LANE CLOSURES: FOOTHILL BOULEVARD BETWEEN MICHILLINDA AND SANTA ANITA AVES, BOTH DIRECTIONS, MAY 9TH - MID AUGUST

Use Alternate Routes

Construction is set to begin along Foothill Boulevard between Michillinda Avenue and Santa Anita Avenue, on Monday, May 9, 2016. This rehabilitation project will run through mid-August 2016 and will include repairs/improvements to the roadway, medians, curbs, and sidewalks.

During construction, there will be periodic lane reductions from two to one lane in both the east and westbound lanes. There may be delays in both directions. The construction will take place during daytime hours. Unfortunately, the lane closures may impact commuter traffic due to curing concrete. Please use alternate routes as traffic will be heavy during peak travel times.

INVASIVE AEDES: IS YOUR BACKYARD A HUB FOR MOSQUITOES? By Benjamin Waswa, SGV Vector Contol

Angeles County for Aedes albopictus since it was first discovered in El Monte by Marc Mitchell in 2011. Since then, The San Gabriel Valley Mosquito and Vector Control District's ("District") field staff has tirelessly battled this significant new nemesis. The District is part of a statewide system of agencies that were formed originally in the early 1900s to combat malaria. Presently they continue to protect public health against diseases caused by mosquitoes. To help achieve this, the District focuses on reducing the population of mosquitoes; its vector control specialists

proliferate more rapidly with warm weather, as Invasive Aedes pose an additional challenge. Even up for each year for an "endless summer." When it is warm immature mosquitoes (larvae and pupae) develop quickly and flying adults are more active, feeding and reproducing more frequently. When there is a large population of adult mosquitoes, it is more likely that they will feed on humans, and the possibility that they may transmit diseases increases.

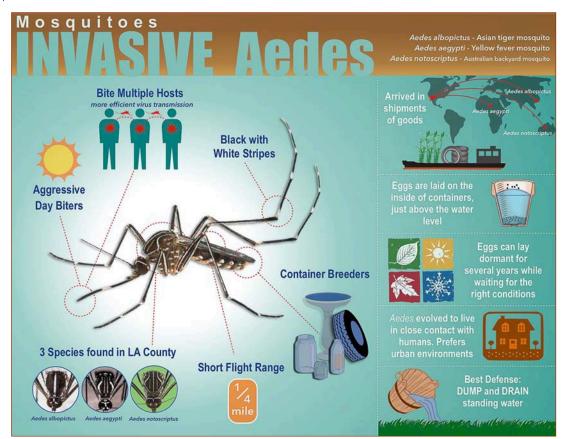

A day in the work life of a Specialist involves implementing an integrated approach to controlling vectors which encompasses mapping larval habitat, surveys to detect mosquitoes, and removing sources of standing water. They might apply pesticides specific for the life stage and species of vector, but most importantly they are educators. As invasive Aedes become more prevalent, to fulfill their mission the District's Specialists are asking residents to also engage in control efforts.

To control invasive Aedes residents must adopt The San Gabriel Valley has been a hot spot in Los a new way of doing things. Invasive Aedes bite very aggressively during the day unlike the common mosquitoes most Californians are used to. They develop in containers of water as small as a bottle cap; this makes them difficult to find during routine inspections.

Generally, when the District's Specialists respond to requests for service, residents are surprised that they have sources of mosquitoes in their own backyard. An unfortunate comment heard too often by Specialists is, "I hardly visit my backyard." "This confession should be a wakeup call to all our residents, because what is biting you could actually be in your own backyard," Since mosquitoes and the viruses they transmit says the District's Operations Manager Melvin Cook. summer approaches the District's Specialists gear when sources of water are emptied, a backyard might still be a 'hub' for mosquitoes because of the invasive Aedes leave behind. These eggs can resist drying for many months and hatch when they again come in contact with water. Thus a conscientiously emptied container must not be left where it might be re-filled by water sprinklers because if this occurs, the eggs will hatch and a breeding habitat will once again be created.

As a best practice, the District promotes scrubbing container walls with soap before discarding them. Finally, residents should also wear appropriate clothing and apply mosquito repellent according to the label when outdoors.

The threat of invasive Aedes cannot be ignored. Controlling them will require a change of behavior, something the District and the residents they serve must face together...

Walking Sierra Madre...The Social Side

"Mama was my greatest teacher, a teacher of compassion, love and fearlessness. If love is sweet as a flower, then my mother is that sweet flower of love."

Stevie Wonder

Mother's Day is Sunday. You've still got time to buy your mom a card and, guys, the mother of your children deserves one, too. My mother (pictured here with daughter, Crissy) is in heaven now and so is my mother-in-law, the lovely and loving Leila Jamison Davis - a woman who embraced me and loved me the very first time she set eyes on me and ignored the fact that I had runs in both stockings and was wearing a really pooped corduroy suit with a terribly baggy, rump-sprung skirt. My husband, the very thoughtful John, told me shortly before we left work that we were going to meet his parents that night with no warning at all. So, daughter, Leah and I will be taking the only mother we have left, her mother-in-law, Elaine Holmgren, a charming and delightful lady of 94, down to the Cheesecake Factory for a slice of cheesecake and a split of champagne.

Exceptional mothers are all around us. Many of them are our own personal daughters. If you know an exceptional mother...and let's face it, anybody who can deal with a five year old who is having a tantrum because her favorite outfit is still in the wash, without losing her temper, is an exceptional mother. If you know an exceptional mother, buy her a card, a flower, a glass of wine and a piece of cheesecake, tell her she's amazing and you appreciate her.

Having just returned from a twelve day visit to Wylie, Texas to visit our youngest daughter, and exceptional mother, Crissy, her husband, Chris, and their two little girls, Jessie and Emily, I am happy to report that East, West, Sierra Madre is best! Wylie, Texas was the recipient – about four weeks ago – of one of the worst hailstorms in their history. In fact, Crissy's pastor at the First Baptist Church of Wylie – a splendid young man and terrific preacher, Kris Segrest, who rode his Harley right up onto the platform when he first arrived as pastor...but that's another story...said the community was thinking of changing their name from Wylie to Blue Tarp as practically every house has a blue tarp on the roof covering up damage from the softball-sized hailstones. Yes, softball-size! Windows in practically every house are boarded up, folks are staying with friends, in hotels and anyplace they can find shelter. However, Wylie has shown itself to be a community of compassion, friendship, and help. Walmart has donated food galore, a local car dealership has made available miles of blue tarp and neighbors are meeting and helping neighbors they've never met before. Chris and Crissy will need a new roof as will practically everybody else in Wylie, but at least they don't have holes in theirs. We may have an occasional earthquake, friends and neighbors, but we sure don't have to worry about softball-sized hail falling on us.

What a weekend we have ahead! The Kentucky Here's something you might not know: Only ten jockeys in Kentucky Derby history have won three or more times and three of them are in this year's race -Gary Stevens, Kent Desormeaux and our own Victor Espinoza – the 2015 Triple Crown winner, who will be aboard Whitmore. Fingers crossed that Victor wins his fourth Kentucky Derby.

Saturday morning is the Fire Department's annual pancake breakfast starting at 7:00 a.m. and they're suggesting a $5 donation. Seriously? $5 for all the pancakes and sausage you can eat? And Coffee? And juice? What a deal!

The 54th Annual Sierra Madre Art Fair, put on by the Friends of the Sierra Madre Library, will kick off in Memorial Park (322 W. Sierra Madre Blvd.) on Saturday, May 7, from 9:30 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. and continue Sunday, May 8, from 9:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Don't miss this. The Fair will showcase 80 artists, including Featured Artist Sarah Moore. Her work is fabulous and I'm so hoping that the guy who was there a couple of years ago with the hand blown glass pumpkins will be back. I'm still kicking myself because I didn't buy one then. There will be music - I'm really jazzed about this: Bravo Celli the teen cello trio I talked about a few weeks ago right here will be playing Sunday from 10 a.m. to noon on the Southeast Lawn. Food galore, too. Proceeds will benefit our own fabulous

Enjoy this beautiful weekend filled with sunshine and absolutely no softball-sized hailstorms anywhere in our future. Good luck, Victor!

Town Hall Held as Follow-up to Villa-Park Shooting

By Dean Lee

Council member Victor Gordo made clear, during a community meeting Wednesday night, that more staffing of Pasadena police officers was necessary to ensure safety in the parks. The town hall meeting was held as a follow up to one he called in early April after a midday shooting at Villa-Park left residents anxious and worried.

"We do not have a fully staffed police department," Gordo said. "In my view, that's the priority." He said that includes bringing back, two Neighborhood Action Teems (NAT) lost to budget cuts. The teams consisted of five officers and one sergeant, "there job was work with neighbors, to identify problems before they became serious problems, including in the parks."

Gordo outline what, as far as safety, had been done since the last meeting

"First there was an internal meeting with human services recreation, my office and the police department," Gordo said. "Following that meeting there was a coaches training with the police and our dispatchers. Some of the issues that came up were the responses to the public when they called in the Gordo said people felt they were being dismissed and that the dispatchers were abrupt, "I think sometimes they do need to be abrupt because they need to get the information to relay to the officers as soon as possible," Gordo said.

questions abruptly because they can be very emotional and stressful thing when people are in certain situations, when you and the people around you can be in danger, so we try and help focus and get the information we need so we can respond to the treat."

Gordo also said there were complaints that officers did not show up to the field where the shooting had first occurred, One of the things that we learned was that's maybe part of the strategy depending on what the dispatcher tells the officers and what the officers then formulate as a strategy to catch the bad guys," he said. Pasadena Police Lieutenant Jesse

Carrillo said "one of the main things we are thinking about is do we have an active shooter, so when we are responding here we're looking to dispatch to give us more information, that's why it's so critical, we're asking for additional information, direction of travel, what do they look like..."

Gordo said the Villa-Park athletic coaches went through active shooter training Monday something he said will be extended to all coaches in all parks throughout the city.

At Villa-Park, staff also will

BOSCO TECH INSTRUCTOR PRESENTS ABSTRACT AT PHYSICS CONFERENCE

ROSEMEAD, CA - May 5, 2016 - An instructor and dean at Don Bosco Technical Institute (Bosco Tech) presented an abstract at the Southern California section of the American Association of Physics Teachers (SCAAPT) conference held at Cal Tech on April 30.

Eric Tom, Bosco Tech instructional dean for Math, Science and Health, was selected to present two labs he developed for the school's Advanced Placement Physics C: Electricity and Magnetism class. His presentation, "Faraday Effect Demonstrations," featured methods for calculating the strength of magnetic fields and a demonstration showing how higher rates of magnetic flux change results in higher voltage. Tom provided handouts and instructions for attending instructors to replicate the experiments.

"We're exceptionally proud of Mr. Tom," said Xavier Jimenez, president of Bosco Tech. "He consistently seeks new and better ways to present complex subjects while challenging students to do

TABLE FOR TWO by Peter Dills thechefknows@yahoo.com

A popular party question is: if you were stranded on a deserted island what food would you want to have with you? What wine would you drink? I hope this island has crackers, because for me it would be champagne and cheese. There have been many articles written (and I have read a ton of them) on how to select cheese to go with wine. For me, however, any food goes with champagne, but not every cheese goes well with certain wines.

Recently I hosted a wine and cheese party, always a great way to try new wines - everyone who attends has to bring a description of their cheese and why they selected it. A couple of pointers on selecting cheese and how to serve it: much like I have said "don't put your wine in the fridge until you are ready to drink it", don't cut your cheese until you are ready to serve it. Cheese should always be served at room temperature, so take it out of the fridge about 30 minutes before serving. Many French wines can be paired with cheeses from the same region, though there are many great cheeses produced stateside. My trick is to find a great local artisan cheese produced in the European style. Here are a few of my selections.

Merlots are very popular right now, and San Simeon has an award-winner that would pair great with goat and/or all aged cheese. I love Domaine Carneros' sparkling wine - it goes great with stilton, aged blues or gouda. Everyone's favorite, Wild Horse Chardonnay, pairs nicely with a creamy cheese like a triple cream or camembert brie. How about a fruity Sangria? Bodega makes a very tasty one, and I suggest a pepper jack cheese on a Triscuit. Yes, a Triscuit cracker.

Dining With Dills 5pm Saturdays M 830

I kept the wine prices under $20, and as far as the cheese goes you can expect to pay around $15 to $20 for a nice portion. San Simeon Merlot is available at Vons for about $20. Domaine Carneros Sparkling Wine can be found at Gelsons for $28. Bodega Sangria is available at Whole Foods for $10. Wild Horse Chardonnay is in wide distribution, at grocery stores including Vons, for $12.

HOW TO REPLACE VITAL DOCUMENTS THAT ARE LOST OR STOLEN

Can you tell me how to go about replacing important lost documents? My wife and I recently downsized to a retirement community, and somewhere in the move we lost our Social Security and Medicare cards, birth certificates, marriage license and passports. Worried Ron

Dear Ron,

Replacing important documents that are lost, stolen or damaged is pretty easy if you know where to turn. Here are the replacement resources for each document you mentioned, along with some tips to protect you from identity theft, which can happen if your documents end up in the wrong hands.

Birth certificate: If you were born in the United States. contact the vital records office in the state where you were born (see cdc.gov/nchs/w2w.htm for contact information). This office will give you specific instructions on what you need to do to order a certified copy and what it will cost you. Birth certificate fees range between $9 and $30.

Social Security card: You can replace a lost or stolen Social Security card for free, and if you live in the District of Columbia, Michigan, Nebraska, Washington or Wisconsin, you can do it online at ssa.gov/ssnumber.

If, however, you live outside these areas, you'll need to fill out Form SS-5 (see ssa.gov/forms/ss-5.pdf to print a copy) and take it in or mail it to your nearby Social Security office, along with your U.S. driver's license, or a state-issued non-driver ID card or a U.S. passport (photocopies are not accepted). Any documents you mail in will be returned to you. To find the Social Security office that serves your area, call 800-772-1213 or see ssa.gov/locator.

You also need to be aware that losing your Social Security card puts you at risk for identity theft. If you find that someone uses your Social Security number to obtain credit, loans, telephone accounts, or other goods and services, report it immediately to the Federal Trade Commission at IdentityTheft.gov (or 877-438-4338). This site will also give you specific steps you'll need to take to handle this problem.

Medicare card: To replace your Medicare card for free, just call Social Security 800-772-1213 or contact your local Social Security office. You can also request one online at ssa. of "The Savvy Senior" book.

gov/myaccount. Your card will arrive in the mail in about

By losing your Medicare card, you also need to watch out for Medicare fraud. So check your Medicare Summary Notice for services you did not receive and, if you spot any, call the Inspector General's fraud hotline at 800-447-8477

Marriage certificate: Contact your state's vital records office to order a copy (see cdc.gov/nchs/w2w.htm). You'll need to provide your full names for you and your spouse, the date of your wedding, and the city or town where the redding was performed. Fees range from $10 to $30.

Note: Divorce certificates can also be ordered from your state's vital records office (fees range from $5 to $30), and divorce decree documents can be obtained from the county clerk's office for the city or county in which the divorce was granted.

Passport: A lost passport also puts you at risk for identity theft, so you need to report this as soon as possible to the U.S. State Department. Go to travel.state.gov/content/ passports/en/passports/lost-stolen.html and fill out Form DS-64. You'll receive an e-mail acknowledging that your report was received. Within a couple of days, you'll receive another e-mail (or letter, if you request that option) confirming that your passport has been entered into the Consular Lost or Stolen Database.

You can apply for a replacement passport at a Passport Application Acceptance Facility. Many post offices, public libraries and local government offices serve as such facilities. You can search for the nearest authorized facility at iafdb. travel.state.gov. The fee for a replacement passport is $135.

TINY BUBBLES

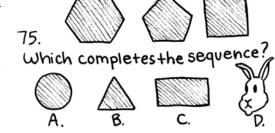

This is an article that I wrote several years ago, before we were thrust into the brave new world of Common Core and computerized "smart" tests. I hope you enjoy this quaint look at what standardized state testing used to be like.

Spring is here! Blossoms perfume the air as I walk through our beautiful town. While this season is a time for celebrating nature's rebirth, it comes with the ominous raincloud of Standardized Testing! I feel sorry for high school students facing this academic adversary; it seems like the competition grows fiercer every year. When I was in high school I had a healthy concern about the test, but I didn't give myself an ulcer signing up for tutoring or pouring over SAT study guides (okay, I bought one, but I didn't pour over it). What did strike fear in my heart was the dreaded GRE (Graduate Record Examination) which I had to pass in order to enter grad school. If you haven't steroids. I've tried to repress memories of this daunting experience, but I still recall the practice CD Rom with its algebraic equations and writing prompts such as "defend or refute the use of trade embargoes." frantically typed while watching a red time clock tick down (because a test is always scarier if it's timed!). I wondered what any of this had to do with my future in Health and Human Services. All's well that ends well, I think that CD eventually found its way into a celebratory bonfire.

had the pleasure, the GRE is sort of like the SAT on

If you have elementary school kids you've probably received newsletters alerting you to the upcoming crucial week of standardized testing. Make sure they're well rested, fed, and at school on time! When I was a student my teachers always stressed having a good breakfast on testing days, but I never felt any smarter for it. The truth is, however, that it's the teachers who are really stressed out over these fateful booklets (Ha! Booklets! How 20th century!). One careless kid can swing the school's whole API (Academic Performance Index), which in turn can taint the district's AYP (Adequate Yearly Progress) report. Next home values drop because the neighboring city's kids did better on this one test, taken one week, targeting what is sometimes a very narrow range of skills. Since this test is of supreme importance, it requires teachers to sign a statement testifying that they've been trained in the handling of test booklets. Every day after school, the booklets were locked in bins and stored in a secure location (I kid you not!). Of course these days it's all online. so schools don't need to reinvent Fort Knox on their campuses. Children's work was stowed away with the same level of protection given to documents of national security (but given the current state of our national security, maybe the test booklets were safer).

Considering the magnitude of this exam, it is understandable that teachers were tempted to become irate when students casually flipped over reading sections, filled in random bubbles, and turned in a seven-page exam after three minutes. While we all hope our kiddos will put their best effort into this ordeal, you can't help but understand why some kids burn out after hours of math, science, writing, and reading about gripping topics such as mural artists and memoirs of a childhood in England during the Industrial Revolution.

One of my Mom's teacher friends is fond of telling about one of her students (nearing middle age by now) who spent a considerable amount of time on his test before turning in an answer sheet with all the "B's" bubbled in except the last item, which was blank. When she asked why he didn't fill in that one he said, "I didn't know the answer." Seriously, I couldn't make this stuff up! Moral of the story: sleep well, eat a good breakfast, and color in a variety of letters (or, these days, click on a variety of answers).

SCAMMERS CAN FAKE CALLER ID INFO

by Andrew Johnson

Division of Consumer and Business Education, FTC Your phone rings. You recognize the number, but when you pick up, it's someone else. What's the deal?

Scammers are using fake caller ID information to trick you into thinking they are someone local, someone you trust - like a government agency or police department, or a company you do business with – like your bank or cable provider. The practice is called caller ID spoofing, and scammers don't care whose phone number they use. One scammer recently used the phone number of an FTC employee.

Don't rely on caller ID to verify who's calling. It can be nearly impossible to tell whether the caller ID information is real. Here are a few tips for handling these calls:

If you get a strange call from the government, FTC and the FCC.

hang up. If you want to check it out, visit the official (.gov) website for contact information. Government employees won't call out of the blue to demand money or account information.

Don't give out — or confirm — your personal or financial information to someone who calls.

Don't wire money or send money using a reloadable card. In fact, never pay someone who calls out of the blue, even if the name or number on the caller ID looks legit.

Feeling pressured to act immediately? Hang up. That's a sure sign of a scam.

THE GLASS MENAGERIE

Ross Philips, Katherine James, Andre Muller, and Christian Durso in The Glass Menagerie. Photo by Gina Long

By Artistic Director, Christian Lebano

I write this the day before we open The Glass I've ever done. This has been a wonderful experience - the cast has been a dream and are doing some of the finest work we've ever seen on the Playhouse stage. Katherine James, Christian Durso, Andrea Muller, Ross Philips, and Jackson Kendall are each giving of themselves so completely and have embraced this show and how we are telling it so fully that rehearsals have been a constant revelation and joy. I'm going to miss working with them every day, but am so incredibly eager to share the work they are doing with an audience.

I've been thinking about this play for a few years and to see my ideas manifested on stage as beautifully realized as they have been is thrilling beyond words. The lighting that Pablo Santiago has created with assistance from Rebecca Hairston is so beautiful, the costumes that Candice Cain has pulled together make the period come to life, the sounds that Jeff Gardner has crafted are so specific to the telling of our show, the set makes the dream world real and thanks to Erin Walley for taking my idea and making it work, the projections of Shara Abvabi add so much to the concept, and the choreography (yes, there is dancing!) of Cate Caplin is sublime. Jonathan Beard and I have worked together on two other shows and his music here is hauntingly beautiful.

HAMILTON: THE REVOLUTION

by Lin-Manuel Miranda Jeremy McCarter Winner of the 2016 Pulitzer Prize for Drama. Lin-Manuel Miranda's groundbreaking musical Hamilton is as revolutionary as its subject, the poor kid from the Caribbean who fought the British, defended Constitution, and helped to found the United States. Fusing hip-hop, pop, R&B, and the best traditions of theater, this once-in-ageneration show broadens the sound of Broadway, reveals the storytelling power of rap, and claims our country's origins for a diverse new generation.T he book gives readers an unprecedented view of both revolutions, from the only two writers able to provide it. Miranda, along with McCarter, a cultural critic and theater artist who was involved in the project from its earliest stages--"since before this was even a show," according to Miranda-traces its development from an improbable performance at the White House to its landmark opening night on Broadway six years later. In addition, Miranda has written more than 200 funny, revealing footnotes for his award-winning libretto, the full text of which is published here. Their account features photos by the renowned Frank Ockenfels and veteran

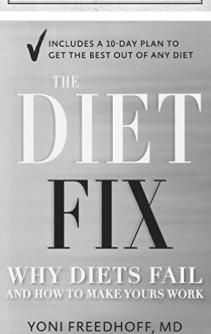

Joan Marcus; exclusive looks at notebooks and copies sold worldwide, The Seven Principles emails; interviews with Questlove, Stephen Sondheim, leading political commentators, and more the way we understand, repair, and strengthen than 50 people involved with the production.

THE DIET FIX: WHY DIETS FAIL AND HOW TO MAKE YOURS WORK by Yoni Freedhoff

Despite the success stories publicized by Atkins, South Beach, Weight Watchers, and others, 90% of all diets end in failure. How can fix the way we lose weight so that we make results last? Weight loss expert Dr. Yoni Freedhoff has uncovered the flawed thinking that sabotages even the most earnest weight loss efforts. The majority of dieting or weight loss programs call for regular sacrifice: Give up an entire food group; fight hunger day and night; undertake exhausting and grueling exercise regiments. These approaches are unrealistic, unhealthy, and make it nearly impossible to maintain results. Now, at last, there is hope. In The Diet Fix, Dr. Freedhoff offers a tested program for breaking down the negative thought

WATCH PLANET MERCURY CROSS THE SUN ON MONDAY, MAY 9

NASA is inviting viewers around the world to see a relatively rare celestial event, with coverage of the transit of the Sun by planet Mercury during the morning of Monday, May 9.

Mercury passes directly between Earth and the Sun only about 13 times a century, its last trek taking place in 2006. Viewing this event safely requires a telescope fitted with a solar filter. NASA offers several ways for the public to view the event, including images on NASA.gov, a onehour NASA Television special, and social media

Mercury will appear as a small black dot as it crosses the edge of the Sun and into view at 7:12 a.m. EDT (4:12 a.m PDT). The planet will make a leisurely journey across the face of the Sun, reaching mid-point at approximately 7:47 a.m. PDT, and exiting the golden disk at 11:42 a.m. PDT. CAUTION! NEVER LOOK DIRECTLY AT THE SUN WITHOUT A PROPER SOLAR FILTER, AS THIS CAN CAUSE SEVERE EYE DAMAGE OR BLINDNESS!

Images from NASA's Solar Dynamics Observatory (SDO) will be posted at http://www. nasa.gov/transit

NASA also will stream a live program on NASA TV and the agency's Facebook page from 7:30 to 8:30 a.m. PDT—an informal roundtable during which experts representing planetary science, solar physics, and astrophysics will discuss the science behind the Mercury transit. Viewers can ask questions via Facebook and Twitter using #AskNASA.

VIEW THE TRANSIT FROM MT. WILSON. Mount Wilson Observatory, located in the mountains above Pasadena, welcomes you to see Mercury as it travels across the face of the sun on Monday, May 9. The transit will be visible at sunrise at 5:56 a.m. and continues until 11:42 a.m. Observatory gates will be open at 5:30 a.m. and visitors will be welcomed into the observatory to observe Mercury and the sun with various solar telescopes including the observatory's 150 Foot Solar Tower and the Snow Solar Telescope.

In addition, the Cosmic Café on the Observatory grounds will be open to sell food, drinks, and souvenirs. Tours will be offered to see inside the domes of the 60 inch and 100 inch telescopes, each the largest in the world at the beginning of the last

A $10 donation at the gate is suggested for this

The last time Mercury transited the face of the sun was in 2006. The next time a transit of Mercury will be visible from Los Angeles is in 2019, then again in 2049. Don't miss this chance to see it.

Mount Wilson Observatory is located 19 miles from La Cañada Flintridge in the San Gabriel Mountains. Take Angeles Crest Highway (Hwy 2) east for 14 miles to the Red Box/Mount Wilson road, and turn right. The Observatory is 5 miles up the road. Part?", "Squatter in children are tended to. Los Angeles," "How to Anywhere," ChristopherNyerges.com or Box 41834, Eagle Rock, CA 90041, or on-line at www.SchoolofSelfthe real meaning of holidays via WTI, at www.

One of the victims of our uniquely "American"style capitalism and greed is the demise of real meaning within our many holy days and holidays. There is plenty of blame to go around for this, even beginning with the marketing of holiday "stuff" by the various stores, the media for goingalong-with the pablum messages, and the general population for passively accepting this dumbingdown of our sacred traditions.

When we reduce what should be a time of great reflection and learning to a time of buying foods and "stuff," we become the victims of our own ignorance. We deprive ourselves of these annual reminders that our lives should be something more, something greater than merely going through some pointless physical motions.

Mother's Day is therefore not alone in the way it has been outright perverted. And this is really sad, since everything begins at home. A child learns all his or her values in the home. We have heard it said that charity begins at home, but much more begins at home. He who is undisciplined at home will practice that same undisciplined thinking in the workplace, at school, and in the community, even though such is easier to hide "out there" than

He or she who practices hypocrisy and dishonesty at home will practice the same in the workplace, at school, and in the community. This is so, despite the defensive denials of so many public officials who want the gullible among us to believe that what they do at home is wholly separate from "their job." No! That's a big lie. The idea that we can think and act one way at home, and another in the community, is absurd! The home is the fundamental "training ground" where one's ideas and ideals and principles can be practiced and tested "safely," and where one can grow and evolve, hopefully amidst a loving and concerned family.

The mother is more often than not the heart of family, carrying on a 24-hour a day job. The ultimate essence of motherhood is self-discipline. First, self-discipline to conduct one's self in a manner that is a fitting example to one's children. what their parents do. Then there is the self- emulate those highest principles of Motherhood.

[Nyerges is the author discipline of motherhood to see that all the "Til Death Do Us physical and emotional and spiritual needs of the

He also participates in the exploring home, eat dinners, maybe goes to a meeting in the evening, goes to bed, and repeats it all the next

> But the scope of responsibility of a mother at home is much vaster than the father's. The mother who exemplifies the Principle of Motherhood is working at a level akin to a CEO of a company, focusing on the education, security, nutrition, and spirituality of the children. The mother, more often than not, is the psychologist and nurse, and provider of entertainment and stimulating mental activities. Of course, all this is taking place while the mother must put many of her personal desires on the back burner.

> The point that is lost on so many of us today is that we have confused "the Principle of Motherhood" with a female body who has given birth to at least one child. This is a serious error in our thinking. The Principle of Motherhood is a Universal Principle, which means it's there to be studied and learned by anyone, including men (actually, especially men). The principles of motherhood can and should be studied, and practiced by all. It begins with a way of thinking, a way of taking responsibility, a way of embracing, a way of loving. Men are the most deficient in motherhood principles because they have been duped (by their peers, by society, by themselves) into thinking that since they reside in male bodies, they needn't be concerned about that female stuff. Men attempting to learn the principles of Motherhood create balanced and stronger men. This is equally true for women attempting to learn and apply the principles of Fatherhood.

Men perform spiritual violence upon our beloved mothers when we fall for the grossest Mother's Day marketing campaigns -- such as buying chocolates, sexy underwear, perfume, or jewelry. (Did you already do that? Well, there's always next year!)

We have attempted for years to explore the real underlying meanings of each holiday and Holy day, and this effort has opened our eyes to how ignorant we have all chosen to become. Becoming part of the solution to this problem may seem difficult and socially-unacceptable. Though picnics and heart-felt hand-written cards have their place, it is also good to take the time on Mother's Day to recognize and honor After all, children "learn" the most from watching our mothers, and to find ways that all of us can

LAYING MY MOTHER'S DAY CARDS ON THE TABLE

That being said, there is only one area of my life where I indulge in a certain amount of gambling. That area is Mother's Day cards. I am at a complete loss when it comes to this and knows not what I doeth.

Now part of my quandary is in the loose interpretation of Mother's Day. When we celebrate Mother's Day, who in the world are we celebrating?

I can remember when the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage and Yours Truly were first married. It was so long ago that I do not have enough fingers or toes to count it. When we were first married, we bought two Mother's Day cards; one for her mother and one for my mother. Oh, how I long for those simple days.

A little over a year after we were married a little tyke came into our lowly domicile. Our first daughter was born in the month of August and I really did not understand the significance of it until the following Mother's world was I roped into buying a Mother's Day card for my wife? After all, she is not my mother. And I do not know how many times I have reminded her of that very fact.

I was conned into buying that Mother's Day card for my wife by thinking that I was buying it for my daughter to give to her mother. I am not sure I am buying that story. I bought the card, all right, and when I gave it to my daughter; she immediately put it in her mouth. She had no idea what in the world a Mother's Day card was.

Several years later, we had a new addition to our family. Our son was born.

Now I have more Mother's Day cards to buy. One for my mother, one for my wife's mother, one for my daughter to give to her mother and one for my son to give to his mother. These Mother's Day cards are getting to be rather

I once suggested that I buy one Mother's because I am a Pennsylvania Dutchman; at Day card for my three children to give to their mother. I was quickly and soundly outvoted on that issue. And so, I begin saving up my allowance right after Christmas for my Mother's Day card extravaganza.

If this was not bad enough, each Mother's Day card has to be specifically chosen in respect to the person who is giving it. That person, not being me. How many times and how many different ways can you say "Happy Mother's Day?"

I thought I had reached the height of my Mother's Day card purchasing, but then in a few years it took on a different perspective.

Not only was I to buy all of these Mother's Day cards, but I was to take the respective children along with me and allow them to personally pick out the card they wanted to give to their mother. And of course, their mother could not be along to supervise these purchases. Taking two toddlers and one semitoddler into a store to select appropriate Mother's Day cards is as close as I have ever come to gambling away my fortune.

Between the three of them, they had each boiled down their choice to 97 cards. Of course the youngest just grabbed as many as she possibly could. The two oldest had to look Now what I want to know is how in the at each card and discuss the contents, meaning of course, I had to read each card to them. Not once, but over and over again.

> Looking back on that time I realize that my children had an ingenious strategy all worked out. After four hours of going through all of these cards I would say to them, "If you pick a card right now I'll take you all to get some ice cream.'

Now, those children are all grown up and married which has added to my long list of Mother's Day card purchases.

Solomon had it right when he wrote, "Many daughters have done virtuously, but thou excellest them all. Favour is deceitful, and beauty is vain: but a woman that feareth the LORD, she shall be praised" (Proverbs 31:29-

Of all the thousands of Mother's Day cards I have purchased throughout the years, I must honestly confess they have all been worth it.

KIDS AND CANINES

I always enjoy visiting my step-daughter, Miriah and her family at the beach in Leucadia, near Encinitas in San Diego County. Miriah and Dan have two precious little girls; 8-year-old Isla, and her 6-year-old little sister, Cora. It is always a delight for "Grampa" and "Grandy" to spend time with the girls, to as you can well imagine. I recall spending one particular Saturday with them back when the girls were toddlers. The guys spent much of the day working on one of the home improvement projects they had underway, him to the baby. The crate should not be in the while we 4 girls played the day away!

The weather was gorgeous and the children were full of energy and entertaining antics, as they typically are. As we sat on the front porch, soaking up the sun and watching the little ones color beautiful works of art on construction paper, "Maverick", their medium-sized black Lab mix wove in and out between them with remarkably casual nonchalance. Every now and then he'd stop and plant a big wet kiss on one of the girls' cheeks and allow them to yank his tail and pull his ears with no fear or concern.

Maverick never snaps or growls at the girls, and he seems to really enjoy their company. As I watched them interact so comfortably with Maverick, I realized how much they adore that dog. At a very early age, Cora was especially fond of Maverick, bursting into laughter each time he'd come near her, reaching out to pet him and calling out for his attention as he'd walk by.

This came as no surprise to me, because both Isla and Cora have known Maverick since the day they were born. Maverick is an unusually sweet and friendly dog. He seems to understand that infants and toddlers are to be handled with "kid gloves". He is careful not to be aggressive when he plays with the girls. When they were infants, he'd lay outside their bedroom while they napped, as if he'd appointed himself their personal guardian, there to protect them from family dog to this day.

In his article, "Introducing Dogs and Babies", author Ed Frawley writes that many dogs can learn to live with babies while others cannot. Frawley has been raising German Shepherds and training them for law enforcement since 1978. Although he is an expert dog trainer and handler, his basic philosophy is that "dog training is not rocket science, it is pretty much just common sense".

I find that refreshing and encouraging, as I apply the same philosophy with the dogs I walk and sit for my clients. On the subject of introducing dogs to newborns, Frawley provides 7 tips to help parents facilitate the process in a

- 1 The dog should be trained well enough that when you tell him to lay down, he will do so and stay there.
- 2 Crate train the dog before introducing bedroom or next to the crib where the baby
- 3 Never allow the dog in the baby's bedroom, even when you are present.
- 4 Do not allow the dog to be near the baby without supervision, even for a short time.
- 5 Before the baby comes home, wrap a doll in a blanket with the child's scent on it, and lay it on the floor. Correct the dog each time he attempts to go near the doll, even if only to smell it.
- 6 When the baby comes home from the hospital, mom should greet the dog first without
- 7 Homecoming should be a peaceful experience with the dog in a "down-stay" position several feet from where baby and mother are

There are many other things to consider when introducing a newborn baby to the family dog, but these seven points are a good place to start. When the baby grows old enough to understand, he or she should be taught to approach other dogs with caution. They should always ask the owner before petting a dog they do not know. This is especially true when the dog is on it's own turf, whether it be in the home, in the yard or in a car.

I was raised with dogs from birth and I think that is why I love them so much as an adult. I am no expert, but I believe that small children who have close canine companions are more likely to develop harm's way. It warms my heart to know that the healthy social skills at an early age. These are the kinds of lessons that come Not all dogs are as friendly as Maverick, and not with experience, not from textbooks or teachers. all are capable of interacting so gently with small children, but when the kid & canine relationship family dog can indeed play a very important part in

PRINCE'S DEATH HOLDS VALUABLE ESTATE PLANNING LESSONS

The untimely death of superstar Prince has brought an important issue to American living rooms: estate planning. If current reports are correct that Prince died without a will, state law and the Court system will dictate who controls and inherits his sizeable estate. It is also likely that taxing entities will take a bigger bite out of his estate - costing his family millions, unnecessarily -- before anyone inherits anything. All of this could have been avoided, however, and that's an important lesson for you and

Prince died on Thursday, April 21, at the age of 57, in Carver County, Minnesota. He is survived by a sister, Tyka Nelson, and six half-siblings. Prince was predeceased by both of his parents and two of his half-siblings. He was divorced twice and had no administrator to handle Prince's affairs until a personal administrator could be appointed. In response, a judge appointed a banking affiliate to serve as a temporary administrator.

When someone passes away without a will, they are said to have died "intestate." When this happens, state law directs the distribution of the person's property, known as the "estate" through a process called probate. And, it's up to the Court to decide who controls the estate.

If Prince indeed died without a will or a trust, Minnesota statutes will result in his siblings dividing his estate, including his half-siblings. This may or may not be what Prince would have wanted, had he made provisions himself. But of course we will never know what he would have wanted. And, his estate is likely to be overseen by a paid executor, instead of a family member or friend he could have chosen.

So, what does this mean for you?

Just like Prince, if you do not get your estate planning handled, your family will get stuck in Court and could very well end up in conflict as well. It's an unnecessary expense to your family, causes additional heartache and grief, and drags out for a long time. The good news is that it's totally

RAGING MODERATE by WILL Durst

LUCIFER IN THE HOUSE

One of the oddest moments in a presidential campaign filled brim-spillingly with them is the sight of the Republican Party struggling to rally around the man looking more and more like its presumptive nominee, Donald J. Trump. Perhaps "rally" is too strong of a word. More of a depressed dawdle. A lackluster loiter. Melancholy mosey. Crematory crawl.

The party is exhibiting all the enthusiasm of a condemned man walking barefoot to the gallows up 13 steps of broken glass. Like an eight-year old forced to rip a switch off a birch tree prior to a paternal spanking. A film critic trudging through the lobby of a multiplex for a preview of the next Transformers movie.

It's a shame that Elizabeth Kubler-Ross died a decade ago, and can't witness all five of her "Stages of Grief" being spun out at the same time. Depending on where you look, the GOP can be seen going through denial, anger, bargaining, depression and a reluctant acceptance. She could even update her classic with new stages: dejection, mortification, suicidal gloom, self-immolation and eye gouging panic.

Politicos traditionally resist change, but the way party regulars are dragging their feet on the path to partner with Trump you'd swear they were wearing cement galoshes. Encased in lead. Dragging super-gravity anvils. There's no jumping onto this bleak bandwagon. More like slithering on surreptitiously from the shadows praying that friends and family aren't paying attention.

A large faction of Republicans still cling to the desperate hope the New York businessman can be denied the nomination, but in order to do so, different factions need to combine forces. The problem is they don't get along. It's a classic example of the hyena and lion planning to take down the elephant, but becoming way too occupied trying to eat each other. From Aesop.

Ted Cruz and John Kasich's campaigns reached a tentative agreement to clear their prospective lanes in Indiana and Oregon, but that non-aggression pact had a shorter life than a box of cupcakes in a pre- school, day-care center after a fivemile hike. Snowflakes in hell last longer.

To double down on the fires of perdition analogy, former Speaker of the House, John Boehner, called Cruz "Lucifer in the flesh." Which led another Republican Congressman, Peter King of New York, to argue the comparison was unfair to Lucifer. "Wave your hands in the air like you just don't care. Lucifer in the house." Or rather, the Senate.

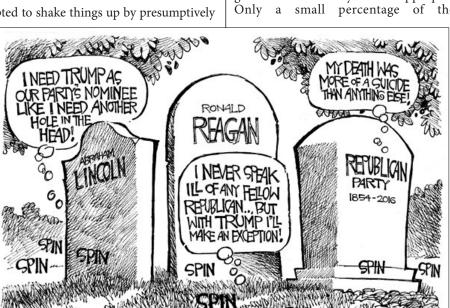

Ignoring the insults, Ted Cruz attempted to shake things up by presumptively choosing a running mate, which is student picking Adele to sing the theme song of their future prime time network television interview show. The move seemed designed to match Trump's failed businessman card and raise him a failed woman card. But alas, to say that Carly Fiorina's slot on the ticket didn't create a lot of buzz is like saying there weren't a lot of sequined pajamas at the White House Correspondents Dinner. To their credit though, you have to admit that both Ted Cruz and Donald Trump do incite passion. Then again, so does flesh eating bacteria. With Trump, people either love him or hate him. Whereas with Cruz, the differences narrow to either hate or an intense dislike.

out there who are so using what bathroom and what plumbing they've got downtown newsflash: You're the weirdos."

- Stephen Colbert In the seven years I've been writing this column,

I've covered a number of topics - and I appreciate Susan's having given me free reign in placing no limits on the scope of topics deemed appropriate. I don't think she ever would have anticipated, though, my devoting a column to the subject of going to the bathroom.

I visit the bathroom about as often as most people do. I also find it a nice place to read a newspaper article or work on a crossword puzzle.

As for whether I've ever shared a public restroom with a transgendered person, my answer would be – probably. The honest answer to that question for most people would be probably. We don't know for sure. Besides, we use public restrooms for reasons other than to show off, or look for, whatever evidence might answer that question one way or the other.

In enacting voter suppression laws, Republicans rationalize them as a means of combatting the problem of voter fraud - a problem that doesn't exist. Though some have admitted their purpose is to suppress votes of those tending to lean Democratic, the official line is that they instead are some solution to a non-existent problem.

In a number of states in the South and Midwest, there have been efforts to combat another "problem" that doesn't exist – the threat to the public at large should transgendered people be allowed to use whatever restroom they feel comfortable in. With "voter fraud", it's easy to see the purpose behind the actions. With the promotion of this bathroom hysteria, however, it's harder to tell what's behind it. Perhaps now that bigotry against gays (even under the guise of "religious freedom") is becoming unacceptable most everywhere, there has to be a new group of people to be afraid of and creeped-out by. When a politician or party has no positive message to offer, the tried-and-true alternative is to promote some diversionary fear of whatever minority group might serve the purpose.

This particular crusade can be traced back to our nation's fourth-largest city passing its Houston Equal Rights Ordinance in 2014; banning discrimination in employment, housing, city services, public accommodations, etc. based on race, sex, religion, disability and other factors including "gender identity". Many Texans resisted this attempt to curtail their right to discriminate, and filed a lawsuit to have the ordinance either repealed or subject to a popular

Standing for the right to discriminate wouldn't be much of a campaign slogan, so to fire up the base opponents somehow managed to transform it into an issue of creepy guys following wives and daughters into the ladies' room. "No one's rights should be subject to a popular vote",

"To all those lawmakers argued Houston Mayor Annise Parker (D); but they were – with voters overturning the nonobsessed with who's discrimination ordinance late last year.

In February, the city of Charlotte passed its own anti-discrimination ordinance. The Republican North Carolina legislature responded the next month by not only nullifying the Charlotte law, but prohibiting other localities with similar ideas from enacting their own protections against discrimination. The legislation also requires that the restroom one uses must match the gender identified on one's birth certificate - a document that transgendered people should presumably now have with them whenever anticipating they might have to go when not at home.

A week ago, the town of Oxford, Alabama made visiting a public restroom other than one designated for one's original gender a crime punishable by up to six months in prison.

In Kansas, its Republican legislature not only banned students in public schools and universities from using restrooms not matching their birth gender, but offers a $2,500 bounty to students, to be paid by the school, for each and every time they catch someone doing so. This is in addition to "monetary damages for all psychological, emotional and physical harm suffered as a result". The move in Kansas followed Target's announcement that its customers would be welcome to use whatever "restroom or fitting room that corresponds to their gender identity. That announcement really brought out the weirdos. Customers simply doing their shopping in Target stores throughout the country were creeped-out by loud, in-your-face warnings of the depraved danger that now lurks in the store's restrooms. A spokesperson for the American Family Association told an interviewer they were deliberately sending men into ladies' rooms at Γarget stores to "test" their "barrier".

Now, the Obama Administration has gotten involved. A few days ago, the U.S. Dept. of Justice sent North Carolina Gov. Pat McCrory (R) a letter stating that since their "bathroom bill" violates Titles VII and IX of the 1964 Civil Rights Act, if it stays on the books the state risks losing over $800 million in education funding.

Before all this came down, there hadn't been any laws on the books specifying who could use which bathroom in the first place. For whatever reason, folks were somehow able to figure out for themselves where to go when they had to go and things seemed to work out just fine.

This is not to say there haven't been problems. There was John Hinson of Mississippi, arrested in 1981 for performing an illicit act in the restroom of a public building. Bob Allen of Florida was arrested in 2007 for soliciting in the restroom of a public park, as was Larry Craig of Idaho the same year for soliciting in an airport restroom.

All three were Republican congressmen. One shouldn't judge an entire group by these actions, but the number is still three more than the total number of transgendered people reported arrested for similar acts in public restrooms. And, it raises again the question as to who, indeed, are the real "weirdos".

The revisions include: changers to the Purpose and Intent of the Institutional Zone (Sections 17.38.010) - to allow public and private uses which provide public services to the community, and to allow the integration of adjacent commercially zoned property into the institutional environment, provided there is no net loss of commercial space; Permitted uses (Sections 17.38.020) - to allow repairs, maintenance, interior alterations, minor exterior alternations, and minor structural alternations that do not result in expansion of the use; Uses subject to approval of a Conditional Use Permit (Section 17.38.030) – adding public recreation facilities, retreat center, health spas an similar uses, schools, and social service office excluding "for profit" activities; Master Plan (Section 17.38.040) - amending the objectives and contents of a master plan to ensure structures convey the village theme in their siting, massing, scale use of open space, and architectural character and preservation of historic structures; Modifications to Development Standards and criteria of modification of Development Standards (Section 17.38.050) - to allow adjustments to the master plan provided that the project contains activities and functions which will be a significant asset to the city, adequately mitigates impacts attributable to any increase in floor area ratio and height, and providing additional community benefits without limitation making available parking to the pubic when not in use, dedication of on on-site recreation space, parkland, facilities for public meetings, and child care made available to the public. ENVIRONMENTAL DETERMINATION: The project qualifies for an exemption from the California Environmental Quality Act review pursuant to Title 14, Section 15061(b)(3) of the California Code of Regulations as it can be seen with certainty that there is no possibility the adoption of this Ordinance may have a significant effect on the environment, because it will impose greater limitations on development in the City thereby serving to reduce potential significant adverse environmental impacts.

NOTICE OF AMENDED PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF GUNTER ANTON SCHREINER Case No. BP167463

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of GUNTER ANTON SCHREINER

AN AMENDED PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Leon Kirakosian in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.

THE AMENDED PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Leon Kirakosian be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE AMENDED PETITION requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE AMENDED PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the amended petition will be held on May 11, 2016 at 8:30 AM in Dept. No. 67 located at 111 N. Hill St., Los Angeles, CA 90012.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.
