RACHELLE ARIZMENDI SWORN IN AS MAYOR

-Duarte

California State Treasurer John Chiang swears in Rachelle Arizmendi as Mayor, Below the full Council, I to r, John Harabedian, John Capoccia, Arizmendi, Gene Goss and Denise Delmar.

On Tuesday, the City of Sierra Madre held its annual reorganization meeting and elected Councilpersons Rachelle Arizmendi as Mayor and Denise Delmar as Mayor Pro Tem.

California State Treasurer John Chiang administered the Oath of Office to both Arizmendi and Delmar, a change from the city's tradition of having elected officials sworn in by the city clerk. Chiang is a longtime associate of Arizmendi.

First elected to the council in 2014 she is the first Filipino American to serve as Mayor. And, to add to the historic nature of the evening, when Councilwoman Delmar, was elected Mayor Pro Tem, it marks the first time in Sierra Madre's 100+ year history that two women will hold the town's top two leadership positions.

Arizmendi accepted responsibility for her new position with a brief address to the residents of Sierra Madre. She began by sharing an encounter she had when she was first elected, "In April 2014, sometime after the election, I was doing my regular morning run routine when I stopped to say hi to a friend in town. Bob asked how I was doing, and I responded "Great, you know I'm getting sworn in on Tuesday!" Bob's table mate, who I didn't know, chimed in and said "Sworn-In?... Wow!... Are you getting your Citizenship?" It was so unexpected that I was thrown off a bit. I literally Laughed Out Loud. Well, to Bob's end if vou're out there- "YÉS...I just got sworn in tonight to serve as the Mayor of Sierra Madre."

continued, "Although tonight is partly a night celebrationimportant to understand that we are at the cusp of a very challenging year. Mány issues are facing us at the National Level and the State Level- but even for us here in our own City of Sierra Madre. We will be faced with decisions that require bold action and where we can no longer operate "business as usual."

Among those in attendance were Former Sierra Madre Mayor Clem Bartolai, Pasadena Unified School District Board Member Larry Torres, Jason Pu, Council Member, San Gabriel, Kyle Miller, Council Member, La Habra Heights, Victor Manalo, Council Member, Artesia, Michael Caccioitti, Council Member, Pasadena, Thomas Small, Council Member, Culver City, Mike Eng, Board of Trustees, Los Angeles Community Colleges District, Dr. Ross Selvidge, Board of Trustee, Pasadena City College Thomas Wong, President, Board of Directors San Gabriel Valley Municipal Water District and Henry Lo, Board Member, Garvey School District (partial

Representatives from Assemblymember Chris Holden's Office, State Senator Anthony Portantino's Office and LA County Supervisor Kathryn Barger Office presented the outgoing Mayor Gene Goss and the incoming Mayor with Certificates of Recognition. Mayor Goss also received a special plaque from the Sierra Madre Chamber of Commerce in appreciation for his support of the community and local businesses.

A reception was held at the Hart Park House immediately following.

Think back...when was the last time you got down that big round box of Quaker Oats and made Oatmeal Raisin Cookies? For me, it's been quite a while, but I have to report that time has not glorified them in my imagination; they are still absolutely delicious, especially if you throw in a handful of dried cranberries and a bunch of pecan pieces. The recipe is to be found inside the lid of the box and you'll enjoy every single one of them.... trust me! The picture is the Quaker Oats box and a bunch of roses behind it, which are so incredibly beautiful I couldn't help myself. # Sheriff's Taking Unwanted Prescription Drugs

From 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. today the and the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) will give the public its 13th opportunity in 7 years to prevent pill abuse and theft by ridding their homes of potentially dangerous expired, unused, and unwanted prescription drugs. Bring your pills for disposal to Altadena Sheriff's Station at 780 E. Altadena Dr., Altadena. The service is free and anonymous, no questions asked.

The bins for collecting expired or unused prescription medications are outside the Altadena Sheriff's Station 24/7. Please let us know if the bins are full, and we will have them emptied.

Last October, Americans turned in 366 tons (over 730,000 pounds) of prescription drugs at almost 5,200 sites operated by the DEA and more than 4,000 of its state and local law enforcement partners. Overall, in its 12 previous Take Back events, DEA and its partners have taken in over 7.1 million pounds—more than 3,500 tons—of pills.

This initiative addresses a vital public safety and public health issue. Medicines that languish in home cabinets are highly susceptible to diversion, misuse, and abuse. Rates of prescription drug abuse in the U.S. are alarmingly high, as are the number of accidental poisonings and overdoses due to these drugs. Studies show that a majority of abused prescription drugs are obtained from family and friends, including from the home medicine cabinet. In addition, Americans are now advised that their usual methods for disposing of unused medicines—flushing them down the toilet or throwing them in the trash both pose potential safety and health hazards.

MONROVIA - DUARTE

Sierra Madre-Arcadia-AN OPEN LETTER TO THE MONROVIA COMMUNITY

As you may have heard by now, on the evening of Saturday, April 22, 2017, there was a violent and tragic shooting at 134 West Cypress Street in Monrovia. The incident left one 18-year-old Monrovia resident dead, and another 17-year-old resident of unincorporated Monrovia in critical condition. Additionally, we are aware at this time that both of the shooting victims were Monrovia Unified School District students, and our thoughts and prayers are with their families

Given the active investigation that is ongoing, there are few details about the shooting that the City can share. However, we are aware that this violent incident has inspired a great deal of speculation, which has resulted in the spread of inaccurate information being distributed in the news and across social media about gang crimes occurring in our City and region. To that end, we wanted to provide some factual information about the context for this incident and details about the City's substantial and continuing efforts to curb gang violence in our community.

Regarding the most recent shooting, we do know that a Hispanic male in his early to mid-20s is the suspected shooter that law enforcement authorities are currently looking for. It appears that the shooter entered the rear garage located at 134 West Cypress Street through a back alley on the evening of April 22, 2017, at around 11:30 p.m. Upon his entrance, the suspected shooter encountered three individuals gathered in the garage, including the two Hispanic males and one Hispanic female. It is unknown at this time what the suspected shooter's motivations were. However, after a brief verbal exchange, the suspect proceeded to open fire and shot the two male victims, killing one individual and injuring the other. After opening fire, the suspected shooter fled the scene on foot into the alley located at the rear of the residence. Homicide investigators from the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department are now investigating the case, which is the standard protocol for most murder investigations in our region because of the sophisticated tools and resources available at the County. We recognize that any shooting causes real and legitimate fear in the community. However, as news of this recent incident has been shared, unrestrained speculation has resulted in reports that Monrovia has a significant gang problem. Such accounts are simply inaccurate. In reality, our community has very little gang activity, due primarily to proactive gang violence reduction efforts that the City has instituted during the past 10 years.

As a result, there are virtually no gang members living in Monrovia today. Back in 2007, Monrovia, Duarte, and the surrounding unincorporated Los Angeles County areas did experience a significant spike in gang violence and hundreds of gang members lived in the region. Much of the gang activity at that time was race-based, with significant conflicts between African American and Hispanic gangs. When confronted with this issue, Monrovia began working to remove criminal street gang members from our community. One of the City's most effective measures was implementation of a preliminary gang injunction in 2009, which was eventually expanded to serve as a permanent injunction against the gangs in 2010. The injunction is still in place today and serves as a critical tool in the City's efforts to identify and remove gang members from our community.

In addition to the gang injunction, the City has also worked for years alongside our neighborhood leaders to develop strategies to eliminate gang elements from Monrovia. For example, our Police Department has coordinated with community members to put pressure on landlords who rent to criminals, and in every case we have pursued, that pressure from residents and the City resulted in landlords evicting criminal tenants. Our Police Department staff have also assisted landlords in their efforts to evict criminal tenants by appearing in court to testify in contested evictions, while also providing landlords with information about ways to rent to responsible

After years of hard work, we have seen results here in Monrovia. Today, there are less than 10 gang members who live in our community, and because of our efforts, we have seen a major drop in both violent crime and gang crime in Monrovia during the past decade.

Unfortunately, the rest of our region has not been as proactive in working to remove gang members from their communities. For example, Duarte did not participate in the gang injunction. This means that the Hispanic gang and the Crip gang in Duarte have been unaffected by our injunction.

Also, while Los Angeles County did participate in the injunction (which applies to gang members living in the unincorporated areas surrounding Monrovia and Duarte), the County does not have the same type of focused reduced over the years.

community policing programs that we have in Monrovia, and they have not had the same success that we have had in removing gang members from the unincorporated areas surrounding our City.

-Pasadena-

These regional factors have resulted in many gang members still living in the areas to the south and to the east of Monrovia. And beginning in 2016, similar to the violence we saw in 2007, gang activity has erupted in our region. The gang violence has primarily been between the Crip gang in the unincorporated areas surrounding Duarte / Monrovia, the Hispanic gang in Duarte, and a Blood gang in Pasadena. And there have been multiple gang related shootings and homicides in Duarte, Pasadena, and the unincorporated os Angeles County areas.

Throughout this recent surge in gang activity, Monrovia has avoided most of the violence because we have so few gang members living in our community. In fact, the City experienced very little gang crime in 2016. However, the reality is that gang members living in the region drive through Monrovia, visit friends / family in our City, and shop at our businesses. These factors, coupled with the few gang members who still live in town, leaves open the possibility that gang violence may occur here in Monrovia.

To that end, in addition to the most recent shooting we experienced on April 22, 2017, there have been three other recent instances of violent activity in Monrovia, which include:

On February 9, 2017, a male Hispanic gang member shot at a subject who was not a gang member in the 100 block of Los Angeles Street. Fortunately, the victim was not hit and Monrovia Police Officers quickly apprehended the shooter, along with two accomplices. In addition, City investigators were able to locate the gun that was used in the shooting, and the suspect is now awaiting trial. It is important to note that the shooter had been convicted of assault with a deadly weapon in Ontario, California in 2015. Because of California's early prisoner release policies, he was out of prison in 9 months and had come to visit a friend in Monrovia when he committed another assault, this time with

On March 29, 2017, a subject was at a store in the 400 block of East Duarte road when he was shot at by a gang member while sitting in his vehicle. The victim, who was hit, fled the scene to his residence in the unincorporated area of Duarte, where his family then called for help. This was a case where rival gang members from areas outside the City were involved in a shooting at a business in Monrovia. The victim will survive his injuries and the investigation is ongoing. On April 7, 2017, a drive by shooting occurred in the 100 block of East Los Angeles Street. During the incident, no one was hit and no one was injured. The shooting took place at a residence where Crip gang members associate, and the investigation is continuing. At this time, it has not yet been determined if the shooting was gang related or if the incident was provoked because of a drug related deal. Furthermore, while the Monrovia Police Department has been aware of the issues at this location, we have been unable to evict the residents because they own the home. However, the City has taken proactive measures in an attempt to resolve the issues at this problem address, including the installation of high definition surveillance cameras that monitor the entire

It is always unacceptable when a shooting occurs in town, and last weekend's shooting that resulted in the death of a Monrovia resident is a tragedy that will be thoroughly investigated. As we move forward, additional public information will be released when possible. However, as the process unfolds, we did want to make the community aware that there is a lot of inaccurate information about the shooting incident that is being spread on social media, including statements made that the second victim had died, which is not true. There are also many inaccurate sentiments being shared that Monrovia is centrally involved in the regional gang violence that has been occurring since 2016. We have outlined in this correspondence all of the possible recent gangrelated shooting incidents that have occurred in Monrovia. While it is true that gang activity spills into our City at times, the facts illustrate that gang violence is primarily originating from other areas where Monrovia has no jurisdiction. Furthermore, with regard to the latest April 22, 2017, shooting incident, it has yet to be determined if the matter is even gang related. While social media can be a helpful way to share accurate information, it also frequently causes the spread of false information, as has been the case recently.

Here in our Monrovia, we have taken, and we continue to take, great efforts to reduce gang violence. And our efforts have produced real results. As the chart below illustrates, violent gang crime in Monrovia has been significantly

'It is an honor to be recognized by The Campaign for Business & Education Excellence, and we are proud that Royal Oaks and Valley View have been selected as Honor Roll schools," said Dr. Allan Mucerino, Superintendent of Duarte Unified. "Our staff, parents and community deserve to be recognized for creating the conditions for all students to attain rigorous academic standards by incorporating high expectations and quality instruction."

"We are proud to recognize those schools and school districts who are succeeding in putting their students on a path of productivity that not only leads to success in the classroom, but also prepares them to contribute to and benefit from a more productive economy," said Greg Jones, ERP and CBEE Board Chairman.

"Leadership from both education and the business community is critical to linking success from one system to the next, and ensuring that students have the knowledge and skills necessary to achieve a college degree and the financial security of a living wage job." "The Honor Roll proves that many schools are doing well, even those with high numbers of historically disadvantaged students," said Jim Lanich, ERP President and CEO.

"These schools are clearly doing something right and all schools, no matter what zip code they are in, can achieve this kind of success. School and school district leadership have a great opportunity to find out what's working at these Honor Roll schools and replicate it."

The California Honor Roll program is made possible with generous support from numerous businesses and organizations including Automobile Club of Southern California, Macy's, Wells Fargo, Enterprise Holdings Foundation,

JUST FOR BEST FRIENDS

WHY DID THE CAT CROSS THE ROAD?

Hi-Technology Helps Track Your Cat

It never ceases to amaze me, how innovative and and roam? creative some people can be when it comes to finding the best ways to care for their pets. One caring and very curious cat owner in the United Kingdom really went the extra mile to ensure that his four-legged friend was within his watchful eye, when he came up with a tracking device that can be attached to a kitty's collar to remotely monitor that cat?

Father of two resident of Marlborough, Wiltshire in the UK, Dave Evans is a uniquely creative catloving inventor who was prompted to come up with a mobile electronic cat mapping device, when his own curiosity caused him to wonder where his cat was wandering when it virtually vanished for days at a time, returning home on each occasion with an ever-growing girth.

Evans noticed that his furry feline friend was getting fatter following each long-term trip to whoknew-where for more than a few nights at a time, so he finally decided to apply his knowledge of basic GPS technology to creating an invention that would help him find out why his venturous cat was getting

The cat tracking device Evans designed is small and light enough to be attached to a kitty's collar, and the minute electronics inside allow for remote tracking that can be viewed through Google maps. Apparently, now there is even an app that can be downloaded to your smart phone to help you keep track of your cat while you, yourself are away from home. Imagine that - an app to track your cat!

Now, most of us are familiar with the term "catnap", right? But who knew the term "cat-map" could soon become a household term for a well-known means of tracking a kitty's activities during it's nights out on the town?

Our funny felines just love to wander about and explore the great outdoors. Most of us want to give them at least a little leeway to roam (although that's subject to opinion particularly where we live), but sometimes cats get a bit too curious about what's up down the road, and they just can't resist the urge to venture further than they should for their own good.

That's why the concept of Dave Evans' cat mapping device (along with a few similar products that followed his lead) have become so popular among pet lovers, globally. How does it work? Well, the device is affixed to the cat's collar and records the kindness...Love and let live.

various locations to which the little rascal wanders while away, night or day. When the cat returns home, the device is removed from it's collar and plugged into the computer via a USB port connector.

That's when the owner, being the virtual voyeur that he is, can view all the cat's curious comings and goings as they are depicted on Google Earth satellite images online. Kind of crazy, eh? But who doesn't want to know where their cat goes when it leaves home to run

What Dave Evans found out about his whimsical wandering feline friend was that it had been visiting lots other homes in the neighborhood on a regular basis, and being fed by his other human fcompanions who lived nearby. Basically that cat was sneaking off

Evans gave his state-of-the-art cat-tracker the easy-to-remember moniker of "G-Paws", and says the device has been a hit among numerous other curious & caring cat owners across the globe (CNN,

If you have a cat that likes to roam causing your curiosity to get over-blown, this remarkable new pet pampering product may just be the tool for you. As residents of an area where we share our space with coyotes and other wildlife predators, it wouldn't surprise me if this product quickly becomes a new favorite on the list of pet accessories for our furry four-legged friends! Well, at least those who allow their cats to roam, that is.

Now, on a side note, speaking of pets roaming, I'd like to shout out a big thank you to the good Samaritan who took the time to return two wandering pups back to their yard on Olive Ave. several months ago. I received a random call from a real nice lady named Vicki this past week, whose dogs had ventured out of the gate, unbeknownst to

She was out at the time and when she returned home, she found a business card of a pet sitter with a note explaining the dogs had gotten out and were returned to the yard safely. Vicki has been wanting to call and thank the helpful handler but it seems the business card left on her door step has gone missing. After seeing two pet sitter's ads in this section - one for Lois Longo and one for myself, Vicki called us both to learn that neither of us had been the one who returned her dogs.

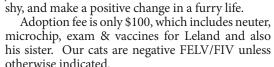

If you are reading this and you happen to be that good neighbor who returned two wandering pups on Olive Ave several months ago, please contact the Mt. Views News editor and we will put you in touch with Vicki. She really wants to express her appreciation. And frankly, so do I! Keeping an eye out for each others' pets and lending a helping hand is what Sierra Madre is all about! Keep up the

THE GREAT RACE PLACE JUST GOT BETTER.

F or those of us that know the area the 100 to 1 club just East of the track was a great place to hang out after the races, catch a ballgame and maybe belt out your favorite Karaoke tune. Since closed but the namesake lives on right here at the Santa Anita race Track, The 100 to 1 Club. Perched over Santa Anita's heart-pounding first turn, the revamped luxury space offers panoramic views of the entire racetrack and allows guests to experience world class Thoroughbred racing in a sleek lounge-style atmosphere.

The new 100 to 1 Club spans 4,000 square feet at the first turn of the track, in an area formerly known as The Gallop Out (I called it Margie's bar). The space underwent extensive renovations over the past seven months, including an architecture overhaul that added terraced seating, eliminated exterior walls and elevated the main floor to maximize race day sightlines.

Overseen by LA-based design firm Studio Antares, the 100 to 1 Club's on-trend redesign evokes the track's rich Los Angeles history and its long-held position as the West Coast Jewel of American Thoroughbred racing. Overhead exposed steel infrastructure meets original curved concrete walls with hexagon shaped windows. Throne-like banquette seating set beneath the architectural base of Santa Anita's iconic spire create unexpected focal points within in the space.

Race Fans are greeted by a bar area lit with an historic neon sign, which is original to the space and dates back to the 1930's – the glory days of Santa Anita Park. The former concrete parapet in front of the space was replaced with glass partition, flooding the club with sunlight and opening views to the action below. Private bar and wagering machines separate a 50-75 person suite with outdoor, covered seating and top shelf amenities.

Set three floors above Santa Anita's first turn, the club rests at the building's closest proximity to the race track, creating an exhilarating and engaging space where fans of all ages feel they are part of the action.

The 100 to 1 Club is the latest space to be unveiled as part of Santa Anita Park's ongoing renovation and refurbishment. The multi-year and multi-million-dollar undertaking has modernized the park and added elite new spaces aimed at introducing Santa Anita Park and the Sport of Kings to a new generation of race fans.

On my name visit I plan to check out their Sunday Brunch, I can't predict all the winners in each race but I have a tip that this going to be a winner! Join me this Sunday at 5 PM for Dining with Dills on KLAA AM 830.

HOW MEDICARE COVERS THERAPY SERVICES

Dear Savvy Senior,

Can you explain how Medicare covers physical therapy services? I'm a new beneficiary, and would like to get some treatments for my back. Need Help

Dear Need.

Medicare covers a variety of outpatient therapy services including physical, occupational and speech therapy, if you meet their coverage criteria. Here's how it works.

Medicare Coverage

To get Medicare (Part B) to help cover your physical therapy, it must be considered medically reasonable and necessary, and will need to be ordered or prescribed by

You can get these services as an outpatient at a number of places like a doctor's or therapist's office, rehabilitation facility, medical clinic or a hospital outpatient department. You also need to know that Medicare limits how much it pays for outpatient therapy services in one calendar year. These limits are called "therapy cap limits." In 2017, Medicare will cover up to $1,980 for physical and speech therapy combined, and another $1,980 for occupational

But be aware that just like with other Medicare covered services, Medicare will pay 80 percent (up to $1,584) of your therapy costs, after you meet your $183 Part B deductible. You, or your Medicare supplemental plan (if you have one), will be responsible for the remaining 20 percent until the cap limits are reached. After that, you'll have to pay the full cost for the services.

Extra Therapy

If, however, you reach your cap limits and your doctor or therapist recommends that you continue with the treatment, you can ask your therapist for an exception so that Medicare will continue to pay for your therapy. The therapist must provide documentation that these services are medically necessary for you to continue. If Medicare denies the claim, you can appeal through the Medicare appeals process - see Medicare.gov/claims-and-appeals.

If approved, Medicare has an exception threshold of $3,700 for physical and speech therapy combined, and $3,700 for occupational therapy. If your therapy cost exceeds these thresholds, Medicare will audit your case, which could lead to denial of further services.

No Coverage

If you choose to get physical therapy on your own that's not considered medically necessary or prescribed by your doctor, your therapist is required to give you a written document called an "Advance Beneficiary Notice of Noncoverage" (ABN). Medicare Part B will not pay for these services, but the ABN lets you decide whether to get

Therapy at Home

You should also know that Medicare covers home therapy services too if you are homebound and eligible to receive home health care from a Medicare-approved home healthcare agency. To learn more about this option, see the "Medicare and Home Health Care" online booklet at Medicare.gov/pubs/pdf/10969.pdf.

Medicare Advantage

If you are enrolled in a Medicare Advantage plan (like an HMO or PPO), these plans must cover everything that's included in original Medicare Part A and Part B coverage. But sometimes these plans cover more, with extra services or an expanded amount of coverage. To find out whether your plan provides extra coverage or requires different co-payments for physical therapy, you'll need to contact the plan directly.

RARE HIGH-RESOLUTION IMAGE OF EXPLODED STAR

Scientists will now be able to measure how fast the universe is truly expanding with the kind of precision not possible before.

This, after an international team of astronomers led by Stockholm University, Sweden, captured four distinct images of a gravitationally lensed Type Ia supernova, named iPTF16geu.

To get a high-resolution view, the discovery team used the W. M. Keck Observatory's OSIRIS and NIRC2 instruments with laser-guided adaptive optics at near-infrared wavelengths.

The resolution of the Keck adaptive optics images was equivalent to being able to distinguish the individual headlights of a car in San Francisco as viewed from Hawaii. The measurements confirmed the four separate images originated from iPTF16geu and that its light traveled for 4.3 billion years before reaching Earth.

"Resolving for the first time, multiple images of a strongly lensed supernova is a major breakthrough," said Ariel Goobar, Professor at the Oskar Klein Centre at Stockholm University and lead author of the study. "We can measure the light-focusing power of gravity more accurately than ever before, and probe physical scales that may have seemed out of reach until now.'

iPTF16geu was initially observed by the intermediate Palomar Transient Factory (iPTF), a Caltech-led international project that uses the Palomar Observatory to scan the skies and discover, in near real-time, fast-changing cosmic events such as supernovas using a fullyautomated, wide-field survey.

It took some of the world's leading telescopes to gather more detailed information about iPTF16geu. In addition to Keck Observatory, the discovery team also used the NASA/ESA Hubble Space Telescope and the European Southern Observatory (ESO) Very Large Telescope in

MacArthur Professor of Astronomy and Planetary Science and co-author of the study. "Thanks to Keck Observatory's ability to respond to such supernova events on short notice, the discovery team was able to produce fine images, which allowed them to successfully observe the light rise and fall from each of iPTF16geu's four images."

CHRISTOPHER Nyerges PLANTING TREES IN SIERRA MADRE TO FIGHT DROUGHT

Trees, grey water recycling, and welcoming the rain are all needed Low-tech solutions to Urban Density front area is planted with fruit trees, herbs, and ornamentals. Once, while we were tending this area, a visitor of ours stated that he does not grow anything in his yard. He told us he was so concerned about dry weather conditions, and drought conditions, that he regarded any sort of plant cultivation as "wasting water."

Of course, our visitor was tacitly suggesting that we were wasting water.

We realized that this idea was rather widespread when yet a second person suggested that we forget about planting any more trees, bushes, or vegetables due to what seems to be regular periods of drought and water shortages in Southern California.

This counter-productive idea seems to have gained a foothold in the minds of many residents of our Southland. We've even heard some 'garden experts" suggest this idea, that to "save water" we should simply not grow plants.

We are able to grow fruit trees and roses and herbs and other edible plants partly because we direct all of our washing machine water, and most of our dish water, out into the garden areas and not down the city's sewer line. We are using the water twice! To the visitor who suggested that we stop growing for awhile, we casually asked, as we were showing him our water recycling system, "So where does all your used water go?" He was silent for a moment, and then told us that it all goes into the sewer. In fact, with careful attention to the type of detergents purchased, we can direct virtually all of our water into our yards. This is done in many possible ways. The dish basin, full of used water, can simply be carried outside and poured manually around your plants. Or you can fill one gallon plastic buckets with your used bath, shower, or dish water, and then carry it outside to where it is needed. With a bit more work, you can disconnect from your sewer line and permanently direct all of your used water into your own yard, as we've done with the washing machine.

There are two major benefits of sending your used household water into your own yards, rather than letting it flow unceremoniously down the

As more and more people move into this coastal mountain-locked desert plain, we have quickly begun to use the water faster than nature's ability to replenish the supply. Thus, our underground water table has steadily dropped. Directing all our household water into our yards could have at least a minimal positive affect on the water table (as long as we avoid bleaches and dyes in our detergents that could be harmful to the soil and water).

More importantly, one of the best "weapons" to combat desertification and the serious effects of the cycles of drought is the presence of trees! Throughout recorded history, the harvest and non-replenishment of trees has led to weather changes that have resulted in large deserts. All the major deserts on earth were once forests, but the trees were cut down for making boats or other products. Conversely, since the transpira-tion cycle of trees releases large amounts of wa-We are not advocates of the "front lawn." Our ter into the environment, the planting of trees on a large scale can reduce the effects of drought. can alter weather and can reverse the downward cycle towards desertification.

> We don't want to stop our efforts to plant -- and to nurture -- trees just because there is a period of drought. But we must do so wisely. By using all possible grey water, we're able to keep our necessary trees and plants alive and transpiring. When we read that the average residence of Los Angeles County uses about 400 gallons a day, we were astounded. We're not sure what constitutes an "average" family, but when we average out out water usage, it doesn't come close to 400 gallons on a daily basis. Imagine how astounded we both were to learn that Hugh Hefner's Playboy mansion uses 25,000 gallons of water daily!! Or that the Hotel Bel-Air, an 11 acre retreat, uses 98,000 gallons a day!

> No wonder we have water troubles. People flock her to the desert and they use water profligately, as if they were living in Canada or the Rockies or > some other water-rich environment. With all this in mind, we wonder: Where doesn't every single family residence > in Southern California direct all their own gray water into their own yard? This raises the water table, and allows plants to grow with water that was already used and paid for?

> Why isn't the city, or various water agencies, actively promoting not just low-flush toilets but composting toilets, which use NO water at

> Why does the average residence pay more for the water they so-carefully use, when the "big get to buy their water wholesale?

> Why do we allow any new construction at all, either residential or business? If our water situation is only going to get worse as population increases, shouldn't we take some steps to encourage development elsewhere? Or are we so caught up in the suicidal money-making mindset that "development is always good for business" that we are blind to what we are doing to

We know that there are countless other "easy" and practical ways to fight water shortages and to live lightly on the earth.

Another deep-seated idea that all should root out of our thinking is that "Sunny weather is good weather, and rainy weather is bad." Most Southern California weather reporters have interpreted the weather this way for decades (with a few rare exceptions, such as the former television meteorologist Dr. George Fischbeck). Though we are not badmouthing sunny weather, we need to begin to think about rain as a valuable, friendly, needed gift from heaven, without which our home here between the sea and the mountains would quickly revert to a semi-bar-

BLACK EYE CAUSES QUANDARY OF THE FIRST ORDER

Quandaries come in a variety of sizes, shapes two categories. First are those quandaries that come about through no fault of the person in said quandary. For all practical purposes (and those in a quandary are usually not practical), it is impossible to adequately prepare for such an event in life.

Second are self-imposed quandaries. This, unfortunately, is the area where I flounder the most. To be perfectly honest, and I'm not suggesting that I'm perfect; I have created most of the havoc in my Believe me, I would like to put the blame on someone other than myself in many of these situations but, alas, I am to blame. What I am about to relate belongs to the first category.

I found myself in a quandary recently through no fault of mine. And yet, I'm not able to prove it. This is the most discouraging thing. I know it was not my fault, but nobody will believe me.

Through the years, I have adopted a certain nocturnal procedure. When I get up in the middle of the night to go to the bathroom I keep my eyes closed. There is a very simple reason for this. One, I know exactly where I am going, so I don't need to open my eyes.

Two, I do not want my body to know that I'm awake. I want to fool my body into believing I'm

I used to do what everybody else does. Get up, open my eyes and go to the bathroom. However, whenever I did, my body thought I was up for the night and try as I might, I could not convince my body to go back to sleep until I made one trip to the kitchen, and you know what that meant. Exactly . .

. the refrigerator. This kitchen appliance holds no appeal for me, but I do enjoy the contents. Moreover, my body knows this only too well. So, I devised a plan to outwit my body.

Some people would let their body dictate to them, but I am not of that breed. When I have to go to the bathroom in the middle of the night, I am careful not to open my eyes.

With this strategy, I am able to get up, go to the bathroom and return without my body being aware of what is going on. My plan worked quite well without a quandary in sight for years, until one night recently.

by my bedside, the urge to go the bathroom came Fellowship, 1471 Pine Road, Ocala, FL 34472. He upon me like a roaring lion. Being careful not to arouse my body, I slunk out of bed, wary to keep both eyes closed.

Everything chugged along quite well and then, and colors. As someone who is somewhat of a all of a sudden there was a resounding "whack," connoisseur in this area, I can readily attest to this. a flash of blinding light and a twinge that danced However, many do not realize quandaries come in from my right eye all the way down to the soles of my feet, only to return.

> Quickly following this, a loud squawk emitted from my mouth. All this commotion completely aroused my body to a state of full awakeness. By this time, my body, my wife and I were wide-awake. As it turned out, someone, and I'm not mentioning any names, left the bathroom door open. It opens into our bedroom and I had run smack, dab into it. The result was a black eye to beat all black eyes. There are worse things in this world than running into a door - like explaining to your devoted public how you got that black eye.

> While my right eye was throbbing, I never gave any thought to how I would explain it. However, it was a quandary and it was not of my doing.

> "How did you get that black eye?" A friend asked me the next day. It was a perfectly innocent question so I cheerfully (if you can be cheerful with a black eye) said, "I ran into a door last night." I thought this would be the end of the matter.

> Boy, was I ever in for a shock. Sure, you did," my friend replied sarcastically.

> Then he winked. I soon realized I was in for some trouble. You can only do so much to hide a black > Another friend: "What happened to your eye? You talked back to your wife or something?" This is usually followed by that insidious laugh, "Tee, hee, hee.'

> Why is it that when a person gets a black eye from running into a door nobody believes him? After all, I'm not in the habit of telling outright lies. I may exaggerate or rearrange the facts, but I never would outright lie about anything. Especially if related to my wife.

> While feeling a little blue over my black eye, I discovered something in my Bible. David knew of quandaries and wrote many Psalms celebrating his fact of life.

> "Though I walk in the midst of trouble, thou wilt revive me: thou shalt stretch forth thine hand against the wrath of mine enemies, and thy right hand shall save me" (Psalms 138:7).

> It is inevitable that quandaries will come. Some from out of the blue and some of my own creation. The comforting truth is, God will always "revive me" in His own special way.

ANOTHER SENSELESS DEATH AND WHAT LAW ENFORCEMENT IS DOING

This week's column was supposed to be about the Monrovia-Arcadia-Duarte Town Council-our history, areas we represent, improving life in our community and our goals. However because of recent shootings and information shared at our April Town Council Meeting, it will be published next

The well-attended Town Council Meeting brought Stephanie English, Public Safety Officer and Field Deputy Debra Mendelsohn, from Supervisor's Bargar's District. Residents met LASD Area Commander Scroggins, Temple Station's Cpt. Flores, Lt. McNeal, Duarte's Sgt. Keaney and Operations Safe Street's Lt. Walk.

Captain Flores introduced himself and his staff and told how they are working to improve our area. Deputy Nelson gave her monthly report on crimes and answered questions. There were also reports from Arcadia PD Community Officer Vercillo, Pamela Park, and Duarte and Live Oak Library Staff.

Jeanette Chavez, mother of the late Samantha Salas, slain in front of Riviera Apts., questioned LASD Cpt. Flores about the number of deputies on each shift. She was quite upset about the recent killings-she didn't want other parents to suffer so much pain. Samantha was beautiful, artistic, volunteered at Church; her future looked bright, but her life was cut short. Ms. Chavez felt Monrovia PD had more officers and the two agencies didn't communicate.

A few days later, I spoke at length to Monrovia Police Chief Jim Hunt. He said all the surrounding agencies work together and Duarte and Monrovia still utilize the D.A.M.A.G.E. Program- a Monrovia Sgt. rides with two deputies; the Duarte Sgt. with two MPD officers. (See 1998 Photo of Duarte Sgt. Biagini and Monrovia Sgt. Pete Mullins in the early days of the Chief Hunt mentioned his department's smaller size, but officers spend their entire career there, so they are well acquainted with the area and residents. He also spoke of the

are no gang member residents in the City.

I favored the Injunction because in the early 90's, it was a most effective tool to clean up the Goodall County Area. The City of Duarte does not have it.

In 2008, Duarte voted not to utilize the Injunction and I thought that was a mistake. The County was willing to fund half of it. However last night I attended the Duarte City Council Meeting and learned a lot. It wasn't a rash decision not to have the Injunction. There was a lot of thought, dialogue and research done before they voted against it. I listened to their arguments and then understood their decision. (Their proactive program-will be explained in a future column.)

The Injunction gives law enforcement the tool to remove gang members from their city. Duarte has no injunctions and recently had shootings. But the County area with injunctions also has had gang-related shootings. (I believe we need the injunction in the county areas because of recent gang activity.)

I also believe that Prop 109 has caused a lot of havoc as predicted by former Supervisor Antonovich. Ankle Bracelets do not work. (Girl held captive for eleven hours and raped. Whittier officer killed) I don't know an instant solution to this violence and senseless killing. But I do know that LASD and Monrovia PD are working very diligently to end it. LASD has brought in Operations Safe Streets personnel. There have been joint meetings between these two agencies as well as Pasadena PD, Pomona PD and Claremont PD and sharing of info and resources. Also a Community Mediation Team of residents have been meeting for discussions. Let's all work together and support our law enforcement as they try to end the violence. And finally, PLEASE call your local law enforcement agency is something usual is happening. They are grateful for information. See you at the next Meeting!

A DEEPER LOOK BEHIND THE MUSIC OF COLD WAR KIDS LIVE FROM THE CLIVE DAVIS THEATRE

By: Sean Kayden

On Monday night, indie rock aficionados Cold War they grew up as admirers of the earlier work of U2, Kids, dropped by the Clive Davis Theater which is inside the Grammy Museum in Los Angeles to discuss the origin of the band, their latest record "LA Divine," and the inspirations behind it all. Scott Goldman, Vice President of the GRAMMY Foundation and MusiCares, interviewed lead singer Nathan Willett and bassist Matt Maust. The discussion became a personal and insightful look at band that has been growing a steady fanbase. The sold out event allowed for keen fans to ask the band any questions that came to mind. Soon afterward, the rest of the members appeared on stage to put on an intimate performance of new tunes and fan favorites. Undoubtedly, Cold War Kids have been dependable in crafting solid records for the past 10 years that have guided listeners through the highs and lows in their lives. On their sixth album, "LA Divine," which dropped a few weeks ago, Cold War Kids pays homage to the city of Angels and its entire eccentric splendor. It's the latest release, to the follow-up to 2014's "Hold My Home," which featured their certified Gold hit single, "First".

"In many ways L.A. is the least divine city, the most hedonistic and irreverent and disconnected from history," says Cold War Kids' singer/guitarist/ pianist Nathan Willett. Founding members of the group have circulated all over southern California from Anaheim to Whittier to Long Beach. Their extensive living surroundings have led to their eclectic sound that truly does capture an LA vibe, specifically this brand new release. "L.A.'s so massive, I feel like I'm always finding something newinit," says bassist Matt Maust. "It's an incredibly weird place, and I'm happy to have made a record that totally honors that weirdness." The hour long discussion was engaging as it went deeper into the lives of these now veteran indie rockers, who aren't so indie anymore with being on Capitol Records for the very first time. However, the change from Downtown Records certainly hasn't gone to their heads or created false egos. They're the same guys making the same great music they've been doing from the very beginning and there is tremendous respect in that, which was clearly shown by their on a new chapter with seemingly more unwritten fans. In addition to the personal stories they shared, the writing and music process, and the the years, the band citied The Velvet Underground Young The Giant.

and The Smiths as influences. They did go on to say R.E.M., Depeche Mode, No Doubt, and Sublime.

The sonic soundscape for "LA Divine" has shifted in tone from their previous work, but it's not a drastic change as the band clearly stated. It unites crafty, laden hooks with the band's signature post-punk tenacity. On this evening, the band performed six songs, two cuts from "LA Divine." The first one from the album was their single, "Love is Mystical." The upbeat song is scattered with a stomping piano and a vivacious bassline that's truly hypnotic. When the chorus kicks in, it's pure explosiveness. Willett, known his commanding, fortitude vocals, belts out lines such as "Love is mystical, love will break the chains... give you the power to believe again," which is quite persuasive coming from him. The other new track comes in the form of the pop-approached endeavor, "So Tied Up." There's this down in the dirty south sort of vibe being conveyed here and when the chorus bursts through, you're undeniably hooked. Cold War Kid kids performed two of my favorite tracks as well, "Miracle Mile" and "Hospital Beds." "Miracle Mile" is a shoutout loud anthem with dynamic hooks, powerful arrangements, and an utterly addicting chorus with Willett pleading with you to, "Come up for air." "Hospital Beds" is old school Cold War Kids and the song has aged tremendously well. It's less theatrical than their new material with a more worn down vibrancy, an edgier resonance, and bleaker lyrics. As the band continues to develop and spread their wings, they haven't lost touch with their indie upbringings. The expansion in their sonic palette, their conscious attentiveness to the changes of daily life and the world around us all are all touched upon with "LA Divine." It's a record that may symbolize the unusual city of Los Angeles. However, if you examine closer, it's a record that can be interpreted in numerous ways beyond the artists' initial intentions as well as what it can eventually grow into. Cold War Kids may be on their sixth record, but there are no warning signs of slowing down as they are truly embarking ones left to come.

"LA Divine" is out now on Capitol Records. This authors and books that have inspired them over summer Cold War Kids will be going on tour with

WHAT TO DO WITH A CASH WINDFALL

Many of us like to fantasize about winning the lottery. We muse with our friends about how we might spend the money, and we dream about never wanting for anything ever again.

The odds are against us, of course, at least as far as the lottery goes. But that doesn't mean - at some point in our lives perhaps - we won't actually come into a major amount of cash, usually in the form of an inheritance, or perhaps through the settlement of a legal claim.

The Worst Hard Time: The Untold Story of Those Who Survived the Great American Dust Bowl by Timothy Egan

In a tour de force of historical reportage, Timothy Egan's National Book Award-winning story rescues an iconic chapter of American history from the shadows. The dust storms that terrorized the High Plains in the darkest years of the Depression were like nothing ever seen before or since. Following a dozen families and their communities through the rise and fall of the region, Timothy Egan tells of their desperate attempts to carry on through blinding black dust blizzards, crop failure, and the death of loved ones. Brilliantly capturing the terrifying drama of catastrophe, he does equal justice to the human characters who become his heroes, "the stoic, long-suffering men and women whose lives he opens up with urgency and respect" (New York Times). # BOY WINS HERO AWARD FOR GIVING NEW SHOES TO THOUSANDS OF KIDS IN SHELTERS

A 14-year-old from Rhode Island, Nicholas Lowinger, was chosen as a 2012 Huggable Hero, winning $10,000$ for his outstanding work in public service. The boy's foundation, Gotta Have Sole, donates new footwear to children living in homeless shelters. New shoes not only provide the perfect fit for a child, but they also instantly increase a child's self-esteem. To date, Nicolas has purchased 5,000 pairs of shoes for homeless kids by collecting donations worth $200,000. Although the 501(c)(3) non-profit charity was initially established as a simple community service project for his Bar Mitzvah in November 2010, Nicholas has continued his selfless service. Shelters around the United States send him footwear orders with specific shoe sizes and Nicholas collects and hand delivers packages to the kids in RI and MA, and sends the rest to needy families as far away as Texas." I decided to give shoes because shoes take you places," said Nicholas.

"You can't really go somewhere without shoes... and clothing is something people regularly donate to shelters." To commemorate the tenth anniversary of the 9/11 terrorist attacks. Nicholas held a special event to collect and send new footwear to more than 90 children of the first responders. Nicholas was named one of 15 "Huggable Heroes" by the Build-A-Bear Workshop this month, winning ten thousand dollars and earning a scholarship for himself, as well as $2,500 for his charity. All these young philanthropists from the U.S. and Canada realize that kids can impact their community in a major way. Monetary donations and new shoes are always appreciated. You can make a tax-deductible donation securely on his Facebook page or on his website, GOTTAHAVESOLE.ORGSend checks to 'Gotta Have Sole Foundation, Inc.,' and mail your donations to Nicholas Lowinger at:39 East Bel Air Road, Cranston, RI 02920

FLYING THE UNFRIENDLY SKIES The airline industry is so competitive that upon learning United Airlines dragged a paying passenger off a flight so their employees could enjoy a free ride, Delta played hide-and-seek with the body of a man on the way to his own funeral. We live in an era of air travel where paying customers are regarded as some sort of annoyance worthy of abuse rather than, well, customers worthy of some minimally healthy appreciation. It matters little to some airport security that children are watching while they drag a passenger from his seat, bloody him up and then stand by while he re-enters the plane, staggering from one end to the other, obviously in shock, muttering that he has to go home.

Another video shows him clinging to a doorway in the plane, pleading with security and police, "Just kill me."

The video shows the police simply watching him. I hope I'm not giving the police too much credit in presuming they were waiting for him to calm down, which is much better than hogtying him to a gurney, taping his mouth shut and wheeling him off.

Better, but not much. Who knew that United has a "fine print" policy in which they reserve the right to have airport security violently drag you off their planes to make room for employees flying to work in another city? If you're ever asked, "Would you be willing to take $400 in air travel and a hotel so one of our four employees can get to Louisville?" say, "Yes, please," unless you're willing to take a beating. Which brings up another fact about United's poor business model of bouncing paying customers around in favor of employees needing a lift. The man they dragged across the seats and floor is reportedly a doctor who said he could not stay in Chicago overnight because he had appointments with patients the next day. This sounds like a reasonable justification to go back to the computer and have it select another random seat for ejection.

But, no, they chose the much more expensive option.

It may cost United a couple thousand dollars to book employee flights on another airline. Instead, they chose option number two - pay out at least a couple million in a civil suit they are sure to lose.

If the doctor's lawyer can get a jury trial, United and O'Hare might be buying him a multimillion dollar private jet and pilot. And Delta?

31 year-old Bryant Lee Raburn, who died from leukemia, was supposed to be flown to Nashville from Raleigh for his funeral.

Instead, Delta escorted the body on the scenic route to Utah. And dropped him there.

WRAL TV reports: "Bryant was rerouted to Salt Lake City in a cargo hold, and we didn't know how to get him to Nashville," said David Rhodes, Bryant's stepfather." "According to Rhodes, hours spent on the phone with Delta got him nowhere. 'I was stonewalled everywhere I called, he said."

"Finally, Rhodes traveled to the Nashville airport himself to work with operating managers to find a new flight that would get his stepson's body to Tennessee in time for the funeral."

In August, 2014, 22 travelers from Delaware flew from Philadelphia to New York on their way to Dublin. What they didn't know was that the ticketing agent in Philly booked them on a ghost ship to Dublin. The flight didn't exist.

So there they were, stranded in New York.

United's slogan: "Fly United. We dare you. Punk."

Fourteen of them grew weary of Delta's failure to get them on a flight to Dublin and took cabs and limos back to Delaware. The remaining eight fought for over five hours with agents and a Delta VP to get flights on other airlines. Here's what we've learned from these airlines:

Dear Editor:

RE: RENT CONTROL IN SIERRA MADRE

The Sierra Madre City Council will be discussing rent control sometime in June or July. If you have issues regarding your increased rent or worried about the future be sure and contact the city council thru email at the city's web site or go to the council meetings and speak out there. The rent prices in California are out of control and just keep rising. Reasons being shortage of housing, job growth and inflation but the main reason is simple greed. If the owner can get more then why not. The apartment or house next door is getting more for rent so why not me. And up the rent goes higher and higher with no end in sight.Pasadena rents are at a all time high and some rents are increasing by as much as 47%. Some cities in California have some version of rent control and more must be done. Let it happen here also in Sierra Madre particularly for those on fixed or low incomes. The alternatives are homelessness or having to move away from families and friends. Please speak out about this important issue before your rent goes up again, much higher then you can possibly afford! -JB, Sierra Madre

TRUMP'S BROKEN PROMISE COULD BREAK ANOTHER PROMISE

Smoke has been billowing skyward from the Trumpster fire for nearly 100 days - I know, it feels more like 100 weeks - and his refusal to release his tax returns is only stoking the flames.

Basically, his broken campaign promise to release his tax returns (a promise he had voiced repeatedly) is now imperiling his grandiose campaign promise to overhaul a tax system that he supposedly understands "better than anyone who has ever run for president." He promised to roll out a tax reform plan by February, but two months ater, his incompetent motley crew has rolled out nothing.

That's because they're not in sync with Capitol Hill because politicians - including a sizeable contingent of Republicans - are wary of passing anything that might wind up enriching Trump. They don't know what would enrich Trump because they're in the dark, just as we are, about Trump's finances. And they're in the dark because Trump refuses to come clean on his tax returns the way every non-authoritarian president has done since 1976.

More than a dozen Hill Republicans - which is a lot in this era of hyperpartisanship - are calling for Trump to release his tax returns, and even Trump loyalist Joe Walsh, an ex-House member and polarizing rabble-rouser, surfaced on MSNBC with a plea for Trump transparency: "I do think this issue will come back and bite him on the

It already is. Trump's fantasy of doing a bipartisan tax reform deal is likely dead unless he releases his returns. Democrats say they won't cooperate unless or until they have solid assurances that the reform provisions won't put money in Trump's pocket. And three Republicans in the conservative House Freedom Caucus have signed onto a Democratic bill that would compel Trump to release his returns.

New presidents are usually at their peak of political influence during their first 100 days. Trump hits the 100-day mark at the end of this month, and he will have accomplished nothing (except to tweet and run his mouth). The travel ban is tied up in court. The overhaul of Obamacare crashed and burned. He needed to kill the Obamacare taxes before tackling broader tax reform. Now he says he might try to re-target Obamacare before moving on to tax reform - but that was just something he said last week, and, as we know by now, his word means nothing.

Trump on ABC News in 2011: "I'm gonna do my tax returns when Obama does his birth certificate ... I'd love to give my tax returns. I may tie my tax returns into Obama's birth certificate." (One week later, Obama released his birth certificate. In response, Trump said he'd fulfill his promise and release his returns "at the appropriate time.")

Trump on Irish TV in 2014: "If I decide to run for office, I'll produce my tax returns, absolutely, and I would love to do that."

Trump on a radio show in 2015: "I would release tax returns ... The answer is, I would do it ... I would certainly show tax returns if necessary ... I do pay tax, but I'm very proud of what I've done. I have no objection to showing any tax return."

Trump on NBC News in January 2016, signaling imminent release: "We're working on that now. I have big returns, as you know, and I have everything all approved and very beautiful and we'll be working that over in the next period of time, absolutely." Trump on NBC in February 2016: I'll release my tax returns "probably over the next few months." The good news is that far fewer people are buying his snake oil. According to the latest Gallup poll, 45 percent of Americans see Trump as a guy who honors his promises. Granted, 45 percent sounds high, given his long trail of broken dreams, but that share has dropped 17 points since February. I doubt that this exchange, from Monday's White House press briefing, will reverse the downward trend: Reporter: "Is it time to just say once and for all that the president is never going to release his tax returns?' Sean Spicer: "We'll have to get back to you on that."

Does the Trump regime really believe it can overhaul the tax system, with bipartisan support, by stonewalling a broken promise and further destroying the poseur's credibility? Even his Treasury secretary has told the Financial Times newspaper that Trump's dream of a summer signing ceremony is "not realistic at this

Or, to paraphrase Trump: Nobody knew that governing could be so complicated.

ADVICE FOR PRESIDENT TRUMP

Dear Mr. President.

I have some more friendly but important advice for you.

It's not about your itchy twitter finger or your golf game.

I'll take the great Ernie Els' word for it that you don't need any golf tips from me. After Els played a round with you at Trump National Golf Club in Florida earlier this year, he said you were "a proper golfer" who "swings the golf club properly and hits iron shots properly."

My advice is purely political and it's based on several decades of watching and working with my father.

If you want to achieve two of the most important goals of your new administration -- genuine healthcare reform and real tax reform -- you've got to understand and appreciate what my father knew instinctively:

In presidential politics, perception is more important than reality.

I saw my father put that simple truth into practice back during an international crisis in 1985. He and Nancy were planning to leave the White House in June to spend a few days at Rancho del Cielo, his ranch near Santa Barbara.

But on June 14 a group of Lebanese terrorists with guns and grenades hijacked a TWA flight from Athens to Rome and forced it to land in Beirut. While the world watched the news reports, the plane flew around the Middle East for three days. The terrorists beat passengers and threatened to kill them unless the Israeli government released about 700 Shiite prisoners. The hostages were released over the next two weeks, but an American, Navy diver

Robert Stethem, was shot in the head and his body was dumped on the runway. My father could have flown out to California as he planned. His ranch was the Western White House and it had the same set up as his office in Washington.

The reality was that he could go there, monitor the TWA hijacking situation and also relax by cutting brush or riding his horse.

But the perception to the world would have been that he had gone on vacation while an American plane was being hijacked and dozens of innocent people were at risk.

He decided it'd be better for him politically to stay in the White House and monitor the situation from there. He understood reality vs. perception.

Mr. President, I offer this advice because of two things your administration has done wrong recently – not making the White House visitor logs available to the media and not showing the public your income tax returns. The reality is that the law backs you up on both cases, but the perception is you are hiding something.

What's worse, you are allowing the news media to keep pushing that perception out to the public.

The liberal media are going to be against everything you do from now until the end of your second term, but you don't have to write their articles for them.

If you keep allowing bad publicity on the issues of the White House logs and your tax returns to get in the way of your agenda, you're going to be hard-pressed to get tax reform or anything else you want through Congress. If I were your chief of staff, I'd have told you it was horrible politics to shut off the White House logs to the public. If you must do it, do it later -- after you've passed health care reform or tax reform. The reality is, you won't get your tax policy through until people stop perceiving you are hiding something in your taxes. The only way that'll happen is if you release them ASAP.

It's not about the law, Mr. President. It's not about reality. It's all about perception. And that's something you can learn from my father – and from me.
