Walking Sierra Madre...The Social Side

"What could be more beautiful than a dear lady growing wise with age? Every age can be enchanting, provided you live within it.'

Brigitte Bardot

"Angel On Duty!" That's what it says on the sign outside Ann Tyler's lovely apartment, where she's lived since 1972. When I heard that Ann had been voted Sierra Madre's 2016 Older American of the Year, I was absolutely delighted as she is a witty, bright, charming person.

I first met Ann in June of 2014. She had turned 90 the October before and celebrated by doing her second zip-line run in Icy Strait Point, Alaska, located on Chichagof Island, 1.5 miles away from the Alaska town of Hoonah, which is a cruise ship stop between Juneau and Ketchikan.

The Icy Strait Point folks advertise their zip-line as being "the world's largest," 5,330 feet long, a 1,300 foot vertical drop, 60 mph maximum speed, 300 feet from the ground at the highest point (taller than the Empire State Building) and it's a real fast 1.5 minute ride with six cables shooting fearless zipliners down simultaneously. Ann Tyler did it and enjoyed every minute. But this was old news to her, she's done it before in Alaska. Her son told her she had to go so he wouldn't be scared. We won't say who did the screaming, but it wasn't Ann!

Ann's an inveterate world traveler, having taken twelve cruises with her son and his wife. She's been four times to Alaska, all over Europe – Amsterdam, Russia, the Caribbean, Hawaii. Now she has a season pass to Disneyland and will be going there

That's not all Ann's got going...she is currently club in Sierra Madre, which started in 1906. The Priscillas are ladies who meet monthly to visit and Club, past President of the Women's Club and she has been a serious knitter, making chemo caps for

To give you a little of her history, Ann was born in Long Beach and she and her family moved to Sierra Madre the day after the Long Beach earthquake in 1933, to join her aunt. Ann graduated from St. Rita's, spent some time in Jr. College in Pasadena and married her husband, James Bryce Tyler, in 1941 when she was 17. They had been married 61 years when James passed away in 2002. Some of you may remember James was Fire Chief here for a while. James was also Older American of the Year in did. 1999. Ann and James had six children; their oldest died at just 3-1/2 and their daughter passed away at an early age, leaving three sons who came to live with Ann and James. She had 9 boys at the table! Having fed and put shoes on 9 growing boys was probably far more of an adventure than zip-lining is coming up! in Alaska at 90. Ann's cruising buddy son, lives in Georgia and tells her he expects her to live to 100. com

Another son is a resident of West Covina, a third is in La Verne and one of her three nephews is in Ann says that the changes she's seen in her beloved Sierra Madre have been mostly for good. Of course, kids all walked to school in her day and played outside till dark. Seems she was always the daring one, mentioning that she once walked across the dam to impress a boy!

Ann greatly admired Louis Zamperini's World War II story of survival, resilience and forgiveness as related in Lauren Hillenbrand's book, "Unbroken." We also reminisced about another of our beloved local authors, Fay Angus, who passed away this past February. Fay was the author of "The White Pagoda" which detailed her experiences as a young girl surviving in a Japanese prison camp in Yangchow, China during World War II.

A cockatiel added his comments to our conversation from time to time as he watched from President of the Priscilla Club, the oldest social his cage close by. Her favorite job, which she started after she was 50, was working as a medical assistant, where she had opportunities to be a listening ear and are involved with local charities. She's the one a comforting hand to patients who needed someone remaining Honorary Charter member of the Civic to care. Some health difficulties have slowed Ann down a bit, but she is definitely planning to ride in our July 4th parade and is already practicing her queen's" wave.

A reception hosted by the Sierra Madre Community Services Department and the Sierra Madre Senior Community Commission honoring Ann will be held on Friday, May 13th from 4:30 to 6:00 p.m. at the Hart Park House Senior Center in Memorial Park. RSVP to Cherry Liu at 626-355-7394 or cliu@cityofsierramadre.com Plan to go and meet Sierra Madre's lovely, gracious Older American of the Year, Ann Tyler. You'll be glad you

Free, Mars, Titan JPL Science Lecture

Fire and Ice . . . and Methane – Exploring Mars and Titan using laboratory and field analogues on Earth

Dr. Morgan Cable, JPL Science Systems Engineer will discuss, during a free lecture in May, how the search for life elsewhere in the solar system has tantalized humanity for centuries. This search has led us to look outward, towards places that may have life (Mars) or the chemical precursors for life (Titan). This search has also led us inward, recreating other worlds in the laboratory and studying places on Earth that can act as analogue environments to other places that are more difficult to reach.

He will discuss, Iceland, a Nordic island shaped by volcanism and glaciers, is recognized as an analogue environment for Mars due to its similar geochemistry and mineralogy. Through an international collaboration inspired by the NASA Astrobiology Summer School, we have successfully completed two field expeditions to Iceland to test life detection techniques that may be used on future Mars missions. We discovered that microbial diversity can vary widely, even in areas that appear to be the same in terms of geology. This has implications for where and how we might search for life on Mars. The first of two lectures will be May 19, 2016, 7pm at the The von Kármán Auditorium at JPL 4800

Oak Grove Drive Pasadena. The second will be May 20, 7pm at the The Vosloh Forum at Pasadena City College 1570 East Colorado Blvd.

TOM BECK MAYOR OF ARCADIA

By Scott Hettrick from Arcadia's Best

Breaking with tradition, the new majority of the Arcadia City Council voted first-term Council Member Tom Beck to serve as Mayor for the next year instead of Mayor Pro Tem Roger Chandler.

Also at the ceremonial changing of the guard Tuesday evening at City Hall Council Chambers, newly-elected Council Member Peter Amundson was voted to be Mayor Pro Tem. Amundson was previously a Mayor and being termed out two years ago.

sworn in as members of the Arcadia City tradition when making his nomination out of Council by newly-elected City Clerk Gene respect for Chandler and normal procedure,

Both were voted in unanimously amongst the five members of the Council but not until Beck's fellow first-time/first-term Council Member Sho Tay dutifully nominated Chandler to be Mayor even though it was obvious that he would not have a third vote among Beck and the two newly-sworn-in Council Members, Amundson and April Verlato. Chandler and Tay found themselves over the past year or two aligning against the wishes of residents seeking restrictions on the building of mansions, led in large part by Verlato as a resident. Beck and Amundson were more aligned with the movement to slow development.

ADMINISTRATION OF THE OATH OF OFFICE

TO NEWLY ELECTED MEMBERS OF THE

COUNCIL MEMBERS AND CITY CLERK

If not unprecedented, the Mayor Pro served two consecutive four-year terms before Tem has been voted in as the next Mayor almost as a matter of protocol every year April Verlato and Peter Amundson are for many, many years. Tay pointed out this > even though he seemed to know it was futile. Chandler, also clearly recognizing the that votes among the Council were not going to be in his favor, respectfully declined Tay's nomination before a vote was taken. In his public remarks, Amundson said Chandler's decision was one of the classiest things he had ever seen in his years on the City Council.

The selection of Mayor and Mayor Pro Tem came after many presentations of appreciation to Mayor Gary Kovacic from local and state officials and local civic groups. He is termed out for the second time — he has served two eight-year stints since 1996. The 64 year-old Kovacic said he will leave open the option of running again in two years. In a sweet moment to open the meeting, Kovacic's mother led the audience in the pledge of allegiance.

Former Mayor Mickey Segal, who also stepped down as a member of the Council Tuesday after filling in for the past six months, was presented a poem by Kovacic. Segal said he was pleased he was able to accomplish the two goals he had when he agreed to serve the past six months: to revise the residential zoning code, and to help defeat Measure A.

CITY OF MONROVIA FIRE & RESCUE TO HOST FREE HANDS-ONLY CPR TRAINING ON "SIDEWALK CPR DAY" JUNE 2

Training to be held at Library Park

hands-only CPR training on Sidewalk CPR Day, Thursday, June 2, 2016 at Library Park from 9:00 a.m.-1:00 p.m. Last year, more than 17,000 people in Southern California learned how to save a life in just five minutes with a quick lesson from local firefighters and medical professionals through the coordinated LA County- wide Sidewalk CPR Day program.

"Thanks to easy access to training, Citizen CPR is rapidly growing as a way to empower bystanders to save a life when someone suffers sudden cardiac arrest," said Captain Chris Huson. "We are glad to team up with the Los Angeles County Emergency Medical Services Agency and the American Heart Association to bring Sidewalk CPR to our local community. With 80 percent of all cardiac arrests occurring at home, we need to help family and friends learn how to double or triple their loved one's chance of survival."

With each chest compression using hands-only CPR, ordinary citizens can easily provide the ongoing blood flow needed to give the patient a much better chance of survival once responders arrive.

Once trained, citizens are encouraged to download the PulsePoint app, which was activated in Los Angeles County last August. More than 33,000 CPR-trained citizens have downloaded this lifesaving app to receive notifications that someone nearby is in need of CPR. ALVERNO'S SUMMER CONSERVATORY FOR MIDDLE SCHOOL GIRLS OFFERS A SUMMER OF SELF-DISCOVERY THROUGH ENGLISH, MATH, CULINARY ARTS, LEADERSHIP AND MORE-- GIRLS THRIVE!

Sierra Madre, CA (April 26, 2016) – When Lily Murphy of Broadoaks Children's School set foot on the Alverno High School campus last summer for her but she was also confident in who she had grown into as a woman and the new friends she had made. for her first day of the Academic Conservatory for Middle School Girls, she certainly had no idea that she had just found her home for the next four years.

"I first learned about Alverno through a high school night at my school in Whittier," said Lily Murphy '20. "I attended the Conservatory because I liked the school and I wanted to get a feel for the atmosphere and teachers. I wanted to make sure that this high school was one where I could be happy and feel comfortable."

According to her mother, Melanie Murphy, Lily was hooked after the first week.

"When I picked her up at the end of the first week, Lily got in the car and said 'this is the high school for me and I will do whatever I need to do to get in and she did, said Melanie. "After attending the Conservatory, she became extremely concentrated on her grades so that she could attend Alverno and we are so thrilled she is now a part of the Alverno High School Class of 2020." For Lily, and the other students in the Conservatory, classes started in the morning with an Algebra class geared towards preparing students for the Independent School Entrance Exam (ISEE) and High School Placement Test (HSPT). The next classes of the day included Language Arts, which focused on the high school placement tests as well as creative writing and storytelling, and a Leadership class that pushed the girls to evaluate women's roles in government, the media, and business.

"Seeing Lily discuss women's empowerment and women's issues in class really helped her grow," said Melanie. "Her self-esteem improved as she looked differently at how women and girls were portrayed in the media and print. It opened a door for us to discuss issues from politics to magazine covers to music videos."

Following lunch, the students attended Creative Narratives as well as Healthy Lifestyles. In Creative Narratives, students got to use their imagination, personal experience, and background to create their visual stories. In Healthy Lifestyles, students had the opportunity to engage in a range of activities that involved the world of health, including health for the mind, body and soul. "The Creative Narratives class was my favorite class at the Conservatory," said Lily. "I have never really enjoyed Art classes that much but Mr. Lewis found a way that made art fun to me and I really enjoyed it."

By the end of the program, Lily was convinced that Alverno was the school

When asked if she would recommend the program to another girl, Lily didn't hesitate.

"I would highly recommend it," she said. "I had great fun getting to know the teachers and forming a bond with some of the girls that I keep to this day. Through the Conservatory, I got a feel of the school, the way the teachers presented their classes, and because of it I fell in love with the school."

Her mother seconded her answer.

"We are so grateful for the wonderful experience that the Conservatory gave our daughter," she said. "Watching her decide that this was the school for her and that she wanted to improve her grades to get there was incredible. I loved that a door was opened for us to discuss self-esteem and how women are portrayed. We would whole heartedly recommend the experience to anyone."

There are limited spaces available for the Conservatory for Middle School Girls for summer 2016. Courses for this summer include High School Math Prep, Language Arts Advancement, Drama & Improvisation, Leadership, Creative Narratives, Culinary Arts- Chemistry in Cooking, and Online Media and Communications. HONORS FOR DUARTE UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT ATHLETICS

(Duarte, CA) – Honors continue to flow to the Duarte High School athletics program after a successful winter season, including Coach of the Year for girls basketball coach Scott Wiard, individual honors for two players, and a professional honor for Athletic Director Robyn Garcia.

Wiard, a first-year head coach at the age of 25, was named Girls Basketball Coach of the Year by the San Gabriel Valley Tribune for leading the Lady Falcons to the CIF Championship before losing to St. Paul in the final Wiard was hired as a walk-on coach and currently handles substitute teaching assignments while pursuing his teaching credential. He's the son of legendary girls basketball coach Richard Wiard from Bishop Amat, a winner of the same award multiple times.

"Scott has great bloodlines and carries on the tradition of being well prepared and disciplined as a coach," said Principal Mark Sims of Duarte High School. "He's the first to admit he had some very talented players, but there are plenty of coaches who cannot be successful with talent.

"He did a remarkable job, especially with his emphasis on fundamentals and his real team approach. The professionalism in preparation was obvious and he has a great basketball mind."

Wiard talked about the award and advancing to the CIF Finals.

"It was an amazing experience to get to the CIF Finals," he said. "I think it was very rewarding for the kids who worked so hard all year to accomplish

Two of the Duarte players, senior MacKenzie Barnes and sophomore Courtesy Photo of Coach Scott Wiard Patricia Morris, were also honored on the All-San Gabriel Valley team as well as on the All-CIF-4AA team, a remarkable feat.

"I don't think we've ever had two players All-CIF first team," said Sims. "It's a very impressive accomplishment."

Barnes averaged 15 points and six rebounds with five assists and was named the Montview League MVP. Morris is a 6-foot-7 sophomore who averaged 12 points and 11 rebounds per game and was also named to the Garcia was honored by the California State Montview League first team.

Additionally, junior guard Ryley Thompson was named to the second its athletic director of the year for the CIF team All-San Gabriel Valley and second team All-CIF teams. Thompson Southern Section. averaged 13 points and 4 rebounds per game.

Wiard talked about what made his team special this year in an interview received the award at a banquet in San Diego.

"This year proves that you can still be successful in high school with kids from the same neighborhood if they believe in each other and have a common goal," he said.

I DIDN'T ORDER THAT, DID I?

This week's adventure is something that we can all relate to and going out with friends and family — the dreaded bill!

Dining out is certainly one of the delights of life. Disagreeing over how to split a check can be frustrating and downright awkward.

THE GOOD LIFE

CHOOSING AN APPROPRIATE WALKING CANE

Dear Savvy Senior,

I have severe arthritis in my knee and could use a walking cane to help me get around. Is there anything I should know about canes before I buy

Limping Linda

Dear Linda,

When it comes to choosing a cane for balance and support most people don't give it much thought, but they should. Walking canes come in hundreds of different styles, shapes and sizes today, so you need to take into account your needs and preferences to ensure you choose one that's appropriate for you. Here are some tips that can help.

The first thing you need to consider is how much support you need. That will help you determine the kind of cane you choose. The three basic types of canes you'll have to choose from include:

1. Straight canes: These are basic, single point canes that typically incorporate a rounded "crook" handle or "L-shaped" ergonomic handle. Usually made of lightweight aluminum or wood, most of the aluminum models are adjustable in height and some

2. Offset-handle canes: These also are single point straight canes, but come with a swan neck curve in the upper part of the shaft that puts the user's weight directly over the cane tip for added stability. These canes are typically aluminum, adjustable-height and come with a flat, soft grip handle that's easy on the

Both straight canes and offset-handle canes are best suited for people who have a slight walking impairment.

3. Quad canes: Also called broad based canes, these work best for people who need maximum weight bearing and support. Quad canes comes with four separate tips (some have three tips) at the base, they usually have an offset flat handle, and can remain standing when you let go of it which is very convenient

Fitting the Cane

Once you decide on the type of cane, you need to make sure it fits. Stand up with your arms hanging Box 5443, Norman, OK 73070, or visit SavvySenior. straight down at your side. The top of the cane org. Jim Miller is a contributor to the NBC Today should line up with the crease in your wrist, so your show and author of "The Savvy Senior" book.

arm is slightly bent at the elbow when you grip the

The cane should also have a rubber tip at the bottom to prevent slipping. A worn or torn rubber tip is dangerous, so check the tip frequently to ensure it's in good condition and replace it when necessary. Rubber tips come in different sizes depending on the shaft diameter, and can usually be purchased in multipacks at your local pharmacy.

The grip is also very important, so choose one that's ergonomically designed, or one that has a molded rubber or foam grip that's comfortable to

And if you travel much, consider getting a folding cane that can be packed or stored away easily.

When using a cane, it should always be held in the hand opposite of the leg that needs support. For example, if your knee pain is on your left side, you should use the cane in your right hand. The cane should then move forward as you step forward with the bad leg.

If you have to go up stairs, you should lead with the good leg. And when you go down stairs, you should put your cane on the step first and then step down with your bad leg.

The Mayo Clinic offers a slide show at mayoclinic. com/health/canes/HA00064 that will show you how to choose and use a cane. It's also a smart idea to work with a physical therapist.

Where to Buy

You can buy canes at drugstores, discount retailers, medical supply stores and online, usually between $10 and $50. You'll also be happy to know that Medicare covers canes with a written prescription from a physician.

THE GLASS MENAGERIE

Written by Tennessee Williams

Directed by Christian Lebano

Original Music Composed by Jonathan Beard

"No ifs, ands or buts - The Glass Menagerie should break your heart." -New York Daily News

The play that made Williams' career, "The Glass Menagerie" tells the semi-autobiographical story of the Wingfield family, comprised of faded Southern belle Amanda and her two children, Tom and Laura. Tom is a restless dreamer frustratingly tethered to home, while Laura is a shy, crippled girl. At Amanda's urging, Tom brings home a "gentleman caller" for Laura and sets in motion an upheaval that changes all of their lives.

GIRL

by Susan Branch Based on the diaries Susan has kept since she was in her 20s, The Fairy Tale Girl is book one of a two part series. Together the books are an illustrated memoir, charmingly designed in Susan's style with her whimsical watercolors and personal photographs. It's an enchanting story of love and loss, mystery and magic that begins in a geranium-colored house in California, and ends up, like any good fairy tale, on the right side of the rabbit hole, in a small cottage in the woods on the New England Island of Martha's Vineyard. The book humorously explores Susan's journey as an artist and as a girl/ woman, from the 1950s through the 1980s. In the first book of the series we get a revealing view of Susan's early life as the oldest of eight children and the marriage she imagined would be forever; it's filled with inspiration, romance and discovery, and a leap into the unknown. Journey back to the olden days with Susan, to the land of happily-ever-after, where men were men and girls just wanted to have fun. Bring a hankie, we think you might need it.

EGOS: HILLARY CLINTON, BARACK OBAMA, AND THE TWILIGHT STRUGGLE OVER AMERICAN POWER

by Mark Landler The deeply reported of supremely ambitious figures, Obama and Clinton—archrivals who became partners for a time, trailblazers who share a common sense of their historic destiny but hold very different beliefs about how to project American power. Veteran New York Times White House correspondent Mark Landler takes us inside the fraught and fascinating relationship between Obama and Clinton,a relationship that has framed the nation's great debates over war and peace for the past eight years. In the annals of American statecraft, theirs was a most unlikely alliance. Clinton, daughter of an anticommunist father, was raised in the Republican suburbs of Chicago in the aftermath of World War II, nourishing an unshakable belief in the United States as a force for good in distant lands. Obama, an itinerant child of the 1970s, was raised by a single mother in Indonesia and Hawaii, suspended between worlds and a witness to the less savory side of Uncle Sam's influence abroad. Clinton and Obama would later come to embody competing visions of America's role in the world: his, restrained, inward-looking, painfully aware of limits; hers, hard-edged, pragmatic, unabashedly old-fashioned.Spanning the arc of Obama's two terms, Alter Egos goes beyond the speeches and South Lawn strolls, where Obama and Clinton pressed their views. It follows their evolution from

THE FAIRY TALE bitter rivals to wary partners, and then to something resembling rivals again, as Clinton defined herself anew and distanced herself from her old boss. In the process, it counters the narrative that, during her years as secretary of state, there was no daylight between them, that the wounds of the 2008 campaign had been entirely healed. The president and his chief diplomat parted company over some of the biggest issues of the day: how quickly to wind down the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan; whether to arm the rebels in Syria; how to respond to the upheaval in Egypt; and whether to trust the Russians. In Landler's gripping account, we venture inside the Situation Room during the raid on Osama bin Laden's compound, watch Obama and Clinton work in tandem to salvage a conference on climate change in Copenhagen, and uncover the secret history of their nuclear diplomacy with Iran-a story with a host of fresh disclosures. With the grand sweep of history and the pointillist detail of an account based on insider access, the book draws on exclusive interviews with more than one hundred senior administration officials, foreign diplomats, and friends of Obama and Clinton-Mark Landler offers the definitive account of a complex, profoundly important relationship. As Obama prepares to relinquish the presidency, and Clinton makes perhaps her last bid for it, how both regard American power is a central question of our time.

THE DEEPEST ACCEPTANCE: RADICAL AWAKENING IN ORDINARY LIFE by Jeff Foster

How can we bring an effortless yes to this moment? How do we stop running from "the mess of life"—our predicaments, our frustrations, even our search for liberation—and start flowing with all of it?In small venues throughout the UK and Europe, a young teacher named Jeff Foster is quietly awakening a new generation of spiritual inquirers to the experience of abiding presence and peace in our ever-shifting world. His informal gatherings, blogs, and kitchen-table video posts have created a rising tide of interest in his teachings. With The Deepest Acceptance, Jeff Foster invites us to discover the ocean of who we are: an awareness that has already allowed every wave of emotion and experience to arrive. While Jeff delightfully admits the irony of writing a book to convey something that is beyond words to teach, here he confirms his ability to guide us in unexpected new ways to a space of absolute acceptance and joy, no matter what's happening in our lives. Candid, thoughtful, humorous-and deeply compassionate toward those searching for a way out of suffering—this refreshing new luminary press conferences to the Oval Office huddles and inspires us to stop trying to "do" acceptance ... and start falling in love with "what has already been allowed."

MOTHER'S DAY

The American holiday of Mother's Day was first celebrated in 1908, when Anna Jarvis held a memorial for her mother at St Andrew's Methodist Church in West Virginia. Today St Andrew's Methodist Church now holds the International Mother's Day Shrine.

Her campaign to make "Mother's Day" a recognized holiday began in 1905, the year her mother, Ann Jarvis, died. Ann Jarvis had been a peace activist who cared for wounded soldiers on both sides of the Civil War, and created Mother's Day Work Clubs to address public health issues. Anna wanted to honor her mother by continuing the work she started and to set aside a day to honor all mothers, because she believed that they were "the person who has done more for you than anyone in the world."

In 1908, the US Congress rejected a proposal to make Mother's Day an official holiday, joking that they would have to proclaim also a "Mother-in-law's Day". However, owing to the efforts of Anna, by 1911 all US states observed the holiday. In 1914, Woodrow Wilson signed a proclamation designating Mother's Day, held on the second Sunday in May, as a national holiday to honor mothers. Although Jarvis was successful in founding Mother's Day, she became resentful of the commercialization of the holiday.

By the early 1920s, Hallmark Cards and other companies had started selling Mother's Day cards. Jarvis believed that the companies had misinterpreted and exploited the idea of Mother's Day, and that the emphasis of the holiday was on sentiment, not profit.

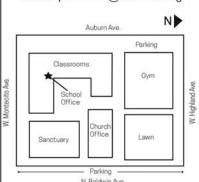

She organized boycotts of Mother's Day, and threatened to issue lawsuits against the companies involved. Jarvis argued that people should appreciate and honor their mothers through handwritten letters expressing their love and gratitude, instead of buying gifts and premade cards. Jarvis protested at a candy makers' convention in Philadelphia in 1923, and at a meeting of American War Mothers in 1925. By this time, carnations had become associated with Mother's Day, and the selling of carnations by the American War Mothers to raise money angered Jarvis, who was arrested for disturbing the peace.

The holiday is now celebrated all over the world

BREAKTHROUGH STARSHOT: OFF TO THE STARS WITHIN 20 YEARS?

No, it's not Star Trek yet, but it could be a way to reach the stars within the lifetime of many of us.

The initiative is called Breakthrough Starshot—a research and engineering project by Breakthrough Initiatives to develop a proofof-concept fleet of light sail spacecraft, called StarChips, capable of making the journey to the Alpha Centauri star system, 4.37 lightyears away, at speeds between 20% and 15% of the speed of light, taking between 20 to 30 years to get there, respectively, and about 4 years to notify Earth of a successful arrival. The conceptual principles to enable this interstellar travel project were described in "A Roadmap to Interstellar Flight," by Philip Lubin of UC Santa

The project was announced April 12 by physicist and venture capitalist Yuri Milner and cosmologist Stephen Hawking, who is serving as board member of Breakthrough Initiatives. Other board members include Facebook CEO Mark Zuckerberg. The project has an initial funding of $100 million to start research. Milner places the final mission cost at $5-10 billion, and estimates the first craft could launch about 20 years from now.

The Starshot concept envisions launching a "mothership" carrying about a thousand tiny spacecraft to a high-altitude orbit, and then deploying them one by one. Ground-based lasers would focus a light beam on their light sail to accelerate each individual craft to the target speed (1/5 the speed of light) within 10 minutes.

If an Earth-size planet is orbiting within the Alpha Centauri system's habitable zones, Breakthrough Starshot will try to aim its spacecrafts within 1 Astronomical Unit (93 million miles) of it. From this distance, its cameras could potentially capture an image of high enough quality to resolve surface features. The spacecraft fleet would have about 1,000 spacecraft, and each spacecraft would be a very small centimeter-sized craft weighing a few grams. They would be propelled by several ground-based lasers of up to 100 gigawatts. Each with a gigawatt of power (approximately the tiny spacecraft would transmit data back to Earth using a compact on-board laser communications only a few newtons of thrust. The spaceship will

ANIMALS IN OUR OWN WORDS

If you happen to cross my path on any given day, and if we happen to strike up a conversation along the way, you can be sure the topic of our talk will be, in some way, related to animals. There is a reason why, after years of working in an office or on a construction site, I chose to occupy my time with the fine furry felines and kind canines in my community. If you ask me, there is nothing more rewarding, nor is there a more prestigious position than that of simply being beside a beloved pet.

I share my feelings and opinions about the quite a character (and perhaps a few other choice adjectives), for the way I refer to pets as if they okay with me. I will always stand strong on my conviction that God created the animals for an express purpose far and away beyond feeding us humans.

This week I decided to share a list of quotes from some of my (better-known) fellow animal lovers, including a few words inspired by the Creator Himself. I often subscribe to such quotes and I am pleased that there have been numerous twoleggers throughout history who've had experiences be as soothing to the mind and heart as deep similar to my own when it comes to appreciating the animals.

Some of these quotes are rather whimsical in nature, others more austere, but they all make a meat, and the time will come when men such as I point that I hope will not be lost in interpretation; That the animals have made their mark in a very special way, in our hearts and on this earth. LOOKING FOR A BEST FRIEND?

Looking for a Best Friend - Yoko

Yoko is a charming 1-year-old black cat who came to the shelter as a stray earlier this year. At only 7.2 pounds, she's fairly petite with soft, short black fur and beautiful golden eyes. While initially a bit shy upon meeting someone new, Yoko is very inquisitive and perks up when visitors stop by the shelter. She's quick to warm up to those who share her affectionate, playful nature and cannot say no to an invitation to play, whether with a string or a jingle ball. Yoko is particularly fond of belly rubs, and enjoys circling around her visitors for pets and snuggles. In the shelter's Cat Manor, Yoko can be found hopping up the cat wall shelves to find a cozy perch or even keeping herself in top shape by tossing and chasing a toy around. When she's ready for a cat nap, she will daintily carry her toy of choice back up with her to her spot on the shelves. Yoko gets along well with the other cats at the shelter as she is an all around gentle and amiable girl. She would do well in a home with other cats or as a single pet.

You need to install a pixel (a bit of code) on your web site. The pixel lets Facebook know what pages were viewed on your website. You can reach different groups like people who visited a certain page on your website or added an item to a cart but didn't purchase.

You probably have experienced this in your own Facebook feed. For example, you visit a website that sells red shoes. You leave the site and sign into Facebook later. An ad for the same red shoes will show up on your

FAMILY MATTERS By Marc Garlett

PROACTIVELY PLANNING REDUCES THE IMPACT OF CARING FOR ELDERLY FAMILY MEMBERS

Much has been written about our nation's need to help mothers in the workplace. Many Dedicated to your family's health, wealth, and benefits, such as maternity leave and nursing happiness, stations, are present or well on their way towards implementation in many U.S. states. With employees working later in life, due, in part, to the rise in the regular Social Security retirement age, it is becoming increasingly important that we start to talk about the crisis facing the other end of the spectrum: America's working daughters, many of whom are also mothers.

According to the Census Bureau, 44 million unpaid eldercare providers work in the U.S. Many of these people are family caregivers: The Bureau of Labor Statistics reports that in 2013-2014, "[t] here were 6.3 million elder care providers who cared solely for someone with whom they lived." The impact on working daughters is significant.

In addition to lost wages, Social Security and retirement benefits drop when women earn less due to caregiving responsibilities. And that's only for the women who are fortunate enough to stay in their current positions. Many must quit their jobs or take less demanding, lower-paying work so that they can care for their elderly family members.

By planning in advance, you can mitigate the risk that caregiving an elderly parent will have on your

It begins with getting comfortable talking with your parents (or your children if you are in the senior generation), openly and honestly about late in life care. When families work together there doesn't need to be a burden, but instead the whole family can create a plan that most effectively uses the family's resources to create an outcome that supports everyone.

We can look at these issues proactively with your family during a Family Estate Planning Session, which is what sets us apart from other law firms which are typically only focused on creating legal documents to pass on financial assets after you (or senior family members) die.

When handled the proactive way, however, estate planning is not just for the wealthy; it's for all families who want to work together to use their resources in support of intergenerational well-being.

"Hey, let me in dere, ya hoser. S'il vous plait, eh?" Trump is also right about America becoming more religious under his reign, because upon his election, people are going to start praying, "like you wouldn't believe." All over the world. The seismic shock caused by millions dropping to their knees on January 21st might crack open a chasm in the planet deep enough to swallow a few of the Seven Seas.

After being aced out by Ted Cruz for all the Colorado and Wyoming delegates, Trump flailed like a boat- bound goose trying to fly south with its feet nailed to the deck, screaming all the while about the system being rigged.

You know what? He's right about that It's finally sinking in - this isn't about democracy. This is much more important: this is party politics. In an effort to keep their voices preeminent, the bigwigs have rigged and rerigged the system like a 30-year-old trailer park sound system.

On the other side of the aisle, Bernie Sanders is hearing similar ugly distortions. He's finding the Dems have rules more shady, murky and malleable than a catfish trap in the Mississippi Delta made out of cellophane. Perhaps this helps to explain why the Vermont senator eschewed becoming a Democrat nationally acclaimed until recently.

HILLARY CAN SHOW BERNIE HOW TO LOSE WITH GRACE

Despite repeated pummelings - four more losses Tuesday night, including a blowout in Pennsylvania - Bernie Sanders still can't find the high road on his mental GPS. He's still steamed that Democrats have the temerity to run Democrats-only primaries (he's not even a Democrat), says he's gonna win in irrelevant West Virginia on May 10 and continue to battle at the convention to the bitter end.

Perhaps, if Bernie is at all interested in losing with grace and class, in uniting with his victorious foe for the most existential crusade of our era - preventing an unhinged racist demagogue from owning the nuclear codes - he will take a moment to read what Hillary Clinton said to her disappointed followers on June 7,

The primary season had ended four days earlier. She had virtually split the nationwide popular vote with Barack Obama, but she fatally trailed in the delegate count. Her delegate deficit was actually far smaller than Bernie's current deficit, but did she whine about "rigged" primaries? Nope. Did she have the gall to insist, as Bernie did on Monday, that her victorious foe surrender to her issue agenda? Nope. Here's a small sampling of what she said:

"The way to continue our fight now, to accomplish the goals for which we stand, is to take our energy, our passion, our strength, and do all we can to help elect Barack Obama, the next president of the United States. Today, as I suspend my campaign, I congratulate him on the victory he has won and the extraordinary race he has run. I endorse him and throw my full support behind him. And I ask all of you to join me in working as hard for Barack Obama as you have for me."

That's the way to do it. You face reality, and eat humble pie for the greater good.

The big question is not whether Bernie is toast - that's been obvious for weeks (he's losing the national popular vote by 57 to 43 percent, which in electoral parlance is known as a landslide). The real question is whether Bernie will stand down in a graceful manner. We're still six weeks away from the final contest, so there's

Right now, however, we're getting the Bernie camp, signaled the press early Tuesday that his candidate is prepared to "reassess." But on the same day the Bernie dickpolman7@gmail.com.

night he's proud of winning minuscule Rhode Island, "the one state with an open primary." He's stoked for "the 14 contests to come" and is vowing to fight at the July convention for the issue agenda that's losing decisively at the ballot box. (Here's what I mean by decisive: In the Pennsylvania exit polls, 52 percent said the nominee should "continue Obama's policies." Only 32 percent said the nominee should "change to more liberal

So we'll see which way Bernie plays it. As an outsider, a western Europeanstyle socialist who merely caucuses with the Democrats, he's comfortable with defiance. On TV the other night, he insisted that it's "incumbent" upon Hillary to make the first move toward winning over his fans. Which is quite cheeky, given the fact that she's the winner and he's the

On the other hand, Bernie has been an inside-the Beltway politician for the past quarter century. If the Democrats win back the Senate this fall, presumably he would very much like to chair the Senate Budget Committee next year. Despite all his self-righteous thunder, he knows how to do deals. He hinted as much the other night, on MSNBC, when he said, "I will do everything in my power to make sure that no Republican gets into the White House in this election cycle."

If he wants to stay in the race through California, fine. And if he stops trashing Clinton on the stump, and hoses down Tim Robbins and his other celebrity dilettantes - that's when we'll truly begin to know whether he's doing everything in his power to kill the Trump poison before it fatally infects this country.

HOWARD Hays As I See It

"Always leave the campsite in better shape found it."

- Something I remember from the Boy Scouts

On a progressive website, an older-butwiser Democrat gave youngsters feeling the Bern some sage advice. He wrote how he sat out the 1980 election after his favorite, Ted Kennedy, failed to take the nomination from Jimmy Carter, while a friend voted for John Anderson. Knowing he can't turn back the clock and undo the damage, he now implores Sanders supporters not to make the same mistake he made once the Democratic nominee is chosen in Pittsburgh this July. On the Republican side, Sen. Ted Cruz (R-TX) insists his tax plan, costing $8.6 trillion over ten years with half the benefits going to the top 1%, would spur growth not seen in thirty years. Donald Trump makes fun of the way Gov. John Kasich (R-OH) eats pancakes. The Koch Brothers have joined a growing list of Republican luminaries suggesting they won't be going anywhere near their party's convention in Cleveland. Watching TV, you'd think election news was the only news - but meanwhile, the Obama Administration continues to make

While the president was overseas meeting with European and Saudi leaders on Earth Day last Friday, Secretary of State John Kerry joined representatives of 174 other nations in signing the accord reached at the U.N. Conference on Climate Change in Paris last December to keep global warming below 2 degrees (C) above pre-industrial levels. It was the largest such signing at a U.N. opening session ever. Michael Brune, Executive Director of the Sierra Club, called it a "turning point for humanity and a permanent shift toward a 100 percent clean energy economy". Republicans, of course, now are trying to block our contribution to the Green Climate Fund, part of the deal to help developing countries with their green technology projects, and they insist the accord won't work, anyway. In refusing to accept science, they remain at odds with the governments (liberal and conservative) of all other developed countries, all the world's major scientific organizations, over 97% of its scientists and 90% of Americans polled on the subject.

As for the tax dodgers I wrote about last week, with Republicans determined to cripple the IRS' ability to go after them, the president and his administration are taking care of business themselves. New regulations were enacted on "corporate tax inversions", where an American company partners with one in a low-or-no tax country overseas as a tax that does set up camp there come January, dodge. Treasury Secretary Jack Lew explained however, they're going to have an awfully economic benefit" of the scam and the related "earnings stripping", where profits are shifted than it was when you to the overseas partner while corporate debt is booked over here - where the interest on it becomes tax deductible. The scams have been costing us some $30-$90 billion a year in lost revenue.

Last year, President Obama warned that "For you to continue to benefit from that entire architecture that helps you thrive, but move your technical address simply to avoid paying taxes, is neither fair, nor is it something that's going to be good for the country over the long term." Seeing the new rules put in place, drug giant Pfizer announced earlier this month it had second thoughts and is now abandoning plans to hook up with Irish drug maker Allergan, and will instead be paying Allergan a $150 million "break-up fee".

As this was happening, the Department of Labor was reporting that "companies have been hiring at a pace not seen before in this century, and wages are rising faster than inflation", and that the "215,000 jump in payrolls capped the best two-year period for hiring since the late 1990s". This report came about the same time as a new Gallup poll showing the president's approval at 53%, its highest in over three years. Six months ago, party affiliation was even - with those identifying as Democrats or Republicans split at 42% each. Now, it's shifted with 46% identifying as Democrats and 40% as Republicans. With all the non-election news going on, the president last week found time to answer the letter of 8-year-old Mari Copeny, who'd written to ask for "a chance to meet with you or your wife" when she came to Washington along with busloads of other residents of Flint, Michigan to be there for the hearings on the water crisis - although "my mom said chances are you will be too busy with important things".

The president wrote back, "You're right that Presidents are often busy, but the truth is, in America, there is no more important title than citizen. And I am so proud of you for using your voice to speak out on behalf of the children of Flint." The president let Mari know that rather than her having to return to Washington, he'd be coming to Flint next month to personally meet with her and other members of her community.

On Earth Day, I think of the "campsite" in the opening quote as our planet, and its admonition as a purpose for whatever length of time we're able to camp out on it. Regarding the consequences of voting, I recall that one of Ronald Reagan's first acts as president was removing the solar panels Jimmy Carter had installed on top the White House.

The campsite could also be an analogy for the Oval Office, with the quote describing a goal for whoever moves in. Whoever it is the new rules would "meaningfully reduce the tough act to follow.

CHRISTINE Flowers

TED CRUZ, THE DESPERATE MAGICIAN

The point I inartfully am trying to make is that one does not put the cart before the horse, especially if one's horse is three steps away from the glue factory. Which brings me to Ted Cruz. The Republican presidential candidate, who is trailing Donald Trump in both delegates and the popular vote, is not only not throwing in the towel, he is wrapping it around his head like a turban and pretending to be a magician who will - poof! - extract a convention victory out of Carly Fiorina's mouth. On Wednesday afternoon, Cruz announced that Fiorina would be his vice presidential running mate in the general election, which he has apparently convinced himself he will compete against either Hillary Clinton or the person who hires a member of the Salvadoran drug gang mS-18 to kidnap the former secretary of state and keep her incommunicado until November. Because, essentially, that is the only way Hillary "Make Sure You Don't Forget the Rodham" Clinton will be AWOL come autumn. She is inevitable. Cruz, on the other hand, is far from inevitable. His numbers, while better than

Ohio Gov. John Kasich's, are nothing compared with Trump's juggernaut. And while the political honchos are still weaving scenarios in which there could be a contested convention and Cruz could snatch the nomination from Trump, those of us who are not hitting our heads against the Looking Glass have sadly come to realize it will be a Trump-Clinton contest. This is sort of like the "Rumble in the Jungle" between Muhammad Ali and George Foreman, only with more testosterone.

When I watched the senator from Texas announce his VP choice, I was perplexed. Don't get me wrong. I think Fiorina is magnificent. During the early debates, she wiped the floor with whoever else was on stage with her, and she held her own with Trump when he went on one of his misogynistic rants about her

And yet, that is an irrelevancy, which everyone except Trump seems to understand. The way a woman looks should have no bearing on the way she is perceived by voters, and I say this as a person frequently told she needs a drastic makeover (so you could only imagine what I'd get if I ran for public office.) Many people have also attacked Fiorina's business record, continually pointing to the massive job losses suffered at Hewlett-Packard on her watch.

But most of those who have examined her history both at H-P and in the business world in general have a strong and positive opinion of her abilities. Furthermore, her intelligence is awesome, and she easily dwarfs 90 percent of the people still in the election (her new running mate being the possible exception) when it comes to brain power.

And yet, it is strange and premature to be talking about what a great vice president Fiorina would be - and I think she'd be a great one - when the person at the top of her purported ticket has little to no chance of becoming the presidential nominee in July.

This does not mean that I don't want him to be the nominee. I'd take anyone over Trump, at this point, including the barista at my local Starbucks who finally figured out my name is spelled with a "Ch" and not a "K." The kid clearly has a steep learning curve, but he's learning. I can't say the same for Trump.

With Cruz, I know I'll be getting smart, and, with Fiorina, I know I'll be getting tough. They would make a formidable team. But the premature announcement looks like a Hail Mary pass made by a kid in the Pop Warner league to his mother. It looks juvenile, amateur and desperate. Or, it could just be that magical thinking I was talking about, where you steal a crown and start parading around as the winner, despite all the evidence to the contrary. And that just makes you look crazy. Which doesn't usually win elections. At least, not up till now.
