tax revenue to operate properly and never will. Therefore, the citizens enjoying this beautiful community need to pay a little more iust to maintain the status quo. The original UUT approved by voters was overwhelmingly approved at 10% and included step-downs over time to 8% and then 6% in the hope that the economy and the City's financial situation would improve. Mostly I appease the skeptics because when do costs ever go down? When it dropped from 10% to 8% as even with the City making some serious cuts across the board. The reduction of the UUT to 6% is schedule for this coming July 1st and if that have to start selling off many of the things we love about Sierra Madre that we've always taken for granted. The upcoming YES vote on UUT will prevent that from happening and return the UUT to the original 10%. Still not enough (12% would be better) but without this, our City will be in deep, deep financial trouble. The saddest part is that in most cases were talking about a monthly increase per household that is less than the cost of a large

To paraphrase Dr. King who so eloquently made the point; the problem is not those for or those against but rather the apathy of those who don't get involved. If Measure UUT doesn't pass it will be a knock-out blow to our community and those of you who voted against it and especially those who didn't bother to vote for it, will have no one but yourselves to blame. As happened last time, I wonder how many of these people will later deny doing either?

While I encourage everyone to vote Yes on Measure UUT, that alone may not be enough. Talk with your neighbors send emails etc., especially to people you know don't usually vote. We are fighting for our community and it is going to take 12th and if you love Sierra Madre, VOTE YES ON MEASURE UUT.

Jeff Dapper, Sierra Madre

March is Women's History Month, and it's a wonderful opportunity to be grateful for all of the amazing contributions women have made to our world. This year is the 150th anniversary of Mary Baker Eddy's discovery of Christian Science. Because of its profound effect on the lives of many people and her efforts as its founder, Eddy was then one of the most famous women in the United States. The founder of the Red Cross, Clara Barton, said in an interview published in the New York American in 1908 that she looked upon Mary Baker Eddy as "the one person, regardless of sex, living today, who has done the greatest good for her fellowcreatures and that Christian Science itself is the most remarkable as well as potent factor in religious life.'

In 1866 Eddy fell on the ice in Lynn, Massachusetts and was thought to be dying by both her physician and pastor. In bed, she asked for her Bible and read one of Jesus' healings. While pondering this healing, she deeply felt God's love and healing power. She then quickly recovered, getting up out of bed and surprising those who had expected her to die. From that point on she was healthier than she had ever been. Instead of being satisfied with her new-found health, she realized that there must be a law behind this healing. Jesus healed consistently. So she spent the next three years studying the Bible to understand the Science behind Christian healing. In doing so she also healed many through what she called scientific prayer, which is an affirmative prayer instead of a prayer of petition. She viewed Jesus as the most scientific man that ever lived, a Christian Scientist, because he had dominion over all the challenges that he faced. He healed the sick, raised the dead, walked on water, and stilled storms, all through spiritual - not material - means.

One doctor, unable to heal his patient, observed Eddy heal his patient through prayer. He urged her to write a book on this healing method, so she spent many years writing and editing Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, which is the full explanation of Christian Science. Many have have been healed

MARY A. FIDDICK Case No. BP169028

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of MARY A. FIDDICK A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Susan D. Gosserand in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Susan D. Gosserand be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of

THE PETITION requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on April 13, 2016 at 8:30 AM in Dept. No. 67 located at 111 N. Hill St., Los Angeles, CA

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal de-livery to you of a notice under section 9052 of

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledge-
