Walking Sierra Madre...The Social Side

"I have said enough to last a lifetime and, for the last time, I wish you all a very pleasant good afternoon.....There will be a new day, and eventually a new year, and when the upcoming winter gives way to spring, ah, rest assured, once again it will be time for Dodger baseball!" he said. "So this is Vin Scully wishing you a very pleasant afternoon, wherever you may be."

What a class act! Vin Scully at the conclusion of his very last game, announcing for the Dodgers. As Bill Plaschke put it in Monday's Times Sports page, "Silence. Chills. In the will not be the same without him."

Speaking of class acts, the gardens at our very own Sierra Madre City Hall are a very class act. Our gardens are serving as an "International Model for Sustainable Landscaping." That's something for all of us to be very proud of and if you haven't been down there to walk through and see the wonders that have been created, you need to!

A nifty young woman, Danielle Killian, invited me to be part of the Greenbuild 2016 Los Angeles Birds and Bees Garden Tour, which started downtown at the LA Convention Center, progressed to the Sierra Madre City Hall, then on to the residential garden in La Canada, winding up at Descanso Gardens. My walking buddy, John, and I are huge fans of what's been accomplished here in Sierra Madre to create a landscape that is Lush, Leafy and Low-Water! The drought, apparently, is here to stay and we're all going to need to readjust our thinking. From expanses of water-consuming lawns, we're just gonna to have to move on to new gardens which use 60-80% less water but are still beautiful. We won't be making sacrifices, we'll be setting new standards and my time with the Garden Tour was a revelation. The Authentic Foothill Gardens (we do have an official name) are truly a city project, started purely to save water as they were all flat lawn and wistaria to start with but, thanks to all the folks here who weighed in with opinions and even nicer, a bunch of their own personal $$$, we now have five different areas suited to their location, with two different types of grasses and plants that are not only beautiful, but can mitigate fire, retain slopes, replenish the groundwater table and feed wildlife. I'm Tour a success. imagining these amazing plants all wearing Superman capes!

Actually, the folks who made this happen: Blog: www.authordeanne.com Sierra Madre Community Foundation, Sierra Madre Garden Club, dozens of volunteers and Laughter" is available there... installation by city staff, are the ones who As are all the Emma Gainsworth Adventures should be wearing Superman capes!

The Chapparal & Coastal Sage Garden (full sun) features the plants that once dominated our hillsides. These kids are tough, with thick leathery leaves that reduce evaporation and they're beautiful! We have a Fire Garden - right next to the Fire Department - totally apropos. These are all fire resistant plants that can even cool off the area where they live and they retain moisture. The Fire Department had to promise not to do anything to the palm trees and to keep the wistaria alive. The Wildlife Garden coming years, wherever Dodgers fans may be, it is by the Police Department - these garden people have a sense of humor, don't they - and will entice butterflies, birds, beneficial insects, hummingbirds and lizards. Maybe we'll see more Monarch butterflies, which would be nice. The Edible Garden includes some nice picnic tables where we could bring our lunch, which we purchased at one of Sierra Madre's dandy restaurants, and dine next to plants which once were used for food and medicinal purposes. The Shade Garden is, obviously, in a spot where very little sunlight penetrates and I noticed a nice big rock with a plaque, "In Memory of Jim Heasley."

Many thanks to our garden's designer, Isara Ongwiseth, for turning an ordinary spot into a fabulous place where we are welcome to visit, get ideas to take home and change our way of thinking. Signs in the garden ask, "Is your garden water wise?" "Plant Native this Fall!" And, as scarecrows are the theme all over town, there's one right there in front of City Hall.

Remember the old song that Billie Holiday sang...just slightly changed...

"For there's a change in the weather There's a change in the scene, So from now on there'll be a change in me. My yard will be different, it's gonna be great, Nothin' about me is going to be the same. I'm goin' to change my way of livin' -Get rid of that lawn and go Native! There'll be some changes made today There'll be some changes made!"

Many thanks to Danielle Killian, Cassy Aoyagi, Eric Crow and all those who made this Garden

Mindy (A364226) is a 4-year-old, spayed female, white and black pit bull mix. She enjoys being petted and loves meeting new people on visits out on our Mobile Unit, where she has done well around other dogs her size. When she's not busy winning over our volunteers and staff with her friendly, affectionate personality, Mindy enjoys showing off her obedience skills for a treat. This smart girl knows her sit, down and stay commands, earning her a Blue Ribbon from our behavior staff and reducing her adoption fee to $100.

The adoption fee for dogs is normally $125, but since Mindy has earned her Blue Ribbon her fee is just $100. This fee includes the spay or neuter surgery, microchip, and vaccinations.

New adopters will receive a complimentary health-andwellness exam from VCA Animal Hospitals, as well as a goody bag filled with information about how to care for your pet.

Descanso Gardens Director Brown to Retire

Long-time Descanso Gardens Executive Director David Brown announced Thursday his plans to retire in the coming year. He has served since 2005 as executive director of the member-supported botanic garden in La Cañada Flintridge, which is owned by the County of Los Angeles and managed by the Descanso Gardens Guild, Inc., a nonprofit organization formed in 1957.

The Descanso Gardens Guild Inc. board of trustees has formed a transition committee to coordinate the national search for his successor.

"As the board of trustees conducts the search for my successor, I plan to be as busy as ever as we debut our new seasonal production, 'Enchanted: Forest of Light,' celebrate the 50th anniversary of our Japanese Garden, continue with the many and fascinating aspects of our conservation and sustainability mission, and help forward the Gardens' strategic agenda," he said. "I'm very proud of our senior team and know they will take good care of Descanso's day-to-day urgencies as well as the long-term course we've set Reflecting on his tenure at Descanso Gardens, he said, "It's been a sheer pleasure. RACING RETURNS TO GREAT RACE PLACE:

Espinosa Wins Four Including CA Chrome; And the BEST is yet to come!

By Joan Schmidt

Friday, Thoroughbred Racing returned to Santa Anita. Veteran jockey Kent Desormeaux won three races that day. We arrived late, but saw Joe Talamo win on Abel Tasman, Rafael Bejarano on Backport Kat, and Jamie Theriot on Holy Lute.

Saturday was the BIG DAY. Jockey Florent Geroux flew in from back East, but wasn't successful. However, Sierra Madre's Victor Espinosa had FOUR wins! They included Hootie, Gormley, California Chrome and Victor is a hero to me because he cares so much about children who are cancer victims. A few years back, when I spoke to him, he was teary-eyed when he talked about what they went through. Victor not only donates much of his earnings, but visits those kids at City of Hope, bringing so much joy.

California Chrome has the WINNINGEST earnings in the history of Thoroughbred Racing-not surprising after that win at Dubai. Saturday, attendance at Santa Anita was high-everyone wanted to see Chrome versus Dortmund, another fine horse in the Awesome Again Stakes. It was a great race, and Later in the day it was the "Ladies" turn-fillies and mares. I love Beholder ridden by Gary Stevens because she beat all the guys last year at Del Mar in the Pacific Stakes. However in Saturday's Zenyatta Stakes, "Win and You're in Distaff Division", she lost to Stellar Wind, ridden by Victor Espinosa. Gary had no excuses. His horse ran second best, but to me Beholder is still a very special mare.

On November 4th and 5th, the Breeders Cup-Thoroughbred Horse Racing's World Series-comes to Arcadia for a 9th unprecedented time! The best horses and jockeys from around the world come to participate! Please visit breederscup.com to purchase your tickets, while they're still available. See you there!

Based on our current schedule, street related construction work in the Southwest and Southeast portions of town (between Colorado Boulevard and the 210 Freeway and east and west to our City limits) will be starting in late October 2016.

The work will start initially in the Southwest area of Monrovia renewal, beginning at the western edge of the City and working their way east towards Myrtle Avenue between Colorado Boulevard and the I-210 Freeway (see the attached guide to street repairs document included with this email). Based on the phasing of the work, City contractors will initially begin their improvement efforts by making a variety of concrete repairs, including curbs, gutters, driveway approaches, and sidewalks. This work will occur in waves, focusing on one task at a time, similar to an assembly line that follows the process outlined below: A crew will make cuts in the damaged concrete areas. FOOD AND DRINK

TABLE FOR TWO by Peter Dills thechefknows@yahoo.com

There are snobs, and there are wine snobs. I hope I don't belong to either club. I get a big chuckle out of that radio commercial with lady who only drinks 90+ point wine - why? Does she like to waste money? I say if it tastes good to you, buy it and drink it. I read recently that 30% of all purchases are not based on price, but if the label looks good. But,

This week I drank Wente Chardonnay. I remember the Wente Wines from many years ago as maybe a sparkler at a Sunday brunch. The wines were always serviceable, not highly memorable. As they say, however, "this chardonnay is a step up in class". Retailing for around $18 it offers a great taste and won't make you break junior's piggy bank. Hailing from the Monterey Coast this chardonnay is a single source wine, meaning that 95% of the grapes were sourced right at the winery. This snob likes that. My sources tell me that they do indeed make an above-average sparkler with very limited distribution, which sounds like a great reason to go to the winery. Goes great with soft cheese or how about crab cakes? Either way a fine sipping wine.

Dills Score 90

Each week I will give you my Dills Score. I have added points for value. I'm starting with a base of 50 points; I added 8 points for color, 7 points for aroma or "nose", 8 points for taste, 8 points for finish, and 9 points for my overall impression, which includes my value rating.

THE GOOD LIFE

Dear Savvy Senior,

Are there any specific flu shots that are better suited for seniors? I just turned 65 and would like to find out what's recommended and how Medicare covers

Semi-Healthy Senior

Dear Semi-Healthy,

There are actually two different flu vaccines available this year that are designed specifically for seniors age 65 and older. One option is the Fluzone High-Dose, which has been available since 2010, and the other is the new FDA approved FLUAD vaccine (you only need to get one of these).

The Fluzone High-Dose (see Fluzone.com) is a high-potency vaccine that contains four times the amount of antigen as a regular flu shot does, which creates a stronger immune response for better protection. While the new FLUAD vaccine (FLUAD.com) contains an added ingredient called adjuvant MF59 that also helps create a stronger immune response.

The extra protection these vaccines provide is particularly helpful to seniors who have weaker immune defenses and have a great risk of developing dangerous flu complications. The CDC estimates that the flu puts more than 200,000 people in the hospital each year and kills an average of 24,000 - 80 to 90 percent of whom are

But be aware that both the Fluzone High-Dose and FLUAD are not recommended for seniors who are allergic to chicken eggs, or those who have had a severe reaction to a flu vaccine in the past.

You should also know that the Center for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) does not recommend one vaccination over the other, and to date, there have been no studies comparing the taken at least 11 months apart. two vaccines.

If you decide you don't want to get a senior-(trivalent) flu shot, the quadrivalent flu shot which show and author of "The Savvy Senior" book.

protects against four different flu viruses, and the FluBlok vaccine for those who have egg allergies.

To locate a vaccination site that offers any of these flu shots, visit Vaccines.gov and type in your ZIP code. You'll also be happy to know that as a Medicare beneficiary, Part B will cover 100 percent of the costs of any flu shot, as long as your doctor, health clinic or pharmacy agrees not to charge you more than Medicare pays.

Pneumonia Vaccines

FLU VACCINES DESIGNED SPECIFICALLY FOR SENIORS

Two other important vaccinations the CDC recommends to seniors, especially this time of year, are the pneumococcal vaccines for pneumonia. Around 1 million Americans are hospitalized with pneumonia each year, and about 50,000 people die

The CDC is now recommending that all seniors, 65 or older, get two vaccinations -Prevnar 13 and Pneumovax 23. Both vaccines, which are administered just once at different times, work in different ways to provide maximum protection.

If you haven't yet received any pneumococcal vaccine you should get the Prevnar 13 first, followed by Pneumovax 23 six to 12 months later. But if you've already been vaccinated with Pneumovax 23, wait at least one year before getting the Prevnar 13.

Medicare Part B covers both shots, if they are

KATIE Tse.....This and That DAY AT THE MUSEUM

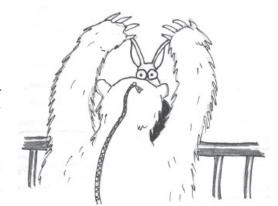

Happy Fall! My parents and I recently made our annual visit to Oak Glen. If you've never been you must go there. Nestled in the foothills of Yucaipa, Oak Glen is close enough for a day trip, and far away enough to get you out of the congestion of L.A. And, of course, there's the apples. Not only are there all kinds of exotic varieties like Mutsu, Winesap, and Pippin, but there's also an endless number of apple-inspired breads, pastries, and jams. This year I finally gave in and bought a bag of freshly fried donuts from Snow Line, worth every calorie. But perhaps the most unusual thing at Oak Glen is its "museum." We did not go there this time. But the one and only time we went was stiff family. Eventually we came along to the live memorable enough.

FINAL DESCENT IMAGE FROM ROSETTA SPACECRAFT

Rosetta's mission is over: After the last signal on Sept. 30, 2016, the spacecraft was crash-landed on comet 67P/Churyumov-Gerasimenko, taking measurements and sending them to Earth right until the very end.

The final descent image of the comet was taken from the European Space Agency (ESA) Rosetta spacecraft moments before its controlled impact into the comet's surface. Confirmation of the end of the mission arrived at ESA's European Space Operations Center in Darmstadt, Germany, at 4:19 a.m. PDT (7:19 a.m. EDT / 1:19 p.m. CEST) with the loss of signal upon impact.

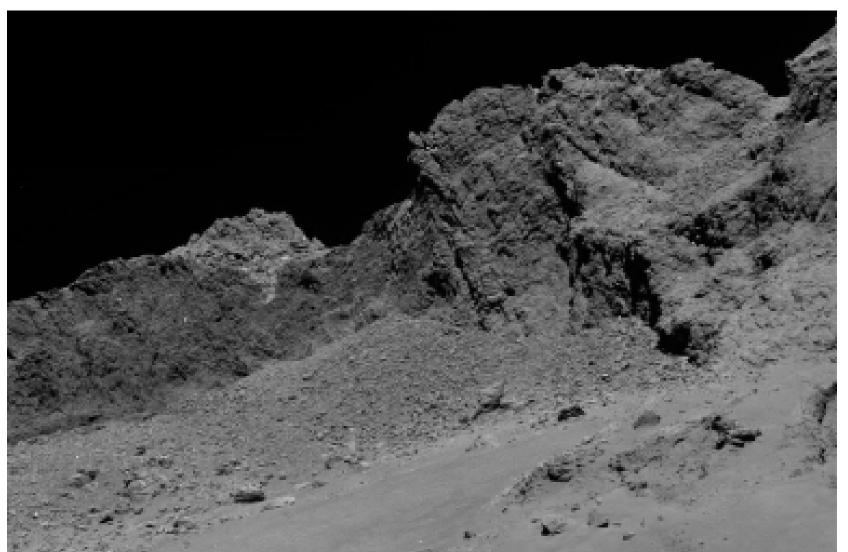

The final descent gave Rosetta the opportunity to study the comet's gas, dust and plasma environment very close to its surface, as well as taking very high-resolution images.

The final image was taken from an altitude of 167 feet above the comet's surface by the spacecraft's OSIRIS wide-angle camera. The image scale is about two-tenths of an inch (5 millimeters) per pixel. The image measures about 9 feet across.

The decision to end the mission on the surface is a result of Rosetta and the comet heading out beyond the orbit of Jupiter again. Farther from the Sun than Rosetta had ever journeyed before, there would be little power available to operate the craft. Mission operators were also faced with an imminent month-long period when the Sun is close to the line-of-sight between Earth and Rosetta, meaning communications with the craft would have become increasingly more difficult.

The European Space Agency's Rosetta mission was launched in 2004 and arrived at comet 67P/ Churyumov-Gerasimenko on Aug. 6, 2014. It is the first mission in history to rendezvous with a comet and escort it as it orbits the Sun. On Nov. 4, 2014, a small lander name Philae, which had been deployed from the Rosetta mothership, touched down on the comet and bounced several times before finally alighting on the surface. Philae obtained the first images taken from a comet's surface and sent back valuable scientific data for several days.

The spectacular mission has now come to an end, with Rosetta undergoing a controlled crash on "its" energy available to the solar-powered spacecraft was decreasing. Consequently, ESA decided to crash-land the spacecraft on the comet. Rosetta therefore followed its landing probe "Philae" and now still circles the Sun in its "final resting place."

Rosetta's mission took twelve years including comet. As the comet moves away from the Sun, the notable firsts like the first orbit of a comet and, for

THE GARLIC AND ONION FAMILY

If you already enjoy garlic, onions, and other members of this family, you should also know that garlic is good for your health too.

The consumption of garlic and onions is believed to be a contributory factor in helping hypertension. In a variety of tests, garlics and onions (and members of that family) have been shown to reduce cholesterol, reduce high blood pressure, and reduce the incidence of flu.

For example, Dr. Alan Tsai, PhD with the Michigan School of Health, has tested rats and humans for the effects of garlic on cholesterol levels. He fed test groups high cholesterol diets, with one group receiving garlic. Those who included garlic had cholesterol levels that rose about four percent, as opposed to those without garlic whose cholesterol levels rose 23%. Dr. Tsai noted that the incidence of cardiovascular and other diseases is lower in countries whose populations consume large amounts of garlic, though he was reluctant to attribute this effect solely to garlic.

Various studies reported in the Indian Journal of Nutrition and Dietetics concluded that both onions and garlic in the diet lowered blood cholesterol levels. Studies in Germany and in the $U.S.\ have\ produced\ similar\ results.$

Cholesterol builds up in fatty plaques on the artery walls, and so it is believed to be a major factor in the onset of heart disease. Anything that reduces high cholesterol levels helps to keep

Dr. Truswell, professor at the Queen Elizabeth College of London University conducted research by feeding human subjects high fat meals with and without onions. He found that blood platelets stuck together faster after the high fat, no onion meal, whereas the effect was neutralized when onions were included. Platelets are a compound in the blood which are an important aid in coagulation, but when they "malfunction," they form clots which can lead to thromboses in the arteries to the heart and brain, which can result in strokes and heart attacks. Dr. Truswell believes that by simply including onions in the diet, the chances of having a stroke or heart attack are reduced.

Though there are countless studies pertaining to the effects of garlic and onions on the human body, it may still be sometime before doctors make conclusive statements such as eating garlic will prevent high blood pressure. Again, this is due to the complexity of "high blood pressure," its various causes, and the fact that no two people Still, we eat garlic just about every day, and we also put it in our pets' food. Russian folk healers and herbalists the world over have been suggesting that garlic be used to reduce high blood pressure, and a host of ailments, for centuries.

We do know that garlic contains small amounts of selenium and germanium. Selenium is believed to prevent abnormal blood clotting, to normalize blood pressure, and to prevent infections. Germanium is being investigated for its reputed ability to retard or prevent the growth of some cancers. Garlic also contains a number of biochemical compounds, such as allicin (considered to have antifungal and antibiotic properties), alliinase, allyls, allithiamine (this makes vitamin B1 more effective), and alliin (this makes proteins easier to digest). Allicin, left alone, turns into a substance that some researchers have called "ajoene," believed to be responsible for garlic's ability to inhibit blood clotting effectively as aspirin.

Enough books and research papers have been written about garlic, onions, shallots, leeks, and that entire Allium genus to fill a small library.

I was off to the airport on another trip. I started out

I suppose I ought to be grateful that I was able about a boring afternoon!

One of the things I thought about was never flying again. But, necessity is the mother of does upon a woman. inconvenience, or something like that.

While I was thinking in the airport, I thought of a wise old man who, waxing philosophical, once said, "Time waits for no man." I know he his observation. Although time will wait for no man, it has a different approach to women.

Usually speaking, a man welcomes the passing of time. Proudly he displays those wrinkles and calluses as marks of manhood. Until recently, gray hair was a crown of authority. Even Solomon, the wisest man said, "The hoary [gray] head is a crown of glory, if it be found in the way of righteousness" (Proverbs 16:31 KJV).

The grayer the head, the wiser the man. Although, I must confess I have seen my share of intelligence-challenged gray-headed men.

A woman, however, has an altogether different with gray hair, I do not fully understand their philosophy.

I suppose there are some men who would like to be 25 again. Most men, however, are happy to live upon the concept of ageless beauty. Who am

I, as a man, to counter that philosophy? I discovered this many years ago. A woman casually asked me how old I thought she was. I have long since discovered that this is no information. I, at the time, took it as a challenge and tried to guess her age.

Wrong!

I have since learned that the correct response early, arrived at the airport to this question is, "Why, you don't look a day on time, but when I arrived the plane had over 25." I do not know exactly what that means, canceled and I had to apply for another plane. but I have often gotten smiles from this response. The next plane headed for my destination was No matter how old the woman is, in her mind and easy way to keep in touch with family and friends that I may not otherwise have frequent contact with, I must admit it can be a bit of a distraction, and I am beginning to wonder and begged for more! if my incessant need to "check in" might be not-so-healthy.

The man has a different idea.

JUST FOR BEST FRIENDS

ANIMAL PLACE SANCTUARY FOR FARMED ANIMALS

participate, I find myself encouraged by a friend's timeline post sharing a remarkable experience they've just had, an inspiring quote to make my day brighter or a link to a heart-warming video about animals. It is then that I am reminded internet socializing is not always a waste of time, it can also be a very positive way to invest a few moments of Facebook that made the time I'd spent logged in that day worthwhile. Having rummaged through numerous seemingly senseless 'shares' and photos showing anything from what one guy had for dinner the night before, to a 'selfie' of a gal in a new outfit she just bought for a party - amongst all the mundane mish-mosh was one morsel that changed the way my day would play out. It was a link to a video created by Animal Place, a farm animal refuge in Grass Valley, CA.

The video, entitled Mr. G and Jellybean, was about a goat named Mr. G that had been rescued from an animal hoarder in southern California where he'd lived for years in total neglect with a burro named Jellybean. Jellybean had been rescued by another sanctuary. Unbeknownst to both rescuing parties, the goat and burro had formed a very close bond during their years together at their previous inhumane home.

exercise and fresh air. They got in touch with the logged in, right?

people who'd rescued Jellybean, and asked if they could reunite the two animals just to see if that would help raise Mr. G's spirits.

Animal Place volunteer, Jeff McCracken drove 14 miles round trip to bring Jellybean to their sanctuary, and what happened next was amazing. When Mr. G saw Jellybean, he immediately jumped to his feet and ran over to him, nuzzling his muzzle against his cheeks and neck. He then proceeded to strut about the corral,

While I do appreciate social networking as a neat encircling the burro and rubbing along the fence in a gesture of pure pleasure. When the caretaker put feed out for them, Mr. G shared the same pale with his best bud, Jellybean. They gobbled up every bite

Well, I have to say, when I saw that video, tears started rolling down my face. I was overwhelmed But just when I start to question my urge to with joy to witness the remarkable bond those two farm animals had formed while living together in such neglectful conditions. It was clear that they had taken refuge in each other, just to survive. I was elated that there were people who cared enough about those two furry four-legged friends to know they needed to be together, and made it so!

It's kind of funny, isn't it? How we humans have managed to morph into such isolated beings Here's an example of a link a friend shared on who spend more time with machines than other members of our own species, while animals are becoming more social, not only with their own kind but with those very different from themselves. Animals seem to have a deeper understanding of each other that penetrates the surface and allows them to find the 'friend within' regardless of their differences.

Founded in 1989, Animal Place is one of the oldest and largest farmed animal sanctuaries in the US. Nestled on 600 acres in Grass Valley, CA, they provide refuge to hundreds of animals. In addition to the sanctuary, Animal Place also has the Rescue Ranch, a 60-acre adoption center which facilitates placement of farmed animals into permanent homes, as well as a dog foster program in which they team up with local shelters to provide temporary housing for adoptable pets.

Animal Place is open to the public for self-When Mr. G arrived at Animal Place, he became guided farm tours Tues-Sat 10:00am-4:00pm. They very depressed. PET OF THE WEEK: WAFFLES: ANIMAL ID# A4981667

Waffles (A4981667) is a knockout 5-year-old black-with-white male Giant Schnauzer mix who came to the Baldwin Park Animal Care Center on August 9th as a stray from Azusa. Weighing 53 lbs, Waffles is super-affectionate and gives kisses right away, eager to be your best friend.

He was so happy to see his handler that he practically leapt out of his kennel! Waffles likes other dogs and shows signs of being housebroken, and with some leash training, he'll become an expert walking companion.

He has medium energy and is alert, cheerful, and eager to meet other dogs. He might be a bit enthusiastic when he does though, so he'll need to be introduced slowly just to make sure he doesn't overwhelm them.

He currently has some scaliness on his bum—the kind, volunteers think, that will clear up with proper care and diet. Give this boy a bath and some TLC, and he'll most likely be a complete show-stopper. Waffles's personality is outstanding and everything you could want in a companion. Volunteers think he'll make a loving and playful indoor pet and companion for any family or individual who keeps him busy playing, going for walks, and taking part in other activities. And his unique looks are sure to bring him lots of attention when you're out and about with him! To watch a video of Waffles, please visit the following link: https://youtu.be/DUj5Sn8D1Ag

AROUND SAN GABRIEL VALLEY

IN MEASURE M, L.A. COUNTY TRANSIT PLAN GOES THE DISTANCE THIS TIME: MICHAEL D. ANTONOVICH

It is vital that any ballot measure addressing separation projects. our county's transportation needs provides a comprehensive, regional solution to reduce congestion and improve air quality. Previous top down and failed to guarantee a fair share for, or consider the needs of, Los Angeles County's 88 measures also failed to develop a truly regional, interconnected transportation system.

Measure M, the "Los Angeles County Traffic Improvement Plan" corrects these failures.

In 2013, as chairman of the Los Angeles County Metropolitan Transportation Authority board, following the defeat of Measure J, I sent letters to each of the county's 88 cities and their regional Councils of Government asking them to identify their local and regional transportation priorities. This set into motion a first-of-its-kind, bottoms-up approach to assess the transportation needs of our county, which was supported by subsequent Metro chairs, Diane DuBois, Eric Garcetti, Mark Ridley-Thomas and John Fasana. Hundreds of public meetings were held with the cities, community organizations, business groups, experts and advocates.

In contrast to previous measures, Measure M creates a regional transportation system which is fair to our county's local communities because it was developed from the bottom up. It is subject to tough accountability measures with an oversight committee and annual audits posted online. Further, all funds generated are for local use only on transit projects in Los Angeles County — and cannot be siphoned away by the state.

Funding from Measure M will be used in each of our county's 88 cities and unincorporated communities to repair and build new transportation infrastructure — from filling potholes to paving transportation system and provide a 21st century roads to synchronizing signals to improving intersections. Measure M will fix bottlenecks on freeways including the 5, 14, 405 and 605. Relieving traffic congestion, it will improve freight and goods movement by supporting the development of the High Desert Multi-purpose Corridor, upgrading Metrolink, enhancing passenger and freight rail corridors, and constructing critical grade the 5th District.

Enhancing regional transit, it will extend the Gold Line through the San Gabriel Valley to Claremont, connecting with existing stations in Pasadena, transportation measures were created from the Arcadia, Monrovia, Duarte, Irwindale and Azusa. Dubbed the "Brain Train," the Gold Line is connecting educational institutions including cities and 134 unincorporated communities. Those the Pasadena Arts Center, Cal Tech, Pasadena City College, Azusa Pacific University, La Verne University and the Claremont Colleges.

Measure M will also provide a vital connection between the Gold Line and the Red Line, from Pasadena to North Hollywood via Glendale and Burbank, on a dedicated bus line, which I proposed to further connect the county's transportation system. It connects the San Fernando Valley to the Westside and will bring multiple lines to LAX. In addition, it will fund improvements to the Orange Line, ultimately transitioning to light rail, and build a 20-mile rail line from Downtown L.A. to

Under the leadership of CEO Phil Washington, Metro will continue to be proactive and inclusive of the needs of our communities through the region and Measure M will provide the resources to meet those needs into the future. It will keep student, senior and disabled fares affordable while funding critical earthquake retrofits of our bridges and overpasses. It will also create over 465,000 jobs and has bipartisan support from labor, business, chambers of commerce and public officials.

On Nov. 8, Los Angeles County voters will have an opportunity to develop a comprehensive and interconnected transportation system which will relieve congestion and gridlock, improve air quality and quality of life for the residents of our County's 88 cities and unincorporated communities. Measure M will modernize our aging transportation network which accelerates transit lines and ties them together into a comprehensive system with improved freeway and local road networks. Vote yes on Measure M.

Brain Maker: The Power of Gut Microbes to Heal and Protect Your Brain for Life by David Perlmutter (Author), Kristin Loberg (Contributor)

This bestselling author uncovers the powerful role of gut bacteria in determining your brain's destiny. Debilitating brain disorders are on the rise-from children diagnosed with autism and ADHD to adults developing dementia at younger ages than ever before. But a medical revolution is underway that can solve this problem: Astonishing new research is revealing that the health of your brain is, to an extraordinary degree, dictated by the state of your microbiome - the vast population of organisms that live in your body and outnumber your own cells ten to one. What's taking place in your intestines today is determining your risk for any number of brain-related conditions.Dr. Perlmutter explains the potent interplay between intestinal microbes and the brain, describing how the microbiome develops from birth and evolves based on lifestyle choices, how it can become "sick," and how nurturing

AN ACTIVE FIRST LADY OF THE UNITED STATES

January 1993, Hillary Clinton became the First lady to have earned a postgraduate degree and to have her own professional career up to the time of entering the White House. She was also the first to have an office in the West Wing of the White House in addition to the usual first lady offices in the East Wing. She was part of the innermost circle vetting appointments to the new administration and her choices filled at least eleven top-level positions and dozens more lower-level ones. After Eleanor Roosevelt, Clinton is regarded as the most openly empowered presidential wife in American history. Some critics called it inappropriate for the first lady to play a central role in matters of public policy. Supporters pointed out that Clinton's role in policy was no different from that of other White House advisors and that voters had been well aware that she would play an active role in her husband's presidency. Along with Senators Ted Kennedy and Orrin Hatch, Clinton was a force behind the passage of the State Children's Health Insurance Program in 1997, a federal effort that provided state support for children whose parents could not provide them with health coverage, and conducted outreach efforts on behalf of enrolling children in the program once it became law. She promoted nationwide immunization against childhood illnesses and encouraged older women to seek a mammogram to detect breast cancer, with key phrases. She was one of the most prominent coverage provided by Medicare. She successfully international figures during the late 1990s to Institutes of Health. She worked to investigate international initiative sponsored by the U.S. syndrome.Together with Attorney General Janet at some of the things she did as a U.S.Senator.

When Bill Clinton took office as president in Reno, Clinton helped create the Office on Violence Against Women at the Department of Justice. In Lady of the United States. She was the first first 1997, she initiated and shepherded the Adoption and Safe Families Act, which she regarded as her greatest accomplishment as first lady. In 1999, she was instrumental in the passage of the Foster Care Independence Act, which doubled federal monies for teenagers aging out of foster care. Clinton hosted numerous White House conferences, including ones on Child Care on Early Childhood Development and Learning and on Children and Adolescents . She also hosted the first-ever White House Conference on Teenagers and the first-ever White House Conference on Philanthropy .In a September 1995 speech before the Fourth World Conference on Women in Beijing, Clinton argued very forcefully against practices that abused women around the world and in the People's Republic of China itself, declaring that "it is no longer acceptable to discuss women's rights as separate from human rights". Delegates from over 180 countries heard her say: "If there is one message that echoes forth from this conference, let it be that human rights are women's rights and women's rights are human rights, once and for all." In doing so, she resisted both internal administration and Chinese pressure to soften her remarks. The speech became a key moment in the empowerment of women and years later females around the world would recite Clinton's sought to increase research funding for prostate—speak out against the treatment of Afghan women cancer and childhood asthma at the National by the Taliban. She helped create Vital Voices, an reports of an illness that affected veterans of the to promote the participation of women in the Gulf War, which became known as the Gulf War political processes of their countries. WHAT YOU CAN LEARN FROM THE CLINTONS' TAX RETURNS

In anticipation of the election and in response to public demand, Hillary and Bill Clinton have released their 2015 federal tax return. Tax returns have been a hot topic this year, as candidate Donald Trump continues to refuse to release his tax returns. What do the returns show about the Clintons? And how can individuals learn from the choices (and perhaps even mistakes), the Clintons made?

Much of the focus on the Clintons' latest federal return has been on issues relating to selfemployment. For example, the Clintons claimed over $10 million in self-employment income from activities such as speaking engagements, consulting, and book royalties. Their tax return, however, did not show contributions to self-employed retirement plans. Critics have suggested the Clintons could have saved substantial tax dollars by moving away from a traditional self-employment arrangement and by making deductions to self-employment retirement plans.

From a personal standpoint, it appears the Clintons could have benefited substantially by planning their state of residence. State tax rates vary considerably, from 0% in some states, such as Florida and Texas, to 13.3% in California. It is important for high net worth taxpayers to actively plan their state of residency. Doing this could have helped the Clintons save considerable money in state tax contributions.

This is a strategy that many of us can use as we age. After retirement, we typically have more choices as to where we can live. Choosing a state with no state income tax, or with a low tax rate, can make a substantial difference in our standard of

This is not the first time the Clintons have been criticized for paying more tax than was due. In 1998, the New York Times ran an article demonstrating that they payed twice as much tax as was necessary in both 1996 and 1997. Then, the Times discussed several potential items for improvement:

- allowing book publishers to distribute royalties directly to charity rather than claiming them as income before making charitable donations; and

- donating a book copyright to a charitable foundation, then paying a fee to direct the proceeds directly to a charity, thus avoiding taxes.

Don't make the same mistakes as the Clintons and let your tax bill get the better of you. Call your tax advisor (or feel free to call us, too) if you have questions about your individual taxes or how you can preserve your hard-earned money.

PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN CHEAP SHOTS

Well here we are again. Another national election. And our two presidential candidates have squared off like the Hatfields and the McCoys. I found a particularly distressing comment Donald Trump had to say about Ms. Clinton in the early nineties: "The First Lady is a wonderful woman who has handled pressure incredibly well." What a low blow.

And speaking of low blows, here's what Bill Clinton had to say about Donald Trump way back in 2012: "You know, Donald Trump has been uncommonly nice to Hillary and me. We're all New Yorkers. And I like him. And I love playing golf with him."

him. And I love playing golf with him."

Okay its gotten a bit worse since then. But is this all rhetorical broadswording new? Were presidential campaigns throughout our relatively short history conducted with class and good sports" person "ship? Let's pull back the covers of our rich history and take a peek.

In 1800 Democrat-Republican Thomas Jefferson ran against incumbent President John Adams. John Adams, member of the Federalist party, claimed that electing Thomas Jefferson would lead to the "teaching of murder, robbery, rape, adultery and incest." A little over the top? Apparently America wanted to be taught that as Thomas Jefferson not only won the election but was also relected four years later. This relegated John Adams to become the first one-term president.

In 1828 Andrew Jackson (Democrat) ran against incumbent President John Quincy Adams (Republican). Adams attacked Jackson's marriage accusing him of living in sin with his wife Rachel. Seems they married before her divorce was final. She became known as the "American Jezebel". Adams even called her the famous Don Imus unmentionable word! Oh yeah, and Adams also accused Jackson of being a murderer among other things. I guess that's bad. Jackson accused Adams of providing the Russian Czar with American virgins as servants while Adams was Minister to Russia. Who won the contest? I guess being a murderer is overrated. Andrew Jackson became President. And yes, Rachel Jackson became the first Jezebel. Ironically, the loss made John Quincy Adams the second one-term president, his father being the first.

In 1848 Whig candidate Zachary Taylor ran against Democrat Lewis Cass and third party candidate John Parker Hale (of the Free Soil party). Lewis Cass and the Democrats attacked Taylor, also known as "old rough and ready" for being uneducated, mean and greedy. And of course the Whigs accused Cass of being a liar (And I thought calling a politician a liar was a compliment). Well, in this case the liar didn't win. Zachary Taylor became our 12th president. Interesting bit of irony: Taylor, a longtime army general warned the south that if they tried to secede from the union he would lead the armies himself into battle against them. 12 years later his son would become a general in the Confederate army.

Now, don't you feel better? We are actually much tamer in our campaign rhetoric now than in the 1800's. So lets sit back, grab a bowl of popcorn and wait for folding chairs to start flying. And remember that we are all Americans first.

HILLARY CLINTON CHANNELS HER INNER SEINFELD

HARRISBURG, Pa. -- In politics as in comedy, timing is everything.

Hillary Clinton was about halfway through her stump speech here Tuesday, stabbing needle after needle into Donald Trump and his apparently glancing relationship with the Internal Revenue Service, when she paused, smiled and found her inner Jerry Seinfeld.

"He lost $1 billion in the casino business," she cracked. "I mean ... who loses money running a casino except Donald Trump?"

nning a casino except Donald Tru Wait... she had a million of them.

"Friends don't let friends vote Trump," she quipped, as the crowd roared.

Have friends thinking about voting Trump? "I want you to stage an intervention," she joked. The audience ate it up.

The one-liners, though, had a purpose. They were delivered alongside a heaping helping of red meat for the crowd that packed a Shriner's hall in a leafy neighborhood in Pennsylvania's capital city.

With a month to go before Election Day, even as the race has tightened elsewhere, Pennsylvania is a blue-state firewall for the Democratic nominee.

A trio of polls from Quinnipiac University, Monmouth University and Franklin & Marshall College gave Clinton a lead over Trump ranging from 4 to 10 percentage points in Pennsylvania.

With Pennsylvania's Oct. 11 voter registration deadline just days away, Clinton and her supporters repeatedly exhorted the crowd to register themselves and their friends.

"I'm closing this campaign the way I started my career, fighting for kids and families," she said at the beginning of remarks that stretched about 45 minutes.

Frequently interrupted by applause, Clinton told the crowd she was, "Standing up for fairness and opportunities; taking on all those kitchen table issues that keep people up at night. I'm making sure every family has the tools it needs to get ahead and stay ahead."

It was, as in the parlance of 1992, all about the economy, stupid.

Trump stiffed vendors; he played fast and loose with the tax code and he dragged the bankruptcy laws behind him with the same dogged insistence as Linus from the "Peanuts" comic strip, throwing it around his shoulders and over his face at the slightest hint of danger.

And sure, it may have been perfectly legal for Trump to take advantage of Lincoln Tunnel-sized loopholes in the tax code to claim a nearly $1 billion loss in 1995 that may or may not have sheltered him from paying taxes as "Friends" went from first-run and well into reruns.

But that didn't make it any less slimy.

And Clinton, sensing an opening, went for it, again and again and again. "It's not only what he did, but how he did it," Clinton said, referring to Trump's patchy history in Atlantic City's casino industry and the trail of broken promises left in his wake. "I'm talking painters and plumbers and dishwashers ... I've met some of these people and I take it really personal."

Clinton pounced on Wall Street, telling the crowd that "We can't ever let Wall Street wreck Main Street again. We put some strong regulations on the banks ... I think we could do some more."

The remarks were jarring. It wasn't tough to recall that Clinton made a bundle giving speeches to the very Wall Street banks she now wants to bring to heel.

Still, it was a message that resonated with an audience that cut across a crowd that was cross-section of the African-Americans, older working-class voters and millennials that Clinton has to lasso if she wants to win a state integral to her White House chances.

"It might be legal, but I don't think it's moral," Conner Dodd, 29, a law student from Wexford, Pa., near Pittsburgh, said of Trump's reported tax dodges (which he's repeatedly defended). "I don't want someone who outwits the law to run our country."

Adelaide Steely, a Harrisburg mother of three sons, two of whom served in the Army and Marines, took Trump's tax habits personally. Not paying his fair share meant the Adelaide Steely, a Harrisburg mother of three sons, two of whom served in the Army and Marines, took Trump's tax habits personally. Not paying his fair share meant the New York mogul didn't do his part to support the Armed Forces who keep the country he aspires to lead safe, she said.

"That really ticks me off" she said

"That really ticks me off," she said. In her speech, Clinton summed it up in a line:

"Donald Trump is the poster boy for so much of what is wrong with our economy," she said.

The crowd in Harrisburg bought it - now she has to keep selling it until Election Day.

MAKING SENSE by Michael Reagan

PERFECT PENCE

Now that was a debate.

The Mike Pence-Tim Kaine bout Tuesday night wasn't the main event of 2016.

It was what they call in boxing an "undercard" match. It was a contest between two natural lightweights – the VP candidates. There was no exciting 12th round knock out.

But Pence and Kaine engaged in a good, spirited political fight that provided much more substance and entertainment value than the Trump-Clinton debate.

Pence easily won on points, both for what he said and what he didn't say. In their post-debate analysis everyone from Rachel Maddow to Sean Hannity agreed on that. Poor Tim Kaine. Everyone – even his wife – also agreed that he made himself look like a rude jerk by interrupting the moderator and Pence way too many times. Kaine was wound up so tight in the opening rounds that the presidential debate commission probably should have ordered a drug test to see if Kaine was on some sort of performance drug.

Seriously, though, I hope Trump was watching Pence's debating style closely.

I hope he has been studying the video over and over to see how Pence deflected or ducked his opponent's punches and pivoted to offense.

Pence not only showed Trump how to win a political debate, he was an absolute gentleman while doing it.

He didn't have to say derogatory things about women or Latinos or Muslims. He

He didn't have to say derogatory things about women or Latinos or Muslims. He didn't suggest using nuclear weapons to fight crime in Chicago.

And when Kaine tried to drag him down a rat hole by making him defend something dumb or insulting Trump had said, Pence kept his cool and flicked the example away as silly or untrue.

The major criticism from some Republicans and Trumpsters was that Pence didn't do more to defend Donald Trump.

But the reality is, you can't defend half of what Trump has said and Pence could have wasted two weeks of air time trying.

Pence was perfect Tuesday night. What he did won't move the needle for Trump's chances to win next month, but it moved the needle on his future.

Twenty minutes into the debate lots of people, including those I watched it with,

were saying, "Gosh, I wish Mike Pence was on the top of the ticket."

It's obviously way too late for the GOP to make that happen, but Pence might be the top choice of Republicans in 2020 if Trump loses to the Clinton Crime Family a month from now.

The only thing that concerns me about Pence's pummeling of Kaine is that Trump was so quick to take credit for it.

was so quick to take credit for it. The next day at his rallies Donald was doing his usual "Look at me" routine, praising Pence and boasting he was his first hire.

Sorry, Donald. As I tweeted, your first hire was actually campaign consultant Paul Manafort. How did that work out?

Trump's the clear underdog, a raw amateur up against a political heavyweight. He has to win his debate with Hillary Sunday night or at least fight her to a draw.

Pence has shown him how the professionals do it.

Whether he can learn to box with Hillary without tripping over his huge ego may determine whether Trump ends up the 2016 champ or the 2016 chump.
