SIERRA MADRE NEWS BRIEFS

SMFD NOW HAS A RAPID RESPONSE APP

The Sierra Madre Fire Department is proud to announce the launch of the PulsePoint Respond mobile app. PulsePoint Respond is a pre-arrival solution designed to support public safety agencies working to improve sudden cardiac arrest (SCA) survival rates through improved bystander performance and active citizenship.

PulsePoint Respond works by alerting CPR-trained bystanders to nearby SCA events and the location of the nearest AED. The $purpose \, of \, the \, app \, is \, to \, increase \, the \, survival \, rates \, of \, cardiac \, arrest$ victims by reducing collapse-to-CPR times by increasing citizen awareness of cardiac events beyond a traditional "witnessed" area. The app is only activated if the event is occurring in a public place and will not alert bystanders to incidents occurring at a private residence. The availability of the PulsePoint app in the City of Sierra Madre has been made possible thanks to the Verdugo Fire Communications Center.

PulsePoint Respond is available in the iOS and Android app stores. Find out more information by visiting the Sierra Madre Fire Department's _website or visit PulsePoint.org.

LAURIE COOPER MEMORIAL BENCH

The Sierra Madre Environmental Action Council mourned the loss of their beloved member, Laurie Cooper in August, 2016. (http://mtnviewsnews.com/v10/htm/n35/index.htm) long involvement with SMEAC began just after the formation of the organization in 1971. She managed Southern California's first community recycling center, located in Sierra Vista Park. She also spear-headed SMEAC's stewardship of Bailey Canyon Wilderness Park, serving for years as a docent and educator of the natural benefits of the park for local elementary school

An effort began to memorialize Laurie with a bench in her beloved Bailey Canyon Wilderness Park, but after some research, the expense of a durable concrete bench became prohibitive. SMEAC President Alison Snow and recently retired Director of Public Works, Bruce Inman came up with the idea of a more natural bench, one that could possibly be simply "notched out" from a recently felled Deodar Cedar tree. The City's contractor, West Coast Arborist, was approached with this idea. WCA was issued a work order to clear some of the recently felled trees and debris, and was asked about creating a bench of one of the larger trunks in lieu of removal. WCA was receptive and enthusiastic with the idea, and contributed their time and expertise to the creation of one or two benches for a Laurie Cooper memorial.

Work began 2 weeks ago and thecurrent plan is to create a large bench and a smaller bench for children to rest in the beautiful scenery of the park after a nice hike.

SIERRA MADRE CERT RECEIVES END OF YEAR GRANTS

The Sierra Madre Community Emergency Response Team received a number of end of year grants to help support the city in case of a major disaster. Last month CERT President Robert Gjerde received a $500 grant from Sierra Madre Rotary Club president Alan Unell at their weekly meeting at the Hart Park House. On December 14th, Mr. Gjerde received a $450 grant from the Arcadia Association of Realtors. The check was presented by Andy Bencosme, the Managing Broker of Sierra Madre's Century 21 Village Realty, at the AAR's Annual Holiday Breakfast in Arcadia. Then in a surprise move, Southern California Edison came through with a last minute grant for $2500 which had been denied earlier in the year. The SCE grant was for a thousand dollars less than originally requested, so thanks to the grants from the Rotary Club and the Arcadia Association of Realtors, CERT was able to meet its funding goals for 2016.

The grants will be used to upgrade the generator in CERT's Emergency Operations Trailer, for training and community education, and for additional medical supplies. This completes a six year process of outfitting the Emergency Operations Trailer that started with the donation of the trailer by Gary Hood in 2010. CERT's Emergency Operations Trailer is a self-contained unit with solar panels, batteries, a generator, medical supplies, and communications equipment. When called upon by the city, it can function as a triage and communications center after a major disaster.

Other grants have been received this year from the Sierra Madre Civic Club, Sierra Madre Woman's Club, and the Sierra Madre Community Foundation. Thanks to these organizations, and generous donations from many citizens in Sierra Madre, our city has one of the best prepared CERT programs around. Since its creation in 2009, Sierra Madre CERT has trained over 150 CERT members.

Sierra Madre CERT is a non-profit organization made up of a group of volunteers trained to assist the fire department during a major disaster. A twenty hour FEMA certified CERT training course is provided free of charge each year in September which teaches organizational skills, fire suppression, medical triage, and light search and rescue. This year's training involved almost 100 participants in its final exercise. CERT also attends many community events to help educate the public about preparing for emergencies. Continuing education is conducted at monthly meetings at the Hart Park House, the fourth Thursday of the month at 7:00 PM. The public is welcome to attend these training sessions.

For more information on the annual CERT training and meetings please email info@sierramadrecert.org, visit our website at www. sierramadreemergency.org, or like us on Facebook by searching for "Sierra Madre CERT".

SIERRA MADRE POLICE BLOTTER

December 18, to December 25, 2016

During this time period, the Sierra Madre Police Department responded to approximately 247 day and night time calls for service.

Monday, December 19

At about 7:16 p.m. officers arrived to take a report of a non-injury traffic accident in the 100 block of W. Montecito Ave. Victim's vehicle was struck by a driver traveling east on Montecito Ave. causing damage to both vehicles.

Case closed 8:30 a.m.

A resident reported that he parked his vehicle on the street at about 3:00 p.m. on 12/18, when he returned to his vehicle on 12/19 he noticed that his left rear tire was deflated apparently caused by nail(s) in the tire. It appears that an unknown suspect(s) placed nails around the victim's vehicle in an attempt to puncture the tires. The suspect(s) were successful in making the victim drive over the nails and puncture the tire. Later that afternoon another nail was placed under the tire, the victim this time noticed the nail before driving over it. The unknown suspect(s) also placed a liquid based oil on the windshield of the vehicle to obstruct the drivers view once the windshield wipers were activated. The suspect(s) are in violation of tampering with a vehicle. Case to Detectives

Friday, December 23

A case of vandalism was reported in the 100 block of W. Highland Ave. at the Elementary school. The principal reported that sometime between 12/22 at about 4:45 p.m. and 12/23 at 6:00 p.m. unknown suspect(s) broke a window pane in the door of the main entrance.

A Question For You:

WHAT IS THE GOSPEL?

"gospel" (ev-angelion) is the good news of God's invasion into human history. In other words, it is God bumping into us—and this is no small thing.

This message is unique in that only in the Christian gospel is there good news for all humanity, and in which God Himself pursues us in our brokenness. In other religions, man is searching for God, however, in the Christian gospel, God goes after man. But many today doubt this

I recently ran into someone at Starbucks who argued that the gospel was no longer relevant, but was in his words, "A tired and ancient message from long time ago, which no longer appeals to enlightened people." He is not alone. Many believe the gospel is old news. However, we don't need anyone to tell us that the world is full of bad news; things are messed up. Global disaster and potential disaster loom large in addition to our own personal tragedies and battles.

And according to the Bible, the ancient gospel of Jesus Christ is still the greatest and best news for humanity. It's a message that gets better with age, like a good wine. The longer we live, the better the gospel should become to us, for it addresses every stage of life, every struggle we face and it fills our every need. According to the gospel, Jesus' death not only makes us acceptable to God; it also changes us through the Holy Spirit and infuses us with God's own life—that same

What is the gospel? The life that raised Jesus from the dead. It is for this reason Paul writes (Romans 1:16) "I am not ashamed of the gospel for it is the power of God unto salvation for all who believe."

> So, the gospel is God's invitation to experience His abundant life, which changes everything. The gospel is not a get-out-of-jail card. In the gospel, God collides with us and invites us to a radical new life in the present and not just in the afterlife.

> Have you tried living in the power of the gospel? In other words, are you inviting God into your daily grind? If God is still alive today, the best test of His aliveness will be experienced in the good news of Jesus Himself as He collides with your daily life. So is the gospel an ancient and tired message, or is it still, as Paul argued, the power of God?

> For the next thirteen weeks, I will be exploring the relevance of the Christian gospel in a new series of messages. I invite you to join us each Sunday at Bethany Christian Church in Sierra Madre at 9:30 am to discover how the ancient gospel of Jesus can still be the most relevant message and power you will ever experience.

> If you have questions or would like to know more, you can email me at Briant@ bethanychurchsm.org or drop by my office on 93 N. Baldwin Avenue in Sierra Madre.

Blessings, Pastor Briant

The Sierra Madre Snowman is huge this year and, as it's cold, he's stayed in good shape for several days. He's quite handsome, too! I'm never sure who to thank for that guy, but whoever you are out there with very cold hands, thank you! Santa Anita opened last Monday and our very own Sierra Madre jockey, Victor Espinoza, is riding all sorts of horses. Let's wish him luck, success and no injuries for this whole meet.

Tomorrow is the first day of 2017. Hard to believe. Looking back over the past year, we think it was pretty good. Hope yours was, too. We went to more baby events and children's birthday parties than funerals and we've learned to enjoy the Chuck E. Cheese birthday party, with pizza and soft drinks for the kids, vast quantities of tokens to play all the games and parents taking thousands of phone pictures. OK, grandparents, too. The kids who work at Chuck E. Cheese as birthday party wranglers are indefatigable and beyond nice to everyone. Besides, if your little person has their party at Chuck E. you don't have to clean house afterwards. No chocolate frosting on your white couch. Seriously! No downside at all! Just saving....

Many people like to start their New Year's with black-eyed peas, a Southern tradition for good luck and prosperity, but my family likes to kick off the New Year with Split Pea Soup. Easy to make, do it ahead of time, and if you've planned ahead, you can make enough to keep hungry teen-agers happy all day long. You can double and triple this recipe with great success, if your pot is big enough.

cut into big chunks. Cover all this with water, or a combination of water and chicken broth. Say about 8-12 cups of water. Season with salt and pepper and whatever else you like. If you're partial to thyme, put some in there. Or Mrs.

Cover your pot and put in the oven at about 300 degrees. Leave it in there for about six hours, or till the peas have become very tender. Take it out and let the mixture cool to where you can handle it without burning yourself. Take out the ham hocks or ham bone and set them (it) aside.

Assemble your blender and blend your lukewarm soup/veggie mixture into a smooth puree. Put this into a large container with a cover, like your crock pot. When all your soup is pureed, remove whatever meat is on your ham hocks or ham bone, tossing out all fat and 1 package split peas (these are found in the other non-meaty parts and put the meat back into your soup. Refrigerate. Let it sit for a day or so to develop flavor, reheat it and stand back so the hungry relatives don't run over you as they in the meat section) or a ham shank, or the ham rush to grab a bowl of the best split pea soup anywhere. You could make some cornbread or corn muffins to go with your soup and everyone who has some will love you forever, getting your New Year off to a great start!

Shooting a Gun into the Air is a Felony

The Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department asks to Celebrate New Year's Eve safely.

Each return of New Year's Eve brings the opportunity to symbolically say good bye to old habits and outmoded things, and begin a new chapter in one's life with fresh ideas and a brighter outlook.

Unfortunately and all too often, the celebration of broomingout the old and welcomingin the new is disrupted by indiscriminate gunfire into the air. The adage of "what goes up, must come down" rings especially true in this case, and physics determine free-falling objects speed up as they return to earth. The danger of injuring someone with firing even a single round into the air is a lethal prospect.

Despite public warnings and common sense, many people discharge firearms into the air to celebrate the arrival of the

The Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department wants all to know shooting into the air is not only irresponsible, but a felony-level crime. Willfully discharging a firearm in a grossly negligent manner which could result in injury or death to a person is a violation of section 246.3(a) of the California Penal Code.

If you see someone discharge a firearm in public or into the air, take immediate shelter and call 9-1-1. Do not attempt to confront the shooter.

President Obama attended Occidental College in Eagle Rock from 1979 to 1981 and lived in Pasadena during his sophomore year. His attendance at Occidental College influenced his political trajectory and led him to become one of our most revered and respected Presidents in American history. President Obama is leaving office with tremendous approval from across our country.

For his contributions as a community activist, constitutional scholar, United States Senator and President, it is only fitting to honor our 44th President by naming a part of a freeway he most certainly used while living in the area. Over this past weekend, local activists in the 25th Senate District suggested to Sen. Portantino that given the President's connection to Southern California and Eagle Rock in particular, it would be appropriate to memorialize his time in Southern California with a freeway naming. Sen. Portantino spoke with Asm. Jimmy Gomez who currently represents Eagle Rock and he will be the principal co-author on this resolution. Portantino represented Eagle Rock while in the Assembly.

ARCADIA HIGH SCHOOL BAND TO PERFORM IN ROSE BOWL PARADE

By Joan Schmidt

Arcadia High School has an exceptional band of 375 members under the direction of Kevin Sherill and Seth Murphy. It is truly one of the largest and most accomplished bands in the country, so this writer was very thrilled when the Media was invited to attend its rehearsal on Thursday, prior to the Parade. The rehearsal involved the Band marching on Campus Drive from the High School to El Monte Avenue. After the rehearsal, there was an opportunity to interview both directors and several band members.

The 2017 Rose Parade marks the 16th time in the past 50 years that Arcadia High School Band will participate. It has marched in two Inaugural Parades-Dwight Eisenhower, 1957 and George W. Bush in 2005. The band also performed at the very first Super Bowl in 1967, in the 1981 World Series, Gator Bowl, Alamo Bowl, was featured in an NFL Super Bowl commercial last year, and has won countless field show competitions.

When I arrived in the Parking Lot, I saw three small planes (Replicas of Air Force planes) that were going to be in the Parade. I was told that the Air Force Band was using the Performing Arts Center to practice. (The Performing Arts Center had been such a great addition!)

After the first march across Campus Drive, the Band was stopped. Assistant Superintendant Jeff Wilson thanked band members for their hard work during the Winter Break-practicing many hours and the District is very proud of them. Superintendant Dr. Dave Vannasdall, explained to me that in addition to the two band directors, there were three or four assistants, section leaders and many wonderful volunteer parents that have made all of this

The Band was going to Disneyland; there is a band fest at PCC and viewing the floats! Hope they have a GREAT TIME and CONGRATS to the APACHE BAND! WELL DONE!

Bradley's 30 year career began as a Shelver and Circulation Clerk at the Arcadia Public Library while in high school and college. After earning her undergraduate degree in Business Administration from Cal Poly Pomona and Master's degree in Library Science from San Jose State University, Bradley became a Children's Librarian for the City of Pasadena in 1989 and was promoted to Research and

A TRIBUTE TO TATERTOTTS

This holiday season has been a busier one that usual for me. My canine (and feline) clients have kept me on my toes this month, leaving very little time to write something new to share with you. I say that to explain why I've chosen to re-print this article, written Sept. 24, 2014 in memory of my dear sweet bloodhound and dog-love of my life, Tatertotts.

Tater has been on my mind so much over the past few months, so I thought it would be appropriate to bring her memory to the printed page yet again. Thank you, my dear readers for your kind understanding and for appreciating these precious memories of my girl along with me. Happy New Year everyone!

For the relatively short time I've been writing this column, I never before considered using it as an obituary. It never crossed my mind that I'd write a story announcing the death of my dear dog, Tatertotts. However, as fate would have it, this small printed space is a place where I can pour my heart out while at the same time, hopefully offer a word of encouragement to other dog owners who may, one day have a similar experience to my own.

Tatertotts was a beautiful, pedigree bloodhound who found me when she was just a 1 1/2 years old, after having been to the show ring twice. Her original owner, a bloodhound breeder/handler in Saddleback Ranch had plans for Tater and her siblings to be champs at show! In fact, a couple of Tater's siblings did turn out to be notorious as best in breed and beyond, wherever they went to Tater, on the other hand, apparently had other plans for her life. She chose to be a domestic dog, which by definition literally means, a dog "belonging to the home". I must say, considering her plan, she picked the right human with whom to carry it out! She somehow knew I would cater to her every need and desire and let her "rule the roost" for as long as she lived.

It was a bit of a challenge at first, when Tater was place to live in. a youngster. She'd jump up to greet me as I came in the door, and knock me flat on my back! She insisted on having whatever treasure she wanted, with no chance of bantering or bargaining. She knew this soft-hearted human she'd picked to be her forever friend would give in and let her have her way, because I wanted her to be happy.

It didn't take long before this humble human realized that way of cohabitating was not going to work out well for either of us, without proper discipline and balance of will. So, I took her to BEST training, at Pasadena Humane Society for a 6 month course where we were both subjected to some basic behavioral training along with several other

Tater loved hiking local trails and cooling off in the foothill streams and pools during our weekend getaways together. Later, as she got older and less agile, she enjoyed putting the top down and taking a drive to the beach or up to Big Santa Anita Canyon to Chantry Flat where we visited the animals at Adam's Pack Station. She seemed to connect well with the donkeys, goats and chickens there, and made friends with the cats. She always got along famously with kitties.

As life went on with Tater by my side, she continued to show me unconditional love and affection as most loved dogs do. Tater had a very close relationship with my husband as well, and he was always there for her when I started my dog walking and sitting business. She recognized that there were times when I needed to be away to help with other people's pets and poppa would be there to take care of her and she never once made me fret or feel guilty about it.

Last Tuesday, Sept. 23, 2014, at the ripe ole age of 12 years 8 months, my sweet Tatertotts crossed what we dog lovers like to call that "Rainbow Bridge" into doggie heaven. Her body of 110 lbs. had had enough, and gave clear signs that it was time. She did not suffer, nor did she have to experience the disgrace of physical frailty that many of we humans will, when it is our turn to get old and pass on.

Tater brought me so much joy during her brief yet happy life here on earth. She taught me so much about loving life. I have so many beautiful memories of the fun times we had together - her strapped into the passenger seat with top down and ears flopping in the wind! We conquered the world, she and I, when it felt like an overwhelming

No other dog will ever take the place of my precious bloodhound, Tater. No memories of other loved ones can compare to the times we had. She will always be in my heart, and in my mind at times when reminders of her being herself come to me. That girl was a character, and one of the very best friends I will ever have in my life.

Thank you, Tater, for all that you gave . Thank you for loving unconditionally. Carry on, my sweet girl. Go well and go peacefully. We will keep your majesty, be on your way.

Tater did not like being on a slippery floor with a bunch of strangers, at first. However, she eventually figured out that this was

HOW TO SPOT AND FIX MEDICAL BILLING MISTAKES

Dear Savvy Senior,

After a recent hospital stay, I have a stack of confusing medical bills at home I need to decipher. I've heard these bills frequently contain mistakes. How do I spot them to ensure I'm not paying more than I need to be? Cautious Carol

Dear Carol,

Medical billing errors and overcharging is not uncommon. According to the American Medical Association, 7 percent of medical bills in 2013 had errors, and other groups estimate that figure to be much higher. Unfortunately, untangling those mistakes is almost always up to you. Here are some tips and tools that can help.

Check For Errors

To help you get a grip on your medical bills and check for errors, you need to familiarize yourself with what your insurance does and doesn't cover. Then you need to carefully review the explanation of benefits from your insurer, and the invoices you receive from your doctor, hospital and/or outpatient facility providers.

These invoices need to be itemized bills detailing the charges for every procedure, test, service and supply you received. If you didn't receive an itemized invoice, request it from your health care providers. And if the invoices contain any confusing billing codes or abbreviations that you don't understand, ask them for an explanation. You can also look up most medical billing codes online by going to any online search engine and typing in "CPT" followed by the code number.

Once you receive and decode the invoices, keep your eyes peeled for these mistakes:

Typos: Incorrect billing codes, a misspelled name or a wrong policy number. · Double billing: Being charged twice for the same services, drugs, or supplies. · Canceled work: Charging for a test your doctor ordered, then canceled.

Phantom services: Being charged for services, test or treatments that were never received.

· Up-coding: Inflated charges for medications and · Incorrect length of stay: Most hospitals will charge for the admission day, but not for day of discharge. Be sure you're not paying for both.

· Incorrect room charges: Being charged for a private room, even if you stayed in a semi-private room.

· Inflated operating room fees: Being billed for more time than was actually used. Compare the charge with your anesthesiologist's records.

To make sure the charges on your bill are reasonably priced, your insurance provider may offer an online price transparency tool, or use the Healthcare Blue Book (healthcarebluebook.com) or Guroo (guroo.com). These are free resources that let you look up the going rate of many procedures, tests or services in your area.

Make Corrections

If you find errors or have questions about charges, contact your insurer and your health care provider's billing office. When you call, be sure you write down the date, time and name of the person you speak to and a summary of the conversation, in case you need to refer back to it at a later time.

If there's a billing code error or some other mistake that's easily correctable, ask your health care provider to resubmit a corrected claim to your insurance company.

If you aren't able to resolve the dispute on your own, you may want to consider hiring a medical billing advocate to work on your behalf. To find someone, try sites like billadvocates.com or claims.org. Most advocates charge an hourly fee - somewhere between $50 and $200 per hour - for their services, or they may work on a contingency basis, earning a commission of 25 percent to 35 percent of the amount they save you.

If you're a Medicare beneficiary, another resource is vour State Health Insurance Assistance Program (SHIP). They provide free counseling and can help you understand your medical bills and Medicare coverage. To find a local SHIP counselor visit shiptacenter.org, or call 800-633-4227.

VERA RUBIN, WHO CONFIRMED "DARK MATTER," DIES

Renowned astrophysicist and National Medal of Science awardee Vera Rubin passed away in Princeton, N.J., the evening of December 25, 2016, at the age of 88. Rubin confirmed the existence of dark matter—the invisible material that makes up more than 90% of the mass in the universe. She was a retired staff astronomer at the Carnegie Institution's Department of Terrestrial Magnetism in Washington, D.C.

"Vera Rubin was a national treasure as an president Matthew Scott. "We are very saddened by this loss."

They expected the speeds to conform to Newtonian gravitational theory, whereby an object farther from its central mass orbits slower than those closer in. To their surprise, the scientists found that stars far from the center traveled as fast as those near the center.

After observing dozens more galaxies by the 1970s, Rubin and colleagues found that something accomplished astronomer and a wonderful role other than the visible mass was responsible for the model for young scientists," remarked Carnegie stars' motions. Each spiral galaxy is embedded in a "halo" of dark matter-material that does not emit light and extends beyond the optical galaxy. In the 1960s, Rubin's interest in how stars orbit They found it contains 5 to 10 times as much mass their galactic centers led her and colleague Kent as the luminous galaxy. As a result of Rubin's groundbreaking work, it has become apparent that spiral. The two scientists wanted to determine more than 90% of the universe is composed of this

Gato Barbieri's "Europa" is playing on the radio. That's Ramah's song. Ramah was my purebred pitbull who came on my field trips. When she died many years ago, I was holding her in my arms as she gave out her last goodbye cry, as the eerie nostalgic sound of Europa was playing on the radio. Since then, Europa has been drifting landscape of my thoughts of life and "Ramah's song," her goodbye rite-of-passage song. I think of Ramah when I hear Europa, and I think of death and the seeming impermanence I sip my coffee, and acknowledge the endless radio off. I want to hear the silence. I arouse a cooper's hawk as I go down the long driveway and he swoops away under the oaks with a pocket gopher in his claws. More death.

I think about the pocket gopher which devours shudder to think that he'll be ripped apart and eaten while still alive. Is that good? Is it bad? A local Sierra Club hiker wrote about his chancing upon a mountain lion killing a deer. He said he could have interrupted it, but he didn't. He watched it. He said it was beautiful. He said it was part of the beauty of nature.

Beauty? Certainly the kill is part of several books, including nature, part of The Way. Eat or be eaten. But "beautiful"? The deer would have had its throat *Self-Sufficient Home," slit from behind, and while it struggled, the lion Survive would have ripped open his underside and begun Anywhere," and others. He has led field trips eating the deer while it was still alive. Nope, not Part of The Way, yes. Beautiful, no.

Death is not beautiful. To the dead, I presume it is peaceful. To the living, painful, especially I had just been told that a friend had died. It when a close one goes and you experience their was sad to realize I'd never see him again. The absence, and the pain of separation. You're musical chairs of life goes on, but I always have forced to acknowledge the temporary nature of to stop when I hear of death, at least a death life. You're forced to make each moment count,

> Off to my work of the day, I think about the immediate now, the temporary world of timeclocks and responsibility and bills and rents and taxes. I am only mildly cheered up by telling myself this is only temporary.

> I sip my coffee at a downtown coffeehouse in the dense fog of the early morning before my work begins. The fog drifts and flows, like the death and work and bills.

I think of the new year beginning. I pause as cycle of year after year, life and death and life It is time for work so I drive away with the and death, and each new year provides new opportunities to improve and to do what has not been done yet.

Still, death is everywhere. It is inescapable. And yet it is perhaps our blessing. It is the sobering element that forces us to reconsider my root crops, and I feel no sadness. Still, I only everything, and to strive to do the right thing in each moment. Death forces us to think larger than just our own interests, and forces us to think about what is best for the most people, and what is best for the next generation. It forces us to treat everyone around us even better, and we never need to wait for a "new year" in order to do

A Weekly Religion Column by Rev. James Snyder

IS THE CUP HALF EMPTY OR HALF FULL?

Many things in life have me in a tangle of confusion. I try to put on a good face so that nobody knows how confused I am at the time. I think I get away with it, at least most of the time.

The only person I cannot fool is the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage. According to her evaluation, I am confused all the time. I would like to set her straight sometime, but I am really confused as to when would be

If I do not pick the right time, my confusion will be accelerated to the point of no return.

There is one thing, despite my professional confusion, I have not been able to understand. And it just bugs me to no end. Why are some things more confusing than others?

There is a positive side to confusion.

For example, someone is trying to explain to me something that is rather boring I can say, "That's too confusing

What that does is help the other person think that he's a lot better than I am which is not a bad thing to get out of some boring situation at the time. Believe it or not, this is not too confusing for me.

Another side of this would be, somebody wants me to explain something and I am not really in the mood to do a lot of explaining, I say many confusing things and the person comes to the point where he says, "That's too confusing for me."

Winning is so wonderful.

Not long ago, I overheard somebody say, "Is that cup half full or half empty?"

For some reason I just cannot get that out of my head and it has confused me like nothing else in my life.

If, for example, a cup is half-full is it not also half-empty? And, if it is half-empty is it also half-full?

I do not know if this is intentional confusion or if it is not supposed to make any sense at all.

I think "the half empty/half full" scenario is just for plain ordinary fools. In my experience, I have never met a half fool. Either they are all fool or they are not a fool at all. Just when you think you met a half-fool, they spiral into a complete fool. There is a question whether any fool can be complete or not, but that is too confusing for Several times my wife will look at me and say, "Are you acting a fool?"

I would like to set her straight sometime, but I am a little confused as to be the right time. But I am not acting a fool. I have absolutely no skill in the thespian art of acting. Of course, when she addresses me with that question, I act like I am not a fool which I am not sure qualifies in the thespian arts category.

The confusion here is, if I am not acting a fool, how can I act like I am not a fool? What is the real difference here? Is there any difference at all? Oh, how confusing it all is.

I am afraid that confusion runs very deep in my life.

If I wanted to get out of the confusion syndrome, all I have to do is approach my wife and say, "I don't understand this, could you explain it to me?" After that, I am too confused to really understand that I am confused about it at all. Thanks, of course, to my wife who is confused about nothing that I know.

With her great skill in this area, she has helped me out of many a confusing situations.

Perhaps that is the primary difference between a husband and wife. The husband is afflicted with the confusion syndrome and the wife knows how to unconfuse her husband. She has a remedy, according to her, that will cure

This is the great joy of my life to be able to ignore my confusion and trust my wife's judgment in this area. I can balance the checkbook, but I have a hard time balancing these confusion elements in my life. Thanks to my wife, I do not have to worry about it.

At my present junction in life, I do not know if I am really confused or not. It is rather a confusing aspect to think about right now. Am I confused or am I not confused. If I am confused, what are the symptoms? If I am not confused, how will I know?

Perhaps the most comforting aspect of life, at least for someone my age, is knowing you are confused, accept it and get on with life. Nothing is more satisfying in life than knowing what you are and being able to accept yourself as you are and then enjoy the rest of your life.

With so much to do in the world today, it is always comforting to know that there is something you do not have to do. I like what the apostle Paul said. "And whatsoever ye do in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God and the Father by him" (Colossians 3:17).

In the midst of all your supposed confusion, sit back, take a deep breath and give thanks to God for his grace in accepting you as you are.

The opening race was won by Tyler Baze on Cioppino Pasadino. Agapito Delgadillo won the second race on Classic Ruler and was congratulated by his sweet granddaughter Jacqueline. Rafael Bejarano seemed to win Race 3, but was moved down to 4th place; Mario Gutierrez got the win on So Conflated. Veteran Brice Blanc took the 4th race on Professor Berns, and Stewart Elliott on Ruby Trust, the 5th Race.

Riders Joel Rosario and Julian Leparoux traveled from back East for the day. Rosario won both the $100,000 San Simeon Stakes on Bettys Bambino and the $300,000 Malibu Stakes on Mind Your Biscuits. Longtime racing fans remember Rosario's successful career of several years here before relocating to the East Coast in 2012.

Flavien Prat had two stakes victories; he rode Constellation in the $300,000 La Brea Stakes and Conquest Enforcer in the $200,000 Mathis Brothers Mile. It was great to see Flavien riding; he had been out for about a month after a Del Mar

THE GIRLS OF

Hidden Figures: The American Dream and the Untold Story of the Black Women Mathematicians Who Helped Win the Space Race by Margot Lee Shetterly

The phenomenal true story of the black female mathematicians at NASA whose calculations helped fuel some of America's greatest achievements in space. Now a major motion picture .Before John Glenn orbited the earth, or Neil Armstrong walked on the moon, a group of dedicated female mathematicians known as "human computers" used pencils, slide rules and adding machines to calculate the numbers that would launch rockets, and astronauts, into space. Among these problem-solvers

African American women, some of the brightest minds of Story of the Women Who Helped Win World War 2 their generation. Originally relegated to teaching math in the South's segregated public schools, they were called into service during the labor shortages of World War II, when America's aeronautics industry was in dire need of anyone who had the right stuff. Suddenly, these overlooked math whizzes had a shot at jobs worthy of their skills, and they answered Uncle Sam's call, moving to Hampton, Virginia and the fascinating, high-energy world of the Langley Memorial Aeronautical Laboratory. Even as Virginia's Jim Crow laws required them to be segregated from their white counterparts, the women of Langley's all-black "West Computing" group helped America achieve one of the things it desired most: a decisive victory over the Soviet Union in the Cold War, and complete domination of the heavens.Starting in World War II and moving through to the Cold War, the Civil Rights Movement and the Space Race, Hidden Figures follows the interwoven accounts four African American women who participated in some of NASA's greatest successes.

Rise of the Rocket Girls: The Women Who Propelled Us, from Missiles to the Moon to Mars by Nathalia

An Amazon Best Book of 2016. The riveting true story of the women who launched America into space. In the 1940s and 50s, when the newly minted Jet Propulsion Laboratory needed quick-thinking mathematicians to calculate velocities and plot trajectories, they didn't turn to male graduates. Rather, they recruited an elite group of young women who, with only pencil, paper, and mathematical prowess, transformed rocket design, helped bring about the first American satellites, and made the exploration of the solar system possible. For the first time, The book tells the stories of these women--known as "human computers"--who broke the boundaries of both gender and science. Based on extensive research and interviews with all the living members of the team, The book offers a unique perspective on the role of women in science: both where we've been, and the far reaches of space to which we're heading.

by Denise Kiernan

An incredible true story of the top-secret World War II town of Oak Ridge, Tennessee, and the young women brought there unknowingly to help build the atomic bomb."The best kind of nonfiction: marvelously reported, fluidly written, and a remarkable story...As meticulous and brilliant as it is compulsively readable." —Karen Abbott.The height of World War II, Oak Ridge, Tennessee, was home to 75,000 residents, and consumed more electricity than New York City, yet it was shrouded in such secrecy that it did not appear on any map. Thousands of civilians, many of them young women from small towns across the U.S., were recruited to this secret city, enticed by the promise of solid wages and war-ending work. What were they actually doing there? Very few knew. The purpose of this mysterious government project was kept a secret from the outside world and from the majority of the residents themselves. Some wondered why, despite the constant work and round-theclock activity in this makeshift town, did no tangible product of any kind ever seem to leave its guarded gates? The women who kept this town running would find out at the end of the war, when Oak Ridge's secret was revealed and changed the world forever. Drawing from the voices and experiences of the women who lived and worked in Oak Ridge, The book rescues a remarkable, forgotten chapter of World War II from

FAMILY MATTERS By Marc Garlett

WHY GO TO THE TROUBLE OF ESTABLISHING A TRUST?

My last article talked about what a trust is. Now I'm going to tell you why someone would go to the trouble of creating a trust in the first place. Ready? The short answer is, because the trouble one goes through to create a trust is generally minuscule compared to trouble left for family members when someone dies without a trust. But let's go a little

During our lifetime, we can transfer our assets with a simple stroke of the pen. By signing our name to a piece of paper - usually a contract of some sort - we can buy, sell, or exchange almost anything with almost anyone.

But after we die, how do we transfer the assets we own? It comes down to two options. We can either preplan to transfer our assets how and to whom we choose, or we can let the state transfer our assets for us once we're gone. The first option is handled through a trust. The second option is handled through the court process called probate.

So why not just let the great state of California handle things for us? Well, probate is:

Expensive. Probate fees are statutory. In other words, they are written into California's laws and based on a percentage of the total value of your estate (your estate = all your stuff). Probate fees consist of filing fees, court fees, attorney's fees, executor's fees, bond fees, referee fees, appraisal fees, etc. All totaled, probate fees generally amount to between 5 and 10 percent of the value of the estate. The fees for administering trust are generally significantly less than probate.

Public. Value privacy? Probate is a court proceeding so everything is a matter of public record. EVERYTHING. Not only can your reputation and legacy be dragged through the mud but anyone who cares to look (and there are plenty of scoundrels and con-artists who do look) will know how much your beneficiaries are inheriting, when they will receive it, and exactly where to find them. A trust, on the other hand, is completely private with no public record or court involvement necessary.

Time consuming. Probate in California takes on average, around a year-and-a-half. And that's only if things don't get complicated. Probate can, in fact, take years. And keep in mind, throughout the probate process, the surviving family members have little to no access to the assets being probated. A trust, however, usually only takes months to administer and distribute, not years.

Emotionally draining. Most people (other than lawyers, that is) don't like being hauled into court. Not only does it cost time, money, and privacy, it also takes a toll emotionally. Rather than grieving for your loss on your timetable, you are forced onto the Court's schedule. In comparison, administering a trust, because it is handled in private and not through court, can take place at the trustee's pace and comfort level.

Loss of control. Finally, even with a will, probate means a loss of the ability to provide protection for your heirs' inheritance against bankruptcy, lawsuits, and divorce. Going through probate also means giving up much of the ability provide your family with tax advantages, limits on how they may spend their bequest, or guidance as to what age (or maturity level) they should receive their inheritance.

It all comes down to making an already very difficult situation (your passing) more difficult or less difficult on the people you love most in the world. If your choice would be to opt for "less difficult" you understand why people go to the trouble of creating a living trust.

I sincerely hope you and yours have a wonderful new year and an outstanding 2017. Happy New Year!

THE CHRISTMAS GIFTS YOU DIDN'T GET BUT TOTALLY DESERVED

Relax. Now breathe. And repeat.

The nonstop madcap insanity has finally reached its red and green holiday crescendo and its all downhill from here. Don't know if it had anything to do with the earth-shaking, democracy-twisting events of November 8th, but people were extra special amplified crazy this particular solstice season. Like frothing-at-the-mouth wacky. Hair-tearing bonkers. Nuttier than the Planters Hospitality Suite at a Flying Squirrel Convention crazy.

We salute all you stalwart consumers for navigating those Demolition Derby parking lots in the honorable quest of sinking heavily into debt to celebrate the birth of that Jewish hippie kid.

Anticipating the flash of horror across your face when the bills float in from the mail, let us offer up our annual WILL DUR$T'$ XMA$ GIFT WI$H LI$T. These are the presents that folks presumably did not find under their tree but most certainly deserved.

For Vladimir Putin: one of those extra long telescoping leashes to control his new pet. For Ronald McDonald: an extended vacation until the creepy clown sightings subside. 4 years ought to do it.

For Melania Trump: a couple of grey hairs to give her some gravitas. Cuff & collar. For Kim Kardashian: an itinerary of Melania Trump's movements so she can study up for 2024.

For Donald Trump: who is proud of saying anything that flies into his head: a tiny rabid West African Ruby-Throated Hummingbird.

For Speaker of the House Paul Ryan: a whip, a chair and thigh high boots for when he has to deal with the Executive branch.

For Elizabeth Warren: a set of portable Klieg lights to stay front and center for the foreseeable future.

For Ruth Bader Ginsburg, Anthony Kennedy & Stephen Breyer: the finest health care available.

For each Democrat in Congress: a 55 gallon drum of Vitamin D to put a little spine

For Billy Bush: a job in the Trump administration's protocol division where all he does is follow POTUS around saying "The Donald scores again."

For Kellyanne Conway: a nap. Starting to look a little ragged around the edges. For Anthony Weiner: a one-way ticket to a deserted South Sea Island populated mostly by poisonous snakes and omnivorous snails.

For Huma Abedin: a closed circuit camera recording every second.

For Roger Ailes: an appointment with the same counseling group now attended by Bill Cosby.

For the American Public: a case of antacid in order to get through the heartless pummeling the spineless cheered on by the clueless.

For the new host of Celebrity Apprentice, Arnold Schwarzenegger: his own kill phrase, something like, "You won't be back."

For British Prime Minister Theresa May: A copy of the Kama Sutra to discover a position that will allow her to twist out of Brexit.

For Mexican President Enrique Pena Nieto: a wall on the border to control our immigration.

For Canadian Prime Minister Justin Trudeau: same thing.

For Samsung: the quick introduction of the Galaxy VIII.

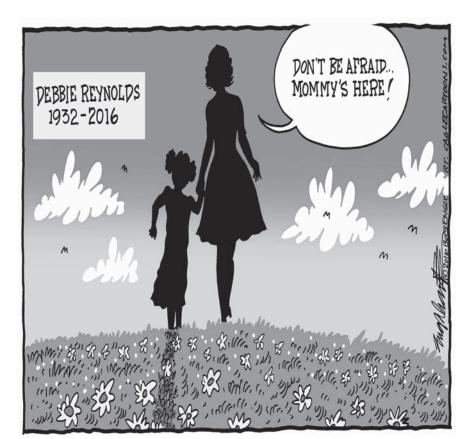

For Rudy Giuliani: a muzzle. Permanent. Steel. Welded with titanium rivets.

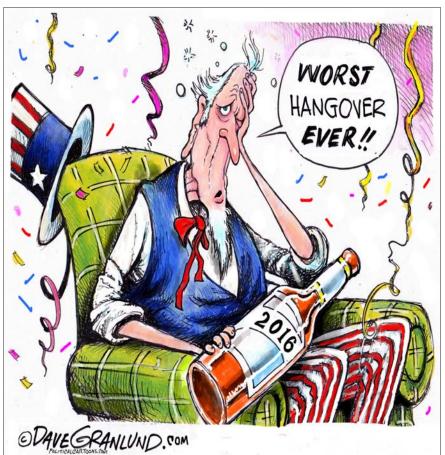

For Bashar Al Assad: something quick and painless: heart attack in bed.

For NATO Commanders: a gift subscription to the Coffee of the Week Club. Decade option declined.

For Hillary Clinton: proof.

END HEROIN'S DEVASTATION IN 2017

I didn't know the young man well — I'd hired him to do some handyman work around my house — but it was awfully unpleasant to learn that he died at 24 with a needle in his arm.

It was a bad batch of heroin. The statistics will tell you he was one of the thousands of people to die from heroin addiction — a problem that is growing fast.

What the statistics can't tell is that the young man was smart, talented and worked hard. He had a wonderful work ethic and tremendous pride in his work. He could have gone on to college or mastered any trade. His addiction took it all away.

I had no indication he'd been struggling with this addictive drug — just as countless thousands of people from every walk of life are struggling with heroin

According to the National Institute on Drug Abuse, "nearly 80 percent of heroin users reported using prescription opioids prior to heroin." That is, they begin by using prescription medications, such as such as OxyContin, a morphine-like drug. They begin one of three ways: They acquire the drugs from family or friends or they are prescribed the drugs by a doctor.

In the 1960s, addicts tended to be street users who lived in impoverished neighborhoods. Today, addicts include soccer moms, business executives, and high school kids from suburban communities.

Once addicted, many users switch from prescription drugs to street heroin. Why? Because street heroin is only about 10 percent the cost of prescription medication, which can run up to $80 a pill.

As heroin floods into the country from places like Mexico and Afghanistan, lives are being destroyed. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention report that nearly 13,000 Americans died in 2015 from heroin overdoses — 2,000 more than the prior year.

In 2015, according to the CDC, for the first time, more lives were lost to heroin overdoses than to gun homicides. Just eight years earlier, gun homicides outnumbered heroin deaths by more than 5 to 1.

The powerful addictiveness of the drug is driving these statistics. Like any drug, the more heroin the addict uses, the more he needs to experience the same high. If the addict stops using, he'll go through a world of hurt: depression, nausea, jitteriness and extreme flu-like symptoms.

Most addicts can't bear the symptoms, so they keep getting more heroin.

Those with money have the means to fund their death spiral. The odds are that they'll keep buying more heroin until they finally overdose fatally — as happened to actor Philip Seymour Hoffman a few years ago.

Those who lack the funds frequently steal from family members or break into homes and businesses to fund their next fix — a bank a half-mile from my suburban home has been robbed four times in the past 18 months by heroin-addicted young

The only hope for addicts is that they get professional counseling and make it through a few weeks of painful detox. Even under the best-case scenario, they will be addicts for life.

The only hope for the country is that we take aggressive steps to deal with the heroin epidemic. The Obama Justice Department issued a three-part strategy last autumn — prevention, enforcement and treatment — to crack down on drug dealers and provide more treatment to help get addicts clean.

President-elect Donald Trump has promised to take aggressive steps to address the challenge. He pledges to stem the flow of heroin that is flooding across our borders, though he hasn't yet issued any specific plans.

Whatever the case, in 2017 we have to make a concerted effort to address this horrible epidemic. Otherwise, it will continue to devastate lives, families and communities all over the country.
