FORMER MOUNTAIN VIEWS NEWS COLUMNIST, PAT BIRDSALL DIES

The Mountain Views News and Sierra Madre community lost a great friend on Monday when Pat Birdsall passed away on March 20, 2016 at the age of 72, after a long battle with complications from

Born Patrcia Sharon McGill in Brooklyn New York October 4, 1943 she was the only child of Robert and Madline McGill. Pat moved to Southern California with her family in 1952 where they resided in Altadena California. A graduate of Muir High School class of 1961, she first moved to Sierra Madre in the late 60's and in 1971 moved into the home on Mountain Trail where she lived for the next 45 years. She worked in banking for many years before retiring early in the late eighties.

Pat was very passionate when it came to the environment and wildlife. She was also very passionate about issues in Sierra Madre. She loved Sierra Madre and being part of the community. She was a member of the Kiwanas of Sierra Madre and President of the Senior Club. She was also a Senior Community Commissioner. Many may not have always seen eye to eye with Pat, but friend or foe she had the respect of this community for being herself!

Known as a 'fighter' for the Senior Center getting a make over ("The Cinderella Project" as she called it); a fighter against the development at 1 Carter; an advocate for getting property fences that were "wildlife friendly" and much more. She was a constant at city consul meetings.

Pat wrote several columns for the Mountain Views News including "Senor Moments" and "Birdseye View".

Pat is survived by her Son Christopher McGill, Daughter in law Annette Pizzo-McGill and Grandson Tully McGill. She will be cremated and a viewing/celebration will be held on Wednesday March30, 2016 from 4pm – 8pm at Douglass & Zook, 600 E. Foothill Blvd., Monrovia, CA. 91016. In lieu of flowers please make donations to The Pasadena Humane Society/ASPCA.

SUSPICIOUS VEHICLE - POSSIBLE ATTEMPTED ABDUCTION

On Tuesday, March 22, 2016, at approximately 3:15pm, a 14-year old student was walking home westbound on Grandview Ave from St. Rita's School. The student said a white van, (unknown model) drove up next to her while she was on the sidewalk. The student said a male (perhaps White or Hispanic) opened the passenger side door of the van and pointed his finger behind her, towards a nearby house, asking the student "Is that your jacket on the roof" or "is that a jacket on the roof". This suspicious behavior by the man frightened the student, who took off running from the location. When the student looked back, she saw the white van make a U- turn (east bound on Grandview) and then proceed north on Baldwin Ave. Once the student was home, the student called her mother who notified St. Rita's School, who in turn called the Sierra Madre Police Department.

Anyone with any information to this incident or a similar incident should contact the Sierra Madre Police Department at 626.355.1414. The SMPD is working in conjunction with St. Rita's School to make ensure the correct information is provided to the community.

ARCADIA VEHICLE PURSUIT -RESIDENTIAL BURGLARY ARREST

On Friday, March 25, 2016, at approximately 8:55 P.M., Arcadia Police Officers were dispatched to the 200 block of Monte Place in regards to a suspicious vehicle parked on the driveway of a residence, with a male black subject standing by it. The vehicle then left the location and was last seen southbound on Highland Oaks Drive. Responding Arcadia Police Officers located the suspicious vehicle, occupied by a male black subject, getting onto the 210 Freeway eastbound on ramp and attempted to stop it. The vehicle failed to yield and a pursuit ensued on the freeway. California Highway Patrol ultimately took over the pursuit and apprehended the driver in the city of Westmont. Arcadia Police Officers then took custody

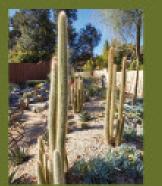

The investigation revealed a residential burglary had occurred in the 200 block of Monte Place. A police scanner and stolen property from the residence were located inside of the suspect vehicle. Suspect Steve Gainer, age 32, of Paramount, was arrested for Penal Code 459-Residential Burglary and California Vehicle Code 2800.2-Felony Evading. He is being held in custody at the Arcadia City Jail on $125,000 bail.

Anyone with information about this is encouraged to contact Arcadia PD at 626-574-5151 or ANONY-MOUSLY, call "Crime Stoppers" by dialing 800-222-TIPS (8477), texting the letters TIPLA plus your tip to CRIMES (274637).

A WONDERFUL LIFE AT EASTER by Craig Hakola Each Easter, my mind wanders back to the place of a lonely hill where a wooden cross was raised some 2,000 years ago. I believe it to be the most horrific thought I should ever encounter, and if not for the triumph of the resurrection and the testimony of that empty tomb, my every tear would contain the idea of how Jesus was etrable places of the heart, his words flourished in such strength they rolled the rocks destroyed.

This Easter, I would like to write about a man

I must admit that I am out of step with the seasons as the man I ponder carries the considerations of Christmas.

In the Christmas classic, "It's a Wonderful Life," the beloved hero of the story, George Bailey, steals our heart in so many eloquent ways. I see a number of shared traits in George Bailey and Dr. Philip Martin Carlson, otherwise known as "Phil," who passed away from cancer on December 28, 2015.

Before becoming a doctor, Phil was a full time minister in Sierra Madre, but he wasn't the type of man who could passively watch suffering and his disdain, for passive inaction compelled Pastor Carlson to meditate on what else he could do to help those who were in pain.

After years of standing alongside grieving families in the responsibility of a minister, Pastor Carlson decided to apply to USC Medical School where he was accepted.

Even after his move into the medical field, Phil was not fully dismissed from the life of a minister, as he remained a popular substitute for the local preachers of his community. His sermons were emotionally stirring and characterized by the manner in which he analyzed, and then explained in his own actions. The strict standard of behavior he so desperately sought for in his own life, was modified by mercy when he began to describe others. His belief in self-assessment developed an extraordinary diagnosis of his own condition, and a heightened sense of grace in his sermons. Phil was not the manner of man to squander a single moment of sympathy on himself. He saved the elegance of those ideas for us. He had a habit of hesitating in those thoughtful moments of reflection as he spoke from the pulpit, and then he would paint pictures of gratitude in the careful color of his words.

The last sermon I heard Dr. Carlson deliver was about our duties to charity, and our obligations of supporting others. He punctuated this powerful sermon with an extraordinary example from his own life.

A young woman with whom Dr. Carlson frequently spoke, asked him if she could speak with him privately. She began by telling Dr. Carlson that she was pregnant, and then went on to say that after much consideration, she had decided to abort her child. In a candid revelation of sadness, she communicated to Dr. Carlson that she knew not one person of decency in her family, and being incapable of caring for the child, the most sensible solution to her problem was to end her pregnancy. The experience of her life had conditioned her to believe that a nobler deed was achieved by ending this child's life than to allow her child to set foot in a world of

In a decided sense of concern, Dr. Carlson delicately spoke to the girl:

"I am going to ask you to do something courageous here and have this child, and if you cannot find a suitable family to adopt the child, my family will welcome your baby."

The girl could not believe what she was hearing, and she became so emotionally affected by Dr. Carlson's commitment to her, that the all of those obstructions that haunted her mind were melted in the miracle of that moment.

Phil moved to the center of the pulpit and jokingly said: "Now all I had to do was to go home and inform my wife about the

by Deanne Davis

Easter is tomorrow! A time of celebration that has a lot to do with bunnies; chocolate ones - yes, we all eat the ears first, and occasionally real live ones. There are exhaustive hunts in various parks for tie-dyed eggs and, if you're lucky and get invited somewhere good for lunch, honey-baked ham. It might have something to do with new outfits, but extensive biblical research has not proven that, one way or the other. What Easter is really about is the fact that the stone was rolled away and there was an empty tomb. As the angel said, "He is not here, He is risen!" An amazing concept upon which many of us base our lives. It really is more exciting than chocolate bunnies and Easter eggs....unless, of course, they were dyed for you by your favorite four year old.

Before Dawn.... Easter Sunday The sky was gray, The world was hushed, Before dawn... Sunday.

The women walked Toward a tomb, Jars of spices in their hands, To tend the One, The One Who died, Crucified that Friday.

The women walked, Toward the tomb, Mary Magdalene and another. They walked, and wondered, Wondered who would roll away the stone.

The sky was gray, The world was hushed, Before dawn, Sunday.

They stopped to rest, Await the day, Sad eyes filled with tears, Sorrow for the One, Who died, Crucified that Friday.

Another dawn, Another day, What did it matter, anyway? The One who loved her as she was, Who changed her life, was gone. She raised her eyes to see the sky, Streaks of pink and gold. And then they saw,

The guards were gone, The stone was rolled away!

The grief she'd felt since Friday, Like the stone, was rolled away! She grabbed that jar of spices, And running like a child, Climbed the hill, To tend her Lord before dawn, Sunday.

They looked inside that borrowed tomb, Petrified with fright, An angel sat there on the stone, Clothed in brilliant white. "I know the one you seek," he said, "Jesus, crucified."

"He is not here, he's risen! He's risen, as he said He's risen! He's risen! He's risen, as he said!"

"Now go! And tell the others, He's risen, as he said! Look not for the living, Here among the dead! He is not here, he's risen! He's risen, as he said!"

And joy broke free... Before dawn, That first Easter Sunday.

heralded a vast volume of laughter from the congregants. As the laughter slowly abated from the room, Phil smiled in his next utterance of speech, "But knowing the character of my wife, I was certain we would be in agreement."

As Dr. Carlson addressed his family that evening, his daughter added to the magic of the moment by bestowing this final thought on her father:

"If only for this act alone, your hours of medical school were worth it."

I have to wonder how many young ladies of the world know a man like Dr. Carlson. How many have the opportunity to confide in such a beautiful pillar of character, and share the secrets of their hearts, when the weight of the world and that formidable mountain of decision stands squarely before them? In that perilous moment of crisis, I should hope that my mother, sister or daughter would know such a heavenly hope as Dr. Philip Carlson.

As I settle upon my seat this Easter Sunday, I shall be thinking about that great rock that was rolled away from a young lady's heart, and I shall give thanks for the life of a child who is alive today and happily gathering Easter eggs somewhere out there in the world -- all because, one marvelous man portrayed such wonderful character that a desperate young girl considered him worthy of trust.

You just don't come across many George Baileys in the world, and from my experience, the Phil Carlsons are equally as scarce. Any philosophy worthy of obedience should teach its followers that if they do not exert an effort to support and recognize good people, then the world will develop less of them.

That is one of the glorious lessons that Frank Capra conveys in the story of "It's a Wonderful Life." The great people of integrity, and those George Baileys of the world, are the ones who sacrifice themselves for the interests of others. If we dare to believe that we are noble and decent, then we best not forget them in their hour of need.

I know the ending of my favorite Christmas classic, "It's a Wonderful Life," and I relish that splendid moment of necessity where George Bailey's financial desperation compels the people to rush to his

Who among the world can quantify the value of one decent person of action? What you and I are able to measure in part, God weighs in full.

The child that the Carlsons agreed to adopt was welcomed by another home, but in the passing of Dr. Phil Carlson, a great financial need was left upon his family, as a child of theirs will continue to require medical attention. In anticipation of those ongoing medical requirements, an account has been established to assist the Carlson family https://fundly.com/philip-carlson-family-care-fund.

Or, if you wish to contribute, you may do so by going directly to Google and typing in: Dr. Phil Carlson, where the website will appear at the top of your search page. The "Days Left" in this fundraiser will show "0," but you can still contribute to their fund - the account remains active.

The family has raised less than what it needed, and I hate to think that Phil's child would not obtain the best medical attention in existence due to the constraints of money.

I hope the story of the Carlson family continues in the heroic fashion of love, but the power to write the ending of this story is beyond my control. It has been given to each of you. The optimistic prayer of my heart is that the decent people of the world will rush to their rescue, fully confident that we can give them the miracle of our love. May God fill your hearts with the glory of Heaven.

Rep. Schiff Commends Decision to End Orca Breeding

"Current Generation of Captive Orcas Will Be the Last" Schiff said.

Representative Adam Schiff, author of the ORCA Act which would phase out the captivity of orcas by prohibiting the breeding, the wild capture, and the import or export of orcas for the purposes of public display, commended the efforts of SeaWorld after an announcement last week, by them, to end the practice.

"SeaWorld's decision to end captive breeding and make no additional wild captures in the future, means that the current generation of captive Orcas in their parks will be the last. The partnership they are making with the Humane Society, with its focus on rescue, rehabilitation, and advocacy on important marine issues not only represents a change in their business model, but an exciting export of orcas for the purposes new direction for the company. In 2015, Rep. Schiff introduced the Orca Responsibility and Care Advancement (ÓRCA) Act. The legislation would phase out the captivity of orcas so that their display ends with this generation. According to Schiff, the current global population of captive orcas has two sources - wild capture and captive breeding programs. Under current federal law, the federal government can issue permits for the capture or import of orcas for the purposes of public display. This is how, in the past, U.S. display facilities legally acquired orcas from the wild. Permits can still be issued legally. All other captive orcas have been bred in captivity. Hotline Targets Fraudulent Social Service

The 24/7 fraud hotline, which continues to successfully target and eliminate fraudulent use of public welfare benefits, was continued unanimously by the Board of Supervisors.

"Fraud on any level is unacceptable and carries with it a severe penalty," said Supervisor Mike Antonovich. "The fraud referral and reward hotline is a vital tool to help catch criminals who defraud our taxpayer- funded welfare programs." The program provides trained multilingual operators experienced in questioning callers to elicit sufficient details of reported instances of suspected welfare fraud crimes to the Department of Public Social Services (DPSS), and receives approximately 1,700 referrals each year.

The hotline is operational 24 hours a day and suspected fraud can be reported anonymously. The toll-free number is 1-800-87-FRAUD or reports can be taken at

BUILDING PERMIT PULLED FOR APARTMENT PROJECT LOCATED AT FIFTH AND HUNTINGTON

Last week, the development firm building the 5th and Huntington residential apartment project located at the southeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Huntington Drive pulled their final building permits. This means that the project is moving full speed ahead and that the developer will be starting construction on the project within the next month or so.

The housing project has been a long time coming and will replace the former self-storage facility with a new four-story, 154-unit apartment complex, along with a small 1,340 square foot commercial space at the north corner of the building. A rendering of the proposed apartment complex is below for your review and reference.

Possession of Drug Paraphernalia/Weapons Offenses - Five Suspects Arrested March 19 at 10:48 a.m., officers were dispatched to a hotel in the 700 block of W. Huntington regarding foot traffic in and out of one of the rooms. Hotel employees suspected possible prostitution. The subjects had also set off the fire alarm in the room earlier in the week and marijuana was smelled coming from the room. When officers arrived, they contacted two males and one female in the room. The female and one of the male subjects are known gang members. The other male is a known drug user and burglar from prior police contacts in Monrovia. The subject who rented the room was not present. Drug paraphernalia and an empty Beretta handgun case were located in the room. The three subjects in the room were arrested for possession of drug paraphernalia.

As one of the officers was leaving the hotel, he saw another known local drug user pumping gas into a vehicle at a gas station across the street. There was a male and female seated in the vehicle. A computer check of the license plate revealed the vehicle was registered to the subject who rented the room at the hotel. Officers detained all three subjects. A search of the vehicle revealed a loaded Beretta handgun, a large amount of methamphetamine, heroin and cash. A total of 5 suspects were arrested for drug and weapon related charges in this incident.

SANTA BARBARA ROAD TRIP

popular adage "if it was easy, everyone would be doing it", so my visit to Lucky's a white table cloth restaurant in Montecito seemed a simple enough task. Lucky's is clear in their mission: steaks, chops, and seafood. Located on Coast Village Road in Montecito, the space has seen its fair share of businesses since it was built in 1926. Not all were restaurants - this writer wasn't present for the Pink Squirrel in the 50's (and is still not convinced that the owner actually had a pink squirrel, but that is for another day), Irelands in the 60's, and a few others after that. By the late 90's the building had seen better days and area residents thought the location had just plain run out of luck. As luck would have it, however, a few Montecito residents gave the building a makeover, and Lucky's was born as Montecito's clubhouse - a home away from home complete with a patio, bar and dining area. I have often thought that fine dining is a dying breed, but Lucky's has restored my faith.

The menu lists wonderful aged prime steaks featuring a 24-ounce porterhouse steak and 18 oz bonein rib chop - for me, the meat closest to the bone is my favorite. A closer look at the nightly specials reveals comfort food that you will appreciate as much I do, like Thursday's Market Street Meatloaf, created and introduced to Lucky's by GM and Chef Leonard Schwartz. Mr. Schwartz has been at Lucky's for eight years, with 22 years in the restaurant business prior to that, and has brilliantly brought some of his favorite dishes to Montecito. Besides the meatloaf, consider the chili with just the right amount of beans for texture (I suggest having the cheese and onions on the side).

On my last visit, I sat at the bar, and had the calamari appetizer with a burger. I don't eat burgers that often, but when I do I want something special, and Lucky's offers an eight-ounce burger made with meats from the kitchen, and the fries are all house-made (if you follow my column, you know I'm a stickler for fresh French fries!). Of course, there are many popular salads on the menu including the house favorite "Lucky's Salad", and an iceberg wedge that is almost a meal in itself. The wine list has many California offerings, including wines from Santa Barbara, Paso Robles and Napa - with more than 25 wines by the glass, there's something for every taste. With so many items on the menu, my suggestion is to come with a friend and share. Lucky's 1279 Coast Village Rd. Montecito (805)565-

THE GOOD LIFE

THE CONSEQUENCES OF DYING WITHOUT A WILL

Dear Savvy Senior,

What will happen to my money and possessions if I die without a will?

Getting Old

Dear Getting,

If you die without a will, what happens to your assets will be determined by the state you reside in. Every state has intestacy laws in place that parcel out property and assets to a deceased person's closest relatives when there's no will or trust. But these laws vary from state-to-state.

A good resource to help you find out how your state works is About.com's Wills and Estate Planning site, which provides a state-by-state breakdown of how your estate would be distributed if you die without a will. See StateIntestacyLaws.com for a direct link to this page.

In the meantime, here is a general (not state specific) breakdown of what can happen to a person's assets, depending on whom they leave behind.

Married with children: When a married person with children dies without a will, all property, investments and financial accounts that are "jointly owned" automatically goes to the surviving co-owner (typically the spouse or child), without going through probate, which is the legal process that distributes a deceased person's assets.

But for all other separately owned property or individual financial accounts, the laws of most states award one-third to one-half to the surviving spouse, while the rest goes to the children.

Married with no children or grandchildren: Some states award the entire estate to the surviving spouse, or everything up to a certain amount (for example the first $100,000). But many other states award only one-third to one-half of the decedent's separately owned assets to the surviving spouse, with the remainder generally going to the deceased person's parents, or if the parents are dead, to brothers and sisters.

Jointly owned property, investments, financial accounts, or community property automatically goes to the surviving co-owner.

Single with children: All state laws provide that the entire estate goes to the children, in equal shares. If an adult child of the decedent has died, then that child's children (the decedent's grandchildren) split their parent's share.

Single with no children or grandchildren: In this situation, most state laws favor the deceased person's author of "The Savvy Senior" book.

parents. If both parents are deceased, many states divide the property among the brothers and sisters, or if they are not living, their children (your nieces and nephews). If there are none of them, it goes to the next of kin, and if there is no living family, the state takes it.

Make a Will

To ensure your assets go to those you want to receive them, you need to create a will. If you have a simple estate and an uncomplicated family situation, there are several good do-it-yourself resources that can help you for very little money.

One of the best is the Quicken WillMaker Plus 2016 software (available at nolo.com) that costs $55, works with Windows personal computers and is valid in every state except Louisiana. If you use a Mac, they offer an online will maker for $35.

If, however, you want or need assistance or if you have a complicated financial situation, blended family or have considerable assets, you should hire an attorney. An experienced attorney can make sure you cover all your bases, which can help avoid family confusion and squabbles after you're gone.

Costs will vary depending on where you reside, but you can expect to pay anywhere between $200 and

The National Academy of Elder Law Attorneys (naela. org) and the National Association of Estate Planners and Councils (naepc.org) are good resources that have online directories to help you find someone in your area.

If money is tight, check with your state's bar association (see findlegalhelp.org) to find low-cost legal help in your area. Or call the Eldercare Locater at 800-677-1116 for a referral.

Any discussion of religion would be incomplete are even beyond the help of Superman. without touching upon environmentalism. Yes, environmentalism is very religious when you consider its values. Don't get me wrong, it is the Christian's responsibility to respect this planet God created and entrusted to our stewardship. One of my favorite pastors, the late Chuck Smith, used to criticize his congregants when they went on retreats and littered. "You go to fellowship with God and throw your dirty trash on His creation!" I'm paraphrasing, but you get the idea. The Bible clearly teaches respect for the land and animals. God instructed the Israelites in crop rotation to give the land the opportunity to rest and replenish itself. There are also numerous verses instructing the humane treatment of animals. However, there is a fine line between a healthy respect for God's creation and worship of the creature or creation over its Creator. There is not much difference between the ancients' worship of the sun, moon, stars, and seasons and the present-day emphasis on celebrating and protecting Mother Earth. Of the groups discussed so far, environmentalists are probably the ones most fervently seeking to save the world by their own collective power.

Even Hollywood has gotten increasingly religious over the years. This is evident in entertainment such as "The Walking Dead" and "The Hunger Games." The long lasting and universal appeal of superheroes in and of itself illustrates the human condition --we need help! That's problem, more accurately, our sin nature. The Bible teaches that the heart of man is deceitful and it. The most promising political leaders are sure to leave us miserably disappointed. Our problems

You see, it is right for us to look for someone to save us from this mess, but so often we're looking in the wrong places. A great evangelist once said that God has made us with a hole in ourselves that only He can fill, and we are restless until we find our rest in Him. The biggest difference between a relationship with Jesus and the other religions of the world is that in Christianity you bring absolutely nothing to the table. You cannot make it to heaven by having your good deeds outweigh your bad ones. None of us are "good people," because Jesus is the measuring stick of goodness, and compared to Him even the holiest saint falls short. Not only that, but once you give your life and problems to Jesus, you don't have to worry about things like saving the world, because the good news of Easter is that He already has! And He's the only one who ever could. Any person will fail to right the wrongs of history, but when Jesus returns He will set it all straight in such a perfect way that none of us can even imagine. And your place with Him there is already paid for! It is not His will that anyone should miss out on eternity in His presence. All you need to do is accept His sacrifice in your place. You do not need to wait any longer for your Messiah --that is the good news of Easter!

If you choose to accept Jesus as your savior you can pray this prayer and He will come into your heart and give you peace with God --today and

"Dear Lord Jesus, I know that I am a sinner, for my sins and rose from the dead. I turn from It's because deep down we know that, rather than my sins and invite You to come into my heart and We may have colleges, the United Nations, and Savior. In Jesus' name. Amen.'

From Montclair to Manhattan and Los Angeles, from Florida and Arizona to Texas and Kentucky, Sales crisscrossed the country, speaking to more than two hundred girls, ages thirteen to nineteen, and documenting a massive change in the way girls are growing up, a phenomenon that transcends race, geography, and household income. How does life work? How does nature produce the right numbers of zebras and lions on the African savanna, or fish in the ocean? How do our bodies produce the right numbers of cells in our organs and bloodstream? In The Serengeti Rules, awardwinning biologist and author Sean Carroll tells the stories of the pioneering scientists who sought the answers to such simple yet profoundly important questions, and shows how their discoveries matter for our health and the health of the planet we depend upon.One of the most important revelations about the natural world is that everything is regulated there are rules that regulate CAIRO (AP) — Radar scans of King Tutankhamun's may have been rushed into an outer chamber of what burial chamber have revealed two hidden rooms, a tantalizing discovery that could resolve a mystery as old as the pyramids: What was the fate of Egypt's beautiful Queen Nefertiti?But he said the unexplored chambers could hold some kind of organic or metal objects. Most experts say that while the scans might reveal another tomb behind the false walls, it's unlikely to be crammed with solid gold and a royal actually investigated, things have turned out to be nothing like predicted," said Aidan Dodson, an archaeologist at the University of Bristol in England. "If they are chambers, most likely they'd be filled with more funeral objects of Tutankhamun, possibly including some gilded statuettes of gods, or perhaps even the mummy of a young child who predeceased Tut.Still, the discovery has ignited massive interest, and el-Damaty cast the discovery as potentially huge. He said the radar scans of the chamber, taken last year and analyzed in Japan, will be repeated at the end of the month. The contents of the newly found rooms could shine a light on one of ancient Egypt's most turbulent times, and one prominent researcher has theorized that the remains of Nefertiti could be inside.British Egyptologist Nicholas Reeves speculates that Tutankhamun, who died at age 19, was originally Nefertiti's tomb. The queen was one of the wives of Tutankhamun's father, the Pharaoh Akhenaten. El-Damaty said it was too early to tell what the metal and organic matter could be, saying only that he thinks the chambers could contain the tomb of a member of Tutankhamun's family, possibly a woman.

Luxor, in southern Egypt, served as the mummy like Nefertiti, whose 3,300-year-old bust on Pharaonic capital and is home to sprawling temples display in Berlin is one of the most famous symbols and several highly decorated ancient tombs in of ancient Egypt and classical beauty." Quite often, the Valley of the Kings. Reeves reached his theory people have done these sorts of scans, and when after high-resolution images discovered what he said were straight lines in Tut's tomb. These lines, previously hidden by the color and texture of the stones, indicate the presence of a sealed chamber, he said. The images were broadcast live on national television in September.At the Cairo news conference, el-Damaty showed the results of radar scans that revealed anomalies in the walls of the tomb, indicating a possible hidden door and rooms behind false walls that were covered up and painted over with hieroglyphics. El-Damaty believes that if anyone is buried in the new antechambers it is likely Kia, believed by some to be the mother of Tutankhamun.Tut, Nefertiti and Akhenaten's family ruled Egypt during one of its most turbulent times, which ended with a military takeover by Egypt's top general, Horemheb. The family's names were later erased from official records.

On the Marquee: Notes from the Sierra Madre Playhouse

By Artistic Director, Christian Lebano

After many false starts and blind alleys, I'm so excited to announce that our summer musical will be The 25th Annual Putnam County Spelling Bee with a book by Rachel Sheinkin, music & lyrics by William Finn, and conceived by Rebecca Feldman. This is a wonderfully funny and surprisingly moving show that had a really long run on Broadway where it won several Tony Awards. It all centers on a regional Spelling Bee and the kids (played by adults) who are competing - in the conceit of the show, a few audience members will participate, as well!

I am so pleased that Robert Marra who directed Always...Patsy Cline and Sean Paxton who music directed it will return to the Playhouse to bring this show to life. Jeffrey Schoenberg who did Patsy's costumes and Cricket Myers who sound designed will also come back. I can't wait to see what this wonderfully creative team will dream up with this

The road to choosing Spelling Bee was long and fraught - there was another show we were really hoping to bring to the Playhouse as the follow-up to Patsy, but we couldn't get the rights to do it (I'll try again next year) and so we turned to another idea. Again we were stymied by being denied the rights to the show. That's when Robert and I went back to the drawing board and came up with a few more shows that we wanted to do. We got down to Spelling Bee and one other. We went with the other one and tried to make it work. It just became too expensive a proposition for us to move forward with - disappointing but a reality when you work with budgets as tight as ours are. So we came back to Spelling Bee.

I think audiences will love this show which is suitable for the entire family. The Bee (I have to find a good short title to use for it!) will begin its I do hope you'll come!

CAUGHT FOR THE FIRST TIME: THE EARLY FLASH OF AN EXPLODING STAR

The brilliant flash of an exploding star's shockwave—what astronomers call the "shock breakout"—has been captured for the first time in the optical wavelength or visible light by NASA's planet-hunter, the Kepler space telescope.

An international science team led by Peter Garnavich, an astrophysics professor at the University of Notre Dame in Indiana, analyzed light captured by Kepler every 30 minutes over a three-year period from 500 distant galaxies, searching some 50 trillion stars. They were hunting for signs of massive stellar death explosions known as supernovae.

In 2011, two of these massive stars, called red supergiants, exploded while in Kepler's view. The first behemoth, KSN 2011a, is nearly 300 times the size of our Sun and a mere 700 million light-years from Earth. The second, KSN 2011d, is roughly 500 times the size of our Sun and around 1.2 billion 'To put their size into perspective, Earth's orbit about our Sun would fit comfortably within these colossal stars," said Garnavich.

Whether it's a plane crash, car wreck or supernova, capturing images of sudden, catastrophic events is extremely difficult but tremendously helpful in understanding root cause. Just as widespread deployment of mobile cameras has made forensic videos more common, the steady gaze of Kepler allowed astronomers to see, at last, a supernova shockwave as it reached the surface of a star. The shock breakout itself lasts only about 20 minutes, so catching the flash of energy is an investigative milestone for astronomers.

"In order to see something that happens on timescales of minutes, like a shock breakout, you want to have a camera continuously monitoring the sky," said Garnavich. "You don't know when a supernova is going to go off, and Kepler's vigilance allowed us to be a witness as the explosion began."

Supernovae like these-known as Type IIbegin when the internal furnace of a star runs out of nuclear fuel causing its core to collapse as gravity

The two supernovae matched up well with mathematical models of Type II explosions reinforcing existing theories. But they also revealed what could turn out to be an unexpected variety in the individual details of these cataclysmic stellar

I grew up with the basic theme of the savior and his death and resurrection, defying the odds of a materialistic society. Jesus is the most widelywritten about topic of all time: What are the facts, life. what do they mean, what does it mean to me, what does it mean to the future.

I felt very much in a seeking mode this Good Friday, and decided to sit in a church where I would sit in my childhood during the 3 hours of the passion of the Christ. To my chagrin, the churches I visited had no services, so I spent quiet time in my own inner church.

To me, the true essence of religion consists of ways of living, survival tools, if you will, that 1. Do not think dishonestly. would help us survive if we'd only follow those

IT'S GOOD FRIDAY, BUT SUNDAY'S A COMIN'

For those who follow the church calendar Good together." Friday is a special day, one of the high religious it is a good one to remember and celebrate.

Overall, apart from a few exceptions, I do not celebrate this every month? like special days. As far as I'm concerned, every day I get up and take nourishment is a special day for me.

Everybody seems to have their own special day and I find it rather difficult to keep up on all of these "special days." If a person would honor done whatsoever. And, as luck would have it on my side, I would miss a very special "special day." I am in favor of setting aside one day a month as the official "special day" of the month in which everything that anybody wants to celebrate during that month could be included. That way we could get the celebrating of special days done and then we can get back to business as usual.

One of the most frightening phrases a husband can hear is, "Do you know what anniversary it is today?"

like this sometime during his marital career. I for one say it is not fair. Because everyone knows special is as special remembers, which puts husbands at a great disadvantage.

It is not that men cannot remember, a man's memory is limited and so he must be anniversaries are simply not on any man's radar.

I learned this very early in my relationship with the young woman who graciously accepted my invitation of matrimony.

We had been dating for around a month and one night when I picked her up to go out, she said something that confused me. "You know this is our first anniversary?"

My confusion lay in the fact that an anniversary had to do with something yearly. I had only known her for several months at the time. I know time gets away with a person, but this was rather ridiculous. In the short time we had known backed into my parked car. Enough said. each other, it was impossible for us to have an anniversary of anything.

It was at this point I did something, although innocent enough at the time, that I have regretted the rest of my life. I looked at her and laughed.

That was when I was introduced to the marvelously mysterious world of women-lore. our sins according to the scriptures; And that he With a woman, anniversaries are not something was buried, and that he rose again the third day to laugh about, at least in their presence. The anniversary of getting her the first Valentines box of candy. The anniversary of sharing our first hot fudge sundae together. The anniversary of giving her an engagement ring.

Looking back over all those years I have a list very selective. And to be honest about this, of my own anniversaries I can never remember celebrating.

For example. The anniversary of when she slammed the car door on my finger. Ha, she probably forgot that one. (I wonder if Hallmark has a card for this?) I still have the gruesome scar on my finger reminding me of that anniversary.

How about the anniversary of the day the diamond fell out of the first engagement ring I gave her? Fortunately, someone had a microscope and we were able, after diligent search, to find the

ANIMAL MOON MADNESS - TRUTH OR URBAN TALE?

One evening this past week, I was sitting on the back porch with my dog "Molly" when we heard a sudden outburst of coyotes yelping and howling nearby. It just so happened that the moon was hanging brilliantly in the sky above us, and I thought how appropriately the sound of the coyotes fit the scenario of the near-full moon lighting up the sky. Of course it goes without saying that my Molly felt the need to join in with the pack, adding her own low baritone grumble to the "looney tune" being sung by our local

Most of us have heard the word "lunatic" often used to describe one who acts in an eccentric, reckless or insane manner. The term itself was first recorded as part of the vernacular in the 13th century AD, defined: "affected with periodic insanity, dependant on the changes of the moon." Do the phases of the moon really have an affect on our behavior, or is this nothing more than just a myth made up to explain otherwise unexplainable occasional abnormal behavior?

Many people do believe that animals (and humans) are indeed affected by the position of the moon, but other more skeptical thinkers would beg to differ. Me? Well, I tend to go by apparent changes I have experienced within myself and those I have observed in my pets, and based on my own experiences and observations, I believe we are affected by the various lunar positions that occur throughout the calendar year.

If you ask Astrologer Dana Haynes about her opinion on the subject, she'll tell you that lunar phases most definitely affect the way we and our pets feel and behave, without a doubt. Haynes has studied animal behavior as it is impacted by the moon's positions for many years, and she came up with a very specific list of the ways each lunar phase affects animals both domestic and wild, as well as how they affect humans. Here is what she has to say about this rather controversial issue: (Source - Article by Dana Haynes, How Does the Moon Affect Your Pet: Lunar Phases & Animals, www.petplace.com). I find it very interesting, and I hope you do to.

FULL MOON - The Full Moon influences the psyche of animals with noticeable intensity. It has been said to increase chaos and even cause the Earth to shake. Veterinary staff and Animal Control keep very busy during this phase. When an animal is upset during the full moon, they tend to be restless. Dogs and wolves are known to howl during the Full Moon phase, while birds become agitated and disoriented. Cats hide. The Full Moon tends to rattle both humans' and our pets' emotions.

NEW MOON - For a sensitive animal, the New Moon, not unlike the Full Moon, supports intention and therefore it is a time to change old habits which block awareness. It is a time to tune into nature's vibrations-which many cats, dogs, other domestic animals and wild animals may do. Animals seem to naturally tune into the New Moon phase, understanding it is a time to chill even though this can be a challenge. The animal's senses are heightened and sensitivity will be seen in each New Moon phase.

SUPER MOON - Unlike a Full Moon or New Moon, this phase is when an alignment of the Sun, Moon and the Earth called perigee-sizing occurs when the Moon is at it's closest to Earth (perigree). Animals tend to be ultra sensitive during this time of a very big full moon. Like humans, the power of the electromagnetic fields during a Full Moon phase interacts with our own magnetic field increasing the ability to sense of feel the stress around us. Animals tend to notice the interaction quicker, as it is part of their survival instincts to stay away from danger or snuggle with a caregiver.

WANING MOON - Waning Moon is a time when sensitive animals will tune into their sixth sense and know it is time to hunt, gather food, and build their homes in order to protect their family and be prepared for the future. The Waning Moon, unlike Full, New and Super Moons acts like a brake. For an animal, domestic or wild, it is a time to put natural instincts and the nesting mode into action for self preservation.

BLUE MOON - The Blue Moon occurs when there are two Full Moons in one months. In other words, the lunar phase is much like the Full Moon and repeats its patterns. The difference between the two Full Moons comes from the astrological sign the moon is passing through, therefore the intensity of one Full Moon would affect an animal's psyche in one area of life and the second one in another area of life. It is like our companion animals and wild animals get a double dose of the Full Moon and its intense vibrations on Earth. But note, emotions are no more on edge than at any other Full Moon.

SEAN'S SHAMELESS REVIEWS: "10 CLOVERFIELD LANE" - A REALLY GOOD FILM UNTIL IT'S NOT

By Sean Kayden

"10 Cloverfield Lane" could be deemed a pseudo spin-off/part of the same universe as 2008 hit film, 'Cloverfield." However, it's never been publicly stated that it is despite sharing the title in its own name. This film, which was directed by the fresh new talent, Dan Trachtenberg, is about a young woman that gets into a horrific car accident and awakens in a shelter with two men, one of which claims the outside world is affected by a widespread chemical attack. Think of last year's "Room" with more thriller/mystery elements. Now the original spec script that sold was called "The Cellar" and it had a very different ending (the last 10-15 minutes). J.J. Abrams bought the script and hired Damien Chazelle ("Whiplash") to rewrite the ending in more of a J.J. Abrams type of film. For better or worse, the ending has seemed to have people become indecisive about it. Personally, I thought the film was really strong until they altered the ending. Instead the audience is left with the same old tired, common ending we've seen hundreds of times before. Does it work? Sure. Is it great? Not even close. We are first introduced to Mary Elizabeth Winstead's character Michelle as she is abandons her new home and leaves behind her engagement ring behind. She is on the road unsure to where she is headed. No dialogue has been used until her fiancé Ben calls pleading with her to come back. After she hangs up on him, he calls again. Reluctant to answer the phone, she is sideswiped, tumbling violently off the side of the road. She awakens chained to a wall inside a small windowless bunker. three-fourths of the film will truly hold your interest Confused and terrified, she soon meets Howard (John and many people will still like the ending—fanboys of Goodman). At first, he seems like someone that saved her life, but he isn't willingly to let her leave. His reason is Nonetheless, from what I've read online, I much rather because there was an attack, an airborne attack of some would have seen the seemingly better, more grounded With no one knowing where she is and her cellphone we didn't get that film. Instead we were given a good having no service, Michelle is stuck at the mercy of and what could have been truly inventive film until it Howard. Soon later, it is revealed another man is inside underwent a last minute procedure changing it to the this underground backhouse. We are introduced to a most unoriginal, uninspired, and cliché ending as they local named Emmett (John Gallagher Jr.) that Howard come by. took in as well. Emmett believes Howard's theory about what is going on outside yet Michelle is very skeptical as she tries to escape a few hours later. It's interesting that Howard would want another man inside the shelter just in case he proves to be a threat. At the same token, it leads you to believe maybe Howard is right about what is going outside as he wants no one to leave or entering his fortress of sorts.

Directed By: Dan Trachtenberg Written By: Josh Campbell & Matthew Stuecken and Damien Chazelle

Rated: Rated PG-13 for thematic material including frightening sequences of threat with some violence, and brief language Release Date: March 11th, 2016

When Michelle fails to escape and realizes something is certainly awry outside, she ends up making the best of her time with Howard and Emmett despite the dire circumstances. She even strikes up a friendship with the two, especially with Emmett and that seems to cause some hostility with Howard. When we find out more about Howard, the audience can sympathize with him, but still be a bit weary of his intentions. With that being said, there's a menacing side to him as well when he's under the impression something is not right. The best surprises of the film come with the unpredictable behavior of Howard. John Goodman is terrific here. He's absolutely a true highpoint of this small time, contained thriller. Like I mentioned before, the genre and supernatural enthusiasts come to mind. sort. It might not be safe to go outside for a year or two. Original ending (that still had a twist/surprise to it). But the latest winnowing of the field, here's hate-peddler whose agenda is built on bluster, a far-right governmentcrashing ideologue who would lose 40 states, and a governor whose primary season record is 1-28.

existential crisis has finally arrived. What does it stand for as a party? Three years after vowing, in an official report, to adopt a more tolerant tone and nurture relations with an increasingly diverse electorate, is it now willing Trump? How hard is it prepared to fight (if at all) to regain its self-respect and retain its claim to being "the party of Lincoln?"

The delegate math makes these Trump in virtually every poll. questions ever more urgent. After Carolina, and (apparently) Missouri, Trump is well-poised to reach the Cleveland convention with a solid plurality of delegates. His loss in Ohio, courtesy of home-boy Gov. John Kasich, is a stone in his shoe that slows Cruz, who's widely hated in the party, delegate-rich states like California, New York and New Jersey.

Within the party, there's still great yet to be committed. unease about Trump. So is the GOP prepared to blow up its own convention in order to thwart After the latest round of contests and Trump? Under the current rules, only those candidates who have won the what the GOP is left with: A celebrity majority of delegates in eight states can be formally placed in nomination. Right now, only Trump meets that criterion. Cruz might hit that mark, but Kasich probably won't. But if the GOP is serious about stopping Trump, Yes, folks, the GOP's long-gestating it could vote to dump that rule — thus boosting Kasich, or perhaps paving the way for a late entrant who didn't run in the primaries at all.

The hope — among saner, civil Republicans — is that Trump comes up short on the first ballot, so that to let itself be trampled by Donald enough delegates would be freed up for subsequent ballots. The hope is they would then rationally assess the race by looking at electability. And the fact is, Hillary Clinton has been beating

Still, maybe a Trump exodus is the his march, but he can still clinch a best outcome — because otherwise, delegate majority if he wins 60 percent this autumn, all the down-ballot swingof those not yet chosen. As excited as Trump's supporters are over his unorthodox candidacy, his detractors are equally passionate about its necessary demise. And with incumbent Senators, other down-ticket candidates and people who just enjoy a party, the Anti-Trump Express has gotten as crowded as the last free beer bus

Chances are folks would flock onboard faster if the welcoming committee wasn't hosted by Ted Cruz. To many Republicans, Trump versus Cruz is way beyond rock and a hard place. It's closer to rampaging rhinoceros and train wreck on fire.

Each rival group has separate concerns. The establishment elites are naturally wary of any candidate not beholden to their help and influence. Especially since more tenaciously they dig in. when discussing their raison d'etre- tax cuts, Trump has been all over the map. All over a lot of maps. Not necessarily English-speaking maps.

All sorts of strategies have been floated. Manipulating the rules at a contested convention. Organizing a third party. Staging a write-in campaign. Exhuming the body of Ronald Reagan. Kidnapping the Donald then substituting Paul Ryan, John Kasich or Carol Channing. And something darkly referred to as "The Kennedy Solution."

Activity intensified after an earlier strategy of the Anti-Trumpers backfired. Mitt Romney gave some silly sanctimonious speech patiently explaining to legions of insurrectionists why they should fall in line and take their marching orders from a loser like him. Wolves have given more charitable speeches to sheep.

What these desperate party regulars fail to realize is getting Trumpeteers to toe the establishment line is beyond futile. You'd have a better shot of herding drunken cats on ice in a hurricane. Best to think of these renegades like venomous ticks. The harder you pull, the GOP presidential nomination at 17% support - followed by Wisconsin Gov. Scott Walker at 12% with Sens. Rand Paul (KY) and Marco Rubio (FL) at 11% each. This was two months before Donald Trump entered the race and ten months before votes were cast at the Iowa caucuses (where Texas Sen. Ted Cruz came out on top). Now we have former establishment favorite Bush endorsing Cruz not because he likes the candidate (it seems nobody does), but because he regards Cruz as the establishment's best hope for denying the nomination to current frontrunner Trump.

Another former establishment candidate,

Sen. Lindsey Graham (R-SC), says although he prefers Ohio Gov. John Kasich, he's instead supporting Cruz, who he thoroughly dislikes, because 1) he has a better chance than Kasich and 2) he's not Trump.

Democrats have their own "establishment". One candidate, after a youthful foray as a Goldwater Girl, has been a solid establishment Democrat ever since. The other, while running for the Democratic nomination, continues holding his Senate seat as an Independent. But the results will still depend on which candidate goes into the convention with the most delegates. With the Republicans, it's instead shaping up as a matter of the establishment determining the outcome, regardless of who acquires how many delegates before the convention.

The term "establishment" used to be reserved for party honchos. The big three Democratic candidates in 1968 were President Lyndon Johnson, Sen. Eugene McCarthy (MN) and Robert F. Kennedy. LBJ pulled out March 31 and his VP Hubert Humphrey entered the race – after missing the primary season. RFK was assassinated June 5; his delegates then up for grabs. There were protests at the convention accusing the party establishment of having seen to Humphrey's nomination, despite the anti-LBJ "peace" candidates, RFK and McCarthy, having together gotten more primary votes than LBJ did.

(I shook hands with HHH at a rally in Seattle that year, and noticed the contrast between Nixon's offering slogans – "silent majority"," law and order" – and Humphrey's offering pamphlets of detailed policy positions. In his one on foreign policy, he predicted that although attention was then focused on Viet Nam and the Soviet Union, in the decades to come the real threats to world peace would come from the Middle East. Nobody then seemed to know what he was talking about.) Especially after the Citizens United decision, the "establishment" now is not so much party bigwigs as it is whoever's putting up the money. The Koch brothers' Americans for Prosperity helps determine not only presidential outcomes but local races and down-ballot

"This is yet another measures all over the country.

A local referendum on the ballot in Plainfield, elites Illinois a couple weeks ago was one the Koch brothers had to get involved with, committing sufficient funds to ensure its defeat. The referendum, the product of years of "focus groups, surveys and public town meetings", called for a 20-year bond paid for by a slight increase in property taxes. This measure the Koch brothers had to kill was for a new downtown library; "new technology, public meeting spaces, classrooms", etc. Now, the folks leading the race for the of Plainfield will instead see a 20% cut in services just so their current library can stay afloat.

This corporate establishment, though, is more concerned with the bottom line than any party line. Disney has joined Atlanta-based companies Coca-Cola, Home Depot and UPS in warning the state of Georgia against enacting a measure allowing "religion" to be used as cover for anti-gay discrimination. Regardless of how popular it might be with the state's Republican governor and legislature, this corporate establishment is letting them know that bigotry is bad for business - and states that condone it aren't suitable to open shop or shoot a movie in. This week's opening quote isn't from Bernie Sanders or MoveOn but from Hope Hicks, spokesperson for Donald Trump. She was reacting to a campaign by billionaires and the Wall Street establishment to see that Trump doesn't become their party's nominee. They had their own fundraising challenges, as members had already sunk $100 million backing Jeb Bush. They came through, though, maybe not so much because of how a Trump presidency would ruin economy but because of how a Trump nomination would all but guarantee the election of Hillary Clinton, loss" of the Senate and now, it appears, maybe even a Democratic House. As to how the establishment got in this mess, you could go back to their embrace of the Karl Rove-engineered gerrymandering of districts following the 2010 census. Then, especially since the Supreme Court's gutting of the Voting Rights Act three years ago, there's been establishment support of voter suppression efforts to limit participation of constituencies thought to lean Democratic; poor folks, students, the elderly, etc.; along with the strategy of "firing up the base" by appealing to fear, bigotry, xenophobia and religious zealotry.

The result has been contests not between Democrat and Republican or right and left, but between the far right and the farther right and the outright fruitcakes. The real races are in the primaries, where reliable "establishment" conservatives are ousted for the merest suspicion of heresies like "bipartisanship" and compromise".

Last week marked the 51st anniversary of the Selma to Montgomery march for voting rights, when Dr. King told us to "march on the ballot boxes until brotherhood becomes more than a meaningless word in an opening prayer, but the order of the day on every legislative

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF

MARY A. FIDDICK Case No. BP169028

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of MARY A. FIDDICK

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Susan D. Gosserand in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Susan D. Gosserand be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on April 13, 2016 at 8:30 AM in Dept. No. 67 located at 111 N. Hill St., Los Angeles, CA

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.
