FORMER CITY TREASURER GEORGE ENYEDI PASSES AWAY

Sierra Madre has lost another treasure. Smart, charming, energetic, handsome and strong....just a few adjectives that described Sierra Madre's former City Treasurer, George Enyedi. He was a wealth of knowledge on finances, volunteerism, loving life, and living well. He never met a challenge that he couldn't handle. What made him so amazing is that until he was well into his 80's, it was hard to keep up with him! George passed away quietly at his home on Tuesday at the age of 91. He was truly an amazing man that will be Volunteerism and working to improve the quality of life in Sierra Madre were always a big part of Enyedi's life. He was an active member of the Sierra Madre Cemetery Association, The Sierra Madre Playhouse, The Sierra Madre Mountain Conservancy, SMEAC, and the Sierra Madre Kiwanis Club, just to name a few.

Recipient of numerous civic honors, George was the Sierra Madre Citizen of the Year, and was bestowed with the city's George Maurer Lifetime Achievement Award to name a few.

By profession, George was a Certified Public Accountant and senior partner in the firm of Enyedi, Marshall and Montanez in downtown Los Angeles. It was this experience that made him the choice of Sierra Madreans when he ran for Treasurer in 2011. It was also his financial experience that kept both the Sierra Madre Cemetery and the Sierra Madre Playhouse from closing several years ago.

Enyedi and his wife, Gerda came to the United States in 1952 from Cluj, Transylvania, a province of Romania, settling in Pasadena, California. They moved to Sierra Madre in 1961. George was looking for a house "on top of a hill" and found the perfect place in Sierra Madre. His home has magnificent views of the San Gabriel Valley and is a stone's throw away from the natural habitat of bears, deer, coyotes and mountain lions. The Enyedi's reared 3 sons, Klaus, Hans and Kurt in Sierra Madre and the family has expanded to include 3 daughters-in-law. In a conversation with him several years ago, he had 6 grandchildren and 2 great granddaughters, all living in Southern California. Gerda, his beloved wife of 60 years, passed away in April of 2006 something he really never recovered from.

George Enyedi, through all the ups and downs that life brought his way, epitomized strength, conviction and compassion. When one speaks of the glue that holds this town together, his name is right there at the top of the list. George Enyedi truly was a first class gentleman with the heart of a lion.

On Tuesday, the Sierra Madre City Council confirmed the hiring of Sierra Madre's next City Manager, approving a five year contract which was reported in the Mountain Views News last week. (http:// mtnviewsnews.com/v11/htm/n03/ p01.htm).

A press release issued by the city on Monday stated, " Mr. Engeland ("Gabe") is an experienced City Manager with outstanding Manager qualifications and references from all past employers. Gabe has been on a City Manager "track" in his professional career for the past six years, and most recently has been serving the City of Trinidad, Colorado as its City Manager since 2015, where he oversaw a staff of 178 employees and a budget of $38.9 million dollars."

Trinidad is a full service city, including police, fire/paramedic, electric utility, water utility, waste water, gas, library, golf course an landfill, in addition to the general fund services of public works, human resources, finance and budget, development and economic services; Trinidad has a population of 10,000 and a service area of approximately 15,000."

Engeland, pictured above, will be missed by the town of Trinidad according to an article in their local paper, The Chronicle-News, Trinidad Mayor Phil Rico lauded Engeland and his contributions to the city during his tenure here. Rico credited Engeland for turning around Trinidad's finances and balancing the budget for the first time in years.

The release goes on to quote Engeland as saying, "Gabe intends to fully engage with the community and make Sierra Made home with his wife and new baby daughter. "I am excited to be part of team Sierra Madre and my wife and I are looking forward to our move to this wonderful community."

The position in Sierra Madre will yield a substantial increase in salary for Engeland. According to the City of Trinidad's 2016 Budget, the new city manager will receive approximately $79,000 more a year. In Trinidad where Engeland was City Manager for just about two years, he was paid $103,000 a year. In Sierra Madre his contract calls for a base salary of $182,000.

Walking Sierra Madre...The Social Side

by Deanne Davis

"The best thing one can do when it's raining is to let it rain." Henry Wadsworth Longfellow

"The way I see it, if you want the rainbow, ya gotta put up with the rain." Dolly Parton

Remember how Garrison Keillor used to open the most popular story on his weekly radio program, The Prairie Home Companion? "It's been a quiet week in Lake Woebegone..." It has not been a quiet week here in Sierra Madre or anyplace else for that matter. My weather prognosticator and son-in-law, Chuck Seitz, tells we had 2.6" of rain last Saturday, and he's forecasting last Monday's storms will total around 3.5 inches. Those of us who have been praying for rain need to stop now and send prayers of gratitude for all we've gotten and ask for Congratulations to Citizens of the Year, Rod and Joan Spears. The dinner honoring them is this Saturday night at Nano's. Should be a great evening celebrating two lovely people who add a lot to our community. Congratulations also to our new City Manager, Gabriel Engeland, who will be working hard to fill the shoes of our former City Manager, Elaine Aguilar, who did an amazing job keeping us on track for the last nine years.

Speaking of Nano's, J J Jukebox, featuring Rich Johnson, Barry Schwam, Mike Gallegos, Mike DeLeo and Steve Cipriani, were there rockin a full house last Saturday night. Some famous sage once said that the music you loved in high school will be your favorites all the rest of your life. They were right. All my favorite music is what J J Jukebox does best. These guys specialize in the best of the 50's and 60's, with an occasional foray into the 70's and 80's. They've added some new (old) favorites, Good Lovin' (The Rascals), Run Away (Del Shannon's huge hit), and the Beatles Hard Day's Night and Can't Buy Me Love! It went from good to really really good there at Nano's! Folks were dancing, there than ever before. J J Jukebox calls this the "In Bed By 10 Tour" and kicked off their last number at 9:15. Thanks again to my ace field reporter, Chuck, for his coverage. We love J J Jukebox but couldn't be there ourselves last Saturday. Next time for sure.

Possibly as many as a million people were expected to participate in The Women's March on Washington last Saturday and Sierra Madre was represented by our great-granddaughter, Catherine Sophia Davis, her mom, Alexandra, and her mom, Pam Kemp. Catherine is our daughter, Leah's, granddaughter. She is 9, the cute blonde girl, and in this picture she is joined by her best friend, Melia, and Melia's mom, Julie. Alexandra said it was an amazing experience. They were able to see many of the monuments, but we don't know if they got as far as the Smithsonian. One of the highlights of my life was a trip to D.C. some years ago when my best walking buddy and occasional engineering expert witness, John, and I were there for him to express his views on some weighty question while I got to sightsee. Conquering the Metro system was a huge victory, making my way successfully to the National Gallery where I spent hours wandering through the Impressionist exhibit. I treated myself to an elegant lunch at the Cascade Café and felt like such a world traveler. It was Spring, the weather was beautiful, we wandered around the city, taking in monuments right and left and, as Alexandra said, it was an amazing experience. While much of America seems to be getting more and more divisive, I'm going to be holding doors for strangers, letting people cut in front of me in traffic, greeting all I were a few adult beverages and Twist & Shout was better meet, exercising patience with others, and smiling at strangers. I'll do this as often as I have the opportunity. I will not stand idly by and let children live in a world where unconditional love is invisible and being rude is acceptable. Join me in showing love and respect to others. Find your way to swing the pendulum in the direction of love, because today, sadly, hate is gaining ground. Love must begin somewhere and love will overcome hate. Imagine the difference if we each purposely love a little more." This quote, attributed to Ben Carson, was put up on Facebook by my Huntington Beach daughter-in-law, Michon, mom of three year old Caleb and almost two year old Brady. We like it. Also, we have decided to pray daily for our President that he will seek wisdom. "Learn to be wise, develop good judgment and common sense... cling to wisdom – she will protect you. Love her – she will guard you." Prov. 4:5-7 Can't hurt! My book page: Amazon.com: Deanne Davis Blog: www.authordeanne.com

Council to Hear Efforts to Enhance the Arroyo

The city council is set Monday to hear a range of issues dealing with the Arroyo Seco, including the long-term future of the golf courses, "to craft a broad, unifying vision, which would include capital projects and programming opportunities, some immediate and some longer-term, as well as to identify funding opportunities consistent with community desires" according to the city staff report.

Mayor Terry Tornek talked about the Arroyo as part of his State of the City Address last week outlining plans by the National Park Service to add the Arroyo to the Santa Monica Mountains National Recreation Area. He said there is a potential habitat restoration project by the Army Corps of Engineers that could, among other things, remove the concrete channel running through the Arroyo and replace it with are-naturalized streambed. The council will discuss the effect of the County Department of Public Works' sediment removal project behind the Devil Gate Dam and the potential expansions of the Rose Bowl Aquatic Center and Kidspace museum.

Tornek said removal of the concrete channel would take decades.

Rose Bowl General Manager

Darryl Dunn and City Manager Steve Mermell have assembled an advisory group of Pasadena leaders who will bring together passion for the Arroyo Seco, financial acumen and who are well-versed in the history and the values of Pasadena. Currently, this group consists of former Mayor Bill Bogaard, William Chu, John Dean, Don Fedde, Michael Greene, Don Hahn, Mic Hansen, Phil Hawkey, Patricia Keane, Peter Knell, Doug Kranwinkle, Steve Mann, Tim Martinez, Sue Mossman, Chris Rising and Dan Rothenberg the report states.

The advisory group will commence in February and, at this time, is expected to take six months. Community input will be part of the process.

The city council meets at 6:30 p.m. in the Council Chambers, Pasadena City Hall, 100 North Garfield Avenue, Room S249.

ALVERNO HEIGHTS ACADEMY HONORS PHYSICS CLASS ENCOURAGED TO "DARE MIGHTY THINGS" AT JPL

The class enjoyed a field trip to learn more about the 50th anniversary of planetary exploration

Sierra Madre, CA – On Monday, January 23 the Alverno Heights Academy Honors Physics class had the opportunity to visit Pasadena's own Jet Propulsion Laboratory (JPL) on an exciting field trip. During their trip, the class was encouraged to "Dare Mighty Things." "Dare Mighty Things" is a current exhibit and program at JPL that celebrates the 50th anniversary of planetary exploration.

While on the field trip, the class particularly enjoyed hearing about JPL's plans for ARM (Asteroid Redirect Mission), a mission to capture and move an asteroid to a stable orbit around the moon. The mission, planned for around 2020 also will demonstrate planetary defense techniques to deflect dangerous asteroids from crashing into Earth, as well as providing resupply and operational support for manned missions to Mars.

The girls also learned more about the Juno Mission, which entered orbit around Jupiter on the 4th of July, 2016. For the first time, this project will allow scientists to see below the dense cloud cover to answer questions about the gas giant and the origins of our solar system. Alverno's own Ad Astra Astronomy Club plans to build a radio telescope to monitor radio emissions from Jupiter, so it was very exciting to see a model of the spacecraft and learn more details of the mission.

Finally, the students were introduced to the Voyager Missions, which they found exceptionally interesting. The Voyager Missions feature 12-inch golden records with sounds and music of Earth, destined to perhaps be heard by intelligent spacefaring civilizations in interstellar space. The Voyagers have now moved beyond our solar system and are still transmitting information from outer space to "the center of the universe" at Mission Control of the Deep Space Network at JPL.

The visit was awe-inspiring for the young scientists and engineers of a spacefaring civilization from a small planet.

"Over the past few years, Alverno Heights Academy's STEM our alumnae and current students with exceptional opportunities she wants to be. Located on the property of the former Barlow look forward to seeing the work that these young women will Heart Community, Alverno's program—academic, spiritual, accomplish in these important fields and the future impact they aesthetic, social, and physical—has been shaped by the staff, will have at these institutions."

3 TIPS FOR KEEPING YOUR KIDS DRUG-FREE THIS SCHOOL YEAR

(StatePoint) All parents want to feel confident that their children are happy, healthy and focused on the future. The unfortunate reality is that drug use can derail these goals and put a strain on

Parents can do a lot to curtail their child's risk. Here are three tips to help keep kids drug-free this school year

1. Get kids active in extracurricular activities.

Adolescents aged 12 to 17 who participate in extracurricular activities are less likely to use alcohol, cigarettes and illicit drugs, according to the National Survey on Drug Use and Health (NSDUH).

Many extracurricular activities are known to have positive effects on students' grades, attention span and behavior. Afterschool activities will keep kids engaged in something positive while they are outside the classroom and also provide an incentive for staying healthy. If your school lacks a particular activity in which your child expresses interest, investigate offerings at local community centers.

2. Open the lines of communication.

The importance of communicating with your child can't be overstated. A regular, open dialogue will make children more likely to talk to you about peer pressure and stress—the kinds of factors that can lead to drug

You can foster communication by regularly sitting down to dinner as a family and checking in on homework and school projects. Encourage children to invite friends over, so you know more about others with whom they spend their time.

3. Test your child.

If you suspect your child is experimenting with drugs, there are tools that can help you find out for certain in the privacy of your own home. Seventy-five percent of high school students have used addictive substances, according to CASAColumbia. Additional research by NSDUH showed that 1.8 million adolescents had used marijuana in the past month since the time of the study.

Home drug testing kits are readily available at your local pharmacy so you can get answers quickly and confidentially. For example, First Check home drug tests detect up to 12 of the most commonly abused drugs in five minutes with over 99 percent accuracy. Testing tips and resources for parents can be found at firstcheckfamily.com.

Be proactive. You have the power to help kids make healthy choices this school year and beyond.

'PAWS' FOR A LAUGH

A friend recently gave me a copy of a cute quip ever learns from this experience. Like Sisyphus, counterparts they often find themselves sharing their domestic space with.

The whimsical tale is written in letter form, addressed to the concerned cat's human. It struck me as so funny I decided to share it in this week's column. I can always use a bit of comic relief myself, and I hope you will enjoy it too.

Remember, it's just for laughs folks, so please do not be offended on behalf of your precious pups. After all, your average canine is smart enough to know better than to let a cat get under their skin, and just jovial enough to maintain a good sense of humor regardless of what others may say.

Try not to take life too seriously. Take a lesson from your dog who is clearly okay with laughing

Perhaps I'll share a little something about what our doggies must think of their kitty counterparts in a future article, just to keep a fair balance. Meanwhile, please do take a moment to pause for

Dear Human: A Letter From Your Cat by Janet Eve Josselyn

Dear Human,

Apparently you need to be reminded of the rules of this house. My house. The house I let you and that filthy dog share with me. Rule number one is you need to do what I want you to do when I want you to do it and I want you to get rid of the dim-witted dog. Now. Please.

Let me elaborate. He never cleans himself. Gross. He licks food off the floor. He also gets up on our bed as soon as you leave the house. Our bed. The one you and I sleep in. Despite the fact that he has his own Love and let live!

smelly dog bed on the floor. So you see, he is mischievous and cannot be

You are partly to blame for this, however, as you have reinforced some of his bad behaviors. For example, when you throw your ball away and he goes and gets it and returns it to you, you act all happy and thankful and you tell him what a good boy he is.

And then the two of you do it all over again while I watch in amazement at how neither of you on what cats must be thinking about the canine you both are doomed to repeat the task over and over and over again. So sad, really.

> And what about the dog's unbridled enthusiasm for every damned thing and person on the face of the earth? "Oh yippee! It's the mailman!" "Oh, how glorious! It's the repairman!" That dog's clearly missing some kind of filter. But I do share his glee upon the arrival of the box delivery man because I end up with all of the boxes. I have no idea what he gets out of it.

> In the spirit of unbridled candor, I want to share with you that it should be unacceptable to you to be paraded by that dog around the neighborhood on the leash day after day. How humiliating it must be for you to be seen collecting dog excrement in blue baggies every time he poops? What exactly do you think the neighbors think of you when they see you doing that? You don't need to live that way.

> Lastly, the smelly dog also seems completely devoid of the ability to amuse himself for any length of time, especially if there are no shoes or gloves around to chew. I, on the other hand, can amuse myself for days and days on end without really moving a muscle.

> You may think I am just staring out the window without a thought in my mind but I am actually reviewing scenarios for getting rid of the dog. Unfortunately, each one seems to require opposable thumbs so it's a work in progress and I need your help.

> Clearly, we need to give him the heave-ho. The sooner, the better. What you say? Wanna scratch my head now? I will allow it. Just for a minute. Good talk. Give it some thought.

> Many thanks to my dear animal-loving friend, Nancy Lockwood for passing the laughs along.

PET OF THE WEEK: LADY: ANIMAL ID A5023790

Lady (A5023790) is a gorgeous 4-year-old blackand-tan female German Shepherd who came into the Baldwin Park Animal Care Center on January 7th as a stray from La Puente. Weighing 58 lbs, this girl is well-mannered, devoted, and beautiful. Lady is good with other dogs and sits on command. She also knows how to give you her paw and she pays close attention to her handler, so she's had some training. She does pull a little on leash, but German Shepherds are quick to learn and since she has already shown signs of training, with a little work you will be able to get her to walk nicely on leash. Lady has some fly strikes on her ears that indicate she was likely kept as an outdoor dog; she is eager to be a house pet in her new home. With her athleticism and intelligence, Lady is going to make any active individual or family that likes to take walks and hikes a perfect indoor pet and activity companion.

To watch a video of Lady, visit the following link: https://youtu.be/I9APfeiB_iU For more information on this pet, please contact volunteer UHA adoption coordinator Katja at 951-973-2757 or katja@hope4animals.org.

THE JOY OF YOGA TIPS FOR MEDITATION

The benefits meditation immense indisputable. has many fruits many of which include emotional balance, improved physical health and a strong spiritual connection. There are studies out that connect meditation to positive changes in our brain function. It's never too late to start a meditation practice or begin again or re-up your current practice. Things get in the way and life happens. What's important is that we go back to the practice. New or not new, don't make it complicated. As Yogarupa Rod Stryker says, 10 minutes a day is better than 1 hour once a week. It's the consistency that's going to pay off and help us in our daily life each day.

Always make sure to find a comfortable seat for meditation. There's nothing like having your leg fall asleep or having an uncomfortable hip bothering you while you're trying to be still. The seated postion should Keely Totten allow the spine to be tall with the natural curve in the lower back. If seated on the floor is uncomfortable, sit in a chair or against a wall. Set aside enough time to sit for meditation and make sure you have a space where you won't fear interruption or distraction. Meditation is usually best in the morning just after waking up. If you can avoid looking at your phone or other electronic device, please do. It's best to have all of your focus and awareness moving toward an internal point of view. Once there, begin to breathe and relax the body. If you use a guided meditation to begin, that's ok for a while. Eventually, you'll want to move into just sitting while maintaining breath, internal awareness and Happy Meditating! Again, don't make it complex, even if your head is busy, you are still meditating. Learning to focus is part of the process.

Come see us at Yoga Madre! We are happy to help you get on the road to beauty and bliss through meditation.

Namaste friends,

TABLE FOR TWO by Peter Dills thechefknows@yahoo.com

This one might be tough to explain, but in my quest to keep you, my loyal reader, educated we will discuss organic and natural wines. Last Thursday Night I visited the Urban Plates Restaurant on South Lake Avenue in Pasadena.

Much like Chipotle or your work cafeteria, you wait in line, but the comparisons end there. My task was to try the food, but also see what kind of wines matched up with their "protein-focused" menu. I sampled their free-range chicken, California line-caught albacore, and a turkey meatloaf that my grandmother would have been proud of. Other entrees on my list for my next visit are sautéed brussel sprouts and organic potatoes. Organic potatoes? I can't tell the difference between organic, natural, or farm-to-table, but we live in a new generation of "foodies" and reading the labels in the grocery store seems to be the norm, not the exception.

While menu boasts many healthy choices like beet salad with goat cheese, you can live it up with an order of pork ribs and macaroni and cheese. Both of these go great with their selection of local beers. All entrees are in the $10 to $16 range and come with char grilled focaccia bread. The wine list, though small, offers a wine-by-the-glass program that I really appreciate. I counted 11 wines by the glass and have been told once management gets requests for additional wines they will expand. All and all they have great food and a nice wine list!

So what exactly is "organic wine"? Urban Plates carries a few that are and a few that are not. I love the fact that you can get a great glass of wine with your lunch or dinner for $7 and up. Here is my best explanation: the term "organic" has the same meaning as when applied to other products of our everyday consumption such as organic poultry or produce, and conveys the concept of natural growing practices. Organic winemakers use only natural fertilizers and never use pesticides. It is simply a pure and natural method of wine growing and wine making! Simple, right? I find there is no taste difference. It might cost you a few more pennies, but give it a shot!! All winemakers are farmers and their intent is to keep all of their wines/farms goods as close to natural as possible.

Side note: Each morning I stop at my local grocery store for a bottle of Kombucha - Urban Plates has

HOW TO GUARD AGAINST MEDICARE FRAUD

Dear Savvy Senior,

What are the steps seniors need to take if they suspect Medicare fraud?

Suspicious Sandy

Dear Sandy,

every year, making it one of the most profitable crimes in America. Here's what you should know, along with some tips for preventing, detecting and reporting it, if it happens to you.

What is Medicare fraud?

In a nutshell, Medicare fraud happens when Medicare is purposely billed for services or supplies that were never provided or received. Here are a few examples of some different types Medicare fraud that's out there: - A healthcare provider bills Medicare for services you never received.

- A supplier bills Medicare for equipment you never
- Someone uses your Medicare card to get medical care, supplies, or equipment.
- A company offers a Medicare drug plan that has not or call $77-808-2468 for contact information. been approved by Medicare.
- A company uses false information to mislead you Protect Yourself into joining a Medicare plan.

What You Can Do

The best way for you to spot Medicare fraud is to and don't ever give your Medicare or Social Security review your quarterly Medicare Summary Notices (MSN) or your Explanation of Benefits (EOB). Be on the lookout for things like charges for medical services, medications or equipment you didn't get, dates of services and charges that look unfamiliar, or if you were billed for the same thing twice. You can also check your Medicare claims early online at MyMedicare.gov (you'll need to create an account first), or by calling Medicare at 800-633-4227.

If you do spot any unusual or questionable charges, your first step is to contact your doctor or health care provider. The charge may just be a simple billing error. If, however, you can't resolve the problem with the charges to Medicare at 800-633-4227, or to the author of "The Savvy Senior" book.

Medicare fraud costs taxpayers more than $60 billion Department of Health and Human Services Office of Inspector General Fraud hotline at 800-447-8477.

When you call in, have the MSN or EOB with the questionable charges handy because you'll need to provide them with the following information: your Medicare card number; the physician, supplier, and/ or facility name where the service was supposedly provided; the date the service was rendered; the payment amount approved and paid by Medicare; as well as the reason you think Medicare shouldn't have paid. As an incentive, if the suspicious activity you report turns out to be fraud, you may be eligible for a reward of up to $1,000.

If you need help identifying or reporting Medicare fraud or resolving your Medicare billing errors, contact your state Senior Medicare Patrol program, which provides free assistance. Go to smpresource.org

To help you protect yourself from becoming a victim of Medicare fraud, you need to guard your Medicare card like you would your credit cards, number to strangers. Also, don't ever give out your personal information to someone who calls or comes to your home uninvited to get you to join a Medicare plan. Medicare will never call or visit your home to sell

It's also a smart idea to keep records of your doctor visits, tests, and procedures so you can compare them with any suspicious charges on your MSN or EOB.

This year it's been so cold I wouldn't blame them if they skipped southern California all together and pushed on to Mexico for warmer weather. But no, they're both back, faithful as a geyser. Sometimes I've only see one, and I worry that some terrible fate happened to its mate. But then I spot the two of them together and my fears are relieved.

LOWELL OBSERVATORY TO RENOVATE PLUTO DISCOVERY TELESCOPE

The instrument at Lowell Observatory in Flagstaff, Arizona, used by Clyde Tombaugh to discover Pluto is about to undergo renovation. The year-long project, which began on January 12, will include restoration of both the historic telescope and the wooden dome that houses it. While the telescope will be removed from the dome during this work, the dome will be open from time to time for public tours as work allows.

The Pluto Telescope and its dome date back to the late 1920s, when Lowell Observatory recommenced the search for founder Percival Lowell's theoretical "Planet X". In the nine decades since, some areas of the dome have rotted, a few of the telescope parts have worn out, and the others need to be cleaned or stripped and repainted. The renovation will address these issues, as Lowell's technical staff plans to replace part of the dome wood and then weatherproof the entire facility.

The Pluto Telescope is technically known as an astrograph, a telescope specifically designed for taking photographs of objects in space. In addition to Tombaugh's 1930 discovery of Pluto, the instrument was also used by Lowell astronomers to study comets and asteroids, as well as stars with measurable proper motion (apparent angular movement). But it is the Pluto discovery that continues to generate public interest in the facility, resulting in ever-increasing visitation from guests around the world. In 2016 alone, Lowell welcomed a record 100,000 visitors.

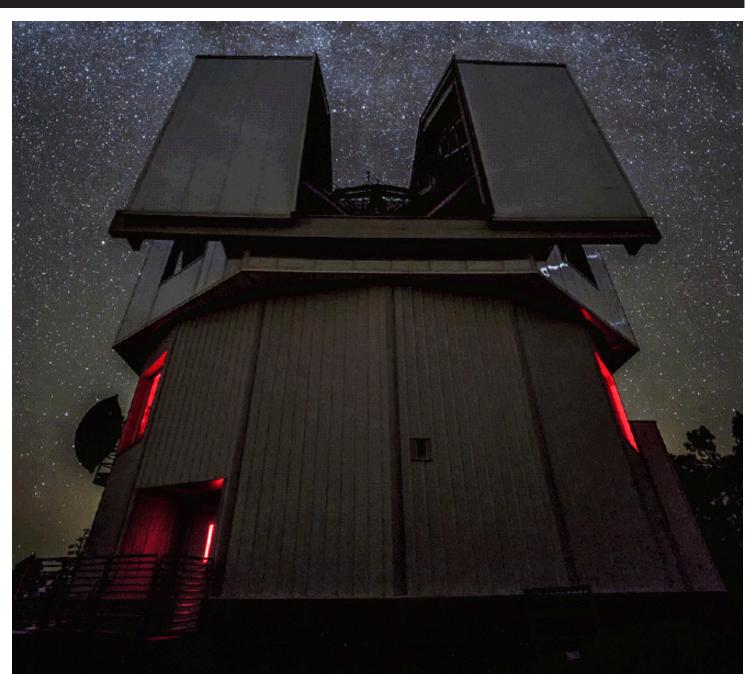

The renovation comes two years after a similar effort on Lowell's historic 24-inch telescope and will be carried out by the same team of Lowell technicians. Like that instrument, the lens of the Pluto Telescope, measuring 13-inches in diameter, was crafted by the Alvan Clark and Sons telescope making firm of Cambridge, Massachusetts.

Lowell Director Jeff Hall said, "Like the Alvan Clark refractor across campus, the Pluto Discovery Telescope is a national treasure. People come to Lowell from all over the world to see these historic telescopes, and I'm so pleased to see them restored and preserved for decades to come.

The Pluto Telescope and dome renovation will cost $155,000, all of which Lowell's development team has raised through crowdsourcing, private donations, and a grant from Crystal Trust. Hall said, "We can't undertake major projects like this without external support, and we're grateful to everyone who has donated to make this happen."

While a young researcher working for the Lowell Observatory in Flagstaff, Arizona, Tombaugh was given the job to perform a systematic search for a trans-Neptunian planet (also called Planet X), which had been predicted by Percival Lowell and William Pickering.

Tombaugh used the observatory's 13-inch astrograph to take photographs of the same section of sky several nights apart. He then used a blink comparator to compare the different images. When he shifted between the two images, a moving object, such as a planet, would appear to jump from one position to another, while the more distant objects such as stars would appear stationary. Tombaugh noticed such a moving object in his search, near the place predicted by Lowell, and subsequent observations showed it to have an orbit beyond that of Neptune. This ruled out classification as an asteroid, and they decided this was the ninth planet that Lowell had predicted. The discovery was made on February 18, 1930.

RUNNING IN THE MUD

com, or Box 41834, Eagle Rock, CA 90041.]

Way back in 1976, a friend who ran a non-profit group shared with me a way to commemorate one's birthday. Run a lap for every year, and mentally review that year as you run. Relive your life. There are many other details, but this is the life, and look over how you got to where you are

This is essentially what I have done every year since then. My birthday this year in January of 2017 was no different. Though the leaders of the non-profit have encouraged their members to do this run as a group-activity, I felt the need for solitude this year. I wanted to review my past years, without having to talk it aloud to whomever might have come along to run with me.

Before noon, I found a somewhat isolated place to run down in the Arroyo Seco. It had rained previously, so everything was wet and muddy. It was sunny, yet it was still cold and breezy. Birds flew about overhead looking for possible meals in the new pools of water that head developed around the willows. I located one of the catchment basins that had been built to hold rain and river water, so it soaks into the me. water table. I liked the length of its perimeter berm, and began my run.

all the significant events for that year. I tried to remember all my significant events, and how I was feeling about them way back when. Successes, failures, fears, challenges, obstacles, rejections, learning new skills, realizing that people don't become more skilled and competent just become present. I ran in a large circle, trying to not pay much attention to my physical surroundings, trying to get back into the mindset of a newly born child. I saw my parents and I saw my teachers.

I recall the phrase being asked to me so often, in the very early years, and especially as I grew older: "What do you want to be when you grow up?" It was an odd question, I always thought, because the person asking really meant "what sort of a job do you think you will do for the majority of your life so you can earn money to pay your bills?" But I only heard "what do you want to be" and "when you grow up." I had lots of interests, for sure, and I recall admiring other friends or associates who seemed to be so wholly engrossed in one task that they clearly had "become" that activity, whether sports, proficiency with a musical instrument, gardening, whatever. I had so many interests. Did I really have to decide on just one? And "growing up." Will I know when I have "grown is everything.

[Nyerges is the author of up"? I just naturally assumed that once I grew – "Exrtreme Simplicity," that once anyone grew up – they would ipso facto "Self-Sufficient Home," become a stable member of society, an actively Survive contributing member to a family and community, Anywhere," and other and someone who maturely made all the best Information decisions for now and the future. But I never about his books and classes is available at www. saw those adults. I recall feeling disappointed as I "grew up," seeing what I perceived to be vast incompetence, lack of willpower, and general confusion about what to do in life. I reasoned that if I enjoyed walking in the woods and studying plants and Native American history, what could be wrong with that?

As I ran in early January, I felt that I had wasted essence of it. Take the time to run through your so much time in school, constantly resisting the teacher, constantly thinking that my time would be so much better spent being somewhere else. But where? My problem and blindness, which I did not see back in my grammar school years, was that no teacher was ever really going to teach me anything, as if they were to serve me something on a silver platter. The real purpose of teachers and schools, I now realize, was to teach me how to teach myself, how to prime my thinking so that I learn what facts are useful in my life, and which facts are necessary to find out all the other things that were necessary to know.

Round and round I went, in the mud, in the diminishing light of the cloudy day, reviewing school, and job, and relationships, and breakup of relationships, and moving from here to there, and traveling, and writing about things, and feeling the pain of the death of so many people around

During that time, I had just finished reading the remarkable book, "House of Rain" by I run one lap for each year, trying to remember Childs, about the possible fate of the Anasazi the American Southwest, and I could not help but think about people with an incredible low-tech technology, who built great houses and roads and canals, made pots and fabrics, and grew food when there was sufficient rain. Then something happened, and people were dispersed, or killed. As I ran, I thought of the fate of all of us, how we In the first few years, very few memories were take so much for granted, how water is the most essential key to life, wherever we happen to be.

Now, at 62, I was not so concerned about "what I will do when I grow up." I was more concerned about the refinement of what I have been already doing. How do I make the world a better place for my having been here? Is any "revolution" more important than a personal revolution of my very thinking and going about my daily life?

As I ran my final laps, it was so obvious that life is about people and our relationships, not about the stuff that we acquire. What we do is what we do, here and now. Live your life, and do it the best you can. Accumulating money, and buying a house, and degrees, and all that, are all OK, but we don't want to get all caught up by the material

I stood in the stiffening breeze with the setting sun to the west, and it was so clear that life is to be lived in the now, and how you go about that doing,

WHY DID GOD GIVE US WINTER?

60°. At that point, I do the shiver-me-timbers life that I do not want any more of it. dance. You don't want to know!

far as I know, there is no cure for this except without, thank you very much. escaping to Florida. Even here, cold will manage to sometimes poke its nose into my business. All I can do at the time is sneeze, hoping it will scare

Experiencing a rather cold afternoon this past week, I queried the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage on this subject.

"Why," I asked rather philosophically, "did God give us winter?"

There are times when I do muse philosophically with a far-off look.

In this mode, I sometimes think about that philosophical question, "How many angels can dance on the point of a needle?" I've often mused on this question, but the problem is I do not know how big angels are and if they really can dance.

I guess it is in the same category as the question, "If a tree fell in the middle of a forest and nobody's around, does it make a sound?"

I like to think along those lines because there is no correct answer to any of them. So, my answer is right, which makes me feel good about myself. If there is anything I want to do, it is to feel good about myself. After all, nobody else feels good about me so it might as well be me.

With all that in mind, the question that I posed to my wife deserved an answer. "Why did God give us winter?"

My wife was busy in the kitchen at the time, but she turned around, put both hands on her hips and said, "So you could go out and buy a new sweater." Then she went back to her kitchen activity.

Of course, it did not really answer my question. Why is God interested in my sweaters? Why can't he allow me to have a climate that eliminates the use of sweaters? I could handle that.

Then my wife interrupted my muse session and said, "God gave us winter so that we would appreciate summer when it came." Then she went back to her kitchen work.

That happens all the time. God gives us something that is not very comfortable at the time and then when it goes away we appreciate the quiet

Just like the neighbors when they are playing their music so loud it is thumping in my head, when they turn it off I appreciate the silence. But when all I have is silence, I fail to really value it.

Getting back to winter. Of course, from my com.

Living in Florida my idea perspective, I cannot see any real value in winter. of winter is anytime the Sure, some people like snow. The only snow I like temperature drops below is on postcards. I have had enough of snow in my

Some people enjoy the snow; sledding, skiing, I have a rare disease called Coldaphobia. As making snow angels. All of these things I can do

However, as I was shivering this terrible winter afternoon, I got to thinking about how wonderful summer really is. In the middle of summer, I do not really appreciate it, as I should. Once it has gone, I sure do miss it.

As I was shivering, I was thinking about all of the positive things about summer. And boy, are there many positive things about summer. For me, the most positive thing about summer is the fact that I am not dealing with cold. I love the heat and it cannot get too hot for me.

As I was thinking along this line, I remembered one summer afternoon that was so stinking hot that could hardly breathe. My wife was sitting across the porch, she happened to sigh very deeply and say, "I'm tired of this hot weather."

Of course, I love my wife and who wouldn't, but I cannot identify with being tired of hot weather. How can you be tired of hot weather?

For me, I enjoy hot weather and the hotter the better for me. I do not mind sweating. One of the best things about summer is when I can say, "Honey, I would love to do that or go there but it's really too hot." She will smile at me and say, "Yes, I think you're right. It is too hot."

Enough said.

So why did God really create winter? It is in the winter when I am shivering so much, coughing and sneezing that I really begin to appreciate the significance of summer.

In order to get us to appreciate something God takes it away from us temporarily until we come to the point of full appreciation. I believe God knows what he is doing. Going through a trial with all kinds of frustration and aggravation, I begin to appreciate those quiet times of waiting upon God.

I wonder if that's what Peter had in mind when he wrote, "That the trial of your faith, being much more precious than of gold that perisheth, though it be tried with fire, might be found unto praise As I thought about that, I had to admit that she and honour and glory at the appearing of Jesus Christ:" (1 Peter 1:7).

> All those trials of winter lead me to praise God for the glory of summer.

ADVISORY: SHERIFF JIM MCDONNELL WELCOMES THE CIVILIAN OVERSIGHT COMMISSION - ANOTHER BRIDGE TO THE COMMUNITIES WE SERVE

As Sheriff, I was an early and vocal supporter of a Civilian Oversight Commission for the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department. I firmly believe we need and want another bridge to the communities we serve.

The Civilian Oversight Commission will allow the people of L.A. County to participate in the process as we seek resolution to some of the most challenging criminal justice issues of our time.

This includes those who feel wronged or violated by law enforcement. But this also includes those whose lives have been saved by the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department.

Our Department is very large and the responsibilities are extremely diverse. Our deputies made contact with more than two million people last year and responded to thousands of calls for service.

Members of the Civilian Oversight Commission are key advisors and will bring much needed, and welcomed, outside expertise and points of view. The public's trust in the LASD will be stronger and more effective and our Department will be viewed with greater trust with the additional layer of accountability from this Commission.

I am confident, ours can be a partnership that becomes a national model that shows citizens and the police can put party politics and special interests aside and roll-up their sleeves, speak with respect and get the job done.

While police use of force is part of the national dialogue, so should be the need for local, state and federal resources to deal with the prevalence of mental illness and drug addiction that impact the safety of our community and our officers.

While police accountability is questioned by some, we have the opportunity to be the national model of transparency with the layers of accountability our department has implemented.

Those layers begin with recruiting, hiring, training, supervision, management, our systems, policies and procedures, our Audit & Accountability Bureau, our Constitutional Policing Advisors, our Executive Leadership Team, the Office of the Inspector General and now the Civilian Oversight Commission. It is all about leadership and working hard to be the very best that we can be every day.

I ask you share community concerns with us freely. When we are wrong, we will own it, acknowledge it and fix it, but when we perform our duties in a manner that demonstrates the courage, compassion and commitment the overwhelming majority of our people do every day, I ask you acknowledge that as well.

When you see we are struggling for appropriate resources in order to accomplish our goals by providing the best possible service for the communities we are privileged to serve, we ask you advocate for us as well. We need your help and welcome your partnership.

I also understand the credibility of our work together requires a high level of independence for both the Commission and the LASD.

As Sheriff, I have a responsibility to the voters of a county of 10 million people and I intend fulfill that responsibility. My job is to provide leadership to an exceptional organization of men and women who believe in our mission of constitutional policing and risk their lives in furtherance of that mission. I have set the bar high and hold all of our employees to a very high standard. I am accountable to the over 10 million residents of Los Angeles County for the conduct and performance of the LASD and I take that responsibility very seriously.

However, having your insight and expertise will be invaluable.

You will provide the perspectives that are representative of all the diverse communities of Los Angeles County.

Having strong points of view and a candid relationship built upon respect is good. It is Being heard, being respectful and moving forward is a good way to start this journey together. We have the opportunity to set the tone and agenda that will truly define 21st century constitutional policing.

We can embody the kind of professionalism to focus on getting things done, but doing so in the best interests of 10 million Los Angeles residents, and not the self-interests of one or a few.

We already work with independent oversight. The LASD has accomplished a lot of good work with the Office of the Inspector General with whom we have a strong and open working relationship.

I look forward to working with an exceptional group of professionals who make-up the Civilian Oversight Commission.

of the upcoming Ahead October groundbreaking, crews are out this week conducting geologic tests at key locations along the Glendora to Montclair extension to evaluate soil conditions. This work is part of the on-going effort underway to prepare the $1.3 billion project for construction, including finalizing the advanced conceptual engineering with our partner cities and other key stakeholders. The photos below show the crew collecting soil data with 100-foot deep borings in Glendora, near the Grand Avenue/Foothill Boulevard intersection (left) and Lone Hill Avenue (right). These are two of the two dozen locations along the future project where structures will likely be built or renovated.

At their meeting last night, the Construction Authority board of directors reviewed and approved an updated schedule and workplan for the Glendora to Montclair project. The updated schedule is based on the extensive planning done to date, and a more complete understanding that the next segment is really two major construction projects in one - with the freight and Metrolink relocations occurring first, and then the light rail system construction. The updated schedule forecasts substantial completion in late-2025/early-2026, two years later than the preliminary schedule (developed and approved earlier in the planning process) and also includes the Construction Authority spending the first year of work relocating utilities and conducting other pre-construction activities. As part of the review last night, the board also approved an updated project estimate, which confirmed the construction costs in the 2015 estimate remain accurate. The updated estimate includes an increase of $118 million, attributable to the costs associated with two more years of work, escalation and new prevailing and minimum wage laws. The overall scope remains consistent.

We anticipate hiring the Alignment designbuild contractor in late 2018. At that time, the schedule and estimate will once again be reviewed in response to the final bid and workplan.

"[Schwizgebel] never disappoints. Let's hope that audiences continue to be drawn in as much by his authoritative and stylish playing as by the intelligence and maturity of his interpretations. His playing has bags of personality, but it is not the sort of personality that gets in the way of the music. In a densely populated field, Schwizgebel's musicianship has special depth and imagination." Classical Source, December 2016

Schwizgebel has been the recipient of a number of prizes and scholarships, including second prize at the 2005 Concours de Genève, First Prize at the 2007 Young Concert Artists European Auditions in Leipzig and the Young Concert Artists International Auditions in New York, and 2nd prize at the 2012 Leeds International Piano Competition. Israel: A Concise History of a Nation Reborn by Daniel

Daniel Gordis, "one of the most Daniel Gordis, "one of the most respected Israel analysts" (The Forward) living and writing in Jerusalem.Israel is a tiny state, and yet it has captured the world's attention, aroused its imagination, and lately, been the object of its opprobrium. Why does such a small country speak to so many global concerns? More pressingly: Why does Israel make the decisions it does? And what lies in its future? We does? And what lies in its future? We cannot answer these questions until we understand Israel's people and the questions and conflicts, the hopes and desires, that have animated their conversations and actions. Though Israel's history is rife with conflict, these conflicts do not fully communicate the spirit of Israel and its people: they give short shrift to the dream that gave birth to the state, and to the vision for the Jewish people that was at its core. Guiding us through the milestones of Israeli history, Gordis relays the drama of the Jewish people's story and the creation of the state. Cleareyed and erudite, he illustrates how Israel became a cultural, economic eyed and erudite, he illustrates how Israel became a cultural, economic and military powerhouse—but also explains where Israel made grave mistakes and traces the long history of Israel's deepening isolation. With Israel, public intellectual Daniel Gordis offers us a brief but thorough account of the cultural, economic, and political history of this complex. account of the cultural, economic, and political history of this complex nation, from its beginnings to the present. Accessible, levelheaded, and rigorous, Israel sheds light on the Israel's past so we can understand its future. The result is a vivid portrait of a people, and a nation, reborn.

DOES YOUR PARENT NEED HELP WITH FINANCES? START HERE

Caring for an aging parent is a common challenge for Baby Boomers, and now even Gen-X'ers and Millennials. And, stepping in to help manage your parents' finances, without eroding their sense of independence and privacy can be a tricky endeavor.

Many aging parents are reluctant to ask their children for help with their finances. It means a loss of control, a trading of places (from them taking care of you to you taking care of them), and can feel quite frightening for your parents.

Nevertheless, you may be wondering what you can do when your parents start needing help.

A pile of unpaid bills, threatening calls from creditors or repeated instances of credit card fraud or financial scams are good indicators that your parent needs help managing his or her finances.

Financial caregiving is easiest when you already have a plan in place. You may be in a good position to make educated decisions about their finances, but without the proper information and legal authority,

THINGS TO REPEAL AND REPLACE

Welcome to America 2017. A country that has become the laughing stock of the world and whose newly elected 'leader' appears to be incapable of understanding its own Constitution.

Welcome to the land where, through trickery and deceit, a man, who (as evidenced in his own words on tape), lies as a sport, manipulates the unsuspecting and has determined that he, and he alone, can fix things. (He said that too during the campaign.)

Welcome to the Democracy that now has a Bully King aka Donald Trump whose behavior and actions you want to, need to shield impressionable young children and teens from. And welcome to a country that now seems willing to spend billions of your hard earned tax dollars on the things that don't improve or protect the quality of life for Americans (election investigations on voter fraud, border walls, etc.) rather than spending those funds on repairing our educational system or fixing our roads or making certain that our agencies are doing what they can to assist in preventing the rising incidence of communicable diseases that we used to have under control – Measles, Mumps, et. al. (Where the money is going to come from is also very interesting since the Bully King is hell bent on cutting our sources of revenue by giving corporations a tax cut). That would be our new President. Cut the revenue and think about later what to replace it with.

He is the King of Repeal and Replace. Environmental regulations, Regulations that protect communities from corporate irresponsibility (Can you say, Aliso Canyon), and the Affordable Care Act (Obamacare) which covers more than 20 million formely uninsured Americans, and much more Whether it's his massive ego or not, he clearly doesn't seem to have a grip on what he should be focusing on. So, why not give him a list of things that really need to be Repealed and Replaced:

- The Obvious Twosome -Donald J. Trump, Liar In Chief and Pence Side Kick without a voice
   Paul Ryan who resists wearing a T Shirt that says, "I can hardly wait!" (For Trump/Pence to fail)
   Mitch McConnell, Senate Majority Leader who knows the difference between Executive Orders
- created when Congress fails to act and Executive Orders issued because the President thinks his title is
- 4. Kevin McCarthy House Majority Leader and the rest of the 75% of Republicans that have never worked with a Republican Administration. (Hint: It's ok to 'Stand Your Ground' when the President
- 5. All members of Congress who refuse to work with members of opposing parties in order to come up with solutions that work for EVERYONE.
- 6. Sean Spicer, White House mouthpiece who clearly has lost his credibility because he knows that repeating a lie doesn't make it true.
- 7. Kelly Anne Conway.....where do we start...... I think she's a repeal and don't ever replace! Alternative Facts? Donald Trump makes himself look bad enough but when she tries to justify it she makes it worse. 8. The 2016 Election. Let's just start over again without the fake news, the Russian Influence and the
- 9. Repeal and Replace Article II Section 1 of the Constition:
- The Qualifications for the Office of the President. Currently they are simply, "Age and Citizenship requirements - US Constitution, Article II, Section 1
- No person except a natural born citizen, or a citizen of the United States, at the time of the adoption of this Constitution, shall be eligible to the office of President; neither shall any person be eligible to that office who shall not have attained to the age of thirty-five years, and been fourteen years a resident within the United States 10. AND REPLACE WITH:
- a. You must be a Natural Born Citizen of the United States (and define)
- b. Be at least 35 years of age
- Reside as a resident within the US for at least 14 years
- d. BE MENTALLY COMPETENT as determined by a group of certified psychiatrists.
- e. PASS A PERSONALITY EXAMINE to determine ability to distinguish fact from fiction and the ability to play well with others.
- Pass a Maturity Test to see if you can get beyond name calling and being thin skinned. BE A TAX PAYING CITIZEN AND PROVE IT.
- HAVE BEEN ELECTED AND SERVED TO ITS COMPLETION AT LEAST ONE AT THE
- Have a record of community service over and beyond elected Public Service.
- j. Be a decent human being.

TRUMP'S EXTREME VETTING:

Trump is going to ban visa's to travelers from Iran, Iraq, Libya, Somalia, Sudan, Syria, and Yemen. He's NOT banning travel to Egypt, Turkey and Saudi Arabia. Why is Saudi Arabia especially not on the list? "The hijackers in the September 11 attacks were 19 men affiliated with al-Qaeda, and 15 of the 19 were citizens of Saudi Arabia. The others were from the United Arab Emirates (2), Egypt and Lebanon." HmmmTrump has business ties with Saudi Arabia and Egypt. And what about Turkey if you're going to institute bans? Oh yes, Trump also has business ties to Turkey. Go to: http://www. huffingtonpost.com/entry/read-draft-text-trump-executive-order-muslim-entry_us_5 888fe00e4b0024605fd591d?0lwdu2cbey5htzkt9 and read the full story.

WILL THE MEN IN THE WHITE COATS DRAG TRUMP AWAY?

Check out the 25th Constitutional Amendment. A vice president, working with a "majority of either the principle officers of the executive departments, or of such body as Congress may by law provide," can remove the president for being "unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office." Even the craven enabling Republicans would do well to read that provision, because the day may come when they're finally compelled to acknowledge — in the national interest — that Trump is dangerously off his rocker. We're only six days into this farce, and it's obvious already. As conservative commentator Andrew Ferguson rightly points out, "the candidate who campaigned as a sociopath shows signs he may yet govern as one." The latest reminder is Trump's alternative fact about the election. At the tail end of November, he said he was robbed of a popular vote victory because millions of people had "voted illegally" for Hillary. It was just another baldfaced lie. He had zero evidence of massive voter fraud, just as he'd had zero evidence that Obama was foreign-born.

We figured — foolish us — that Trump, with his attention deficit disorder, would simply forget the lie and find a new one. Which he did. But now he's obsessing about it again, marinating anew in his delusion. We should not be surprised. Sick and twisted people do stuff like this.

On Monday night, during a bipartisan meeting with congressional leaders, he stated that he lost the popular vote because three to five million people voted illegally. He offered no evidence of mass fraud, because there isn't any. Then during a press briefing, propaganda minister Sean Spicer recited Trump's alternative fact, and said it was "based on studies and evidence that people have presented to him." The press asked: What studies? What evidence? Spicer replied: "Studies and information he has."

What studies? What information? Trump is apparently still fixated on a November story that was posted on Infowars, a tinfoil-hat website, which declared in a headline: "3 million votes in presidential election cast by illegal aliens." Problem is, the story had no evidence. Plus, the guy who runs Infowars has stated on the record that the Sandy Hook elementary school massacre never happened.

But Trump still won't let it go, taking to Twitter to announce, "I will be asking for a major investigation into VOTER FRAUD."

Someone in the Justice Department should tell him that illegal voting on a massive scale is impossible to pull off without everyone noticing it on day one. Someone in Justice should remind him that when Jill Stein sought recounts shortly after the election, his own lawyers wrote: "All available evidence suggests that the 2016 general election was not tainted by fraud or mistake." But he wouldn't listen, because he doesn't do irony.

A few Republicans have roused themselves to protest Trump's idiocy. Mike Huckabee, a big supporter, told Fox News Business Network, "I have no evidence whatsoever, and I don't know that anyone does, that there are that many illegal people who voted ... I'm not sure why he brought it up."

Sen. Lindsey Graham had the most substantive rebuke. "I would urge the president to knock this off ... To continue to insist that the 2016 election was conducted in a fashion that millions of people voted illegally undermines faith in our democracy," Graham said. "People are going to start doubting you as a person."

But, all too predictably, most Republicans reacted as if jelly had replaced their spines. In their lust to enact their long-stymied agenda (throwing people off Obamacare, gutting the EPA, etc.), they're apparently prepared to indulge Trump's serial lies and delusions.

His temperament is already a burgeoning issue. The anecdotes are piling up. But what's most remarkable about a recent Washington Post story about Trump's first week in office is the ninth paragraph: "This account of Trump's tumultuous first days in office comes from interviews with nearly a dozen senior White House officials and other Trump advisers and confidants, some of whom spoke on the condition of anonymity to describe private conversations and moments." In other words, Trump aides are already leaking like a sieve — to the free and independent press that Trump hates.

So the question is: How long will Republicans indulge him before they man up to do their duty? Will they sit silent until he rants us to the brink of a needless war that could get a lot of people killed? This week's "voter fraud" delusion is merely a toxic appetizer.

CLIMATE ALARMISTS WILL MISS CALIFORNIA'S DROUGHT

California's drought which the New York Times characterized as "unending," ended. This is good news for everyone other than Al Gore and his depressing band of climate Cassandras.

Well the rains came after all to California and it was the answer to prayer for many citizens. For others the rain was a splash in the face, so to speak. California's seven-year drought came in very handy for climate conspirators. Their heat hysteria convinced gullible legislators that only by seizing control of the economy and tightening the noose of regulation around people's lives could a weather wipeout be avoided. It didn't matter that California is a semi-arid state and periodic droughts are part of the climate package. Past droughts are in the past. The one that was just concluded was here right now and could be used to beat the extreme weather, coming-doom drum. But now it's rained on their parade. A drought the warmist New York Times characterized as "unending," ended. The Daily Mail reports San Francisco hasn't had this much rain in one storm since 1982 during the bleak Reagan years. Since the first of the year the city has had 5.53 inches of precipitation. The California Department of Water Resources calculates Northern California reservoirs have added one million acres of water to storage. (Why water storage is measured in terms of acres like land and not in terms of gallons like say, water, will remain a mystery to me.) Roy W. Spencer on his website has startling before-and-after satellite pictures of before rain and after rain California. The photos from 2014 look like Haiti without the Clintons, while the January 2017 shots look like California. One of the site's contributors says reservoirs in the state are now at 113 percent of "historical average storage for this date." This is good news for everyone other than Al Gore and his depressing band of climate Cassandras.

What's more, even though I know I'm taking a risk citing them as a source, CNN admits 42 percent of the state is now "drought free." This is a big increase from last year's 3 percent.

Of course, as I predicted here, rain hitting parched, dry land did result in some flooding. That's the only bright spot for the alarmist crowd. Turning on a dime from calling a predictable drought "extreme weather" the climate Cassandras will now be trying to panic the populace over "extreme" flooding. [...]
