Public Hearing Notice

Subject:

The City of Sierra Madre MUNICIPAL CODE TEXT AMENDMENT 17-04 (MCTA 17-04) City of Sierra Madre Applicant:

Project Location: Properties in the City of Sierra Madre, County of Los Angeles, State of California

The City of Sierra Madre gives notice, pursuant to State of California law, that the City Council will conduct a second reading of Ordinance 1389 at the July 11, 2017 City Council Meeting at 6:30 PM, in the City Council Chambers at 232 W. Sierra Madre Boulevard. All interested persons may attend this meeting and the City Council will hear them with respect thereto.

On June 27, 2017 the City Council of the City of Sierra Madre introduced for first reading recommending adoption of Ordinance 1389 amending Chapter 17.28 R-3 Zone (Multifamily Residential), Chapter 17.30 RC Zone (Residential Canyon), Chapter 17.60 Variances and Conditional Use Permits, and Chapter 17.72 Signs. The purpose of the amendments is to provide consistency in the zoning requirements of the abovementioned chapters. The City Council will also consider deleting Chapter 17.76 Condominium and Apartment Projects.

At the meeting on June 15, 2017, the Planning Commission conducted a public hearing and recommended to the City Council adoption of MCTA 17-04.

This summary is published pursuant to Government Code Section 36933(c)(1) and a full and complete certified copy of the text of Ordinance 1379 is available at the Sierra Madre City Manager's Office located at City of Sierra Madre City Hall, 232 W. Sierra Madre Blvd., Sierra Madre, CA. For further information on this subject, please contact the Planning and Community Preservation Department at (626) 355-7138.

The purpose of the R-3 Zone amendment is to revise the standards applicable to residential-medium/high density residential development and to provide consistency with other zoning requirements that affect multiple chapters of the Zoning Code. The amendments include the following revisions:

Chapter 17.08 Definitions – Amend the definition of height for the purpose of simplifying the reference point on the roof of a structure used to measure its height; and change the title of a minor conditional use permit to administrative design review permit. Chapter 17.20 R-1 Zone - Incorporate new design review and administrative design review permit requirements for certain projects that currently require a minor variance, minor conditional use permit or conditional use permit.

Chapter 17.28 R-3 Zone – Amendments include a revision to the title of the ordinance to 'R-3 Medium/High • Chapter 17.28 R-3 Zone – Amendments include a revision to the title of the ordinance to 'R-3 Medium/High Density Residential Zone;' a title change to 17.28.070 to "Design review permit required;" Omitting Section 17.28.130 Signs; incorporates new graphics to illustrate the calculation of building height, angle-plane measurement for yards abutting an R-1 Zone, and articulation of exterior walls. Further amendments include revisions to 'Legal non-conforming R-3 sites,' 'Rezoned, newly created or reconfigured lots,' 'Permitted uses' and 'Conditionally permitted uses,' 'Other uses and construction activities,' and 'Standards for development.' Section 17.28.130 omits the multi-family building sign standards and incorporates them in Chapter 17.79 Signs them in Chapter 17.72 Signs.

Chapter 17.30 R-C Zone amendments incorporates new design review and administrative design review permit requirements for certain projects that require a minor conditional use permit or conditional use permit.

The purpose of the amendment to Chapter 17.60 is to revise the title of the chapter to "Variances and Discretionary Permit", and revise Sections 17.60.040 and 17.60.041 to incorporate the purpose, reviewing authority, review procedure and retimit, and revise sections 17.00.040 and 17.00.041 to incorporate the purpose, reviewing authority, review procedure and findings for administrative design review permits; and design review permits; The amendment also includes the addition of Section 17.60.058 to include a procedure to address projects with multiple discretionary applications, and eliminates the requirement for approval of a conditional use permit for all development in the R-3 Zone.

The purpose of the amendment to Chapter 17.72 Signs is to revise the existing sign requirements for the R-3 Zone under Section 17.72.050, include regulation that all signs be non-illuminated and a requirement that all signs are mounted flat to the wall.

Chapter 17.76 Condominium and Apartment Projects – The proposed amendment is to delete the Chapter in its entirety. Justification for removal is that the Chapter is obsolete in that the definitions within the Section are not cross referenced anywhere else in the Zoning Code and are already defined in Chapter 17.08 Definitions; The R-3 Ordinance already provides development procedures for multi-family projects; and Title 16 of the Sierra Madre Municipal Code provides regulations regarding Subdivisions.

ENVIRONMENTAL DETERMINATION: The project qualifies for an exemption from the California Environmental Quality Act review pursuant to Title 14, Section 15061(b)(3) of the California Code of Regulations as it can be seen with certainty that there is no possibility the adoption of this Ordinance may have a significant effect on the environment, because it will impose greater limitations on development in the City thereby serving to reduce potential significant adverse environmental impacts. APPEAL: If in the future anyone wishes to challenge the decision of the City Council in court, one may be limited to raising public hearing. For further information on this subject, please contact the Planning and Community Preservation Department at (626) 355-7138.

Walking Sierra Madre...The Social Side

"Lions and tigers and bears, oh my!" Wizard of Oz

Well, not so much the lions and tigers, but we certainly had the bears, oh my! Last Thursday morning our street was a sort of bacchanalian hangover, with trash cans overturned, trash bags torn as under exposing the remains of rib dinners, pizza, and half-consumed hamburgers. Our bears feasted! A dear friend of ours, Rick Bennett, who lives in So. Carolina, sent me this picture recently and provided a few details of a bear hunt in British Columbia he was part of. The bears he encountered don't sound a thing like the avocado loving - swimming pool lounging guys we have here. The picture is Rick, his guide, and the black bear they shot. I'll just quote Rick:

'It was an exciting week in very high rugged country. Many hours in pick-up trucks up and down logging roads looking for bears coming out of hibernation, feeding on patches of grass and clover blooming as the snow line receded. Sweep with binoculars for bears, get out of the vehicle and stalk. Many minutes of anxiety looking down steep slopes 1000' to a rushing river below. Ran into several grizzlies at fairly close range. (very dangerous if you wind up inside their "fight zone"), also Mountain Sheep, Mule Deer, Mountain Goats, Elk. Ran into this 300 lb. black bear on the evening of day 5. An exciting stalk and finish. We had a survival expert in camp who was talking to some young intern guides. He said a grizzly has an exceptionally slow but strong heart. About 15 beats a minute. So you can blow his heart out and he can still race 40 yards in 3-4 seconds, kill you graveyard dead, and run a couple hundred more yards before collapsing. Unbelievably strong and fierce. On the first evening of my black bear hunt in BC, a grizzly about half that size and weight walked out of the brush and gave me and my two guide companions a good look. He was about 40 yards away. Their eyesight is poor (sense of smell excellent, but the wind was in our favor). Thankfully that bear decided we were not a threat, and melted back into the thickets. Good thing. I was frozen in anticipation of very bad juju.'

We are not hunters here in So. California, and the worst that happens to our bears is that they get a really nice truck ride back deep into the forest, which gives them an opportunity to get a little exercise walking right back to their favorite avocado groves, trash cans and swimming

Can you believe it? Tuesday is July 4th! Seems like we just finished putting away the Christmas lights. "The Pride and glory and honor - all, live in the colors to stand bad news is: Time Flies! The good news is: You're the navigator!" Robert Orben. Speaking of July 4th, the parade will be fantastic this year, as always, featuring Hats off! Along the street there comes a blare of bugles, a Grand Marshal, Derek Podrebarac. In case you didn't know, Derek is a volunteer of the finest kind, frequently found at Children's Hospital in Los Angeles, and regularly giving blood to save the lives of those who rely on his rare blood type. He volunteers with Habitat for Humanity, has rebuilt homes in the aftermath of Hurricane Katrina. He donates time to homeless shelters in Pasadena and is active in our little league. Derek is one of those guys who serves quietly all over the place and is truly a shining example of the sort of person who makes Sierra Madre such a nifty place to live.

So many fun things to do: There's the Firecracker Fun Run at 7 a.m. in Kersting Court before the parade, the Pre-Parade Picnic July 3rd in Memorial park from 5:30 to 10:30, the picnic and games at Sierra Vista Park from 11 to 2 after the parade. It's going to be a spectacular day here in our town. Plan to have the best time ever!

Phos-Chek Sprayed to Brush near Rose Bowl

By Dean Lee

Pasadena fire officials Thursday morning started their annual Phos-Chek spraying, a fire retardant, around the Rose Bowl Stadium in preparation for Americafest Tuesday night.

"Phos-Chek is going to be sprayed in the Linda Vista area as well as Arroyo brush areas that we identified as a high hazard," said Pasadena Fire Chief Bertral Washington. "This is a preventative measure before the 4th of July, as we celebrate with a verity of professional fireworks that will take place."

Washington also reminded residents that all fireworks are both illegal and dangerous.

"Although some products [fireworks] are labeled safe and sane, we want to let you know that there are no fireworks out there that are safe," he said. "Injury from fireworks is highest among our children from five to 14 years old."

He said statistics show fireworks are among the riskiest of all consumer products. Even Washington said they planned sparklers, which many people to use eight tons of Phos-Chek think are safe, are dangerous and can reach 1,200 degrees around the Rose Bowl. He also Fahrenheit; causing serious means we live very close to a wide variety of wildlife. Most of the time, the animals that live in our nearby forest do not pose a threat to us or our pets, but there are times when we must take particular precaution to avoid unwanted contact with a would-be predator that ventures into our village.

Wild animals do what they must do to survive and protect their own. Therefore it is up to us to ensure that ourselves and our pets are safe from harm, especially when we see coyotes in close proximity.

I read an article linked to Facebook this past week (thank you, Kathleen Blanchard!) that provided some very helpful and practical tips on how to avoid the inherent dangers of coming into close contact with a coyote while walking a canine. I thought it would be a good idea to share the safety tips from the article in this week's column, for local dog owners to read and hopefully heed.

I do confess that the following safety tips are written in somewhat verbatim form, to avoid omission of important information. All credit goes to Jaymi Heimbuch for her awesome article posted on the urbancoyoteinitiative.com website. Here are some of the tips Heimbuch shared in her article, which I hope you will all benefit from:

What to do if You Encounter a Coyote While Walking

Your Dog

1. Leash your dog. (Of course your dog should always be leashed during a walk.) Pick up and carry small dogs. It is important to have full control over your dog so that they do not run toward, away from, or otherwise engage

2. Stand tall and assertive. Coyotes are wary of humans and your presence is usually enough to drive off a coyote. Maintain eye contact. Do not turn your back on the coyote and do not run. Running away can trigger a covote's prey drive and may cause him or her to chase

3. Haze the coyote until it leaves the area. This may come easy to some, but to others may seem abusive or unkind. But every coyote advocate will agree, the kindest thing you can do for a coyote is to scare it away, especially if he or she is overly curious about dogs. Keeping a coyote's natural fear of humans is the only way to keep urban coyotes alive, for a coyote that becomes too brazen is sure to end up euthanized.

Outside of pupping season (between the months of August and January) haze the coyote by yelling, stomping your feet, shaking a jacket or noise maker, popping an umbrella, flashing a flashlight, tossing rocks or branches at the ground near the coyote and anything else that will frighten the coyote off. If the coyote freezes, or runs a little way away and turns to watch you again, continue hazing and moving toward the coyote

As Sierra Madreans, we live very close to the forest which until he or she leaves the area entirely. Then calmly and assertively walk out of the area.

It if is breeding and pupping season (between the months of February and July) you may be near a den and considered a threat. In this case it is important not to haze coyotes as normal, because coyotes will defend the den site and you'll only be escalating a situation, causing undue stress on the coyote and potentially forcing a coyote to act out defensively. During these months, the best thing to do is to slowly and calmly walk away without ever turning your back on the coyote. Stay tall and assertive as you leave the area, even if it means walking backwards. Coyotes will sometimes follow you for a distance to escort you out of their territory, and turning your back may invite them to come in closer to hurry you on your way. Maintaining eye contact and an assertive posture keeps things balanced by letting the coyote know they do not have the upper hand while still especting the coyotes' defense of their den site. 4. Report overly brazen coyotes. If a coyote comes too close, follows you for too long, acts overly assertive or does not respond to hazing, report the coyote to animal control authorities. The coyote may have become habituated to humans or is being fed by someone, which can result in aggressive behavior. (Never feed the local wildlife!) If this is the case, it may be that the coyote can be hazed by trained officials to reverse its behavior or, as unfortunately is often the case, may have to be removed. The media is rather one-sided when it comes to coyotes, reporting with sensationalistic fervor all the instances that coyotes have conflicts with pets, but ignoring the instances where an encounter is harmless or a coyote is actually defending itself or territory against an intruding dog, rather than being the aggressor. This results in myths and misconceptions about life among coyotes.

While there can be misunderstanding about what is happening during an encounter, what is readily apparent is that the best thing for humans, dogs and coyotes living in the same area is to minimize the possibility of an encounter. Play your role in maintaining a coyote's fear of humans, and by extension, maintaining distance from pets. Respect your pets and the local wildlife always. Love and let live.

THE JOY OF YOGA FREEDOM, PEACE, AND SERENITY

all freedom has to offer in this lovely pocket of the San Gabriel

Many people come to yoga to get free; free of pain and to find freedom of the spirit. In fact, if there's one thing that yoga has given me, it's freedom along with peace of mind. Like many people who come to yoga, part of me needed to break free of the mental constraints and black and white rules through which I was living my life. I was bound up in a way, experiencing all the symptoms of anxiety and fear that come with this limited vision. Yet, there was another part of me who was untethered and very free but searching for the next external remedy or avenue to wellness. When I came to yoga, I could relate to both sides of the coin; untethered from no rules and wound up tight from too many rules. Both states of mind (and way of living) need one thing, and that thing is an open mind.

Little by little, yoga causes us to open our minds. Freedom, awareness, and compassion are the fruits of this open-mindedness. Although yoga has a specific way of doing this, as we practice we build awareness and self-compassion first. Next, discipline is cultivated Happy 4th of July! as our devotion to our practice and self-study grows. Without this discipline, we can't reap the full benefits of the practice. For example, with meditation, there is the simple act of actually doing it. It's a great idea but it takes discipline and devotion to actually sit daily. Once a consistent practice develops, all sorts of good things happen. Feelings of freedom, peace, and serenity fill our consciousness.

If you apply this same principle to physical pain or discomfort, you may notice that you have a great range of motion and greater freedom in your life when you practice yoga daily or multiple times in the week. The discipline of it affords you the freedom to be active in your life.

So, don't underestimate the change in perspective that a little personal discipline can give. Freedom is not a freefor-all life; that is mayhem and there is always a price to pay at some point. True freedom is power and peace and

GRATITUDE IN PRACTICE. REDUCE THE WASTE

Gratitude in practice is being thankful for what we have. We can show our gratitude by not being

Did you know that 1 in 8 American households are food insecure, and worldwide it's 1 in 9? What is that? It means that they lack access to nutritious and safe food. 800 million people suffer from hunger, but now many people from different industries are fighting the issue head on by attacking food waste. Every year over 5 billion tons of food are discarded solely for aesthetic reasons.

Now people are starting with trying to change the way we look at produce. Everything is not perfectly symmetrical. Sometimes our veggies look funky, but now that food is being sold at a lower price point or is going to food pantries, some food goes to local schools for student lunches. Food waste harms the environment because we are squandering resources such as fuel, water, and fertilizer.

What can you do?

Do you have fruit trees on your property? Share what you are unable to consume. Support your local food pantry.

Support grocers that are tackling the issue with lower prices, that have a salad bar and deli which allows them to cook ugly produce.

Shop more frequently and purchase fresh food in small batches.

Support your local farmers market. Use a reminder system so that your veggies don't go to waste. Freeze or can your extras.

Make smoothies and juices with your bruised

Eat your leftovers. Let's not just talk about gratitude, let's practice it by appreciating and consuming what we have and reducing waste. It's your turn, what will you do to experience gratitude today?

IS IT A RELIGION? NO IT'S REAL FOOD DAILY

A few years ago I visited a now defunct BBQ joint on the west side of town. BBQ lover that I am, I felt the drive from Pasadena was no problem, and I would drive anywhere for great Q. As the hostess brought us to our table she said "enjoy your meal". I responded, "what do you recommend?" She said "I'am a Vegan I don't eat here"yikes!!!

So, let me digress for a moment to explore these questions: What is veganism? What is a vegan? What do vegans eat?

Veganism is a type of vegetarian diet that excludes meat, eggs, dairy products and all other animal-derived ingredients. Many vegans also do not eat foods that are processed using animal products, such as refined white sugar and some wines. Most vegans also avoid the use of all products tested on animals, as well as animal-derived non-food products, such as leather, fur and Vegan refers to either a person who follows this way of eating, or to the diet itself.

Although there is some debate as to whether certain foods, such as honey, fit into a vegan diet, if you are cooking for other vegans, it is best to err on the side of caution and avoid these foods.

What do vegans eat? This is perhaps the most common question about veganism. A vegan diet includes all grains, beans, legumes, vegetables and fruits and the nearly infinite number of foods made by combining them. Many vegan versions of familiar foods are available, so you can eat vegan hot dogs, ice cream, cheese and vegan mayonnaise.

I was summoned to Real Food Daily, an organic vegan cuisine restaurant in Pasadena, by my sense of curiosity. Having established the fact that I am not a vegan, but I do love food, I was impressed with Real Food Daily. Can I recommend it you? Will I return? Yes and yes. The menu includes salads (of course), sandwiches, burgers, pasta and burritos -- all familiar choices right? It would take me 2000 words to explain the ingredients, TABLE FOR TWO by Peter Dills thechefknows@yahoo.com but let me tell you what I had to eat. My starter was a Sea Cake explained to me by the server as a great alternative for a crab cake. The ingredients were all organic vegan choices described as a savory vegetable and sea croquette with pesto and sweet chili aioli. Man, the flavor was superb as far as comparing it to a crab cake. I have had crabcakes that I would describe as blah and boring, but the sea cakes ($10) I would order again. Now, if I was given my choice of a crab cake with real lump crab or a sea cake, I'd lump it, but for $10 order it! My entrée was the Supreme Burrito (dry or wet) Spanish rice, black beans cashew cheese and avocado; for $14 I found it to be a good value. What visit would be complete without dessert? I had the Peanut Butter Cream Pie ($9.00) - butter cups with in a chocolate crust, yummy! On my next visit to Real Food Daily I will check out the Happy Hour -899 E. Del Mar Blvd. Pasadéna (626) 844-8900

All and all a very good first impression, for you red meat eaters, give it a try, I promise that you'll like it. . The servers can artfully and skillfully explain any ingredients to you, and shhhh!!... they aren't all Vegans. Join me this Sunday at 5 PM for Dining with Dills on AM 830 KLAA

THE GOOD LIFE

AUTO SAFETY DEVICES THAT CAN HELP SENIORS WITH OLDER CARS

Dear Savvy Senior

Do you know of any auto safety products that can help seniors with older cars? My 80-year-old father, who drives his beloved 2004 Toyota Avalon, is still a good pretty driver but he has limited range-ofmotion, which makes looking over his shoulder to back-up or merge into traffic very difficult.

Inquiring Son

Dear Inquiring

,To help keep your dad safe and extend his driving years, there are a number of auto aids and new safety technology products that can be added to his car to help with various needs. Here are several to consider.

Backup Aids

up, a simple product that can be added to his car is an AllView Mirror ($60, AllviewMirror.com). This is an mirror to widen his rear visibility and eliminate blind spots so he can see traffic without significant neck or body rotation. It also helps during parking.

Another option is a backup camera. These come with the license plate on the rear of the car. When the car is in reverse, it sends live images wirelessly to a small monitor that mounts to the dash or windshield. The audio and visual alerts of impending collisions. Yada Digital Wireless Backup Camera ($140, Amazon) with 4.3" Dash Monitor is a good option. Or, if your in emergency situations is the Hum (Hum.com). This dad doesn't want a monitor in his car, the Auto Vox nifty device will automatically call emergency services Wireless Backup Camera ($140, Amazon.com) is

Blind Spot Helpers

To help your dad see better when switching lanes or merging into traffic, purchase your dad some "blind spot mirrors." These are small convex mirrors that would stick to the corner of his side view mirrors to improve side and rear vision. They can be purchased there's the Goshen Blind Spot Detection System ($239, Goshers.com). This system uses small sensors installed on each side of the rear bumper that monitor the sides of the vehicle, and will alert your dad with a light indicator, installedinsidethecar, if any object detected within 10 feet.

Safety Products

I highly recommend a good slop. They probably eat some horrible formula of hour-long daily walk or run. antibiotics and growth hormone. WHY NO ONE UNDER 20 HAS EXPERIENCED A DAY WITHOUT NASA AT MARS

As the Mars Pathfinder spacecraft approached its destination on July 4, 1997, no NASA mission had successfully reached the Red Planet in more than 20 years.

Even the mission team anxiously awaiting confirmation that the spacecraft survived its innovative, bouncy landing could not anticipate the magnitude of the pivot about to shape the Space Program at the agency's headquarters in Age.

In the 20 years since Pathfinder's touchdown, eight other NASA landers and orbiters have arrived successfully, and not a day has passed without the best-known example of the many new technologies United States having at least one active robot on Mars or in orbit around Mars.

The momentum propelled by Pathfinder's success is still growing. Five NASA robots and three from other nations are currently examining Mars. The two decades since Pathfinder's landing have taken us about halfway from the first Mars rover to the first astronaut bootprint on Mars, proposed for the 2030s.

"Pathfinder initiated two decades of continuous Mars exploration bringing us to the threshold of sample return and the possibility of humans on the first planet beyond Earth," said Michael Meyer, lead scientist for NASA's Mars Exploration Washington.

Pathfinder's rover, named Sojourner for the civil-rights crusader Sojourner Truth, became the developed for the mission. Though Sojourner was only the size of a microwave oven, its six-wheel mobility system and its portable instrument for checking the composition of rocks and soil were the foundation for the expanded size and capabilities of later Mars rovers.

"Without Mars Pathfinder, there could not twin Vikings of 1976.

have been Spirit and Opportunity, and without Spirit and Opportunity, there could not have been Curiosity," Pathfinder Project Scientist Matt Golombek of NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory, Pasadena, California, said of the subsequent generations of Mars rovers. JPL is now developing another Mars rover for launch in 2020.

NASA planned Pathfinder primarily as a technology demonstration mission, but it also harvested new knowledge about Mars, from the planet's iron core to its atmosphere, and from its wetter and warmer past to its arid modern climate.

The space agency was shifting from lessfrequent, higher-budget missions to a strategy of faster development and lower budgets. Pathfinder Exploration Rover Project, which landed Spirit and succeeded within a real-year, full-mission budget Opportunity on Mars in 2004. of $264 million, a small fraction of the only previously successful Mars lander missions, the

"We needed to invent or re-invent 25 technologies for this mission in less than three years, and we knew that if we blew the cost cap, the mission would be cancelled," said JPL's Brian Muirhead, flight system manager and deputy project manager for Pathfinder. "Everybody who was part of the Mars Pathfinder Project felt we'd done something extraordinary, against the odds."

Crucial new technologies included an advanced onboard computer, the rover and its deployment system, solid-fuel rockets for deceleration, and airbags inflating just before touchdown to cushion the impact of landing. NASA re-used most of the Pathfinder technologies to carry out the Mars

We're all more-or-less aware of certain realities that surround us and define our day-to-day reality. We live here in Southern California, in the Sierra Madre area, with hills to the north, and various waterways to our east and west in this coastal desert plain. Approximately 80% of the water know there are way too many people living here for the local ecology to support, so not only does our water come from afar, but so does our food, our power, and nearly all of the goods that fill the supermarket and hardware store shelves. The streets and apartments get steadily more crowded. If you live here, you're aware of these physical realities. You're no doubt doing your best every day to get to work and the store and school and to support your family so your life situation can improve. Most of us are aware of the larger physical reality of living here, but the necessities of our life keep that reality as a subtle background awareness. It isn't something we tend to think about a lot.

That is, we don't think about this unless there is an immediate, or impending, crisis.

The recent several-years drought forced most of us, including city and state leaders, to begin the slow process of re-thinking how we do things, especially as it relates to water. This is because the lifestyle that we have all somewhat automatically chosen to live is not sustainable. We've created a world in the sprawling Los Angeles basin that is powered by the auto, where houses are packed into every imaginable piece of ground, where developers seek to maximize the economic utility of every bit of real estate, and local politicians are all too happy to support this unsustainable

Our chosen lifestyle is stressful on the landscape, and stressful on our nerves. It requires bringing in water from afar, with electricity generated far away, a world kept alive by countless services from within and without.

One of the great ironies of this dream world is support our population, we then divert the water this way and that when the heavy rains are falling. more of these details as the months proceed.

[Nyerges is the author So we channel our valuable water out to ocean as "How to Survive quickly as possible to protect our valuable real "Extreme estate that was built too close to the river in the > Solutions abound, of course. Many pioneers have been taking bold steps to move us away from the disasters that will be the consequence of our choices. Let's explore just a few of those solutions. The trend towards drought tolerant lawns is a step in the right direction. Since about 80% of our water comes from afar, we don't need green lawns just for the sake of aesthetics.

With the water that we do use, everything but that we need for daily life comes from afar. We the toilet water can and should go into yards, where it is feasible to do so, to water landscaping plants, fruit trees, and gardens. This naturally requires the use of safe detergents, such as the Seventh Generation brand, or the Ed Begley Jr. brand. Plus, the building and safety department of each city needs to seriously review its view of gray water recycling. Gray water recycling is something that can be done very easily, economically, and safely, but the city's stringent requirements are costly and more of an impediment than any sort of encouragement to go this route.

Composting toilets are another idea whose time has come. Yes, they must be maintained properly, and they are not as care-free as flush toilets. Yet, consider the vast swath of human history where the toilet contents because a fertilizer for certain crops, with no need to waste vast volumes of water. As we think to a sustainable future, the compost toilets can be improved so they can be a staple in most households.

The Southland's water issues will only get worse as time goes on, as a function of increasing population. It is instructive to review records of our area from 100+ years ago, when the water table was higher and when the landscape looked green, not like a desert. One of the solutions looking to the future is to quit planting inappropriate landscaping plants, some of which are incredibly water-thirsty. The eucalyptus tree, for example, is one of the highest water-users and wells have been known to dry up after they are planted. They also "poison" the soil so that other more useful plants will not thrive. Far better is to follow the lead of such groups as Tree People and other tree-planting groups plant appropriate native trees.

These are just a few ways in which we can go that, though we must bring in water from afar to back to the future. I envision a plan that will look 200 years into the future, allowing us to voluntarily that we do get here quickly out to the ocean in move into a culture that is sustainable for this area. the network of channelized rivers that have been I call this Initiative-2217, a long-term vision which created over the past century. SOME PATRIOTIC REFLECTIONS FOR THE FOURTH OF JULY

The Fourth of July is upon us and nobody enjoys excuse to break into some kind of a party mode. of July. The slightest hint of refreshments and I have my I was at the supermarket picking up an item on

I especially like birthday parties, when it is somebody else's birthday, that is. I have found when it is my birthday party too many people in my life that I do not get a chance to enjoy the delectable refreshments. Smiling and stuffing the face do not go together.

But a patriotic party is something altogether different. It is the birthday of our country and it is hard to imagine anybody celebrating too much on this anniversary. Over 230 years ago, give or take, this country came into being. And what a country it has been.

Do we have problems? The only people without problems are those resting quite peacefully at Boot Hill. If there is life, there are problems. Our country has been of such a nature that no problem has been too big to solve. We are a nation of problem solvers. Henceforth, we need problem makers in order to prove what great problem solvers we are.

If we had no problems in our country today nobody would know just how great we really are at solving problems. I do not get upset with all the problems floating around in our country today. I know any problem is a temporary inconvenience and that in the long run, good usually wins out.

As I was thinking about this year's Fourth of July celebration, I began to reflect on all of the good in our country. If you want to see any good in this country, you first have to turn off the television newscasts, lay aside the daily newspaper and turn off your radio and then go take a stroll in the park where real life takes place.

I know the news media has to do their job, but do they have to do it so well?

For example, if there is some social burp somewhere in our country (especially if it is some celebrity) the news media from all over the country goes to that spot and for the next week there is 24/7 coverage of that little burp. After three days of constant news coverage, it is not hard to conclude that the entire world is going to that really hot place in a handbasket.

For every negative story in the news today, there are 99 unreported incidences of peace and goodwill toward men. Maybe it is a good thing that only bad stories catch the headlines. Maybe that is an indication that in reality bad is the exception and good is the norm. Well, one can dream can't he?

In spite of all the dissing of America, there are a party more than Yours Truly. I will offer any plenty of things to celebrate this coming Fourth

"these-boots-were-made-for-walking" footwear my way home the other day and as I was waiting to pay the bill, I happened to look at one of my dollar bills. Right in the middle of that dollar bill in plain sight were the words, "In God We Trust." I chuckled to myself. Every time someone uses a want to congratulate me on another milestone dollar bill in this country, they are giving tribute to the awesome fact that this country was built upon trust in God. And not just any God, but the Judeo-Christian God of the Holy Bible.

One of my favorite sports is baseball. Just before any game the entire stadium stands and sings, The Star-Spangled Banner. In the middle of that song there is a phrase that goes, "And this be our motto: 'In God is our trust!'

Our founding fathers took for granted something that this generation has long ago forgotten. Everything in this country is built upon God. Not some generic god, but the God of the Bible. To disavow that is to misunderstand what the founding of this country was all about.

I often hear people crying out in defense of their ignorance, "Separation of church and state." That is about as possible as separating the hydrogen out of the air we breathe. It can be done but it leaves us with something we cannot breathe and exist.

Then, every time we look at the American flag, we are reminded of the "Pledge of Allegiance to the American flag." A little phrase in that pledge says, "One nation under God." Again, the God referred to is the God of the Bible.

For those who are trying to get away from God they have an impossible task on their hands. Every time they use an American dollar, they are acknowledging our trust in God as a nation. Every time they go to a baseball game and sing The Star-Spangled Banner, they are singing about their trust in God.

Even atheists in this country have to start with God in order to define who he or she is. If I did not believe in God, I would not spend all my time and energy and resources fighting against something that I do not believe exists.

But as I celebrate the Fourth of July, I will pause and give thanks to God for America and I probably will sing, "America! America! God shed his grace on thee.'

500 N. Michillinda Avenue, Sierra Madre

From 1932 to 1943, this stunning early California Hacienda-style estate was owned by Herbert Hoover, Jr., son of the 31st president of the United States. President and Mrs. Hoover visited often and the home was known as "The Winter White House". It was originally built in 1928 by local businessman, Frank Picard, and the estate included almost 6 acres of land. In 1932, when the Hoovers moved in, they added a children's wing. Word has it that the playroom (accessed by a slide) was designed by family friend, A. A. Milne, the author of "Winnie the Pooh". This stately property and its colorful link with history reflects the graceful architecture of an earlier era.

After hearing concerns from renters in the corridor that rising rents may force tenants to move just as the prospect of selling the homes is approaching, Portantino agreed to write legislation to give these tenants certainty and relief.

"I am extremely grateful to my friends in the State Assembly who voted to bring peace of mind and financial relief to these long-standing tenants. SB 400 is an attempt to provide certainty and opportunity to put these homes in their rightful place, the private ownership of long-standing tenants," commented Portantino.

Jeff's Book Pics By Jeff Brown

1776 by David McCullough America's beloved and distinguished historian presents, in a book of breathtaking excitement, drama, and narrative force, the stirring story of the year of our nation's birth, 1776, interweaving, on both sides of the Atlantic, the actions and decisions that led Great Britain to undertake a war against her rebellious colonial subjects and that placed America's survival in the hands of George Washington. In this masterful book, David McCullough tells the intensely human story of those who marched with General George Washington in the year of the Declaration of Independencewhen the whole American cause was riding on their success, without which all hope for independence would have been dashed and the noble ideals of the Declaration would have amounted to little more than words on paper. Based on extensive research in both American and British archives, 1776 is a powerful drama written with extraordinary narrative vitality. It is the story of Americans in the ranks, men of every shape, size, and color, farmers, schoolteachers, shoemakers, no-accounts, and mere boys turned soldiers. And it is the story of the King's men, the British commander, William MCCULLOUGH Howe, and his highly disciplined redcoats who looked on their rebel foes with contempt and fought with a valor too little known.Written as a companion work to his celebrated biography of John

5 WAYS TO ENSURE YOUR ESTATE PLAN EXPRESSES WHO YOU ARE

Most people know estate planning can help you pass along your material wealth, but what about your intangible wealth like your wisdom, values, and life-experiences? Studies show that intangible wealth is valued by heirs even more highly than tangible wealth. And it is the wealth that lasts the longest, and the wealth that's lost for good if care isn't taken to preserve and pass it along.

Don't get me wrong. The money's important. But focusing on the money alone squanders an incredible opportunity during the estate planning process to account for the most important part of your wealth – the human capital you've accumulated during your life. With that in mind, here are five things which should be included in every comprehensive estate plan, but often aren't:

1. Your rich life story

You may think it's all been said before, but this is the perfect time to schedule or conduct recording sessions about your own personal life narrative. These recordings will be treasured while you're still here and long after you're gone, too. It doesn't have to be scripted or scary. You can just talk about particularly fond memories, knowing you're creating a time capsule of sorts that will contain the uniqueness of your personality and the experiences that shaped you into the person you are today. And perhaps most importantly, this gives you the opportunity to share the valuable lessons you've learned from your experiences. Your family will be better for it.

2. How you'd like to be honored

Estate planning involves considering some weighty decisions when it comes to long-term care, powers of attorney, and other situations that may arise should you 91024. Schedule an appointment to sit down and talk become mentally incapacitated. Although these are not about ensuring a legacy of love and financial security the sunniest of topics, it's important to express to your for your family by calling 626.587.3058 or visit www. family why you feel most aligned with the choices you're GarlettLaw.com for more information.

making. This will ease the processes for your loved ones, should these things ever come to pass. And once you get this part of the conversation out of the way, there are better things to come.

Your family might be curious about more than just your own life story. Take this time to go over your family tree and inform the younger members of your family about the details of your heritage. Getting a who's who on paper and/ or in a digital format is an excellent gift to your heirs, as they'll be able to reference it and build upon it throughout their own lives.

4. Significant heirlooms

Every family has heirlooms, and every piece tells a story. It's common for estate plans to contain physical objects that matter dearly to their owners, such as furniture, garments, jewelry, hobby collections, and memorabilia. Keeping the story of the object alive is more important than transferring its monetary value to the next generation. So rather than just document who gets what, I encourage my clients to take a picture of each heirloom and then write about why that item means so much to them, and why they want to give it to the particular beneficiary they have chosen to receive it.

5. Your core values

Your estate plan can be customized to include specific language (such as a family mission statement) that carries your values along with it while still leaving room for your beneficiaries to grow and explore on their own terms. Educational, incentive, and charitable trusts are other great tools available to you to express your values through your estate plan.

You know there's much more to you than the material wealth you've accumulated during your life. As such, your estate plan should be about much more than just your financial worth. After all, what's passed down from generation to generation amounts to something far greater than numbers on paper.

Don't be afraid to insist that your estate plan includes a balanced representation of who you are and what you believe. And make sure you choose an attorney who isn't only focused on your financial assets, but who wants to help weave your "whole wealth" into your trust and other critical documents so that the legacy you've built will mean something to your family for generations to come.

Dedicated to empowering your family, building your wealth and securing your legacy,

BUSINESS WEBSITES ARE EASIER AND CHEAPER

THAN YOU THINK

Running a business without a website in this day and age, would have been like trying to run a business without a phone during the 1960's. Although having a presence across several social media platforms like Facebook, Twitter and Instagram are important, business owners should be mindful that these platforms are owned and controlled by corporations that have to look out for their own best interests. This results in routine, and constant updates to these online properties along with new guidelines.

In prior years, the expense of having a website was prohibitive. A website that may have required $5,000 to $10,000 just five years ago, can be accomplished for less than $1,000, with even more features. The options are broad, including hiring a consultant or company, or purchasing a package to do it yourself (DIY).

Anyone with the basic computer proficiency needed to conduct a Google search and prepare or edit a document can master the basics needed to build and maintain a website using one of the many "drag and drop" programs. The range of skills required includes knowing how to create and manipulate text, how to copy and locate files stored on your computer or other media storage (i.e. flash drive, CD or external hard drive) and how to save and delete files.

The biggest hurdle that a business owner usually has in regards to getting a website up and running is gathering and organizing the information and images needed to create the website. This is the case whether it's a DIY website process or retaining the services of a website consultant.

So as simple as it may seem, one of the most critical first step in building a website is to gather and organize the information that will be used to create the pages The Grantbuilder.com.

on the site. This may include a mix of photos and illustrations. Videos and audio clips are commonly used, but the recommendation is to upload these multimedia items to a platform like YouTube and create a link from your website. It is more beneficial to have these items on a platform that attracts millions of visitors daily, as opposed to restricting the exposure to the number of people who may visit your website.

If you have been operating a business without a website up to this point, your excuse has probably been related to time, money or both. With a variety of free and low-cost DIY choices readily available, money is no longer a factor. You can start by simply compiling or creating the content that will be used to place on your website, while exploring online videos of DIY website building platforms like Weebly.com, Wix.com or Websitebuilder.com that offer a basic website free of charge. However, if you plan to be taken seriously as a business, you definitely want a website domain name that promotes your company's name, without the website platform name that automatically added to the domain name of free websites.

Having a basic website is better than having no website. Today, it is easier and more affordable than ever before if DIY is your preference. If time is your issue, hire an individual or business to coordinate the process and provide the handholding to guide and assist you with creating and compiling the required content. If you are serious about establishing a website to support your business, the good new is you can have your website up and running within a few weeks.

COULD HEALTH SHARING BE AN ANSWER TO THE SKYROCKETING COST OF HEALTH INSURANCE?

The health care world has become very tenuous. Health insurance costs are soaring as benefits diminish.

People feel the pressure, but don't know where to turn. There is a solution likely to be unaffected by whatever changes the government is deciding to do to replace Obamacare.

Have you ever heard of Health Sharing? Well, it's not insurance, but it is an alternative way to meet the current legal requirement to have health insurance. Today Health Sharing has over one million members that share over one billion dollars in medical expenses annually. It's an old concept that has been around for over thirty years.

What is Health Sharing? It is a program where members share each other's medical expenses, and it works. The cost is typically 30 - 60% lower than insurance. It's a fantastic way to help save money and share expenses with people that are typically into health living. Finally, a financial incentive to eat healthy and stay physically fit. Since this is not insurance, it does not have a lot of the trappings of insurance. There is no directory of providers or doctors' network that restrict consumer choice, no co-pays and no deductibles. Also, since there are usually no set networks and members can see any doctor or go to the hospital of their choice. They may often be able to choose alternative treatment modalities such as naturopathy, chiropractic and premium as happens with health insurance, each member pays a monthly 'share' amount. This goes towards paying the medical expenses of other members. The member also has an annual or per incident amount they would owe depending on the organization. For example, a typical unshared amount may be $500, $1000, or $1500. When this amount is reached, the remainder of the medical expenses for the year, will be shared by the rest of the community.

The benefits of Health Sharing can be explained by comparing health care expenses for a typical consumer: Á 50-year old woman pays $500 in health insurance premiums per month ($6,000/yr.), has a $1,500 annual deductible to pay before the insurance will pick up any expenses, has a co-pay of $100 per doctor visit and is required to pay 20% of the cost of her medical expenses. If she is in need of any x-rays or other medical procedures not affiliated with a routine exam, she will likely pay at least $7,500, plus 20% of costs that exceed the initial deductible. In contrast, under a Health Sharing Program, this consumer will pay a maximum of that unshared amount only. Any amount that exceeds the "unshared" amount will be shared through the other Health Sharing members.

Health Sharing is a simple idea that works very well in our complex medical world. If you are considering making a change in how you handle your medical bills, this is one option worth considering. holiday break.

IT SHOULD BE AN INTERESTING JULY 4 FOR REPUBLICANS

Senate Republicans better get ready for some fireworks. Their July 4 recess is going to be a hot one.

Earlier this week, with Republican ranks deeply fractured, Senate GOP Leader Mitch McConnell, of Kentucky, announced he was postponing a critical, make-or-break procedural vote on a bill repealing the Affordable Care Act, until after a weeklong

The not-entirely-unsurprising announcement is a virtual guarantee that GOP senators will be deluged by lobbyists and constituents on both sides of the issue at a time most of them would rather be marching in home state parades or crashing The Kentucky Republican needed 50 votes to approve a measure allowing debate to proceed on the Obamacare replacement bill, which would result in 22 million more Americans losing their insurance over the next decade, even as it drove up out-of-pocket expenses. The analysis by the independent Congressional Budget Office also concluded that the GOP bill would reduce federal spending by $321 billion during the same But in a perfect storm of awful, McConnell couldn't muster the support. As was the case in the House, conservatives complained that the bill didn't go far enough. For example, they demanded that states be allowed to waive the existing law's prohibition against insurance companies charging sick people higher prices for coverage, The New York Times reported.

Meanwhile, GOP senators from states that embraced the Medicaid expansion under Obamacare worried about the bill's impact on home state beneficiaries of the that expansion.

One of the exceptions in that case was U.S. Sen. Pat Toomey, of Pennsylvania, who spent the weekend trying to minimize the impact of the Medicaid rollback in the Senate Republican bill.

The CBO analysis knocked the legs out from under that argument on Monday. McConnell's action was also an embarrassing setback for the Trump White House, which, while it may be basking in special election victories, is still zerofor-life in serious legislative accomplishments.

So, you'd expect that, faced with the seeming collapse of his domestic agenda, President Donald Trump would be appealing for comity and cooperation from his fractious party.

Trump has spent most of his time on Twitter flipping out on CNN after three staffers resigned, and the network retracted, a story about a Trump fund-raiser's alleged Russia connection.

"So they caught Fake News CNN cold, but what about NBC, CBS & ABC?," Trump harrumphed. "What about the failing @nytimes & @washingtonpost? They are all Fake News!"

The delay, of course, cuts both ways.

On the one hand, it gives McConnell time to sway skeptics to his side.

On the other, the longer this vote gets delayed, the more likely it is that other Republicans will find a reason to peel off and join Team No.

But, as The Washington Post's Aaron Blake points out, the House got to "yes" back in May by wooing more conservatives to its cause. And there, they control 55.4 percent of the chamber.

Republicans in the Senate, conversely, control a little bit more than 52 percent. And divisions are such that moving the bill either way is going to be very difficult. Get ready for the fireworks.

FOR THE FOURTH OF JULY, LET'S HAVE SOME COMMON SENSE

In Your Bank? A Checkup

In the course of human events it is necessary, now and again, to renew our commitment to the principles and practices that made our country great in the first place.

Our country has always held what the Declaration of Independence says about certain "Truths": They are "self-evident, that all Men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty, and the pursuit of Happiness."

Regrettably, we forget these simple truths sometimes.

To renew our passion for the free and equal pursuit of life, liberty and happiness, we need a new declaration that promotes civility, open conversation and common sense.

Look, when someone disagrees with a political position we hold, it does not make the individual a monster or something subhuman. It does nobody any good to demonize or ridicule this person - not in a country founded on freedom of speech.

To renew our gratitude for the incredible freedoms we enjoy - freedoms that do not exist in many other parts of the world - is it not better to engage your political opponents in civil conversation and debate rather than to prevent them from speaking at all?

Groupthink and political correctness are killing open debate in our country. Too many university students, professors and administrators across our great land are not only shunning individuals who dare to challenge their status quo. They are aggressively, sometimes forcefully, infringing on their right to speak freely. They are issuing authoritarian campus speech codes.

If American citizens cannot openly discuss and criticize any and every idea on university campuses, then where, for goodness sakes, are they able to do so?

How did we arrive at a state of affairs in this country in which a person who criticizes ObamaCare - a person who argues that libertarian and free-market ideas can better address spiraling health-care costs and free up funds to help those in need - is smeared as someone who hates the poor?

How did we arrive at a state of affairs in which someone who questions the emotions and politics of climate change is labeled as a climate denier, someone whose dangerous thinking must be shouted down and maybe even result in some kind of punishment?

How did so many of our major journalists, whose role is protected by our Constitution, embrace such a pack mentality as they advocate for the political ideas and candidates they like, and attack the political ideas and candidates

The result is that half the country cheers on their advocacy, while the other half questions the credibility of every story they report. Is this not a dangerous problem for a country that relies on its press to keep those in power honest? There is a huge divide in the country between those who think government can offer the best solutions to our challenges and those who think less government, with more individual freedoms, is the way to go.

In a country as free and robust as ours, we certainly can work out our differences and find common ground. To do so, we must restore civility in our public debate, dial down the violent rhetoric, and listen to others who think differently than we do.

As other parts of the world work to emulate America's devotion to free thought and speech - as others across work to embrace the "unalienable Rights" to "Life, Liberty, and the pursuit of Happiness" - can we please get back to leading the way?

Hey, the Fourth of July is at hand. I can think of no better time to embrace a new declaration that promotes civility, open conversation and common sense.

The Declaration of Independence: A TRANSCRIPTION

IN CONGRESS, July 4, 1776.

The unanimous Declaration of the thirteen united States of America,

When in the Course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.--That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, --That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shewn, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security.--Such has been the patient sufferance of these Colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former Systems of Government. The history of the present King of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute Tyranny over these States. To prove this, let Facts be submitted to a candid world.

He has refused his Assent to Laws, the most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

He has forbidden his Governors to pass Laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation till his Assent should be obtained; and when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has refused to pass other Laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of Representation in the Legislature, a right inestimable to them and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their public Records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures.

He has dissolved Representative Houses repeatedly, for opposing with manly firmness his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused for a long time, after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the Legislative powers, incapable of Annihilation, have returned to the People at large for their exercise; the State remaining in the mean time exposed to all the dangers of invasion from without, and convulsions within.

He has endeavoured to prevent the population of these States; for that purpose obstructing the Laws for Naturalization of Foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migrations hither, and raising the conditions of new Appropriations of Lands.

He has obstructed the Administration of Justice, by refusing his Assent to Laws for establishing Judiciary powers.

He has made Judges dependent on his Will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of New Offices, and sent hither swarms of Officers to harrass our people, and eat out their substance.

He has kept among us, in times of peace, Standing Armies without the Consent of our legislatures.

He has affected to render the Military independent of and superior to the Civil power.

He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his Assent to their Acts of pretended Legislation:

For Quartering large bodies of armed troops among us:

For protecting them, by a mock Trial, from punishment for any Murders which they should commit on the Inhabitants of these States:

For cutting off our Trade with all parts of the world:

For imposing Taxes on us without our Consent:

For depriving us in many cases, of the benefits of Trial by Jury:

For transporting us beyond Seas to be tried for pretended offences For abolishing the free System of English Laws in a neighbouring Province, establishing therein an Arbitrary government, and enlarging its Boundaries so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these Colonies:

For taking away our Charters, abolishing our most valuable Laws, and altering fundamentally the Forms of our Governments: For suspending our own Legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

He has abdicated Government here, by declaring us out of his Protection and waging War against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our Coasts, burnt our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is at this time transporting large Armies of foreign Mercenaries to compleat the works of death, desolation and tyranny, already begun with circumstances of Cruelty & perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the Head of a civilized nation. He has constrained our fellow Citizens taken Captive on the high Seas to bear Arms against their Country, to become the executioners of their friends and Brethren, or to fall themselves by their Hands.

He has excited domestic insurrections amongst us, and has endeavoured to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers, the merciless Indian Savages, whose known rule of warfare, is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes and conditions.

In every stage of these Oppressions We have Petitioned for Redress in the most humble terms: Our repeated Petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A Prince whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a Tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people.

Nor have We been wanting in attentions to our Brittish brethren. We have warned them from time to time of attempts by their legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them by the ties of our common kindred to disavow these usurpations, which, would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They too have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity, which denounces our Separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, Enemies in War, in Peace Friends.

We, therefore, the Representatives of the united States of America, in General Congress, Assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the Name, and by Authority of the good People of these Colonies, solemnly publish and declare, That these United Colonies are, and of Right ought to be Free and Independent States; that they are Absolved from all Allegiance to the British Crown, and that all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain, is and ought to be totally dissolved; and that as Free and Independent States, they have full Power to levy War, conclude Peace, contract Alliances, establish Commerce, and to do all other Acts and Things which Independent States may of right do. And for the support of this Declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our Lives, our Fortunes and our sacred Honor.

Derek Podrebarac Honored as Fourth of July Grand Marshal

We are pleased to announce Podley's own Derek Podrebarac as the 2017 Fourth of July Parade Grand Marshal. "The Grand Marshal is a person whose efforts over a long period of time have benefited to the Sierra Madre community. The Grand Marshal title honors a person or persons' work, dedication and overall enhancements to our community." Derek is an inspiring leader and volunteer, and has time and again embodied the spirit of Sierra Madre.

Derek spent the last 17 years calling Sierra Madre home with his family. In addition to serving as a Real Estate Agent for Podley Properties' Monrovia office, he frequently donates his time in the community, including volunteering at Children's Hospital Los Angeles, local homeless shelters, and being an active leader at his local church.

Derek's passion for baseball has led him to become a devoted leader with the Sierra Madre Little League. He serves as a mentor to youth athletes as a baseball coach at Maranatha High School and other schools throughout the region. He is a shining example of the sort of person who makes Sierra Madre such a magical place to live.
