VOLUME 12 NO. 09

ELECTION COVERAGE

On April 10, 2018, voters in Sierra Madre will go to the polls and select three people from a field of four to sit on the City Council. They will also vote on Measure D which attempts to abolish the city's current Utility User Tax and Measure A an Advisory Measure.

The Mountain Views News will provide our readers with comprehensive coverage of this election. Each week, as we have done in the past, we will profile the candidates and give each of the candidates the opportunity to introduce themselves to our readers by answering the following

- 1. Why are you running for City Council?
- 2. What are you going to do for Sierra Madre?
- 3. How do you plan on accomplishing your goals?

(All candidates are being asked to answer the same questions and their answers will be published unedited.) This paper will also review the pros and cons of Measure D and Measure A. The schedule will be as follows:

March 3rd Candidate Andy Bencosme March 10th Candidate Gene Goss Candidate Denise Delmar March 17th Candidate Rachelle Arizmendi March 24th March 31st Measure D & Advisory Measure A

It is our sincere hope that each candidate will submit their answers so that we can share them with our readers. A separate letter has been sent to each candidate asking them to participate.

Our reporting on this election will be as fair and objective as possible. However, please keep in mind that our columnists are always free to share their opinions. Their opinions are their opinions and may or may not reflect the position of the paper. This is true in all things, not just this election.

We will also provide for you the calendar of important dates regarding the election. It is our goal to do whatever we can to help you make an informed decision on April 10, 2018. Susan Henderson, Publisher and Editor

Campaign Manager: Meredith Keith

15 years ago, I took a job Managing a Mid-Sized Business in Sierra Madre and fell in love with the community. I later moved here with my wife Julie, who grew up in Sierra Madre.

As a business operator, and later resident, I quickly grew to appreciate all the community events and traditions that make this a special city. Whether it was the 4th of July Parade, Wisteria Festival, Halloween Happenings, Little League Opening Day. As I became more involved, I joined or volunteered in many organizations. 4th of July Committee, Friends of the Sierra Madre Library, Historical Preservation Society and the Community Services Commission.

As both a business operator and resident, I have a well-rounded perspective on why people come and why people stay in Sierra Madre.

I have the background and expertise to navigate the complexities of city government. I have an undergraduate degree in History and a Master's degree in Business Administration. I was a teacher and later in upper management for a tech company before moving to Sierra Madre. I have managed budgets of $90 Million with 2,000 employees and classrooms of 35 high schoolers with $0 budget.

I care and am passionate about this town and the traditions that make it special. I believe in keeping our traditions, our small-town feel, our sense of pride in having our own Police, our own Rose Float, our unique local businesses and our own Library.

As a small city, we have challenges. Deferred maintenance, failing infrastructure, mounting pension obligations, badly needed Library repairs and limited funding resources, but all of this can be surmounted by critical, strategic long-term thinking, thorough analysis and prioritizing what makes us special. Together we can do it!

Thank you and I would be honored for you vote on April 10th.

CITY COUNCIL APPOINTS SUE SPEARS AS CITY CLERK TO FILL UNEXPIRED TERM

Sierra Madre, CA. - March 2, 2018 - The City Council unanimously appointed Sue Spears to fill the unexpired term of the City Clerk at the Council meeting on February 27, 2018. Ms. Spears and her husband, Bob, are longtime residents of Sierra Madre. For many years, together and individually, have volunteered in various Sierra Madre organizations and activities. Ms. Spears is currently the Grants Chairperson of the Sierra Madre Community Foundation and a member of the Mt. Wilson Trail Race Committee. In 1985, Mr. and Mrs. Spears purchased, exemplary manner."

The appointment to City Clerk is a result of the resignation of elected City Clerk Melinda Carrillo. Ms. Carrillo resigned as City Clerk in early January. The Council immediately began soliciting applications to complete the unexpired City Clerk term. Several applications were received and the decision to appoint was not an easy one for the City Council. When asked about the appointment, Mayor Rachelle Arizmendi stated that "given the number of qualified candidates that applied, I am confident about our decision to appoint Sue Spears to complete the

IN SIERRA MADRE, EVERYTHING'S COMING UP ROSES.....FOR NOW

City will be faced with insurmountable financial troubles should Ballot Méasure D pass

Times have been going well of late in Sierra Madre. The Council has been working responsibly to address the challenges of maintaining the excellent quality of life that residents enjoy.

Sierra Madre has retained its Police Department and elevated the Fire Department from a volunteer department to a fully funded one.

City services have been restored to normal levels after a few years of major staff reductions. The city has overcome the issues with its water, and Public Works has been relentless in in their efforts to maintain Sierra Madre's infrastructure. Much of this has been accomplished in the short time that City Manager Gabe Engeland.

In the next few weeks you will her Mayor Rachelle Arizmendi deliver The State of the City Address which will give a more detailed description of how the city is doing, now. However, the future of the city and its future prosperity will be in the hands of voters on April 10, 2018 when decisions will be made on who will sit on the council for the next four years and whether or not the Utility Users Tax (Measure D), will be abolished.

Measure D proponents want to end the tax that is paid by both homeowners, renters and commercial properties. Îf the Measure passes, the city would lose 24% of its General Fund revenue.

At Tuesday's council meeting the city manager explained what such a reduction would mean. One resident called the reality of abolishing the UUT 'sobering'.

According to Mayor Arizmendi, "A total repeal of the UUT would decimate the City as we know it. We may be able to sustain for one year- but we would eventually need to consider extreme measures such as disincorporating. Given that 72% of voters in 2016 decided that maintaining the UUT at the current rate was best for our community- I am confident that they understand the dire repercussions of the measure passing. We need residents to vote No on D".

REMEMBRANCE JAMES MICHAEL POET

March 30, 1935 - February 15, 2018

ARCADIA - James Michael Poet of Sierra Madre died Thursday, Feb. 15, 2018 in Arcadia, CA. at the age of

Known to his friends and family as "Opa," he was best known for his "need for speed," his love of building fast cars and fast motorcycles, his generosity, and his willingness to tell a good story. At 82 years old, one could still see Opa riding his Haley Davidson around town or cruising in his iconic 1932 Ford Coupe hotrod. Opa lived life his way and on his terms.

Opa spent his working career in the automotive industry and earned numerous Service Awards from the Toyota Corporation. Always one to value hardwork, Opa would often say, "...a good job is a clean job." And in this, he led by example.

He is survived by his wife Eva Poet and his children James Curtis Poet, Cheri Hardesty, Mark Lambdin, and Glenn Lambdin.

Also surviving are grandchildren Cassandra Merrill, Sara Hardesty-Davis, Eric Hardesty, James Forrest Poet, Michelle Poet, Kathryn LaFleur, Eli Lambdin, William Lambdin, Taylor Ingram, and Joel Ingram.

A Celebration of Life Service was held on Saturday, Feb. 24, 2018, in Monrovia and was attended by friends, family, hotrods and Harleys. Opa's final BYWA was celebrated by a parade of hotrods, Harleys, and burnouts ending with a picnic and a gathering of friends and family at Sierra Madre Memorial Park.

Walking Sierra Madre...The Social Side

by Deanne Davis

"True love is an act of the will - a conscious decision to do what is best for the other person instead of ourselves."

"Love is not only 'the union of two good forgivers' but also 'the union of two good appreciators." Ruth Bell Graham

What a long, extraordinary life Billy Graham lived. Can you imagine the scene in heaven when he arrived? Millions standing in line to shake his hand and thank him for changing their lives by telling them about a life with Jesus as one's personal savior. My best friend, John, was there to say hello, too. When Billy Graham held his crusade at the Rose Bowl November 18-21, 2004, we were counselors. What a thrill to hear him speak and then as people began pouring out of the seats and heading forward, we were there to help them with the next step toward a changed life. I still have my badge! I pinned it on my kitchen curtain and there it has remained. Well, the curtain has changed along the way but the badge keeps

If you haven't been down to that charming center at 38 E. Montecito, you need to go! Not only do we have our own splendid brewery, the RT Rogers Brewing Company, but Susan Wallis, the stained and leaded glass designer who also restores stained glass is in Suite #7, next door to Michael Hill and his WoodHill Designs in fine furniture of the Greene and Greene era. If you stop in to RT Rogers Brewing Company, you can see several examples of Michael's exquisite work.

But there's a new guy down there in Suite 4, Matt Flentie, owner and proprietor of Big Daddy's Garage Home Décor. t situated among some of th games you've ever seen - ones like Asteroids, Paper Boy, Captain Fantastic's Elton John Pinball, and Pole Position for the Racing fanatics, but they all work and Matt's brother-in-law, who is the pinball expert, repairs and recycles these machines and YOU could come down and play on them!

Not only is Matt running a new and exciting business featuring items that would delight anyone who wants something a little outside the usual stuff you'd find on your wall, but he's totally involved here in town with our Little If you've ever wondered what happened to that crown of League kids. Last Saturday was opening day and Matt was there all day with the little people on the T-Ball Reds team, starting Friday night with the team and all the parents decorating the truck that would carry the team through town on Saturday. Matt's two nephews, who are five and seven are part of the T-Ball Reds with their dad as Coach and Uncle Matt is their Assistant Coach. Matt's waiting impatiently for his little girl, who is about 18 months old, to get involved, too.

Matt spent seven years as a Special Ed teacher and anyone who knows a special ed kid also knows what a challenge they are. Reaching one of those crossroads moments where one either invests in all the additional education necessary to keep going or one turns in another direction, Matt had an opportunity to get into the sales side of online education and spent the next ten years there. But then, another of those crossroads moments came along and Matt had the chance to get into what he's loving doing right now, which is online sales of totally hip stuff for the home, the office, the man cave, like the sign Matt is holding here in the picture. He's having the best time selling American Pop Culture photos, reproductions of vintage toys like the Popeye Bank and Mr. Peanut that are cast iron and have been distressed to look like they came out of somebody's grandpa's garage from 1930. These things are really neat!

Big Daddy's Garage right there at 38 E. Montecito is a cool place to hang out, as more and more people are discovering. Comfy couches, arcade games, Little League folks, it's a fun family hangout. Come in and take a look. You're going to find something you didn't realize you needed to spruce up your den. Big Daddy's online sales include signs that light up, framed art, light fixtures, wall décor. Take a look at their website: www.bigdaddysgarage. net. But Matt says you'll get a better deal on price if you stop in. If you've always wanted one of those beer signs or just about anything you once saw in your best friend's dad's Garage is the pla in one place!

Reward Extended In Altadena 2013 Murder

The Board of Supervisors animously approved motion reestablishing unanimously $20,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and/or conviction of a suspect or suspects responsible for the murder of Marcus Nieto (pictured above).

Nieto's body was discovered on the Áltadena Crest horse trail by two riders on horseback on February 16, 2013. Investigators have confirmed that Marcus Nieto left his residence to visit an acquaintance in Pomona but may have returned to the Covina/ Azusa area at some point before he went missing. The Medical Examiner-Coroner has determined the mode of death to be a homicide. The $20,000 reward offer approved by the Board in April, 2014 has since expired.

to Prevent School Violence

Supervisor Kathryn Barger announced that the Board of Supervisors has unanimously approved a motion she coauthored with Supervisor Janice Hahn to enhance the role of the county's School Threat Assessment Response Team (START) program.

To prevent campus violence through early identification and intervention of at-risk youths and young adults, the Department of Mental Health created START in 2009 to partner with the Federal Bureau of Investigation to develop a regional approach to targeted school violence.

"Early identification and intervention are vital in our mutual effort to identify and prevent possible incidents of school violence," said Supervisor Barger. cannot ignore the red flags and we must actively seek out troubled young people and get them the help they need before a tragedy occurs."

START is currently staffed with 10 clinicians working with local law enforcement to respond to reports of potential school violence. In the past year, START conducted interventions with 127 students and in the past week START has received 63 referrals. Since the deadly shooting at Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School, local law enforcement have intervened in credible threats of violence against schools in Whittier, Long Beach, Santa Clarita, Inglewood, Bellflower, Los Angeles, and Cerritos.

I have no doubt that START has saved lives," said Supervisor Hahn. "But they are stretched thin. In a county of 10 million residents, we need more than 10 people working on this issue. We need to give them the resources they need to take every single threat seriously because our children's lives are at stake."

County staff will provide a report back to the Board in 30-days with recommendations including program expansion.

CALIFORNIA'S DEADLIEST EARTHQUAKES

Historian Abe Hoffman, author of recently released California's Deadliest Earthquakes, will talk about the personal accounts and aftermath of California's most destructive tremors on Saturday, April 7, 4:00 p.m. at the Duarte Historical Museum, 777 Encanto Parkway, Duarte.

More than 3,000 persons died in the 1906 San Francisco quake, and Long Beach's 1933 temblor caused a loss of nearly $50 Million Dollars. Thousands were injured in the more recent Northridge earthquake. And then there are quakes not so famous such as the Whittier Narrows shake up in 1987, the Loma Prieta "World Series" quake in 1989, and the many quake events in Early California.

Learn why California has more earth quakes than any other state in the Nation, and what you can do to prepare for the one that is coming. Professor Hoffman warns: "And be assured, there is one coming."

He will sign and sell his book following the talk. Admission is free. Space is limited.

THE CITY'S NEW GOMONROVIA MOBILITY PROGRAM LAUNCHING MARCH 17, 2018...

And it Will Feature $0.50 Lyft Rides and a Dockless Bikeshare Program!

On Tuesday, February 20, 2018, the City Council next few weeks, staff will be conducting outreach to approved a completely revamped Monrovia Transit model! The new, multi-modal transportation program, called GoMonrovia, leverages the strengths of two thriving private companies - the car-sharing provider Lyft, and the dockless bike-sharing provider LimeBike - in partnership with the City's existing dial-a-ride operator, to provide fast and affordable transportation all throughout Monrovia.

Typically, suburban communities have relied on limited dial-a-ride type programs to address transportation-related matters. Our new model is an innovative way of responding to a complicated problem by providing first mile-last mile transportation from existing transit stops, as well as providing expanded options for folks to get around town without needing to rely solely on driving their own car.

Starting March 17, 2018, those who live, work, and are visiting Monrovia can take advantage of our enhanced public-private transit program through Lyft to take a ride anywhere in our service area for just

Yes... you read that right... starting on March 17, 2018, you'll be able to take a Lyft ride anywhere in the Monrovia service area for just $0.50! For the price of a postage stamp, people can't afford not to hop in a GoMonrovia Lyft and go!

Note that our current dial-a-ride service will continue to operate to serve riders with ADA-related and wheelchair needs. Since those riders without ADA needs will be using Lyft, we expect that response times for riders with ADA needs will also improve. In the in the coming weeks!

current Monrovia Transit riders to inform them of these exciting improvements.

Additionally, the community is about to get a lot more green – lime green to be exact! LimeBike, one of the nation's leading bike-share providers, will begin operating in Monrovia. Unlike traditional bike-share services that require you to pick up and drop off bikes at a few designated dock locations, LimeBike is completely dockless! After downloading the LimeBike app, riders simply locate a nearby bike on the map using GPS technology, scan the code to unlock the bike, and ride to their destination! Once there, riders park in a safe location out of the right-of-way, and lock the bike using the built-in locking mechanism.

LimeBikes are available for $1.00 for a 30-minute ride, or $29.95 for 100 rides per month, or less with a student discount for adult riders.

Over the next few weeks, staff will be working to finalize the remaining details of the GoMonrovia program, including adding information to a dedicated webpage. Public Works will also be hard at work painting and installing bike rack locations in Old Town and at Station Square.

The GoMonrovia program officially launches this St. Patrick's Day, on March 17, 2018! The City hopes you can join us on Saturday, March 17, 2018 at 9 a.m. in Library Park as we roll out our community's new set of shared wheels, and celebrate the launch with a short Community Bike Ride at 10 a.m.! We will be sure to keep you informed as we further develop this program

PUPPY LOVE, A GIFT OF ALLOPARENT WIRING

Few things incite my interest more than learning to subsidize "puppy days" for stressed-out students during better understand the relationship between human and canine. This is likely true due to the inordinate amount of time I spend with my four-legged furry friends, but I also believe that anyone who's had even a moment's experience cuddling a precious pup would be interested in understanding how and why it made them feel so good, or why they felt so compelled to protect the pup from harm.

Abigail Marsh, Ph.D. is a professor of psychology with a focus on social and affective neuroscience at Georgetown University. Marsh has conducted extensive research related to the scientific factors that lie behind all forms of human emotion, including what she refers to as 'the science of cute'. Dr. Marsh wrote about her findings in "The Fear Factor", a book she published in October, 2017.

Before I go any further with this Happy Tail, I must "paws" a moment to thank my dear friend and fellow Sierra Madrean, Maggie Ellis for tuning me into this fascinating subject through a link to a Washington Post article written by Dr. Marsh, this past week. Thanks, as always for the inspiration and for your sincere love of the animals, Maggie!

In Marsh's Washington Post article, she mentions Grammy Award Show host, James Corden's providing a puppy to each of the nominees who did not win an award this year. It came as a big surprise to all, both on stage and in the audience.

Corden was strongly criticized by viewers who posted comments in social media, basically bashing him for an act they thought to be in extremely bad taste. Things cooled down when it became clear that the pups were not being handed over permanently, and they were not put in harms way during their brief appearance on the show. The intention was to provide puppy love to those who didn't win; to encourage them in their moment of loss.

Personally, I think it was a sweet gesture that added an interesting twist to a potentially all-too-predictable awards ceremony. Pup recipient Jerry Seinfeld was a prime example of how, what may have been an awkward moment with a forced smile to hide disappointment, was replaced with an expression of genuine delight when he looked into the face of that adorable tiny canine!

"I challenge anyone to be unhappy while holding a months-old, fat-pawed, sleepy-faced puppy", says Dr. Marsh, in the article. She then recounts one of her own happiest memories, had during a visit with her brother to a farm in northern Scotland nearly 20 years ago.

She remembers being cold and wet and not understanding a word of what the people were saying with their Scottish accents - not exactly her best day ever! Then the farmer came out with five border collie puppies and piled them into her arms. Marsh described her response as "...nearly melting from the warmth of pure joy." Those puppies quite literally broke the ice and made her day.

That experience furthered Marsh's interest in understanding the basis of human care and compassion - topics that remain the focus of her research at Georgetown University today.

You can always count on a puppy to bring joy to one's heart. They are so good at it that universities exams, shelters arrange puppy therapy sessions for office workers and hospitals invite therapy dogs in to help calm and comfort their patients.

I love how Marsh describes the mystery of it all; Puppies are a mess. They pee everywhere. They are a progeny of carnivores who bite and attack millions of people every year...So why would mere contact with them be a source of such universal delight that the half of Twitter not lambasting Corden for insensitive treatment was wishing for consolation puppies of their own?"

The answer partly lies in what scientists have discovered to be a form of human hard-wiring referred to as "alloparenting", which translates to 'other parenting'. As part of our instincts, we humans have developed a drive for alloparenting, to ensure the survival of our species. We are not only wired to care for our own vulnerable babies, but unlike most other animals, we are also willing to care for babies that are not our own.

How does that relate to "puppy love"? It seems our instinct for alloparenting even carries over to cute & vulnerable youth of other species, not just that of human. This is, in part due to the strong emotions elicited in us when we see objects that possess similar characteristics to those of a baby.

Also, when we touch a baby, we experience the release of a chemical called oxytocin in our brain, which brings on the warm and fuzzy emotions we are all so familiar with. What's interesting is, we can have a similar experience when we cuddle a cute puppy! The phenomenon involves the senses of both vision and touch.

The visual connection has been made through research by use of images depicting objects having a specific set of physical traits to which we humans respond favorably, which thus became the "science of cute". Studies show we humans respond emotionally to objects, whether animate or inanimate, that possess shapes, proportionate sizes and colors which echo the physical characteristics of a baby.

For example, an object that is rounded is more likely to trigger empathy than one with sharp edges because a rounded shape is more similar to a baby or to a baby's face. The same goes for objects which posses similar color and proportionate size (pink skin, large forehead, big eyes, fat cheeks, etc). So the next time you look into the big beautiful eyes of a fluffy puppy and you feel the urge to be it's mommy (or daddy), you'll know you've experienced the instinctual phenomenon of alloparenting. And to that I say, keep it up! Love and let live!

Yogic Wisdom for Everyday Life Move, Breathe, Create

life – the past, present, and future.

Asana (yoga poses) addresses our past by working within the body. Have you ever heard that the body is a "memory bank" of our experiences? This applies to both short-term and long-term experiences. The stress of something that happened 20 years ago can literally still be in the body. Day-to-day, our bodies are continually affected by our environment as well as what we eat and what we think. A good yoga class can aid the body in releasing accumulated stress, immediately and over time, as a student continues in their practice. Think chiseling away at a beautiful sculpture or removing cobwebs from the eaves. Once the excess is removed, you can see clearly what's underneath. Our body is the same; asana clears the cobwebs and releases tension so that we can move

Pranayama brings us in the present moment. You have asana - the can observe your breath in the here and now. In physical practice, creating a rhythm with the breath, its unconscious pranayama-- the breath practice, and meditation-- pattern is changed, directly affecting the present the practice of devotion to the divine and stillness. moment. You know this when you take intentional Interestingly, each practice can be related back to our deep breaths. They can calm you down, energize you, or create a desired effect. The breath is the first place to go to cultivate present moment awareness

Finally, meditation addresses the future. Meditation is the place where stillness and oneness with the Divine take place. Over time, this devotion will bring authenticity and freedom to you. This is one of the best places to move forward in life and live fully and freely. The practice of stillness has farreaching benefits beyond compare.

On those words, dive into yoga! Melt stress away, be in the moment and create a bright future through your yoga practice. Ask questions and get started, contact me today: keely@keelytotten.com.

WOMEN'S HISTORY MONTH -THE WOMEN THAT INSPIRE US

March is Women's History Month, a time when we honor eligibility as "any citizen or person." the contributions of women to society.

When we endeavor to accomplish something new and never tried before, there will be resistance. We will get stuck because of doubt and fear. We ask ourselves, "Can I do this? Or even worse, "Who am I to do this?" I want to remind power questions is, "is there some good in it for others?"

This month we will look at the work of ordinary women that followed their dreams and made our communities

This week I feature Clara Shortridge Foltz a lawyer, lecturer, suffragette, and reformer. She was the first woman to practice law in California, the first woman admitted to Hastings College of Law, the first female deputy district attorney in the country, and the creator of the public defender system.

She started her career when her husband abandoned her with five small children. She knew that she needed to increase her skills to provide for her family and decided to become a lawyer. The first hurdle she encountered was that the practice was limited to white male citizens. She responded by drafting the Women Lawyers Bill that defined

Her new code section passed the Lori A. Harris legislature, but the governor was hesitant to sign until she forced a meeting with her and he signed it the last day before the session closed.

Our federal constitution provides for a jury trial and the you to start with why. When an idea comes to you, think presumption of innocence, but Clara soon realized that about the people you will help, and serve. One of my favorite was a meaningless platitude for indigent people charged with crimes without competent legal representation. Foltz advocated for the establishment of the public defender system. Her model statute for the concept was introduced in 32 states. Los Angeles County opened the first public defender office in 1913. Our county is home to the largest and oldest public defender firm in the country.

The work of Clara Shortridge Foltz improved life for everyone. I imagine there were times when she had doubts, was discouraged and sometimes she was afraid; but she continued to pursue her dreams, and we are all helped by her courage. What idea is stirring inside of you? The first step is to listen and get going.

Lori is a lawyer and coach. She works with people to help them live the life of their dreams. You can learn more about her at www.LoriAHarris.com.

Two married couples have been best friends for years. Karen and Gabe, international food writers, are giving a dinner for Beth and Tom, which he doesn't attend. It emerges from the heartbroken Beth that he has left her for another woman. Gabe and Karen are almost as crushed, having expected "to grow old and fat together, the four of us" and the shock causes them to take a long, hard look at their own marriage.

COULD YOU HAVE DIABETES?

Dear Savvy Senior,

My brother and his wife, who are ages 60 and 56, were recently diagnosed with type 2 diabetes, and prediabetes, and neither one had a clue. Could I have it too?

Concerned Sibling

Dear Concerned,

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention nearly 115 million Americans have diabetes or prediabetes today, but most of them don't even know they have it. Here's how to know if you're at risk.

The problem with diabetes is that most people don't start thinking about it until they're diagnosed, and that's too late. Diabetes is a disease that develops over decades. Most people have prediabetes for a long time before the disease becomes full-blown type 2 diabetes, and even then it progresses gradually. That leaves a big window in which to stop, slow or reverse the disease.

Diabetes occurs when the pancreas doesn't produce enough insulin to remove sugar from the bloodstream. Excess blood sugar damages blood vessels and affects circulation, putting you at risk for a host of ailments, from heart attack and stroke to blindness, kidney failure and nerve damage.

Are You At Risk?

If you answer "yes" to any of the following questions, your odds of developing diabetes increases.

- Are you over age 45?
- Are you overweight?
- Do you have high blood pressure 140/90 or help, many medications are available.
- Do you have a parent or sibling with diabetes?
- Are you sedentary?
- Are you African American, Hispanic/Latino American, Native American, Asian American, Pacific Islander, or Alaska native?
- Did you develop gestational diabetes during pregnancy?

To help you determine your risk of developing diabetes, take the free online quiz at Diabetes.org/ risk-test.jsp.

If you find that you're at risk for diabetes, there are three different tests your doctor can give you to diagnosis it. The most common is the "fasting plasma glucose test," which requires an eight-hour fast before you take it. There's also the "oral glucose tolerance test" to see how your body processes sugar, and the "hemoglobin A1C test" that measures your average blood sugar over the past three months. It can be taken anytime regardless of when you ate.

Most private health insurance plans and Medicare cover diabetes tests, however, if you're reluctant to visit your doctor to get tested, an alternative is to go to the drug store, buy a blood glucose meter and test yourself at home.

Some top options, recommended by Consumer Reports, include FreeStyle Freedom Lite, Bayer Contour Next, True Metrix Blood Glucose Meter, OneTouch UltraMini, and the ReliOn (Wal-Mart) Micro, which all cost under $25.

If you find that you are prediabetic or diabetic, you need to see your doctor to develop a plan to get it under control.

In many cases lifestyle changes like losing weight, exercising, eating a healthy diet and cutting back on carbohydrates may be all you need to do to get your diabetes under control. For others who need more

For more information on diabetes or to find help, join a lifestyle change program recognized by the CDC (see CDC.gov/diabetes/prevention) that offers in-person and online programs in more than 1,400 locations throughout the U.S. Over the course of a year, a coach will help you eat healthy, increase your physical activity and develop new habits.

I'M ALL OVER "CRAZY WEEK!"

America" week. So I hope you eggs and ham in honor of Dr. Seuss!

I'm not a morning person, and I'm especially not a morning person on Monday mornings. This past Monday was no different. My outfits for work are determined primarily by what's the most comfortable I can get away with while still appearing somewhat professional. My make up consists of eye liner, which has the staying power of industrial paint, so I apply it once at 6:30 and never touch it again until I take it off around 10 pm. My hair is tamed, not styled. Overall, if my look can't be achieved in 15 minutes or less, it's not happening.

When I got to work on Monday, one of the first students I saw was a peppy sixth grader we'll call Linda. Linda often dresses somewhat loudly, but that day she was actually wearing mismatched socks. "Nice socks," I told her, not sarcastically. Heck, she's more fashionable than I am and knows all the latest trends. "This is Crazy Sock Day." she replied matter-offactly.

"What?" asked, momentarily stirred from my morning mental fog. I reached down to pull up my jeans above my ankles, exposing my well-worn Split Pea Anderson's socks, complete with Hap-Pea and Pea-Wee splitting peas on a table with a mallet. "Ha! This is the first time I've ever been in sync with the school theme!" I told her. Linda politely smiled, clearly not as excited about this as I was. "And tomorrow's Crazy Hat

Day," she said. I thought about all the hats my mom has knitted me in recent years. While not to wear a special mom-made hat to school and to dress "crazy," they are definitely unique. "I'm on it!" I comfortably this week. I can't wait to see what they exclaimed to Linda, "What's after that." "Crazy have in store for St. Patrick's. I have my leprechaun Hair Day," she answered. "Hey, that's everyday sweat pants and shamrock hoodie ready!

I regret to say that I am guilty, for me!" I beamed. "And the next day?" I asked. again, of recycling an article "Hmm, I forget." "Maybe Crazy Sweat Pants Day," from last year. But I've updated I mused, thinking I could get used to this. Linda it slightly and it is still seasonal, furrowed her brows in concentration, "No, I don't as this was "Read Across think so." Oh well, can't have everything...

It turned out that Thursday was Twin Day. I enjoy it and that you eat green wore my "Preserve Sierra Madre" shirt and pretended that there was someone else on campus wearing the same thing (kids will believe anything). Friday was College Attire, which worked for me because I collect comfy shirts from various colleges, even ones I've never attended. Why, you ask, devote a whole week to wearing odd things? Because yesterday was Read Across America Day, a.k.a. the birthday of Theodor Seuss Geisel, a.k.a. Dr. Seuss.

much as the next person. In fact, somewhere there's a photo of me with my mom and grandma in the dead of summer in the 80's, sweating it out in line at Vroman's in Pasadena waiting to have a book signed by the legend himself. I even admire the lesser-known art of Dr. Seuss, his paintings, and the 1953 film "The 5,00 Fingers of Dr. T," which rivals any Vincente Minnelli piece in its surreal beauty and dreamlike quality. But I think we've gotten a bit carried away in our elevation of him to the same sacred literary status as Shakespeare, Emerson, and F. Scott Fitzgerald. If I have to hear "Oh, The Places You'll Go" quoted during another graduation speech I think I'll puke. "Green Eggs and Ham" is creative and memorable, but it isn't divinely inspired. I wonder what Theodore himself would say if he knew the depth of veneration paid to his memory in primary and secondary schools nationwide. I expect he'd blush and tell them not to take things so seriously. That being said, it was kind of nice to have an excuse

ESO'S VLT WORKING AS 16-METER TELESCOPE FOR FIRST TIME

The ESPRESSO instrument on ESO's Very Large Telescope in Chile has used the combined light of all four of the 8.2-meter Unit Telescopes for the first time. Combining light from the Unit Telescopes in this way makes the VLT the largest optical telescope in existence in terms of collecting

One of the original design goals of ESO's Very Large Telescope was for its four Unit Telescopes (UTs) to work together to create a single giant telescope. With the first light of the ESPRESSO spectrograph using the four-Unit-Telescope mode of the VLT, this milestone has now been reached.

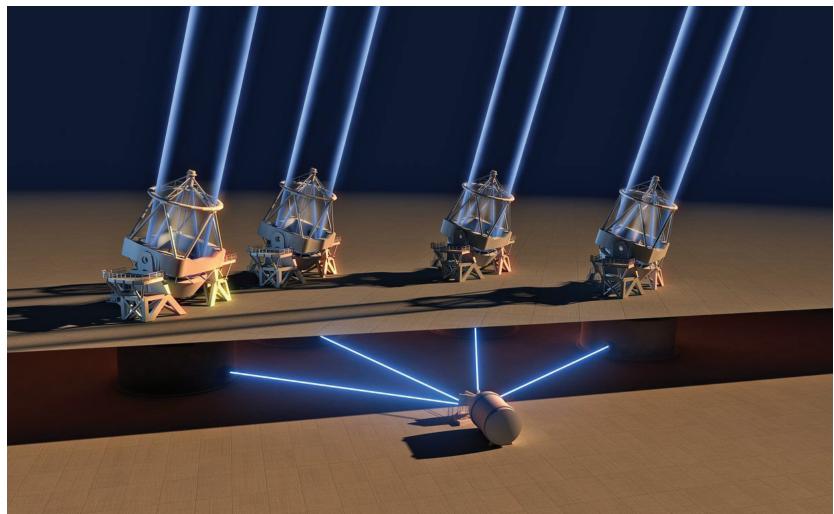

After extensive preparations by the ESPRESSO consortium (led by the Astronomical Observatory of the University of Geneva, with the participation of research centers from Italy, Portugal, Spain and Switzerland) and ESO staff, ESO's Director General Xavier Barcons initiated this historic astronomical observation with the push of a button in the control room.

ESPRESSO instrument scientist at ESO, Gaspare Lo Curto, explains the historical significance of this event: "ESO has realized a dream that dates back to the time when the VLT was conceived in the 1980s: combining the light of all four Unit Telescopes on Cerro Paranal to feed a single instrument!"

When all four 8.2-metre Unit Telescopes combine their light-collecting power to feed a single instrument, the VLT effectively becomes the largest optical telescope in the world in terms of collecting area.

Two of the main scientific goals of ESPRESSO are the discovery and characterization of Earthlike planets and the search for possible variability of the fundamental constants of physics. The latter experiments in particular require the observation of distant and faint quasars, and this science goal will benefit the most from combining the light from all four Unit Telescopes in ESPRESSO. Both rely on the ultra-high stability of the instrument and an extremely stable reference light source.

Due to the complexity involved, the combination of light from all four Unit Telescopes in this way, at what is known as an "incoherent focus", had not been implemented until now. However, space for it was built into the telescopes and the underground structure of the mountaintop from the start.

A system of mirrors, prisms and lenses infrastructure. transmits the light from each VLT Unit Telescope to the ESPRESSO spectrograph up to 69 meters away. Thanks to these complex optics, ESPRESSO can either collect the light from up to all four Unit Telescopes together, increasing its lightgathering power, or alternatively receive light from any one of the Unit Telescopes independently, allowing for more flexible usage of observing time. ESPRESSO was specially developed to exploit this information never previously available. This new facility is a game-changer for astronomy with highresolution spectrographs. It makes use of novel concepts, such as wavelength calibration aided by a laser frequency comb, providing unprecedented combines the beams "coherently," cannot exploit precision and repeatability, and now the capability the huge light-gathering potential of the combined to join together the light-collecting power of the four individual Unit Telescopes.

Light from the four Unit Telescopes is routinely brought together in the VLT Interferometer for the study of extremely fine detail in comparatively bright objects. But interferometry, which telescopes to study faint objects.

Still, everyone who I know who's made "survival skills" a serious avocation knows that there are some very real fears that always lurk in the background, in the possible and potential future.

"Grid down" is a very rational fear, as some of you might have concluded after reading my review of Ted Koppel's book "Lights Out."

availability of electricity, we need to recognize that the "grid" is a very fragile thing. The U.S. actually has three grids that are linked—Eastern, Western and Texas. As private individuals, we have no control of the grid. We live in our world of electricity -- power, lights, gas, and all that goes with it. Private or state-sponsored terrorists could inject a virus to cause havoc in our computer-driven age.

EMP is another legitimate fear for disrupting the grid. Millions heat their homes and light their world with electricity. Many oil heaters use an electric switch to turn them on. If an EMP hit, our love affair with computers would be over or at least seriously challenged. Most systems in your home would no longer work. If you have solar electricity in your home, you might be able to keep a few things going, like your refrigerator for a few hours a day. In some cases, those who have generators will be able to continue running some things, but generators use a lot of fuel. How much fuel does the average person have stored? Enough to last a week or a month? What happens after that?

Most folks do not have a large supply of batteries. How long before those are gone?

In a grid-down world, we will not be able to buy gas, because those pumps are all electric. Though you could store fuel, most urban folks do not do so because it is not considered worth the while.

Kerosene stores for a very long time, and with frugal use, you would be able to cook on camp stoves and have old time lanterns for light. Today, they have excellent kerosene heaters that are fairly inexpensive. It might be prudent to have a few on hand.

Wind generators are common in the high wind areas of the local deserts, but they are noisy and generally not practical for urban homes. They also have maintenance problems which solar panels do not. Still, wind generators could be a viable option for some.

If you have a bike in a post grid-down scenario, it have a horse, that could work also. We have grown so accustomed to private vehicles that if we all suddenly to so many of the problems facing us all.

[Nyerges is the author of "How couldn't get gas, just going to buy food would be a to Survive Anywhere," "Self- hardship.

Those who study sustainable societies and sustainable technologies know that only the low-tech books. He leads on-going methods are sustainable long-term. For example, classes in self-reliance and one excellent low-tech technology is the zeer pots, which would help to preserve foods that spoil rapidly without a refrigerator. Zeer pots are cheap and easy to I study survival skills because I feel it imparts me with 🛾 set up. This is essentially a clay pot in a clay pot. You a here-and-now feeling of self-reliance and confidence need a very large unglazed clay pot, or flower pot. Cover the bottom with about 2 inches of wet sand. Be sure to plug the hole in the bottom of the pot. The second pot must be able to fit inside the larger pot, and you tuck in wet sand all around the sides, between the two pots. The smaller pot can be glazed, or you use a copper or an aluminum pot as well. Make sure the sand between the pots is all wet. Cover the top with a wet cloth. Place in the shade where a breeze will hit it. You keep your food in the inner pot. This Since our entire way of life is so linked to the will keep a lot of foods from spoiling before you can eat it, and it works! Details of the zeer pot can be found in my "How to Survive Anywhere" book, pages 81-83. Mohammed Bah Abbah, a potter in a small Nigerian village, invented the method to meet a local need where there was no electricity. Abbah won several awards for this simple technology in 2001. In a grid-down world, without electricity, your life would be far different – a world which most of us have never known. I think we take for granted certain services that are almost invisible, like garbage pickup. Since that happy service will be gone, you will see how amazingly fast a place will fill up with garbage. Of course, if you simply couldn't go to a store and buy something, an amazing amount of that garbage will be pressed into service and recycled to fill some need.

Éven during times of prolonged crises - such as war or economic depression - people have learned to survive and thrive by filling the everyday needs of their fellow neighbors. These skills that never go out of style include gardening, canning and drying foods, electrical repairs, auto repairs, maintaining bicycles, making clothing, etc.etc.

I really hope none of the potential tragedies that seem always potential never happen. Our wonderful way of life could be erased in a minute. But if you find that the unsustainable slowly or suddenly because nonviable, and things change rapidly, be positive and flexible as you work with others towards viable solutions. I don't think of myself as a "survivalist" but I do know that the skills of camping, bushcraft, food production, local organization, self-defense (an/d many related skills) are the glue that binds us, and keeps us alive as a civilized

But don't pursue "survival skills" because of fear. There is a feeling of joy and fulfilment that goes hand-in-hand with learning and applying the skills that our forefathers took for granted. Learning these skills might work well for personal transportation. If you in a group setting is a great way to bring family and friends together, and is therefore an amazing solution

WISHING CAN BE HAZARDOUS TO YOUR HEALTH

The last several months have been rather busy with been carrying this shingles virus all these years. hardly a break anywhere. Sometimes the Gracious I did not know I had a "carrying license" for Mistress of the Parsonage and I get so busy we shingles. Why doesn't the government get on that? forget about the necessity of taking a break every now and then. Soon one day becomes just like the From then on, these shingles went crazy. They were last day. And tomorrow? Will be just like today.

We did take a little break and went out for supper owned it. one evening at one of our favorite restaurants. This has become a rather rare occasion and so we tried to enjoy the moment as much as we could.

We were chit chatting and enjoying our company as the waitress brought our food to us. It was a delicious meal and I was beginning to enjoy myself, maybe just a little too much. "You know," I said rather cheerfully, "what I really wish for?"

Not knowing where I'm coming from my wife said, "I really have no idea what you're wishing for right now. Just be careful what you wish for."

Staring off into space a little bit I responded by saying, "I wish I could take a week off and do nothing?

When she finished laughing she said, "Don't wish for something that you can't follow through on. You know that's not possible."

Together we laughed and enjoyed that far-reaching impossible idea. A week later, almost to the day, I was scheduled to go to my doctor for blood work. I don't know why doctors are so interested in blood, especially my blood. It was on a Monday and the day before I had pain in my right shoulder all the way down to my fingertips. I figured I would ask the doctor when I was in for my scheduled appointment. I assumed I had a pinched nerve somewhere.

I showed my arm to the doctor and there was a little rash beginning to develop near my elbow. The doctor looked at that, smiled wickedly and said, "You have shingles."

I have heard of shingles, but I did not know anything about it. I did not know if I should call for some roofing contractor to work on my shingles or After further examination, he confirmed his first guess and said, "You do have shingles and it's good that you're here today because we got it just The doctor went out of the room, came back in the room, went out of the room and came back in the room all the time smiling. Up to this time, he had not been able to find anything wrong with me. His comment always has been, "A person your age should have something wrong with them.'

Are you happy now, Dr. Dracula?

In first grade, I had chickenpox and so I have is www.whatafellowship.com.

The visit with the doctor was just the beginning. dancing up and down my right arm as though they

I really would not mind the dancing it was the pain that caught my attention.

Up to this point, I thought I knew what pain was all about. Boy was I wrong.

The shingles virus affects the nervous system and it was from the top of my shoulder to the tip of my fingers. I never experience pain like this

For the next week, my wish for nothing to do came true, proving my wife was really wrong. I spent most of the time in bed doing nothing but groaning in pain. I'm not sure this was what I had in mind in my wish.

For every bad thing that happens there is always something good that comes out of it. The good that came out of this was I lost 11 pounds during that week. I'm not recommending this as a form of diet, but I did lose that weight and I guess I'm thankful for that.

However, for every good thing that happens there is always some bad element to it. The good was I lost 11 pounds. The bad was, my trousers now won't stay up. I must be careful as I walk around because I might lose those trousers. (A full moon tonight.)

I was feeling really sorry for myself. My right arm is only about 75% active right now. That is a real bummer to be sure. I managed to go to Wendy's and as I was in the drive-through lane waiting for my turn to order I saw a man come out of the restaurant and he did not have a right arm.

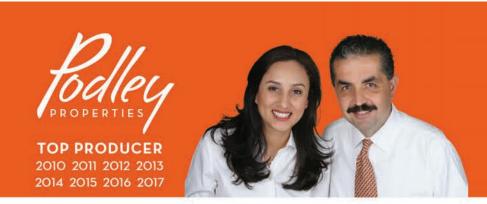

When I saw that I became thankful for the pain I had because at least my arm was intact and one day this pain will go away.

The apostle Paul understood this when he wrote, "Giving thanks always for all things unto God and the Father in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ" (Ephesians 5:20).

It's very easy to complain about something that you are going through, but when you see someone else going through something worse, it is a point to which you can really thank God. My thanks to God is not based upon good times, but rather the faithfulness of God to get me through bad times.

The median list price is $1,180,000

Demand measured by the Market Action Index is increasing and days-on-market is trending downward. Even as more properties come available, these are positive trends for the market.

Supply and Demand

In the last few weeks the market has achieved a relative stasis point in terms of sales to inventory. However, inventory is sufficiently low to keep us in the Seller's Market zone so watch changes in the MAI. If the market heats up, prices are likely to resume an upward climb.

The Market Action Index answers the question "How's the Market?" by measuring the current rate of sale versus the amount of the inventory. Index above 30 implies Seller's Market conditions. Below 30, conditions favor the buyer.

Price

The market appears to be hovering around these current levels, though prices movved up a bit this week. The Market Action Index is a good leading indicator for the durability of this shift.

Reverend Billy Graham touched many people throughout the world . Bob Dylan in an interview with AARP mentioned the lifelong impact Billy Graham had on his life. He called Billy Graham "the greatest preacher and evangelist of my time -that guy could save souls and did".....when he spoke ,he brought the storm down. Clouds parted .Souls got saved ,sometimes 30 or 40,000 of them .If you ever went to a Billy Graham rally back then you were changed forever. There's never been a preacher like him. He could fill football stadiums before anybody He could fill Giant Stadium more than even the Giants football team ......I saw Billy Graham in the flesh and heard him loud and clear.

In an interview with Carl Cannon Graham mentioned that his friendship with Martin Luther King went back to 1957 when they met at his New York Crusade. King asked him to call him Mike the nickname Martin Sr used ,Graham said .."Mike you go into the streets and I'll stay in the stadiums but I'll demand total integration in all the communities and everything else."

COUNTY TO EXPAND PROGRAM TO PREVENT

LOS ANGELES COUNTY – Supervisor Kathryn Barger announced that the Board of Supervisors has unanimously approved a motion she co-authored with Supervisor Janice Hahn to enhance the role of the county's School Threat Assessment Response Team (START) program.

SCHOOL VIOLENCE

To prevent campus violence through early identification and intervention of at-risk youths and young adults, the Department of Mental Health created START in 2009 to partner with the Federal Bureau of Investigation to develop a regional approach to targeted school violence.

"Early identification and intervention are vital in our mutual effort to identify and prevent possible incidents of school violence," said Supervisor Barger. "We cannot ignore the red flags and we must actively seek out troubled young people and get them the help they need before a with local law enforcement to respond to reports of potential school violence. In the past year, START conducted interventions with 127 students and in the past week START has received 63 referrals. Since the deadly shooting at Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School, local law enforcement have intervened in credible threats of violence against schools in Whittier, Long Beach, Santa Clarita, Inglewood, Bellflower, Los Angeles, and Cerritos.

"I have no doubt that START has saved lives," said Supervisor Hahn. "But they are stretched thin. In a county of 10 million residents, we need more than 10 people working on this issue. We need to give them the resources they need to take every single threat seriously because our children's lives are at stake."

County staff will provide a report back to the Board in 30-days with recommendations to enhance START

White Houses: A Novel by Amy NEW YORK TIMES RESTRELLING AUTHOR

For readers of The Paris Wife and The Swans of Fifth Avenue comes a love story inspired by "one of the most intriguing relationships in history"*— between Eleanor Roosevelt and "first friend" Lorena Hickok. Lorena Hickok meets Eleanor Roosevelt in 1932 while reporting on Franklin Roosevelt's first presidential campaign. Having grown up worse than poor in South Dakota and reinvented herself as the most prominent woman reporter in America, "Hick," as she's known to her friends and admirers, is not quite instantly charmed by the idealistic, patrician Eleanor. But then, as her connection with the future first lady deepens into intimacy, what begins as a powerful passion matures into a lasting love, and a life that Hick never expected to have. She moves into the White House, where her status as "first friend" is an open secret, as are FDR's own lovers. After she takes a job in the Roosevelt administration, promoting and protecting both Roosevelts, she comes to know Franklin not only as a great president but as a complicated rival and an irresistible friend, capable of changing lives even after his death. Through it all, even as Hick's bond with Eleanor is tested by forces both extraordinary and common, and as she grows as a woman and a writer, she never loses sight of the love of her life. From Washington, D.C. to Hyde Park, from a little white house on Long Island to an apartment on Manhattan's Washington Square, Amy Bloom's new novel moves elegantly through fascinating places and times, written in compelling prose and with emotional depth, wit, and acuity.

Enlightenment Now: The Case for Reason, Science, Humanism, and Progress by Steven Pinker

The follow-up to Pinker's groundbreaking The Better Angels of Our Nature presents the big picture of human progress: people are living longer, healthier, freer, and happier lives, and while our problems are formidable, the solutions lie in the Enlightenment ideal of using reason and science.s the world really falling apart? Is the ideal of progress obsolete? In this elegant assessment of the human condition, cognitive scientist and public intellectual Pinker urges us to step back from the gory headlines and prophecies of doom, which play to our psychological biases. Instead, follow the data: In seventy-five jawdropping graphs, Pinker shows that life, health, prosperity, safety, peace, knowledge, and happiness are on the rise, not just in the West, but worldwide. This progress is not the result of some cosmic force. It is a gift of the Enlightenment: the conviction that reason and science can enhance human flourishing.Far from being a naïve hope, the Enlightenment, we now know, has worked. #### DOES A DYNASTY TRUST MAKE SENSE FOR YOUR FAMILY?

In 2017, NBA team owner Gail Miller made headlines Is a Dynasty Trust Right for Your Family? when she announced that she was effectively no longer the owner of the Utah Jazz or the Vivint Smart Home Arena. These assets, she said, were being placed into a family trust, therefore raising interest in an estate planning tool previously known only to the very wealthy-the dynasty trust.

Dynasty Trusts Explained

A dynasty trust (also called a "legacy trust") is a special irrevocable trust that is intended to survive for many generations. The beneficiaries may receive limited payments from the trust, but asset ownership remains with the trust as long as the trust is in effect. In some states, a legal rule known as the Rule Against Perpetuities limits how long a dynasty trust can last.

The rule against perpetuities is a common law concept that still applies in most states. It generally provides that a trust may not last longer than 21 years after the death of the last potential beneficiary to die who was living at the time the trust was established.

California has enacted the Uniform Statutory Rule Against Perpetuities (USRAP), which provides that a trust may last at least 90 years before the common law rule is applied. In fact, this 90-year "wait and see" approach in USRAP now applies in most other states,

Advantages and Disadvantages

Wealthy families often use dynasty trusts as a way of keeping the money "in the family" for many generations. Rather than distribute assets over the life of a beneficiary, dynasty trusts consolidate the ownership and management of family wealth. The design of these trusts makes them exempt from estate taxes and the generation-skipping transfer tax, at least under current laws, so that wealth has a better ability to grow over time, rather than having as much as a 40-50% haircut at the death of each generation.

However, these benefits also come at the expense of other advantages. For example, since dynasty trusts are irrevocable and rely on a complex interplay of tax rules and state law; changes to them are much more difficult, or even potentially impossible as a practical matter, compared to non-dynasty trusts. Because changes are so difficult (or impossible), the design of a dynasty trust needs to anticipate any and all changes in family structure (e.g. a divorce, a child's adoption) and assets (e.g. stock valuation, land appraisals), decades before any such changes occur.

In the past, these kinds of trusts were usually only used by very wealthy families whose fortunes would be subject to large estate taxes. However, dynasty trusts are powerful tools for "regular" families today who which to protect estates not only from taxes, but also from divorces, creditors or the ill-advised spending habits of beneficiaries. ## THE NRA IS ON THE RUN

For all of those who thought they'd never witness it, it appears the National Rifle Association is on the run.

A growing number of its long time allies who stuck with the association's "never give an inch" positions are cautiously distancing themselves from the organization in light of the national outrage over the murders of 17 students and faculty at a high school in Parkland Fla. Several large corporations have severed their business ties with the NRA, withdrawing from underwriting insurance coverage or offering discounts to members. Accustomed to using its deep pockets and organizational resources to support or oppose candidates and incumbents, the group succeeded in fending off firearms control legislation even in the wake of mass killings of first graders, nightclub partygoers, worshippers and audiences at a movie theater and outdoor concert. It now appears that the killings at the Florida high school pushed the nation over the edge. An outraged populace appears increasingly fed up with the Association's excuses and rationalizations. The NRA's campaign of fear that gun control measures are the first step in a government plot to disarm the American people, trample on Constitutional rights, and install a despotic ruling junta has lost credibility. It has damaged itself further by the hysterical responses of its leaders and has turned to its' favorite whipping boy - "the liberal media." That tactic hit a new low when Association spokesperson Dana Loesch, in an appearance at the Conservative Political Action Committee (CPAC) said "many in legacy media love mass shootings.

Crying white mothers are ratings gold." The depth of such lunacy leaves one speechless. Was it incredibly callous or incredibly stupid? Both.

Its tantamount to saying to one of those crying white mothers, "So your daughter got shot up at school. Big Deal. Suck it up. Get over it and move on. You're bad for business. It is beyond dispute that multiple failures by government agencies at all levels contributed to the tragedy at Parkland. A clearly disturbed young man openly advertised his intention to "shoot up a school," and all warning signs were dismissed by local authorities and the FBI. All those involved in a clear dereliction of duty will spend the remainder of their lives with the knowledge that, but for their laxity, 17 people would be alive today. The slow erosion of support for the NRA is surely worrisome to the association's leaders. It faces defections in Congress and in statehouses with the prospect of further fissures in its solid wall of Enhanced background checks for prospective gun buyers - an idea ridiculed by the NRA as meaningless and ineffective - has become a real possibility, for example, as has extending the checks to private sales of weapons.

President Trump has expressed support for establishing 21 as the legal age for gun purchases, a move the NRA opposes. He has also recommended a ban on "bump stocks," a device which, when attached to a semi-automatic rifle, mimics the rapid-fire action of a fully automatic one.

He's spoken in favor of arming teachers or other school personnel to confront potential threats and wants enhanced mental health programs to identify individuals suffering psychological issues and deny them the ability to purchase a weapon.

Despite rising demands, a ban on the sale of AR-15 semi-automatic rifles like the one used in the Florida high school shootings will not be enacted. The argument over a prohibition will continue, but there is little appetite in Congress to impose one.

The NRA will prevail in that argument; its clout hasn't diminished to that extent. With a Republican in the White House and the party in control of the Congress, it's virtually assured that some action will be taken although it's unclear at his stage what it will entail. The test for the NRA will be whether to make a stand. It has historically opposed any changes it can argue infringe on gun ownership. Maybe it will recognize the public outrage unleashed by the high school massacre and accept modest changes in gun regulations. The NRA can look reasonable and portray itself as a part of the solution to gun violence or it can fall victim to the worst stereotype of a band of wild-eyed gun nuts. It's on the run for the first time and one immediate step it can take is to lash a muzzle on Dana Loesch and apologize to every crying mother she insulted with her loony assertions.

DO YOU TRUST TRUMP ON GUN CONTROL?

Donald Trump, the man who needs a cue-card to feign basic human empathy, is serious about gun control?

Yeah, right. This is still the same president whose promises far outperform his actual ability to carry them out.

 $\label{lem:replacement} Remember . when Trump promised a spectacular replacement for Obamacare?$ That hasn't happened. In fact, he made it worse.

Trump promised a massive infrastructure program. What we got relies on a paltry $200 billion investment from the federal government to magically conjure $1.5 trillion from private interests and cashstrapped state and local governments.

He loved the Dreamers until he squeezed them so he could get more money for his preposterous border wall. And immigration reform, of any kind, remains at a standstill. And now we're supposed to believe that he'll successfully push for comprehensive background checks, raise the age of gun-purchasers to 21 and move to ban bump-stocks? It would be nice to think Trump is serious about actually doing any of those things. Unfortunately, hard experience teaches us that his desire for approval far outweighs his desire to make substantive policy

"Only one candidate in the general election came to speak to you, and that candidate is now the president of the United States, standing before you," Trump said at the NRA's 2017 annual convention, according to The New York Times. "You came through for me, and I am going to come through for you." On Thursday, Trump doubled-down on his support for the NRA, calling them "great American patriots," on Twitter. According to NBC News, the NRA donated $21 million to Trump's 2016 presidential campaign. When Republicans in Congress starts feeling the heat, Trump's base begins to squawk and the NRA mobilizes gun owners, who do you think is going to win the argument?

Sadly, it probably won't be the kids from Parkland. Still, as with everything with Trump, it's more important to watch what he does, not what he says. Take, for instance, how Trump proposed to ban bump-stocks, which allow semi-automatic weapons to be converted into nearly automatic weapons.

He signed a memo recommending that Attorney General Jeff Sessions propose regulations to ban bump stocks. Unfortunately, there are more if/then statements baked into it than one of the old BASIC programs you wrote in middle school.

That's because the argument over any new regulation could rage on for months as it goes through the standard regulatory review process -- let alone any litigation.

The faster way to ban bump-stocks would be through legislation, which Sen. Dianne Feinstein, the ranking Democrat on the Senate Judiciary Committee, has said is the only answer.

That's because, as The Washington Examiner reports, the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms lacks the power to ban the weapons on their own, leaving a bill the only answer. "If [the] ATF tries to ban these devices after admitting repeatedly that it lacks the authority to do so, that process could be tied up in court for years, and that would mean bump stocks would continue to be Getting such a bill passed, though? That's another matter entirely. That depends on whether such a bill could garner "60 votes in the Senate," and clear the U.S. House, sold. Legislation is the only answer," Feinstein said in a statement.

U.S. Sen. Pat Toomey, R-Pa., told me this week. At an appearance at the state Capitol in Harrisburg, Pa., Toomey said he does think "there is broad Republican support for using legitimate regulatory authority" to regulate bump stocks in the same way the government strictly regulates civilian access to fully automatic weapons.

Whether that translates into legislation or not, I'm not sure," said Toomey, one of the Senate GOP's most vocal proponents of expanding background checks for gun purchases.

Toomey told reporters that he wants to talk to Trump about expanded background checks. The Pennsylvania Republican said he will probably reintroduce the compromise measure he initially crafted with Ú.S. Sen. Joe Manchin, D-W.Va., that fell six votes short of the number needed to pass the Senate in "My goal is to move this process forward," he said. "It might take some tweaks to the legislation. I'm open to that. I do think it is reasonable to require a background check on commercial gun sales." And that may be what it takes to keep Trump's famously short attention span focused on this issue. If Toomey and other senior lawmakers stay focused on this potent (election-year) issue, which could require a spinal transplant in the face of NRA pressure, Trump may remain focused as well. Left to his own devices, the president will just move on to the next Twitter fight.

RAGING MODERATE by WILL DURST THE CAFETERIA LADY IS PACKING HEAT

President Donald Trump tossed out some wacky nonsense about arming teachers, which encouraged the press and public to go nuts debating this ludicrous suggestion, totally ignoring commonsense remedies like banning civilians from purchasing weapons whose sole function is to kill the most people in the shortest time possible. The man is not as dumb as he looks, which at last count was considerable.

That was just one of the president's multiple responses to the latest in a distressing series of school shootings. He was all over the map like a class of apprentice cartographers in the belly of a garbage scow during a category 4 typhoon.

First, he said we should arm teachers, then yelled at the mainstream media for saying he said we should arm teachers, then he said we shouldn't just give teachers guns, but bonuses. And snacks. Not rulers. Or pencils. Stationary targets, yes. Stationery, no.

During a listening session with relatives and survivors of various school massacres he was photographed carrying a cheat sheet reminding him to say "I hear you." His staff is apparently aware that hearing people in a listening session is not his first instinct. Listening is what people do to him, not he to them.

Trump also promised to focus on mental health issues, forgetting that one of his first moves as POTUS was erasing rules that restricted some mentally ill from purchasing firearms. Like Germany complaining they don't have any decent Jewish delis anymore. "Now is not the time to politicize the gun issue." Why is the time to talk about guns always later? "Now?" "No, later." "Now?" "No, later." And repeat. Now is the time to talk about mental health issues. Voting to fund programs to deal with those issues is a

The NRA says the only way to stop a bad guy with a gun is a good guy with a gun. The problem with good guys with guns is a lot of them believe in that whole "kill em all and let god sort 'em out" school of thought. Except that security guard outside the Parkland, Florida high school.

Giving guns to teachers, what a great idea. Probably cut down on tardiness, note passing and backtalk as well, not to mention making faculty meetings and parent teacher conferences a lot more interesting. The penalty for truancy is a flesh wound. As with most of 45's ideas, details were murky, but this plan could easily lead to arming janitors, crossing guards and cafeteria ladies. Although many would argue that school lunches were already weaponized during the Reagan Administration.

Besides, 20 percent of American teachers is 700,000 people. Do they all get the same gun? Would these teachers going heavy be appointed or volunteers? Or would most folks offered guns spontaneously develop bone spurs like somebody else we know?

Think back. How many of your high school teachers would you have confidently armed? The ex-Marine wrestling coach? The English teacher who spaced out during John Keats' "Ode on a Grecian Urn?" The librarian regularly hitting her flask behind the stacks? Sister Mary Uzi?

And you do realize of course that once teachers are armed, it's only a matter of time before kids themselves feel the need to start packing. "I'm going to study hall. Cover

Public Hearing Notice

The City of Sierra Madre From: NONCÓNFORMING USES ORDINANCE 1396 Subject: Applicant: City of Sierra Madre

Properties in the City of Sierra Madre, County of Los Angeles, State of California Project Location:

The City of Sierra Madre gives notice, pursuant to State of California law, that the City Council will conduct a public hearing to consider recommending adoption of Municipal Code Text Amendment 17-07 amending Chapter 17.56 – Nonconforming Uses Ordinance and Chapter 17.82 – Historic Preservation Ordinance.

The purpose of MCTA 17-07 is to amend Chapter 17.56 - Nonconforming Uses in its entirety, to update regulations for uses and structures that have become non-conforming over time due to changes in the City's Zoning Code. The amended ordinance includes restrictions on nonconforming uses and structures, continuation and abatement of uses and structures, reconstruction after involuntary damage, limitations on alterations and/or additions to nonconforming uses and structures, exemptions from nonconforming determination, nonconformance with respect to conditional use permit requirements, and regulations regarding unlawful uses and structures as well as nuisance abatement, and exemptions for nonprofit organization/places of worship.

In addition to addressing nonconforming uses, amendments to Chapter 17.82 are included in MCTA 17-07 with a revision to the definition of "Bed and breakfast inn" which expands the "Adaptive reuse of historic structures" to allow "Bed and breakfast inns" with up to six units in single family zones and up to 12 units in multifamily zones subject to a conditional use permit.

The Planning Commission held a public hearing on December 14, 2017 recommending approval of the proposed text amendment to the City Council for their consideration.

DATE AND TIME OF HEARING

PLACE OF HEARING

City of Sierra Madre City of Sierra Madre City Council meeting Tuesday, March 13, 2018 City Council Chambers 232 W. Sierra Madre Blvd. (Hearing begins at 6:30 p.m.) Sierra Madre, CA

ENVIRONMENTAL DETERMINATION: The subject ordinance amendments qualify for an exemption from California Environmental Quality Act review pursuant to Title 14, Section 15061(b)(3) of the California Code of Regulations as it can be seen with certainty that there is no possibility that the adoption of this ordinance may have a significant effect on the environment because it will provide regulations to help retain existing structures and uses in place, and impose certain limitations on their expansion; the amendments also apply to conversion of historic residential structures and are exempt for numerous reasons: all historic landmarks in the city that are single- or multi-family residences are located in residentially zoned areas; given the limited number of such structures, the number of conversions should be extremely limited; such conversions should include few, if any, modifications to the exterior of such structures, and only if such changes would not be detrimental to the historic or architectural character of the historical landmark.

APPEAL: If in the future anyone wishes to challenge the decision of the City Council in court, one may be limited to raising the issues that were raised or presented in written correspondence delivered to the City Council at, or before, the scheduled public hearing. For further information on this subject, please contact the Planning and Community Preservation Department at (626) 355-7138.
