HOLIDAY WEEKEND MARRED BY TRAGEDY Woman dies in Chantry Flat Auto Accident

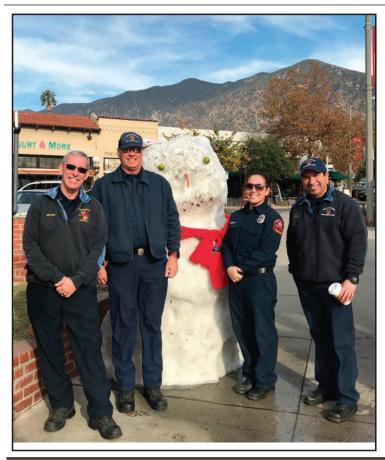

Just two days before Christmas, local authorities Meanwhile, the man and the boy were treated by were called to the scene of a traffice accident on the road to Chantry Flat. First to respond to the call, the Arcadia Police Department discovered an overturned vehicle. According to the APD press release, at about 10:35 a.m., a vehicle reportedly overturned for unknown reasons on Chantry Flat Road, just south of the city's border with Angeles National Forest.

First responders found an adult female, an adult male, and a juvenile all trapped in the wreckage. Shortly after the collision, the woman was sadly pronounced deceased.

paramedics at the location for what appeared to be minor injuries.

It was not immediately clear who was driving the vehicle when the crash took place.

The case is currently under investigation. Anyone with information on this incident is encouraged to contact the Arcadia Police Department at (626) 574-5151, case #1706334. If you prefer to provide information anonymously, you may call "Crime Stoppers" by dialing (800) 222-TIPS (8477), use your smartphone by downloading the "P3 Tips" Mobile APP on Google play or the Apple App Store, or by using the website http:// lacrimestoppers.org.

SIERRA MADRE FROSTY AND THE FIREFIGHTERS

Every year Frosty makes a visit to town just to have a little fun for a few days.

His presence is courtesy of a few friends that pack him up all nice and neat, and magically reassemble him down in Kersting Court.

Frosty doesn't stay too long but just about everyone stops by for a photo op with him.

This year's entry to the Tournament of Roses Parade is called, "Chivalry" and depicts our own dinosaur, aka Sierra, with a wounded paw being helped by a young knight in shining (or blooming) armor. The design was submitted by Joanne Garcia.

Sierra Madre is the smallest city to enter a float in the parade. The volunteers comes together to selfbuild and self-fund the annual float creation. This is our 86th year demonstrating the commitment of our community to come together to create an meaningful experience for our volunteers. Our float, depicting a young knight-to-be helping the injured dragon, demonstrates kindness in helping others.

A Rose blossom tree graces the front of the float. A First Aid kit is being used by young boy standing on a parapet to bandage a lady dragon's paw. 4 young ladies grace the back of the float sitting under a large Rose blossom tree. The perimeter of the float mimics castle wall ruins.

FLOAT DESCRIPTION: Height: 32 feet Width: 18 feet Length: 42 feet

So, where can you see the Sierra Madre Rose Float???

On December 31st, the Sierra Madre Rose Float Association is planning its Float Departure issues, we will take the float straight to the Float Ceremony to commence at approximately 5:30 p.m.. At that time, they will leave the barn at approximately 5:45 p.m., heading towards Kersting Court, arriving approximately 6:10 p.m. The float will remain there about 20 minutes, then continue on to its line-up spot on Orange Grove, where it will sleep overnight before the parade. If it's inclement weather, they will wave as they sail by without stopping.

After the Rose Parade, the float will be in the post parade viewing area, near Pasadena High School, the remainder of January 1st and all day January 2nd. We will be toward the east end, by Sierra Madre Villa. On the evening of January 2nd we will move the float back to Sierra Madre when we're allowed to leave post parade.

If there is rain, a prediction of rain or unexpected Barn at 587 E. Sierra Madre Blvd., Sierra Madre. On the morning of January 3rd, approximately 9:30 a.m., we will open the barn for viewing and may have excess flowers available.

If all goes well, the float will be in Kersting Court overnight and available for viewing the evening of January 2nd. On Jan. 3rd we'll be there with any excess flowers from about 9:30 a.m. until approximately 4:00 p.m.

Your donations of time, skills and funds have made this float possible. Come and see the wonderful float that has been created with your help.

PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE

From: Subject:

The City of Sierra Madre ELECTRIC VEHICLE CHARGING STATIONS ORDINANCE 1395 Properties in the City of Sierra Madre, County of Los Angeles, State of California Project Location:

The City of Sierra Madre gives notice, pursuant to State of California law, that the City Council will conduct a public hearing to consider adoption of Ordinance 1395 amending Title 15 - Building and Construction, adding Chapter 15.62 establishing procedures for an expedited permitting process for an "Electric Vehicle Charging Station." The purpose of the amendment is to comply with AB 1236 which requires local jurisdictions with a population less than 200,000 residents to adopt an ordinance to create an expedited, streamline permitting process for electric vehicle charging stations. An electric vehicle charging station is any level of electric vehicle supply equipment station which delivers electricity from a source outside an electric vehicle into a plug-in electric vehicle. The City Council will also consider Resolution 18-03 adopting a plan check fee for expedited permitting of an Electric Vehicle Charging Station.

HEARING City of Sierra Madre City Council meeting Tuesday January 9, 2018 (Hearing begins at 6:30 p.m.) PLACE OF HEARING City of Sierra Madre City Council Chambers 232 W. Sierra Madre Blvd. Sierra Madre, CA

All interested persons may attend this meeting and the City Council will hear them with respect thereto.

ENVIRONMENTAL DETERMINATION: The adoption of this Ordinance will not have a significant effect on the environment. This Ordinance is therefore exempt from California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) review pursuant to Title 14, Section 15061(b)(3) of the California Code of Regulations. City Council further finds that in accordance with CEQA Guidelines section 15268, 15308, and 15378, the adoption of this amendment to the Municipal Code is exempt from CEQA provisions because such actions are administrative in nature.

APPEAL: If in the future anyone wishes to challenge the decision of the City Council in court, one may be limited to raising the issues that were raised or presented in written correspondence delivered to the City Council at, or before, the scheduled public hearing. For further information on this subject, please contact the Planning and Community Preservation Department at (626) 355-7138.

Walking Sierra Madre...The Social Side

by Deanne Davis

"Have yourself a merry little Christmas, let your I thank You for my family too, heart be light.

From now on, our troubles will be out of sight." Ralph Blane & Hugh Martin

Remember that? Judy Garland singing to Margaret O'Brien in the 1944 movie, "Meet Me In St. Louis." You probably do as this is a perennial favorite Christmas movie, along with "Miracle on 34th Street," "It's a Wonderful Life," and about 17 different versions of Dickens' "A Christmas Carol." My favorite version this year of "A Christmas Carol" was the one at the Glendale Centre Theatre which featured my grandson, Luke Simon, dressed in the incredibly heavy clothing of the period and managing to look cold and incredibly handsome. OK, I'm biased. The least favorite version: Bill Murray in "Scrooged." Of course, we love "Charlie Brown's Christmas" and the original version of Dr. Seuss' "How the Grinch Stole Christmas. There's "Frosty" and "Rudolph," and the Hallmark Channel has shown a whole bunch of really nice Christmas

The lights and decorations around town have been spectacular this year. The Star Shower adds magic to just about any sort of outdoor lighting. I've got two of them and that's pretty much all that happened outside and admire them. However, I'm giving the Walking Sierra Madre...The Social Side Christmas who live on Highland and have every conceivable inflated Christmas decoration possible, as you can see. It makes me smile to drive past their house. Also, being a huge fan of Minions, and there being two of those on display had a lot to do with my decision.

We hope you've had 'a merry little Christmas' this year, and that your heart has been light. As we were out walking Sierra Madre a year or so ago, my Christmas decorations admiring walking buddy, John, and I, found a piece of paper on the sidewalk and this is what it said:

A Child's Prayer of Thanks

Dear God, I'm thankful for all You give, For food, For love, A place to live,

And I want You to know That I love You. Amen.

I have kept this out in our kitchen ever since and think it expresses pretty much everything for which we can be thankful. We live in such a beautiful place, with our own personal mountains available for good long 'look' moments. We have friendly people who smile and say Hello! when you pass them on the street. We have beautiful homes on every street, so many trees - which are doing fairly well in spite of the drought, and a splendid Christmas tree, crèche, menorah and dreidel in Kersting Court. I was sorry to see Goody Bags close their doors. Valerie Bango, had many great ideas for utilizing her store to its best advantage and we wish her all the luck in the world in her next enterprise. Dreams don't die, Valerie, sometimes they are just deferred.

While making strawberry preserves, lemon marmalade, apple butter and dozens of loaves of bread this year, my mind has been filled with the friends and neighbors I have been making all this stuff for, and I'm so grateful to know so many people who are happy to see me with a gift bag in my hand. Christmas is very different this year but I made split outside our house this year. All our neighbors have pea soup to take to daughter, Patti and son-in-law, spectacular light displays and it's nice to just stand Dave's house to spend Christmas day with them and then see the new Star Wars movie

"Star of Wonder - A Christmas Musical" is doing Decorations award this year to Jeff and Laurie Bohn well on TuneCore and I'm beyond happy that it's finally finished. Merry Christmas, dear friends and neighbors. My prayer for us all for this coming New Year is for happy times, much laughter, even more joy and no sorrow at all!

'Christmas! It's finally here! My favorite...favorite time of year!

Think mistletoe and holly...children's faces jolly! Carols on the radio...happy smiles each place you

Presents piled beneath the tree...some for you and some for me!"

My book page: Amazon.com: Deanne Davis 'Star of Wonder - A Christmas Story'

Is available there. This is a wonderful Christmas Love Story...trust me!

Rose Parade and Rose Bowl Safety

City Officials provided important public safety and information for attendees planning to be in Pasadena for the Rose Parade and the Rose Bowl Game New Year Day.

"Although our event is global, our number one priority is the safety and security of all of our guests, our participants, our volunteers and our staff," said David Eads Chief Executive Officer of the Pasadena Tournament of Roses.

Pasadena Fire chief Bertral Washington said that those planning to camp out on the parade route should dress warm with layers of clothing, bring water and alcoholic drinks are not allowed.

He said firefighters will be stationed along the route all

We will be looking for hazardous situations as well as things like bonfires [that are not allowed]," he said. "These fires can easily catch other things on fire."

Small store bought barbeques are allowed Washington said. They must be one foot off the ground, 25 feet away from building and a fire extinguisher must be on hand. Tents and sofas are also not allowed along the route. He also said not to bring pets that can become frightened.

Pasadena Chief of Police Phillip Sanchez said drones are not allowed at the parade or football game. He also said the Rose Bowl has a "clear bag" policy before entering.

Sanchez said the parade route will close to traffic early this year. See Page 3 for a map and more information.

"Starting at 10 p.m. on Dec. 31 we will close Colorado Blvd. from... "Orange Grove Blvd. all the way east up Sierra Madre Blvd. to Paloma Street, he said.

He said "If you see something say something" by calling police (626) 744-4241 or emergencies, call 9-1-1.

Pet of the Week

Are you looking for a young, energetic dog? Meet Squishy (A444885), an active, 2-year-old terrier mix. Squishy loves to play with all toys, but especially enjoys rope toys. Our volunteers report that he already knows his sit and down commands. After a long walk in the park, Squishy settles down and enjoys belly rubs. Our staff recently took him for a hike and he loved the fresh mountain air. Squishy is looking for an active new family who will continue his obedience and manners training.

The adoption fee for dogs is $130. All dogs are spayed or neutered, microchipped, and vaccinated before going to their new home.

New adopters will receive a complimentary health-andwellness exam from VCA Animal Hospitals, as well as a goody bag filled with information about how to care for your pet.

Call the Pasadena Humane Society & SPCA at (626) 792-7151 to ask about A444885 or visit at 361 S. Raymond Ave. in Pasadena. Adoption hours are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday; 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday; and 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday.

Pasadena Officers are out Enforcing DUI Laws

Office of Traffic Safety and Law Enforcement Remind Public That DUI Doesn't Just mean booze

This New Year's weekend, Pasadena PD is partnering with Police, Sheriffs and the CHP across the state to stop impaired drivers and help save lives. The holiday high-visibility DUI enforcement campaign runs throughout the weekend.

Driving Under the Influence of Drugs – state and local officials are reiterating the message that "DUI Doesn't Just Mean Booze." The message takes on increased importance with the state set to begin licensing commercial nonmedical marijuana sales on January 1, 2018, under provisions of Proposition 64, the Adult Use of Marijuana Act. "It has taken more than 35 years to convince the vast majority of the public that driving under the influence of alcohol is dangerous, illegal and socially unacceptable," said Rhonda Craft, Director of the Office of Traffic Safety. "With more dying on our roadways every day, we can't afford to take that long when it comes to driving under the influence of prescription medications, marijuana, illicit drugs and even some over-the-counter medications."

In addition to marijuana, a driver could be subject to a DUI arrest if they are under the influence of pres cription medications like sleep aids, barbiturates, tranquilizers, opiates and other pain killers, anti-depressants, and even over-the-counter allergy or cough medications.

Plan your sober ride home before the party begins this holiday weekend. Drivers are encouraged to download the Designated Driver VIP, or "DDVIP," free mobile app for Android or iPhone. The DDVIP app helps find nearby bars and restaurants that feature free incentives for the designated sober driver, from free non-alcoholic drinks to free appetizers and more. The app has social media tie-ins and even a tab for the non-DD to call Uber, Lyft or Curb.

CITY COORDINATING A REVAMPED NEW YEAR'S EVE ON MYRTLE AVENUE EVENT

Can you believe that 2018 is nearly upon us? And to be allowed to serve food and beverages to patrons in the help Monrovia celebrate this terrific occasion, the City has been working to coordinate a revamped New Year's Eve on Myrtle Avenue event this year. As the event has transitioned into one being developed by the City and MOTAB, we have been focused on finding a way to host the event in a manner that supports our local Old Town merchants as much as possible.

In prior years, the event included a beer garden where participants could buy adult beverages while enjoying music to celebrate the New Year. As we have rethought the event this year, it occurred to staff that instead of having a single beer garden, given that so many restaurants in Old Town currently offer outdoor dining and drinking, it might be more effective to work with existing restaurants to expand their service area into the street to provide a similar "beer garden" experience that would be managed by each individual restaurant.

As we have worked to develop this idea, the City has obtained approval from ABC that allows any business in Old Town that has an approved liquor license to participate in the special New Year's Eve event on Myrtle Avenue. Based on the program that has been developed, the City will provide any interested business with an extra 900 square feet of service space that encroaches into the street on New Year's Eve. Each space would be marked off with secure access, and individual restaurants would expanded service area.

In addition, for those restaurants who do not have a liquor license, the City is also providing an opportunity to establish a secondary food service location on the street for New Year's Eve where they can sell small bites for visitors in Old Town. We are also encouraging and allowing any retail businesses that would like to participate the opportunity to have a Sidewalk Sale directly in front of their business for New Year's Eve.

WALKING MISS DAISY

It is 7:30 AM when my neighbor's cell phone comes to life, breaking the serene silence of dawn and rudely awaking all who sleep. The custom, voicerecorded ring tone resounds loudly with a chime of "Chris, dog walker...Chris, dog walker...Chris, dog walker"! Immediately, Daisy snaps to attention, plants herself at the foot of the bed, and places one paw on top bed sheet with her fluffy white ears and tail fully engaged.

Next, Daisy begins her usual routine of pacing back and forth from the bedroom to the leash that hangs on the hook by the front door, whining softly any minute". Soon she is greeted on the front porch by her beloved walker (that's me!) who gives her a hug and an affectionate verbal greeting, telling her the safety of her home with lots of hugs and praise. how special she is and how happy I am to see her, and off we go.

Daisy is absolutely elated to be leashed and lead out on yet another exploratory pilgrimage through the local neighborhood and hillsides. Within moments, we are well on our way, ascending briskly up the steep hill that takes us to the upper canyon and ultimate apex of our vigorous hour-long hike. The sun has just made it's way over the eastern horizon, and has begun it's typical daily task of steaming the pavement and warming the windows of the houses

Suddenly, Daisy stops in her tracks; her body stiffens and she stares ahead, fully focused on the hill that runs adjacent to us. Her ears are perked to a point, her tail is bent forward and the hair on her back begins to rise up like a porcupine. I follow her gaze, hoping to see what may have caught her eye and caused such a sudden change in her countenance, but I see nothing out of the ordinary among the massive, meandering oak trees and lowgrowing fauna covering the open area between the houses on the hill.

Seconds pass and Daisy relaxes enough for us to resume our steep upward climb. I begin wondering to myself what could have caused her momentary change in behavior. It crosses my mind that she might have nervous tendencies, perhaps due to a traumatic experience that occurred when she was a puppy, before she was rescued and adopted. As I ponder the possibilities, we make our way further up and around the curve toward the fire road, where the pavement ends abruptly at the trail head.

It is then that I look up to see a small pack of coyotes standing in the middle of the trail just a few yards ahead, looking directly at us! I am surprised to see so many standing so close, but having seen coyotes in the neighborhoods and canyons numerous times before, I know enough to take a different route, leave them alone, and avoid confrontation.

As we head back down the hill, it occurs to me that Daisy's sudden change in demeanor on our way up the hill had nothing to do with neurosis, nor was it prompted by something she saw in the distant woods. Daisy's brief behavioral interlude had clearly been a natural response to her inherently keen sense

I had recently read an article that mentioned a dog's sense of smell is said to be 1,000 times (+/-) stronger than that of a human being, mainly attributable to a vomeronasal organ that is housed in the dog's olfactory chamber. This specialized anatomical feature, unique to the canine, was no doubt what allowed Daisy to sense the presence of the coyotes from so far away, and exhibit a physical as she paces, as if to say, "Hurry, Chris will be here response long before they came into her field of

> We finished our hike, and I delivered Daisy back to Later that day, I was reflecting on our walk and I realized that my initial assumptions about what could have caused Daisy's unexpected behavior had been a prime example of how the domestic dog is often misunderstood by the human being.

> Daisy's response to the scent of the coyotes that morning reinforced my appreciation for the dog's sense of smell, but more importantly it taught me that, if acknowledged from the proper perspective, a dog's sensual abilities and responsive behavior can act as a very important tell-tale for the human's safety, in the neighborhood and in the wilderness as

> Finally, I was reminded yet again to avoid trying to anthropomorphize the dog. To expect a dog to think and behave the way a human thinks and behaves is to foolishly discount the remarkable unique qualities of the dog that can be of great value and benefit to us

> In retrospect, my experience that morning taught me two very valuable lessons; to respect the dog and his inherent sensual capabilities, and to allow myself a healthy helping of humility as a human being in the presence of a four-legged friend. Who knew a simple morning walk with a dog could offer lessons of such value and importance?

> Try to allow yourself to be humble and learn from the animals. They are willing teachers - whether they know it or not - and they never judge us for lacking the wisdom we often credit ourselves with possessing. Enjoy the coming new year with your beloved pets. ### Yogic Wisdom for Everyday Life TAKING STOCK ahead, it's helpful to reflect on the year's past and discover what the lessons were. There are likely many credits and many debits. In our own lives, there are many things within our control but there are local and global influences which are out of our control and currently looming large.

Effort should be spent on what is within our control and discovering what behavior or pattern we don't want to repeat. After all, what good are the very best New Year's intentions if we don't discover what's holding us back? A good place to begin is to identify areas in which we feel stagnant. The possibility of freedom exists, but we do need steam in the engine. Clarity is needed as well.

Here are a few practices to get you moving in the right

what's working and what's not working anymore)

2. Get moving. The physical practice of yoga (asana) helps create the free flow of energy and clarity in the mind. The body is our vessel in which we experience the world.

3. Find a spiritual connection. Excellent choices include Meditation, Yoga Nidra, or time in nature. They all have specific benefits, but each aid in refreshing the mind, bringing clarity, and shifting perspective.

Try these practices and see what you can uncover. The entire effort here should be wrapped in a blanket of gratitude for what insights and knowledge were gained. Gratitude is the magic elixir to self-pity, regret, and negativity. All experiences help us to know ourselves better and--- in our best selves—to have compassion for those around us. Reflect, Learn, AspireIt's the last week of the year and celebrate your wins; it's rocket fuel a natural time of reflection. As a coach, my primary life management tool is having and practicing gratitude for everything. Some things in life are easy to appreciate; other things are more of a challenge. I help my clients to live life on their own terms with grace, guts, and gratitude. That requires us to be fully present and awake within our lives and to work to avoid life becoming routine, with each day blending and blurring into the next day without distinction. When we decide to take our time and appreciate what is happening now; our lives can be fruitful. When we take responsibility for our lives and choices, we are on the path of truly living, rather than merely existing.

Henry David Thoreau said, "I went to the woods because I wished to live deliberately, to front only the essential facts of life, and see if I could not learn what it had to teach, and not, when I came to die, discover that I had not lived." Thoreau was a minimalist. I visited his simple cabin where he conducted his experiment for living life. He lived a modest and brief life in the 1800's, but I still find his words helpful and enlighting. What would it mean for you to live deliberately?

Asking provocative questions can be helpful. My reflection questions for you:

What did you accomplish in 2017? Did you make any new friends or deepen your relationships? Remember to for progress.

What are you leaving behind in 2017? If you had some negative experiences this year, what did you learn? Are there some relationships Lori A. Harris that you're releasing next year?

When we can glean a lesson from every life occurrence, even the negative ones, we learn, and nothing is wasted.

What are you hoping to create next year?

What will you accomplish in 2018?

What are you hoping to add to your life in 2018? What would you love?

If you make annual resolutions, these questions can be a guide to areas for you to explore. What are your intentions for next year? Who do you want to be? If you can train yourself to be deliberate in your actions, you will see your life expand. Have a happy and safe conclusion to this holiday season. If you want to share your reflections, write to me at Lori@

THE GOOD LIFE

DON'T EAT THIS IF YOU'RE TAKING THAT

Dear Savvy Senior,

If the prescription label says "take with meals," does it matter what you eat? I currently take eight different medications for various health problems and would like to know if there are any foods I need to avoid.

Over Medicated

Dear Over,

It depends on the medication. Many meds should be taken with food - any food - to increase their absorption and reduce the risk of side effects. But some foods and medications can interact, reducing the medications' effectiveness or increasing the risk of harmful side effects.

To stay safe, you should always talk to your doctor or pharmacist to learn the ins and outs of your prescriptions, along with what foods and beverages to avoid while you're on it. In the meantime, here are some foods you should stay away from for some commonly prescribed drugs.

Cholesterol Medications: If you take a certain statin drug to control high cholesterol like Liptor, simvastatin or lovastatin, you should avoid grapefruit and grapefruit juice. Grapefruit can raise the level of the drug in your bloodstream and increase the risk of side effects, especially leg pain.

Blood Pressure Medicine: If you take an ACE inhibitor drug like Capoten, Vasotec, Monopril, Zestril and others to lower your blood pressure, you should limit food that contain potassium like Antibiotics: If you're taking an antibiotic bananas, oranges, tomatoes, spinach and other leafy like Sumycin, Dynacin, Monodox, or generic greens, sweet potatoes, and salt substitutes that contain potassium. ACE inhibitors raise the body's potassium levels. Eating too many potassium richfoods while taking an ACE inhibitor can cause an irregular heartbeat and heart palpitations.

Blood Thinning Medications: If you are taking your body from absorbing it, making it ineffective. Coumadin, Jantoven, or the generic warfarin, you should limit kale and other greens, including broccoli, cabbage, spinach, and brussels sprouts that contain vitamin K. These foods can block the effects of these blood-thinning medications putting you at risk for developing blood clots. You also need to watch out for garlic, ginger, vitamin E and fish oil supplements because they can increase these medications blood-thinning abilities putting you at Box 5443, Norman, OK 73070, or visit SavvySenior. risk for excessive bleeding.

inhibitor (MAOI) antidepressant like Marplan, Nardil, Emsam, Parnate, or generic isocarboxazid, phenelzine, selegiline or tranylcypromine, avoid aged cheeses, chocolate, cured meats and alcoholic drinks. These contain tyramine, which can raise blood pressure. Normally, the body controls tyramine levels with an enzyme called monoamine oxidase, but the MAOI antidepressant block that Thyroid Medications: If you take a medication for hypothyroidism like Synthroid, Levoxyl, Levothroid or generic levothyroxine, you should avoid eating tofu and walnuts, and drinking soymilk. All these can prevent your body from absorbing this medicine.

Anti-Anxiety Medications: If you take medication Zocor, Altoprev, Mevacor, or generics atorvastatin, for anxiety like Xanax, Klonopin, Valium, Ativan, or generic alprazolam, clonazepam, diazepam or lorazepam, you should avoid alcohol. These medications act as sedatives, binding with the brain's natural tranquilizers to calm you down. But when you mix these drugs with alcohol, the side effects intensify, and can cause you to feel lightheaded, sleepy and forgetful.

tetracycline, doxycycline or minocycline, you should avoid dairy - milk, vogurt, and cheese, and calcium supplements and fortified foods – for a couple hours before and after taking the medicine. Calcium in dairy products binds to the antibiotic and prevents

To find more dietary guidance on the drugs you take, see reliable health sites like MedlinePlus.gov or MayoClinic.org, or consider the excellent new AARP book "Don't Eat This If You're Taking That: The Hidden Risks of Mixing Food and Medicine" available at Amazon.com and BN.com for $13.

Send your senior questions to: Savvy Senior, P.O. org. Jim Miller is a contributor to the NBĆ Today Antidepressants: If you take a monoamine oxidase show and author of "The Savvy Senior" book.

INTENSE METHANE RAINSTORMS BATTER SATURN'S LARGEST MOON

Titan, the largest of Saturn's more than 60 moons, has surprisingly intense rainstorms, according to research by a team of UCLA planetary scientists and geologists. Although the storms are relatively rare—they occur less than once per Titan year, which is 29 and a half Earth years—they occur much more frequently than the scientists expected.

"I would have thought these would be once-amillennium events, if even that," said Jonathan Mitchell, UCLA associate professor of planetary science and a senior author of the research, which was published in the journal Nature Geoscience. "So this is quite a surprise."

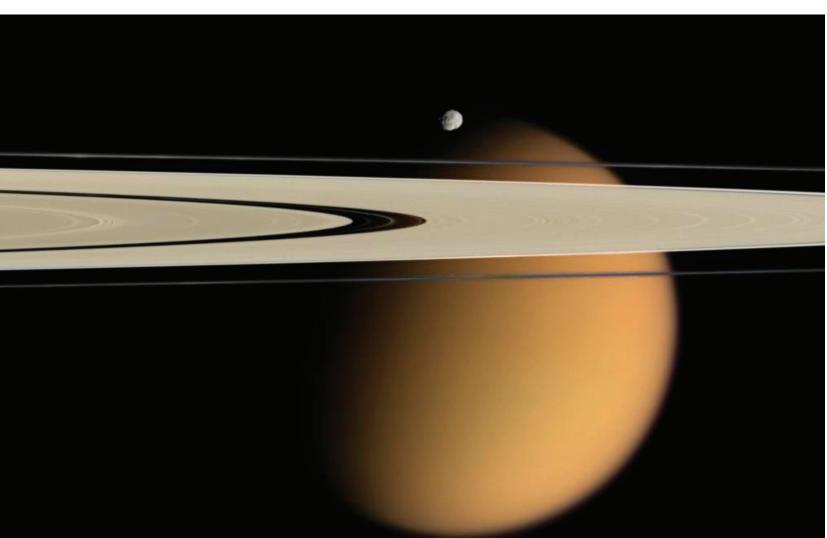

The storms create massive floods in terrain that are otherwise very cold deserts. Titan's surface is strikingly similar to Earth's, with flowing rivers that spill into great lakes and seas, and the moon has storm clouds that bring seasonal, monsoon-like downpours, Mitchell said. But Titan's precipitation is liquid methane, not water.

"The most intense methane storms in our climate model dump at least a foot of rain a day, which comes close to what we saw in Houston from Hurricane Harvey this summer," said Mitchell, the principal investigator of UCLA's Titan climate modeling research group.

Sean Faulk, a UCLA graduate student and the study's lead author, said the study also found that the extreme methane rainstorms may imprint that moon's icy surface in much the same way that extreme rainstorms shape Earth's rocky surface.

On Earth, intense storms can trigger large flows of sediment that spread into lowlands and form cone-shaped features called alluvial fans. In the new study, the UCLA scientists found that regional patterns of extreme rainfall on Titan are correlated with recent detections of alluvial fans, suggesting that they were formed by intense rainstorms.

The finding demonstrates the role of extreme precipitation in shaping Titan's surface, said Seulgi Moon, UCLA assistant professor of geomorphology and a co-senior author of the paper. Moon said the principle likely applies to Mars, which has large alluvial fans of its own, and to other planetary bodies. Greater understanding atmosphere as a way to safely destroy the spacecraft. of the relationship between precipitation and the planetary surfaces could lead to new insights about and a co-author of the paper, said Cassini has the impact of climate change on Earth and other revolutionized scientists' understanding of Titan.

Titan's alluvial fans were detected by a radar instrument on the Cassini spacecraft, which began orbiting Saturn in late 2004. The Cassini mission ended in September 2017, when NASA programmed it to plunge into the planet's

Juan Lora, a UCLA postdoctoral scholar

Although Titan's alluvial fans are a new discovery, scientists have had eyes on its surface for years. Shortly after Cassini reached Saturn, radar and other instruments showed that vast sand dunes dominated Titan's lower latitudes, while lakes and seas dominated its higher latitudes. The UCLA lakes, while the absence of rainfall promotes the scientists found that the alluvial fans are mostly formation of dunes. located between 50 and 80 degrees latitude—close to the centers of Titan's northern and southern You can contact Bob Eklund at: b.eklund@

Such variations in surface features suggest Titan has corresponding regional variations in precipitation, because rainfall and subsequent runoff play a key role in eroding land and filling

Nicole and I both focused upon one question (out businesses started when just this way. of the myriad of financial topics): What does someone unemployed do? Should one just sit and collect GROW FOOD unemployment and wait for someone to hire them? Certainly that is one option. Everyone's financial situation is different, of course, but we tried to consider the question: from whence comes real wealth (for an individual or a country)?

Obviously, one big part of the solution to unemployment is to get someone to hire you, someone whose business requires your unique skills or talents.

MAKING A LIST

But "getting hired" is only one-half of the equation. As I have personally done many times, and have advised people dozens of times, when you need to earn money, you should also sit down and make a long list of all your talents and skills, as well as all the things you can sell.

WHAT CAN YOU SELL?

Selling stuff, of course, is a short-term solution, but sometimes that's what's needed. And the very act of taking inventory of the physical stuff you have acquired can force you to re-look at your own needs and priorities. The act of getting out and talking to people and trying to raise some short-term cash allows you to let others know your plight, and opens the door for others to hire you, or

Some examples of raising short-term cash by selling stuff includes yard sales, estate sales, sales on ebay, taking individual items to antique dealers, and calling all of your friends and offering them deals on something you have.

This is another big topic, one that I will address in a future column. Still, it is amazing how many "poor people" are buying junk that they do not actually need. Stop spending! Buy only what you absolutely require. It is amazing when I recall how many people tell me how much they "saved." "Oh, look, I saved 40% on this great gizmo for my living room," when in fact they still purchased something that their life would be better without.

ELIMINATE CREDIT

Credit and "equity" are two big areas that help to move the economy overall, but also get many people in trouble. Nicole laughed because she'd done this too. A friend had recently told us how he wanted to buy something but he only had so much money "left." "Do you mean left in your bank account?" I asked. "No, I'm referring to the credit left on my card," he said, barely aware that all credit is money that he doesn't have. If you are buying on credit because you do not otherwise have the money, and you know you cannot pay off the entire balance of the credit card, then you cannot afford the item, and you would be better off not buying it.

MARKET YOUR SKILLS

Then, another list should be made where you list all of your skills. This includes things you can do, possibly on a free-lance basis, for hire. The list should also include all the things you can make and sell.

talks about unemployment ever mention the fact that today's economic depression. just about everyone has latent skills that can and should from something of a lesser value. Lasting real wealth dictate so much of our daily life.

[Nyerges is the author of "Self- does not and cannot occur when a government simply Sufficient Home,", and an prints more paper currency. Even the local Native occasional blogger of current Americans understood this when they created beadwork events. He can be reached at and basketry which served as articles of trade that had

Of course, everyone's list will be unique. Such a list When I ran into my friend Nicole recently at Bean of things you can make could include woodworking Town, we got into a discussion of how the recent (making bookshelves, desks, canes, etc.), various useful economic problems are affecting the income of so many crafts (candles, soaps, metal-works, etc.), and making people. We began to consider the solutions that are clothes. If you know how to sew, you could not only make custom clothing but could also make repairs. Many larger

You can make foodstuffs, like pies, cookies, soups, salsas. Unfortunately, in today's very controlled society, you will need Health Department permits to sell foodstuffs to stores or farmer's markets - and maybe you can go that route. But you could also just let your neighbors know that you need the income and are currently selling meals, pies, etc. You might be surprised at the response.

Growing and then selling fruits, herbs, and produce is another way to create something and introduce new wealth into the economy. I have done this part-time for years, and did once go the route of getting the Department of Agriculture certification so that I could also sell the fruits of my labor to farmer's markets.

Useful artworks are also worth considering, such as greeting cards, posters, hand-made art pieces, photography, etc. Again, everyone's list is different.

When I was laid off from a regular office job in 1993, felt tinges of fear as to how the bills would be paid. But I quickly segued into making arts and crafts and selling them at craft fairs around Southern California, which included cards, walking sticks, twig pencils, bull roarers, and booklets that we wrote and published.

A NEW WAY OF THINKING

One of the personal benefits of pursuing such an unconventional way of "making money" is that it just might open you up to doing those things that you really enjoy doing, and you might find that you look forward to getting up each day. Though such efforts generally take time, and generally do not replace a full "hired job" income immediately, they can be valuable ways to bring a family together, and create a hitherto unknown sense of family and community. I know for me that such days have been the best times of my life. We had the money we needed, but not always the money we wanted. [By the way, the details of this are all recorded in "Extreme Simplicity: Homesteading in the City," available at Amazon or www. ChristopherNyerges.com].

Which leads to another benefit. When you have no incentive to save and to find other ways to fulfill your basic needs, you tend to do what is easiest. When there is a pressure, you often are highly motivated to make other things succeed. Plus, you learn that you can do things for less, that you can recycle, and you learn how to produce a produce with minimal waste.

WHAT CAN I DO FOR YOU?

At our home, we grew as much of our own food as possible, raised chickens, composted, burned our scrap wood in the fireplace, and never let anything go to waste. When we had a need, we approached others with the mindset of "What can I do for you?" (rather than "can you help me?"). This way, when we put the other persons needs first, people were more than willing to help solve our problems. And at that point, we were not so much "solving a problem" as we were doing things that we all benefited from.

What a wonderful mental attitude. It is precisely this It is noteworthy that rarely does the politician who attitude put into action that can provide real solutions in

Though I have written about 10 books about "survival" be put into action. And keep in mind that real intrinsic and self-reliance issues, it is always worth reminding wealth occurs when something of higher value is created ourselves how money and the use of money seems to

if he is thinking of World War II or the Great those three checks bounced is beyond my Depression. I am positive that during the Great Depression, some wonderful memories were created, but I am not sure anyone wants to return to those thrilling days of yesterday.

The bad was not as bad as we remember and the good not as good as we boast.

Some things are best forgotten, while some checkbook account? things should never be forgotten; my trouble has always been remembering which is which.

Several things about the old year bear serious consideration. The past year, in my opinion, was not just one year, but several years flowing together. Sometimes I am not sure which year I

This past year, like all its brothers before it, actually consisted of three years.

First, there is the year that really was. "Just the facts, ma'am."

I am a little fuzzy about this one. For one thing, looking at my checkbook entries (at least the ones I remembered to enter) the past year was a completely different one than I recall.

I really do not recollect having all the fun suggested by my bank statement. Why is it no matter how much money I put into my bank account, more money comes out? It is a Ponzi scheme in reverse.

Evidently, some phantom creature has access to rational thoughts are. my checkbook.

President Ronald Reagan was accused of voodoo economics. Reviewing my bank statements, I could be accused of "Who-do" economics. If I ever find that "Who-Do" rascal, I will balance my checkbook on the top of his head.

My income tax statement is another perplexity. I can never figure it out either. If the government than "then." said I made that much money, I must have made that much money and owe that much in taxes.

Speaking of the government, what I do not understand is how they know how much I owe, to the penny, along with millions of other and reaching forth unto those things which are Americans?

Second, there is the year I remember.

This year is much shorter than the previous one, for some odd reason. The year I remember had only two months; this month and last month. And believe me, "last month" is a stretch for me.

Honestly, I remember paying the electric bill, contrary to what the electric company says. My problem with the electric company is that during the space of a year they send me 12 bills and I can only remember two. Let's just split the difference. him at 352-687-4240 or e-mail jamessnyder2@att.

do not credit my account when they screw up com.

Memory is a very tricky thing, at least for me it — like being without electricity for four days is. Looking back over a year's span of activity, twice this past year. Oh, that I remember, and my memory seems to pick and choose what it remember well. In fact, if my memory serves me

I remember deducting the monthly service Often some old-timer will moan about how charges from my bank each and every month. much he misses the good old days. I am not sure Well, maybe not "each and every" month. Why comprehension.

Should the bank charge a larger fee for a bounced check than the face value of the check? I personally do not think so. Isn't it the bank's business to keep their records straight? Why do I have to spend so much time each month on my Last, but certainly not least, is the year the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage remembers.

At times, I am tempted to think (at least it's what I call thinking) my wife lives one life and I live something altogether different from hers. The things she remembers that took place during the year are beyond my remembering.

I am beginning to believe she remembers things that never took place. Of course, and I say this with all sincerity, I would never contradict her memory.

For the life of me, I do not know where I was when all these things happened she says happened. Nor do I know where I was when I promised to do all those things she said I promised.

Even in my right mind, (of which I do not have much left) I would never concede to help remodel the family room. I would never accuse her, heaven forbid, of taking advantage of me in this area. The thought is not a stranger in my head, although

King Solomon, the wisest man who ever lived, framed his thoughts this way, "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth, while the evil days come not, nor the years draw nigh, when thou shalt say, I have no pleasure in them"

(Ecclesiastes 12:1). Solomon's idea was, "now" is more important

The Apostle Paul had the right idea with this matter of remembering. "Brethren, I count not myself to have apprehended: but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus" (Philippians 3:13-14).

It is not important how much I can remember about the past, as long as I do not forget to set Christ before me in all I do in the coming year.

A GREAT OPENING DAY AT THE GREAT RACE PLACE!

Sierra Madre Edition: Sierra Madre - Arcadia - Monrovia - Duarte

There is always something exciting and unexpected on Opening Day, always December 26th at Santa Anita Park and this year was no different. A huge crowd-over 40,000 came out and were not disappointed. There was something for everyone-plush horses for the kids, gift cards for adults and calendars for all-Thank you Mathis

My favorite race, the $300,000 La Brea Stakes Grade I- saw Unique Bella pull ahead of Paradise Woods. Unique Bella was ridden by Mike Smith and Paradise Woods, by Flavien Pratt. These two awesome fillies had met in the Breeders Cup, when Paradise Woods upset Unique Bella-she is one beautiful huge horse. (Of course I was secretly cheering for Princess Karen-my personal favorite!)

Flavian Pratt won the first race on River Boyne, were so kind to her. trained by Jeff Mullins. Rafael Bejarano had two wins- Kanthaka and Spanish Hombre.

Gary Stevens won on Great Expectations, trained by Peter Eurton. Congrats to Peter and his staff on this great win. I'd also like to give a plug for his daughter Brittany, a top-notch commentator/interviewer for TVG and truly one of the most gracious and unaffected people I have met.

Javier Castellano, a great jockey has come from the East Coast to hang his tack at Santa Anita and won on Californiagoldrush, from Neil Drysdale's barn. Lastly VERY BIG CONGRATS to Drayden Van Dyke, for his win on City of Light. (Pat was cheering in Heaven) If I go down to the Paddock Area, I pass the bench where the late Pat Morris-"Pat the Hat" sat and get teary-eyed. Among her favorites were Joe Talamo, Drayden Van Dyke and at the end-Flavien Pratt. Every time one of them wins, I think of Pat, probably cheering up in Heaven-they all

Shattered Peacock: A Story of Life and Revolution in Iran by Lisa Di Vita

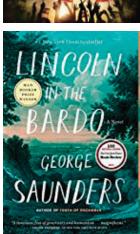

Lisa is a Sierra Madre resident! Like 2012's Academy award-winning Best Picture, "Argo," starring Ben Affleck, "Shattered Peacock" chronicles Persia's devastation as a result of Mohammad Reza Shah Pahlavi's fall from the Peacock Throne. As seen through the eyes of the wealthy Sultan family, the reader follows the havoc wreaked on the Shah's supporters, and in particular, upon Soraya Sultan, who faces the challenge of saving her life and the lives of her family, and who learns strength and determination in the face of danger. Along with the story of persecution visited upon its fictional characters, "Shattered Peacock" depicts historical figures set as they lived, inside an authentic, historical timeline. Experience the demise of the rich and dramatic world of imperial Persia. Live the disintegration of the "Last Shah's" rule. Feel the Iranian Revolution choking the life out of Iran's long succession of Persian kings. Learn about the brutal, subsequent rule of Ayatollah Khomeini and how Sharia law changed the character of Iran, even as it walled off Western influence. Today, Iran's theocratic Islamic government stands on the brink of nuclear capability, and is a major sponsor of worldwide "Shattered Peacock" terrorism. recounts how it came to be. This historical novel invites the reader to consider why the West faces violence from Iran as a result of allowing Shah Pahlavi to fall from his throne. It is recommended for history buffs, book clubs, students interested in Iranian studies and for any reader who enjoys an exciting and emotional plot.

FAMILY MATTERS By Marc Garlett

(RE)DEFINING FAMILY: ESTATE PLANNING FOR THE POST-NUCLEAR FAMILY

Blended families, unmarried couples, assistive reproductive technology (ART) and same-sex marriages all challenge the traditional concept of "family" - at least as it's been known for legal purposes.

Significant changes in the way we define family culturally means families are often left without the valuable protection they need, in the event of a death or incapacity of a loved one.

As these legal definitions and our personal situations expand, so do the priorities of the modern estate plan.

No longer is estate planning just for the wealthy, who wish to save money on their taxes; it's for all of us who want to ensure our legal system A local attorney and father, Marc Garlett is on recognizes and protects the one's we love.

For example, if you are in a life partnership you may be "married" in the eyes of your community, but not in the eyes of the law. As such, your partner would have no legal right to see you or make decisions on your behalf, if you were hospitalized. Even if you are married, your spouse or partner com for more information.

would not be able to access your financial accounts without court intervention, without proper legal planning in advance. And, if you are not married, the Court is unlikely to give a non-legal spouse access and would instead appoint a professional fiduciary before allowing your unmarried partner

If you are part of a blended family (meaning one or both spouses have children from a prior relationship) or have children who aren't biologically both yours and your spouse's (or nonspouse partner), you need to include provisions in your estate plan that clearly define the inheritance rights of all children, biological or not.

It is vitally important that you clearly state any legally established relationships between you, your spouse (or non-spouse partners and loved ones) and your children, biological or otherwise, to ensure your wishes will be carried out in the event of your death or incapacity. If you do not do this, your kids could end up in the care of someone you would never want and taken out of the home of the non-biological parent they are living with.

Whatever your family's configuration may be, estate planning is your chance to safeguard the people you love and your assets on your own terms and per your own definitions. With the uncertainty of the current political and social climate, developing a carefully crafted plan tailored to your family's needs is more important now than ever.

INSANE ENOUGH TO BE AN ENTREPRENEUR IN 2018?

Have you thought about starting your own business? Whether it is your interest to turn your hobby into an extra source of income, or to build the type of thriving business you have always dreamed about, there comes own boss, is one of the reasons most commonly own business. There may be thoughts of relief at not having to report to a boss, but be mindful that the shift to being an entrepreneur means that you will have numerous bosses, that's right, your customers. The great thing is, as long as you deliver a quality service or product, coupled with a reputation for great customer service, you will keep your customers happy and hopefully coming back for more.

If you are considering taking the leap into your business full-time as your primary livelihood, you will join the ranks of entrepreneurs who have left the "security" of a regular paycheck from an employer. This is one of the main reasons that most people will never take the plunge into business ownership as their primary income. Clearly, a level of risk is involved, however, there are varying levels ranging from cautious, calculated risks, to those who seem crazy enough to leap from a cliff with the belief they have wings to fly. You will find examples of extreme success at all levels of risk, but the entrepreneurs who seem to be wired to tolerate risks that appear illogical to most of us, see life through a different lens.

To observers it may appear that an entrepreneur willing to take risks has no fear, but that isn't the case. They have simply decided that the risk is worth the anticipated reward. Most people can't relate to this because of the fear that prevents them from ever moving beyond a pre-defined comfort zone. The comfort zone of a 9-to-5 for the majority can feel like a prison to a free-thinking entrepreneur. They think "outside the box" and are therefore driven to venture, seek and experiment outside of the boundaries of what is normal to everyone else.

They would rather work 20 hours a day to build their own enterprise, than to work 8 hours a day to build for someone else. Seems odd, but one of the a time to press go if you're serious. "I want to be my trade-offs is a sense of relief, pride and satisfaction knowing that they are doing what they really want to cited by individuals with an interest in running their do. Some of them find their niche, build a business and operate it for decades until they decide to sell it, pass it on to family or close it after enjoying years as the creator of their own livelihood.

Others are serial entrepreneurs, leaving a trail of multiple business ventures. Some of the ventures are successful, but some are relegated to the collective heap of business failures. But again, a difference in perspective – the entrepreneur interprets each failure as a lesson learned, information to help them make better decisions the next time. Like the inventor and entrepreneur, Thomas Edison, 10,000 "failed" experiments to create the light bulb are simply viewed as discovering all of the ways it didn't work.

The correlation of failure to success is evident across the landscape of all accomplishments, large and small. It is something we all understood as children, but as we get older we forgot this fact. How many times did you fall before you learned to skate or ride a bicycle? Remember the frustration you felt as the older kids whizzed past you, and perhaps your mom, dad, or another kid encouraged you to keep trying. Or, you simply convinced yourself to try until finally, you were skating and riding along with everyone else.

So too, is the plight of risk-taking entrepreneurs who may find themselves, low on funds with bruised credit ratings, watching other whiz past them with the comfort and security of a steady paycheck. Those destined for success will get up and try again, knowing that they need to move beyond this latest lesson of what didn't work to keep searching until they discover what does. #### REFORMED, BUT NOT SIMPLIFIED

If only tax simplification were true

You see, one of the promises of the Republican tax-reform bill was that taxes would become way simpler for the majority of Americans to file - that we'd be able to file our taxes on a form the size of a postcard - but that isn't entirely so.

Sure, the standard deduction will almost double, from $6,350 to $12,000 for single filers, from $12,700 to $24,000 for married couples who file jointly.

That means many lower- and middle-income taxpayers will be able to file their taxes

But for many of us, tax filing will be just as complicated as it has always been - if not

An H&R Block representative told FiveThirtyEight: "While much attention has been given to the increase in the standard deduction, many taxpayers will still be required to file multiple forms and worksheets for various sources of income and credits that aren't going away."

Well, that's just great.

The tax code is still incredibly complicated - so complicated that, according to the National Taxpayers Union, Americans spend 7.64 billion hours and $227.1 billion complying with it every year.

Consider: When the income tax became law in 1913, the tax code was 16 pages long. Now it is nearly 75,000 pages long!

I remember stumbling upon my father's 1959 income tax return a few years ago - boy, was filing easy for him that year. In 1959, the code ran about 15,000 pages - one-fifth its current size.

My dad was a heavy smoker then - who wasn't? - and was able to deduct every penny he paid in cigarette taxes.

He was able to deduct every penny he paid in gasoline taxes. If we had such a perk now, the federal government would go even more broke than it is now. And he was able to deduct every penny he paid in Pennsylvania sales tax, another wonderful perk that would save today's average Pennsylvanian a boatload in federal taxes every year. He took a $600 deduction for each of his two dependents, my sisters Kathy and Krissy a lot of dough relative to his income. And he paid only 2.5 percent of his income toward FICA (then, Social Security; now, Social Security and Medicare) - one-third of what we pay now. In any event, despite a fair number of deductions available that year, his tax form was one sheet of paper printed on both sides. He had no calculator, nor did he need one. He did a test run in pencil on one copy of the form, then finalized a second in ink and mailed it in. He always got a refund.

Look, there are many upsides to the Republican tax bill.

Everyone whose taxes are reduced will enjoy that.

Corporations will be flush with capital to invest, thanks to reduced corporate taxes and a repatriation tax that incentivizes U.S.-based companies doing business overseas to bring their profits back to America.

And best of all, job creators will be eager to invest, thanks to an end to complicated depreciation schedules and the ability to write off 100 percent of their equipment investments in the current tax year.

These and other changes in the Republican tax bill will, I hope, stimulate significant economic growth.

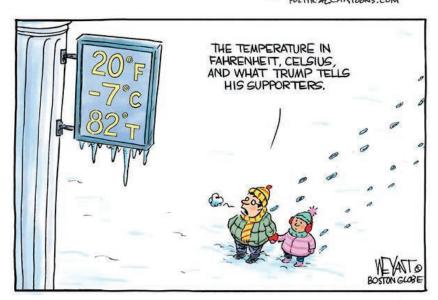

But tax filing is not going to get easier.

That's why I look back fondly to 1959. I didn't waste hours that year getting hundreds of receipts in order. I didn't pay a dime in taxes.

I wasn't born until 1962.

NEWS CERTAIN TO OCCUR IN 2018

Journalists love yearend recaps, but summarizing the odyssey that was 2017 might better be left to late-night comedians. So herewith a Precap of news certain to occur in 2018:

Jan. 1 - President Trump tweets: "Let's resolve to move forward in the New Year and make the right decisions for our wonderful nation and its beautiful people by finally bringing Crooked Hillary to justice!" Jan. 5 - Amazon abandons the search for a city to host its second headquarters, opting instead to simply purchase Cleveland. Jan. 7 - President Trump tweets: "Did Doug Jones really win in Alabama? Let the Electoral College decide!" Feb. 4 - At the Super Bowl, NFL executives announce plans to prevent head trauma and dizziness among players. The league says team doctors will now issue earplugs when crowd noise exceeds 150 decibels.

Feb. 5 - On Time magazine's list of "Men Mostly Likely to Avoid Sexual Misconduct Charges," first place is shared by "Big Bang Theory" star Jim Parsons and the comedian Carrot Top.

Feb. 22 - Kentucky Sen. Rand Paul loses two teeth fighting a customer at Home Depot for "the last container of Ortho Weed B Gon."

Mar. 2 - President Trump tweets: "Just turned down an Academy Award. Schedule won't allow me to attend March 4 ceremony in Hollywood.'

Apr. 7 - A select committee co-chaired by Senators Feinstein, Sanders and Warren backs a mandatory retirement age for elected officials. The panel recommends 105. Apr. 14 - After "an exhaustive search," Amazon casts Jim Parsons to replace Jeffrey Tambor in the series "Transparent."

May 23 - White House press secretary Sarah Huckabee Sanders clarifies that President Trump's new ban on importing trophy wives does not apply to persons already living in the U.S.

June 8 - The Boy Scouts of America votes to open its ranks to youngsters whose parents are Democrats. July 4 - President Trump wishes the nation a "Merry Christmas," explaining via Twitter that having rescued the phrase from extinction he will now use it on all

July 10 - The New York Times expands its robust roster of email offerings with 'NYT24," the company's first hourly newsletter. Times reporters and columnists will analyze tweets posted by colleagues in the previous 60 minutes.

Aug. 1 - Carrot Top is named host of NBC's "Today" show. Aug. 27 - United Airlines says its boarding groups will now have names instead of numbers. Group 1 will be "Elite"; Group 2 "Superior"; Group 3 "Mediocre"; Group 4 'Deplorable"; Group 5 "Untouchable."

Sep. 10 - A dozen employees at Google come forward with claims of sexual harassment by the Google Assistant. Sep. 19 - President Trump tweets: "Television Academy just notified me I'm a unanimous choice for an Emmy. Not interested!" Oct. 6 - In the season premiere of "Saturday Night Live," Kellyanne Conway and Jeff Sessions, both portrayed by Kate McKinnon, plot with Julian Assange (McKinnon) to get dirt on Bernie Sanders, played previously by Larry David but handled this season by Kate McKinnon. Nov. 7 - Election results show Democrats regaining a majority in the House.

Nov. 8 - President Trump tweets: "Massive voter fraud by Democrats! Let the Electoral College decide!" Nov. 22 - President Trump pardons two turkeys, one State Department official, and three cabinet members. Nov. 23 - Donald and Melania Trump tweet: "Warmest wishes to our African American friends and neighbors as they celebrate Black Friday." Dec. 5 - Refuting @realDonaldTrump, the Nobel Prize committee announces that President Trump will not be receiving an award this year. Dec. 31 - President Trump tweets: "I invented the term Precap. In 2019 the wall will be built. Fox & Friends will win the Emmy it deserves. I will release data proving that Crooked Hillary did not win the popular vote in 2016!"

CARL GOLDEN WHY TRUMP ISN'T GETTING

American people are happy, content, upbeat and readily credit whoever the President is at the time for creating an environment in which growth, opportunity and job security can thrive. At the outset of 2018, the unemployment rate is 4.1 per cent (de facto full employment); economic growth is slightly above three per month; consumer spending and confidence has risen above last year's levels, and the stock market breaks records daily (it's now closing in on 25,000). And, President Trump's public approval standing has tumbled to Richard Nixon/Watergate levels. The poll average compiled by Real Clear Politics, for instance, shows Trump's approval cent (well ahead of that of recent years); new jobs are being created at more than 200,000 a rating in the red by anywhere from 17 to 21 points. By all measurements, the nation's economic health graph shows a steadily upward trajectory, normally a cause for celebration and complimentary acknowledgements that the man in the White House recognized what was necessary and accomplished it.

Trump is understandably frustrated at the lack of credit coming his way for the robust economy, but it is largely of his own making.

Because of his pathological need to take to Twitter upon waking every morning to throw out public policy pronouncements, castigate political opponents, and respond caustically to perceived slights, he's become his own worst enemy. He seems unable to distinguish between meaningless partisan political sniping which should be ignored and issues of greater consequence. He treats them all as if the future of the Republic was at stake. His daily Twitter sideshow has obscured what should be the administration's most significant accomplishment --- an economic resurgence with solid statistical data to back it

He has gifted the media with issue after issue with which to question his temperament and his intellectual ability to cope with the pressures of the office. His tendency to exaggerate or embellish suggests he believes his version of events should be accepted at face value no matter their veracity. To be sure, a sizeable portion of the media openly despises him, pouncing gleefully on any opportunity to point out his foibles and suggest the American people committed a horrific mistake last year when they chose him to lead the country. He's attacked members of his own party in Congress as well as his own Cabinet officers. These incidents and dozens of others like them generated hours of inane chatter on cable

Both he and his supporters insist that Trump is merely sticking to one of his principles: "If you hit me, I'll hit back harder."

That may work when you are a high powered real estate developer in New York and elsewhere and everyone you're dealing with acts in the same manner, but it's out of place in the White House and can turn out to be ultimately destructive.

Ronald Reagan and Bill Clinton governed during periods of sustained growth and basked in the admiration of a grateful nation. Jimmy Carter, on the other hand, was driven from office by his failure to deal effectively with a "misery index" --- a combination of unemployment and interest rates --- that exceeded 20 per cent. In a 1992 debate with Clinton, President George H. W. Bush, asked how the sagging economy had affected he and his family, rambled incoherently and solidified the criticism that he was out of touch with ordinary Americans.

Aside from during times of war, the economy dominates the nation's political environment (remember, "It's the economy, stupid," the Clinton campaign battle cry in 1992) and can make or break a presidency.

The centerpiece of Trump's campaign was returning the country to economic dominance. His unexpected victories in the Rust Belt states was an expression of hope by struggling blue collar workers that Trump could restore the heady days of 24-hour shifts at the local factory. To them, "Make America Great Again" was more than a snappy slogan for tee-shirts and Trump has shown no inclination to ease off his itchy Twitter finger and his top staff has been unable to convince him to do so.

ball caps --- it was a solemn promise from a presidential candidate that he understood their

If he doesn't change his habits, the Administration's economic recovery and steady growth message will continue to be fragmented, muddied by pointless, juvenile arguments over matters which normally would disappear in a day.

YOUR INVITATION TO AN EVENT AT THE KENSINGTON SIERRA MADRE

Join us at The Kensington on 3rd Thursday of every month to be a part of this new group.

Half of the meetings will be informative, but you'll also get a chance to connect with other people and engage in fun activities like dance or art.

Amy Carlson, diagnosed with Parkinson's Disease in 2012 at age 44, will be facilitating this new group. Amy is a big advocate of being a self advocate. She believes that an "Always Now" attitude is the way to tackle every day. She also knows that exercise is the cornerstone to living well with PD. She wants to be a resource for people in the San Gabriel Valley who have Parkinson's Disease as much as possible and has authored the Meetup Group People with Parkinson's Pursuing Wellness to
