SIERRA MADRE'S NATIONAL NIGHT OUT A HUGE SUCCESS

This year, the Sierra Madre Police Department opted to spread the joy on the nation's annual National Night Out. On August 1st, block parties were held all over town, sponsored by the various Neighborhood Watch programs and participants. SMPD made the rounds visiting all the sites with Officers, Cadets, CSO's and Volunteers, This gave the residents and PD the opportunity to 'share great food, visit with longtime friends and meet new ones'. Congratulations and Thanks to all who participated!

FROM THE SIERRA MADRE FIRE DEPARTMENT:

A very Special Thank you to Angeles National Forest Service, Los Angeles County, Arcadia, and Pasadena Fire Departments for lending a hand on July 25th during a brush fire which threatened homes near the Mt. Wilson Trail, triggering voluntary evacuations. The fire broke out around 3:10 pm and burned 3 acres before the spread was haulted. No injuries or buildings were lost due to the fire.

$100,000 FRIENDS

Friends of the Sierra Madre Library Fund Feasibility Costs

Sierra Madre is a town with lots of friends and supporters, especially the Sierra Madre Library. As reported last month (http:// mtnviewsnews.com/v11/htm/n28/index.htm), the city's historic Library is in desperate need of an upgrade. Rather than attempt what has been determined to be a very costly renovation of the existing building, a proposal has been put forth to develop a new civic complex. The proposed "Sierra Madre Library and Cultural Center", is being considered at the site of the existing Recreation Center on E. Sierra Madre Blvd. It has also been proposed that the project should be primarily financed by selling the existing Library and adjacent property.

This idea has sparked a great deal of controversy from those who either don't want the Library to abandon its existing site, don't want the Library to move to the other side of town or don't want the property to be sold for fear of what might be developed on it.

The plan does have the unanimous support of the Library Board of Trustees as well as by the Friends of the Library, however. The 'Friends' are a group of volunteers that contribute volunteer hours, materials.

and money to strengthen Sierra Madre Library programs and services. Each year the Friends sponsor a gala wine tasting, noteworthy book sales, and a prestigious art fair. It is from those funds that a donation of $100,000 was given to the city.

The purpose of this donation is to obtain preliminary architectural drawings as well as official appraisals of the value of the current library property and the adjacent city-owned lot. Preliminary architectural designs will also be used in the process of producing any necessary CEQA or related reports.

The Friends of the Library Board actually had already approved $100,000 to be used for professional architectural, engineering, and/ or related service for the renovation of the existing Library building. They have since clarified that these same funds should be used instead to support the proposed new facility as an alternative. Procurement of architectural and appraisal services will be advertised through the City's regular public bid process.

A FOND FAREWELL

Former SMVFD member Gordon Caldwell, 93, leaves the Congregational Church for the last time headed toward Sierra Madre's Pioneer Cemetary. His body was transported on a vintage fire truck similar to 'Snorty' an old fire engine that was used by the Fire Department during Caldwell's tenure. He was bid farewell to an overflow crowd at the church. The Eulogy was performed by his former Pastor and dear friend Rev. Dick Anderson. Photo by Ellen Burry

On Wednesday, August 9, 2017 at 6:00 pm, the City of Sierra Madre, along with the Mountain Views News will hold a public Town Hall meeting to discuss the state of the city's water quality, conservation efforts, water rates and all things related. For years, residents of Sierra Madre enjoyed management of their own Water Company which provided a plentiful and pristine water supply to residents. However, for the last five years or so, challenges with aging infrastructure, water quality, water conservation, the building moratorium as it relates to water, and water rates, not to mention the California Drought, have been front and center.

The city has taken many proactive and sometimes reactive steps to and sometimes reactive steps to Manager Gabe Engeland realizes that a great many questions on exactly what the status of the city's water issues remain on resident's wind. This formula will be refulled mind. This forum will hopefully answer those questions. (Please note: If attendance exceeds the note: If attendance exceeds the capacity of the Hart Park House, the meeting will be moved to the City Council Chambers at City Hall.)

e"Fer-til-iz-er: A substance which makes soil more

Having grown zucchini and pumpkins, fertilizer is a superfluous frill as far as they are concerned. Put a couple of seeds in the ground, go away for the weekend, and be astonished when you return to find their vines have cascaded all over the geraniums, the Dutch Iris and zinnias are fighting for their lives and those greedy little tendrils are eyeing the garage. Zucchini is delicious when it's small and tender but, if you don't pick them, a day later after they've coyly hidden themselves under the leaves, they've turned into a club the size of a baseball bat...sort of like this one, in son-in-law, Chuck's, garden. You can grate one all day to make zucchini bread and never finish it off. Neighbors see you coming with that big bag of squash and won't answer the door. The zucchini phenomenon is sort of like Mickey Mouse as the Sorcerer's Apprentice in Fantasia! with his enchanted brooms and buckets of water. The zucchini inexorably keep coming and coming!

1-1/2 cups all purpose flour

1 tsp. ground cinnamon ½ tsp. baking soda

¼ tsp. baking powder ¼ tsp. salt

¼ tsp. ground nutmeg

1 cup sugar 1 cup finely shredded, unpeeled zucchini

¼ cup vegetable oil

1 tsp. grated lemon peel - more if you've got it ½ cup chopped pecans (optional), dried cranberries are good in here, too, and maybe a little chopped

In a medium bowl combine first 6 ingredients. In another medium bowl combine sugar, zucchini, oil, egg and lemon peel. Mix well. Add dry mixture to zucchini mixture, stir just till Anyway, when the zucchini overwhelms you, chop up some in your salad, sauté some in olive oil with tomatoes and lots of onions, drain and stir in some sour cream and top with a little parmesan cheese for a really great veggie dish. Or get out your Cuisinart and grate some for bread. This one is particularly good. This recipe originally came from Dorothy Reinhold's column in the Pasadena Star News in 2011. In it, she described her son's ecstasy about the zucchini My book page: Amazon.com: Deanne Davis bread that his 3rd grade Webster Elementary School instructional aide, Mrs. Corinne Le, had baked and brought to share. "It's soooooo good," he said, "and now available at she gave me the recipe. It's really really good!" And it is, too! So, thanks Dorothy and Mrs. Le. This is the best zucchini bread I've ever had. It's neat to think that these third graders got to taste something fabulous that a teacher wanted to share. Teachers ARE exceptional people!

Witness Thwarts off Kidnapping

Police are asking for the public's help in indentifying a man who violently attacked a woman last Saturday near the 210 freeway —the attacker was frightened off when a witness stopped to help.

According to police at approximately 8:05 p.m., July 29, an adult female was walking home in the 100 block of West Maple Street. As she walked, she noticed a male standing on the sidewalk near the opened passenger door of his vehicle. Once the victim walked past the suspect, the suspect pulled her by the hair causing her to turn and fall to the ground. The suspect managed to drag the victim a short distance despite her physical efforts to resist. A witness who was driving by saw the struggle and decided

The suspect got into the driver's side of a vehicle and drove away westbound on Maple Street and onto the 134 Freeway.

The suspect is described as a Hispanic male in his 20's, light complexion, thin build, clean shaven, with light brown hair. A composite sketch of the suspect was completed. See composite sketch above.

The suspect vehicle is described as a late 90's – early 2000 pick-up truck, possibly an extended cab, white in color, missing the front bumper, and possibly a Dodge Ram. See the attached picture marked attachment-A.

Anyone with information is asked to call Detective Anthony Russo at (626) 744-6412 or anonymously at "Crime Stoppers" by dialing (800) 222-TIPS (8477).

Pet of the Week

Emma (A429524) is a fun 2-year-old poodle mix. She's an active, excited young girl looking for a loving home. Emma loves when volunteers come visit her in her kennel. She greets them tail wagging and provides plenty of kisses. Emma likely had it a bit rough before she came to the Pasadena Humane Society, so she's hoping to find a home that can commit to regular grooming and maybe even some basic training classes.

The adoption fee for dogs is $130. All dogs are spayed or neutered, microchipped, and vaccinated before being adopted.

New adopters will receive a complimentary health-andwellness exam from VCA Animal Hospitals, as well as a goody bag filled with information about how to care for your pet.

Call the Pasadena Humane Society & SPCA at (626) 792-7151 to ask about A429524, or visit at 361 S. Raymond Ave. in Pasadena. Adoption hours are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday; 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday; and 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday.

Pets may not be available for adoption and cannot be held for potential adopters by phone calls or email. Directions and photos of all pets can be found at pasadenahumane.org.

THE FLORETTA K. LAUBER EDUCATION CENTER OFFICIALLY NAMED AT ARCADIA'S GILB MUSEUM

By Joan Schmidt

The official naming of the Floretta K. Lauber Education Center at the Gilb Museum, Arcadia was a wonderful, fun-filled event befitting a truly amazing woman. (Thank you, Museum Staff and Foundation Members)

When I first arrived, I heard someone say, "This is a Reunion" -understandingly, as several past Mayors- Mickey Segal, Gary Kovacic and Bob Harbicht attended with their lovely wives.

Arcadia's current Mayor Peter Amundson gave us an outstanding account of Floretta's remarkable life and accomplishments. Peter called Floretta an "an extraordinary person who made such an impact on her city, touched the hearts of so many people...so passionate about this education building.

The Mayor took us back to the 1960's and told us Floretta was the first woman on the Planning Commission. In 1974, Floretta was the first woman elected to the Arcadia City Council and in '76, the first female Mayor. She was involved in the Arcadia Woman's Club and was honored by the Daughters of the American Revolution in 2014. The Arcadia Chinese Association also recognized her that year as Citizen of the Year for all her service to the befitting such an outstanding lady.

community. Floretta was the leading force in 2013, founding the Friends of the Museum, which raised $500,000 towards the building of its Education Center. In closing, the Mayor said that "Floretta's 50+ years of service to the Community is unmatched".

Also attending were entire Museum Staff, Carol Libby, Mayor Pro Tem Sho Tay, and Council Members, April Verlato, Tom Beck and Roger Chandler, City Manager Dominic Lazzaretto, City Clerk Gene Glasco, Deputy Fire Chief Barry Sprigs, Arcadia PD's Mike Vercillo, Sara Somogyi, Director of Recreation and Community Services, Arcadia Chamber of Commerce Staff and many appreciative Field Rep Ari Ruiz presented a Proclamation on behalf of Assembly Member Blanca Rubio. Also attending was Baldwin Park's Mayor Pro Tem Susan Rubio, Blanca's sister, and a teacher at Monrovia's Bradoaks School.

Dana Hicks had a display table with several albums highlighting Floretta's life and accomplishments. There were root beer floats for everyone provided by the Friends of the Museum and great music -Top Notch Barbershop Quartet. Truly a wonderful event

KEEPING IT COOL WITH YOUR CANINE

If you are a dog owner in Sierra Madre or in one of the neighboring foothill communities, you are most likely among the many locals who've become quite concerned about how to protect their pets from harm in the heat, and keep a good healthy exercise regimen for them at the same time.

We all want to do what it takes to keep our four legged furry friends cool during the summer months, but at the same time we don't want them becoming calorie-collecting canine couch potatoes due to lack of exercise. A client of mine told me about a creative and fantastically fun way the summer months, and I immediately thought her story was worth sharing.

When I first moved to California in 1984, I lived in the Redondo & Hermosa Beach communities. I have happy memories of playing fetch in the sand and swimming and wading through the breakers with "Lady", my dog at the time, followed by leisurely walks on the strand in the late afternoon cool ocean breezes.

Back then, in the South Bay, there were a couple of spots where you could get away with having a dog on the beach, so I took full advantage of that privilege, particularly on a hot summer day. I truly treasure those memories, because living in Sierra Madre makes driving to the beach a lot less convenient, and finding a beach that will allow dogs is not as easy as it used to be. Although there are still a few canine-kind beaches and when you find them it is definitely worth the drive, if it means keeping your canine cool.

Sierra Madre residents, Mike Bieber and Jennifer Cichocki, are pleased to be the proud owners of three delightful and absolutely gorgeous dogs named "Sid", "Elijah" and "Utah". Their 3 beloved 'boys' sure got lucky when they found a home where they are treated with the utmost respect and unconditional love that they indeed deserve, and for that they are very grateful dogs. I enjoy spending time with Mike and Jennifer's babes when they call on me for walks or to stay over with them while they are away. I consider it an honor to call them my canine companions.

this column several months ago, about 'Sid doing the twist'. Well, while I am still very impressed precious pointer/pit mix is an agile athlete both on in more ways than you expect. Love and let live.

and off the dance floor! In fact, as it turns out, Sid is a rather impressive paddle-boarder!

That's right, Sid is one cool canine whose balancing act on a board is potentially more impressive than that of some humans you might see on the surf. And, what better way for a canine to keep it cool than by hanging out with his favorite humans, taking a dip in the refreshing ocean water and strutting his stuff in front of the other doggy dudes at the beach?

When I heard about Jennifer & Sid's weekend water excursion in San Diego, it prompted me to look into dog-friendly water sports in hopes of sharing a few fresh ideas on ways to help pet owners avoid the heat with their dogs while ensuring that they are still getting the exercise they need.

Apparently one of the most popular water sports for canines is dock diving which I find quite fascinating, but to me the most impressive canine water sport is dog surfing! I'd had heard about it before, and had seen a few dogs known she chose to beat the heat with one of her pups in to be skilled surfers on Animal Planet, one of which appeared on a float in the Tournament of Roses Parade. But I had no idea how popular dog surfing had become until I saw a video on Youtube of an annual dog surfing event designed to benefit animal adoption and education programs.

I must say even if this fantastic fund-raiser didn't help place animals into loving homes, I would still be in absolute awe of those darling dogs riding the waves on their surfboards! Anyone who loves dogs and enjoys a good laugh should see the surfing video entitled 'Best of 2010 Helen Woodward Surf Dog Surfing Contest' posted by user: SoCalBeachesMagazine. There may be more videos now posted on Youtube of the annual event held in more recent years, but this one is guaranteed to give you a good gut laugh.

After seeing that video, I am sure you will want to attend the next event with your own cool canine. This year's Surf-A-Thon will be held on Sunday, September 10th beginning at 8:30am at Del Mar Dog Beach. For more information and to register your pet to participate, visit animalcenter. org/surf-dog-surf-a-thon.

There are lots of other ways to keep it cool with your canine right here at home, too. Backyard doggie pools and sprinkler parties are a great alternative for beating the heat if you are not up to taking a drive to the beach. Whichever method you choose to keep your canine cool, remember to enjoy the time you have together.

Take good care of your pets, give them lots of love and respect, don't leave them out alone in the Some readers might remember a story I wrote in heat all day. Their systems need cooling just like ours and there are laws I place to protect them from such neglect. If you do right by your furry with Sid's dancing talents, I recently learned this four legged friends, I promise they will reciprocate sometimes --socially, personally and politically. Earlier this week, Sierra Madre had its own rapidfire exchange on Facebook.

There was a talented young musician playing bagpipes in Kersting Court in our little town of Sierra Madre. Many were enjoying the live music, including us at Yoga Madre and others apparently, not so much. A complaint was made and the young musician was silenced from playing in that

Sure enough, a Facebook post began with everyone telling of the disappointments of this and demanding to know who made the complaint. Our Yoga Madre name was mentioned in this post and, to our dismay, we were wrongly and without reason accused of making the complaint. The threads spread like wildfire coming from local people. I personally was at Yoga Madre when this event occurred and knew without a doubt that neither we or anyone at Yoga Madre called; we had been enjoying the music! Of course, we went on the post to defend Yoga Madre and set the record straight. Several hundred comments later, the threads still continue. (Exhale)

Maintaining awareness of my own reaction is like putting a media can be spacer in between me and the news I'm receiving. I inquire within: Is my reaction going to improve the situation? What am I contributing? Am I overreacting?

This is where pausing and breathing come in. Next, I aim to respond instead of reacting. The second reason why we practice yoga is to build love, compassion, and tolerance in the world. Through building these qualities within, we, in turn, have an outflow to the world around us.

I am positive each and every person reading this responds well to love and compassion. Well, the same is true for each person WE encounter and interact with individually. The world changes one person at a time. Ask yourself, "What impact am I going to have on the people around me today?" If you are familiar with the address of 24 W. Sierra Madre Blvd. you know that spot has had more than seven different restaurants in the past 10 years - hot dogs, hamburgers, fusion of this that and the other they say the real estate is cursed. Well friends, I think we have a restaurant that will have staying power, but it needs our help to succeed. Trust me, while the owner might not know real estate he does know Japanese food, so let me give you an introduction to Katsu, the owner of the new YUI restaurant here in

Born in Japan, Katsu learned his trade at culinary school in Tokyo. One of his teachers was Iron Chef Chin. After graduating, he got an offer to be a sushi chef in LA. While he was waiting for his visa to be approved, he worked at a sushi restaurant in Tokyo for three years. Katsu started work at Kushiyu restaurant in Tarzana in 2000. After 17 years, he has fulfilled his dream in Sierra Madre, selected because it was a safe, nice, friendly, and cozy community. He tells me that he didn't even know Sierra Madre at first, but it didn't take long to be his destination.

I know I've said that sushi is not my first choice of might have our first Michelin Star winner. Yui goes to the fish market every morning for fresh fish, and even though this restaurant has "sushi" in its name it has so much more! How about Kushiyaka? I'll bet you don't know what that is. It is Japanese skewered meat that is phenomenal and goes great with a Sapporo beer. How about Buta Kakuni - another culinary delights, but after eating lunch at Yui, we just must-try dish which you might know as pork belly. On the sushi side of the menu all the familiar names are there, like Toro-Unagi and Albacore. I should and could go on and on. When friends ask me to go to the Westside to get sushi I yawn and say "no thanks". Invite your Westside friends to Sierra Madre - it's well worth the trip!

FINDING HELP FOR SENIORS ADDICTED TO OPIOIDS

I am worried about my 72-year-old mother who has been taking the opioid medication Vicodin for her hip and back pain for more than a year. I fear she's becoming addicted to the drug but I don't know what to do.

Concerned Daughter

Dear Concerned,

The opioid epidemic is a national problem that is hitting people of all ages, including millions of older Americans. Here's what you should know and do to help your mother.

The Cause

The main reason opioid addiction has become such a problem for people over age 50 is because over the past two decades, opioids have become a commonly prescribed (and often overprescribed) medication by doctors for all different types of pain like arthritis, cancer, neurological diseases and other illnesses that become more common in later

Nearly one-third of all Medicare patients and almost 12 million people were prescribed opioid painkillers by their physicians in 2015. That same year, 2.7 million Americans over age 50 abused

Taken as directed, opioids can manage pain effectively when used for a short amount of time. But with long-term use, people need to be screened and monitored because around 5 percent of those treated will develop an addiction disorder and abuse the drugs.

Signs of Addiction

Your mother may be addicted to opioids if she can't stop herself from taking the drug, and her tolerance continues to go up. She may also be addicted if she medical board, which licenses physicians. through the American Society of Addiction Medicine (see ASAM.org) or the American Academy of Addiction Psychiatry (AAAP.org). It's also important to be positive and encouraging. Addiction is a medical matter, not a character flaw. Repeated use of opioids actually changes the brain.

VOYAGER SPACECRAFT STILL REACHING FOR THE STARS AFTER 40 YEARS

Humanity's farthest and longest-lived spacecraft, Voyager 1 and 2, achieve 40 years of operation and exploration this August and September. Despite their vast distance, they continue to communicate with NASA daily, still probing the final frontier.

Their story has not only impacted generations of current and future scientists and engineers, but also Earth's culture, including film, art and music. Each spacecraft carries a Golden Record of Earth sounds, pictures and messages. Since the spacecraft could last billions of years, these circular time capsules could one day be the only traces of human civilization.

The Voyagers have set numerous records in their unparalleled journeys. In 2012, Voyager 1, which launched on Sept. 5, 1977, became the only spacecraft to have entered interstellar space. Voyager 2, launched on Aug. 20, 1977, is the only spacecraft to have flown by all four outer planets—Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus and Neptune.

Though the spacecraft have left the planets far behind—and neither will come remotely close to another star for 40,000 years—the two probes still send back observations about conditions where our Sun's influence diminishes and interstellar space

Voyager 1, now almost 13 billion miles from Earth, travels through interstellar space northward out of the plane of the planets. The probe has informed researchers that cosmic rays, atomic nuclei accelerated to nearly the speed of light, are as much as four times more abundant in interstellar space than in the vicinity of Earth. This means the heliosphere, the bubble-like volume containing our solar system's planets and solar wind, effectively acts as a radiation shield for the planets.

Voyager 2, now almost 11 billion miles from Earth, travels south and is expected to enter interstellar space in the next few years. The different locations of the two Voyagers allow scientists to compare right now two regions of space where the heliosphere interacts with the surrounding interstellar medium.

"None of us knew, when we launched 40 years ago, that anything would still be working, and continuing on this pioneering journey," said Ed Stone, Voyager project scientist based at Caltech.

The twin Voyagers have been cosmic overachievers, thanks to the foresight of mission designers. By preparing for the radiation environment at Jupiter, spacecraft were well equipped for their subsequent journeys. Both Voyagers carry redundant systems that allow the spacecraft to switch to backup systems when necessary, as well as long-lasting power supplies. Each Voyager has three radioisotope thermoelectric generators, devices that use the heat energy generated from the decay of plutonium-238—only half of it will be gone after 88 years.

Space is almost empty, so the Voyagers are not at the harshest of all planets in our solar system, the a significant level of risk of bombardment by large

Though there are many things in the water around the world that can get us sick, the three major health risks to humans found in water are Protozoa, Viruses, and Pathogens. Each one of those categories of water-borne organisms presents their own unique limitations. For one, adequate sunlight is necessary: health hazards.

Of these, Giardia and Cryptosporidium are the most common both which pose serious health risks. An infection with these protozoans may cause chronic digestion problems which lead to malnutrition.

FIRE IS BEST, BUT NOT ALWAYS POSSIBLE

In the United States, most campers assume HOW LONG IN THE SUN? water should be boiled for a period of ten minutes, before drinking, just to be safe. In some countries, however, the ability to boil water has proven to be a major obstacle, in large part because of a lack of firewood. Research shows all pathogens in the water are dead when the water reaches around 170 degrees F. (or about 75 degrees C), so, in fact, simply bringing the water to a boil is sufficient.

But what if you simply cannot, or don't deem it wise, make a fire to purify your water? Is there an alternative?

According to various international agencies, such as EAWAG (Swiss Federal Institute of Environmental Science and Technology) and SANDEC (Department of Water Sanitation in Developing Countries), clear plastic water bottles can serve a valuable role in disinfecting water.

SODIS

DISinfection. So how does it work exactly? The effectiveness of SODIS takes advantage of the suns method is practiced in India, for example.

During winter, when the sun is lower in the horizon, the days are shorter and air is cooler, SODIS will take longer to work than during the summer. Standing bottles up does not work well. For maximum effectiveness, you want to lay the bottles on their side and you don't want water deeper than ten centimeters for ideal UV penetration.

Advantages of using SODIS

In the aftermath of an emergency where you must purify water, you're not drawing attention to your location if you don't have a fire, and this may be critically important. You won't need to expend the energy of searching for fire wood.

OUT TO PASTORA Weekly Religion Column by Rev. James Snyder

AS SUMMERS GO, THIS ONE IS GOING

During my high school career I was no thespian, however, I could act the fool when called upon. My friend was the thespian and starred in our senior high school play, "Finian's Rainbow." One of the musical numbers was, "When I'm not near the girl I love, I love the girl I'm near."

I have altered this title a little to fit my own needs. My version goes, "When I'm not in the season I love, I love the season I'm in." It is a wonderful motto and has solved quite a few problems down the years. Just don't ask me to sing it for you. I can, but you do not want to hear it... believe me.

At my age I have learned a thing or two. One of the things I have learned is that you might as well be content where you are at because that is where you are. All these people that are jumpy and nervous because they are not exactly where they want to be, waste a lot of precious time and energy.

I am old enough to appreciate where I am at. I could bemoan the fact that I'm not somewhere else, but what good would that do. I know I'm not at my destination yet, so I am determined to enjoy the journey and not miss one thing along the way.

This is the difference between the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage and Yours Truly.

Just the other day her Majesty was complaining about the weather. "It's so hot outside, I can hardly

Of course, I could not resist saying, "Well, why don't you sit down." To which, she treated me to one of her infamous glares. Somehow, in the hot sunshine her glare did not have its normal effect. For one, she was too hot and did not have the energy to follow through on her glare.

But I love the summer. It is a wonderful time of the year and my affection for the season goes all the way back to my days in school.

I enjoy every aspect of summer and when God created summer, he created a masterpiece. Not a summer day goes by that I do not thank Him for the summer.

I need to get one thing quite clear. I am not one of those who lay out in the sun to get a suntan. That is not my cup of tea... or rather glass of lemonade. I do not fault those who lay out in the sun to get what they call a suntan. Rather, I feel sorry for those old saps. Why ruin a good day by laying in the sun?

I had one bad sunburn in my life. It happened on our honeymoon. My wife and I were married in August in the year of our Lord 1971. Upon common consent, we chose for our honeymoon location Niagara Falls.

The motel we stayed in had a marvelous swimming pool. At the time, my companion in nuptials and I thought we were living the life of luxury. This was the first time we had been on our own and we were going to enjoy it to the hilt. Too bad we could not afford a Hilton.

Late that morning we walked several blocks down the street and treated ourselves to our first lunch as a "till-death-do-you-part" twosome. I am not sure what we ate, all I remember is the company was terrific. After lunch, we decided to spend some time at the poolside.

Being unaccustomed to the life of luxury I did not know what the rules were. So, in my sheer ignorance I decided to sit by the pool and luxuriate in the beautiful August sun. Obviously, I was more tired than I realized and fell into a wonderfully deep sleep.

Finally, I began to hear a voice I recognized and soon began to understand some of the words. "Do you know it's almost time for supper?

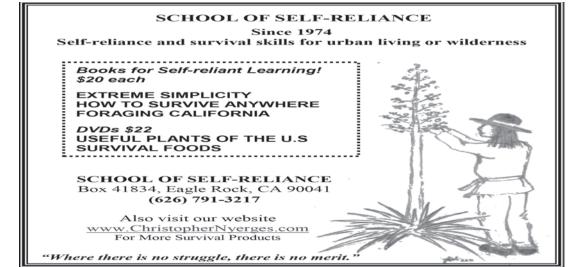

I opened my eyes and tried to smile. My face would not smile. In fact, my face felt rather hot. Then the rest of my body joined in the fiery chorus informing me that every bit of my body was ablaze. I had a sunburn to beat all sunburns. I could not move. I could not get up from the lounge chair.

A short journey into panic-land brought me into full consciousness. With great care and with the help of my new wife I was able to get into our room. I laid down in the bed with every corpuscle in my body screaming in protest. The more I lay there the hotter I became. I heard of hot bridegrooms on their wedding night but this was not how I pictured it.

Fortunately, we had planned to stay in the motel for a week and for a week exactly, I lay in my bed unable to move without excruciating pain.

Ever since that time, I have had a great deal of respect for the summer sun. Even though I had that one bad experience, I have never blamed it on the summer season. Rather, I have reveled in what the Bible teaches. "And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are the called according to his purpose" (Romans 8:28). It is in the "all things" that I discover God's love for me.

Supply and Demand

The market has been cooling over time and prices plateaued for a while. Despite the consistent decrease in MAI, we're in the Seller's zone. Watch for changes in MAI. If the MAI resumes it's climb, prices will likely follow suit. If the MAI drops consistently or falls into the Buyer's zone, watch for downward pressure on prices.

The Market Action Index answers the question "How's the Market?" by measuring the current rate of sale versus the amount of the inventory. Index above 30 implies Seller's Market conditions. Below 30. conditions favor the buyer.

The market seems to have paused around this plateau. The Market Action Index is a good leading indicator for the durability of this trend.

STEAM: CODERS RECEIVES $20,000 GRANT FROM AT&T

By Joan Schmidt

Recently, Assemblyman Holden's Office sent a Media Alert: AT&T would present a $20,000 Grant check to STEAM: CODERS.

What is STEAM: CODERS? Why would AT&T give this grant? Raymond Ealy founded this nonprofit in July, 2014 to meet the demands of students interested in STEAM (Science, Technology, Engineering, Art and Math). A series of one-day workshops and positive feedback from parents and students revealed there are limited resources/ steam. Thus STEAM: CODERS began, "dedicated to inspiring underrepresented and underserved students and their families through the fundamentals of Science, Technology, Engineering, Art and Math". Their mission is "to unlock the potential of each participant through an innovative and enjoyable curriculum focused on critical thinking, access to opportunities and attainable pathways to academic and career success".

Before AT& T made their generous presentation, Assemblyman Holden said, "Raymond Ealy's foresight and determination with STEAM CODERS is responsible for expanding access to educational resources for thousands of students in the 41st Assembly District and we will always be grateful for his contribution."

The Assemblyman thanked AT & T for the generous grant. AT &T were represented by Donovan Green, Regional Director and Amir Johnson, Area Director.

After the presentation, Raymond Ealy explained that "WE teach students logic, critical thinking, and problem solving in preparation for future academic and career opportunities. The ability to think will separate them from the crowd. In addition, we want to introduce them to new and exciting careers in opportunities for students to learn more about the steam-related fields. If we can encourage them to dream and how to transform their dreams into reality, they will find the match-fit that will enrich their lives. We are a conduit for their transformation from dreamers to thinkers to doers. Opportunity + imagination =innovation."

> The program begins with 2nd graders and they learn skills by participating in these classes. The program is not only teaches knowledge, but specific skills that will assist them in later careers. Since its inception, STEAM: CODERS has served 2400 students. Classes are in Altadena, Claremont, Inglewood, Long Beach, Los Angeles, Pasadena and Pomona.

The Great Quake: How the Biggest Earthquake in North America Changed Our Understanding of the Planet by Henry Fountain

In the bestselling tradition of Erik Larson's Isaac's Storm, The Great Quake is a riveting narrative about the biggest earthquake in North American recorded history -- the 1964 Alaska earthquake that demolished the city of Valdez and swept away the island village of Chenega -- and the geologist who hunted for clues to explain how and why it took place. At 5:36 p.m. on March 27, 1964, a magnitude 9.2. earthquake - the second most powerful in world history - struck the young state of Alaska. The violent shaking, followed by massive tsunamis, devastated the southern half of the state and killed more than 130 people. A day later, George Plafker, a geologist with the U.S. Geological Survey, arrived to investigate. His fascinating scientific detective work in the months that followed helped confirm the then-controversial theory of plate tectonics.In a compelling tale about the almost unimaginable brute force of nature, New York Times science journalist Henry Fountain combines history and science to bring the quake and its aftermath to life in vivid detail. With deep, onthe-ground reporting from Alaska, often in the company of George Plafker, Fountain shows how the earthquake left its mark on the land and its people -- and on science.

Breakthrough by Michael C.

Deep in the Caribbean Sea, a nuclear submarine is forced to suddenly abort its mission under mysterious circumstances. Strange facts begin to emerge that lead naval investigator, John Clay, to a small group of marine biologists who are quietly on the verge of making history. With the help of a powerful computer system, Alison Shaw and her team are preparing to translate the first two-way conversation with the planet's second smartest species. But the team discovers much more from their dolphins than they ever expected when a secret object is revealed on the ocean floor. One that was never supposed to be found.Alison was sure she would never trust the military again. However, when an unknown group immediately becomes interested in her work, Alison realizes John Clay may be the only person she can trust. Together they must piece together a dangerous puzzle, and the most frightening piece, is the trembling in Antarctica.To make matters worse, someone from the inside is trying to stop them. Now time is running out...and our understanding of the world is about to change forever.

DO YOU REALLY NEED A TRUST?

Although many people equate "estate planning" with simply having a will, there are many advantages to having a trust as the centerpiece of your estate plan. While there are other estate planning tools (such as joint tenancy, transfer on death, and beneficiary designations, to name a few), only a trust provides comprehensive management of your property in the event of your legal incapacity (not being able to make financial decisions for yourself) or death.

One of the primary advantages of a trust is that it provides the ability to bypass the publicity, time, and expense of probate. Probate is the legal process by which a court decides the rightful heirs and distribution of assets of a deceased through the administration of the estate. This process can easily cost tens of thousands of dollars (and sometimes hundreds of thousands) and take a year or longer to resolve. Or course, not all assets are subject to probate. Some exemptions include jointly owned assets with rights of survivorship as well as assets with designated beneficiaries (such as life insurance, annuities, and retirement accounts) and payable upon death or transfer on death accounts. But joint tenancy beneficiary designations don't provide the ability for someone you trust to manage your property if you're unable to do so, so they are an incomplete solution. And having a will does not avoid probate.

Of note, if your probate estate is small enough - or it is going to a surviving spouse or domestic partner - you may qualify for a simplified probate process. In California, if your assets are worth $150,000 or more, you will likely not qualify for simplified probate and should strongly consider creating a simplified probate and should strongly consider creating a trust. The cost of probate should also be a factor in your estate planning as creating a trust can save your heirs both time and money, not to mention emotional stress. Moreover, if you own property in another state or country, the probate process will be even more complicated because your family may face multiple probate cases after your death, one in each state where you owned property - even if you have a will. But beyond all of that, probate is a court proceeding and a matter of public record. That means your loved ones will have zero privacy. A trust, on the other hand, creates privacy which helps avoid conflicts, legal challenges, and keeps assets and beneficiaries hidden from potential predators.

A common reason to create a trust is to provide ongoing financial support for a child or another loved one who may not ever be able to manage these assets on their own. Through a special needs trust, you can designate someone to manage the assets and distribute them to your heirs under the terms you provide. Giving an inheritance to an heir directly and all at once may have unanticipated ancillary effects, such as disqualifying them from receiving some form of government benefits, enabling and funding an addiction, or encouraging irresponsible behavior that you don't find desirable. A trust can also come with conditions that must be met before someone receives the benefit of the gift. Furthermore, if you ever become incapacitated your successor trustee - the person you name in the document to take over after you pass away - can step in and manage the trust's assets, helping you avoid a guardianship or conservatorship (sometimes called "living" probate). This protection can be essential in an emergency or in the event you succumb to a serious, chronic illness. So unlike a will, a trust can protect against court interference or control while you are alive and after your death.

Remember, trusts are not simply just about avoiding probate. Creating a trust can give you privacy, provide ongoing financial support for loved ones, and protect you and your property in the event you are unable to manage your own assets. Simply put, the creation of a trust puts you in the driver's seat when it comes to your assets and your wishes as opposed to leaving critical life decisions to strangers, like a judge.

SUCCESS BEGINS WITH A MINDSET

Something magical begins to unfold after an individual truly commits to a goal. "As a man thinketh, so is through turbulent situations to claim the prize. The idea that a simple thought might serve as the impetus to propel someone toward achieving a goal may initially appear quite outrageous. However, with more than a century of documented surveys and studies captured in books like, 'Think and Grow Rich," by Napoleon Hill, it is clear that a person's mindset is the necessary starting point.

As the collection of writings about this phenomenon over the last century became known as the "positive mental attitude" (PMA) and self-help genres, some people regarded the philosophy as silly and unsophisticated. However, there is a wide body of evidence to support the correlation between a person's mindset and the level of success.

The structure and function of our brains create this success dynamic, including the conscious, sub-conscious and unconscious aspects of our thinking processes. At the point that we use our conscious mind to make a decision, our brain is hardwired to find a way, connect the dots and create the path that places us at the right place and right time as we move towards the goal. Thomas Edison, the world's most famous and successful inventor was committed to developing a working light bulb. After almost 10,000 experiments that failed, he refused to adjust his mindset. On October 22, 1879, it finally paid off. Almost three years later on September 4, 1882, he was forever etched in history when the world's first power station illuminated a section of New York City near Wall Street. That historic event was the culmination of a long series of steps, including successes and failures that started with Edison's

If you will simply use it, the power to decide equips you with the means for life to provide you with access to everything needed to succeed. The focus and extent of success will be shaped by the quality of your decision. Is your decision clear? It is firm? Or do you waver after supposedly having made the decision? Take charge of your conscious decision-making ability and your subconscious and unconscious will swing into action to move you in the direction of the success that you desire and deserve. Studies by neuroscientists dating back to the 1970's show that a human brain begins to prepare for action in a little over one third of a second before we consciously decide to act.

ON MANY LEVELS

"Ignorance, allied with power, is the most ferocious enemy justice can have."

The words are those of the late writer and social activist James Baldwin. When tweeted by football player Colin Kaepernick the other day to mark Baldwin's birthdate, you had to wonder who Kaepernick had in mind.

Was it the 32 owners of NFL teams who have conspired (my word, certainly not theirs) to keep Kaepernick out of football? Or, was the former San Francisco 49ers star aiming higher, perhaps all the way to the White House?

Kaepernick's tweet came after the Baltimore Ravens owner, Steve Bisciotti, asked fans to "pray for us" as the team's coaches dared to even consider signing the controversial quarterback. Kaepernick is blacklisted because, as a 49er, he joined a movement against police brutality by once showing up at practice wearing socks with a cartoon that depicted cops as pigs and, more publicly, by taking a knee at games during the National Anthem.

The fact that several other players joined Kaepernick doesn't seem to matter. Nor does the fact that NFL owners have eagerly hired various wife-beaters, bar-brawlers, gun-toters and drug-abusers. NFL owners have proved repeatedly that they are both ignorant and powerful.

The same day, on a larger and far more important stage, the Trump Administration revealed its xenophobic plans to sharply reduce legal immigration. Trump would cut the number of immigrants in half under a proposed system that discriminates based upon age, ability to speak English, and earning power.

It is the complete antithesis of America's founding principles.

This from a president who has already sought to bar visitors from Muslim-majority countries, and slammed the door on many refugees from war-torn regions. This from a man who campaigned against illegal immigration while insisting that he supported the legal pathway that has for decades created our nation's diverse social fabric.

Trump's proposed changes to immigration law are touted as a way to protect the jobs of low-income Americans. In fact, most economists say that is nonsense. Moreover, industries such as agriculture and tourism would suffer greatly under Trump's plan.

Trump, the wealthy career businessman, is trying to operate government much as the NFL owners he so admires run their teams. Play to the base—which is to say, the fans. Bar those who are different—not just in appearance, but in terms of culture, politics and style.

In the words of James Baldwin, "The price one pays for pursuing any profession, or calling, is an intimate knowledge of its ugly side."

TRUMP DITCHES 'REAL AMERICA' FOR WALL STREET

Dear Forgotten Men and Women of America:

I bear sad tidings: President Donald Trump appears to have forgotten all about you.

"Corporations have NEVER made as much money as they are making now," the nation's 45th chief executive trumpeted on Twitter this week, as he threw a shout out to his favorite show "Fox & Friends."

On July 31, Trump boasted that the nation was enjoying its "highest stock market EVER, best economic numbers in years, unemployment lowest in 17 years, wages raising, border secure,

There are some structural problems with Trump's claims, notably that while wages have been growing, they have been rising at a much slower pace than the rest of the economy. That's a long way from the Trump of "I am your voice," at last summer's Republican National Convention in Cleveland. And it's light years away from the man who vowed that "the forgotten men and women of our country will be forgotten no longer," during his inaugural address in

No matter how you slice it, the self-styled populist still has heart-eyes for Wall Street. Take tax reform, for instance.

Senior House Republicans have poured water on a plan, advanced by White House senior adviser Stephen K. Bannon, to impose a top rate of 44 percent on Americans earning more than $5 million a year.

U.S. House Ways & Means Committee Chairman Kevin Brady, R-Texas, told Fox News that he didn't "intend" to include Bannon's top rate in his committee's considerations. "We're going for growth, which means lower rates at every level," Brady said.

House Speaker Paul J. Ryan, R-Wisc., said he supported a previous administration plan, released in April, capping the top rate at 35 percent. Ryan told Fox that "We're not in the business of raising tax rates."

That 9-percentage point shift may not seem like a big deal, but it's one of the clearest signs that Trump, who ran as a populist, is being forced to behave like a rank-and-file conservative by Washington's Republican establishment.

Lacking any substantive legislative victories, the White House appears willing to play along.

In an op-ed for The Washington Post, Matt Grossmann and David A. Hopkins, the authors of "Asymmetric Politics," argue that most mainstream observers overstated Trump's ability to bend the GOP to his will.

"Instead of transforming the Republican Party, Trump has assembled the most conservative administration and agenda of any modern president," they wrote. "Analysts overstated Trump's distance from Republican campaign orthodoxy and expected him to be able to avoid the challenges of leading his party from opposition to governing mode. As a result, they underestimated the resilience of the GOP's basic character."

And after vowing during the campaign to provide "insurance for everybody," with "no cuts to Medicaid," and that "no one will lose coverage," Trump and his White House put its muscle behind Republican-authored healthcare reform plans that did all three of those things.

As an added bonus: Analysts further concluded that the GOP-authored plans would specifically hurt voters in counties that went for Trump during the 2016 campaign.

"The white working class will very much be hit by the cuts in Medicaid that will be the major offset for the tax cut," Dean Baker, the co-director of the Center for Economic Policy & Research, wrote in a July 4 column for The Huffington Post.

"The plan being considered by the Senate cuts projected spending by more than 10 percent over the period from 2018 to 2026, but the cuts increase in size each year. By 2026, the last year in the Congressional Budget Office's (CBO) projections, the cuts will be more than 25 percent. They will get even larger in the years beyond the forecasting horizon," he wrote.

Previously immune to external influences and criticisms, there are signs now that Trump's base may be tiring of his broken promises and his antics.

Barely a third of Americans, 33 percent approve of Trump's job performance according to a Barely a third of Americans, 33 percent, approve of Trump's job performance, according to a Quinnipiac University poll released Wednesday.

White men - Trump's traditional wheelhouse, were divided, 47-48 percent, on the POTUS' job performance, the poll found. Three-quarters of Republicans (76 percent) said they approved, compared to 17 percent who said they did not.

Critically, Trump is underwater, 41-52 percent, in his handling of the economy - a quality he argued made him best suited for the White House. Trump takes further dings for his handling of the ongoing probe of Russian interference in the election.

"It's hard to pick what is the most alarming number in the troubling trail of new lows for President Donald Trump," Quinnipiac pollster Tim Malloy said in a statement.

"Profound embarrassment over his performance in office and deepening concern over his level-headedness have to raise the biggest red flags."

But still be tweets on

CHRISTINE FLOWERS SCARAMUCCI: THE ITALIAN

When I was younger, I asked my mother if I could add a vowel to the end of my name. "I want people to know that I'm Italian, and with a name like Flowers they won't."

The former Lucy Fusco just looked at me and shook her head, which was Italian for "If God made us perfect, we'd have nothing to pray for." I suppose it's also why she named me after the patron saint of the mentally diseased. Really, look it up.

While only 50 percent of my DNA is from the bel paese, I feel completely Italian, despite the freckled white skin which refuses to tan, the inability to cook anything that doesn't come with reheating instructions and an aversion to homemade wine. These are all part of the stereotype of the paisano, along with the certainty that somewhere along the genealogical trail I would have tripped over piano wire.

You see what I did there? I made what some would consider an ethnic slur, and what others (the kind of Italians I grew up with) would notice as self-deprecating humor. I was surrounded by relatives who probably knew Mafiosi, and might even have invited them to social events, but who looked at that part of the heritage as an infamia, a disgrace, albeit one that you could joke about.

I love my origins. I may not be able to cook, but I know that God created every other cuisine just so that people would realize you can't beat pasta Amatriciana and a Caprese salad. I will never be mistaken for a Mediterranean beauty, but I can explain to you why Sophia Loren and Gina Lollobrigida couldn't stand one another. I have a mediocre voice, but I actually know what Violetta is saying while singing her tubercular lungs out in "La traviata."

That's why I'm disgusted with Anthony Scaramucci, Donald Trump's newest hire. A communications director who uses four-letter words like a street fighter is good if your boss is the capo of the Genovese family. It is not so good if you work for the President of the United States.

And let me be clear. This has absolutely nothing to do with politics. I would say the same thing if Tony the Mooch worked for Hillary Clinton (and he did: John Podesta.) I would say the same thing if he worked for Barack Obama, and in fact, number 44 also had a rank embarrassment in his cabinet. Rahm Emanuel was one of the most profane, obscene, and arrogant people to ever inhabit the White House, and I don't remember the media being particularly hard on him for his rough edges.

But two wrongs do not make a right, as Connie Corleone could tell you.

Anthony Scaramucci has been an obnoxious party crasher from the beginning, using his stiletto-sharp elbows to barge into D.C.'s inner sanctum. Some people think that's dandy, and liken him to Trump's Mini-Me. They share a lot in common in their origin stories, their New York brashness, their absolute inability to feel shame.

They are not gentlemen.

And yet, I think it was a big mistake for the president to bring this viper into his political family, because he is very clearly interested in making a name for himself at the expense of the cohesiveness and reputation of the White House. Granted, this White House has a very big image problem, one that is not helped by the media's obvious hostility toward Trump. I swear we're one step away from CNN posting "Breaking News: Trump Breaks Wind on Front Lawn."

But as I said before, two wrongs don't make a right, and Scaramucci is very, very

He embodies the worst stereotypes of the loud, slick, con man who is as adept with guns as he is with cannoli, a pompous pompadour infected with "Saturday Night Fever," a guy who thinks that you can intimidate with four-letter words. Here is what he said, on the record, to a reporter: "I want to f—ing kill all the leakers and I want to get the President's agenda on track so we can succeed for the American people."

Italians are not the only ones who use the "F" word, not by a long shot. But that kind of Trumpfellas arrogance is disgusting.

Some might wonder why Scaramucci's ethnicity is at all relevant. If he were black or Jewish you say, I wouldn't dare write this column.

True, but then it wouldn't be my column to write. This one is.

I descend from Michelangelo, Da Vinci, Marconi, Vespucci, Verdi, Manzoni and the Medicis. My people are war heroes like John Basilone, sat on the Supreme Court, like Scalia, and revived dying industries, like Iacocca.

That future caricature on SNL doesn't represent any of us.
