HISTORIC BELL TO RING AT START OF MOUNT WILSON TRAIL RACE For the first time in decades, the historic school bell located in

Kersting Court will be rung at a Sierra Madre event. The bell was originally donated by the citizens of Sierra Madre for the city's second school house, a $3000 Victorian building which was located where Kersting Court now stands. The new school opened under the direction of teacher and principal, Mrs. Chloe Jones. She proposed the planting of pepper trees in 1887, two of which are still found in Kersting Court today.

The "beautifully-toned" 26" cast iron bell, weighing 300 pounds, was founded by Blymer Norton & Co, of Cincinnati, Ohio, a manufacturer of agricultural machinery. By 1906, the city had outgrown its little schoolhouse and Pacific Electric traded four acres of land at Highland Ave. and Auburn Ave. for the two acres in the center of town. To make room for the 60 foot long Red Car trollies, an access road was cut through the property. This created what was called "Kersting Triangle" and housed the train depot.

The bell was then moved to Sierra Madre's third school, a craftsman style, five-room building, with a wooden pergola across the front. Parts of the pergola and concrete steps still exist today at the elementary school's campus. The bell was located in an outside frame and "rang the tocsin" to call students to school.

In 1929, in the midst of the depression, Sierra Madre had outgrown this school and money was raised to build a new Mission Revival Style school. This $210,000 project provided employment for many out-of-work residents. The bell was located in a 15 foot tower which stood behind the offices at the center of the building.

In the late 1960's, the school failed to meet the earthquake standards and was boarded up. It was deemed too expensive to retrofit the bell tower so it was removed. The historic school bell was gifted to the Sierra Madre Historical Society in 1971. SMHS president, Dorothy Howe Koenig, kept the bell safe in her back yard.

The SMHS then started a campaign to build a bell tower in Kersting Court. To raise funds the bell was placed in various businesses throughout the city, including First Western Bank (now Bank of the West). Many local businesses helped with the fundraising, including Arnold's Hardware, Happy's Liquor, and Best Buy Drugs.

The bell tower, designed by local architect and SMHS member Harlan Pederson, was dedicated with the official bell ringing on October 27, 1974. Tying into the historic nature of the school bell, it will be rung this week by three representatives from Sierra Madre Elementary School at the start of Mount Wilson Trail Race. The honorees will be Instructional Coach Julie Cole, Office Manager Pat Vidimos, and Student Council President Zola Reitman.

The bell and tower are also included in proposed plans by the Sierra Madre Community Foundation to remodel Kersting Court to make it more functional and wheelchair accessible. Thanks to the assistance of the City of Sierra Madre, James Carlson, and Chris Cimino and his crew, Sierra Madre can look forward to many more "bell ringings" at future events.

Walking Sierra Madre...The Social Side

"Instagram is the new word of mouth!" Viken

Have you ever taken a look at something you've been carrying around for quite a while and actually SEEN it! This happens to all of us from time to time, purses, briefcases, computer bags, shoes. We are aghast to see that we're carrying around something which should have been retired some time ago. With that in mind, I stopped in to Ritz Resale to see what they had going on. I first visited Jennifer Bekkedal in January of 2015, found her to be charming and Ritz to be an absolutely fabulous place, filled with beautiful clothes, shoes and handbags. Ritz is NOT a thrift store! There is a vast difference between consignment and the stuff you find at thrift and 'vintage' shops. Consignment is usually gorgeous designer clothes and shoes which have been worn only once by women who are in high profile jobs, like TV people, or high exposure executive positions. Lots of us have our favorite black dress or suit and the shoes which don't hurt if you have to stand for a while. Then there are other people who just can't keep showing up in that same beige suit. I watch Kathy Lee Gifford and Hoda Kotb on Today every now and then and those women never wear the same thing twice. I think Dallas Raines wears suits more than once, but it's different for guys, even TV weather guys.

Last Saturday I spent a delightful hour with Jennifer, her husband, Viken, and their daughter, Phoenix. Everyone in there was busy arranging, rearranging, adding new stock and just generally creating an atmosphere of affordable beauty. It's designer heaven, friends and neighbors, with names we would wear everywhere...Diane Von if they're not living locally any more, come back to Furstenberg, Tracy Reece, Dooney & Burke, Vuitton and so many more. I, personally, fell deeply in love with a white leather jacket and tried with all my might to get it to fit. But when it's not your size, it's not your size. You know that thing about Cinderella's nasty stepsisters cutting off parts of toes to get the glass slipper to fit? Not happening!

Chatting with Viken about marketing, he said that sales have taken off like crazy since Ritz Resale became a presence on Instagram, where people are passing along Jennifer Bekkedal@ritzresale with astonishing speed. Take a look!

Michillinda at the corner of Valley View, just north Hoving Home, thanks to long-time Sierra Madreans a block from the center where Albertson's was for Bess and June Bowman, and then the client takes a so many years, and where Colette's Restaurant is doing very well. Just to give you a little history, hear this. Jennifer and Viken feel very strongly that Jennifer's mom started the business some years ago as the result of an extremely successful garage sale where she noticed that what went fastest was the gently used clothing. Ritz Resale started life on Green in Pasadena then opened on Mentor by the Ice House in 1980. Well, time went by, the building was sold and Jennifer came to her favorite spot, Sierra Madre, where Ritz has been doing extremely well for three years now. You might want to take a look at the Ritz website: www.ritzresale.com where you can learn the ins and outs of consignment.

Jennifer feels that her mission com on my book page! with Ritz Resale is to provide high end designer name clothes at a fair price. She would like to see playwrightdd the world able to dress a little better without going broke doing it. Folks get hooked on Ritz and, even shop when they come to town to visit.

The picture here is of Jennifer and Viken's daughter, Phoenix, who will be a junior at South Pasadena High School in the Fall. This delightful young lady is planning to become a doctor and her plans are to attend the University of Oslo in Norway. Her grandparents live there and she was actually born there!

The best part of my visit was finding out that Ritz Resale is now partnered with Women ACT-Women Against Child Trafficking. When a client's consignment period ends, she can decide to let Ritz Resale has been in their location on her items go to this organization or to the Walter tax credit. Talk about win-win! I was so pleased to community helping community is a necessity. You can see more at womenagainstchildtrafficking.org.

Stop in at meet Jennifer, if you haven't already... Ritz is open Tuesday-Saturday 11 a.m. - 6 p.m. and Sunday from 11 a.m. - 3 p.m. Gorgeous new goodies are added daily, many of them brand new! The inventory appeals to all ages and you're going to find that special something you've been looking for. Trust me!

Metro Votes to end the 710 Tunnel project

In a historic vote Thursday, the Los Angeles County Metropolitan Transportation Authority (Metro) Board ended a 50-year battle over SR-710, a 5.4-mile, 60-foot wide tunnel proposal connecting Pasadena with Alhambra.

According to officials, the unanimous vote will allow the communities in the western San Gabriel Valley to pursue strategic, sustainable, multi-modal projects that will enhance mobility for the

The leaders of the Connected Cities and Communities (C3) coalition applauded the vote as a forward-thinking and cost-effective solution for the region's transportation needs. The C3 coalition brought together the cities of Glendale, Pasadena, La Cañada-Flintridge, South Pasadena and Sierra Madre, the Natural Resources Defense Council, the National Trust for Historic Preservation, and the No 710 Action Committee as partners.

"Today's Metro Board decision is a vote for communities, healthy fiscal responsibility and a 21st century approach to transportation in Los Angeles County," said Ara Najarian, the chair of the C3, and a member of the Metro Board and a Glendale Councilman. 'The tunnel project has been under environmental review since 2011. While the Metro Board received a staff report recommending the tunnel, the Board acknowledged that the contentious multi-billion dollar project lacked a viable financing plan and they wisely chose to redirect the funds toward a package of new local transportation fixes."

Mayor of Pasadena Terry Tornek said "Taking the divisive tunnel project off the table heralds a new era of cooperation among San Gabriel Valley cities, to the benefit of everyone,"

"Our law enforcement personnel see firsthand the loss of life when people refuse to buckle up," said Chief Phillip L. Sanchez, Pasadena Police Department. "It's such a simple thing, and it should be an automatic next step after sitting down in a vehicle." As the Memorial Day weekend approaches and the summer vacation season ramps up, "We want to keep our community members safe, and make sure people are doing the one thing that can save the m in a crash: buckling up. If the campaign wakes up the hundreds of thousands of Californians who still don't heed the dangers of unrestrained driving and gets them to buckle up, we'll consider it a success."

In Pasadena, the ticket cost for an adult seat belt violation is $162, with penalties for not restraining a child at $465.

"Please, help us spread this life-saving message before one more friend or family member is killed as a result of this senseless inaction," said Chief Phillip L. Sanchez. "Seat belts save lives, and everyone needs to remember to buckle up, every trip, every time."

EDUCATION & YOUTH ARCADIA UNIFIED ANNOUNCES ASHLEY NOVAK AS 2017-2018 TEACHER OF THE YEAR

Unified School District is beginning to look ahead, recently choosing Arcadia High School Speech and Debate coach and Sophomore Honors English teacher Ashley Novak as its 2017-2018 Teacher of the Year. There are over 400 outstanding educators in Arcadia Unified, which means being selected as Teacher of the Year

To announce the exciting news, Arcadia Unified's Superintendent Dr. David Vannasdall gathered colleagues, friends, and family, including Novak's husband, Josh, and 7-year-old twins, Izzy and Willow, to join in a surprise visit to one of Novak's classes. Jubilant applause, warm hugs, and joyful tears filled the room as Superintendent Dr. Vannasdall revealed Novak as the 2017-2018 Arcadia Unified Teacher of the Year.

"People don't care what you know until they know that you care," said Superintendent Dr. Vannasdall as he shared the defining characteristics that make a Teacher of the Year. "When surveyed, students' favorite teacher has not been the easiest teacher, but rather the teacher who believes in them and pushes them beyond what they ever thought was possible," explained Superintendent

ARCADIA-- With the 2016-2017 school year coming to a close, the Arcadia and debate success to working as a Teacher on Special Assignment to serving as Area Chair for the California High School Speech Association for five years, just to name a few of her roles, Novak's commitment to her students and to excellence in teaching is apparent. "I was really fortunate to have that epiphany so early on," recalled Novak regarding the moment in her senior year of college that she knew she wanted to be a teacher. "I know sometimes you never get it [the epiphany], so I'm just really fortunate to have had it."

One fateful afternoon, Novak was asked by a colleague to join her for lunch at Arcadia High School. Despite having no intentions of leaving her teaching role at Roosevelt High School in East Los Angeles, from Arcadia High's witty club posters to a vacant Speech and Debate Coach role, Novak was sold. That same day, she trekked across campus to the District office to pick up an application, and two short weeks later she was hired, reminisced Novak.

18 years later with Arcadia Unified, Novak still loves what she does. "The hard moments are really hard, but the joyous moments outshine everything,

Dr. Vannasdall. "That's the magic that we call 'teaching."

FOXY FOXTAILS: FATEFUL FOE OF FURRY FOUR-LEGGERS

Back when I first had my bloodhound, Tatertotts, I remember the vet telling me to watch out for foxtails during the dry months that follow the more or less wet months in southern California. At the time I had to go home and look up just what a foxtail was, because having grown up in the deep south, I'd never before heard of such a

Named for their uncanny resemblance to the tail of a fox, foxtails are seed clusters that come from what is commonly known as foxtail grass. There are various types of foxtail grass, several of which prevail in the western part of the United States. Like most seeds, foxtail seeds ride the wind and they have awns designed to burrow the seed into the ground, so needless to say foxtail grass undercoat and ultimately under the epidermis grows just about anywhere it is allowed to grow in

During the dry, hot summer season, the seeds that emerge and fan out of a cluster from the tall stems of foxtail grass are needle-thin and razor sharp. Somewhat like a fish hook, the awns of these seeds are barbed. They feel smooth to the touch when rubbed upward from the stem, and thorny or pokey when rubbed downward. And much like a fish hook, because of their biological properties, when foxtails poke their way into a wall of the digestive tract and into the soft tissue soft surface such as skin, they can be very painful of a major organ, infection is inevitable and and nearly impossible to pull out.

The vet's concern with my bloodhound sniffing likely get a foxtail seed stuck in her enormous nose, in which case she would sneeze repeatedly in a futile effort to get it out. When the foxtail seed refused to budge from her nostril, Tater would likely have sneezed relentlessly, possibly resulting in cardiac arrest! I could hardly believe what the vet was telling me. My dog could die from sniffing in the grass? Really?

Indeed it is true, and I later came to learn it foxtails not only pose a serious health threat to our furry friends' nostrils, they also present a major medical concern to our pets by simply coming into contact with the surface of their skin. The paws and ears of our furry friends are also major at-risk areas for the foxy foxtail.

The issue of foxtails on the dog's skin becomes friend.

particularly precarious for those sporting thick, fluffy coats. If not detected and removed promptly, the seeds can burrow down under the lighter top coat of a fluffy dog and hide in the thicker undercoat, just above the surface of the skin.

Over time, as the dog goes about his daily routine of running, rolling around and lounging, the foxy little foxtail takes the opportunity to burrow beneath the dog's where it will stay until it is surgically removed. If not removed surgically, the relentless barbed seed will inevitably fester beneath the surface, causing serious infection.

A foxtail can also find it's way into the digestive system of a precious pet, and because the tenacious tail of the seed is not broken down by the metabolic process, it can become a serious medical emergency for an unwitting dog and it's owner. If the foxtail probes it's way through the potentially fatal.

Clearly, no one wants their beloved four-legged around in the local foxtail fields was that she would friend to be at risk due to the seeds of foxtail grass. So, the best practice for those of us who love our pets like family, is to avoid coming into contact with foxtails altogether if at all possible. Back when my vet warned me about the possibility of Tater having a heart attack after sniffing in a seed, I immediately removed all of the foxtail grass from my yard and I continued to dig it out as soon as I saw it growing back in.

I know it can be a challenge to deter a weed that is actually quite common. Further, those foxy is extremely prolific and amazingly mobile in our area, but if one is dedicated, willing and tenacious about performing the task of repeated removal of the grass over the course of a month or two, it can be done. And I'm sure you'll agree the work is well worth the result if it means preventing the risk of a health hazard for your beloved four-legged

HEALTHY LIFESTYLES

THE JOY OF YOGA RIPPLE EFFECT

How does yoga make the world a better place exactly?

The short answer is awareness and compassion. What I love about yoga is its complete, dynamic approach to living. The yogic path that creates this awareness and compassion is comprised of many workable parts. We've got the physical practice for optimum health and function. Prayers and Mantras serve as medicine for the mind and the meditation practices cleanse, grow and sustain our spiritual condition. The practice as a whole is unique because it's completely individual. We each have our own experience, gain insights and progress at our own pace.

One of the greatest benefits of yoga --which countless students report-- is an increased feeling of self-acceptance and self-love. It's the foundation from which we grow, transform and heal. Imagine if each yogi cultivated awareness of themselves (physical, mental, their energy, and their choices) and also cultivated compassion for themselves. The world would, and DOES transform. It's just an organic cause and effect.

When we treat ourselves with love and high regard, we act better and we are able to give more and see and empathize with our fellow brothers and sisters. One good act leads to another and, when we make a mistake and take responsibility in a graceful way, people are inspired by that. It's in embracing our humanness with careful, thoughtful awareness that the world begins to respond. There is a starting place for each one of us on the path. Give your body a little love and spend some time in your practice. You never know who you may inspire.

Feel free to contact me at Yoga Madre or via email keelytotten@icloud.com. I'd be very happy to help you explore yoga and cultivate greater awareness. Namaste and Love,

Keely Totten, Yoga & Meditation Teacher @Yoga Madre

HEALTH COVERAGE OPTIONS FOR PRE-MEDICARE-AGE SPOUSES

Dear Savvy Senior.

My wife, who is 62, is on my health insurance plan through my employer. When I retire in a few months at 65, and go on Medicare, what are my wifeOs options? Is there some kind of Medicare coverage for dependent spouses, or do we have to purchase Obamacare? Approaching Retirement

Dear Approaching,

Medicare, unfortunately, does not offer family coverage to younger spouses or dependent children when you qualify for Medicare. Nobody can obtain Medicare benefits before age 65, unless eligible at a younger age because of disability. With that said, here are some coverage options, including Obamacare, to consider for your wife.

Keep working: If possible, consider working past age 65. This would allow your wife to continue coverage under your employer health insurance until she becomes eligible for Medicare.

Employer options: If your employer provides retiree health benefits, check with your benefits administrator to find out if they offer any options that would allow your wife to continue coverage under their plan. Or, if your wife works, see if she can she switch to health insurance provided by her own employer.

COBRA: If you work for a company that has 20 or more employees, once you make the switch to Medicare, your wife could stay with your company insurance plan for at least 18 months (but could last up to 36 months) under a federal law called COBRA. YouOll need to sign her up within 60 days after her last day of coverage. But be aware that COBRA isnot cheap. You oll pay the full monthly premium yourself, plus a 2 percent administrative fee. To learn more, see DOL.gov/ebsa/publications/cobraemployee.html or call 866-444-3272.

If, however, the company you work for has fewer than 20 employees, you may still be able to get continued coverage through your company if your state has Omini-COBRA.O Contact your state insurance department to see if this is available where you live.

Individual insurance: Buy your wife an individual health insurance policy through the Health Insurance Marketplace (aka Obamacare) until she turns 65. The Marketplace (aka Obamacare) until she turns 65. The Marketplace, as it stands now, offers comprehensive health coverage and they canŌt deny her coverage or charge extra for preexisting health conditions.

And, if your income falls below the 400 percent poverty level D anything below $47,520 for an individual or $64,080 for a couple in 2017 D you may be eligible for two gradity that will go have the a tax credit that will reduce the amount youOll have to pay for a policy. To see how much you can save, see the subsidy calculator on the Kaiser Family Foundation website at KFF.org/interactive/subsidy-calculator.

To shop for marketplace plans in your state, visit Healthcare.gov or call their toll-free helpline at 800-318-2596.

If, however, your wife isnOt eligible for the government subsidy, or you want additional policy options to what the Marketplace offers, you can also buy health coverage outside the government marketplaces directly through a private insurance company, an online insurance seller, or an agent or broker. This option is not available if you live in Washington D.C. or Vermont.

These policies do not offer the federal tax credits, but they are required to offer the same menu of essential benefits as Marketplace policies do, and they canOt deny coverage or charge extra for preexisting health conditions. You might even find slightly lower premiums on outside policies, assuming that you donOt qualify for the tax credits.

To find a local broker or agent that sells insurance plans, check the National Association of Health Underwriters website (NAHU.org) which has an online directory. But keep in mind that agents wonOt necessarily show you all available policies, just the ones from insurers they work

You can also look for these plans at insurance shopping sites like eHealthInsurance.com or GoHealthI.com, which lists plans and providers that may not be listed on

HOW HARD DID IT RAIN ON MARS?

Heavy rain on Mars reshaped the planet's impact craters and carved out river-like channels in its surface billions of years ago, according to a new study published in Icarus. In the paper, researchers from the Smithsonian Institution and the Johns Hopkins University Applied Physics Laboratory show that changes in the atmosphere on Mars made it rain harder and harder, which had a similar effect on the planet's surface as we see on Earth.

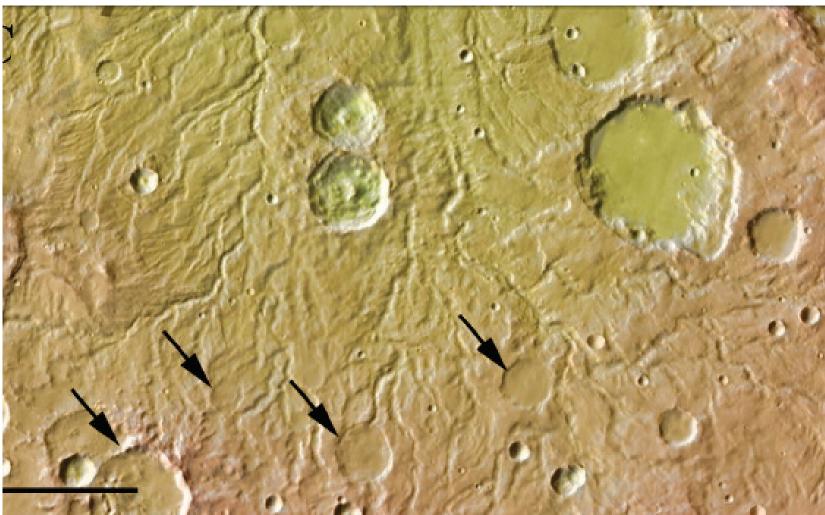

The fourth planet from the Sun, Mars has geological features like the Earth and Moon, such as craters and valleys, many of which were formed through rainfall. Although there is a growing body of evidence that there was once water on Mars, it does not rain there today.

But in their new study, geologists Dr. Robert Craddock and Dr. Ralph Lorenz show that there was rainfall in the past—and that it was heavy enough to change the planet's surface. To work this out, they used methods tried and tested here on Earth, where the erosive effect of the rain on the Earth's surface has important impacts on agriculture and the economy.

"Many people have analyzed the nature of rainfall on the Earth, but no one had thought to apply the physics to understanding the early Martian atmosphere," said Dr. Craddock of the Smithsonian Institution.

To understand how rainfall on Mars has changed over time, the researchers had to consider how the Martian atmosphere has changed. When Mars first formed 4.5 billion years ago, it had a much more substantial atmosphere with a higher pressure than it does now. This pressure influences the size of the raindrops and how hard they fall.

Early on in the planet's existence, water droplets would have been very small, producing something like fog rather than rain; this would not have been capable of carving out the planet we know today. As the atmospheric pressure decreased over millions of years, raindrops got bigger and rainfall became heavy enough to cut into the soil and start to alter the craters. The water could then be channeled and able to cut through the planet's surface, creating valleys.

"By using basic physical principles to understand rain falls onto the surface at the present day. the relationship between the atmosphere, raindrop size and rainfall intensity, we have shown that Mars would have seen some pretty big raindrops that would have been able to make more drastic changes to the surface than the earlier fog-like

They showed that very early on, the atmospheric mm—a millimeter bigger than on Earth. pressure on Mars would have been about 4 bars (the Earth's surface today is 1 bar) and the raindrops at this pressure could not have been bigger than 3 mm across, which would not have penetrated droplets," commented Dr. Lorenz of John Hopkins the soil. But as the atmospheric pressure fell to University, who has also studied liquid methane 1.5 bars, the droplets could grow and fall harder, rainfall on Saturn's moon Titan, the only other cutting into the soil. In Martian conditions at that world in the solar system apart from Earth where time, had the pressure been the same as we have MtnViewsNews.com.

on Earth, raindrops would have been about 7.3

"There will always be some unknowns, of course, such as how high a storm cloud may have risen into the Martian atmosphere, but we made efforts to apply the range of published variables for rainfall on Earth," added Dr. Craddock.

WHERE DO YOU LOOK WHEN SHE'S LOST HER VOICE?

when it was quieter. If silence is golden, the week which I have yet to find. glowed with a yellow brilliance.

for that lost item in the last place first. Back to the sounds of silence in the parsonage. When the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage awoke from her beauty sleep on Monday morning, she discovered sometime during the night she lost her voice. It was a strange sensation that bears repeating - often.

At first, I thought I lost my hearing. I am not accustomed to starting the day with such silence. I could see my Beloved's lips moving, but nothing reached my ears.

I must confess that there have been times when I feigned not hearing her, but this time I really could not hear a word she said. Immediately I plunged a finger in each ear to check for any foreign correspondent.

My fingers reported nothing. I must admit that clean ears are a novelty for me. God gave me such large ears attracting all sorts of stuff.

My ears produce enough wax each week to take care of 17 Rolls Royces. The strange thing was, I had just waxed my car the Saturday before.

With nothing in my ears - or between them, for that matter - I could not explain this sudden silence of my Little Lamb.

I am the kind of person who tries to find good in everything. Some circumstances severely try my efforts in this endeavor, but, believe it or not, I was able to find some good about this little incident in

Have you ever tried looking for something you hoped you would not find?

Through the years, I have engaged in many things my heart was not totally in full sympathy

Such things as Christmas shopping with my wife at the mall; going to a wedding reception for some family member; attending the Christmas play by first graders at the elementary school.

All these activities are good in and of themselves; if only they would merely keep themselves to themselves, it would not irate myself so much. As a dutiful husband and father, I bolster up both chins and go forward.

Being the considerate soul that I am, I submissively went through the motions of looking for the lost voice. (I did have my fingers crossed.) My problem was: where do you begin looking for a lost voice? In my lifetime, I have looked for many The church web site is www.whatafellowship.com.

You must admit that searching is strenuous work demanding refreshment to keep up my

Now, where do voices go when they are lost? Is there such a thing as a Missing Voice Bureau? In addition, how long does a voice have to be missing before you can report it to the MVP?

When you do make out a report, how long does it sit on someone's desk before there is a congressional inquiry into the matter?

The crisis came to a head - actually, it was my head - on Thursday morning. At the breakfast table, I could tell my wife was a little irritated at something, or someone.

Glaring across her cereal bowl, I could read her lips, and believe me; she was not whispering sweet nothings in my ear.

I just did not know what to do. Honestly, I had looked everywhere for her voice and never did find it. By Thursday evening, the novelty of the silence began to get old.

It is rather difficult to effectively communicate when one has lost her voice. Unbelievably, I was beginning to miss hearing that voice, but I did not know what to do about it.

As mysteriously as it left, by Friday morning the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage found her voice. Within three hours, she more than made up for the several days of not speaking.

Actually, I was glad to hear her voice once again. I thought of a scripture that made a little more sense to me. Jesus once said, "My sheep hear my voice, and I know them, and they follow me: And I give unto them eternal life; and they shall never perish, neither shall any man pluck them out of my hand" (John 10:27-28).

Nothing is more wonderful than hearing the voice of the one you love.

BUDGET SUBCOMMITTEE CHAIR PORTANTINO PROUD OF BUDGET SUBCOMMITTEE'S FUNDING PLAN

Sacramento, CA - Senator Anthony J. Portantino closed out the State Senate Budget Subcommittee on Education last week with several important additions and ratifications to the Governor's recently released May revised budget.

"It is our subcommittees job to review the Governor's plan for education in California and reject, approve or improve on his proposals. I was very pleased with the committee's work and proud of my colleagues for preparing this plan for our students and families. From here our plan goes to the full Senate Budget Committee for deliberation and completion," commented Portantino.

Budget Subcommittee Highlights Include

Increasing Cal Grants for Community College Students: The proposal is included in SB 539, authored by Senate Pro Tem Kevin De León and Senator Portantino to include additional funding for transportation and other costs associated with attending college. Funding transportation costs is a top priority for Portantino and becomes increasingly more important as efforts to fund student transportation needs have stalled and transit pass programs are regional and not statewide as this plan is.

Funding Childcare: A top priority of the Legislative Women's Caucus, Governor Brown restored the proposed cut, which is in line with a budget agreement negotiated last year.

After School Education and Safety (ASES) Funding: The committee disagreed with the Governor's proposal to not include a cost-of-living increase or additional funding for ASES. The committee voted to include $9 million dollars for the COLA and an addition $25 million for the program. Portantino recently toured a program in Monrovia and invited two elementary students to the capitol to testify before his committee. The committee agreed with the young advocates and added the funding.

University of California Accountability: The subcommittee built upon efforts of the Governor and State Auditor to bring accountable to the University of California Office of the President in the wake of the recent State Audit. The senate committee included strong language in the budget to increase accountability and transparency. It also accepted the Governor's proposal to hold back $50 million dollars from the UC office of the President until all of the State Auditor's recommendations are fulfilled.

Summer Institute for Emerging Managers and Leaders (SIEML): The Subcommittee was pleased to include continuous funding of the institute initiated by Portantino when he was in the State Assembly. The SIEML institute is a summer program for undergraduate students from Historically Black Colleges and Hispanic Serving Institutes at the seven University of California Business Schools. The funding is intended to fund the school-based institute and bring accountability to the Office of the President to administer the program.

Umbilical Cord Blood Collection: The subcommittee accepted the Governor's proposal to create a continuous appropriation to the University of California Davis Cord Blood Collection Program. This is another successful program initiated by Portantino that is providing life-saving cord blood stem cells to alifornia's diverse population.

Education Training for Updated Curriculum: Over the past several years, the legislature has passed several bills that create new curricula for the study of several important social science additions. The California Department of Education has adopted these proposals into an updated History-Social Science curriculum framework with guidelines for public school teachers. The Department of Education does not have the budget to offer statewide teacher training and curriculum implementation. The sub-committee included $16 million dollars to implement this training. This is of particular interest to residents of the 25th Senate District as the study of the Armenian Genocide is one of the subject areas.

Restoring Cal Grants for Non-Profit Colleges: Nonprofit colleges like USC and the University of La Verne serve a significantly more diverse student population than the University of California. In fact, 47% of the students at hese non-profit colleges are Latino students. The Governor had originally proposed to only partially fund Cal Grants for these students, then added some restrictions that would make it difficult for students at these schools. The Subcommittee approved full funding of the Cal Grants but rejected the strings attached to them.

Local Control Funding Formula (LCFF): The Committee accepted the increase in LCFF and LCFF implementation, which will help many of the school districts across the 25th Senate District and the San Gabriel Valley.

Prop 98: After proposing that the Governor not defer nearly a billion dollars in Prop 98 funding in the January budget, the Committee accepted the Governor's May revised plan to fully fund this money to K-12 districts. The committee deferred action to the full Senate Budget Committee on the Governor's plan to add an additional billion dollars to K-12 but only make this money available in 2019.

"Although I'm very proud of our work thus far, there is much more to be done. I'm happy that the Governor is setting aside additional funding for K-12 education but I don't like the idea of deferring it until 2019. Since I'm strongly supporting further negotiation on this item but had to close the committee ahead of next week's full deliberations, I left this item open with the optimism we can work out a better solution with the Governor's Office," concluded Portantino.

VETERAN JOCKEY GALLYN MITCHELL AT SANTA ANITA-BACK TO WHERE IT BEGAN

By Joan Schmidt

A few months ago, a new jockey, Gallyn Mitchell, came to Santa Anita. I went on line to learn more and was stunned that he suffered a near-fatal attack him about a role model, whom he most admired, it three years ago. "Why on earth would he return to racing?" I also read highlights of his career and that his wife was his agent.

This past February, Gallyn played in the 50th annual Jockeys VS Holy Angels Benefit Basketball Game and a few days later, I met him after a race. He told me that he began at Santa Anita and this was where he wanted to end his career. He has family out here-two brothers and nieces and nephews, so it seemed like a good idea. It also was time for a change. A year ago, he lost one of his daughters.

Today Gallyn and I met at Clockers Corner and he told me his story, which began in Denver, Colorado, where he was born in 1962. At three years old, he saw cowboys on TV, and told his parents that's what he wanted to do. He and his family relocated to California when he was about five years old. He grew up around livestock. His family was in the Motion Picture Industry-they had all kinds of wagons and animals which were used in films and series. His parents had a rodeo company so he and his brothers learned how to ride at an

Back in those days, jockeys started at the bottom and worked their way up. They groomed the horses and learned all about their care. Then they advanced to "Exercise Rider"-working out the horses. Gallyn's the best-many wins and happy times in CA.

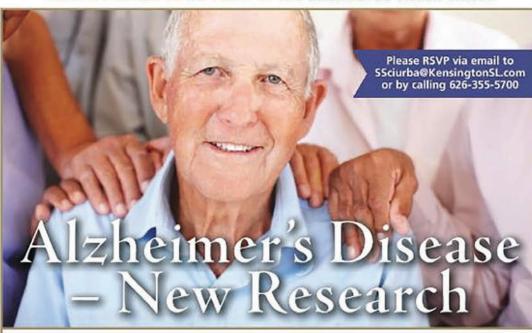

mom worked two jobs and came home at 3AM, but drove him to various local tracks so he could work out horses. (Later in the interview, when I asked was his mom who worked so hard and helped him in his career.)

In 1981, he officially started his career at Santa Anita, the youngest but leading apprentice; he recalled riding alongside Gary Stevens, Kent Desormeaux and Martin Pedroza. He completed the entire Santa Anita Meet, then to Golden Gates Fields up north; he was in Arizona for a couple years, but eventually settled in Seattle and raced at Long Acres, (now Emerald Downs) for 30+ years.

Right now Gallyn races at Santa Anita, but also travels to Los Alamitos for quarter racing in the evening. (And does both in the same day!) He can get home late, but get up early to be at Santa Anita at 5am to exercise horses! WOW! How does he do this? "It's a routine...you have to go where you need

I really admire Gallyn not only as a jockey, but because of the person he is. He has dealt with the worst tragedy-the loss of his daughter, at age 24, and she suffered prior to her death. Yet he is going on with his life-not just the racing, but moving ahead and focusing on the positive aspects of his life. He talked about his beautiful grandchildren in Seattle, his parents in Texas-and mom watching him race on TV, and his two brothers and their families who he lives near out here. I wish him only

by Otto Frank and Anne Frank

The Diary of a Young Girl started two days before Anne Frank's thirteenth birthday. In 1942, the Nazis had occupied Holland, and her family left their home to go into hiding, as they were Jews. Anne Frank recorded daily events, her personal experiences and her feelings in her diary for the next two years. Cut off from the outside world, she and her family faced hunger, boredom, claustrophobia at living in confined quarters, and the ever-present threat of discovery and death. One day, she and her family were betrayed and taken away to the Bergen-Belsen concentration camp, where she eventually died.It is a record of a sensitive girl's tragic experience during one of the worst periods in human history. This diary is so powerful that it leaves a deep impact on the mind of its readers. Annelies Marie "Anne" Frank was a Jewish girl born in the city of Frankfurt, Germany. Her father moved to the Netherlands in 1933 and the rest of the family followed later. Anne was the last of the family to come to the Netherlands, in February 1934. She wrote a diary while in hiding with her family and four friends in Amsterdam during the German occupation of the Netherlands in World War II.She lived in Amsterdam with her parents and sister. During the Holocaust, Anne and her family hid in the attic of her father's office to escape the Nazis. It was during that time period that she had recorded her life in her diary. Anne died in Bergen-Belsen, in February 1945, at the age of 15 a few weeks before the camp was liberated. Read the unabridged version.

have heard of gluten-a protein found in wheat that causes widespread inflammation in the body. Americans spend billions of dollars on gluten-free diets in an effort to protect their health. But what if we've been missing the root of the problem? In The Plant Paradox, renowned cardiologist Dr. Steven Gundry reveals that gluten is just one variety of a common, and highly toxic, plant-based protein called lectin. Lectins are found not only in grains like wheat but also in the "gluten-free" foods most of us commonly regard as healthy, including many fruits, vegetables, nuts, beans, and conventional dairy products. These proteins, which are found in the seeds, grains, skins, rinds, and leaves of plants, are designed by nature to protect them from predators (including humans). Once ingested, they incite a kind of chemical warfare in our bodies, causing inflammatory reactions that can lead to weight gain and serious health conditions. Dr. Gundry has successfully treated tens of thousands of patients suffering from autoimmune disorders, diabetes, leaky gut syndrome, heart disease, and neurodegenerative diseases with a protocol that detoxes the cells, repairs the gut, and nourishes the body. The simple (and daunting) fact is, lectins are everywhere. Dr. Gundry offers simple hacks we easily can employ to avoid them, including:Peel your veggies. Most of the lectins are contained in the skin and seeds of plants; simply peeling and de-seeding vegetables (like tomatoes and peppers) reduces their lectin content. Shop for fruit in season. Fruit contain fewer lectins when ripe, so eating apples, berries, and other lectin-containing fruits at the peak of ripeness helps minimize your lectin consumption.Swap your brown rice for white. Whole that perfectly capture each moment: A husband learning grains and seeds with hard outer coatings are designed by nature to cause digestive distress—and are full of lectins. With a full list of lectin-containing foods and simple substitutes for each, a step-by-step detox and eating plan, and delicious lectin-free recipes, The Plant Paradox illuminates the hidden dangers lurking in your salad bowl—and shows you how to eat whole foods in a whole

FAMILY MATTERS By Marc Garlett

TOOLS YOU CAN USE TO LEAVE WORDS OF WISDOM TO THE NEXT GENERATION

You come into the world a blank slate, and as you grow, you gain wisdom. You've planned your estate to leave physical assets to beneficiaries, but what about leaving them something just as important but less tangible: the hard-won wisdom you've accumulated over your life. Along with the physical assets, how about empowering your family and friends to learn from your mistakes, and profit from your successes?

Living (and Other) Trusts

If you're a regular reader of my column, you already know a properly-funded living trust avoids probate. But what if you have concerns about some of your beneficiaries' ability to handle a windfall? Living trusts can be structured to protect beneficiaries from themselves and others. For example, he or she meets certain conditions, such as finishing college or staying clean and sober, can help ensure your gift enhances, rather than impedes, a successful and fulfilling life. Incentives guidance, and a demonstration of love to the next generation.

You can (and should!) create a personal video. You may have seen or heard of a videotaped "reading of the will". That's not what I'm talking about. One of the most powerful gifts you can leave your loved ones is a video describing your stories, experiences, values, and wisdom. I call this a legacy video and we include it a part of every living trust package we do for clients. It's that important. And if you already have a family video collection, consider making a new video including favorite snippets and commenting on the earlier days. Time gives you perspective and appreciation, and those gifts are priceless. The memories and meaning that these videos have will be memorialized for generations to come.

The Old-Fashioned Way

Scrapbooking is a time-honored pastime that's recently experienced a renaissance. Pass on journals, photos, newspaper clippings and other ephemera via scrapbooks or albums. You can leave specially constructed letters inside for your family and loved ones. While only one family member can have the physical scrapbook at any one time, digital scrapbooking tools are fast-evolving and now allow you to create either a digital version or multiple print copies so that all your loved ones can share your life and thoughts.

Leave a History, Not Just Items

When you're bequeathing antiques, art, jewelry and the like, leave the beneficiary a history of the piece and why it was important to you. If it's a family heirloom, write down whom it has passed to, from generation to generation. It's possible the family ties outweigh the actual value of the item. Sharing these stories will make a family heirloom cherished even more.

Regardless of how you're leaving your memories and the meaning behind them to the next generation, you want to make sure that your family avoids unnecessary hassle and expense. That all starts with a living trust. But estate planning can – and should – be so much more than just a set of documents. Remember, the best plans bequeath not just financial assets, but the troves of wisdom and personal wealth you've accumulated, too.

OFFENSE Forgive my frequent references to Richard Nixon. It's just eerie

YET ANOTHER IMPEACHABLE

Forgive my frequent references to Richard Nixon. It's just eerie how his impeachable behavior is being replicated by the current con man. As Yogi Berra reputedly said, "It's like déjà vu all over again."

again."
For instance: When Nixon decided to thwart the FBI's probe of Watergate, he farmed out the job to his top henchman, H.R.

Haldeman. On June 23, 1972 - forever memorialized on an Oval Office tape - Nixon decreed that the CIA should tell the FBI to lay off. He told Haldeman to set up a CIA meeting, and he said: "They should call the FBI in and say that 'We wish for the country, don't go any further into this case, period."

That was obstruction of justice. The only difference today is that Donald Trump didn't farm out his obstruction job to anybody. He did it all by himself. In accordance with his motto, as articulated during his 2016 Republican convention speech: "I alone."

During a meeting on Feb. 14 - according to James Comey's contemporaneous memo -Trump ordered Mike Pence and Jeff Sessions to leave the room so that he could speak to the FBI director alone. As Comey later wrote, in a memo shared with associates at the time, Trump asked Comey to drop the FBI probe of paid Russian propagandist Michael Flynn: "I hope you can see your way clear of letting this go, to letting Flynn go. He is a good guy. I hope you can let this go."

After this bombshell exploded, the Trump team predictably insisted that the memo wasn't "truthful or accurate." Decide for yourself who to believe: Comey (who has been writing detailed contemporaneous memos for years), or the sociopathic liar who apparently cleared the room because he didn't want any witnesses.

If you believe Comey - whose memo will inevitably go public - then you'll surely be interested in 18 U.S. Code Section 1505, which deals with "Obstruction of proceeding before departments, agencies, and committees." The key passage:

"Whoever corruptly, or by threats or force, or by any threatening letter of communication, influences, obstructs, impedes, or endeavors to influence, obstruct, or impede the due and proper administration of the law under which any pending proceeding is being had before any department or agency of the United States" is guilty of obstructing justice. (Emphasis mine.)

After the Comey memo hit, virtually all the Republicans went AWOL. Fox News was so devoid of Trump defenders that it felt compelled to ignore the story entirely - opting instead to run giant headlines about the Clinton Foundation (I kid you not) and the breathtaking news that Tim Allen's TV show had been cancelled.

Perhaps the Republicans are beginning to realize that they've lashed themselves to a sinking ship. One Republican lawmaker privately told a CNN reporter on Tuesday night that the reaction among his colleagues to the Comey news is "Wide-eyed and WTF."

Jimmy Gurulé, a Notre Dame law professor, former assistant attorney general under George H.W. Bush, and an ex-Treasury undersecretary for enforcement under George W. Bush, says, "If the [Comey] allegations are true, President Trump has committed a serious federal crime." Myra Adams, a McCain campaign aide in '08 and a Bush aide in '04, says, "Grounds for impeachment are defined by whatever the political market will bear. At this writing, one wonders just how much more the political market will bear after only four months of President Trump, and I say this after voting for him!" And commentator David Gergen, who advised three Republican presidents (including Nixon), connected he dots on CNN, saying, "I think we're in impeachment territory now for the first time ... It looks like [Trump] was trying to impede the investigation. He was using his power to do that, and when James Comey didn't go along with him, when he wasn't his boy, he fired him."

The GOP's current fig-leaf defense is basically, "We don't yet know if this Comey memo is real." Jason Chaffetz, chairman of the House Oversight Committee, is threatening to subpoena it. (Chaffetz, in his "request" letter to the FBI: "If true, these memoranda raise questions as to whether the president attempted to influence or impede the investigation.") But the big question is what the Republicans will do if or when they actually see the memo. Will they finally stand up for America and fulfill the oath they took to defend it?

"This is no longer about Trump. We know what he is," said former Bush speechwriter David Frum. "It's about Congress and specifically Republicans in Congress. Who are they?"

MAKING SENSE by MICHAEL REAGAN

SINCE DAY ONE, TRUMP HAS HURT HIMSELF

If I were Donald Trump's chief of staff, I'd just break his thumbs.

That's what Reince Priebus should do – and then maybe buy a roll of duct tape.

From Day One of his administration, President Trump has hurt himself and his agenda by doing a lot of stuff that is absolutely stupid.

Does anyone think it was Priebus who was telling Trump to fire FBI Director James Comey?

Or telling him, "While you're at it, Mr. President, why don't you undermine your staff and the VP of the United States for a second time."

What the president desperately needs is an adult in the Oval Office who will stand up to him -- and that he will listen to. Maybe it has to be Jared Kushner, because Trump can't fire his son in law.

Otherwise it's going to take someone on his staff with the highest authority – maybe Priebus – to stand up and publicly say, "Unless this chaos ends, Mr. President, I'm going to resign."

Until something shocking like that happens to wake up President Trump, or until he is tied up and sedated by his staff, his administration will be constantly under siege from the left and the fake journalists in the media.

We all know why the liberal Democrats in Washington, Hollywood and the news media hate Trump.

They didn't want him to be president. They all voted for Queen Hillary and since last November they've all been feeling somewhere between sad and suicidal. So now you have them trying everything they can every day to get rid of President

But are they really so stupid that they don't realize yet that even if Trump goes down they still aren't going to get their President Hillary?

Do they realize they're going to get President Mike – a sayyy, competent, principled conservative who won't shoot himself in both feet every day?

A President Pence who will be able to work with a Republican Congress to get all the things done that Trump promised but can't deliver – tax reform, immigration reform, healthcare reform and more?

We know the attacks of the Hysterical Left will never stop until Trump is impeached or driven from office.

But despite the apoplectic editors at the New York Times and the Washington Post and the drooling leftwing anchors and pundits at MSNBC/CNN, President Trump has done nothing yet to be impeached for.

It won't matter what James Comey says the president asked him to do regarding the FBI's investigation into the alleged Russian-Trump collusion to prevent the coronation of Queen Hillary, for which there still is no evidence.

What Trump may or may not have said to Comey rises to the level of stupidity, but it doesn't rise to the level of impeachment.

And the classified information Trump supposedly gave to the Russians in the White House about the fight against terrorists was no different from what President Obama gave to the Russians concerning the terrorists in Syria.

member when Rachel Maddow and the Washington Post editorial page went apoplectic after Obama divulged secrets to the Russkies? Neither do I.

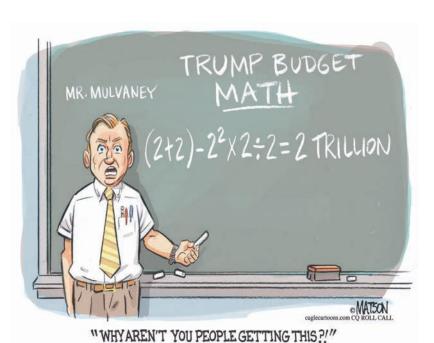

President Trump has been, is and always will be the source of the chaos. He's not in charge of a business anymore he's in charge of an administration charge of a business anymore, he's in charge of an administration. If he keeps going down the crazy road he's on with these stupid childish tweets and the statements he makes, Republicans will lose control of the House and Senate and any chance for tax reform, immigrationreform and health care reform.

Michael Reagan is the son of President Ronald Reagan, a political consultant, and the author of "The New Reagan Revolution" (St. Martin's Press).

And then America isn't going to be great again. It's going to be bad again.
