VOLUME 11 NO. 6

Sierra Madre News Briefs

It has come to the attention of the city that some of our residents might have been targeted for an attempted utility fraud scam. If you are ever suspicious of any interaction with someone claiming to be from the City of Sierra Madre please call the City of Sierra Madre at (626) 355-7135.

What Do Scammers Do? Scammers impersonate City staff and utility workers. They may use fear and intimidation to force you to make a payment using a credit card or a prepaid money card immediately threatening that otherwise your service will be disconnected. They may use "spoofing software" that displays the name and phone number of City of Sierra Madre on your Caller ID.

What Should You Do Next? Hang up! Do not give the callers any personal information and do

Call City of Sierra Madre at (626) 355-7135 to check your account balance and to inform us about the scammer. Make payments 24/7 online at https://www. municipalonlinepayments.com/ sierramadreca

Do not call any other number that the caller gives you. Do not give any information to the caller, not even an account number which can be used to threaten you in future phone calls. What You Need to Know:

Sierra Madre——Arcadia——Pasadena—

City of Sierra Madre NEVER makes outbound calls asking for payment or a customer's credit card information. City of Sierra Madre NEVER visits residential customers to solicit program enrollment or ask for payments.

If we do need to make a water quality check, we will inform you first or respond if you request this service. City of Sierra Madre employees never enter a home to check for water quality. Always ask utility employees for proper identification and look for City of Sierra Madre vehicles.

Spread the Word!

Share this information with your friends, family, neighbors, and co-workers to protect them from scammers. Business owners - educate all your employees about phone calls that may threaten service interruptions. Many times managers or employees who do not have account information are worried that if they don't act quickly and pay, services will be shut off.

ARCADIA TACKLES COYOTE ISSUES

At the February 7, Arcadia City Council meeting, one of the items on the agenda was how to deal with the growing presence of Coyotes in the city. City Manager Dominic Lazzaretto provided the council with a comprehensive report and requested direction from the council as to how to proceed. (To view the full report, go to: https://www.arcadiaca.gov/Home/ ShowDocument?id=9114) . The report noted previous attempts by Arcadia to address the problem in 2010 and included the review of a new technique in Coyote Conflict Management.

In the pamphlet from the National Parks magazine entitled "Coyotes and the City", it is noted that the coyote is a versatile animal, capable of easily adapting to its environment.

As a result, the report states, "the urban coyote will often eat human garbage, pet food, road kill, and domestic pets, including cats and dogs. As is more commonly the case in urbanized environments, coyotes have been known to actively hunt cats and small dogs, and are able to leap fences as high as 8 feet to prey on domestic animals. Less frequently, bolder packs of coyotes have been known to shadow joggers and even approach humans while walking their pets on a leash. While extremely unusual, coyotes have been known to attack humans, including an incident in the City of Montebello this past summer.

In the end, the council voted to hire a contractor with the responsibility for dealing with the city's Coyote problem. That was Tuesday. On Thursday, People For The Ethical Treatment of Animals (PETA) sent a letter to Arcadia Mayor Tom Beck and the City Council objecting to the city's plan to 'trap and kill coyotes'.

Below is the text of that letter: PETA's headquarters has been informed that the Arcadia City Council has voted to hire a contractor to trap and kill coyotes. On behalf of our hundreds of members and supporters in Arcadia, we urge you to halt any plans to kill coyotes immediately. Ultimately, trapping and killing initiatives are ineffective at controlling coyote populations, as surviving pack members breed in order to replace lost family members while more coyotes move in from outlying areas for the available resources. Furthermore, trapping of any kind (including cage trapping) is extraordinarily stressful for any wild species, and snare traps particularly are inhumane, since ensnared animals sustain often horrific injuries in their frantic attempts to escape, even chewing or twisting off their own limbs. Killing otherwise removing animals also tears wild families apart, leaving orphaned young to starve. And such devices notoriously indiscriminate, posing definite risks to companion animals and "nontarget" wildlife, including protected species.

Making areas unappealing via deterrents and curtailing food sources will encourage coyotes to move on naturally. Ammonia-soaked rags placed in dens will successfully "evict" coyotes, as they loathe the smell. Residents should be advised that trimming vegetation away from buildings, trails, and fence lines will eliminate or at least reduce the number of hiding places for coyotes as well as their prey. Sonic deterrents such as YardGard™, motion-activated sprinklers, flashing lights, and outdoor radios (all available at garden stores) also work effectively to deter coyotes and their prey. The Bird-X Transonic Mole will further deter burrowing animals who are a food source for coyotes, and the presence of rodents can be mitigated by keeping dumpsters locked, trash and compost securely contained, and grass cut shorter as well as by feeding animal companions indoors. Finally, a prohibition on feeding wildlife should be strictly enforced.

This integrative approach is the only effective means of coyote control, and its nonlethal nature makes it acceptable to the public. We hope to hear soon that Arcadia will abandon this killing initiative. The letter was signed by Kristin Rickman, Cruelty Casework Associate Manager for PETA,

Walking Sierra Madre...The Social Side

"Brady Takes The Fifth!" Los Angeles Times Sports 12 corn tortillas

Yep, that's pretty much what happened in last Sunday's Super Bowl. After slogging through the first three quarters of the game with the Falcons ahead by a mile, the Patriots seemed to get their second wind, third wind, wake-up moment, whatever, and won in overtime. First Super Bowl overtime ever, too. My football aficionado and favorite walking buddy, John, and I enjoyed the Super Bowl party at daughter, Patti's, and son-in-law, Dave's house. They invested in a new enormous flat screen TV for the event and, let me tell you, it was like being at the game!

never know which one is going to be the Super Bowl winner," said Tom Brady as he admired his fifth Super Bowl ring. It was a pretty good game, too. Lady Gaga wasn't bad either and all the women in the room - 7 of and lightly browned, about 30 minutes or so. us all together - wished we had her legs. I know, our legs • Let stand 10 minutes before cutting into squares for could look that good if we actually worked out once in a serving. You know, just like lasagna!

But the Super Bowl isn't really about the game, it's about the food! And what food we had! I made Mexican students, friends of grandson, Blake, who was there was celebrating a birthday. We are all good cooks in our family and potluck with us is an adventure. Daughter, Leah, had made vegan twice-stuffed russet potatoes and sweet potatoes with an avocado sauce which were amazing. Huntington Beach daughter-in-law, Michon, brought heart shaped sugar cookies she and her little guys, almost two year old Brady and three year old Caleb, had made and frosted. But I won't make you wait any longer...here's the recipe for Mexican Lasagna. This meets all the criteria for a good recipe: Easy, doesn't take too long to make, not hideously expensive and, yes, kids will eat it!

2 lbs. ground beef

1 1-oz. package taco seasoning mix

15-oz can diced tomatoes (with jalapenos or whatever you like in 'em)

2 8-oz cans tomato sauce

1 4-oz can diced green chiles

1 15-oz can whole kernel corn

1 16-oz container ricotta cheese 2 eggs, beaten

2-1/2 cups shredded Mexican blend cheese or more if you really like cheese.

• Preheat oven to 350 degrees

• Cook ground beef in a large skillet over medium heat until browned and cooked through. Drain off fat. Add taco seasoning, tomatoes, tomato sauce, chiles, corn and some salt. Mix well and bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer, uncovered, 10 minutes.

Combine ricotta cheese and eggs in a small bowl.

• Spread 1/3 the meat mixture in a greased 13 x 9 baking dish. Place six tortillas (overlapping them) over meat "There were a lot of plays that coach talks about, you mixture, spread 1/3 the ricotta cheese mixture over the tortillas and sprinkle cheese over the ricotta mixture. Repeat layers.

• Bake uncovered at 350 degrees until cheese is melted

Be modest when all the ooohhhhs and aaaahhhhs start coming your way. This takes less than an hour to Lasagna, Cheese Toasties and a Whole Orange Cake; put together and served with a green salad is a delightful which was a good thing as one of the Biola University dinner. There were two small pieces of this left after the game and questions were asked about if there was more.

> Rain again this morning, much to our joy and delight! I put rose food on three of our remaining roses yesterday morning (picture is of astonishing roses we cut last week) and if you're dying to know how beneficial rain is as opposed to watering with tap water, ya gotta read Joshua liskin's Gardening column in the Star News. This one was in last Saturday's paper in the Home & Garden section and I'm pretty sure you can get it online. The Mexican Lasagna and Cheese Toasties recipes are both in my book shown below. Have a great week and fertilize your roses.

Armed Robbery suspect arrested on Super Bowl Sunday

Police arrested a Pasadena suspect Sunday on six counts of felony armed robbery after a weeklong crime spree.

According to police Terry Wayne Wilson began an alleged armed robbery crime spree on January 27. Over a seven day stretch, Wilson robbed three Subway Sandwich stores, and a Domino's Pizza store in Pasadena. On Feb. 4, in the early evening, Wilson robbed a retail shoe store in Temple City. A vehicle and suspect description was given to the Pasadena Police Department's emergency services operator.
Pasadena patrol officers stopped a vehicle matching the description and witnesses and victims positively identified Wilson and his vehicle as the suspect involved in all five armed robberies police said.

Wilson pled not guilty Wednesday and is being held on $250,000 bail and is in custody of the L.A. County Sherriff's Department.

With a backdrop of local council members, community leaders, and nonorganizations, State Assemblymember Chris Holden announced Thursday Morning the introduction of Assembly Bill 287 that prohibits the construction of a freeway tunnel for the 710 corridor gap between the 10 and 210 freeways.

The bill also creates an I-710 Gap Corridor Transit Zone Advisory Committee and looks to alternative transportation options for the area.

"As our state and cities integrate smart growth, new technologies and transit oriented development into our evolving transportation infrastructure, large freeway projects like the State Route 710 tunnel are no longer necessary or environmentally sustainable," Holden said.

Not everyone was reassured about the bill stopping the 710 freeway project. One person asked about the possibility of Caltrans funding a new study for a freeway surface route through

Medicines and synthetic hormones have been detected in trace amounts in bodies of water. This could lead to increased bacterial resistance to antibiotics and interference with growth and reproduction in aquatic organisms such as fish, frogs and all marine life.

The presence of medications in the environment is a complex issue and the risk to humans and the environment is still being determined. With tens of thousands of medicinal products on the market and more being developed each year, the long-term risks have not been determined on the effects on the environment. However, in order to minimize the potential negative and irreversible impacts, it is important that we limit the disposal of waste medications to the sewer.

THE SANTA ANITA YMCA HERE TO SERVE OUR COMMUNITY

Eric Boyd, the Executive Director of the Santa Anita drhernandezoptometry.com

YMCA shared an amazing history with the Duarte Kiwanis Club. The YMCA was initially started in 1844 in London, England. The Industrial Revolution had started in earnest, and young men from all over Europe had come to London to work in the new factories. However, when the work day ended, the young men had no outside activities other than the local pubs and fighting each other. The YMCA was created as a way to provide alternative activities - in a positive way - to these young men. Eric shared a beautiful sword that has emblazoned on it a triangle, symbolizing the three aspects of life - Spirit, Mind and Body. The concept being that "if a person is out of balance, they are less than God meant them to be."

The YMCA in the US is the largest provider of group swim lessons, and the largest provider of childcare (outside of government supported organizations).

The Santa Anita YMCA serves Arcadia, Monrovia, Bradbury, Duarte, Irwindale and Azusa - and no one is turned away due to inability to pay.

IN 2016, MONROVIA EXPERIENCED A NEARLY 20% INCREASE IN PART I CRIMES WHEN COMPARED AGAINST THE PRIOR YEAR IN 2015

Recently, staff was able to complete our review of Proposition 57. Collectively, those three measures crime rates in Monrovia during calendar year 2016, and the results were striking and disconcerting. When compared with 2015, Monrovia experienced a total increase of 19% in our Part I crimes. Digging a bit deeper into the numbers, an overview of the public safety issues we experienced last year includes the following details:

In 2016, Monrovia experienced a total of 893 Part 1 crimes, whereas in 2015, we had only 750 Part 1 crimes The Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) designates the most major crimes that plague society in the United States as Part 1 crimes

There are eight (8) Part 1 crimes, including murder, rape, robbery, assault, burglary, larceny, auto theft, and arson.

The 19% increase in crime means that Monrovia had 143 more victims of crime in 2016 than the prior year in 2015. The most significant increase in criminal activity

120 more larceny incidents in 2016 than the prior year in 2015, a 24% increase 29 more burglary and attempted burglary incidents than the prior year in 2015, a 28% increase 11 more assault incidents in 2016 than the prior year in 2015, a 50% increase 4 more rape and attempted rape incidents in 2016 than the prior year in 2015, a 100% increase It is important to note that we are seeing similar and even greater increases in Part 1 crimes throughout Los Angeles County and in the State of California. Law enforcement personnel have attributed these significant increases in criminal activity to the impact of State legislation that has been approved during the past few years, including AB 109, Proposition 47, and have impacted our law enforcement efforts in the following manner:

Early release from prison of tens of thousands of criminals from throughout California, the majority of whom are from LA County Changes in State law that have made any shoplifting, theft, forgery, or fraud - where the value of the crime does not exceed $950 – a misdemeanor The personal use of illegal drugs, such as cocaine, heroin, or methamphetamine, have all been reclassified in California as misdemeanors For Monrovia specifically, during the past several decades, the City engaged a number of important initiatives to reduce criminal activity, including implementation of a gang injunction and expansion of our overall Community Activist Policing bureau programs. Those efforts and initiatives made a real impact, as we saw crime trends decrease significantly The chart below illustrates how the crime trends have evolved since 1995 (when we had 1,672 Part 1 crimes). Of note, in 2015, we had our lowest recorded rate of criminal activity, when we had only 750 incidents of violent and property crime.

Unfortunately, we have 143 more incidents of Part

1 crimes in 2016, and the trend and outlook as we move into 2017 is a continued increase in significant criminal activity. Given the changes in State law and the associated impacts on crime here locally in Monrovia, staff has been assessing different strategies through which we can address this challenging situation as 2017 continues to unfold. As these strategies are developed, we would continue to urge that all residents stay vigilant!

BREAKING THE ICE TO GIVE ANIMALS A BREAK IN LIFE

Nothing makes me happier than to hear stories about people who go out of their way to assist animals in need, and with the mind-boggling number of shelter pets being euthanized in our country every day, I can't think of a better way to help than to do what one can to save the lives of those animals waiting for their deadline on death row.

To me it is especially heart-warming when celebrities use their fame and fortune to help benefit programs that can prevent shelter animals from meeting their ultimate doom behind bars. Indeed, actors, artists and athletes who take the time out of their busy lives to share their celebrity power and resources in order to benefit rescued animals are among my favorite humans. It would be so easy to ignore the need, and no one would judge them if they didn't pitch in, yet they do it because they are truly compassionate about the cause.

One man who chose to make a difference for the better on behalf of the animals is National Hockey League's St. Louis Blues captain, Dave Backes. Although I have to admit I am not a huge sports fan, hockey is one sport that I do enjoy watching. That might be because my dad played hockey when he was growing up in Massachusetts, and later when I was young, he took me to several UAH hockey games in Huntsville, AL. They were the standing college league champs at the time, so it was a very exciting experience for me to witness their repeated victories, season after season.

Dave Backes has used his sports celebrity status to help break the ice between would-be pet shoppers and shelter pets, by exposing the fact that, just because a dog or cat ends up in a shelter does not make it an undesirable pet. In fact, on the contrary most of the animals that are ultimately adopted from shelters turn out to be among the most grateful and loyal pets you could possibly hope to own!

A veteran of almost 500 NHL games, Backes has succeeded in taking rescue to the next level, by becoming a tireless supporter of animal rescue and by setting an example and sharing his own personal experience with adopting shelter pets himself. Backes got his first taste of animal rescue as a young boy when his family took in a small Poodle a neighbor no longer wanted. With that seed planted early in his life, Backes' interest in animal rescue truly took hold when he and his wife Kelly were students at Minnesota State University, Mankato. That's when he began volunteering at a local shelter.

When Backes and his wife moved to St. Louis, Mo., to be part of the Blues organization in 2007, they sought out ways to become involved in the community and found Five Acres Animal Shelter in St. Charles. During their time of involvement with the shelter, they worked on numerous projects, including a $1 million capital campaign to finance the construction of two new buildings. Recently, Kelly and David stepped away from their duties on the Five Acres' board to concentrate on the next step; the formation of their very own rescue Backes now shares his and Kelly's good work in organizing an animal rescue as a template for players in all four major sports to use in starting more rescue facilities in cities throughout the United States. What an awesome way to play it forward! A major part of that good work is educating the public on animal adoption, and networking with others who are equally compassionate about the cause.

At the heart of Backes' goal to proliferate the idea of adoption, is his effort to convince people who are considering pet ownership that rescued animals actually make excellent pets. His desire is to prove through his own experience and that of millions of other Americans who have adopted rather than shopped, that shelter pets waiting for forever homes are equally worthy and valuable to any pet you might find by shopping from backyard breeders or puppy farms. Indeed, many adopted shelter animals have proven to have less health problems and even less behavioral issues than those bred and sold intentionally.

I hope David and Kelly Backes will continue to succeed in breaking the ice to help countless more shelter animals find homes before it's too late. The idea that a pet is better because it was bred from a well-known sire, or because it has all the proper marks for it's breed is simply passe. It's time for all of us to re-think the concept of pet ownership. We humans have allowed far too much "accidental" breeding to occur by not spaying and euthanizing, and we have also exacerbated the problem through encouraging intentional reeding by shopping and not adopting.

Let's all get on board with David and Kelly Backes and use whatever resources we have to help educate others on the value of adopting rescued shelter pets. I, myself am a witness to the fact that adopting versus shopping can be one of the most uplifting experiences in life. Knowing that was able to save the lives of such grateful souls as my two girls, Tater (may she rest in peace) and Molly brings me an immense amount of joy. Î only wish I could save more. We all need to do our part to turn the table on mass euthanasia in our country. Simply put, it is a cruel and unusual practice.

Kudos to you, David and Kelly Backes, for using your celebrity powers for such an awesome cause. Keep up the good work, and thank you for having so much compassion for the animals! Love and let live.

A PATH TO KINDNESS

Have you ever had an argument with someone that you love? I have. The field of relationships can be daunting.

Whenever we seek to meet and connect with another, we can sometimes feel at risk. The risks are myriad. We risk rejection, being misunderstood, being hurt or being used. Focusing on the negative is tempting. When your beloved has said or done something that you find hurtful, it's hard not to take the most negative point of view. In the field of possibility; the opposite viewpoint could also be true. There could be another way to look at the issue, another perspective. Or we could let go of our anger. We could seek connection, friendship, and support.

In exercising our freedom of choice, may I recommend developing the habit of scanning for joy? Rather than looking for everything that is wrong or could go wrong, why not look for the things in your life and relationship that is going well? Cultivating the habit of looking for something to appreciate in your beloved will extend the life of your relationship and deepen the passion. If we can learn to do this when times are good, it will be easier for us to lean toward kindness when we experience disappointment, frustration or anger.

One way to express kindness during an argument is to pause and remember that this is your beloved, then perhaps rather than focus on the negative behavior consider their intention behind the activity. It is unlikely that your beloved is trying to hurt or annoy you. So consider if there is another way to interpret their behavior?

Today I'm grateful that I can seek and choose the path to kindness.

HAPPY VALENTINE'S DAY

First of all, let's agree to agree, Valentine's Day should be a full week. A single day is not long enough to fully express one's love. What do you say about having an evening at home with a bottle of better half, so let's go dining champagne and a candlelight table for dinner? You may wonder why a restaurant critic would dare such treason. In all truth, it's an impossible night for restaurants. Service is less than optimal and even the guarantee of a reservation can lead to a long wait and the siphon of romance.

Every February, across the country, candy, flowers, and gifts are exchanged between loved ones. All in won't go broke eating at Avanti. North Lake (626) the name of St. Valentine, but who is this mysterious saint and why do we celebrate the passion of this holiday? The history of Valentine's Day - and its patron saint — is shrouded in mystery. But we do know that February has long been a month of romance. Valentine's Day, as we know it today, contains vestiges of both Christian and ancient Roman tradition. So, who was Saint Valentine and how did he become associated with this ancient rite? Today, the Catholic Church recognizes at least three different saints named Valentine or Valentines, all of whom were martyred.

One legend contends that Valentine was a priest who served during the third century in Rome. When Emperor Claudius II decided that single men made better soldiers than those with wives and families, he outlawed marriage for young men — his crop of potential soldiers. Valentine, realizing the injustice of the decree, defied Claudius and continued to perform marriages for young lovers

DO YOU NEED TO FILE A TAX RETURN IN 2017?

Dear Savvy Senior,

What are the IRS income tax filing requirements for retirees this tax season? My income dropped way down when I retired last year in 2016, so I'm wondering if I need to even file a tax return this year.

New Retiree

Dear New.

There are several factors that affect whether or not you need to file a federal income tax return this year including how much you earned last year (in 2016), and the source of that income, as well as your age and filing status.

Here's a rundown of this tax season's (2016) IRS tax filing requirement thresholds. For most people, this is pretty straightforward. If your 2016 gross income - which includes all taxable income, not counting your Social Security benefits, unless you are married and filing separately - was below the threshold for your filing status and age, you Check Your State probably won't have to file. But if it's over, you will. Single: $10,350 ($11,900 if you're 65 or older by Married filing jointly: $20,700 ($21,950 if you or your spouse is 65 or older; or $23,200 if you're both Married filing separately: $4,050 at any age. Head of household: $13,350 ($14,900 if age 65 or $16,650 ($17,900 if age 65 or older).

requirements, along with information on taxable and nontaxable income, call the IRS at 800-829-3676 and ask them to mail you a free copy of the treasury.gov/freetaxprep to locate a service near "Tax Guide for Seniors" (publication 554), or see IRS.gov/pub/irs-pdf/p554.pdf.

Special Circumstances

There are, however, some other financial situations Tax-Aide site call 888-227-7669 or visit AARP.org/ that will require you to file a tax return, even findtaxhelp. You don't have to be an AARP member if your gross income falls below the IRS filing requirement. For example, if you had earnings from self-employment in 2016 of $400 or more, or if you owe any special taxes to the IRS such as alternative Box 5443, Norman, OK 73070, or visit SavvySenior. minimum tax or IRA tax penalties, you'll probably need to file.

To figure this out, the IRS offers an interactive tax assistant tool on their website that asks a series of questions that will help you determine if you're required to file, or if you should file because you're due a refund. It takes about 15 minutes to complete.

You can access this tool at IRS.gov/filing - click on "Do you need to file a return?" under the Get Ready tab. Or, you can get assistance over the phone by calling the IRS helpline at 800-829-1040. You can also get face-to-face help at a Taxpayer Assistance Center. See IRS.gov/localcontacts or call 800-829-1040 to locate a center near you.

Even if you're not required to file a federal tax return this year, don't assume that you're also excused from filing state income taxes. The rules for your state might be very different. Check with your state tax agency before concluding that you're entirely in the clear. For links to state tax agencies see Taxadmin.org/state-tax-agencies.

CURIOSITY ROVER SHARPENS PARADOX OF ANCIENT MARS

Ample evidence says ancient Mars was sometimes wet, with water flowing and pooling on the planet's surface. Yet the ancient Sun was about one-third less warm, and climate modelers struggle to produce scenarios that get the surface of Mars warm enough for keeping water unfrozen.

A leading theory is to have a thicker carbondioxide atmosphere forming a greenhouse-gas blanket, helping to warm the surface of ancient Mars. However, according to a new analysis of data from NASA's Mars rover Curiosity, Mars had far too little carbon dioxide about 3.5 billion years ago to provide enough greenhouse-effect warming to thaw water ice.

The new analysis concludes that the dearth of carbonates in that bedrock means Mars' atmosphere when the lake existed could not have held much carbon dioxide.

"We've been particularly struck with the absence of carbonate minerals in sedimentary rock the rover has examined," said Thomas Bristow of NASA's Ames Research Center, Moffett Field, California. "It would be really hard to get liquid water even if there were a hundred times more carbon dioxide in the atmosphere than what the mineral evidence in the rock tells us." Bristow is the principal investigator for the Chemistry and Mineralogy (CheMin) instrument on Curiosity and lead author of the study, published in the Proceedings of the

CHRISTOPHER Nyerges HIKING IN THE SNOW TO MT. LOWE

I had never been to Mount Lowe before, though I'd been to Echo Mountain many times. This was the mid-1960s. My friend George from the neighborhood was in the Boy Scouts and he'd been up there with his troop. So one winter day he offered to lead the way to the old Mount Lowe

We hiked to Echo Mountain from the top of Lake Avenue, and then hiked into Castle Canyon where there was a lot of snow! I realized I was unprepared for snow when we were about halfway to Inspiration Point and my feet were already wet and cold. I was wearing some old suede shoes, which were not waterproof. My friend assured me that we were "almost there," but every step was getting more and more difficult, and my feet were cold. I also saw the value in snowshoes during that hungry and even crunchy not-hot soup was better hike, since my feet kept sinking into the holes in the snow that I made with every step. I was working hard step by step.

Since then, I have worn cramp-ons on my boots, as well as primitive snowshoes that I have fabricated from willow branches. But I did not have snowshoes on that first cold day to Inspiration Point and Mount Lowe Tavern. Occasionally, where we could not readily see the trail due to the thick drifts of snow, we would step out too far and our foot would go right through the snow and we'd have to jump back to keep from falling off the

My friend began to tell me about the "tavern" -- I had not heard of it before. He was explaining the people who went there, and what they did, and for some reason, he did all his explaining in the present tense. I had pictures of a modern ski lodge up there, and I was mentally counting the change in my pocket and wondering if I'd have enough for enough money so I could buy some chicken noodle soup.

I was looking in the direction of where my friend said it was, figuring I'd be the first one to see the smoke coming from the chimney. Imagine my great shock when we hiked up to the little saddle of Inspiration Point and he said, "We're here."

"We're where?" I exclaimed, visibly disappointed. "Inspiration Point. This is where it was. And the old tavern is actually down where the camp is now." His use of tense seemed more accurate now, and after a few questions, I realized to my chagrin that I would be having no hot soup or chocolate that cold afternoon.

My feet were completely wet, and numb, and only moving around kept me feeling somewhat comfortable. It seemed a little easier hiking that quarter mile down to the old tavern site. There was a lot of snow, and there was much more left of the old tavern back then than you will find today. It was a wonderful and mysterious place with the stone walkways, and walls, and little trails. Only the cold kept me from exploring even more, though I returned many times to the tavern site in the years that followed.

On that day, we struggled to make a small fire, and when you're planning to return.

[Nyerges is the author of using up all our matches. We had a tiny fire, which "Guide to Wild Foods," we fed pine needles, and we managed to get it "Enter the Forest," bigger but we didn't get any warmer. than nothing.

Occasionally a wind would pass through the area and we'd hear the loud wind in the treetops and lots of icicles and snow would drop from the trees. It was very much a Christmas scene. After a while of not-getting warm by the not-warm fire, we kicked some snow over it, and ran most of the way back down to the city.

On a more recent visit to Echo Mountain just a few years ago, I was hiking with my hiking class from Pasadena City College. It had been a drizzly and cold day, and after we explored the ruins, we went over by the large fireplace area to have our lunch. We were surprised that a man in a t-shirt was sitting nearby, and he'd cleaned out the fireplace for his shelter. We started talking, and we were admiring all the arrowheads he'd just made from the bits of glass he'd collected from around Echo Mountain.

He said he was very skilled in wilderness a hot chocolate and maybe, just maybe, I'd have survival, and he made some sort of a bet with a friend about whether or not he could spend 10 days in these mountains with nothing but the clothes he was wearing. That was apparently his second day there. He knew about some edible plants, though there wasn't much to collect. He had the tools for making fire with a bow and drill, and he'd made a quickie bow and some arrows, and had nearly finished making a batch of arrowheads.

He said he was going to catch squirrels to eat, and maybe other animals. We were all mighty impressed and asked him lots of questions. I know that I would not want to spend 10 days in the snow in my t-shirt, so I gave him my magnesium fire starter, and then we departed. I told him I wanted to hear how he did in those 10 days, and gave him my address and phone number. I never did hear from him again, though I assume that if things got really tough, all he had to do was walk a few miles down to the city. It was winter, and some snow had actually fallen close to Echo Mountain, so it would have been a cold 10 days.

If you're planning any winter hikes, always carry basic gear, such as some extra food, water, firestarter, a small pot and stove, first aid kit, and extra clothes. Always tell someone where you're going

Not me, that is for sure!

I like to do many things, but I have to do them in order and one at a time. That is how I have always done things even though I have tried to juggle two things at one time but it has never been successful. Usually, both of them fall to the floor and I have to start all over again.

Every day I make a list of things I need to do and start working on them one by one. I am looking forward to the day when I will be able to accomplish everything on my list.

Maybe I am just trying to do too much.

Like the other day, I needed to go across town to pick up something at one of the office supply stores. Usually, I am not allowed to go into the grocery store by myself. However, when my wife found out I was going to go across town, she asked me if I would stop at the grocery store and pick up a few things. Then she handed me a list, and said, "Get everything on the list and only those things on the list."

Then she gave me one of "those looks."

It is hard for me to go into a grocery store and not pick up a few things that I want. I have never seen any ice cream that I did not want. However, when I am on strict orders with a shopping list, I don't have any leeway at all.

It started out rather well. She handed me the list and I put it in my pocket and headed for the groceries. In fact, I had forgotten about why I front door. As I was going out, I heard her say, "Remember, only those things on the list."

I chuckled to myself and myself chuckled back. I was on a mission and I knew I could accomplish

My favorite office-supply store is Staples. Everybody there knows me by name because it is almost a second office for me. I have often suggested that they have some coffee there for their customers, but if that would happen, they would never get rid of me.

Staples was my first stop. When I got in there I walked by the pen section. I never can walk by the pen section, I always have to stop and examine all of the pens they have there. I have a nice pen him at 352-687-4240 or e-mail jamessnyder2@att. collection and I am always looking for some pen net. The church web site is www.whatafellowship. that I do not have. As I examined the pen, I realized I did not have one like this in my collection. Even if I did have one like this in my collection, the temptation to purchase would be overwhelming.

Therefore, I did what any pen obsessed person would do. I took it to the counter, talk to the cashier about this wonderful pen and told her how it would add dignity to my pen collection. She chatted back and told me that it was a beautiful pen.

Finally, I paid for the pen and walked out to my truck.

All I could think about was that wonderful new fountain pen. I could not wait to break in this new fountain pen, which is a delicate ritual that I enjoy so much. I was so happy and excited

When I got home, I hurried inside so I could show this brand-new addition to my pen collection to my wife and have her join me in

As I headed for my truck a Scripture came to me, "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might; for there is no work, nor device, nor knowledge, nor wisdom, in the grave, whither thou goest" (Ecclesiastes 9:10).

It is hard for someone like me to focus on two things at a time. Therefore, I need to focus on what my hand can do, rather than what I cannot

DEDICATION OF THE SANTA FE TRAIN DEPOT

By Joan Schmidt

Last Thursday, it was bright and sunny-just like the mood of everyone who came out to witness the dedication of the Santa Fe Train Depot in Monrovia

It was a great event. Representing the great city of Monrovia were Mayor Tom Adams, Mayor Pro tem Alex Blackburn, Council Members Gloria Crudginton, Becky Shevlin and Larry Spicer; City Manager Oliver Chi, City Clerk Alice Atkins, City Treasurer and Historian Steve Baker, and Police Chief Jim Hunt. Monrovia-Arcadia-Town Council Members included Chair, Dave Hall; Vice Chair, Terrence Williams (Also representing the School Board); and Council Member Joan Schmidt Clayton.

The current Depot was built in 1926. It is a Spanish Colonial Revival and was used as a "combo" depot for both passenger and freight trains. It was owned by the Atchison-Topeka-Santa Fe Railroad and has a "sister" station in Claremont. (That city is also planning to restore its depot.) The first depot was a wooden building constructed in 1886 and its use began in 1887.

Each of Monrovia's Council Members had a part in the festivities and when Mayor Pro Tem Blackburn spoke, he told of fellow Council Member Gloria Crudginton's passion for this project. It also must be mentioned that Gloria and her husband are part of the Monrovia Historical Preservation Society and that group's determination to restore the building.

Mayor Tom Adams explained what a difficult journey it was to get this project off the ground. There was a lot of negativity about the cost of restoration and the condition of the building. But MONROVIA is special and did NOT allow this building to be razed. Tom also had praise for City Manager Oliver Chi and his integral role in this process. "There were a lot of tough negotiations and difficult decisions."

The contractors are Samuelson and Fetter. (One can visit their website and see they are local and some of their great projects in Monrovia.) Reid Samuelson Senator Anthony Portantino and Ryan Senneff for and Blaine Fetter were there as well as their sons. Supervisor Kathryn Barger.

Blaine told the audience what a vast undertaking this project was. He and his wife Lynda already purchased four homes of this period and restored them. He told us that Monrovia was a very special City "with a soul" and when their company finished restoration of the depot, Monrovia will have a "new heart."

The project should be completed in five months. looking at a summer opening. There has not yet been a restaurant chosen and Blaine said they are opened to suggestions. They want something, "special and different." The building is a "ghost" and they hope to "bring it back to life."

Notes from the Sierra MadrePlayhouse

THE ACTING BUG

By Artistic Director, Christian Lebano

When I was twelve, I was cast as King Richard the Lionhearted in a school performance of Robin Hood. I was thrilled that I was the only member of the cast who had a costume change (from disguised friar to King) – my mother, less so, as she was responsible for making TWO costumes. I remember so clearly the moment that I revealed myself as the King by lowering my hood. I remember feeling free and, strangely - or prophetically, being exactly where I belonged. Belonged being the operative word. The play was so well received by the school that we were asked to do a "command performance" for the PTA

In high school I was cast as Atticus Finch in our production of To Kill a Mockingbird (loyal patrons Hard because it calls for a degree of concentration will remember that I reprised this role some 45 years later at SMP!) I remember so vividly the moment that I stepped downstage during the trial to give my summation to the jury and caught the light in my eyes and realized that the audience was listening, waiting for me to speak. I felt so powerful as the vehicle for telling that story. I felt so at home on that stage - and in that moment. Time stopped. It was that moment that made me want to make this my life.

I have had the good fortune to have many more remarkable experiences on stage – in a production of Othello in Conservatory, in Cymbeline at Utah Shakes, in Henry V at Ashland, in Opus at the Fountain Theater here in Los Angeles. And in every play I have done at SMP. From the Stage Manager in Our Town (my introduction to SMP – which got me through my mother's death during the run), to Atticus, to Jerry in God's Man in Texas, and now as Sean in Bee-luther-hatchee.

I haven't been on stage in three years - I will never again let it go so long. Acting is indescribably fulfilling for me (though were you to see me minutes before a performance you might think you were looking at a condemned man - I get so nervous and anxious.) It is transporting and fun – and it is HARD. I've forgotten how hard it is. 626.355.4318. Hope to see you soon!

that we are not often asked to provide. And the moment that concentration breaks - even for the briefest of seconds - catastrophe looms.

My eyes fall on someone that I know in the audience, I say a line a little differently, I overhear a comment from the house, something falls backstage, an ambulance goes by, your scenepartner skips a beat or gives you a different cue, all of these are invitations to "step away" for a moment. But if you do, you'll miss your next cue or mangle the next line or be late in responding or you'll initiate a cross at the wrong moment and then if you aren't careful to bring yourself back these can cascade as you begin to think about your missteps! And yet, the peril is worth it. Telling a story, sharing an idea, exploring a theme with the audience, being "in the moment" with you scenepartners, being "someone else" for a little while is why I fell in love with this. It's why I will always be

As always we here at SMP do all of this for you – our faithful patrons. I look forward to seeing you from the stage and in your favorite seats, at Beeluther-hatchee! There are very few performances left – we close next Saturday, February 18. I do hope you'll come - and stay to talk to me afterwards. cathartic and liberating and fun - oh, so much For tickets please call Mary in the box office at Marcus Binney recounts the story

Spy Princess: The Life of Noor Inayat Khan by Shrabani

This is the remarkable biography of Noor Inayat Khan, code named "Madeleine". The first woman wireless transmitter in occupied France during WWII, she was trained by Britain's SOE and assumed the most dangerous resistance post in underground Paris. Betrayed into the hands of the Gestapo, Noor resisted intensive interrogation, severe deprivation and torture with courage and silence, revealing nothing to her captors, not even her own name. She was executed at Dachau in 1944. "Spy Princess" details Noor's inspiring life from birth to death, incorporating information from her family, friends, witnesses, and official records including recently released personal files of SOE operatives. It is the story of a young woman who lived with grace, beauty, courage and determination, and who bravely offered the ultimate sacrifice of her own life in service of her ideals. Her last word was "Liberte".

Women Who Lived for Danger: The Agents of the Special Operations Executive by Marcus Binney

RETAIL SPACE - YOU CAN CATCH A LOBSTER WITH EGGS BUT NOT EGG SALAD

Artist: Retail Space Album: You Can Catch A Lobster With Eggs But Not Egg Salad Self-Released Release Date: February 10th, 2017

The synth-pop group showcases their many strengths about the end of a relationship between two people, with "one sinking into the depths of the sea and the other watching it from land." The eleven tracks evolve into something quite exquisite, subtly alluring, and wonderfully executed. The journey from beginning to end is a vibrant and absorbing one that takes patience and a keen ear to fully appreciate it every step of the way. "You Can Catch A Lobster With Eggs But Not love and the diminishing of that very love.

with Burnet's longing, appealing vocals only to be matched with Rosse's enchanting arrangements that Out Your Name For Nothing," a gleaming alternativetones, and subdued drums, Retail Space starts off well after its peaceful conclusion.

Retail Space is the very strong with the first two tracks here. "Can't You Tell How Much It Means" features Rosse on lyn-based duo, Isabelle the vocals and it's a nice switch up to say the least. Burnet and Jacob Rosse. His vocals are a bit deeper with more conviction to The notion of quitting their day jobs to pursue their boot with a dreamlike, Fleetwood Mac style vibe to the arrangements. Nonetheless, "Can't You Tell How Much It Means" breathes a rejuvenated life into the genre. It's a highlight off the record and one that deserves much attention. "Don't Ask Me Why" has Rosse in the frontman position again supplied with harmonies from Burnet. This one slows things down with an unhurried flow and more emphasis on story than sound. It still puts the listener in a hypnotic vortex with careful precision and grace.

"How Far Would You Go" has Burnet back in the driver seat and the dreamy tones are kept in tact. A and talents with delicate storytelling, effective beats, contemplative track seeking answers to many of life's and pushing their eclectic sound to new heights. questions between two lovers, "How Far Would You Comparable to female-male duos such as Sylvan Esso Go" effortlessly seeps into the listeners' minds and and Tennis, Retail Space demonstrate a real knack for hearts. "Underneath" has Retail Space once again lyric writing since the record was pitched as a story placing the listener in a dreamy state of mind as it moves along with gorgeous, colorful tones that create such a strong visual portrait. "Tide Tables" turns it up with an infectious drumbeat and a faster movement than previous tracks. One of the finer tracks here is called, "Pinky Swear." It's a tightly crafted, warm toned artistic piece of work that is hypnotic and the sprightliest configuration found on the record. "When You Were Gone" closes out the record in a melancholy Egg Salad" isn't a love story record, but a story about sort of way. Not maudlin or sappy, but in a heartening and pondering approach. It's real subtle and honest The album begins with the lush and fluid, "Blue" whilst wrapping up the record in a very quiet and Jeans." It's a nostalgic endeavor that shines throughout unobtrusive manner. That's how the record, for the most part, kind of is throughout. It never overstays its delightful welcome nor does it falsely take a misguided feel contagious and glistening. Next up is "Calling" direction or approach in what it's trying to convey and set out. FAMILY MATTERS By Marc Garlett

(RE)DEFINING FAMILY: ESTATE PLANNING FOR THE POST-NUCLEAR FAMILY

Blended families, unmarried couples, assistive reproductive technology (ART) and same-sex marriages all challenge the traditional concept of "family" - at least as it's been known for legal purposes.

Significant changes in the way we define family culturally means families are often left without the valuable protection they need, in the event of a death or incapacity of a loved one.

As these legal definitions and our personal situations expand, so do the priorities of the Alocal attorney, father, and CASA volunteer (Court modern estate plan.

TOM Purcell WHEN THERE WAS ROMANCE

When I was a boy, my mother loved listening to American crooners on our old wooden stereo console — Dean Martin was her favorite. Though I hated his "old people" music as I kid, I listen to it frequently on satellite radio when I'm driving my truck. Here's why: Dino celebrated romance, "a feeling of excitement and mystery associated with love," says Dictionary.com. And if modern music is the measure, romance is dead.

I point to Billboard Magazine's Hot 100 list. Last week's No. 1 hit was "Shape of You" by Ed Sheeran. His song is popular, no doubt, because of its eloquent lyrics:

I'm in love with the shape of you We push and pull like a magnet do Although my heart is falling too I'm in love with your body And last night you were in my room And now my bedsheets smell like you...

No. 2 on the charts was "Bad and Boujee" by American hip hop group Migos. Many of the lyrics for the song are unpublishable in a family newspaper, but, with edits in parentheses, these lines will (Fornicating) on your (derogatory term for a woman that sounds like witch) she a (prostitute, prostitute, prostitute, prostitute)

Cookin' up dope in the crockpot, (pot)... Ah, modern romance. Things sure have changed since Dino dropped off the charts.

Whereas today's top hits celebrate human nature at its most base, Dino's music spoke to the heart. Consider the lyrics to "Amore," which means "love" in Italian:

When the moon hits your eye like a big pizza pie

When the world seems to shine like you've had too much wine That's amore

In 1964, when The Beatles' new sound made them the most popular band on Earth, Dino knocked "Hard Day's Night" out of the top spot on the charts. He did so with "Everybody Loves Somebody," an old-fashioned song that still resonates with all age groups:

Everybody loves somebody sometime Everybody falls in love somehow Something in your kiss just told me

Whereas many of today's hit songs are vulgar and cynical, Dino's songs celebrate the subtle dance of the spirit between a man and a woman — the magic that occurs when two complementary natures

Dino's songs celebrate mystery — the deep interest and curiosity a man holds for a woman and a woman for a man. They celebrate optimism — the hope that one day a special person will enter your life and sweep you off your feet, a person you will love forever.

The simple, intense lyrics of his song "Sway" sum up this longing well:

Other dancers may be on the floor Dear, but my eyes will see only you

Only you have the magic technique When we sway I go weak

I know Dino had his peccadilloes in his personal life, but his music remains untainted. With every passing year, as coarseness seeps into our culture a little more, his songs hold more power over me. heir sweetness and respectfulness uplift me.

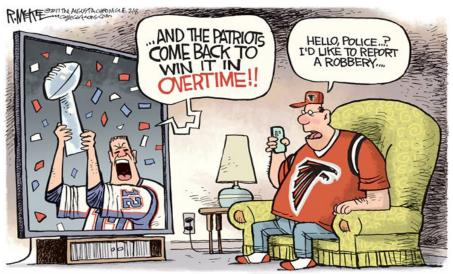

We need to get back to that spirit — the spirit of romance. I can't think of a better day to do so than

All we need to do is study the older couples who attend the annual Dean Martin Festival in Steubenville, Ohio, Dino's hometown.

As the Dean Martin impersonator takes the stage — a fellow so convincing you think the old crooner is there in the flesh — they saunter to the front of the stage holding hands. They begin to sway with a sweetness and easiness that couples knew long ago.

ON THE SUPREME COURT, DEMOCRATS SIMPLY LOST

When Senate Republicans decided last year to ditch their constitutional duty - by stiffing President Obama's eminently qualified Supreme Court nominee, denying him even the courtesy of a hearing - they took a big political risk. They gambled that the voters wouldn't punish them on election day. Turns out, they were right. Their unprecedented power play paid off.

And that's why the minority Democrats are currently up the creek. They can fume all they want about how the GOP stole Merrick Garland's seat - justifiably so - but their options for blocking Trump nominee Neil Gorsuch are basically nonexistent. Senate rules require 60 votes for passage, which means that Mitch McConnell needs eight Democrats to say yes. But if Democrats dig in, McConnell can always change the Senate rules and put Gorsuch on the court with a simple majority vote - 51 Republicans saying yes, no Democrats needed.

How come Senate Democrats have so little leverage about the future of the high court? Because elections have consequences, and the 2016 election is Exhibit A.

Last year, Democrats calculated (or hoped, or assumed) that voters would be outraged about the GOP's work stoppage on the Garland nomination. McConnell and his allies insisted that Garland was DOA simply because Obama was a lame duck in his final year, that presidents don't get to put anyone on the court in their final year. The Republicans lied, of course, because lame duck Ronald Reagan got to put Anthony Kennedy on the court, with bipartisan support, in his final year.

Democrats figured that the 2016 electorate would rail at the injustice of the GOP stance on Garland, and that Democratic-leaning voters, in particular, would cast ballots en masse with the court's future direction in mind.

That didn't happen.

According to the national exit polls, 21 percent of all voters cited the Supreme Court as the "most important" factor in their voting decision. In that cohort, Trump swamped Clinton by 15 points. Overall, 70 percent cited the Supreme Court as an "important" factor, and Trump beat Clinton there too.

Those stats jibe with what we learned on the ground last year. Social and religious conservatives, who fixate on the Supreme Court far more than their liberal counterparts, opted to ignore Trump's serial lying and moral failings, because he was their best hope for a post-Scalia conservative bench. Evangelical Christians, in particular, recognized that Trump was a detestable human being, but Mike Pence worked hard, and successfully, to hose them down and stoke them up.

Even the Republican establishment folks who personally loathed Trump got in line on the court issue. John Boehner, the ex-House speaker, said last fall that Trump's behavior "disgusted" him. Nevertheless, "The only thing that really matters over the next four years or eight years is who is going to appoint the next Supreme Court nominees...The biggest impact any president can have on American society and on the American economy is who's on that court."

So while the average Democratic-leaning voter dozed off about Merrick Garland's hostage status, the average conservative voter got assurances that Trump would deliver on tilting the court. Promise made, promise kept.

McConnell, in his role as Trump enabler, says that Trump's nominee should be "confirmed based upon the completely outstanding credentials that we're going to see," which is galling, of course, because Gorsuch will occupy the seat that was meant for Garland, whose completely outstanding credentials, as a lower-court judge, had long been vetted and supported by Republicans.

But there's no point in lashing the Republicans for their success. They got their voters stoked about the court, Democrats did not. If party leaders had driven home the "stolen seat" message; if the Democratic-leaning citizens who stupidly stayed home, or wasted their votes on Jill Stein and Gary Johnson, had instead paid sufficient attention to the Garland farce; if they had made peace with Clinton's imperfections and sensibly viewed her as the best vehicle for tilting the high court leftward, then the odds are high that Trump would never be where he is.

And Senate Democrats would not be reduced to firing blanks.

MAKING SENSE MICHAEL REAGAN RELAX, MR. PRESIDENT

Republicans in Congress are getting jumpy.

The powerless Democrats are so desperate they actually think Senator Elizabeth Warren is the future of their party.

The mainstream liberal media are overacting to Trump's dumb daily morning tweets like they are official edicts coming from the ghost of Joe Stalin.

The media are so hysterical they see Trump's comments about "so-called" judges or his complaints about a biased judiciary as signs that he is a despotic imperial president intent on blowing up the federal government's balance of powers.

Meanwhile, Time magazine has Trump's evil rightwing guru Steven Bannon on the cover looking like Darth Vader.

And David Frum's cover story in the Atlantic about President Trump -- 20 minutes into his presidency -- is headlined "How to Build an Autocracy." Let's all relax.

Let's all take a deep breath.

Let's all get a grip.

Rome wasn't made in a day and America is not going to be saved or destroyed by President Trump in a month.

The most important relaxing needs to start at the top with President Trump. He's been acting like he has four days left in office, not four years.

He's been issuing executive orders and making ten announcements a day about trade, terrorism, immigration, oil pipelines, the border wall, relations with Russian, Israel, Mexico and who knows what.

For your own good, Mr. Trump, you have to slow down the pace of making America great again to a gentle sprint.

I don't agree with everything you are doing, Mr. President, but you need some friendly advice. First, you need to stop trying to do so many things so quickly.

You need to give the public and everyone else time to absorb and understand what you are doing, so you'll have more people on your side.

You wouldn't be having a problem with the so-called Muslim ban if you not done the rollout so quickly.

Second, you need to know that Washington is like a $4 trillion aircraft carrier. It can't be stopped, turned around or sunk quickly or easily - and maybe not at all.

Third, you knew from the start that the mainstream media were not going to be on your team. Now, one of your most important jobs is to not give the media any free ammo to fire back at you or your administration. So, President Trump, that means stop talking about illegal voters.

Stop picking fights with federal judges – especially three hours after you file an appeal with them. Stop talking about whether the murder rate is up or down unless you actually know what you're talking about.

And if you are going to refer to certain networks as purveyors of "fake news," even when they are exactly that, don't be surprised if they fact-check everything you say and start referring to you as "The fake president."

The danger in the long run is that you're spending all your political capital in the first month. Your base is secure — and happy with whatever you say or do. But you're trying to do stuff so fast you're missing the most important thing – communicating with the rest of the country about what your doing and why.

So choose your words and tweets wisely, Mr. President. Cool it and start acting like the president of the United States. You were elected by all 50 states and their people.

I know it's not your style, and I know you got to be president in part because you shoot your

But you need to take some advice from my mother, Jane Wyman, who told me many a time,

"If you have nothing good to say, keep your mouth shut."

Meanwhile, Mr. President, you've been working too hard. It's time you took a mini-vacation or at least took a weekend off. Maybe you could call up Mr. Obama and join him for a round of golf or have him show you

I can guarantee no one working in Washington's swamped news media would complain that you were dodging your duties.
