The weeks that come before are only a climb from balmy spring and those that follow, a drop to the chill of autumn. But the first week of August is motionless, and hot. It is curiously silent, too, with blank white dawns and glaring noons and sunsets smeared with too much color." Natalie Babbitt Tuck Everlasting

I've got those summer cold blues! I'm wheezin', sneezin', coughin' all day long, And then all night it's the same dull song.

I'm convinced my summer cold is a direct result of airplane travel coming home from Texas. There are two schools of thought on this and I'm in the camp of the believers. If you've got a summer cold, you have my sympathy. The only thing that has appealed to me at all is watermelon. I did cook some salmon, which was delicious and easy. Try this: Take two salmon filets, rinse and pat them dry. Set them on a plate and dust them with our own Sierra Madre Grocery Company's Sierra Seasoning Rub. Put enough olive oil in a skillet to coat it, heat it to a medium hot, add your salmon face side down (skin side up) so it will get a nice color, turn the heat down and cover the skillet. Keep an eye on your salmon as it cooks quickly. Uncover it after a couple of minutes and turn it over, skin side down. Then re-cover it for a few more minutes till a peek at the middle of the filet shows it's cooked through. Serve with a salad or a veggie and you're all set. Let someone else clean Discovered last week that the rubber mulch I bought at Home Depot, which was guaranteed to last for at least ten years has been overheating my plants. Sigh... the wood chip mulch is fine, but, apparently, the rubber mulch heats up the entire world wherever you put it. My yard maintenance professional, Gerardo Jimenez, very gently told me that the rubber mulch was the cause of my crepe myrtle being the only one in Sierra Madre or Wylie, Texas, that didn't look beautiful. It's cooler this week, I know my summer cold blues will go away and maybe my crepe myrtle will bloom yet this season.

Altadena Sheriffs Release Information on Shootings

Authorities are asking for the public's help in finding suspects after a rash of shootings, over the last few weeks, in the Altadena area.

Investigators said they are looking into the possibility that the shootings may be gang related. They are asking all of the Altadena community to work with Law Enforcement and share information to help solve and stop these incidents from occurring.

According to investigators recent shootings include:

Monday, July 25, at 11:00 pm, an adult male and female were in a car in the 600 block of East Pine St. The male victim sustained a wound to his left palm and right wrist. The victim was transported to a local hospital where he was listed in stable condition.

Tuesday, July 26, at 1:30 am, a shooting occurred on Lake Avenue and Woodbury Rd., in Altadena. The male victim was in a vehicle when he was fired upon and sustained wounds to his left hand and left knee.

'Roto Pasadena' Premieres Tonight in Civic Center

Pasadena's Civic Center District will be transformed into a magical world of giant roto-scoped animated images projected up to 20 feet tall outside City Hall, the Police Department and Central Library during the free "Roto Pasadena" public art event tonight, 8-10 p.m.

The public is invited to stroll down Garfield Avenue to watch the bold, colorful, hand-traced animated videos depicting residents, police officers and City elected officials presented in the unique rotoscoping digital format based on live action video interviews. Three different videos, about three minutes to five minutes in length, will be projected and re-shown continuously during the event onto the front entry area of the Central Library, in the courtyard entrance outside historic Pasadena City Hall building.

Roto Pasadena is created by artists Lisa Mann and Yo-Yo Lin, along with a cadre of animation artist assistants. The videos are part of the "My Pasadena" public art project presented by the Planning and Community Division, www.cityofpasadena. net/arts, through a grant award tumblr.com.

from the National Endowment for the Arts, www.arts.gov.

"Roto Pasadena" is a community art project created by Mann and Lin, who collaborated with two Northwest Pasadena youth groups—La Pintoresca Education Center and Pasadena YouthBuild—to create the videos from a teen perspective of living in Pasadena and to use interviews with police, councilmembers and residents. The idea was to use art to open the Police Department building a positive dialogue in an artistic and on an exterior wall of the medium between Pasadena officials and the people they serve thereby bridging the divide between generations, cultures and ethnicity, Mann said. Portions of Garfield Avenue near the video locations will be blocked off to vehicular traffic. Food trucks will be available Development on site during the event. For Department's Cultural Affairs online information about Roto Pasadena, visit rotopasadena.

UPDATE ON FORMER ALBERTSON'S SHOPPING CENTER REDEVELOPMENT PLANS

Last week, we had an opportunity to connect with representatives from Warner Pacific Properties, the firm that purchased the former Albertson's shopping center. As you may recall, we have had discussions with the new development firm regarding their intentions for the site, and staff has been told on multiple occasions that Warner Pacific intendeds to subdivide the available +/-91,000 square feet of building space for three different users. Subsequent to those discussions, staff has had a few discussions with an architect representing the developer regarding their proposed project. However, we have found it difficult to obtain concrete information regarding has been made.

Warner Pacific's plans moving forward.

This past week, our contact at Jones Lang LaSalle (JLL) was able to connect with the broker representing Warner Pacific. That interface shed some additional light on the disposition of the former Albertson's site. It appears that the new owners have been holding off on finalizing and submitting any plans to the City for plan check purposes until they are able to finalize and execute leases with at least two operators. Staff will continue to monitor this situation closely, and we will be certain to share additional details related to this matter as soon as additional progress

PUBLIC INVITED TO ATTEND POST FIRE DISASTER SEPTEMBER 6TH

Duarte, CA, August 8, 2016 - Residents are Residents in the areas of Westvale Court and encouraged to attend an upcoming community meeting "Post Fire Disaster Preparedness" on Tuesday, September 6th at 7 pm at Valley View Elementary School Cafeteria, 237 Melcanyon Road. The City is conducting the meeting for both residents and property owners that are at risk of being impacted from the Fish Fire mud and debris flow from upcoming storms. With the recent damage to Duarte's hillsides, the City must prepare for severe flooding and debris flow problems on public roadways that can arise during and after each rain possibly for the next five years. The US Geological Services in collaboration with the Angeles National Forest and Los Angeles County Water Resources Division are currently assessing the area burned and generating mud and debris flow modeling. The U.S. Geological Survey has created an interactive map of the San Gabriel Complex Fire. The map displays estimates of the likelihood of debris flow, potential volume of debris flow, and combined relative debris flow hazard and is available online at http:// landslides.usgs.gov/hazards/postfire_debrisflow/20 16/20160620sangabriel/.

With the assistance of Debris Flow maps generated by Los Angeles County Flood Control District, properties with the highest risk of being impacted by flooding/debris flows from rainfall due to the loss of vegetation in the foothills have been identified. The debris flow areas are above the Westvale Road, Crestview Court, Cedarwood Avenue, Las Lomas Road, Greenbank Avenue, com/duartecommunity; Twitter @CityofDuarte; Valley View Neighborhood, and Brookridge Road. Instagram @city_of_duarte and LinkedIn.

Sunnydale Avenue will be impacted by Los Angeles County Public Works storing debris in the nearby basins. Representatives from the following agencies will be present and provide valuable preparedness information to community members: Los Angeles County Fire, Los Angeles County Public Works, Los Angeles County Sheriff, and Duarte Public Safety. These collaborating agencies will provide expert information about the steps individuals and families need to take in order to prepare for the rainy season in light of the recent Fish Fire.

Additionally, City staff will also present emergency steps the City will implement including its impact on various neighborhoods; especially those near fire areas. The cooperation of all persons working or living within the designated Fish Fire is critical to the City's primary goal of protecting life and property.

Refreshments will be provided. For additional information please contact the Duarte Public Safety office at (626) 357-7938.

Hit and Run Traffic Collision / Driving Under the Influence - Suspect Arrested August 5 at 3:37 a.m., a resident in the 100 block of West Olive reported that the driver of a red Toyota had just crashed into a parked vehicle and fled south on Primrose with its bumper dragging on the ground. EDUCATION & YOUTH

PASADENA UNIFIED SCHOOLS START MONDAY, AUGUST 15

Pasadena, CA - An estimated 17,000 Pasadena Unified School District (PUSD) students will head back to school Monday, August 15, as the 2016-2017 academic year kicks off at the district's 28 schools.

"We are excited to welcome students and families to the new school year, which promises to ignite creativity by engaging children and youth in a rich area of learning opportunities," said Superintendent Brian McDonald, Ed.D. "PUSD teachers and staff are ready to receive students and prepare them not only to graduate and be successful, but to first be authentic learners, readers, and critical thinkers.'

PUSD is focusing on strengthening elementary school-level literacy and writing, with classrooms getting more than 230,000 new books this year as the district deploys its Balanced Literacy initiative. Balanced Literacy trains teachers to help students think critically and be prepared for the future. The approach features engaging and balanced instruction in reading and writing in a variety of settings within the elementary classroom, including reading and writing workshops, reading aloud, phonics, and small group instruction. To prepare for Balanced Literacy, teachers participated in Writing Institutes to study the teaching of writing, grow as writers themselves, and experience the process their students go through as writers.

Pasadena Unified has expanded options for young children this year with a new preschool at Altadena Elementary School, a new Spanish Dual Language Immersion preschool at Jefferson Elementary, and a new Mandarin Dual Immersion preschool at the district's Burbank campus in Altadena.

Tips to Prevent the Spread of Back-to-School Germs

(StatePoint) Back-to-school is an exciting time of year for families, but it also means new exposures to germs.

From school desks found to have 400 times more bacteria than the average toilet, to personal items like backpacks and cellphones, germs are everywhere. Taking steps to reduce exposure can make for a healthier scĥool year ahead.

Remember to wash hands and your items frequently -- did you know that backpacks have 10,000 germs per square inch? Then, use shelf liner in areas of your home where school items are stored for extra protection. Try using Easy Liner brand shelf liner by Duck brand with Clorox antimicrobial protection, which protects the liner from the growth of mold and mildew. Plus, the liners can be tossed in the wash for easy cleaning.

Parents can help keep classrooms cleaner by providing teachers with disinfecting wipes and shelf liner to protect desks, drawers and shelves.

School meals have also gotten a boost, with school lunches and breakfasts featuring exciting menu options, fresh local produce, antibiotic-free chicken, and whole grains. Menus and online pay options are available at gopusd.com/nutrition. Free or reduced-price meals are available for those who qualify. Applications are available in the 2016-2017 Parent/Student Handbook and online at gopusd. com/nutrition

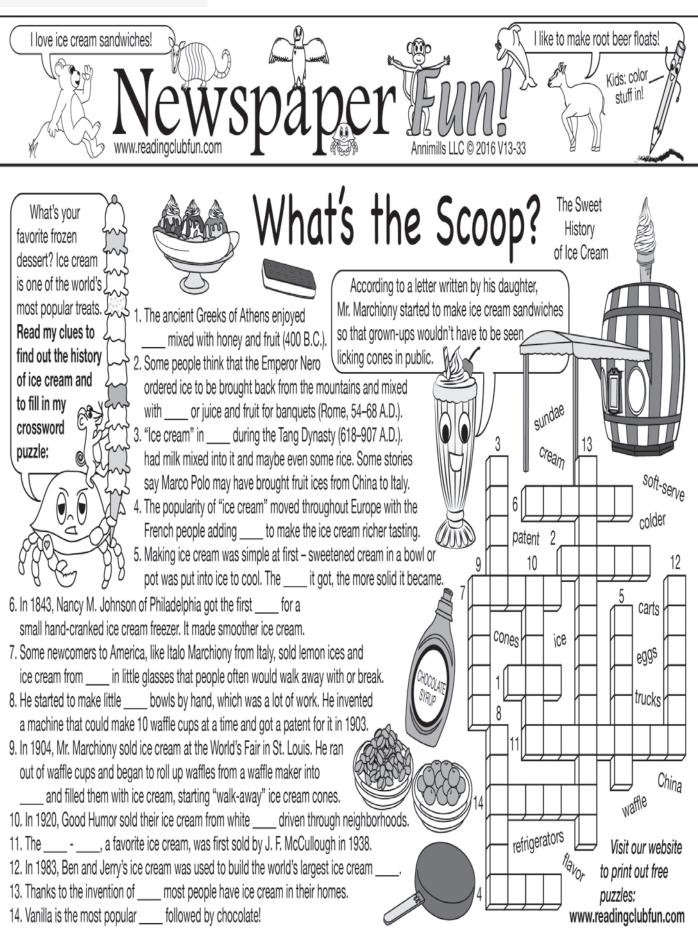

Pasadena LEARNs offers exciting new afterschool programs such as coding, Spanish Immersion, and tennis. This year, LEARNs expands services to Don Benito Elementary, Sierra Madre Elementary, and Sierra Madre Middle School. To register for afterschool programs, go to gopusd.com/learns

The redesigned Parent/Student Handbook has useful information to help students and their families make the school year a success. The Handbook includes a directory of schools and offices, school calendars, college fair event information, expectations for behavior and attendance, graduation requirements, and more. Get the Handbook at gopusd.com/families

Finally, PUSD reminds students, families and neighbors to safely share the roads with school buses, pedestrians, and bicyclists.

VERTICAL WINE BAR

Many restaurants have built their reputation on their wine lists. Of course, Valentino's in Santa Monica comes to mind. A little closer to home Bistro 45 and A/K/A Bistro have good ones. I can't really put my finger on any restaurant that I could say has an exotic wine list but the Vertical Wine Bistro has a truly eclectic feel to it with their bar and dining room and, for you with late night energy, a weekend DJ. The wine list itself is impressive. If you remember a few years ago Vertical offered many flights of wine - basically a flight could be any liquors since they're just samples. I remember trying a flight of Greek wines here, and I quickly opted for French. Just because I was born in Greece doesn't mean I can endorse their wines. If you feel adventurous they offer a bottle of the 2008

My intention this evening was to start at the bar and make my way to the dining area, but since it was happy hour I never made it that far. I have to say that the wine list is limitless and while Vertical's reputation for fantastic wines is warranted, the prices scared this civil servant off a bit. If I had an expense account, however, the 1996 Taittinger "Blanc de Blanc at $257 would be in my cart. Wines tend to be subjective, but great food usually finds a unanimous verdict, so let's stick with the "happy time" menu. Their Crispy Calamari ($9) was exceptional, as were the Truffle Shoe String fries ($8). My guest and I really enjoyed the Lobster Roll with Tarragon Dressing ($15), but we didn't get to the burger sliders since I just had sliders last week at Cheesecake Factory!!! At first glance, the prices on their dinner entrees looked reasonable. Many of their wines by the glass seemed a bit pricey, but that may just mean I should stick to buying my wines at the local supermarket.

MEDICARE COVERAGE FOR NON-WORKING SPOUSES

Dear Savvy Senior,

Does Medicare cover spouses who have not worked? I have worked all my life, but my spouse worked only for a few years when we first got married but then quit to take care of our children fulltime. Will she be eligible for Medicare?

Inquiring Husband

Dear Inquiring,

There are plenty of couples in your situation when it comes to applying for Medicare. The answer generally is yes, your spouse can qualify for Medicare on your work record. Here's how it

Eligibility Rules

Medicare, the government health insurance program for older adults, covers more than 55 million Americans age 65 and older, as well as those younger that have a qualifying disability or have End-Stage Renal Disease.

To be eligible, you must have worked and paid Medicare taxes for at least 10 years to qualify for premium-free Medicare Part A hospital coverage when you turn 65. If you qualify, then your nonworking spouse will qualify too, based on your work record when she turns 65.

Divorced spouses are also eligible if they were married at least 10 years and are single, as are surviving spouses who are single and who were married for at least nine months before their Other Medicare Options spouse died.

In addition to Part A, both you and your spouse would also qualify for Medicare Part B, which covers doctor's visits and other outpatient services, but requires a monthly premium, not a work history. The premium for most Part B beneficiaries in 2016 is $104.90 per month, while earning couples - those with incomes over $170,000 per year – pay even more.

There are also a number of other caveats you should know about depending on your wife's age.

If your wife is older than you, she can qualify for Medicare on your work record at age 65, even if you're not getting Medicare yourself, but you must be at least 62 years old. You also must have been married for at least one year for your wife to apply for Medicare on your work record.

want to enroll only in the premium-free Medicare Part A until you retire or your employer coverage ends. Part B - along with its premium - can be added later without penalty as long as your employer's group health plan is your "primary coverage." Check with your employers' human resources department to find out about this.

If your wife is more than three years older than you and has no health coverage, you can buy her Medicare Part A until you turn 62 and the premium-free benefit kicks in. The Part A monthly premium is $411 in 2016.

Younger Spouse

If your wife is younger than you, she will need health insurance until she turns 65 and becomes eligible for Medicare. This may be through your employer if you are still working, through COBRA (see dol.gov/ebsa/publications/ cobraemployee.html), or through the Health Insurance Marketplace (see healthcare.gov) or outside the marketplace through a private insurance company.

In addition to Medicare Part A and B, when you and your wife become Medicare eligible, each of you will also need to enroll in a Part D prescription drug plan if you don't have credible drug coverage from your employer or union. And, you may want to purchase a Medicare supplemental (Medigap) policy too, to help pay new beneficiaries pay $121.80/month and higher for things that aren't covered by Medicare like copayments, coinsurance and deductibles. Or, you may want to consider an all-in-one Medicare Advantage plan.

For more information on Medicare choices and enrollment rules visit Medicare.gov or call 800-633-4227. You can also get help through your State Health Insurance Assistance Program (see shiptacenter.org), which provides free Medicare counseling.

Send your senior questions to: Savvy Senior, P.O. Box 5443, Norman, OK 73070, or visit SavvySenior. If you are still working and your wife is covered org. Jim Miller is a contributor to the NBC Today by your employer's health insurance, she may show and author of "The Savvy Senior" book.

If you answered that they were all Robinson doesn't look natural unless he's produced between 1945 and 1955, you're right, clenching a sausage-size cigar between his teeth but there's an even bigger similarity. That's right --vou've never heard of them!

These are just three of an infinite number of to download. Growing up without network television, my family and I watched a lot of old movies. In elementary school, my lack of TV knowledge posed somewhat of a social barrier. When all my classmates were talking about the Smurfs and Pee Wee Herman, I could tell them about Laurel & Hardy or the Road Movies, but I was clueless about what was shown on Nickelodeon the previous night, or anything made after 1959 for that matter.

Even as an adult, my TV-less past occasionally comes back to haunt me. Every so often my colleagues make references to some popular show or movie, and everyone will get the joke except me. I've given up trying to fake it and wait until they eventually say, "Oh, right. a finite period of time have produced a seemingly You don't know about that..." Needless to say, I thought I was pretty well versed regarding all the old films. But the age of downloading has shown me that what I thought was a "well of film knowledge" is barely a drop in the cinematic Granted, you've probably never heard of these films, and there's a reason for that --they stink! "The Big Leaguer" is a perfect example. It has Vera Ellen wasting her singing and dancing talent very believable as a fun-loving baseball club scout. Lugosi's estate isn't living off the royalties!

The title itself is ripe with possibilities for ridicule! During a particularly dramatic scene, she pleads with Gary Cooper, "I'd give you my teeth for a watch fob!" You'd do what? Even Barbara knew it was a dumb line, and tried to not draw attention to herself by saying it really fast. But think about it, would the dashing Coop be seen with a toothless girlfriend gumming her food, not to mention sacrificing his favorite watch fob?

Beyond the casting and bad writing, these movies are amazing if only for the fact that there appears to be a neverending supply of them! Just when I thought I'd heard of all the good, bad, and ugly films from the 40's and 50's, my dad gives

Although these films haven't added much to our appreciation of cinematography, there is one silver lining to Dad's gleanings. CURIOSITY ROVER CELEBRATES FOUR YEARS ON MARS

As NASA's Mars Science Laboratory (MSL) celebrates four years on the Red Planet, University of Leicester planetary scientist Professor John Bridges recounts the mission's success and explains what is next for the one-ton nuclear-powered science robot.

The Curiosity rover (with MSL aboard) hit the dusty Martian surface on August 6, 2012, and began its mission of finding evidence about whether ancient Mars offered environmental conditions conducive to microbial life.

By March 2013, NASA reported that MSL had achieved its primary objective after scientists found evidence of oxygen, nitrogen, hydrogen, sulfur, phosphorous and carbon—all essential chemical elements for supporting living organisms.

Now the mission, which was scheduled to end this year, has recently been given a two-year extension.

Bridges said, "It's been a great four years—from the excitement of landing we have now had 1,421 Martian days of operations and driven 13.6 km. We have learned an enormous amount about Mars."

"The old idea of Mars as a simple basaltic planet that experienced a few catastrophic floods has been disproved. We have encountered ancient lakes and a silica-rich crust.

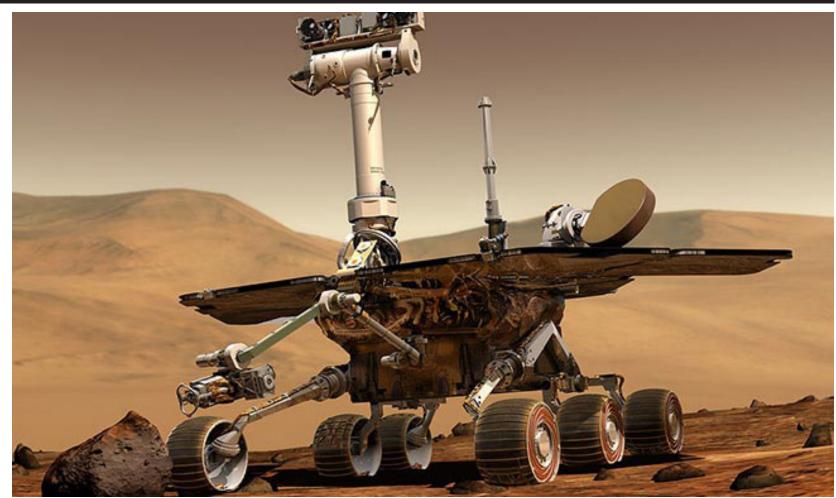

"Our laser—ChemCam—has made over 350,000 shots on Mars and we are busily interpreting the data." Bridges added that the Mars Science Lab's plutonium power source can keep it going for years to come. "For the next few years," he says, we will gradually climb further up Mount Sharp; at the moment we are in foothills called Murray Buttes."

As part of the fourth-year celebration, NASA has released a smartphone game, which lets users control their own MSL across the rugged terrain of Mars searching for water.

On their mobile devices, players drive a rover through rough Martian terrain, challenging themselves to navigate and balance the rover while earning points along the way. The game also illustrates how NASA's next Mars rover, in development for launch in 2020, will use radar to search for underground water.

"We're excited about a new way for people on the go to engage with Curiosity's current adventures on Mars and future exploration by NASA's Mars 2020 visit: mars.nasa.gov/gamee-rover

The interest that is shared through gameplay also helps us open a door to deeper literacy in science, technology, engineering and mathematics." During the rover's first Earth year on Mars, the mission accomplished its main goal when it found and examined an ancient habitable environment. No signs of life have yet been found, but researchers determined that a freshwater lake at the Yellowknife MtnViewsNews.com.

PINCHING PENNIES IN A NICKEL ECONOMY

An incident happened this past week that I don't often think about too many things. but it is interesting that God can create money? After all, with only one little gray cell, it is hard to think about things in the plural. "One-thought-at-a-time," is my life motto. Experience don't need it." I think he was right about 95% has taught me that too many thoughts at any given time, usually leads to trouble with the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage.

I was going to pick up a few items at Publix when it happened. I parked in the parking lot as normal, got out of the car and started towards the store. Halfway to the store is when Even now as I think about it, I'm a little excited. Believe me; it takes quite a bit to get me excited these days.

Walking towards the entrance to the store, I saw on the ground a penny, which caused me to stop in my tracks.

I do not bend over for anything unless it is important these days. My problem is that if I bend over I will have difficulty in unbending. It has to be something rather important for me to bend down, let alone pick it up.

However, there it was in all of its glory.

I do remember one of my favorite quotes from Benjamin Franklin, "A penny saved is a penny earned." He was a wise old man and should know about these things.

I would like to amend that quote by saying, "A penny found is a penny earned." After all, you cannot leave a penny there on the ground all by

Some people would complain that a penny is not worth that much. But a penny is worth one cent. And one cent has value, at least in my

The formula goes something like this: 100 pennies equals one dollar. 100 dollars equals a whole heap of money.

As I bent down to pick up this orphaned penny, I thought of all the other orphaned pennies that I have collected throughout my life. I make it a practice to adopt all of these orphaned pennies and keep them safely on my dresser.

The penny that I picked up was a little corroded and dirty, but it had the same value as a bright shiny clean penny. Outside appearances do not fool me. In fact, I will take all the dirty pennies you have.

I don't know if it was my upbringing that caused me to be rather cautious with money. Or, if not having a lot of money throughout life has done the same thing. What I do know is, I am very careful when it comes to money.

Don't get me wrong. Money is not my god. created for me a certain pause to think about Some people make a god out of money, which I think is rather silly. Money cannot create a God,

> As a young boy, my father taught me this one of the time. Then there are those times when I really needed something and could not afford it.

> I have tried to save money. I own a small piggy bank that I put extra cash into it as I find it. I try to hide it from my wife, which is never a good thing. If you have been married as long as I have, you will conclude that there is actually no way to hide anything from your wife.

> I was trying to save up a little cash for special things that I will leave unsaid at this point. Whenever I got a new coin, I would put it in this little piggy bank I had hidden in my closet.

> I almost reached my goal when something happened. I went to get some money out of the little piggy bank only to find it empty. Now what do I do? Do I let somebody in the house know that I've had a secret stash in my closet? Do I now come out of the closet?

I figured the best protocol would be to say nothing and therefore not get into any trouble. Well, you know how that goes.

That evening as we were watching a little TV my wife happened to say, "I hope you don't mind, but I took some of the money out of your piggy bank in the closet to buy some items."

Don't mind? Even if I did mind, I really can't say anything. All I could say was, "That's okay, I was just saving it for a rainy day." "That's what I thought," my wife said most thoughtfully, "yesterday was a rainy day."

At least my money was used for somebody's good purpose. The thought that danced around in my head was, how long did she know I had that piggy bank in the closet?

So, the penny that I found in the parking lot this week has found a nice residence in my piggy bank, that is, until it rains.

The apostle Paul said it best, "For the love of money is the root of all evil: which while some coveted after, they have erred from the faith, and pierced themselves through with many sorrows" (1 Timothy 6:10).

Money certainly has its place, but not in the first place where God belongs.

BIRD BRAIN BRILLIANCE

I remember as a kid, hearing the term "bird brain" often used in a derogatory manner, directed at someone who'd just done something really stupid or absent-minded. To me, it seemed like a rude thing to call someone, but unlike many other words that we kids may have used to convey the same sentiment, birdbrain was one we knew we could get away with in front of the adults. The teasingly taunting term, "bird brain" is assumed to have been derived from a similarly insulting moniker, "bird-witted", which dates back to the early 1600's. The original term was used to describe a person with, what we might call today, 'attention deficit disorder', presumably applicable because a bird appears to lack focus when flying to and fro in rapid motion, with no apparent direction. Ironically however, in reality this notion could not be further from the truth.

The presumptuous premise behind the use of the ill-mannered idiom, "bird brain" is based on the human's erroneous perspective that birds have proportionately small brains, and appear to lack intelligence. In applying that thoughtless theory to calling someone a bird brain indicates that a person who acts foolishly must have a small brain like a bird, and therefore he must be stupid.

The remarkable irony lies in the fact that birds are far-and-way more focused than the average human believes or perceives them to be. As a matter of fact, some species of birds are even considered to be among the most intelligent wild creatures in the animal kingdom, and certain species of birds possess some amazing brain capabilities that God apparently did not see fit to instill in the human being. I'm not talking about instinctual behaviors, I'm referring to scientifically proven facts about the biological properties of a bird's brain that equate to higher intelligence, as we humans define it.

experiment conducted by animal psychologist, Irene Pepperberg at Harvard University. Doctor when it comes to brain brilliance!

Pepperberg purchased ordinary pet-store parrot that she named "Alex" (a cute, catchy acronym for Aviary Language EXperiment), and went right to work, teaching and observing

By the end of the experiment, Pepperberg wrote in her book, Alex & Me that Alex could identify 50 different objects and recognize quantities up to 6; that he could distinguish 7 colors and 5 shapes, and understand the concepts of

"bigger", "smaller", "same", and "different", and that he was learning the concepts of "over" and "under" when he passed away on September 6, 2007. It is true that a parrot will sometimes mimic sounds and words with no knowledge of what they mean, but they are also capable or learning a wide range of terms and concepts with a complete understanding of their meanings and appropriate

In case the intellect of a parrot does not convince any human green with intelligence envy. What might that be, you ask? The pigeon has an internal GPS (global positioning system) inside his tiny little bird brain. And the pigeon gets to keep his privacy because his GPS is non-track able!

The results of a recent study conducted by Drs. Le-Qing Wu and J. David Dickman was published in Science, the world's leading journal of original scientific research (April 26, 2012), describing the fact that "neuronal responses in a pigeon's brain stem show how single cells encode magnetic field direction, intensity and polarity qualities that are necessary to derive an internal model representing directional heading and geosurface location." To put it in a nut shell (pun intended), the pigeon possesses a unique neural substrate for a vertebrate magnetic sense.

In other words, a "bird brained" pigeon is capable of finding any location he wishes to find on the earth's surface without having to strap on a Tom-Tom! Now run and tell that, Getting, Parkinson and Easton! Oh, and by the way, that thoughtless theory about birds lacking focus and direction definitely goes right out the window when it comes to the common park pigeon.

So, the next time you are tempted to call someone The most blatantly obvious example of a bird brain when they've done something stupid, bird brain brilliance was proven through an think again. In fact, our seemingly flighty feathered friends have apparently got it going on the average human that a bird's brain is indeed small yet brilliant, a particularly remarkable trait possessed by the pigeon is enough to turn

BOB AND JAN WIGHT:

Always Working to Serve Others

By Joan Schmidt

This past May I lost a dear friend, Jan Wight, wrote of her passing and what a remarkable woman she was. She made an impact both in Monrovia and Duarte. Prior to Jan's passing, in February, I reported about her husband Bob Wight's Retirement from Foothill Unity Center and his role in its establishment.

Their story begins with the Jaycees, where they met and became friends. After a while they fell in love and truly were soul mates: their purpose in lives was to improve their community and serve others. Bob told me that after their marriage in 1960, they relocated to his home in Duarte with Jan, "Screaming and Kicking". After all, she lived most of her life in Monrovia. He said they'd have to drive up and down Myrtle Ave. every week so she could get her "Monrovia fix".

After their move to Monrovia, Jan became involved in various fields. First she served on the Duarte School Board. She'd do her "JAN" and encouraged people like Steve Hernandez who questioned education in Duarte to "Get involved and make changes"- which he did. Current Board Member Ken Bell revealed that JAN told him to run for School Board and make a difference.

Jan became Executive of the Duarte Chamber of Commerce. She was involved with the Route 66 Parade and it was she who began the wonderful awards given by the Duarte Chamber at the Mayor's Breakfast. Jan was instrumental in involving youths in the DC TV recording.

When Jan retired from the Chamber, she said she could not have done all she did without Bob's support. The same is true for her time with the Friends of the Duarte Library. He helped her behind the scenes with so many projects.

When Bob retired from the Foothill Unity beginning in a closet at Immaculate Conception Church as a food pantry. Bob became Executive the great organization it is today. EWMP JOINT POWERS AUTHORITY PLANS FOR MANAGING STORMWATER REQUIREMENTS TAKING SHAPE

During the past several months, staff has been City Council at their meeting last week signed engaged in discussions with a variety of different interests and agencies regarding our stormwater may recall, pursuant to the permit, our watershed group was required to develop an Enhanced Watershed Management Plan (EWMP), which includes an estimated $1.4 billion in stormwater clean-up project costs.

Given the financial realities of facing our EWMP group, we have been working to identify alternative methods of stormwater compliance that would be implementable and financially feasible. A major part of the solution that has been identified includes the creation of a sub-regional Joint Powers Authority to manage stormwater clean-up projects and initiatives for our EWMP group, which includes Arcadia, Sierra Madre, Bradbury, Duarte, Azusa, and LA County, in addition to Monrovia.

We recently received word that the Arcadia information becomes available.

POKÉMON IS NO GO FOR SEX OFFENDERS IN CALIFORNIA

Assemblywoman Chang Announces Legislation to Prohibit Sex Offenders from "luring" Kids

Chang (R-Diamond Bar) today announced she is pushing legislation to prohibit sex offenders from using games like Pokemon GO to lure minors to their location. Recent reports have demonstrated how easy it can be for sex offenders to use new geolocation games like Pokémon GO to abuse children.

"I am Pokémon GO's biggest fan - that's no secret," said Assemblywoman Chang. "But as someone who uses the game, you can see how easy it is for criminals and predators to attract people to certain locations -- and many of those players are minors."

Pokémon players have fallen victim to criminals in a number of ways in the one month the game law. The Legislature has until August 31 to send has been released in the US. For example, armed the bill to the governor for consideration.

SACRAMENTO - Assemblywoman Ling Ling robbers have been known bait to victims using the game's features that allow players to lure others hoping to "catch" more Pokémon characters. Meanwhile law enforcement has expressed concerns that sexual predators could use the game in a similar way. Reporters in California have found that the game can bring players within feet of the residences of sex offenders.

"Before new games are released and they grow even more popular, it's critical we establish protections for kids," said Chang.

AB 2682 - once amended - will clarify that using interactive video games like Pokémon GO in an effort to prey on children is prohibited by

Remembrance FATHER FRANK CASSIDY'S LAST DAYS IN IRELAND

By Joan Schmidt

On August 5, 2016, at approximately 8PM, Ireland time, Father Frank Cassidy left us to be with the Lord. Father Cassidy is very well-known in the Arcadia-Monrovia Area for his many years of ministry at Immaculate Conception Church, Monrovia, and Annunciation Church, Arcadia.

When did his ministry begin? Father Frank Cassidy attended All Hallows Seminary in Dublin, Ireland and was one of 43 graduates in 1959. After Ordination, he and other young priests relocated to the United States. Among his assignments were Immaculate Conception, Monrovia, and Annunciation, Arcadia. Fifty years later, Father Cassidy returned to Ireland with Fr. Jack Foley for their Jubilee Celebration. (Twenty-three attended.)

After learning of Father Cassidy's passing, I went to the Immaculate Conception Church website which gave many updates on Father's time in Ireland and I am sharing some of them for all who loved him.

Three months ago, Father Cassidy was told his cancer was terminal. He made the decision to return to his homeland and be surrounded by his beloved family.

First the awesome Immaculate Conception parishioners (And some from Annunciation too!) gave Father Cassidy a Spectacular "Good Bye" on Sunday, July 11th by lining up on Royal Oaks Drive with a banner, "We love you, Father Cassidy."

Father arrived safely in Dublin on July 12th. He was able to eat, sleep and was not in any pain. On July 13th, he spoke to his dear stateside friend, Sr. Nuala. It had been very overwhelming, but he was happy and at peace.

On July 14th, Father met with the Palliative Care

Team and he was happy with their plan for him.

On July 15th, he listened to the Immaculate Heart rough one for Father-change of medication, severe leg pain, emotional past events. July 17th showed improvement and Father was doing well-the trip home was a miracle. On July 18th, his pain was under control.

Father Cassidy was in Ireland a week when his brother Noel passed away. Not only was Father able to see Noel before he passed, but also Father Cassidy concelebrated at his brother's funeral.

Father Cassidy moved from Dublin to Ennis on July 21st and was able to stay in his birth home three days. By July 26, Father was at Cathercalla because he needed round-the clock care. He enjoyed visits from his sister Claire and nephews-apparently he was the favorite uncle.

On July 26th, Sister Nuala reported being so grateful that she has received a ticket to Ireland to be see her dear friend. At the time of his passing, Sr. Nuala and family members were with Father Cassidy.

"Well done, good and faithful servant." You have Radio Show about prayer. July 16th was a severely touched many hearts and served your people well.

FAMILY ROADTRIP ESSAY

By Artistic Director, Christian

Another roadtrip. This time with my family. We've had a wonderful time visiting family, friends, and incredibly beautiful sites. Part of our tour took us to Ashland to visit my son's Godmother. She happens to be the Costume Director for the Oregon Shakespeare Festival the largest theater in America. Regular readers will remember that I was here last year and wrote about the "machine" that this place is producing eleven shows in repertory. I worked here many years ago as an actor and my memories of being here are sweet. I did one of the three best plays I've ever been involved with when I was in Shakespeare's

This trip I saw two plays: a very funny adaptation of Gilbert & Sullivan's The Yeoman of the Guard. It was reset in the Wild West and was played fast and loose in and amongst the audience - making them part of the show. It was filed with wonderful singer/actors who were cheeky in their dealings with the audience gathered around them. The set featured two adultsized hobby horses that patrons could sit on during the show and a bar from which we could get drinks and treats while the action was underway. My son was

The night before we saw The Wiz - the adaptation of The Wizard of Oz which was originally produced in 1978. It was a disappointment. The show itslf is not really very good - I think it relies too much on the audiences familiarity with the story. That familiarity allows the audience to fill in the holes in the story. The director did not solve the problems of the show and I was not very engaged. There were some particularly wonderful actors in the show - working their hearts out, but all in all, I was surprised that the Festival would have allowed this mess

Notwithstanding the quality of the show, the Elizabethan Theater (the outdoor space in which The Wiz was playing) holds 1,143 seats. So in one night The Wiz played to more people than many of our shows do in their entire run. It got me thinking of our current production of Putnam County Spelling Bee which has not found its audience despite great reviews and happy audiences. I was so disheartened to think about the great work we are doing at SMP that is going unseen while the very medicare show that I saw in Ashland was celling out very mediocre show that I saw in Ashland was selling out. There is no justice.

Spelling Bee closes on August 21. I do hope you will plan to see it before it closes. Then we'll bring back John Carney for Carney Magic for four shows August 25-28. His two show run sold-out in the Spring and these are bound to, as well. On Monday, August 22, we also have our free reading series play – this time Alison's House by Susan Glaspell which won the Pulitzer in 1931. I've always wanted to hear this play out loud. It is rarely done. This is your Playhouse. Please let me hear from you.

FAMILY MATTERS By Marc Garlett

HOW TO CONTINUE YOUR FAMILY VALUES FOR GENERATIONS

Most of us want to make a mark in the world. That's a big part of what gives our lives meaning. And whether or not we have children, our history and stories can be a unique and irreplaceable gift to our families. With just a little effort, we can preserve our family values for generations to come.

It can be difficult to pass on our traditions and our values, however, especially when we feel no one is listening. Too often, by the time younger generations care about life lessons and stories, the older generations are gone or their memories have orally or by hand. But writing things down takes substantial time and effort, and let's face it, not all of us have the patience or the penmanship for it.

But today, video technology makes preserving our family values easier than ever. Using a camera, computer webcam, or even your cellular phone, information.

you can preserve your values and stories for your family. All you need to do is list what you'd like to talk about, then get the camera (or microphone) rolling. Here are some things you can talk about: Generations that came before you;

Your childhood and immediate family;

Funny stories about you and other family members; Family traditions;

Family values; and

Lessons you have learned about yourself and the

I believe sharing your family values and life's lessons is even more important than passing along vour monetary wealth and material possessions. But of course both are an important part of estate planning and of caring for your family. By being proactive now, you can preserve both your personal and your financial assets for your loved ones after

You don't need a lawyer to help capture your stories, wisdom, and values, but if you want a truly comprehensive estate plan that accounts for your whole family wealth, personal as well as financial, you want the kind of estate plan our firm creates for clients. Every estate plan we create includes a Family Wealth Legacy component. And that is actually the type of asset your loved ones will probably treasure most.

A COMATOSE MAN WAKES TO THE 2016 ELECTION

'Where am I?" asked the man from his hospital bed. "You were in a freak accident," said the doctor. "You've been comatose since 1986." "Since 1986?" said the patient. "That's

"It surely is," said the doctor. "What is the last thing you can remember?" "I remember the speech President Reagan gave after the Challenger disaster," said the patient. "I remember how united the country was after the speech."

'Well, a lot has changed since then," said the doctor. "For the sake of your health, it's best that we ease you into the events of 2016 slowly." "Come on, Doc, lay it on me. Who is president now?" "President Barack Obama, America's first black president." "That is awesome," said the patient. "I am so proud my country made such progress while I slept. Has President Obama got our country more unified than ever?" "He's unified half of the country," said the doctor. The other half, not so much.'

"Who's running for president this year?" "Oh, where to start?" said the doctor. "Well, the Democrats have nominated America's first female presidential candidate, Hillary Clinton." "Holy cow, that is amazing," said the patient. "Before I went into a coma, women had to marry successful men to be successful themselves. Hillary Clinton is a woman who rose to her station through her own accomplishments and her own name recognition?" "It's best I answer that question when you are a little stronger," said the doctor.

"With all the progress that has been accomplished during my coma, have the Republicans nominated a female presidential candidate, too?" asked the patient. 'No, they nominated real-estate magnate Donald Trump, who keeps promising to make America great again," said the doctor. "Donald Trump, the junk-bond casino developer, who used to boast about his wealth on Oprah?" "The one and only," said the doctor.

"But if America is so unified and has moved forward so much during my slumber, why would Americans want someone like Trump to be president?

"Oh, where to start?" said the doctor. "Look, I'm sorry to say, but the country is suffering severe disunity at the moment. The economy is stagnant, entitlement costs are about to sore and our country has more than $20 trillion in debt."

"Did you say trillion with a 'T'?" asked the patient.

"Regrettably," said the doctor. "Many people are struggling to find work. Others worry about the country their children and grandchildren will inherit. Others have the sense that nobody is in charge of the country, that we are in an era of irreversible decline, both economically and morally. This paves the way for a populist, such as Trump, who is able to connect with common folks and convince them he is on their

"If Trump is a common man, I'll eat my own head," said the patient. "What else awaits me outside the hospital doors?

"Well, terrorism is on the ascent, as radical fundamentalist religious sects wreak havoc in the Middle East, across Europe and even here in America," said the doctor. At home, there is growing racial discord that is making everyone sad. There is a sense among many that on the large issues of our time, we are headed backward rather than forward.'

"Let me get this right," said the patient. "Despite all the progress America made while I was under, the economy is a mess, global stability is faltering, the country is woefully divided and a junk-bond casino king might ride populism all the way to the White House?"

"That's right," said the doctor. "Any other questions or requests?"

"Just one," said the patient. "Induce me back into a coma!"

THE PRESIDENTIAL PLATFORM I'D LIKE TO HEAR

By Jan Gratton Wright

As a teacher, I see how important it is to have a holistic approach in education. You must consider the whole student: mind, body, and spirit. Educators are constantly analyzing lesson plans in order to be sure they are meeting not only the cognitive goals, but also fostering growth for the rest of the student, such as their socialemotional-physical development. A presidential platform is also a holistic plan that must consider all the needs of the country and its people: domestic and foreign, environment and economy, sustainability and practicality. Someday, I hope I will hear a candidate's platform that is complete as well as realistic. Here are some talking points I would like to hear considered:

A: Alternative Energy/Green Infrastructure. From architects to engineers to contractors and beyond, I want to hear about diversifying/redesigning the way we do things, from how homes are built to how we travel to how we live our daily lives. We need a sustainable plan, one that balances our environment, culture, and industry, and will meet the needs of a 21-century world.

M: Military. Our military must be professional and share in a common vision to protect our borders and people while holding to a higher standard. Dignity, honor, respect, and competence should be words used to describe American troops and methods, whether they are providing humanitarian relief or fighting terrorism.

E: Education: Arts and Science, Literacy and Math. From Pre K through college, education should be available to all. It should be affordable, relevant, and of the highest quality. Student loans should not be the obstacle they are today.

R: Reform. So many of our tax- funded programs need to be reformed because they are simply outdated. Welfare, prisons, health care, immigration, and programs for toddlers through retirement need to be restructured so we can turn expenses into resources. Policies are also in need of revision, or at least clarification, especially those protecting our privacy.

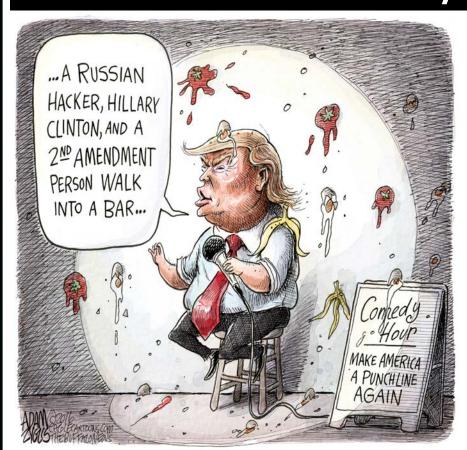

I: Invest in Americans - American jobs and American products. Our industries, from farming to manufacturing to information and all the others that are a part of our economy, must be ethical as well as profitable. Capitalism doesn't have to be the evil some say it is. Systems aren't evil, but how they are implemented can be. If we want our nation's leaders to have integrity, then the same must be true about We the People, the employers and those we employ.

C: Community with Unity. When you think of stories whose theme is Good Vs. Evil, what do the Good Guys have in common? They are on the side that represents the best interests of the people: what is safe and true and respectful and just. This translates to people treating each other as they want to be treated themselves. It's as simple as that. Ours is a pluralistic society, but the Golden Rule is that what unifies

A: Abroad. We have to look past our borders at the global community and partner with our allies, negotiate but not compromise our values or safety, and work towards bringing about a global stability. We are still a superpower and have the responsibility of being a good steward of this planet and its peoples.

My list is not exhaustive nor does it flesh out a 4-year plan of action. But any issues not directly named can probably fit into one of the categories. The key is that this platform would take a different mindset than what's being represented today. It's one that values cooperation, sustainability, and adapting to an everchanging world with technology. Old policies/methods must be allowed to retire if they aren't efficiently serving a necessary purpose anymore. We must be open to diversifying, setting new goals, having new standards, and redefining our measures for success. Sadly, I have not heard enough of this type of platform yet, especially with this mindset. Maybe, as my former students reach the voting age, they will bring about a change in what comprises a successful platform...I would love to share in their discussions and hear what talking points would make their list.

MAKING SENSE by Michael Reagan

TRUMP BLOWS HIMSELF UP AGAIN

Donald Trump didn't listen.

Last week I said the only thing that could save his campaign was for him to literally shut up for at least a month.

My modest proposal was for his campaign people to lock him in a soundproof booth until November 9th.

But forget that. I've got a better idea to put the Trump circus train on the right track.

Trump's support in the polls is stuck at about 42 percent.

To win, we know he has to get the votes of disaffected Republicans, terrified independents and people who don't already believe Obama was born in a grass hut in Kenya. But to get their support by Election Day he has to do two things.

He has to stop saying stupid things in public and he has to give a hundred more speeches like the great one he delivered in Detroit on Monday. Unfortunately, there's just one way to prevent Trump from saying stupid things and it's probably against federal election laws. His campaign people need to make him wear a shock collar – just like the ones you put on your family dog for those invisible backyard fences. That way, every time Donald strays from the teleprompter, Paul Manafort can just hit the button and give him a big jolt upside the neck.

"Although the Second Amendment people, maybe" – ZAAAPPPPP. This week was a total disaster, but it began with a really good speech in Detroit. Of course someone else wrote it. Of course Trump read it. But with a few exceptions his conservative economic ideas sounded like they came from the Wall Street Journal editorial page. Trump said he'd cut income tax rates, increase individual exemptions, reduce the number of tax brackets from seven to three and slash the corporate tax rate to 15 percent. He'd also end the death tax and the alternative minimum tax. What Trump said in Detroit – especially the part about how the city has been wrecked by half a century of local Democratic rule and liberal federal social policies – should become his standard stump speech. He could read it almost word for word in city after city. All he'd have to do is change Detroit to Chicago, Toledo, St. Louis, etc. A speech like that is what it takes to win a general election, not another speech calling Hillary a liar or charging the Clinton family with pioneering the globalization of graft.

Trump got great media coverage for his Detroit speech but it didn't even last a day. On Tuesday every liberal in the media was parsing his comments about "Second Amendment people" to prove he was encouraging the assassination of Hillary or joking about it. I'm surprised no one on CNN's panel of liberals went to a blackboard and started to diagram Trump's sentences.

But the media don't really care what he actually says or meant to say. They'll spin it whichever way they can so that Trump appears to be in favor of killing babies. Trump blew himself up again, thanks to his own stupidity and lack of self-control. Instead of getting a week of praise for a hard-hitting economic speech, he spent four days watching the print and electronic media gang up on him like he was America's Vladimir Putin.

Instead of enjoying Hillary Clinton stumbling over answers to questions about her emails, or explaining why the Taliban-loving father of the Orlando mass murderer was her biggest supporter, Trump hogged the airtime.

He proved my point last week – just shut up, Donald.

It's a shame. If any of the other 16 candidates had won the Republican primary this election would be over.

All Trump and his daily fumbles are doing now is opening the door wider and wider for the libertarian twins, ex-Republican governors Gary Johnson and Bill Weld. At the end of the day, they may be the only adults in the room.
