ARCADIA NATIVE KILLED DURING MARINE TRAINING EXERCISE

Arcadia native Major Richard Norton

Arcadia native, 36 year old U.S. Marine Major Richard Norton died Thursday in a training accident in Twentynine Palms, California.

Norton, who joined the Marines in 2005, was Program. serving as a wing pilot and was assigned to stationed at MCAS Miramar near San Diego.

Norton's twin engine F/A-18C Hornet crashed while attempting to perform a close air support mission as a part of a pre-deployment training exercise, the base reported.

"My heart goes out to our Marine's family, as we support them through this difficult time," said Maj. Gen. Mark Wise, commanding general of 3rd Marine Aircraft Wing.

Norton previously was deployed in Afghanistan in 2012, in support of Operation Enduring Freedom. He was also deployed to Japan multiple times as a part of the Unit Deployment Losing Major Norton is a tremendous loss Marine Fighter Attack Squadron 232. He was to the MAG-11 Team," said Col. William Swan, commanding officer of MAG-11. "He was one of the best and brightest Hornet pilots our nation had to offer. Our thoughts and prayers go out to his family."

> The cause of the crash is currently under investigation.

succeeding at things in life that don't really matter." Francis Chan, Crazy Love

It's August, friends and neighbors! School will be starting soon and many of you parents are with photographs and life stories that Brandon counting the days and growing happier with each one you cross off. My best friend and fellow traveler, John, and I have just returned from Wylie, Texas, where we celebrated our daughter, Crissy's, birthday and her daughter, Emily's, 6th birthday (pictured here). Notice I don't give Crissy's age. As my grandmother, Louise Pitzer Sessions, who was born in Texas and raised in Virginia used to say, as she drew in a breath and swelled out her chest with minutes. Yes, friends, Fall is coming! great indignation, "You do not ask a lady's age!" I never did know how old she was.

We had a fantastic time, and were horribly jealous as it rained several times while we were there. Texas is green, green, green...and flat, flat, flat. We actually get tears in our eyes when we fly over our mountains on the way back to Ontario Airport. Emily had a splendid birthday party at Chuck E. Cheese, and we dined and shopped all over the place. Missing Pasadena Father Found Dead

Family considering lawsuit with Los Angeles County Sheriff's over father's handling during release from jail.

The body of a Pasadena elderly man, who had gone missing last week, was found dead Monday in a maintenance yard in downtown Los Angeles. According to family members Gerry Sakamoto died of exposure after being released from LA County jail with no money or cellphone.

The 71-year-old Sakamoto was last seen live by the family July 28. They said Sakamoto suffered from a number of medical conditions, including bipolar disorder and dementia. They allege that their concerns about Sakamoto's health were ignored by deputies and if not, he would still be alive.

Family members also said that his wife, Jane Sakamoto, was ignored by operators at the jail when she called trying to get medication to Sakamoto.

Los Angeles County Sheriff deputies claim Sakamoto was given an option to stay at the jail up to 16 hours to wait for relatives to pick him up. The family said they were never notified of Sakamoto release.

Sakamoto was arrested on suspicion of drunk driving after he was stopped by the California Highway Patrol following an accident July 28 in the San Gabriel Valley. Sakamoto was booked, cited and released that same day. The family said they are considering a lawsuit over Sakamoto's death.

Four-month-old Diglet (A402362) is quite the people person, greeting everyone she meets with purring and rubbing. After she gets to know you, she enjoys being held and sitting in your lap. This 4-monthold, female, shorthair tortie can be found jumping around to chase down her beloved sock toy!

Adopt Diglet or any other kitten 11 months and younger for just $15 for one kitten or $25 for two during our Kitten GO adoption event August 5-7. Regular adoption screening applies.

Otherwise, the adoption fee for cats is $70 (or two for $85), which includes the spay or neuter surgery, microchip, and vaccinations.

New adopters will receive a complimentary health-andwellness exam from VCA Animal Hospitals, as well as a goody bag filled with information about how to care for your pet.

Call the Pasadena Humane Society & SPCA at (626) 792-7151 to ask about A402362, or visit at 361 S. Raymond Ave. in Pasadena. Adoption hours are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday; 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday; and 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday.

Pets may not be available for adoption and cannot be held for potential adopters by phone calls or email. Directions and photos of all pets can be found at pasadenahumane.org.

Pasadena Father Convicted of Murder

After a four week of arduous trial work, a jury convicted a father, last week, who intentional drowned his one year old daughter while the mother was at work.

On May 20, 2011 Pasadena Police Officers responded to 145 W. Del Mar Bl. regarding a baby not breathing. Upon arrival, Officers found one year old Monajah Jackson not breathing. She was later pronounced dead.

The subsequent investigation by Homicide detectives led to the arrests of the baby's father, Marquise Jackson. Following his arrest and later admonition to detectives, the Los Angeles County District Attorney's Office filed one count of first degree murder along with one count of child endangerment. In June 2016, the trial against Marquise Jackson began in the Los Angeles Superior Courthouse,

Annual Wiggle Waggle Walk

Animal lovers and their canine friends are invited to the Pasadena Humane Society & SPCA's 18th Annual Wiggle Waggle Walk - a community fundraiser for animals - at Brookside Park adjacent to the Rose Bowl. The Walk will start at 8 a.m. on Sunday, September

Walkers can choose either a one-mile or three-mile route around the outside of the Rose Bowl stadium before enjoying event festivities including K-9 and agility demonstrations. pet-related vendors, contests, and food trucks until noon. Participants do not need a dog to join the fun, just a desire to help animals.

"The Walk brings together people from all parts of our community," says Carol Kirby, Chairman of the PHS Board of Directors. "It helps fund the shelter and gives us all a chance to celebrate the joy of dogs.

Organizers hope to raise $325,000 from the event, which will provide food, shelter and medical care to the nearly 12,000 homeless animals taken in by the PHS every year.

Walkers can create a team, join an existing team, or register as an individual on the new Wiggle Waggle Walk website. Event registration is $25 per person, and includes an event T-shirt, bib, and bandana for your dog. Early bird registration is

DUARTE KIWANIS CONTINUES TO SUPPORT FOOIHILL UNITY CENTER

At a recent Duarte Kiwanis Meeting, Mike Antonessi came to share the vision and current focus of the Foothill Unity Center. Believe it or not, the Unity Center was started 36 years ago by Josephine Anderson. She told her priest at Immaculate Conception church that some of the parishioners needed food and the priest gave her a closet and asked her to "step up" - and she did. Turns out many other churches in the area were experiencing the same thing and together they created the "Unity" Center. The latest event will be the annual Back To School event on August 9th being held at the Santa Anita Race Track. Mike expects that over 1000 kids will be served with all their needed school supplies, new undies, socks and uniforms, haircuts and even eye and dental exams! As you can see, Duarte Kiwanis is always ready to partner with Foothill Unity. President, Cheryl Reynolds was thrilled to present Mike with a $400.00 check. For further information on speaking or joining the club, contact Dr. Diane Hernandez at drdiane@drhernandezoptometry.

AB 32 was passed in 2006 and requires California to reduce its greenhouse gas emissions to 1990 levels by 2020. More recently, our country, along with 194 other nations, signed the United Nations Climate Accord. Measurements indicate that before the start of the industrial revolution (and the burning of the coal and oil that fuels industry), our air contained about 230ppm of carbon dioxide. Now we are close to 400ppm. Dangerous environmental and economic consequences are accelerating. Carbon dioxide is our primary greenhouse gas. As citizens of Sierra Madre, of California, of the United States, and of the World, we have an opportunity to step up and work to be good stewards. A REALLY DUCKY OF A DEAL

Reader Steve in Arcadia asks, "How exactly are the wines chosen?" Many ways, really - discoveries through PR pitches, invitations to wine tasting events, and sometimes I just like the way the bottle looks on the store shelf. I will only review wines and share them with you if I feel that they are a good value and easily obtainable for the readers. I recently was turned on to a wonderful sparkling wine from the Limoux region of France. It was a solid wine for under $25, but as my excitement grew I found one problem, I couldn't find it anywhere except online and at a wine shop in Costa Mesa, so... you won't hear about it here.

Anyway, I want to start the tailgating season off by getting back to blends, this time Decoy. For those who are even casual wine drinkers I am sure you are familiar with the name "Duckhorn", the pride of the Napa Valley for the past thirty-five or so years. Fine restaurants and gourmet shops have been my to-go places for Duckhorn, and now along comes Decoy (yes, there is a duck on the bottle). The price is about half what you'd pay for Duckhorn. How and why? The grapes are sourced through the

Napa region. Owner Dan Duckhorn found a need for wines that were lower priced and still a great quality, so the past few years has seen an upswing in the production of Decoy and it's popularity. The 2012 vintage is smooth, with perfect levels of fruit and tannins, and a finish that you'd expect from a higher priced blend. A mix of cabernet and merlot, it goes well with steak, pizza, and soft cheese. Closure: Corked

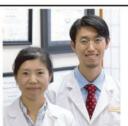

Each week I will give you my Dills Score. Starting with a base of 50 points, I have added 8 points for color, 7 points for aroma or "nose", 9 points for taste, 8 points for finish, and 8 points for my overall impression, which includes my value rating.

INGREDIENTS:

- 1/4 cup nonfat plain yogurt
- 3 tablespoons light mayonnaise 1/2 teaspoon curry powder
- 1/8 teaspoon salt
- Pinch of cayenne pepper, or to taste
- 1 orange
- 2 tart-sweet red apples, diced (about 2 cups)
- 1 cup chopped celery
- 1/3 cup golden raisins
 1/3 cup toasted walnut pieces, coarsely chopped

DIRECTIONS:

- 1. Whisk yogurt, mayonnaise, curry powder, salt and cayenne in a medium bowl. Grate 2 teaspoons zest from the orange and add to the dressing.
- 2. Using a sharp knife, cut off the peel and white pith from the orange. To make attractive segments, hold the orange over the bowl (to catch the juice) and slice between each segment and its surrounding membranes. Add apples, celery, raisins and walnuts; toss to combine.

THE GOOD LIFE HOW TO FIND FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE FOR ELDERLY PARENTS

Dear Savvy Senior,

Where can I go to locate financial assistance programs for seniors? I have been helping support my 70-year-old mother the past couple years and really can't afford to do it any longer. Feeling Overwhelmed

Dear Overwhelmed,

There are actually a wide variety of financial assistance programs and government benefits that can help seniors in need. But what's available to your mom will depend on her income level and where she lives.

To find out what types of assistance your mom may be eligible for, just go to BenefitsCheckUp. org, a free, confidential Web tool designed for adults 55 and older and their families. It will help you locate federal, state and private benefits programs that can assist with paying for food, medications, utilities, health care, housing and other needs. This site - created by the National Council on Aging - contains more than 2,000 programs across the country.

To identify benefits, you'll first need to fill out an online questionnaire that asks a series of questions like your mom's date of birth, her ZIP code, expenses, income, assets, veteran status, the medications she takes and a few other factors. It takes about 15 minutes.

all the programs and services she may qualify for, along with detailed information on how to

Some programs can be applied for online, some have downloadable application forms that you can Administered by the Social that you contact the program's administrative office directly (they provide the necessary contact

Food assistance: Programs like the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) can help pay for groceries. The average monthly SNAP benefit is currently around $127 per person. Other programs that may be available include the Emergency Food Assistance Program, Commodity Supplemental Food Program, and the Senior Farmers' Market Nutrition Program.

Healthcare: Medicaid and Medicare Savings Programs can help or completely pay for out-ofpocket health care costs. And, there are special Medicaid waiver programs that provide in-home care and assistance.

Prescription drugs: There are hundreds of programs offered through pharmaceutical companies, government agencies and charitable organizations that help lower or eliminate prescription drug costs, including the federal Low Income Subsidy known as "Extra Help" that pays premiums, deductibles and prescription copayments for Medicare Part D beneficiaries.

Utility assistance: There's the Low Income Home local utility companies and charitable organizations that provide assistance in lowering home heating and cooling costs.

Supplemental Security Income print and mail, fax or email in, and some require Administration, SSI provides monthly payments to very low-income seniors, age 65 and older, as well as to those who are blind and disabled. SSI pays up to $733 per month for a single person and up to $1,100 for couples.

IS EARTHLY LIFE PREMATURE FROM A COSMIC PERSPECTIVE?; AUGUST MOON STAR PARTY IN WESTCHESTER

The universe is 13.8 billion years old, while our planet formed just 4.5 billion years ago. Some scientists think this time gap means that life on other planets could be billions of years older than ours. However, new theoretical work suggests that present-day life on Earth is actually premature from a cosmic perspective.

"If you ask, 'When is life most likely to emerge?' you might naively say, 'Now,'" says lead author Avi Loeb of the Harvard-Smithsonian Center for Astrophysics. "But we find that the chance of life grows much higher in the distant future."

Life as we know it first became possible about 30 million years after the Big Bang, when the first stars seeded the cosmos with the necessary elements like carbon and oxygen. Life will end 10 trillion years from now when the last stars fade away and die. Loeb and his colleagues considered the relative likelihood of life between those two boundaries.

The dominant factor proved to be the lifetimes of stars. The higher a star's mass, the shorter its lifetime. Stars larger than about three times the Sun's mass will expire before life has a chance to Conversely, the smallest stars weigh less than 10 percent as much as the Sun. They will glow for 10 trillion years, giving life ample time to emerge on any planets they host. As a result, the probability of life grows over time. In fact, chances of life are 1,000 times higher in the distant future than now.

"So then you may ask, why aren't we living in the future next to a low-mass star?" says Loeb.

"One possibility is we're premature. Another possibility is that the environment around a lowmass star is hazardous to life."

Although low-mass, red dwarf stars live for a long time, they also pose unique threats. In their youth they emit strong flares and ultraviolet radiation that could strip the atmosphere from any rocky world in the habitable zone.

To determine which possibility is correct—our premature existence or the hazard of low-mass stars—Loeb recommends studying nearby red dwarf stars and their planets for signs of habitability.

Future space missions like the Transiting Exoplanet Survey Satellite and James Webb Space Telescope should help to answer these questions.

AUGUST MOON STAR PARTY. On Saturday, August 13, 7-10 p.m., Westchester Amateur Astronomers will provide telescopes for public viewing of the August Moon and planets Saturn, Mars, and Venus—plus stars and nebulae.

Location: In the Christian Science church parking lot at 7855 Alverstone Ave., Westchester (One block west of Sepulveda, at 79th St.). Children are welcome—bring them and learn astronomy basics together. The event is free and all are welcome to look through the telescopes, but you may bring your own telescope if you wish.

FREE FERTILIZER FROM WHAT YOU NORMALLY THROW AWAY

We always gardened because we can produce better quality food and a low cost, without participating in using any of the destructive chemicals which ruin the fertility of the soil. And there are at least two very common household discards which are ideal for many of your garden plants.

You've heard of liming the garden and lawn, right? Many gardeners buy a bag of lime (calcium carbonate) every few years and sprinkle it throughout the garden. Were you aware that eggshells are 93% calcium carbonate?

Calcium is an essential plant nutrient that plays a fundamental part in cell manufacture and growth. Most roots must have some calcium at the growing tips. Plant growth removes large quantities of calcium from the soil, and so calcium must be replenished. In addition to calcium, eggshells contain about 1 percent nitrogen, about 0.5 percent phosphoric acid, and other trace elements that make them a practical fertilizer.

We saved all our eggshells in a pan in our oven, including shells from the eggs from the farmers market, as well as the shells from our own chicken eggs. The pilot light temperature of the oven was sufficient to dry out the shells. Then, when the pan was full, we either crushed them by hand, or reduced them to a fine powder in the blender. Then we placed the crushed eggshells around fruit trees, roses, and potted plants, and also just broadcast them throughout the garden.

We learned that snail problems could be reduced with the helped of recycled eggshells. Using the hand-crushed shells, with plenty of their rough edges, we'd scatter these around those plants that the snails were eating. Snails did not usually cross the barriers made with these rough eggshells, presumably because they cause discomfort to the snails.

Another common kitchen discard is coffee grounds. Used coffee grounds contain about 2 percent nitrogen, about a third of a percent of phosphoric acid, and varying amounts of potash, generally less than one percent. Analysis of coffee grounds shows that they contain many minerals, including trace minerals, carbohydrates, sugars, some vitamins, and some caffeine. They are particularly useful on those plants for which you would apply "acid food," such as blueberries, avocados, roses, camellias, and certain fruit trees.

Sometimes we use scatter the used coffee grounds in the garden, and sometimes we dry them first. We scatter them as a light mulch around those plants that we feel would benefit the most. We don't scatter them too thickly, however, especially in wet weather, because the coffee grounds will have a tendency to get moldy.

Because most plants need calcium for root growth, most can be beneficially stimulated by adding both ground up eggshells (lime) and dried coffee grounds.

Smile the next time you drink your morning cup of coffee, and eat those breakfast eggs, because the by-products of that meal are ideal for your urban garden and no longer need to be thought of as

I sought to include many of these low-tech, low-cost ideas in my "Extreme Simplicity" book, which recorded all the methods that my wife and I actually practiced. We always figured that if we could do all that we did with low-income, anyone anywhere could practice these same methods to become selfreliant. You can get "Extreme Simplicity" from Amazon.com, or from the Store at www.SchoolofSelf-Reliance.com.

OUT TO PASTOR

A Weekly Religion Column by Rev. James Snyder

WHERE IS PORKY PIG WHEN YOU NEED HIM?

Growing up we did not have a TV in our home. pastor was preaching and say, "That's all, folks!" My father was just too cheap to spend the money (I wonder how many people think that while I'm for something as frivolous as TV, so he bought preaching?) comic books to read. Books, he often said to us, are better than watching some silly TV program. They were also cheaper.

Then one day something happened that changed everything. On November 22, 1963, the president of the United States, John Fitzgerald Kennedy, was assassinated. The next day my father went out and bought our first TV set.

Then everything changed in our home.

connected with the president's assassination. It was a sad time for our country.

My siblings and I were introduced to a phenomenon called cartoons. Now, I had a large collection of comic books which, if I had today and I could sell them and become a very rich man. However, a TV cartoon was something altogether different. It took us a long time to realize those cartoon characters were just that and not real people. To us, they were as real as real got.

When we got home from school, my siblings and I headed for the TV set and were mesmerized by these cartoons. We loved them all.

I say we loved them all but there was one exception. That one exception was Porky Pig. We hated to see Porky Pig on the TV because he always said, "That's all, folks!" And that was the end of the cartoons.

The first time we saw him say that we cried. "What do you mean that's all?"

We just could not believe our eyes and ears, but that was the end of the cartoons for the day and we would have to wait until tomorrow to see them again. It is not like today when you can watch anything you want, anytime you want to watch it. That was when I was young, but as I got older I began to see that Porky Pig could serve a situation right well.

For example, when I was in school and the teacher went on and on and I was getting so bored that I would have liked to have brought Porky Pig into the classroom to say, That's all, folks! Then we would head to the outside playground where the Porky Pig would have been a great blessing in most of my classes. Not that the teachers were boring, mind you. Just that what they were saying was boring. Nothing is more boring than when somebody is talking about something you have no interest in whatsoever. That is when we need, "That's all, folks!"

Don't let this get around or I will deny it, but as a teenager sitting in church I often wished that Porky Pig would walk down the aisle while our His web site is www.jamessnyderministries.com.

Sometimes you have enough of something and just want it to stop and just don't know how to do

I imagine, I just am not going to ask, but at the dinner table there are times when the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage would like to bring Porky Pig into the dining room to say to me, 'That's all, folks!"

Of course, because Porky Pig is a pig she might Our father stayed on top of all the stories be afraid that I would eat him by mistake. She may be right about that. Lately, I have been thinking of Porky Pig and what he could do today. I am not sure if the cartoons are still on television I have long ago given up watching them. Of course, if you watch any political program on TV it does resemble a cartoon, at least a bad cartoon.

Porky Pig could come in handy, particularly concerning politics. If I see one more political debate or whatever they call it on TV, I think I am going to scream. Here is exactly where Porky Pig could come in for the rescue.

Just as they begin some political program, Porky Pig comes on the set and says, "That's all, folks!" And we move on to something less boring. That would be a great help today.

I think what makes politics so boring and obnoxious are the politicians themselves. There should be a rule somewhere that says that anybody running for any kind of political office needs to hire Porky Pig in order to know when enough is enough. If anybody is interested, I'm willing to hire myself out to be someone's Porky Pig, I can say "That's all, folks" in a variety of sarcastic tones. Porky Pig could give the American public a well needed rest and break from all the nonsense we

I know in Washington there's a lot of pork that goes around, but the kind of pork I'm talking about is Porky Pig who can stand up and speak for the American public, That's all, folks!" We need somebody to be America's voice today and as far as I am concerned, Porky Pig fits the job.

Everything should have an end in sight somewhere. I like what the apostle Peter said. "But the end of all things is at hand: be ye therefore sober, and watch unto prayer" (1 Peter 4:7).

Could someone in the political arena, please stand up and say "That's all, folks!"

MODERN DAY JANE TELLS HER STORY "I WAS RAISED BY MONKEYS"

will pop up that really catches my attention and I am compelled to drill down and delve into the full story before I continue on with whatever else needs doing. One day I was checking my e-mail when I noticed a trending news link that read, "Woman Raised by Monkeys". Clearly I couldn't pass that one up!

I rather expected to be disappointed when I got to the news page, assuming the story would be a hoax or a joke, but much to my surprise the article was written about a real woman who several of her childhood years, in the jungles of

In the 1950s, Marina Chapman (a name she gained later in life) was a small child living with her birth family near the city of Cucuta, Colombia when at 5 years old, according to her best recollection, she was abducted from her home for ransom money. As it turned out, however the kidnapping must have gone wrong, because she was later left for dead in a remote jungle area close to the Venezuelan border.

Chapman says it wasn't long before she was taken in by a family of about 20 Capuchin monkeys, and spent 5 years being cared for and coddled by the entire pack. After her 5-year experience living with the monkeys and having no interaction with humans, she was discovered by hunters who sold her to a brothel in exchange for a parrot. Now that's a headline news-worthy story!

In time she was able to escape from the brothel and lived in the streets for a while until she was offered a job as a house maid for a Columbian family who then took her in and treated her like their own. It was there that she gave herself the wrote a book titled The Girl With No Name, name Marina Luz, and had the opportunity to The Incredible True Story of a Child Raised by work on her speaking & social skills, and re-learn Monkeys, published in April, 2014. There are also how to live in a normal home with other human

In 1977, Marina was invited to join her surrogate Columbian family on a business trip to Bradford, England where she met her future husband John Chapman while attending a church service. John, a bacteriologist, and Marina now have 3 grown children who have are very proud of the fact that their mother can climb a tree better and faster than anyone else in the neighborhood. They've enjoyed sharing the remarkable

Every now and then, an internet news headline bed time stories their mother told them growing up, about her childhood being raised in the jungle by a family of monkeys.

Even aside from the amazing details of how Marina could possibly have managed to survive all that she went through as a little girl, this remarkable true story is one that I would call stranger than fiction. I mean, this lady is a true modern day "Jane", straight out of the Tarzan movies. The fact that the wild monkeys were willing to take her in and help her survive, teach her how to climb trees and catch prey, and allow claims to have been raised by wild monkeys for her to live with them in their private space is nothing less than a mind-blower to me.

One would have to assume those monkeys, who are better known for their aggressive response to an outsider, were receptive of that child because they knew she was vulnerable and presented no threat to them. It indicates the sensitive nature of the species and it tells you something we may not otherwise have learned about the internal nature of those monkeys. Of course we all know monkeys are more human-like than most wild animals, but let's face it, any animal living in the jungle would typically be expected to attack a human who invades their personal space.

In addition to spending time with her family and tending to typical daily tasks in the home, Marina now spends a lot of her time helping atrisk youth through the social services department in her town. I don't know whether she is involved in working with animals at all, but I can't help thinking she would be great at it.

Chapman has shared her remarkable story with several journalists over the years, and with the help of her daughter, Vanessa she also rumors of a Documentary in the works.

LOOKING FOR A BEST FRIEND?

Chessa is a serene and snuggly 2-year-old girl looking for a lap to call her own. Chessa is exceptionally sweet and seeks out the attention of staff, volunteers, and guests in Meow Manor. She approaches friends and strangers alike for pets and will settle in on a lap for cuddling. And she loves belly rubs! Her favorite play time is chasing the laser dot, but she's also open to other games with new toys. She gets along fine with the other cats in the Manor and will do well with another cat(s) in your home. If you are looking for a calm companion with a playful side, Chessa will be a great addition to your family. Please stop in and visit Chessa. Her forever home may be with you.

Her adoption fee is $49 from July 29th through August 14th along with all of her other feline cat and kitten friends at the San Gabriel Valley Humane Society. This fee includes spay/neuter surgery, vaccinations, microchip and a free wellness exam at a participating veterinarian. Feel free to call us at (626) 286-1159 for more information on Prim. THE JOY OF YOGA YOGA FOR SLEEP and helpful yoga be. There's Yoga for Creativity, Yoga for Emotional Balance, Yoga for Back Pain and countless other applications. There are many remedies available to us from the yogic tradition. In a way, we can use Yoga as Medicine. I'd like to focus on one very common problem for many, sleep. Specifically, lack of sleep.

Getting the proper amount of sleep and rest is vital for the body's ability to repair, renew and release stress. You know this after a night of insomnia or broken sleep, it's stressful to think about the day ahead and garner the energy to face the day effectively. There's a physiological and psychological state of restlessness that often accompanies lack of sleep.

Yoga can offer some wonderful, effective tools to help settle the system and release built up tension. First, for the body, it's important to begin with dynamic movement to give the mind a task and begin regulating our energy. It's great for the practice to include simple forward bends that stretch and strengthen the low back. All movement should be done with steady, rhythmic breath that links with movement. Gradually and

I love how versatile gently, (after establishing equal breath) extending exhale beyond the length of inhale (1 ½ to 2 times the length) can help enhance the calming effect. We should move on to holding poses. Holding for about 6-8 breaths will make an impact on the internal systems. As the practice progresses and you have extended exhale a bit, you can return to equal and even breath. Poses such as Pyramid (Parsvottasana), Wide-legged forward fold (Pasarita Paddottasana), and Child's Pose are ideal choices. To end, make sure to include a forward-folding hip opener. Classic pigeon pose (kapotasana) and head-to-knee pose, (janu sirsasana -a seated open hip forward fold) are excellent for activating the parasympathetic nervous system and calming the mind. Always end with a comfortable savasana that's long enough. If your practice was 30 minutes long, do savasana for at least 5 minutes.

> Of course in our reflection, we should examine other factors that may lead to restlessness and sleep deprivation. Practicing yoga reduces the pull of the senses and helps calm the mind. Consider how you might weave in more yoga that supports healthy sleep habits and times of rest.

incorrect. First of all, as my mother used to say, "The only way to avoid growing old is to die young." I listened and happily choose not to die. happily chose not to die young. And my father whispered another gem in my ear that made me birthdays even more. He said, "Your birthday is your own personal holiday. Enjoy it!" And so, in the spirit of wisdom of both my parents, I want to celebrate, a very special birthday. No, not mine - that's in February, but the birthday of the Mountain Views News nee paper was created and believe me, we are proud to be here. This paper follows in the traditions my parents spoke of. We will not die young and we will take the time to appreciate our own special day.

As you may notice, I keep saying we. Well that is because the Mountain Views News is not just the paper that I own and publish. It belongs to many other people too. To the wonderful staff, contributors, volunteers, supporters and caretakers, and most of all, it belongs to the communities we serve. Without you, this paper would not be possible. Oh, and yes, to our detractors, we thank you too, because your unrelenting criticism makes us stronger.

There are several people who have been with this paper since the beginning. Special birthday greetings to: Dean Lee, Rich Johnson, Bob Eklund, Mary Carney, Kim Clymer-Kelley, Jeff Brown, John Avery, and Peter Dills. This paper also has a stellar alumni that for a variety of reasons, mostly relocation, are no longer with us. They include Chris Bertrand who retired to Northern California to be closer to her grandson; Hail Hamilton who retired and moved away; and Joe Russo, who spent many, many hours working with me on the production of the paper. Joe has married, become a wonderful father and now lives in the midwest. Our dear friend and contributor, Ralph McKnight, the original voice of the "Left", and dear friend Pat Birdsall, passed

We've also been blessed to add to our ranks many other fine writers including those listed on our masthead (Page B4). I hope I didn't forget anyone, if so, I am certain you will let me know! For 9 years, 468 consecutive weeks, you have been with us in pen and/or spirit. We also wish to thank those who have been behind the scenes supporting the paper with their kind deeds and encouraging words. You shall remain nameless,

You would think that a but I want you to know that we truly appreciate

And last but not least, thanks to my family who have withstood so much. They've been willing to share companion, mom and grandmom, sister, and aunt with the paper. You are also appreciated

It has not always been easy, but I have the same commitment that I had when I suggested that Sierra Madre needed a real community paper.

A few years ago, , I answered a question that was asked of me by someone in town, "Why Are You Doing this?" Now that is truly a good question. Let's see. Perhaps my parents dropped me on my head when I was a child. No, that's not it. Ok, well perhaps I just like working 100 hour weeks. Or better yet, maybe I just love pouring every penny I have into this enterprise. Hmm...that doesn't sound right either. Ok, I got it. I publish this paper because I love it. I love sharing information with others. I love learning and writing about the It has been nine years ago this month that this treasures in our communities. I love providing a needed service to the community. I love bringing people together, even when they don't agree.

> I love giving the opportunity for others to share their talents. And please know, there is no one associated with the Mountain Views that supports their families or even their cheapest hobbies with the money they earn, if any. The people celebrating with me today all participate because it is a labor of love, and we love to do this because you, the communities we serve, have shown that you love us too!

I wish that more people would look around and see what they can contribute to make our communities a better place. Many people do, but there are many more that don't. If you don't, you have no idea how good it would make you feel. Sharing your talents unconditionally is the best feeling in the world. And, when you have done it long enough to have a 'birthday' you really rejoice.

So, pick something, a school, a library, a church, an organization, someone who is sick and shut in, or even your next door neighbor. Take a little time to share what God has given you. When you do you will find that, birthdays roll around pretty fast but they feel really good!

So, Happy Birthday Mountain Views News. We should all be very proud of what we have accomplished in such a short time. And, thanks to each of you for all you have done.

UNDER THE RADAR RECORD OF 2016

excursion through unknown and unfamiliar territories. Singer/guitarist Pat Hynes bears a heavy Scottish accent, but it's his fortitude, conviction, and possessed by a spirit-like way of singing that brings meaning and character to each song. The band, which consists of guitarist Hugo McGinley, Keir Reid on keys and drummer Ralph McClure, have crafted an effortless and harrowing composition that's both open and opulent. While influences may be compared to 80s goth rock, the often darkly ethereal resonance and tight overall sound feel relatively fresh today.

There is a balance between the wall of noise and sweeping arrangements found on "At Hope's Ravine." As one makes their way through the album, it's apparent that the tracks are a dichotomy of light and dark, often blurring the two together. It's clear that Holy Esque are s force that doesn't do anything half measure. Their beautifully composed tracks are explosive with deep catharsis and ambition. The natural progression of each song is something to marvel at as this entire piece of work feels much more than the sum of its parts. "At Hope's Ravine" is a record that requires much attentiveness and open-mindedness as it hits you like a heavy storm in the night, something you never could have expected.

Opener "Prism" begins with the lyrics, "Cold broken child on a path through the wild/Holding life on your way to the light." It kind of sets up the record perfectly. A reflective record in search for something beyond what may seem reachable. It's the shortest song in length, at three minutes and ten seconds, but sets the tone and direction for the entire record. Hynes trembling vocals adds more depth and a sense of impending doom on the horizon. Subsequent track, "Rose," brings more buoyancy and optimism. It's both pleasant and energetic as well as giving off much light through the lyricism. "Hexx" is a song about a Grade: 8.5 out of 10

Debut record, "At Hope's journey of finding hope when there's no hope to Ravine," from Glasgow's be clearly found. It's the searching within and the natives, Holy Esque, is exploration of the outer self that leads one on the a thematic, flourishing path to liberation.

"Silences" features swirling guitars, rich textures, and passionate signing. The swelling climax unfolds with much effectiveness. It's a beautiful trip worth taking. "Doll House" is a melancholy tune with an ethereal atmosphere. It's a pinnacle song off the album, a part of a trilogy of songs, dating back to 2012 with "Ladybird Love" and the recent single entitled "Oslo." Hynes described the trilogy as "A tragic tale that follows a prostitute, harassed and tortured until her final hour with everything left behind. "Doll House" is the middle track and one that is about a sense of belonging. The haunting piece of work is another showcase of how much artistry and creativity Holy Esque can achieve.

Title track "At Hope's Ravine" is the grand conclusion. It's the definitive culmination of what this entire record is made of. The song is a deeply potent, slow-building, gut wrenching that covers everything from desires and uncertainties to love and anger. It's a humanistic effort and crescendo finish is captivating and eye-opening. The finale track feels like a proper ending to an album that has heart and soul with a story to share that is genuine, real, and honest. Holy Esque's debut record is filled with insight, depth, and notions of believing in something, dreaming, loving, hating, and self-worth. And it goes well beyond that too. "At Hope's Ravine" is mystifying in many ways, but these 45 compelling minutes shed more light than you could have ever imagined for a debut record.

The Underground Railroad by Colson Whitehead

Colson Whitehead, a magnificent tour de force she offers potent insights into the mysterious chronicling a young slave's adventures as she makes a desperate bid for freedom in the antebellum South. Cora is a slave on a cotton plantation in Georgia. Life is hell for all the slaves, but especially bad for Cora; an outcast even among her fellow Africans, she is coming into womanhoodwhere even greater pain awaits. When Caesar, a recent arrival from Virginia, tells her about the Underground Railroad, they decide to take a terrifying risk and escape. Matters do not go as planned—Cora kills a young white boy who tries to capture her. Though they manage to find a station and head north, they are being hunted.In Whitehead's ingenious conception, the Underground Railroad is no metaphor—engineers and conductors operate a secret network of tracks and tunnels beneath the Southern soil. Cora and Caesar's first stop is South Carolina, in a city that initially seems like a haven. But the city's placid surface masks an insidious scheme designed for its black denizens. And even worse: Ridgeway, the relentless slave catcher, is close on their heels. Forced to flee again, Cora embarks on a harrowing flight, state by state, seeking true freedom.Like the protagonist of Gulliver's Travels, Cora encounters saga of America from the brutal importation of Africans to the unfulfilled promises of the present day. The Underground Railroad is at once a kinetic adventure tale of one woman's ferocious will to escape the horrors of bondage and a shattering, powerful meditation on the history we all share.

The Ashes of Love: Sayings on the Essence of Non-Duality by Rupert

The Ashes of Love features 280 sayings by Rupert Spira, taken from conversations with friends over a three year period. From the Foreword by . Monique Proulx: 'This book is a distillation of penetrating statements gleaned from the numerous teachings of Rupert Spira: at times borrowing the musicality of a haiku, the terseness of a pith instruction or the persuasive power of different worlds at each stage of her journey— an oration. But no matter its shape, each one hers is an odyssey through time as well as bears the treasure of a full teachingRupert space. FAMILY MATTERS By Marc Garlett

WORK-LIFE BALANCE: A PERSONAL PERSPECTIVE

Pick up the latest copy of just about any business journal, and you're likely to find at least one article much more than just your financial holdings on work-life balance. Employers are waking up to the fact that if they enhance work-life balance, they are better able to retain their best employees. So how is your work-life balance?

For the next two weeks, use a tracking calendar to track all of your waking time. It's easy to do this using a google calendar that you set up specifically for identifying what you spend each hour of your

Then, at the end of each week, identify how happiness, much time you spent on just yourself, how much time you spent on family, and how much time you spent working. You'll quickly be able to see where you might be out of balance.

While it may be counter-intuitive, investing in your own self-care first, family second and work third, is the equation that will keep you happiest at home and at work, which ultimately translates to a more positive bottom line for you and your employer.

If you are out of balance, first and foremost, take personal responsibility by using a time blocking calendar to block time each week for self-care. This may mean putting time on your calendar Garlett Law.com for more information.

for exercise, medical and dental appointments, pampering, and play.

Block this time and keep it as prioritized as you would a meeting with your boss, or one of your co-workers or clients. Then, block time for family activities. Finally, look at what you have left over

If you find that you cannot realistically complete your work in the time you have left over, consider having an honest and direct conversation with your boss (or yourself, if you are the boss) about how you can get more support.

Knowing what you want and asking for it are the first steps to taking personal control of your circumstances and creating the life you want, and it gives your employer the opportunity to have you doing your best work while retaining you as a valuable, long-term team member.

So how does this tie into estate planning for your family? Despite what many people think, estate planning isn't really about "planning for death." In fact, proactively handling your estate planning is one of the best ways you can come into alignment during life. And putting a plan in place will help support you to make the most of your

Remember, your real wealth encompasses and material possessions. It includes your most valuable personal assets - the time, energy and attention you spend on what really matters.

This is one of the most valuable aspects of estate planning. It allows people to make conscious choices about how they use their whole wealth resources during their lifetimes for the benefit of those they love most.

TRUMP PUTIN

I RAN THE C.I.A. NOW I'M ENDORSING HILLARY CLINTON.

From The New York Times:

By MICHAEL J. MORELL

During a 33-year career at the Central Intelligence Agency, I served presidents of both parties — three Republicans and three Democrats. I was at President George W. Bush's side when we were attacked on Sept. 11; as deputy director of the agency, I was with President Obama when we killed Osama bin Laden in 2011.

I am neither a registered Democrat nor a registered Republican. In my 40 years of voting, I have pulled the lever for candidates of both parties. As a government official, I have always been silent about my preference for president.

No longer. On Nov. 8, I will vote for Hillary Clinton. Between now and then, I will do everything I can to ensure that she is elected as our 45th president.

Two strongly held beliefs have brought me to this decision. First, Mrs. Clinton is highly qualified to be commander in chief. I trust she will deliver on the most important duty of a president — keeping our nation safe. Second, Donald J. Trump is not only unqualified for the job, but he may well pose a threat to our national security.

I spent four years working with Mrs. Clinton when she was secretary of state, most often in the White House Situation Room. In these critically important meetings, I found her to be prepared, detail-oriented, thoughtful, inquisitive and willing to change her mind if presented with a compelling argument. I also saw the secretary's commitment to our nation's security; her belief that America is an exceptional nation that must lead in the world for the country to remain secure and prosperous; her understanding that diplomacy can be effective only if the country is perceived as willing and able to use force if necessary; and, most important, her capacity to make the most difficult decision of all — whether to put young American women and men

Mrs. Clinton was an early advocate of the raid that brought Bin Laden to justice, in opposition to some of her most important colleagues on the National Security Council. During the early debates about how we should respond to the Syrian civil war, she was a strong proponent of a more aggressive approach, one that might have prevented the Islamic State from gaining a foothold in Syria.

I never saw her bring politics into the Situation Room. In fact, I saw the opposite. When some wanted to delay the Bin Laden raid by one day because the White House Correspondents Dinner might be disrupted, she said, "Screw the White House Correspondents Dinner."

In sharp contrast to Mrs. Clinton, Mr. Trump has no experience on national security. Even more important, the character traits he has exhibited during the primary season suggest he would be a poor, even dangerous, commander in chief.

These traits include his obvious need for self-aggrandizement, his overreaction to perceived slights, his tendency to make decisions based on intuition, his refusal to change his views based on new information, his routine carelessness with the facts, his unwillingness to listen to others and his lack of respect for the rule of law.

The dangers that flow from Mr. Trump's character are not just risks that would emerge if he became president. It is already damaging our national security.

President Vladimir V. Putin of Russia was a career intelligence officer, trained to identify vulnerabilities in an individual and to exploit them. That is exactly what he did early in the primaries. Mr. Putin played upon Mr. Trump's vulnerabilities by complimenting him. He responded just as Mr. Putin had calculated.

Mr. Putin is a great leader, Mr. Trump says, ignoring that he has killed and jailed journalists and political opponents, has invaded two of his neighbors and is driving his economy to ruin. Mr. Trump has also taken policy positions consistent with Russian, not American, interests — endorsing Russian espionage against the United States, supporting Russia's annexation of Crimea and giving a green light to a possible Russian invasion of the Baltic States.

In the intelligence business, we would say that Mr. Putin had recruited Mr. Trump as an unwitting agent of the Russian Federation.

CAN THE GOP NUKE ITS OWN NOMINEE?

The Republican race has gone nuclear.

One big reason why GOP presidential nominee Donald Trump is cratering lately - brand new polls show him 11 points down in Pennsylvania, 9 points down in Michigan, 15 points down in New Hampshire - is because people are catching on to the fact that he's too unstable, too reckless and policy-ignorant, to command our nuclear arsenal in an unstable world.

That perception killed Barry Goldwater's conservative candidacy in 1964 - perhaps unfairly, because veteran senator Goldwater was not a policy novice - and now it's dogging Trump. Rightfully so. The latest detonation came on the "Morning Joe" show, when co-host and ex-Republican congressman Joe Scarborough dropped this into our wakeup coffee: Several months ago a foreign policy expert on the international level went to advise Donald Trump, and three times he asked about the use of nuclear weapons. Three times, he asked at one point, 'If we have them why can't we use them?'....Three times in an hour briefing, 'Why can't we use nuclear weapons?"

Scarborough didn't identify his source (was it the foreign policy expert? someone who'd spoken to the expert?); nor did he say whether he's been sitting on this anecdote for months or just learned of it. But it rings true, because it jibes with everything else

Back in March, he told Chris Matthews that tactical nukes were a possible option during a European crisis (or during a confrontation with ISIS); in his words, "I'm not taking any cards off the table." When Matthews said that our allies would be disturbed to hear a president talk so cavalierly about nukes, Trump replied, "Then why are we making them? Why do we make them?"

He doesn't even know how our nuclear arsenal is set up. During a debate last December, he was asked to comment about the "nuclear triad" (three delivery systems - planes, subs, land-based missiles). He replied with a long riff about how "we need somebody absolutely that we can trust, who is totally responsible," and then replied to a follow-up with, "I think - I think, for me, nuclear is just the power, the devastation is very important to me."

He had no clue. He probably thinks triad is a synonym for a menage a trois. Goldwater had logged years on Senate foreign policy committees. But after a string of comments about the alleged perils of signing a nuclear test-ban treaty and the alleged benefits of using tactical nukes in Vietnam, and some jokey talk about the mightiness of American missiles (we oughta "lob one into the men's room at the Kremlin"), he got tagged as a dangerous loon. Lyndon Johnson's Democratic operatives saw to that.

On the night of Sept. 7, NBC aired an LBJ campaign ad. It featured 3-year-old Monique Corzilius of Pine Beach, New Jersey (with her parents' OK, for a fee of $100). She plucked some daisy petals and counted up to 10. Then came the stentorian voiceover, counting down to a nuclear launch. The bomb exploded as LBJ (quoting W.H. Auden) intoned, "These are the stakes - to make a world in which all of God's children can live, or to go into the dark. We must either love each other. Or we must Hillary Clinton's campaign hasn't crafted anything as blatant as the famous "Daisy" ad, but it doesn't need to. Its most ubiquitous ad - the one that shows little kids watching Trump on TV - connects with what the public is already sensing. And with what national security experts are darkly warning.

One such expert - Michael Hayden, who was George W. Bush's CIA director appeared Wednesday on "Morning Joe." Scarborough's much-circulated remark has regrettably overshadowed what Hayden said on camera: "(Trump) is inconsistent. And when you're the head of a global super power, inconsistency, unpredictability, those are dangerous things. They frighten your friends and they tempt your enemies. And so I would be very, very concerned."

Which well-credentialed national security experts are counseling Trump? Are there any advisers whom Hayden respects? Hayden's reply: "No one."

I trust there are many reasons why Trump is trailing Clinton nationally by 10 points

- in the latest Fox News poll, no less. But it's surely the nuclear factor that's prompting many Republicans to question Trump's candidacy. Too bad the Republican National Committee bylaws requires his willingness to quit. Too bad he's deaf to something he said in that Republican debate last winter, because the irony is squirm-worthy:

"The biggest problem we have...is some maniac, having some madman go out and get a nuclear weapon."

MAKING SENSE by Michael Reagan

SHUT UP FOR A MONTH, DONALD

Forget the idea of a Republican intervention.

Nothing GOP bigwigs or people like Rudy Giuliani can say to Donald Trump now will get his head straight and get him back on track.

For candidate Trump, it ought to be pretty clear by now that there is no track, no train, no schedule and no final destination.

His track goes wherever his wandering mind and runaway ego take him at any given instant, whether he's speaking to 3,000 people or tweeting from his

The only human intervention that can save his campaign at this point - and spare America four years of Hillary Clinton -- is for the people who love Trump to lock him into a soundproof booth until November 9th.

Unfortunately, that's not going to literally happen. But figuratively, it should.

Trump doesn't need intervention. He just needs to learn when - and how to shut up.

He has to stop saying dumb or outrageous things that get him the daily media attention he clearly needs and craves.

Someone has to explain to him and his current and former campaign managers that by being on Page 1 every day he makes sure that Hillary

Clinton will never be there. All the conservatives on talk radio and the cable channels bitch and moan that the mainstream media don't cover lying Hillary's many scandals. It's true she is getting the usual free pass the liberal media give to Democrats

But Trump and his fumbling campaign only make it easier for the media to ignore her by feeding them a daily menu of fresh gaffes and mistakes.

So shut up, Donald. For at least a month. Be boring. Quit winging it. Put America to sleep, like Hillary.

Read policy speeches from a teleprompter. Talk about the issues that matter the shortage of jobs, the no-growth economy, the $19 trillion budget. Attack Hillary for her untrustworthiness and her ties to the D.C. establishment.

But let her and her lies get some space on the front page.

You won't lose your core fan base. And if you stop pouring kerosene on your own fire every six hours, maybe someone at CBS will get bored and complain that Hillary hasn't had a press conference since last year.

Maybe the New York Times will assign some of its investigative reporters to look as closely at the books of the Clinton Foundation as they did at Mitt Romney's tax returns.

Maybe the Washington Post will check out those rumors about our embassy in Libya being involved with sending arms to the Syrian rebels (aka, ISIS) when Hillary was running the State Department. The way he's been acting lately, Trump is making it impossible for millions of Republican and independent voters who hate Hillary to vote for him. He should have sympathized with the Kahns, not picked a fight with them. Now he should announce he's going to apologize to them -- and use the free TV time he'd get to also slam Hillary for cynically exploiting the Kahns

We know we can't trust Hillary Clinton. She's a proven liar. But it seems that every other day Trump or his former campaign manager help make Hillary's point that we can't trust Trump with the nuclear codes. And therein lies the voter's dilemma for this presidential election.
