They thought it was going to be just another Thursday night out dining with friends, but little did Rod and Joan Spears know that there was a surprise waiting for them as they gathered at Nano's in Sierra Madre.

Carol Canterbury representing the Sierra Madre Chamber of Commerce and with the help of their friends former COTY winners Joe and Jacquie Pergola and Judy Webb-Martin, surprised the couple with the announcement and the evening was all big smiles after that!

The Chamber selected the Spears after receiving an overwhelming

SIERRA MADRE WINS AGAIN WHILE THE CAT WAS AWAY!

By Bill Coburn and Susan Henderson

The Cat's Away", Sierra Madre Rose Float Association's 2017 entry in the Tournament of Roses Parade, was the town's 85th entry, going back to 1917. And, for the eleventh time in twelve years, SMRFA's entry has won an award, this year - The Mayor's Award described by the Tournament as "Most Outstanding City Entry."

The float depicts what mice do when the cat is away,...play! According to the official description, "The mice have taken over the tea set. Three mice are playing with a spoon on the front of the float. It has become a teeter totter. One mouse is laying in the bowl of the spoon with a tartlet filled with custard, a blackberry, and a raspberry. The one in the middle enjoying the ride holding a sugar cube. And a little girl mouse on the end of the spoon handle is holding a petit four. In the middle of the float we have the teapot being poured by a mouse using a fork (with 2 wobbly sugar cubes as a fulcrum), to tip the teapot. In the rear of the float is a stack of 4 cuts. The top cut is heira spun float is a stack of 4 cups. The top cup is being spun by a mouse, causing the three below it to wobble dangerously" and comically! There were also sugar cubes on the inside of the tray that the Sierra Madre Rose Float Princesses rode on.

One of six self built floats in the parade, the hard work of the Association's Board and Volunteers brought the vision of designer Richard Burrow's to life. Thousands of volunteer hours created the

The bottom of the tray is covered in red roses. The spoon and fork are covered in silver leaf, with poppy seed accents. The cups are covered in a variety of dry (lavender statice, ground split pea, coconut, ground rice, and yellow strawflower) and floral (pink and yellow chrysanthemums, and vellow button mums).

The teapot will be covered in lavender, yellow, and pink carnations with design elements covered in ground rice, strawflower, ground split pea, and cranberry seed. The mice will be covered in light and dark Ming moss. The tartlet will be natural sesame seed, hulled sesame seed, raspberry carnation petals and dark purple Floragene carnation petals while the petit four will be yellow strawflower with ribbons of lime green buttonmums, topped with a small bouquet of lisianthus.

The napkins (not on the original rendering) are covered in yellow corn grits with wild rice stitching and the monogram is done in statice. The monogram, by the way, is a B and is in honor of the concept designer, Richard Burrow (right), whose flamingo design was used for last years 2017 "The Cat's Away" The Mayor's Trophy In 2006, the "Wonder of Reading", designed by Charles Meier, took the Founder's Banner Trophy, for the most spectacular float built and decorated by volunteers from a community or organization. In 2007, "Our Wonderful Wistaria" designed by Charles Meier was the winner of the Lathrop K. Leishman Award, for most beautiful non-commercial float. 2008's "Valentine's Day", again designed by Charles Meier, won the Princesses' Award, for most beautiful float 35' and under.

In 2009, SMRFA and Meier's streak continued with "Bollywood Dreams", which again brought home the Lathrop K. Leishman Award, for most beautiful non-commercial float. In 2010, "California Girls", designed by Dick Sappington, won the Governor's Award for best depiction of life in California. Sierra Madre also got the Governor's Award in 2011 for "Suenos de California", again designed by Meier.

Gorgeous as it was, 2012's Colorful Imagination did not garner any awards, but 2013's "The Sky's the Limit" put SMRFA back in the winner's circle, taking home the Mayor's Trophy. The Sky's the Limit was designed by Charles Meier from a concept drawing by Sierra Madre resident Maria Murray. In 2014, "Catching the Big One" was a winner. Charles Meier was once again the designer.

In 2015, SMRFA's entry "I Think I Can" based on the little train that could, and dedicated to Robert Young, longtime president of SMRFA who passed ray in July of 2014, won The Mayor's Trophy The entry included the phrase "Forever Young" at the back of the train in his honor. Then in 2016, "Rollin' on the River" took the Animation Trophy, described by the Tournament as "Best Animation Designer Richard Burrow seems to be having a little fun along with the mice!

Walking Sierra Madre...The Social Side

by Deanne Davis

"My New Year's resolution list usually starts with the desire to lose between ten and three thousand pounds." Nia Vardalos

Happy New Year, dear fellow Sierra Madre walkers! forget to call your mom. We're still saying it to folks we pass on the early morning cold streets, happy to see Christmas trees the quote up there - she's the woman behind My Big Fat Greek Wedding which came out in 2002 and was a really fun movie. She made My Big Fat Greek Wedding 2 last year and we finally got around to it on Netflix over the holidays. If you haven't seen it, it's funny and you'll enjoy it. Trust me. We also saw Passages with Jennifer Lawrence - the girl from Hunger Games, when daughter, Patti, son-in-law, Dave and their three splendid children, Nicole, Blake and Luke treated us on Christmas Day. Being the incurable romantic I am, I loved it. My movie/walking buddy, John, not so much...but he's an engineer, folks, which explains a lot!

We've been wined and dined and eaten enough cookies, cake, fudge, chocolate and various other Christmas goodies to make us want to leave the room if anyone else offers us dessert for months to come. Of course, by the time next week rolls around, I won't feel that way, but we've got to get back on track as far as food is concerned. New Year's Monday - parade and Rose Bowl Game Day (way to go, Trojans!) - was noteworthy for the amazing guacamole our grandson, Michael made. We're ashamed to report we just stood there by the bowl, shamelessly devouring chip after chip drowning in guacamole. By the way, I never saw really like that, too.

Wasn't the Rose Parade great this year? Best one ever, we think, and our float, The Cat's Away, design for the second year in a row by Richard Burrow, was perfectly stunning. The animation was beyond amazing with mice balancing on a teaspoon and cups teetering back and forth. The genius behind Happy New Year! our animation is Dick Sappington, so if you run into him, tell him he totally rocks. The Cat's Away won the My book page: Amazon.com: Deanne Davis Mayor's Trophy and was the best city entry, national or international. Just between us, it really was the best one in the parade! Our Princesses, Samantha Grijalva, Camille Buckles, Sarah Adams and Ashley Kindle readers, give yourself the gift of: Conlon were so sweet in their Alice in Wonderland outfits and, believe it or not, the Sierra Madre Rose Bag – True Tales of Early California Float Association is already gearing up for 2018 and It's on Amazon.com on my book page! if you've got an idea that's so good you can't wait to share it, don't wait! Share it!

Getting back to this brand New Year and a few resolutions, here's what a really good writer/blogger friend of mine, Michelle Griep, suggested:

"It's a new year. Be awesome. Wear a helmet. Don't

Or your therapist. Whatever. Be real."

To that I would like to add: floss your teeth, write waiting to be recycled. Speaking of Nia Vardalos in thank you letters for anything someone gives you, or for something nice someone does. Read your Bible. Yeah, I know, you've already read it, but it's not The Girl On The Train, friends, it's God's letter to us, telling us He loves us. Look around you. Notice stuff. Like flowers and trees and butterflies and bees. And people. Buy a tomato plant at OSH or Home Depot and put it in a pot in a sunny spot and water it once in a while and you'll be so excited when a tomato appears. Say nice things to people. Smile. Hug.

Eat healthier. Walk more. Look at sunrises and sunsets and what other people are doing in their yard. Be silly once in a while. Find a cause to believe in. I believe in the Union Rescue Mission. I believe in Children International where I share in the support of the cutest little nine year old girl in the Philippines, Ezekiella Crishay Palma, who is in third grade and sends me letters telling me about her life. I believe in Food for the Poor where a huge sack of rice is only $12.00. I believe in St. Jude's Children's Research Hospital and I believe in Smile Train, where $250 can fix a horribly disfigured little child, born with a cleft palate, doomed to a life of pain and rejection.

Learn to do something new. Last year I learned about the joy of growing succulents. And how much fun it is to send board books to toddlers. My book club Egg Nog ice cream anywhere over the holidays. And I now embraces four little boys and my two Texas girls, who aren't toddlers but love new books. Amazon.com will send your book anywhere in the world to a little person...or a not so little person. And read. Read a lot. Get involved with the Sierra Madre Library's One Book-One City selection, The Rise of the Rocket Girls! Rejoice because you're alive! And for the last time:

Pet of the Week

Sammy (A410653) is a oneyear-old, male, white and gray Australian shepherd mix. This adorable guy absolutely loves people. He'll drop low to the ground and wiggle excitedly when he sees you before lapping up all the affection he can get. He loves being petted, but his absolute favorite is belly rubs. Once he's had a chance to get to know you, he'll plop down at your feet to let you know it's time to rub his tummy! This lively pup also enjoys chasing a ball. And since he still has a lot of his puppy energy, he'd love an adopter with plenty of time for playing.

The adoption fee for dogs is $125 and includes the spay or neuter surgery, microchip, and vaccinations.

New adopters will receive a complimentary health-andwellness exam from VCA Animal Hospitals, as well as a goody bag filled with information about how to care for your pet.

Call the Pasadena Humane Society & SPCA at (626) 792-7151 to ask about A4106563, or visit at 361 S. Raymond Ave. in Pasadena. Adoption hours are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday; 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday; and 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday.

Pets may not be available for adoption and cannot be held for potential adopters by phone calls or email. Directions and photos of all pets can be found at pasadenahumane.org.

An Homage to Julia Child

French Cooking Demonstration with Isabelle

Allendale Branch Library presents "An Homage to Julia Child," a French cooking demonstration with Isabelle Camps-Campins, on Saturday, January 21, at 2:00 p.m.

Isabelle Camps-Campins first heard of Julia Child when she came to California in 2006. Having spent her formative years in both Trinidad and Tobago and France, where girls learn to cook at a very early age, her path crossed only occasionally with world renowned chef Jacques Pepin. Through her visits to the Allendale Branch Library, Isabelle quickly discovered this bright and courageous woman who hailed from Pasadena: a woman who crossed fearlessly the great divide of the United States and France, bringing the rather intimidating French cuisine to a wide cross-section of American homes.

Isabelle is honored to show her respect for this bastion of French cuisine by demonstrating two dishes from Julia Child's book, Mastering the Art of French Cooking, Volume 2. The main dish is Bouillabaisse de Poulet (chicken poached in white wine with Provencal vegetables, herbs, and flavorings). Isabelle holds this dish, which hails from the large Mediterranean region of Provence, close to her heart, with all its robust and earthy flavors, used on a daily basis in most households. It will be served with a final touch of Rouille Sauce (a garlic, pimento, and chili pepper sauce). The first forty attendees will receive a ticket to sample the dishes presented by Isabelle.

The library will also present a display of books, audiobooks, and DVDs by and about Julia Child. For more information call (626) 744-7260 or visit pasadenapubliclibrary.net.

TABLE FOR TWO by Peter Dills thechefknows@yahoo.com

It was a cold and rainy night, but I set my mind to patio dining. This past week I visited an old friend, Celestino's on South Lake. It's right there for the entire world to see, but for some reason I continue to pass by on a daily basis. Thankfully, my assignment for the week was to find the best of the best of the Italian family restaurant in the Pasadena area. I found it in Celestino's, truly a gem in Pasadena.

Let's start with the service. I arrived a bit earlier than my dinner companion, and the attention was so superb I thought I was the only one in the restaurant - "Would you like some ice tea? A glass of wine?" The restaurant has a covered front patio, a main dining room, and two areas that can be used for private parties or overflow, plus a covered patio area in the back. For dinner, this place was busy; I think my trend of fancy dinners instead of lunch is catching on. The restaurant itself is pure Italian with a service bar big enough to have a drink at while you are waiting for the table, and the walls are covered in paintings all representing the Italian Coast. And yes, of course, every table had white linen tablecloths and flowers.

Chef and partner Calogero Drago has set up the menu for a distinct "Italian Countryside" feel. Keep in mind we came for lunch, but Chef Drago did sneak in a few dinner specials (and some very warm and crusty sourdough bread with olive oil!). For starters we had the Insalata Frutti Di Mare, a mixed seafood salad with plenty of mussels, clams, calamari rings and shrimp. Next, a dish that (if you have been following my column) I have to order every time: Calamari Fritti (Celestino's includes the rings and the tentacles, yummy)!! When

Peter Dills Dining With Dills 5pm Saturdays

I see gnocchi on the menu I order it, and if the first twenty minutes were any indication on how the meal was going to be, I knew the gnocchi was going to be great. It was. Layered with lobster sauce and peppers this was the beginning of a beautiful relationship. This was not the end, however. I had asked the Chef for half portions, and I was beginning to think he didn't believe me. Next was the Pappardelle con Mezzenzane e Scamorza Affumicate (translation: fettuccini w/eggplant and smoked mozzarella). For those of you who are calling Celestino's right now for a reservation, I don't blame you, because next our server brought us a Mushroom Soufflé with Fontana cheese and black truffles. After that, I returned from heaven in time to try the Rack of Lamb on fresh mint. My head spun as my server forced us to try the dessert, canola {cannoli?}, which was terrific. Don't let the menu translation scare you; Celestino's service and the food are arguably the best that I have had in some time.

I feel the dinner prices are reasonable, but if you have a little extra dough to spend, there are over 200 wines by the bottle, many of them familiar names. For business or catching up with a friend I recommend lunch, for a night on the town or a romantic dinner I recommend dinner.

JUST FOR BEST FRIENDS

TO INSURE OR NOT TO INSURE?

A client asked me if I thought it made sense to get health insurance for a pet, and just as I was about to answer her question without skipping a beat, I realized I had no opinion whatsoever on the subject. After all, I'd never looked into buying pet insurance myself and I couldn't think of anyone I knew who had. Soon after that conversation, I got curious and decided to do a little research on the subject.

This came as a challenge to me, as I am hard pressed to invest my precious time shopping out health insurance even for myself, let alone for my dog. But, I was interested in learning more, so I did what I always tend to do when I get curious about any given subject - I Googled it!

First, let me just say I wish insurance companies would be so kind as to present their policy information in a similar or standardized fashion on their respective websites. I don't know if it is done intentionally, but for whatever reason each company has their own unique way of providing (or not providing) details on costs and coverage, making it very difficult for a simple-minded person like myself to shop comparatively.

Fortunately, I got lucky during my search when I hit on a website called consumeradvocate.org, which just so happened to be featuring pet health insurance on their home page. I've heard ABC news refer to Consumer Advocate now and then, while discussing certain products or services as part of their program, so the name rang a bell for me. The website was actually quite helpful. They listed the top 10 pet health insurance companies based on the number of stars they've earned through positive feedback received from current or previous customers.

Still, when I visited the websites of each insurance company listed, it was like trying to compare apples to oranges, due to the way they show (or don't show) the details of their plans. The tricky terminology used in the insurance industry doesn't help, either. But ultimately I was able to determine that they all seem to share one common denominator; across-theboard exclusion of pre-existing condition coverage.

Apparently the pet insurance industry has not followed the lead of our federal government's current health care reform plan which promises coverage of pre-existing health problems. This didn't necessarily come as a surprise to me, but there were several other exclusions listed for pets that did take me by surprise, and definitely made me wonder if paying for pet insurance makes any sense at all.

For example, nearly all of them exclude coverage for veterinary exams (really?), spaying and neutering

(what a shame!), and last, but certainly not least, preventative care such as vaccinations, heart-worm medication, de-worming, grooming, flea control, dental care and anal gland expression. I don't know about you, but this list of exclusions just about sums up the list of potential health needs my dog might have at the vet. This leaves one wondering what the heck they do pay for.

I admit, it would be nice to have coverage in the case of an accident or some other type of emergency, but to spend upwards of $40 a month (I calculated an average of about $1.50 a day) "just in case", simply doesn't make sense to me when I am already spending thousands a year for the care they exclude. Regardless of my opinion, I decided to share Consumer Advocate's list of top ten pet insurers, so you can do the research and decide for yourself.

As always, I like to remind folks that any information we might find on the internet is subject to the truth test. Make it a habit to confirm and validate what you read on the web by checking and cross-checking, tuning in to on-line chats about the topic, product or provider and making phone calls to talk to a real human before making a written commitment or completing any form of money

So here's a list of the 10 Best Pet Insurers, as featured on consumeradvocate.org:

- #2 Pet Plan gopetplan.com; 866-467-3875

- #9 ASPCA aspcapetinsurance.com; 888-716-1203 #10 - Pet Premium - petpremium.com; 800-935-

I hope this list comes as helpful to you pet owners who may be looking to buy health insurance for your four-footed furry friends. I'm sure purchasing pet health insurance makes sense to some, but to others such as myself, maybe not so much. I guess it depends on the specific needs of your pet, and what you might be expecting for the future. If you do happen to be in the market, I wish you good luck hunting. Oh and by the way, I'd love to hear from any of you who would like to share an experience you have had with pet health insurance good bad or ugly. I think we can all learn from another pet owner's previous experience and resulting perspective. Now, go and give your pups and kitties a big hug for me and until next week, don't forget to love and let live!

THE JOY OF YOGA BE YOUR OWN ARCHITECT

Happy New Year! Welcome to a fresh year, ripe with opportunities to move on and create the life that you want. Instead of making a list of resolutions, first find out what you want and prioritize. Then, it's time to get out the pen and paper! In yoga, there are two words that are used to fuel our own empowerment: intention and resolve

Begin with your list of priorities and desires and set your intentions for the new year. These could be small things or big things. Ask questions such as, when do I feel the most ALIVE? What am I doing and who am I with? Along with the positive ideas, include the thing/behavior/ thought pattern that you do NOT want to do anymore. If these old habits are still hanging on, accomplishing our positive intentions is nearly impossible. Don't tackle them all at once, just pick one that you feel is holding you back and work on it. Make sure the list is complete and even includes seemingly impossible wants and desires. Be bold Namaste,

Second, create a positive statement of something you Keely Totten see coming true in your life. Make the statement as if the event has already happened. For example, "I have excellent communication and loving interaction in all my relationships." Write the statement and say the statement as if every relationship were healthy in this way.

Last, bring your intentions and resolve into your yoga and meditation practice. Call upon the Divine energetic force of the universe to come into your life and remove any obstacles. In everyday life, practice self-compassion through your yoga practice. Practice in a loving, consistent way to bring nourishment to your body, mind, energy and spirit. In times of distress, come back to your statement of resolve. Realize that there's no black and white rule with our positive intentions, there may be times when we are completely off the beam. Come back to self-compassion and quietly fall back in line with your practice and what's mportant to you in the new year.

Most of all, come and do YOGA and gather awareness, connection and positivity through your

GETTING OLD PAYS OFF

Dear Savvy Senior,

What types of discounts are available to baby boomers, at what age do they kick in, and what's the best way to go about finding

Almost 50

Dear Almost,

One of the great perks of growing older in America is the many discounts that are available to boomers and seniors.

There are literally thousands of discounts on a wide variety of products and services including restaurants, grocery stores, travel and lodging, entertainment, retail and apparel, health and beauty, automotive services and much more. These discounts – typically ranging between 5 and 25 percent off – can add up to save you hundreds of dollars each year.

So, if you don't mind admitting your age, here are some tips and tools to help you find the discounts you may be eligible for.

Always Ask

The first thing to know is that most businesses don't advertise them, but many give senior discounts just for the asking, so don't be shy.

You also need to know that while some discounts are available as soon as you turn 50, many others may not kick in until you turn 55, 60, 62 or 65.

Search Online

Because senior discounts frequently change and can vary depending on where you live and the time of the year, the Internet is the easiest way to help you locate them.

To do a search, start by visiting SeniorDiscounts.com, which lists thousands of discounts that you can search for by city and state, and by the category you're interested in, for free.

You can also look for discounts at TheSeniorList.com, which provides a large list of national and regional business chains that offer them, or you can Google them individually. Just go to Google.com and type in the business or organization you're curious about, followed by "senior discount" or "senior discount tickets."

If you use a smartphone, another tool is the Sciddy app (see Sciddy.com) that lets you search for senior discounts and can send you alerts when you're at an establishment that offers

Join a Club

Another good avenue to senior discounts is through membership organizations like AARP, which offers its 50 and older members a wide variety of discounts through affiliate businesses (see AARPdiscounts.com).

If, however, you're not the AARP type, there are other alternative organizations you can join that also provide discounts such as The Seniors Coalition or the American Seniors Association. Or, for federal workers, there's the National Active and Retired Federal Employees Association.

Types of Discounts

Here's an abbreviated rundown of some of the different types of discounts you can expect to find.

Restaurants: Senior discounts are common at restaurants and fast food establishments - like Burger King, Chick-fil-A, Subway, Wendy's, Applebee's and Golden Corral - ranging from free/discounted drinks, to discounts off your total Retailers: Many thrift stores like Goodwill, and certain retailers like Banana Republic, Kohl's, Michaels and Ross stores offer a break to seniors on certain days of the week.

Supermarkets: Many locally owned grocery stores offer senior discount programs, as do some chains like Albertsons, Kroger, Publix and Fry's Supermarkets, which offer some discounts on certain days of the week but they vary by Travel: Southwest Airlines provide the best senior fares in the U.S. to passengers 65 and older, while Amtrak offers a 15 percent discount and Greyhound offers 5 percent off to travelers over 62. Most car rental companies provide discounts to customers who belong to organizations like AARP. Royal Caribbean, Celebrity and Carnival cruise lines offer discount rates to cruisers 55 and over. And, most hotels offer senior discounts, usually ranging from 10 to 30 percent.

Entertainment: Most movie theaters, museums, golf courses, ski slopes and other public entertainment venues provide reduced admission to seniors over 60 or 65. And the National Park Service offers a lifetime pass for those 62 and up for $10 (see nps.gov/findapark/passes.htm).

THE WITH-US GOD

and that you truly did experience some of the "peace on earth" that the angels proclaimed at Jesus' birth. So often Christmas is a frenzied time of preparation and anxiety brought about by the high standards we put upon the holiday. Unfortunately, New Years is also often fraught with overblown expectations, disappointment, and loneliness.

I think some people are more prone to loneliness than others. Especially in large gatherings, there can be the sense of isolation and disconnect. One wonders, "Why aren't I having a great time? Everyone else seems to be." Despite all the technological advancements in social networking, there are still a lot of lonely people out there. Loneliness isn't just the absence of being around others. Sometimes it can result from a disconnection in a relationship. This is often due to a lack of authenticity and transparency. It's hard to be close to someone you don't feel is being real, or with whom you are afraid to be real. I know lots of people, but I only consider a handful of them "real people." I'm guilty of this as well. We all want others to have a good impression of us, and it takes real courage and emotional security to not put up a fake front in hopes of maintaining that picture-perfect image.

Not only is New Years a lonely time for many, but it is also depressing simply because it marks the end of another year. One of my pastors noted that the relentless passage of time feels as if we're all steadily marching toward an inevitable cliff. You can see it ahead of you, but you're powerless to do anything about it. Even if you aren't lonely, have a wonderful life, and everything is swell, that makes no difference as far as time is concerned. By "time," I mean "death." Because what is time other than the reminder that we are progressing closer to the edge of that cliff?

We don't like to think about these things, which is why there's so much celebration at New Years -- to distract us from the obvious. We go about our lives, all the while silently crying out for something to save us from loneliness and death. Certainly death can't just be part of life, like loosing your baby teeth or learning to ride a bike. Why do we all recoil in the face of death if it's just a natural phenomenon? Why do we feel as if no time has passed when in fact decades have gone by?

It is because God put eternity in our hearts. He is eternal and outside of time, and because we are made in His image, so are we. Death is not normal and it was never part of His perfect design. Man brought death into the world by rejecting God's plan. But even before man made this fatal transgression, God always had a redemptive plan to save us from death and reconcile us to Himself.

That is the miracle of the Gospel! Jesus is the answer to the problem of death and loneliness. In contrast to other world religions and human relationships, Jesus does not require you to clean up your act before you come to Him. He is the only person who will always be completely real with you because He cannot lie (Titus 1:2). He is also not fickle, as so many of even the best of us are. Jesus is the same yesterday, today, and forever.

He is also the only One with whom you can never be

I hope you had a wonderful Christmas anything but your real self. You can try to put up a false front with Him, but He knows your heart better than you do, so pretending is pointless. He will never be surprised by what you have done, because He knows the end from the beginning. There is great comfort and security in this. Jesus is Emmanuel, "God with us." I read somewhere that the original Hebrew is more accurately translated "the with-us God." This never ceases to amaze me. God actually wants to be in relationship with us! And it's not because we're great, loveable people. The Bible teaches that the heart is deceitful above all things and desperately wicked (Jer. 17:9). No, God loves us because He is our Father. He created us and He has only the best in mind for each and every one of us. In fact, He didn't even wait for us to love Him back before He made the greatest pronouncement of His love for us -- the sacrifice of His perfect, beloved Son in our place. This is the miracle that saves us from death! Although this body may die, it can be transformed into a glorious new body like that of Jesus after He rose from the dead.

That is the good news of the Gospel, but you can't really appreciate it unless you know the bad news it was brought to fix. Although we are all eternal beings and will live forever, it will not be in the same location. Heaven and hell are real places. If we could do enough good works to get to heaven, then God did something unnecessary by sending Jesus. The Bible is the record of God's redemption of humanity, accomplished exclusively through Jesus. It is exclusive because Jesus is the only way to God and heaven, but it is also inclusive in that its message of hope is for all people from the beginning of time. God does not send anyone to hell. People go to hell when they fail to take hold of the only lifeline God has provided to save them -- Jesus. Even before Jesus died, the Bible teaches that He was slain from the foundation of the world, and that God passed over the sins of those who put their Faith in Him in the expectation that He would send a Savior.

You cannot take a neutral stance on Jesus, you must make a decision. C. S. Lewis wrote that if one takes Jesus' claims to be God seriously (Matt. 16:15-17, 26:63-64, Mark 14:61-62, Luke 22:70, John 5:18, 9:36-37, 10:30, 33, 36, 19:7, etc.) there are only three possible conclusions: either He was a liar in His claims to be God, He was a lunatic who mistakenly believed He was God, or He truly was God. To skirt the issue by some platitudes about Jesus being a great teacher is to indirectly choose the liar or lunatic option.

It is my prayer that you choose the third conclusion, that Jesus is Lord, and that He would become Lord of your life today. He is the only way God has provided for your salvation, and He loves you so much that He died to make it possible for you to be in relationship with Him. He has promised to never leave you or forsake you because He is the only with-us God!

If you choose to accept Jesus as your savior you can pray this prayer and He will come into your heart and give you peace with God --today and forever! "Dear Lord Jesus, I know that I am a sinner, and I ask for Your forgiveness. I believe You died for my sins and rose from the dead. I turn from my sins and invite You to come into my heart and life. I want to trust and follow You as my Lord and Savior. In Jesus' Name. Amen."

FAST RADIO BURST TIED TO DISTANT DWARF GALAXY

One of the rare and brief bursts of cosmic radio waves that have puzzled astronomers since they were first detected nearly 10 years ago has finally been tied to a source: an older dwarf galaxy more than 3 billion light-years from

Fast radio bursts, which flash for just a few milliseconds, created a stir among astronomers because they seemed to be coming from outside our galaxy, which means they would have to be very powerful to be seen from Earth, and because none of those first observed were ever seen

A repeating burst was discovered in 2012, however, providing an opportunity for a team of researchers to repeatedly monitor its area of the sky with the Karl Jansky Very Large Array in New Mexico and the Arecibo radio dish in Puerto Rico, in hopes of pinpointing its location.

Thanks to the development of high-speed data recording and real-time data analysis software by a University of California, Berkeley, astronomer, the VLA last year detected a total of nine bursts over a period of a month, sufficient to locate it within a tenth of an arcsecond. Subsequently, larger European and American radio interferometer arrays pinpointed it to within onehundredth of an arcsecond, within a region about 100 light-years in diameter.

Deep imaging of that region by the Gemini North Telescope in Hawaii turned up an optically faint dwarf galaxy that the VLA subsequently discovered also continuously emits low-level radio waves, typical of a galaxy with an active nucleus perhaps indicative of a central supermassive black hole. The galaxy has a low abundance of elements other than hydrogen and helium, suggestive of a galaxy that formed during the universe's middle age.

The origin of a fast radio burst in this type of dwarf galaxy suggests a connection to other energetic events that occur in similar dwarf galaxies, said co-author and UC Berkeley astronomer Casey Law, who led development of the data-acquisition system and created the analysis software to search for rapid, one-off bursts.

Extremely bright exploding stars, called superluminous supernovae, and long gamma ray bursts also occur in this type of galaxy, he noted, and both are hypothesized to be associated with massive, highly magnetic and rapidly rotating neutron stars called magnetars. Neutron stars are dense, compact objects created in supernova explosions, seen mostly as pulsars, because they emit periodic radio pulses as they spin.

"All these threads point to the idea that in this the magnetars we see in our galaxy, which have extremely said. "It could be created by a superluminous supernova or a long gamma-ray burst, and then later on, as it evolves and its rotation slows down a bit, it produces these fast radio bursts as well as continuous radio emission powered by that spin-down. Later on in life, it looks like environment, something generates these magnetars," Law strong magnetic fields but rotate more like ordinary

In that interpretation, he said, fast radio bursts are like the tantrums of a toddler.

This is only one theory, however. There are many others, though the new data rule out several suggested explanations for the source of these bursts.

"We are the first to show that this is a cosmological phenomenon. It's not something in our backyard. And we are the first to see where this thing is happening, in this little galaxy, which I think is a surprise," Law said. "Now our objective is to figure out why that happens."

TO LOVE YOUR DOG

SchoolofSelf-Reliance.com.|

Sometimes in the morning, I listen to Dennis Prager on the radio talking about everything under the sun. Not long ago, he spent the morning having a discussion with listeners who called in about the love of their dog. Some loved their dog more than other people, and some said that while they loved their dog a lot, they placed people ahead of dogs. It was an interesting discussion, where Prager asked questions and listened, and, tried to find personal clarity on the issue of love of dogs. As Prager often says, he's far more interested in obtaining clarity on an issue than getting others to agree with him.

At the end of the show, Prager concluded that people who have a great love for dogs do so only because they haven't developed the ability to love people. They, therefore – according to Prager's conclusion - are loving dogs as a second-best to loving people, because they lack, or haven't developed, the ability to love other humans.

Though Prager conclusion could be right in some of the cases, I knew it was incorrect. I am one of the dog lovers, and yet I do not regard myself deficient in the art of loving other humans. I think the reason that Prager came to this conclusion is most likely because he has never developed a close relationship with a dog. (However, I am just speculating on that

What is the dog from Box 41834, Eagle Rock, CA 90041, or www. detecting? Even more, shouldn't I be listening to what my dog is telling me by that growl?

> Once when I was driving along a busy street in the business district, my dog Ramah suddenly perked up and zoomed in on one man who was jogging. She began to wildly and angrily bark at that one man. Why? What did Ramah see, or smell, or detect, in that man which I did not? Whatever it was, you'd be wise to observe what your dog notes, and don't ignore it.

> I had a dog who lived with me when I lived alone, and since he was an older dog, my schedule was always worked around him. I never stayed out too late, because he came in from his penned yard and came inside with me at night. I tended to his feeding and washed him. He was very much like a child. I developed a close and loving relationship with this dog - he was a purple ribbon pit bull named Cassius

> I began to study Beatrice Lydeckers book, "What the Animals Tell Me," and I began to apply her principles of animal communication. All of this was a very revealing and insightful journey as I began to learn what it was like to think like a dog, and to attempt to view the world through his senses. And I felt such a great pain of loss when he died in my arms one Sunday evening.

> And yet, none of that in any way deprived me of any deep human relationships. If anything, this enhanced my relationships at the time, and allowed me to have even better relationships than I would have otherwise. Cassius Clay taught me to be a better person!

> I will continue to listen to the broadcasts of Dennis Prager on the radio in the morning, because he is a deep thinker who seeks the answers to some of life's most fundamental issues. But in this case about dogs, I encourage Prager to get to know a canine more intimately, and he'll realize that love of humans never needs to suffer just because you also love a dog!

A Weekly Religion Column by Rev. James Snyder

plenty of grandchildren

my ravishing hunger, at least for the day.

Yours Truly simultaneously signed a deep sigh. My wife sat in her chair thinking and I, reclining in my chair musing. Believe me, we both had a lot to think about and muse over. The difference between thinking and musing is quite profound. Thinking requires a lot of hard work while musing is closely related to amusing, although I am not quite sure about the connection. All I know is it takes less energy to muse than it does to think and I'm all for saving energy.

I had just gotten into a rather delightful muse when my wife made a very startling announcement. "Well," she said most thoughtfully, "I guess this is the start of a brand-new year." I was too deep into my muse to do more than grunt affirmatively. Then I began to think, which sapped me of a lot of energy at the time. Although my wife was not wrong in her observation (she is never wrong about anything) she was not exactly right. However, being the man of the house, not to mention not having enough energy to put up a good front, I did not call her on it. But I thought on it some more.

Everybody says this is a new year that has never been lived before. And I would like to challenge that kind of thinking. I have an eerie feeling that I have been here before.

I am not sure if my muse got mixed up with my thinking but at the end of the exercise, I came to several startling conclusions. The biggest conclusion is there is nothing new about the New Year.

Do not take my word for it, do some thinking on your own. Okay, it's a little too early in the year to do heavy thinking so maybe some light musing might be more in order.

If I remember correctly, and I must check last year's calendar, but wasn't it January last year at this time? In fact, I think for the past couple thousand years there has always been a January. Nothing new about January. In my lifetime, I have seen 65 Januarys. At the time, everybody said it was new. What I want to know is, when does the newness wear off? When is somebody going to stand up and honestly say, "Welcome to another old year."

Every time I have a birthday, people tell me I am a year older, but when another January comes around people try to tell me it is new. I think this year I am going to insist on my birthday that people tell me I am getting newer and not older.

Then, just as my muse was catching a second

New Year's Day was filled wind, I thought of some other inconsistencies with lots of excitement, about this so-called New Year hoax.

If I remember correctly, last January there running around and enough food on the table to were seven days in a week; Monday, Tuesday, eliminate world hunger. Actually, it did eliminate Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday. What I find rather strange is this new Both the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage and January has the same old days of the week. This is rather curious to me. Somebody is trying to sell me some old horse medicine for tea.

> Now, if the year 2017 is supposed to be a new year why does it carry over the same old luggage of the old year? I think I smell a conspiracy here.

> For example, if you went to buy a brand-new 2017 car, you opened the door, the hood and the trunk and everything was from a 2016 car, wouldn't you feel a little bit cheated? I know I would.

> Not only does this so-called new January have the same days of the week, and you are not going to believe this one, it also carries the same numbers of the days. And, these numbers are still in the same order as it did in January 2016.

> I believe there should be a Congressional investigation into this rather serious hoax being played on the American people. After all, if someone promises something to be new, and brand-new at that, it should be downright new.

> I think I go along with Solomon, the wisest man in the world, who said, "The thing that hath been, it is that which shall be; and that which is done is that which shall be done: and there is no new thing under the sun" (Ecclesiastes 1:9 KJV).

> This so-called "New Year," is simply the "Old Year" repackaged for the unsuspecting. For some people it will take six months into the "New Year" before they realize this awesome truth.

> People make New Year's resolutions, which are simply the old resolutions from the year before. Some of them go back decades. Nothing really changes. By the time February, which is the same February as last year, rolls around those new resolutions are tainted with some serious aging.

> But there is a greater than Solomon that I appealed to. He said, "And he that sat upon the throne said, Behold, I make all things new. And he said unto me, Write: for these words are true and > faithful" (Revelation 21:5 KJV). I will leave the creation of "new," to the one who

HELPING THE HOMELESS IN L.A. COUNTY

By Joan Schmidt

On a recent Thursday morning, I attended the Arcadia Chamber of Commerce's Community Connection and Coffee. Guest Speaker, Richard Hopkins, East Valley Coalition for the Homeless, was quite informative; the statistics were disheartening, but there is help available.

Mr. Hopkins explained the annual Count of Homeless People done to determine the homeless number, where they're distributed across the county, where they are staying and then report the data to

This "Count" is done on one evening, from 8:00 pm to midnight and needs 7500 volunteers. In 2016, there were 46,875 homeless-an increase of 5.7%. Although African Americans only make up 9% of the general population; they are 39% of the homeless. (27,188) Latinos are 27% (11,861), Caucasian are 26% (11,354), Asians (1%), American Indian (2%), and Pacific Islander (1%). Chronic homelessness is 31%; 30% suffer from mental illness and 23%, substance abuse. Another sad statistic is that 72% have been homeless for more than 20 years. And youths (ages 18-24) have been homeless for at least 10 years.

Why are so many homeless? Causes include automobile related (Broken down cars, behind in payments), lack of child support, high cost of housing, low wages, divorce, mental illness, Domestic Violence, physical disabilities, loss of Public Assistance Programs, family problems, drug and alcohol Problems, severe depression, poverty, job Loss, Post razors, body wash, conditioner, hair gel and grease, affordable housing, roommates who can't supply funds and low paying jobs.

Traumatic Stress Disorder, lack of

However, we learned about the East San Gabriel Valley Coalition for the Homeless (ESGVCH), a faith-based 501c3 non-profit organization incorporated in 1994. Their mission is to bring hope and restore dignity to people without homes by providing shelter, alleviating hunger, assisting with basic daily needs and assisting families to regain housing. ESGVCH strives to raise community awareness and works collaboratively with other organizations to end hunger and homelessness primarily in the East San Gabriel Valley.

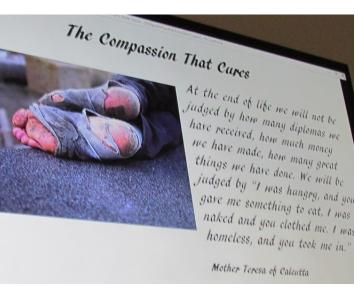

Since 1995, ESGVCH has provided night time with Churches who donate their facilities and provide volunteers who minister to the needs of their guests. Up to 220 guests are admitted each night. Last year Donations are Tax Deductable.

1032 unduplicated men and women attended the shelter with a total of 15,200 bed-nights (occupied beds) during the 91 day period. Services provided include meals, showers, clothing, medical and dental care, case management and referrals to other agencies who can provide additional needed services. Transportation is provided nightly at six pick-up spots in the East San Gabriel Valley. The following morning the guests are returned to the six pick-up spots.

What was sad to me was the low life expectancy: men, 47 years; women, 41 years. Besides the ESGVCH, there is an Emergency Assistance Center which welcomes walk-ins. Services include meals, showers, hygiene products, transportation, assistance and referral services. A designated number of motel vouchers are available each month, for families, elderly, and those who are ill or disabled. The Emergency Assistance Center is located at 1345 Turnbull Canyon Road, Hacienda Heights, CA 91745. Phone is (626) 333-7204. Hours are Monday-Friday, 8:30 am- 1:30

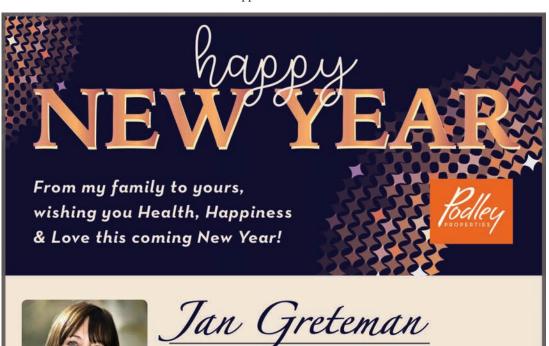

Donations are needed! Clothing: new tube socks, new men's underwear (boxers), new women's undergarments (sports bras and plus sizes), men's pants (especially 34-44), XL, XXL, and XXXL, men's T Shirts, Men's Tennis Shoes (Size 8 and higher), PJ'stops and bottoms.

Personal care items include nail clippers, lip balm, deodorant, toothpaste, toothbrushes, mouthwash, hair brushes and feminine hygiene products.

Support the East San Gabriel Valley Coalition for shelter for persons with nowhere to go. From the Homeless with your time, talent and treasure. December 1st to March 1st the program operates PO BOX 93256, Industry, CA 91715, 1345 Turnbull Canyon Rd. Haciena Heights CA 91745. www.esgvch. org Phone:626-333-7204 Email:esgvch@aol.com. All

SEAN'S SHAMELESS REVIEWS:

By Sean Kayden

KICK OFF THE NEW YEAR WITH NEW JAMS

The xx – "Say Something Loving" – One of the male vocal with a flattering female counterpart. It's absolutely refreshing and alluring. While they from The xx, which is out on January 13th. The band's third LP and first in nearly 5 years already debuted their fantastic first single, "On Hold" a couple of months ago. They follow up with "Say Something Loving." The track samples the Alessi Brothers' 1978 track "Do You Feel It?" and highlights the vocal chemistry of singers Oliver Sim and Romy Madley Croft, as well as Croft's scant yet signature guitar playing. It's a promising second release and an indication that the record may just live up to its lofty expectations. I sure hope it does.

Dams of the West - "Death Wish" - Chris Tomson, the drummer of Vampire Weekend is just another member of the band doing a side project. His solo entity doesn't rely on electronics or a complex sound like his comrades' individual endeavors or like Vampire Weekend themselves. Tomson, who plays every instrument here, occupies a sound more entwined in indie and garage rock roots. The first single off his forthcoming debut record, "Youngish American," due out next month is called "Death Wish." With lyrics like "Didn't really start to floss until I was 31" and "I think I'm ready to be a father now, but I want to get some pizza first," you have to be somewhat intrigued by the lyrical choices. At any rate, it's a different type of song, one that doesn't take itself too serious, but perhaps there is actually a seriousness embedded deeper within. Nonetheless, it's a great jam no matter what.

Ivey - "Last Week" - Ivey is a groovy, fourpiece alternative band from The Gold Coast of Australia that recently released their slick new from last year. I totally dig the combined baritone that they are.

do share the duo male-female vocal arrangement like The xx, Ivey specializes in pleasing, chorusladen indie-pop. The two bands are words apart. "Last Week" leans in the sonic direction of Best Coast meets The Kooks. I know that these are two seemingly polar opposite acts that Ivey kind of lays in between. But hey, not a bad place to be, Shortstraw - 'Thailand" - Indie rock band, Shortstraw hails from Johannesburg, South Africa, but have a Southern California vibe throughout. The band has released a slew of singles within the past few months and their most recent one is "Thailand." It's probably safe to stay it will be off a future 2017 LP. With three full-length records already in their artistic vault, "Thailand" is just another lively, dance-worthy, indie-pop jam worth your attention. In the midst of a cold winter, this one will get you moving in the right direction. Presently, "Thailand" is the most fun, upbeat track of the season, a song seemingly appropriate for summer yet it works wonders any time of the year. Sign me up for this intoxicating jam.

Little India - "Youngblood" - Vancouver indie rockers Little India just released their debut LP "Neon Jungle" in late November. Their featured single is "Youngblood," a danceable track that is catchy as hell. It's another feel good song in not so good times. It's the kind of song that will get stuck in your head for days and you have no qualms or complaints about it. The band could be compared to indie-pop breakthrough artists, Walk The Moon, but at the end of the day, single, "Last Week." The hip alternative rock act leave comparisons to the wayside and enjoy Little has one EP under their belt and a few singles India for the hip, fun, infectiously addicting band

David Baldacci A small town hides big secrets in The Dry, an atmospheric, page-turning debut mystery by awardwinning author Jane Harper. After getting a note demanding his presence, Federal Agent Aaron Falk arrives in his hometown for the first time in decades to attend the funeral of his best friend, Luke. Twenty years ago when Falk was accused of murder, Luke was his alibi. Falk and his father fled under a cloud of suspicion, saved from prosecution only because of Luke's steadfast claim that the boys had been together at the time of the crime. But now more than one person knows they didn't tell the truth back then, and Luke is dead. Amid the worst drought in a century, Falk and the local detective question what really happened to Luke. As Falk reluctantly investigates to see if there's more to Luke's death than there seems to be, long-buried mysteries resurface, as do the lies that have haunted them. And Falk will find that small towns have always hidden big secrets.

Three Days in January: Dwight Eisenhower's Final Mission by Bret Baier and Catherine Whitney

Bret Baier illuminates the extraordinary yet underappreciated presidency of Dwight Eisenhower by taking readers into Ike's last days in power. Baier masterfully casts the period between Eisenhower's now-prophetic farewell address on the evening of January 17, 1961, and Kennedy's inauguration on the afternoon of January 20 as the closing act of one of modern America's greatest leaders — during which Eisenhower urgently sought to prepare both the country and the next president for the challenges ahead. Those three days in January 1961, Baier shows, were the culmination of a lifetime of service that took Ike from rural Kansas to West Point, to the battlefields of World War II, and finally to the Oval Office. When he left the White House, Dwight Eisenhower had done more than perhaps any other modern American to set the nation, in his words, "on our charted course toward permanent peace and human betterment."On January 17, Eisenhower spoke to the nation in one of the most remarkable farewell speeches in U.S. history. Ike looked to the future, warning Americans against the dangers of elevating partisanship above national interest, excessive government budgets (particularly deficit spending), the expansion of the militaryindustrial complex, and the creeping political power of special interests. Seeking to ready a new generation for power, Eisenhower intensely Kennedy before the inauguration.Baier also reveals how Éisenhower's two terms changed America forever for the better perhaps even saved the world from destruction and demonstrates how today Ike offers us the model of principled leadership that polls say is so missing in politics. Ike successfully guided the country out of a dangerous war in Korea, peacefully through the apocalyptic threat of nuclear war with the Soviets, and into one of the greatest economic booms in world history. Five decades later Eisenhower, an often forgotten giant of U.S. history, still offers vital lessons for our own time and stands as a lasting example of political leadership at its most effective and honorable.

OPENING BEE-LUTHER-HATCHEE

By Artistic Director, Christian Lebano

After talking about Bee-luther-hatchee for years, we are now one week from opening! The journey from the first time I heard this play mentioned and sought it out to read it to opening night has been long and winding - with many ups and downs along the way. My commitment to producing this has put together a scintillating series of outreach play has never waivered and now that we are about to share it with our first audiences, I'm excited and

I won't let it be another three years before I do it again. I'm so looking forward to sharing this character with audiences.

We put a terrific team together to build this show. We have a terrific cast - Olivia Cristina Delgado, Tamarra Graham, Jon Sprik, and Leilani Smith all of whom are wonderfully talented and really nice people. It is definitely the meatiest play we are doing this season – don't let that deter your attendance - this is an honest play about a dishonest subject. It is filled with mysteries and provocative ideas. The arguments in the show are positively Shavian and thrilling in their honest and complete dedication to a point of view. FAMILY MATTERS By Marc Garlett

HOW TO INCORPORATE FAMILY VALUES IN YOUR ESTATE PLANNING

Baby boomers know money isn't the only important aspect of estate planning. For example, a 2012 study released by the Allianz Life Insurance Co. showed baby boomers wanted to leave their family more than just financial assets. Researchers found baby boomers identified family values as some of the most important things to pass down to

In 2012's economic climate, it's no wonder family values were at the top of the list. In economic downturns, financial inheritances are always more tenuous than the consistent worth of family values. Thus, family values (tax-free of course!), made the top of the list in importance.

But what is interesting is a similar study released by Allianz in 2005 which showed family values were also among the most important legacies boomers wanted to leave behind, even though the economy was more robust.

What these studies demonstrate is the enduring importance of family values, morals and meaningful possessions as part of a carefully crafted estate plan, regardless of the economic climate.

Do you have family values you wish to pass on? Of course you do! And yet you likely haven't acted to ensure the legacy you are creating is the one you really want to leave behind.

Including family values in your estate plan can be easy, when it's built into the process, though that is not the norm with most estate planning lawyers or with the DIY legal document services. You should consider including written memoirs, video or audio recordings of family stories in your estate plan. Think about it. These are the things most likely to be lost after your death. While your finances will be managed per estate law, intangible values and lessons have no protection and easily fade away soon after you die.

Could you imagine how valuable it would be to hear your family history directly in the words of your grandparents, great-grandparents or even earlier generations right now? What would that be worth? Can you even put a price on it?

I encourage you to think of estate planning not as just a set of documents. If you want to pass down a truly holistic legacy, one that manages and preserves both your finances and your family values, you absolutely can. Work with a lawyer who will guide you in creating a comprehensive estate plan that protects and preserves your whole wealth not just your financial assets, but your family's heritage, too. Your heirs will be all the richer for it.

Dedicated to empowering your family, increasing your wealth and building your legacy, Following a Planning Commission recommendation for approval, the proposed text amendment will be forwarded to the City Council for consideration.

DATE AND TIME OF HEARING

PLACE OF HEARING

DICK POLMAN CAN MEGYN KELLY THRIVE OUTSIDE THE BUBBLE?

When the news broke Tuesday that Megyn Kelly was leaving the Fox News bubble to pursue a broader audience at NBC, my initial thought was: Who cares? Talking heads frequently switch networks, and Americans increasingly get their news not from TV, but from social media sites.

But Kelly's imminent move is huge because it's Kelly. The very fact that NBC covets her polarizing "brand" is vivid evidence of how profoundly the broadcast media has changed since the kinder, gentler era of Uncle Walter Cronkite.

Back then, long before cable news and the Internet, the TV anchorman (always a man) was broadly and implicitly trusted across the political spectrum. In the words of journalist-historian David Halberstam, the anchorman "represented in a real way the American center ... a mass figure who held centrist attitudes for a mass audience." But today, the mass audience has been fractured and narrowcasted to the point where it's difficult to locate even a shrunken American center.

Years ago, a commercial network would never have pitched an eight-digit annual salary to someone like Megyn Kelly, whose every utterance infuriates millions of viewers. But in the current environment, NBC is fine with hiring someone who declared on air (in 45 segments) that the New Black Panthers were a major public menace, and that it was "a verifiable fact" that Santa Claus and Jesus were white (Santa is fictional, and scholars say that Jesus was of Mediterranean stock and looked like today's average Palestinian).

It's noteworthy that after the news of her hiring broke yesterday, Kelly's Facebook page was flooded with denunciations from both ends of the spectrum. That's de rigueur for any anchorperson in our wildly disputatious nation — Uncle Walter would be shocked — but even more so for Kelly. Left-leaning critics called her a front of right-wing disinformation, and attacked NBC for rewarding her. But right-wing critics called her a fake conservative who'd sold out to the enemy.

Many in the conservative camp have long been mad at Kelly. They fumed when she questioned Donald Trump, during the first Republican debate, about his misogynist history; when she told Newt Gingrich that he needed to work on his "anger issues"; when she confronted Dick Cheney over his horrific Iraq track record ("You got it wrong"); when she tore into a male guest who called paid maternity leave "a racket" (her retort: "What a moronic thing to say"). They've long been ticked off that liberal commentators have praised Kelly as Fox News' lone "sane" anchor.

Indeed, part of her appeal — at least for those outside the Fox bubble — was that she seemed far more professional than the bloviating mouth-breathers (O'Reilly, Hannity) who bracketed her evening show. How that appeal, and her polarizing past, translates to NBC is anyone's guess.

Reportedly, she'll try to soften her image by launching a daytime weekday show (in her words, "a little Charlie Rose, a little Oprah, and a little me"), but that format has been a graveyard for lots of TV personalities, and it's debatable that anyone cares to watch her swap celebrity gossip. She has also been tapped to launch a Sunday evening show to compete with "60 Minutes," but that aging audience seems intractably loyal. She will reportedly join the NBC News team to cover major events, but that ensemble format (and the strong competing egos) could dilute her edgy brand.

But NBC is clearly hoping that Kelly can bring along some of her viewers — notably, Republican-leaning women — and thus broaden its ideological reach. For a broadcast news division on the cusp of the Trump era, a news division widely tagged as "liberal," hiring Kelly is probably smart. If she can boost the ratings by asking tough questions with a conservative sensibility, NBC's money would be well spent.

After Kelly's recent clash with Newt Gingrich, Trump social media director Dan Scavino tweeted a not-so-veiled threat: "Watch what happens to her after this election is over." Well, now we know.

TOM PURCELL WHY MINDING MATTERS MATTERS

"Can you believe some jerk told me it was rude to talk on my cellphone inside the movie theater?"

"Well, sir, he did have a point. In the era of cellphones and social media, too many people are so consumed with their own needs, they're trampling civil society."

"Ah, put a cork in it."

"Look, there have been times in human history when barbarians ruled and manners didn't. But what really ruled during these periods were selfishness and impulsiveness."

"You're going to have to explain."
"Did you know the word 'etiquette' ori

"Did you know the word 'etiquette' originated under Henry XIV in the 1600s? Proper etiquette and manners define what social behavior is and isn't proper."

"I ain't following rules of behavior drafted up by snooty old French people."

"Then perhaps I can reference someone nearer and dearer to your heart: As a teenager, George Washington hand-copied 'The 'Rules of Civility,' a list started by French Jesuits in the 1590s that was translated into English around 1640."

"His mother probably put him up to it."

"The fact of the matter is that America has been more mannerly in the past than it is now. Until the 1960s, children were taught good manners in school. Adults defined themselves as ladies or gentlemen based on how well they practiced good etiquette — how considerate they were of their fellow human bairger."

"Hey, my old lady grew up in that era and she don't know nothing about etiquette. We went to the ballet once and she forgot the sandwiches."

"But today, sir, civility is coming unraveled at the seams. People are rude, impatient and inconsiderate. Some say the lack of civility is caused by our fast-paced society. Others suggest that new technology is making it easier to be rude."

"Yeah, yeah."

"But I say it's also because we're living more isolated lives. We're getting more wrapped up in ourselves. And that is bad for our society."

"Who are you, Miss Manners?"

"To be honest, sir, Miss Manners speaks good sense. She, Judith Martin, says that manners and etiquette are the philosophical basis of civilization. She says that people must have a common language of behavior that restrains their impulses. This is how we prevent our communal lives from being abrasive, unpleasant, and even explosive."

"Sounds like something that nutty lady would say."

"Martin says that our legal system was originally intended to punish serious conflict involving the loss of life, limb or property, but now courts are forced to handle disputes that the proper use of etiquette used to prevent."

"I ain't following."

"She says that what used to be an insult, for instance, is now called slander. What used to be meanness is now called hate speech. And what used to be boorishness is now called sexual harassment. If our rules of etiquette were stronger, you see, fewer people would engage in actions that are now considered

"You think so, huh?"

"It's really not so complicated, sir. A civil society is one in which people are concerned for their fellow man. Manners and etiquette are a conscious way of exercising this concern."

"You're losing me."

"Look, we need to remember to say 'please' and 'thank you.' We need to open the door for strangers. We should turn off the cellphones at the movies and inside restaurants. At dinner, we shouldn't eat until the host does, we should never put our elbows on the table, and we should dab our mouths with the napkin, never wipe."

"Napkin'? What is this thing you call 'napkin'?"

"I see we have our work cut out for us."

GOOD RIDDANCE TO BAD RUBBISH

It is our fervent hope here at Durstco that all you loyal readers join us in welcoming the elixir of opportunity that is 2017 and pray that it goes down smoother than that most recently departed year whose name has been wiped from our memory banks. It might have had something to do with a one, a zero, a two and a six. Not necessarily in that order.

"The Year That Shall Not Be Named" sucked like an industrial strength vacuum cleaner designed to inhale rocks the size of Saskatchewan, leaving a stench in its wake like a twelve-month moored garbage scow with none of the attendant charm. It was a Mt. St. Helens, Jamestown Flood, Titanic, Hindenburg, Mrs. O'Leary's cow kind of a year.

On a major league suckage scale of one to 10, the previous annum would rate at about 4,937. It was to suck like sewage is to stink. The suckiest of the sucky. Suckalicious. Suckatosic. Suck- O- Rama. With a sucktosity able to strip the chrome off the back bumper of a '57 Thunderbird.

Maybe it was that extra leap day that tipped the balance from the merely sucktastic to the sucklandish. Turning ordinary ugly into grievously heinous. But those 366 days of death and destruction and disaster and desolation and disease and despair and diabolical and discombobulation was only tempered by the fact that we survived. Barely, and not all of us. But then, the most fiendish always leave a few alive to tell the tale.

Or could Star Trek's James T. Kirk have gone back in time thoroughly messing things up again, causing a rift in the space-time continuum? That would certainly explain the Cubs winning the World Series, an orange clown becoming President, a third Kung Fu Panda film and Spam musubi on cauliflower rice.

The year that bridged 2015 and 2017 was to happy times what banana daiquiris are to reinforced concrete support beams. What barbed-wire wrapped bats are to panty hose. Inspector Clouseau and calm analytical judgment. Marbles and scissors.

Queen Elizabeth once referred to a particularly bad year, as an "annus horriblis" and the 31,622,400 seconds we recently escaped was exponentially that, with one of the "N's" removed. The threat of another 52 weeks like the one we just endured makes you want to build a bunker in the back yard and fill it to the brim with Little Debbie Snack Cakes and bourbon. Not necessarily in that order.

Or perhaps the calendar most recently ripped off the wall was a plot by the Pharmaceutical Industry to sell more anti- depressants. Anyhow, whatever you want to call what recently sunk into blessed oblivion, almanac-wise, good riddance to bad rubbish. Don't let the doorknob hit you in the butt on the way out. Get while the getting's good. Even though it's way too late.

And a big fat wet sloppy kiss on both cheeks to 2017. Come on in, take off your coat. Sit down a spell. Put your feet up. We're counting on you to take the chill off the air. But, hey. No pressure. You have some awfully tiny shoes to fill. Star Wars 8 come this December already puts you halfway to the good.

IT'S TIME TO REIN IN REGULATORS

I've written a book chapter and a lot of columns over the years on the Regulations from the Executive In Need of Scrutiny (REINS) Act – a profoundly simple, powerful bill that would require regulators and bureaucrats to get their most expensive rules approved by Congress before they could take effect – and we've never been closer to seeing it signed into law.

Each previous Congress it passed the House under a veto threat from President Obama, who was adamantly opposed to any of his regulatory handiwork being scrutinized by our elected officials. Times have changed.

"I will sign the REINS Act should it reach my desk as President and more importantly I will work hard to get it passed." Donald Trump said in a statement his campaign provided me last

The House is planning to take it up as one of the first orders of business in the new 115th

Congress, and it is expected to pass, as it has in the House each of the last three Congresses.

work hard to get it passed," Donald Trump said in a statement his campaign provided me last year. "The monstrosity that is the Federal Government with its pages and pages of rules and regulations has been a disaster for the American economy and job growth. The REINS Act is one major step toward getting our government under control."

It took a while to get to this point. The REINS Act started as an idea in the head of a remarkable 78-year-old tea party activist in Alexandria, Kentucky named Lloyd Rogers.

In 2009, Rogers went to meet with his then-congressman Geoff Davis at a town hall meeting.

Both were outraged about an EPA storm water management consent decree that cost the three northern Kentucky counties in a consolidated sewer district about a billion dollars, doubling water fees.

He handed Davis a piece of paper that quoted Article I, Section 1 of the United States Constitution: "All legislative Powers herein granted shall be vested in a Congress of the United States, which shall consist of a Senate and House of Representatives."

The paper also had a simple legislative proposal: [&]All rules, regulations, or mandates that require citizens, state or local government financial expenditures must first be approved by the U.S. Congress before they can become effective."

Davis took the idea back to Washington and huddled with his key advisers to develop the simple idea into a robust, workable piece of legislation. That idea became the REINS Act, and was made a part of the official Pledge to America document on which Republicans won control of the House in 2010.

The REINS Act cuts to the heart of abuse of regulatory power by requiring any major regulatory action to pass the House and Senate and be signed by the president (or have a veto-override), before it can take effect. It seems obvious. The best ideas always do.

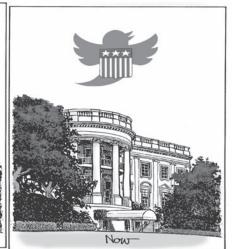

The REINS Act's first Senate sponsor was Jim DeMint, but when he retired it was fittingly taken up by Rand Paul, on whose campaign Rogers was a tireless volunteer. When Geoff Davis retired, the bill's lead sponsorship was taken over in the House by Indiana's Todd Young. This time around Doug Collins of Georgia is leading the charge in the House, while Paul and Young (newly promoted by the voters of Indiana) together lead the fight in the Senate under Mitch McConnell – a Kentuckian like Rogers, Davis, and Paul.

That Senate vote will be difficult, as many Democrats – aghast though they might be at the regulations and deregulations to come from Trump appointees in the federal bureaucracy – understand that lack of accountability is a great long-term advantage for their big government ideology. But ten Democrats running for reelection in 2018 are sitting in states that voted for Trump, and they may have a difficult time explaining to voters why they should re-elect someone unwilling to even vote on major regulations. And the House making it a top priority will build strong momentum for the Senate fight.

As we work to restore the U.S. Constitution, there is no better place to start than at the beginning, with Article I, Section 1. Thanks to Lloyd Rogers, a Republican Congress, and Donald Trump, we may be poised to do just that.

YOUR INVITATION TO AN EVENT AT THE KENSINGTON SIERRA MADRE

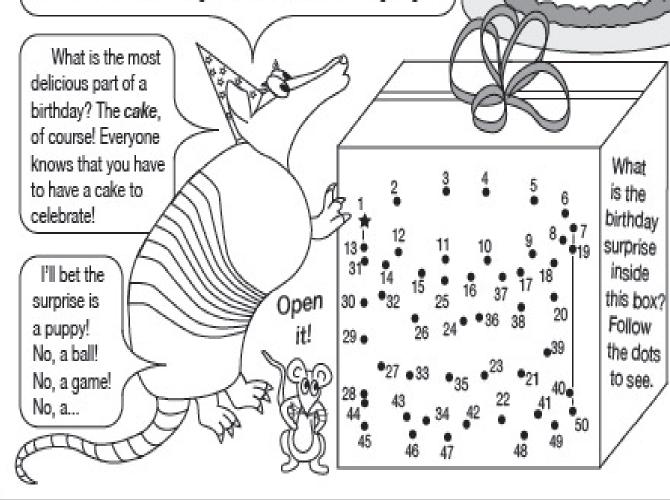

and Tiana Thompson

What is the date of your birthday? In our country, we all have our own special day to celebrate what is special about us. It is our birth day. Yes, the party fun starts when we are turning one and continues as long as we live. We also get to celebrate birthdays for everyone in our family - and our friends' birthdays, too! We celebrate birthdays all year round.

In some countries, like Saudi Arabia, people do not celebrate birthdays due to religious beliefs. In other countries, like China, everyone celebrates his or her birthday together on the country's New Year's Day. Everyone turns a year older at the same time! Children there may receive gifts of money. On special birthdays very long noodles are served to bring long life.
