WALKING SIERRA MADRE... The Social Side By Deanne Davis

"Love for the game starts here."

That is the slogan and the motto of the Sierra Madre Girls Softball Association (SMGSA). This amazing group produced five - yes, five - quality teams which competed in over ten tournaments throughout the past eight weekends.

Here is their Mission Statement, which would work for each athlete quite nicely for just about any organization:

"SMGSA is a recreational USA softball league out our mission providing quality athletic experiences through which our girls develop positive character-building traits and love for the game. We are committed to providing a positive culture in which athletes, coaches, parents, fans, and officials work together in developing quality athletes who become successful people.

SMGSA sent all five all-star teams of very successful young people to the Northern District Championship play. The 8U, 10U Gold and 10U Silver (what 8U means is eight and under, same for 10U and 12U) battled all weekend long, but in the end, this was their last tournament of the summer. The 14U team, "Blast," came in as a runner-up at C districts and 12U "Stealth" were the C division Northern District champs.

The Vision & Values of SMGSA are so good. Is it wishful thinking to hope that more young people could be exposed to Values such as these?:

SMGSA aspires to accomplish its mission by providing a high-quality experience in which every athlete:

- Is coached and supported using the principles of positive coaching

- Has fun playing the game every time out on the field, at both practices and games

- Learns the skills, rules and strategies of the game and improves as a player

- Feels like an important part of the team, regardless of Learns "life lessons" that have value beyond the playing

- Understands the value of camaraderie, selflessness and

Looking at the happy faces of each person in this picture, along with some of their favorite catch phrases and inside jokes, it is easy to see that camaraderie, selflessness and team spirit is alive and well in Team Stealth! For instance, each of the girls had Dodger names, i.e., Julia Pevsner was Julia Jansen. It's stuff like that that makes a bunch burrito not your Jeff" – a spin on the cheer, "taco burrito not your pitch." Jeff Reisbeck, President and Manager of the SMGSA 12U Stealth team, obviously, not averse to a little ribbing. Also, obviously, Jeff is a fine example of what SMGSA expects of every coach:

- Maintains a focus on a positive athletic experience

- Is equipped with the tools and experience to carry

- Strives to not only win, but to also use the sports experience to help our girls develop positive character traits that will help them be successful in life

The high level performance of the 12U and 14U allstar teams during the Northern District Championship play allowed both Team Stealth and Team Blast to qualify for and compete in the 2018 So. California State Championship games in Lancaster, facing the best teams from all over So. California; 18 teams in the 12U division and 23 teams in the 14U division. Both teams took 3rd place in their respective divisions in Lancaster.

The SMGSA 12U Team Stealth all-stars entered their final adventure of the summer at the California State Regional Games in San Diego, competing against 25 of the top teams from Arizona, Nevada and California and came away with the Silver medal. Again, camaraderie, selflessness and team spirit among the athletes, coaches and families is what took these 12 and 13 year old middle school girls to victory.

Coming from all over the area, from approximately nine different schools, as they don't need to be Sierra Madre residents to play in SMGSA, these girls learned quickly to work together and support each other to get the job done.

Congratulations to SMGSA Stealth and all of SMGSA's 2018 all-star players, including the Mountain Views News editor, Susan Henderson's, own granddaughter, Maheilia! Thanks to Rochelle Ferrari and Sharon Pevsner for providing most of the information in this article. Teamwork! Isn't it neat to know we have this terrific organization, among so many like organizations here in our wonderful town!

City Calls Lawsuit Against Police Officers 'Baseless'

Two women, a mother and and does not show the full daughter, last week, filed a $25 million lawsuit against the city of Pasadena claiming two Pasadena police officers sexually assaulted them during a traffic stop in May 2016, something the city has refuted.

According to the lawsuit announced July 16 by attorney Dakar Diourbel representing the women -Sharell Thompson and daughter, Sharaya Brown they accuse two male officers, one of them forcing Thompson to lift her top exposing breasts in public and the other officer of sexually fondling Brown.

City officials Teusday released dash-camera footage and audio of the traffic stop.

"The lawsuit filed against the extent of the search. He said they wanted to see the original video from the stop.

The statement from the city reads, "On Monday May 2, 2016, Pasadena Police Department patrol officers initiated a traffic stop based upon a detective investigation and traffic violation witnessed by police. As per Department policies and procedures, the officers remained professional the entire time, assessed the situation, speaking with the individuals and conducting appropriate and necessary searches of the individuals (a waistband check for weapons) and of the vehicle. After the vehicle and individuals were searched and questioned, they were free to leave the scene. When the Police Department received a personnel complaint, a thorough review of the incident was undertaken per Department policy. The in-car camera footage from the patrol car clearly shows that the officers acted appropriately."

CANINES BRING COMFORT TO THE COURTROOM

Happy Tails

by Chris Leclerc

In all of my 56 years, I've never been a victim of kids in recovery. a violent crime, nor have I been subpoenaed to testify as a witness in a case involving a violent crime and considering the statistics today, I must say I consider myself very fortunate to have escaped being among those who have. It has got to be the most difficult task a person could ever be forced to undertake; being put on the stand to answer questions posed by perfect strangers in front of a judge and jury, not to mention the perpetrator, while trying to cope with the experience itself.

Few things would come as a true comfort to me, should I ever become the victim of a violent crime. However, one thing that does come to mind is that it would help to have a beloved, furry four-footed friend by my side to help me get though the awful ordeal.

I am not the only one who recognizes the value of having the unconditional love of a kind and comforting canine to assist victims of violent crimes. Indeed, one particular lady played a major part in initiating the availability of comfort dogs to act as "animal advocates" on victims' behalf, and thanks to her efforts the trend has throughout the US.

In an article written by Rebecca Wallick, a comforter in the state of Washington back in 2003. It all started when Ellen O'Neill-Stephens, a prosecuting attorney in Seattle had an adult son who was seriously disabled with cerebral palsy. She went to Canine Companions for Independence (CCI) of Santa Rosa, CA to find a service dog for her son.

At CCI, Stephens found a big yellow Golden Retriever/Lab mix named Jeeter, and a match was made almost immediately with her son. It was then that her son's life changed tremendously for the better. Jeeter made it possible for Sean to open up to people when they'd approach to greet the sweet dog. This facilitated Sean's ability to "give back" to others with Jeeter acting as his social advocate.

During Stephens' in training with Jeeter and her son at CCI, she saw other participants getting "facility" dogs (dogs trained to assist caregivers in various institutions), including autistic otherwise seriously disabled children. Somehow this inspired her to consider the possibility of using facility dogs in legal settings, and because she was the Drug Court prosecutor she thought the dogs would be of great value to

As it turned out, Stephens' insight proved to have a positive impact on numerous recovering kids. Jeeter became a mascot to many who came through her court. Then one day, a sexually abused boy was waiting in her lobby and immediately bonded with Jeeter who also happened to be sitting in the lobby at the time. The boy had been asked by the prosecutor to testify against his offender but he was afraid to do so.

Stephens thought perhaps Jeeter could help facilitate the boy's testimony if the dog would be allowed to accompany him to the stand. The judge allowed the dog to come to court and Stephens requested that everyone sit on the floor during the hearing so the boy could sit and hug Jeeter. Defense counsel, prosecutor, police officer everyone sat on the floor, and it worked. The boy found the courage to tell them everything that happened.

After the success Jeeter had with the abused boy, Stephens decided the King County prosecutor's office needed to have a facility dog on staff to work with victims, and went about doing what it took to make it happen. King County has been gained momentum and spread to many states using courtroom canines to comfort victims ever since.

Subsequent to the establishment of King journalist for Bark Magazine, she relates the County's innovative approach, prosecutors in history of how the canine became a courtroom several other states followed Stephens' lead by adding a canine comfort unit to their courtroom staff, with amazingly successful results.

It never ceases to amaze me, what a dog can do for a human, if we are open to their help. From guiding a blind person down a busy sidewalk, to rescuing people trapped after a disaster, to relieving stress for the victim of a crime, or simply sitting by his master's side within the four walls of what might otherwise be a very lonely home, the list goes on and on.

We are blessed to have the unconditional love and affection of our four-legged friends. Be sure to tell your precious pups how much you love and appreciate them. Show them how important they are to you by giving them the quality care and love they deserve. Love and let live!

THE WORLD AROUND US

CHRISTOPHER Nyerges

Nyerges has written "How to the can with clean socks." Survive Anywhere" and other books. He leads wilderness walks to teach about the uses of plants and survival skills. He can be reached at www.SchoolofSelf- Reliance.com]

We've all been walking in the pristine wilderness and suddenly we see that someone left their beer cans lying around. Some of my hiking partners have uttered some pretty coarse profanities at the "modern barbarians" who left a pile of their aluminum cans for someone else to clean up. And I must admit that litter of any sort bothers me. After all, shouldn't we all adhere to the rule of "If you packed it in, pack it out"? Aluminum cans are also so light, and can be crushed so easily that they don't take up a lot of space on the

Don't litter! Period. OK, now that I've gotten that out of my system, here's another perspective.

Did you all see the movie "The Gods Must Be Crazy"? A bush pilot drops a soda bottle out of the plane and falls into the midst of some aboriginal people. They have never seen such a device before and they all use it for a dozen or so practical uses. As far as they were concerned, the gods in heaven dropped them this new tool to make life easier. An aluminum can is another of those multi-purpose objects that can literally be a life-safer if you're lost or stranded. What good is an aluminum can, you say? With an aluminum can – and a bit of skill and your Swiss Army knife - you can make a fire, purify water, cook, signal, and do a few other things! That makes the discarded aluminum can a "multi-purpose tool." Let's take a look at the many uses of an aluminum can that you happen to find.

MAKE A FIRE

I was a bit skeptical when I first heard about making a fire using the bottom of an aluminum beer or soda can, but it actually works. Well, it works if you prepare the can properly, and if you have a LOT of patience. The very bottom of an aluminum can is not a true parabolic dish, but when highly polished, it can be used to focus the sun's rays to a point and

To do this, you need to bring the bottom of the can to a high polish, typically using fine steel wool. You then point the bottom of the can towards the sun, and hold some tinder in the focal point. This takes patience, but you can do it.

PURIFY WATER

One of the most important skills in the back-country is the ability to purify your water. If you're just out for the day without all your normal equipment, you might not have a water filter or purification pills. So just fill the aluminum can with your suspect water, and boil it over a fire. Boiling will kill any of the biological contaminants that might make you

If the water has stuff in it, then by all means pour the water through a cloth first.

WATER FILTER

If for some reason, you can't get a fire going, or if a fire would reveal your whereabouts, you can use that aluminum can for a makeshift water filter. You will punch little holes into the bottom of the can, and you will cut off the top of the can. A variety of filter materials have been tested, such as packing mark their trees and other plants.

BEER CAN USES

In experiments that were done in Great Britain by Stefan Kallman in the 1980s, he found that he could create a reasonable water filter with an old aluminum can. He cut off the top of the can, punched holes in the bottom, and added sphagnum moss to the bottom. Then he filled the bulk of the can with a blend of charcoal, peat, and more sphagnum. He added a thin layer of small pebbles to the top. These were ingredients that would be available in the U.K, but not necessarily everywhere. Other filters could be clean sand, mixed with a bit of charcoal, or the already-mentioned clean socks (or other fabric that can be packed into the can).

A filter like this cannot be expected to be 100% effective, but it can help to remove some contaminants from the water.

COOK YOUR SOUP

You can also take the top off the can and use it as a small coffee pot or soup pot. Just punch two holes in the rim at the top so you can add a wire and suspend it over the fire.

Even if you don't have your Swiss army knife for cutting the top off the can, aluminum is so soft that you could actually use a sharpened stick or stone for this job.

CANDLE HOLDER LANTERN

I have seen several versions of candle lanterns using a beer can, but the easiest is to simply cut two "doors" into the can, and set the candle into the can securely with a bit of hot wax. You then use the tab on the top to hang the lantern wherever you want it. The doors can be adjusted so that the light reflects where you want it, and to help protect the candle from the wind.

Another version is to punch a hole in the bottom and push a regular candle through that hole. As it burns, you periodically push it upwards.

SIGNALLING MIRROR

It's easy to make an emergency signaling mirror from an aluminum can. Just cut a circle or a square from the can. Aluminum is soft and you can do this with the scissors on your Swiss army knife, or with any knife.

If you've ever used a regular signaling mirror, you know that it helps to have a little hole in the middle of the mirror to sight through. Cut a small hole in a rectangle of the aluminum through which you will attempt to observe your intended target. If the sun is in the ideal spot in the sky, and if the person flying overhead happens to be looking your way, perhaps someone will notice your signal mirror and hopefully someone will respond appropriately. Who knows? Your makeshift signaling mirror from the side of a beer can needn't be round, but I would at least round off the edges of a rectangle so you're not holding a piece of metal that might cut your hand.

LEAVING A NOTE

You're lost with nothing, but there's an aluminum can. You can cut a piece of the aluminum and write a note on it for other people to read. You don't need a pencil -- just find a thin stick to carve your letters into the aluminum. Then hang it in a prominent place for others to see whatever you need to communicate. The piece of aluminum will be shiny and will be more obvious than a paper note which might get blown away, or rained on. This is akin to the aluminum tags that gardeners use to

APPLE FRITTER: THE FRUIT OF MY CHOICE

Our country, so it seems, runs on choice. The more they think it is better. choices we have, the better we like it.

Most people in America pride themselves on the know better. ability to make their own choices.

"Freedom of Choice," is the cry you hear all around our country these days. Yet, most people do not have the freedom of choice they think they have. Somebody is influencing the choices they make without them realizing they are being influenced.

That is called marketing.

The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage and I were watching television the other night, trying to watch a favorite TV program. Finally, from an end of the room that was not my end, came an exasperated sigh. I tried to ignore it, but you know how that works.

that if I did not acknowledge it in some way, well, I think you know what would happen.

It was in the middle of some commercial and so I turned to her and said, "What's got you in such pain tonight?" At her age, I did not know if there was some medical something or other going on.

"These commercials," she moaned so painfully, "I can't stand all these commercials!" I must say I was a little bummed out about all the is devoted to 30 minutes of commercials. Most of those commercials are for things I have no interest in. Or, they are played at a very inappropriate time. It never fails if we are having our supper while watching television, there are 79 commercials for diarrhea. Is this really a major problem in our country today?

responded as cheerfully as I could, "Well, my dear, somebody has to pay for our television viewing privilege."

I felt a cold yet burning stare in my direction. "Can't they run those lousy commercials when I'm not to be concerned about my diet, that is her choice. watching TV?"

Someone once said that silence is Golden and right dieting. then I cultivated a golden moment.

Commercials are a way in which manufacturing companies influence our choices. Every product has 100 different companies marketing the same product. I have not done too much research, but the little I have done, I discovered that the same company makes the same product but sells it under a different name.

There are two categories of products. There is the choice. name brand, which costs a fortune. Then there is the generic brand, which is only a fraction of what the name brand costs. It is the same product, made by the same company, but advertised by difference venues.

This is where choice comes in.

Some of us choose the low-price product because we

One night as we were watching television, it seemed most of the commercials had to do with dieting of some kind. There were high calorie diets, low-carb diets and diet that really did not make sense to me.

Watching all of those dieting commercials, I did not see one that I would diet for.

Every one of those commercials assumes everybody watching wants to lose 297 pounds. Personally, I have lost the same 5 pounds for over 30 years. I lose 5 pounds and then by golly, three weeks later I find those 5 pounds, at least they recognize me.

Anybody can lose weight; it is all a matter of choice. The exasperation seemed to accelerate and I knew Personally, I do not plan to lose any sleep because I cannot lose weight. I think it is going to be rather funny if when we go to heaven everybody is fat. Wouldn't that be something? We plummet ourselves almost to death trying to lose weight and get to heaven and everybody is fat.

It all boils down to choice. It all boils down to the fact that most people think they are making their own

Those of us who are on the husband side of the marital commercials myself. I think every one-hour program equation know we do not make our own choices. Our choices are made for us by our "better half." Why do you think we get married?

> My wife is a great one for fruit and vegetables. Every day of our life is fruit and vegetables. To mix things up a little bit one day it will be vegetables and fruit.

She prepares the fruit and then invites me to make a choice. I am sure she did not see all of this in any Getting back to my wife and the commercials, I television commercial; at least I hope she hasn't. She is proud of the display of fruit choices she has for me.

> She is also concerned about my diet. Much more than I am. I do not think my diet is so important that both of us should be concerned about it. If she chooses

> I choose to be a little more cavalier when it comes to Actually, and do not tell her I said this, but my fruit of choice is the humble Apple fritter. It has everything my heart desires and a few things my body desires, too.

I like with David said, "Delight thyself also in the LORD; and he shall give thee the desires of thine heart" (Psalms 37:4 KJV).

It is all a matter of choice, that is, making the right

TO REVIEW OR NOT REVIEW?

This is the question: when is a restaurant fair game for a review? With the popularity of Yelp and message boards on the internet, it seems that the feeding frenzy of reviews begins as soon as a restaurant opens its doors. We can't blame social media, however. Even before everyone and their sister became a restaurant blogger, newspapers big and small wanted "their guy" to be the first to review the new kid in town. What is the difference between a movie review and restaurant review? In my mind, plenty. A movie will be edited to pieces and previewed a hundred times before it hits the screen - many times the ending will be changed or the musical score played with - you get the picture. I have been doing this long enough to know the opening day general manager and executive chef probably won't be around by the first anniversary anyway.

Merrill Shindler from KABC Radio feels that if a restaurant is charging full fare they are open to a full review. My dear departed dad, Elmer Dills, thought six months was sufficient time to iron out any kinks. He'd say, "the paint isn't dry yet!" and that's actually what led me to this article. I went to the new Nick's Restaurant on South Lake the other night, and I could smell the paint (I really could!). Pasadena "godfather" of restaurants, Gregg Smith, told me he felt six weeks was plenty of time to get the act together - if you can't succeed in six weeks, you are in trouble. The smart restaurants do what is called a soft opening - limited hours, limited menu, and discounted food. That gives the restaurant plenty of time to get to know their community and the guests can sample the menu. I tend to get pretty good vibes about a restaurant, maybe you do too? Will it make it, is there parking, is the bar area cool? Sure, during the first week the food may be slow to come out or your chosen drink isn't quite like the one by your favorite bartender, but the restaurant itself is fluid; it has life. My approach is simple: I'll write a "first impression" review, and then go back in six months for an update. I will usually find a totally different restaurant at that point. Or at least I hope I do.

Follow me and my updates on Facebook. Peter Dills

Scientists working on NASA's Juno mission to Jupiter shared a 3-D infrared movie depicting densely packed cyclones and anticyclones that permeate the planet's polar regions, and the first detailed view of a dynamo, or engine, powering the magnetic field for any planet beyond Earth. Those are among the items unveiled during the European Geosciences Union General Assembly in Vienna, Juno mission scientists have taken data collected by the spacecraft's Jovian InfraRed Auroral Mapper (JIRAM) instrument and generated the 3-D flyaround of the Jovian world's north pole. Imaging in the infrared part of the spectrum, JIRAM captures light emerging from deep inside Jupiter equally well, night or day. The instrument probes the weather layer down to 30 to 45 miles below Jupiter's cloud tops. The imagery will help the team understand the forces at work in the animation—a north pole dominated by a central cyclone surrounded by eight circumpolar cyclones with diameters ranging from 2,500 to 2,900 miles.

"Before Juno, we could only guess what Jupiter's poles would look like," said Alberto Adriani, Juno co-investigator from the Institute for Space Astrophysics and Planetology, Rome. "Now, with Juno flying over the poles at a close distance it permits the collection of infrared imagery on Jupiter's polar weather patterns and its massive cyclones in unprecedented spatial resolution."

Another Juno investigation discussed during the media briefing was the team's latest pursuit of the interior composition of the gas giant. One of the biggest pieces in its discovery has been understanding how Jupiter's deep interior rotates.

Prior to Juno, we could not distinguish between extreme models of Jupiter's interior rotation, which all fitted the data collected by Earth-based observations and other deep space missions," said Tristan Guillot, a Juno co-investigator from the miles. Université Côte d'Azur, Nice, France. "But Juno is different—it orbits the planet from pole to pole and gets closer to Jupiter than any spacecraft ever before. The same data used to analyze Jupiter's rotation brought by Juno's gravity data, we have essentially contain information on the planet's interior solved the issue of how Jupiter's interior rotates: structure and composition. ## THE GOOD LIFE

HOW TO MAKE THE MOST OF YOUR DOCTOR'S VISIT

Dear Savvy Senior,

I manage a large health clinic that treats thousands of seniors each year, and we've have found that patients that come prepared when they visit our doctors are much more satisfied with the care they receive. Can you write a column educating patients on how to prepare for doctor's appointments?

Healthcare Helper

Dear Helper,

There's no doubt about it. Studies have shown that patients who help their doctors by providing important health information and preparing themselves for appointments tend to get better care than patients who don't. Here are some simple things we can all do to help maximize our next visit to the doctor.

Before Appointments

Gathering your health information and getting organized before your appointment are the key steps to ensuring a productive meeting with your doctor. This is especially important if you're seeing multiple doctors or are meeting with a new physician. Specifically, you need to:

Get your test results: If you're seeing a new doctor for the first time, make sure he or she has copies of your latest X-ray, MRI or any other test or lab results you've recently had, including reports from other doctors that you've seen. In most cases, you'll need to do the leg work yourself which may only require a phone call to your previous doctor asking them to send it, or you may need to go pick it up and take it yourself.

List your medications: Make a list of all the medications you're taking including prescription and over-the-counter drugs, supplements and herbs, along with the dosages and take it with you to your appointment. Or, just put all your pill bottles in a bag so you can take them with you.

Know your health history: Being able to talk to your doctor about any previous medical problems and procedures, even if they're not the reason you are org. Jim Miller is a contributor to the NBC Today show going to the doctor this time, can make an office visit and author of "The Savvy Senior" book.

much more efficient. Write it down if it's complicated. Genetics matter too, so knowing your family's health history can also be helpful.

Prepare a list of questions: Make a written list of the top three or four issues you want to discuss with your doctor. Since most appointments last around 15 to 20 minutes, this can help you stay on track and ensure you address your most pressing concerns first. If you're in for a diagnostic visit, you should prepare a detailed description of your symptoms.

During Appointments

The best advice when you meet with your doctor is to speak up and get to the point. So right away, concisely explain why you're there. Don't wait to be asked. Be direct, honest and as specific when recounting your symptoms or expressing your concerns. Many patients are reluctant or embarrassed to talk about their symptoms, which makes the doctor's job a lot harder to do. It's also a good idea to bringing along a family member or friend to your appointment. They can help you ask questions, listen to what the doctor is telling you and give you support.

Also consider taking some notes or ask the doctor if you can record the session for later review. If you don't understand what the doctor is telling you, ask him or her to explain it in simple terms so you can understand. And if you run out of time and don't get your questions answered, ask if you can follow up by phone or email, make another appointment, or seek help from the doctor's nurse.

For more information, the National Institute on Aging offers an excellent booklet called "Talking With Your Doctor: A Guide for Older People" that can help you prepare for an appointment and become a more informed patient. To get a free copy mailed to you, call 800-222-2225 or visit order.nia.nih.gov.

Sierra Madre // This Week's Market Update

This Week Median List Price: $1,350,000

Demand measured by the Market Action Index is increasing and days-on-market is trending downward. Even as more properties come available, these are positive trends for the market.

Supply & Demand

The market has started cooling and prices have recently plateaued. Since we're in the Seller's zone, watch for changes in MAI. If the MAI resumes its climb, prices will likely follow suit. If the MAI drops consistently or falls into the Buyer's zone, watch for downward pressure on prices.

The Market Action Index answers the question "How's the Market?" by measuring the current rate of sale versus the amount of the inventory. Index above 30 implies Seller's Market conditions. Below 30, conditions favor the buyer.

Price

The market seems to have paused around this plateau. The Market Action Index is a good leading indicator for the durability of this trend.

23-YEAR-OLD INVENTS METHOD TO BREAK DOWN UNRECYCLABLE PLASTIC INTO VALUABLE LIQUIDS

There are over 6 billion tons of plastic waste languishing on the planet, unable to be recycled - but this 23-yearold college student may have come up with an ingenious way to reuse all of that trash. Miranda Wang is one of the co-founders of BioCellection: a company that uses a chemical process to break down plastics and turn them into an essential ingredient for nylon, which otherwise uses petroleum.

Wang's method specifically targets polyethylene, a cheap kind of plastic that is only recycled less than 3% of the time. Despite being the most used plastic in the US, much of this plastic is rejected from recycling plants because it's covered in dirt, food, or grime. The young Canadian researchers then adopted a catalyst that can destabilize and break down the plastics into liquid chemicals without causing surface contamination to react.

EVERYTHING TRUMP TOUCHES DIES: A REPUBLICAN STRATEGIST GETS REAL ABOUT THE WORST PRESIDENT EVER by Rick Wilson

A respected, long-time Republican strategist, ad-maker, and contributor for The Daily Beast, skewers the disease that is destroying the conservative movement and burning down the GOP: Trumpism. In the book, political campaign strategist and commentator Rick Wilson brings his darkly funny humor and biting analysis to the absurdity of American politics in the age of Trump. Wilson mercilessly exposes the damage Trump has done to the country, to the Republican Party he served for decades, and to the conservative movement that has abandoned its principles for the worst President in American history.No leftwinger, Wilson is a lifelong conservative who delivers his withering critique of Trump from the right. A leader of the Never Trump movement, he warns his own party of the political catastrophe that leaves everyone involved with Trump with reputations destroyed and lives in tatters. Wilson unblinkingly dismantles Trump's deceptions and the illusions to which his supporters cling, shedding light on the guilty parties who empower and enable Trump in Washington and the news media. He calls out the racewar dead-enders who hitched a ride with Trump, the alt-right basement dwellers who worship him, and the social conservatives who looked the other way. Everything Trump Touches Dies deftly chronicles the tragicomic Trump story from the early campaign days through the shock of election night, to the inconceivable trainwreck of Trump's first year. Rick Wilson provides not only an insightful analysis of the Trump administration, but also an optimistic path forward for the GOP, the conservative movement, and the country. Combining insider political analysis, blunt truths, and black humor, Everything Trump Touches Dies is perfect for those on either side of the aisle who need a dose of unvarnished reality, a good laugh, a strong cocktail, and a return to sanity in American

CHURCHILL AND ORWELL: THE FIGHT FOR by Tui T. Sutherland FREEDOM by Thomas E. Ricks

A New York Times Book Review Notable Book of 2017.A dual biography of Winston Churchill and George Orwell, who preserved democracy from the very different from those we know. But there's never threats of authoritarianism, from the left and right alike.Both George Orwell and Winston Churchill came close to death in the mid-1930's—Orwell shot in the neck in a trench line in the Spanish Civil War, and Churchill struck by a car in New York City. If they'd died then, history would scarcely remember them. At the time, Churchill was a politician on the outs, his loyalty to his class and party suspect. Orwell the bestselling Spirit Animals and Seekers series (as

20th century they would be considered two of the most important people in British history for having the vision and courage to campaign tirelessly, in words and in deeds, against the totalitarian threat from both the left and the right. In a crucial moment, they responded first by seeking the facts of the matter, seeing through the lies and obfuscations, and then they acted on their beliefs. Together, to an extent not sufficiently appreciated, they kept the West's compass set toward freedom as its due north.It's not easy to recall now how lonely a position both men once occupied. By the late 1930's, democracy was discredited in many circles, and authoritarian rulers were everywhere in the ascent. There were some who decried the scourge of communism, but saw in Hitler and Mussolini "men we could do business with," if not in fact saviors. And there were others who saw the Nazi and fascist threat as malign, but tended to view communism as the path to salvation. Churchill and Orwell, on the other hand, had the foresight to see clearly that the issue was human freedom-that whatever its coloration, a government that denied its people basic freedoms was a totalitarian menace and had to be resisted.In the end, Churchill and Orwell proved their age's necessary men. The glorious climax of Churchill and Orwell is the work they both did in the decade of the 1940's to triumph over freedom's enemies. And though Churchill played the larger role in the defeat of Hitler and the Axis, Orwell's reckoning with the menace of authoritarian rule in Animal

Farm and 1984 would define the stakes of the Cold War for its 50-year course, and continues to give inspiration to fighters for freedom to this day. Taken together, in Thomas E. Ricks's masterful hands, their lives are a beautiful testament to the power of moral conviction, and to the courage it can take to stay true to it, through thick and thin.

FAMILY MATTERS By Marc Garlett

BEFORE AGREEING TO SERVE AS TRUSTEE, CAREFULLY CONSIDER THE DUTIES AND OBLIGATIONS INVOLVED—PART 1

If a friend or family member has asked you to serve as trustee for their trust upon their death, you should feel honored—this means they consider you among the most honest, reliable, and responsible people they know.

However, being a trustee is not only a great honor, it's also a major responsibility. The job can entail a wide array of complex duties, and you're both ethically and legally required to effectively execute those functions or face significant liability. Given this, agreeing to serve as trustee is a decision that shouldn't be made lightly, and you should thoroughly understand exactly what the role requires before giving your answer.

Of course, a trustee's responsibility can vary enormously depending on the size of the estate, the type of trust involved, and the trust's specific terms and instructions. But every trust comes with a few core requirements, and here I'll highlight some of the key responsibilities.

First off, serving as trustee does NOT require you to be an expert in law, finance, taxes, or any other field related to trust administration. In fact, it's almost always a good idea for a trustee to seek assistance from professionals in these fields, and funding to pay for such services should already be set aside for this in the trust.

Adhere to the trust's terms

Every trust is unique, and a trustee's obligations and powers depend largely on what the trust allows for, so you should first carefully review the trust's terms. The trust document outlines all the specific duties you'll be required to fulfill as well as the appropriate timelines and discretion you'll have for fulfilling these tasks.

Some trusts are relatively straightforward, with few assets and beneficiaries, so the entire job can be completed within a few weeks or months. Others, especially those containing numerous assets and minor-aged beneficiaries, can take decades to completely fulfill.

Act in the best interests of the beneficiaries more information.

Trustees have a fiduciary duty to act in the best interest of the named beneficiaries at all times, and they must not use their position for personal gain. Moreover, they cannot commingle their own funds and assets with those of the trust, nor may they profit from the position beyond the fees set aside to pay for the trusteeship.

If the trust involves multiple beneficiaries, the trustee must balance any competing interests between the various beneficiaries in an impartial and objective manner for the benefit of them all. In some cases, grantors try to prevent conflicts between beneficiaries by including very specific instructions about how and when assets should be distributed, and if so, you must follow these directions exactly as spelled out.

However, some trusts leave asset distribution decisions up to the trustee's discretion. If so, when deciding how to make distributions, the trustee must carefully evaluate each beneficiary's current needs, future needs, other sources of income, as well as the potential impact the distribution might have on the other beneficiaries. Such duties should be taken very seriously, as beneficiaries can take legal action against trustees if they can prove he or she violated a fiduciary duty and/or mismanaged the trust.

Invest trust assets prudently

Many trusts contain interest-bearing securities and other investment vehicles. If so, the trustee is responsible not only for protecting and managing these assets, they're also obligated to make them productive—which typically means selling and/or investing assets to generate income.

In doing so, the trustee must exercise reasonable care, skill, and caution when investing trust assets, otherwise known as the "prudent investor" rule. The trustee should always consider the specific purposes, terms, distribution requirements, and other aspects of the trust when meeting this standard.

Unless specifically spelled out in the trust terms, it will be up to the trustee's discretion to determine the investment strategies that are best suited for the trust's goals and beneficiaries. But trustees should not invest trust assets in overly speculative or high-risk stocks and/or other investment vehicles. A financial advisor familiar with trusts can help guide the trustee in following sound and reasonable investment strategies.

Next week, I'll continue with part two in this series explaining the scope of powers and duties that come with serving as trustee.

Dedicated to empowering your family, building your wealth and defining your legacy, and mental body and shapes our emotional disposition in the world.

Our immune system is comprised of many parts working together -- glands, immune organs, hormones and other biochemicals plus one underlying, more subtle, vital energy reserve called Ojas. Ojas is like the glue that holds everything together and one of the three vital essences -immunity, vitality, and positive stability. Besides the risk of actual diseases of the immune system, the amount of stress that we are under also greatly affects and depletes this vital energy reserve and the physical body. It leaves us subject to overeating and, without time to unwind or when in worry or fear, it disconnects us spiritually. Physically, the adrenal glands become overtaxed by continuous

Yoga offers some real help when it comes to boosting the immune system and staying healthy. On a basic note, yogic movement with conscious, intentional breathing reduces stress. In most classes, (not all!) the student gets to have an experience of calm or feeling "ok." The more often we can have this experience of being in a calm and balanced state of mind, the better. It activates the parasympathetic nervous system and helps to combat the stress response state. Yoga practiced in silence and other practices that facilitate withdrawal of the senses (or pratyahara) are essential for building our vital energy reserve. Along with a healthy, easily digestible diet, this has an impact on the immune system as a whole. That's a question on a lot of people's minds. Our political discourse is at a fever pitch. Like or dislike President Trump, his sharp rhetoric isn't helping matters.'

"So what if he attacks his opponents with nasty comments and tweets? He's a rough-and-tumble New Yorker fighting back the way New Yorkers do!"

'Maybe so, but a president has the power to set the tone, and the tone President Trump is setting is getting people fired up. Other political leaders are also stepping over the line. But the truth is civil discourse has been on the decline for years."

'If you say so, you jerk!"

"Psychology Today reports on a recent study that found people are ruder to each other online for the simple reason that they don't make eye contact, as they do in face-to-face discussions."

"That explains why so many dirty rats leave nasty remarks on my Facebook posts!"

"Look, it's easy to be rude. Being civil and polite requires effort. Civility is the cornerstone of all well-functioning societies."

"Did you know the word 'etiquette' originated under Louis XIV in the 1600s? Etiquette and manners define what social behavior is and isn't proper."

"Î ain't following rules drafted up by snooty old French people!"

"Then consider someone nearer and dearer to your heart: As a teenager, George Washington hand-copied 'The 'Rules of Civility,' a list started by French Jesuits in the 1590s that was translated into English around 1640." "His mother probably put him up to it!"

"You mean we ought to stop posting items on Facebook that gleefully celebrate election losses by our most reviled politicians?" "Something like that. Here's another Washington rule that we ought to heed:

'Speak not injurious words neither in jest nor earnest. Scoff at none although they give occasion." "If Trump heeded that advice, he'd have to shut down his Twitter account!"

"Washington's rules include this one about the company we keep: 'Associate yourself with men of good quality if you esteem your own reputation. For 'tis better to be alone than in bad company."

"If people started doing that, Congress would have nobody to talk to!"

"You get the point. Look, Judith Martin, better known as Miss Manners, says good manners are the philosophical basis of civilization, that it's essential folks have a common language of civil behavior that restrains their impulses."

"But impulsiveness is my favorite hobby!" "She says that what used to be an insult is now called slander. What used to be meanness is now called hate speech. What used to be boorishness is now called sexual harassment. If the rules of civility and etiquette were stronger, fewer people would engage in actions that are now considered crimes. We all can and must do better. Civility and incivility are contagious. If we want more civility, we each need to practice it. And press our political leaders to do likewise - by George!"

"Slander, meanness and boorishness is against the law? There goes the weekend!"

TRUMP BUYS SURVIVAL INSURANCE FROM BRETT KAVANAUGH

Feel free to tell yourself that Donald Trump chose Brett Kavanaugh for the Supreme Court because the guy went to Yale (Trump reportedly loves Ivy League creds), or because the guy has been thoroughly vetted by the Heritage Foundation and the Federalist

Society (the right-wing groups that have long been funneling conservative judges to the But if you really want to know why Trump chose Kavanaugh, just check out the article he wrote in 2009 for the Minnesota Law Review. He said that serving presidents should be exempt from all criminal and civil investigations - because they're just too darned busy doing the people's business. He teed up his argument on page 1,460: T believe it is vital that the President be able to focus on his never-ending tasks with as few distractions as possible. The country wants the President to be 'one of us' who bears the same responsibilities of citizenship that all share. But I believe that the President should be excused from some of the burdens of ordinary citizenship while serving in

Then came this, on page 1,461:

"Congress might consider a law exempting a President - while in office - from criminal prosecution and investigation, including from questioning by criminal prosecutors or defense counsel... Even the lesser burdens of a criminal investigation - including preparing for questioning by criminal investigators - are time-consuming and distracting. Like civil suits, criminal investigations take the President's focus away from his or her responsibilities to the people. And a President who is concerned about an ongoing criminal investigation is almost inevitably going to do a worse job as President.

There you have it, folks. Trump has purchased survival insurance. Yes, Kavanaugh's ascent will virtually cement a 5-4 conservative majority for decades, tilting America further rightward on everything from civil rights to corporate power, but Trump would've punched that ticket by choosing anyone on the Federalist Society's wish list. As they say at Wharton, Kavanaugh is "value added." He has the requisite conservative creds, plus he's on record saying that presidents should be exempt from investigation. Trump's knowledge of jurisprudence could probably fit in a thimble, but he has a feral instinct for saving himself. Indeed, it has been confirmed in news reports that Trump's aides flagged that law review article for his edification.

So if or when Robert Mueller's investigation lands in the laps of the justices, on some crucial point of law, Trump can probably count on Kavanaugh to serve his interests by arguing that Mueller is burdening a very busy man and that therefore Trump shall not deign to honor a Mueller subpoena. That's the kind of fealty Trump craves.

Senate Democrats, who are virtually powerless to block Kavanaugh's ascent (in part because some of the red-state Democrats up for re-election could vote Yes), may well argue during the confirmation process that Kavanaugh should recuse himself if he's confronted with the Mueller probe, or with the current defamation suit that accuses Trump of sexual harassment - on the grounds that he shouldn't sit on any case that involves the president who nominated him. Good luck making that stick.

By the way, there's a very funny moment in the Law Review article when Kavanaugh unveils his exempt-the-president argument and quickly adds: "This is not something I necessarily thought in the 1980s or 1990s." Yeah, no kidding. Because in the 1990s, as a lawyer with a Republican track record, he served on Kenneth Starr's team, in criminal pursuit of President Clinton.

At one point Kavanaugh told Starr in a memo, "I am strongly opposed to giving the president any break." So he had no qualms then about investigating a serving president (of the opposing party, anyway). Suffice it to say that he has since changed his mind.

Can Trump count on Kavanaugh's loyalty when the chips are down? Perhaps the nominee gave us a hint on Monday night, when he thanked Trump for the honor and immediately went into hyperbolic overdrive: "No president has ever consulted more widely, or talked with more people, from more backgrounds, to seek input about a Supreme Court nomination.' How could he possibly know that? Why should we believe that? If Brett Kavanaugh wants the American people to believe that he'll function as an independent member of the supposedly independent judiciary, and that he'll have an open mind when confronted by a potential constitutional crisis, it would surely behoove him not to sound like the daffy doctor who said that Trump was virtually the healthiest human specimen since the dawn of man.

MAKING SENSE by MICHAEL REAGAN

PUTIN WINS, TRUMP SECOND, DEMS STILL NUTS

Yes, President Trump screwed up in front of the whole world at the Helsinki Summit.

But Democrats and the anti-Trump media have a much more serious long-term problem - they're still out of their minds. They still actually think the Great Russian Collusion Hoax is going to win them the House and chase President Trump out of the White

It hasn't been widely reported, but after last week's indictment of Russian intelligence officers by Special Counsel Robert Mueller's office for trying to disrupt the 2016 election, half the Democrats in Congress had to sneak over to Chris Matthews' office to get an emergency Trump Derangement Syndrome booster shot.

"Russia Tried to Sway 2016 Election!!!" is now the crazy Democrats' favorite new front-page

Trump of course is somehow supposed to be responsible for Russia's meddling, according to the fake media, even though all the hacking and swaying occurred when the Obama gang was in

Not that the Trump-hate media care, but here's an old newsflash I found under my desk:

The Russians have been screwing with other people's elections forever. We've been screwing with other people's elections forever.

Here are some other newsflashes for the media:

The Russians have spies in America. We have spies in Russia.

China has spies in America. We have spies in China.

Basically, every country with a GDP greater than Chad's has spies in other countries. Yes, Trump took a hit in Helsinki. Vladimir Putin was this week's one-and-only big winner, thanks to the media's hatred of Trump and the president's gaffes. While Trump was cleaning up his mess and "clarifying" his press conference quotes to keep the intelligence agencies from defecting to Russia, Putin probably was in a dacha somewhere laughing his butt off and drinking Stoli. His dirty work is done. No one laid a glove on him in Helsinki and he's disrupted everything in America he set out to disrupt. Our political system has been in chaos for two years over Russian collusion and nonstop Trump hate. We no longer trust our president, our elections, our political parties or our major media, though that's nothing new. Gotcha, gotcha, gotcha - everyone is playing partisan gotcha politics.

When Trump is involved, of course, the liberal media cover each new crazy tweet, gaffe or controversial executive order like it's a war crime that has never been committed by a president

But to be fair, the left and the right tribes both play the gotcha game.

If it had been President Obama slow-dancing with Putin in public at that press conference, imagine how Fox News, talk radio and the rest of the conservative media would have reacted. Obama did get caught playing footsies with the Russkies in March of 2012 when he accidentally spoke into a hot mic, telling then-President Dmitri Medvedev to assure then-good guy Putin that he'd have more flexibility on a nuclear missile deal after the fall election. A few Republicans, like presidential candidates Mitt Romney and Newt Gingrich, made a stink.

But the words "collusion" and "traitor" and "impeachment" were never uttered in prime time or on page one because the entire Bicoastal liberal media-sphere rose up as one Andrea Mitchell to explain away or downplay Obama's shifty promise. For the record, the New York Times ran its March 26 story, "Microphone Catches a Candid Obama," on Page A14. That's not the front page. President Trump will never get that kind of sweet deal from the liberal media for the next six years, so he needs to learn a few basics I picked up in the second grade. He has to think before he speaks. And he has to stop taking everything so personally.

At that press conference in Helsinki the president was his own worst enemy. He would have saved himself a lot of grief if had just come out, turned to Putin right away and said, "Cut this hacking crap out, Vlad. First question?"
