SIERRA MADRE SIDEWALK PARTNERSHIP PROGRAM

It was announced earlier this week by the Public Works Department, in an effort " to improve pedestrian safety and walk-ability in the community", that the Sidewalk Partnership Program is still available. The program began in 2010 and assists property owners with repair of damaged sidewalks. Under this program, the City will cover the expense of labor and equipment and the homeowner only has to cover the cost of the concrete.

It should be noted that: - This program applies only to the elimination of a potential hazard.

The program includes work to repair sidewalks, driveways, and curb/gutters.

- Residents will receive an inspection of the site to determine if they qualify, whether trees or roots will need to be addressed, and the total area of the replacement.

- Residents will be provided with the full cost of participation before agreeing to participate. Trees and roots may require additional consideration, and the removal and replacement of trees would be at the property owner's expense.

- Scheduling of work is contingent on the variable work load of the Public Works Department. For additional information, please email Clare Lin in the Public Works Department at clin@ cityofsierramadre.com or call 626-355-7135 Ext 802.

Walking Sierra Madre...The Social Side

"The pessimist complains about the wind; the optimist expects it to change; the realist adjusts the sails." William Arthur Ward

"A great wind is blowing and that gives you either imagination or a headache." Catherine the Great

That pessimist would be me. William Arthur Ward was, obviously, not hanging around Sierra Madre last week when we had a couple of really windy days, which did not inspire imagination in us, but gave us a pounding headache when we looked around our yard. We didn't lose any big branches, not too many palm fronds, but Oh My Gosh! the twigs, the leaves, the unbelievable quantity of stuff we didn't need all over the place. I realize that wind is nature's way of cleaning all the stuff off the trees that needs to go, but still...

"The answer, my friend, is blowin' in the wind." Bob

Walking around town, we noticed changes! Citta Café is gone and there's a beer and wine license application in the front window! Something new to eat... let's see, that spot has been a sushi place, Vicious Dogs, Citta Café featuring bagels and interesting wheatgrassy sorts of drinks and now, something new is on the horizon. The last remaining bicycle shop next door to T'Neer is gone, too. Charlotte's Jewelry will be leaving us later this month, but Sierra Madre is such a tremendous place to shop, live and work, we're sure we'll have exciting new businesses joining us very

A little note about our Representative, Judy Chu: We were delighted to see that she introduced a bill a week or so ago to prohibit airlines from forcibly removing passengers after they have boarded, except in cases of safety or security issues. Good for you, Judy! The very idea of someone saying - after I've checked my bag, found my seat, buckled my seat belt and opened my Kindle - that I need to get off now, makes me feel very

The 55th Annual Art Fair is this weekend. We are so jazzed about this and looking forward to seeing all the neat things which will be filling up Memorial Park. Our featured artist, Karen McLean-McGaw has some really beautiful work we are anxious to get a closer look at. Every year we, my Art Fair browsing companion, John, and I are astonished by the creativity we see in each one of the artist's booths. Again this year, I am so hoping that Van Noppen Glass will be back. David VanNoppen is the artist who had the fantastic blown glass pumpkins two years ago, which I looked at, lusted after, thought about and, foolishly, didn't buy! Looked for him last year but, alas, he wasn't there. Fingers crossed that he'll be back and still be doing pumpkins.

The Friends of the Library will be hosting 80 artists, lots of children's activities, live music, a silent auction, and there will be exciting food, the beer and wine garden and the Friends of the Library will be selling their special 'baked by human hands' breads, while the guys from the Historical Society will have lemonade made from Rangpur limes. Lime-ade? Anyway, it's today, 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. and tomorrow, 9:30 a.m. to 5 playwrightdd p.m. Rumor has it that it will be cooler on Saturday and a possible chance of rain on Sunday so don't wait too long to do your Art Fair shopping. In case you didn't know, all proceeds from the Art Fair benefit our own Sierra Madre Public Library. The shirt this year is really Mark your calendars for the Chili Cook-off on May 13th. We will be there, taking pictures, tasting chili and maybe even dancing the night away with JJ Jukebox. Peter Dills will be judging and we think it will be a lot of fun. It's 6-10 p.m. on Saturday the 13th in the Sierra Madre Room. More about this next week.

So here we are in May, friends and neighbors, and the next thing you know, school will be out. Yes, I know, that's kind of a shocker as it seems like we just barely got past Halloween. Anyway, Here's a suggestion for something for the kids to do other than hang around the house and complain they're bored and there's nothing to do there: Enroll your 4-8 graders in the Pasadena Musical Theatre Program! Five weeks – June 12-July 13, 9:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. with a performance on July 13th. More information online at www. pasadenamusicaltheatre.org. Miss Emily Clark will be the director and it will be held right here at Sierra Madre Elementary School in the Bluemel Auditorium.

One last thing...Mother's Day is May 14th. You have time to get a card for all the mothers in your life, order flowers, make reservations. Here's a gift suggestion for the best gift ever! It's a digital picture frame. Daughter Patti gave us one for our 50th anniversary, an Insignia 10" and with the insertion of a flash drive, all 565 pictures taken at our party are on there rotating away! We love it!! Yes, they have it at Amazon.com.

'PEST CONTROL' COMPANY MAY BE KILLING COYOTES WITH CONTROLLED SUBSTANCE

PETA Calls for Investigation Into Reported Use of Sodium Pentothal by Employee of Animal Pest Management Services, Inc.

Arcadia, Calif. — This morning, PETA sent an urgent request to California law enforcement, the California State Board of Pharmacy, and the federal Drug Enforcement Administration seeking a formal investigation into what may have been the illegal use of sodium pentothal—a controlled substance—on coyotes by an employee of Chinobased Animal Pest Management Services, Inc. (APMS), one of the biggest exterminators in Southern California. Under federal and state law, sodium pentothal must be administered by or under the supervision of a licensed veterinarian—a certification that the employee doesn't have.

In the letter, PETA references allegations raised from a constituent and discussed during an Arcadia City Council meeting on February 21 that a longtime APMS employee injected a trapped coyote with a mystery substance in a constituent's backyard. This assertion is supported by a 2009 Los Angeles Times article that likens the employee, Jimmie Rizzo, to an "Angel of Death" and specifically mentions his use of sodium pentothal—a Schedule III controlled substance under state and federal law—on covotes.

"Coyotes and other wild animals are being harmed and killed by 'pest management' companies while they're already struggling to exist peaceably in an ever-shrinking environment," says PETA Senior Vice President Lisa Lange. "PETA is calling on authorities to investigate immediately whether a controlled substance was used illegally and, if reports are true, to throw the book at those responsible."

PETA—whose motto reads, in part, that "animals are not ours to abuse in any way" notes that "nature's dogs" are an integral part of California's ecosystem. In addition to eating vegetables and fruits, as predators, they help keep populations of smaller animals such as squirrels and rats in check. Trapping and killing them is both unnecessary and harmful, and residents can avert human-coyote conflict simply by using motion-activated lights or sprinklers at night to scare them away, not leaving pet food outside, and never leaving animal companions unattended outdoors.

"THE MOUSE THAT ROARED" DUARTE'S ROTARY CLUB PAVED THE WAY FOR WOMEN WORLDWIDE TO SERVE

By Joan Schmidt

At a recent Duarte City Council Meeting, I learned an amazing history lessonhow women worldwide can now belong to ALL service organizations, thanks to the Duarte Rotary Club and a Supreme Court Decision thirty years ago. Lydia Carswell, a former DUSD Principal, and member of Duarte's Rotary Club gave the excellent presentation.

Lydia explained the Club's history and how its motto became "The Mouse that Roared".

The story began in 1976; the Duarte Rotary Club down to eight members including DUSD Superintendent Dr. Richard Key. The club voted to invite women, M.L. Elliott and D. Bogart. A few months later, R. Freitag, a psychologist, joined.

The Superintendent spoke to District Governor-Elect Paul Bryan about women in the Rotary; Bryan advised using discretion.

On June 1, 1977, Duarte's Rotary Club was celebrating its 25th Anniversary. A Rotary International Representative attended and was in disbelief when he saw three members

The Club was given an ultimatum: No women or you can no longer be a Rotary Club. The club voted again and requested a hearing with the Rotary International Board of Directors. They were told "Only real Rotary Clubs could have a hearing."

An option was to appeal to the Council on Legislation, the lawmaking body of Rotary International, which was to meet in Tokyo that year. Duarte Rotary and the Community joined to raise money to send a Rotarian to

However, at the Council on Legislation, the issue presented was not whether women should be admitted to Rotary, but whether the Duarte Club had violated the bylaws. By a vote of 1060 to 34, it was decided the Club did violate the bylaws. The Duarte Rotary met and decided to continue. On March 27, 1978, a Rotary International representative came to Duarte and revoked its charter.

The Duarte Rotary Club did not go away quietly. Bill Brooks, Director of Personnel, City of Hope, and Club member suggested they change their name to the Ex Rotary Club but put a big "X" over it, and so began Duarte's Ex Rotary Club.

A Rotarian from Arcadia suggested Duarte enlist the help of the American Civil Liberties Union-He did it Pro bono. Ex Rotary Club notified Rotary International that they would file suit to be reinstated.

Lawsuits began and Rotary International petitioned to transfer the lawsuit to federal court, but feds ruled it had to be fought in state court.

In 1983, it went to trial, but Judge refused to reinstate the club. Duarte appealed the decision. In 1986, appeals reversed the judge's decision stating Rotary Clubs are business establishments subject to regulation under the state's Unruh Act banning discrimination based on race, gender, religion or ethnic In 1986, Rotary International (RI) appealed the case to CA Supreme Court who refused to hear it and then appealed to the US Supreme

On May 4, 1987, the US Supreme Court affirmed the 1986 ruling of the Court of Appeals, 7-0.

Two months before the US Supreme Court Decision, Sylvia Whitlock, incoming Duarte Rotary Club President attended a presidentelect training with 310 men. John Fee, District Governor reported it was RI's intention to appeal the decision. John reported "It is just the case of the mouse that roared-a small club trying to change Rotary International." Sylvia jotted that down and brought it back to the Duarte Club. They changed Rotary International and the world.

MONROVIA DEVELOPS MATERIALS AIMED AT HELPING TAKE BACK CITY PARKS AND STREETS

During the past few weeks, staff has been working to develop additional public education materials related to our, Taking Back Our Parks & Streets program to highlight the negative impacts that AB 109, Prop 47, and Prop 57 have had on California's criminal justice system. To that end, our outreach materials have been included for your review and reference, which include a fact sheet, a brochure, and a sample lobbying template letter. Many thanks to Jackie Tran and Caroline Velarde for their work in getting these important documents put together!

Public outreach and education is perhaps the most important element related to our overall plan for taking back our streets and our parks, and the materials we have developed are intended to provide Monrovians with an easy mechanism through which our community can advocate for changes in State law address quality-of-life crimes.

Many are unaware that during the past several years, the State has enacted multiple new laws that have weakened and taken away certain law enforcement authorities, including AB 109, Proposition 47, and Proposition 57. As we move forward into this next week, we plan on coordinating the release of our Taking Back Our Parks & Streets program in conjunction with a presentation that was provided by Michele Hanisee, President of the LA Deputy District Attorneys Association, at our May 2, 2017, City Council meeting. The presentation provided an assessment of the actual and verifiable negative impacts that the new State legislation has had on crime in California, and the overview, along with our new outreach materials, will all be uploaded to the City's website, http://www.cityofmonrovia. that will restore local law enforcement authority to org/, within the next week.

WHAT YOU CAN DO ...

Only the State can make the criminal justice system changes needed to ensure that violent and career criminals are kept off of our streets, and getting educated about the facts is the first thing that you can do to make a difference

Certainly, not every crime deserves punishment through jail time. However, the changes made by AB 109, Prop 47, and Prop 57 have allowed violent and career criminals the opportunity to avoid either jail time or rehabilitative programs.

Based on the provisions of AB 109, Prop 47, and Prop 57, the definition of what constitutes a today, the following crimes are classified as "non-

- Corporal injury to a child Rape
- Hate crime causing physical injury Assault with a deadly weapon

In addition, AB 109, Prop 47, and Prop 57 have into account an individual's criminal history, which has allowed career criminals the opportunity to avoid serving proper jail sentences.

Violent and career criminals need to be held accountable and ke off our streets.

Sierra Madre, CA (April 26, 2017) - On Tuesday, April 25 Alverno Heights Academy's Class of 2019 received their class rings during their Ring Ceremony.

The time-honored tradition of Ring Ceremony at Alverno Heights Academy took place on the terrace of the historic Villa del Sol d'Oro and provides the class with the opportunity to look back at their first two years at Alverno while looking forward to their last two as upper classmen.

Sophomore State Governor Cami Lee '19 and Lieutenant Governor Zeinab Hemdan '19 began the Ring Ceremony with a welcome to the Class of 2019 and their guests. This was followed by a prayer presented by Elisia Bendy'19.

Letters were then read to the Alverno Community by Kate Bolin '19 and Caroline Dragos '19, to the parents of the Class of 2019 by Aaliyah Solis-Castillo '19, and to the Class of 2019 by Beatriz Rivas

After listening to these beautiful and intentional letters, the Class of 2019 were presented with their rings by Julia V. Fanara, Head of School, who spoke not just about the memory of Ring Ceremony but also the memories that each ring will carry for these young women for the rest of their lives. Each member of the class received a ring she had personally designed herself, which included aspects of her personality as well as her life at Alverno Heights Academy.

Following the presentation of the rings, Briana De Anda '19 sang "Lemonade" by Jeremy Passion for the reflection as Precious Perlas '19 accompanied her on the ukulele. Maritza DiRito also performed a song, choosing to dedicate the song "The Climb" by Miley Cyrus to her classmates.

Governor Cami Lee'19 and Lieutenant Governor Zeinab Hemdan '19 closed the ceremony with a final prayer and a special thank you to Mr. Tim Lewis P'19 and Ms. Lisa Primero-Solano, Sophomore State Moderators, as well as Ms. Julia V. Fanara, Head of School. The girls concluded the evening by holding their rings up high as they proudly sang the Alverno Heights Academy Alma Mater.

"Ring Ceremony is such a wonderful part of the tradition at Alverno Heights Academy," said Julia V. Fanara, Head of School. "In two short years, these young women have grown into exceptional leaders and scholars who have found an empowered voice at Alverno. We congratulate them as they transition to a new part of their student life here. We cannot wait to see what they accomplish over the next two years and the incredible women they become!"

Ms. Kenne was originally elected to the Board in 2011 and represents District 1. She served as the president of the board in 2016-2017. Ms. Kenne has been actively involved as a parent leader at the school site, district, and state levels since her children started kindergarten domestic dogs and various other pets in the state of California. With the support of Assemblymembers Patrick O'Donnell (Dist.70) and Adrin Nazarian (Dist.46), two state assembly bills designed to ensure the more humane treatment of domestic animals were passed by the majority vote of their respective assembly committees.

This comes as the result of much effort on the part of many avid animal lovers, including the awesome activists at Social Compassion in Legislation (SCIL), who recognized the need for positive change and took necessary action to make it so. But all the effort in the world can't make a difference in the law without the support of our elected servants. And for that we animal lovers should be ever-so-grateful!

Assembly Bill 1199 was the first of two to be passed by a majority vote last month (6 ayes to 1 no). This bill requires the Commission on Peace Officer Standards and Training (POST) to develop and implement training for peace officers regarding encounters with dogs. It also requires specified law enforcement officers, including municipal police officers and county sheriff's deputies to receive this training.

With an estimated 8.7 million pet dogs residing in California homes, police officers are likely to encounter dogs on one out of every three house calls. According to the U.S. Department of Justice, an estimated 10,000+ pet dogs are shot and killed by police officers in the United States each year. This statistic is absolutely incomprehensible and unacceptable. AB-1119's supporters knew something had to be done to stop the senseless killing of so many innocent animals.

Historically, POST's dog-encounter-related training was limited to a two-hour DVD, "Dog Encounters: Keeping Officers Safe". The DVD was made available for officers to view at will, but viewing was not mandatory. The new law would require more extensive, mandatory police officer training to help educate officers on how to understand the behavior and body language of dogs.

The objective goal of AB-1199 is to curb the epidemic of preventable dog shootings and equip officers with the tools and techniques necessary for safe encounters with domestic dogs. The ability to discern between dangerous and salvageable situations will help diffuse such encounters, to allow officers to simultaneously protect citizens, family pets and themselves.

The new police training course would include such focal points as understanding the behavior of dogs, tactical considerations and best practices during encounters involving dogs, as well as safe handling of and appropriate use of force against dogs.

enforcement officers Law throughout the state would be

April, 2017 turned out to be a fantastic month for required to complete the training course by no later than January 1, 2019. Assuming necessary funds can be appropriated to implement this bill and assuming it comes out on top through the political debate process, it is well on it's way to becoming part of the > Assembly Bill 485 is another pet-lover's favorite that passed the committee by a majority vote last month (10 ayes to 1 no). This bill would limit the sale of animals in private pet retail stores to only those rescued from animal shelters or non-profit rescue organizations. It is yet another step in the right direction of doing away with what is left of those disgusting and cruel puppy mills.

Los Angeles and several other cities in California already have similar laws in place, but the implementation of AB-485, also known as the Pet Rescue and Adoption Act, would require pet shops across the entire state to comply with "rescue-pet-only" retail sales. What a victory this would be for the animals...indeed it is a win-win for all involved!

Because there are no foreseen costs associated with the implementation of AB-485, it's chances of becoming part of California law are quite good. With the continued support of it's authoring assembly members and the numerous animal-loving citizens who've helped initiate this bill, we have high hopes of seeing it being implemented as California state

There are many hurdles to be cleared when it comes to making changes to existing law, but I can't think of a more worthy cause than that of the humane treatment of animals. When passionate people come together and do the footwork to initiate bills designed to help ensure that animals are treated with the care and respect they deserve, there is much to be celebrated and it lends us hope for a Kudos to Assemblymembers, Patrick O'Donnell and Adrin Nazarian for setting an excellent example of how the people of the great state of California truly do love and respect our animals! We couldn't ask for better representation than that, could we? Keep up the good work, our dear elected servants and continue your unrelenting support, our caring California citizens...love and let live!

THE JOY OF YOGA FUNCTION V. FORM

surprisedwhen student they can't do yoga because they are not flexible. We come to yoga to GET flexible! Each one of us has our own unique body. We also have our own individual experiences, needs, and perception on what yoga is and isn't.

Our asana practice, or physical postures are just the tip of the iceberg in shaping our breath, energy and mind-body connection. Each pose has an effect on all these layers; physical, mental/emotional and energetic. Each has a special purpose, or function. A standing pose, such as trikonasana (triangle), may be used with dynamic arm variations to increase our lateral muscles. If we use triangle pose this way, it becomes less about the text book "form" (or cover of yoga journal), and more about the effect we going for and lead into the sequence following. In fact, forcing the proper form could take us out of the function of pose. The breath quickly goes if we're in too deep. Or when we look around, concerned about what it looks like, we lose our internal focus.

It's a great point-of-view to practice from. We need to honor our form in each pose, just to the extent of safety and basic alignment. Beyond that, the function is most important. Your body has its own unique expression in each asana. That's a beautiful thing. It's going to look perfect on you, and for most of us, not what we see on a textbook or cover of a magazine.

THE MISSING PAGE Real Life Tips from Llfe's Instruction Manual YOUR LIFE AND YOUR SHOPPING LIST

A few weeks ago, I reminded you that you should put at least as much effort into your life as you do when you go to the grocery store. The similarity between your life and that trip to the market is the activity of writing down what you want. Many nutritionists recommend that consumers go to the store with a written list, knowing what they want. Otherwise, there is a risk of being tempted to make an unconscious choice, that would sabotage their goals. The experts say don't go to the market hungry, well you should approach your life with a hunger and thirst for living your best life!

Did you know that writing your goals down increases your likelihood of success ten fold?

So are you asking yourself powerful questions? How about, what could I do today to make today the perfect day? Great days start with intentional, great minutes and hours.

You might try this question, what is the challenge that is calling me today?

Ask yourself a question that inspires you to dream. Ask yourself questions that will advance your vision and turn it into the life you are living.

Now write down your answer, and you will be on your way to living a life you imagine. My goal is that you are living a truthful and inspired life. When we push ourselves, we experience a greater sense of fulfillment, and we inspire others to do the same.

We can make the world a better place, first by being our best self and living our best life.--

SIERRA MADRE CHILI COOK-OFF

No Beans about the Annual Sierra Madre Kiwanis Chili Cook-Off is just around the corner. I am an old hand at these events; you see I put on the very popular Pasadena Chili Cook-Off for some 12 years. At one point we attracted some 30 cooks and 1200 inmates gathered scraps of meat, any kind of spices or anything attendees. I invite all of you to this event, I judged last year and I was absolutely impressed with the quality of entrants. My idea of a true chili is one that has no beans, but I have a feeling that there will be all sorts of entrants that I will state "This is Chili?"...I did a little research on how this Chili Craze got started, and these are the two that make the most sense. See everyone Saturday Night at the Sierra Madre Room 611 E. Sierra Madre Blvd. Sierra Madre.

There is little doubt that cattle drivers and trail hands did more to popularize the dish throughout the Southwest than anybody else, and there is a tale that we heard one frosty night in a Texican bar in Marfa, Texas, about a range cook who made chili along all the great cattle trails of Texas. He collected wild oregano, chile peppers, wild garlic, and onions and mixed it all with the freshkilled beef or buffalo - or jackrabbit, armadillo, rattlesnake, or whatever he had at hand - and the cowhands ate it like ambrosia. And to make sure he had an ample supply of native spices wherever he went, he planted gardens along the paths of the cattle drives mostly in patches of mesquite - to protect them from the hooves the "soup" got thicker and thicker. The inmates added gruel, bread of the marauding cattle. The next time the drive went by there, he found his garden and harvested the crop, hanging the peppers and onions and oregano to dry on the side of the chuck wagon. The cook blazed a trail across Texas with tiny, spicy gardens.

The other story I like as well, is that a small Rio Grande Jail in Texas was home to the original chili, the story goes that the

that was left over and made a think soup, as they added vegetables and water to thicken it up. By the 1850's each Texas Jail was rated by the chili that was served!!

THE GOOD LIFE

NIFTY GADGETS THAT CAN HELP SENIORS WITH HEARING LOSS

What types of products can you recommend to help people with hearing problems? My 65-year-old husband has some hearing issues, but doesn't think he needs a hearing aid, so I'm looking for some alternative devices that can help.

Loud Talker

Dear Loud,

If your husband feels he's not ready for a hearing aid but needs some hearing help, there are dozens of "assistive listening devices" on the market today that can make a big difference.

Assistive listening devices are over-the-counter electronic products (they are not FDA approved hearing aid devices) that can amplify and improve sound to help your husband in different listening situations. It's also important to know that these products are best suited for people with mild to moderate hearing impairment, and they usually aren't covered by insurance or Medicare.

Here's a breakdown of some of the different devices that can

Personal amplifiers: For better hearing, especially in noisy environments, there are personal sound amplification products that can be worn in the ear like a hearing aid, and are designed to amplify sound while reducing background noise. Two top rated products to consider that were recently recommended by Consumer Reports are the SoundWorld Solutions CS50+ and the Etymotic Bean.

The CS50+, which costs $350, looks like a Bluetooth cell phone headset, and has customizable settings that can be programed with a smartphone. The Etymotic Bean, which costs $399 a pair or $214 for one, is ready to use right out of the box and is best suited for those with high-frequency hearing

If these are too pricy, there are also a number of small hand-held or body-worn amplifiers - like the Williams Sound Pocketalker ($139) and Bellman & Symfon Mino Personal Amplifier ($188) - that have a microphone and headphones or earbuds that are very effective too.

TV amplifiers: To hear the television better, there are TV listening devices that will let your husband increase the volume and adjust the tone to meet his needs, without blasting you out

Some of the best options include wireless infrared, radio frequency or Bluetooth devices that come with standard or stethoscope headphones. Sennheiser makes a variety of quality products with prices running between $130 and $450. Or, for a more affordable solution, consider the Serene Innovations TV Sound Box for $120. This is a wireless amplified TV speaker that would sit near your husband, and provide clear stereo sound from the TV without the need for headsets.

Amplified telephones: To have clearer phone conversations, there are a wide variety of amplified telephones that offer enhanced volume and tone adjustments, and they usually come with extra loud ringers and flashing ring indicators to alert him when a call is coming in.

Some top makers of these products are Clarity, Clear Sounds and Serene Innovations, and a top seller today is the Clarity XLC2+ Amplified Phone ($144), which is a cordless phone that provides three tone settings and 50 decibels of amplification.

Alerting devices: There are also a variety of alerting devices that can help people who have trouble hearing the doorbell, phone, alarm clock, smoke detector or even weather radio. These products use flashing lights, multi-tone ringers or vibrating devices as a means to alert you.

Some popular products in this category include: The Bellman & Symfon Care Home Alerting Solution that provides door and phone notification with a flashing alert ($198); the Silent Call Weather Alert Radio with strobe and bed shaker ($165); and the all-in-one Serene Innovations CentralAlert CA-360 Clock/Receiver Notification System, which provides alarm clock, doorbell, phone, motion and storm warning alerts ($180).

To locate these and any other hearing loss products visit Harris Communications (HarrisComm.com, or call 866-476-9579), which offers more than 2,000 assistive devices and provides customer support services to assist you.

KATIE TseThis and That I'M STILL SO GLAD I'M NOT YOUNG ANYMORE!

This article originally appeared in the Mountain Views New years ago. But even after all this time, I'm STILL so glad I didn't

Youth is a wonderful thing. The young are mostly healthy, beautiful, and, in middle and upper class America, blissfully unacquainted with the harsh realities of financial selfreliance and a diminished metabolism. Youth involves rites of passage. Kids learn to drive. Girls get training bras; boys' voices go through a crackling journey to manly tones. Everyone needs to use deodorant, contrary to the belief that "some people don't sweat." And usually somewhere in there is a "formal dance."

Stopped in traffic by the Arboretum one spring day, I noticed a fashion shoot taking place on a grassy knoll. Five women, in thigh-high halter-top dresses, posed as the photographer fired off rapid shots. After they were finished, the group headed toward some young men in suits and tuxedos. As the women awkwardly stepped into a stretch Hummer it dawned on me. That's not a fashion a shoot –that's someone's prom!

It goes without saying that proms have changed over the years. My mom enjoys telling how she fooled her date (a well-known prankster) by opening the front door in a very old fashions, dumpy dark turquoise taffeta dress and her Stouffer's waitress shoes (think the Queen Mum). She and her dad got a big laugh after he snapped a picture of the boy's horrified face. She then changed in to her real dress. Yes, things are different

I have a few regrets about my youth. I wish I had put more effort into my second language courses (although I doubt it would've helped), and I suppose it might've been good to attempt a sport. But one thing I've never regretted is not going to prom! I know that sounds bitter and antisocial, but even approaching 20 years later, I can still say I didn't miss a thing!

In the same vein as class elections, proms seemed to be another means of social exclusion. Every detail of the night involved decisions about who was "in" and who was "out." Who's house do we meet up at? Who's riding in the [the ostentatious vehicle of choice]? Who's sitting at our table? There's only room for eight, so that eliminates [the least-liked classmate]." It gave me a nervous ulcer just listening to it. To drive home the point that prom was overrated, my boyfriend-less friends all complained about their dates' behavior the next day at school. Heck, even some of the girls who had boyfriends complained!

Of course, another reason I nixed the prom was because I'm cheap. I just couldn't rationalize the cost of the tickets, dress, etc. Even as an unemployed teenager, I had some concept of the value of money. On top of everything else, prom tends to bring out the worst in people -administrators as well as students. There's always a few headlines about some poor kid getting kicked out of prom for a dumb reason. Back when I first submitted this article, a boy in the Midwest asked his crush to the prom by writing "Will you go to the prom with me?" on a large poster. And she said "Yes!" Aww! But there was trouble in paradise when the villainous principal banned the boy from the prom because his placement of the sign was against school rules. In response to the national outcry against her decision, the principal finally reneged and allowed the young lovers to attend the prom. It would be one thing if this were an isolated incident, but it seems that every year there's some news story about power-crazed administrators concocting frivolous reasons for excluding students from the prom. One girl was denied admission because she came without a date. It's bad enough if you can't get a date, let alone the school broadcasting it! Like Maurice Chevalier crooned, "I'm --STILL-- so glad I'm not young anymore!"

NEARBY PLANETARY SYSTEM IS SIMILAR TO OUR OWN

NASA's flying observatory, the Stratospheric Observatory for Infrared Astronomy (SOFIA), recently completed a detailed study of the planetary system around the nearby star Epsilon Eridani. The investigations confirmed that this planetary system has an architecture remarkably similar to that of our solar system.

Located 10.5 light-years away in the southern constellation Eridanus, the Epsilon Eridani (Eps Eri for short) system is the closest planetary system around a star similar to the early Sun.

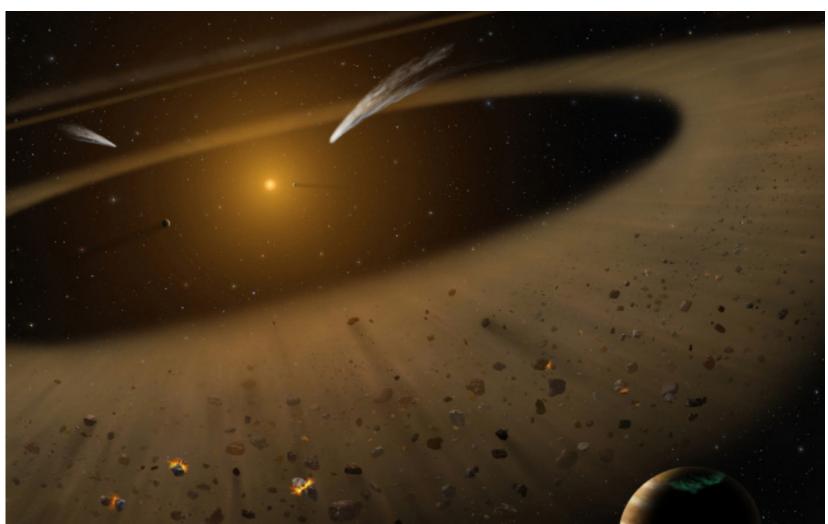

Previous studies indicated that Eps Eri has a debris disk, which is the name astronomers give to leftover material still orbiting a star after planetary construction has completed. Furthermore, careful measurements of the motion of Eps Eri indicates that a planet with nearly the same mass as Jupiter circles the star at a distance comparable to Jupiter's distance from the Sun.

With the new SOFIA images, Kate Su of the University of Arizona and her research team were able to distinguish between two theoretical models of the location of warm debris, such as dust and gas, in the Eps Eri system. These models were based on prior data obtained with NASA's Spitzer space telescope.

One model indicates that warm material is in two narrow rings of debris, which would correspond respectively to the positions of the asteroid belt and the orbit of Uranus in our solar system. Using this model, theorists indicate that the largest planet in a planetary system might normally be associated with an adjacent debris belt.

The other model attributes the warm material to dust originating in the outer Kuiper-Belt-like zone and filling in a disk of debris toward the central star. In this model, the warm material is in a broad disk, nor is it associated with the any planets in the inner and is not concentrated into asteroid belt-like rings inches in diameter compared to Spitzer's 33.5 inches, which allowed the team onboard SOFIA to discern details that are three times smaller than what could be seen with Spitzer. Additionally, SOFIA's powerful mid-infrared camera called FORCAST, the Faint Object infraRed CAmera for the SOFIA Telescope, allowed the team to study the strongest infrared emission from the warm material around Eps Eri, These observations were possible because SOFIA at wavelengths between 25 and 40 microns, which has a larger telescope diameter than Spitzer, 100 are undetectable by ground-based observatories.

"Beautiful," I told Angus. "Just beautiful." When I first met Jack Angus it was 5 years ago when he and local artist Steve Hardy were doing abstracts around the corner at Bean Town. "The Sycamores" was so stunning that I asked Jack how long he'd been working on representational art, as opposed to the abstracts that he made in the past.

Let me outline some advice my mother gave me that, to this day, I have no idea what she was talking is that piece of advice I still abide by. Before I would I distinctly remember my mother standing wonder about my nativity. As a young person, I often pondered this question myself.

As with most teens, I had long moments of identity crisis. (When you are young most of your energy goes into producing hormones, and so the brain functions on low voltage.) It greatly confused me that the person who should know who I was, asked me the question I had been asking myself. If she does not know who I am, what hope do I have?

money. She whirled around and replied, "Do you think money grows on trees?"

Up to that point, I have never given the matter much thought. I simply assumed money came from my father going to work and being paid. However, here was something new to ponder. Where does money come from, really? What added to my Branch of First National Bank of Harrisburg. Now I was totally confused.

When I was quite young, I remember asking my mother for something in the store. I think it was some small toy that I took a fancy to and asked my mother to buy it for me. She flatly refused. I complained and demanded to know why. She looked me straight in the eye and said, "Because I am the mother, that's why."

To this day, I still do not know what in the world that statement meant. What did her being a mother have to do with buying me that toy?

When she saw my confusion, she told me, "When you have children of your own, you will understand." I have children of my own as well as grandchildren, and I still do not know what she meant. It must be a mother thing, which is all I

Unfortunately, much of must have gotten her sadistic side from her mother. Mom's advice shed light on nothing. Absolutely It must be something mothers pass on to their daughters, because as a man, I don't get it.

Most memorable of her nuggets of wisdom to me leave the house, my mother would say, "Make sure you have clean underwear on in case you get in a car accident and have to go to the hospital.'

I have never figured out what clean underwear has to do with going to the hospital, but that piece This always disturbed me and caused me to of advice made for the worst day of my high school years. Just as I drove into the school parking lot one day it dawned on me that I had forgotten to put on clean underwear. Panic raced through my teenage heart like never before. I was certain some disaster awaited me around the next corridor.

By the end of the day, I was a nervous wreck. Driving home, I was sure something would happen to me, putting me in the hospital. I imagined myself being rushed into surgery and the first thing the Then there was the time I asked my mother for medical team asked was, "Check his underwear to see if it's clean."

Upon finding my underwear not clean, they refused me any medical attention and sent me back to my mother. To this day, I am paranoid about wearing clean, fresh underwear each day. I have my mother to thank for that.

Looking back at what I learned after years of confusion was the name of our bank The Elm Tree hearing my mother's advice, I have only one piece of wisdom to pass on to you for those moments with your mother. The next time your mom makes one of those parental off the wall statements, just smile and ask her, "When you were my age, did you walk to school or carry your lunch?" She'll be confused, and you'll be even.

The one thing my mother did that I will always be grateful for is that she encouraged me to read my Bible. She bought my first Bible for me and encouraged me to read and study it each day.

In that Bible, as a young person, I ran across a verse of scripture that has stood me in times of trouble. "Trust in the LORD with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding. In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy paths" (Proverbs 3:5 6).

Thanks Mom and Happy Mother's Day.

From 1932 to 1943, this stunning early California Hacienda-style estate was owned by Herbert Hoover, Jr., son of the 31st president of the United States. President and Mrs. Hoover visited often and the home was known as "The Winter White House". It was originally built in 1928 by local businessman, Frank Picard, and the estate included almost 6 acres of land. In 1932, when the Hoovers moved in, they added a children's wing. Word has it that the playroom (accessed by a slide) was designed by family friend, A. A. Milne, the author of "Winnie the Pooh". AROUND SAN GABRIEL VALLEY

FIFTEEN YEARS LATER, DAVE MARCH IS GONE, BUT NEVER FORGOTTEN

It's hard to believe fifteen years have passed since Deputy Dave March was gunned down by a coward, whom he had pulled over for a traffic stop. That day I'll never forget-I was at my school, Annunciation, Arcadia, teaching sixth grade. The sirens seemed endless and we were put on lockdown. One frantic call to Sgt. Mike Rodriguez confirmed my worst nightmare. Our area 57 Deputy Dave March-the big guy with the big grin was gone. The suspect, Jorge Arroyo Garcia, aka Armando Garcia fled to Mexico and was arrested there in 2006. Finally he was extradited to the US in 2007 and is now serving a life term. (The Death Penalty could not be sought; otherwise Mexico would never have sent him back here.)

In the days following Dave's death, many beautiful posters, cards, flowers and remembrances appeared by the site. The following Saturday I attended the funeral and rode on one of the buses Temple Station provided for their personnel and City/Town Council Members. As I rode to the funeral site, I was overwhelmed how the residents of Saugus came out for Dave. Along the sidewalks, were people of all ages, holding signs and flags. It was beautiful. Behind us were six miles of law enforcement vehicles in support of Dave.

The services were beautiful. Governor Davis came down

Temple Station Commander Captain Roberta Abner and all Temple Station deputies. (It should be noted that when these tragedies occur, deputies from other station and local police will cover for the station of the fallen deputy so all can attend services.) There were the gun salute, release of doves and a horse without a rider. Captain Abner bravely spoke of Dave and what a fine man he was. Widow Teri March was presented with the flag.

Eventually Irwindale Department and a few local businesses put up the permanent Memorial to Dave where he was killed on Live Oak in Irwindale. A beautiful Memorial to Dave at Temple Station was the gift of his fellow personnel. A year later, a rally was held at the Irwindale Speedway. Teri, Dave's widow, his parents, and sister Erin all spoke. They were angry that the coward who killed Dave was still at large.

Armando Garcia will spend the rest of his life in jail. Teri March has remarried to a wonderful man and they have two beautiful sons. But Dave will always have a special place in her heart, the hearts of his family, many friends, coworkers and all MAD county area residents.

year Temple Station Honor Guards once again held a 24 hour vigil at the site where Dave was gunned down. At 12:01 am, Captain Flores and a procession left Temple Station. At the from Sacramento, Supervisor Antonovich and public Memorial Site, a ceremony was held. Ten-seven officials, Sheriff Lee Baca, CHP Commander Mike Brown, Deputy Dave March. The Inner Life of Cats: The Science and Secrets of Our Mysterious Feline Companions by Thomas McNamee

Our feline companions are much-loved but often mysterious. In The Inner Life of Cats, Thomas McNamee blends scientific reportage with engaging, illustrative anecdotes about his own beloved cat, Augusta, to explore and illuminate the secrets and enigmas of her kind. As it begins, The Inner Life of Cats follows the development of the young Augusta while simultaneously explaining the basics of a kitten's physiological and psychological development. As the narrative progresses, McNamee also charts cats' evolution, explores a feral cat colony in Rome, tells the story of Augusta's life and adventures, and consults with behavioral experts, animal activists, and researchers, who will help readers more fully understand cats. McNamee shows that with deeper knowledge of cats' developmental phases and individual idiosyncrasies, we can do a better job of guiding cats' maturation and improving the quality of their lives. Readers' relationships with their feline friends will be happier and more harmonious because of this book.

FAMILY MATTERS By Marc Garlett

WHICH LIFE EVENTS REQUIRE AN IMMEDIATE ESTATE PLAN UPDATE?

Estate planning is the process of developing a strategy for the care and management of your estate if you become incapacitated or upon your death. One commonly known purpose of estate planning is to minimize taxes and costs, including taxes imposed on gifts, estates, generation skipping transfer and probate court costs. However, your plan must also name someone who will make medical and financial decisions for you if you cannot make decisions for yourself. You also need to consider how to leave your property and assets while considering your family's circumstances and needs.

Since your family's needs and circumstances are constantly changing, so too must your estate plan. Your plan must be updated when certain life changes occur. These include, but are not limited to: marriage, the birth or adoption of a new family member, divorce, the death of a loved one, a significant change in assets, and a move to a new country.

Marriage: it is not uncommon for estate planning to be the last item on the list when a couple is about to be married - whether for the first time or not. On the contrary, marriage is an essential time to update an estate plan. You've probably already thought about updating emergency contacts and adding your spouse to existing health and insurance policies. But there's another important reason to update an estate plan upon marriage. In the event of death, your money and assets may not automatically go to your spouse, especially agreement, or if your assets are jointly owned with someone else (like a sibling, parent, or other family member). A comprehensive estate review will ensure you and your new spouse can rest easy.

Birth or adoption of children or grandchildren: when a new baby arrives, it seems like everything changes and so should your estate plan. For example, your trust may not "automatically" include your new child, depending on how it is written. So, it's always a good idea to check and add the new child as a beneficiary. As your children (or grandchildren) grow in age, your estate plan should adjust to ensure assets are distributed in a way you deem proper. What seems like a good idea when your son or granddaughter is a four-year-old may no longer look like such a good idea once their personality has developed and you know them as a 25-year-old college graduate, for example.

Divorce: after a divorce, you should immediately update beneficiary designations for all insurance policies and retirement accounts, any powers of attorney, and any existing health care proxy and HIPAA authorizations. It is also a good time to revamp your will and trust to make sure it does what you want (especially if you want to leave out your former spouse).

The death of a loved one: sometimes those who are named in your estate plan pass away. If an appointed guardian of your children dies, it is imperative to designate a new person. Likewise, if your chosen executor, health care agent or designated power of attorney dies, new ones should be named right away.

Significant change in assets: whether it is a sudden salary increase, inheritance, or the purchase of a large asset these scenarios should prompt an adjustment to an existing estate plan. The bigger the estate, the more likely there will be issues over the disposition of the assets after you are gone. For this reason, it is best to see what changes, if any, are needed after a significant increase (or decrease) in your assets.

A move to a new country: estate planning for Americans living abroad or those who have assets located in numerous countries can get complicated and requires professional assistance. It is always a good idea to learn what you need to do to completely protect yourself and your family before you move to a new

REPORT CARD ON TRUMP'SFIRST 100 DAYS

It seems like decades since Barack Obama handed the keys to the country over to the House of Trump, but that was only at the end of January, barely 3 months ago. I can't tell if it's one of those "time flies when you're having fun" deals or "it all happened so fast," like during a car crash or being mugged. Or being mugged during a car crash.

President Trump has made a huge deal about not making a big thing of his first 100 days. He's dismissed the whole event as a media creation and artificial benchmark, mainly because you could stuff the whole of his accomplishments in a shot glass and they would still rattle around like a golf ball in a railroad car.

He's also contradicting his own campaign rhetoric from when he insisted it would be a yardstick of his awesome, incredible transitional prowess. Once again, covering his bases by bouncing across both sides of every issue like a hyperactive cricket on promaight

Besides the folks forced to sign loyalty oaths, there are three camps in the whole "How has He Done So Far?" debate. The group that claim he's a disaster. The few that maintain he's an incredible disaster and those who contend he's not as big a disaster as expected. But either way, the guy deserves kudos for making it to triple digits. So, let's look at his report card for the first 100 days of term one. Because who knows if he or we will be around for the next 1361.

- Mathematics. C-. Claimed to have more electoral votes than any president since Reagan. Which is only true if you don't count George Herbert Walker Bush, Bill Clinton and Barack Obama. Outside of that, spot on.

- International Relations. C-. Problems differentiating between good guys and bad guys. Already picked fights with Great Britain, Canada, Mexico and Australia. In terms of diplomatic complexity, those aren't the tough ones.

- African- American Studies. D-. Mocked Congressman John Lewis and thought that Frederick Douglas was still alive. Sad.
- Sex Education. B+. No discernable activity at all, which considering his track record, most folks appreciate.

- Health Studies. D-. "Who knew health care could be so complicated?" Um, everybody.

Except you. Again.
- Environmental Studies. F. Invested in bringing back the coal industry. And VHS tapes. And sock garters and buggy whips and we'll make lamps that burn whale blubber again.

- Social studies. C+. Heavy on the social. Light on the studies.

- Physical Education. A+. Getting plenty of exercise on the golf course.

- Dramatics. B-. Performances a bit over the top. As is the makeup.

- Penmanship. A. Signature looks very attractive on extensive series of Executive Orders. - Physics. D. Unable to grasp simple concepts like all actions having equal and opposite reactions.

- Fashion: D. Still wearing bad shiny suits and ties that look like monochromatic drool bibs.

- Language Arts. D-. Vocabulary limited to adjectives.

- Art Appreciation. F. Just not his thing.

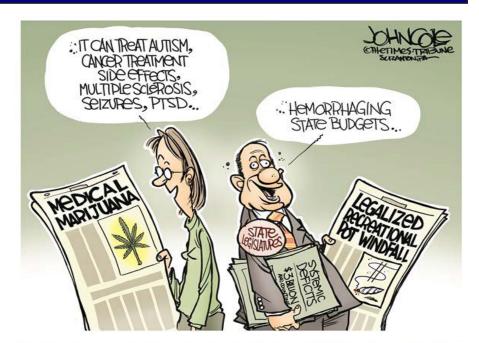

- World History. C-. Seems determined to prove the old adage that those who ignore history are doomed to retweet it.

- Home Room Conduct. C-. Tends to be disruptive. Acts like it's all about him.

- General Comments. Continues to ignore help when offered. Problems accepting responsibility. Does not play well with others.

- Overall Grade. C-. Tremendous room for improvement.

WHAT DID TRUMP THINK HE WAS GETTING INTO?

What did he think he was signing up for?

In a surreal interview with Reuters at the end of last week, President Donald Trump admitted that he missed driving and conceded that being the Leader of the Free World is much, much harder than he thought it would be.

"I loved my previous life," he told the wire service. "I had so many things going on. This is more work than in my previous life. I thought it would be easier." He added, later: "I do miss my old life. This -- I like to work. But this is actually more work."

Leading a nation of 321.4 million people in a world that is becoming increasingly complex and, in some sectors more dangerous, is, by definition, hard work. And if it's not, you're not doing it right.

For evidence, look no further than the before and after photographs of Trump's predecessors. Virile and youthful by the start of their four- or eight-year terms of office, the cares and worries and burdens of the job are fairly etched into their faces by the time they leave.

Every president faces a steep learning curve upon taking office. But, unlike Trump, every president since Dwight Eisenhower has come to the table with substantial political and governing experience.

Beyond watching presidents on TV, presumably on Fox News, Trump did not possess such a breadth of experience.

During last year's presidential campaign, the Republican was content to skate along the surface of policy, offering bromides and slogans and vicious attacks -- rather than the mundane specifics of policy to cheering throngs who filled his rallies in basketball arenas across the country.

And like some superannuated high school football player still yearning for the glory days of the gridiron, Trump continues to seize upon any excuse to relive the caffeinated days of the campaign. Indeed, during his interview with Reuters, Trump "paused to hand out copies of what he said were the latest figures from the 2016 electoral map," Reuters reported.

"Here, you can take that, that's the final map of the numbers," Trump said. "It's pretty good, right? The red is obviously us."

But with Trump's first 100 days in the rearview mirror, this White House is understandably sensitive about the fact that it is woefully short of legislative accomplishments when compared to its predecessors.

Trump's promised border wall has been put off for the time being. A push to repeal and replace the Affordable Care Act is in disarray amid opposition from Democrats and moderate Republicans.

Trump's two travel bans have been stayed by federal courts. And efforts to deny federal funding to so-called "sanctuary cities" have also suffered a bad case of judicial whiplash.

Writing in The Washington Post, former George W. Bush administration speechwriter Michael Gerson noted that Trump's only decisive win, the elevation of Judge Neil Gorsuch to the U.S. Supreme Court only invited unfavorable comparisons.

"Trump's one unquestioned achievement consists of appointing another man who actually has thoughtful convictions," Gerson wrote.

And that's from the home team.

So perhaps it's not surprising that Trump, who once prowled Manhattan by limousine, winning adulation from restaurant crowds and reality television buffs alike, might be pining for his not-so-long-ago good old days.

"And, while I had very little privacy, in my old life because, you know, I've been famous for a long time. I really -- this is much less privacy than I've seen before. This is, you know, something that's really amazing. At the same time, you're really into your own cocoon because there's such massive protection, that you really can't go anywhere," he commented to Reuters of the 24-hour Secret Service monitoring of his every move.

Trump's interview comes comes on the heels of a sit down with the Associated Press, where he seemed surprised to discover that his actions have consequences on the lives of every day Americans.

"You have to love people. And if you love people, such a big responsibility," he said, in part. In that same interview, Trump complained that he thought his decisive win over Hillary Clinton last fall would result in more favorable coverage, instead of the intense scrutiny that comes with holding the highest elected office in the land.

"I used to get great press. I get the worst press. I get such dishonest reporting with the media," he lamented to the AP. "That's another thing that really has — I've never had anything like it before. It happened during the primaries, and I said, you know, when I won, I said, "Well the one thing good is now I'll get good press." And it got worse. (unintelligible) So that was one thing that a little bit of a surprise to me. I thought the press would become better, and it actually, in my opinion, got more nasty."

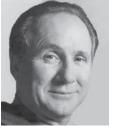

What exactly did be think he was signing up for?

What, exactly, did he think he was signing up for?

MAKING SENSE by MICHAEL REAGAN

PATIENCE IS A (POLITICAL) VIRTUE

I admit I clearly was not born with the patience gene.

As a kid my mother was always saying to me, "Patience, patience, itience."

Today my wife Colleen is always saying the same thing, "Mike. Patience, patience." It's no use.

It's no use.

For example, when I go to a movie I hate standing in line.

It's always just driven me absolutely nuts. Now at least I can have my son go online and buy the tickets before we get there.

Whenever there's a line at a restaurant, I just turn and walk away. When my friends just look at me, I tell them, "God didn't give me patience and I've never prayed for it."

I bring up my problem with patience because it's the same problem conservative talk radio people and TV commentators have with the lack of big accomplishments in the first hundred days of the Trump Administration.

I understand their pain – and impatience.

We all want market-driven, patient-centric, flexible health care reform. We all want a simpler, smarter tax code. We all want an end to the warring and killing of innocents in the Middle East.

Our trouble is, too many of us conservatives want to see everything happen yesterday, not tomorrow or the next day.

I think Donald Trump thinks much the same way. As a businessman he's been going through a sharp, steep learning curve.

He's quickly found out, on the job, that the business of Congress is politics, not about getting things done quickly.

When you're a businessman you can make instant decisions, get things done in a flash and move forward to the next goal.

But Congress doesn't work like that and never will. It's the same for conservative talk radio

But Congress doesn't work like that and never will. It's the same for conservative talk radio and TV commentators. You're supposed to be done with whatever it is you're trying to do on their schedule -- and your not.

The reality is, I think President Trump has done a terrific job in his first hundred days -- especially considering everything he tries to do with Congress is being hampered by the Democrats or the way Congress does business.

Look at all the good executive orders he's signed on the Keystone pipeline construction and things like reducing government regulations.

He's found the only way to get things done quickly for now is through executive orders and he's cranking them out. He's also signed some smaller bipartisan bills that Congress has sent him.

It's the titanic struggles over health care and tax reform that are going slowly, mainly because on the biggest and most important issues Congress always slogs along like a old freight train, not a bullet train.

What we conservatives need to do is ignore the liberal media's partisan impatience and

What we conservatives need to do is ignore the liberal media's partisan impatience and arbitrary deadline and say, "OK, President Trump is not going to get everything done in a hundred days and we shouldn't expect him to."

Really, what's the big rush? He's got three years and eight more months to get it all done. If he gets it right, he'll get four more years after that

And if conservatives keep bringing up my father's record, as they never stop doing, they have to remember a few things.

My father didn't get major tax reform done until Aug. 13, 1981 – eight months into his

And in the first couple of years he was so far down in the popularity polls Republicans were terrified he wouldn't be reelected in 1984.

But after his policies took affect the economy turned around the job figures turned around.

But after his policies took affect, the economy turned around, the job figures turned around, and he buried Mondale in a landslide.

nd the buried Mondale in a landslide.

Once you are in the Oval Office it takes time to get your presidential feet under you. Donald Trump is still a rookie in Washington who's trying to learn how to hit a knuckle curve. We conservatives have to stop booing him and need to gain patience. Becoming unglued so soon because our rookie president is taking too long to hit his first home run is only going to let Chuck Schumer, the Democrats and the anti-Trump media defeat what could be a great presidency.
